Terraclor May Control Southern Peanut Blight

Southern blight of peanuts is one of the major problems in the production of peanuts in Texas. Losses from the disease may vary from a trace to almost complete failure.
The recent trend toward the irrigation of peanuts has magnified the problem in some sections of the State. Control measures are hampered by the nature of the disease and the difficulty of applying fungicides to the affected portions of the peanut plant.
A method to control southern blight of peanuts with chemicals has been attempted in Texas for several years under greenhouse and field conditions. But it was not until Terraclor was used as a control that field testing with fungicides started showing promising results.
Major field tests with Terraclor and other chemicals started in Texas in 1956 by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. They were conducted on various soil types and under a wide range of conditions. In one of the tests in which Terraclor was mixed in the soil in the bed prior to planting, the incidence of southern blight was significantly reduced, with a disease index of 3.5 compared with 7.5 in the check plot. A disease index of zero meant no disease, and an index of nine denotes severe infection.
In tests in 1957, Terraclor gave a significant increase in grades for both irrigated and non-irrigated peanuts. An average increase of $74.30 per acre from two rates, 18 and 36 pounds per acre, was received over the check plots, however, the cost of the application (it costs $1 per pound of active ingredient) must be subtracted to get net increase.
Although Terraclor looks promising, it is not yet recommended except on an experimental basis. More tests and evaluations are necessary.
More information on Terraclor may be obtained by ordering Progress Report 2014, "Terraclor for the Control of Southern Blight of Peanuts," from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

Dear editor:
I was sitting out here on my farm yesterday afternoon not doing a thing, that is, it may have looked like I wasn't doing anything but actually I was building up my resistance, as I understand the Secretary of Commerce in Washington has said one solution for business people to get out and do a better job of selling, and if they do any better than they've already done I don't see how some people are going to meet their payments.

According to it, the reason this mild recession, and that's all I suspect it is, has hit this country is because "the people lost confidence and started to salt money away."
Now this may be absolutely right, I don't know, maybe salting money away is unconfident and will bring

1958 Official Highway Maps Now Available

AUSTIN.—It's here! It's new! It's free! The Texas Highway Department today released the big, new 1958 Official Highway Travel Map. Maps may be obtained by writing the Texas Highway Department, Austin 14, Texas, or at the Highway District Offices and Travel Information Bureaus. County tax offices have map cards available for requesting copies of the map.

The Official Highway Travel Map is used by all state and governmental agencies in Texas for determining highway distances, mileages, zones and life information. The same map is used by Texas tourists seeking roads to recreational and historical attractions throughout the state. The reverse side of the map reflects in full color some of the outstanding scenic and recreational facilities in Texas.

Texas' new 1958 travel map is the answer to today's demand for more and more travel information. The steady growth of Texas from a state with a population of slightly over seven million just ten years ago to its present estimated population of more than nine million is reflected by the information shown.

The number of cities and towns indicated on the 1948 map was 567. Today there are 1,812—an increase of 1,245. State and U. S. highways have been increased by 2,026 miles, and farm-to-market roads from 620 miles to 17,126 miles—a 16,506-mile increase. The map reflects a total of 43,292 miles of highways.

Roadside parks, long cherished by Texas highway users, were not shown on the 1948 map. Today 1,026 roadside parks are pinpointed as pleasant stopping places. Divided highways also show a startling jump in the ten-year period. In 1948 there were 110 miles of divided roads shown. Now there are 1,007 miles marked on the map with the black bands and red center indicating divided highway miles.

BONDS OF PEACE

IN THE TWENTIETH century evolution of patriotic citizens' investment in their government, came our Liberty Bonds.

We maintained our liberty. And we had our War Bonds. We won our war.

And our Defense Bonds financed a Freed World Arsenal.

This has been a continuing, crescendo voicing of national confidence and a source of both national and international strength.

In an era when the nation faces more and swifter changes in an inconsistent world, the need now is to maintain Peace Power—the money and the strong economy to pay the costs of peace.

What once were Liberty Bonds—or War Bonds—or Defense Bonds may rightly be dubbed "Peace Bonds."

YET THROUGH THIS evolution, there has been one constant factor. All the bonds have been Savings Bonds, providing for the individual an opportunity to lay aside some money in regular amounts, however small; for his money to earn interest; for the average citizen to make secure investments which, at the same time, build security for himself and for his country.

The individual grasped this opportunity. January sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds were the best of any for the preceding 24 months. The combined sales of $510 million were 10 per cent above those for January of 1957.

February sales were 13 per cent above those of a year ago, and for the first month since July of 1956, sales exceeded redemptions.

But yesterday's money does not preserve tomorrow's peace power. Savings Bonds now accumulated for that dream home or a child's college education will never fulfill their purpose if an atomic bomb should leave a gaping hole where a home stands, or if hydrogen warfare turns colleges into rubble.

PEACE COSTS MONEY to maintain.

Peace and the preservation of national and individual liberty, more important than mere physical security, cost money.

This is now the thesis of a national Savings Bond campaign.

Purchase of more Savings Bonds—more "Peace Bonds"—can provide for the individual's future—and provide assurance that he, and all the rest of us, will have a future.

State Capital NEWS

By Vern Sanford

Tex.—If you drive a car, you will be a good year to than-ever attention to drive it.

Gov. Price Daniel's "Tex-80" highway program will be on indistinguishable practices as never before.

and drunken drivers will be a target.

Gov. Daniel is heading a drive to mobilize all the state's resources to combat the threat of disaster.

Annual loss of life and property in traffic accidents is estimated at $1 billion.

It's up to every Texan, said the governor, to "accept traffic safety as a do-it-yourself project."

TOWARD SAFER ROADS—An important arm of the anti-accident campaign is a $43,000,000 program to rebuild some hazardous spots in the highway system.

Governor Daniel and State Highway Engineer DeWitt Greer formed a committee to study the problem of violations, especially drunken driving and speeding.

Last year 2,539 persons were killed in traffic accidents and 122,000 were injured. Even so, 1957 ratio was down—from 6.5 deaths per 100 million miles in 1956 to 6 deaths per 100 million miles in 1957.

Department of Public Safety Director Homer Garrison Jr. attributes the reduced rate to lower average speed. Texans saved 111 lives, he said, by slowing down average speed by 1.6 miles per hour.

Goal for 1958 is more ambitious—to save 254 lives or one for each Texas county.

It's up to every Texan, said the governor, to "accept traffic safety as a do-it-yourself project."

State Highway Department allocated $25,000,000 to the emergency safety construction fund, and $18,000,000 will come from federal funds.

MONEY HUNT—Gloomy predictions abound as government and industry leaders look toward the state's 1959 financing problems.

A "conservative estimate" by Sen. William S. Fly, chairman of the Texas State Tax Study Commission, is that $45,000,000 per year in new revenue will be needed just to maintain present state services.

Latest report by the Tax Commission calls the situation "a fiscal crisis of major proportions" and "not a temporary condition."

State and local taxes have tripled since World War II, says the report, but not fast enough to keep pace with spending needs. This is attributed to a sharp upsurge in population, especially in the under 18 and over 65 brackets. These ages require expensive services (schooling, pensions) but net little in taxes.

Oil industry spokesmen served notice that oil, even if it pulls out of its present slump, cannot produce nearly enough revenue to save the day.

Charles W. Alcorn, president of Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, predicted a need for as much as $65,000,000 a year in extra revenue. "Even if all imported crude oil were cut off from the U. S.," he said, "we would stand to gain only about $20,000,000 a year."

MORE NEEDED—Further complicating the fiscal picture are statements, such as that of the State Board of Corrections, that it will need more money from the Legislature next year.

Chairman H. H. (Pete) Coffield said the Board will ask for $8,000,000 in building funds and a $1,500,000 increase in its operating budget.

State prisons are overflowing, says Mr. O. B. Ellis, with more to come. Prison population (10,400) has doubled in the past seven years while population as a whole increased 24 per cent.

ANCHORS AWEIGH—After 115 years, Texas again has a Navy. Governor Daniel has reactivated the Texas Navy and called on the some 286,000 owners of powered craft to join up. Nucleus of the fleet will be the Texas Game and Fish Commission's 180 boats.

Their purpose will be to defend, if necessary, the 10 1/2 miles of tidelands claimed by Texas and assist with civil defense in time of disaster.

Powdery Mildew Poses Threat to Many Plants

Powdery mildew, a fungus disease which attacks many flowering and ornamental plants, is reported by Extension Plant Pathologist Harlan Smith as being very prevalent at this time.

He advises gardeners to check their plantings for signs of the disease. The fungus appears as a white to grayish growth covering the surface of the plant parts, mainly the leaf surface. He suggests dusting them with 325-mesh sulfur at first appearance of the disease or spraying with wettable sulfur (2 ozs. per gallon). Repeat the applications if needed. Karatane or Mildex, he says, may be substituted for the sulfur, either as a dust or spray.

Some of the more commonly grown plants which should be watched for mildew are listed by Smith as roses, violets, chrysanthemums, honeysuckle, phlox, zinnias, crape myrtle, eunonymus, hydrangea and such vegetables as beans, cucumbers, cantaloupes, pumpkin and squash.

Smith says unless the disease is controlled the plants may lose their foliage and thus fail to make normal growth and production. He adds that local county agents have detailed information on how to treat the various plants. They should be contacted if more information is needed. If commercial preparations are applied, Smith strongly urges that the recommendations of the manufacturer of the material used be followed in making the application.
