Appeal for Fund With Which to Improve Local Cemetery Is Meeting With a Hearty Response.

The call for contributions to the Daily News cemetery fund, to supplement that raised by the cemetery committee composed of A. B. O'Flaherty, Dr. Paul Woods, Lou Mendenhall, Doss Rogers and M. H. Fleming, is meeting with hearty response.

We, the undersigned firms and individuals, realizing the immediate necessity of protecting our cemetery from desecration, as well as its beautification and improvement, out of respect to the loved ones buried there, pledge ourselves to contribute to this work the sum set opposite our names, the money to be expended in the construction of a stone wall and in other ways which, in the discretion of the cemetery committee, may be necessary to accomplish the desired improvement.

Man, Who Grew Rich in Prison, Is Sued

NEW YORK, June 7.—New York Charles T. Davis who sought peaceful seclusion in the quiet of Hollywood's hills, only to be sued for $200,000 heart balm, today was revealed as "Charlie" Davis, the man who became a millionaire while in a New York prison cell.

Canoe Morris, former musical comedy girl, charged in her suit that Davis induced her to come to California and paid her expenses from her home at Cleveland, Ohio, on the promise to marry her. Then he refused to go through with the ceremony, she said.

The Davis story of his nine years imprisonment at Dannemora prison for the killing of a detective who assertedly tried to blackmail him; the loss of his wife to another man, and how he managed a $57,000 enterprise to a two and a half million dollar business read like fiction.

After his release last March from the New York prison, Davis fought a legal battle with his wife over the business, with the result that Mrs. Davis finally won $70,000.

Then Davis came here and with his son, Austin, and the latter's wife had settled in a bungalow in the exclusive Tutunza district.

Wolves Infest Dallas County

DALLAS, June 7.—Shortly removed from the second largest city in Texas predatory wolves became such a nuisance that the federal government was called on to exterminate them. H. E. Bradley, trapper, today was laying his plans in the southwestern part of Dallas county to kill some dozen families of wolves.

The timber wolves are larger than the average of their breed, he said, the full grown animals weighing about 48 pounds. He also found evidence of several bobcats to add to his quarry.

"MA" OPENS CAMPAIGN AT BELTON

Both "Jim" and His Wife Speak at Initial Rally

BELTON, June 7.—Among the home folks James E. and Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson—just "Pa" and "Ma"—to the neighbors—today launched their campaign to seat her a second time in the governor's chair from which he was once ousted.

Both spoke in the initial movement for a come-back to the power both knew in Texas' most turbulent political era. Their addresses were mixtures of droil reminiscences, explanations of former political activity and campaign pledges.

"Farmer Jim" revived again the spirit of the dirt farmer platform which will enter a decade ago swept him to political affluence, while his wife promised to "bring peace to our state household where a grave condition exists and do something for the people."

Ferguson, twice governor and once impeached, threw his support to his wife, first woman ever to be elected governor of a state, when a supreme court ruling that an amnesty act passed during her tenure was invalid barred him this year.

In but one instance was his intended platform revised for her use. "Ma" today said she would seek a law to prohibit anyone from holding office who drank liquor "unlawfully obtained." Ferguson is an anti-prohibitionist, but today conceded that his wife was justified in her stand.

Kicking and Cuffing. "I am sick and tired of office holders kicking and cuffing our citizens around and sending people to prison for bootleg liquor which they themselves are drinking every day," "Ma" told her audience, "we will never get anywhere with this kind of law enforcement. I want the law enforcement officers to be required at least to set a good example to our boys and girls, by not drinking unlawfully themselves."

Mrs. Ferguson took several tarjats at Governor Dan Moody, attorney general during her administration whose exposure of highway department irregularities was largely responsible for his election. Referring obviously to difficulties the present administration has encountered, she said:

"When I was governor I had peace with the legislature and its labors were finished in one term. There were no lynchings and the prison system was self-sustaining."

Pardon Issue. The former governor, who earned penitents in the capitol mansion kitchen while her political enemies said "Farmer Jim" waved the administrative baton went into great detail to justify her exercise of pardon power. So great was the exodus from the penitentiary that "pardon me—Ma did" became a facetious by-word.

Ferguson promised that in the event of her election "we will reform mandamus, the supreme court did not take notice of the committee's contention that it should have the right to exact such a pledge. So some of the members believe they have the right to exact it under the terms of the decision saying the candidates could be required to comply with committee rules."

To Decide Status of Carol Today. By ALEXANDER HURTIG United Press Correspondent BUCHAREST, Roumania, June 7.—The future status of Crown Prince Carol, who was welcomed back to exile today, will be decided tomorrow, when both houses of parliament meet in joint session.

The courses were open, one group wishing to elect the returned prince to the regency of the boy King Michael and the other proposing to proclaim him as king of Roumania.

The parliament will meet as a national assembly to debate the situation created by Carol's return from exile.

BONDS APPROVED. AUSTIN, June 7.—The attorney general today approved $80,000 San Benito independent school district bonds; $24,000 Brazos county road bonds and $80,000 Runge independent school district bonds. All bear five per cent interest.

Candidate Has Troubles

LINDEN, N. J., June 7.—Eber Kempton, independent candidate for mayor of Linden, is still having his troubles.

Kempton, local newspaper editor, advertised his campaign by a large balloon which he raised over his office. Two weeks ago the balloon was shot down. He repaired it and raised it. It came down again, full of buckshot holes. After it was shot down the third time, he put a longer rope on it.

For two weeks the balloon stayed up, and Kempton's campaign progressed nicely. Last night he looked up for the balloon and didn't see it. The rope had been cut.

GALVESTON IS SEEKING DEMO CONVENTION

AUSTIN, June 7.—Galveston is first in the field with a definite effort to secure the state democratic convention. The meeting place will be selected by the state democratic executive committee at its session here Monday. State Senator T. J. Holbrook and John L. Darrouzet of Galveston came to Austin this morning to make plans to get the convention for Galveston.

The cool Gulf breeze will be one of their talking points in efforts to gain the summer convention. Despite the comfort, Senator Holbrook says Galveston has not had a state democratic convention since 1912.

A request that the committee put a prohibition modification proposal on the primary election ballot is causing some discussion. Such a procedure is authorized by statute but it never has been utilized, politicians here say. The state W. C. T. U. through its president has announced opposition, not because of fear of the result but because the organization considers it merely repeal propaganda.

Status Discussed. Status of the candidates whose names were filed with the committee by proxy is causing some discussion. The law makes no provision for action by state candidates so named through committee nominees for county or congressional offices must formally acquiesce. Lynch Davidson is expected to have a formal announcement that he is a candidate. Pink Parrish is expected to send in a formal declaration. Governor Moody will attend the meeting and is expected to speak for himself then.

The capitol is still much wrought up over publication of forgotten article 3095 of the state statutes under which participants in a senatorial election may be required to make affidavit that they supported the nominees at the preceding general election.

This is a move to exact a definite pledge to furnish the real fireworks of Monday's session. In refusing to relinquish the Lovett election mandamus the supreme court did not take notice of the committee's contention that it should have the right to exact such a pledge. So some of the members believe they have the right to exact it under the terms of the decision saying the candidates could be required to comply with committee rules.

RESULTS OF C. C. CHECK-UP SATISFACTORY

Accomplishments and Expense of Organization Reviewed

Results of the joint meeting of the chamber of commerce and the city commission last night were very satisfactory. The meeting was the last of a series of departmental sessions of the municipal government and was aimed, as were the former meetings, not only at a check-up on the expenditures and accomplishments of the organization but toward an increase in the efficiency of the department and a cutting down, where possible without impairing efficiency, of the expenses.

The accomplishments of the organization in 1929 together with the costs of these accomplishments were gone over in detail by the directors and the commissioners. In each case a frank discussion was entered into and a search for further ways of reducing expenses without reducing the services rendered was made.

Expenditure. Expenditures of the chamber for 1929 were a little in excess of $19,000 the commission was told. The budget for 1930, however, is $13,000 and the first six months of 1930, covered in a supplemental report by Secretary J. E. Spencer, revealed that the chamber is running below this figure.

Those present at the meeting last night were Mayor Williamson, Commissioners J. T. Berry, George D. Fee, Crigler Paschall and Luther McCrea; Directors A. D. Anderson, J. A. Bearman, J. J. Collins, E. P. Crawford, Guy Dabney, H. S. Drumwright, P. B. Glenn, Dr. Charles Hale, E. E. Harrell, W. J. Leach, R. L. Poe and F. D. Wright; Secretary J. E. Spencer, E. H. Varnell, G. W. Colburn and B. A. Butler.

Hopes Germany Will Be in Next Parley

PATTERSON, N. J., June 7.—Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, candidate for the republican nomination for United States senator from New Jersey, hopes that Germany will be in the next naval conference in 1935.

Speaking here in behalf of the London naval treaty, which he helped negotiate and which is now before congress, the ambassador declared that the attitude of blaming Germany with full responsibility for starting the World war is "unfair."

Alsop Files Motion for New Trial. FORT WORTH, June 7.—John Alsop, given a 20-year sentence for the murder of Will Tate negro, was in the Tarrant county jail Saturday while a formal motion for a new trial was on file with the clerk of criminal district court.

An amended motion to the formal motion entered Friday must be filed before the end of the month. If this is denied or overruled, defense counsel said they would appeal to the court of criminal appeals.

Since his sentence exceeds 15 years, Alsop must remain in jail pending outcome of appeal.

Turtle Returns With Initial

PARSONS, Kan., June 7.—Floyd Carson deviated slightly from usual lovers' custom eight years ago when he carved his initials and those of his fiancée on the back of a turtle instead of on a tree trunk.

Yesterday, while walking along the bank of the river with his wife he found the terrapin. The initials, surrounded by a large heart, were still plainly visible.

FORMER T. P. EMPLOYE SUES FOR DAMAGES

EASTLAND, June 7.—A. G. Johnson, formerly a freight conductor of the Texas and Pacific railway, has filed a suit for damages against the railway company for $35,000. The suit was filed in the 88th district court this week.

It is alleged that on October 12, 1926, while employed by the railway, the plaintiff sustained injuries that are estimated to have caused the plaintiff to suffer damages to the extent of the amount sued for. It is alleged in the plaintiff's petition that on October 12 he was employed by the railway company and had been in the employ of the company for 18 years. On that date an oil tank car on the train on which he was working became defective because of a broken coupling or drawbar and that he aided in removing the car from the train in order that the remainder of the train might proceed on its schedule.

When the car was cut loose from the rest of the train the chain which was drawing the car became loosened and in striking the track struck the plaintiff's head and injured him to the extent that it was necessary to move it.

It is also alleged that he sustained permanent and serious injuries when the chain or drawbar struck him about the head and shoulders as the car was being removed from the rest of the train.

Hopes to Start His Atlantic Hop Sunday

DUBLIN, Ireland, June 7.—Captain Charles E. Kingsford Smith hopes to start his attempted flight across the Atlantic to New York at 3:30 a. m. tomorrow, if the weather is favorable.

Captain Kingsford Smith will start from Curragh, near Dublin, in his monoplane Southern Cross in which he crossed the Pacific ocean from California to Australia.

Cisco Nine Goes to Mineral Wells Today

The Cisco American Legion team, which has been playing home games for a number of weeks, will go to Mineral Wells today for a game with the Mineral Wells baseball nine.

RESUMES FLIGHT

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 7.—With favorable weather ahead, Col. Roberto Fierro, Mexican army aviator, resumed his cross-country flight to New York today from Maxwell field. He was forced down here by rain Friday afternoon after a flight from El Paso, Texas. Col. Fierro plans a non-stop flight later from New York to Mexico City.

50 Entrants Will Take Part in Eastland County Bathing Revue at Lake Cisco

Entries in the Eastland county bathing revue to be conducted under the auspices of the Lake Cisco Amusement company at Lake Cisco Saturday evening, June 14, are coming in rapidly, according to Manager Albert Hunt. In the neighborhood of 50 girls will compete for the title of Miss Eastland County.

Reports from over the county and neighboring counties indicate that the event will draw large attendance. Interest within Cisco, where many business firms will enter contestants, is very gratifying. Events on the program for the revue include a dinner on the roof garden of the Laguna hotel and a dance for the contestants and judges afterward at the Lake Cisco pavilion.

The revue proper will be held up on a stage erected in the swimming pool below the dam and properly decorated.

PLANO MAN IS SELECTED AS PRINCIPAL

Hiram Brandon Notifies School Board of Acceptance

The roster of teachers for the Cisco public school system was complete Saturday by the acceptance by Hiram Brandon, principal of the high school at Plano, Texas, of the principalship of the Cisco high school succeeding L. W. Hartsfield, who resigned to accept a similar position with the Greenville high school.

Mr. Brandon was elected at the meeting of the school board Monday evening. His acceptance has been conveyed to the board by telephone. Mrs. Brandon was elected to serve as a teacher in the grade schools, position to be assigned when school begins next fall.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Brandon hold B. S. degrees from the North Texas State Teachers college at Denton. Both have been with the Plano high school. Mr. Brandon as principal, for five years. They have no children.

Superintendent. R. N. Cluck, superintendent of the Spur schools, was elected superintendent of the Cisco schools some months ago, succeeding J. J. Youngblood who resigned to accept the superintendency of the consolidated schools at Mart, Texas.

All other teachers have been elected. At its meeting Monday night the board passed an order requiring all purchases for both the entire school system and the athletic association to be accompanied by requisitions signed by one or more members of the purchasing committee of the board.

This committee is composed of H. S. Drumwright, J. E. Spencer and W. F. Walker. "Indiscriminate purchasing is positively forbidden and no bill will be paid unless accompanied by the original requisition properly signed," the statement issued by the secretary's office says.

CHARGES ARE FALSE, HUSTON'S LETTERS SAY

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Chairman Claudius H. Huston of the Republican National committee defends himself in letters written to members of the committee against charges brought against him before the senate lobby committee several weeks ago which he says are "false."

Specifying that he was charged with lobbying for Muscle Shoals before congress and with diverting to stock speculation funds intended for the Tennessee river improvement association, which he formerly headed, Huston said in his letter: "Both of these charges are false."

The letter, which was dated May 29 but which has just come to light was interpreted as indicating Huston will fight any move to oust him on the basis of these charges and that he does not intend to resign his position.

The chairman claimed that a conspiracy was formed to injure him and the Republican administration as soon as he was appointed by President Hoover.

"Since then," he said, "every conceivable means has been employed to strike at me—both personally and politically."

Mmes. McGannon, McMahon Are Bridge Hostesses at Club

A Japanese motif characterized the decorations and color scheme featured yesterday afternoon at the delightful bridge party given by Mrs. M. L. McGannon and Mrs. F. D. McMahon at the Cisco country club.

Masses of cut flowers and greenery adorned the mantle, with bud vases holding roses centering each of the twelve tables. Cloths and napkins were delicate replicas of Japanese scenes and pictures, and the refreshment plate consisted of pastel-colored ice cream molded in the shape of butterflies, angel-food cake and pink and green minis.

High score, six water glasses in the Leda pattern of ebony glassware was won by Mrs. Pete Boothe. Second high, a beautiful boudoir pillow went to Mrs. Ted Mullinix and the cut prize, a panel picture was awarded Mrs. Hugh White. Low score, a card table cover was presented Mrs. O. W. Shepherd.

Members of the house party were: Mesdames W. W. Wallace, W. J. Armstrong, A. C. Elter and A. E. Jamieson.

Guests present were: Mesdames Hoyt Agnew, W. J. Armstrong, Everett Davis, J. C. Hanrahan, B. S. Huey, Chas. Fleming, E. E. Jones, Wm. Keough, Ted Mullinix, Chas. Roberts, Bill Herr, K. N. Miss Visitors Honored With Party

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Glenn D'Spain of Amory, Mississippi who are visiting here this week, Mr. and Mrs. Howard D'Spain entertained with bridge Thursday evening at their home, 309 West Seventh. A delicious salad course was served to Messrs. and Mesdames Hugh Wagner, Bill McDonald and H. White of Eastland, Glenn D'Spain and Mrs. Clarence Herman of Seymour.

McCall-Cotton Nuptials Solemnized

The marriage of Miss Lucille McCall to Ross Cotton was solemnized this morning at 7 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McCall, on West Fifth, with Rev. Bruce C. Boney performing the ring ceremony.

Clusters of pink roses with the glow from shaded lights and pink and green candles lighting the scene formed a lovely setting for the simple ceremony that was said in the presence of only the bride's family and immediate relatives.

The bride was gowned in a blue crepe ensemble with egg shell accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Cotton left immediately for a brief honeymoon to Port Worth and Dallas, and upon their return will be at home at the Broadmore apartments.

Mrs. Cotton has been reared in Cisco, where she graduated from the high school, and has a host of friends who wish her happiness. Mr. Cotton who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Cotton of Saratoga, has made Cisco his home during the past four years and is a graduate of the high school and also an ex-Lobo. For the past two years, he has been connected with Statham's pharmacy.

Hostess at Club and at Party

Mrs. Homer McDonald was hostess this week at two prettily appointed parties, one on Thursday when the members of the 1929 bridge club were entertained, and one on Friday afternoon.

A gorgeous profusion of cut flowers further stressed the color scheme of pastel colors which was used in the refreshment course, and in the wrappings of the prizes.

On Thursday, Mrs. L. A. Harrison made high score, and Mrs. Clayton Orr, low. Other guest were: Mes-

In Memory of Fallen War Heroes

In memory of the members of Michigan's famous "Polar Bear" regiment who met death in the frozen wastes of northern Russia during the World War, this unusual monument was dedicated Memorial Day at Detroit in connection with the burial of 48 soldiers whose bodies were brought back recently. Walter Dundon, center, president of the Polar Bear association, in charge of the services, is shown with two other survivors of the regiment.

Picnic For Class and Friends

Mrs. Forset Rumbaugh entertained her Sunday school class of the First Methodist church and a number of friends with a picnic this week.

Games were played and a general good time was had. Those present were: Helen Muller, Julian Flaherty, Chas. Flaherty, Mildred Whitman, Mary Ruth Proctor, Juddy Williams, Rosalee Williams, Pauline Flaherty, Edith Rumbaugh, Betty Parsons, Sara Rumbaugh, Mrs. Lee Williams and Mrs. Forrest Rumbaugh.

Louise Stephenson Hostess at Party

Miss Louise Stephenson was hostess to members of her Sunday school class of the First Baptist church and a number of friends this week at a tacky party.

First prize for the tackiest costume was won by Betty Elder Clark. After a number of games were played on the lawn, refreshments were served to Mary Lee Daniels, Ethel Frances Emerson, Rita Rae Clark, Betty Elder Clark, Minnie Bell Daniels, Catherine Russell, Billie Jean Hartness, Laverne Graves, Betty Joe Farmer, and Patsy Sue Baldwin.

Women Lead Bandits in Raid on Bank

RICHMOND HILL, N. Y., June 7.—Two women led a group of five bandits in a successful raid on the Richmond Hill National bank today and escaped with $19,000.

The two women and three men, all wearing masks over their faces and carrying pistols, appeared at the bank an hour before opening time. They calmly ordered the manager inside and trussed him up behind the cage.

Then they waited quietly while other employees appeared. As each employee came in he was bound and placed behind the cage. Finally the manager of the bank, Albert M. Thorne, appeared. He opened the vault, the five bandits seized the $19,000 and escaped in an automobile that was waiting outside.

Police said that the bandits had been fortified in addition to pistols, with tear gas bombs.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

Henry L. Farrell

How Are the Mighty Fallen!

IT hasn't been a year since Howard Ehmke was a great man, the hero of the hour. He pitched an amazing game in a world series. His surprising pitching may be the factor that turned the series tide for the Macks in that first game in Chicago.

New Connie Mack says Howard is all through, his arm completely gone. But the asking of waivers on Ehmke has a deeper significance than merely marking the passing of a man who no longer can make the grade. It means that Connie Mack realizes that he is facing a fight to hold the top of the American League this year with the pitching staff as it was in 1929.

Sam Jones Testifies

AN inquiring reporter asked Sam Jones the other day if he believed the Senators, for whom Sam pitches a couple of innings now and then, could stand off the Macks. Sam answered affirmatively.

"The second division clubs are the ones that are hard for us to beat," said Sam.

"But those Mack pitchers—aren't they pretty tough?" "How?" was the reply Jones made to this question. "Three pitchers are not enough. Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg are good, but Mack needs more. And it looks like Connie can't even depend on these three. Grove won't stand any overwork. Earnshaw hasn't been going this year. Neither has Walberg. You have to have five or six regular pitchers who are good enough to win ball games. Washington has got 'em; the Athletics haven't."

Which throws new light on Mack's asking of waivers on Ehmke. Mr. McGillicuddy realizes that he's got to pick-up a couple of pitchers.

The Trade Winds

SNAP judgment seems to indicate that John McGraw and Bucky Harris got much the best of their recent trades. McGraw gave Larry Benton and Pat Crawford for Pete Donohue, Ethan Allen and Hughie Critz. Bucky Harris gave Harry Rice, Owen Carroll and "Weenie" Wuestling for Waite Hoyt and Mark Koenig.

But what appears to be a benefit may turn out to be just another kick in the pants.

Donohue and Benton look to be an even trade. That makes it appear that Critz and Allen have been traded for Pat Crawford, a utility man who is a good hitter.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

THERE used to be quite a few Temperamental Tessies in the big leagues, guys who would get mad when their support wobbled behind them and who would thereafter grove the old apple and let come what may.

These lads are few and far between nowadays, but there are two we can think of. One is Waite Hoyt, traded the other day to the Tigers.

The other is Wesley Ferrell, the Indian pitcher who was a sensation last year in his first big league season.

When a player boots one behind him, Ferrell pounds the ball into his glove angrily. Some great pitchers we can think of never exhibited any signs of this peevishness.

Grove Alexander just pitches in there all the time, giving his best, no matter how many boners are made behind him.

Urban Faber is another like Alex. Stan Coveleskie was the hardest guy to ruffle you ever saw. Once an umpire framed a strike on him when Covey was at bat.

The ball was two feet wide of the plate, the story goes, and the catcher had to lunge to grab it. When the umpire called "Strike one!" Covey never even turned around.

Jack of all trades and master of none. It seems to be a great bargain for McGraw, who badly needs a man like Critz, but we are going to wait and see what Dan Howley does with Pat Crawford before passing judgment on the deal finally.

Howley took a seventh place St. Louis Browns team, bought one-way tickets for 17 of its players and wound up in the first division the following year. Dan doesn't go around with his eyes closed.

Gift Horses?

AS for the other trade, I don't place overweening faith in either Hoyt or Koenig. The former is cursed with a sulking temperament. Koenig has been a great ball player, but now is having lots of trouble with his eyes. Harry Rice is a fine ball player, and what Owen Carroll will develop into with as able a coach as Bob Shawkey to guide him may surprise those who think Harris got the best of the bargain.

Sweepstake Lottery Feud Between Father and Sons Settles as New Danger Appears

QUEBEC, June 7.—The Dougherty family of Brooklyn, upon whom a $149,000 derby sweepstakes ticket fell like an apple of discord, turning father against sons, composed their quarrel today by compromise, in light of a new danger.

The compromise was that the two sons, Edward Patrick Dougherty and Daniel Dougherty, Jr., will share fifty-fifty in the $149,000, with Daniel Dougherty, still querulously complaining, left out.

The squabble was settled, however, because of the impending descent upon the elder Dougherty of a missing wife—hitherto not reckoned with in the division of the spoils—who threatened to sue the elder Dougherty for his share (if any).

The threatened suit brought the three male Doughertys into one fold front against Mrs. Dougherty and the result was a signed agreement by which the father relinquishes all claim.

Papa Dougherty, once a bartender and in later days a doorman, had spoken to loudly of his claims to the winning ticket, which drew Bienheim in the Canadian army and navy sweepstakes. His nose attracted the attention of his wife, from whom he has been separated, and when the three men arrived here to lay separate claims to the cash, they were informed of Mrs. Dougherty's intention to sue for dower rights and non-support.

The Doughertys went into an immediate huddle. They explained to Daniels, Sr., that if he did succeed in getting any of the money his would take it away from him.

There were other complications, too, in the offing. The sweepstakes management threatened to stop payment on their check unless the quarrel was ended.

So the agreement was made, and the elder Dougherty grudgingly set his name against a document fore-swearing all claim to the stake. He was still bitter.

"But can't do anything about it," he said. "The boys refuse to share with me, and that's that."

HARPER MAY BE EXTRADITED FROM MEXICO

By JOHN R. MORRIS

United Press Staff Correspondent
MEXICO CITY, June 7.—Joy P. Harper, alleged forger of millions of dollars worth of negotiable documents for whom a score of states are clamoring, will be extradited from Mexico to the United States under a treaty new more than two decades old.

This promise is made with an ominous air of sincerity by Deputy Sheriff D. M. Kean, who came from Oklahoma county, Oklahoma, with a trunk full of documents and an over-awing desire to escort Harper to Oklahoma City. He brought also the customary reputation for always "getting his man," with the difference that in his case it appears to be justified by a long record of successful pursuits of law-breakers.

The imposing array of legal assessors—more than an Oklahoma sheriff of other days could have carried on two pack horses—is headed by a warrant for Harper signed personally by President Hoover. This is the first presidential warrant ever sent to Mexico by a president of the United States, and one of the very few ever to be issued from Washington. It is a true indicator of the importance which the United States government, and sheriffs in half the states of the union, attach to the return of the alleged forger.

Mellon Interested.

At least equally interested with President Hoover is an influential member of the cabinet, Secretary Mellon. The Mellon National bank of Pittsburgh in recent months has made good almost $200,000 worth of bogus travelers' checks, which Harper is alleged to have produced by an ingenious photostatic process. These he scattered over more than a dozen states, including the southwest and Pacific coast, according to warrants issued for his arrest.

For this reason, Deputy Sheriff Kean is accompanied during his long sojourn in Mexico City by C. D. Rule of Los Angeles, a Bureau detective agency operative who is acting for the American Bankers' Protective association and the Mellon bank. Through all the three months Sheriff Kean has been watching Harper, and waiting for his extradition to be approved. Detective Rule has been watching Sheriff Kean and reporting to Pittsburgh the slow progress of the case.

Despite the fact that Harper is wanted in many other cities to answer charges far more serious, President Hoover has urgently requested his extradition to Oklahoma City because the charge of larceny by embezzlement awaiting him there is one of those specifically mentioned in the United States-Mexico treaty of extradition. In the event of conviction, Harper's sentence in Oklahoma City will be light compared with those implied by the warrants of a full platoon of sheriffs who will greet him on the expiration of his Oklahoma term. Officers from Pennsylvania will be members of the welcoming committee at the Oklahoma prison gate, according to well-laid plans of indignant Mellon stockholders.

Wisdom Proved.

The wisdom of selecting for extradition purposes a charge mentioned in the treaty has been proved by the delays Harper has been able to bring about. Arrested March 16, at the Mexico City bullring, he has been able ever since to hold the waiting officers at bay while he continues to enjoy the hospitality of Mexican prisons. He is aware, of course, that no fugitive has ever been extradited from Mexico to the United States, and his discovered attempts to bribe his way to liberty have indicated he cherished the hope of escaping a compulsory visit to Oklahoma.

His chance of winning freedom by this method, never good, went glimmering however, when it was discovered that four $1,000 bonds he had concealed in his shoes for this purpose were as worthless as the similar bond with which he purch-

Announces

George H. Sheppard, present state comptroller, has announced his candidacy for that office, subject to the action of the democratic primary in July. In connection with his candidacy addressed to the citizens of Texas, Mr. Sheppard says:

I was born in McLennan county, in 1875, the son of an ex-Confederate soldier, and during my childhood moved with my parents to West Texas, where I have since resided. I was reared on a farm and ranch, and attended the public schools and normal. After completing my education, I taught in the public schools of that section for many years. I have served my county as tax assessor; was elected president of the Tax Assessors' association; served five years as mayor of my home city, Sweetwater; and was at the time of my appointment engaged in business in Sweetwater. Any success that I may have had and any possessions that I have accumulated must be attributed to hard work. Therefore, my sympathy is with that large group which comprises the laboring classes.

I am a democrat of the Jefferson and Jackson faith. I am under no obligations to any organization other than the Christian fellowship and the Democratic party, and in my official capacity to the entire citizenship of Texas. I have fixed ideas as to the manner in which this office shall be conducted under my supervision, and I shall devote as much time to my campaign as my official duties will permit so that I may personally discuss with the people my views of conducting the business of this branch of our state government.

Feeling that I am fully capable of rendering my state the service to which it is entitled, I place my candidacy in your hands, and should you honor me by repeating this trust in me, I promise in return to render you a service that will justify your support and confidence.

George H. Sheppard,
Comptroller of public accounts.

Used a motor car in Wichita, Kansas, last year. One of the other 12 warrants filed against him at local police headquarters for use in case the Oklahoma extradition should fail was sworn out by the seller of the car in Wichita as soon as he tried to cash the bond. It was of a New York street railway issue, re-deemed and cancelled several years ago.

It is believed unlikely, however, that any warrant other than that from Oklahoma and the imposing document bearing the signature and seal of the president of the United States will be necessary to obtain extradition.

Meanwhile Deputy Sheriff Kean, with an abundance of warrants and patience, continues to wait.

Cisco Man Was First Oil Producer in Oklahoma Over 30 Years Ago

By LOUISE TRAMMELL

Quite a number of years ago, when Texas ranges and Oklahoma plains were given over entirely to herds of cattle, horses, and sheep — when ranching was, without a doubt, the sole industry of this country, Pennsylvania was supplying the nation with oil. "There is no oil beyond the Mississippi," was the universal opinion.

So strong was this belief that no one tried to disprove it, and it remained for Mother Earth to send up her "liquid gold" to the very surface of the ground to attract her inhabitants to the wealth of western lands.

Some time in 1872, Edward Byrd who now makes his home in Cisco with his daughter, Mrs. E. M. Corah, discovered that at a point near his land about five miles from Chelsea, Mayes county, Oklahoma, the waters of Spencer creek were always covered by a thin film of oil. Even this knowledge did not disturb this tiny, peace-loving town where, jointly interested in real estate and ranching, Mr. Byrd was for a number of years mayor. It was 1895 before a well was drilled by Mr. Byrd a short distance from the creek to the shaft depth of 20 feet, when 1-2 barrels of oil a day were discovered.

Other wells were begun then, one to the west about 1-2 mile, which at a depth of 30 or 40 feet produced 3 barrels; and one 1-2 miles down the creek which at 85 or 90 feet, produced about 10 or 12 barrels.

Interest had become intense by then. There was no boom or excited oil rush characteristic of the new oil field of later years — oil had not come into own then, but development was started — several eastern concerns becoming interested, and at this time Mr. Byrd and his partner, Martin Heller, organized the Chelsea Oil and Gas company.

The first oil discovered by Byrd was sold at $6 per bbl. to a cattleman for use in dipping his stock. A good grade of crude oil, there was very little gas, obtained with it, though enough to supply the town of Chelsea.

These wells are still producing, and though a greater field has been since discovered near there, the shallow field of Chelsea, where the average well is about 300 feet and the average production, 30 barrels a day, has never been deepened.

The Husband Hunter

© 1930 BY NEA SERVICE, INC. BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Natalie Converse, jealous of her husband's friendship with Bernadine Lamont, leaves him. Alan is consoled by his secretary, Phillipa West, who is seeking to make an advantageous marriage.

Natalie returns, and Alan realizes that he loves her, but the entanglement that Phillipa has cleverly engineered prevents him from attempting a reconciliation. Phillipa refuses to release him.
Natalie's sister, Florence, fakes an illness to bring Alan back to his home. But Alan's chivalrous feeling for Phillipa permits her still to stand between him and Natalie.

Natalie goes to Alan's office and there meets Bernadine. Her old jealousy flares up again and she quarrels bitterly with Alan. The next day Natalie comes to the office to plead for forgiveness, but Alan is out. He telephones and Phillipa does not tell him that Natalie is there. Natalie leaves in despair.

Phillipa, fearful Alan's anger will not endure, uses a letter from Bernadine in a plot to discredit Natalie. She changes the name of a stock Bernadine wants to buy to one that is worthless. Bernadine comes to the office after the order has gone through and discovers the change that has been made in the letter. Suspicion, directed by Phillipa, points to Natalie. Alan believes her guilty.

Natalie is stricken to utter hopelessness by his accusation. Alan leaves her and goes to Bernadine to offer to repay her losses. He tells her he is through with Natalie for all time. Bernadine is worried over her little boy, Bobby's, future.

Not long afterward Alan is hurriedly called to her home.
CHAPTER XLIII
Alan did not want to think of Natalie, as he rushed up to Bernadine in response to the urgent summons from Dr. Wagnall, but he could not put her out of his mind.

She was always present in his thoughts whenever he went to Bernadine's. "It's because we used to live in Westchester," he told himself, half angrily, half excusingly. He did not want to believe Natalie now held even the tiniest place in his heart.

He had not forgiven her for her last letter—she wrote it in anger though he kept it where he could read it often. "Just to remind myself what an utterly callous creature she is," he would say to himself. "Giving me my freedom! What a gesture! As though she had not ended everything through what she did to Bernadine!"

Bernadine's gradual, but steady sinking, turned his heart to stone against Natalie. Whenever he looked at the sick woman's sunken cheeks and deeply recessed eyes, he felt a new wave of anger come over him.

For Bernadine had never left her bed after Dr. Wagnall had said she must stay there until he gave her permission to get up. To the medical man, the end was coming about as he expected, but Alan could not escape the belief Bernadine had suffered a shock through Natalie's act from which she could not recover.

Had Dr. Wagnall, or Bernadine either, guessed what was on his mind, they could have told him he was wrong—that what was happening had been inevitable for a long time.

But Alan kept his bitterness to himself, and strove to be cheerful when in Bernadine's company. He thought he was making her happy, but she closed her eyes, to rest, as he imagined, it was because she could not bear to see the hidden pain that lay in his.

Her heart ached for him because he had lost the woman she was certain he loved, but she did not guess he was constantly burning his memories of Natalie on a pyre of hatred.

He never talked to her of Natalie, or of Phillipa either. Only Bernadine's almost supernatural perception enabled her to see that he was suffering. Once he had come close to telling her about Phillipa—with a vague idea that they ought to meet and discuss Bobby's future welfare together. But in his sensitiveness he shrank from bringing such a suggestion of the end to Bernadine.

He decided it would be best not to speak of Phillipa. Perhaps it would worry Bernadine to know that there was already a girl chosen to be Bobby's foster-mother. For Alan had come to accept Phillipa as a fixture in his life with equanimity.

He was rather glad of her. She adored Bobby. Her disappointment because Bernadine would not have the little boy to leave the house—Phillipa wanted Alan to bring him down to the office—touched Alan.

Phillipa's disappointment was real enough—there were so many things that Bobby, while enjoying a big dish of ice cream, might have told her. Things that she didn't like to ask Alan directly. And there was no other way of finding them out, for Alan was madly and jealously reserved these days.

She wanted to know, for instance, just how ill Bernadine was. She could have asked Bobby how many times a day the doctor came to see his mother, and weighed the answer for herself. She could have asked him if anybody had talked to him about going away to a school—a plan that Alan told her had been suggested in the event of his mother's dying.

into Alan's home. She knew her shortcomings, Nellie did, and she had a very earnest conviction she would not be engaged to look after Bobby when a sterner mistress than Bernadine was doing the engaging. She had in mind a professional housekeeper, and they were "worse than the wives," to Nellie.

She could at least, she figured, visit Bobby once in a while if he were in a school. Alan had not seriously considered the plan, but he had spoken of it to Phillipa, without giving his opinion on the subject, and she had fed herself with the hope that it might be carried out. To have a kid like Bobby around the house would drive her wild, she declared—in secret.

Alan, on his way now to Bernadine, despairing of seeing her alive, felt infinitely grateful for Phillipa. She would help him; she would be a real mother to Bobby.

He always thought something pleasant about Phillipa when Natalie threatened to obsess his mind. It helped him to forget her. But Phillipa was not unfailingly effective. Even to the door of Bernadine's house Alan thought of Natalie.

Oh, why, why, why couldn't she have been as good as she looked? When this was over, and Bernadine was "out there," Natalie, in their house a few streets away could have made everything so different—so bearable.

He rang the doorbell, with a feeling of helplessness. Why was it, he wondered, that people always expected a man to meet these crises with undaunted courage? He would have given anything at that moment to have Natalie at his side.

Always going back to Natalie! He recognized the unformed wish in his mind as an outcropping of what he called "his damnable weakness." The weakness of which he was ashamed. Why couldn't he sustain his disgust and contempt for her? Why were his heart and his mind always engaged in warfare over her? Well, no matter. His heart had won once—now it was time for his head to take control of his destiny.

His anxiety over Bernadine deepened the moment the door was opened for him. It was not Nellie's tear-stained face that he could read it often. A strange and frightened tone, that he was to go up immediately.

Halfway up the stairs he heard Nellie speaking to Bobby, evidently trying to restrain the boy from going to his mother's room. Her voice wrung Alan's heart.

"Hush, darlin', hush. Mother can't see you now. Be a good boy, Bobby, please."

Bobby's childish treble, raised in protest against this interference, caused Alan to reach hastily for his handkerchief.

"But I want to tell Mummy I've built a bridge," Bobby cried. She wanted me to build her a bridge, and I've built it."

"She'll know, darlin'." She'll know everything you do; when you're a good boy and when you're not."

Alan went on, but an icy chill had gripped him. He was, then, on late. The maid's nod when he had whispered in the hall: "How is she?" had meant that Bernadine was gone.

One of the nurses who had been in constant attendance upon Bernadine of late, opened the door and said in a professionally subdued voice: "Come in."

Alan looked hastily toward the bed. Dr. Wagnall was bent over his patient. Alan stepped to his side.

"She will not know you," the physician said, straightening up. "She's in a coma."

It seemed to Alan that he stood there in a state of soul-trying inactivity for time unending. The helplessness of man when he would hold a soul from departing mortal clay dotted him. Beads of moisture galled his brow, but his lips were dry as sun-baked sand.

sorry I've so little time—I'd like to stay and go into some of these matters with you, but I've neglected my patients too long as it is. Fortunately some of them were in danger."
"I feel I might thank you, doctor, for devoting so much time to" Alan voice broke over Bernadine's name; he could not utter it.

Alan watched him go with regret. Now he was alone, with grief-stricken servants and a motherless boy.

The sound of Nellie's sobbing, now beyond her control, came down to him. Slowly he mounted the stairs. Surely she would wake Bobby, and he would have to tell him . . . what would he tell him? What would he do with him?
He could think of but one person to help him, Phillipa!

SECRET NAVAL DOCUMENTS DENIED SENATE

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The administration braced itself today against an impending volley of senatorial criticism caused by President Hoover's refusal to produce secret naval negotiation documents requested through Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee by Senator Johnson, Repn., California.

Acting through Secretary of State Stimson, Mr. Hoover apparently differentiated between a request from the committee for documents relating to the Geneva conference of 1921 and Johnson's two requests, submitted through Borah, for information relating to the London conference.

The request for Geneva conference documents was granted, with the explanation they all had been published previously. In response to questions from Johnson, Stimson sent through Borah a confidential memorandum which he said would answer Johnson as far as possible.

"Respecting the other papers called for," Stimson said, referring to Johnson's other request, "I am directed by the president to say that their production would not in his opinion be compatible with the public interest."

Later Stimson issued a press statement emphasizing the confidential nature of informal exchanges between governments preliminary to signature of any important treaty. He said suspicion of secret understandings or indiscretions were "nonsense."

Two precedents were cited for the refusal. In 1906 President Washington replied to a house resolution that it would be impolitic to disclose all phases of diplomatic negotiations in 1922 President Harding refused to give the senate a complete record of exchanges relating to the Pacific treaty between the U. S., Great Britain, France and Japan.

Driver in Fatal Crash Is Held

SWEETWATER, June 7.—Robert Lawrence, 29, driver of the automobile in which Frank Gibson, 21, Oklahoma university student, was riding when killed in a crash here yesterday, was held today for federal officers. The Quinlan, Tex., youth is alleged to have stolen the car in St. Louis. Agents were reported to be en route here from Dallas to take him in custody.

Gibson was hitch-hiking and Lawrence brought him here from Abilene. His body was sent to Norman, his home.

"Konjola Worked Wonders In My Stubborn Case"

Fort Worth Man Relieved of Severe Attack of Rheumatism, Eagerly Praises New Medicine.

"For over a year I suffered with muscular rheumatism," said Mr. Joe B. Connelly, 504 Belknap street, Fort Worth. "My entire body was a mass of aches and pains. Finally I was forced to give up my work and was confined to bed. The pains were so severe that for three months my nerves were completely gone and I felt at times that I could not bear my suffering another day."

"I sent away for my first treatment of Konjola and was amazed the results. Within three weeks I was able to get up and around without assistance. Gradually the pain and soreness left me and I began to feel my old self again. My nerves settled, constipation was completely banished, and I do not remember when I have felt as well as I do now. Konjola certainly worked wonders in my case."

Though Konjola works quickly, and many sufferers are greatly benefited in a week, a complete treatment of from six to eight bottles is recommended for thorough results. Konjola is sold in Chicago, Texas, at Moore Drug Co., and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

"EVOLUTION OR GOD" SUBJECT FOR LECTURE

The rival conducted by Dr. J. W. Chism, of Ardmore, Okla., at the Church of Christ here, corner of H avenue and Broadway, continues with unabated interest. Overflowing crowds have been present for each evening service.

Dr. Chism is said to be a geologist of no mean ability as well as a preacher and his talks on the origin of life are intensely interesting.

By request he has agreed to lecture Sunday at 3:30 p. m. on the subject, "Evolution or God and Creation, Which?"

In this he will discuss the claims and evidences of evolution and the bible. Dr. Chism has made a lifelong study of this question. The public is cordially invited to hear him.

Seeks Senatorship on $1,000 Expenditure

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 7.—Thomas P. Gore entered the race for United States senator today as an "experiment and test to determine whether a man can still win a seat in the United States senate from Oklahoma on a $1,000 expenditure."

Gore, known as the "former blind senator from Oklahoma," became a candidate after he had conducted a political survey of the state.

He spent $1,000 when he first won the senatorship in Oklahoma years ago and will place only that amount in the campaign this year, he said.

Gore served Oklahoma in the senate 14 years.

Big Crowd Attends Course Opening

The Badger Miniature golf course opened last night with a large attendance. The Lobo band, directed by G. W. Collum, initiated the formalities with a concert and Mayor J. M. Williamson and F. E. Harrell formally opened the new course.

The Badger course, constructed at considerable expense at the corner of E. avenue and Third street, is one of the most elaborate in the country, with water hazards and sand traps similar to those on a large course. It was named for the athletic teams at Randolph and is managed by Miss Thelma Russell, all-American basket ball guard of that school.
