This amount cleared taxes on 3,962 acres of land, and represented one of the highest payments into tax offices recorded for this region (Texas and Oklahoma).

Ganz, district supervisor for this area, serve in an advisory capacity only, in helping farmers and their creditors work out an equitable adjustment of finances so that the farmer will not lose his home. ## REDUCTION IS SEEN IN STATE SCHOOL LEVIES

Cut of 25 to 50 Per Cent In State Rate Is Predicted.

Austin officials now forecast a reduction of between 25 and 50 per cent in the state tax on valorem tax for school purposes due to improved collections and receipt of additional revenues by the available school fund from unexpected sources.

Fiscal officers anticipated the automatic tax board, which will meet in June, will have no alternative but must lower the school tax. The levy was reduced last year from the maximum of 35 cents per $100 valuation to 20 cents. The prospective reduction of 50 per cent would whittle the rate to ten cents per $100 valuation, the lowest in several decades.

Under the board's theoretical calculation last year, the school fund should close the fiscal year with its books balanced. The board figures anticipated revenues from all sources, applied this total to school appropriations and made up the remainder from the ad valorem tax.

No allowance was made, however, for the increased tax collections and for revenue windfalls from unanticipated sources. As a result of these conditions officials believe the board will pay a $17.50 per capita scholastic appropriation and show a healthy balance Aug. 31 that will be applied to liquidating obligations in the 1936-37 fiscal year, forcing a slash in the property tax rate.

The only cut in school fund revenues authorized by the legislature was diversion of one-third of the cigarette tax to the general revenue fund. This reduction, officials estimated, will be approximately offset by the one-fourth of new liquor tax revenues allocated by the constitution to school purposes.

In addition, the school fund will participate in increased revenues from the gasoline tax, expected to exceed last year's collection by approximately $2,000,000 of which one-fourth is allocated to the schools; recoup some of the losses from the cigarette tax through higher collections; receive substantially more from the gross production tax on oil because of increased benefit from a heavy increase in poll tax payments because 1936 is a "political" year and may participate a slight rise in its share of the taxes on horse race wagers.

Farm Woman Gives Her Opinion Of The New Farm Program

By MRS. W. G. KENNEDY
President, Bailey County Home Demonstration Council

I suppose it is perfectly natural that a farm woman's opinion of the A. A. A. should be expressed in terms suggested by object lessons seen about her: on the farm itself.

To me, the farm program represents a mother hen, while we farm people hover under her defensive wing with all the satisfaction of a protected chick. From the beginning of her existence the A. A. A. mother has done a good job of guarding her chicks from the terrible hawk of greed and gain which represents what we call "big business."

Then along came the Supreme court and ruthlessly wrang the neck of our faithful mother and we were thrown into a hysteria of fear, for we could see the big hawk soaring above and getting ready to swoop down upon us. Even a pack of wolves, one of which seemed to be in sheep's clothing and which bore the name of "Liberty League" was sneaking about in the bushes of political propaganda, getting ready to devour us. We went up a cheap, loud and for another mother and through the kindness of the present administration we have one.

We have been asked what for "Liberty" of our new mother. Well, frankly, after a rather lengthy examination of her, we have come to the conclusion that our lawmakers have recognized our same helpful mother, and have sent her back to us very much as she was, with one exception. They seem to have been compelled to pull her teeth. Perhaps you think it unusual for a hen to have teeth, but you must remember she came at an unusual time and it was necessary that she have teeth made up of different production control acts. But what our mother hen has lost in biting power she has gained in wisdom of teaching her chicks to conserve the natural resources from which they obtain a living.

As to whether our toothless mother hen will be as efficient as when she boasted of a full set of production control teeth, remains to be seen. However, we are certain of one thing, she will be as good a mother as we will let her be.

Every Great Enterprise is Glorious Even if It Falls

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

For godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation not to be repented of: but the sorrow of the world worketh death. —I Corinthians 7:10.

SULPHUR AND MOLASSES

Most every Muleshoe citizen can remember when his grandmother was a pretty important personage around the house. She was especially important when the minister called for when medical advice was needed. He also recalls that it was along about this time of year that she did her greatest job of doing—and the dose was sulphur and molasses. It was the one great "spring tonic" familiar in every home. Mother and father went in for tea-sassafras or buckard root or some other medicinal herb, but the younger generation couldn't count on any change from year to year—it was always sulphur and molasses. Now things have changed. Grandmothers of that day have passed on and with them the historic old spring tonic, now but a memory to hundreds of thousands of grown-up Americans. The demand of the system for a spring tonic, a sort of rejuvenator after long, sluggish winter months, is still here.

WHO'S TO BLAME

In placing the blame for auto accidents on many Muleshoe citizens are fair to the motorists? How many will admit that it is just as easy for the pedestrian to be careless.

A SPRING SUGGESTION

This is the season when almost everyone around Muleshoe is doing a little planting of some kind. It's either farm seed, garden seed or flower seed. But how many will be thoughtful enough to plant a few trees?

FARMERS LIVE LONGEST

One of the large life insurance companies of this country in a recent report states it has found from its studies of several years that farmers live about five years longer than city men. Any vacation that will add that much to the life of a man should certainly receive serious consideration from choosing their life work.

OUR RURAL MAIL

Rural mail delivery routes are getting longer and the number of rural carriers is getting smaller. One of the longest routes in the U. S. being out of this postoffice. The average Muleshoe citizen will question that statement at first glance, but if he reads the authority for it, and he offers some new fig-

Where Houston Celebrates Winning of Texas Freedom

Houston will be host to thousands April 12-21 when the San Jacinto Celebrations honor forth for ten days. Visitors will witness colorful parades and pageants, and an entertainment highlight will be a public ball on Main Street in front of the site of the old capitol of the Republic of Texas. On San Jacinto Day 100,000 will participate in a pontifical fire mass and other ceremonies to be broadcast nationally over both major networks. At the right is the gigantic shaft to be erected on the battlefield in honor of the heroes of Texas' struggle for liberty.

BAILEY CO. HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB NEWS

Plans To Sub-irrigate Yard
"We like sub-irrigation for the reason that it will save us the trouble of watering the yard," said Mrs. Walter Damon, farm food supply demonstrator of the Greleback home demonstration club. "We watered the garden 11 days ago and when we planted yesterday we found the ground had plenty of water. I planted three times as much on the sub-irrigated ground as on the surface irrigated," added Mrs. Damon. They have sub-irrigated 830 feet of the garden.

BUILD TWO NEW CLOSETS

"I had rather have my two new closets than several pieces of furniture," said Mrs. J. S. Williams, clothing demonstrator of the West Camp home demonstration club. Each demonstration closet is 6'x9'2". They moved the wall between two bed rooms and built a closet in each room. Each closet has a rod for hanging clothes, also has two drawers. One smaller drawer and the bottom shelf has a drop door. She plans to use the larger drawers for linens and wearing apparel and the shelf for shoe polish, boots and old shoes. She has 4 1/2 feet above the drawers for quilts. Mr. Williams built a shelf above the rod for hats and some shoe racks.

MAKES MORE TILE

"The 112 feet of tile made last spring has proven so profitable we are making 222 feet this spring," said Mrs. R. L. Jones, copropriator of the Muleshoe home demonstration club. Mrs. Jones had 29 varieties of vegetables in her garden last year.

PLANTS TOMATOES IN ROW

"In order to make my tomatoes earlier, I am planting them in the row," said Mrs. Wm. G. Kennedy, copropriator of the Progress home demonstration club. "I dig a hole with the post auger about 15 inches deep, mix top soil and fertilizer and fill the hole. I plant a few seeds in each hole and thin them when they come up. I get lubricating oil cans and cut both ends out leaving one end of the can so it could be turned down to protect the plants from sandstorms, hail or a freeze. It is best to put the cans over the plants and leave them there until the plants are nearly a foot high. I always plant a quick-maturing tomato," added Mrs. Kennedy. She plans to raise enough tomatoes to use fresh and to can 216 quarts of tomato products for her family of eight.

HOME-MADE MINTS

After-Dinner mints are just what their name implies but they are always welcomed at any time. And those who are unable to have mints always have some of these tidbits on hand by following these hints approved by the Home Economics department of the Kentucky College of Agriculture. Mix two cups of sugar, three-quarters cup of water, four tablespoons butter and two tablespoons vinegar. Stir until sugar dissolves and boil rapidly without stirring until the hard ball stage is reached. Then pour onto an oiled platter and when it is cool enough to handle, add 10 drops peppermint and pull. When stiff, stretch into a rope and cut into lengths of an inch or less.

Those present were the president, Mrs. G. L. Blackshear, C. B. Wallis, Olive Angel, L. P. Bynum, R. C. Anderson, J. C. Feter, Clyde Gallegre, V. A. Lane and Y. B. May. ### BABY'S DAILY DOZEN

Practically every healthy baby, if you ever noticed, is continually squirming or wriggling. He (or she) kicks, twits, stretches and throws the arms and legs aimlessly about. The reason for this, child specialists tell us, is not that baby is restless or that he is sticking him, etc. He is merely taking his daily exercise since this is the only way he can get it. A certain amount of crying every day develops his voice.

CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE

The Christian spirit with its performance never must be bred into the business life of the country by Christian men. Jesus Christ must be given a place in the chambers of commerce. Men in business must be made conscious of their sovereign right to the nation's respect the business life of the country. He is not indifferent to our business woes, our personal problems or our social sorrows. He is not so far away that He has neither interest nor influence. He is living. He is the aggressive power working for righteousness in the life of every Christian business man. He demands personal righteousness—the righteousness of personality, of character and of conduct.

It is impossible to build a commercial organization on a permanent foundation without Jesus Christ. The time has come for business men to recognize the fact that they must glorify God in the making of money. Business, the making of money and the transaction of the common affairs of life must be acts of worship, performed with an eye single to the glory of God.

The chambers of commerce must get the temple of mammon. It should be the seat of operations of Christian business men with Jesus Christ at the center. The making of money, the making of money and the transaction of the common affairs of life must be acts of worship, performed with an eye single to the glory of God.

Men have been trying to run business under the domination of mammon in business.

The spiritual powers have developed America, and less mammon in business.

Mammon worship leads to death. Character, life, and progress and happiness.

SNAP SHOTS

Another explanation for crime is that it takes so long to get rich by the old-fashioned method of hard work. Man is a funny animal: He saves wild life for hunters to kill and babies for cannon fodder. This old world is ready and willing to help you. All you have to do is just show you don't need it. If every day and be Sunday heard and it's going to be heard by-and-by on the digestion. Generally the real boss of any family is the one who feels ashamed of the way other members act in public. Work may be a man's worst curse, yet there is no record that Adam ever got into trouble after he began to sweat for a living. It is said one doesn't have to pay for justice, yet we would like to see anyone get it without first hiring a lawyer. This age isn't so smart after all. Only a few thousands of us know how to make things while the rest specializes in pushing buttons.

Pavement Pickups

According to Mrs. Hunter, local restauranter, the final test of good manners is the way one eats fried chicken when turkey is looking. Rich Turkish citizens have incense burned to awaken them in the morning, but Arnold Morris says he prefers the odor of bacon and eggs. Lud Taylor told Judge Klump the other day that his hair would "com be grey if it kept on, and the Judge replied: "That's the trouble now, it won't keep on."

Naunty Jounalettes

Some Muleshoe wives who are treated like angels prefer to have something to eat and wear. One reason some Muleshoe wives awaken their husbands suddenly out of a sound sleep is because the "ound is too loud. If a Muleshoe man quits smoking and brags about his will-power, don't give it too much credit. It may be the doctor's own party to buy one. No question about it: Life in Muleshoe was easier in horse and buggy days when folks didn't have to co-ious breakfast to buy one. Every now and then we meet a Muleshoe man who acts as though he married to have someone to blame things on. One never realizes how the human voice can change until they hear a Muleshoe woman quit smiling her husband to go answer the telephone. Right now the prayer in many families is an around Muleshoe is: "Don't get me to be the first to get a dent in the fender of the new car."

SNAP SHOTS

There is only about two ways for a Muleshoe citizen to quit having a rainy season. One is to get religion and the other is to get busy and make more money than he does. We advise some of our folks after they are married, sometime turns out to be just a campaign promise.

SNAP SHOTS

It has been recently discovered that the Muleshoe Journal is the greatest alleviator of insomnia known to human kind. No more counting of sheep is needed. Just pick up a copy of the Journal and its soothing influence soon hushes the sleepless victim into the unconscious land of No. Dr. Lewis, local dentist, says the Journal is better for his patients, than gas, chloroform or any other anesthetic known. When he wants to put a tooth, he just gives his patient a copy of this Great Sunday School periodical—it's the cheapest gas he can buy, he says.

Editor Boyle Caims Mrs. Faye Elrod As Bridal Here Sunday

Robert B. Boyle, recent editor of the Britco County News, Silvertown, and Mrs. Faye Elrod, first assistant postmaster at Muleshoe, were united in matrimony at the home of the bride last Sunday morning at eight o'clock. Rev. R. S. Watkins, local Methodist pastor, officiating.

The bride was attired in navy blue costume with pink accessories, and carried a corsage of pastel shaded sweet peas. Only members of the immediate families of the contracting parties attended the nuptial ceremony. Those being included were Mrs. Fred Wallace, mother of the bride; Wayne Wallace, Carl Elrod, Mr. and Mrs. Mills Barfield, Roy and Miss Norma Elrod, A. J. Gardner, Mrs. R. S. Watkins and son, Burgess; Mrs. J. W. Boyle, mother of the groom; Prof. and Mrs. W. C. Cox, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Coffin, Clovis, N. M.

The bride has made her home in Muleshoe for the past 15 or 16 years, and being very active in church affairs as well as those of a social nature, and has a large circle of friends here who for some weeks past have been anticipating this event, now extend their joyous best wishes.

Mr. Boyle, who recently sold his newspaper property at Silvertown, was several years ago editor of the newspaper in Muleshoe, and has a large circle of former business associates and acquaintances here who extend to him congratulations. A few weeks ago he purchased a newspaper at Brady, where the couple will make their home, beginning about the first of May when Mr. Boyle takes charge of his newly acquired paper.

Immediately following the ceremony the happy couple left for a wedding trip to Kansas City, St. Louis, Chicago and other eastern points.

WOMAN CANS MILK, BUTTER

ARAPAHO, Okla.—The milk-producing moods of the family cow does not affect the butter-making of Mrs. Witcher Hatcher. She cans the fresh milk and makes the butter when needed.

Mr. Hatcher cans milk by processing fresh cream in quart jars at 15 pounds pressure for 30 minutes. The cream will turn pinkish in the jars, but will keep indefinitely. The butter has a fresh taste, but the milk has a "condensed" flavor, she reported.

Facing Springtime

By Gloria Lane

Ward by Marie DeVille, NBC singing star

ARE you planning to meet spring with a new face? Not actually, of course, but there are things that can and should be done to make yours a fresh, dewy complexion.

You know, winter months have not been particularly kind to your face. When you pass your hand over the skin, you can feel tiny bumps under the skin which means that you have been hoarding debris swept into the pores.

Renovating the face for spring means thorough cleansing and creating normal skin activity through proper stimulation.

Quite the simplest method is a soap and brush bath. Even a tender skin—unless there is some abnormal condition—is benefited. For your face bath, make a lather with a mild toilet soap and warm water. Use an egg-shaped complexion brush that is shaped to the face so that it will easily get in the crevices, around the nose and mouth where most blackheads lodge.

With a rotary motion, massage the face thoroughly, not forgetting the forehead. Your skin begins to tingle and you feel the blood rushing to the skin surface, assisting the little facial glands to throw off excess oil and secretions. The gentle penetration of the bristles loosens the dirt and oil which have become embedded in the pores and any hard little caps which have formed on the pores will be swept away, allowing them to throw off their waste and breathe again.

The egg-shaped complexion brush has bristles which are rounded at the ends so they do not irritate sensitive skins. The brush is recommended by dermatologists for skins with blemishes and acne as it is such a thorough cleanser.

Normal and oily skins can be brushed nightly with excellent effect. For dry skins, too much pressure should not be exerted and a good lubricating cream should be applied after the twice weekly treatments. Your skin is apt to feel drawn after the first few times, but this sensation disappears once it has become accustomed to the action of the brush.

Try a series of complexion brush treatments, and meet the springtime with a radiant face.

DEMAND FOR PEANUTS

The peanut plant originally came from Brazil, was carried to Africa during our colonial times, and thence arrived in the United States on slave ships. Before the Civil war the peanut was little known outside Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee; but when the Union troops went back to their homes they took along with them a liking for peanuts.

Our United States production is still less than one-tenth of the world production. Some 29 per cent of which come from Asia and about 29 per cent from Africa. The peanut is essentially a tropical plant and grows in our southern and some warm states. About half the domestic production comes from the three states of Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee. The other half almost, comes from South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Mississippi. About one-tenth of the whole comes from Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

WHY THEY ARE CANDIDATES

In an election we vote for the candidate or that candidate, according to individual choice. But why are they called candidates? This custom of calling people running for political office candidates dates back to ancient Rome. During a political canvass in that ancient city it was customary for persons seeking the higher elective offices to appear in the Forum and other public places dressed in white togas, the white of the natural wool being brightened with chalk. The Latin word for white is candidus, and an office seeker so clad was called candidatus, whence our word candidate. Incidentally, the white toga was intended to signify the candidate's purity of purpose in soliciting the suffrage of the people. But, candidate; don't wear white togas today.

HOW ABOUT CHANGING ...HUSBANDS?...

—Lots of people do change their husbands. In fact, divorce seems to have become quite a modern fad. However—

IT ISN'T NECESSARY

In most instances if dispositions of husbands could be changed there would be less changing of the husbands themselves.

Good, wholesome food has much to do with husbands' dispositions—and that's the kind in which we specialize. Most women don't really want to change their husbands—it's just their dispositions that worry them—otherwise they would be O. K.

The old saying, "The way to a man's heart is through his stomach," still holds good in this day in time. Try our Quality Foods and see if they do not work a satisfactory improvement, not only on Friend Hubby—but also the rest of the family.

"I'M GOING TO BE RICH SOME DAY"

You'll smile patronizingly when you hear some child say "I'm going to be a millionaire." But there's a deep seated thought there. Even in the very young, there's an understanding of the comfort and financial safety. And when you start a child off in life with a good savings account and a training in the use of a bank's facilities, you've given it a good lead in life's battle. You may not be "rich" some day—but by utilizing the aid a good bank can give you—in saving; and a dozen other ways—you'll have a good start.

This bank and its officials are vitally interested in the welfare of all its patrons, and is glad to be of any assistance possible to them in their financial matters.

TIMES GETTING BETTER SAY SPIT AND WHITTLE CLUB MEMBERS HERE

With the arrival of balmy days, the departure of sandstorms (?) and a shower of rain last Sunday evening, members of the Spit and Whittle club which holds its daily meetings at no exactly stated hour on the sidewalk near the Corner drug store, are looking forward to a real improvement of times in this section.

Easier got by without any storm as the sun swapped side with the Equinox, dusters have not been nearly so frequent nor violent this year, more robbers are visiting this section than last spring, indications are the tax on cigarettes is going to be reduced in Texas, even if Baitleaze does remain the same price, international affairs right now are at a standstill, there is nothing new regarding the war between U. S. and Japan, Mussolini is still whipping up on the sanagambians, no new methods of solving the unemployment

Reports from recent municipal elections indicate women are still gaining more footholds in public affairs. Not content with entering the trades and professions, she has invaded the sacred shrines of statemanship and is now occupying positions of prestige and power in political affairs. During the early April elections numerous women were swept into office on the waves of the sea of ballots. In some places only one or two women were chosen, while in others the entire municipal government was of the feminine kind.

Much has been written and spoken in years past of this being a "man's world"; but clearly such status is undergoing a change and perhaps it is only a matter of time until it shall become a woman's world. Several states have included women, not only in direction of municipal affairs, but have elected them to legislatures and legislatures, and some have gone as high as to occupy seats in our national congress.

Some years ago Texas gave suffrage to her women, yet there has been no bad revolutions because of it nor any beneficial revolution in spite of it. It may be admitted that the masculine bias in many instances, made a mess of municipal and other civic matters, not providing for and protecting the interests of what used to be called "the weaker sex"; but no longer referred to in that manner; yet women, with all her natural charm, intuition, her potent sense of equality, yet her inherent selfishness, has failed to very much improve upon the former situations prevailing.

We said women have been looked upon as "the weaker sex"; yet we do not believe such is the fact. As far back as the Garden of Eden can be traced beginnings of the age-long conflict between sexes. While Adam roaredly carried Eve, there is no mention in Sacred literature of Eve ever saying anything in her own defense. Her lord had spoken and that was enough; why waste time listening to her tale? Eve, not being invited to speak, said nothing upon that memorable occasion—and the Eves for thousands of years afterwards held their peace, many men today believing it was done on a purpose, women merely keeping their silence in dequence while accumulating plenty of evidence material for future use.

Was not until 1792 that one Mary Woolstonecraft, 23 years old, published a book called "A Vindication of the Rights of Women," and the silence of women was broken and never to be included in spite of Mary's was but a voice in the wilderness, yet it stirred innumerable echoes from the lips of other women, proving again when women start talking they never know when to quit. They didn't take men very long to learn their women were not satisfied. Women resented man's convenient assumption of her inferiority and began to assert an innate superiority, perhaps ungodly, but unquestioned, but not definitely realized. She began taking the cramp out of her mind starved for lack of education. She demanded amendment of laws giving her equal powers over property with that of her sterner mate. She demanded a reform of opinions, customs and conventionalities. She has gained some points—many she has not and will not gain.

THE WOE OF MAN MAY BE W-O-M-A-N

By JESS MITCHELL

Reports from recent municipal elections indicate women are still gaining more footholds in public affairs. Not content with entering the trades and professions, she has invaded the sacred shrines of statemanship and is now occupying positions of prestige and power in political affairs. During the early April elections numerous women were swept into office on the waves of the sea of ballots. In some places only one or two women were chosen, while in others the entire municipal government was of the feminine kind.

Much has been written and spoken in years past of this being a "man's world"; but clearly such status is undergoing a change and perhaps it is only a matter of time until it shall become a woman's world. Several states have included women, not only in direction of municipal affairs, but have elected them to legislatures and legislatures, and some have gone as high as to occupy seats in our national congress.

Some years ago Texas gave suffrage to her women, yet there has been no bad revolutions because of it nor any beneficial revolution in spite of it. It may be admitted that the masculine bias in many instances, made a mess of municipal and other civic matters, not providing for and protecting the interests of what used to be called "the weaker sex"; but no longer referred to in that manner; yet women, with all her natural charm, intuition, her potent sense of equality, yet her inherent selfishness, has failed to very much improve upon the former situations prevailing.

We said women have been looked upon as "the weaker sex"; yet we do not believe such is the fact. As far back as the Garden of Eden can be traced beginnings of the age-long conflict between sexes. While Adam roaredly carried Eve, there is no mention in Sacred literature of Eve ever saying anything in her own defense. Her lord had spoken and that was enough; why waste time listening to her tale? Eve, not being invited to speak, said nothing upon that memorable occasion—and the Eves for thousands of years afterwards held their peace, many men today believing it was done on a purpose, women merely keeping their silence in dequence while accumulating plenty of evidence material for future use.

Was not until 1792 that one Mary Woolstonecraft, 23 years old, published a book called "A Vindication of the Rights of Women," and the silence of women was broken and never to be included in spite of Mary's was but a voice in the wilderness, yet it stirred innumerable echoes from the lips of other women, proving again when women start talking they never know when to quit. They didn't take men very long to learn their women were not satisfied. Women resented man's convenient assumption of her inferiority and began to assert an innate superiority, perhaps ungodly, but unquestioned, but not definitely realized. She began taking the cramp out of her mind starved for lack of education. She demanded amendment of laws giving her equal powers over property with that of her sterner mate. She demanded a reform of opinions, customs and conventionalities. She has gained some points—many she has not and will not gain.

No doubt woman's vote has contributed somewhat to general improvement of civic, social and political conditions; but, after all, most of these results have come to the states and to the nation through the initiative and referendum. Suffrage became effective in Texas it was thought woman would immediately sweep through the polling places with her robes of purity, holding a censor of increase in one hand and a bottle of carbolic acid in the other; but she didn't do it, and the failure can not be attributed to man.

Perhaps in this state there have been forward step in educational matters and legal equality of women; but in social and moral improvements there has been little change in recent years. To the discredit of both men and women, while there are noted conditions wherein women have joined with men to lower certain standards that have been the basis of civilization.

ded by psychologists so indicate from the answers returned. She wants this masculine something to be absolutely her very own, to love, to cherish—to control, to lead, to boss, totally married women look upon their husbands as if overgrown babies, and the number of husbands who accept that attitude of their spouses seems to be growing. "He is a great big baby," is one of the most common expressions of women when speaking critically of their husbands.

Such an expression uttered by any one woman must be largely the feeling of the most of women, indicating that woman and not man is the great egoist in home sapiens. Mrs. Carrie C. Cull, for many years one of the leaders of the feminist movement, one time said: "Woman's influence would have so leavened world politics there would have been no war." "Men have run the world for 200 years with no very great success," said Mrs. Helen R. Robinson, another sponsor of the woman's movement; while Lady Astor, added, "Only women can really construct the world." All such statements doubtless express feelings of superiority—and many more could be quoted.

There are plenty of women who think their men couldn't get along without them; that their business would go on the rocks of failure but for their woe suggestions and frequent diction—and even that it will take woman's gift which is true. Women think they can run all business affairs with keener ingenuity, more pronounced acumen, greater success than men can. Yet, in the end, it is the men who eventually save civilization—and it may all be true. All of which shows the absurdity of viewing woman as constituting "the weaker sex." Woman may be superior in muscular force; but man has it in nerve force. If she had both, man would stay home and tend the baby while Friend Wife went out to do the work of the world. If man eventually gets licked in the battle of the sexes; for control he has no one to blame but himself, for it will be largely the outcome of his notion that "he is the weaker sex."

None of this is saying the world will be a whit better when women get to ruling the roost, nor may it be any better to say because it is a man's world. To date because, in a measure because man is becoming to more and more realize his fuller responsibilities toward women as the race ascends the ladder toward higher civilization, women's rights and privileges have, in some instances, been more fully recognized and accorded. It may be a moot question as to how long it will take man to do with these improvements socially, economically and legally. There is no way of definitely determining. Statistics and observation both indicate that there is a drastic improvement in such conditions because she has been granted the ballot.

Colorado, I believe, was the first state to grant suffrage to women, and Kansas was the first to grant it to women of color. To the discredit of both men and women, while there are noted conditions wherein women have joined with men to lower certain standards that have been the basis of civilization. Of the two sexes, certain is the more determined, and frequently without logic. She is simply built that way. With her set ideas, she is the less of the two amenable to reason; something as immovable as Gibraltar, and the time may come when the lady will be the lord.

History records there was a period early days when, in certain sections of the world, women were rulers, and there is said to still be a province in Middle Tibet where a man is decidedly subordinate to the woman. The judges make laws, appoint the priests, do the courting and marry as many husbands as they please, regardless of whether they are already married. The women are said to be ravishingly pretty, good-natured, intelligent, dressy and graceful. Probably the bulk of the truth was known, a woman wants a man for about the reason she wants a baby, at least questionnaires proposometimes, and at best very poor specimens of the sex. Her characteristics of the coming offspring. It would still be her baby, as much so as a Leghorn chicken hatched in an incubator still was the offspring of the mother bird who laid the egg, but because of her principal business of continued egg-laying for her master, she didn't have time to stop to brood a bunch of baby chicks.

and incubate the cell, yet in no other way influence the life and characteristics of the coming offspring. It would still be her baby, as much so as a Leghorn chicken hatched in an incubator still was the offspring of the mother bird who laid the egg, but because of her principal business of continued egg-laying for her master, she didn't have time to stop to brood a bunch of baby chicks.

Furthermore, this busy social or political woman would not be limited to just one baby every 288 days. She could have a dozen or more a year, simply by having her own ova implanted in other women hired to incubate them for her. So far, scientists have not been able to furnish any fertilizations to supply the Y chromosome, available only in male cells. Hence, it is impossible to produce boy babies, but women won't worry about that in the least, for it will then be a woman's world, doubly, and why have a man's world about always in the way, useless and unused.

Women some years ago began invading various sorts of labor. There are plenty of women today who not only own and boss farms; but actually do most or all the labor connected with such enterprises. Women have entered the field of mechanics, and clad in a pair of overalls, work alongside the males in making or repairing machines of practically every kind. Women of America are growing stronger every day. Casting off the tight-squeezing corset, eliminating superfluous sports, taking more active part in sports and athletic activities of every kind, she is becoming brawnier, more brawny. Manufacturers of clothing say women today are taller than they were a decade ago, requiring longer dresses. They are stronger, more active, and they used to be requiring stronger made garments. Their feet are bigger, requiring larger shoes. Their hands are larger, requiring larger gloves. In every way women are so rapidly approaching the physical stature of man.

If this continues, and it may, as the male gradually declines, becomes more dulleh and dilettante, less bullish and brawnier, less powerful, less energetic and his mentality decaying, polyandry may become the common custom of the United States. Man will find himself remaining at home, washing dishes and sweeping floors, or perhaps occasionally luxuriating lolling in a he-harem while his lady lord drives the Ford or Chevrolet into the mart of business and to the market. To represent him for not putting the baby to sleep at the proper time.

Indeed, the time may eventually come when man may become an entirely useless animal, something like the vermiform appendix of the human body—just of no use whatever but for trouble and inconvenience, and in worse conditions as they should be, off in blocks of five or ten, just as Kress and Woolworth get rid of their cheap merchandise.

Periodically, information has been leaking out of Russia for the past four or five years that men are becoming less and less necessary in that Soviet country for the raising of women. It is said that fertilization of the human ovum outside the female body is now a possibility. Only a few weeks ago at the annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology held in Washington, D. C., some 2,000 scientists listened in rapt attention to the reading of a thesis holding out ultimate hope of this Russian forecast.

It is now a known fact that D. Gregory Pincus, brilliant 32-year-old Harvard physiology professor, has been able to artificially induce mammalian-life. He has extracted egg cells from a female rabbit and sperm cells from a male, fertilizing them in a test tube which was held at 100 degrees. When the female rabbit, her body fed and incubated, the egg was fertilized, and in about four weeks she bore a litter of babies in the ordinary way. When Pincus has gone still farther. Acting upon a known fact for several years existing that there are certain insects which are self-fertilizing, this professor has treated an ovum to 113 degrees, upon treating it with a salt solution, found he could make complete entities of the cells. Then placing them in the uterus of a female rabbit, they progressed to the fetus stage.

It probably is only a matter of time until fatherless rabbits will be a fact, and since the reproductive apparatus and processes in rabbits and men are essentially the same, the transcendental implications of this new discovery has set the tongues of biologists wagging that one day it may be possible to have only a matter of time until motherhood of humans by proxy is a possibility and the male of the species will be cast out into the dump heap of other useless species.

E. L. Smith Proves Worth of Tanning Hides In Home Use

By home tanning his hides, E. L. Smith, leather tanning demonstrator, in the West Camp community, is able to increase the value of his hides at least 10 times. Smith uses the methods recommended by A. & M. college in tanning hides. On heavy hides he uses a two bath chrome, on light hides, an alum tan. "The chrome leather is excellent for repairing harness, making harness and other leather articles requiring heavy leather. On the light alum tanned hides, lace leather and leather strings are made. Smith has canned a deer skin from which he expects to make several pairs of gloves. The cost of tanning is not high. Mr. Smith stated the chemicals will cost from 4c to 5c per pound, and very little labor is required in tanning.

M. K. Thornton, Jr., leather tanning specialist from A. & M. college, who last week gave a leather tanning demonstration at the Smith farm, stated that Smith had done one of the best jobs of tanning leather that he had seen. A total of about 20 people attended this demonstration.

FEAR DEATH LOSS IN MANY FLOCKS

Stringent Methods Must Be Used, Specialist Says.

By H. H. Aha, Poultry Extension Specialist, College of Agriculture, University of Missouri.
Although the outlook for poultry and eggs is mostly favorable for the first half of the year, heavy mortality losses still loom as a threat to the poultry industry.
Some flock owners last year lost as high as 47 per cent of their mature flocks, and there will be ruinous losses again this season unless poultrymen adopt more stringent methods than they have used in the past.
The drive against poultry mortality losses might well start with greater alertness on the part of flock owners in detecting birds out of condition, in detecting and removing quickly from the pen all sick birds and in a real appreciation of cleanliness.
Certainly drugs and so-called remedies have failed to solve the problem, much as they have been used.
There is too much "doctoring" of sick chickens and not enough clean feeders, waterers and houses. It is useless, of course, to clean the droppings board and leave a side rail to a feeder or waterer filthy dirty. Dirt around feeders and waterers helps to get the birds very possible chances of thorough exposure to any disease or parasite present.
Faulty sanitation or flock management is probably not wholly responsible for heavy mortality losses now being suffered by flock owners. There is considerable evidence that certain strains of poultry may be lacking in vitality. Future breeding may need to be done more with two-year-old stock and less with yearlings. More consideration might well be given to the effect of breeding on mortality.

Why the Early-Hatched Chicks Are Preferred

There are at least five reasons why one is apt to be more successful when early hatched chicks are chosen, according to H. L. Kempster, of the Missouri College of Agriculture.
The pullets will have time to mature and start laying in the summer months, when egg prices are higher; the cockerels, when sold as broilers, usually return more money; early hatched chickens are less likely to become infected with coccidiosis and infested with worms; early hatched pullets develop into heavier birds, which lay more eggs; and cooler weather is conducive to more rapid growth and proper development.
In the selection of chicks, by those that are free from disease and vigorous stock, which has been tested for pectoral disease. Try to get chicks from heavy laying hens or from early hatched, well mated pullets. It is desirable that they come from females which lay large eggs and have been mated to male birds that come from high producing hens that lay large eggs (two inches each or more).
A short business session was held after which the girls sang the "Eyes of Texas." The meeting was then turned over to the game leader and many interesting games were played.
Those present were: Miss Alma Stewart, the demonstrator, Verna Mae Copeland, Jennie Kimbrough, Mary Doyle, Anna Lee Nettles, Mildred Luttrell, Alice Haley, Geraldine Feaglin, Viva Mae Askew, Leon Bun, Ruth Edmund, Louise Bun, Ruth Heard, Sarah Heard, Evelyn Ross, Frances Doyle, Ruth Gumpert, Marie Hendrix and Miss Opal Jenkins and Mrs. A. ### Feeding Fresh Greens

If fresh greens are fed as the only source of vitamin A, they should be fed daily in amounts of 5 to 6 pounds per 100 birds per day. Whole alfalfa hay can be fed in racks or in the litter at the rate of about 2 pounds per day for the same number of birds when fresh greens or alfalfa meal are not fed. Alfalfa meal or leaf meal should be included in the mash, at least 10 per cent and 8 per cent, respectively, if used as the only source of vitamin A.

Poultry Cullings

Markets seem to prefer infertile eggs.
Enlarged livers occur in a number of poultry diseases.
Moderation is a pretty good policy in all things, including chicken raising.
Laying hens will produce more eggs during the winter if they get warm water to drink.
Most markets demand a light colored skin; consequently, those flocks that tend to produce this should be favored.
Laying pullets are sensitive to, any sudden changes and are easily thrown into a partial molt, with a check in laying.

The hen is strongly individual. Now and then one succumbs to the lassness of an easy life, just eating the mash and grit and grit in troughs and hoppers before her and laying now and then.

Arrest Of "Real Kidnapers" Seen By Chicago Man

Arrest of the persons he termed the "real kidnapers" of the Lindbergh baby "within several weeks at the most" was predicted Monday by Bernard J. Finnigan, young Chicago lawyer who said he was taking part in Governor Harold G. Hoffman's investigation of the case.

After flying from the East Sunday with a claim to discovery of a hidden cache of $5,000 of the kidnap "ransom money," Finnigan declared "solution" of the case "may be only a few hours away."

"Any one of several expected breaks may precipitate the case at any moment," he said.
Finnigan asserted Gov. Hoffman of New Jersey now has evidence showing that Bruno Richard Hauptmann, executed for the child's death, was "a positively innocent man."

"A number of other people" were the kidnap plotters, the lawyer added, explaining he "couldn't say why" he thought so "without saying too much."
"Someone will issue warrants, against these people after Gov. Hoffman weaves the tagged threads of the case together into a closely knit whole," Finnigan said.

At that time, he went on, the government will "make all the evidence public."
He insisted, however, that the "ransom money" he said he uncovered "in New York state" with the aid of a client, Stephen Spitz, would "unquestionably" lead to a clean up of the case.

Spitz, a convicted forger who left jail here to seek the money, said he had "bought it in Trenton, N. J. for 40 cents on the dollar. Finnigan said it was "available" to Hoffman. He said "a lot more" ransom bills "will be produced."

Mrs. Euel Harding, of Rogers, N. M., is staying this week in the home of her brother, Luther Blakely. Her small daughter, Evelyn, has diphtheria and they are here, so as to be near a good doctor.

A number of young people here attended the district B. Y. P. U. meeting held at Oklahoma Lane Sunday.

"A well-arranged clothes closet contributes greatly toward prolonging the life of a garment," said Aitha Lee Biggum, a West Camp 4-H girl, to a group of 4-H girls at their club meeting held at the West Camp school house Wednesday, April 15.

In our hurry we change from one set of garments to another, and too often throw our clothes over the back of a chair and lie ourselves away. If we desire to appear well-dressed and expect our clothes to last, we must treat them with more care.

IF YOU THINK WE'RE TAXED, LOOK WHAT NAZIS PAY EVERY YEAR SINCE HITLER HAS BEEN IN POWER TAX COLLECTIONS HAVE RISEN; TEN STANDARD TAXES, SEVEN OTHERS ARE NOW LEVIED

Folks around Mulshoe generally think they are terribly taxed, and most of them are; but if they will read this story of German taxation and realize how much better off American citizens are, it may quiet their pulses somewhat.

Every year since Adolph Hitler came into power collections on assessments levied by the government have been larger than in the preceding one.
There are ten standard taxes upon which the structure of the reich's income-bearing chiefly rests:

1. The income tax.
  2. The tax on wealth.
  3. The inheritance tax.
  4. The citizen's tax.
  5. The corporation tax.
  6. The sales turn over tax.
  7. The tax on one's trade.
  8. The capital turnover tax.
  9. The tax on real estate.
  10. The special tax on bachelors.
- But these are not the only mandatory contributions to the public welfare. There is a whole network of obligations for Mr. Citizen which have almost the effect of law. These include:

1. Regular contribution to the winter relief fund.
2. A special fund for the schooling of apprentices in one's own profession.
3. Special tax on the sum total of wages paid by a concern.
4. Tax on drinks of various kinds, such as beer, wine, coffee.
5. Tax on capital yield.
6. Tax-like dues in sick and benefit societies. German labor front, for the unemployment fund, etc.
7. "Confidential orders" issued in the form of a levy upon a given trade or industry to raise a certain amount within a certain time for a specified special purpose.

INVESTMENT EXPERIENCE

Some time ago a man surveyed his investment experience during two generations.
His first investment was in real estate. Hard times came along, taxes soared, and values depreciated. He was forced to mortgage it—and eventually the mortgage was foreclosed. His investment was nearly a total loss.

His next investment was in a small business. It did fairly well for a while, then a better product came on the market. The business went to the wall. This investment was a total loss.

His third investment was in securities. These were regarded as first-class. However, changed conditions proved otherwise; the securities declined in value and finally became worthless. This investment was also a total loss.
During this time, other savings he made shrank to about ten cents on the dollar.

One investment not only held its value, but appreciated. That investment was a life insurance policy.

For downright safety, it would seem that life insurance tops the list for the savings of the average man.
