Lovers in Old Age.

I saw a sight at the depot yesterday that interested me and taught me the truth of the quotation about the "old, old story". A man and his wife drew up to the side of the station.

The man was scrubbed up and shaved fresh, and had on evidently his best apparel. They were evidently country citizens, people who worked hard acquired a nice little farm tucked away somewhere in one of the valleys of Parker county, and no doubt they raise plenty of chickens and butter and eggs, and keep a pen full of pigs fat on sour buttermilk, and have got a nice little nest egg laid away for a rainy day. And I just figured it out they had a big family of boys and girls, some of them married and got little broods of their own, for the sturdy good man was about sixty, stout and hale and ruddy, and his good wife was matronly and portly, and good nature and contentment shown from their faces. The good lady set upon a spring seat and handled the reins over the backs of a pair of stout mules, sleek and fat, and she wore a sunbonnet, and old-fashioned mits on her hands, and, too, she had an air of proprietorship as she leaned toward her "old man" that was good to see, as she pushed back her sunbonnet to be kissed goodby. The husband looked kind of "shamed" as put his arm around his good wife's neck and gave her a resounding smack on the lips that were still soft and quivering with the delight of being kissed by her old lover.

As he alighted from the wagon and drew out his traveling bag, the wife said: "Take care of your self, Jess." And as he turned with a quaint and quizzical smile as he answered: "and don't you run off with another feller, mother." The laugh that tinkled from mother's lips proved to me that she was still in love with her "old man" that this little bit of pleasantry between them only proved that neither was doubtful of the other. And with a proud look and loving wave of her hand she turned the heads of the fat mules homeward as the train pulled out for Fort Worth.

"We never repent of eating too little," was one of the ten rules of life of Thomas Jefferson, president of the United States, and the rule applies to every one without exception during this not hot weather, because it is hard for food, even in small quantities, to be digested when the blood is at a high temperature. At this season we should eat sparingly and properly. We should also help the stomach by the use of a little Kodol for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, which will rest the stomach by digesting the food itself.

Never cry as do children who are suffering from hunger. Such is the cause of all baby's who cry and are treated for sickness, when they really are suffering from hunger. AS TO FORFEITURES.
Land Commissioner Terrell Is to Give Due Notice.

Austin, Aug. 13.—Within the next few days the land department of the state treasury will furnish Land Commissioner Terrell with a list of land forfeitures, that is of persons who have failed to pay the interest due for the purchase of school lands, which interest was due in November last. The list will be rather large, and after it is received the land commissioner, through courtesy, will likely notify the delinquents and give them another chance to settle with the state, and those who fail to avail themselves of this chance will forfeit the land which they have bought and probably paid the interest on for several years, and of course they will also lose the amount paid on the principal. This land will then be again placed on the market by the land commissioner.

The Clyde Sun asks THE STAR if it knew that Abilene, or rather the T. & P. Ry., was building a double track from Abilene to Clyde to haul off Clyde's farm and garden truck.

No, we did not know, and we are glad that none of the Abilene papers have mentioned such an enterprise. However, we hope it is true, because it will be easy to extend the double track to Baird, when we open up the coal beds all around Baird.

We will need this double track to supply Clyde, Abilene and all the towns west and north of Abilene with the finest coal in Texas. Whoop! Brother Burkett and Baird and Clyde will both be gainers by the enterprise.

Guess John D. thinks Judge Landis has the wrong name. It should be Rocky Mountain in place of Kenesaw Mountain, judging by the size of the fine imposed on the Standard.

That fine of twenty-nine million dollars assessed against the Standard Oil Company, if it stands means that the people will have to pay it by paying an increased price for oil. Fines against the corporations will not stop rebating and gouging by these outlaw trusts. The courts assess the fine and the Standard Oil turns around and assess the public. What a farce. The only remedy, if there is any remedy at all against the trust evil, is to put the head officials in the penitentiary. That is one penalty at least they cannot make the public pay.

Should the democratic party of Texas in convention next year demand that state and national laws be enacted forbidding public officials acting as attorneys for public service corporations while holding a commission from the people, would Senator Bailey and his friends consider it a reflection upon Bailey? Judging from the way some of Bailey's friends talk about the resolutions adopted by the Farmers Union they would oppose such a plank. Things are coming to a pretty pass in Texas when public gatherings cannot pass resolutions whacking the merciless, soulless corporations that oppress and rob the people without a yell from some of the Bailey crowd. Cannot Bailey's friends see what a predicament this course puts their favorite in. If any one wants to serve the trusts as attorney let them do so, but the people have a right to say whether or not they want a trust attorney to make laws for them. Bailey is not the only one by any means who does this and the practice should be stopped, no matter what the politicians say about it.

STAND UP.

A drunken man staggered into church one Sunday and set down in the pew of one of the deacons. The preacher was discoursing about prevalent popular vices. Soon he exclaimed: "Where is the drunkard?" The drunken man was just far enough gone to think the call personal, so rising heavily, replied: "Here I am," and remained standing while the drunkard's character and fate were eloquently portrayed. A few minutes later the preacher reached another head of his discourse, and asked: "Where is the hypocrite?" Gently nudging his neighbor, the drunkard said in an audible whisper "Stand up, deacon he means you this time. Stand up and take it like a man, just as I stood! It will do you good." —"Ram" Horn.

I never took a newspaper that did not pay me more than I paid for it. One time an old friend of mine started a paper way down south and sent a copy to me, and I subscribed just to encourage him; and after while it published an order to sell a lot at public auction. So I inquired about the lot and told my friend to run it up to $50. He bid it off at $38 and he sold it in less than a month for $100, so I made $62 clear by taking the paper. My father told me that when he was a young man he saw a notice in a paper that a school teacher was wanted away off in a distant country, and he went and got the situation, a little girl was sent to him and after a while she grew up sweet and beautiful and he married her. Now if he hadn't taken that paper, what do you suppose would have become of me? I would have been some other fellow, or maybe I wouldn't have been at all. —Bill Arp.

McMANIS IRRIGATION

In company with Jno. THE STAR representative pleasure of visiting the farm on the bayou and inspecting irrigation plant. We arrived on farm early Tuesday morning found the big engine, under supervision of Mr. Walter Gilman as pretty as you please pulls a 4 inch centrifugal pump raises the water about 25 feet from the Bayou to a 12x12 box that carries it about 700 feet, the highest point on the bayou where it enters the ditch that through the center of the farm it is conveyed from their to ent parts of the field by la. A third of an acre is now producing tomatoes at the rate of 15 crates per day. They have a patch that has not yet been produce. The corn will mature 50 bu. per acre—one patch matured another just in ready ear was being watered. The has not yet been turned on the cotton, it is rank and green, has topped and when irrigated no telling what it will produce. A we was invited into a typical "Texas dinner" composed entirely of products of the Bayou country to say it was good is expressing it mildly, if it was prepared by a crowd of boys "on the batch." The McManis boys say this is their first year's experience with irrigation have much to learn, but from we could see they already have system under fine control.

QUANTRELL STILL LIVES

Is Said to Be Residing on Van- couver Island.

NAME CHANGED TO SHARP

Leaves Louisville Hospital, Emigrates to South America, Makes a Fortune in Texas as Cattleman, Exhausts It and Goes to the Far Northwest.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 9.—Bill Quan- trell, leader of Quantrell's guerrillas in the civil war, who, according to his- tory, died of wounds at a Kentucky hospital after his raiders were cut up, is alive and lives at Quallsino, on the northwest of Vancouver Island, under the name of John Sharp, according to a number of people who have con- versed with him. J. F. Duffy, a promi- nent timber man, who recently became interested in timber lands near Quallsino, recognized John Sharp, who is seventy years old, wiry and gray, as Quantrell. Duffy was a member of the Michigan troop of cavalry which cut up Quantrell's forces. He stated to Duffy that he was correct in his re- cognition. Sharp said he had been left as dead, but, instead of dying of his wounds at Louisville, as history re- corded, had taken a horse, ridden many miles and disappeared. He made his way to South America, living a number of years in Chili. There he engaged in the cattle business, making considerable money, which he exhausted. Then he went to Oregon, where he punched cattle and drove them over the moun- tains. From Oregon he came to Brit- ish Columbia nearly two decades ago and engaged in logging at different camps on the northeast coast of Van- couver Island until ten years ago, when he became a trapper on the northern coast. Six or seven years ago he went to Quallsino, where he made a career at west Vancouver mines. When J. F. Duffy landed at Quallsino from the steamer Tees he met John Sharp on the beach at Coal Harbor. Duffy looked the old man over and said: "Is that you Quantrell, you old rascal?" "Come into the house," said Sharp, and for some hours the two men talk- ed. Sharp stated he was in reality Quantrell, and he talked at length of his raids in Kansas and elsewhere, and eagerly listened to Duffy's tales from the point of view of a cavalryman in the Union army. He was most interested in the story of the cutting up of his band, and when the narrator told how forty men had been killed tears were said to have rolled down the old man's cheeks. R. E. Montgomery, who is engaged in business at Quallsino and who knew Sharp or Quantrell at Fort Worth, Tex., and H. O. Herg, postmaster at Quallsino, are two others to whom Sharp said he is Quantrell.

Story Doubted by Morton. Nashville, Aug. 9.—The story that Quantrell is alive must have further corroboration before it can be accept- ed," said M. B. Morton, managing editor of the Banner. "Dr. White, former health officer of Louisville, Ky., and Mr. McAlee, a well known Louisville attorney, told me the story of the wounding of Quantrell and his subse- quent death and burial at Louisville, and Frank James, who was a member of Quantrell's band, confirmed it."

DROPPED OVERBOARD. In Battle With Two Men in Boat One Is Slain.

Tulsa, I. T., July 12.—Deputy United States Marshal Sam Cone engaged in a battle with two men in a boat on the Arkansas river, above the city about two miles. Cone, who has been on the lookout for consignments of liquor coming from Keystone, Okla., by water, was patrolling the bank, when he espied a suspicious looking craft with two men in it. He called a halt, but the boat continued to move, when he opened fire. One man was seen to pitch over into the water, and never rose to view. The other occupant of the boat leaped into the river and swam to the bank and escaped.

Nancy Miller Pardoned. Washington, Aug. 9.—President Roosevelt has pardoned Nancy Miller, who was convicted about six years ago in Indian Territory of manslaughter for killing Alice Brake in a dispute over a gosling. The woman was sen- tenced to pay a fine of $500 and to serve ten years in the Ohio peniten- tiary.

BLOCKADE PREVENTION.

Commissioner Colquitt Submits Recommendations.

Austin, Aug. 9.—Railroad Commissioner Colquitt submitted his report to the commission of recent investigation at Galveston on the question of preventing recurrence of cotton blockade there the coming season. The report shows that Galveston handled 3,481,593 bales of cotton last season. As the result of his investigation and as a means of preventing recurrence of the blockade Commissioner Colquitt suggests and recommends that commission amend its compress regulations so as to require railway companies to load cotton in unmixed lots at points of origin or at concentrating and compressing points in the interior, that the commission prescribe the average daily movement of freight from the time cotton goes under bill of lading of one, one and a half, or two or two and a half rule providing for reciprocal demurrage. He also recommends a hearing be called on the proposition.

At the request of the express companies the railroad commission set down for hearing Sept. 8 the question as to modifying its recent order compelling express companies to segregate their offices in Texas.

At a meeting of leading Swedish Methodist of Texas, held here, it was decided to establish a school for the higher education of Swedish in the state. The city offering the best advantages is to get the location.

LITTLE BOY KILLED.

There was a sad accident at the Round House last Saturday in which a little boy was instantly killed. Little Willie, aged 5 years, son of Chas. Rudder, was on or near the tracks leading up to the coal chutes where he had gone to gather up some empty bottles. The switch engine was pushing some cars east when the little boy became bewildered and ran the wrong way. He was struck by the car and knocked down and the top of his head crushed. He died instantly. The engineer on the switch engine could not see the boys on the track, we believe other boys were with the one that was killed, at least one report says that an older brother tried to save his little brother. It was a deplorable affair and we deeply sympathize with the parents and especially the grandfather of the little boy, W. H. Rudder. This, we believe is the first child ever killed in the yards here, which is remarkable when we think of the number of little boys that are frequently seen about the yards. Small children under no circumstances should be permitted to enter the yards unless accompanied by some grown person to take care of them. If this is not done other accidents like this one are liable to happen any day.

Let the woman you look upon be wise or vain, beautiful or homely, rich or poor, she has but one thing she can really give or refuse—her heart. Her beauty, her wit, her accomplishments, she may sell you; but her love is a treasure without price. She only asks in return that when you address her your voice shall be gentle, loving and kind; that you shall not despise her because she cannot understand, all at once, your vigorous thoughts and ambitious plans, for when misfortune and evil have defeated your greatest purposes she remains to console you. You look upon the trees for strength and grandeur; do not despise the flowers because their fragrance is all they have to give. Remember love is all they have to bestow—but it is the only earthly thing which God permits us to carry beyond the grave.—Exchange.
