THE PLAINVIEW TURK SHOW IS SET, DEC. 4, 5, 6

Many County Growers to Be There For Prize Winning Again.

One thousand of the finest dressed turkeys in the Southwest will be offered for sale to the highest bidder at a annual sale of the Southwestern Turkey Show at Plainview, December 4, 5, and 6. The sale will be held in the City Auditorium on Friday afternoon, December 6. Buyers representing business firms in the territory served by the show will be on hand at the sale to see that birds produced in their respective areas receive premium bids. Various amusements are making small pools to be used in bidding on birds produced by farmers in their communities. An Amarillo representative will purchase a large number of birds for the Amario firms. Buyers are expected from block, Silvertown, Tulsa, Floydada and Muleshoe. County Agents and turkey producers are already commenting on the movement in the grade of turkeys offered in the market in this territory as a result of the first show held last year. Business firms are realizing the value of encouraging the production of turkeys, and chambers of commerce and school clubs are joining the movement. The first sale resulted in an average price of 29 1/2 cents per pound and paid the producers. Many county turkey growers have an interest in this annual sale, last year showing a large number of birds and returning with all principal prizes. This county will be fully represented in the forthcoming show.

Parole Board For Convicts In Bailey

Following receipt by J. S. Mitchell, letter from Governor James V. Hogg requesting some service organization to name the personnel of a parole board for Bailey County, the 1-Kwanis club has chosen Neil Kelly, Dr. A. E. Lewis and R. L. W. to represent this county in that city. Similar boards are being organized in every county in the state. The convicts are eligible to parole having served a certain length of prison terms. If their records are good they are recommended by the warden of the penitentiary and money is granted by the governor. County Parole boards will be asked to make local conditions regarding such parolees, and after they have been granted to assist in their work for such men, also, after and report their conduct to the Board of Pardons, while on parole.

The Panhandle Construction Co., Lubbock, was the successful bidder for building a sewer system in Muleshoe, and work of construction will begin about the 1st of December, according to information from a PWA official. The successful bid was $30,490.28, to be modified, as provided by specifications. In all, there is 1,300 lineal feet of 6-inch pipe being a line to the disposal field thus reducing the sum to $28,995.28. Other bids were offered, that being from the Winfield & Friday Construction Co., Dallas, in the sum of $32,426.75.

Cochran County Test Hits Sulphur Water When At 4910 Feet

After likely oil sands had been encountered, the Humble Oil and Refining Co. No. 1 C. C. Slaughter oil well, struck sulphur water at 4910 feet. It was reliably reported late Thursday of last week. Sulphur water has been the bane of oil field development in Cochran county, where the drilling was reported. A strong showing of oil had been reported from 4,888-4,900 feet, with gas at 4,870 feet. The test had been the center of excitement for the past few days, as the bit went deeper into the formation. Samples of the formation had a strong show of oil odor. The log of the Slaughter test shows the water was encountered at almost the same depth as in the Bob Penn test several years ago. Located on the Carrie B. Slaughter lands, three miles south and west of Lehman, the Penn test found water at 4,811 feet. This was the Saturday before Christmas. This test was drilled to 5,932 feet and then plugged. Drilling operations in the Humble's Slaughter test were ordered shut down yesterday, awaiting further instructions. No indication was given as to whether the test might be pushed down or whether a trial for oil or gas in the two showings would be made.

Culley Cobb Predicts Cotton May Go To 13 Cents In Near Future

Forecasting a 13-cent cotton, Culley A. Cobb, chief of the AA cotton section, last Friday expressed a belief that a "considerable part" of the 4,450,000 bales controlled by the government under 12-cent loans will be moved to market this season. "The demand for cotton is strong," Cobb said, "and the European stocks of American cotton are being exhausted. The price has seemed fairly steady recently above 12 cents." Cobb indicated that an announcement of a price adjustment program might be made. AA cotton section officials showed that on Nov. 1 a total of 4,450,078 bales were held under loans of 12 cents a pound. Title to this cotton is still held by the farmers who obtained the loans, and before the cotton may be sold officials said the price would have to equal the amount of the loan, plus interest and carrying charges. It was estimated unofficially that before the loan cotton could be marketed the price would have to be 13.50 cents a pound. Cobb said he was "very optimistic" about the outlook for cotton. Most of the current cotton crop is moving out to market rapidly, he added, and records disclosed that on Nov. 1 only 32,628 bales of 1935 cotton had been placed under the 10-cent loans being made this year. The 12-cent loans made last year are due Feb. 1. Officials said they believe that the Dec. 8 cotton crop estimate would be slightly below the November estimate of 11,411,000 bales. Cobb asserted he believed the movement of the 12-cent loan cotton would not have any material effect upon the market. An extension of the loan is expected, and Cobb said he believed that the farmers would cease sale of the loan cotton automatically to arrest any great price decline.

Details of 10 Year Farm Plan Were Revealed Last Week By AAA Official

Tentative recommendations for a 10-year agricultural program calling for substantial reductions in cotton, corn, and wheat acreages from the 1929 level were disclosed Thursday last week by Oris V. Wells, acting chief of the AAA production planning section. The recommendations were a result of six months research by the AAA and 48 state experiment stations. The major recommendations, made in address before the Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities, were: 1. For 38,000,000 acres of cotton and to yield 14,000,000 bales during the period 1936-40 and 14,600,000 from 1941 and 1945, a reduction of 11 per cent from the 1929 acreage but 34 per cent above the 1935 total. 2. For 52,000,000 acres of wheat to yield 2,000,000 bushels during the period 1936-40 and 2,580,000,000 bushels from 1941 to 1945, a reduction of 23 per cent from the 1929 acreage about equal with the 1935 total. 3. For 85,000,000 acres of corn to yield 2,248,000,000 bushels until 1945, a reduction of 11,000,000 acres from 1929 and 7,000,000 from the 1935 total. 4. For 13,000,000 acres of soybeans to yield 1,000,000 live hundredweight until 1940 and 1,410,000 live hundredweight until 1945, about 11.5 per cent below the 1930 production, but 35 per cent above the total for 1935.

OLD AGE PENSION APPLICATIONS TO BE READY IN FEBRUARY; 283,199 OF TEXANS 65 YEARS OF AGE OR OLDER

"We are going into the matter carefully, I am studying the pension systems of other states that have pension laws," he said. Mr. Carpenter probably knows more about pensions than any other man in the state. At request of Governor Alfred, Mr. Carpenter made a survey in September on the "Cost and General Plan for Old-age Pensions." This was prepared for the Legislature, and the new law reflects his survey in many ways. He estimated that there were 283,199 people in this state 65 years of age or older. Considering the experience of other states, he calculated that there would probably qualify for old-age assistance in Texas 62,933 people. "As there are 41,787 persons 65 years of age and over on the Texas relief rolls, this represents the minimum number able to qualify for old-age pensions," Mr. Carpenter stated. "I am not sure about the reducing effect of the regulations passed by the Legislature, but my calculations were made in September before the new law had been passed," he said.

A Federal Official Inspects The Warren Resettlement Project

Harold D. Palmer, of the Utilization Division, Resettlement Administration, Washington, D. C., was in Muleshoe last Saturday and drove out to investigate the 800 acre tract of land owned by Fred P. Warren, and which is being offered the government as a resettlement proposition. The land is located at the four intersecting corners of Bailey, Farmer, Castro and Lamb counties, some of it being in each of these counties, and presents one of the most practical and economical projects yet presented to the Federal government for small home ownership. It is in the irrigated district of the Blackwater valley, every foot of it subject to this type of farming. It is proposed to cut this 800 acre into small farm tracts, settling it with desirable farmers, forming a community settlement, having its own creamery, broom corn factory, syrup mill and other community industrial projects. Mr. Padgett, while making no official report, expressed himself as well pleased with the proposed project, and has asked for additional information relative to this area and to make certain in particular that it will be a brief, previously prepared giving convincing data of the project.

Director Of State Relief Prints A Picture Of Gloom

Austin, Nov. 26.—Adam R. Johnson, Texas Relief director, today summed up "gloomy prospects" of state aid to needy ending in mid-winter with employment conditions unimproved. Johnson said that, without federal aid "the chances are we will be out of business by the first of the year." There was a possibility, he said, that state aid would be extended only to unemployed until Feb. 1. Economics and reduced rations enabled the state to accumulate $13,300 from various sources to match $700,000 state money, the last proceeds of a $20,000 relief bond issue voted in 1933. Johnson said the state made a proposal on which the federal government would not yet act to advance additional funds to keep relief work in progress until March 1. Johnson said the last count showed 200,000 unemployed and 135,000 employable on state rolls. Unemployables were made a state burden under federal regulations. "Even if half of the 135,000 employables are taken over by WPA," Johnson said, "we will have to carry them until Dec. 15, for WPA workers are paid semi-monthly."

Rain, Snow Falls Over The Panhandle Average 1.50

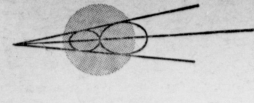

The Plains area of West Texas early this week received the best rains ever during two or more years. This entire area now stands to two inches with some snow fall in the vicinity of Amarillo. Most of Bailey county received an average of 1.50 inches of rainfall. Beginning with light sprinkling Saturday night, accompanied by normal temperature for this time of the year, there was a slow steady downfall of Monday, Monday night, and all of Tuesday, with light flak snow visible in the air Wednesday morning and the temperature degrees lower. This rain will be of immense value to farmers who have planted their crops and will stimulate fall pastures, and put ground in excellent condition for winter plowing.

Character and Friendship

"Manhood over-tops all titles; character is above all riches, and greater than any career."

As everyone knows, a person's character is his chief basis of achievement. Without character, a person is poorer than the beggar who begs from house to house. Character may be divided into many different divisions. Among the most important are: courtesy, consideration of others, congenialness, honesty and truthfulness.

By the choices one continually makes, it is determined the kind of person he will be and something about his character. The character of a person is also judged by the friends he keeps. Perhaps, after all, there is some truth in the old saying, "birds of a feather flock together."

"If you hunt the whole world over for the beautiful, you must carry it with you if you wish to find it." That is a very truthful quotation; because if one wishes to associate with people of good character, one must have a good character. If he wishes for friends and friendship, he must be a friend and know how to cultivate friendship.

A person does not want a limited circle of friends, neither does he want friends who are not true. Friends should never be thought of as a brother member of a mutual benefit association, with its periodical demands and threats of suspension for non-payment of dues.

Discovering people and making friends can be one of the greatest joys of life. Certain people appeal to us more than others. To some we are drawn as to a magnet, but this attraction alone will not have the power to hold them permanently.

We know persons who are high-minded and clean hearted, and by the strength of their character could not live on any level but the highest. The remembrance of such a friend when we are tempted to do wrong will make it easier to do right.

We may want to choose the best in friendship, but we want to be sure that we are worthy to receive the best, that our friends have to give. Trust, truth, honesty, loyalty and unselfishness are foundation stones in the building of character and friendship.

Thanksgiving Day

'Twas the day before Thanksgiving When mother dear said, We were to spend the next day With her brother, Jed.

Now my Uncle Jed Is a jolly old fellow; He is very plump And has hair that is yellow.

So when the next day dawned And I arose out of bed, My very first thought Was of my uncle Jed.

When soon we were ready And waiting to go, We noticed outside It was beginning to snow.

So mother said So we bundle up tight So we would get cold And take cold that night.

We jumped in the car And sped our way off To dear Uncle Jed's And cranberry sauce.

Uncle Jed was standing In the kitchen door He waved us a hand And shouted his joy.

At last we were seated By a good warm fire— A ride o'er the snow Soon one will tire.

And then we were seated At the table so long And through our minds Ran a Thanksgiving song.

There was turkey and pie And hot gravy, too. But to us it all looked Too good to be true.

Jimmie's big eyes Popped right out of his head And he grabbed for the turkey When the blessing was said.

"What a lovely dinner!" Said big sister, Kate. So she took out more gravy Which filled up her plate.

And at last the day was over And when we said good-bye I wished I had another piece Of that good rumpkin pie.

TREE BELTS OF GOVERNMENT AND INDIVIDUALS PROTECT LANDS, ALS BRING BIRDS TO DESTROY INSECT

With 141 demonstrations projects now under way in 41 different states, the Federal government will soon be in a position to begin realizing returns on its nation-wide campaign against soil erosion.

During the coming year government nurseries are expected to raise six hundred million young trees, and shrubs to be replanted later in reforestation and soil erosion projects. A million pounds of grass seed and many pounds of rapidly growing vines are also to be used over a wide range of states in an attempt to anchor the top soil against the sweep of wind or rush of water. With 545 CCC camps as a basis for work, a widespread and effective conservation campaign has apparently begun.

This national campaign is also being augmented by individual and community campaigns sponsored by organizations or individuals in the area where, last year, the sandstorms played havoc. Last spring in the area around Muleshoe there were many farmers and other-land owners who planted trees about their places. Some put heavy planting of trees about their homes and out buildings, others planted trees entirely or partly around their farms, some did both. Nurseries of this section did a thriving business early this year in furnishing land-owners small and young trees for transplanting about their privately owned premises.

This year, there was plenty of moisture, will spread out, so that practically all these young trees enjoyed a healthy growth. Now some of them are four or five feet higher than when planted last spring. In another year they will grow still more and begin functioning as wind breaks to protect crops and individuals from the lusty gusts that come unannounced.

Some farmers have taken advantage of the idea to plant fruit trees of different kinds about their places. Others have planted long rows of grape vines which, in time, with their heavy foliage, will furnish considerable protection, while still other farmers learning from these examples set by their neighbors will plant trees during the coming winter and spring.

This nation, especially the western portion, has become quite conscious of its natural resources during the past two years and numerous steps are now being taken all over this area for preservation of these sources. For the past 75 years wastefulness of these resources has predominated. This western area naturally has exceptionally fertile soil, and many have ventured toward its conservation; but from now on a different story will be told. No one out here wants to live in a desert, and by "taking time by the forelock" it is declared as readily available.

The government tree belt, it is claimed, will not only help much toward breaking up the direct winds, but will also be of unusual value in other ways. It will furnish cover for much wild life, and game wardens are already predicting that numerous wild fowl will in a few years be on the increase because of this added protection from hunter's guns.

These growing forest strips furnishing protection for birds will mean they as protection against sandstorms. Throughout this prairie area than heretofore. With more birds in this area adjacent to growing fields of various kinds of crops, they will have opportunity of devouring and destroying multiplied millions of insects of different kinds which prey upon crops and gardens, insuring greater productions for growers.

TREE PLANTING TO START SOON

Last year there was considerable tree planting done in Bailey county during the fall and winter months, and much more is contemplated for this winter, beginning next month, according to available information.

Following the government idea of the "shelterbelt" for crop protection, and which will be considerably elongated in this state this winter, many citizens of this county planted trees about their houses, while several farmers did the same about their farms, some small tract owners completely encircling their land with a tree belt as protection against sandstorms.

These trees taking up little room, have been a great help toward beautifying many homes and farmsteads in this county and will, in a few years now, be of great value as protection to crops against wind and dust.

Orders are already going into series for trees in this section, said.

HIPPOCRATES!

Hippocrates is called the father of medicine. He was the first real doctor; up until his time the practice of medicine was a haphazard affair. THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Men before him are as and they are counted to him a nothing, and vanity—fashions of violent passions have their vanity alone gives us—fashions.

LUBBOCK vs. CLOVIS

Response to a hearty invitation Lubbock citizens to Lubbock citizens leading business men of the metropolis last week journeyed to the state line to that city of the tallest buildings in Texas to celebrate completion of Highway No. 7 from hence to the two named cities taking credit for its building and completion.

as has been learned no invitations extended to any of the towns on that same highway to have representative citizens and it has been suggested by one Bailey county citizen that this particular gathering was a frame-up to divide and get business from the towns between the two cities.

years before there was a foot on Highway No. 7 west of Lubbock, the editor of this newspaper personally and without any aid or consultation from either Lubbock or Clovis, secured paving of this highway through the town of Littlefield, Amers, Sudan and Muleshoe have gone to the State Highway Commission.

The writer positively knows that either Clovis or Lubbock has made a definite stop that improved this highway through Bailey county citizens of Clovis did one day in a rubber-tired buggy with a red running gear. You can get just as drunk now on the stuff that retailed at 60c a quart in the "good old days."

Life, as this local citizen views it, remains the same, and it all depends on how you take it. You get back pretty much what you put into life, and if you don't put in something you can't take anything out.

Prospective auto buyers around Muleshoe can now show by their deeds how much they believe in their theories. They have argued that before prosperity can return men must be put to work.

The auto makers of the country believe the same thing, so they are producing 1936 cars early enough in 1935 to restore labor conditions that would not otherwise be restored until spring.

LET US GIVE THANKS!

Another harvest completed; another season of bountiful crops; another opportunity to express in grateful spirit thanks for life and the things which make life worth living.

America has gone far on the road to recovery since last her people joined in observance of a national day of Thanksgiving. There has been progress made all along the line. The hungry have been fed; the aged have been comforted; the idle have either been restored to labor, or at least enjoy a brighter outlook for securing it.

Today as war drums roll through the jungles of a foreign land and nations stand ready to tear at each other's throat, America shines all the more brightly. There has been progress made all along the line. The hungry have been fed; the aged have been comforted; the idle have either been restored to labor, or at least enjoy a brighter outlook for securing it.

To those not blinded by petty prejudice there is much cause for giving thanks to the Creator of all good things. If there is one heart devoid of reason to be thankful, it is not to be found around Muleshoe, and for this too, let us be thankful.

Let us give thanks! Let us give thanks! Let us give thanks!

HOW GOOD WERE THEY?

A well-known Muleshoe man stopped on the street recently to ask what all this talk he hears about the "good old days" really signifies. "Nonsense," he called it, and then he proceeded to explain that he has been on earth for more than 70 years and that if the old days were any better than these he falls to see it.

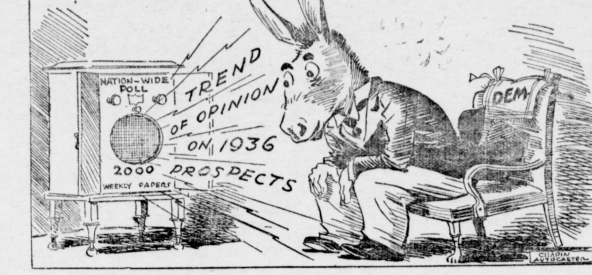

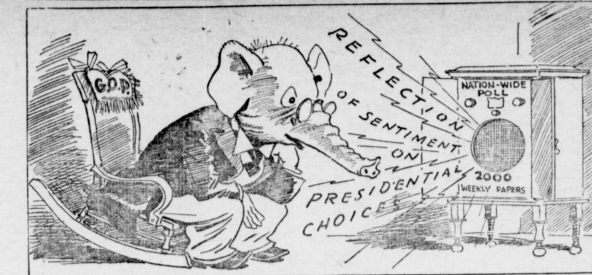

Human nature is the same, he declared, as it has always been. A girl is just the same under a 1935 model gown as she was under a gay nineties bustle, and love-making is no different in a 1935 from love-making in a rubber-tired buggy with a red running gear.

Life, as this local citizen views it, remains the same, and it all depends on how you take it. You get back pretty much what you put into life, and if you don't put in something you can't take anything out.

ALONG OUR WAY

I live under the very eaves of a city, a noted medical center. An estate clinic is being held there this week. Eminent men of our profession from all over the country are of the people the best that they have, right up to the minute.

They note a decrease in number of deaths from heart failure not of germ-origin. Men are dropping down everywhere, in ordinary middle life. This should not be. Is the situation preventable? We are studying this—and it is high time.

The eminent observers say heart-failures are due in a large part to the terrific strain of the times, and are falling in the struggle to make living—to make ends meet.

Well, it will do it, this thing of piling on the body more than it can stand. I ask: is life worth so little if we sacrifice it for the mere bauble of worldly gain? Is not life more of gold and fine raiment?

In my humble way I have fought against worry, against taxing of bodies and brains of ours for more than they will stand. We can always overdo. The worst of overdoing is wearing out of vital organs in our flight from imaginary terrors or mortal conflict to outdo our fellow man. There is no doubt that we do these things in utter disregard of the deadly consequences.

Deaths from "heart-failure" are remarkably increase, due to the depression, they say. The pity is they are right. Can you prevent your own heart-failure? I believe you can. Mail up your mind right now to CEAS WORRY. Let matters go hang there are not worth a human life. Ask your family physician about it.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated doctor the best method yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains and safe for the average person to take regularly.

L. SMITH, WEST BAILEY COUNTY FARMER, RANKS HIGH AS SUCCESSFUL AGRICULTURIST OF PANHANDLE AREA

One of the best diversified farms in Bailey county, and perhaps ranking high when compared with all others in Texas Panhandle, is that of E. L. Smith, living 10 miles west of Muleshoe in the West Camp community, abided with his well diversified farm is a system of farm management methods that marks him as an exceptionally progressive farmer.

In addition to Mr. Smith's crop, he is pursuing a "live at home" policy that is proving satisfactory and stable to himself and family, and treating favorably comment among many friends and neighbors. The success of his success is the employment of modern scientific methods of farm and the utilization of commodities stored on his farm for home consumption.

utilizing a tract of about 320 acres of land, Mr. Smith this year has planted and harvested a well-balanced crop. Chief among his crops are alfalfa, all acreage of cotton, a large acreage of grain sorghums, and a comparatively large acreage of sudan. He has harvested a crop of millet, his grain sorghums are many varieties, including a large crop of corn. To preserve his feedstuffs, Mr. Smith has constructed two trench silos in keeping with accepted methods, and is a demonstrator for Texas operative extension work under direction of Bailey County Farm Agent E. L. Waide, Jr. The first silo constructed has a capacity of 20 tons, which already been filled with greenage. Another silo, with a capacity 100 tons, will probably be filled in cane butts to serve as a reserve supply, or may be used for winter feeding of cattle. He also has a supply of bundle feed and grain duffs in addition to ensilage.

family," says County Agent Waide, "is working hard together and is showing what really can be done with conscientious effort." The Smith farm cans its own meat supply, butchering its own pork and beef. Mr. Smith tans his own leather, makes his own shoes, and uses the method, for harness repairs and other utilization of leather on the farm. He makes his own Neatsfoot oil for use in leather tanning, extracting the substance from leeches killed on his farm.

On the farm is to be found one of the best farm blacksmith and repair shops in the county. Mr. Smith doing his own repairs, thus saving much expenditure for his purpose.

Beef and meat hogs are grown on the farm, also a good farm flock of chickens. Both mules and tractor are used for power.

The E. L. Smith farm home is well-kept and attractive, its appearance bespeaking the progressiveness of its occupants. Such conveniences as an automatic refrigeration system are to be found in the home and other items for pleasure and comfort. Adequate out-buildings have been provided for housing farm stock, feed supply and implements, and a cellar is in evidence for the outstanding 4-H pantry supply.

POULTRY

PEN ROOSTER WHEN NEEDED NO LONGER

Poultrymen Should Consider Breeding Stock.

By Roy E. Thornton, Head Poultry Department, North Carolina State College. When the hatching season is over, the flock is changed from a breeding flock to a laying flock and only fresh, infertile eggs are desired by the trade.

This means that the male birds should be moved to separate quarters. In doing this, however, the poultryman will consider his prospects for breeding work next season. All those male birds which do not measure up to the owner's standard for type, color and breeding ability should be discarded.

If the birds are below standard they will be a dead expense during the period they are producing no returns to the owner. Sometimes, it is necessary to remove the males because in-breeding has begun. In such a case new blood will be needed.

If the owner does have some desirable roosters, however, and no adequate place to keep them, it might be well to build summer range houses. These are constructed at low cost and will answer the purpose very well.

In removing the male birds, it is well to keep in mind that eggs from some of the hens will be fertile 21 days after the male bird has been removed. A fertile egg will start incubation at a temperature of 70 degrees and in a few days the embryo will begin development. Such eggs are objectionable.

Another economy measure to put into effect after the hatching season is over, is that of culling. Every economy is needed to make the flock pay in summer.

Turkeys, Like Chickens, Good and Poor Producers

People often ask how many eggs a turkey hen will lay, and it is the general impression among those inexperienced with turkeys that they lay very few eggs, 20 or 30 during the spring after which they go broody and from then on they loaf. This is a fallacy, states a writer in the Missouri Farmer.

Feather-Producing Geese

As feather producers all breeds of geese are good, though the lordly Africans are much harder to pluck either alive or dead. For eggs, the various breeds stand about in the following order: White Chinese, Toulouse, African and Embden. These four breeds are the ones largely kept in this country for various purposes and all of them are excellent and serve their purpose well. There is a great difference in the strains of geese kept, and some of the Africans now seem to hold all leads in egg production; though as with all others it is more of a matter concerning the man who carries the feed pail than it is in breed alone.—Rural New-Yorker.

Shade for Young Pullets

Shade is of prime importance for all poultry, especially during the summer months. Where houses are crowded and shade is not available on the range there will be a high mortality. A cheap and adequate shelter may be constructed by driving 2 by 4 supports in the ground and thatching these over with bagging or green branches. These shelters, however, should be cleaned of droppings at regular intervals.

Poultry Jottings

A cap about 3 or 4 inches above the brooder stove pipe prevents back drafts.

After the first ten or twelve weeks, both mash and grain should be available at all times to pullets.

Chicks have no teeth; they have a gizzard instead, but the gizzard cannot grind feed if it has no grit in it to grind with.

Mites are a common pest. They are tiny and infest all joints, nail holes and crevices in the droppings boards, in the perches, side walls, and under boards nailed to the floor to brace roosts.

On the average, about 40 out of every 100 eggs set fall to hatch.

Since lice increase in warm weather, and reduce both egg production and health, treatment for destroying them is essential to the highest returns from the flock.

Test Strength of Wire Farm Fences

Cornell University Plans to Establish Test Yard on State Property.

By H. W. Riley, Department of Agricultural Engineering, Cornell University.

Of all jobs on the farm, probably chasing stock and repairing fences are the most neglected and unappreciated. Many farmers complain that some fences on the market today are not as durable as old fences. Fences were not level so soon if they were made of heavy, durable wire and were well galvanized. Such fences, however, seem too expensive for many farmers if they are not sure of their durability.

The American society for testing materials has decided to test farm fencing and other galvanized wire products. A test yard will be set up in New York state on property of the college of agriculture. There many samples of farm fences will be exposed to the weather and carefully watched. Before they are erected, these fences will be completely analyzed, and as the years go by a careful record will be kept of the durability of each fence. The test yard will be clearly shown in a few years.

Medium Fat Hog Is Best for Family Cuts of Pork

A 225-pound moderately fat hog produces the "family" size cuts of pork, says Prof. R. H. Hinton of the New York State College of Agriculture.

Such hogs, he adds, will yield hams and three-rib shoulders that weigh about sixteen pounds each, bacon strips and loins that weigh from ten to twelve pounds. These cuts, of desirable size to cure and store after smoking are in good demand for economical slices or roasts for cooking. Heavier hogs normally produce a greater proportion of lard, they also produce more fat, but some families consider too fat.

Good quality, thrifty hogs normally produce the most desirable meat, Professor Hinton says. Prevention should be taken to see that all animals dressed are in a healthy condition.

Ice Needs on Farms

In parts of the country where natural ice suitable for storing is formed it is time to provide for next summer's needs. The Department of Agriculture has estimated that one-half ton of ice per cow will serve the dairyman to cool and hold cream at a safe temperature if delivered two or three times a week. However, if the whole milk is to be cooled the needs will be not less than a ton and a half per cow. These estimates were made presuming that both ice house and cooling tanks are in good condition. If more than 80 per cent of the ice is lost by melting the amount stored will have to be increased accordingly. The average family needs between five and ten tons per season even when the ice is used sparingly.

Trees on Line

Trees standing on a boundary line belong to respective owners of both sides as tenants in common and although it is asserted in one case that when a tree stands on a boundary line the landowner on either side has the right to lop off limbs and roots on his side close to the trunk, yet it has been more recently declared in several other cases that either owner may not destroy the boundary line tree without the other's consent, and if he does the other owner may recover damages against him. The adjoining landowner would have no jurisdiction over any tree not on the line nor on his own land.—Indiana Farmer's Guide.

Agricultural Hints

Radium dust added to the soil, will speed up the growth of plants, experiments show.

At least 50 per cent of the honey bees in New York state died in last winter's sub-zero weather.

Potatoes lose their sweetness with age, or if stored in too warm a place, just as fresh pens do.

Cattle and sheep will eat clean raw potatoes, but pigs prefer that potatoes be steamed or cooked.

Farmers in Bailey county, Texas, harvested cotton bolls to be ground and used as stock feed.

Colling moths live only two or three weeks as adults, and they spend almost all of that time laying eggs.

Humane branding of cattle by chemicals is being urged in England.

One quart of milk is equal in food value to foods that cost from two to three times as much.

China produces 125,000,000 pounds of wool a year, most of which is raised in the northwestern provinces.

A considerable amount of timothy seed will have to be imported to meet the demands of farmers for planting.

Beautiful Business Men Of Muleshoe In Season's Style Hit

Tuesday evening at the High school auditorium the Parent-Teachers association sponsored a burlesque style show, wherein about 30 business concerns of Muleshoe were represented by men, wearing the latest creations from 1935 to 1935.

Some were dressed in beautiful evening gowns, bathing suits, Japanese costumes, sport suits, negligees, furs, street dresses, afternoon, dinner frocks, and every kind unmentionable. Each man had his hair dressed in the latest style with shining ornaments arranged perfectly.

Two prominent business men dressed in lovely frocks were ushers for the affair.

Ty Young and Curtis Taylor, two outstanding young women in the show sang a duet and gave a fancy dance accompanied by Mrs. Ty Young at the piano.

Each "miss" gave a performance which will long be remembered by the interested spectators.

Mrs. Velma Bailey gave a very entertaining reading between the first and second act.

C. F. Moeller entertained the audience between the second and third acts with a vaudeville performance, called, "Old Man Upside Down," by walking and running on his hands.

From his perfect performance he convinced the spectators he was quite an acrobat.

A loud speaker had been installed on the stage for the announcing of the program. K. K. Smith who wore a lovely black evening gown, and had his beautiful blond hair arranged in one of the latest styles, was announcer for the evening.

The auditorium was filled to capacity, a number of people standing. The proceeds amounted to $40.30, which the finance committee of the Parent-Teachers association will use for worthy purposes.

POULTRY FACTS

CHICK SEXING IS NO FAD, MYSTERY Plan May Be Costly to Most Farm Flock Owners. By H. H. Alpa, Poultry specialist, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois—WNU Service. "Sexing" baby chicks, the latest innovation in modern poultry raising, is no longer a fad or a mystery, but it may be of limited value to the general run of farm flock owners. Interest in the question is at the peak when the baby chick season is at its height. Buying sexed chickens so as to get only pullets, and no cockerels may be justified in certain instances. On the other hand the flock owner should weigh the increased initial cost of the chicks, the heavier losses from mortality as a result of the higher cost of the chicks and the loss of income from the sale of cockerels. How cockerels help reduce the cost of raising pullets is shown in the 1934 records from 37 Illinois poultry flocks whose owners kept records in co-operation with the college. Most of these flocks were small. For every pullet placed in the laying flock in the fall, there was an income of 40 cents from the sale of cockerels. Thus the cockerel cost of raising each pullet 40 cents. Mortality loss is another factor which weighs heavily in deciding whether or not to buy sexed chicks. In many instances, chick mortality runs as high as 20 per cent. In a cockerel-pullet flock this is not extremely serious. However, a flock composed entirely of pullets would be much more serious because pullets usually are valued higher than cockerels. There is no mystery or secret about chick sexing. It is merely the turning out of the vent of newly hatched chicks for the purpose of looking for a small prominent pin which is located at the edge of the vent. Any well-defined prominence is a fairly accurate sign of a male chick. This method or technique of making this examination varies somewhat, but it takes considerable practice to do the work accurately, quickly and without harm to the chicks.

Ground Cobs Are Popular for Brooder House Litter Ground corn cobs have become quite popular as a litter in brooder houses for chicks the past few years, reports John Vandevort, poultry extension specialist of the Pennsylvania State college. Grinding the cobs into pieces from one-quarter to one-half inch in size is recommended. This litter, just as all litters, should be stirred overly other than to the bottom. It is also important that this material be covered with papers or bags the first few days. Some other litters commonly used are shavings, peat moss, oat straw, sugar cane, peanut shells, dried sawdust and hay chaff. The materials should be free from dust, must be moist and should be changed as often as necessary to keep the house clean and dry. Each poultryman should decide which is the best material for him to use, considering cost, sanitation and labor necessary in cleaning.

Off-Colored Poults In the best of Bronze turkey flocks, a few light-colored, or slate colored poults occur each year. There has been much speculation among turkey breeders as to the cause of this variation. It can scarcely be due to atavism because White or Slate turkeys have not been used in the make-up of the Bronze breed, the Bronze having been derived from the wild turkey, and the White and Slate in turn established from sports of the Bronze. Many breeders believe that they are the result of an intensive breeding for color and it is alleged that where they are used as breeders their offspring usually are of better color than those from the better colored breeders—Missouri Farmer.

Poultry Notes All classes of domesticated and wild birds are susceptible to coelidiosis. Nebraska farmers have reduced the number of hens and pullets on farms. There is no profit in treating sick chicks. Disease outbreaks should be prevented. If fine quality eggs are preserved properly they can be used satisfactorily six to ten months later. If fighting among the male birds is serious, alternating them in the pen is advisable. Farm geese are water-lovers, but they wander much on land, grazing on grasses and clover, until they become the famous New Year's feast that they make. Course and should be supplied to chicks by the time they are ten days old. Later, this should be changed to still coarse and or gravel, or a commercial grit.

E. A. Garrett Died Monday Morning, Last Rites Held Wednesday

Funeral services for Edward Andrew Garrett, 63, were held Wednesday afternoon from the Baptist church, Rev. H. H. Copeland, Baptist minister of West Camp community officiating, and cremation made in the local cemetery, northwest of Mulleshoe.

Mr. Garrett was found dead by members of his family early last Monday morning after the family had arisen from repose of the previous night. As his wife went to call him for breakfast, touching him to arouse him from his slumber of the past night, she discovered he had passed on into the sleep from which there is no awakening until the final resurrection day.

Apparently he died in his sleep, probably never knowing when the transition period from time to eternity took place. His face, usually smiling, was more serious; but there was no disturbance of the bed covering indicating any bodily suffering, his right hand lay across his heart, perhaps casually so or by unconscious action as that organ ceased functioning. A more perfect nor ideal finishing of earth's life and duties could scarcely be asked by one, death being exceedingly good to this citizen as he tapped Daniel on the breast and bid the vital organs to cease functioning.

Mr. Garrett since 1928 had been a citizen of Mulleshoe and vicinity, residing mostly on his farm about 13 miles northwest of town. For several years past he had worked at his trade as a barber here in town, also overseeing the work on his farmstead. He was a man of very even habits, congenial in his nature, made numerous friends, many of whom today join with immediate members of his family in sorrow because of his death.

He was born at Logansport, Ind., in 1872, moving with his family to Nebraska in 1885, January 10, 1900 he was married to Miss May Long, and from this union there were born three children, Lloyd, Gayles (Bill) of Mulleshoe and Mrs. Henry Albus, now living at Union City, Okla. In 1905 he moved to Oklahoma. His first wife died in 1926, and about a year later he was married to Miss Birda Estes, who survives him. To this union there were born five children, Robert Henry, Billy Joe, James, Phillip and Idella. There are also four grandchildren.

He is also survived by the following brothers and sisters: H. M. Garrett, Beatrice, Neb.; J. J. Garrett, Harlingen; Miss Essie Conigan, Okla.; La.; Mrs. Mary Coats, Norman, Okla.

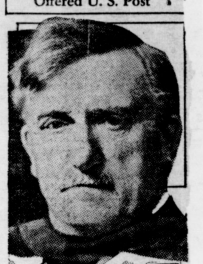

Wilbur Garrett, Abilene, Okla., son of Garrett, Abilene, Okla.; Mrs. E. A. person, Sterling, Okla. The children both marriages are all living. Mr. Garrett young in life was converted to the Christian religion, becoming a member of the United Brethren church, later transferring that membership to the Baptist church.
