MISS FORT WORTH WINS BEAUTY SHOW

15,000 Witness Annual West Texas Bathing Revue

A glittering throng of West Texans, estimated by newspapermen and cameramen at between 10,000 and 20,000 people, swarmed to the big natural amphitheater at Lake Cisco swimming pool tonight to witness the most successful West Texas Bathing Revue yet. It has been the pride of Cisco since its inception. Nowhere in West Texas has such another crowd gather in celebration of the grand and glorious fourth. Certainly no other event went off as smoothly and as successfully in the site of those inevitable hitches and unforeseen contingencies that might interrupt the "best laid plans of mice and men."

Miss Charlie Eastment, "Miss Fort Worth," won the title of "Miss West Texas" in the revue in which 34 of West Texas' most charming girls competed. Miss Dollie Jensen, "Miss Lake Cisco," took second place in the event, while Miss Mabel Rooks, "Miss Belmont Park," took third place. Miss Jensen is a Cisco girl and Miss Rooks, though representing a Cisco institution, is a Waco product.

After the revue the entrants were grouped upon the stage, phosphorus flares lit and motion and still pictures taken of them. Previously, during the afternoon, the girls had been photographed by news reel men and photographers in a natural setting of rock and against a background of the lake.

Dallas Municipal Preacher a Woman

By N. E. A. Service DALLAS, July 5.—If all Dallasites do not have special seats in Heaven, it won't be the fault of Mayor J. Waddy Tate, newly elected, who has made good his campaign pledge to appoint a municipal minister.

The Rev. Mrs. Charles Chasteen has been appointed by Mayor Tate as Dallas' first city soul-saver. With the words, "Rescue the perishing, comfort the dying," on his lips, Tate formally invested the Rev. Mrs. Chasteen with the office of municipal minister at a city commission meeting.

Mrs. Chasteen will perform marriages free of charge for those unable to pay, will preach to the city's prisoners, will conduct funerals for the poor, and will be at the call of any Dallas citizen who feels the need of spiritual guidance.

AGENT CLAIMS MAN HAD GUN IN HIS HAND

Farmer Shot Down Within Few Yards of Home

SHAWNEE, Okla., July 5.—One man was killed and another was critically wounded during a federal prohibition raid on a farm near Tecumseh yesterday. Jeff Harris, federal prohibition agent, was in jail at Tecumseh as the result of the shooting late Wednesday. The dead man is James Harris, 35. The shooting took place on his farm. His brother-in-law, Oscar Lowery, 34, was wounded.

The raid was led by W. W. Thompson, veteran prohibition agent who has seen 20 years of service in the secret service and prohibition departments.

This statement was denied by Officer Harris, who said the farmer rushed at him, gun in hand. The farmer's wife, who witnessed the shooting, said she was not sure who fired the first shot. There was so much confusion attending the sudden appearance of the men with guns drawn.

MAYOR OF CLEBURNE IS VISITOR HERE

Among Fourth of July visitors to Cisco yesterday were Mayor and Mrs. E. E. Hunter, of Cleburne; Dr. and Mrs. T. C. Honea, of Cleburne and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Roberts, and daughter, Mrs. M. H. Babcock, of Fort Worth. The party was entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Van Eman here. During the day they "took in" all the events celebrating the national holiday, including the revue at Lake Cisco, and afterwards declared that they had the best time of their lives. All expressed surprise at the magnitude of the celebration and the big resort at Lake Cisco, and declared that they are coming back again.

Remarks of Judge in Formally Sentencing Helms to Death

The following are the remarks of Judge George L. Davenport, of the 91st district court in formally sentencing Henry Helms, Cisco bank bandit, this afternoon to death in the electric chair. It was Judge Davenport's first occasion to sentence a man to death.

The defendant, Henry Helms, will stand. In this case you were indicted by a grand jury with felony, and thereafter, in February, 1928, you were duly tried by a jury of Eastland county for said offense, after entering your plea of "Not Guilty." More than a week was devoted to the trial of your case. You were given every opportunity to present your defense to the court and jury. The jury, composed of representative men of Eastland county, after listening patiently to all the testimony presented, by their solemn verdict found that you were guilty of the offense charged, and that your punishment should be death. After your conviction a motion was presented to this court by your able attorney, and after being carefully considered was overruled, from which order you, through your attorney, appealed to the Court of Criminal Appeals of the State of Texas, which court is composed of honorable men learned in the law and who are fair and impartial in their decisions; that court, after hearing the argument of your counsel as well as that of the State, devoted a great deal of time to the consideration of the record in your case, and have finally decided that you received at the hands of the trial court and jury a fair, legal and impartial trial, and that there was no error by the court and jury trying you, and after so finding, affirmed the judgment of this court. Since your case was affirmed your attorney has presented to the Court of Criminal Appeals your first and second motions for rehearing, these motions have been overruled, and your case is now before this court in all respects affirmed; you have therefore been accorded all the protection that is guaranteed to you as a citizen of this State under the laws and constitution of the State and the United States.

Heinous Crime. You were tried and convicted of the most heinous crimes in the annals of Eastland county; in your greed for money you and your companions have taken from the wives and children of Bit Bedford and George Carmichael, faithful and devoted husbands and fathers, and from the citizenship of the city of Cisco and Eastland county; you have received a fair trial at the hands of the court and jury, and that the records in your case was given fair and careful consideration by the higher court. But it is not my purpose to dwell longer upon the facts and circumstances connected with your case, it therefore now becomes the painful duty of this court to pronounce sentence upon you. Have you any reason to suggest why the sentence of this court should not be pronounced? (Defendant given an opportunity to speak). Your attorney has doubtless advised you that when the sentence of this court has been pronounced there can be no further appeals through the courts in your case, and your only opportunity to escape this sentence is by an appeal to the Governor of the State, this I presume will be done and when he has acted your last appeal is gone. Since your trial you have had sufficient time to ponder over your past life and I trust that you have fully realized your sad mistake and in every way possible made amends. It is the charitable advice of this court that you spend the remaining time humbly invoking the tender mercies of God, and with a penitent and contrite heart ask for the forgiveness of your deeds. When you do this you have the assurance that all will be forgiven. Christ Suffered.

Our Christ suffered death in obedience to sentence pronounced by an earthly tribunal and He stands at the right hand of a merciful heavenly Father to plead your cause and mine. It has been said that life is a narrow isthmus between two eternities and that man knows not whence he came nor to what he shall return, but I am constrained to believe and I would have you believe, that death is only an entrance gate to eternal life. "Fear not them which kill the body, but rather fear him who is able to destroy both soul and body in hell," are the words of our Saviour spoken to his disciples, and He calleth to Him all such as feel the burden of their sins in the following words: "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Peter tells us in Acts 16, 34, 35, that "God is no respecter of persons; but in every nation he that feareth Him and worketh righteousness, is accepted of Him, and that a current of electricity of sufficient voltage to cause your death be caused to pass through your body on said date of September 6th, A. D. 1929, before sunrise, until you are dead. May the Lord have mercy upon your soul.

IS FORMALLY SENTENCED TO DIE IN CHAIR

Fateful Words Pronounced by Judge Davenport

In the dramatic hush of a crowded court room the sentence of death was formally passed upon Henry Helms this afternoon. The solemn pronouncement took place in the 91st district court of Eastland county shortly after 3 o'clock. Judge George L. Davenport, judge of that court, sitting.

Helms stood impassive throughout the reading of the decree. His face was pale, his head bowed, and his hands clasped an ordinary fan before him. He appeared not to hear the direction of the court requiring him to stand before the sentence was read. Sheriff Virge Foster went to him, took him by the arm, and assisted him to his feet. He was handcuffed. He made no motion throughout the reading of the sentence beyond to raise his head occasionally and look at the judge.

When Judge Davenport asked him if he had anything to say he remained silent and motionless. He was taken directly from the court room to the jail by Sheriff Foster and two deputies. Fear of the possibility that untoward demonstrations might interrupt the course of justice, although such demonstrations were little expected, caused the proceedings to be given no publicity through the press. Helms, who has been confined in the Dallas jail pending the final disposition of his case by the courts, was brought to Eastland only a short while before the hour set for him to receive sentence. He was heavily guarded. Sheriff Foster and his officers taking every possible precaution to prevent any demonstration on the part of citizens and spectators, as well as coup in behalf of the prisoner.

Judge Davenport preceded his pronouncement of sentence by a brief review of his case. He pointed out that the prisoner, convicted of the robbery of the First National bank of Cisco on December 23, 1927, during which two Cisco police officers were slain, had been given all the protection and rights accorded an American citizen under the law. The passage of the cause through the courts was traced in the first paragraph of the judge's statement.

Heinous Crime. "You were convicted of one of the most heinous crimes in the annals of Eastland county," Judge Davenport continued. "In your greed for money you and your companions have taken from the wives and children of Bit Bedford and George Carmichael, faithful and devoted husbands and fathers, and from the citizenship of Cisco and Eastland county, brave, courageous and faithful public servants and officers of the law; these men were guardians of the lives and liberties of the people and were faithful to their sacred trust, and while in the discharge of their official duties sacrificed their lives."

Thoroughly Enjoy Celebration Here

Miss Laura Kittrell arrived yesterday from Winters to spend the Fourth of July with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kittrell, Sr. Accompanying Miss Kittrell were Mr. and Mrs. J. Stahl and a sister-in-law of Mrs. Stahl, Mrs. Cohen, of Dallas. The party spent the day here and "took in" the celebration at Lake Cisco as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Kittrell. Needless to say, they thoroughly enjoyed the day.

WORST CABINET CRISIS IN PARIS, July 5.—France's worst cabinet crisis since the hectic Fourth of July with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kittrell, Sr. Accompanying Miss Kittrell were Mr. and Mrs. J. Future Farmers to Hold Convention

DALLAS, July 5.—Future farmers of the state will hold their annual convention at the State Fair Boys and Girls Encampment building on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 26 and 27, it was announced here by Roy Rupard, secretary of the State Fair, following a conference with C. L. Davis, state supervisor of vocational agriculture. More than two hundred and twenty-five Future Farmer chapters from various parts of the state will be represented with three delegates each. All delegates to the convention will be housed in the boys and girls building. Other Future Farmers attending the convention will make their own housing arrangements.

Cupid Sets New Record in Dallas

DALLAS, July 5.—Dan Cupid, the "little god of love," established a new record in Dallas county for June when 480 marriage licenses were issued, according to W. B. Fitzpatrick, marriage license clerk at the county clerk's office. The new marriage law went into effect the middle of the month and there was a period of three days that no licenses were issued but Cupid hurled this handicap and rushed to a great victory. The records show that 136 persons appeared at the clerk's office during the last two weeks of June and complied with the new marriage law by giving a three-day notice of intention to marry. UNPROFITABLE LITIGATION.

The American is noted as a fighter. The title is merited. He has the quality of stick-to-it-iveness in his nature that wins. Sometimes, however, he loses—even in victory. Where a principle is involved, especially his spirit of combativeness may carry him on to such an empty triumph. He may be wrong, but he hangs on to his conviction to the contrary with bulldog tenacity. Nowhere is this more strikingly shown than in the legal field. There are numerous instances where a dispute over a few pennies has cost a small fortune in litigation, and other instances where the legal contest for the possession of an estate has eaten up many thousands of dollars and bankrupted the contestants. Many people are so constituted that they would rather risk the loss of thousands of dollars in costs than pay five cents they think they do not owe; others will risk thousands to recover an infinitesimal amount they believe due them. Thus, in a recent case a merchant spent more than $900 to recover the value of a five-cent postage stamp. Another man contested the claim of his mother-in-law for 16 cents. He lost and was forced to pay $612 in costs, besides his attorney's fees. There is a record in New England of a case where suit was brought for one cent; and not infrequently people get into a legal fight where less than a dollar is involved. Further evidence that the American firmly believes in the theory that every wrong has its legal remedy may be found in the fact that more than five million civil suits are brought before the courts of this country every year. There are more than 100,000 attorneys to try these cases—and to find "cause" for starting others. And the number of attorneys is increasing as the fever spreads among the people to "go to law" with their troubles, real and fancied. It may be true that every wrong has its legal remedy, but in many cases the remedy is more oppressive than the wrong.—Nation's Business Magazine.

Professional Interest Revived in Exray Field With Report that Lone Star Has Leased 11,000 Acres There

DUBLIN, July 5.—Professional interest in the Exray gas field in northern Erath county has been revived by the announcement that Lone Star Gas company has leased a total of 11,000 acres out of the Exray field, beginning at a point 2 1/2 miles west of the field. Leases were in two parcels, it was said. Consideration for the first tract leased, 6,500 acres, was placed at $21,000 and agreement by the company to drill three tests on the tract. Rig is up and drilling has started on the first test. Consideration for the additional 5,500 acres was not made public. Texas & Pacific Coal & Oil company, according to information at the Stephenville chamber of commerce, has leased 20,000 acres out of the Allen ranch, six miles north and west of the field, with agreement to drill nine tests. Money consideration, if any, was not made public. At this time eight drilling operations are under way in and around the field, three being wildcats, two locations are rigging up and 11 new drilling operations are contracted in lease commitments. Hickory Oil & Gas company, Dallas, encountered 3,500,000 cubic feet of gas at 750 feet in its J. E. Smith, Stephenville survey. T. G. Shaw and others, Fort Worth, topped sand at 75 feet high on the Cox 45 acres, Espinosa survey, passed up showing of 2,500,000 cubic feet of gas at 2,130 feet and drilled on through 125 feet of sand exploring for oil to total depth of 3,510; lifting casing to place shot in the sand. Pearl Cage and others, Stephenville, No. 1 Cage 25 acres, Bishop survey, had 2,000,000 cubic feet of gas at 3,200 and is setting casing on the sand at that depth. Possibility of revival of drilling in western Erath is seen in commitments in recent lease transactions.

Bailey Memorial to Be Discussed

DALLAS, July 5.—A state-wide meeting will be held in the near future to discuss plans for carrying out the memorial program of the committee which he heads, according to an announcement made by Judge Rice Maxey, chairman of the Joseph W. Bailey Memorial committee. Maxey recently made public a donation of $5,000 to the fund, given by John H. Kirby of Houston. This sum is the largest contribution made to it thus far.

Texas Location and Climate Aids Flying

FORT WORTH, July 5.—The location and the climate of Texas is such that it will make her pre-eminent in aviation expansion, according to A. P. Barrett, president of the Southern Air Transport and its subsidiaries. "The advantages of the Texas climate for aerial activities were first recognized during the war when both the United States and Canada designated it as a training center. It was then that the phrase, "If you can fly anywhere, you can fly in Texas," originated, he said.

Coleman and Woodson Meet Here Again

IROCK COUNTY TEAM DEFEATED IN FIRST GAME

Will Try Comeback on Aviation Field at 5 o'Clock

The Coleman team, playing superb polo, defeated the strong Woodson aggregation in the first event on the Cisco Fourth of July program yesterday at the aviation field 6 to 2. About 1,500 people witnessed the contest.

The Woodson team, however, is planning a comeback and Sunday afternoon the two teams will meet again, the game to be called at 5 o'clock at the same place.

Preceding the game Sunday, there will be trick riding and performances by high school horses at 2 o'clock.

Lineups for yesterday's game:

Coleman — Don Sawyer, No. 1; Harold Kenney, No. 2; Fred Jones, No. 3 (Capt.); Frank Gillespie, back.

Woodson — John Know, No. 1; Ed Ham, No. 2; Vance Cotton, No. 3; Alex Dickey, back (Capt.).

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

By United Press.

Yesterday's hero: Adam Comorocky, whose home run in the seventh inning of the second game at Pittsburgh scored four runs and won the Pirates' right to first place in the National league.

Pittsburgh took two games from the stumbling St. Louis Cardinals in a series of 4 to 4 and 8 to 2, holding the 1928 pennant. Comorocky hit six hits in the second game, but Pittsburgh in the fifth game, 302 points ahead of the Chicago Cubs.

Chicago dropped to second place in the National when the Cubs were able to do a better than even game with the Cincinnati Reds, Cincinnati won the first game, 9 to 8, checking a threatening Cubs rally in the eighth with a triple play. The first game was called at the end of the eighth by a tie.

In the second Chicago scored six points in the third and were never again in danger, winning 10 to 5.

The New York Giants divided a double header at Boston, losing the first game, 4 to 3, and winning the second 8 to 0. Larry Benton shut out the Braves in the final contest, allowing but six scattered hits.

Brooklyn lost a wild slugfest to the Philadelphia Phillies, 14 to 12, in the first of the holiday bill at Brooklyn, but came back in the second to win, 5 to 3, behind the effective hurling of Morrison, who allowed only eight hits.

The Yanks continued their seemingly futile pursuit of the Philadelphia Athletics, winning two games from Washington, at New York, without gaining a step on the league leader. The Yanks started their third game with four runs in the first inning and were never headed, winning 8 to 4. In the second Washington got a two-run lead but New York countered with six runs in the fourth and went on to win, 14 to 4. Not a member of the world's champions hit a home run in the two games.

Philadelphia trampled twice on the Boston Red Sox, at Philadelphia, by scores of 3 to 1 and 8 to 1. In the first game Lefty Grove held the Sox to six hits and in the second Jack Quinn allowed Boston eight safe blows.

B. Y. P. U. WILL START SUMMER CAMPAIGN HERE

The B. Y. P. U. of Cisco is launching a summer campaign with their goal at 300, and feel sure that with the enthusiasm of youth and the faith of a Moses, they can accomplish this and more. They include the young people of other denominations, who do not have a young people's union. They are invited to come next Sunday at 6:45 p. m.

The program will be led by Frances Farmer and is "Lord Increase Our Faith."

1. Devotional.
2. Special song, Joe Carrothers.
3. In' duction, Frances Farmer.
4. Prayer and Faith, Jim B. Farmer.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS

IT'S a tough break for Lewis Albert Fonseca, first base man of the Cleveland Indians, that the magnates have decided to cut out the most valuable player trophy this year.

For if you take the word of the Cleveland baseball writers and the Cleveland rooters, the melodious Luigi would already have the honors roped and hog-tied.

In the Indians' spring training base at New Orleans, Lew expressed his confidence of this being the greatest year of his major league career, and from the present pace he is setting for his teammates, it looks as if he had the correct done.

The value of having Fonseca on a ball team lies in his love for winning games. When his team loses, there is no more lubricious player in the clubhouse after the game than Lew. But when the Indians triumph, you'll hear Lew's clear tenor pulsating from the shower room.

Fonseca can play any infield position and has also seen service in the outfield. He is one of the latest thinking players in the game, his ability to anticipate plays and cross up the opposition has won more than a few games for the Tribe this season.

While never a speedy runner, Lew is always right at the top in stolen bases. He knows when and how to break from the bag and is as good a man in a double steal as there is in the league.

Lew came up to the Cincinnati Reds from the Coast League in 1921. He served as utility infielder, regular first and second baseman until 1925, when purchased by the Phils. Although he hit for .319 that year, the Phils let him slip to the International League—a blunder as only the Phils can make.

To prove it, Lew hung up a .331 batting mark with Newark and the following year Cleveland brought him back at the reported purchase price of $50,000.

Second only to his baseball, runs Lew's tenor voice. It is good enough to get him vaudeville contracts in the off season.

ITASCA YOUTH IS WINNER IN DIVING EVENTS

Water Carnival Program Featured by Close Competition

A lithe young fellow by the name of Olan Webb came to Cisco from the Central Texas city of Itasca yesterday afternoon and when he had finished his graceful plunges from the diving apparatus in the deep pool at Lake Cisco he bore away the beautiful silver trophy offered for the winner of the diving events in the water carnival, which was a feature of the Fourth of July celebration.

"Gotton" Pippet, of Cisco, was second in this contest, while "Chuck" Van Horn, also of Cisco, was third. This part of the water carnival program was the most spectacular of an afternoon of hard competition and paramount excellence in water sports. Boys from Abilene, Breckenridge and other cities in this section as well as from Cisco competed and each event had sufficient entrants to make it supremely entertaining.

Wis Marathons
Wesley Harrell, of Cisco, won the other feature contest, the mile marathon. Second was George Irvine, of Cisco and third, Max Goldblatt, of Breckenridge.

Other winners were:
Fifty yard free-for-all, boys—Harrison, Abilene, first; Pruitt, Breckenridge, second; Louis Kennedy, Cisco, third.
Twenty-five yards, backstroke, for boys—Harrison, Abilene, first;

Pruitt, Breckenridge, second; Kennedy, Breckenridge, third.
One hundred yard dash, boy—Billy Rutledge, Cisco, first; Harrison, Abilene, second; Goldblatt, Breckenridge, third.

One hundred yards for girls—Florence McDonald, Cisco, first; Geraldine McDonald, Cisco, second; Dora May Wood, Abilene, third.

Night gown race, boys—Ha Kennedy, Cisco, first; Dick John, Abilene, second; Clyde Kins, Cisco, third.

Two hundred yard dash for boys—Elmer Morton, Cisco, first; Wesley Harrell, Cisco, second; Br Pruitt, Breckenridge, third.

Twenty-five yard backstroke, women—Florence McDonald, Cisco, first; Dora May Wood, Abilene, second; Clissey Wood, Abilene, third.

CATTLE THEFTS COMPLAINED OF TO OFFICIALS

The county attorney's department is receiving many complaints of cattle thieving, according to Assistant County Attorney W. B. Collie, who stated that his department was investigating a thorough investigation of the charges.

Mr. Collie, in discussing the matter, stated that the people engaged in the butchering business should be very careful to follow the law with reference to their vocation. If they will do this it will be much easier for the officers to run down the cattle thief, he said.

Concerning the law governing the slaughter of animals, Mr. Collie said:

"There are several articles in our penal code dealing with this subject, viz: Article 1447-9; 1450-1-2-3. These laws provide, in effect, that it shall be unlawful for any person to slaughter unbranded animals for market, or to kill or cause to be killed any animal, without taking a bill of sale from the party selling the same. They shall also report each and every animal slaughtered to the Commissioners' Court during each term of that court, giving the number, color, age, sex, marks and brands of such cattle, accompanying such report with proper bills of sales to him of every animal slaughtered. A person, before engaging in the business of slaughter and sale of animals for market, must first register his name with the county clerk, give bond in the amount provided by law, and shall keep a record, in a book, of all cattle purchased and slaughtered by him, together with a description of each animal, including brand, age, color, weight and from whom purchased, and the date of purchase, and such record shall be open for inspection of all parties. He shall keep the ears and brands of such animals and have them inspected within 20 days after such animal is slaughtered. Such inspection to be made by the inspector or some magistrate. All of the foregoing provisions are punishable by heavy fines and in

15,000 Attend West Texas Bathing Revue at Lake Cisco Here

of this the revue was a splendid success, a fitting finale to a typical Fourth of July with its beaming sun, its throngs, its fireworks and pop and contests of varied sorts.

The entire valley accessible to cars was wedged with a mass of cars for all the world like sardines in a can. Beyond the valley and on the hills overlooking the scene thousands of cars were parked while all roads leading to the pool and lake to the fish hatchery and zoo, and the country club grounds were black with vehicles. Hardly an inch of standing room about the pavilion and the pool was left unoccupied. It was a matter of moving as the throngs moved because individual motion was impossible otherwise.

Concession people were overworked to supply the demand for drinks, confections and lunches. They toiled feverishly, piling empty bottles and other refuse about them as best they could dispose of it because there was no way to carry it off through the crowd.

Eloquent Address. The program at the lake began with an eloquent address by District Attorney Robert Stuart, of Tarrant county. He spoke from the island into a microphone so that his voice was distributed over the area, at 7:30 black to the waters edge with spectators, through a system of radio loud speakers.

The Cisco high school band, seated upon the island kept the crowd entertained with music until the beginning of the revue and then played accompaniment as the girls were introduced from the platform.

The revue inevitably was somewhat late in starting but once under way progressed without interruption. As each girl came upon the stage to pose she was loudly cheered. The audience had favorites as could be judged from the volume of cheering. Miss Viola Mae Shelby, as "Miss Hammer," Miss Lillie Pearl Corley, as "Miss Breckenridge," and Miss Genevieve Lyon, as "Miss Eastland" were wildly applauded, revealing that each of these entrants had come to Cisco for the event well supported by their townspeople. Each of them was a formidable contender for the trophy.

Drew Big Ovation. There were other girls, too, who drew big hands from the audience, particularly entrants representing various Cisco firms. That the three winners were outstanding favorites with the crowd was shown by the big ovations given each of them as they appeared before the decisions of the judges were announced.

While the judges were deliberating upon their choice of winners the hills just across the swimming pool from the scene of the revue were made brilliant with a display of fireworks. This display was in itself a magnificent feature. For half an hour bombs, shooting rockets that burst into constellations of multi-colored fire, gigantic pinwheels, figures of flame silhouetted against the hills and sky, entertained the crowd. A strong wind added to the attractiveness of the scene by forcing the rockets to a tremendous height or sending them roaring in a serpentine course high above the crowd, leaving behind them a spiral path of brilliance.

GRANDSON OF C. S. LOONEY IS BADLY INJURED

Walter Vaughn, of Rising Star, 16-year-old grandson of Constable and Mrs. C. S. Looney, of Cisco, is reported improving after serious injuries sustained in a car wreck near Menard last Sunday. Young Vaughn was 16 years of age Wednesday. His mother is the daughter of Constable and Mrs. Looney.

The following account of the accident appeared in the Rising Star record Friday:

Walter Vaughn, Sr., returned this morning from Menard where he had been at the bedside of his son, Walter Vaughn, Jr., who was seriously injured in an auto wreck near Menard Sunday. Young Vaughn was badly cut and bruised about the head, suffered one broken arm and a wrenched back, and while his condition was described as rather serious his recovery is anticipated.

Young Vaughn was a member of a party of Menard young folks on an auto ride in which one young lady, Miss Dora Alice Weise, was instantly killed and three others seriously injured. Miss Weise was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Weise, her father being local agent for the Frisco at Menard. She was a member of the graduating class of the Menard high school the past spring.

States district attorney at Oklahoma City.

Conflicting stories were before County Attorney Pitman today as he commenced further investigation.

The statement by Harris before he died, he said his brother-in-law, and his family had come to the Harris home to spend the holiday. They were in the house when the raiders came upon them, he said.

"One of them opened fire. I returned the fire, thinking they were highwaymen," was the farmer's statement.

Pitman said today that he could find no trace of a warrant, nor did they display a warrant, according to statements of the Harris and Lowery families. The raiding officers denied this.

"After the exchange of shots," Lowery fled," the Harris statement said. He was shot down a few yards from the house.

As they left the building with the cash in their attempt to escape Police Chief Bill Bedford and Police Officer George Carmichael attempted to cut off their flight in the alley. Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of the famed Lone Eagle, has been awarded a special medal of honor by the Detroit board of education for her qualities of patriotism, loyalty, valor, heroism, courage, efficiency and the pursuit of the better and higher things of life.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
NAN CARROLL, finding herself in love with her employer, JOHN CURTIS MORGAN, lawyer, decides to resign. Her resignation is postponed, however, when she learns Morgan is to be married to a supposed friend, BERT LAWFORD.

Morgan wins Crawford's affection. Crawford leaves town at once, followed closely by IRIS, Morgan's wife, who writes Morgan she will never return. Referring to Crawford, whom Morgan does not suspect, is cleverly omitted.

Nan saves Morgan from despair by forcing him into his work. For months she acts as long-disappointed housekeeper for him, winning the love of little CURTIS, Morgan's son, and bringing comfort to a man who ironically works only of another.

Morgan tells her he is divorcing her and asks her to marry him. They are prevented from going on their honeymoon by the unexpected arrival of a pleading client. Nan urges Morgan to accept the case.

Their farcical marriage continues for three months. Hysterically, Nan prepares to leave, but Morgan intercepts her, confesses he loves her but has believed she married him out of pity.

The next morning, Iris returns apparently deserted by Crawford. She feigns unconsciousness and falls in an effort to bring Morgan to his knees. Nan, determined to fight, has the doctor remove her to a hospital. Morgan accompanies her. At the office that day, Nan remembers a letter proving Iris' perfidy—but no she can not fight that way! In her room that night, she locks the door.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXVIII
It was 6 o'clock when Nan Morgan, in a temper of unreasoning fury and fear, locked her doors against any attempt her husband might make to bring to her his load of despair and newly revived hope for his first wife.

"She shouldn't have this room, too, as she does every other room in the house!" Nan sobbed. She was trembling with the fury of her own determination, but her ears betrayed her by straining to catch the faintest sound which would indicate that he was trying to come to her. After many minutes she heard his door open. Breathlessly she waited, vaguely eager to have him turn the knob and enter and find it locked.

She herself was suffering so terribly that it gave her a fierce, perverse pleasure to think of his being hurt, too. Kneeling down before that woman who had never loved him and who had deserted him! Nan clenched her hands as her eyes stared at the doorknob. Going to the hospital twice in one day to see her, when she wasn't really sick at all, but just shamming to win his sympathy! He'd always been wax in Iris' hands. Well, let him be hurt now! It would serve him right. SHE had been hurt enough, God knew!

But her straining eyes told Nan that he had not touched the knob of her door. She heard water running; faint, familiar sounds which told her he was getting out his shaving things. She could see every step of the process as if she were in the bathroom beside him. The way he stretched his upper lip in a comical grimace; the brooding gravity in his deep-set black eyes, which saw nothing funny in the facial contortions a man makes when he shaves himself. The infinite care with which he circled the safety razor about the line between his ears on his right cheek. Oh! Nan caught her breath in agony. It was terrible to love a man so much. Only this morning she had stood close beside him as he shaved, so close that his elbow joggled her ribs and made her double up in a childish fit of giggling. And now—now...

woman at whose picture they gazed. Nan was powerless to move toward them. She was an interloper. It would be indecent to intrude upon their tragic brooding. All fight melted out of her for the moment, giving way to a nauseating self-hatred. If she had not "wormed her way" into John Curtis Morgan's home, into his brief, into the affections of his son, so that marriage with her had come to seem inevitable, he and the child would have been free to welcome Iris home. What did it matter that they had been better off without her? If they preferred sickness to health, misery to peace, Iris to Nan, why shouldn't they have them? People never thanked you for doing things for their good.

"Oh, excuse me, Mrs. Morgan. I didn't know you was there," Estelle apologized as she almost bumped into the frozen little figure in the doorway. "Dinner is served, ma'am."

The two before the fireplace started, the man guiltily. The 7-year-old boy stared at Nan as if he had never seen her before, a strange hostility in his liquid black eyes. There was a deep flush on his cheeks. Nan's heart contracted sharply with anxiety. Did he have a fever? Why was he staring at her like that? Had Iris already begun to poison the child against her? But why ask? She had known Iris was going to fight her with every weapon she could lay hands on, and of course the child would be the most potent, next to the terrific appeal which she had always made to the senses of the man she never loved and had deserted.

"Hello, dear!" her husband greeted her constrainedly, as he came forward to take her arm. "Sorry I couldn't meet you for lunch."

"How did the trial progress? Any jurors chosen?" Nan asked, with apparently cheerful casualness.

"We went to the hospital to see my mother," he said, in his strange, sullen, oddly mature and childishly belligerent, "She—"

"Nan asked ME a question, son," the father reproved him sternly, but laid a hand on the boy's shoulder. "Haven't you seen the afternoon paper, Nan? The trial is adjourned until Jan. 9."

No need now to pretend interest. Nan cried: "Adjourned? Why? What happened? You don't mean Brainerd wasn't ready? Or do you suppose he'd got wind of what we're going to spring?"

Morgan was obviously grateful for her interest and for a chance to think and talk of something else besides the amazing return of his divorced wife. He drew out a chair for Nan with his usual meticulous politeness, as he answered: "Oh, no, nothing like that. We were impaneling the jury. Had agreed on four men, when about 3 o'clock this afternoon Brainerd got down, violently thrusting aside the vegetable dish from which Estelle was about to serve him. Morgan snatched out of a period of brooding abstraction to frown upon his son. "Eat what's put before you, Curtis," he commanded sternly.

"I won't!" Curtis shouted, the feverish flush deepening alarmingly on the face which had once been so thin and anemic and now was plump with health. "Mother says I don't have to eat things I don't like!" "Sides, she give me all the chocolates I wanted out of that big box you took her. I aren't hungry!"

Morgan seemed glad of the chance to show furious anger. The two who were so alike and yet so different glared at each other. "Then leave the table!" the father ordered savagely. "And so straight to bed. You know you're not permitted to eat between meals and that—"

The child's howl of rage cut across his father's furious rebuke. Involuntarily, Nan reached out a hand and laid it soothingly upon Curtis' clenched fist. "Please, please, please!"

"Where is he—which hospital?" Nan demanded, as she made a pretense of eating her soup.

"He's at St. Luke's, too, where Mother is," Curtis answered the question. "Father went to talk to the doctor about him while I stayed with Mother." Again that curious, direct glance of hostility from the black eyes which had been so full of love as late as this morning.

"Yes," Morgan agreed, flushing and lowering his eyes. "They were operating then. No one could say how it would turn out, but a few minutes ago I telephoned the hospital and the poor old man has come out of the ether all right. If there are no serious complications, he'll pull through, Dr. Matthews says."

"I'm glad," Nan said in a low voice. There seemed to be nothing else to add, nothing whatever to talk about.

For Iris was as much a member of that constrained group as if she sat on the vacant fourth side of the table. Nan felt that the insolent blue-green eyes were mocking them all.

John! Let me... Curtis, darling, you don't want to lose your gold star for a perfect Health Chart, do you? If you aren't hungry, you can skip dessert, but Nan does want you to eat the vegetables—"

"Won't eat them!" Curtis screamed, pushing his plate so violently that part of the food spilled upon the immaculate white cloth. "Don't have to do what you tell me to! You ain't got any right to boss me!" Mother says—

"Go to your room!" his father roared, rising and bending over the child as if his clenched fist longed to strike him. "And stay there till you're ready to apologize to Nan and to promise to obey her implicitly. Do you understand?"

Nan shrank into her chair, every nerve outraged by the scene, the like of which had never taken place in that home since she had become its mistress. Helplessly, she watched the child scurrying from the room.

ROYAL BABIES LIKE OTHERS.

Royalty counts little now in the lives of Crown Prince Peter, who'll be King of Jugo-Slavia some day, and his little brother Tommy. Above, it seems that Tommy is measuring Peter's head for the crown he'll wear; below, they are out for a ride in the royal gardens at Belgrade. Just like other children, aren't they?

Mrs. De Priest Not Entertained in the President's Home

WASHINGTON, July 5. — When Mrs. Herbert Hoover entertained Mrs. Oscar De Priest, wife of the negro congressman from Illinois, at the white house last month, she was following a precedent observed by six presidents on at least fourteen different occasions.

Cancellation Commissioner Karl Phillips, who has been delving into the history of interracial social contacts at the request of Secretary of Labor Davis, named Presidents Lincoln, Cleveland, Hayes, Grant, Roosevelt and Coolidge as chief executives who entertained negroes. He said his researches are incomplete.

In 1864, near the close of the Civil War, President Lincoln invited Frederick Douglas to dinner, Phillips said. At the "Great Emancipator's" second inaugural reception in 1865, Douglas again was entertained at the white house. Certain historians, according to Phillips, have commented on Lincoln's marked cordiality toward the negro.

A negro senator, B. K. Bruce, was entertained by President Grant, according to Phillips, and Mrs. Bruce is said to have had members of the contemporary diplomatic corps in her home.

The other instances Phillips cited were: F. B. S. Pinchback, (one time governor of Louisiana) was entertained by President Grant at the white house in 1871.

Frederick Douglas was invited to the white house by President Hayes in 1878.

President Hayes, in 1878, was entertained by the president of Howard university. On this occasion he met John M. Langston, negro dean of the law school, upon whom Hayes called later at his home.

The minister to Haiti, in 1886, was entertained by President Cleveland.

Frederick Douglas, in 1885, dined with President Cleveland at the white house.

In 1903, Dr. Booker T.

Washington, principal of Tuskegee institute, dined at the white house with President Roosevelt.

of the treasury, and his wife were entertained by President Roosevelt in 1904. In 1912 President Roosevelt entertained Hon. William B. Lewis, former assistant attorney general, at the former's home at Oyster Bay, N. L., an overnight guest.

LEGISLATORS ADJOURN TO 2 EACH DAY

AUSTIN, July 5. — The Texas house of representatives met at two o'clock yesterday afternoon and adjourned to the same hour today. The procedure will be repeated today and Saturday. Monday a quorum is expected to be in Austin to begin actual work of the third called session. The senate will meet Saturday and adjourn until Monday. Rules limiting the length of time of adjournments necessitate the procedure. Approximately $18,000 is saved to the state in this way and the same amount taken from legislators' pockets. If the official beginning of the session had been delayed until Monday members would have been entitled to twenty cents a mile for the distance between their homes and Austin.

T. A. T. Field at Waco Is Lighted

WACO, July 5.—Lights resembling locomotive headlights will probably be used to illuminate Rich Field here which has been leased to the Texas Air Transport company of Fort Worth. The city is under contract to install the lights.

The field is already equipped with forty-eight border lights, which outline the field for the night flyer. The trangers and all obstructions are marked with red lights.

Viola Caruso, 13, of Attleboro, Mass., has had a book accepted by a well-known firm of publishers who acclaim her as a girl of wonderful writing talent.
