Fatal Train Wreck Occurs Near Fowler, Ind.

BIG BLOCK SIGNALS

Queen City Special Collides With Freight, Killing and Injuring Many

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Passenger train No. 38, east bound, on the Big Four railroad, collided head on with west-bound freight train No. 25, near Fowler, Ind., a small town twenty-eight miles west of Lafayette, Ind., about 2:30 o'clock this morning, killing and injuring a number of persons, variously estimated at from twelve to twenty-five.

The passenger train which left Chicago at 11:30 o'clock last night was known as the "Queen City Special" and consisted of a combination baggage and day coach, three sleeping cars and the private car of C. E. Schaaf, vice president of the road.

The train was running at the rate of fifty miles per hour when the accident occurred and the force of the collision was so great that the tender of the passenger engine was driven the entire length of the combination car in which were a number of passengers, estimated at from fifteen to twenty-five. All the dead and injured were taken from the wreckage of this car, none of the passengers in the sleepers having been hurt.

Only One Man Escaped
Paul D. Harris, an attorney of Chicago, who was en route to Florida, was the only passenger to escape in the combination car. He reached Lafayette on another train and reported that the dead and injured were drawn from the wreck where they were lying in the first sleeper, the Cincinnati sleeper. This car caught fire and the victims were hastily removed to the next car, the Indianapolis sleeper. Fire also spread to this car and it became necessary to again transfer the dead and injured, this time to the private car of C. E. Schaaf, in which they were taken to division headquarters at Kankakee, Ill.

Passenger Burned to Death
One passenger was planned under some wreckage and burned to death. The engineer of the passenger train was seriously injured, but will survive. The fireman who was in the engine was crushed to death. His body was recovered.

WERE CREMATED
Twenty-five People Were Killed, Twenty of Them Cremated
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 19.—Special to The News From Lafayette reports received there indicate that twenty-five people were killed in the wreck of the Big Four passenger train No. 38 near Fowler, Ind., early today. Twenty of them were cremated. It is stated, however, that nearly all in the combination car, which took fire and burned. The sleepers were turned over.

BELIEVE WOMAN RECEIVED STRANGE GIFT OF TONGUES

LINCOLN, Nev., Jan. 19.—Claiming that after long prayer she has received the "gift of tongues" promised to believers in the wealth chapter of I Corinthians, Mrs. G. C. Shumate, of the North Sixteenth street, was shaken today by a strange power at a revival meeting and began to speak rapidly in a language that no one could understand.

The services under the leadership of evangelist C. F. Ladd of Mendota, Ind., had been going on for two weeks at the little meeting house of the Advent church. The church had nearly a hundred people, but there had been no offering for the gift of tongues with unflagging hope. Mrs. Shumate is unable to explain the wonderful gift. She firmly believes that it comes from God. The gift of tongues could hardly wait until the evangelist had finished, said Mrs. Shumate. "A strange feeling came over me, and I rushed to the altar and fell in a swoon while something seemed to be grasping my throat. Then came the rushing of words. I don't attempt to explain it. I only know that it is an answer to my prayers for weeks."

TEXAS FARMERS UP AND DOING

Influential Delegation to Be Sent to Atlanta

SPECIAL TO THE TELEGRAM.
HOUSTON, Texas, Jan. 19.—As the best organized state within the jurisdiction of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union, Texas will be well represented at the general convention to be held in Atlanta next Tuesday. Many delegates will leave tomorrow for the Georgia capital and it is expected that their knowledge of the conduct of Farmers' Union affairs will prove highly valuable to the members in other states.

The Farmers' Union of Texas now has more than 200,000 members and is constantly gaining in numbers and influence. The central cotton warehouse in Houston has helped to maintain the supremacy of this city as the greatest cotton market in the world. All but a small portion of the cotton now stored here is being held for a minimum price of 11c, and the same condition prevails at the other warehouses, some 250 in number, scattered throughout the state.

TRIBUTE TO A CHIEFTAIN

Anniversary of Birth of Great Leader of the Confederate Forces Suitably Observed

Special to The Telegram, RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 19.—The centennial anniversary of the birth of General Robert Edward Lee is being generally observed by the people of Virginia today.

The movement is a general observance of the hundredth anniversary of Lee's birth originated in this city, and it was in compliance with a request of the people of Richmond that General Stephen D. Lee, commander of the United Confederate Veterans, issued his order for a simultaneous celebration in all parts of the country at noon today.

COMBINED IDEAS of this GREAT ARMY of teachers. For whenever a valuable suggestion is made at one of Draughon's Colleges it is passed to the other twenty-seven—an advantage that CANNOT be had at any other business college.

Special to The Telegram, LEXINGTON, Va., Jan. 19.—Charles Francis Adams of Massachusetts was the principal speaker at today's celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the birth of Robert E. Lee at Washington and Lee university.

them incredible and impossible. It is not strange that men who once fought one another have become friends; that has happened many times in the history of the world. This strange thing is that it should have happened in so short a time. Indeed, the time in which this revolution of feeling has been accomplished has been brief. Gladness was well within bounds when he called it a moral miracle.
 Love always works miracles; is, indeed, the only power that works miracles, because it is the one supreme manifestation of the infinite. It is also the only interpreting power. Love has the power to ignore and bear its ill-humors fruitage in the air of misunderstanding; when the light of love breaks thru the murky clouds, the evil thing dies at the roots. General Lee has long been the idol of a section; he was never hated in the north as some of his contemporaries were hated; his spirit, his bearing, the evident chivalry of his nature, made hatred impossible; but he was a leader of the Confederacy. There could be little hatred of such a man, but there was a deep-seated animosity and bitterness of feeling.
 There has come a great and beneficent change of attitude toward the southern leader because the north has come to understand both the cause and the man. The mist of ignorance and misunderstanding has been cleared in air, and the fundamental issue has become clear. Intelligent men no longer speak of the rebellion as if they wish to speak of the war; if they wish to speak of the war, they speak of the war between the states. From the very beginning there were two versions of the story of the ideal of liberty held in common by the north and the south; one accepted the federal union as the basis of the state of government. A strong feeling of loyalty to the state had been developed before the union was called into being. There is very little doubt that the majority of the men who drew up the Declaration of Independence, of the men who framed the articles of confederation, and of the men who adopted the constitution held more or less strongly the view that they were not gaining a confederacy of states, but rather than a nation. The formal logic of this position is unanswerable; it was the logic of national development, the irresistible historical tendencies that prevailed against it. The passion for liberty was alike in all parts of the country; in the north that passion found expression to devotion to the union, in the south in devotion to the state. The war between the states was the result of the opposing ideas of the nature of the government; it was fought by men who were equally sincerely devoted to the state, and patriotically loyal to their ideals of state and of liberty.

Among the Exchanges
 The State Swine Breeders' Association meeting at Abilene proved a most successful and profitable one. Five Collin county men were on the program, four of whom were from the state so well represented—McKinney Courier-Gazette.
 And those Collin county men are finding it much more profitable to raise hogs than to raise Cain over Bailey and other absorbing political topics. Raise hogs and let the politicians have the job of raising the devil.
 Didn't we tell you that digging in Texas soil pays? A few days ago a big mastodon's tooth was unearthed and will be sold to some museum at a handsome price. Yesterday, a farmer near Fort Worth dug up a pot containing $2,000 in Spanish coins. Discovered within the next two weeks, procure pickax and spade and get busy.—Austin Tribune.
 And out in West Texas some of the farmers have made as much as two bales of cotton to the acre as a result of digging in Texas soil. There is money in all Texas dirt, and it does not require much of an effort to bring it to the surface.
 Reports from several Texas cities are in circulation that Captain Bill McDonald, the noted Texas Ranger, will be put forward as a candidate for United States senator in case Bailey resigns. Bailey has refused to re-elect him.—Benton News.
 All a mistake. Captain Bill McDonald is not after the senatorship, but after a man who occupies the position of senator.
 It is said that the stockholders of the Bonham cotton mills are considering the question of enlargement of the mill, and the mill is now being built. From other points there is news of the same character. This is certainly the best thing that has happened to the cotton mills industry in one that any town in the state might try to secure.—Terrell Transcript.
 Nearly all the Texas cotton mills are being enlarged and otherwise improved, and it is but the harbinger of some active cotton mill building in every section of the state. Such glowing opportunities cannot much longer remain ignored.
 The Bonham News tells the story of an old negro in Fannin county, who, after he had rendered all his property for taxes and after paying his debts, discovered that he had $200 in money left. He hurried back to the tax assessor's office and added his $200 in money to the inventory previously made. Quite a number of the very—Denton Record and Chronicle.

 Reason for an Investigation
 "My theory is," said Judge Duncan, "that a loan to an insolvent stranger, without security, is a gift." Of course, if Judge Duncan so regards it, that is his business, but he must admit that those borrowers who regard such loans as obligations and pay them have the same right to their view of such a transaction as he has to his.—Houston Post.
 Something depends upon the manner in which the loan is repaid. If it is repaid by the borrower, it is a loan, and if it is repaid by the lender, it is a gift. The latter is usually a legitimate business transaction. But if it is repaid by the lender, it is a gift, and then it plainly becomes a matter of fact.—Fort Worth Telegram.
 Tom Lawson says the Standard Oil Company never acquired the habit of giving anything away. Somewhere in the recent discoveries it was shown that some of these loans were audited on the books of the Standard Oil Company. If the committee is given the power by the legislature the figures will show the last of the loans of a transaction this was. That is one reason for all this clamor about an investigation.—Cleburne Review.
TEXAS SHOULD GET BUSY
 Opulent and prosperous as Texas is today there are many elements of greatness lacking in the state. It is the "want column." "The Five Million Club" says we are the richest state in the world, but we are the poorest in the world. People up to the level with the best citizenship of the country today. Nobody will deny this.
 All the cotton mills now in operation are paying handsomely and Texas needs at least fifty per cent more of the kind of product and find employment for thousands of operatives.
 The interoceanic canal is a necessity that is crying loudly for attention. It will be a great benefit and we must have it—and waste no time about it. The canal will be a great benefit and dormant—millions of idle wealth—like dollars rusting in forgotten vaults. The mines should be opened and the channels of commerce should be opened for which we have the basic material in abundance of easy access.
 We need factories to work up a portion of the forest wealth that is simply being carted away and but little of the value being added to Texas. Twenty per cent of the timber cut in Texas was manufactured into finished goods within our borders it would benefit the state, which is the remaining four-fifths that it shipped away.
 The Gulf ports and tributary waterways need every development possible. If Uncle Sam will not pay the bill, he might be willing that private capital should step in and open up some of the channels and outlets. It would pay if sufficient "rights" could be obtained to tempt investors.
 These are but a few of the many yawning chasms of opportunity now extant. If these dreams become realities within five or ten years Texas will be the wealthiest and most productive section of the United States.—Beaumont Enterprise.
 There is a timely call in the above to all Texas to proceed to get busy for while we are fighting and scrapping over politics, the material interests of the state are being sadly neglected and lost sight of in the rancor of political debate. Even at Austin the work of the state legislature is being seriously hampered and retarded by a great political fight that is permitted to overshadow all else, and the time is ripe for a change.
 The people of Texas cannot afford to fritter away their valuable time over politics and political matters. We have had political discussions in the state almost unbrokenly now for three years in succession, and it looks as if the state is about to be delivered over bodily to the politicians. If the people of every Texas community could be induced to give the same attention to industrial development that they seem to have been compelled to bestow upon political matters, the progress of Texas would at once become the wonder and envy of the world.
 And never was the time more nearly ripe for action. Immigration is pouring into the state in an unbroken and undiminished stream. The lands of every section are in active demand and changing hands at greatly enhanced values. A big cotton crop has been harvested and sold at good prices, and there is plenty of money in the state. I have met many of the great men of my time, but Lee alone impressed me with the feeling that I was in the presence of a man who had been in the grander mold and made of different and finer metal than all other men. He is stamped upon my memory as a being apart and superior to all others in every way, a man with whom none I ever knew and very few of whom I have read are worthy to be classed.
 Throughout the south the name of Lee is venerated as is that of no other man, and will be for all time to come. In the north the feeling is well typified by the following extract from an editorial in the New York Outlook:
 "If any man had predicted forty years ago that the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of General Lee would be observed in all sections of the country, he would have been regarded as an unpatriotic lunatic. It is only a generation since the passion that flamed into desolating war died down into glowing coal, and less than a year has grown cold and gray. Hatred and bitterness have gone because contrast for its construction, and it may be that the big ditch will finally be completed.

 President Harvie Jordan was only feeling in the matter of that reported retirement from the management of the Southern Cotton Association. He will be around in the spring with the usual plea for a reduction of acreage.
 The cotton growers of the country are making a determined effort to throw off the Wall street yoke, and they have borne it so long and patiently that it has come to be regarded as a fixture.
 The horrors of the Kingston disaster grow as the full facts are made known, and the demand for immediate assistance is said to be very great.
 Members of congress are very anxious for a raise of salary, but they appear to lack the nerve to make the grab in the open.

WEST TEXAS GROWING WITH PROSPEROUS TIMES
 Bright Outlook For Toyah
 Special to The Telegram.
 TOYAH, Texas, Jan. 19.—Two years ago the town of Toyah was nothing but a division point on the Texas and Pacific railroad with a round house and a few stores. Today it is a town of 150 population, and some day in the future it may be a town of 1,500 population. The people are as busy as bees, and a good many towns in West Texas did not look into the future or foresee the rapid development of this vast section; that is most of the reason why Toyah saw it and pinned their faith on the town of Toyah and today there is a real live town which will triple its population within the next two years. There are only a few who see the future of this town even now. Practically in the center of Toyah, on the edge of the plain, is drawing the trade from the whole western portion of the county, which includes the rich and rapidly developing Toyah Creek country where large irrigations works are now being put in operation. Toyah is the nearest shipping point for all the cattle country between here and Day mountains, which mountain country is going to some day be one of the finest farming sections in the United States. Beans and corn have been discovered within twenty miles of the town and will soon be pushed with ample capital.
 There is also a certainty, and the town itself has an abundance of a good sulphur as can be had anywhere.

Among the Exchanges
 The State Swine Breeders' Association meeting at Abilene proved a most successful and profitable one. Five Collin county men were on the program, four of whom were from the state so well represented—McKinney Courier-Gazette.
 And those Collin county men are finding it much more profitable to raise hogs than to raise Cain over Bailey and other absorbing political topics. Raise hogs and let the politicians have the job of raising the devil.
 Didn't we tell you that digging in Texas soil pays? A few days ago a big mastodon's tooth was unearthed and will be sold to some museum at a handsome price. Yesterday, a farmer near Fort Worth dug up a pot containing $2,000 in Spanish coins. Discovered within the next two weeks, procure pickax and spade and get busy.—Austin Tribune.
 And out in West Texas some of the farmers have made as much as two bales of cotton to the acre as a result of digging in Texas soil. There is money in all Texas dirt, and it does not require much of an effort to bring it to the surface.
 Reports from several Texas cities are in circulation that Captain Bill McDonald, the noted Texas Ranger, will be put forward as a candidate for United States senator in case Bailey resigns. Bailey has refused to re-elect him.—Benton News.
 All a mistake. Captain Bill McDonald is not after the senatorship, but after a man who occupies the position of senator.
 It is said that the stockholders of the Bonham cotton mills are considering the question of enlargement of the mill, and the mill is now being built. From other points there is news of the same character. This is certainly the best thing that has happened to the cotton mills industry in one that any town in the state might try to secure.—Terrell Transcript.
 Nearly all the Texas cotton mills are being enlarged and otherwise improved, and it is but the harbinger of some active cotton mill building in every section of the state. Such glowing opportunities cannot much longer remain ignored.
 The Bonham News tells the story of an old negro in Fannin county, who, after he had rendered all his property for taxes and after paying his debts, discovered that he had $200 in money left. He hurried back to the tax assessor's office and added his $200 in money to the inventory previously made. Quite a number of the very—Denton Record and Chronicle.
Those Original Campbell Men
 It is now Governor Tom Campbell and the original Campbell men congratulate themselves over the fact that their favorite has finally been landed in the governor's chair.—Fort Worth Telegram.
 They are all "originals" now. It's hard to believe that Campbell had any opposition, judging from the record of "originals."—Denton Record and Chronicle.

The Telegram and the Texas Press
 Reason for an Investigation
 "My theory is," said Judge Duncan, "that a loan to an insolvent stranger, without security, is a gift." Of course, if Judge Duncan so regards it, that is his business, but he must admit that those borrowers who regard such loans as obligations and pay them have the same right to their view of such a transaction as he has to his.—Houston Post.
 Something depends upon the manner in which the loan is repaid. If it is repaid by the borrower, it is a loan, and if it is repaid by the lender, it is a gift. The latter is usually a legitimate business transaction. But if it is repaid by the lender, it is a gift, and then it plainly becomes a matter of fact.—Fort Worth Telegram.
 Tom Lawson says the Standard Oil Company never acquired the habit of giving anything away. Somewhere in the recent discoveries it was shown that some of these loans were audited on the books of the Standard Oil Company. If the committee is given the power by the legislature the figures will show the last of the loans of a transaction this was. That is one reason for all this clamor about an investigation.—Cleburne Review.
TEXAS SHOULD GET BUSY
 Opulent and prosperous as Texas is today there are many elements of greatness lacking in the state. It is the "want column." "The Five Million Club" says we are the richest state in the world, but we are the poorest in the world. People up to the level with the best citizenship of the country today. Nobody will deny this.
 All the cotton mills now in operation are paying handsomely and Texas needs at least fifty per cent more of the kind of product and find employment for thousands of operatives.
 The interoceanic canal is a necessity that is crying loudly for attention. It will be a great benefit and we must have it—and waste no time about it. The canal will be a great benefit and dormant—millions of idle wealth—like dollars rusting in forgotten vaults. The mines should be opened and the channels of commerce should be opened for which we have the basic material in abundance of easy access.
 We need factories to work up a portion of the forest wealth that is simply being carted away and but little of the value being added to Texas. Twenty per cent of the timber cut in Texas was manufactured into finished goods within our borders it would benefit the state, which is the remaining four-fifths that it shipped away.
 The Gulf ports and tributary waterways need every development possible. If Uncle Sam will not pay the bill, he might be willing that private capital should step in and open up some of the channels and outlets. It would pay if sufficient "rights" could be obtained to tempt investors.
 These are but a few of the many yawning chasms of opportunity now extant. If these dreams become realities within five or ten years Texas will be the wealthiest and most productive section of the United States.—Beaumont Enterprise.
 There is a timely call in the above to all Texas to proceed to get busy for while we are fighting and scrapping over politics, the material interests of the state are being sadly neglected and lost sight of in the rancor of political debate. Even at Austin the work of the state legislature is being seriously hampered and retarded by a great political fight that is permitted to overshadow all else, and the time is ripe for a change.
 The people of Texas cannot afford to fritter away their valuable time over politics and political matters. We have had political discussions in the state almost unbrokenly now for three years in succession, and it looks as if the state is about to be delivered over bodily to the politicians. If the people of every Texas community could be induced to give the same attention to industrial development that they seem to have been compelled to bestow upon political matters, the progress of Texas would at once become the wonder and envy of the world.
 And never was the time more nearly ripe for action. Immigration is pouring into the state in an unbroken and undiminished stream. The lands of every section are in active demand and changing hands at greatly enhanced values. A big cotton crop has been harvested and sold at good prices, and there is plenty of money in the state. I have met many of the great men of my time, but Lee alone impressed me with the feeling that I was in the presence of a man who had been in the grander mold and made of different and finer metal than all other men. He is stamped upon my memory as a being apart and superior to all others in every way, a man with whom none I ever knew and very few of whom I have read are worthy to be classed.
 Throughout the south the name of Lee is venerated as is that of no other man, and will be for all time to come. In the north the feeling is well typified by the following extract from an editorial in the New York Outlook:
 "If any man had predicted forty years ago that the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of General Lee would be observed in all sections of the country, he would have been regarded as an unpatriotic lunatic. It is only a generation since the passion that flamed into desolating war died down into glowing coal, and less than a year has grown cold and gray. Hatred and bitterness have gone because

 Bright Outlook For Toyah
 Special to The Telegram.
 TOYAH, Texas, Jan. 19.—Two years ago the town of Toyah was nothing but a division point on the Texas and Pacific railroad with a round house and a few stores. Today it is a town of 150 population, and some day in the future it may be a town of 1,500 population. The people are as busy as bees, and a good many towns in West Texas did not look into the future or foresee the rapid development of this vast section; that is most of the reason why Toyah saw it and pinned their faith on the town of Toyah and today there is a real live town which will triple its population within the next two years. There are only a few who see the future of this town even now. Practically in the center of Toyah, on the edge of the plain, is drawing the trade from the whole western portion of the county, which includes the rich and rapidly developing Toyah Creek country where large irrigations works are now being put in operation. Toyah is the nearest shipping point for all the cattle country between here and Day mountains, which mountain country is going to some day be one of the finest farming sections in the United States. Beans and corn have been discovered within twenty miles of the town and will soon be pushed with ample capital.
 There is also a certainty, and the town itself has an abundance of a good sulphur as can be had anywhere.

 Special to The Telegram.
 ALPINE, Texas, Jan. 19.—A contract was filed for record Wednesday by the terms of which W. S. Wormwood of Alpine binds himself to sell to the rubber company, chartered under the laws of Oklahoma, eleven sections of land in blocks 219, 218 and 219, at $1 per acre, the vendor guaranteeing that the amount of guaguile on said land shall not be less than 500 pounds per acre when dried. Wormwood also binds himself to furnish from other lands in Brewster, Presidio and Pecos counties 1,000 tons of guaguile in a way which he is to receive $2 per acre, provided it be procured within fifty miles. It is further stipulated that Wormwood shall have the exclusive right to furnish and sell guaguile to the company. Wormwood is also obligated to furnish to the company not less than 200,000 tons of mariposa (another rubber producing shrub) for which he is to receive $1 per ton on the stump or $20 per ton delivered. Not less than 100,000 tons of guaguile or mariposa are to be delivered each day, and payments are to be made on the first and fifteenth of each month. The article of the contract requires Wormwood to furnish the site for the proposed factory in the corner of W. E. Kooker's tract. The contract also provides that the land can be secured, otherwise it will be located somewhere in that neighborhood.
