Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 22.—Senator Bailey gave out the following letter

Hamilton, House of Representatives, Austin, Texas: Dear Sir-I am advised that the Chicago Examiner, owned by W. R. Hearst, has printed an interview with one J. P. Gruet in which the statement is made that I am receiving or have received the dividends or profits on 100 shares of Waters-Pierce Oil Company stock. I am also advised that many thousand copies of the paper containing this interview have been offered to newspaper dealers of this state free of all charges. Of course the obvious purpose of this publication at this particular time is to influence the vote for senator which is to occur in the legislature tomorrow and I feel that I owe it to myself and to my friends to promptly denounce the falsehood. If it were true the man who tells it could easily give the name of the bank, individual or trust company which holds it, and if they will name any person, firm or institution who is claimed or supposed to hold or to have ever held this stock in escrow for me I will thoroly disprove this story, and do so without the slightest delay or trouble. I authorize you to read this statement in the house of representatives, to the end that the members may know the truth. Very truly yours, J. W. BAILEY.

The Examiner Story

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—The Chicago Examiner Monday contained more than two pages of interview with J. P. Gruet, who was for several years secretary of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company. This interview is directed at the alleged connection of Senator Bailey with the oil company. One of the matters asserted by Mr. Gruet is that Senator Bailey received the dividend from 100 shares of stock of the Waters-Pierce Company. Gruet says that at H. C. Pierce's direction he split the stock of the president of the Waters-Pierce Company into two certificates, one for 1,150 shares and one for 100 shares. He says that to complete the chain of circumstantial evidence Attorney General Davidson of Texas will show that a check for $12,500, indorsed on its face, "Dividends of Waters-Pierce Oil Company stock," passed into the hands of Senator Joseph W. Bailey, and that this check represented part only of the annual dividend of that one hundred shares of stock.

Gruet relates having divided Mr. Pierce's Waters-Pierce Oil stock some three years ago into two parts. The original holding was 1,250 shares. Of this Mr. Pierce had Secretary Gruet make a new issue, one calling for 1,-150 shares and another certificate califor 100 shares. The latter certificate, he says, was put in escrow, and the presumption of Mr. Gruet is that Senator Bailey draws the dividends from this 100 shares of stock and that for three years his income from this

WOMEN AND CHILD LABOR DISCUSSED IN WEST TEXAS

BAILEY ELECTED

Mass Meeting Held in Carnegie Hall, New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The United States government was declared on a par with the Russian government in failing to legislate for the protection of women and child wage earners at a mass meeting held last night in Carnegie lyceum under the auspices of various charitable, labor and sociological bodies. One of the speakers said that in comparison with Great Britain the United States stands now in the development of its child labor laws, where Great Britain stood in 1844. Another charge was that instead of advancing such legislation the country has been steadily retrograding for the past eleven years. A resolution was adopted by the meeting calling upon congress to appropriate $300,000 to defray the expense of a thoro investigation of all women and child labor in the United States. The meeting was presided over by Dr. H. T. Devine of Columbia university. He read a telegram from Congressman Herbert Parsons of this city as to the status of the bill now before congress providing for an investigation by the department of commerce and labor of women and child labor. Dr. Devine said that Mr. Parsons was much interested in the movement, Dr Devine criticised President Roosevelt for declaring in one of his letters that it is practically impossible for the federal government to legislate so as to improve the conditions complained of. Amng the other speakers were Mrs. Florence Kelly, secretary of the National Consumers' League; Homer Folks, secretary of the State Charities Aid Association; Rabbi Stephen, of Oregon, and A. J. Bolton. Dr. Jacobi read a paper on child

IMPROVEMENTS TO BE DROPPED

New York Central Will Abandon Present Plans

By Associated Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 22.-The Sun today says:

The directors of the New York Central have decided to curtail most of construction and improvement work that had been planned for this year. They reached this decision, it is believed, on the advice of very prominent bankers that the prosection of all the work planned by the big railroads of the country would involve an expenditure which would produce even greater stringency in the money market than was witnessed last year. The action of the directors does not mean any cessation of work on the New York city terminal improvements. Ample movement money is to be provided so that these may be completed as speedily as possible. On renewal, improvement and construction, outside of the metropolis however, it will be the policy of the company to proceed slowly unless there is an unexampled improvement in the money outlook. The scarcity of labor and the high prices of all materials are causes contributing to the decision of the directors and another reason is found in the delays attending the delivery of materials and equipment.

Break in Levees

Special to The Telegram. NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 22,-Three small crevasses in the Mississippi levees about sixty miles below here have been found.

Is told of one Hezekiah Prouty. Hezekiah, after a half-hearted Idont-believe-in-it try at advertising, concluded that it was all a skin game and the invention of ad sharps to lure the lucre from the pockets of the plodding merchants. It happened that Hezekiah, after years of hand-tomouth business, had some goods damaged by a fire in the railroad freight sheds. This fact and the adjustment were duly recorded in the newspaper and the trade that followed through this publicity was a convincer of the power of printer's ink that Heze-kiah could not gainsay. It proved, beyond doubt, that his methods and not the newspaper had previously been at fault. If your advertising is not paying don't blame the newspaper—it AL-WAYS gets there.

EXCHANGE OF NOTES British Foreign Office Apologizes for

Swettenham's Alleged Rudeness By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.-Esme

Howard, charge d'affaires at the British embassy, called on Acting Secretary of State Bacon and presented a letter from Earl Grey, principal secretary of state for Great Britain, regarding the Davis-Swettenham incident. In his message Sir Edward Grey says that he is causing an official inquiry to be made to determine the authenticity of the letter purporting to have been written by Swettennam to Rear Admiral Davis. The British foreign office, he says is entirely without official advices and that their only information has been thru the press. If these advices prove to be correct, he says: "Great Britain will deeply regret that any British official should have written such a letter to the gallant admiral, who had tendered such valuable assistance to the British subjects in Jamaica at a time of great suffering and great distress. Secretary Bacon assured Mr. Howard that President Roosevert and the officials of the state department are much gratified to receive this message from the British government, and especially so in view of the fact that Great Britain has not even waited to receive official advices concerning the unfortunate event before communicating with the government.

PRESS COMMENT

German Papers Enjoy Swettenham Davis Incident Immensely

By Associated Press. BERLIN, Jan. 22. - The German press is chuckling over the Swettenham-Davis incident, which was given much prominence in their news columns. The Berlin Post for example

"Perhaps the mistress of the seas considered it humiliating that a British city had to rely on foreign succor. Perhaps she also was not entirely convinced of the unselfishness of Yankee benevolence. There is no doubt that it was a too seductive opportunity for Brother Jonathan to make a moral conquest at England's expense and for once to let the Monroe Doctrine shine in the light of Christian charity." Other papers say that Governor Swettenham is held to be guilty of bad taste.

Grandma Swettenham Has Been Losing Too Much Sleep
By Associated Press.

BERLIN, Jan. 22.—Newspapers here print every item of news available regarding the incident between Governor Swettenham of Jamaica and Rear Admiral Davis of the United States navy, involving the withdrawal of the American warships from Kingston, and they received the quieting statements from Washington with a certain degree of skepticism. Editorially the various newspapers regard the incident as being more a personal affair than an incident between the two governments and ascribed the friction to Swettenham's "tired nerves" and sensitive national pride.

Some papers say the Americans may now understand the feeling of Germany over the declination of the United States to accept foreign relief for the San Francisco earthquake sufferers, altho at the same time it is admitted the circumstances in the two cases are quiet different.

CALLS SENATE MINSTREL SHOW

Tillman's Speech Shocks the Solon's Dignity

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 22.-Senator Tillman held the floor Monday to reply to recent criticism of himself by Senator Spooner. Mr. Tillman was to deliver a speech. which intention having been advertised since last Friday, brought a great multitude to the galleries. As a prelude to the speech, he read a skit amplifying the idea of an editorial which had characterized Mr. Tillman as the burnt cork artist of the senate. Mr. Tillma apparently did not so much resent that but protested he was not the only member of the troupe. He declared Sens tor Culberson to be the Lone Star solo ist, who had formerly been the great detective of the senate. He spoke of Senator Carmack as a red-headed knight, who had broken his lance and had put a chaplet at the White House door. In this dramatis personae of his farce, Senator Stone was "Gumshoe Bill," who could dance a highland fling on a ten-rail fence, but whose greatest feat was to walk on eggs breaking the shells. Senator Clay he referred to as the "Pompadoured statesman from Georgia," who relies on viction. He alluded to Senators Daniel,

But, severe as Mr. Spooner's chastisement was, it was incom a few remarks which Mr. Carmack made following him. The Tennessee senator used a rapier. He walked round and round Mr. Tillman, slashing then, thrusting now, and every time bringing blood from the writhing Tillman. The senate was spellbound-the galleries were transfixed. Mr. Carmack spoke scarcely above the conversational tone, yet his cauterizing words were heard no less distinctly than had been Mr. Tillman's shrieks, so still had the chamber become. Mr. Tillman, who had sunk into his seat, his head hanging low on his breast, was so dazed that, the he got up to reply, the venerable benator Teller, slow moving as

Behind barred doors several senators talked to Mr. Tillman with a candor that would have violated all the rules of the senate if it had been in open session. Mr. Culberson, Mr. Teller, Clay, Mr. Carmack, Mr. Spooner and others are said to have contributed to the spanking of Mr. Tillman. They told him that his conduct for a long time had been so much that of a buffbon as to lower the senate in public esteem, and they further advised him that if his own sense of dignity was not sufficient to restrain him from such clownish capers as he had been indulging in he must at least manifest for the senate a sufficient regard to save it from the contempt into which his conduct tended

When the doors were opened it was learned that Mr. Tillman's skit had been expunged from the Record, and, in the open senate, Mr. Tillman disclaimed any purpose to offend and ogized abjectly. Mr. Carmack accepted the apology, the two shook hands, and the most dramatic incident of the session was over.

"The College Widow" "The College Widow," which made its second visit to Fort. Worth this season, played to a capacity house at Greenwall's Monday night, and forty or fifty people patiently stood up during the entire performance. Many of the audience saw it for the second time, yet it was just as intensely charming as when they first saw it. "The College Widow" is such a perfect piece of work from the standoint of the playwright that the stage business, the little mechanical subterfuges of the stage, are not very apparent even to one who has witnessed the play several times. "The College Widow" is a standing rebuke for those absinthe sipping authors who write on the assumption that the violation of the seventh commandment and the attendant complications constitute the only really absorbing plots for the modern drama.

to make up a college community. Somehow, one who has seen the play several times is impressed with the idea that it does not take a company of stars to produce it. The performance Monday night was flawless, yet it was but little if any better than performances that have been given by amateurs. The part of Miss Witherspoon, the title role, is the most difficalt, but many minor parts in less famous plays are harder. It is the genius of the author, Ade, whose skill as a playwright has enabled him to give us a play so perfect in its detail that nothing is left to be supplied by the members of the company.

The Truth About College Life The truth at last is being told about college life in the new college play, "At Yale," which will be presented with Paul Gilmore at the head of a large and competent company at Greenwall's opera house Wednesday matinee and night, Jan. 23.

PAUL GILMORE, WHO WILL BE SE EN IN "AT YALE" AT GREEN-WALL'S WEDNESDAY M ATINEE AND NIGHT.

There are no unaccounted for children in the play. The villain does not pursue her and no one has lost the papers. The plot is a simple but absorbing one, and the characters are good clean wholesome American characters, such as every one knews or ought to know. To those who have lived in a college town the play comes a clear-cut true to life picture from the past. It is funny without being burlesqued and the characters are not overdrawn. One can meet the originals in any middle western college town any day during the school year. There is the college widow herself heroine of many love affairs and unspoiled by the adoration of several generations of freshmen; Miss Flora Wiggins, whose affairs with students have not been very fortunate and whose advice is "Don't never have nothin' to do with no students;" Bub Hicks, the prototype of thousands of youths who every year change from very green freshmen to very sporty students in a remarkably short time; the trainer, the professor,

Georgia Minstrels

No minstrel show ever made a tour of the country and received as many favorable comments, both from the press and public, as was given last season to Richards & Pringle's Famous Georgia Minstrels. You could hear it on the streets, in hotels, on the train, in fact everywhere, the good things that were being said of the performance; the band also came in for their share of praise.

Fort Worth Rink

The weather so far this week has been fine for skating and large crowds were in attendance at the big rink yesterday. The skates and floor are in the best possible condition and Cox' celebrated band is playing new and very popular music every day. The management receives compliments every day on how the big rink is being run and how nice and clean it is kept, People say every day: "O, I wish I could skate!" There is no excuse for anyone not being able to skate, as the big rink has plenty of instructors that are paid to do nothing but teach people to skate, and are polite and willing to do their duty. All you have to do is to express your desire and the employes of the big rink do the rest. The management wishes to state that no admission is charged to ladies and children in the afternoon and they are welcome to come and listen to the music without costing one cent.

The polo team is practicing daily and expects some big games in the near future.

ROSEN HEIGHTS CITY ELECTION

Warm Contest Is On for City Marshal

The municipal election that is being held in Rosen Heights today for the purpose of electing a mayor, a city marshal and a board of five aldermen developed into a warm contest early in the day. The friends of the candidates for mayoralty honors, as well as those supporting the candidates for marshal, were putting up a hard fight.

At 1 o'clock there were about fifty votes cast. The contest between J C. McQuerry and J. J. Riden for mayor was at that hour thought to be very close, both sides claiming the victory. The best information, however, seemed to favor McQuerry, and it was generally predicted that he was far enough in the lead, with the support that he expected after 6 o'clock, to give him a very small majority. It was conservatively stated, however, that the election for mayor was too close to give any intelligent forecast. Both men are prominently identified with the interests of Rosen Heights, and the people will be satisfied with either of them as chief executive of the new municipal government.

There are three candidates for city marshal—Zeblin, Brown and Cromartie. Brown was thought to have a little the best of the contest, with Zeblin a close second. The race seemed to be between Brown and Zeblin, For aldermen there are ten candidates, with five to be elected, without reference to residence or wards. The five receiving the highest number of votes will be declared elected. The total vote will be about 65.

Duncan Wanted to Delay Election of Senator

SPEECHES MADE

Gaines of Comanche Said He Would Vote for Bailey as Instructed, But That He Despised Him

Special to The Telegram. .

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 22 .- The Bailey controversy was taken up in the house this morning soon after the session was called to order. It was precipitated by a resolution introduced by Representative Duncan, which aroused debate. The full text of the resolution is as follows:

"Resolved, That it is the sense and judgment of this body that the issues involved in the choice of a United States senator under the existing cir--cumstances should be determined directly by the entire membership of the emocratic party of this state and to the end that their sovereign will may control we recommend: "First, That Senator Bailey shall appear before the legislature before the first ballot for senator or send a communication in writing to this legislature and pledge himself to immediately resign the office of United States senator to which he may be elected if he shall be elected thereto, and at once go before the whole body of the democracy and give them an opportunity to pass upon his candidacy with the understanding that the investigation of the pending charges and any others filed and accepted shall proceed to a conclusion as contemplated by the resolution under which the committee was appointed.

"Second-In the event that Senator Bailey shall adopt the course above suggested, we who vote for this resolution pledge ourselves to vote upon ballot today for his re-election and to urge and to use our utmost endeavors to secure such a period of time for the making of a campaign as will be acceptable to Senator Bailey and also to abide by the result of said general democratic primary as indicated by the majority of all the votes cast in said election and to vote in accordance with the wishes of such majority. "We further pledge ourselves to endeavor to secure action upon said result during the present session of the legislature." Objection to the reading of the resolution was made by Representative Kennedy.

Duncan moved that the resolution be read the second time. Duncar read the resolution as his argument in the debate. Hamilton attacked the resolution on constitutional grounds and Kennedy made a spread eagle speech and said he was going to call a spade

Bailey men packed the galleries and cheered. The speaker admonished the gallery and assistant sergeant-at-arms asked that it be cleared. The request was ignored.

Kennedy continuing stated that Bailey was the nominee and he had to support him and he was glad to support him, McConnell of Palo Pinto made the same sort of speech, and said he would cast his vote without any explanation of it. Duncan moved that the time for resolutions be extended thirty minutes to give McConnell more time. The motion was lost by a vote of 51 to 59. McConnell voted against continuing his own speech. Hamilton called up the concurrent resolution providing that the joint rules of the Twenty-ninth legislature be enforced until new rules are in force.

Reedy of Smith rose to a question of personal privilege, calling attention to the Houston Post article in which he referred to an alleged interview that the Bailey fight was "to put a stain on his character." Reedy objected as a signer of the Duncan resolution and said further that he would not vote for Bailey while the two committees were investigating the marges against him. He was allowed leave to print his objections. Gaines of Comançãe rose to a question of personal privilege and ex-

He said he would vote for Bailey as commanded to by his constituents, but personally he believed Bailey was unworthy and infamous. He stated further that Bailey had betrayed the country into the hands of a commercial pirate for gold and that he was a moral leper. He said that in the future he wanted to be numbered among those who despise and defy Bailey (Applause from pro-investigation and plained how he would vote for sena-hisses from the Baileyites). Constituents Want Bailey Kennedy rose to a question of personal privilege and said he would vote for Bailey and that those of his constituents who favored the election outnumbered those who opposed, according to a communication he had re-

Hume of Harris spoke about a letter he received from his constituents asking him to delay the election and said the letter was too late, as he had given his promise in the primaries. Dean of Leon said he was classed with the anti-Bailey men of the house because he had never found any excuse for the senators' action. He told of a conversation with Bailey, who said he would resign if the house or the senate would pass a vote of censure. He said he would vote for Bailey, altho he thinks he is unfit, Brown of Wharton said that he had never been telegraphed by his con-stituents. He would vote as his conscience dictates to him.

Duncan rose to a question of per-sonal privilege and said that his purpose was to scatter his vote to delay the election of a United State; senator. The Duncan and Terrell original resolution to delay the action on the senatorial election was called up. Kennedy claimed it was out of order, Speaker Love overruled all of Kennedy's points of order. Finally, Kennedy, looking at the clock, raised the point of order that it was 12 o'clock and the time for the election of a United States senator. Speaker Love overruled, saying that the election takes place at 12:15. (Laughter.) King moved that the Duncan-Terrell resolution be referred to the committee on federal relations. Duncan moved the previous question and the vote stood 71 for previous question and 57 against. The previous question was orderd. King was recognized and Duncan interrupted by saying that there was only five minutes before the election of senator and asked him not to talk too long. Kennedy whispered to King, "Go on. Den't pay any attention to him." King continued talking against time until 12:15, when the point of order was made that it was time for the election of a United States senates. Fuller of the anti-Bailey side made the point of order.

Produce Will Be Disposed of in Chiby Local Union Without Arbitrary Middlemen

Special to The Telegram.

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.-Years of dreams in which farmers have seen themselves. thoroly unionized, dealing with the consumer in Chicago thru the agency of local unions without assistance from the arbitrary middleman are to be realized within thirty days.

The plans for beginning the experiment here were practically completed by representatives of the American Society of Equity, the Farmers' Union, at yesterday's meeting of the Chicago Federation of Labor. Under these plans the promoters of the scheme expect to be in a position within a month to ship to Chicago hay, butter and eggs and such other farm products as are to be found in the country at this season of the year, the Federation of Labor acting as the clearing house for the farmers' produce.

The executive committee of the federation and the Farmers' Union representatives met last night and decided that the Chicago clearing house should be in charge of a man appointed by each body. Several grocery stores in every quarter of the city will be selected as the representatives of the clearing house and they will be permitted to sell the products at a profit of ten per cent.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.-The annual ball of the New York Liquor Dealers' Association, one of the foremost events of its kind in the amusement season, will be held tonight at the Grand Central palace. The big stage of the palace will be utilized for a vaudeville performance by some of the best talent now in the metropolis. The performers will be taken from their theaters to the palace in their make-up. Many other novel features will be presented in connection with the ball. The receipts will be devoted to charity and are expected to amount to thousands of dollars.

The ball given by the liquor dealers last year jammed Madison Square Garden to the doors and the crowd was the largest that ever attended a pubpearances indicate that even this record will be broken at tonight's affair, despite the stiff competition offered by the Irish charity ball to be given this evening at Madison Square Garden, and the consequent defection of a portion of the Irish liquor dealers.

Special to The Telegram. DENVER, Colo. Jan. 22.-The interstate commerce commission met in the federal courtroom here this morning to hear evidence regarding the alleged discrimination in freight rates against Denver and its industries. George J. Kindel is the leader in the fight on the railroads, having been for years collecting evidence of freight rate discrimination against Denver shippers, and will present all this evidence at the hearing. He is assisted by the Denver Manufacturers' Association, the Denver Brewers' Association, the Chambers of Commerce of this and other Colorado cities and by many individual manufacturers and jobbers. All are confident of winning the case. Mr. Kindel predicts that if the present attempt to secure equitable freight rates is a failure Denver will be throttled as a commercial and

Startling Revelations Are Expected to Be Made at Seattle

Special to The Telegram. SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 22.-The interstate commerce commission met here Monday, Commissioner Lane presiding. The investigation of the Harriman lines on the Pacific coast is the most important matter before the commission. Hearings in relation to the car shortage in this section will also be held by the commission for the purpose of recommending to congress any legislation which would tend to relieve the situation. For several weeks the commission has had secret agents at work gathering information relative to the car shortage in the northwest. These agents have worked in lumber mills and on railroads and have gathered much evidence impossible to gain thru official channels. Others have posed as life and accident insurance agents and have worked among reilroad employes, making absurd attempts to sell ridic. ulous policies and keeping their ears open for any possible stray conversation tending to throw a light on the causes of the inability of the railroads to furnish cars. This work has been completed and the report is now said to be in the hands of the comseum Athletic Club tonight Harry Lewis will meet Rube Smith, the Denver welter, in what promises to be one of the niftiest bouts pulled off in Denver for many years, The Colorado lad has the advantage of weight, height and reach and under the direction of Johnny Corbett has made a phenomenal improvement in cleverness and staying powers. That Lewis, the clever little lightweight and aspirant to the title held by Joe Gans, will have his work cut out for him in putting it over his big opponent is generally admitted by the sports congregated here to witness the battle. Jockey Fred Maynard has been training Lewis and declares that he is the greatest fighter of his weight and inches that the ring has known since the palmy days of McGovern. This opinion is shared by the local sports who have watched Lewis at his training stunts. The fame of Lewis has been spread far and wide in Colorado and the interest in the battle promises to jam the Coliseum to its doors tonight.

The bout was originally arranged between Lewis and Jimmy Gardner, but the latter backed down. Mike Twin Sullivan then agreed to take the place of Gardner, but later he also was stricken with buck ague and pleaded the illness of a relative as a means of escaping from meeting Lewis. An appeal has been made to Governor Buchtel, the new preacherexecutive of Colorado, to prevent the fight, but he says he has no power

THE ORMOND AUTO RACERS ARE READY

DARING PROFESSIONALS

Most Intrepid Drivers of Europe and America to Contest-Twenty-three

Races on Program

Special to The Telegram. DAYTONA, Fla., Jan. 22.-No greater crowd was ever congregated on the Florida beach than is gathered here today to participate in and witness the fifth annual Ormond Daytona international speed contest, to be held under the auspices of the Florida East Coast Automobile Association. Hundreds of enthusiastic motorists who have been attending the Madison Square Garden show in New York arrived on special trains and all other trains bring large additions to the throngs already here. Passenger officials of the Florida East Coast railway report an unprecedented traffic from all directions. In point of entries the tournament is among the greatest ever held in this country or abroad and it is confidently expected that many records will be broken.

Many of the most intrepid protessionals of Europe are here and will again rip up the beaten course along the shore. Arthur Duray, the famous Frenchman, will drive his great 130-180 horsepower De Dietrich machine, which was on exhibition at Madison Square Garden and was shipped here by express. Duray won the Ardennes circuit race and finished third in the Vanderbilt cup race on Long Island. Duray declares that he was hindered by the crowds at the latter contest and that his huge car will be sent its limit for the first time on the beach here. He believes that five miles in two minutes, or 100 miles in an hour, is not an impossibility on the level stretch of tide-rolled beach. The Ardennes circuit of 400 miles was made by Duray in this car at an average of sixty-seven and a half miles an hour, the world's record for a long road race. Another famous French driver who will take part in the races is Demogoet, known in Europe as the "speed king," who will drive the 110-horsepower Darracq, with which Wagner won the Vanderbilt cup last fall. Last January Demogoet won the two-mile-a-minute race here in the record-breaking time of 0:58 4-5. The 200-horsepower machine that mile record will be driven this year by A. Lee Guinness, the young English amateur, who purchased the car last summer and has since won many races at European meets. He will try for new records in all the short-distance

Louis Wagner, the winner of the Vanderbilt cup, arrived with the Madison Square Garden contingent and is expected to win fresh laurels for himself during the week. America's Crack Drivers Practically all of the best American drivers are here for the races and are expected to give a good account of themselves in the contests with their foreign rivals. Among them are Joseph Tracy, winner of the elimination trials in the Vanderbilt cup contest, with two duplicate ninety-horsepower ocomobiles; Herbert Lytle, with his 120-horsepower Pope-Toledo; Fred Marriott and Frank Durbin, with Stanley steamers, and many others of equal note. Some of the American manufacturers entering cars last year are not here, having decided that their cars are not equal to a hard race. Chief interest today centers in the 100-mile race and it is the main topic of conversation. Many wagers have been made that the 100 miles will be traveled in sixty minutes or better. Numerous bets have also been made that the mile record will be reduced to twenty-five seconds even. The time for a mile has been lowered here since the races began in 1903, and last January the time was 28 1-5 seconds, made by Marriott. He will again drive a Stanley steamer and expects to clip off the three and one-fifth seconds from his great record. Robertson, whose Apperson car was smashed and himself badly injured in an accident while practicing for the Vanderbilt cup race, is here and will attempt to retrieve his fortunes. Several other machines excluded by the Vanderbilt elimination trials have also

The Program The program arranged for the speed contests, which will be formally inaugurated tomorrow and will continue thru the week, includes twenty-three races, in addition to record trials at sprint distances. Twelve of these are for touring cars and eleven are open to all types. There are four events at one mile, six at ten miles, four at thirty miles, one at fifty kilometers and one at 100 miles. The winner of the latter will be presented with a cup by the Minneapolis Automobile Club. It was won last year by Walter Clifford-Earp, an Englishman, who drove his machine the last fifty miles on three tires and yet smashed the world's record.

The winner of the mile contest, won last year by Fred Marriott in a Stanley steamer, will receive the Sir Thomas Dewar cup, valued at $2,000. Five races have been provided for amateurs, including mile, five-mile and ten-mile events for all classes and five-mile and ten-mile contests for runabouts.

HOODCO SENATORSHIP Charles Curtis of Kansas Inherits the

which has blighted the lives of nearly all the United States senators from Kansas who have served in the "fatal Lane succession" prove to be bad medicine for Charles C who was today honored with a senatorial toga by the state legislature? Will the fates which have raised this descendant of the aborigines, not long ago a jockey, a peanut 'butcher" and a cab driver, to a position of highest honor, cast him down in ignominy and disgrace? These are the questions asked by the superstitions, but Charles Curtis greets them with a smile, as bogie stories and old wives' tales not fit for serious consideration. From the day that Senator "Jim" Lane committed suicide under the most tragic circumstances, the superstitions have pointed to his successors in the United States senate as the victims of inalevolent powers which would accomplish their ruin. In many instances these dire prophecies have been fulfilled. In the Ironton, Mo., jail is one of Curtis' predecessors, J. Ralph Burton, convicted boodler, debarred from ever again holding office of honor or profit in the United States. Ingalis was the only senator to wholly defy the hoodoo and win conspicuous success as a statesman.

Special to The Telegram.

Senator Curtis will have the honor of being the first aboriginal American in the national senate. In his veins flows the blood of the Kaw tribe of Indians, now almost extinct, inherited from his mother's side. He was born in Topeka and will be 47 years of age next Friday. At the age of 16 he became a jockey and became famous among the horsemen of the entire southwestern country. Later he drove a cab, studying law at nights, and at 21, he was admitted to the bar. When only 24 he was selected county attorney of this county on the anti-prohibition ticket, and immediately began to enforce his arguments for resubmission by closing all the saloons in Topeka. In 1892 he was elected to congress from the First district and since then has been returned six times.

Senator Curtis will leave for Washington tomorrow, but will probably occupy his seat in the house until late next month, when he will be sworn in as senator. Carnival at Key West

TEXAS STATE LIBRARY COMMISSION

Judge Duncan of Tyler has introduced a bill in the state legislature providing for the creation of a Texas library commission, and the proposed measure is strongly indorsed by the State Library Association and the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, and the prospects are considered bright for its passage. It is a pretty safe proposition that many measures indorsed by the women of Texas have merit and should be enacted into law, and especially is this true of library matters for they are the ones who are taking the most interest in the matter. The Duncan bill is Section 1. There is hereby created the Texas Library commission, consisting of seven members.

Sec. 2. The governor of the state of Texas shall, with the advice and the censent of the senate, appoint four persons, who, with the state librarian, superintendent of public instruction and president of the State university, shall constitute the Texas Library commission. Appointments shall be for a term of two years, except appointments to fill vacancies which shall be made by the governor for the unexpired term. The commissioners, at their first meeting, to be convened by the governor, shall elect a chairman chosen from one of their number. They shall also elect or appoint a secretary, not of their number, but an experienced librarian, who shall serve at the will of the commission, under such conditions and for such compensation as it shall deem adequate. Said secretary shall keep a record of the proceedings of the commission, keep accurate accounts of its financial transactions and act under the direction of the commission in supervising the work of traveling libraries, in organizing new libraries and improving those already established, and, in general, perform such duties as may be from time to time assigned him by said commission. In addition to his salary, he shall be allowed his actual and traveling expenses while absent from his office upon the service of the commision; such expenses, when approved by the chairman or acting chairman, to be certified under oath to the secretary of the state in the same manner as other bills incurred by the commission. Said commission may engage, from time to time as desired, such other clerical and expert asistance as shall be requisite in the performance of the work of the commission.

Sec. 3. No member of the Texas Library commission shall ever receive any salary or per diem or compensation of any kind for services as such commissioner. Sec. 4. Members of the Library commission shall be allowed and paid necessary traveling expenses in stending meetings of the commission or in inspecting or establishing libraries, and other incidental and necessary expenses connected with the work of the com-

Sec. 5. The State Library commission is authorized to purchase suitable books; the same to be the property of the state of Texas, which books shall form a state circulating library, and from which any town, village, community, library, school, college, university, library association, farmers' institute grange, study club, charitable or penal institute and individual may borrow books free of cost, except for transportation, under such conditions and rules as shall best protect the interest of the state and best increase the efficiency of the service it is expected to render the public. These books are to be divided by the commission into groups and are to be known as the Texas traveling library. The commission shall catalogue and otherwise prepare said books for circulation, and shall make rules and regulations according to which the business of the commission shall be done, and such as shall insure the care, preservation and safe return of all

Sec. 6. The commission shall give advice to all school, free and other public libraries, and to all communities which may propose to establish them, as to the best means of establishing and maintaining such libraries, the selection of books, cataloguing and other details of library management. It may publish such lists and circulars of information as it shall deem necessary, and it may also conduct library institutes a school of library instruction, and a clearing house for periodicals for free gifts to local libraries.

Sec. 7. The commission shall also be allowed the use of suitable offices and equipment in the eapitol. Sec. 8. The secretary of said Library commission is hereby directed to ascertain and report to the commission what public libraries in the state, containing more than one thousand volumes, including the libraries of normal schools, academies and colleges, can intably care for and advantageously use public documents printed by the state. The commission shall designate suca libraries as depositories of state documents, and shall, from time to time, prepare lists of such depositories for the use of the state printing board. The state printing board is hereby directed to furnish each library designated as a depository of state documents, one set of public documents as they are published and also copies of such other reports and documents, printed at the expense of the state, as may be of general interest, and supplied to it in sufficient numbers to meet such demand. Sec. 9. So much of the law relating to the department of agriculture, insurance, statistics and history as places under the jurisdiction of that department the branches of statistics and history and the custody and control of books, curios and public documents now in said department of agriculture, insurance, statistics and history is repealed, and the possession and control of said books, curios and public documents, together with the appropriation for the maintenance of this department of the department of agriculture, insurance, statistics and history, which has heretofore been included in the general appropriation for the department of agriculture, insurance, statistics and history, are hereby transferred to the Texas Library commission. The said Library commission is authorized to accept the same; and it shalf be the duty of the said commission to make and adopt such by-laws, rules and regulations for the government of the said collection known as the state library as to not only make it valuable as a reference library to the legislature, the several state departments, and such other citizens, as may desire to consult the same, but to preserve and add to the valuable collection of books and manuscripts already gathered relating to the early history of Texas, and build up an historical library commensurate with the importance of our history and the dignity of

Sec. 10. The commission shall make a biennial report to the legislature on or before the first Monday in January on the state library and library conditions and progress in Texas, and said report shall contain an itemized statement of the expenses of the commission. Such biennial report shall be printed in the same manner and under the same regulations as the reports of the executive officers of the state. The blanks and other printed matter required by the commission shall be furnished by the state printing board, and shall be paid for out of the printing fund of the

Sec. 11. To carry out the provisions of this act, there shall be, and is hereby appropriated directly to the Texas Library commission from any moneys in the general fund in the state treasury, not etherwise appropriated, the sum of twenty-five hundred ($2,500). dollars annually to be expended by said commission for the purchase and equipment of books to be loaned under the provision of this act, and such incidental and clerical expenses as are hereinbefore mentioned.

GREAT PANHANDLE ENTERPRISE

The big Damsite farm, located near the town of Quanah, in Hardeman county, is one of the most wonderful agricultural enterprises in the state of Texas. It is the property of Messrs. Rice and Lyon, and the latter is well known to the people of Texas as the chairman of the Republican executive committee of the state and member of the national Republian execcutive committee for Texas, Colonel Lyon makes his home in Sherman, but at Damsite his great irrigation project receives much of his attention and he is developing a property that promises much for the future. A town and postoffice has been located on the property with the euphonious title of "Damsite," no: as an evidence of profanity, but as a tribute to the monster dam which impounds the water that is stored for irrigating purposes.

Damsite is located at the crossing of two big public roads and now consists of several dozen houses. The roads have been graded for several miles in each direction from the town, and Manager Provine takes great pride in all that pertains to the little town and the big farm. On the west side of the square is the big farm barn, 100x150 feet, which has just been completed to store this year's alfalfa crop. This barn stands in the middle of a lot which contains sixty-eight fine mules and twenty-six brood mares. Two big Clydesdale stallions have also been purchased for use on the farm. One thousand acres will be planted in alfalfa this year, and on the edge of the alfalfa field are twenty-five large pens for hogs, consisting of Red Durocs, Poland Chinas and Berkshires. It is intended to have 2,000 brood sows grazing on this alfalfa crop' before the season is far advanced.

Manager Provine expects to have 5,000 acres of the Damsite farm in cultivation this year. There are now thirty-seven men busy at work grubbing out the growth of mesquite on portions of the land that is to be put in immediate cultivation, and they are getting the land ready at the rate of about thirty acres per day. And so it is that work on this great enterprise is progressing as fast as men and money can do the work. There is the closest attention given to every small detail, for the old idea that it is the small leaks that sink the ship has not been overlooked here. There is a thoroness about the work that speedily convinces the observer that this great enterprise is not being built for speculation, but that it represents the careful working out of a theory that has been carefully considered from every possible standpoint and plans laid to carefully circumvent all the deficiencies of Dame Nature in the matter of providing the necessary moisture for the growing crops that are soon to be planted.

It is true that for the past three years the Panhandle country has generally been blessed with good seasons, and that as a general proposition irrigation has not been necessary. But history has a method of repeating itself, and the close student of the situation must come to the conclusion that at times there must come long dry spells again to the Panhandle country, and where such contingercies have not been prepared for there is certain to be more or less disaster. Colonel Lyon and his associate propose to be perfectly independent of the natural seasons. When old Jupiter Pluvius fails to discharge the duty he owes to all agricultural communities there will be a turning loose of the large amount of water that is already successfully impounded behind the big dam, and the crops will grow and flourish in quick response to the magic influence of the blessed moisture that has been prepared by provident

Colonel Lyon is best known in Texas as a politician and very well known as a political boss. It is his hand that snakes the plum tree in the matter of federal patronage in Texas, and he rules his party with a rod of iron. It may be that those opposed to him raise the cry that under his manipulation the Republican party in this state has become but a synonym for discord and strife, but those who have watched the long and bitter fights he has waged and that have been waged against him by members of his own party, must concede that Cecil Lyon has done more to make the Republican party respectable in Texas than all his predecessors combined. It is the hit dog that howls, and in this emergency, it is readily noticeable that no word of complaint is heard from the Lyon side of the controversy. He fights hard and when the fight comes back in the same way there is no word of outcry from Lyon.

While Lyon's reputation in this state is almost exclusively that of a politician, he is doing great things in the Panhandle with his irrigation project and setting all the Pannandle country and West Texas a shining example of the possibilities of irrigation. The day will no doubt soon materialize when the Lyon method of farming will be just about as celebrated as the Lyon method of politics.

A HISTORY OF SOUTHERN LITERATURE

Interest in literature of the southern states of the United States has prompted the issue of "A History of Southern Literature," by Carl Holliday, instructor in English at the University of Virginia.

A more thoro treatise of the subject which this writer alone treats in the field of literature can hardhandy for reference. The author has undoubtedly had great care, patience and sympathy in preparation of his work and the result has been a notable book of authoritative character. For the first time in literary history here is a book with a connected story of the growth and development of literature of the southern states, with an appreciation of each author as he or she is taken up, from the earliest moments of production to the present day and year.

The author has divided his work into six sections, which correspond to the six distinct periods in the growth of southern literature. The first period deals with the literature of the beginning, or from 1607 to 1676. Then comes the period of national consciousness, or the time of the birth of American patriotism. which had its beginning in Bacon's rebellion, and here the author discusses its effect on Virginia literature. In the third section we have the revolutionary times and their subsequent movements, with detailed descriptions of the conditions of the period affecting the literature of the south, showing the state of southern culture, the trend of southern genius toward statescraft and the evolution of the literature of protest as evidenced in the writings of Patrick Henry, Thomas Jefferson, George Washington, Henry Laurens, James Madison and a number of others.

The fourth period deals from 1810 to 1850 and is denoted as the time of expansion. Here we find materialism and literature discussed, resulting from the discovery of the cotton gin. Southern eloquence has brought forth a number of orators, essayists and historians, while at the same time there is no dearth of fiction or poetry. Full discussion of the economic, sociological and literary results is given and work of men like Calhoun, Clay, Poe, Audubon, Legare, Key, Pike, Benton and others taken up.

The civil war period, from 1850 to 1875, is the fifth part of the book with its effects on literary efforts of those years, with a treatise on the writings of Southworth, Johnston, Cooke, Tucker, Margaret Preston, Ticknor, Dorsey, Hope, Palmer, Father Ryan, Hayne, Sidney Lanier, Toombs, Davis, Timrod and a number

The last division of the book deals with the development of the new south, the present day literature and the southern literary revival, commenting on the lack of a southern literary center. Here we find discussion of Henry Watterson, Henry Grady, John Russell Boner, Irwin Russell, Frank Stanton, Madison Cawein, Henry J. Stockton, Frank Hopkinson Smith, George W. Cable, Joel Chandler Harris, Mary Noailles Murfree, James Lane Allen, Thomas Nelson Page and a number of others.

There has always been a demand for a book such as this, and it will find a ready place in the classes of nearly every university and college in the south, as many of these already have a course in southern literature. Summer schools have large classes in southern literature and literary clubs of this section of the country devote great parts of their programs to discussion of subjects which Carl Holliday has taken up. Not only will the volume be found serviceable for cases such as these, but it will be an admirable book for reference for any one who takes literature and reading at all seriously. Fer anyone living in the United States it is a volume that should be on his

. . . . "GABRIELLE, TRANSGRESSOR"

The mystery of the east casts a spell over the readers of Harris Dickson's new novel, "Gabrielle, Transgressor." The scene is laid in New Orleans in colonial days, and the chief characters are Gabrielle, a young convent-bred girl, and Prince Murad, brother of the Sultan of Turkey, who has fled to Louisiana from a party of his brother's followers bent on putting him out of the way. The book is published by the J. B. successful novel. "The Ravanels," last year,

Upon this battlefield of earth,

And not sometimes lose heart! He hides himself so wondrously. As the there were no God: He is least seen when all the powers Of ill are most abroad.

Or He deserts us at the hour The fight is all but lost: And seems to leave us to ourselves Just when we need Him most.

Ill masters good, good seems to change To ill with greatest ease; And, worst of all, the good with good Is at cross purposes.

Ah! God is other than we think; His ways are far above. Far beyond reason's height, and reached Only by childlike love. Workman of God! O, lose not heart,

But learn what God is like: And in the darkest battlefield Thou shalt know where to strike, Thrice blest is he to whom is given The instinct that can tell

That God is on the field when I Is most invisible Blest, too, is he who can divine Where real right doth lie. And dares to take the side that seems Wrong to man's blindfold eye. For right is right, since God is God; And right the day must win; To doubt would be disloyalty, To falter would be sin!

FARMERS FORM A NEW ASSOCIATION

Catton Growers Complete Work at Colorado City

FROM NINE COUNTIES

Invitation to Attend Meeting of Farmers' Co-operative Union at Same

Time Is Declined

The Farmers' Cotton Growers' Union was organized in Colorado City Thursday, Jan, 17, and a full set of state officers elected and installed. This is a new organization which is the result of the call made by the chairman of the similar meeting held in Abilene Dec. 13 last. It will be remembered that at the December meeting there was an effort, made to choke off any action on the part of the movers in favor of the new organization and it was enabled to check but not crush it entirely. A resolution was adopted at the Abilene meeting, authorizing the chairman to call a meeting at some point and on some date in the future, leaving it optionary with him to fix time and place. Dec. 14 the chairman issued his call fixing the place at Colorado City and the date Jan. 17. In pursuance of this plan the farmers in Scurry county met in Snyder Saturday, Jan. 12, and proceeded to organize themselves into a temporary organization by selecting the name of Farmers' Cotton Growers' Union, electing temporary officers and sending to Austin for a charter, and resolved to attend in person or by delegates the meeting at Colorado City and there perfect their organization by electing permanent officers and adopting a constitution and by-laws. It was also resolved that no one should be admitted into the Colorado meeting except those who were eligible to membership and desired to become such. A cordial invitation was extended to all actual farmers to attend. To prevent accidents and for fear that an effort might again be made to take possession of their meeting a hall was rented, paid for and a receipt taken for the money in the name of an individual member of the organization. The meeting at Colorado was called to order promptly on time with a large attendance of men who live on farms and work themselves being present. The call was read and the action of the Snyder meeting and its temporary organization approved. The committee on representation reported the fo!lowing counties as having delegates: Scurry, Mitchell, Nolan, Taylor, Jones, Callahan, Palo Pinto, Coryell, Howard and Wise. Several others were represented by proxies.

Statement by Secretary

The following matter was handed out by the secretary, John W. Green, and signed by him. As it is authoritative it is given as written by him: "The meeting was very enthusiastic thruout and a constitution was adopted which is very definite. "The election of permanent officers consumed considerable time, the greater part of which was consumed electing a state president, John W. Baker of Scurry county, who has been a very great factor in previous farmers' organizations. However, it was over the strenuous protest and only after a very urgent appeal from the delegation present would he consent to assume the great responsibilities of the office. "W. M. Green of Mitchell county was unanimously chosen vice president.

"Next in order was the election of secretary-treasurer. "John M. Green of Jones county being the only nomination placed before the bcdy, was elected by acclamation.

"U. M. Burklow of Palo Pinto county was unanimously elected as state or-"G. M. Garner of Scurry county was elected by acclamation as state business agent. "W. H. Morgan of Coryell county was elected chaplain by accalamation.

"John Speiss of Scurry county was elected D. C. and J. M. Balch of Taylor county was elected conductor. "As executive committeemen the following were elected: J. T. Gay of Whitacre of Jones country, J. S. Scurry county, J. R. Hastings of Mitchell county, A. A. Ross of Wise county, J. C. W. Green of Callahan

"Plans were formulated at this meeting for an active campaign of organizing work and prospects for a large organization of actual farmers only are very bright. Reports were sent to this meeting from almost all portions of Texas to send organizers, for they are anxious to connect themselves with such an organization, and not only Texas sends such encouraging news, but also from several other states come expressions of such desires. This organization is not antagonistic to any other farmers or labor organizations, but willing and anxious to co-operate with all labor organizations in all things that are mutual. "And this organization appeals to actual farmers who live on the farm and have no other interest except that of farming and are otherwise eligible to cast their lots with us and help to establish the first organization of actual farmers only in the history of organizations. Respectfully submitted, "JOHN W. GREEN,

"Secretary-Treasurer." The meeting consumed all of Thursday and Friday and it was late in the evening of the latter day before the final arrangements of the organization were made and the organization finally adjourned. During the progress of the meeting an invitation was received from the Farmers Educational and Co-Operative Union, requesting the presence of the members of the Farmers' Cotton Growers' Union to come to the Odd Fellows' hall and listen to a speech or lecture by the president of the Farmers' Co-Operative Union upon union matters. The request was courteously received and an answer was sent, stating that while they appreciated the invitation as coming from brother farmers engaged in the same great work and that nothing would give them more pleasure than to be present at the lecture, still they were engaged in very important work ild be impossible for the Farmers' Cotton Growers' Union to 'adjourn at that time for any purpose. Before adjourning the following card was issued and given to the press:

Card of Thanks "Colorado, Texas, Jan. 17.-The Farmers' Cotton Growers Union of Texas, in convention assembled, do hereby tender our thanks to the citizens of Colorado for the kindness and courtesy extended us while in their midst and especially to the Knights of Pythias for the use of their hall in which to hold their sessions.

SYNOPSIS

The story begins with the engagement of Anson Durand and plain Miss Van Ardsdale at a dance in New York. Shortly after their troth is given, Mrs. Fairbrother, wearing an enormous diamond, passes by and goes into an alcove. Durand follows her after Miss Van Arsdale is claimed for a dance. A few moments later Mrs. Fairbrother is discovered murdered and suspicion falls upon Durand. Her gloves are found in Miss Van Ardsdale's bag and Durand states that Mrs. Fairbrother gave them to him altho he did not know that the diamond was within the gloves when he placed them in the bag. Blood on his shirt bosom is also hard to explain. In the meantime Fairbrother is discovered in the mountains in the west, but too sick to even be apprised of the news. Before the finquest the diamond found in the gloves is pronounced to be a good imitation. The coroner's jury does not fix the blame of the murder and yet does not acquit Durand. At the close of the inquest Durand is arrested by the police.

"Here it was not so dark; yet I could make out none of the objects I now and then ran against. I passed a mirror (I hardly know how I knew it to be such), and in that mirror I seemed to see the ghost of a ghost flit by and vanish. It was too much. I muttered a suppressed oath and plunged forward, when I struck against a closing door. It flew open again and I rushed in, turning on my light in my extreme desperation, when, in-Stead of hearing the sharp report of a pistol, as I expected, I saw a second door fall to before me, this time with a sound like the snap of a spring lock. Finding that this was so, and that all advance was barred this way, I wheeled hurriedly back toward the door by which I had entered the place, to find that that had fallen to simultaneously with the other, a single spring acting for both. I was trapped-a prisoner in the strangest sort of passageway or closet; and, as a speedy look about presently assured me, a prisoner with very little hope of immediate escape, for the doors were not only immovable, without even locks to pick or panels to break in, but the place was bare of windows, and the only communication which it could be said to have with the outside world at all was a shaft rising from the ceiling almost to the top of the house. Whether this served as a ventilator, or a means of lighting up the hole when both doors were shut, it was much too inaccessible to offer any apparent way of escape.

"Never was a man more thoroly boxed in. Os I realized how little chance there was of any outside interference, how my captor, even if he was seen leaving the house by the officer on duty, would be taken for myself and so allowed to escape, I own that I felt my position a hopeless one. But anger is a powerful stimulant, and I was mortally angry, not only with Sears, but with myself. So when I was done swearing I took another look around, and, finding that there was no getting thru the walls, turned my attention wholly to the shaft, which would certainly lead me out of the place if I could only find means to mount it.

"And how do you think I managed to do this at last? A look at my bedraggled, lime-covered clothes may give you some idea. I cut a passage for myself up those perpendicular walls as the boy did up the face of the natural bridge in Virginia. Do you remember that old story in the reader? It came to me like an inspira- I death at last from slow starvation. "I had a knife, an exceedingly good knife, in my pocket—and for the first few steps I should have the light of my electric torch. The difficulty (that is, the first difficulty) was to reach the shaft from the floor where I stool. There was but one article of furniture in the room, and that was something between a table and a desk. No chairs, and the desk was not high enough to enable me to reach the mouth of the shaft. If I could turn it on end there might be some hope. But this did not look feasible. However, I threw off my coat and went at the thing with a vengeance, and whether I was given superhuman power or whether the clumsy thing was not as heavy as it looked, I did finally succeed in turning it on its end close under the opening from which the shaft rose. The next thing was to get on its top. That seemed about as impossible as climbing the bare wall itself, but presently bethought me of the drawers, and, tho they were locked, I did succeed by the aid of my keys to get enough of them open to make for myself a very good pair of stairs. "I could now see my way to the mouth of the shaft, but after that! Taking out my knife, I felt the edge. It was a good one, so was the point but was it good enough to work holes in plaster? It depended somewhat upon the plaster. Had the masons, in finishing that shaft, any thought of the poor wretch who one day would have to pit his life against the hardness of the final covering? My first dig at it would tell. I own I trembled violently at the prospect of what that first test would mean to me, and wondered if the perspiration which I felt starting at every pore was the result f the effort I had been engaged in or fust plain fear.

"Inspector, I do not intend to have you live with me thru the five mortal hours which followed. I was enabled to pierce that plaster with my knife, and even to penetrate deep enough to aord a place for the tips of my fingers and afterward for the point of my toes, digging, prying, sweating, panting, listening, first for a sudden opening of the doors beneath, then for some shout or wicked interference from above as I worked my way up inch by inch, foot by foot, to what might not be safety after it was at-

"Five hours-six. Then I struck something which proved to be a window; and when I realized this and knew that with but one more effort I should breathe freely again, I came before I began this terrible climb.

"Happily, I had some premonition of my danger, and threw myself into a position which held me till the dizzy minute passed. Then I went calmly on with my work, and in another halfhour had reached the window, which, fortunately for me, not only opened inward, but was off the latch. It was with a sense of inexpressible relief that I clambered thru this window and for brief moment breathed in the pungent odor of cedar. But it could have been only for a moment, It was 3 o'clock in the afternoon before I found myself again in the outer air. The only way I can account for the lapse of time is that the strain to which both body and nerve had been subjected was too much for even my hardy body and that I fell to the floor of the cedar closet and from a faint went into a sleep that lasted until 2. I can easily account for the last hour because it took me that long to cut the thick paneling from the door of the closet. However, I am here now, sir, and in very much the same condition in which I left that house. I thought my first duty was to tell you that I had seen Hiram Sears in that house last night and put you on his track." I drew a long breath-I think the inspector did. I had been almost rigid from excitement, and I don't believe he was quite free from it either. But his voice was calmer than I expected when he finally said: "I'll remember this. It was a good night's work." Then the inspector put to him some questions, which seemed to fix the fact that Sears had left the house before Sweetwater did, after which he bade him send certain men to him and then go and fix himself up. I believe he had forgotten me. I had almost forgotten myself.

Chapter XV

SEARS OR WELLGOOD. Not till the inspector had given several orders was I again summoned into his presence. He smiled as our eyes met, but did not allude, any more than I did, to what had just pessed. Nevertheless, we understood each other.

When I was again seated, he took up the conversation where we had left it. "The description I was just about to read to you," he went on; "will you listen to it now?" "Gladly," said I; "it is Wellgood's, I believe.' He did not answer save by a curious glance from under his brows, but, taking the paper again from his desk, went on reading:

"A man of 55 looking like one of 60. Medium height, insignificant features, bald head save for a ring of scanty dark hair. No beard, a heavy nose, long mouth and sleepy half-shut eyes capable of shooting strange glances. Nothing distinctive in face or figure save the depth of his wrinkles and a scarcely observable stoop in the right shoulder. Do you see Wellgood in that?" he suddenly asked.

"I have only the faintest recollection of his appearance," was my doubtful reply. "But the impression I get from this description is not exactly the one I received of that waiter in the momentary glimpse I got of him."

"So others have told me before," he remarked, looking very disappointed. "The description is of Sears given me by a man who knew him well, and if we could fit the description of the one to that of the other, we should have it easy. But the few persons who have seen Wellgood differ greatly in their remembrance of his features, and even of his coloring. It is astonishing how superficially most people see a man, even when they are thrown into daily contact with him. Mr. Jones says the man's eyes are gray, his hair a wig and dark, his nose pudgy, and his face without much expression. His landlady, that his eyes are blue, his hair, whether wig or not, a dusty auburn, and his look quick and piercing-a look which always made her afraid. His nose she don't remember. Both agree, or rather all agree, that he wore no beard-Sears did, but a beard can be easily taken off-and all of them declare that they would know him instantly if they saw him. And so the matter stands. Even you can give me no definite description-one, I mean, as satisfactory or unsatisfactory as this of Sears.

I shook my head. Like the others, I felt that I should know him if I saw him, but I could go no further than that. There seemed to be so little that was distinctive about the man. The inspector, hoping, perhaps, that all this would serve to rouse my memory, shrugged his shoulders and put the best face he could on the matter. (To be continued.)

WANTS LARGER PER DIEM

Chief Maddox Makes Request to the City Council Chief Maddox has filed with the city secretary a communication addressed to the city council, in which he requests that city prisoners who work out their fines on the streets of the city be allowed a greater per diem than they are now allowed. Under the rule that is now in force a prisoner who cannot pay a fine imposed in the city court is allowed 50 cents per day on the fine, whether he works on the streets or lays it out in the city jail. The result of this, the chief claims, is that most of the prisoners prefer remaining in their cells to working on the streets. Chief Maddox is of the opinion that there should be a difference between the drones and workers in the city hall in favor of the workers, and asks the council to allow those who work on the streets more per diem than those who lay their fines out in the jail. The chief says this will not only be just to those who work, but that it will result in getting more work done and at the same time reduce the prisoners' board bill, which is footed by the city.

RUMORED REALTY DEAL Report That C. W. Post will Erect

Large Building Here The sale of the solid block now used by the A. J. Roe Lumber Company is reported about the city Monday. The reported purchaser is C. W. Post of Battle Creek, Mich., and Washington, D. C., a former resident of Fort Worth. The purpose of the purchase is supposed to be for a mammoth hotel, the largest in the southwest. No confirmation can be received of the sale, as A. J. Roe is at present in West Texas. C W. Post is at the present time in Michigan and is not expected in Fort Worth again until March according to his father, C. R. Post, 496 Clarence street. The size of the building is reported to be fifteen stories. Purchase price of the block is not given by the rumor, altho it is reported that Mr. Post offered $100,000 for it not long ago.

Chief Maddox Has a Good Rogues' Gallery Here

Chief of Police J. H. Maddox is in receipt of a letter from Chief of Police John J. O'Connor of St. Paul, Minn., requesting that the Fort Worth chief send him all late pictures of crooks that have been placed in the Fort Worth rogue's gallery for use in the rogue's gallery at St. Paul. Chief Maddox has one of the largest collections of pictures of crooks, big and little, in the United States, the rogue's gallery here having been founded by Chief Maddox years ago, and in it are photographs of all notorious crooks in the United States. Many of these pictures were secured in Fort Worth, the crooks being arrested by the local officers, and they are valuable to police departments all over the United States, as thieves are migratory characters, going from one place, where it gets too hot for their known. Chief Maddox will have copies made of all his new works of art in his gallery and send them to the St.

HADLEY ON "ETHICS OF CORPORATE MANAGEMENT"

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.-The Sherman anti-trust law and the interstate commerce commission are mistakes, according to President Hadley of Yale University, who, in an article on the "Ethics of Corporate Management" in the North American Review, puts himself on record as follows: "Personally, I am one of those who look with serious distrust on such extension of political activity. I believe that the interstate commerce law did more to prevent wise railroad regulation than any other event in the history of the country. I think that the courts would have dealt with our industrial problems better than they have done if the anti-trust act never had

"I have gravely doubted the wisdom of some of the more recent measures assed by the national government. But cannot shut my eyes to the fact that these things are what business men must expect, unless business ethics are modified to meet existing conditions.

"Industrial corporations grew up into power because they met these needs of the past. To stay in power they must meet the needs of the present and arrange their ethics accordingly. If they can do it by their own voluntary development of the sense of trusteeship, that is the simplest and best solution. But if not, one of two things will happen-vastly increased legal regulation or state ownership of monop-

In the beginning of his article the president of Yale University indirectconfers the title of "monarch" on President Roosevelt.

Dr. Hadley first tells how the philosopher Thales of ancient Miletus secured all the olive presses in that region. Continuing, he says:

There was a man in Syracuse in the days of Dionysius, the tyrant, who bought all the iron in Sicily on so narrow a margin that, without raising the price much, he was able to make twice the amount of his total investment in a short time. When Dionysius, the tyrant, heard of this he was so pleased with the ingenuity of the man he told him that he might keep his money, but that he had better leave Syracuse.

"These stories show plainly enough that monopolies are no new thing-that more than two thousand years ago there was a Standard Oil Company of Asia Minor, and a United States Steel Corporation of Sicily.

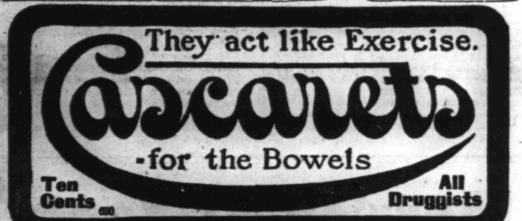

"And the President of the United States is by no means the first who addressed himself aggressively to the problem of trust regulation. But in ancient times these monopolies of producers or merchants were an exception; now they are becoming the general rule.

"The worst things which were done in our insurance companies represent a pious regard for the law and a scrupulous observance of the principles of morality as compared with some of the transactions in Erie in the

Dr. Hadley's article continues with a history of the growth of trusts from the times of the Greeks and Romans. He contends that corporate combinations are but the outgrowth of present-day conditions-the necessity with which business finds itself confronted. Until the manner of human trafficking is radically changed he can see no good to result from anti-trust legisla-

SENATORS AGREE ON SUBSTITUTE

Republicans Get Together on Brownsville Affair

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 22 .- An agreement was reached here Monday by republican senators on the substitute resolution on the Brownsville affair, which is to be introduced by Senator Foraker and is sure to receive the unanimous vote of the majority party. The phraseology of the resolution will not be made public until it is actually offred in the senate. It is said that in addition to providing for an investigation by the senate committee on military affairs, of the facts connected with the affray at Brownsville, Texas, it carries a declafation that the committee shall not raise a question as to the President's right to discharge the negro soldiers alleged to have been involved in the outrage. Senator Foraker did not give his consent to the compromise until today, but inasmuch as he is to offer it and it is not inconsistent with the position he has previously taken, he finally agreed to withdraw his objection. He was first given the assurance, however, that the resolution would be supported by Senator Lodge and the unanimous strength of the republicans in the senate. It is not certain whether Senator Blackburn will offer as an amendment to the new resolution the amendment he presented to the pending resolution indorsing the President's course. If he does offer it the agreement by the republicans would insure its defeat.

Southern Relief Ball

Special to The Telegram. THE COW PUNCHER SHOT UP THE TOWN

An Arizona Ranchman Made Rough House in New York

Special to The Telegram. . NEW YORK, Jan. 22.-Recently there came to this city from a ranch in Arizona James H. Murphy, a cowpuncher. He hired a room directly above the saloon of August F. Schmidt and tried hard to conform to the quiet ways of the city. But last night the spirit of the ranch

-and, perhaps other kinds of spiritsawakened in him a desire for a real western time, and he started out to "shoot up the town." He buckled on a cartridge belt and chucked a longbarreled pistol in the holster.

His "whoop" as he entered the saloon of Schmidt acted like the gust of a tornado. A score of customers rushed to shelter as tho blown there. Murphy flourished his revolver and declared that he was the "crackest shot that ever cracked." Then he began to shoot. Murphy decided to try his marksmanship on Schmidt Schmidt held a lighted cigar. "Up with your flipper and let me knock your ashes off for you," roared

Murphy. Schmidt, afraid of being shot if he disobeyed, hoisted a shivering hand above his head. Crack went the pistol and off tumbled the cigar ashes. "Now for a lock of your hair," aughed Murphy, and again the pistol spoke, nipping several hairs from the terrified salooneeper's head. "This is a corking shooting gallery," said the cowboy, turning his weapon at other objects. He picked off glasses, chipped the heads off bottles. shot out the sunburst designs in the cutglass mirrors, broke the light globes and when he had finished his fusillade there was hardly a whole piece of glass in the place. Schmidt said he also shot a cherry out of a customer's cocktail

Meantime a customer had telephoned to a police station and two policemen arrived and arrested Murphy.

New Cure For Rupture

New Scientific Appliance, Always a Perfect Fit—Adjustable to Any Size
Person—Easy, Comfortable, Never Slips, No Obnoxious Springs or Pads—Costs Less Than Many Common Trusses—
Made for Men, Women or Children

Send It on Approval-You Wear It-If You Are Not Satisfied, I Refund Your Money

I have invented a rupture appliance that I can safely say, by 30 years' experience in the rupture business, is he only one that will absolutely hold the rupture and never slip and yet is cool, comfortable, conforms to every movement of the body without chafing or hurting and costs less than many ordinary trusses. I have put the price so low that any person, rich or poor, can buy, and I absolutely guarantee it. I make it to your ordersend it to you-you wear it, and if it doesn't satisfy you send it back to me and I will refund your money. That is the fairest proposition ever made by a rupture specialist. The banks or any responsible citizen in Marshall will tell you that is the way I do business -always absolutely on the square, Here is what Mr. Jas. Britton, prominent manufacturer of Bethlehem, "C. E. Brooks, Esq.-Dear Sir: I have been ruptured six years and have always had trouble with it till I got your appliance. It is very easy to wear, fits neat and snug, and is not in the way at any time, day or night. In fact, at times I did not know I had it on. It just adapted itself to the shape of the body and clung to the spot no matter what position I was in. It would be a veritable God-send to the unfortunate who suffer from rupture, if all could procure the Brooks Rupture Appliance and wear it. They certainly would never regret it. My rupture is all healed up and nothing ever did i but your appliance. Jas. Britton."

If you have tried most everything else, come to me. Where others fail is where I have my greatest success. Write me today and I will send you my book on Rupture and its Cure, showing my appliance and giving you prices and names of people who have tried it and been cured. It is instant relief when all others fail. Remember use no salves, no harness, no lies. Just a straight business deal at a rea-

Fasier Money Aids the Entire Lack of Demand Weakens Light Trading Pending Bu-Provisions

> Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Jan. 22.-Following the spurt near the close yesterday, wheat opened strong at %c advance for May, and before the middle of the session had advanced to 78%c. At that time the undertone was strong, with a tendency to go still higher before the close of the day's trading. A strike in Argentine, and unfavorable weather are responsible for the strength in wheat, which strength was further acentuated by the falling off in the movement. The pit crowd was early in the market, with good buying orders, while the visible supply decreased 839,000 bushels. Corn was stronger, being influenced by the strength of wheat, notwith-standing the visible supply increased

773,000 bushels. A strong outside demand caused the market to make further advances and the high level was maintained till near the close. The visible supply of oats increased by 326,000 busnels, but a brisk demand from local shorts and an increased export demand caused prices to hold firm, with the opening, and even to reach a higher level. Provisions opened about steady, but lack of public support caused them to weaken soon after the opening, and trading became stagnant, Those who had holdings taken at the advance in anticipation of further bullish conditions, were unwilling to unload at the 5c loss sustained by the middle of the session and offerings of pork products

NEW YORK COTTON HOLDS STEADY

reau Report

Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. - Futures opened 1 or 2 points above yesterday's close, and the early market displayed a strong undertone. Liverpool cables came in about as expected, 1d to 2d up. while spots were 7 lower at 5.79d on sales of only 7,000 bales. Following the opening the market began to ease off in spite of the bullish figures expected to be issued by the national ginners, and confidence began to decline owing to a falling off in spot business, both in Liverpool and on this side. The latest estimate of the amount ginned to January 16 is 12,046,000 bales. While these figures, which are an indication of a large crop, are considered bullish, this is accounted for only by the increased demand for cotton products. The next visible report is expected to show much larger mill takings than that shown in the last report for the reason that the stocks on hand of a desirable grade are insufficient for the contracted output of both the European mills and those in America, while Japan and China are making inquiries for cotton of better spinnable grades. Many of the English mills are said to have sold their products as far ahead as April and May of next year, and it is rumored that the supply on hand will not carry them thru till the opening of another season.

The workings of the Southern legislature is causing some concern among the talent, and the development of a spirit of conciliation in New York, other than in the cotton markets during a period of stagnation, left the rings alone pretty much all day. Some commotion was impelled in the local crowd by the issuing of notices for a limited lot of cotton, while room operators conjecturing that with a demand for desirable grades yet unfilled, existing price levels do not warrant the tender of any cotton that anybody at this particular time has any use for. Consequently some liquidation of long interests gave the semblance of activity to the local ring just when graveyard silence was making the crowd feel creepy. There was nothing thruout the greater part of the day's operations to cause a change of opinion either way.

At this time there are strong indications that the foreign demand is supplied, while f. o. b. basis has gone back some. Good middling was trad-

BULLISH BUREAU REPORT EXPECTED

Narrow Market Follows Ginners' Estimate

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 22.—The opening of the New Orl eans cotton market was about unchanged from yesterday's closing quotations, and nothing developed early in the session to cause any particular change of front. The fact that the national ginners' report, showing the amount of cotton ginned to January 16 will be issued at 1 p. m. tomorrow, and the further fact that that document is expected to be bullish, caused some stagnation in the early trading, tho the tendency was to work to a little higher level, and following its opening call, the market became dull and quiet, with very little doing. Those who bought on former declines are holding for an anticipated advance. The government census, which is to be issued tomorrow, is expected to be under 12,-100,000 bales, or very near the figures of the national ginners, in which event it can be nothing but bullish. There was a steady buying demand, but offerings even few under the present conditions. Many locals expect an advance of from 10 to 25 points tomorrow. The report of the semi-weekly receipts at Bombay, of American cotton was 52,000 against the same amount received at the same date last year. Private advices from Liverpool state that Ellison estimates the consumption of American cotton for the coming year at 12,371,000 bales.

Hogs $6.70; Cattle $5.25, and Calves $5.50

The market opened with a fairly liberal run of cattle in the pens. Close to ninety cars were in early, with about fifty cars reported back. Steers made up fair portion of the supply. The trade opened slow, but prices held firm on this class. Butcher stock composed the bulk of the supply, with the quality good. Trading in this division opened active on a steady to strong basis. Supplies of calves were moderate. Best light vealers sell fully steady. Common mixed calves sell slow and lower.

Moderate supplies of hogs came in for Tuesday's market. Twelve loads were in for the early market with several trains still to be heard from, The supply was mostly from Texas points and, while the general quality was fair, offerings included a good many common to medium light and mixed loads. Trading ruled active and at a shade higher with tops selling at $6.70. Tuesday's Receipts

THREE SUITS FOR DAMAGES FILED

R. S. Hays Sues Denver Road for $20,000

Three damage suits for personal injuries alleged to have been inflicted in railway accidents were filed in the district court and one of the suits was accompanied by an agreed judgment. The latter is the suit D. H. Swartz as next friend vs. Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway Company in Texas, for the killing of John Swartz, the photographer, near the city last year. The suit is for the benefit of Jennie, C. H. and Louise May Swartz, the widow and children. The judgment is for $1,000, it is to be divided and held in trust until a guardian is appointed. The decree of judgment recites that as Jennie Swartz has her mind impaired, a guardian is also necessary in her case as well as for the minor children. R. S. Hays sues the Fort Worth & Denver for $20,000. He alleges that November 30, last, he was riding on one of the defendant's trains between Wichita Falls and Henrietta and by a collision with some obstruction on the tracks, he was thrown violently forward against a seat of the car he was in with such force as to break the seat and seriously injure him internally. T. J. Bryant sues the Northern Texas Traction Company for $10,000, alleging that January 13 he was on a Polytechnic Heights car and, attempting to alight after he had notified the conductor, and the signal to stop had been given, the car was again started, his foot caught in a crack in the steps and he was thrown and dragged for twenty yards or more. He alleges permanent injuries.

County Court At the meeting of the county commissioner's court Monday sundry claims were passed and road and bridge matters considered. There is a petition and a counter petition in relation to the independent school district of Rosen Heights. The controversy grows out of the recent incorporation of the town as to how that incorporation shall or shall not affect the school district. The time for the semi-annual meeting of the Texas County Judges' and commissioners' Association, February 6 and 7 was suggested and that the court should take proper action. Proper committees of arrangements, entertainment, soliciting, reception, etc., were appointed to prepare for the meet-

Seventeenth District Court In the Seventeenth district court the criminal docket is on and three weeks of the term is alotted to that docket. Albertas Green, theft, plea of guilty; ten years in the penitentiary. Ed Williams, theft from the person applied for a continuance. Further argument was adjourned to 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Forty-Eighth District Court W. O. Millican et al. vs. William Evans et al., partition; on trial.

County Court In the county court the jury civil docket was taken up Tuesday morn-J. Newton, theft; plea of guilty and punishment assessed at fine of $10 and ten days in jail. Probate Court application for temporary administration granted and Morgan Bryan appointed temporary administrator, with bond in the sum of $500, Estate of Claud Ellis, minor, application for letters of guardianship applied for by J. P. Ellis.

Mrs. F. T. Hooper

Mrs. Frances T. Hooper, mother of Dr. Hooper, died at his home 313 Vickery boulevard, Glenwood on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. She had been suffering from an attack of pneumonia for almost a year and death came from the effects of the disease.

Mrs. Hooper would have been 67 years of age at her next birthday in May, and has resided in this city with Dr. Hooper for the past five years, coming here from Atlanta, Texas. Mrs. Hooper was born in Georgia.

She was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star, retaining her membership in the Bright Star, Ark., lodge. The body will be taken to Atlanta Texas, for interment on the eastbound Texas & Pacific train Tuesday night at 6 o'clock and will be accompanied by relatives.

ADVERTISING STUNT

Thousands of Postals Were Mailed to School Children The advertising agent of Maud Fealy, who is soon to appear in Fort Worth, has hit on a new advertising job that promises to bear good fruit. Monday there was distributed by the Fort Worth letter carriers hundreds of postal cards addressed to school children in Fort Worth, and on the reverse was a good picture of the actress, Maud Fealy. These postal cards have created a hubbub in Fort Worth family circles and the young people who received them are wondering how Miss Fealy knew them; and every one of the children who received these postal cards with the picture of the actress have demanded of their parents that they be given tickets to the opera house when she appears there. The children are all mightily pleased at this recognition, and they all want to see Maud Fealy who sent them her picture from New

FELL FROM WAGON

Negro Badly Injured on South Main

John Wharton, a negro, was badly injured Tuesday morning by falling from his wagon on South Main street one of his arms being broken by the wagon wheels passing over it; besides he was injured internally.

The accident was caused by the negro falling asleep as he drove along the street. The wagon wheels struck a rough place, jolting Wharton from his seat and he fell immediately in front of the front wheels, which passed

WILL PAVE THE STREETS

A scant half hour was the time given to the business transacted by the city council at the regular session

Monday evening. The reading of the minutes was dispensed with; everything that could be postponed was postponed; and the rest of the business was hurried thru that a couple of aldermen who wished to go to Austin by the night train might get away. At least that is the expla-nation given later and it is a fact that Probably the most important matters before the council were the provision made for paving Throckmorton and Monroe streets between certain limits and the resolution of Alderman Cook looking to more decency in hauling the refuse, garbage, etc., thru the city streets, providing for a license for scavengers, garbage haulers, etc., requiring they be placed under a $1,000 bond each. The bid of the Texas Printing Company for printing the new Powell and Williams code was accepted. When the council was called to order a few minutes after the usual hour, 7:30, Aldermen Lehane, Zurn and Harrold failed to answer the roll call. Alderman Zurn came in before any business had been done of any importance. The report of the finance committee recommending the issuance of a warrant for the payment of $18,405.09 interest on water works bonds and for another of $12,000 in payment of sewer certificates adopted. The same committee reported that they had been unable to effect a final settlement of the cost for the repairs made to the Seventh street bridge.

While this matter was pending Aldermen Ward and Waggoman and City Marshal Maddox were excused from further attendance of the meeting after the name of Alderman Lehane had been added in the motion, the latter being absent from the city. The petition for paving of parts of Throckmorton and Monroe streets between Seventh and Eighth streets and Jackson street was referred to the street- and alley committee and the city engineer, with power to act when the interested property holders had signed for their proportion of the cost of paving. Bids are to be advertised. The council at 8 o'clock adjourned.

Agriculturist Has Finally Decided to Go in "Cahoots" With the Union

Special to The Telegram.

Laboring Man

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 22.-With delegates from all Southern and Southwestern states in attendance, the Farmers' Educational and Co-Operative Union is holding in Atlanta today a general convention which may go down in history as marking a distinct. epoch in the life of the nation. At today's meeting there are represented a million farmers of the Southland, organized and powerful, determined to cast off once and forever the chains of the boodling politicians, the grafters and the speculators. Never before in the history of the world has an agptcularual organization faced the future with fairer prospects, and if promise meets fulfillment the money changers of the nation will soon be scourged from the temple and the tillers of the soft will at last come into their own. Charles S. Barrett of Atwater, Ga., is the executive head of this great body of farmers and his annual address will be a feature of the convention. Other speakers who have been engaged are John Temple Graves and Hon. Tom Watson, who will deliver Delegates From Many States Nearly all the presidents and secretaries of the twelve state organizations are here, as are the members of the union's executive board, including W. S. Miller, of Texas; Campbell Russell, of Indian Territory; W. A. Morris, of Alabama; James Butler, of Kansas, and I. N. McCollister of Louisiana. R. H. McCullough, of Bisbee, Ark., is national secretary of the union. Other delegatse include the members of the Farmers' Union Press Association, of which Ben L. Griffin, of Conway, Ark., is president, a large number of county officers and other prominent members of union workers from all parts of

During the convention plans for the work of the coming year will be thoroly discussed and arrangements will be made for the prosecution of a more vigorous campaign than ever. The delegates are not content to rest with laurels won. Having reached the milfion mark in membership, the leaders in the movement believe that with the influence and power now possessed by the union, the membership can be increased within the next year to 4,000;-000, or nearly half of the entire farming population of the country. Western and northern agricultural states will be invaded by the union organizers and an attempt will be made to make the society national in its scope.

Spirit of Co-Operation

Plans will also be considered for conserving and increasing the spirit of co-operation already existing between the union farmers and the organized workmen in other lines of industry, This spirit of co-operation and unity of interests with the laborers of the shops and mines is one of the unique features of the Farmers' Union and distinguishes it from the agricultural bodies of former times, whose sole object was to force down prices of the commodities they purchased. The leaders of the present movement have realized that the laborer is worthy of his hire, whether he works on a farm or in a factory, and the appreciation of this fact has been one of the chief causes of its success. To secure better prices for farm products and to cut out the profits of the middlemen have been the objects of the union and in both it has been successful.

Farmers and Laborers Agree No organization in the country is conducted along more business like lines than the Farmers' Union. The old order of things, as advocated by the Grange and Farmers' Alliance, is a thing of the past. The economic theory that the higher the wages of workingmen the higher prices they can pay for the products of the farm and the more they will consume has been proved valid and the farmer and the laborer have been brought together by the strong bond of material interests and financial welfare. The farmers no longer "cuss the unions," as in the days gone by. Their supposed enemy has been found to be a friend and from him they have learned many valuable The interests of the farmer and the laborer are identical-this is the lesson that has been taught and learned by both. What consequences t may have in the immediate future, when millions of men, bound together by the ties of mutual interest, will practically control the political destinies of the country, are not difficult to con octure. Partisan politics is forbidden in the meetings of the unions and the political policy is that of the American Federation of Labor-to vote for the friends of labor against its enemies. This policy has already resulted in much legislation favorable to the interests of the farmers and laborers. In the new state of Oklahoma, which is well represented by delegates at the present convention, the Farmers' Union played a notable part in the election of delegates to the constitutional convention which is now making a constitution. Within the course of a few years it is likely that the union will be the greatest political power in all the GUANTANAMO, Cuba, Jan. 21.—The United States battleship Missouri has arrived here from Kingston. It was stated today that Governor Swettenham held up Saturday night dispatches from Kingston regarding the letter to Rear Admiral Davis, requesting him to re-embark American marines who had been landed to assist in relief work ashore. Just previous to the departure of the American warships, the mayor and city council of Kingston sent a petition to Admiral Davis, begging him to remain and the relief committee, headed by Archbishop Hubball, threatened to resign. When the American surgeons left the hospital the patients wept and begged them and the American warships to stay and the Red Cross nurses declared the governor's action in causing the Americans to withdraw was nothing short of criminal.

BRING GOOD HEALTH Dr. William' Pink Pills, Used After the Grip, Arrest Fatal Decline and

Rebuild the System. Any bodily weakness caused by a deficiency in the blood can be cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills because these pills actually make new blood. After attacks of the grip the blood is generally run down and the patient continues to decline.

"About three years ago," says Mrs. Jennie Cowan, of 718 N. Henry Street, West Bay City, Mich., "I caught a severe cold, which ran into the grip. I was confined to my bed for two weeks. At the end of that time I was able to be about, but was completely run down. I was so weak I could hardly stand, my cheeks had no color and I felt faint. My heart would flutter and it was difficult for me to broathe at times. Neuralgia settled in the back of my head and stomach and I suffered from rheumatism in my shoulders.

"I had the care of the best doctor. in town but became no better until a friend told me one day how she had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to try them. I soon felt better and continued using them until I was entirely cured. They balk me up again to perfect healthand I use them now whenever I feel at all sick and they always help me." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are invalunable in such cases, as well as in other bood diseases, because they not only drive off the germs of the disease but build up the system. The pills have cured anaemia, rheumatism, after-effects of fevers, neuralgia and many other severe disorders.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Accept Proposition by Dallas

Camp

Lee camp, United Sons of Confederate Veterans, had an interesting meeting Sunday and took favorable action on the proposition submitted by A. L. Cabell camp of Dallas for a competitive drill under Hardie tactics between Dallas and Fort Worth teams for the benefit of the Woman's Home to be established at Austin. Commander J. A. Kee presided at the meeting and after the routine meeting the following applicants for membership were elected: W. J. Robin-Daniels and C. M. Carter. Jeff .D Reagan, historian of W. L. Cabell camp, Dallas, and C. H. Reed, first lieutenant commander of the same camp, being present, were invited to seats on the platform and Mr. Reagan addressed the camp, submitting the plan of the competitive drill between Dallas and Fort Worth teams. The proposition was indorsed by the camp and the following committee was appointed to take care of the matter: Professor Cullin Grimes, Clint Barr, Charles Evans, W. R. Booth and W. S.

This committee will co-operate with a similar committee appointed by the Dallas camp_and also with a committee appointed by the Veterans. A membership committee was appointed as follows: E. M. Daggett, J.

Porter Key and W. S. Jarrett, The camp then adjourned to escort Messrs, Reagan and Ried to the parent camp, where they were cordially received and where they stated the object of their visit to Fort Worth, and secured the indorsement of the veterans. The Sons will meet again Sun-

SHOWMAN DIED IN FORT WORTH

Body Is Held Here Awaiting Instructions

Dr. O. M. Crosby, an itinerent doctor whose business was to travel with road shows, do the work of a spieler and sell medicines, was arrested by the police on a charge of drunkenness Sunday night was released Monday morning, fellato the street in the after-noon and died at the police headquarters Tuesday morning just after midnight.

But little is known of the man in Fort Worth-nothing in fact beyond what he told himself and had written in a book found on him. He had been in the city but a few days and was arrested at the Santa Fe depot in an intoxicated condition and locked up until Monday morning, when he was released. Monday afternoon he fell to the street at the corner of Jennings avenue and Jackson street and was taken in an unconscious condition to police headquarters. He was attended by Dr. Lyman A. Barber, city physician, who gave as his opinion that the man was suffering from hemorrhage of the brain, caused by excessive use of alcohol. The man lingered until about 1 a, m. Tuesday and died. On the person of the dead man was found a memorandum book in which was a written statement, telling who he was. It follows:

"My name is Dr. O. M. Crosby. My sister lives in Sycamore, Ill. I am a showman. Write to showman's paper, the Billboard, Cincinnati, Ohio, about me. My sister's name is Lehpa Jennes, Sycamore, Ill. In case anything happens to me, notify the Billboard and the Clipper of New York, and my sister. "DR. O. M. CROSBY."

Before being released from the calaboose Monday the man told Sergeant Connelly that he was a professional spieler traveling with big shows and besides that he was a licensed physician and had traveled all+around the globe. The remains are in charge of L. P. Robertson, who is holding them for instructions from the dead man's sister, who has been notified of his

EIGHT-CLUB LEAGUE

Ben Shelton Has Been Successful in Rounding Out Octette

An eight-club league has almost been assured for Texas this coming season, according to the report of Ben Shelton, who was authorized to see the people of Temple and Cleburne and find out whether an eight-team league could be secured at one or the other of the places. At first he was received very coldly by the fans of Temple, but a telegram has been received by President Robbie of the Texas League from Shelton, which announces his success there. In this case Waco will also come in and will make four teams in North Texas as well as South Texas. W. H. Ward, owner of the Fort Worth franchise, was seen Monday afternoon and he said that while he had not received any official information that Temple would be in the league, he was almost sure that it was correct and that the eight clubs were

John Boem, commercial agent for the Texas and Pacific railroad at Denton, is in Fort Worth. He is probably the oldest man in point of continuous service in the employ of the road today Away back when the great Texas railroad was known as the Transcontinental, and when its western terminus was at Hallville, Harrison county, John Boem was in the land department of the road as right of way agent under Land Commissioner Abrams, and remained right of way man until he was made commercial agent at Denton, some years back. He has been continuously in the service of the Texas and Pacific for over a quarter of a century and has literally grown gray

LADY BUG MAY SAVE WHEAT CROP

A. F. Conradi Writes to H. B. Dorsey

That the wheat crop will be saved from the ravages of the green bug by the widely known lady bug is the opinion of A. F. Conradi, state entomologist, who has written a letter to H. B. Dorsey, secretary of the Texas Grain Dealers' Association. A letter was written not long ago by J. A. Hughes of Howe, Texas, to Professor Sanborn at College Station, concerning the ravages of the green bug at Howe, which has been answered as above by A. F. Conradi. In speaking of the matter Mr. Conradi says that he has no doubt that the predaceous lady bugs have scattered on account of the warm weather and are eating the green bugs rapidly. altho he says that he would not lay too much stress on the work of the lady bug at this season of the year. If he is eating plant lice now, he will re-enter hibernation with the next norther, which may come at any mo-

In speaking of the efficiency of the lady bug, Mr. Conradi says: "I thoroly believe that with the proper manipulation of these predaceous insects the green bug can be controlled and furthermore believe that it is the only method in sight by which the pest can be kept under control."

FIND NEW DANGER IN THE COCKTAIL

Maraschino Chermes Violate Pure Food Law

"The cocktail is a pleasant drink, Mild and harmless, I don't think. Last night at 12 I felt immense; Today I feel like thirty cents." -"Sultan of Sulu."

At last the cause for the terribleness of the cocktail has been discovered by the pure food inspectors of Kansas City, and they have decreed that the trouble lies not so much (possibly) in the drink as in the single ingredient added to make it look pleas-

The hitherto considered perfectly harmless Maraschino cherry will probably be added to the number of "hasbeens," for it is dangerous, according to the results published by Dr. W. P. Cutler, food inspector at Kantas City. Unless there are changes in the manner of sale of the said cherries, trouble promised as the word adulterated will have to be added to all bottles containing anything but the real cherry, and they are numberless.

Not only will the man who steps up to the bar and orders a cocktail or even the one who sits at his table and sips it, have to beware, but the young school miss who ordered a "cherry sundae" will have to change her habits. If one wants to be precise, the order shall be "A little coal tar, flavored with peppermint," or "A little wild cherry flavoring, doctored with amyl.

Of course by this it is not considered that all Maraschino cherries will have to be tabooed. Far from it, as an investigation of the subject will show that there are lots of fine cherries in the city which will not be touched by the pure food law.

Maraschino cherries, or rather those labeled as such, have been examined, and in many cases found to be something different from red or green cherries. Maraschino is a pure and exquisite preservant and when added to cherries makes a tempting and sought-after morsel by high livers. It is a tasteful and soothing addition to mixed drinks, and creams, ices, cakes and confections and large quantities of the cherries, so-called, are used.

In making the adulterated cherries they are flavored with menthol and colored with aniline, which is a product of coal tar. Others are flavored with extract of wild cherry and dyed with nitric amyl. Of course they are expensive, and on this account few people eat enough of the cherries to suffer terrible consequences, but the cherries are violations of the pure food law and will undoubtedly be taken up and looked after by the officers in charge of that work.

Anniversary Observance by Rev. and Mrs. George W. Ray Rev. George W. Ray and wife, having reached the twenty-fifth milestone in their happy married life, were pleasantly reminded of the fact Monday evening in the way of a reception and anniversary observance at the First Congregational church, given by the members of the congregation. The crowning feature of the evening was the presentation of an elegant silver dish, in which were seventyfive shining silver dollars of the 1907 coinage; as one of the members of the congregation expressed it, "a happy married life of twenty-five years is worth three dollars a year, at any rate." In well chosen words, Rev. George Evans of Dallas extended the gift in behalf of the congregation, and in pleasant reminiscence unfolded a life replete with kind acts, noble ambitions and deserving success. During the evening the Misses Wright and Ray rendered pleasing vocal selections.

AT BRENTWOOD

Mrs. L. C. Carpenter Lovingly Called Grandma by All Who Know Her

This remarkable lady accomplishes a feat that many younger women might be proud of and is loud in her praise of the Hot Springs Doctors. Her testimonial follows: "I have been taking treatment from the Hot Springs doctors only two weeks, but they have made me feel much better. It has been three years since I have been able to bend my right knee, but after two weeks' treatment under the Hot Springs Doctors it does not look or feel like the same knee. I can bend it easily now and the pain is gone. I am 78 years old and last week I did a week's washing, quilted a quilt and made four pounds of butter, all in four days.

"GRANDMA L. C. CARPENTER." Hundreds of cured patients are sending letters of congratulation on their speedy recovery, and every mail brings glad tiding to these wonderful specialists of some grateful sufferer who had all but given up hope and is now well, thanks to the Hot Springs Doctors and their wonderful remedies. These gentlemen certainly have established an enviable reputation and are the most talked of doctors in the state of Texas. Callers at their offices at 900 Houston street know that if they can be cured they will be told so, and if not their case will not be accepted.
