Illness forced Charles Ely Lankford, son of Judge and Mrs. Eugene Lankford and Cisco's entrant in the contest to select a Texas candidate for the position of protégé to Thomas A. Edison, to abandon his examination Monday afternoon at Austin. He had completed the greater part of the tests before being forced to quit, however.

Judge Lankford accompanied his son to Austin for this examination. Fifty-four other boys, picked from high schools over the state, took the examination with Charles.

FORMATION IS DRILLED FOUR FEET FARTHER

Total Depth of Hole Now 3,457 Feet; Top at 3,451

Hoffer Oil company-Texas company No. 1 Gray, located about 4 and one-half miles northeast of Cisco produced 923 barrels of oil during the 12-hour period between 7 a. m. yesterday and 7 a. m. this morning after the well had been deepened four feet yesterday afternoon. Total depth of the well is now 3,457 feet with the top of the big pay at 3,451 feet. First show of oil was obtained at 3,445 feet. The well is flowing naturally and has over a million feet of gas.

Immediately after the hole was deepened yesterday it began flowing at the rate of 60 barrels hourly but decreased until the average hourly production for the 12-hour period was 43 barrels. During the entire 24-hour period from 7 a. m. yesterday to 7 a. m. this morning the well produced 607 barrels. Production is from the Lake Eastland sand. No accurate test has been made of the gravity of the oil but this will range about 40 degrees. Hambie Pipe Line company is running the oil.

Location of the well is in the southeast corner of section 483 of the S. P. R. R. survey, 690 feet from the south and east.

The Gray No. 1 is located in new territory, the nearest well being the Hoffer-Thomas Hiltson No. 1 drilled several years ago and abandoned after a brief period of production. This old test is located approximately one mile east of the Gray. The well was brought in last Thursday when the hole filled with oil after the pay was encountered at 3,451 feet. It later began making heads producing at the rate of five barrels each four hours.

Hoffer Oil company drilled the well. It is understood that the lease will be taken over for operation by the Texas company. The producer is located on a tract of 160 acres pooled.

Bearman, et al. of Cisco, are installing power on their Lebetter lease in southeastern Throckmorton county and arranging for the drilling of eight additional wells on this tract which includes 160 acres. Locations have been made for wells No. 2-A; 3-A; 4-A; 2-B; 3-B and 4-B.

Charges of Assault to Murder Are Filed Against Wayland Man After Youth and Girl Are Shot

BRECKENRIDGE, June 19.—Charges of assault with intent to murder were filed here today against Herman Thackerson, prominent farmer of the Wayland community, following the shooting of Royce Perry, 17, and Miss Laura Johnson, 16, daughter of a Wayland Methodist minister, Monday night.

Thackerson waived examining trial in Justice of the Peace J. W. Castleman's court and furnished bond in the sum of $1,000 for his appearance before the grand jury next Monday. Examined by District Attorney L. H. Welch, Thackerson refused to make a statement.

According to officers who investigated the shooting occurred near the Thackerson farm house while Perry and Miss Johnson and another couple, J. H. Kendrick and Miss Melrose Wagley, all of Wayland, were returning from gathering peaches in a neighbor's orchard.

In going to the orchard, the four said, they left the gate open and on their return, closing the gate, Thackerson blocked the narrow lane with his car. An argument ensued between Thackerson and the young people, they said. Thinking this was settled the two couples started to drive away. Thackerson, they said, fired into the rear of the car in which the children were riding.

Perry, the son of a farmer living near Thackerson, was struck in the face and left arm by small shots. He was also wounded in the left eye and in the forehead. Miss Johnson is recovering from wounds in the left arm. Neither Kendrick nor Miss Wagley were injured.

COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE BEING SOUGHT

Court Takes Final Action in Case This Morning

A petition seeking commutation of the death sentence of Henry Helms, Cisco bank bandit, to life imprisonment, is being circulated in Eastland county, according to a statement by Bert Ashby, a member of the defense counsel for Helms. Ashby is in Dallas, according to a dispatch from that city. J. No knowledge of such a petition was found in Cisco this afternoon and the report could not be confirmed locally.

Helms was convicted of the robbery of the First National bank of Cisco, in December 1927, in which Police Chief Bill Bedford and Police Officer George Carmichael were killed.

Marshall Ratliff and Robert Hill were the two other members of the gang of four who were captured alive after the robbery. Ratliff also faces a death sentence while Hill is serving a life term in the penitentiary.

Coolidge Tells Guiding Principles

By MORRIS DE HAVEN TRACY United Press Staff Correspondent. NEW YORK, June 19.—Calvin Coolidge lays down a group of guiding principles for men who are at the head of great organizations in an article to be published tomorrow in the American Magazine. They include: Don't do anything yourself that someone else can do for you. When you entrust details to someone else, be sure that person is competent.

While it is wise to get all the competent advice possible in the case of the president "final judgments are necessarily his own." "If others make mistakes," the former president writes, "they can be relieved and oftentimes a remedy can be provided. But he (the president) cannot retire. His decisions are final and usually irrevocable. This constitutes the appalling burden of his office. Coolidge attached great importance to social functions and takes time to explain that the order of social precedence which has been under so much discussion of late, is necessary. "It would make great confusion," he writes, "in all white house relations, unless the rules of precedence were observed. If this were not done, the most ambitious and intruding would seize the place of honor or it would be bestowed by favor." In discussing social functions he pays a gracious tribute to Mrs. Coolidge.

"While the president has supervision over all these functions," he sets down, "the most effective way to deal with them is to provide a capable mistress of the white house. I have often been complimented on the choice which I made nearly 25 years ago. These functions were so much in the hands of Mrs. Coolidge that oftentimes I did not know what guests were to be present until I met them just before going to dinner."

SEES BLANTON AS CANDIDATE FOR OLD POST

Possibility that Thomas L. Blanton, of Abilene, will make an effort to recapture the position of congressman from the 17th Texas district now held by R. Q. Lee, of Cisco, is seen by the Washington Post in a recent article.

The following is an extract from that article: Former Representative Thomas L. Blanton, whose fiery oratory now is confined to the courthouse at Abilene, Tex., came back to Washington yesterday, mingled with his former colleagues in the house, congratulated the city on its changes that have taken place, gave some advice to his successor and left him the definite impression that he will try to recapture his seat in 1930.

COURT FEELS CROWDS WOULD DAMAGE LAWN

The following communication was presented the Daily News by County Judge Clyde L. Garrett with reference to the use of the court house lawn as a place for holding programs and concerts: In view of the fact that much time, effort and money have been spent to provide a beautiful court house lawn; that the grass is not yet thoroughly set and the shrubs and plants are all young and tender, the commissioners' court feels that the use of the lawn for programs and concerts, at this time would not only retard the growth of the lawn but would seriously damage it.

He was nervous and restless and didn't seem to have any energy at all or didn't take an interest in anything. AVIATOR AND BRIDE FLYING ON HONEYMOON

ABILENE, June 19. — Long a dynamic force in promotion of Texas aviation, L. E. Derryberry, manager of the airport here, and Miss Evelyn Andrews, were honeymooning some place up in the skies today. Derryberry and his bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Andrews, pioneer West Texans, left immediately after their wedding ceremony for a seven-day bridal tour in a biplane. They refused to divulge their itinerary.

Besides promoting Texas aviation during the past five years, Derryberry won eighth place in the 1928 Transcontinental Air race in which he was the only Texas entrant. Derryberry came to Abilene without funds in 1925 after finishing the army flying course at Kelly Field, San Antonio. He wanted to start a commercial flying service here. After several months, he sold the idea to Abilene citizens who provided him with money for purchasing a second-hand biplane. With this small beginning, Derryberry increased aviation interest here until plans are now drawn for making the Abilene field one of the best equipped airports in the nation.

ing the Abilene field one of the best equipped airports in the nation.

The two honeymooners became engaged three years ago. Their wedding had to be delayed, however, until commercial aviation could be brought to a point at which a man could depend on it for a livelihood. Meanwhile, Derryberry worked at construction jobs and various other trades to raise necessary money. He "battled" in a shack on the landing field. "If it hadn't been for Evelyn I would never have stuck to the job," he said recently. "After we were engaged she told me to stay with the idea and the work I had started and she could wait."

With a few weeks, Mr. and Mrs. Derryberry will begin "house-keeping" in a new cottage to be built by the city of Abilene at Kinsolving airport for the use of the field manager and his "family."

He reached here yesterday! Wm. Cunningham. Driving the Elks Magazine trans-continental car, a Studebaker, from New York to Los Angeles, reaching here yesterday. That's a tough trip—and it takes a tough oil! So Quaker State Motor Oil is in the crankcase! —And that Studebaker is getting an extra quart in every gallon! Yes Sir! . . . a quart more of real lubrication from every gallon of Quaker State than it would get from a gallon of ordinary motor oil! And Why? Because ordinary refining leaves in every gallon of oil, a quart or more of material that has little or no value in lubricating an automobile motor . . . a quart of waste! But Quaker State Motor Oil is not refined in the ordinary way. It is super-refined—carried a step further than ordinary oils. And this "extra step" removes the quart of waste that ordinary refining leaves in. In its place you get a quart of the finest lubricant. So you really get an extra quart in every gallon of Quaker State! And all four quarts in every gallon are made from 100% pure Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil—the very finest that nature produces! The trans-continental car pictured above is getting that "extra sweet" lubrication from Quaker State. You can get it, too! Just drive up to the green and white Quaker State service station sign and say the word! QUAKER STATE MOTOR OIL. The original certified pure Pennsylvania Motor Oil. B. & H. MOTOR CO., INC. Ed. S. NO CHANGE IN STANDINGS IN TEXAS LEAGUE

All Four Leaders Win Victories in Games Yesterday

By United Press.

The Texas league race remained unchanged today, all four leaders having defeated second division opponents yesterday. Dallas had an easy time defeating Beaumont 9 to 3.

Wichita Falls remained on Dallas' heels by defeating Waco, 8 to 6. The Spadeters knocked out a seven run lead off Stein in the early innings. By the time Cheever reached the mound, it was too late for the Cubs to rally.

Brilliant fielding and heavy hitting featured the game between San Antonio and Fort Worth. San Antonio won 9 to 6. Nason, Indian left fielder, led the way at bat with five hits including two doubles.

Hurling with his "head" as well as his arm, the veteran Wilbur Cooper held Houston to six runs, while his Shreveport mates took nine.

Games today: Dallas at Beaumont. Wichita Falls at Waco. Fort Worth at San Antonio. Shreveport at Houston.

HOOKS AND SLIDES
Henry L. Farrell

The Mick is a Stranger
APPOINTMENT of Adam Walsh as assistant football coach at Yale in charge of the line is slightly out of line with the athletic policy at that rather distinguished university.

Walsh is a Notre Dame man, and since his college days he has been the varsity coach at Santa Clara (Calif.) College. And it has been the policy of the Yale Athletic Board to hire only graduate coaches.

It is probable that the Yale officials, when they offered a position to Walsh, remembered a day several years ago when Adam Walsh, captain of a Notre Dame football team, performed an epic of heroism on the green turf of the Polo Grounds in New York.

Heart First in These Games
NOTRE DAME was playing the Army and a Notre Dame-Army game has become celebrated for the opportunity it presents to the athletes to show what the coaches call guts.

The Four Horsemen were the most advertised members of that Notre Dame team but it was Walsh who put even the Cadets into a rapture of admiration. The Cadets are trained to know what courage means.

Early in the game, Captain Walsh, playing center, broke his right hand. The fractured member was placed in an emergency splint in mid-field. Walsh wouldn't go to the sidelines because he knew that Knute Rockne, the N. D. coach, would pull him out of the game. And Rockne, because of the rules, could not step on the playing field.

Both Hands Gone
LATER in the game Walsh came out of a pile of players with his left hand hanging loose. It was broken and the relief squad from the sidelines put the left hand into a splint.

The doctor told Walsh that he had to get out of the game. But Walsh was the captain of the team and he refused to leave his squad. He wouldn't look toward the sidelines where Rockne was waving frantically at him to accept a substitute.

Rockne sent out five substitutes in a row with instructions to command Walsh to come to the side-

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

By United Press.

Yesterday's hero: Babe Herman, Brooklyn fly chaser, who cracked a home run over the right field wall at Brooklyn to break up the second game of a double header between the Robins and the New York Giants.

The Robins won both ends of the double bill, taking the first by a score of 8 to 7 and the second, 7 to 6. Bressler put the Robins in the lead with a homer in the last of the eighth, in the second game, but New York tied the score with a run in the ninth. Herman's blow kept the game from going into extra innings.

The Chicago Cubs shifted their batting order and pounded out 13 to 6 victory over the league leading Cardinals at Chicago. Manager McCarthy moved Hornsby from the clean-up position to third in the batting order and turned Hack Wilson to the fourth place. Wilson hit two home runs.

George Kelly singled to score the winning run for the Cincinnati Reds, who beat Pittsburgh, 2 to 1, at Cincinnati. Red Lucas held the Pirates to four hits while his mates totaled six off Ervin Bragne.

Chuck Klein's 17th home run of the season gave the Phillies a 2 to 2 victory over the Boston Braves, at Philadelphia.

After a two game losing streak the Philadelphia Athletics returned to the winning column by beating the Senators, at Washington, 7 to 6. It was the 13th victory for Philadelphia in 14 games with the Senators this year.

New York split a double bill with the Boston Red Sox, at New York, winning the first game, 9 to 6, and losing the second, 7 to 4. Heimeach allowed the Red Sox seven scattered hits in the first game but three Yankee hurlers were unable to hold Boston in the second.

TAKES HORNED TOADS.
FORT WORTH, June 19.—Four live horned frogs and a bottle of live red ants with which to feed them, were accompanied by Paul Howie, junior in Texas Christian University, back to his home in Alabama. Howie preferred the frogs as a symbol of his institution rather than a pennant, explaining there were no horned toads in Alabama.

CHILDREN'S PETITION.
CLEVELAND, O., June 19.—A huge petition bearing the names of 100,000 school children, sealed in a giant five-foot envelope, is to be sent to President Herbert Hoover inviting him to spend at least one day at the 1929 national air races to be held here August 24 to September 2.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
When Charley Borah as a freshman at Southern California reported to Coach Cronwell the coach asked him what he could do.

And the hapful Borah said "I can beat any runner on your squad."

And he did. Worms Haskin, who did a lot of swell hurdling for Alabama Poly, has been signed as an assistant track coach at Yale.

He is the first fellow from the south to crash an eastern track coaching staff.

The University of Oregon football team is going to travel clear to Gainesville, Fla., to play the University of Florida.

And they claim it is the long distance traveling record for one game.

In the first 25 games of the season Earl Averill, the wovish Cleveland rookie, hit more home runs than any Cleveland player hit all last year.

And Bill Evans says he is worth $250,000.

And the Indians paid less than 50 grand for him.

lines but Walsh refused. And he left the game only when he collapsed. And he was carried to the club house.

And He Knows Football
THERE certainly is no intent to infer that the Yale football squad can profit from the name and the instructions of a man who was so noted for his courage. Yale football players never have been accused of lacking heart.

But it is quite possible that some of those young Yale fellows will have a very deep respect for the instructions of Adam Walsh.

His name has been a legend in eastern football since the day when he was crashing into the line and making passes to his Four Horsemen with two broken hands and with tears from the pain streaming down his cheeks.

Coaches in the east since that day have told their men—"There was a great center and, God, what guts he had!"

BANTAMWEIGHT DIVISION NOW HAS CHAMPION

Panama Negro Jabs Way to Victory Over Spaniard

By GEORGE KIRKSEY, United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, June 19.—For the first time since February, 1927, when Charley (Phil) Rosenberg forfeited his bantamweight title for failure to make the weight against Baby Graham, the 118-pound division has a legitimate champion.

Al Brown, an elongated Panama negro, jabbed his way to a clean-cut victory over Vidal Gregario of Spain in a 15-round bout at the Quonset Stadium last night before a crowd of 14,000 and established himself as the "defending bantamweight champion" in the eyes of the New York state commission.

Already recognized as 118-pound titleholder by the National Boxing association, Brown can clinch his claim to the title by beating the outstanding bantamweight contender to be selected by the New York commission in his next fight.

Gregario won only two rounds and barely stayed off a knockout in the 13th when Brown floored him twice with chopping rights to the chin.

Gregario took a count of five the first time and a count of eight the second time. The bell sounded just in time to save Gregario from further trouble.

Kid Chocolate of Cuba, 122-1, scored a technical knockout over Terry Roth, 121, of New York, in the third round of their scheduled 10 round semi-final. Roth was on his feet, but groggy when the referee, Eddie Forbes, stopped the fight.

Tony Vaccarelli, Harlem middleweight, defeated Pete Meyers of San Francisco in the 10 round opening bout. It was a clean cut victory. Vaccarelli weighed 150, Meyer 152.

Sets Record

George Simpson of Ohio state, who set a new record of 9 2-5 seconds in the 100-yard dash during the National Collegiate in Chicago, is pictured here just after his thrilling race. The old mark was 9 3-5.

FIVE RACES ON ABILENE JULY 4 CELEBRATION

ABILENE, June 19.—The automobile race program to be presented on the West Texas Fair speedway in Abilene on July 4 will be the outstanding Independence Day sport event in the southwest.

A check of the American Automobile association's 1929 racing schedule reveals that there will be only seven speed car contests in the United States during this year that will be larger than the program to be given in this city on July 4. Only one of the seven is in the southwest and it is November 16 at Phoenix, Arizona.

Guaranteed prizes totalling $2,500 will be awarded to the winners in the five races that will make up the program to be held here on Independence Day. Of the 183 other races to be held in various parts of the United States during 1929, under sanction of the AAA, only seven of them will offer larger prizes. This, of course, does not take into consideration the eleven contests listed on the championship circuit.

Only two other race contests will be held in the southwest district on July 4, under AAA sanction, in addition to the contest to be offered here. One of them will be at Denver, Colorado, for a purse of $1,800 for all winners in the various events and the other is to be in Banning, California, for total premiums of $800.

There will be five events on the card presented here on Independence Day under direction of D. H. Jefferies, Texas supervisor of the American Automobile association. The feature of the day will be a 15 mile contest for first money of $550 and a percent of the receipts.

The Late News From Scotland

DUNDEE, Scotland, June 19.—John Campbell, a young clerk of Dundee, was out walking with his fiancée near her home. They both carried a friend passing in the street and in locking back they failed to see a large Alsatian dog sitting half hidden in a garden entrance.

The girl accidentally trod on the animal's tail and it turned and bit the boy's leg. She screamed with pain and tried to kick the dog away without success. Campbell, finding nothing handy with which to beat off the dog, tried to pull it away.

At his wit's end, he stooped over and bit the dog's ear. The animal set up a howl and ran off.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

John Curtis Morgan, successful lawyer, is passionately in love with his beautiful wife, Iris, and does not suspect that Nan Carroll, his private secretary, has fallen in love with him. Nan, having a high sense of honor, decides to resign, but postpones her resignation because she feels Morgan will have particular need of her in his defense of a supposed friend, Bert Crawford, indicted for embezzlement. On the last day of the trial, little Curtis Morgan, 6-year-old son of Iris and Morgan, innocently places in Nan's hands a note apparently taken from his mother's handbag. It is from Crawford and reveals his guilt and his and Iris' intention to elope after the trial. Crawford leaves town and Iris departs for a pleasure trip a few days later.

Iris announces her desertion in a letter which cleverly omits mention of Crawford and pleads with Morgan not to try to find her. Morgan is heartbroken. Nan convinces Morgan he should not place little Curtis in a boarding school and that he should keep his home intact. While Morgan is at the capital on business, Nan stays at the Morgan home with little Curtis and organizes the housekeeping so her and son may carry on. She sees little Curtis in public school.

Nan wins the love and confidence of Curtis and is herself by serving the man she loves, who ironically loves another man. Morgan returns unexpected from the capital to report a nutation from death to life. Morgan goes in to the dinner that has planned.

but his eyes were fixed, throughout her recital, upon the startling life-like portrait of his wife that hung above the mantel.

"I think you've been inspired in your handling of the boy," Morgan said, when Nan had finished her defense.

"Inspired by my love for you, which you don't even suspect, thank God," Nan agreed in her heart.

"I suppose you haven't yet had time to hire a housekeeper. Lord, but I dread having one of those middle-aged, rented women in reduced circumstances pervading the house," Morgan sighed. "She will inevitably be stout, afflicted with varicose veins, hay fever and a wart on the side of her nose. And she'll have a dozen pesky little legal troubles that she'll want to consult me on every night I'm at home."

Nan giggled, thrust out both legs and regarded them with rueful humor. "And I was just flattering myself tonight that they're quite nice legs. And at 6 o'clock this evening, the last time I consulted a mirror, there was absolutely no hint of a wart on this insignificant but satisfactory nose of mine."

Morgan stared at the girl for a moment as if he thought she was crazy, then she saw dismay and embarrassment leap into his black eyes. She hastened to reassure him, indirectly: "Yes, I've hired myself as your housekeeper, if you please, sir, but a new sort—a long-distance housekeeper. I can furnish the best of references and I promise to become neither stout nor genteel, and not to pervade the house. In fact, your housekeeper's desk hasn't changed its resemblance to your private secretary's."

"But—Nan! My dear girl!" Morgan remonstrated. Then he did something that completely unnerved the girl who was already trembling at her own audacity. He reached for her hand and lifted it to his lips. She closed her eyes so that he could not possibly see in them that which he must not guess.

"You should have been named Martha," he said gently, when he had released her hand, "because your joy is in service." She saw his eyes sweep upward to Iris' pictured beauty, and she wondered if John Curtis Morgan was, for the first time, comparing or contrasting these two women who had been closest to him. He sighed, then said almost abruptly: "But of course I can't let you take on the burden of my home as well as of my office, Nan. Not even your splendid health and your enormous capacity for work could stand up under the strain."

"Bunk!" Nan retorted indignantly. "I intend to be a home efficiency expert, and whoever heard of an efficiency expert working? There isn't a great deal more to be done—just supervising about it, and provided not only with a boy playmate but with a whole delightful family to look after him. The O'Briens were a stroke of genius on your part, Nan. Suppose you take the stand and tell the whole story in your own words," he added, brusquely in his own manner in the court-room.

Nan obeyed, giving her employer a vivid account of her activities in his home, as well as of the reasoning which had motivated her. Morgan listened attentively, your meals taken care of; Curtis looked after by the O'Briens, mother and son, when he's not in school; and your house kept in apple-pie order by the efficient Estelle. Then what remains—Shopping for Curtis and for the house, of course, as equipment and linens wear out. Pooh! I can do it all in three or four hours a week, and you wouldn't cheat a poor girl out of her fun, would you?"

"I'll agree to let you try it, on two conditions," Morgan answered slowly. "First, that you let me pay you what I would have to pay a housekeeper; and second, that you take an afternoon a week off from the office and give Curtis and me the great pleasure of your company for dinner. Otherwise I'm afraid it's going to be a bit lonely for the Morgan men."

"Good! I can use a free dinner every Monday," Nan accepted flippantly, to hide her joy. "You can gamble that Monday's dinner will always be a feast. Now I'm going to pack my suitcase and toddle on home or you'll be accusing your housekeeper of 'perfidy' the house."

"I'll take you home," said Morgan.

During the next six months that followed, Nan Carroll lived from Monday to Monday, and all the words in the English language, the most important, the most musical, and the most heart-shaking became, so far as Nan Carroll was concerned, "I'll take you home."

For during each of those Monday night drives from the Morgan home to the tiny apartment which she also found time to keep immaculate, the girl played a pathetic little game with herself. She pretended that Morgan was not an abandoned and grief-stricken husband at all, but a young man entirely free to be in love; that these Monday night drives were not at all a host's duty to his guest, secretary and housekeeper-of-sorts, but "dates." And so, while the Nan that Morgan knew carried on an animated conversation about Curtis, domestic problems and legal tangles, the Nan that only Nan knew whispered soft, sweet nonsense with her mythical "steady."

Week by week Nan found joy in measuring John Curtis. Morgan's slow but definite recovery from the tragic depression into which Iris' desertion had plunged him on that dreadful Friday when he had received her cruelly curt letter. At first, she knew, he fostered a stubborn hope that Iris had decided hastily, that she would write and ask forgiveness, that she would return. But when, after three months of utter silence from his wife, he evidently made up his mind to accept her desertion as final, his sensitive face took on an expression of sad resignation. And after resignation came a sort of peace, for Nan was making him and his boy very comfortable indeed in the beautiful home which she was managing from his office.

Of course it was not so easy as she had pretended to Morgan that it would be. A hundred trivial annoyances and at least half a dozen major problems came up during those six months, requiring far more of her time and energy than Morgan dreamed that she spent upon his home affairs. She spared him here, as she had spared him the knowledge that his wife had run away with another man—a man whom he had called friend and whom he had saved from prison.

He would never know from her how nearly Curtis had come to disgrace in school for kicking a teacher until her shins bled. Neither would he know from her that Curtis had stolen money from Estelle to go on a candy orgy which left him so ill that candy had no appeal at all for the boy for weeks afterwards. From these and many other minor tragedies she protected the man she loved.

And every Monday night she saw that he was a little more at peace, a little more at ease with her and with his son, whose friendship and confidence he was cultivating, as if he were a little bit jealous of the boy's devotion to Nan.

In June Nan went to the state capital to take her bar examinations, for Morgan persisted in his desire to see his secretary become his junior partner.

On her return Willis Todd, with whom she was still having a date or two a week, met her at the station. It was nine o'clock of a soft June night.

"Are you a lawyer yet?" he teased, his gray eyes very fond and tender.

Nan squeezed his arm. "Oh, it's always nice to see you, Willis! . . . Of course I'm not a lawyer yet. I won't hear from my examiners for weeks and there's all sorts of red tape before I can be admitted to the bar. Whew! I'm tired! And I feel as if I'd been gone for weeks. I see they haven't built a new station yet! Doesn't anything ever happen in this town?"

"Wait!" Willis stopped her as she took a newspaper from the seat of his car. "I didn't want to tell you tonight, but you'll see it in the paper: the little Morgan kid was in an accident today—"

GATHERING OF NEWS IS DRAMA ITSELF

By United Press. The drama of news gathering often results in a better story than the news gatherer sets out to obtain. Especially is this true in press association work where special emphasis is given to stories of international interest. The scope of the United Press and some of the incidents in gathering news stories, published exclusively in Texas by United Press newspapers, are revealed in the following:

For three months, even during the coldest winter weather France experienced since the war, a United Press man stood outside the Poch home day and night during the noted general's recent illness.

The "death watch" was kept up untiringly that the general might know the minute the end had come. Day and night the watch was maintained, even when the men were obliged to sit inside of taxicabs to find a bit of warmth. When General Foch died, the United Press had the story in all parts of the world before other newspapers knew what had happened.

The United Press Paris staff reported to work in full dress the day General Foch was buried. Newspapersmen, as well as ambassadors and cabinet members wore high silk hats, long tailed coats, and dazzling white, stiff shirt-fronts to the funeral in Notre Dame Cathedral.

The 1164th newspaper taking United Press service started in Willemstad, Island of Curacao, Dutch West Indies, the very day the governor of the island was kidnaped by a band of desperadoes.

The report for afternoon newspapers in the United States is started to be made ready in New York the previous midnight. Wires open at 3 a. m. The great amount of news to be sent over the wires and the increasing number of afternoon papers entering the morning field has made it necessary to start the report so early. United Press workers often have to stay over the milkman for early hours.

The United Press is the only world-wide news service. It serves newspapers in more than 40 nations and in 19 languages. It serves both English and Spanish language newspapers in Texas.

Getting the dimensions of Venus de Milo—hips, neck and everything—was the recent duty of a United Presser in Paris. Armed with a tape measure, the reporter was doing well until a shocked guard in the Louvre ordered him away from the ancient beauty.

NEPHEW OF MADERO TO GET FORTUNE

PAMPA, June 19.—Without ample funds now, Herbert Madero, grand nephew of the late Francisco Madero, former president of Mexico, will soon inherit the fortune of the assassinated Mexican statesman.

Herbert Madero is the only heir of the late president. His father, Lazero Villareal Madero, was first cousin to the statesman. Young Madero's mother died in Los Angeles April 4 and was buried in San Antonio, where the family lived after leaving Mexico during a revolution. Herbert was born there 24 years ago.

After his mother's death, the youth carried her will to Kansas City where it was left with attorneys for probate. It bequeaths a fortune of nearly a quarter of a million dollars to the youth, but he cannot touch the bulk of it until he is 25 years old next May 4.

The estate includes 125,000 acres of ranch and mining property in the state of Coahuila, Mexico, 250 miles from El Paso. There is also a substantial claim against the Mexican government growing out of property confiscations. It was believed this eventually will be collected.

When the news reached Madero last week of the will left him by his great uncle, he was interested primarily in knowing whether any assets were made available immediately. This was not yet known.

STOOD ALONE FIVE YEARS AGO—STANDS ALONE TODAY
"Chrysler came into a seemingly crowded motor car market and almost immediately swept its way into unprecedented acceptance as a quality product. That which ordinarily takes years to achieve was won almost overnight. Why? Because Chrysler brushed aside outworn traditions in engineering, in design, and in performance. It brought to bear both scientific exactness and artistry. That is why Chrysler has taken the country by storm—why it still stands and will long stand alone—why, if you want what Chrysler gives, Chrysler alone can satisfy you."
—Advertisement Literary Digest December 6, 1924

CHRYSLER'S PLACE IN THE SUN
Prior to five years ago there were no Chrysler motor cars. In five years, Chrysler, from a standing start, has overtaken leading cars of three, four and five times its age.
The spectacle of a newcomer so swiftly becoming a leader can bring the logical mind to but one conclusion: There must be something remarkable, something altogether different and superior, in the cars that Chrysler builds.
There is a definite superiority in Chrysler cars. Hundreds of thousands of motorists the world over have learned it.
There is in Chrysler performance, a thrilling sense of endless power, a swift eagerness of life and spirit, a restful feeling of perfect balance and positive safety that cannot be experienced except in a Chrysler. There is in Chrysler design artistic freshness and modern charm. There is in Chrysler riding qualities a smoothness, a cradled restfulness quite without counterpart.
Drive a Chrysler car today and realize, better than words could ever tell you, why Chrysler has won so glittering a place in the sun—and why Chrysler goes on and on to an ever-increasing popularity and prestige.
