BE LEVIED WHOLESALE TRANSACTIONS

Montgomery Bill Is Substituted for Ex- cise Tax

AUSTIN, June 21.—The Texas house of representatives today voted for a four-cent gasoline tax. The tax is to be levied as an occupation tax on wholesale sales. It follows the plan now used, merely increasing the rate. The action substitutes a bill by Representative W. R. Montgomery of Hidalgo county for a four-cent gasoline excise tax that had been favored by the house taxation committee. The vote to substitute was 66 to 51. Advocates of the excise bill claimed that it would reach $3,000,000 worth of gasoline annually that now escapes taxation.

Claiming that the senate prison relocation bill is so worded that legislative members of the proposed prison location commission would have no actual power, the house substituted its own bill for the senate measure.

Both provide for survey by a commission composed of the state prison board, four senators and five representatives. The house bill gives them until January 1 to report. The senate bill called for report in 90 days.

Echoes of the white house tea were heard when the senate debated a resolution urging passage of the measure before congress to provide a $100,000,000 fund to aid rural education. It was estimated that under terms of the bill Texas would receive $7,000,000 of it. Objection was raised that it would mean taking control of what is taught in the schools away from parents, and the white house tea alluded to showing the different points at Washington and Berlin. Action was deferred. The action was deferred also on a resolution censoring a news service or printing a forecast of the senate action in case impeachment charges are preferred against State and Commissioner J. T. Robison. The senate adjourned until Monday.

Bourland Is WTCC Temporary Manager

ABILENE, June 21.—Opposition to a state income tax and to increase in production tax was formally opposed here in a meeting of the West Texas chamber of commerce officers late yesterday. Andy Bourland, Vernon, president, was asked to take the temporary general management of the chamber pending selection of a permanent manager at the annual convention in El Paso. Bourland's salary was announced as $10,000 a year. He succeeds Homer D. Wade who resigned to become manager of the Dallas chamber.

Executive committee, vice presidents and members of the advisory board selected as the new executive committee to act with Bourland: J. A. Wheat, Seymour; Clifford B. Jones, Spur; R. W. Haynie, Abilene; and Ray Nichols, Vernon.

PUTTING WAR DEBTS "ON A BUSINESS BASIS"

They divided the cost of the war among the nations of the world. Pictured above is the historic final session of the fourteen reparations experts who met in Paris to formulate the plan which is to put the payment of war debts "on a business basis." Owen D. Young, American financier and chairman of the conference, is shown fourth from the right at the table. Sir Charles Addis, British conferee, is seen at the extreme right signing the reparations agreement, which creates an international bank for the handling of world loans.

NEGRO NAMED ON JURY IN BROWN COUNTY

BROWNWOOD, June 21.—Members of the county court jury commission in Brown county in some manner chose S. J. Burleson, 35, negro, as a prospective juror to serve the first week of county court in the July term which begins July 1.

Notice was mailed to Burleson by Sheriff M. H. Denman. According to post office officials, the colored S. J. Burleson with his son of the same name, are the only ones here to receive mail by that name. Burleson has been an employe of the Texas Congress company for the past nine years. He does not know whether he will report for jury service as yet. Sheriff Denman said it was legal for a negro to serve as juror but it is very seldom he is asked to do so.

Stephens Funeral Held Tomorrow

Stephens, who was killed at the plant of the West Texas Utilities company when he came in contact with a high voltage switch this morning, will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning from the First Baptist church, Rev. Acker C. Miller officiating. It was announced this afternoon. Burial will take place in Oakwood cemetery. Mr. Stephens was a member of the Baptist church.

Troops Not to Be Withdrawn Yet

PARIS, June 21.—Notwithstanding Germany's alleged demand for immediate action, so far as France is concerned the evacuation of the Rhineland by the allied troops will not begin until the Young plan has become effective and Germany has shown her good faith in carrying out her reparations payments, it was understood today. Le Temps pointed out that the first problem which France will consider is that of reparations and that remaining post war questions can be taken up later, when the governments have assembled in the proposed international conference and the allies feel confident that Germany will fulfill her part of the reparations agreement.

GERMAN CABINET APPROVES.
BERLIN, June 21.—The German cabinet today approved the Young plan for settlement of the reparations problem.

Asks Moody Not to Sign Resolution

ST. LOUIS, June 21.—In a telegram to Gov. Dan Moody of Texas, O. B. Colquitt, former governor of Texas, asked Moody not to sign the resolution, passed by the Texas legislature, censuring Mrs. Herbert Hoover for inviting Mrs. Oscar De Priest to a white house tea charging the resolution is a move against "Hoover Democrats" rather than Mrs. Hoover. The telegram charged the legislature had been totally misinformed concerning the episode and is "subjecting Texas to criticisms not only for a lack of civility, but, that in ignorance of facts, is subjecting one of the gentlest ladies ever in the white house to attack for partisan political purposes."

Two Negro Youths Are Executed Today

CHICAGO, June 21.—Two youthful negro bad men, Charles Swan and Napoleon Glover, expired their sins in the electric chair in Cook county jail early today. The youths were executed for the murder of Charles Metlock, colored, in a drug store robbery a year ago. They confessed also to killing another negro, Peter Lucas, when he upbraided them for desecrating the Sabbath by banditry. They admitted nearly 90 holdups until then. Both went to their doom calmly, their eyes fixed on a crucifix as they prayed with the priest.

FOUR WOUNDED IN RECAPTURE OF FUGITIVES

Accused Ringleaders in Break Are Still at Liberty

SWEENEY, June 21.—Details of a prison plot which freed 43 men from Clemens prison farm near Brazoria began to come to light today with the convicts accused as ring leaders still at large. In the many stories cried about the escape were these highlights: Two trustees obtained two pistols and aided in secreting them in camp No. 3, from which the break occurred. The plot which had been in formation for some time, was aimed at Captain W. M. Hickman, farm manager, and other officials.

Two autos from Houston figured in the escape. At least three of the men still at large are armed. Four men were shot, none fatally, as guards and citizens were engaged in capturing the escaped men.

Reports here said that 24 of the 43 convicts who fled the farm before dawn Thursday had been retaken. These were said to include two taken in Houston. It was believed that 22 was the correct number.

No Reports.
Houston officers had no reports of two convicts captured. It was believed that the report grew out of the presence in Jefferson Davis hospital at Houston of two of the wounded men.

Lee Haley, Smith county, serving 12 years for murder, were shot in the back Thursday night by guard Joe Rowden as they were crawling under a barbed wire fence on a railroad right of way about one half mile west of Sweeney.

Three men made statements to Captain Hickman in the presence of Warden Harrell, telling details of the plot. Two convicts claimed a second shot was fired after one man had cried out "you've got us."

The men were taken in to Sweeney where they were left for about three hours on a truck while waiting an ambulance to take them in to Houston. First aid was administered by a Bay City physician.

Made Statements.
It was while they were lying on the truck on Sweeney's main street that they made the statements to Captain Hickman and Warden Harrell.

They implicated two trustees, whose names the officials would not divulge. Two 38 calibre pistols, the convicts said were bought by trustees, smuggled into the prison camp and concealed there awaiting an opportunity for the break. The autos from Houston were believed to have been operated by former convicts who recently had been discharged. Trucks were found showing that the autos had stopped in a dirt road near the farm.

In this group were believed to be three "Red" Massey, serving three years from Galveston county for theft; Joe Williams, serving five years for robbery from Tarrant county, said to be the man who obtained Pickett, Boss Emmett Moore's pistol and shot-guns and engineered the break, Lee Smith, Callahan county lifer who "planted" and murdered two Mexicans in front of a West Texas bank to collect the reward offered for dead bank bandits by the Texas Bankers association; and Smiley Wilkerson, serving five years for robbery from Dallas county. Wilkerson is wanted also for bank robbery in New Mexico and Arizona.

Seeks to Circle World in 10 Days

PEORIA, Ill., June 21.—Captain Jean Francis De Villard, one time ace of the 44th Escadrille, has two major ambitions in aviation. First: he wants to break the world's non-refueling endurance flight record. Second: he wants to make a ten-day hop around the world in the largest airplane ever constructed.

Just now the captain is in Peoria, completing his plans to make both ambitions come true. Some time in August he hopes to take off here in his giant ship, with enough gasoline aboard to keep it in the air for 100 hours. The present non-refueling endurance record is slightly over 65 hours, so he believes his mark, if he reaches it, will stand unbroken for a long time.

His will be a giant—a monoplane, all-metal, resembling the Ford tri-motored commercial ships but much larger. Fully loaded it will weigh 27,000 pounds, and it will have a wing spread of 110 feet.

After the endurance flight will come the round-the-world hop. Captain De Villard plans to carry 2,600 gallons of gasoline and eight passengers, including two co-pilots, a navigator, radio operator, newspaper reporter, photographer and a woman passenger.

His route, as tentatively planned, calls for a flight from Peoria to Portland, Ore. Thence he plans to make a 5,500-mile hop to Tokio, going from there to Bombay, Paris, London and back across the Atlantic.

The flight will cost over $200,000 and money is now being raised in Peoria and nearby cities. Although he has a French name and a French war record and saw service on both the Italian and Morocco fronts, Captain De Villard was born in this country—Fordyce, Ar-

C. F. STEPHENS, ENGINEER, IS FOUND DEAD

Evidently Killed in Effort to Throw Switch at Plant

Cecil F. Stephens, 37, working as night engineer at the plant of the West Texas Utilities company here, was electrocuted early today when 2,360 volts of electricity passed through his body while he was in the act of throwing a switch at the plant to shut off the city street lighting system. His body was found slumped down upon the floor against the guard railing which encloses the high voltage equipment behind the panel. The plug circuit breakers in the panel, which are supposed to be pulled to deaden the switch before it is manipulated, had not been taken from their sockets when the body was found.

No one else was present when the accident occurred this morning. The contact of Mr. Stephens' body with the switch, however, instantly threw the switch and shut off the lights at 5:10 a. m. so that the time of the accident was determined by plant officials as at that moment.

Discovered Body.
C. F. Simpson, of the American Glycerin company here, and Jack Boman, of Putnam, employe of the West Texas Utilities company discovered the accident. Boman called O. J. Russell, superintendent of the ice department of the company. J. E. Proctor, district plant superintendent, phoned the plant when the lights went out at his home, was told the line was busy and jumped in his car and drove to the place, thinking that there was trouble with some of the machinery. Before Proctor arrived Ted Bacon, engineer at the Peoples Ice company plant came in to find out the trouble after the current had shut off from his plant.

Proctor, immediately upon his arrival, pulled the body from its position against the railing and started prone resuscitation work. O. J. Russell arrived and threw the current back on and tried with resuscitation work. Dr. E. L. Graham arrived just after Russell. The men worked for 47 minutes endeavoring to force air into and out of Stephens' lungs but were unable to do this, a large burn under the right ribs having apparently penetrated to the respiratory organs. Dr. Graham after an examination pronounced him dead for some minutes.

Stephens who had been employed here off and on for eight years, was regarded as one of the safest men in the employ of the company. He was not working his regular shift at the time but had traded shifts with Herman Barson, regular night engineer so that he and his wife and another couple could go to Lake Cisco for the water carnival. Stephens' regular shift was from 3 p. m. to 11 p. m.

Traded Shifts.
Last night, however, he went to work at 11 o'clock, the hour he ordinarily leaves work, and was due to work until 7 a. m. this morning.

According to the condition of the switch and the position of the body plant officials this morning said that Stephens evidently forgot to pull the plug circuit breakers in the panel before attempting to throw the switch.

The second event was a froggy race. The winners were Jimmy Cox, first; Wesley Harrell, second; and Marshall Tarrant, third. The third event was an egg and spoon race for boys. The winners of this race were Leonard Sanders, first; Jimmy Cox, second; and Archie Barton, third.

The fourth event was an amusing exhibition by Jupes, the water clown, in the art of rowing a boat. Much entertainment was provided by this event. The fifth event was a canoe battle. The teams consisting of Chuck Van Horn, Cotton Pippin, Louie Swink and Jack Farley, were engaged for about fifteen minutes in a closely matched battle, but finally Chuck Van Horn and Cotton Pippin over-turned their enemies.

The sixth event was the feature of the program. It was the half mile race for boys under 15. The winners were Jimmy Cox, first; Wesley Harrell, second; and Archie Barton, third. The race was held at 10 o'clock this afternoon.

JUNE 28 IS CISCO DAY AT WINTERS FAIR

Special to the Daily News. WINTERS, June 21. Friday, June 28, has been designated as Cisco Day at the Live at Home Fair to be held at Winters and preparations are being made for a delegation of 200 from Cisco. A section in the big demonstration parade starting at 2 o'clock has been planned for the Cisco delegation and they are given a place on the program at Tinkle Park immediately following the parade. At least one band is expected from the Town of the Big Dam. J. E. T. Peters, secretary of the Cisco chamber of commerce has been given notice of the occasion and Winters thrown wide open to the visiting city. Special invitation has been given a number of Cisco citizens to attend the big open air banquet at night on the same date. They are also asked to take part on the program and help make it just what they would like it to be. Chicken barbecue just a little better than you have tasted before, will be prepared by Harris Mullen at Winters for the banquet which is to be staged at 8 p. m. June 28. This will be an open air affair and instead of a fixed program, it is expected that the unusual large number of visiting guests and array of talent shall keep things humming from the time the bell rings until "good night" is said. People from over the state for a distance of over 200 miles are expected for the occasion. Judge R. W. Havine of Abilene and the "Hired Hand" of the Star-Telegram have been invited to direct the impromptu program. It is hard to tell what may happen during this gala hour but some surprises are assured by the visiting delegations who shall be put in keen competition.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE Shawnee, Oklahoma.

Walter C. White, president of the White Motor Company, says: That during the 30 years I have been engaged in the truck and bus transportation industry, I have learned that if one wants to be a producer, he must build solidly and be a worker. The secret of having is in the getting. The man who gets things without work does not appreciate and evaluate property, and is not nearly so likely to hold what he gets. If success is to be lasting and permanent, it has to be won, not merely accepted as a gift. Another big point—if success is to be lasting and permanent it has to be built in a foundation of service and public interest. The more selfish and narrow the viewpoint of a man is, the more likely he is to go off on a wrong track. If he looks at things from a broad social and economic viewpoint, his prosperity is much more likely to be sure and lasting. No man develops a lasting success without successfully assuming responsibility and discharging it. It is all very well to theorize, and to study theory, but the man who would have a lasting success has to learn to apply theories, to work. Theorizing alone doesn't get far. Combination of plan and work is the thing. The more training a man can get the better, if he is to make his success permanent. I believe in training just as I believe in work. You can't get too much of the right kind of training. I believe further that true merit does not remain undiscovered. I believe that in most instances the outstanding man gets the job for which he has proved his fitness. From my experience in employing men, I am much inclined to favor the man whose aims in life are something more than mere position, salary and individual achievement. There is a kind of unselfish personal achievement that carries with it personal reward, but the achievement is undertaken for its own sake and not for the sake of the reward. The men that most nearly measure up to this kind of achievement are those who reap the greatest benefits for themselves, for their company, and their community.

Attractive Cisco Homes

The English cottage style home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Sivals, 909 West Fourteenth street, though just recently built, has a very neat and attractive yard. Large poplar trees, symmetrically planted, grow in the parking, with lilacs, bridal wreath and crepe myrtle. A curving walk leads to the red concrete terrace on the north and east side of the house, surrounding which is a bed of japonica with dwarf euonymus at the corners. In the side beds is small arctica privet, replaced in the rear by a tall hedge of the same shrubbery in combination with lilacs, bridal wreath and crepe myrtle. This hedge extends around the oval bed of violets, gladioli, zinnias and phlox in the center. Then east to the cubed square bed where among the rose bushes, are geraniums, nasturtiums and petunias. And north to a delightful little love seat covered with honey-suckle, and on to the grape arbor. Along the rear ledge and the fence on the east are trees loaded with peaches, apricots, pears and cherries.

"Maybe," the nurse contributed in the professionally arch tone at so many nurses use toward their patients, "the little boy will go to sleep if he can tell his sweetheart all about his accident."

Curtis let out a howl of indignation. "Nana ain't my sweetheart! She's—she's my 'parent' pro tem, 'cause I heard my teacher, Miss Anderson, say so to the principal. She said, 'Better take that up with Miss Carroll. She's Curtis' parent pro tem.' What's a parent pro tem, Nan?"

Nan could have kissed the nurse for the delicate diplomacy which she employed to engage both the father and the doctor in conversation while Curtis was still shouting his explanation. Her face was flaming as she drew up a chair to the boy's bedside, but when the door closed upon the three whom Curtis had ordered out of the room she bent and kissed him with the passionate love of a mother, rather than like a "parent pro tem."

"Little Pat's a hero, Nana," Curtis began eagerly, holding fast to her hand, "like 'The boy stood on the burning deck.' But he ain't—"

Both his legs got broke, and just one of my arms, and I ain't hurt at all. In the books the dog always gets saved by his little master, but I ain't Cop didn't get killed."

Let him talk on, telling her the whole story, "hind part be— but sometimes her attention— so that Curtis— her petulant. She was— over and over, that pre— minute when Morgan had— drawn her close, his arm about her shoulders; then, with sickening embarrassment, that other minute when Curtis' amazing designation of her had been hurled like a bomb into the room. What was HE thinking?"

"You're not listening again, Nana," Curtis complained, but his voice was dragging with drowsiness. "Can I go to the hospital to see Little Pat? And take Cop? Can I Nana? Can I?"

"Yes, yes," he promised rashly. Then, because his hand was dragging at her shyly, she knelt down beside his bed and laid her hot cheek against his pale cheek until he was sound asleep.

Nan slipped out of the house without saying good-night to her employer. From the hall she heard the masculine rumble of what seemed to be a very earnest conversation which she had no intention at all to interrupt. She found Willis Todd patiently waiting for her, and the glow of his figure was strangely comforting to the overwrought girl.

"The kid all right, honey?" Willis asked gently as she climbed into the seat beside him.

"Yes . . . Oh, Willis, what an awful fool I've been!" She slumped into a forlorn little huddle and began to sob gaspingly against his coat.

"Who says so?" Willis challenged.

"I do!" Nan sobbed. "Oh, Willis, Willis! Why didn't you take me when I said I'd marry you?"

"I've often wondered myself, Willis. I'd answered gruffly, 'Just selfish, I suppose. I wanted you to be as crazy in love with me as I am with you. It never happens that way, I suppose. One always loves more than the other.'"

"Morgan and his Iris—sorry, honey—you and I—you and Morgan! Heigh-ho, darling! It's a great—if you don't weaken. And I weakened—so have you!"

"Will you try it with me now, n? I'm licked. I'll take what you can get and be thankful for it. Maybe it's better to be invited to devote your life to the person you love than to be hope about romance, which doesn't wear any too well, if the cynical young poets are to be believed, as well as the evidence of our own eyes."

Nan giggled through a sob. "That sentence is becoming terribly involved, dear, and so is the sentiment! But—I know what you mean. You ARE a darling, Willis!"

"Then—will you?"

"I want to, Willis," Nan confessed miserably. "I want to— with all my common sense and all my weak feminine yearnings, be protected and pampered, but—it's too late now, Willis, dear. All my heart's gone clear out of my body to—another man and—his child. They do need me and I'm not unhappy—all the time. In fact, and she sat up feverishly and dabbed away her tears. "I'm so happy most of the time that I'm in mortal terror that something will happen to take what I have away from me."

The next morning, after more sleep than she had hoped to get, Nan Carroll took up her temporarily neglected duties in Morgan's offices. It was good to have a work like a whirlwind, nice to be teased by Evans and Blake about her prospective status as a flapper lawyer."

"You'll have to grow a new crop of hair and straddle that stylish nose of yours with a black-ribboned prince nez," Blake old her. Even grumpy old Evans ad his jokes, addressing her ponderously as "Attorney Carroll."

It was into this genial atmosphere of work and jest that John Curtis Morgan stepped at 10 o'clock, accompanied by old Judge Jennifer, retired from the bench less than 20 years but still practicing law. Morgan, who was only 36, in spite of his eminence in the profession, had begun his career as a very humble clerk in Judge Jennifer's offices 15 years before and the two were more like father and son than anything else.

It was not often, however, that the old man honored the younger with a visit to his offices, and somehow Nan received the impression, after a quick glance at her employer's face, that this was not a visit at all, but a professional consultation. And yet—there was no case in Morgan's office at the time that seemed to call for Judge Jennifer's well-seasoned advice. In fact, the old man, grown weary of criminal law, had been devoting himself almost exclusively for several years to the less objectionable types of divorce suits.

The conference—if such it was—lasted until almost noon. Oddly enough, Morgan did not accompany his old friend to the door, did not, in fact, emerge from his private office. Judge Jennifer came out alone and stopped before Nan's desk.

"Well, well, Nan, my child," he rumbled, with grandfatherly affection, "John tells me you're going to be a lawyer. Been up to the capital to take your bar examinations. You're a smart girl, Nan, and we're proud of you, but—"

and he lowered the rumble to a gusty, strangely significant whisper—"take an old man's advice and leave these dirty criminal cases to the men. Marry a lawyer, raise up a boy to be a lawyer, if you've got to meddle with the law, but—leave the courtroom fights to the men, my dear."

"You find me a nice young lawyer for a husband, Judge Jennifer, and maybe I'll take your advice," Nan retorted flippantly, but she had an uneasy suspicion that Judge Jennifer knew exactly what her hot blush meant.

"That's a bargain—remember!" the old lawyer chuckled from the doorway.

For nearly an hour there was no sound from the private office of John Curtis Morgan. Nan forced herself to go on working at high pressure, but three times she made typographical errors in letters she was writing—an inefficiency record she had never sunk to before.

Something was afoot. . . Judge Jennifer—divorce. . . Light poured in. Iris, of course! She had written to Judge Jennifer, as HER attorney, had asked him to approach her husband on the subject of a divorce. Of course! Oh, poor man! Yesterday Curtis' accident, which might so easily have been fatal; today this new blow, killing the last stubborn hope the deserted husband had clung to.

For six months she had fought to give him peace and to help him banish the devils of despair which had taken possession of him when Iris had left him. Now the battle would have to be fought all over again.

The buzzer at last. Nan caught up notebook and pencil and hastened into the private office, but those tools of her trade were not needed after all.

"Have you lunched yet, Nan?" . . . Then I wonder if you'd go with me? I—want to talk with you," Morgan said, not looking up as if he were unable to meet her eyes.

They had never lunched together "socially" before, not even since Nan had worked herself into the curious post of long-distance housekeeper of his home, and as she walked beside Morgan into the big, rather magnificent dining room of the Traylor Hotel, Nan felt ridiculously self-conscious.

Morgan tried, rather awkwardly, to make an occasion of their lunch in the matter of food. But Nan chose a single dish and firmly refused everything else.

Nan knew that he expected his news to be upsetting, for he conscientiously gave her plenty of time to eat before plunging into whatever it was that he had to tell her.

When he did begin it was abruptly, even harshly: "I'm going to apply for a divorce, Nan." As badly as that!"

Nan felt for a moment as if she were on the deck of a tossing ship. Her hand groped for her water glass, found it, brought it so jerkily to her lips that a little of the water spilled on the cloth. Thoughts hurtled and clashed through her mind. . . Not Iris who wanted a divorce! It was HE! Why? What did it mean? . . . She could not speak.

"Judge Jennifer assures me that it can be—done very quietly, very easily," Morgan went on in a strained, harsh monotone. "The—letter, you know. He still could not bring himself to utter 'Iris' name. "And—desertion. It has— been six months—all that our divorce laws require under the circumstances. The letter makes it—easy. I never thought—" His voice broke, then he cleared his throat sternly and went on: "But the petition can be heard in chambers—no publicity at all, of course, My—she will be served by publication, since I don't know where she is. It should all be over in a month, Judge Jennifer says. Over . . ." he repeated.

At the pain in his voice Nan's love for him rose to its greatest height. She would have been a fool not to have suspected why he was divorcing Iris, whom he still loved, whom he probably would always love. But she loved him too much to realize the joy of the first hope she had ever had any real right to feel. She leaned toward him, and her brown eyes were indescribably tender.

"Mr. Morgan, don't let anyone talk you into this if you don't really want to do it."

Morgan's lips jerked into a sort of smile. "But until—that's done, Nan, I can't do something else that I really want to do, and that Curtis very much wants me to do. It isn't fair to you, Nan, and I've sworn to myself a dozen times I wouldn't let you do it even if you were willing, but—I'm afraid you've encouraged me to be selfish, Nan, dear! Before I go ahead with—with Judge Jennifer's plans I'd like to know if you—Other—wise I won't do it, Nan—no real reason—"

"Mr. Morgan," Nan interrupted his floundering speech, her voice low but steady, "we don't have to put it into words, do we? But—whenever you want me—for anything—" and she smiled at him through tears that she hadn't in the least expected, for she was to very happy.

CHAPTER XXVI
"Do you take this woman to be your lawful, wedded wife?"

Nan Carroll did not look at the man who stood tall, stiff and straight by her side. In an effort to realize the unbelievable—that she was actually being married to John Curtis Morgan—the girl concentrated all of her attention upon Justice of the Peace Doheny. What a round, red, jolly face he had, though he was trying his best to look as solemn as the occasion demanded.

"Is he going to say, 'No, no! It's all a mistake! I've already got a wife, from whom no court in the land can divorce me! I promised to love and cherish HER until death do us part. I can't make the same promise to another woman—'" The thought zigzagged like lightning through Nan Carroll's mind as she held her breath for the few seconds that seemed like an eternity before the answer came, in deep, vibrating tones:

"I do!"

Was the answer more emphatic because he had hesitated those few seconds? But the justice of the peace was going on his merry blue eyes which could not look solemn, twinkling upon the pale-faced, brown-eyed little girl whose head did not quite reach the shoulder of the man she was marrying.

"Nancy Stair Carroll, do you take this man—?"

Nan appeared to be listening intently, but a roar as of rushing waters filled her ears. Her brown eyes, fixed in a trance-like stare upon Justice Doheny's face, became aware at last that the humorously puckered old lips were no longer speaking, that the justice of the peace, with cocked head and quizzically raised eyebrows, was awaiting her answer. She felt a slight movement of the man who stood so close beside her. Suddenly realization swept over her.

"Yes, I do!" she gasped, and was surprised that the words emerged from her cold, stiff lips as little more than a tremulous whisper.

Above the rushing of mighty waters the girl heard the faint, faraway voice of the comical old justice of the peace: "Join right hands—"

Because she was still staring fixedly at the justice, Nan's right hand wavered blindly, until it was enfolded, almost crushed, . . . "How thin his fingers are!" Nan thought, as she closed her eyes for a moment and let her body sway dizzily. "I must fatten him somehow. He works too hard—" It did not occur to her then or afterward that it was odd that her only conscious thought as the ceremony was being concluded was for the man who was becoming her husband. She had always thought of him first.

OLD DAYS OF WEST RECALLED BY STAMFORD

STAMFORD, June 21.—In the midst of an environment truly reminiscent of the old past, when the buffalo and the long horn vied for supremacy on the West Texas plains, one of the largest cattle roundups known in this section during the past decade will be staged near Stamford, beginning Friday, June 21, and continuing through Monday, June 24.

The big round-up will be staged under auspices of the Stamford chamber of commerce, which organization has interested one of the country's largest motion picture corporations in the project. It is believed here that the picture, depicting first the buffalo and then the pedigreed Hereford of today in visual contrast, will form the setting for an interesting screen drama that will go over big.

The buffalo herd, owned by R. V. Colbert & Son, prominent Hereford breeders near Stamford, are to be "shot" first. The herd of thirty bison constitutes one of the few remaining remnants of this once dominating ruler of the Western plains.

Such interest has developed in the big round-up that a number of prominent daily newspapers of the state have wired the chamber of commerce that staff members would be sent to Stamford to "cover" the events. Four of these dailies had so informed the chamber Wednesday night, within less than four hours after announcement of the event was released here for publication.

In connection with the big round-up, to be staged especially for the picture, another round-up will be given near Stamford Saturday afternoon for special entertainment of delegates attending the annual state convention, Texas Exchange Club association, which association of civic clubs will convene here Saturday morning for a session of two days.

The round-up was originated here some two months ago as the medium of a special publicity program for this city and section. However, interest in the event has developed to such a stage now as to give every promise of supplying to fans of the screen drama the country over a picture filled with thrills and romance of such gripping magnitude as to assure recognition as a real contribution to the motion picture industry.

Chamber of commerce officials have been profuse in their praise of support given the project by J. Swenson, general manager of the Swenson Land & Cattle Company this city, who, at his own expense, will stage the round-up, in which large numbers of pure bred Herefords are to be concentrated in one of the Swenson pastures northeast of Stamford.

ASKS CITIZENSHIP.
FORT WORTH, June 21.—Sixty-five years after setting foot on American soil, Dominick Hart, 77, appeared before naturalization officers here and renounced his allegiance to King George V of England. His hearing on his application for citizenship will be in September. Born in Ireland, Hart, with his wife and three sons settled at Del Rio, Texas, in 1865. He moved to Fort Worth in 1917.

OIL NEWS OF SOUTHWEST

SAN ANGELO, June 21.—A jump in new production was registered in the West Texas Permian basin during the second week in June, according to figures announced here.

Nine wells were completed in four counties for a daily average of 8,969 barrels. This compares with 1,164 barrels in new production the previous week. Figures for the year, however, remained below average.

Winkler county finished three producers of 7,180 barrels, Howard county two for 1,178 barrels, Ward county two for 262 barrels, and Upton county one for 49 barrels.

Failures were registered as one each in Pecos, Reagan, Runnels, and Winkler county, while one location was abandoned in Presidio county.

PALESTINE, June 21.—Humble has announced two new locations and is continuing to drill at the Jarvis wildcat well, according to latest oil field reports. The Pure Oil company's Bethel Dome test is continuing to drill while the Caden test on the Keechi Dome has been abandoned.

WICHITA FALLS, June 21.—One hundred barrels from sand at 1,181-89 feet is the daily production at the Fain and McGaha No. 1 J. F. New locations are expected in this section.

ABILENE, June 21.—While the well continued production of 33 barrels daily a mile and a half from other commercial production, the Oyster & Rife-Taylor's No. 1 Davis, western Shackelford county, was sold to Sherwood Owens and E. T. Green, Brownwood. The consideration as not revealed.

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 21.—Number 1 Kinter of the Sinclair Oil & Gas and Amerada Petroleum in the south Oklahoma City oil field was flowing 77 barrels of casing head gasoline per hour Thursday. The well increased its flow last night after producing 1,345 barrels in 24 hours. The well is making fifteen million feet of gas and is being pinched in.

SEMINOLE, Ok., June 20.—The East Seminole City pool of the Greater Seminole area now has 12 producing wells making about 5,700 barrels daily. New wells are being drilled.

Continuing to show declines, the Greater Seminole area produced 274,404 barrels of oil from 1,940 wells Wednesday, a decrease of 1,406 barrels over Tuesday's gauge.

The St. Louis pool produced 89,966 barrels from 364 wells.

One new well was completed in the Earlsboro pool.

ing to throw the switch. The ordinary procedure is to pull these plugs, which cut off all current from the switch, remove the railing from the side and then go behind the panel and change the switch. In reaching over the railing and behind the panel to get at the switch, however, Mr. Stephens' right hand apparently came in contact with the two posts through which the current enters the circuit breaker plugs on the panel, automatically throwing the switch while sending the fatal stream of electricity through his body.

Three fingers and the bone of the thumb on his right hand were burned away. There was a bad burn on his right forearm just below the elbow, another bad burn under the ribs on the right side; a burn on his right thigh and a hole in the sole of his right shoe.

The body was taken to the Green Funeral home. No arrangements for burial had been made this morning.

Reached Scene.
Jack Bowman, of Putnam, one of the first to reach the scene arrived in Cisco shortly before 3 o'clock this morning. He parked his truck on East Fifth street, just above the plant and just off

D avenue, and went to the Savoy cafe for a cup of coffee. Just as he was getting up from his seat after drinking the coffee, the lights went out and he heard the popping sound at the plant. He thought nothing of it and went out on the street in front of the Ever-Ready Transfer company and was talking with an acquaintance when C. F. Simpson, of the American Glyceria company, circled the street in front of the W. T. U. plant in his car and drove back to D avenue, telling Boman no one was at the plant. Boman told him someone was certain to be there and the two of them went to the plant and entered.

As they got inside they saw the body crumpled up at the back and both went to it. Neither touched the body, fearing that it was still connected with the current. Boman went to the phone and called Russell and about that time Ted Bacon, Peoples Ice company engineer, came in.

When Proctor arrived he removed the body and with the assistance of the others began resuscitation work on it.

WELL SOUTH OF BAIRD GETS A SHOW OF OIL

BAIRD, June 21.—A show of oil and gas from the top of sand encountered at 329 feet was reported today in E. P. Campbell & company's No. 1 I. N. Jackson, wildcat test in Callahan county, eight miles south of Baird.

Drilling was suspended when the show was topped Monday night to allow running a string of 8-inch. E. P. Campbell said Tuesday morning that the casing was to be set at 375 feet. He thought the operation would be completed late in the afternoon and a test made.

Location of the No. 1 Jackson is given as 1,320 feet south and 150 feet west of the northwest corner of section 21, E. T. R. R. survey.

The nearest commercial production is about two miles northeast, just over the line in Shackelford county in the Dyer pool where Mid-west Exploration company, Southern Petroleum Exploration company and Simms Petroleum company have a number of good producers from the Cook sand found around 900 feet.

Some shallow shows have been found in the past year or so in tests drilled south and southwest of the Jackson operation. However, none of them have been large enough to cause any excitement.

The new show is on a block of approximately 12,000 acres that has been held by Humble Oil and Refining company for some time. E. P. Campbell and company have recently contracted to drill six tests on the block, the No. 1 Jackson being the first of the six to be started. All the tests will be drilled to around 1,600 feet to test both the Cook and the King sands Campbell Tuesday announced the location of the other five. They follow:

E. P. Campbell & Company's No. 1 Mrs. Maggie Alexander, in the middle of the east half of the southeast quarter of section 23, E. T. R. R. survey.

E. P. Campbell & Company's No. 2 Mrs. Maggie Alexander, in the middle of the east half of the northwest quarter of section 24, E. T. R. R. survey.

E. P. Campbell & Company's No. 1 Robert Hennessy, at the southeast corner of the northwest quarter of section 72, B. B. B. & C. R. R. survey.

E. P. Campbell & Company's No. 1 H. M. Kenward, in the south one-half of the northwest quarter of section 72, B. B. B. & C. R. R. survey.

E. P. Campbell & Company's No. 1 W. E. and C. A. Bowman, at the southeast corner of the northwest quarter of section 90, T. & P. survey 12. This test will be in Shackelford county, about half a mile north of the Callahan county line. The other four locations are in Callahan county.

Sale of Oyster & Rife-Taylor's No. 1 Davis, western Shackelford county oil test, which last week found commercial production a mile and a half from the nearest proved area, to Sherwood Owens and E. T. Green of Brownwood, was announced here today.

Mr. Shires' History

THERE have been many stories told about the cocky Art Shires, the first baseman for the Chicago White Sox. He came up as a rookie and was made captain of the team and he proceeded to leave the reservation in the spring training camp.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

HELEN WILLES, when she was in Berlin, was being interviewed by a lot of German journalists. Among them was an artist. He was drawing a sketch of her. And she saw him. And she didn't like it. And she said— "I'll draw one myself for you." And she drew her own picture for him. They say, in whispers, that Grover Whalen, the New York police commissioner, has a piece of a couple heavy-weight fighters. "Puttin' glasses in front of his eyes sure didn't hurt the hitting of Chick Hafey." The St. Louis outfielder who had sinus trouble last year. And they say that Judge Fuchs, who owns the Boston Braves. And who started out to be the manager of his club this year. Has decided that he doesn't want to be the manager. And that poor old Johnny Evers can take the rap.

Good if I Play

SHIRES returned to the ball club when they were in New York for a series against the Yankees. And while he was there this incident happened. And it will serve to show what kind of a colorful and confident young man he is. On the day of the last game in New York Shires was accosted by an innocent stranger in the hotel where the club was stopping. The stranger, vaguely aware that Shires was a ball player, said he had a notion to go out to the ball park. "It's been a long time since I have seen a good ball game," the stranger said. "Well," the cocky Shires said to him, "I don't know how good his ball game is going to be this afternoon because I don't know whether I'm playing. But if I was playing it would be worth our while to go out. It would be a treat for you."

For Paulino, Too

JOE JACOBS, who has the heart and the contract of Herr Max Schmeling, der Choimann heavy-weight wop, explains in a signed story how it happened that Max bounced the German manager who brought him to this country and whacked himself off to der Chacobs. "Schmeling and I hit it off perfectly from the start," der Choa said. "He never refused to do anything I asked him. When we had a match in the making he would ask me only one question: "Do you think I can win this fight?" he would ask me. "And I would tell him he was a cinch or I wouldn't have made the match. And he always would say okay and then go in and knock off the bum that I had got for him."

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

By United Press. Yesterday's hero, Young Ed Walsh, Chicago pitcher, who held the Browns to four hits at Saint Louis and enabled the White Sox to win, 5 to 3. Walsh missed a shutout in the ninth when the Browns combined two hits and an error for the three runs.

The Detroit Tigers pounded Jimmy Zinn for 13 hits to win at Cleveland, 8 to 4. Averil hit a homer for the Indians and Alexander for the Tigers.

MacFayden held the Senators in check and Boston scored a 6 to 4 victory at Washington. The Red Sox made good use of 10 hits off Liska and Brown, to win the game.

The Chicago Cubs tightened their hold on first place in the National league by taking their fourth straight from the St. Louis Cardinals, at Chicago 7 to 6. Hack Wilson hit his 15th and 16th home runs, bringing his total to five in three days.

The New York Giants took their third straight at Philadelphia with a 11 to 6 decision over the Phillies. The McGraw men continued their heavy hitting, getting 13 safe blows off Roy and Elliott.

Brooklyn slipped into seventh place when the Robbings lost their third straight at Boston, 4 to 2. Clark held the Braves to five hits but threw the game away in the fourth when he tossed wild to first, allowing two men to score.

NEW PRICES AT PALACE FOR SUMMER

Those who attended the Palace yesterday were delighted by the cool blast of air that seemed to come out into the vestibule to meet the visitor. K. N. Greer, manager of the Palace says that it will be a regular feature at all times. The real feature at the Palace starting today is that you can come to the Palace before 2 p. m. for 25 cents and every day for the summer. A cut on prices both matinee and night starts also today. Matinee prices are now 25 cents and 15 cents and evening prices will be 50 cents and 15 cents. Now remember, come before 2 p. m. every day for 25 cents—after that hour 35 cents, and after 6 p. m. the price will be 50 cents. Sunday prices will be 50 cents and 15 cents all day. Mr. Greer just returned from Dallas a few days ago and after thinking the matter over decided to put these summer prices on at the Palace as these same prices are now on at most all theaters in Dallas. This does not mean that we will cut our show in any way—we will keep on giving you the very best in movie entertainment at all times, giving you the same high class pictures we have always given.

While in Dallas Mr. Greer booked some very high class talking pictures, among them "Noah's Ark" which will be shown at an early date. This picture took over three years to make and is said to be one of the outstanding Vitaphone talking pictures ever made.

IS CHEERFUL AS A SCHOOL GIRL NOW

Silver, Texas, Farmer's Wife's Limbs Swelled So That She Could Hardly Use Them—Relieved by Orgatone.

"My wife didn't know what it was to get a good night's rest nor enjoy a square meal for three long years before she started taking Orgatone," said P. Mayberry, a well to do farmer living at Silver, Texas. "There wasn't a day in all that time that she didn't suffer misery from indigestion, nervousness and a swelling in her legs, he continued, 'and the more she suffered the weaker and more run-down she got, until I just couldn't see how she would ever be well again. Her food would sour in her stomach and form gas that would blow her up and choke her until she thought it would almost take her breath. Her nerves were so torn up that she would get up all sluggish and drowsy and tried and she grew so despondent that I didn't think she could stand it much longer."

"But a person wouldn't believe that to look at her now. She has only been taking Orgatone about four weeks but she hasn't had a spell of indigestion since the first few doses she took, and she says she can just feel her strength and energy coming back to her every day she lives. When she sits down to the table, she can relish every bit she takes, and her appetite is just dandy. She never has a bit of trouble from it afterwards. Instead of being blue and worried like she used to be, she goes at her house work as bright and cheerful as a school girl at play, and when night comes she sleeps like a baby for her nerves are as steady as a clock since her troubles have disappeared."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific bile preparation and is sold in Cisco, exclusively by Dean Drug Co., under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative.
