FIFTY-FIFTH YEAR

4 Teachers Hired; 4 More Swap Jobs

Four new teachers were elected to Cross Plains school faculty by members of the board of trustees Monday night and shifts in teaching assignment were made for four other instructors.

Newly-elected teachers have until July 20 to complete and return signed contracts. If the four named Monday night accept, the faculty for 1963-64 will be complete. At least three of the four are expected to accept upon notification.

Ford Promoted.
Wayne Ford, high school English teacher here the past three years, was elevated to school principal. He will fill a vacancy caused by the recent resignation of Billy Mac Copping, who is now superintendent at Eula.

Ford's English classes will be taken by Mrs. O. B. Byrd, who is moving to high school after having taught five years in the local system. Her former position in the second grade will be taken by Mrs. Charles J. McAfee, wife of the pastor of the First Methodist Church, who holds a B. S. degree from Southwestern University and formerly taught in Waco.

Ross Rowlet of Mullin was named instructor of mathematics in high school, replacing Bill Gunn who recently resigned to go to Sinton. Rowlet has B. S. and M. A. degrees, both from Howard Payne. Rowlet formerly taught in Coleman. He and his wife expect the arrival of a new child soon.

Mrs. Gene Gann was elected fifth grade teacher. She holds a B. A. degree from Daniel Baker and an M. A. from Midwestern University. She formerly taught at Archer City.

Named homemaking instructor in high school was Miss Donita White of Albany, a May graduate from North Texas State University. If she accepts, she will fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of Miss Mary Helen Strong who moved to California.

Edington to Coach
Scott Edington will be moved up to high school science and coach both boys and girls basketball teams. The athletic functions will be those formerly handled by Gunn.

Jack White will take over Edington's former assignments in junior high school.

Acceptances were also received this week from two other recently-elected teachers. They are Mrs. Seth Holden of Clyde, who will teach a second grade section and Mrs. C. W. McCullough of near Brownwood, who will teach high school Spanish and in the sixth grade.

Mrs. Holden's family consists of her husband and four school-age children. They are expected to move here in August. Mrs. McCullough and her husband formerly lived in South America where she taught and he was a missionary. The couple will move here in the next few weeks.

Jerry Mathews To Leave Here Aug. 1

Jerry Mathews, Highway Patrolman here the past two years, will be shifted to the San Angelo district Aug. 1.

He will be replaced in Cross Plains by Bill Vineyard, who is transferring from San Angelo.

Mathews came to Cross Plains from near El Paso when the one-man-station was established here in 1961. He, his wife and two children have many friends here who will regret to see them leave.

The incoming patrolman is 29 years of age, has a wife and two children. He is a native of Comanche and has been with the Highway Patrol since January 1952.

"You have had a good man at Cross Plains but you're getting another," said Captain George Morahan head of the Abilene District of the Department of Public Safety, Tuesday afternoon, in announcing the shift in assignments.

Give Us A Gideon

(AN EDITORIAL)

Most everyone agrees that if the Constitution of the United States forbids Bible reading and prayer in public schools, as the Supreme Court has ruled, there is immediate need of corrective legislation.

It was thought that church people and professed Christians would have deluged Congress with demands for action. If there has been any protest at all, it is thus far too minute to attract wide attention, much less that of lawmakers.

A report from Washington Monday itemized the three subjects receiving most complaint in mail to congressmen. They were (1) Objection to a tax on cosmetics, (2) Partisan opinions on an up-coming fight between railroads and truckers, and (3) Civil Rights.

If the Word of God can be outlawed without violent protest from professed Christians, the zeal for righteousness is gone and American churches have lost their potency.

It was a group of admitted atheists who provoked the Supreme Court ruling. Shall their will go unchallenged? Does any minister or lay-leader have a more important duty than to organize and lead the opposition?

Two recent editorials in this newspaper on this subject were subsequently reprinted by area dailies. As a result, a dribble of mail has been received commending the stand taken. Not one respondent, though, has mentioned writing to a congressman or senator.

The legislative halls in Washington present the proper place for corrective surgery of this malignant wrong. Which will we do, fight courageously or surrender meekly?

Friends Of Soil Inspecting Callahan County Projects

Supervisors and dignitaries of Lower Clearfork Soil Conservation District were touring the Putnam and Cross Plains areas Wednesday, to inspect flood prevention and soil building practices being utilized in this area.

The delegation assembled at eight a.m. Wednesday in Putnam for coffee and briefing of the tour's itinerary.

First stop was at the ranch of John D. Isenhower. The well-known Putnam rancher, a supervisor for LCSCD, has pioneered grass development and other range improvement practices.

Other stops were made at three newly-completed flood retention lakes near Cross Plains. Sites visited were those on the Chuck and Frank Woody farms, that on the Ted Souder place and finally the project on O. D. Worthy land, one mile north of Cross Plains.

Plans called for the group to take the noon meal at Odom's Restaurant in Cross Plains. Other than Isenhower, LCSCD supervisors in the party included:

Floyd Pool, Moran, Bob Green, Albany; Jack Frambro and Sam Bull, both of Breckenridge. E. J. Hughes of Brownwood, area soil conservationist, and D. C. Cox of Baird, head of the local Soil Conservation Work Unit, were also in the party, as well as Weldon Edwards, prominent Callahan County livestock man and businessman, who is secretary of the board of supervisors for Central Colorado Soil Conservation District.

Mark Adair of Cross Plains, president of Turkey Creek Water Control District, was to act as host for the noon meeting here.

MRS. BOOTH GIVEN BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Mrs. Myrtle Wiseman honored Mrs. Cordie Booth with a surprise birthday party July 4.

A 28-year-old fugitive from justice, wanted in two states and charged with robbery of Ray's Station in Callahan County, was jailed Friday night when lawmen sprang a well-concealed trap at a Lowake inn, 19 miles south of Ballinger.

Everett Mitchell Price

Everett Mitchell Price, sought for questioning in alleged parole violation and strong-arm robberies in Arkansas and incidents in Callahan, Brown, Rannels, Val Verde and Nolan Counties, was captured as he walked into a steak house shortly before midnight. He was scheduled to dine there with a San Angelo woman, who arrived a few minutes earlier.

Officers, who had received a tip that Price was to visit the place, were inside posing as bartenders and cashier. Others were outside, pretending to be fishermen. Price was unarmed and surrendered without resistance.

Deputy Sheriffs N. L. Long, Jr., of Cross Plains and Tod Newton of Baird recently took John Ray, 16-year-old filling station attendant, to San Angelo where he identified pictures of Price as that of the man who held a gun on him and walked away with a cash register and $260 in cash and checks. Ray also identified a Cadillac sedan, believed to have been abandoned by Price, as that used for a get-away car when he was robbed early the morning of June 25.

Price was wanted for questioning in Brownwood for car theft.

Price formerly worked on a ranch on the west side of Callahan County and lived for a time at Lawn in southern Taylor County. He is a nephew of Callahan County Sheriff Homer Price, who filed armed robbery charges in 42nd District Court at Baird.

Dressy Schoolmaster Stressed Character

By A Former Student

When C. R. (Raymond) Steele began his long and illustrious career with Dressy school, he introduced a new code of conduct. One of his rules was that there would be no profanity on the school ground. It took some doing but was rigidly enforced.

Summation of all other rules boiled down to simply this: do right; do nothing wrong. He made it simple for pupils to understand and in so doing developed in them a clear comprehension of good citizenship.

John Rone was a mischievous kid. At home or school it was almost impossible for him to completely behave. At home he teased and tormented his sisters and at school he was constant aggravation to teachers. He'd stick paper down the back of the lad seated in front of him, kick through the space in the back of the desk and create disturbances to make classmates giggle while the teacher's back was turned with chores at the blackboard.

Professor Steele was tolerant but one morning "just before books," he turned the corner of the school house just in time to hear some body punctuate a ball game with a profane epithet. Nothing was said until just before recess, when all boys were instructed to remain in their seats as the girls marched outside for the period of play.

One by one, the schoolmaster questioned the lads.

"Herman Forte, did you hear anyone use unbecoming language?" he asked.

"No sir," replied the sober-faced chap.

"How about you, Audie Pope?"

Again there was a negative answer.

On down the aisle he went, quizzing John Tyson and Eddie Forte in turn.

When the question was put to Fred Stacy, it was evident that the student was torn between two desires; one to be truthful and the other not to tattle on a buddy. After much surmising, Fred finally came up with the most evasive reply evident to him at the time.

"I just couldn't be certain one way or the other," he said. Fred Long was the most solemn-faced boy in the bunch and when the question was put to him, he was quick to answer:

"No sir, I never heard no one cussin. I was standing right close to John (Rone) and I never hear him say nothin'."

The schoolmaster struggled to restrain a grin, for he knew he'd discovered the culprit. But on down the line he quizzed Owen Baum, Cliff Childers and Howard Baum in order. No one would tell.

Finally, the question, "Did you hear any unbecoming language in the school yard this morning?" was directed to John.

"Yes sir, I did," replied the youngster bold and brave.

"Who uttered it?" interrogated the teacher.

"I did," confessed John.

Reminded that he was aware of the school's rules, the young offender was asked if he was prepared to suffer his punishment. He nodded assent.

Other boys were dismissed and John removed his coat and marched to the teacher's desk with all the solemnity of a condemned man "walking the final mile."

The flogging, nevertheless, served its purpose and John joined his schoolmates holding his posterior and announcing: "Boy, does it burn!"

When school was out that afternoon, two Rone girls hurried home to tell their parents — Mr. Rone was a trustee of the Dressy school district — of the humiliation the family had that day suffered. To them, a whipping at school represented disgrace.

As the penitent John plodded home a little later, he was fearful of the reception awaiting. As expected his mother greeted him tearfully.

"John, I hated to hear that you had talked ugly at school, however, I am proud that you were man enough to admit it and take your punishment obediently."

When Mr. Rone was told of the catastrophe, he too, rebuked his son for unbecoming language but patted his head fondly for the honest confession.

A young man had learned a lesson well, but as soon as parents were out of earshot he issued this caustic comment to his tattling sisters:

"For cripe sake, you two act like the world will come to an end; this thing won't bring eternal disgrace."

The hardest part about parking a Corvair is finding a nickel

That may be a slight overstatement, but such jauntiness comes easily when you're a Corvair owner. And you can usually back it up—as easily as you can back up a Corvair. You'll find yourself doing that occasionally, if only to adjust the brakes—they're self-adjusting.

Man Becomes Sick While Robbing Bees; Succumbs

Berry Buckelew, 72, died at his home west of Cross Cut shortly before noon Sunday.

He and a neighbor, Homer Norris, had been watching two youths—Keith Watkins and Kenneth Sowell—cut a bee tree, when he complained of feeling ill and walked to his house nearby. The men accompanied him and were met at the door by Mr. Buckelew's sister-in-law of Brownwood, who had just arrived for a short visit.

All went inside and Mr. Buckelew took a drink of water and lay down on a bed. An ambulance was called but he was dead of apparent heart attack before it arrived.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Pecos and burial was in a cemetery there, beside the grave of his wife.

He was born in Stockdale in 1891 and moved to Brown County in 1953 from Evant. He was a member of the Church of Christ. He lived alone at the place formerly owned by Lowell Newton.

Gas Now Enters City From North

Gas to supply the municipally-owned distribution system is now being brought in through new lines entering town from the north.

The former main lines, which came into the city near Highway 36, are now being given drips and repairs. Eventually gas will come to the city through the two separate lines.

"We feel that this will give equalized pressure to all of the 585 consumers and be an improvement in service," said Mayor Ted Souder.

The city recently entered into a new seven-year contract for gas with W. B. Evans and associates of Lubbock. The wholesale price is now 22 cents per cubic thousand feet as compared with a former rate of 20 cents per thousand.

CARD OF THANKS

Words are often meaningless to adequately express a deep emotion. This is particularly true as I endeavor to thank friends and neighbors, who were so loving and kind during the illness and following the passing of my beloved wife. Your concern and comfort during those sad hours will never be forgotten and to each and every one I wish to extend this insufficient instalment on the debt of gratitude I shall forever owe. May the Giver of all good and useful gifts bless each of you abundantly.

The Cross Plains Teen-Age baseball club's efforts in the last three games were to no avail. With only two games remaining this season, the Pumas won-lost record is 1-10.

Tuesday night of last week the locals journeyed to Albany and suffered a 13-6 loss, and the following Saturday night played host to the Gorman nine which posted a 10-3 victory. Monday night the locals were defeated by Eastland 7-2.

At Albany the Pumas set the pace and led through the sixth inning when an Albany rally produced eight runs, netting the victory by a seven-run margin. Pitcher Walter Pope was charged with the loss.

Saturday night Pope again took the loss with Cross Plains stealing only three hits off Gorman's ace, Rogers.

At Eastland, two Pumas streaked across the plate in the first inning but Cross Plains failed to score again. Baylis Pope was the losing hurler.

Rick Latson Holds High Bat Average

End of Pony League regular schedule was capped off with a combination of players from the three local teams—Tigers, Lions and Panthers—pitted against a similar group from Clyde, July 2 and the tri-county champions from Cisco, July 5. Both games were played on the home town diamond.

Tuesday night's game with Clyde All-Stars was an offensive battle all the way with the local boys coming out on the short end of a 7-6 score. Ironically, Cross Plains out hit and out fielded their rivals but the story lies in the 11 men left stranded on bases by local lads. Rick Latson, Tiger first baseman, led the hit parade with two singles and a walk, scored twice, keeping his gaudy .617 season batting average well intact. Jim Brown and Joe Pierce shared pitching chores and Paul Ramos went all the way on the mound for Clyde.

Friday night the Cisco Cats came calling and clawed out a 10-2 victory for their seven innings of work. The Cats have already won the league championship and will represent the district at Sweetwater later this month against Stamford.

Three home runs highlighted the game. Parkinson and Smith for Cisco and Ronnie Rhodes banged one over the fence for the Cross Plains team. A well-executed double steal produced Cross Plains' other run as a rattled Cisco catcher tried to nail James Switzer at second, Gene Thomas trotted across home plate. Switzer pitched the full game for Cross Plains and Moore for Cisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Raben Roach of Tucson, Ariz., visited here one night last week with her uncle and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Swafford.
