Attorney General to Study Results of Oil Hearing

CHARGES OF VIOLATION TO BE HELD UP

Companies Notified to Nominate Oil They Will Take

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 24.—Facts developed in the two days of hearing before the railroad commission here, showed before the attorney general before definite steps are being taken regarding charges of violation of the state pipe line law and commission act. It was announced today that a call is being issued to companies to nominate nominees of oil they will take under a second prorated period of days. The first period which expires on Nov. 27, shows that the commission is in a position to take action. R. D. Parker of the oil and gas division of the commission said that he considers that the law is definitely established that it is in operation of the state pipe line. Corrective orders will be issued. Complaints of failure to connect many wells in the Panhandle will be worked out at a conference. The other complaint aired at the hearing was that oil is not taken from the Wichita Falls district in proportion to the takings of other districts under state production. In some instances the full production allowed under prorated production is being taken, it was stated. Management of the Gulf Pipe Company that it does not consider a common purchaser under recent act may precipitate a law.

Armistice Day Means a Lot to Them

They fought from opposite trenches in the World War, but now Otto Miller, left, and Lawrence Crossland, right, are neighbors and real buddies, teaching Boy Scouts the benefits of peace. The latter is scoutmaster of a Salt Lake City troop and the German veteran is his assistant. Miller fought in the Kaiser's army for two years, without receiving a scratch, until he was captured by Crossland's unit at St. Mihiel. Crossland was in action seven months, carries five bullet wounds and was gassed.

SCHOOLS OUT AT 12:05 FOR BIG CONTEST

Fine Weather Promised for Game Today at Breckenridge

The Cisco public schools closed at 12:05 p. m. today to allow all students who wished to attend the game between Breckenridge and Cisco at Breckenridge this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Large numbers of the students were expected to attend the contest. The pep squad and band was to leave about 1 o'clock to be on hand in their section of the stadium in plenty of time for the start of the contest. About 600 tickets had been sold by 9 o'clock this morning by the three drug stores, the Corner, Red Front and Moore, handling the pasteboards, according to estimates. The slips were going fast during the morning with the prospect that many more would be disposed of before the tickets are taken up and carried back to Breckenridge. About 1,300 reserved seats had been allotted the Cisco side. Most of the admissions will be purchased at the gate, however, and the Cisco crowd should be practically as large as the Breckenridge contingent. The weather for the game promised to be ideal with a crisp north breeze and a clear sky. Heavy rain might have last night has not hurt the playing quality of the field at Buckaroo stadium.

Aiello, Big Four Gang Leader, Slain

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Joe Aiello, one of the big four of the Chicago underworld, was murdered last night by two squads of machine gunners who directed a deadly cross fire of bullets at him as he came out of his hiding place. Aiello, deadly enemy of Scarface Al Capone, was ambushed by gangster enemies who apparently had him for days or even weeks in an apartment overlooking the gang leader's hideout waiting for the crime commission, fell 32 bullets in his back one through his left eye, his right great toe shot away and his right leg broken in two places by slugs. Capone's enemy, who like Capone, was called a "public enemy" by the crime commission, fell 32 bullets in his back one through his left eye, his right great toe shot away and his right leg broken in two places by slugs. Early today county morgue physicians had counted 62 bullet holes and said there might be more. The murder occurred in a fashionable residential district on North Kolmar avenue on the northwest side. The only witness was James F. Ruane, a taxi cab driver, who had been called to the apartment where Aiello, who like many other gang leaders had been a fugitive since Alfred Lingie was killed on June 9, was hiding. Ruane entered the hallway, found the bells out of order, kicked on the corridor door to notify his fare that he had arrived and started back to his cab. The fare, who was Aiello, followed about 15 feet in the rear. As he opened the cab door, the driver heard a noise across the apartment courtyard. He turned and saw a window opening slowly. A cumbersome looking object was held across the sill. There was a burst of flame. As the courtyard rang with the echo of the machine gun fire and the crack of splintering wood and shattered glass, Aiello staggered, shouted something unintelligible, glared for a moment, terrified, at the machine gun nest, then turned and half ran, half stumbled around a corner and into a narrow court. There he halted as if to congratulate himself upon his escape. But his enemies had anticipated he might use just this avenue of escape. There was a second burst of fire, this one from the rear of the narrow court. Ruane ran from behind his car. Motorcycle Policeman Charles Fuller joined the cab driver. They placed Aiello's body in the cab and took it to a hospital. Aiello's identity was a mystery for an hour until his name was deciphered on a badly worn coat label.

PRESIDENT OF REPUBLIC QUILTS POST

Defection of Garrison at Copacabana Has Turned Tide

By C. A. POWELL
United Press Staff Correspondent RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Oct. 24.—The Brazilian revolution triumphed today. President Washington Luis resigned when the main part of the federal forces stationed in the capital went over to the revolution. In the face of an ultimatum giving him until 10 o'clock to get out of office and save further bloodshed in the fighting forces, Washington Luis resigned at 9:40 a. m. A military junta or committee headed by Gen. Leite de Castro took over the reins of power. With Leite de Castro as provisional president, it was expected congress would be dissolved and a new cabinet named. The end of the revolution, which started on Oct. 3, came with incredible swiftness. A long-drawn struggle had been expected and almost until the hour of its doom, the government had been issuing optimistic statements of its success on the southern fighting front. Vandalism and rioting broke out in the capital soon after the overthrow of the governments. Mobs stormed the newspapers a Noite, Vanguardia, o Pais, a Noticia, Gaceta Noticias, Critica and Ordem. At the a Noite building the mob entered the offices of the publisher, Geraldo Rocha, tearing apart the editorial furnishings and throwing them into the streets where they were made into bonfires. Rocha was not in the building but it was reported the manager, Ismael Maia, was maltreated and his office wrecked. Other newspapers were similarly wrecked. Overnight, the destinies of Brazil, a country of 6,000,000 population with an area larger than the United States, were turned over to a revolutionary leadership backed by force of arms. It is the fourth southern American republic to undergo a revolution in the last few months, the others having been Argentina, Peru and Bolivia.

CISCO MARKETING CO-OP HAS STOOD THE TEST OF TIME

By E. H. VARNELL
EDITORS NOTE—The following article, written at the request of the State Board of Vocational Education, was sent in the October vocational newsletter to the 320 vocational instructors in Texas.

The Cisco Live Stock Shippers association is one cooperative which has stood the test of time, and for which the members are strong boosters. Beginning with twelve farmers in 1912 it has grown to over three hundred members at the present time. It is an association largely of small livestock producers. During recent years gross business of the association has averaged around $70,000 annually, with monthly shipments ranging in size from one to five cars. A number of factors have operated to make this association a success. First among these, perhaps is the very careful attention given it by R. L. Poe, one of the original members. Mr. Poe has missed less than half a dozen of the monthly meetings during the past eighteen years. Suspicion of graft has been eliminated by allowing a local bank to prorate funds received from each shipment. During the past two years, a fee of $2.50 per car has been paid to an employee of the bank for this service. Three officers and two committees operate the association. These are, a president, a vice-president, secretary, weighing committee and a "sifting committee." Meetings have been held on the first Saturday afternoon of each month at 2 o'clock for the past several years. This date is known to all farmers of the section and is never changed. The president calls the meeting to order, minutes of the previous meeting are read, and each member present is called upon to state what animals he has to ship. These are listed by the secretary. Sometimes it is necessary to mix a car of cattle and hogs. This is avoided if possible. If there are a few too many animals, someone volunteers to withdraw a part or all of his shipment. If a few animals are needed to fill a car, there is usually no difficulty in getting them during the interval before shipping day. Shipments are always made on the following Tuesday week, giving an interval of ten days between the meeting date and the date of shipment, which is necessary to get the cars ordered and spotted and other arrangements made. There are no initiation fees and no dues. The officers of the association receive no pay. Freight charges are deducted from the receipts as received. A blanket fee of ten cents per hog and twenty cents per head for cattle is charged to take care of the

NAVY DAY TO BE OBSERVED OCTOBER 27

October 27 is Navy Day, the one day in the year which has been set apart to better acquaint the American people with their navy, its wonderful history, its peace-time missions, and its ships and men. It is particularly fitting that the birthday of President Theodore Roosevelt has been designated for annual commemoration as Navy Day, for it was during his administration that the navy received that impetus which resulted in the United States taking its proper position in the front rank of nations. In order to fittingly celebrate the occasion, the entire United States fleet is divided, and ships, singly and in groups, are sent to all seaports. Flags are flown from every masthead. Parades of bluejackets march the streets ashore. Holiday is declared. All ships are thrown open for inspection by their shareholders, the American people, and the navy is "at home."

The country-wide celebration of Navy Day is under the auspices of that group of patriotic citizens, the Navy League of the United States who, with President Roosevelt believe "The United States navy is the surest guarantor of peace, which this country possesses." But the navy is not only an instrument of war; it is a powerful influence for peace; it is a pioneer in many industrial developments; and its effect on our national life, both international and domestic, is so great that even estimation fails.

October 27 is an appropriate date for Navy Day for another reason—for on that date in 1775, the first resolution to authorize American warships was introduced in Continental Congress. Since that time the United States fleet has had many changes; it has expanded at times; public opinion and disarmament conferences have resulted in fleet reduction; wars have resulted in large building programs—but withal, we now have a navy of which we may well be proud, and we shall retain the firm conviction that regardless of the task set before it, in peace or in war, the navy will merit the simple praise, well expressed in two words, "Well done!"

Industrialization of Texas Prisons Is Being Pushed Rapidly by Lee Simmons

By RAYMOND BROOKS
AUSTIN, Oct. 24.—Industrialization of the Texas prison system, under Jas. Simmons' management, moved forward rapidly during the past week. Fred Horton, member of the prison board, arranged with the board of control to buy equipment to set up a printing plant and bindery in the prison. This will be used to manufacture printed material and to publish the paper of the prison system, and will be expanded to include bidding on state printing. It will offer no product for sale. Packing and canning plants are being constructed. Mr. Horton announced. New machinery is being bought for the prison shoe factory, whose output has been increased from 18 to over 100 pairs of shoes daily. First prison-made shoes have system, been furnished the board of control for state institutions on lowest bids offered the state. Women's shoes are being made for the first time. The prison plant soon will install machinery for manufacture of auto license plates for which the state now sends over $100,000 a year to outside markets.

A burglar who entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hill at 305 West Third street here before 9 o'clock last night made off with a suit of clothes belonging to Mr. Hilgenberg, Earl Robinson, who is a neighbor of Mr. Hilgenberg, went the all back of his home at 9 o'clock and discovered where it had apparently been taken by the fleeing man. He went with Mrs. Hilgenberg at once. It is believed that the burglar frightened away either by the alarm which was rung shortly after 8 o'clock for the city high school or by the milk who delivers milk at the Hill home between 8 and 9 o'clock in the evening, and dropped the second suit in his haste. Wheel and tire was stolen from a Ford car near the Palace last night also.

Luke 16:25-28

- 25. And, behold, a certain lawyer stood up, and tempted him, saying, Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?
- 26. He said unto him, What is written in the law? how readest thou?
- 27. And he answering said, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself.
- 28. And he said unto him, Thou hast answered right; this do, and thou shalt live.

TEXAS CLUB WOMEN URGED TO VOTE FOR AMENDMENTS.

There is an important election coming and there are five pending amendments to the constitution. Texas club women are qualified voters. Mrs. R. F. Lindsay is the president of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. In a pointed address to the women voters of Texas Mrs. Lindsay calls for support at the polls of the amendments as a civic duty; that the amendment enabling the supreme court to hold sessions at any time has long been needed; that the measure permitting the taxing of university lands by the counties in which they are situated meets a just need; that the one broadening the investment field for university funds will largely increase the income of the institution. Her recommendation is that the voters of the commonwealth, both men and women, will not be negligent of the civic duty that good citizenship imposes upon them, "but will vote without regard to party or factional differences in support of these wholesome changes."

It is estimated that 450,000 Texas women are qualified voters. It is to be hoped that vast numbers will go to the polls on election day and cast ballots in support of the "wholesome changes."

ANOTHER SOVIET RUSSIA WHEAT SCARE.

Soviet Russia wheat transactions and Reds on a slight rampage the wide world over are important news features of today. That is the Russians and the Reds are given first page positions. Chicago grain dealers announced big shipments of wheat from Russia with 50,000,000 bushels ready to clear from Russian ports before the coming of the month of December. European grain markets are demoralized and Russian exporters are held responsible for another slump in the prices of the golden grain. Any port in a storm or any explanation that fails to explain. There are 39 wheat growing countries. An overproduction of wheat calls for cheap wheat. An under-consumption of wheat for the lack of money to buy bread may have something to do with the price demoralization in lands where labor is cheap and bread is dear.

MGR LEE SIMMONS AND HIS RECORD.

Commissioner of Agriculture George B. Terrell believes in the gospel of flowers for the living. He reports sales of cotton grown on farms of the Texas prison system total 9640 bales to Oct. 15 at an average price of 12.06 cents per pound bringing a total of $581,374.11. Price paid for the prison grown cotton, according to Commissioner Terrell, is at least two cents above the price paid farmers generally over the state and is the result of good staple cotton averaging 81 3-32 inches. It is said that the total premium approximates a sum of $56,763.38. Gen. Mgr. Lee Simmons is a practical farmer. For years he owned and operated three large farms in Grayson county. He is a practical business man as well as a scientific farmer. In speaking of his success since he was drafted by Governor Moody for the position of general manager of the commissioner of agriculture said: "State prison farms under the management of Lee Simmons have produced plenty of feed this year and will yield about 11,000 bales of cotton, which would have made the prison system more than self-sustaining if the price of cotton would have been equal to the price in the last ten years." In other words when the governor and the prison board picked Simmons for the place they did not attempt to drive a square peg into a round hole.

OTHER OPINIONS

A CONTRAST IN CROOKS

Two notorious "bad men" were overtaken by the traditional fate of bad men recently; and a comparison of the men and their careers is exceedingly eloquent as a commentary on the trend of American civilization.

One of these men was Jake Fleagle, shot down in a small Missouri town after having been hunted for more than two years for a Colorado bank robbery. Three of Fleagle's buddies were hanged for the crime, and Fleagle himself escaped hanging only by dying from the effect of his wound.

The other man was Jack Diamond, known as "Lepus" who was shot down in a New York hotel suite by some of his professional rivals. Diamond had one of the most extensive police records known to man. He had been suspected of too many crimes for any mortal to remember. He was supposed to be a sort of king in New York's underworld.

Fleagle can be said to represent the old type of American bad man; Diamond the new. Fleagle's career typified the career of the Jesse James outlaws; Diamond's was of the Dion O'Banion-Al Capone kind.

Fleagle was chased all over the country by officers of half a dozen states, aided by U. S. postal inspectors. He was hounded relentlessly by officers whose one idea was to get him and bring him to the gallows. In the end he was caught and killed.

Diamond was in a totally different situation. Although his record was long, he feared the police not at all. His comings and goings were recorded in the daily newspapers. No one could pin anything on him. Any officer who chased him had to chase discreetly, lest he actually caught him.

Diamond was supposed to be the heir of Arnold Rothstein, who ruled New York's underworld in a fabulous manner. Rothstein was never bothered by the police, although it was open knowledge that he was a dope peddler, a rum runner, a gambler and half a dozen other things. When he was killed the police were positively embarrassed in their investigation of his murder and his passing. Right now they seem to be similarly embarrassed by their investigation of Diamond's shooting.

Thus we have an instructive contrast. Fleagle was an outlaw, in the literal sense of the word. He was outside the law. Every man's hand was against him. The police harried him until they caught him.

He was of the old type. Diamond, like Rothstein and Capone and scores of other big city alley rats, was not an outlaw at all. He was inside the law. He had connections. He could laugh at the police.

He was of the new type—the type that flourishes today in every large American city. In the contrast between these two gunmen there is a world of comment on the sort of civilization we have in America today.

SPLIT-UP PARTS OF WATER ELIMINATED IN MAKING ICE

By HELMAN ROSENTHAL, M. A., Director, Dallas Laboratories

Ice is cold and of a peaceable disposition and it, therefore, refuses to be made of water where the internal "split" is considerable. Mending the split-up chemical contents of water is one of the necessary first steps before ice can be manufactured. If the water is hard, it is treated chemically with comparative ease. But if it is soft, that is, if it contains substances such as the bicarbonate sulphate, chloride of sodium or epsom salts, that is another story, and chemicals are without much effect in such a case.

Water has a curious habit of softening compounds some of them become positively and some negatively charged, with electricity, and when ice is made from such water untreated, the result is a cake of ice which shatters, or one having those objectionable white butts so often observed in ice.

A new way has been found to persuade the salts in the water to step out of solution, by means of an electric current. The salts in water, known as electrolytes, are composed of ions. The water splits the salts into plus and minus ions, according to whether they are negatively or positively charged with electricity. To counteract this, a current of electricity is passed through such water, causing the sodium ion, which is positively charged, to go to the negative pole and the carbonate sulphate and chloride ions which are negatively charged to go to the positive pole. And so a balance of power is again set up and harmony reigns in the water from which ice can then be made. The water in the Panhandle is usually very hard, while the deep water around central and south Texas is quite soft, perhaps because it has passed through, on its way to the sea, deep under the earth, a territory where sodium salts predominate. Or perhaps it started out hard but wound through strata containing certain complex formations known as green sands which are said to be able to exchange calcium and magnesium for sodium, in other words, to soften water.

The apparatus for sending the current of electricity through the water consists of a series of cells, one slightly higher than the next, so that the water, by gravity, flows from cell to cell by a series of siphons. The electrically charged ions as they move to the poles, pass through closely woven heavy duck cloth.

Every cell through which the water passes makes it purer, and the voltage is increased each step. The result is a water purer chemically and finer in character, no longer such a great source of division and disagreement.

ROAD BORING TUNNEL UNDER CITY STREETS

DETROIT, October 24.—A tunnel which will supply the Ford Motor company's Rouge plant with more water per day than is used by the cities of Detroit, Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Washington combined, is being bored 60 feet beneath streets, creeks and railroads at the western edge of Detroit.

The tunnel, part of a $4,000,000 project to increase the capacity of the Rouge factory's power plant, is 2.2 miles long, and connects the factory with the channel of the Rouge river.

The "shield" method of boring used. A heavy steel cylinder, 60 feet in diameter, is pushed by hydraulic pressure through the soft clay 60 feet above the surface of the ground. The tunnel is bored by the rotation of the shield head, which is pushed into the tunnel, rolling up in thick ribbons as toothed cutters slice off the putty-like soil and send it to the surface. The interior of the shaft is lined with steel blocks as the shield creeps forward and the tunnel lengthens.

The greatest care is necessary to take out only the amount of soil displaced by the tunnel cylinder. Occasionally too much is removed through the square opening in the shield, and the street level above sinks in consequence. A little dirt is removed, which compresses the earth above and creates a bulge on the surface.

But throughout the winding path of the tunnel no serious upheaval is visible on the surface. At one spot the Ford engineers are forced to burrow under a creek at the point where the tunnel has already crossed by a sewer tunnel. Neither the stream nor the sewer were disturbed by the passage of the 20-foot shaft through the earth.

The power which advances the shield is brought to the hydraulic pumps by a two-inch pipe, at the end of which a 125-horsepower engine maintains two tons of pressure per square inch.

The shield progresses at a rate of about 40 feet a day. The tunnel was started in August, 1929, and will be completed in 1931.

CRUISER WILL HELP HOUSTON TO CELEBRATE

HOUSTON, Oct. 24.—Houston is ready for the thousands of visitors expected here to attend the Port Celebration and arrival of the U. S. S. Houston, October 25-31. The cruiser, Uncle Sam's newest fighting vessel, will arrive in port Saturday afternoon.

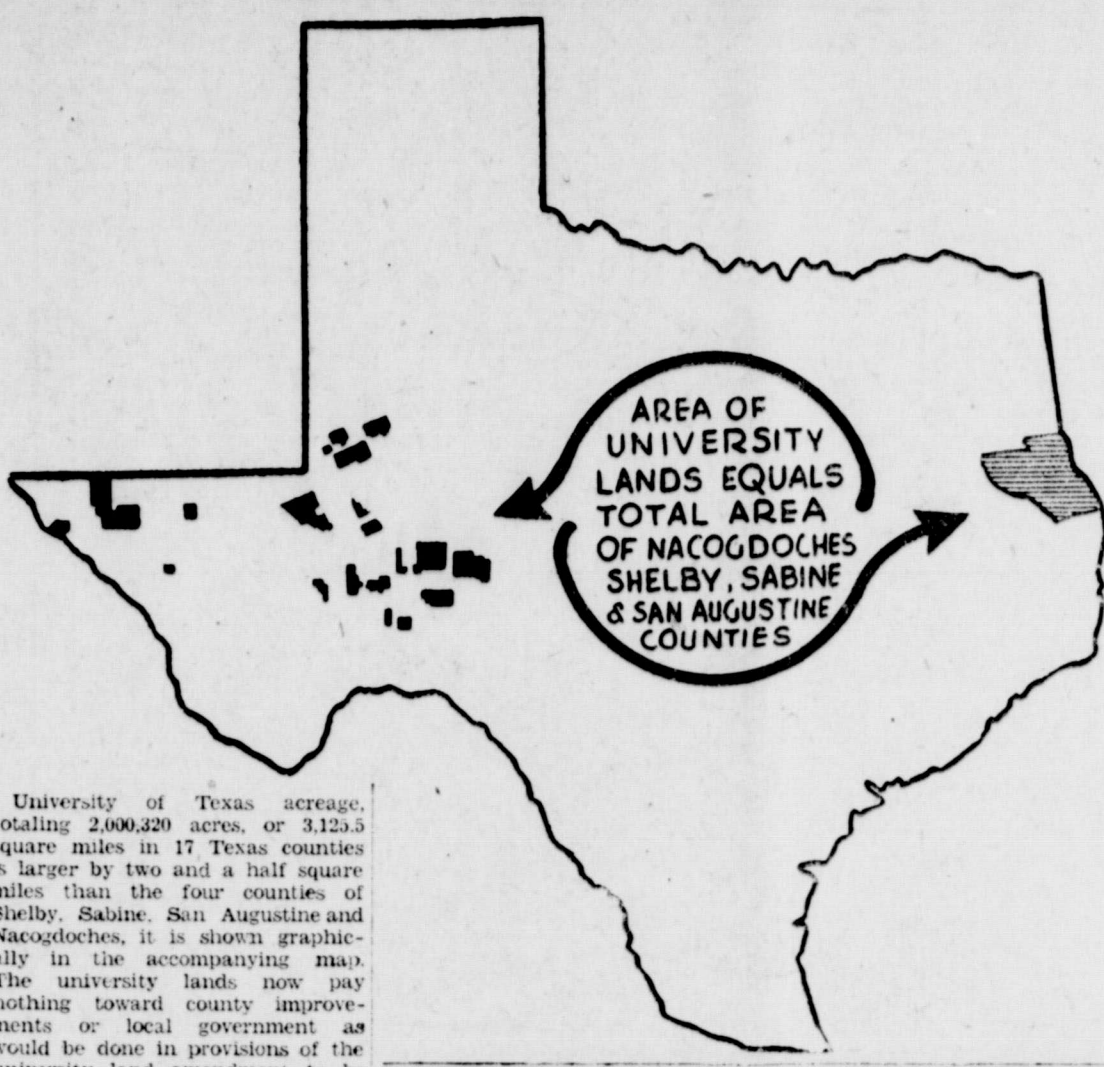

Monday will be the major day of the celebration with a luncheon at the Rice hotel, given by the mayor and the cruiser Houston committee to all visiting notables. These will include Assistant Secretary of the Navy Johnnie Homer L. Ferguson, president of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company, and Governor Dan Moody. Roy Miller, state chairman for Navy Day will be in charge of the various activities on this day, which is the birth of Theodore Roosevelt, who was always an advocate of a strong navy.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon will be the most spectacular event of the entire celebration. This will be the parade and pageant celebrating both Navy Day and the tenth anniversary of Port Houston as a deepwater shipping center. A number of colorful floats will feature the parade. All available men of the Cruiser Houston will march in the parade.

At 3 o'clock in the evening the city's gift to the cruiser Houston, a $16,000 silver service, will be presented. The ceremony will be held in historic Sam Houston hall where the 1928 Democratic National Convention was held.

Railroads have offered reduced rates to the celebration.

WHAT AMENDMENT MEANS

University of Texas acreage, totaling 2,600,320 acres, or 3,123.3 square miles in 17 Texas counties is larger by two and a half square miles than the four counties of Shelby, Sabine, San Augustine and Nacogdoches, it is shown graphically in the accompanying map. The university lands now pay nothing toward county improvements or local government as would be done in provisions of the university land amendment to be voted on November 4. Friends of the amendment declare it would be rank discrimination to make four counties tax free, yet they cite the university holdings as an analogous situation, benefitting from improvements that the 17 counties have to bear.

The university acreage is great enough to cover all the entire state of Delaware and nearly three-fourths of Rhode Island. In the county the acreage amounts to as much as 29 per cent, and Crockett county with 356,490 acres of university holdings has sufficient to cover each of these counties—Caldwell, Galveston, Gregg, Hood, Madison, Marion, Orange, Titus and Waller. There are only seven counties in Texas larger than the combined total of university acreage.

Tarleton Line to Get Test Friday

STEPHENVILLE, Oct. 2.—The Southern Methodist line that Choc Saunders has built at John Tarleton A. & M. will get a severe test Friday when the Plowboys invade Fort Worth to clash with "Butch" Myer's Texas Christian Christian Polywogs.

Saunders' line, although built of practically new material throughout, has shown considerable strength in classes with the heavy squads of Simmons, Abilene Christian and Stephen F. Austin.

The Plowboy back field has been weakened all the season by the absence of Atchey at quarter, but with the Olney flash out of the hospital and calling signals again, the Wisdom back field promises to clip off considerable yardage against the 1931 Frog varsity.

Says Texas Dairy Industry Embryonic

DALLAS, Oct. 24.—Reiterating the opinions of other prominent dairymen, Sam F. Crabbe of Fargo, N. D., president of the American Cattle club, was also of the opinion that the dairying industry in Texas is in its embryonic and is slated for unprecedented growth. He attended the Regional Dairy show at the State Fair of Texas.

Short winters in Texas give the industry an advantage, he said, because of the opportunities for growth of the dairy cow in this section are greater in some ways than in the north and middle west.

Cold Rains Damage North Texas Cotton

DALLAS, Oct. 24.—Cold heavy rains which fell during the week ending October 25 again damaged northwest Texas cotton, stopping picking and affecting grades, the Dallas News said today in its weekly cotton report. In some localities cotton seed are sprouting in the bolls because of continued rains.

In areas which suffered most from drought cotton fields are being abandoned and planted to fall wheat and oats in an effort to meet the feed and grain shortage. Good staple lengths are scarce, and prices to growers ranged from 7 cents to 9 cents per pound.

Sporadic fruiting which developed since September rains will be wiped out by a killing frost due any time.

New President of Druggist Group

WACO, Oct. 24.—J. J. Booker of Temple is the new president of the Central Texas Retail Druggists' association as the result of elections yesterday afternoon. Other officers are A. L. Stolte of Waco, vice-president; K. S. Black of Kosse, vice-president; and J. Louis Marsh of Waco, re-elected secretary-treasurer. The next meeting will be held at Waco in April.

Re-elected officers of the women's auxiliary are: Mrs. A. L. Harrison, president; Mrs. A. L. Stolte and Mrs. J. Louis Marsh, vice-presidents; and Mrs. W. H. White, secretary-treasurer. All are of Waco.

HIGHEST HONORS

DALLAS, October 24.—Highest honors in the Jersey cow division at the Regional Dairy show held at the State Fair of Texas went to Crieve Hall farms of Nashville, Tenn., as judging entries in the second largest show of this kind ever held neared an end today. Wilcox Dandy Girl, 7-year-old purebred carried off senior and grand champion ribbons.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Adventure enters the life of Cecilia Mitchell, 17, when she learns the father she has supposed dead is alive and wealthy. She leaves her unpretentious home in Baltimore to live in New York with her father, John Mitchell, and her aristocratic grandmother.

Margaret Rogers, Cecilia's mother, is no widow, having divorced Mitchell and remarried later. Barney Shields, young newspaper photographer, is in love with the girl and before leaving Baltimore Cecilia promised to be loyal to his love. Mitchell asks EVELYN Parsons, beautiful widow, to introduce the girl to young people. Mrs. Parsons agrees, considering Cecilia a means to win Mitchell's affections though she is jealous and at once begins scheming to get rid of the girl.

She introduces Cecilia to Tod Jordan, fascinating but of dubious character, and does all she can to encourage this match. Lisi Duncan, socially prominent, becomes Cecilia's loyal friend. Mitchell learns Jo-dan is paying his daughter attention and forbids her to see him. Cecilia offends her grandmother and the elderly Mrs. Mitchell feigns illness and departs for a rest. The girl goes to Mrs. Parsons' Long Island home for a lengthy visit. Jordan calls there frequently. He and Cecilia go to a supper club and there encounter Eve Brooks, whose marriage does not interfere with her flirtations.

Eve shows Cecilia a diamond bracelet which she says Jordan gave her. The man denies this but later calls on Mrs. Brooks. They quarrel and afterward become reconciled. Cecilia visits the Mitchell home in the city. She tries to learn from Martha, a trusted servant, why her parents, John and Margaret Mitchell, separated.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXV
The color rose high in Cecilia's cheeks as she waited for the answer. The gray-haired maid looked embarrassed.

"Oh, no, Miss Celia, I couldn't say anything about that—"
"But you must have known!" the girl persisted. "You're not like the other servants, Martha. You're almost a companion to grandmother. Why, you're with her half of the time. Maybe I ought not to ask you, but don't you see how I feel? I can't talk to father and nobody else will tell me anything. Oh, I wish—here Celia turned her head and her voice sounded as though tears were near—"I wish it had never happened!"

For an instant the maid hesitated. Then she came over to the girl and patted her shoulder.
"Poor lamb!" Martha said sympathetically. "Poor lamb!"
Celia hid her face against Martha's ample skirt. Her shoulders moved, but there was no sound of sobbing. After a moment she sat up and pined her eyes.

"Did you ever see my mother?" she asked.
Martha nodded.
"It was right after they were married," she said. "I remember. You see, nobody knew anything about the wedding until a telegram came. Oh, but your grandmother was upset! For one whole day she stayed in her room. Then when she came out she told us that John was married and was bringing home his wife. There was a lot of work to be done. It was a week later they came. Pretty thing she was! You've got the same eyes, Miss Celia. I noticed that the minute I caught sight of you. Yes, she was a pretty thing. Slim like you are, too."

"Mother's eyes are larger than mine," Celia told her. "They're beautiful. Only of course she looks tired so much now, and her hair's gray."
"Gray? The way I remember it her hair waved just the same as your does. Maybe a little darker brown. She wore it in a knot up on her head. She was a quiet kind, but I took to her right away. Only she and John didn't stay very long. I guess it was some kind of a disagreement between John and his mother. They left one morning and never came back. That is, she didn't."

The girl had been listening eagerly. She sipped the buttermilk.
"Did my father come back alone?" she asked.
"Not for a long while. Five or

Told He Must Die Man Finds Life In Crazy Water

Deputy Sheriff Wants Word To Know His Crazy Story

In the year of 1923 I was living at Altus, Okla. I was confined to my bed with a complication of diseases. It was diagnosed by different ones as Bright's disease, Paralysis, Neuritis Rheumatism and a dead liver. When it was decided to take me to Mineral Wells the doctors did not believe that I would live to get there, and the doctors in Mineral Wells when I arrived did not think that there was any chance for me to recover. I drank Crazy Water for four months and was, so far as I can tell, completely well. I gained 24 pounds in weight, and took a job as deputy sheriff, which necessitated my being on my feet from eight to twelve hours every day, and oftentimes doing a lot of night work. Crazy Water certainly pulled me out of the grave.

ordered, then sat back and looked at his companion.

Evidently she had sighted an acquaintance. Evelyn was nodding and smiling toward a table at the right, where a man and woman sat. The couple returned the greeting.

"It's Nancy and Boyd Fraser," Evelyn said to Mitchell. "You know them, don't you?"
"Don't believe I do."
"Oh, I forget. It was in Paris I met them. Don't they look happy together? One of the most devoted couples I've ever met. He's in real estate—Wastehoster company, I think. You know, I love to see them. Boyd simply adores his wife! That sort of affection seems such a novelty these days."

"You sound cynical."
"Not at all! You see, to me marriage is—well, such a sacred thing. That's why this faithful modern way of treating it lightly hurts me, I suppose. When I see couples who truly love each other and are not ashamed to admit it I can't help rejoicing."

Evelyn's gaze was sweet and pensive. Her eyes rested on Mitchell a moment, then she smiled.
"Anyone else would think me a Victorian. I hope you don't, John."
"You never looked younger—or lovelier."

Before Evelyn could reply the waiter arrived with chilled fruit. Fastidiously he arranged the service. When the man disappeared John Mitchell leaned forward.
"Do you remember that young fellow Celia spent so much time with the night of her birthday party? Jordan's name is—Tod Jordan. Remember she came home late? I'm sure I told you about it."

Mrs. Parsons nodded.
"I remember," she said. Very tense and still she waited. Mitchell applied a match to a cigarette before she spoke. He eyed the flame carefully.
"I've got a line on that young man," he said quietly. "Got it this morning."

Marquis Not to Contest Divorce

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23. — Gloria Swanson, confined to her Beverly Hills home by illness, received word today that Marquis Henri de la Palaise de la Coudraye will not contest the Los Angeles divorce suit in which she charges him with abandonment.
"Hollywood is not conducive to marital happiness," the Marquis said. "If we had continued to live in Paris we would not now be separated. The suit merely puts a legal stamp on a situation that has existed several months."
Constance Bennett, the screen actress in whose company the Marquis has been seen often of late, is a "good friend", he said, but as to marriage with her it is "ridiculous."

CISCO PLAYS BRECKENRIDGE AT 3 TODAY

Games Will Clear up Grid Outlook in Oil Belt

With the Cisco Lobos and the Breckenridge Buckaroos battling for the honor of their respective schools at Breckenridge this afternoon, interest is turning from that contest to the one which will take place tomorrow afternoon at Ranger when "Dangerous Dan" McCarly will lead his Bulldogs cohorts against the ponderous Abilene regiment on Lillard field.

The result of these two clashes will considerably clarify the football situation in the oil belt. They will determine, if you please, whether or not the oil belt title will be held on Chesley field on the day after Thanksgiving or whether it will be decided on some other field or some other field.

Lobos Primed

The Cisco Lobos go into the game at Breckenridge this afternoon primed for a "comeback" after having been taken to camp by the oil belt executive committee at Abilene Wednesday evening. The committee decided the punning knife game negatively upon that memorable occasion, lopping off two of the principal adjuncts of the Lobos in O. C. Ray, co-captain and center, and Johnny Connell, end and maker of the team. The two boys will be sitting on the sidelines over at Breckenridge this afternoon while the rest of the team is stopping at the home of the Abilene crew and watching the contest.

A radical shift in the Cisco camp was caused by the disqualification of the two boys. Peter, who has been shifted to right half back to fill the left half assignment. Black guard, has been assigned to center in O. C. Ray's stead and McCall nominated for there's customary task.

Abilene Favored

There are two distinct and about equal numbers of schools of opinion upon the Abilene and Ranger game at Ranger tomorrow afternoon. One maintains that the Ranger team will win, the other that the Abilene crew has the edge.

Never in that period has Abilene defeated the Bulldogs on the Bulldogs' own field. The tremendous power of Abilene team is not to be questioned. It has won all its games by good margins but easily without apparent effort.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 24.—The line greeneries left last night for the first conference game of the season with Georgia Tech at Atlanta, Saturday. Coach Bernie Bierman appeared more optimistic over the southern conference championships any time during the season.

BIG DAM CHATTER

Two favorites for the oil belt title will emerge from as many major grid frays today and tomorrow. Cisco is battling Breckenridge at Breckenridge this afternoon and should win by at least a couple of touchdowns. Prxy Anderson, of the Abilene Morning News, awards the Lobos a victory by a score of 19 to 7. Knowing the spirit to which the local team has been raised because of an adverse decision of the district committee in the cases of O. C. Ray and Johnny Connell, this column raises Prxy's ante and calls a count of 26 to 7.

It will be remembered that the Lobos went up against Breckenridge in 1928, doped to lose by a considerable margin. The Buckaroos had been running roughshod over everything in their path that year and the Lobos had just been beaten by the comparatively weak San Angelo team. That comparison knocked every spark of over-confidence out of the Cisco eleven and they socked the Buckaroos like a tornado sock a village. The result was 26 to 0.

Something of the same situation exists today.

Over at Ranger tomorrow afternoon the Bulldogs, led by "Dangerous Dan" McCarly, leading oil belt scrapper, entertain the mighty Eagles of Abilene in the other major contest. Abilene, by reason of its tremendous power, and some ball-toting stars of its own, would normally be the favorite in this event but there are plenty to uphold the superiority of the Bulldogs who have not been defeated by Abilene on their own field in eight years. The Ranger team has weight and power of its own.

Referring to the "impoverished" condition of the Eagle eleven the Ranger scribe, has the following sarcastic comment:

Abilene is the under-dog in Saturday's game with Ranger, we are assured by the press agent of the Eagles. It is downright amusing for such twaddle to be circulated. The idea that a city with a population four times that of Ranger should claim to be the under-dog. Civic pride ought to prevent a loyal Abilene citizen from making any such claim—if no other reason. You could drop Ranger's 6,200 folks down into the middle of these 25,000 out there at Abilene and it would hardly be a splash.

Yes, how we pity poor old Abilene—with nearly 100 boys out for the football team and all of them weighing 150 pounds or more. If we are to believe Prxy Anderson, President Hoover ought to appoint one of his numerous commissions for the purpose of helping the decrepit "under-dog" homes of that city. Time out while we wipe the tears of pity from our eyes and then in a voice choked by sobs continue to relate the sad story of the Athens of West Texas with its staff of three—or is it four?—coaches, and with we are told, the second largest high school in the state.

Abilene, winner of the state championship in 1928, state finalist in 1927, the under-dog in a game with Ranger! It is to laugh. We got that out of a book—don't ask us what it means. Abilene, whose record in the interscholastic league is surpassed only by Waco, yet rated as the under-dog in the game next Saturday.

But you don't have to dig back into history to see that the Eagles are tough and are the under-dogs in nobody's football game. By the way was talking to one of the leading coaches in the state when the prac-

BROWNWOOD, Oct. 24.—The grudge battle between Howard Payne college and Simmons university is the highlight in the week-end's program for the Texas conference grid race. The Yellow Jackets have sailed through the earlier part of their conference schedule high and dry, and unless the Cowboys can stop their stride, Howard Payne is doped to add a third jewel to the Texas conference crown. The joust will be held tonight.

Brown Is Campus Cut-up In Picture

Joe E. Brown portrays a "has been" football star in "Maybe It's Love," the Warner Bros. newest Vitaphone production which is coming to the Palace theatre, on Sunday.

Brown, who enacted the lazy prize-fighter in "Hold Everything," has switched his rare comedy antics from the squared circle to the gridiron in this collegiate comedy-drama, in which he plays a piskin star forced to warm the substitutes bench when some real players come to his college.

The first "all-American" football team ever assembled in the history of football donned gridiron regalia and actually played football as an eleven on the field at Occidental college. This field is the first gridiron in the world on which such an event has occurred.

Juan Bennett enacts the leading role in "Maybe It's Love" and plays the sweetheart of the "all-American" in the film. James Hall has the masculine lead opposite Miss Bennett while the cast also includes Joe E. Brown, Laura Lee, Anders Randolph, George Irving, Coach Edward Jones and others. William Wellman directed. Joseph Jackson did the screen adaptation and dialogue of the Mark Canfield play.

Selected from the all star nominations of Grantland Rice, the New York Sun, and the coaches committee composed of Rockne, Warner Jones and Alexander, the all-American eleven in the picture is made up of such famous gridiron talent as W. K. Schoonover, Arkansas; E. N. Sleight, Purdue; George Gibson, Minnesota; Tim Moynihan, Notre Dame; Ray Montgomery, Pittsburgh; Kenneth Haycroft, Minnesota; Howard Harpster, Carnegie Tech; Paul Scull, Pennsylvania; Russell Saunders, Southern California, and William Banker, Tulane.

MORE DEAD THAN ALIVE
CORTLAND, N. Y. 23.—Cortland Rural cemetery holds the bodies of more persons than reside in this town, according to cemetery officials. The population of Cortland is 15,000. B. L. Gallagher, superintendent, has been employed at the cemetery almost 40 years.

INDIANA TO REACH DALLAS TODAY NOON

By THOMAS C. CLUCK
United Press Staff Correspondent
DALLAS, Oct. 24.—Indiana University's football team was scheduled to arrive here at noon today for a final light workout before engaging the Southern Methodist eleven tomorrow in the southwest's premier game of the week-end.

This first invasion of a northern team in the state will have as a supplemental feature the dedicatory ceremonies of the new $350,000 Fair Park stadium designed to seat 30,000 persons.

Clear, crisp weather today gave promise of an ideal setting for the colorful clash, with fans needing overcoats for the first time here this season.

The advance ticket sale was already larger than any on record for a game in which the Methodists were participants. Conservative estimates placed the probable attendance at 35,000.

The team which journeyed from

Dallas to South Bend to score two touchdowns on Notre Dame should on its home turf outclass the Hoosiers, who are accustomed to performing in a freezing climate.

Suffered Let-Down
The Mustangs suffered a let-down last week-end, and spectators said they were fortunate to escape with a 14-all tie with Baylor. Coach Ray Morrison has treated his charges to some scathing words and strenuous practice this week, and their spirit should be roused to a high pitch.

Information from the Hoosier camp was to the effect that Coach Pat Page was not overly optimistic over the outcome of his trip south.

The Indiana band of 108 pieces, which Sousa classed as the best college band in the country, accompanied the gridiron warriors.

Texas Hoosiers will begin warming up for the festivities tonight at a dinner and reception with a program in honor of the Indiana team and band. Gov. Dan Moody, Senator Thomas, formerly of Indiana and now of Oklahoma, and coaches of both teams will speak.

A pre-game parade and elaborate program will mark the presentation of the bowl to the state tomorrow.

Off-Period
Aside from the Indiana-S. M.

U. game, the week-end will be an off-period in the southwest.

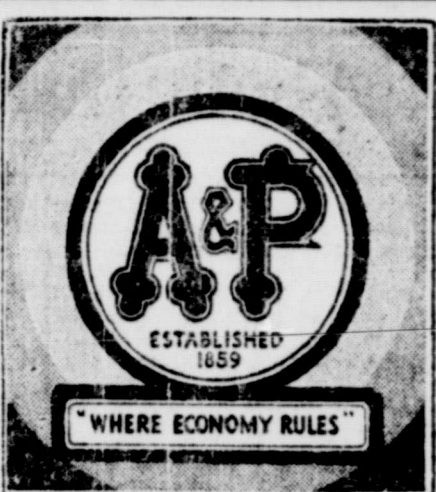

Texas University, whose grid stock took a bound with its overwhelming victory over the Oklahoma Sooners, should have little trouble with Rice in the Longhorns' first conference game at Houston. In the only other conference game the Texas Aggies still play Arkansas at Little Rock. With both teams definitely out of the pennant race, the outcome is uncertain and of small import.

Baylor sent an eleven revived by the tie with S. M. U. to Shreveport to engage the Centenary gentlemen. History and comparative scores point to a Baptist victory.

The Texas Christians, undisputed leaders of the conference with victories over the Aggies and Arkansas, will rest on their laurels. Scheduled for a game with the weak Texas Tech team at Fort Worth, Coach Schmidt expected to let his second and third string men perform which the regulars rest.

Beville.—County's cotton crop of 22,441 bales sets new all-time production record for the county.

Taylor.—Frank Flourney land northwest of city leased for large municipal airport.

Large Percentage of First Year Coaches Appear to Be Making Successes of Jobs

By HENRY McLEMORE United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Although the football season has some five weeks or so to run, during which time most of the leading eleven will meet their sternest tests, it seems reasonably safe to predict success for many of the new coaches.

This is unusual, because few jobs are so thankless as that of a first year coach. Surrounded by new faces and new conditions, he is expected to produce a winner right from the start.

Chet Wynne, a Notre Dame power, is being hailed as the wonder man of the south as a result of his work with Alabama Poly. or Auburn. Auburn, once a power in the Southern conference, was just about ready to throw in the sponge when Wynne arrived on the scene.

NOTABLES TO HELP DEDICATE PONY STADIUM

DALLAS, Oct. 24.—Gov. Dan Moody, Ross Sterling, Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, President C. C. Selecman of S. M. U., President William Lowe Bryan of Indiana and Mayor J. Waddy Tate of Dallas head the list of honored guests of the dedication game of the Dallas stadium when the Southern Methodist University Mustangs meet the Indiana University Hoosiers Saturday at 2:30.

The brief but auspicious ceremony which has been arranged will mark the presentation of the new stadium to the people of Texas by President T. E. Jackson of the State Fair to Governor Moody.

This ceremony will be one of the big features of the day and will boost the attendance.

"The ticket sale for the game has been the heaviest that we have experienced in our history," Dr. R. N. Blackwell, business manager of athletics of S. M. U. said late Tuesday.

"And because of the low price feature of several thousand tickets we believe that the new stadium will be practically filled."

"There will be no cause for the fans to worry for fear that they will not be able to get a seat for there are over 46,000 seats in the new stadium but it is advisable to buy your tickets soon if the most desirable seats are expected."

It was announced that end tickets would sell for $1.50 while seats on the benches would sell for $2.00 and the others would sell for the $3.00 top price.

It will be the first time in the history of the conference that a big ten team has made an invasion of this section and the first time that S. M. U. and Indiana have met on the gridiron.

Press reports from Indiana say that the Hoosiers have been pointing to the S. M. U. game and are determined to win.

Freeport—Freeport Texas Co. leases 2,000 acres on salt dome near here and will prospect for sulphur.

TIRED, WHETHER WORKED OR NOT

Mississippi Also Suffered From Dull Headache. Tells How He Was Relieved.

Jackson, Miss.—"I have been taking Theford's Black-Draught for twenty or more years," writes Mr. J. E. Jackson, 100 Beatty Street, this city.

"I used to suffer with constipation. This caused me to have a dull headache all the time. I would feel tired whether I worked or not. I noticed people buying Black-Draught, and so I decided that if it helped them it should help me. That is how I first began using it. I found that it helped me. It acted mildly and seemed to carry off the poison that had caused this tired feeling. It stopped my headache.

"From then, till now, Black-Draught has been my medicine. I do not get much exercise, so I have to take something to assist nature, and Black-Draught is fine for that."

"I am now 75 years old. I take only small doses of Black-Draught, and feel fine. I can recommend it to any one and gladly do so."

Theford's Black-Draught is easy to take, and has no disagreeable after-effects.

Costs only 1 cent a dose.

CRACKS IN THE DOME

AUSTIN, Oct. 24.—Members of the West Texas drought relief committee apologized to Gov. Dan Moody for the small size of the group. Several members were rained out and others delayed by muddy roads, they explained.

Rep. A. H. King, Throckmorton, had to travel 100 miles out of the way because rains in the drought section had made roads impassible.

The $10,000,000 federal aid just allotted and nearly all made available, "can easily become an impediment" to the well-balanced building of Texas highway, according to Highway Commr. Cone Johnson of Tyler.

Commr. Johnson, in verbal comments, indicated Texas will have about $2,000,000 per month for November and December construction, but that only a part of it can be applied to projects on which federal aid can be had.

The state already has let contracts for over $1,250,000 in which the counties advanced their share of the money for future repayment.

"It is very easy," Commr. Johnson said, "for the commission to tie up the entire amount of state money in projects on which the federal government will match dollars."

"Then that leaves us with no money to do anything else, and no money to take care of the highways which are not federal-aid projects."

"If we are going to put all our money on the federal projects," Commissioner Johnson commented, "then we just become a bureau down here to do as the federal government says, in routing of highways, in type of construction and in deciding what construction shall be done."

Mr. Johnson said that the $10,000,000 announced to be immediately available from federal funds, and the allotment for 1932 which is sought to be made quickly available when congress meets, "cannot be touched" until the last of the allotment is worked off.

That can be completed until the state can find money to match it; so that the grant will not do much to speed up construction in Texas until after the first of next year, when state road funds are abundant again.

There is an odd story of diplomatic being told about S. M. N. Marrs, superintendent of education. When the nine-member board of education was being created, no one knew who would make up the board.

His friends quietly went around and killed the provision that the board should appoint the superintendent. Now, he knows who the board are, and has found it an able board of conscientious workers for the good of the schools.

Now Mr. Marrs is recommending that the board should be empowered to appoint the superintendent.
