Local Registered Rambouillet breeder has also served as Director of the association No. 8, which includes the state of Texas. He has been a member of the directorate for several years.

and his family have been raising Registered Rambouillet Sheep for about 20 years. His sheep have won many awards and recognition in local and state livestock shows, and Mrs. Pope and son, attended the meeting.

in Springfield and also made a tour of the Agriculture Department at the University of Illinois at Urbana. They also attended Illinois State Fair in Springfield during their visit there.

Also attending the annual meeting from this area were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Thate of Burkett.

The Papes left about a week before the meeting and visited with her sister and husband, Rev. and Mrs. Alan Vine at Verona, Wis. Mrs. Vine will be remembered as the former Miss Kitty Sue Baird of Cross Plains. Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Renfro of Cross Plains have reported that their dog was "put to sleep" by a veterinarian last Friday due to an extreme case of distemper.

Schools Open On Monday With Loss In Enrollment

Following is a report from Superintendent Frank Rundell on school opening in Cross Plains Monday, upcoming events and planned projects and activities.

"The 1974-75 school year started with only its usual minor difficulties. Remodeling, which we all like to see, was the major inconvenience, but this did not prevent smooth operations.

"Total enrollment on the first day was 408. This is a decrease of 16 from '73-74.

"We are offering the same courses that we did last year with less teachers, so this put us in a bind. To get out of this bind, Mrs. Joe McWilliams has been hired as study hall supervisor. We are real fortunate to have such a fine young lady join our staff.

"Reserve football seat sales are going great, but we still have a few choice seats left. Any place I've attended, the choice seats have been $1 or more above the general admission price—it surely would be great to get the football revenue up so as to carry some of the expense of boys-girls basketball and boys-girls track. Anytime the gate receipts fall down in football it hurts the whole athletic and school programs. We sure need to get behind our extra-curricular programs and show the students what we expect of them and how proud we are of them. After all, they are our students and if this community doesn't get behind them, then what community will.

"To show how more and more the state is leaning on local community to finance the school program, why we need a special session (of the State Legislature) and why the governor needs to turn loose state money instead of making school districts raise taxes, the following is offered. Last year we had to spend in transportation (which is supposed to be completely supported by state) $32,865, and the state paid us a total of $26,760 to cover this expense. So the local district has to pick up the tab, therefore we need to have as many activities pay their own way as possible.

"The first P.T.O. meeting will be Sept. 12 at 3:40 p.m. at the auditorium. You might want to miss this meeting as I will be speaking on implementing the quarter system. Just joking, please come, we need you.

"The school lunch prices this year will be 60 cents for students 6 through 12, 50 cents for 4 and 5 grades and 45 cents for kindergarten through grade 3. Adult price is 75 cents. It is in the planning to have breakfast for students this year. If all goes well, this will start next week.

"Don't forget the football scrimmages with Blanket August 23, at 6:30 p.m. and Merkel August 30 same time. Both here. Sept. 6, Richland Springs here Sept. 13, Baird there, Sept. 21, Rising Star there. All are at 8 p.m.

"The band will go to Abilene on Sept. 7 to get us a first in marching. For those wishing to attend the fair, it would be a good time to go and see our band.

"This is the smoothest opening of school I've been with in quite a while, but where I've been we had more than 2,000 students in three grades, so Monday was a real smooth day here.

"School officially lets out at 3:38 p.m. Laws affecting public education, Section 21.004 states a school day shall be taught for not less than seven hours each day.

"Next school board meeting will be Sept. 9 in the new superintendent's office. This will be the final hearing on the 1974-75 budget.

Attempt Being Made For Meals On Wheels Here

An attempt is being made to organize a "Meals on Wheels" program in Cross Plains. Instigator of the project is the Rev. Lloyd Hagemeyer, pastor of the United Methodist Church here.

Although the program is not yet active here, a small amount of money has been earmarked for it. As of Tuesday a nucleus of eight persons in Cross Plains who are listed as volunteers in the endeavor. More workers are needed in some phase of the program.

The program is designed to benefit the elderly, shut-in people of this area by making available three hot, nutritious meals weekly. Rev. Hagemeyer pointed out that this is not a welfare program, but a way to show the recipients that they are still remembered and loved by the community. It was explained that each will be given the opportunity to pay what they can for the meals up to the estimated 60 cents per meal. Some may be able to pay, and some may not.

It was also pointed out that at the present only a few people may be considered to be recipients, but there are many more over 60 years who will qualify for Meals on Wheels.

"Primary need right now," said Rev. Hagemeyer, "is the names of persons who would benefit from the program and volunteers who have enough compassion for fellow Cross Plainsians to volunteer a couple of hours periodically to help in the program.

It was explained that cost of operating the program is basically $10 per month per person. Additional information may be obtained from the Rev. Hagemeyer, phone 725-7225, on all aspects of the program which hopefully will be begun in Cross Plains in the near future.

More Callahan Women Now In Labor Force

Callahan County women have been entering the labor force in recent years in the ever-increasing number.

The current figures indicate that some 32.7 per cent of the local female population over the age of 16 are now employed outside the home or are looking for such employment. In actual number, according to the latest official tabulation by the Department of Commerce, 1,050 local women, out of a total of 3,200 or working age, are in the labor force.

They are filling a wide variety of jobs—in retail stores, in offices, in factories in the teaching and health professions and in service industries. Almost no field of endeavor is closed to them any more.

The 32.7 per cent of the local female population that is in the labor force is larger than was reported in 1960, when it was 22.6 per cent.

Of the local male population by way of comparison, approximately 68.9 per cent of those over 16 are in the labor force.

The facts and figures are from the Department of Commerce, The Conference Board and the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Nationally, they find, women have made big strides in the last 25 years or so in the labor field. Federal restrictions on sex discrimination in employment and legislation requiring equal pay for equal work have been a boon for them.

The extent of the change is indicated by the figures. In 1947, they show, women constituted only 27 per cent of the labor force. This included all persons who had jobs or were looking for them. As of last year, however, the proportion had jumped to 38 per cent.

Male participation in the labor force, however, has been going down. Among those over 16, it dropped from 74 per cent to 63 per cent since 1947.

The figures for Callahan County show that 34 per cent of the jobs in the local area are now held by women.

In looking at the ratio of employed and job-seeking males and females of different age groups, the finding is that women between 25 and 54 have had the sharpest growth in the labor force and that men over 55 have had the biggest decrease.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. (Jack) McCarty of Glen Rose visited with friends in Cross Plains Saturday en route to Baird where they visited with his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Young.

HINTS FOR ADVERTISERS

When you next call The Review, 725-3571, to place a classified ad, remember that words are your business. Words properly put together in an ad mean more phone calls and more sales for you. Follow the rules below and get more and faster results.

- Put in the address
Many out-of-town readers will write you, but will not spend money for a long distance call.
- Put in the phone number
Many readers will call you but will not find it convenient to come to your home or business.
- Avoid use of blind boxes
Avoid them if possible. They are difficult to answer and people prefer to deal directly.
- Put in the price, by all means
Surveys show that many people will not answer an ad unless the price is given.
- Keep the readers from guessing
On important details it is better to include them if they are relevant to a sale.
- Be available
If you advertise your phone and address, be sure you are not absent when the ad appears so as to accommodate the reader.

Words are your tools in advertising. Competent sales help is available to assist you in writing the proper ad.

WASHINGTON AND SMALL BUSINESS

Correcting the Record

There is substantial concern, and rightly so, over the low public image of business today.

Unfortunately, there are a few bad apples in most barrels which give impetus to this feeling. However, if the nation's antitrust laws had been enforced as urged by the independent business people through the National Federation of Independent Business, these situations would not exist either.

The biggest problem is the belief that business earns huge profits. In fact, surveys have shown that a majority of the public believes that business makes 28 per cent profit on sales. The true facts are that with the exception of big oil, the average profit on sales is high when it hits 5 per cent.

This erroneous impression could easily be solved. A headline showing a company made so many millions in profit for the year looks huge, but these figures are not related to the volume of sales.

The public relations directors of many corporations could easily correct this false impression by giving out the details along this line. "For the year just ended X Company showed a net profit of 2 per cent on sales of $100,000,000. This is slightly over for under as the case may be than last year."

Of course, any public relation director who adopted this sensible course instead of releasing box car figures related to earnings per share would get his head chopped off by the company management.

But the average consumer, noting the box car profit figures for a company whose products he or she buys immediately says, "my goodness, they are really gouging me," when in reality, the profit only amounts to 2 or 3 cents per dollar spent for the product.

As a matter of fact, to really correct the false public impression it would be well if the earnings of a company were reported not only as a percentage of sales, but allied with this percentage of profit there would be shown the percentage of the sales that was taken by taxes. In many cases more of the consumer's dollar goes to pay the taxes on the product than goes for profit.

Of course, it is pretty certain some bureau would issue a regulation against revealing such information on the grounds of national security.

Assuming that corporate PR people don't dare release this type of information, perhaps business editor's should insist that all company profits be reported in terms of profit percentage on sales. This would accomplish two important objectives. One would be to insulate in the public the truth about profits, and secondly, it would help dispell the common complaint that the news media has an anti-business bias. But such a tactic would cause free spending politicians to squirm.

ties include storage for over 35,000 tons of farmers stock peanuts, dryers with over 500 tons daily capacity, three dump pits for unloading farmers stock, a farmers stock cleaner, and pneumatic peanut samplers. The truck dumps are designed to rapidly move a large volume of peanuts, thus enabling farmers to be unloaded quickly. The plant has over one mile of company-owned railroad track siding and is served by the Texas Central Railroad.

The samplers will be located on tracks over the dryers, enabling the sampling of peanuts in the dryers before they are moved and weighed. Peanuts will be handled with inclined belt conveyors, thus avoiding the excessive breakage of peanuts which occurs in the bucket-type elevators. These conveyors are self-cleaning after each load, eliminating the danger of mixing peanuts.
