Texans reminded to take advantage of Sales Tax Holiday

Texas Comptroller Carole Keeton Rylander reminds Texas families that most clothes and shoes can be purchased tax-free during the upcoming Sales Tax Holiday, August 3-5

"This is the one weekend when hard-working Texans can keep their dollars in their pockets for their family priorities," Rylander said.

"No state or local sales tax will be charged on clothes and shoes priced under $100," Comptroller Rylander said. "This well-deserved tax break for hard-working Texas families applies to new school clothes for the kids and work clothes for mom and dad. Uniforms for school or work can also be purchased tax-free.

"I predict the third annual Sales Tax Holiday will be the best yet, saving families $39.6 million in state and local sales taxes," Comptroller Rylander said.

In 2000 shoppers saved $37 million in sales taxes and in 1999 they saved $32.6 million during the Sales Tan Holiday.

"The slowing Texas economy means many families are spending a bit more cautiously these days," Comptroller Rylander said. "The Sales Tax Holiday is an opportunity to make the dollars go farther. and I expect Texans to take full advantage of it.

The Sales Tax Holiday applies to most clothing and footwear priced under $100. The tax break does not apply to accessories, jewelry, watches, handbags, wallets and briefcases.

The Sales Tax Holiday also does not include backpacks and school supplies, despite Comptroller Rylander's strong efforts to persuade the Legislature to add those items to the list, along with sewing supplies and safety equipment, such as bicycle helmets and car safety seats.

"The Legislature did not make the Sales Tax Holiday a priority," Comptroller Rylander said. "Next session, I will again urge the Legislature to make Texas families and the Sales Tax Holiday expansion a top priority.'

For more information about the Sales Tax Holiday and a list of and nonoremptitens, see the Comptroller's Web site at www.window.state.tx.us or call the tax assistance hotline at 1-800-252-5555.

firm of Bickerstaff, Heath, Smiley, Pollan, Kever & McDaniel, LLP of Austin, hired to redraw the new precinct boundaries. Public comments were provided to the Commissioners' Court from Jim Paylor, Don Boles, Dixie Turner and Tammy Walker. Also present for the public hearing were Doris Young and Mack Kniffen.

On a motion by Commissioner Bryan Farmer and second by Commissioners Charlie Grider, the Commissioners' Court voted 3-0 to accepting the redistricting plan as presented and approve the order redrawing Callahan County Commissioners Precinct boundaries based on the 2000 Census. County Judge Roger Corn said although Commissioners Harold Hicks and Tommy Holland were not present at the Commissioners' Court meeting, both Commissioners were in favor of the new redistricting plan. The minutes of the Commissioners' Court meeting from July 23 are expected to be approved by Commissioners at the regular August 13 Commissioners' Court meeting.

Judge Corn said the new redistricting plan will next be forwarded to the United State Justice Department for its approval. Callahan County should receive word of the plans approval from the Justice Department officials in October or November of this year. The new redistricting plan should take effect in January 2001.

Callahan County's voting precincts were redrawn because the majority of population growth in the County occurred in the Clyde vicinity. Under no circumstances should the total population deviation between the largest and smallest precinct exceed ten percent.

Under the new precinct boundaries, Commissioner Precinct #1 (Clyde) will have a total population of 3,349, which makes it only 3.81 percent above the ideal precinct size

Commissioner Precinct #2 (Eula), would have a total popula-

The Texas FFA Association, with more than 57,000 active members, is the largest state affiliate of the National FFA Organization. It is a nonprofit educational organization dedicated to making a positive difference in student's lives by developing their potential for premier leadership, personal growth and career success through agricultural education.

The national organization has 7,241 local chapters located throughout the United States, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands. FFA's mission is to make a positive difference in the lives of students by developing their potential for premier leadership, personal growth and career success through agricultural education.

Local, district, area, state and national activities and award programs provide opportunities for students to apply knowledge and skills learned in the classroom as they develop career pathways and discover school to work transitions.

Re-districting-(Cross Plains) had 3,035 registered voters.

Under both the old and new redistricting plans, all four Commissioners precinct boundaries obtain voters in the Clyde city limits.

Under the new plan, Precinct #2 (Eula) Commissioner Bryan Farmer will lose some voters in the southeast portion of Clyde around the Pecan Meadow, Tamara, Warren Avenue and Hunt Street. Those voters will move into Commissioner Charlie Grider's Precinct #4 (Cross Plains), however those voters will find voting easier next time arcund. Those voters, which previously voted at the Eula Lions Club, will now be voting at the Southside Baptist Church voting precinct.

Clyde voters, who lived north of South Fourth Street and east of Stephens Street will also change Commissioner precincts as well as voting locations. Those Clyde voters, which previously voted in Commissioner Precinct #1 (Clyde) now held by Harold Hicks, will now vote in the Commissioner Precinct #3 (Baird) in which Tommy Holland resides. Because of the changes, those voters must travel to Baird to vote at the Baird Housing Authority Building during election day, instead of the Clyde Lions Club building.

One criteria used was consideration may be given in the preservation of incumbent-constituency relations by recognition of the residence of incumbents and their history in representing certain areas. According to the law firm's report, all incumbents have been retained in their current precincts in the plan thereby protecting incumbents from contests with each other.

African Trip Proves to Be Safari Into a World of Poverty for Local Missionary

Sharyn Hill has recently returned from a missionary trip to Zambia. it turned out to be a trip into a world of desperation, need and poverty, rather than a safari into a beautiful world d the animal kingdom.

Sharyn, a registered nurse, joined team of medical and clergy profes sionals to provide medical, dental an optometry services. They set up si clinics in different locations and for 10 days worked from sunup to sunset and treated 18,000 people.

At night the team turned their atten tion to the spiritual needs of the Zam bian natives and their discipleship produced 75 baptisms and uplifted the spirits of other thousands.

"You quickly begin to realize how blessed you are living in America." Sharyn said. "You don't always appreciate; you take for granted the blessings of such things as electricity and heat. A trip like this rearranges your priorities about what you need and want."

(Space does not permit relating al details of Sharyn's trip. Hopefully, we can hear and print it in more detail in the near future.)

Chance Meeting of Friends Provide Lasting Memories

I told this story to Lois Garrett a few months ago and she has requested several times that I print it in this column. So, here goes.

Many Cottonwood boys who went off to war in the 1940's have pleasant memories of meeting friends far from home just by chance. Who of us can forget the friendship of Chuck Woody and his family out in California, during those years, who entertained us and provided a sense of home to so many who went through boot-camp in San Diego. Such pleasant memories stay in the mind forever.

sighting of a Cottonwood friend happened on the Island of Bora Bora in the summer of 1944.

I was assigned to a communications liaison group serving aboard the British ships that went to the Pacific theater after the D-day Invasion of Europe. I was assigned aboard HMS Lothian, the flagship of Admiral Sir George Talbot, Commander in Chief of the British Pacific Fleet.

We had anchored in the bay off Bora Bora to take on fuel and supplies from the U.S. Navy's supply depot. While standing on the main deck watching activity in the harbor, I noticed the Admiral's gig (personal boat) depart from shore and head back to the ship. When it drew alongside the gangplank, the Coxswain looked up and saw me.

He yelled, "Ah ha, Ginger! The Admiral wants to see you ashore." (The Britishers, whom we called "Limeys" nicknamed all redheaded people, "Ginger".)

After obtaining permission to go ashore, I boarded the Admiral's gig and we headed to the warehouse docks. Upon arrival, the Coxswain escorted me to a warehouse, where Admiral Talbot was conducting his business with the Americans.

"Ah, Seaman Bennett, please follow me," he said and ushered me to a back room. We entered the office and he walked up to another American seaman and said, "I believe you two gentlemen come from the same place in Texas."

And, sure enough, there stood Jack Jones from Cottonwood. It was a pleasant surprise and Jack and I spent some time remembering people and happenings from our hometown. Then the British Pacific Fleet and I sailed away to join Admiral Hawlsey and his bunch of American sailors.

Only years afterwards did I recognize the pure coincidence involved in our meeting and begin to wonder about the mystery of it all. How did a British Admiral, who rarely ever talks to an enlisted man, enter into a deep enough conversation with an American sailor to realize that Seaman Jack Jones, who was a supply clerk on the Meeting Set for tiny Island of Bora Bora, and Seaman Wallace Bennett, who was U.S. Navy radio/cryptographer aboard his ship, probably knew each other?

An amazing story, eh what, ole chap? (If this story sound incredible, stop Jack Jones on the street someday and ask him about the incident. He will tell a different version of it, but he will verify its veracity.)

This week I'm bringing just a little out. If you are one to whom I owe a musing about life as I'm experiencletter, please rest assured that evening it a-n-nn-nd a bit of self analysis. tually I'm going to get on the ball and

"FURTHER BEHINDER"

Know what I've been noticing lately? Seems to me, that some things just never get done. I plan and plan to get all these things accomplished and like the old philosopher said; "the further I go, the behinder I get." Seems to me I spend more time going behind myself; picking up where I left off, than I do meeting myself coming back----or something like that! It has occurred to me that perhaps I'm having Senior Moments!

The other day I changed one shoe and forgot to change the other one and went to Rising Star like that. Don't know if the folks at the drugstore noticed or not but I sure felt peculiar, when I looked down and discovered the fact.

I've gotten so far behind in my correspondence I'll probably never see

Yes, tempus fugit! It really does. It's hard to believe that it's time for the library's writing contest for folks out of high school and not yet 120.

Think about it --- and decide whether you want to write a short story, an essay, or a poem --- or one of each. Right now is a good time to visit the library to find a book to help if you are a beginner. Do some research in the next three weeks and watch the paper for a meeting date for help. Aubrey and Kala Stout would like to announce the birth of their son, Kyler Allen Stout. Ky was born March 20, 2001, at 8:08 a.m. at Abilene Regional Medical Center. He weighed 8 pounds 23 ounces and was 20 1/2 inches long.

He was welcomed home by his 3 sisters, Brittany, Jaelynn, and Alex Stout.

Maternal grandparents are Merlin Franke and the late Betty Franke of Cross Plains. Paternal grandmother is June Brooks of Cisco.

You've seen a sign like the one I saw recently. It was in front of a business - a restaurant, motel or most any kind of business. The sign read: "Under New Management." When I saw the sign I assumed they had probably changed some things - - their prices, maybe remodeled, added some features. But it was a pretty sure thing that some things had been changed. It's that kind of change that's called for when a person becomes a Christian. He or she should be "under new management"! There should be some "remodeling." Jesus referred to it as being "born anew," John 3:3. Paul wrote, "Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation," II Corinthians 5:17.

What if you went into a place you had frequented for a long time. They have this sign up - - "Under New Management" - - for the first time. You stop and go in as you have so many times before - - but you don't see any changes. The same people, the same menu, the same prices, same food everything's the same; no change at all! You'd wonder whether there was really any "new management"!

I'm sure that Jesus wonders the same thing when one claims to have become a Christian, or claims to be a Christian of long standing, and yet there is no change! He shared a parable once, which had special application at that time, but which can be applied to the subject at hand. He said, "Men do not put new wine into old wineskins ... " (Matthew 9:17) In application let us not try to put the new life-style of Christianity into the old life-style of the world. "New management" calls for new life-style! Come loors with us about this "new life style" and "new management." We really do care about you, too.

Local program reminds mothers. about benefits of breast-feeding

CLYDE-In honor of World Breastfeeding Month, the Outreach Health Services Women, Infants and Children (WIC) program is reminding new or expectant mothers throughout the month of August about the benefits of breast-feeding and the free education and support classes available to them.

Joyce Devereaux, Director of WIC Programs for Outreach Health Services, said, "Studies have shown that breast-feeding is the optimal method of infant feeding, and that breast milk provides newborns with protection against infections and allergies, lowers the risk of diseases and potentially improves mental development."

There is even more good news. Babies are not the only ones who benefit from breast-feeding. Research indicates that mothers also profit from producing this natural, nutritious and convenient infant food by experiencing less postpartum bleeding, natural weight loss and a reduced risk of breast, ovarian and uterine cancers.

In some cases, there may be a reason why a mother is unable to breast-feed. By large, however, most women - contrary to popular belief - are able to breast-feed successfully. Despite the proven benefits, a significant number of mothers still rely solely on infant formulas to feed their babies. Devereaux suggests for these mothers to think twice.

"Think about it. Breast milk is always warm, ready to serve, sterile and free. Compare all that to bulky formulas that take time to prepare and can cost hundreds of dollars a year," Devereaux said. "And that's just for practical reasons. Our nurses and staff work with breast-feeding women every day, and they can confirm the important emotional bond that is created between a mother and child."

According to Robin Pruitt, Breastfeeding Coordinator for WIC Programs at Outreach Health Services. most mothers choose not to breastfeed based upon misconceptions about what is involved.

"They incorrectly believe their breasts aren't the right size, that the experience will be painful or that they won't produce a sufficient amount of milk," said Pruitt. "At WIC, it's our goal to give moms the facts, make accurate information available and to work with each mother individually.

Outreach Health Services - WIC offers breast-feeding support classes year round, and they do more than simply introduce the benefits of breast-feeding to women. The classes provide new and expectant mothers with helpful tips related to proper positioning, breast-feeding in public or at work, encouraging the baby to "latch on" and recognizing when a baby is getting enough to eat.

During these classes, new and expectant mothers watch videos, receive educational materials to take home and have an opportunity to talk to other mothers who have breast-fed successfully.

"Although breast-feeding is natural, it is not instinctual. It is a skill that must be learned by the mom and baby," Pruitt said. "For some, the experience may be easy from the start. For others, the process may take a few days or weeks until feedings proceed easily. Help, however, is only a phone call away, and the benefits of breast-feeding far outweigh the frustrations.'

In addition to breast-feeding assistance, Outreach Health Services - WIC provides nutrition education and support to pregnant women and mothers with children up to age five. It also offers immunizations, ongoing nutrition education classes, health screenings and vouchers for healthy foods.

Outreach Health Services provides WIC services to Callahan County and operates a clinic in Clyde, Texas. For more information on class schedules or to make a reservation, call the Outreach Health Services WIC Clinic at (915) 893-4552 or call 1-800-200-7121.

Texas Fort Trail Region Board now accepting nominations thru Aug. 10

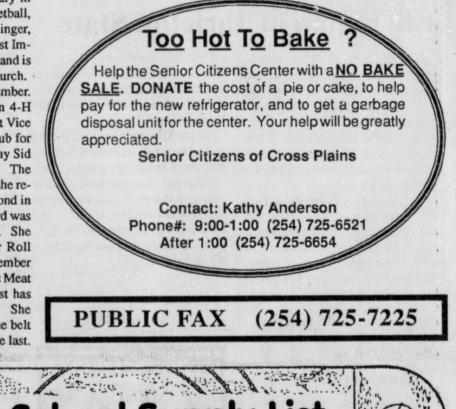

AUSTIN-The Texas Forts Trail Region board is seeking nominations for additional board members. The board is a decision-making entity that facilitates the program strategies of the Texas Forts Trail Region. Board members are selected through a nomination process of community leaders in the region and serve three-year terms. Members commit to one board meeting every month, plus additional time spent working on such issues as historic preservation, economic development, promotion and education. All candidates should have an interest in heritage tourism.

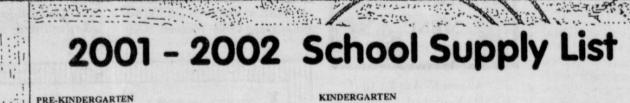

The Texas Heritage Trails Program is a regional tourism initiative developed by the Texas Historical Commission (THC) that positively impacts the local economy by stimulating visitor activity to cultural and historica! attractions. In the Texas Forts Trail Region, the first region to be designated, visitation at monitored sites increased by nearly 19 percent in the first year.

The Texas Forts Trail Region encompasses 29 counties in North Central Texas including Brown, Callahan, Coke, Coleman, Comanche, Concho, Eastland, Erath, Fisher, Haskell, Irion, Jack, Jones, McCulloch, Mason, Menard, Mills, Nolan, Palo Pinto, Runnels, San Saba, Schleicher, Shackelford, Stephens, Stonewall, Taylor, Tom Green, Throckmorton and Young. A free brochure highlighting the Texas Forts Trail Region as a tourism destination is available from the THC.

The deadline for submission is August 10, 2001. Please send nominations to: Lisa Sanders, Regional Coordinator, P.O. Box 2281, Abilene, TX, 79604, 915/677-7241 (tel), 915/677-0622 (fax), lsanders@chamber.abilene.com (email).

The Texas Historical Commission is the state agency for historic preservation. The agency administers a variety of programs to preserve the archeological, historical and cultural resources of Texas.

weeks of training designed to challenge new Marine recruits both physically and mentally. Watson and fellow recruits began their training at 5 a.m., by running three miles and performing calisthenics. In addition to the physical conditioning program, Watson spent numerous hours in classroom and field assignments which included learning first aid, uniform regulations, combat water survival, marksmanship, handto-hand combat and assorted weapons training. They performed close Traveling again ...

It's July, the time of year I seem to find myself traversing this beautiful, big country. Peanut is with me this trip. Sweet Pea was my navigator last year. Before we left she prompted Peanut with all the high points she could remember from last year's journey.

Peanut and I first flew over the quilt-work pattern of crops, wilderness, and glittering cities. She absolutely adored the cottony cloud forests sharing the sky with us. Now we are driving the tesselated topography on our way back across the country.

For two weeks our lives have been counted in miles more than minutes, marked by the diversions of rest areas and gas stations, scenic and historical sites, fast food and family restaurants.

Gliding past the frequent occurrence of golden arches made us laugh remembering Sweet Pea, barely toddling in those days and barely talking yet. From her carseat she watched the blur of travel while her mother Puddin' and I chattered in front. As far as we know not one golden arch ever sneaked past her unnoticed.

While Puddin' and I talked, Sweet Pea kept up her own echo conversation, a soft mumble to us over the sound of the motor.

Something about Sweet Pea's mumblings penetrated the outer reaches of my brain. "Do you hear what's going on in the back seat?"

USDA appoints Bryan Daniel to head Rural Development efforts in Texas

WASHINGTON-The U.S. Department of Agriculture today appointed R. Bryan Daniel as the Texas Stare Director for USDA Rural Development.

Daniel, from Jarrell, Texas, was the Assistant Executive Director of the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board. His responsibilities included coordinating the Board's work with the Office of the Governor of Texas, Texas Legislature, other Texas executive branch agencies, and the community. Daniel also has served as a professional staff member to U.S. House of Representatives' Agriculture Committee Chairman Larry Combest. His responsibilities included working on appropriation, specialty crops, and agricultural labor legislation. Between 1996-1999, Daniel was special projects director for the National Council for Agricultural Education where he directed the program of work for a $1.5 million national initiative designed to strengthen schoolbased agricultural education of students nationwide, Daniel graduated from Texas Tech University with a Bachelor of Science degree in agricultural communications and a Master of Science degree in agricultural education. He served on the Advisory committee for the Texas Tech Agricultural Literacy Initiative and the Promotions working Group of the Texas Agribusiness Research Promotion Council. Daniel has delivered more than 250 presentations to professional agricultural, education, community, and youth organizations. He also has had several articles published in professional journals. USDA Rural Development serves as the lead federal entity for rural development needs, and administers program assistance through three agencies: Rural Housing Service, Rural Business - Cooperative Service, and Rural Utilities Service. lasked. Puddin' strained to hear the words tumbling from a baby mouth -"Haw boo goo ... haw fries kook." "We must have passed a golden arch some ways back," I told Puddin'. "Sweet Pea has put in her order for hamburger ... french fries soft drink." I don't remember for sure, but I'll bet Sweet Pea got her order that day as requested. We've gotten a lot of mileage out of that family story over the years, too.

Travel these days involves as little cash as possible, most of it crediting or debiting an account with a swipe and a series of beeps. I'll take my world with as few beeps as possible, thank you, but the younger generation is born immersed in a flood of piercing beeps that cannot be ignored.

One of the beeps came from the gas pump. Half way across the country one of them shrieked, "Frequent user - please see attendant!" Inside, we were told the credit card company had noticed an uncharacteristic step-up in charges, and wanted verification of user.

I guess we have to appreciate the precautionary measure as a protection of the cardholder. I did consider it a little ludicrous, though, to envision a nation where the government wouldn't care if we roam from state to state, but travelers would need to obtain permission in writing from their plastic card companies before embarking on a vacation or business trip. © Ginny Greene 2001

Federal funds available for rural communities

ABILENE- Bryan Daniel, State Director, Texas USDA Rural Development announced today that federal funds are available for USDA's Rural Development Community Facility Loan program. The effort is part of USDA'S national program to help rural areas build and enhance essential community facilities.

"USDA Rural Developments Community Facilities program helps rural communities keep pace with the needs of their rising populations," said Daniel. "With lower populations and tax bases than urban areas, rural residents can utilize our programs to help provide essential public services that will enhance the quality of life for all rural residents. Community Facility loan funds may be used to construct, enlarge or improve community facilities for health care, public safety, and public services. These loans and grants are usually made to public entities and nonprofit organizations. Examples of eligible projects include rural health care clinics, town halls, fire trucks, county safety equipment, jaws of life, early warning systems, community centers, libraries, day care centers and schools.

On July 4th, Lovera Strickland and Jackie and Julie Strickland, Staci, Jeremy and Jared left for the Black Hills of South Dakota. (I just knew it would rain if I left the county.) We did see some rain. It rained every day we were in South Dakota. We stayed 4 days and when we started home, the closer we got, the hotter and dryer it got. It was so pretty up there. It was cool, wet and green in the Black Hills. We visited Mt. Rushmore, Crazy Horse Monument, The President's Wax Museum, Custer's National Park and several other interesting places. We enjoyed the trip but we were also glad to get home.

Those visiting Mike and Linda Brady over the weekend were Kelly, Faith, Savannah and Sarah Brady of Wichita Falls: Kim, Dawson, Brady and Brandon Schnautz of Conroe; Melinda, Stephanie and Colton Bledsoe of Valera; Jackie, Jamie, Nicky and Alex Dodgen of Burkett; and Russell Gould of Abilene.
