COWAN IN DEBATE

Inquiry Into Management of Harriman Line Will Be Taken Up Later

CHICAGO, Jan. 8 .- Inquiry into the management and trade arrangements of the Harriman lines was not taken up at the first session of the interstate commerce commission today. It was announced however, by Chairman Knapp of the commission, that it would in all probability be called up later in

The business before the board at the opening of the session was the question of cattle rates and terminal charges at Chicago on shipments of stock. Chester M. Dawes, of the Burlington road declared it was not possible for him to furnish certain statistics regarding the shipments which had been requested by Attorney Sam H. Cowan, representing the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association.

Mr. Cowan declared that other roads furnished these figures and it would be possible for the Burlington road to do the same. The matter was dropped after some debate.

It is expected that an inquiry into the management of the Harriman line will be in connection with the traffic arrangements and the financial side of the question will not be taken up.

By Associated Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 8.-John J. He is much weakened, but is not otherwise seriously injured. Two comrades went down with Seufert when the ruins collapsed Sunday night. The body of one, Joseph Lennon, has been recovered. The other man, Daniel Campbell, was still in the ruins early today. There is little hope that he escaped death, but the rescuers are working on the slight chance that he may yet be alive. Seufert today was able to give a brief account of his experience. He "I was on the fourth floor at the time, taking a line of hose out. There came an awful crash and it was followed by three others. It was the roof falling in and carrying the floors to the basement. I felt the floor sink. jumped between two big bales and I fell to the bottom between them. retained my sense all the time. The bales saved me, he timbers formed above me and penned me in so I could not move. One sensation was that I thought I had been struck by lightning. The water poured in on me, but I was glad of that, because I knew I would not be burned to death.

"I shouted all the time. I could hear people talking, but they could not hear me. I got the idea after a while that they knew I was there and did not want to rescue me. I kept on shouting and it seemed an awful long time before anyone answered me. I pounded on the beam near me and finally heard a voice calling to me. Then I knew I was safe."

By Associated Press. PARIS, Jan. 8 .- William T. Stead of London, who arrived here yesterday, says in an interview that he is on the way around the world in the interest of peace. He further declares that he is authorized by Sir Henry Bannerman to say that Great Britain, if no other country does so would at the approaching second peace conference at The Hague raise the question of taking steps to provide for the maintenance of international peace. This, Mr. Stead says, will be done in the form of two propositions as follows:

First-That each country participating in the conference appropriate a sum of money to be used in the propagation of the idea of maintaining international peace.

Second-That each country participating in the conference render obligatory observanve of Article VIII of the act of the peace conference of 1899, permitting a third power to tender mediation without giving offesne between two disputing powers and also that participating powers extend the scope of Article VIII so as to bind the signatories in case of a declaration of war not to begin hostilities for a fortnight in which frinedly powers will have the right to intervene in an attempt to adjust the quarrel.

GOULD TALKS OF CAR SHORTAGE

General Prosperity and Inattention to Blame

By Associated Press. NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 8 .- George J. Gould, head of the Gould railroad system, is quoted today on the car shortage problem as follows:

"We are doing all we can to better the car shortage problem. I have just placed an order for 3,000 cars and 25. engines for the Texas & Pacific, an the Missouri Pacific has ordered between 6,000 and 7,000 cars and 100 engines, but the car snortage is not altogether the fault of the railroads. The big car users are partically responsible for not preparing loading and unloading facilities, which they had ten years ago to handle a business that has increased many times. This is what the railroad man has to contend with in Pittsburg, Chicago and the manufacturing sections and applied as well to New Oreans in a lesser degree. The general prosperity of the country is to blame as well as the growth of new sections. These things keep railroad earnings to a higher standard than ever, and altho they make business, they shorten the car supply as well. The South and Southwest are growing faster than any places in the United States and it is almost impossible to keep apace with the demands of such people.

Such a malady created little or no surprise, as it is understood that the disease is heredity in the family, but as soon as the tranfer was made to Terrell the Washington authorities began an investigation. The law governing such cases speci-

ROBBER ESCAPED Policeman Has Thrilling Encounter in Railroad Yards

Mounted Policeman W. Z. Turner had an exciting experience with a thief shortly after 9 o'clock Monday evening in the Texas & Pacific Railway vards, which resulted in the miraculous escape of the latter, tho shot thru the stomach with a 45-caliber bullet. Early in the evening a saddle, blanket and bridle had been found by the police and taken to police headquarters, but was later oreturned to the place of discovery and Policeman Turner dispatched to the neighborhood, with instructions to lay in hiding, acting on the theory that the thief would eventually return for the stolen prop-

Turner had been in hiding not more than fifteen minutes when a heavy set man, dressed in a gray suit and soft black hat, appeared, picked up the riding outfit and started down the track. According to Turner's story he covered the man with a pistol and commanded him to throw up his hands. The thief 'obeyed, but walked close enough to Turner to grapple with him and a fierce struggle ensued, during which four shots were fired by the policeman, one taking effect in the man's stomach. The policeman, when his victim fell.

turned, believing the man had a confederate. The wounded man, taking advantage of the opportunity, crawled under a box car and aided by the darkness escaped. A thoro search was made, but no further clues unearthed with the exception of a white bird dog, which accompanied the thief to the scene of the encounter, and which has since refused to leave the vicinity. Later the stelen property was taken to police headquarters, where it was

Colonel George T. West, paymaster general of the Texas National Guard, was interviewed regarding the lecture to be delivered by Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson at the Y. P. S. C. E. Lyceum at the city 'hall Wednesday evening, Jan. 9, and Colonel West states that it has been his pleasure to meet Captain Hobson quite often, and that he has heard him speak on three or four occasions; that he considers him a forcible speaker and a sound man; that he is as plain as any ordinary mortal, and has no frills or foolishness about him; that he considers him a man of extraordinary ability and sterling worth. Captain Hobson's glory and fame were attained partly by the opportunity presented to him, which he promptly seized, in the inci-dent of the Merrimac, but aside from this he is a young man who has always stood well in naval circles and is considered as one of the best in his class under his opportunties. In the incident of the Merrimac he bravely went to the front and accepted a position that thousands of us less fortunate would have gladly undertaken. He carried it thru and in a brave manner, and history will always record him and the brave men who accompanied him, a page among its heroes. It is especially gratifying to the south that he fas a southern box, and it is also gratifying that so many of the southern soldiers were given recognition, all sectional feelings being Leaving aside the Bailey matter the question is, "Can the people of the far west afford to take chances in electing a man to succeed Hawkins who knows absolutely nothing about the conditions of this part of the country, and who probably cares less?" Mr. Cunningnam, is no doubt a good man, but he has the hearty support of W. J. Bryan, of Abilene, and H. P. Brelsford, of Eastland. The people of the Midland country can well remember what Breisford and Bryan tried to do to them in 1903. Mr. Brooks stated to a Press reporter that shipments from this secion had begun to slow up to a noticeable extent and that the heavy winter shipping was practically over. He thought that conditions for the time of the year in the Concho country are n superb shape and that the recent cold weather had had no bad effect upon the range live stock. Mr. Brooks, together with Mr. Buchanan, conferred with several big ranch men of San Angelo country while here. and adjusted some damage claims on shipments of cattle. J. W. Caldwell, of H. H. Sigman & Co, in a conversation with a Press reporter said that fallen hides of any kind of live stock from all over West Texas are unusually scarce for the winter season. "There are hardly any fallen hides," said Mr. Caldwell, "but we are receiving a big lot of beef 'hides." The extreme scarcity of fallen hides that have been brought to San Angelo this fall and winter is proof of the general excellent condition of live stock of all kinds on the open range. Altho West Texas has had a very unusual, early and severe winter thus far, cattle are holding up remarkably well and there is comparatively no feeding. The splendid conditions prevailing is indeed good to see.

Canyon City News. Frightened cattle stampeding down narrow trail leading into the Pale Duro canyon east of Canyon City, gave a harrowing experience to two stockmen last Saturday. The cattle, so the report goes, were being moved from the south side to some point on the north side. The trail chosen for the crossing is a narrow ledge between a cliff and a deep ravine. In order to prevent crowding, the cattle were strung out with several men in between to keep them from getting together.

When the foremost cattle had about cached the foot the cattle in the rear became frightened and rushed down upon those in front. The frightened beasts surged thickest on the narrowest part of the ledge and the riders were wholly unable to turn or control them. One horse with its rider was pushed completely from the ledge and tumbled headlong down the ravine. The rider fell free from the horse but fell and rolled clear to the bottom with broken shoulder and severe bruises. The horse turned a complete somersault and landed on the steel horn of the saddle. This saved it from breaking its neck and the animal was comparatively unharmed. The other rider succeeded in getting near enough the wall to dismount and climb out upon the rocks. Before the stampede ended a number of the cattle had tumbled down the ravine and several had to be killed. The rider who fell to the bottom, tho painfully injured, will recover.

Lampasas News. Dr. T. H. Dorbandt reports the loss of eight head of cattle, caused from eating corn and cotton stalks. There has been considerable complaint this ear in regard to loss of cattle from this cause and it has puzzled many, who have been turning stock in on cotton and corn stalk fields for years and have never suffered a loss before. Dr. Dorbandt states that he made a careful examination of the cattle, and found no evidence to indicate that death was caused by gasas in the stemach. His theory is that death was caused by the ergot n the stalks which acted on the brain of the animals with fatal results. Mr. John Earnest, who also made an examination of the cattle is of the opinion that the damage was done by distension of the stomach by gases generated by the stalks, nd that they could be cured by an incision which would allow the gases

LEGISLATURE MET TUESDAY AT NOON

Election of Speaker Was Principal Event of Interest

Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 8 .- At exactly 12 o'clock today the first regular session of the Thirtieth legislature convened. The house was called to order by Secretary of State Shannon and the senate by Lieutenant Governor George Notwithstanding that rainy weather prevailed the lobbies and galleries were crowded with visitors, including many ladies. In the house all interest centered around the election of the speaker, while in the senate the only contest was the election of sergeantat-arms. Clem Allen of Travis county, won out for that office against R. T. Hume, of Erath county. A'len received 18 and Hume 11 votes.

As soon as the house was called to order, prayer was offerer by Rev. L B. Gray of Austin, after which roll call was had and all members were present. They were sworn in and at 12:30 o'clock the election of speaker was at hand. Ben F. Gafford of Sherman placed Representative Thomas B. Love in nomination. He paid a glowing tribute to the Dallas man, saying that he was a credit to Texas and a credit to the house. Representative F. Charles Hume Jr. of Houston placed in nomination H. B. Terrell of McLennan county. He appealed to Texans to support him on the grounds of state pride. James H. Robertson of Austin, a representative, delivered an address withdrawing the name of Colonel John L. Peeler of Travis, without reference to Terrell's candidacy. Representative H. F. McGregor of Houston seconded the nomination of Mr. Love. When the senate was called to order, prayer was offered by Rev. H. M. Sears of Austin. Sixteen new members were sworn in and the roll call developed that all the members were present except Senator E. I. Kellie of

HEARING HELD OVER THE PHONE

Judge Took Evidence Over Long Distance

Special to The Telegram, NEW YORK, Jan. 8 .- Judge Sharp of the Maryland court of appeals, who is in the city on a visit and is at the Waldorf Astoria, held a hearing yesterday over the long distance telephone between this city and Baltimore. The case was that of Baltimore's mayor and city solicitor against a corporation known as the Canton Company, which claims a park in Baltimore called Canton park. Baltimore contends that the title belongs to it. City Solicitor Spruce of Baltimore decided yesterday that to preserve the city's rights her would have to appeal to the court of appeals before Saturday. He has tried to appeal previously, but Judge Sharp had objected to the admission of certain testimony. To have this testimony admitted required argument, but when Mr. Spruce sought the judge he found he was in New York. He called him up by telephone and learning that the judge would listen to argument, he and Assistant City Solicitors Ritchie and Goldsmith argued for about a quarter of an hour. To insure legality of the novel proceedings, the argument was hade in the presence of two officers of the superior court of Maryland. Judge Sharp reserved decision until

BOOMING THE MEXICAN REVOLUTION

The decision of the federal authorities that the cases against the noted Mexican revolutionists that have been on trial at San Antonio, were not extraditable and the consequent release of the men has given comething of an impetus to the revolutionary spirit dready existing among the Mexicans of this state. In an Antonio a junta has already been organized to ork in connecton with the one maintained in St. ouls, and it is expected that similar organizations vill be effected at various points in the state and the ght against the government of Diaz kept up until evolution has become an actual reality.

There is a diversity of opinion existing in the state Texas as to the effects of a real revolution in the neighboring republic, and both sides have their symathisers. While there is not much love in this state r Mexico, on account of the memory of the Alamo d other Mexican atrocities, there is a feeling among iny of our people) that Diaz is giving the country en stable form of government it has ever known. may a true that the Diaz government is a republic name only, and, as a matter of fact, it may be the eatest despotism in existence outside of the Russian pire, but it is argued that it is only der such a gevernment that progress and developnt is possible in that country. Remove the iron nd of Diaz from its terrible grip upon the situation such a state of chaos and anarchy would develop the country as was never witnessed before. Political > twould bloom and blossom on every side and

Among y be mentioned the fact that Mexico is a eparated from Texas only by the meanderings to Grande, and thousands of Texans have stments there and are making their homes intry. And the decision at San Antonio is that the men under arrest were engaged in an actual revolution, and that being a political offense, is not extraditable. The men were immediately rearrested on other charges, but the fact remains that Mexico was unable to establish a case against these men that would warrant this government in turning them over to the eager hands stretched from the other side of the Rio Grande, and that within itself icils the story of the boom that has been given the revolution business down by the Rio

COTTON MILLS IN THE SOUTH

There has been wonderful progress and development in all the Southern states during the past few years, but in no respect has this progress and development been more marked than in the matter of cotton manufacturing. In an interesting article on Southern development in a late issue of the New York Herald, Editor Edmonds of the Manufacturers' Record, says:

The the population of this section is but one-half as great as that of the country in 1880, it has $250,00,-000 invested in cotton manufacturing, against $219,000,-000 for the entire country in that year. There are nearly 10,000,000 spindles in Southern cotton mills, against the 10.650,000 of the United States twenty-six years ago, and there are 570,000 more spindles than the entire country outside of the South then boasted.

The Soute, moreover, has accumulated experience and capital. While it offers to the outside investor the most attractive field in the world for investment and the most attractive location for the home builder, it is at the same time abundantly able, if it were necessary for it to do so, to take care of its own interests and to develop its own matchless resources. It holds the key to the world's commerce and industry. Its cotton crop dominates the cotton industry of the world, second in importance only to iron and steel. The annual value of this royal staple now exceeds the annual production of all the gold and silver mines on earth. If Europe could pay into the South every dollar of gold annually mined it would not, by $25,000,000 pay its yearly indebtedness to the South for cotton.

The South's cotton growing possibilities, like its cotton manufacturing capabilities, are limited only by the supply of labor. Able to produce cotton and to manufacture it to better advantage than any other country, it will of necessity draw to itself the necessary population to meet the world's requirements in cotton production and to expand its already rapidly growing spinning interests. For seventy-five years Europe has singgled in vain to lessen its dependence upon the South for cotton. The agitation today is not one-half so active as it was fifty or sixty years ago. The experience gained by Europe during the last threequarters of a century has demonstrated to its own people that there is no other known spot on earth which has advantages for cotton production comparable to those of the South. Even the most optimistic of the English promoters of cotton growing elsewhere admit that there is little hope for cotton production in English dominions anywhere else than in a portion of Africa, and the British government has been besought to extend its aid by the building of railroads, be produced for many years to come to be of any material value even in meeting the expanding demand from the world for cotton goods.

With this monopoly, having about 80 per cent of the world's cotton output, and its domination of this industry every year growing stronger, the South lacks nothing but an increased supply of labor to enable it to double and quadruple its cotton manufacturing

It is a sad commentary on the great state of Texas, however, to note that the greatest cotton producing state in the union 's behind all the others in the matter of cotton manufacturing. Texas has produced this past year more than 3,000,000 bales of cotton, and has manufactured perhaps a paltry 30,000 bales. The great mass of the fleecy staple that is made every year in this state goes to enrich the manufacturing concerns. of the more enterprising states and countries where cotton mills are in successful operation.

The Telegram hopes to see Fort Worth set the pace for a new order of affairs in Texas this year by building the largest cotton mill in the entire cotton producing country. Fort Worth is an ideal location for such a great plant, and in building it care should be exercised in providing for the future. Fort Worth is the metropolis of the Southwest, and it is here that cotton manufacturing should be engaged in on a mammoth scale.

PREVENTION OF TUBERCULOSIS

There is being held at San Antonio what is designated as a tuberculosis exhibition, the object of which is to teach the people that consumption is a preventable and curable disease. It is also hoped to enlist the aid of the people generally in an effort to prevent any further spread of the disease. Dr. W. S. Carter, dean of the medical department of the state university, located at Galveston, delivered a lecture, which is well worth careful study. In the course of his lecture Dr.

"Tuberculosis is so common that no attention is generally paid to it. Each year there are 150,000 deaths in the United States from tuberculosis, and there are between 5,000 and 6,000 lives lost yearly from this

"It is estimated that there were three-quarters of a million lives lost on both sides during the civil war. Few people realize that we are constantly losing, every five years as many lives from this disease as were lost on both side from all causes during the struggle between the states.

"It is estimated that the total number of lives lost from yellow fever in the United States from 1793 to 1980 Mid not exceed 100,000. But this is only twothirds of the annual loss from tuberculosis. More than 400 lives are lost daily from tuberculosis in the United States, and this has been going on for years with very little effort made to stop it.

"Each case of tuberculosis arises from the germs of some previous case These germs are needlessly scattered by the sick, but there is no more excuse for this in tuberculosis than in any other infectious dis-

"Tuberculosis is so familiar to everyone that many people regard it as inevitable. It is not inevitable, it is the result of ignorance, or of neglect, or of both.

"Tuberculosis is an infectious disease, being caused by a specific infection, a living micro-organism, a germ or plant known as the bacillus of tuberculosis. It is not contagious in the sense of being contracted merely by nearness to victims of the disease as is the case with smallpox or scarlet fever. It can only be communicated from the sick to the well by allowing the sputum to dry and become ground up as invisible as would become exceedingly active. dust. The germs are then inhaled into the lungs with the small particles of dust suspended in the air.

> "If the sputum is destroyed by heat and not allowed to dry, or if it is mixed with a reliable disinfectant in sufficient quantity to destroy the germs, there is no danger in being about patients suffering from the dis-

me to be known as the Great White Plague, it must be conceded that it is high time that there was a general awakening among the people and a concert of action calculated to in some way reduce its ravages. Consumption is the cause of perhaps mode deaths in the world every year than all other causes combined, and all things that have a tendency to reduce its ravages should have the most serious consideration.

"I INVITE INVESTIGATION"

In marked contrast with the attitude of Senator Bailey, is that of Attorney General Davidson, who has been so cruelly maligned thruout the Bailey campaign. General Davidson says I invite investigation of all my official acts by the legislature." That is the kind of talk that goes with all fair-minded Texans during the existing emergency. In a public statement just given out, General Davidson says:

It has been charged: That I have in my possession to be used in the trial of the Waters-Pierce Off case forged documents. That I have had these documents many months, and that I have suppressed them for improper purposes. That in the prosecution of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company I have affiliated with persons connected with the Standard Oil interests. "That I secured the postponement of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company case to prevent the development of the facts in that case at this time. That I have agreed to settlements of certain antitrust suits wherein the state was deprived of money to which it was entitled. To these charges I answer:

The documents, vouchers and letters in my possession are originals and not copies. They are genuine. I learned of the existence of these documents about August 25, 1906, and I came into possession of them November 17, 1906. I never called on defendant to produce a single document which I had in my possession.

I have never at any time had any character of association or affiliation with the Standard Oil interests. The Waters-Pierce Oil case was continued upon the motion of that company over the earnest and vigorous protest of the attorney representing this department.

The proceedings in the anti-trust cases which were settled are public records open to everybody. The settlements in these cases were according to law and were just and proper. Neither I nor any of my assistants received a cent directly or indirectly from these cases, and the district and county attorneys received only what they were entitled to under the law. I invite investigation of all my official acts by the legislature, and especially my conduct of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company cases, and of the anti-trust cases which have heretofore been settled.

It was cruel to let the Bailey men celebrate the result in Travis county at Mesquite Saturday night, but it was also a great political joke. They bought all the powder in town and burned it with the thought they were celebrating a glorious victory.

Information comes from San Antonio that Captain John T. Lytle, the manager of the Cattle Raisers' Association of Texas, is improving. And his thousands of friends in Fort Worth and all Texas will rejoice at the good news that comes from his bedside.

Captain McDonald, of the state rangers, says he would swim the Mississippi river at any time in order to be questioned by Senator Foraker, of Ohio, and the captain would find that a much easier exploit than charging hell with a half bucket of water.

The Fat Stock Show is being shaped up, and preliminary work is now active. It is intended to demonstrate this year that this great enterprise is well worthy the new home that is to be prepared for it.

Bailey carried Comanche county and lost the state capital. It is now horse and horse and plainly up to the state legislature

Travis county has spoken, and there was no stammering in what Travis county said.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE WEST

The sentiments expressed by many of the East Texas papers are building up a bad state of sectional feeling, which is very much to be deplored. And such things have no effect on those who desire to go West and grow up with the country. They will continue to go as the spirit moves them.—Fort Worth Telegram.

PROFESSIONAL TEACHERS NEEDED

Says the Fort Worth Telegram: "The average teacher in Texas is an individual who is following that avocation only as a stepping stone to something better-in other words teaching for the money there is in it. What Texas needs is professional teachers at salaries sufficient to make the profession remunerative." The Telegram is right. The great need in this respect is a class of teachers who will not regard the work of a teacher as being merely a stepping stone to other things. As long as such is the case the work of teaching is bound to suffer. Given better salaries, the quality of the teachers would improve and the work done also. -- Terrell Transcript, Senator Bailey says that the legislature shall not investigate him; that there will be no investigation, and that the legislature will return him to the senate. This at once places Bailey in the same category with a great corporation president, who, we understand, comes back another day to find the sheets and pillows upon an occasion when the people were demanding something from this corporant tyrant, said, "The people be dainned!"-Meridian Tribune.

Senator Bailey evidently does not desire a legislative investigation, but that should not influence the situation.

DRIFT OF POLITICS

SENATOR BAILEY'S MISTAKE

If Senator Platt had borrowed money from a friend in the Standard Oil nobody would have been surprise not even if he had failed to pay it back. If Senator Depew's name had figured on Standard Oil vouchers no one would have been greatly astonished: no more so if Senator Aldrich had been involved in a similar transaction. Certain acts in public men go logically with certain kinds of reputation and character,

But Senafor Bailey long ago set himself up as a stern censor of his neighbor's morals in political life. He has delighted to point the finger of righteous scorn at legislators who invited the benevolence of the corporations. To be sure, his vote has been cast in accordance with his words where the corporations were concerned. But he sinned grievously against appearances, whatever his own haughty conscience may say, when he accepted a loan of a few thousand dollars from the friendly president of the Waters Pierce Oil Company, which was seeking favors from the state of

In Three Short Weeks the Hot Springs Doctors Have Made Him a New Man

One of the striking examples of what good medical treatment will do for a man even when he is, as the saying goes, "down and out," is furnished by the case of R. T. Kelly, alderman of the Fourth ward, North Fort Worth, whose many friends are rejoicing over his rapid recovery after he had actually entered the jaws of death. The story is told by Mr. Kelly as follows:

North Fort Worth, Jan. 7.- I was aken sick last June with what the doctors called jaundice. I had four different doctors and one said I had typhoid fever. The doctors gave me so much arsenic, strychnine, quinine, morphine and calomel that I could not stand on my feet, I went to Marlin Wells to take baths, but got so weak that I had to take to my bed. My pains were terrible, especially in my head. Sometimes it felt as tho my head would burst. I thought I would lose my mind. I did not have a minute's rest. I tried all the doctors and all remedies. but none helped. I constantly grew weaker, and my pains grew worse. Three weeks ago my brothers of the lodge of the Woodmen of the World local5:00pm 8:30am | persuaded me to try the Hot Springs Doctors, I had no faith and didn't want them to treat me, but took their treat ment to please the lodge, which had employed the Hot Springs Doctors to treat me. Three weeks of treatment by the Hot Springs Doctors has made me a different man. My pains are leaving me and I am getting strong. I know and feel that I am getting well whereas three weeks ago I had no ray of hope. Yesterday I walked without my crutches for the first time since last September. I can now go to the table and eat with my family for the first time in months. I have quit thinkng of dying and am getting well fast. give all the credit and praise to the Hot Springs Doctors and feel I cannot

Ill-a tragic circumstance which aroused endless conjecture. Was, he aware, or was he not aware, of kis wife's death? Had he been taken ill before or after he left Colorado for New Mexico? Was he suffering mainly from shock, or, as would appear from his complaint, from a too rapid change of climate?

The whole country seethed with excitement, and my poor little unthought-of, insignificant self burned with impatience, which only those who have been subjected to a like suspense can properly estimate. Would the proceedings which were awaited with so much anxiety be further delayed? Would Mr. Durand remain indefinitely in durance and under such a cloud of disgrace as would kill some men and might kill him? Should I be called upon to endure still longer the suffering which this entailed upon me, when I thought I knew-

But fortune was less obdurate than I feared. Next morning a telegraphic statement from Santa Fe settled one of the points of this great dispute, a statement which you will find detailed at more length in the following communication, which appeared a few days later in one of our most enterprising

> Chapter VII NIGHT AND A VOICE.

Not to be outdone by the editor, I insert the article here with all its details, the importance of which I trust I have anticipated:

Santa Fe, N. M., April -. Arrived in Santa Fe, I inquired where Abner Fairbrother could be found. I was told that he was at his mine, sick.

Upon inquiring as to the location of the Placide, I was informed that it was fifteen miles or so distant in the mountains, and upon my expressing an intention of going there immediately, I was given what I thought was very unnecessary advice and then directed to a certain livery stable, where I was told I could get the right kind of a horse and such equipment as I stood in need of. I thought I was equipped all right as it was, but I said nothing and went on to the livery stable. Here I was shown a horse which I took to at once and was about to mount, when a pair of leggings was brought to me. "You will need these for your journey," said the man "Journay!" I repeated. "Fifteen

The livery table keeper-a halfbreed with a peculiarly pleasant smile-cocked up his shoulders with the remark:

"Three men as willing but as inexperienced as yourself have attempted the same journey during the last week and they all came back before they reached the divide. You will probably come back, too; but I will give you as fair a start as if I knew you were going straight thru."

"But a woman has done it," said I: "a nurse from the hospital went up that very road last week." "Oh, women! they can do anything-women who are nurses. But they don't start off alone. You are going alone." "Yes," I answered, girmly.

"Newspaper correspondents make their journeys singly when they "Oh! you are a newspaper correspondent! Why do so many men from the papers want to see that sick old man? Because he's so "Don't you know?" I asked.

He did not seem to. I wondered at his ignorance but did not enlighten him. "Follow the trail and ask your way from time to time. All the goatherds know where the Placide mine is." Such were his simple instructions as he headed my horse toward the canyon. But as I drew off, he shouted out: "If you get stuck, leave it to the horse. He knows more about it than you do." With a vague gesture toward the northwest, he turned away, leaving me in contemplation of the grandest scenery I had yet come upon in all my travels. Fifteen miles! but those miles lay thru the very heart of the mountains, ranging anywhere from six to seven thousand feet high. In ten minutes the city and all signs of city life were out of sight. In five more I was seemingly as far removed from all civilization as if I had gone a hundred miles into the wilderness,

As my horse settled down to work, picking his way, now here and now there, sometimes over the brown earth, hard and baked as in a thousand furnaces, and sometimes over the stunted grass whose needle-like stalks seemed never to have known moisture, I let my eyes roam to such peaks as were not cut off from view by the nearer hillsides, and wondered whether the snow which capped them was whiter than any other or the blue of the sky bluer, that the two together had the effect upon me of cameo work on a huge and unapproachable scale. Certainly the effect of these grand mountains, into which you leap without any preparation from the streets and market places of America's oldest city, is such as is not easily described.

We struck water now and then -narrow water courses which my horse followed in mid stream, and, more interesting yet, goatherds with their flocks, Mexicans all, who seemed to understand no English, but were picturesque enough to look at and a welcome break in the extreme lonesomeness of the way. I had been told that they would garve me as guides if I doubtful of the trail, and in one or two instances they proved to be of decided help. They could ges-ticulate, if they could not speak English, and when I tried em with the one word Placide they would god and point out which of the many side canyons I was to follow. But they always looked up as they did so, up, up, till I took to looking up, too, and when, after miles multiplied indefinitely by the winding of the trail, I came out upon a ledge from which a full view of the opposite range could be had, and saw fronting me, from the side of one of its tremendous peaks, the gap of a vast hole not two hundred feet from the snowline, I knew that inaccessible as it looked, I was gazing up at the opening of Abner Fairbrother's new mine, the Placide. The experience was a strange one. The two ranges approached so nearly that it seemed as if a ball might be tossed from one to the other. But the chasm between was stupendous. I grew dizzy as I looked downward and saw the endless zigzags yet to be traversed step by step before the bottom of the canyon could be reached and then the equally interminable rigzags up the acclivity beyond, all of which I must trace, still step by step, before I could hope to arrive at the camp which, from where I stood, looked to be almost within hall of my voice.

I have described the mine as a hole. That was all I saw at firsta great black hole in the dark brown earth of the mountain side, from which ran down a still darker streak into the water places far below it. But as I looked longer I saw that it was faced by a ledge cut out of the friable soil, on which I was now able to descry the pronounced white of two or three tent tops and some other signs of life, encouraging enough to the eye of one whose lot it was to crawl like a fly up that tremendous mountain side.

Truly I could understand why those three men, probably newspaper correspondents like myself, had turned back to Santa Fe after a glance from my present outlook. But the I understood I did not mean to duplicate their retreat. The sight of those tents, the thought of what one of them contained, inspired me with new courage, and, releasing my grip upon the rein, I allowed my patient horse to proceed. Shortly after this I passed the divide-that is where the water sheds both ways-then the descent began. It was zigzag, just as the climb had been, but I preferred the climb. I did not have the unfathomable spaces so constantly before me, nor was my imagination so active. It was fixed on neights to be atttained rather than on valleys to roll into. However,

The Mexican saddle held me securely at whatever angle I was poised, and once the bottom was reached I found that I could face, with considerable equanimity, the corresponding ascent. Only, as I saw how steep the climb bade fair to be, I did not see how I was ever to come down again. Going up was possible, but descent-

I did not roll.

However, as what goes up must in the course of nature come down, I put this question aside and gave my horse his head, after encouraging him with a few blades of grass, which he seemed to find edible enough, tho they had the look and something of the feel of spun glass. How we got there you must ask this good animal, who took all the responsibility and did all the work. merely clung and balanced, and at times, when he rounded the end of a zigzag, for instance, I even shut my eyes, tho the prospect was magnificent. At last even his patience seemed to give out, and he stopped and trembled. But before I could open my eyes on the abyss beneath he made another effort. I felt the brush of tree branches across my face, and, looking up, saw before me the ledge or platform dotted with tents, at which had looked with such longing from the opposite hill side. Simultaneously I heard voices, and saw approaching a bronzed and bearded man with stronglymarked Scotch features and a determined air. "The doctor!" I involuntarily exclaimed, with a glance at the small and curious tent before which he stood guard. "Yes, the doctor," he answered in unexpectedly good English. "And who are you? Have you brought the mail and those medicines I sent "No," I replied with as propitiatory a smile as I could muster up in face of his brusk forbidding expression. "I came on my own errand. I am a representative of the New York ----, and I hope you will not deny me a word with Mr. Fairbrother." With a gesture I hardly knew how to interpret he took my horse by the rein and led us on a few steps toward another large tent, where he motioned me to descend. Then he laid his hand on my shoulder and, forcing me to meet his eye. said: "You have made this journey-believe you said from New York -to see Mr. Fairbrother. Why?" "Because Mr. Fairbrother is at present the most sought-for man in America," I returned boldly. "His wife-you know about his "No. How should I know about his wife? I know what his temperature is and what his respiration is-but his wife? What about his wife? He don't know anything about her now himself; he is not allowed to read letters." "But you read the papers. You must have known, before you left Santa Fe, of Mrs. Fairbrother's foul and most mysterious murder in New York. It has been the theme of two continents for the last ten days." (To Be Continued.)

"Checkers"

To the lover of American plays a new era has come to Fort Worts stage dom, and hereafter instead of dating back to the production of "The County Chairman" or the "College Widow" of George Ade, it will be "Since 'Checkers' played here in 1907-" To say that the reception of the play was enthusiastic would be putting it mildly. For over three hours one of the largest audiences that has ever witnessed a show in Greenwall's opera house sat and part of the time stood and applauded with hand, foot and mouth. The play is enough to cause anyone to rise from his seat and cry with Checkers, "Come on Remorse!' and the gallery tried to help the horse on, so that it seemed as if hundreds would pitch forward over the rail into the orchestra below.

A character play such as Henry M Blossom Jn's "Checkers" has been produced but seldom and the scene of action, lying in Hot Springs, Ark., an Arkansas country town of Clarksville and Washington Park race track betting ring, Chicago, gives opportunity for the introduction of numerous excentricities in character acting which the supporting members of the company brought out to the fullest value.

The scene in the betting ring of the Washington Park race track is one of the finest pieces of action that has ever been produced. Checkers has been sent from Clarksville with the promise that if he shall earn $5,000 within a year honestly and leave the race track alone he shall be allowed to marry Pert Barlow. After two months hard work he has come to his last cent when he gets a tip on Remorse, 150 to 1. With nothing but a $50 gold piece keepsake given him by Pert, he is almost distracted until "Push" Miller, professional race track tout, persuades him to bet the gold piece. When he gets it up odds have fallen to 100 to 1. Then as the announcer describes the race with no word of Remorse. Pert comes in and Checkers has to talk to her while anxiously straining every muscle to hear whether Remorse has a show to win the $5,000 necessary. Now at the eighth, the quarter, the half, the three-quarters and still no Remorse in the leading three. Then Pert is compelled to leave to catch a train and as she goes off the stage the loud tones of the megaphone announce the beginning of the stretch with "Remorse in the lead." Climax of no play could be stronger than this and as Checkers endeavors to aid the horse he cannot see, with "Come on Remorse," the audience joined in and Remorse wins Back Checkers goes to Clarksville to say that he still has ten months left and he will endeavor yet to earn the $5,000 in an honest way, but his $5,000 saves a run on Barstow's bank and he is finally accepted. The reputation of Checkers had preceded it to Fort Worth and the statement of the press agent that the public will wait until a good thing comes along was amply verified, altho there were numbers who said that the press agent should have had his show wait here another day in order to give the hundreds who had been unable to get seats another opportunity to see the show. Probably no show of the winter has caused so much comment as 'Checkers" and all of it favorable.

In speaking of the work of the actors in the show it would be necessary to almost print the entire program and say that they all did well, nay more than that, magnificently. Every character had a chance to portray good acting and almost all accepted their chances.

Of course, Hans Robert as Checkers had the leading role all the way thru and he was very well supported by Dave Graham Jr. as "Push" Miller and Paula Giory as "Pert." Charles Willard made a great "Uncle Jerry" Halter and used more muscles in his face than one would believe were there.

Miss Ellen Beach Yaw It is a delight to the friends who always cherished a faith in the ultimate greatness of Ellen Beach Yaw to know that she is "making good." The United States may at last boast a prima donna as distinctively American as Niagara Falls or the Grand Canen. Altho she has been praised as a grand opera star in Italy, France and England, she is everywhere and always "the American singer." Above and beyond the culture which her marvelous voice has received is her gift of going straight to the hearts of her listeners-a gift which only two of the great sopranos of the past (Jenny Lind and Parepa Rosa) have had; but Miss Yaw, "our own Ellen," in her sympathetic sweetness, is irresistible. Miss Ellen Beach Yaw, assisted by Maxmilian Dick, violinist, and Miss Georgiella Lay, pianist, will appear at Greenwall's opera house tonight at 8:15 g'clock.

The Boston Belles

Friday matinee and night, Jan. 11, "The Boston Belles" come to Greenwall's opera house. Clarence Wilbur, the eccentric comedian, will be seen here with the company.

"The Rogers Brothers in Ireland" The Rogers Brothers announce that they will present their most successful musical comedy, "The Rogers Brothers in Ireland," at Greenwall's opera house Saturday night, Jan. 12. This is the comedy that ran for 200 nights in New York City and was played to immense business in Philadelphia, Pittsburg and Boston, an extra 10 cents is charged on polo nights only. On all other nights the price of admission will be 10 cents and skates 25 cents. Polo is a very expensive attraction and the extra 10 cents charged does not begin to pay for the extra expense, but the big rink owners want the people to have the best and expense does not count. The Fort Worth polo team met defeat in Dallas Sunday afternoon after a very stubborn and hard-fought game by the score of 6 to 5. The two teams battled for three periods and when time was called at the end of the third period the score was 5 to 5, thus making overtime necessary. Captain Stamper of Dallas made one of his faball in just two and a half seconds, winning the game for Dallas.

A large and very enthusiastic crowd witnessed the game. Captain Kennard and his men fought hard, but luck was against them and they had to be satisfied with the small end of the score. Standing of

At the Majestic She-"Why do you drink?" He-"To drown my troubles." She-"They ought to be all drowned by this time. He-"Yes; but they have learned to in addition to this there is a oneact playlet by no less a personage than George M. Cohan himself. Cohan's playlet, "The Election Bet," is a real playlet and not a double barreled dialogue in which two elocutionists hurl funny remarks at each other, as is the case with most of the vaudeville playlets. It is funny from the ludicrous start to the equally ludicrous finish but the fun is not of the minstrel end man variety. Le Compt, the human fire eater, eats fire, chews coals, breathes gas and ends his performance by biting off the ends of red hot electric light carbons. M. Herbert utilizes a number of clever new ideas in his musical novelty in which he produces a number of popular airs on a dining table. Orville Pitcher, the original stump speaker from Indiana explains a number of difficult propositions in typical cross roads oratory and in order to give the audience its money's worth does a musical stunt at the end.

The Good Ship Nancy Lee, a musical comedy sketch, introduces several good voices, and some good burlesque humor, tho many of jokes were too nautical to be appreciated by ordinary land lubbers. Charles Gilroy, the comedian of the trio, who evidently pays the salaries of the other two, is a good humorist, but would be a better one if ne realized that there are few people on the stage so humorous that everything they say is funny-and that he is not one of that few.

J. T. Burns Appointed

It is understood in railway circles here that J. T. Burns, who has been for a long time with the Santa Fe on the division between Cleburne and Paris, is to be the trainmaster of the Santa Fe, on the north end, to fill a position made vacant by the changes incident to the coming of Mr. Robins to Fort Worth, in charge of the Texas end of the Rock Island.

Married Women

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is woman's greatest blessing. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this wonderful druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Our little book, telling all about this liniment, will be sent free. Friend

NEW YORK COTTON SLOW AND DRAGGY

Prices Drop Below Yesterday's Advance in Rates of Money Level

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Jan. 8 .- The opening was barely steady with yesterday's close, and very little improvement was made until after the middle of the day's session. The fact that the New Orleans exchange was closed had a depressing influence on the trading, and the market was exceedingly slow and draggy. This duliness was further actuated by the fact that the bureau report was due to be isssued by the agricultural department at 5 o'clock, and the trade seemed to be waiting developments. The National Ginners' Association issued-its official report of the cotton ginned to January 1, which is to compare with the report of the government, giving the figures at 11,-719,000 bales. The official figures are lower than the estimate given out yes-buyer, it is stated, tried for the same figure in the Atlantics, but could obtain no offer. F. o. b. sellers say the interior is refusing to sell fully midling and state that the grade is very scarce and in good demand. The overland movement representing cotton going to northern mills is against very large for this early in the week. So far about 28,000 bales against 7,000 last year are moving. This seems to indicate another bullish visible for the week, especially should the comparative movement keep up to the end of the week. The weather man indicates scattered rains and much colder for the central and western states, except for Northwest Texas and the Territories, where it will be partly cloudy weather, followed by rain. A severe cold wave is also reported to be coming down the belt. These conditions created a slight full feeling, inasmuch as it is reported that there is yet some cotton to be wicked, and that there is considerable cotton at inland shipping points which will be delayed in

The total sales of American cotton were 11,-600 bales, and of all other kinds 1,000 export were 2,000 bales. Imports, 44,-000 bales, of which 39,000 were American product. NEW YORK STOCKS WERE IRREGULAR

Checks Operations

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK Jan. 8.—The opening of the stock market was firm, but soon assumed a trading position. The fluctuations were within narrow lines and the market was dull and slow for the greater portion of the session. The bullish feeling that has prevailed for some time was checked by the advance in the money market, and the market is expected to be purely professional until the Harriman investigation is over and the banks get in better condition. However, there was some buying of stocks on dips. The money market is expected to improve before the end of the month, which will give strength to the general list of securities. Brooklyn Rapid Transit was among the most active stocks and professional operators were very bullish on it. The 1907 calendar of N. Y. Ayer & Son, the Philadelphia advertising agents, is just out, and as usual, it is one of the season's best office calendars. They have followed the same design used in 1906, but their famous medal and motto, "Keeping Everlastingly At It Brings Success" appear on a bronze background, which gives it an exceedingly rich appearance. While the calendar is arranged with a month on each flap the figures are clearly legible across a large room. The blank spaces on the flaps are filled with new and pointed epigrams on advertising and business building in general. The calendar is too expensive for general distribution, but while they last Ayer & Son will mail a copy to any address

Provisions Lower But Advance | Market Showed Weakness But Is Expected

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Jan. 8 .- The opening of the wheat market showed some improvement, and a firm tone developed early, due to steadier cables and a smaller movement than was expected. The feeling was also aided by the report of the unprotected condition of winter wheat, heavy floods thru the Ohio valley and portions of the wheat belt. A reliable elevator concern in the Northwest estimates that not over 20 to 25 per cent of the spring wheat remains in the farmers' hands, and the movement shows some decrease compared with last year Liverpool wheat was firm with an upward tendency. Commission houses did a fair business and local shorts seemed disposed to cover, and the market held up fairly well on comparatively small trading operations. Prices were slightly lower before the opening, but the sentiment remains bullish. Corn was firm with a good demand the trading was light. There wan some scattered selling with light offerings The conditions seem ripe for some improvement in the corn market. There was improved conditions in the foreign markets. There was very little trading in oats, tho the opening was a little higher. The principal part of the early business was done by commission houses, followed by scattered buying, but with wheat assuming a more bullish position, the small trading in oats was sufficient to create some improvement.

.1,060 $3.00 The provision market was the dullest for several days. Provision hogs were over estimated. The market in the hog pariors was some lower, and the shipment was somewhat under last year. Buying was by no means impressive, and it was not noticeable that many local operators have sold out. Advances may be created, and the sentiment is bullish. Chicago Grain and Provisions

Results of Baptist Revival Already Apparent

Already nineteen new members have been secured for the Broadway Presbyterian church since the revival begun this week by Evangelist Hamil-

Monday night the evangelist's subject was "The Purpose of Revivals." He "A revival is not a flippant lowering of the gospel message. It is what the prophet prayed for when he said: 'O Lord, revive Thy work in the minds of the years, and in wrath remember mercy.' It is what Elijah saw on Carmel when the people fell on their faces and said, 'The Lord, He is the God, the Lord, He is the God.' "A genuine revival means a new vision of the sinfulness of man. Like Isaiah when we get a vision of the Lord's glory we cry out, 'Woe is me, for I am undone,' or like Peter, we say, 'Go away and leave me, for I am a sinful man.' The ray of sunlight shows the floating particles in the atmosphere of a room; the presence of a pure woman is a rebuke to sin; the presence of a man who represents Christ is an accuser of wrong, and to get a vision of God will convince any

"The world has the idea that to be a Christian is to be miserable. That notion is gotten from miserable Christianswho wear their religion like a sick headache and have only enough religion to make them wretched. The most miserable folks in the world are those who try to serve God and the devil both. They can't enjoy God, they want to serve the devil and they can't enjoy the devil, they want to claim to be Christians. Joy when sought eludes the grasp as the dog the child seeks to take into her arms, but when we go on toward our Father's house follows us like a dog at our heels. How many buried Baptists there are in Fort Worth! How many lily Baptists, who toil not, neither do they spin, nor gather into barns! Powerless Sampsons, shorn of their strength and getting ready for days of bitter remorse in the future!

"Then, too, a genuine revival gives a new vision of our responsibility for the lost, giving to us longing and boldness and love; leading us to say that by God's help we will not be saved At the close of the sermon many expressed a desire to live a better life and asked for prayer. Two were received into membership by letter and one by Baptism.

A resolution was adopted requesting the representatives in the legislature not to act in the matter of a charter for the city of Fort Worth until after an expression of the will of the people might be had, as is contemplated by the election ordered by the council to be held Jan. 23. STOLEN HORSE FOUND Buggy and Harness Were Probably

Sold in Dallas Friday, Jan. 4, the horse and buggy of Charles Ware were stolen from where it was hitched in Second street, between Main and Houston. Sheriff Tom Wood was given a description of the property and has succeeded in recovering the horse, but the thief, buggy and harness are still missing. The horse was found at Dallas, the animal having been taken up at Oak Cliff Saturday and the Sheriff of Dallas county notified. When the horse was taken up he was running at large without harness. It is supposed the thief drove the rig from Fort Worth to Dallas, sold the harness and buggy and then turned the horse loose to shift for itself.
