MRS. SHEATSLEY A SUICIDE, SAYS CORONER'S JURY

COLUMBUS, Dec. 4.—The Bexley furnace mystery, which for nearly three weeks has baffled county authorities and expert investigators, tonight had practically ceased to be a mystery with the filing by Coroner Joseph A. Murphy of his official verdict declaring Mrs. Addie Sheatsley, wife of a prominent Lutheran minister, ended her own life by casting herself into the heating furnace of the parsonage.

In returning his verdict of suicide, the coroner disregarded the findings of experts who analyzed blood taken from the lungs of Mrs. Sheatsley and conducted other experiments to substantiate a murder theory.

A committee fixed the candy boxes and the boys had to pay twenty-five cents for the honor of having their names put on them. These boxes were auctioned to the girls.

A large angel food cake was won by Miss Ruth Harden for being the most popular girl. A box of candy was given to Mr. Erick Miller for being the homeliest boy.

The box supper was very successful. The League made $208.00.

COW FIGURES AS FINAL FACTOR IN FISTIC ENCOUNTER

History reveals that a lone cow caused a fire in Chicago that almost swept that city off the map several years ago. It will be recorded in Muleshoe History in years to come that while two of its citizens were settling a little disagreement Sunday morning, November 30th, a lone cow entered the place of business of one of the contenders for the light weight championship, and almost cleaned out the establishment. After the fight was over and a hurried invoice was made, it showed a loss of several buns and hamburgers, none of the "hot dogs" were missing. As a further result of the tilt "Squire Gupton" swelled the coffers of his Justice Court to the extent of $32.90. About all the evidence left now is a collection of black eyes and sore fists.

ANOTHER SHEEP TO THE FOLD.

The first day of the current month added another pilgrim to our fast growing little city, in the personage of Mr. Geo. J. Jennings. Mr. Jennings has formerly been associated with the firm of Sanders & Jennings, Attorneys at Law, and manager of the Hood Abstract Company, a corporation, both of Canadian, Hemphill County, Texas, and after hearing of the opportunities as well as the high type of American citizenship that is filling our county as well as our city, his feet began to itch and he could not resist the temptation to come and cast his lot with the rest.

OBITUARY.

(Written for the Nelson family in memory of little George A., Junior.)
By Helen Elrod.
Thou, little star, with brightening ray,
With baby curls and a smile that stayed;
God sent you to us in early morn,
Our darling from our arms was torn.
Oh, darling, dear departed babe
Where is thy place of blissful rest?
Can we forget your little stay,
Two sacred weeks and one short day?
Ah, fondly we kissed your tinted cheek,
Little knowing that God would call for you in a week;
You were an infant babe, but you played your part,
Knowest thou, dear, the grief that rends our heart?
Angel babe, we still weep with a broken heart,
But our God knows best when we should part.
You were just a wee bud sent to us to be loved;
Then taken back to blossom in heaven above.

CEREMONY IS SIMPLE.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 30.—Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles Sunday, at noon took the oath as president of the republic of Mexico. Calles expects that his administration will usher in a period of prosperity and peace such as Mexico has never known before. "Tiger of Sonora," veteran of many revolutions, believes that internal strife in Mexico is ended and that her citizens are ready to attain an economic and social position comparable to that of Americans.

THE GREAT NATIONAL STADIUM

The great national stadium in which the ceremony took place was crowded with a vast assembly which taxed the seating capacity of 25,000. Brilliantly uniformed cadets from San Jacinto military academy with an infantry regiment guarded the entrance to the enclosed platform where General Calles took the oath. Fronting the presidential stand were platforms occupied by the members of congress, the diplomatic missions, justices of the supreme court, state governors and high political and military officials. A portion of the arena was reserved at the special request of the retiring president, General Obregon, for more than 600 crippled soldiers, many of whom were victims of the latest revolution.

RADIO SPREADS WORLD ON FILM IN 20 MINUTES

London Sends Photo, Gotham Gets It Before Clock Can Tick Off Half Hour. Movies May be Next.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—A portrait of the president of the United States was put on the air in London Sunday and 20 minutes later was reproduced in New York.

As the finished picture was removed from an oscillating cylinder in the offices of the Radio Corporation of America, the jiggling stylus which had drawn it remained poised for a moment. Then there was a buzz, the stylus perked its head this way and that and, putting its inky nose to the paper, traced out a panel in which it embroidered these words from an old Chinese proverb:

"One picture is worth 10,000 words."
Other Pictures Sent.

Again the stylus rested for a moment, and again it resumed dancing upon that cylinder, until, as the hours passed, it perfected the likeness of Premier Stanley Baldwin, Secretary of State Hughes, the Prince of Wales, Queen Mother Alexandra, Owen D. Young, showed H. M. S. Reclamation aground in the Tees river and the finish of the Oxford-Cambridge relay races, and topped off the performance with an artistic flourish by reproducing the Royal Academy.

Radio Corporation officials announced at the end of the demonstration that the all-American invention for radio transmission of photographs, paintings, and printed messages was a complete success.

Movies Next, is Claim

With but little refinement, said the inventors, the process could be made available immediately for the almost instantaneous transmission overseas of news pictures, of secret business messages of diplomatic correspondence and of identification photographs in police hunts for international criminals.

The device through which it is expected all these things will become a matter of routine radio transit between continents was developed by O. H. Taylor, chief engineer of the Radio Corporation, E. W. W. Alexander, consulting engineer, and R. H. Ranger, directing engineer.

Owen D. Young, president of the General Electric company, set the inventors working when he said, on the occasion of Gen. James G. Harbord's inauguration as president of the Radio Corporation, twenty-one months ago:

"Radio's big day will come when one can glance at a picture in a London newspaper and say, 'New York newspaper are carrying the same picture today.'"

The first photoradiograms, as they are called, were sent months ago by wire from New York to the radio transmitting station at Tuckerton, N. J., thence by air 230 miles to the receiving station at Riverhead, Long Island, and thence again by wire to New York.

These transmissions proved successful, photographs were transmitted by radio to England and return.

THE REAL CHRISTMAS SPIRIT.

For most of us this has been a prosperous and satisfactory year, and even to the small minority which has missed fortune's smile it has not been a distressful year. All in all, everybody has much for which to be thankful, and no one has any excuse for being unhappy.

Christmas is the merry season which brings to us the sentiments which cause us to rejoice in the reality of living. We see beyond the sordidness of which moroseness is made, and feel that there is joy in everything if we will but recognize it.

Most of our regrets, disappointments, adversities, discouragements and hopelessness is state of mind. Most of our troubles are hallucinations or delusions. Most of our worries and regrets are due to selfishness.

Christmas is the festival season of unselfishness. Those who are happy or would be happy forget about themselves and their own small interests and seek and find their peace and good will in the broad spirit of charity. They feel that love and selfishness are not the same, and that happiness is achieved by giving it to others.

The true spirit of Christmas is not to wish to receive presents and to be flattered, but the will to give something to others in order to make them happy. It is the spirit of giving, not receiving.

Unhappy must be those persons who are wondering now what their relatives and friends will give them for Christmas. They will be disappointed, and should be. Their relatives and friends will not disappoint them; they will discontent themselves. They want much, will receive but little, but what they receive will be more than they deserve.

The Christmas sentiment is the gift sentiment. It makes no difference what we receive. It makes no difference if we receive nothing. The only important thing is whether we give, whether we give all that we can, whether we shower happiness all about us.

"Peace on earth to men of good will." Peace and happiness to those who love, those who give. Happiness to those who receive by giving. Happiness to those who give happiness.

ACKNOWLEDGING AN OBLIGATION.

Governor Davis, of Kansas, has done the unusual thing of designating the week of November 30th as "Home Paper Week." He urges the Kansas people to turn some attention during the seven-day period to the position occupied by the press, the work it is doing for the public generally, and the work it has done to develop the state. While the papers of the cities are included in the purview of the governor's call, it is the small-town weekly that Governor Davis principally had in mind when he decided to issue his proclamation.

The country at large has never appreciated adequately the service rendered by the several thousand papers of limited circulation published in the towns and villages of America. Far more than the great metropolitan dailies, these obscure periodicals touch the intimate lives and fortunes of the people. Everyone of them is a consistent booster of the community in which it is published and too frequently they fail to receive the approbation that is their due. The good work of one of them is not very impressive; the good work of all can hardly be estimated.—The Daily Oklahoman.

HORSEMAN WAS HEADLESS

Posse Killed Mexican Horse Thief, And Fastened His Trunk on Mustang, Which Frightened Many in Wild Dash.

Bandera, Tex., Nov. 29.—A headless horseman once ranged Southwest Texas. He furnished Capt. Mayne Reid, English novelist, who saw service on the Texas border as an officer in the United States army, inspiration for the story of the same name which has been read wherever the English language is understood.

The basis for the tale has been removed from the field of fiction and apparently placed on the plane of fact. It has been vouched for by one of the men who was responsible for what Reid had been told was an apparition, but what in reality was the result of a gross prank.

In line with the best rules of story writing, the tale is one of sustained interest with the climax near the end. As told in the Frontier Times, one Vivos, a lieutenant in the Mexican army, deserted his command the night before Ben Milam of Texas pioneer fame stormed San Antonio, December 5, 1835, in an attempt to take the city from its Mexican garrison.

Mexican Turned Horse Thief.

Vivos, a small, suave and observant person, made his way into the Texas lines, where this unofficial history indicates he lived unmolested. Subsequently he became known by the name of Vidal to the people of San Antonio. After Santa Ana's defeat at San Jacinto, the famous battlefield near Houston, Vidal became a horse thief and bore the distinction of being the most famous in the Southwest. He headed a band which had branches at every town between Matamoros and Laredo on the Mexican side. His activities in Texas are said to have extended as far as Nacogdoches.

Early in the summer of 1850, Vidal and some of his band made a raid along the San Antonio River and drove many horses down to Helena, which was once the county seat of Karnes County. They added to the number as they traveled toward the Nueces River.

Owners in Pursuit.

It chanced that some of the animals belonged to Capt. Creed Taylor and a Mexican citizen named Flores. Taylor was a young soldier under Frank Johnson. The two men took the trail as soon as they lost their stock. They were joined by "Big-foot" Wallace, famed in Texas history as an Indian fighter and the possessor, withal, of a humor of a sort. "Bigfoot," it seemed, also had lost some horses. The three pushed on and at about dusk came in sight of the band of four men on the Nueces about twelve miles below what was then Ft. Inge.

Toward dawn "Bigfoot" and Taylor crawled to within thirty feet of the sleeping men, who proved to be Mexicans. Finally a shot rang out. The sleepers instantly sprang to their feet and at the same time the pursuers' rifles blazed. Two of the thieves fell. The third was wounded, but broke away and escaped.

One of the bodies was identified as that of Vidal.

Put Body on Horse.

"Bigfoot" Wallace was one of the most eccentric daredevils of the frontier. At his suggestion a mustang, the wildest in the herd, was roped and a saddle securely fixed on his back. Vidal's head was cut off and his trunk in a natural, upright position placed in the saddle.

The mustang was turned loose. He bucked and whirled without shaking his burden from its fastenings and then sped away.

Soldiers at Ft. Inge were greatly wrought up on seeing a headless man on a superb stallion galloping over the country. After frightening the Indians, Mexican scouts and a few settlers, the mustang finally was killed by persons who laid in wait for him at a watering hole. The body, which had partly mummified in the dry climate, bore evidences that scouts and hunters had shot at it in the belief, apparently, that he was a ghost.

WELL, WHY DIDN'T THEY?

The Lyons News doesn't want to be accused of nature-faking, but it solemnly announces that a little Lyons girl went visiting on a farm over a week end. The child was disturbed a bit because the chickens made so much noise early in the morning. She inquired why the cackling and crowing.

"They want their breakfast," said the hostess.

"Why don't they lay themselves an egg then?" inquired the child.—Star.

TWINS SHARE SAME WIFE!

Arrested Man Says Brother Was Not Killed in War, as Reported, but Left His Family After Inviting Him In.

CAMDEN, N. J.—Robert M. Crofton, alias John H. Morgan, in jail here in default of bail on charges of bigamy, denied he was the husband of Mrs. Frances O'Donnell Morgan, of Philadelphia, who caused his arrest. He said he had lived with the woman, posing as a twin brother, who, he declared, really was Mrs. Morgan's husband.

He asserted the twin brother was not killed in the war, as he told the police yesterday, but had left his family.

Democrats Will Adopt "Friendly" Attitude at Short Session. Senator Robinson, Minority Leader, Announces There Will be no Opposition to Program.

Washington, Nov. 29.—The Democratic party would adopt a "friendly" attitude toward the administration's legislative proposals in the short session of congress, beginning Monday, it was announced here today by Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader of the senate.

He added that the Democratic organization would co-operate in the passage of the appropriation bills.

Program up to G. O. P.

Senator Robinson said it was incumbent on the Republican majority to formulate the legislative program, and that the Democrats would not assume he initiative unless public necessity required. The minority leader added, however, it was not to be expected that many measures of general importance would be acted upon finally at the short session.

"The indications are," he said, "that among the subjects which will require attention are farm relief legislation, including co-operative marketing, the transportation act as it relates to the adjustment of labor disputes, rate making and freight schedules. It is doubtful whether any of these will be brought to a conclusion.

May Dispose of Shoals.

"It is expected an effort will be made to dispose of the Muscle Shoals project, and the policy of completing this project by the government seems to be gaining support.

"Further tax reductions hardly can be accomplished in the immediate future, owing to the condition of the revenues, but this subject undoubtedly will be revived in the early future.

"It is not practical to expect the emergencies which may change the outlook for legislation in the short session, but the foregoing seems a fair outline at present."

World Court Plan Doomed!

The proposal for American adherence to the world court was doomed unless the Republican senators had a change of heart, Senator Claude A. Swanson of Virginia, ranking Democratic member of the foreign relations committee, declared today.

Swanson, a leading pro-league senator, said he would abandon his previous efforts to force consideration of the Harding-Hughes proposal and would let the plan die, "unless the Republicans change their apathetic attitude."

HISTORIC FLAG GOES

The historic American flag, carried at the head of the first contingent of American troops in parade in London after the entry of the United States into the World War, is to be placed above the tomb of Woodrow Wilson.

A negro woman entered a lawyer's office and said she wanted a divorce.

"On what grounds?" asked the lawyer.

"On de grounds dat he has insured his life," she said.

"Did he make out the insurance in your favor?" asked the attorney.

"Yes, suh," she replied.

"Well, why in the world are you mad about that?" asked the attorney.

"Because he done took out that insurance to tan'lize me—he ain't got no notion of dying," said the woman.

AN OCEAN AIR MAIL LINE

America and Europe Soon Will Be Linked by Regular Flights Across Atlantic, Dr. Eckener Announces.

BERLIN.—A weekly mail Zeppelin service between the United States and Europe will be started soon, Dr. Hugo Eckener, director of the Zeppelin company, who had charge of the ZR-3's trans-Atlantic flight, says.

The Zeppelin-Goodyear combination did not intend to establish a passenger service for the present, he indicated, but believed one Zeppelin each way weekly, carrying a half million letters at 25 cents a letter, would be a business success.

Dr. Eckener expects soon to leave for Spain to arrange for a Madrid-Buenos Aires service, operated on the same basis as the proposed weekly service to and from the United States. The dirigibles on this route would take four days going from Europe and four and one-half returning, he estimated.

The airship of the future will be larger than the ZR-3, according to Dr. Eckener, who predicted the capacity at from 100,000 to 110,000 cubic meters. With such a ship, he declared, the North Pole region could easily be explored.

As a measure for affecting an easy landing for the big dirigibles, making a repetition of the trouble experienced on the occasion of the Washington christening of the Los Angeles unlikely, Dr. Eckener suggests starting and landing after sunset, when little gas need be blown off.

MRS. HARDING'S ESTATE EXCEEDS HALF MILLION

Bulk of It, Under Terms of Her Will Filled for Probate, Is Left to Her Two Grand Children.

Jeanne and George Neeley DeWolfe, respectively 15 and 12 years of age, grandchildren of the late Mrs. Warren G. Harding, were left the bulk of her estate, estimated to be in excess of $500,000, under the terms of her will, filed for probate at Marion.

They are children of Mrs. Harding's only son, Marshall E. DeWolfe, who died 13 years ago in Colorado, and from whose father Mrs. Harding obtained a divorce in 1884 before marrying the late president.

The estate, after special bequests totaling $50,000 have been taken, is to be placed in trust for the children until they are 28 years of age; until that time, under the will, they will draw interest from the property. Harry J. Merchant, Marion banker, is named trustee.

MINGLING ECONOMY WITH SYMPATHY

"I do not want to die just now," a friend said to Herbert Jordan, who retired yesterday as the state house representative of the Topeka Capital. The friend had been complaining of his physical condition. "I have some important work to do before I pass on, and I would like to live through the winter," the friend said.

"I hope you will not pass on just now," Herbert replied sympathetically. "You cannot be spared from your work—and the price of flowers just now is almost prohibitive."—K. C. Star.
