Grandson of Local Lady Is Entering Model Competition

Randel Wiginton of Abilene, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Wiginton, and grandson of Mrs. G. L. Eager of this city, first place state award winner in the 1958 Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild model car competition has started work on his 1959 model to be entered this week.

The following story of Randel's accomplishments appeared in Monday evening's edition of the Reporter-News:

In just two years of amateur car designing, 15-year-old Randel Wiginton has proved that a hobby car can be turned into a profit—and maybe even into a life's work too.

The Abilene High School sophomore recently won the junior division first place state award in the 1958 Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild model car competition and then was declared winner of the regional contest which pitted winners from Arizona, New Mexico and Texas.

For the Texas championship he received $150 and for the regional victory he received an expense free trip to the guild's four-day convention in Detroit, Mich. Randel valued the trip at about $750.

Next Tuesday the youngster will be honored in a ceremony at South Junior High, where he was a student at the time he did the designing work which won him the contest.

Supt. of Schools A. E. Wells will present a trophy to the school and Randel will be on hand to receive it in behalf of South Junior.

Randel won a third place in the 1957 Texas junior competition and a prize of $50.

The young winner, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Wiginton of 2518 Marshall St., began the design work about two years ago, after seeing a previous guild award winning model designed by Tony Bell of Abilene.

"I had always been interested in models, and this competition looked like a chance to put my interest to good use."

Wiginton has models of about 20 planes, 20 ships, and several on display at his home. His prize winner is now on tour around the nation.

"I have also tried flying model planes, but I'm not a good pilot and it got a little boring for me," he laughed.

Randel carves his competition model planes, but I find wood is not easily damaged," the junior craftsman added.

Before making the final car model planes, but I'm not a good pilot and it got a little boring for me," he laughed.

The models are scaled to one-twelfth the size of a regular automobile.

His first prize winner, cost about $10. "This year's model cost less because I had some materials left over from last year," he said.

Wiginton hopes to make auto design his life's work. "I hope that some year I will win a college scholarship through the competition," he added.

The guild presents a $5,000 college scholarship to national winners in both the junior and senior divisions of the competition.

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Rhodes and children of Midland were week end visitors in the Fred Lucksinger home.

Roy Sikes of Fort Worth spent the Thanksgiving week end visiting in the home of his mother, Mrs. Hettie Sikes.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Harris and mother, Mrs. Pearl Moore, were visiting in Brownwood Sunday.

Week end visitors in the Fore home were Mrs. Fore's sister, Mrs. Bessie McDaniel and Mrs. Mitchell Inabnet of the Antonio and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Westernman of Cloudford, N. M.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Texans are on about the 10-yard line in the drive to set a traffic safety record in 1958.

Safety officials will count it a "touchdown" if at the end of the year traffic fatalities have been reduced by 10 per cent of the 1957 toll. Despite the emphasis on percentages and numbers, it is not a campaign for statistical glory.

None of the players on the safety crusade team can hope to benefit personally from an impressive scoreboard. Nor are they out to "win" for the coach.

Gov. Price Daniel already has had his contract renewed at last summer's elections.

Real winners will be 254 Texas people. All of them would be dead by Dec. 31 if last year's accident rate continued.

For the first 10 months of this year Texas has been achieving its aim of a 10 per cent cut in traffic deaths. This has been done even though travel has increased two per cent.

But the last four weeks—like the last four downs in front of the goal post—will be the hardest. Christmas and New Year's holiday traffic will multiply driving dangers many times.

State officials, patrolmen and all the civic minded associations and commissions and councils are urged for an all-out push. But actually "getting there" will depend on each Texan putting "drive safety" at the top of his Christmas list.

For greater safety in the years ahead, the Governor's Highway Safety Commission will ask the next Legislature to pass a six-point program.

Points in the program: (1) state aid for driver education in the public schools, (2) creating county-wide courts of record to handle traffic violations, (3) legalizing the use of chemical tests to determine intoxication, (4) strengthening drivers license law, (5) revising and updating the uniform vehicle code and (6) increasing salaries for members of the Department of Public Safety and starting a program to bring the highway patrol to the national minimum standard of 1,600.

Essentially the same program also has been endorsed by the Texas Safety Association and the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers.

School Report Complete—Hale-Aikin Committee has completed its study and agreed—with some difficulty—on a proposed program for improving public schools.

Final report is 37 pages long, detailing improvements and expansions that would increase school spending by $110,000,000 a year. Suggestions for upgrading the quality of public education, special programs for the gifted, pre-school teaching of non-English speaking teachers, etc.

Full final report will be printed within two or three weeks for distribution to legislators and interested citizens. Copies may be obtained from Texas Education Agency, Austin.

School Law Tested—Texas officials are studying carefully the similarities between Texas' and Alabama's pupil placement laws.

U.S. Supreme Court declared the Alabama law constitutional "on its face". But the court indicated the law might later be considered unconstitutional in the way in which it was applied.

Texas' pupil placement law, in the same general pattern, was passed in 1957, has never been tested in court. It allows local school officials to assign students to certain schools on the basis of 17 factors—aptitude, intelligence, home environment, personal conduct—almost everything except race.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson said all the court tests of similar laws are being watched. By the end of the year, he said, "we should know pretty well what the law is."

Prison Funds Run Short—Texas Board of Corrections will ask the Legislature for a half-million dollar emergency appropriation to finish out the fiscal year.

Untimely fall rains caused heavy damage in the Prison System's cotton crop. Result is that the system, which pays more than half its own way with prison industries and agriculture, will run short by an estimated $506,000 by Aug. 31.

Department of corrections also will be asking for funds to expand its over-crowded facilities. Needed, says the Board, is $9,050,000 to build two new units for prisoners and one tuberculosis unit.

Go Slow—Like pay for like work is a great idea, says the Texas Public Employees Association. But its members, the state employees, are wary of any effort to put a job classification system into effect in a hurry.

HOW BOUT THAT

ONE REASON I LIKE DEALING WITH YOU IS BECAUSE YOU NEVER TRY TO SELL ME THINGS THAT AREN'T REALLY NECESSARY, AND THE THINGS I DO BUY REALLY GIVE ME MY MONEY'S WORTH

WELL, THANKS ED, YOU'LL FIND THAT TRUE WHEN YOU BUY AS MUCH AS YOU CAN FROM ALL OF US BUSINESS MEN HERE IN CROSS PLAINS

TPEA says it will study carefully the job classification study made by the Texas Employment Commission at the request of the last Legislature. Employees said they might have some recommendations of their own by the time lawmakers meet.

TEC's study makes no salary recommendations but is simply an individual description of some 26,500 state jobs.

Some employes fear that attempts to adjust pay inequities between similar jobs would only result in more inequities. Others say the task of adjusting and supervising job classification would create another mushrooming, money-spending bureau.

Re-tread for Roads—Texas Highway Commission has okayed a $20,000,000 program for improving 3,061 miles of existing farm roads.

Age and heavy use has brought need for re-surfacing, bridge widening and shoulder replacement, said the commission.

Texas' farm-to-market road system has grown from 3,060 miles in 1948 to the present 28,203 miles.

Short Snorts—Texas Independence Day Association has announced a $280,000 program for improving Washington-on-the-Brazos State Park, site of the signing of the Texas Declaration of Independence. It hopes to raise the money privately, create a tourist attraction and suitable site for March 2 observances.

State Department of Health is showing off its new "home" — a $3,000,000 building just completed on the northern outskirts of Austin — Texas has had a teen-age crime wave in 1958, says Dept. of Public Safety Director Col. Homer Garrison Jr. Juvenile arrests are at an all-time high, up 16 per cent from last year.
