One of the largest crowds ever to jam its way through the streets of Mulleshoe was here last Monday for the dual celebration of Trades and Labor day plus the baseball tournament and automobile races wherein toothless old wrecks with practically all their "run-down miles" used up whizzed around the track at proportionally less than the proverbial speed of "a mile a minute," yet some of them to "bring home the bacon" to their proud owners of such ancient and decrepit machines.

One housewife using an exceptionally kitchen spoon imitated the clatter in a manner that would have put the of these instrument manufacturers truly out of business. One dear old lady dressed as a South Texas mammy ended a dish pan as though it was a bass drum taken from Sousa's celebrated band, and numerous other things that their improvised and spontaneous parts performed by her kitchen machinery whereat housewives mix those conceptions that in their way to men's hearts through air stomachs.

HEAVY RAIN IN SECTION AIDS NEEDY CROPS

From One Half Inch To Three Inches Is Fall In Area. Long anticipated and greatly desired rainfall visited this region the three last days of last week with other sectional showers last Sunday evening, relieving crops from Belen, N. M., across the northern part of West Texas into the Oklahoma Panhandle area, and from north of Clovis, N. M., to as far south as Pecos, this state.

While the precipitation was not heavy in most places, averaging around one-half inch, yet there were instances where the fall was as great as two and three inches. In some sections, two weeks past, crops in this section, which had the best prospects for five years past, were beginning to need moisture. While most of the planted cotton was holding up well, some feed crops were needing rain badly. East of some crops have been damaged greatly by continued drought, but most feed crops will be greatly revived and make a luxuriant growth until harvest time. Most late planted feed will speed to holding its own pretty well and with these rains will come on and make an abundant crop.

Cotton, of which there has already been a bigger crop forecast than for several years past, will now continue toward a big harvest. It is stated by many farmers that cotton blossoms coming on plants by September 15 will go ahead and develop bolls that can be ginned out, providing the conditions hold off to the normal date in November.

In Bailey county, the rainfall at Mulleshoe last week was .86 inch. In other sections of the county, the rainfall ranged from one-half to three-quarters of an inch, south of there toward the southern county line as much as one and a half inches are reported in some places. Circleback community had more than two inches. Frequent and heavy showers were reported from West Camp and Progress communities both last Sunday afternoon that rain reaching within about four miles of Mulleshoe.

Plainview received three and a half inches of rain last week it becoming lighter farther east. At Floydita it was 1.25 inch. Lubbock reported more than an inch rain. The area around Am town was flooded and crops mired down in mud. Clovis, N. M. north of here had a total of nearly two inches. Another 25 inch of rain fell west of Mulleshoe last Sunday evening.

The Household

By LYDIA LE BARON WALKER

TO SAVE the bindings of books either because they are choice or because they are shabby, make paper covers or use textiles instead of the stiff paper. Both the cloth and paper covers can be smart and ornamental today, as notably papers in suitable weight are procurable, and decorative fabrics are to be found in profusion.

Waterproof cloth is best for book covers, and those which are handled in the kitchen. If the cover gets wet or spotted, they can be restored merely by rubbing the cover with a wet cloth, or by using soap and water or a cleaning agent on the spots.

Textile covers can be made in either one of two ways. First, a strip of material, lined, can be bound along edges, this is done by centering the strip on after each end of the goods has been turned toward the center. Also, a hem of several inches. The depth of this hem depends on the size of the book to be covered. The length between hems must be adequate for the front and back bindings to be slipped under the hems and tied close without tension on the textile.

Method for Paper.

The other way to cover a book applies both to paper and textiles. Make a paper pattern by centering the open book on a strip of paper wider than the volume and several inches longer. Make slight diagonal cuts for edge of top and bottom of paper as far as the back of the book, leaving the space between these cuts, the width of the back. Fold sheet partially over the book. Close the volume and fold the paper over lengthwise edge of back and front bindings. Fold side portions over bindings and under corners, tuck paper or textile under front of bindings to form uncut but mitered corners.

The various folds of paper or material provide decorative variety. Paper, being stiff and firm, will stay in place, but where the mitering comes in corners of textiles, there should be a few stitches put in to prevent covers from slipping.

The choice of smart patterned papers such as are imported, and choice textiles, determine the handsome character of these covers. Brocades are exquisite, glazed chintz is recommended also in fabrics. Never use wallpapers, however good looking they are by no means strong enough, and they will rub with constant handling.

Unit Furniture.

Unit furniture, that is furniture that is made not merely for separate pieces in themselves, but also to combine so that the units form other pieces, is one of these modern era styles. Many possibilities lurk in unit furniture. It is especially desirable in small apartments, or in rooms which serve double purposes as instanced in living room bedrooms, which the English term "bed sitting rooms."

Another good feature of the unit furniture is that it can be combined to save space, or separated to afford extra furniture. Also it can be shifted about and used in other combinations so that different furnishings can be secured at a moment's notice and with little effort, and the needs of the hour can be supplied with little extra outlay.

An interesting arrangement of unit furniture consists of three chairs, or two chairs and one ottoman and an end table, which is also a bookcase and which can form an arm for one chair, or the head of a studio couch when the three chairs or two chairs and one ottoman are positioned in a straight line. By pushing the ottoman into the angle of a wall by an open fire, and using large pillows for the back, and placing a side chair close to each end, you will have an ingle-nook, or a corner couch. By separating them you have two chairs and an ottoman. These three units prove living room furniture, or bedroom to fill these respective needs at different times in the twenty-four hours.

Brightening Dark Rooms

Stronger contrast of colors can be used in rooms inclined to be dark than in well lighted interiors, according to F. N. Vandewalker in his new book "Interior Wall Decoration." Here, the lover of brilliant hues may use yellows, reds, and tints of orange. Fabrics with prominent patterns and wall finishes with rough textures are also effective in dark rooms.

Get Painter in Time

Painting is one of the things that costs money to do without. Wear from weather is continually taking place and if there is insufficient paint protection, the house suffers.

Painting Preparation

When preparing to do a painting job, be sure that your paint is well mixed. It's a good idea to pour the paint from one can into another and back again four or five times.

NEWEST IN KITCHENS

BUNCHES of grapes and ears of corn in a conventionalized design make the mouth water when you glimpse this kitchen which has re-nounced the prevailing school of impersonal decoration for a newer idea in scenic effects. Here washable wall paper and natural knotty pine in cabinet-work form an attractive setting for the sleekness of the modern gas range. Certain fashions of the late eighties and nineties, such as natural woods and wall papers, are now the latest style in kitchen decoration. Note the recessed window curtained in sheer plaid ruffled tie-backs.

Amarillo Racing Is Set For Sept. 18-26 New Track Is Ready

Amarillo, Sept. 8.—The bugle sounds the blue tangles! The parade is on! The ponies reach the post! Everyone stands up! Then the start cry, "they're off!" rings through the grandstand, and in a few short minutes the race is over.

A short time, true, but it's packed with excitement and thrills—sometimes spills.

It's thoroughbreds on parade. Sleek horseflesh whose breeding goes back to stately nights in Arabia and fussy auctions in England.

Panhandle fans will have opportunity to enjoy, thrill, and be entertained by the royal racers just as turf fans on the big apple tracks have. The Tri-State Fair's fall horse race meeting commences on September 18 and ends on September 26.

An expenditure of thousands of dollars has brought the Tri-State track up to a new standard for minor plants. There is no other small track like the Tri-State's in the Southwest.

With this material setup, there is little reason to doubt one official's prediction that the Tri-State's fall meeting will surpass any minor racing program in the country.

Admittance prices to the grandstand are low. Box seats, comfortable and clean, are available at a price slightly higher than general admission.

The deadline for filing by independent candidates has passed, but parties may file until Oct. 2.

Parties which probably will be represented on the ballot are the Democratic, Republican, Union, Socialist, Communist and Prohibition. All these, except the Democrat's, have filed and Democratic candidates will be received after ratification at the convention in Fort Worth, Sept. 8.

Bailey Co. To Get $9.60 Per Acre In Soil Crop Depletion

That the average rate of payment per acre to be used in determining the payments for each acre of the general soil depletion base for 1936 in Bailey County will be $9.60 is the gist of information contained in advice received last Saturday from Department of Agriculture Washington, D. C. by J. B. Walde, county farm agent.

Bulletin No. 4 received by Mr. Walde lists such payments for all counties in Texas and it is worthy of note that Bailey is one of the highest paid counties in the state, ranking second in this part of Texas and being exceeded in per acre payment only by Lamb county.

The Vogue For MIXED VEGETABLES

WELL blended vegetables are like well blended colors. They produce harmony. Every housewife knows how important it is to get a variety of vegetables into the family diet, and how difficult it is in households where Mary Jones likes one vegetable and Johnnie likes another. The task of scraping, dicing and cooking takes time and labor.

Canners have produced a harmony of flavor and taken a task off the hands of the housewife. In preparing delicious canned mixed vegetables. You will want to know lots of delicious ways to serve them this winter. For example:

For Chilly Days

Scalloped Mixed Vegetables: Turn the contents of one No. 2 can mixed vegetables which have been drained, into a buttered baking dish, and pour over one-half cup of cream. Mix together one-fourth cup buttered crumbs, and sprinkle over the top. Brown in an oven. This serves five persons.

Baked Stuffed Peppers: Cut off the stem ends of six or eight medium-sized green peppers, and remove the seeds and membrane. Parboil for two or three minutes in boiling water and drain. Combine the contents of one No. 2 can mixed vegetables with one cup of white sauce. Season well and fill the peppers with the mixture. Top with buttered crumbs. If desired, a square of sliced cheese may be placed on each pepper. Place close together in a shallow pan and surround with a little hot water. Bake until tender and browned, or about thirty minutes. This serves six persons.

Vegetable Pie: Turn drained vegetables from a No. 2 can of mixed vegetables into a buttered baking dish and pour over the contents of one 104-ounce can of tomato soup. Roll out biscuit dough, cut in rounds and lay on top. Bake for fifteen to twenty minutes in a hot oven. This serves eight persons.

MODERN BREADS

HALF a loaf, isn't such a bad portion after all—providing it's half bread and half delicious fruit which makes the loaf not only more easily digested, but very delicious. The modern trend is for serving more fruits in breads, muffins, biscuits, etc. Modern hostesses find it a most convenient way to provide the desired afternoon tea breads, as well as breads for everyday meals.

Decorative and Delicious

Cranberry Corn Muffins: Beat one egg, add two tablespoons sugar and one cup sour milk. Then add the following sifted dry ingredients: one cup flour, one cup cornmeal, one-half teaspoon soda and one-half teaspoon salt. Stir in three tablespoons melted butter and one-half cup canned cranberry sauce, using the thick part of the sauce instead of the juice. Bake in buttered muffin tins at 400 degrees for from twenty to twenty-five minutes. This makes twelve small muffins.

Pineapple Nut Bread: Sift together the following dry ingredients: two cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt and one-fourth cup sugar. Add one egg well beaten, one cup milk, three tablespoons shortening and one-half cup crushed pineapple which has been very well drained. Then add one-half cup of nuts. Bake in a greased loaf pan in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for one hour or until done. Makes a medium-sized loaf.

FUNDS ALLOCATED TO DEVELOP HEALTH UNITS

Austin, September 15.—One of the outstanding benefits of the allocation of Social Security funds to the State Department of Health, as pointed out recently by Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer, is the possibility of broadening the program of county health units. Although there had previously been established and maintained only seven county health units within the state, the results of their work have proved the value of the organization and disclosed the need for health units in other Texas counties.

Under the provisions of the Social Security Act it is possible to form new health units in Texas through the State Department of Health with counties furnishing a portion of funds necessary and State and Federal governments completing the sum.

Every Great Attempt is Glorious Even if It Fails

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Wisdom is good as an inheritance; and by it there is profit to them that see the sun.—Ecclesiastes 7:11.
The strongest symptom of wisdom in man is his being sensible of his own foibles.—Rochefoucauld.

THE FUTURE MORTGAGE

During the fiscal year 1936, according to Paul Mallon, the well known publicist, Federal expenditures totaled $8,879,798,257. Receipts totaled $4,115,966,615.

The deficit thus came to the near sum of $4,763,841,642. We have been spending two dollars for every dollar received in taxes.

At the end of June, the total Federal debt (a mortgage on all our earnings and property) reached the record figure of $33,779,000,000. It is continuing to grow, and coming years must witness further deficits and continuing interest from whatever party is in power, in the view of authorities. To quote Mr. Mallon directly, "If either Mr. Roosevelt or Governor Landon is able to balance the budget next year he will need magical powers."

This indicates how grave a problem the nation faces in its fiscal policy. The problem will never be solved, until the politics, men high in both parties continually give their approval to spending policies which further distort the budget. It can be solved only by a statesmanlike approach in which intelligent cooperation takes the place of rancor, and honest discussion the place of stump speeches.

The public must demand that the budget be balanced as soon as possible. It must demand that every dollar spent give a good account of itself. It must demand that a systematic program for reducing the public debt be adopted.

Whether you are a Republican or a Democrat, the problem is your problem. It strikes at your pocketbook, and your future—to say nothing of your children's future.

HONORABLE MENTION

Some Muleshoe motorists still cling to the old belief that truck drivers are the worst of road-logs, but those who want to be fair are ready to admit that all things considered, the truck operators of the country are the most skillful drivers on the highways. Day after day on a long haul you may meet hundreds of trucks and you will not encounter many drivers who do not scrupulously adhere, not only to the rules of the road, but to the rules of courtesy and consideration as well.

The truck drivers, taken as a whole, are vastly better than the drivers of pleasure cars. Some of these latter seem to feel as if they owned the roads and that everyone else driving on the highway as a safe track and, dashing madly along are a menace to the lives and limbs of everyone in their way.

One of the big trucking concerns which does business in 20 states never puts a driver on the road until he has had the most careful training. If one of its drivers has an accident in which he is even remotely at fault, he is transferred away from trucking. The living of the truck driver depends on the care with which they drive. You will find them stopping when the signs say stop, they wait for the green lights, and they invariably keep to the right of the road. They are doing a wonderful job and setting drivers of passenger cars many fine examples. They deserve the honorable mention intended by these few kind words.

WHERE THE BONUS WENT

There was much speculation around Muleshoe before the soldiers' bonus was distributed as to just where the bulk of the money would be spent. Today a little more than two months since the bonus funds were distributed reports from Washington furnishes information along that line.

These reports show that approximately 60 percent of the bonds have been cashed. The remaining 40 percent were issued to the veterans and of this amount about $1,200,000,000 have been cashed. The result is surprising to the Treasury Department officials, for it was predicted that between 80 and 90 percent of the ex-soldiers would cash their bonds, and that at least $1,500,000 would be required to finance the operation.

The result has not been surprising and pleasing. It has only enabled the treasury to borrow less than had been anticipated, but it will give a considerable number of war veterans an income and continuing interest in the welfare of the federal government, whose bonds they hold.

THE PIONEER SPIRIT

With crops of all kinds below normal, one hears these days many complaints from rural residents around Muleshoe and many threaten to get off the land and try their luck in the cities.

It may be that in some instances they would really benefit by the change, but it is also true that those who stick to the soil will far best in the long run.

It is not a fallacy to say that there is a little difference between the pioneer farmer of yesterday and the modern farmer of today. Of course modern farmers have more equipment to work with but there is one thing the pioneer farmer had in which present-day farmers seem to be lacking, and that is the "pioneer spirit."

The man way back had his failures, his depressions and his headaches, but he didn't go around stepping on his lip and crying for the government to help him. This would be a better fed and a happier nation if it could boast a little more of that "pioneer spirit."

PARKING LONG TRUCKS

Parking of long bodied trucks on a prominent street is not only inconvenient but sometimes quite dangerous. More than one passenger car has been more or less damaged by inadvertently running into a long bodied truck that stuck out beyond the general line of other cars.

Some towns and cities positively prohibit such long truck parking on their principal streets. Some of the larger cities even refuse big trucks permission to travel such streets because of the danger and added congestion. The Journal respectfully calls attention to the City Commission of this common practice of long bodied trucks parking on Main street in Muleshoe and suggests that an ordinance prohibiting such be put into effect. A mark painted down the street 18 or 20 feet from the curb would be well, and

RICHARD LLOYD JONES SAYS

Thoughts Sculpture Your Face

When Richard Mansfield was once asked to name the greatest mystery in life and his interrogator expected the customary answer "death," the eminent actor promptly replied, "The human face—see a face once and you can find it among millions. It is the do-or-late of individuality."

The face is the mirror of moods. It is the echo of the heart. No artist can paint its changing countenance—no science has found the sculptural power of the mind to mould it.

Faces are as legible as books. Behind each is a story of experience, suppressed or latent power and romance. In every human countenance lies a world of a possibility.

The face is the gate through which children and dogs find gentle and generous souls. "Sad horses never lift to a serene face as a flower leans toward the warm sun."

Birth gives us the unmarked outline of a face which it is the mission of life to fill in for us. The faculty that raises us as human beings leans toward the face. It is the way we "choose to choose" that we make or mar our faces and our souls.

The soul is the exacting tyrant of the face. She makes it to suit herself and to reflect her slightest whim. Should the soul be sullen she at once moulds the features to tell her mood.

The soul writes upon the face what she chooses. When weary of being housed in the body the soul takes flight but leaves her fabled record on the face.

It is common practice to yearn for our departed youth. Youth is but becoming elderly. Youth is the soul that early "chooses to choose" the art of conduct that leaves the least regret and little wishing that "it might have been."

In the finest sense the noblest use of life is, as Ruskin would say, to picture "The good, the true and the beautiful" on your face.

NATURE'S PRICE

Usually it is only the farmers around Muleshoe who are interested in the news, but following this year's nation-wide drought even the housewives are reading crop reports and forecasts. Conditions have become so serious that the city dwellers are sitting up and taking notice. Increasing food prices hit every family pocketbook. It is not a pleasing situation that we face with the corn crop the poorest since 1881, the potato crop less than half of normal and gardens a total failure in at least a dozen states.

There is no cause, however, to fear a food shortage, but we shall have to import foodstuffs, thereby sending to foreign countries the dollars that, but for the drought, would have gone into the pockets of American farmers.

The procedure may not be any too agreeable to us, but we have to pay the price when Mother Nature exacts it.

SHARING THE WEALTH

A few days ago oil in abundance was discovered in the land of a young Huey Long lieutenant. This man had been preaching Long's doctrine of "share the wealth."

When oil was struck on his land, and it became apparent that he would become immensely wealthy he was asked if he still intended to uphold the "share the wealth" doctrine. His answer was: "Not on your life. The depression is over, and I can't see any need to push the movement." That's human nature for you. Most of us are willing to share what we haven't got, but not what we have. We are perfectly willing to let our brother's keeper—when he has anything to keep but when the wheel of fortune stops on our number—well, that's a horse of a different color.

LATIN GREEK

Speaking of Latin the scholarly Jess Mitchell guiding light and chief ramrod of the Muleshoe Journal, is the only mental celebrity in the galaxy of Panhandle publishers to use Latin phrases on his front page headline. His deduction reads: "Littera Scripta Manet." Being thoroughly acquainted with the metes and bounds of the mental strabismus of the rabble element, the Hon. Jess hastens to insert a translation immediately following which offers all the enlightenment necessary to meet the demand of the curious. The Latin phrase merely means "The written word endures." This explanation appeases the rabid mental appetite of the curious as any "holo" (Greek) that may exist.

We prefer to stick to our Greek, Mr. Mitchell. The Latins are few and far between, but the Greeks are an up and coming human commodity just now threatened with a dictator which will bring them all the more into the limelight. Besides they control the Texas golf coast fine market, and the writer is fond of fish—much more so than either Latin or Greek—By C. Estlack, ("Apostle" in Temple of Truth column) Donkey County Leader, Childless—Clarendon.

O. K. brother Estlack, you may have your Greek and we'll not fall out over dead and half-dead languages; but with Judge Peebles I prefer my Latin. I've never had much use for the trucks that can not park between that line and the curb then they have no business parking in that particular block.

Greeks since the World war that gave them the opportunity of introducing paper napkins in cafes which like a bashful young lady, persist in slipping off one's lap.

Pavement Pickups
Marvin Terrell says "to borrow may be only human, but judging from one of his neighbors who doesn't return what he borrows, to do so must be pretty close to being divine."

Elmo Head admits if prices keep going up, one of the great needs of this country will be a good five-cent egg.
Dr. Gibbs admits fat folks are nearly always jolly, but not right after they step off the scales.

It is being reported around town this week that a certain Muleshoe family after attending church services last Sunday morning, returned home and proceeded to criticize the meeting. The father didn't like the sermon, the mother thought the pianist made too many mistakes, the daughter didn't like the singing; but the son remarked he thought it was a darn good show for a nickel.

A tourist journeying over the North and South road a few days ago, asked one of the overlanders why they were wearing hats. "They are particular highway," "Those are not statues," replied the foreman. "They are WPA workers."

In a local restaurant a waiter asked C. H. Whiteside, here from Kansas City looking after land interests, "Wasn't your egg cooked long enough?" "Yes," replied Mr. Whiteside, "but it wasn't cooked soon enough."

Since the Democratic primaries are over Dr. Matthews feels free to state that in his travels over the county he discovered quite a few charming young women who didn't eat enough food to entertain the medicine they took into their stomachs.

W. B. McAdams who is embarking in chicken raising on a large scale this year, says chickens have a double utility: not accorded many other items raised by farmers. "They are good to eat before they are born and good to eat after they are dead."

In this column the Journal will publish contributions from the general public. Articles must be plainly written and signed, though the contributor's name will be withheld if desired. Articles offered for publication must not contain statements of libelous or defamatory nature, the editor reserving the right to delete such statements or to withhold the entire article.

The following letter was duly received by the Journal from Richard Rockey, former Muleshoe citizen, and now chief officiating functionary of a Ford agency mechanical department located close to the Canadian line where the "honkers" stand from late in the fall that Muleshoe sportsmen like to "shoot at."

It is being published because of the many friends Mr. and Mrs. Rockey has here and who will be glad to have a brief message from them. The Journal has been duly started on its weekly trips to them and these "letters from home" will doubtless be greatly appreciated.—Editor.

Omak, Wash.
Dear Mr. Mitchell:
I am sending a money order for two dollars for the Journal one year.

We are about 2500 miles from Muleshoe but still like to hear about the Canadian line, 250 miles from Spokane and about 300 from Seattle. We went over to Oliver, B. C. one Sunday and three boys were standing on the street puzzled over the license plate on our car. Finally one of them said, "Centennial, oh, yes, that's a subdivision of Texas." We had quite a laugh about it. That much of Canada I s'prety, but the roads are terrible.
Hope the crops and everything in general are fine in Bailey County.
Thanks for your kindness.
Richard M. Rockey.

RICH AND RIGHTEOUS

Riches are not an evil within themselves. There is no inherent wickedness in money. It is the use of money that is the root of all kinds of evil. When one sets his heart on money, he then becomes a menace to himself and to the world. When he determines that his whole mind shall be absorbed in the thought of being rich, then he becomes dishonest. When he trusts in riches, then it becomes impossible for him to enter the gates of heaven.

Jesus Christ never condemned riches. He condemned the worship of riches. He condemned covetousness; He condemned the misuse of riches. He denounced the dishonest man, the unfaithful steward, the man who exploited his own talent to rob God. It is just as true today as it was when Christ uttered it, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven. It is just as true today as it was when Christ uttered it, it is easier for a man who trusts in riches, who makes riches his kingdom, who makes wealth his god, to enter the kingdom of heaven.

Christ taught that heaven was a condition in which a Christian might find himself, and in which he might faithfully serve God and attain the highest rank in Christ's character. Christ regarded riches as a stewardship. A person's wealth must be administered, not for his own ease and pleasure, but for any selfish end, but for the glory of God and the benefit of humanity. In the teachings of Christ, every talent is to be used in the Master's service. When Christ said, "May I put up with myself, and my earth," He put the emphasis on "myself." You lay up for yourself, but lay up on an honest and for God's cause.

Riches can be gotten richly, but no one can really get rich any other way.

WEEKLY LAY SERMON

SUNUP SINGING

By JESS MITCHELL

Singing before breakfast is perhaps the best antidote for that irritable morning feeling which affects human nature more or less in a general manner of grouchy. If a family can get by the morning meal without starting something, they have a pretty good chance to complete the entire day with out friction of any kind so say psychologists, psychiatrists, and other lists of that type.

Bacon and eggs have to be cooked, cereal of some kind must be served, also, morning baths and shaves have to be taken, and, if Friend Wife can keep a tune humming in the kitchen that keeps tempo with Hubby's razor as it glides over the strip, the community feeling is quite likely to start off in a favorable manner.

Where there is only one member of the family that awakes with a song in their heart which slips out in bubbles from their lips, it has been known to affect favorably and alleviate somewhat that grouchy feeling of others of the same household, resulting in the entire circle keeping in a round dimension without any rough corners having to be knocked off at the breakfast table.

When one's other better half can't muster a lyric of some kind, or at least a few pleasant words and a countenance crack or two bearing semblances of a smile, something may happen any moment, according to past experiences of householders; but if a little ditty goes with making the coffee, and a little hum with the morning shower and shave, the entire family may step into the day with reasonable assurances of profit and pleasure.

There are entirely too many wives who crawl out of bed in the morning with a frown on their face and a grouch on their chest; too many husbands who take their morning deep breathing exercises in inglorious manner when by humming a few strains of some pleasant melody they would inhale the fresh air and the song would have its beneficial effect upon them in a plus manner, as well as lightening the feelings of others dwelling within the same four walls.

In these modern times one of the pernicious bogies that invade many households is the idea of members of a given family getting up at various hours of the morning. Of course, there is excuse for such if one has been late the night before, worked hard the day before, or happens to be sick that morning; but generally speaking, there are certain obligations each member owes to the family to which they belong, and certain harmonious actions to which other members of a given household are entitled. To say the least, others miss the melody that should come from the lips and heart of the one who sleeps late, miss the pleasure of their company around the morning breakfast table, and perhaps a pleasant conversation or two that would be helpful to the others as they go out into the day's duties.

Nearly everyone likes music, whether they themselves sing or not. There may be instances where one cannot sing but tries to in the presence of other members of the household, and such is not conducive to increasing a level of family sentiment; but with the use of a little discretion such irritable sonorous or unmelodic cantabile attempts may be tempered until others of a given household may even come to appreciate the soft and mild effort of those who try to contribute their part toward early morning happiness.

It's an old saying that "any family that can come through the breakfast period smiling will get through the day without a frown," and there is much truth in that proverb. There may be trials and disappointments galore later on in the day, victories may be changed to defeats, business may be exacting and exasperating; but the memory of the happy early morning hours, the

By A. Leda

Any questions on etiquette will be gladly answered in this column if addressed to A. Leda, care of this newspaper.

There is more to Etiquette than just doing this or that correctly. How we eat or how we talk is important of course, but how we talk is even more so. People judge us daily (much more than we realize) by the language we use. Whether it's French, English, Spanish or German, it matters not—the grammar must be correct. Good English is a sign of good breeding and good breeding is what makes a man or woman a lady or gentleman. What we think and what we say shows what we are—and our ability to say it.

Here are a few expressions so often heard, which quickly reveal a lack of culture: "So many times we hear 'yea' instead of 'yes,' 'she don't' instead of 'she does not.' 'Between you and I' is often used (if speaking to a person, not a friend), 'Jack will join us' or at any other time 'my husband will join us.'"

DEAR A. LEDA: What should be done when a young man asks a girl if he may call on a certain evening and then does not appear? Should she discontinue their friendship?

A MOUNTAIN GIRL.

Yes, very decidedly. It is a very rude thing to do and unless there is a written or verbal apology within twenty-four hours afterwards, cross this name from your list of acquaintances. By that I mean, do not recognize him any more than if you had not met him. An interesting distance or sickness should really be the only excuse.

Urges Honest Bookkeeping in Buffalo Speech; Warns of Federal Waste.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas charged the Roosevelt administration with increasing by 25 per cent the share of the cost of government falling mainly on persons of incomes of $25 a week or less, in a speech delivered before a crowd of 25,000 persons here.

He deplored wasteful spending and deficits, with their increased burden of hidden taxes, and declared: "The time has come when we must establish a system of simple, honest bookkeeping."

"We must remember," he said, "that every time the government spends a dollar, that dollar will have to be paid by our children."

The Republican Presidential candidate reiterated his belief in direct taxes levied on the net incomes of individuals and corporations as a means of charging everyone his fair share of the cost of government and letting him know what that share is.

"In the year 1932, 59 cents out of every dollar collected by our federal government was secured from direct taxes," said Gov. Landon. "The other 41 cents was collected from indirect and hidden taxes."

"Four years later, who do we find? We find that 51 cents out of every dollar collected by the federal government came from hidden taxes. In other words, the share of the cost of government falling mainly on those with incomes of $25 a week or less has increased 25 per cent during the three years of the present administration. They are paying far more than their rightful share of the cost of government."

G. O. P. for Relief.

Gov. Landon likened the New Deal party's policy of spending double its income to the familiar character of the neighbor who buys more than he can afford, and eventually "winds up on the rocks."

"The Republican party believes in being generous in the spending of money for relief and emergency purposes, but it believes that these funds should be spent without waste and absurdities," he said.

Gov. Landon's views on education were made plain in his speech at Chautauque, N. Y. "In Kansas," he said, "we believe that our schools—public, parochial and private—must be kept free of all control by the federal government. We insist that no teacher should be required to take any oath not required of all other citizens."

Politics Keeps Dakota Cattle Dry, Says 'Ding'

Washington, D. C.—How politics has denied water to Dakota cattle during the drought was described by Jay N. Darling, known affectionately to millions as "Ding," the cartoonist, when he was interviewed on the William Hearst radio hour. Until recently "Ding" was chief of the bureau of biological survey of the department of agriculture.

"The bureau of biological survey," said Mr. Darling, "made a careful survey for the New Deal administration of the water resources of North Dakota. A program of impounded water reservoirs to hold all the water that might fall in good years and bad was completed.

"But," continued Mr. Darling, "the relief money for North Dakota was handed over to political administrators for distribution, and the scientific men who had prepared the water conservation program were told that the only way in which they could secure the authorization of their projects was to apply to these politicians. The result has been that the only water available in North Dakota in this year of excessive drought is to be found in the few ponds—very few—which the biological survey was able to construct out of some stray moneys on which it managed to lay its hands."
