Safety Head Says "Don't Trust The Other Driver"

"Never trust the other driver." In these words, a bulletin of the Texas Safety Association warned Texans to be on their driving guard against the unpredictable behavior of pedestrians and other drivers.

"It isn't enough to obey the law and mind your own business," the bulletin reads. "You have a moral responsibility to prevent an accident if you can—even if the other fellow is at fault."

A few of "the other fellows" more common blunders were listed as being:

- Failure to heed a stop sign or sneaking across on the yellow light.
- Making a turn from the wrong traffic lane.
- Failure to signal a turn, or giving the wrong signal.
- Stopping suddenly (of course, this won't bother you if you're not too close).
- Trying to pass on a curve, hill or other no-passing zone.
- Traffic weaving and double parking.

Drivers were also warned to watch for pedestrians who are foolish enough to jay-walk, get out of a vehicle on the street side, walk along the road at night and wearing dark clothing, or for children playing near the street.

"How does Your Soil Rate?" is the title of a new Extension Service publication which is aimed at giving readers a better understanding of the limitations and capabilities of their most valuable basic resource—soil. Copies may be obtained from local county agents or the Agricultural Information Office, College Station.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Balkum and family and Mrs. Arthur Gray and Randy of San Angelo spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Balkum.

Now . . . ! More and Better Telephone Service for You

A Message to Present and Prospective Patrons of the Kizer Telephone Co.

The meaning of that telegram and the story behind it—a most significant event in the history of telephone service to this area—are:

This week we received the following telegram: "Loan Approved. $545,000.00. Documents Being Forwarded. David A. Hamil, Rural Electrification Administration, Washington, D. C."

Three years ago the telephone system which served Rising Star and Cross Plains and their areas was a model system—OF FIFTY YEARS AGO! The old hand-ringer, inagneto type equipment served very well in the horse and buggy days, but its efficiency was far, far too inadequate for modern demands. The community suffered for the lack of the swift, efficient service which it was impossible to give with the outmoded type of equipment then existing.

From the moment we took over the ownership and operation of the telephone systems in Rising Star and Cross Plains, the Kizer Telephone Company planned and worked to transform the old plant into the most modern and efficient system possible.

To do so meant junking almost the entire plant, and the investment of hundreds of thousands of dollars in new automatic dial equipment and the plant necessary to operate such equipment.

Believing firmly in the fact that a community stands or falls by its communication system, and vice versa, the Kizer Telephone Company went ahead with its ambitious and costly program. To do so required an increase in rates corresponding to the increase in service rendered. But the community, in a progressive, forward-looking spirit, went along with the company, and granted the increased rates which, we are proud to say, are less than those required for similar improvements in many other communities.

The Kizer Telephone Company made a contract with the Stromberg-Carlson company to install an automatic dial system. As was necessary, the old lines and poles were replaced. An entirely new plant composed of automatic, electronic equipment by which subscribers could make their own local calls without operator assistance, was installed in the place of the old manually operated switchboards.

Every subscriber received a new dial tele-home in the place of the old ringer. Two years ago service was cut over into the new and in an instant, telephone service in Rising Star and Cross Plains and their areas jumped half a century ahead. Not even the city of Dallas had a more modern telephone system than the community served by the Kizer Telephone system.

The wonderful efficiency of the new service demonstrated itself immediately, and customer satisfaction proved that the small increase in rates necessary to amortize the big investment required was more than worth the cost. No longer was it necessary to ring an overburdened operator and wait for sometimes long periods until she could answer and make the desired connection. The customer simply dialed the desired number directly and made instant connection, and when the call was finished the connection was instantly and automatically broken simply by replacing the receiver.

The improved service resulted in the expected big increase in subscribers, and as each new connection was made the value of the service to each subscriber was increased because more and more people and businesses could be quickly contacted by telephone.

But the modernization of the system was only the first step in the program which the Kizer Telephone Company had in mind for increasing the service it wished to render to its area.

A second and equally important part of that program was to reach out and give efficient service to areas which had been denied telephone service under the old system. By doing so it would increase the "reach" of the social and commercial influence of the communities served and give vital communication means to families in rural areas and other communities which were either without service or handicapped by old-fashioned systems.

But the financing available for such an expansion was limited

It takes money—lots of money—to install the lines and equipment necessary to extend telephone service to outlying districts. The company was able to obtain financing for its modernization, but in order to increase the system, to carry service to the new areas and tie them into the Rising Star-Cross Plains community it was necessary to undertake a wholesale program of refinancing—in other words to borrow the money necessary to take up all previously incurred loans and provide sufficient funds for the extensions.

Fortunately, the REA, through its program of making possible extensions of modern services to rural areas, offered opportunity for such financing, and several months ago the Kizer Telephone Company began working upon a project to refinance and extend its system by application to the REA for the necessary loan.

The application required an extensive and complete survey of the company's operations, its proposed extensions and the opportunities for further development of its services. A competent firm of engineers was employed and a careful survey, evaluation and estimate was made.

This week, after months of work, the loan was approved and the way opened to give Rising Star and Cross Plains and outlying areas, the ultimate in modern telephone service.

Whether or not the communities will take the fullest advantage of the opportunity offered, depends upon the will of the people. At any rate there will be an extension of service to rural areas not now served, all of which means that the individual telephone, becomes more and more valuable to the subscriber because of the greater number of people who can be reached from his phone.

Funds are also available for tying both Cross Plains and Rising Star systems and all outlying areas served and to be served, into one compact and unified system, any subscriber of which may telephone any other subscriber without the payment of tolls as is now necessary when calls are made between the Cross Plains and Rising Star exchanges.

If this is done then every telephone subscriber in the two systems will have his toll-free service field doubled. He can then dial any phone in the entire district without calling the operator or paying a toll.

To do this will require a small increase in the subscriber rate, but it will more than offset any cost increase by the increase in toll-free service possible.

The two systems will not be integrated unless both communities wish it, but the value of the enlarged service cannot be over-estimated.

If done, it must be done while the money is available. It must be done now! If approved, it will make it possible for your telephone company to give the two communities the ultimate in modern telephonic communication service, and it will mean extending the commercial, social and cultural influence of our communities to the widest possible range.

Think what a convenience, what a wonderful thing it will be just to be able to pick up your telephone receiver and dial, toll-free, any other subscriber—business man, hospital, doctor, lawyer, minister, friend or relative with a telephone in the Kizer system, to get that connection instantly and talk as long as you wish without paying tolls!

That is the goal of the Kizer system in this program, to give you the best, widest and most economical telephone service possible. If you want that kind of service, it is ready for you!

For your information, the improvements made and planned by the Kizer system require an investment of more than half a million dollars! We are willing to assume that investment because we have faith in our people and in the future of this community!

Sincerely,
E. O. and Ralph Kizer

of 13 miles in some places.

Federal Civil Defense Administration has an initial grant of $1,000,000 to help restore community-owned facilities. More is being sought. One of FCDA's more pressing problems is helping rural residents decontaminate flooded wells and spray against insects that breed in standing water.

In all, some half-dozen state and federal agencies are working to salvage public buildings, roads, businesses and farms.

Farmers got a set-back, however, when federal officials refused to let them switch flooded acreage for higher land in the soil bank program. It means some will have unusable land they can't cultivate because it was previously allotted to the soil bank and other land, not in the soil bank, they can't plant either, because of flooding.

Even so, encouraging reports continue to come in from rural areas. First post-drought sales show grass-fattened cattle bringing higher prices. Small town bankers and business report people are daring to spend again in anticipation of good crops.

NAACP Program Limited.—The NAACP can continue to operate in Texas, but with clipped wings. Unless a high court reverses a Tyler district judge's ruling, NAACP will be permanently barred from all but "educational and charitable activities."

Suit to outlaw the organization in Texas was begun last year by former Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd. It has been carried on by the present staff under Atty. Gen. Will Wilson.

A temporary injunction issued by the Tyler court last fall halted all NAACP activity in the state. Present permanent injunction bans solicitation of lawsuits, and lobbying, in violation of state law. Court also ordered payment of back franchise taxes plus interest.

NAACP attorneys filed immediate notice of appeal.

Water Bill Filled.—A water storage buying proposal was down, and maybe out, after a 13-hour "discussion" by Sen. Otis Lock of Lufkin.

Lock's determined opposition meant several days delay on the measure at a time when delay often means death. Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas, sponsor, was so disgruntled he threatened to junk the whole water conservation program.

Proposal, if approved by the voters, would allow the state to issue bonds to purchase water storage space in federal reservoirs. Lock contended the plan would be so unpopular with voters it would sink the whole water program at the polls. He objected on grounds it would be non-self-liquidating and would bring in federal controls.

Enough Said.—Senate apparently wants no more long talks on the segregation bills.

First such bill to come up brought on a record-breaking 36-hour fill-buster. But the second one was shoved through in minutes after a vote to shut off debate.

Passed was a bill to require local elections before schools can be integrated.

Last apparent hope of the segregation opponents now is that the bills will be referred to the attorney general and ruled unconstitutional. Atty. Gen. Will Wilson said he has made preparations to handle the bills promptly, if asked. Governor Daniel said he plans a thorough staff study of each bill before deciding whether to seek a ruling.

Better Pay Approved.—If voters consent, future legislators may avoid some of the financial pinch many complain of now.

Senate approved a House constitutional amendment providing for annual sessions and more pay. But it upped the House-suggested salary of $4,800 to $7,500 a year.

Present arrangement is $25 a day for 120 days. It totals $3,000 for two years unless a special session crops up. Since May 7, when the 120 days ran out, lawmakers have been on their own, moneymise.

Legislators' wives have been heard to speak bitterly of "going more in the hole every session." They cite cost of campaigns, two moves, high expenses in Austin, plus payments on house back home and "constant" telephone calls and trips to Austin between sessions to handle constituents' requests.

Concluded one wife from an extreme north Texas district: "I've put my foot down. This is our last term."

School Law Study.—A searching examination of Texas school problems, such as preceded the Gilmer-Aiken laws, has been proposed.

Resolutions introduced in both House and Senate said many districts are unable to provide teachers and buildings to keep up with the rapid increase in pupils. A 24-member committee to study needs and report to the 1959 session was recommended.

Committee would be made up of six appointees of the governor, six by the Board of Education and six each by the lieutenant governor and speaker of the House.

Short Shorts.—Texas will have 205 new lawyers after the Supreme Court holds swearing-in ceremonies May 18, for those who passed the Spring bar examination. . . . Fishing may cost more as a result of a House-passed bill raising the fishing license from $1.65 to $2.15. . . . Senate finally passed a controversial House bill which will enable cities to obtain federal aid for slum clearance and urban redevelopment. . . . As finally passed by both houses, the REA bill will allow co-ops to serve: (1) persons in rural areas where private power is not avail-

TYPICAL TORNADO funnel sweeps across the plains near Manhattan, Kan., located in the worst tornado belt in the world, according to Weather Bureau records. Twisters such as this have figured prominently in the total of 75 major natural disasters in which the Federal Civil Defense Administration has directed relief since FCDA got the job of coordinating Federal assistance in January 1953.

Time of the Twister

Springtime is tornado time. In the unstable transition from winter cold to summer heat, great masses of cold and warm air collide. When the heavier cold air is forced above the lighter warm air, funnels sometimes form to relieve the topsy-turvy situation. This is the twister.

SOME 800 TORNADOES boil up each year in the United States. When they strike, local civil defense and the Red Cross speed to the rescue.

Spring is the time for a special weather eye to the tornado-spawning southwest. Last year, for instance, every major tornado occurred between February and May. On one day—April 3—four giant twisters killed 36 persons, injured 415 and caused an estimated $13,760,000 damage.

There is no way to prevent a tornado. But early warning, proper precautions and speedy rescue of victims can save lives. In addition, disaster funds administered by the Federal Civil Defense Administration can provide emergency repairs and restoration of vital community facilities when Federal assistance is authorized by the President to augment State and local efforts.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Westerman and baby son, John, of Modesto, Calif., visited here Monday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack McCarty. Many residents of the Sabanno community, and also of Cross Plains, will remember Billy, the son of Mrs. Plaza Westerman of Rising Star. The Westerman family lived in the Sabanno community for many years, and Billy attended school here. He is now employed on the Modesto Daily News as assistant foreman of the composing room.

Medicine and A.A. Program

Is alcoholism really an illness? Members of Alcoholics Anonymous, a unique fellowship of more than 200,000 recovered alcoholics, seem to think it is. Perhaps more important, an increasing number of doctors in all branches of the medical profession appear to agree with them. More and more doctors, based on their own testimony at professional meetings and in print, are urging their problem-drinking patients to turn to A.A. and are themselves supporting the use of A.A. therapy in community and industrial health programs.

Medicine has been identified with A.A. since its beginning more than 20 years ago. The first doctor to associate himself with the ideas and techniques that later came to be identified as "the A.A. program" was Dr. William Duncan Silkworth of New York City. The time was 1934 and the place was a private hospital for alcoholics where Dr. Silkworth was the resident specialist.

Five years later in the book, "Alcoholics Anonymous," from which the informal society derived its name, Dr. Silkworth recalled his part in the birth and early growth of the young movement. He cited his experience with Bill W., one of the two co-founders of A.A., described as "a patient, who though he had been a competent business man of good earning capacity, was an alcoholic of a type I had come to regard as hopeless."

This "hopeless" patient had had an unusual experience while hospitalized for the third time under Dr. Silkworth's care. He had suddenly lost the persistent craving for alcohol which had dominated his life up to that time. And he had acquired the conviction that both he and other alcoholics could be helped if they tried to follow certain simple new patterns of living.

"This," wrote Dr. Silkworth, "has become the basis of a rapidly growing fellowship. . . . This man and over 160 others appear to have recovered. I personally know of scores of cases who were of the type with whom other methods had failed completely."

Then the man who came to be known by A.A.s as "the little doctor who loved drunks," added this prophetic note:

"These facts appear to be of extreme medical importance, because of the extraordinary possibilities of rapid growth inherent in this group they may mark a new epoch in the annals of alcoholism. These men may well have a remedy for thousands of such situations."

The co-founder of A.A. was a doctor, Dr. Bob S. of Akron, Ohio, an outstanding surgeon whose once-flourishing practice had dwindled to the vanishing point as a consequence of his irresponsible drinking. Bill W. met Dr. Bob in the Spring of 1935, at a time when the former's sobriety seemed threatened. With Dr. Bob's recovery, the two men worked together to help other alcoholics in the Akron area. Their efforts started a chain reaction, in the Ohio city and in New York, which has led to the formation of approximately 6,700 local groups in about 70 countries.

Historians have noted that Dr. Silkworth's early testimonial was unsigned. The A.A. approach was still novel in 1939. In many ways it challenged medical experience and theory. To a certain degree, Dr. Silkworth and other doctors who pioneered in working with A.A. risked their professional reputations by endorsing the new fellowship.

The first psychiatrist to study and apply "A.A. therapy" was Dr. Harry M. Tiebout of Greenwich, Conn., whose work in the field of alcoholism is known throughout the world. Dr. Tiebout's paper on the "Therapeutic Mechanism of Alcoholics Anonymous," originally prepared for the 1943 meeting of the American Psychiatric Association, was a milestone in growing medical understanding of A.A. For nearly two decades, through his professional practice and public writings, Dr. Tiebout has continued to be one of A.A.'s great friends in the medical field.

Medical recognition and understanding of A.A. was highlighted, in the 10 years following publication of the fellowship's textbook, by two significant addresses to formal assemblies of medical societies. Both papers were presented by Bill W., the co-founder. The first was delivered before the section on neurology and psychiatry of the Medical Society of the State of New York at its annual meeting in May, 1944. The second was read at the 165th annual meeting of the American Psychiatric Association at Montreal, Quebec, and reprinted in the American Journal of Psychiatry for November, 1949.

During and since that period many doctors have testified publicly to the impact of the A.A. program on their own approaches to the problem of alcoholism. Following are a few typical comments that have appeared in medical literature as the fellowship and its therapy have become better known.

Dr. Marvin A. Block of Buffalo, N. Y., chairman of the American Medical Association's sub-committee on alcoholism: "In co-operation with the physician, A.A. forms an indispensable adjunct to the treatment of alcoholics. . . ."

Dr. Karl Menninger of the world-famous Menninger Foundation, Topeka, Kan.: "I have the utmost respect for the work A.A. is doing, for its spirit, for its essential philosophy of mutual helpfulness. I lose no opportunity to express my endorsement publicly and privately where it is of any concern."

Dr. Merrill Moore, Boston, Mass.: "From the beginning I have believed strongly in Alcoholics Anonymous and have supported it as an indispensable member of the therapeutic team. The co-operation of Alcoholics Anonymous with physicians is also valuable and commendable."

As A.A. has grown it has become an important ally of many doctors who specialize in industrial and institutional fields.

The magnitude of the problem in the industrial field is suggested in studies indicating that there are between one and two million problem drinkers in American industry, about 30 cases per 1,000 workers.

A number of practical approaches, in which A.A. is a key element, have been developed. Such firms as E. I. duPont de Nemours, the Eastman Kodak Company, General Motors Corporation, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Consolidated Edison of New York, Pennsylvania Railroad, along with many smaller companies, have established programs which recognize that the alcoholic is basically a sick person. These programs are designed to give the worker a new awareness of his problem and to expose him to the experience of A.A. members who have coped successfully with the same problem.

There are A.A. groups in more than 230 medical institutions of all types in the United States, Canada and several countries overseas. These facilities range from small convalescent homes to large Veterans Administration hospitals. They include prison hospitals and facilities designed to help particular types of patients, such as those undergoing treatment for tuberculosis, or pa-

CARD OF THANKS

For loving help and sympathy shown us by so many friends at our time of grief, we would like to express our gratitude. We were indeed comforted by your kindness.
S. M. GREGG FAMILY.

CARD OF THANKS

I sincerely thank the many friends in the Cross Plains community who were so kind to me during my recent convalescence period in the Rising Star Hospital.

Your cards, visits, flowers and gifts were truly appreciated, and made my hospital stay more pleasant.

May you have many thoughtful friends in your time of need, is my wish.
MRS. DAN McCARTY.

Mrs. Jack Scott and Mrs. O. B. Edmondson were Abilene visitors Friday.

Mrs. A. C. Billingsley had as visitors during the week end her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Donnell of Newcastle and another brother, Frank Donnell of Albany.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Drew I. Hill and Mrs. Verna Mae Ramsey during the week-end were Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Hill of Socorro, N. M.; Mr. and Mrs. V. M. Hill of Fort Worth and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Walker of Abilene.

Visiting in the home of Mrs. T. M. Davis and Myrtle Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. Royce Newcomb, Mrs. Bertha Newcomb and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Barton, all of Brownwood; Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Warnock and daughter, May, and Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Davis and family, Colorado City.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Wright and little son of Abilene were visiting here during the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Wright. Mrs. Wright and son remained in Cross Plains the first of the week as the flood waters in Abilene had streets closed to their home, however, the water did not reach their house.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cox entertained with a fish fry at their home here Tuesday night. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Jess Dunlap, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Acker, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cox, Mr. and Mrs. James Yarbrough and daughter, Edwin Johnson, Arthur Strickland and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Thompson.

FROM THE EARTH "ALL THINGS COME"

From all over the world agents of pharmaceutical research organizations are sending back thousands of different samples of earth. They are collected from back yards, forests, jungles, farms, etc.

Millions of dollars are spent to analyze them, with the hopeful wish that a better antibiotic may be discovered. Perhaps even cancer may be cured some day by something from the earth.

One thing we do know. New medicines are being perfected rapidly, and as soon as they are approved for safe use, we stock them in our pharmacy.
