LEE CLARK TO HEAD RANDOLPH Legislature Meets at Noon to Consider Cotton Relief

WOODWARD PROPOSES 2-3 REDUCTION

AUSTIN, Sept. 8.—The farmers session of the Texas legislature met at noon today to enact cotton relief legislation. Within an hour after legislature convened this afternoon a resolution and three bills had been introduced. A resolution by Sen. J. L. Roy, of Sherman, would authorize legislative investigation of the amount of underrate cotton paid the federal crop estimate. In his message Governor Ross had Sterling said it was a question whether this relief could be brought about by legislation but said that all Texas hoped that it might. He said replies to his inquiry of the public indicated a majority favored a 50 per cent reduction in cotton acreage next year.

WOODWARD PREPARES BILL

AUSTIN, Sept. 8.—State Senator Walter Woodward, of Coleman, arrived here today for the special session of the Texas legislature, bearing what is generally looked upon as the administration cotton bill. Briefly the bill provided that no farmer shall plant more than 50 per cent of his cultivated land in cotton next year and that he shall not plant the same land in cotton two years in succession. There is also a provision to limit the amount of raw land that may be added to cotton acreage. Upon arrival here Senator Woodward revised the bill to limit acreage to one-third.

ONIES START SEASON GRIND ON THURSDAY

ALLAS, Sept. 8. — Next Thursday morning, Sept. 10, the sound of feet upon the gridiron will be heard at Southern Methodist University when Coach Ray Wilson begins his activities for the season. Forty nine men are expected to report for training. Practice sessions will be held twice daily throughout the training period which is expected to last for twelve or fifteen days.

With only fourteen practice days before they meet the Denton Eagles in North Texas State Teachers College the Mustangs will have to get down to business for this coming encounter. In their last meeting with the Denton crew the Mustangs were held scoreless until the last quarter of the game. The final score was 13 to 3 with the Mustangs on the heavy end, but they were forced the limit to win. Both playing field and practice squad are in the best of condition for a squad when they return. The Mustangs have been well watered and cut throughout the summer, and the Mustangs will have a nice pasture to play in. The men that are expected to report for practice are as follows:

Backs: Bass, Gilbert, Beron, Johnson, Mason, McNutt, Oliver, Shaw, Sprague, Thomas, Travis, Walden, Walker, Baxter, Cullen, Wood, Strickland, Jordan, Woodard.

Ends: Dickenson, Hawn, Koonz, Mills, Davidson, Barton, Clayton, L. Smith, Webster.

Tackles: Bray, Fry, Jackson, R. Smith, Tate, Hammon, Ross, Lyles, Shaw.

Guards: Trant, McLeod, Neeley, Prince, Riley, Kelsey, Burlison.

Centers: Delcambre, Browning, Elms, Hayes.

TON OF TACKLE MATERIAL FOR LONGHORN 11

AUSTIN, Sept. 8. — More than a ton of tackle material will report to the Longhorn training camp here September 10. Thirteen men, ranging in weight from Carl Tyson's 185 to Albert Cauthron's 260, will give Line Coach B. James a lot of trouble this fall, but it's the kind of trouble coaches enjoy the task of picking a pack of starters from a whole raft of good football players. And if tales of Harvard's tackle-killing attack be accurate, the Steers will need these thirteen huskies and maybe more when Clyde Littlefield and his squad invades Cambridge October 24.

Wilson Cook, regular starting tackle on the champion '30 eleven, has been tentatively switched to guard in Ox Emerson's place. In this case, James will be left with four lettermen: Ox Blanton of Healt, 210-pound all-conference tackle last year as a sophomore, Herzhell Mackey of Austin, 185, another soph star of last season; Sonny Dell of Mason, 190, letterman in '29 and '30; Carl Tyson of Austin, 185, playing his last season. Five husky tackles from last year's freshman team will keep the old heads tending strictly to business. These are Arthur Niebuhr of Bellville, 195; Frank Fisherman of Big Springs, 190; Sid Millsbaugh of San Angelo, 190; Raymond Seals of Flintheart, 200; H. E. Wheeler of Pecos, 215.

From this well-balanced crew Blanton Moody, Doell, and Niebuhr are favorites to share the regular tackle posts. Tyson, Greear, Millsbaugh, or some other "dark horse" may upset calculations and squeeze into the regular line-up.

WAR VICTIMS DECREASE. BERLIN, Sept. 8.—The number of German war victims shows a decrease this year for the first time since the war. The total of those, including widows of veterans, who had been in one way or another afflicted increased until last year, when the total was 840,000. This year it dropped to 838,360.

MAKING ARMY CIRCUIT. SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 8.—After having served in the British army in both Ireland and India, Thomas Cennors, of Syracuse, has enlisted with the United States army. He is a native of Ireland, but became eligible for enlistment when he applied for citizenship.

WEBSTER IRKED BY SPELLING OF ENGLISH WORDS

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—How illogical and unequivocal spelling of many English words irked Noah Webster, the lexicographer, is revealed in a book edited by M. M. Mathews, entitled "The Beginnings of American English," published by the University of Chicago Press. Webster was an advocate of simplified spelling as indicated by his first dictionary in 1806 which recommended such spellings as wether, lband, he, mold, nke, crum, fether, lether and other simplified forms. Not many of his suggestions were retained perhaps because, as he bitterly pointed out, "we must not deviate from the practice of our grandfathers even when they erred." Members of both the "either" and the "eyether" schools of thought may find interest in Mathews' theory of the origin of the two-century old discussion, "American English vs. The King's English." Mathews indicates the controversy may have started in 1785 when Francis Moore, an English traveler, decried the "barbarous English" of the provincial Georgians who referred, he said, to the bank of a stream as a "bluff."

Slight Difference Study of Mathews' world lists serves to substantiate his belief that "the really surprising thing about the English of England and that of the United States is not that they differ slightly, but that their difference is as slight as it is."

A few of these have survived: Hellicerious—very ferocious; Pellicerous—pesky; Sniptions—smart spruce; Sockdolager—a decisive blow; Quiddites—lifting niceties, odd behavior; Licksplittle—a bootlicker; Slang whanger—a noisy talker, or newspaper writer Rumbunctious—hot tempered; Sizzled—drunk.

HIT SON WITH GOLF BALL LAKE GENEVA, Wis., Sept. 8.—Playing on the Hillmoor golf course here, H. Flor, Chicago, struck his son, Harold, eight in the eye with a golf ball. Physicians said that sight in the injured eye will be permanently impaired.

BIG GREEN TEAM FACING HARD GAMES

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 8.—The Dartmouth Indian is mixing his warpaint this year with the knowledge that achieving national distinction on the gridiron the coming fall is not going to be so easy as in past seasons.

The extraordinary wealth of material that was available to Jess Hawley in the not long-ago days when he was head coach will not present itself to his successor, Jackson Cannell.

Graduation robbed the Dartmouth football squad of no less than eight first-string men — Andy, center and 1930 captain; Bomberg, guard; Nims, tackle; Crehan, guard; Goodville, tackle; and Wolff, Clarke and Johnson, backs.

To add to Dartmouth's woes, there is no certainty that Stan Yuclicky, star end and captain-elect, will be fit for action. He underwent a major operation a few months ago, and while he doubtless will captain the "Big Green" this fall, he may have to direct his team from the sidelines.

The stars that should shine the brightest during the coming campaign are Bill Morton, quarterback; Hank Barber, tackle; Hoffman, guard and Yuclicky, in the event that the captain-elect can play. Morton and McCall probably will share most of the burden of passing and kicking, the former especially.

Analysis of Public Improvement Bonds Approved in Texas This Year Is Made

AUSTIN, Sept. 8. — In the current issue of the Semi-Weekly Bond Buyers' Bulletin published by The University of Texas, an editorial analysis of the various kinds of public improvement bonds that were approved by the Attorney General's department during the fiscal year just ended is given by Antoinette Kuehne, editor. This review and bond summary may be regarded as an index of business conditions prevailing during that 12-month period.

Miss Kuehne said. The text follows: Bonds for various kinds of public improvements in Texas approved by the Attorney General's department during the fiscal year 1930-1931, which ended August 31, totaled $50,135,137.74, as compared with a total of $48,229,002.95 during the previous fiscal year, a decrease of $1,906,134.79. To carry this comparison still further, the total amount of bonds approved during the fiscal year 1928-1929 was $68,765,537.

An analysis of the different classes of bonds and the amounts of the several issues discloses that most kinds of public improvements during the last twelve months showed a decrease of approximately $5,000,000 with the preceding fiscal year. There was a falling off of $12,299,167 in the amount of road bonds and road and bridge bonds. This perhaps may be accounted for, at least in part, by what was regarded by many people as the favorable prospect for a proposed constitutional amendment being submitted to the people, providing for the issuing of State road bonds, which would have superseded the issuing of county and road district bonds. There was also a decrease of approximately $58,900,000 in the amount of school bonds approved, as compared with 1929-1930, and a decrease of nearly the same amount in irrigation and water control district bonds. Waterworks improvements bonds decreased in total amount approximately $2,000,000 as compared with the previous year. Nearly all kinds of municipal bonds showed a falling off. Taken as a whole the decline of total amount of bonds approved during the fiscal year may be regarded as a reflection of slack business conditions. During the previous year, several bond issues approved for public works were said to have been largely based on the unemployment situation. While this factor may have entered into the plans for some of the public improvements for which the 1930-31 bond issues have provided, this reason has not been given as a primary motive in any of the proposals. There are, however, pending at this time, one or more large proposed bond issues in the larger cities of the state which have for their special purposes the providing of employment for a large number of men on public works during the present year.

There has been noted an improvement in the demand and the price of the better classes of Texas bonds during the last few months. This is evidenced by the activity in bidding on the better classes of issues and the prices offered as compared with the early part of the fiscal year and with the last six months of 1929-1930.

With very few exceptions, the financial standing of Texas municipalities and other political units has shown an improvement during the year. There has been a general scaling down of the costs of government ranging from the school districts up to that of the state itself. County and municipal tax rates have been lowered in many instances—all serving to indicate that a more conservative and economical administration of public affairs is being attempted.

BLANTON WINS VINDICATION FOR OFFICER

ABILENE, Sept. 8. — A District of Columbia grand jury has contributed another chapter in the lone-voiced campaign by Thomas L. Blanton, West Texas congressman, to clean up the district police department. Blanton was advised yesterday by Washington newspapers that the grand jury had found that a young policeman, Orville Staples had been "framed" with perjured testimony by a police trial board presided over by Captain Guy L. Burlingame, in 1928.

The grand jury recommended that Staples be restored to the metropolitan police department, with back salary to the time of his dismissal, and that all officials concerned with his unjust punishment be removed. "That right will prevail is an old adage. Another is that 'chickens will come home to roost,'" was Blanton's comment yesterday. The Abilene congressman had conducted Staples' case — first against dismissal, then for reinstatement — without remuneration.

Pinching Conscience Staples' dramatic vindication came from a guilty conscience. Not his erstwhile friend Schenck's, a fellow policeman in Washington, was sent to the Leavenworth penitentiary for his jacking. Three weeks ago he wrote Judge Blanton from prison that he wanted to confess to his part in "framing" Orville Staples in 1928. The district grand jury sent for him, and he told the whole story.

Charges Filed Persecution continued. Charges were filed against Staples and he was tried before a police trial board, Blanton defending. He was acquitted November 13, 1928. Blanton continued his expose of the Washington police, producing sensational evidence of corruption that brought the impeachment of Police Commissioner Henning. Blanton showed there were more than 3,000 bootleggers plying their trade in Washington, having the friendship and protection of the superintendent of police, who obtained liquor from them. He also showed that two policemen, Fred Schenck and Joe Hunt ran a saloon near the White House, and that the foreman of the grand jury was protecting gambling houses.

Police officials suspected Staples of assisting Blanton. He received many threats. Returning home one night he was waylaid as he ran his car into his garage, the bullet grazing his head and shattering the windshield of the car. The next day, on affidavit secured by Schenck and Hunt, charges were again preferred against Staples. He was tried before a police board with Captain Burlingame presiding. That time they "got" him, his dismissal following. Blanton briefed and appealed the case in which he showed that Staples had been framed and that Schenck was the man who had shot at him. The appeal was denied, and Staples remained off the force until last week's dramatic confession by Schenck.

Burlingame has gone the way of other grafters, Blanton driving him from the police force after a woman, Mrs. Helen Blaylock, had come to Abilene to ask the congressman to recover property which she claimed Burlingame had taken from her. Blanton recovered property for her valued at $25,000, returning to Washington to blast Burlingame out of the official picture.

LAURA LOU BROOKMAN Author of "MAD MARRIAGE"

BEGIN HERE TODAY

etty Norma Kent, 20-year-old daughter of a law office, marries Travers, son of F. M. Travers, millionaire real estate dealer, the father has sworn her off without a penny if the wedding takes place. Norma has been with Mark only a few weeks, did know during the courtship that was a millionaire's son.

The story opens in Marlboro, the western town, where Chris Sanders, with whom Norma has been living, is the employer, before the wedding. Before the wedding, Norma has refused to marry with Farrell, young lawyer of whom she is fond as a friend.

Mark sells his expensive roadster to get money for the honeymoon. He and Norma go to fashionable Blue Springs, where the young man takes delight in surrounding his bride with expensive luxuries. One afternoon Mark induces Norma to Hollis Stone, an old friend. It is evident that Norma is known to Stone before. She goes herself and goes to her room. Mark believes Norma is ill, she endures a day of suspense and anxiety, then tells Mark she must go on with the honeymoon.

CHAPTER XVII
Mark Travers threw down his hat and loosened his tie impatiently. "I'm all in," he said, yawning. "It's too late to talk about anything now. Got to be up early to meet those fellows at the club."

"But, Mark, this is—it's important!" she said, fumbling with shirt buttons. "I don't even want to go to the club."

"Nothing's so important tonight as to get to the club. I tell you I'm dog-tired!"

The girl had not moved from where she stood. She seemed about to speak, then her face lightened. "I'm all in," she said, and she handed an end of ribbon on her dress.

Suddenly, impulsively she rushed to Mark and put a hand on each of his arms.

"Oh, Mark!" she cried. "Do you really love me? I mean more than anyone else? Do you love me so much nothing will ever make any difference? If anything should happen—do you love me so much you'd be sure nothing could ever make you change? Do you?"

"Why, sweetheart?" Travers laughed and patted her cheek. "So that's what's been worrying you—that's what's so terribly important, is it? Of course I love you. Now, will you climb into your pajamas and get ready for bed? Honestly, I'm awfully sleepy."

A long-drawn-out yawn clinched the argument. Obeyingly Norma turned away and began undressing.

She was not awake when he left next morning. Accustomed to sleeping late since their arrival in Blue Springs, it was after 10 o'clock before Norma sat up in bed and rubbed her eyes. Rummaged pillows beside her told her story.

Mark had gone to keep his appointment at the golf course.

The girl arose and dressed slowly. She did not even bother to go downstairs to breakfast.

Just before noon there was a telephone call. Mark's voice came over the wire saying he would meet her for lunch at one. Yes, they'd been around the course but it was going to take a while to clean up and get back to the Inn.

Norma was looking very attractive and very sweet when she met him in the lobby. She wore her gray traveling suit with gray pumps and the snappy, tip-tapping hat that had come from Franchon's.

With Mark was Clint Halloran, one of the members of the foursome. Until two days before Mark had never seen Halloran. Now apparently they were the best of friends.

Mark introduced his bride and the three went in to luncheon together. At the table the talk was all of golf. Halloran was amazed to hear Norma did not play.

"You'll have to have lessons," he assured her. "It's a great game. Nothing like it! Golf keeps you fit."

That, so Norma had noticed, was the favorite argument of devotees of half a dozen sports. Men and women told her they played tennis, golf, polo, rode horseback and swam "to keep fit." The keep fit for what? she might have asked since none of them seemed to have any occupation other than their endless games.

Perhaps the girl was envious because Halloran and the other golfers had kept Mark from her for two entire half days. At any rate as the luncheon progressed she decided she did not like Clint Halloran.

Mark, on the contrary, seemed to find him most companionable. Halloran knew friends of Mark's, had been at school with Ted Patterson who, said Mark, was his closest friend. It seemed odd that Norma had never heard Patterson's name mentioned before.

The two men left golf to talk of other individuals who were unknown to her. As they talked even Mark seemed almost a stranger. He was discussing school pranks, sporting events, places and people who meant nothing to Norma. They were all familiar enough to Clint Halloran. Both men laughed frequently. Oh, they were having a great time.

Their table was the one Mark and Norma favored regularly—at the side of the dining room near the right wall. Sunlight and air reached them from south as well as east windows. Mark's chair stood so that his back was toward the center of the room.

A shadow hovered over the table for an instant. Norma raised her eyes, nodded.

"Who was that who just passed?" Mark wanted to know.

davenport. By 1 o'clock she extinguished all but a single lamp, turned down the covers and got into bed.

She had not been asleep when nearly two hours later the scratch of a key in the latch aroused her. Mark at last!

The door opened. Pale and disheveled, her young husband stood on the threshold. The girl gave him one startled look, sat up and cried:

"Mark—? What's happened?"

MOM'N POP.

WHEN CHICK LEARNED THAT HERBERT ROACH NEXT DOOR, HAD GONE TO WORK ON LABOR DAY TO GET IN STRONG WITH HIS BOSS, CHICK DECIDED THAT IT WASN'T A BAD HUNCH TO LABOR ON LABOR DAY IF IT MEANT CINCING A SHAKY JOB

CHICK'S BOSS

I'VE FINISHED ALL THE WORK YOU GAVE ME SATURDAY, MR AFFEL, AND I'M BACK FOR MORE

YOU MEAN YOU'VE CHECKED ALL THAT COPY AND CORRESPONDENCE THIS MORNING?

WHILE BACK HOME, TWO PARENTS ARE BUBBLING OVER WITH EXCITEMENT... JUST LIKE A COUPLE OF KIDS...

HURRY UP, MOTHER... WE WANT TO BE THERE TO SEE THEM COME IN... I'LL GO ON OUT AND GET THE CAR STARTED!

MY STARS!! I'M RUNNING AROUND HERE LIKE A CHICKEN WITH ITS HEAD OFF... WHERE'S MY HAT? OH! I HAVE IT ON... MERCY DAY... ALL RIGHT, I'M COMING!!

WELL, NOT EXACTLY THIS MORNING YOU SEE, I DECIDED THAT I'D SPEND MY LABOR DAY LABORING, SO I CAME DOWN YESTERDAY AND CAUGHT UP WITH THINGS

WELL, OF COURSE SOME PEOPLE HATE 'T LABOR MORE THAN SIX DAYS 'T DO A WEEK'S WORK—BUT WHEN WE HAVE A HOLIDAY I WANT MY EMPLOYEES TO ENJOY IT

That's no reason at all! They don't even know you.

"But they know I worked for my living. And I haven't any family. They know that much."

"Well, we won't argue about it. Let's go back and see if the mail has come."

They turned back. The clerk at the inn reported there was nothing for Mr. and Mrs. Travers.

For the next three days Mark spent a good share of his time on the golf links. Occasionally when he was with Norma he was brooding and moody. Something seemed to worry him. Could it be about money? Mark had had more than $1,400 when they came to Blue Springs two weeks ago. Everything was expensive here, but $1,100—! It couldn't possibly be gone!

She tried to question him about this, found him impatient, even cross.

Thursday night they did not join the department dinner. Mark had been on the links with Halloran all afternoon. He said something about a "little game with the boys."

"You don't mind, darling?" he inquired as an afterthought.

"Not in the least."

How she did mind! When, alone, she looked out on the moon-drenched lawn and heard the melancholy, sighing wind! She was in their rooms. Too proud to let others know she was spending the evening alone she had gone upstairs immediately after dinner.

The "little game" could not last forever. Norma looked at the clock. It was 10:30.

She tried to read. An hour later she bathed, got into gown and negligee and curled up in bed.

It would be terrible if they landed before we got there...

NOT SO FAST... YOU ALMOST HIT THAT MILK WAGON BACK THERE!!

Attorney, is said to be a candidate for the place. J. R. Burnett of Cisco his friends say, will also be in the running. Earnest Jones of Eastland former county clerk, is also talked for this place.
Grady Owen, it might be stated, is an avowed candidate for county attorney. He is present assistant to county attorney Joe H. Jones. Frank Judkins is being talked as a candidate for this office also.
Whether Sheriff Virge Foster will be a candidate for re-election depends, his friends say, on whether he is convinced that the voters want his services for another term. W. A. Hammett of Ranger, Jim Ingram of Ranger, W. M. Miller of Cisco, R. L. Todd of Gorman, Steel Hill and Loss Woods of Eastland are all mentioned as possible candidates for sheriff. Hill and Woods are deputies under Foster and it is consensus of opinion that should Foster be a candidate neither of them would run.
T. L. Cooper, present tax collector; Mrs. May Harrison, present county treasurer, will, it is generally thought, not have opponents.
Geo. Bryant, present tax assessor, according to many will have an opponent, but no one has as yet suggested a prospective candidate for his place. Bryant is serving his second term, but had an opponent for his second term. He also made two or three campaigns before being elected each time getting to within a few votes of election. Bryant has also been mentioned for county judge.

For the positions now occupied by the members of the Eastland county commissioners court there will be, it is almost certain, numerous aspirants. Commissioner Gray of the Gorman precinct, and Commissioner Smeatley of the Rising Star precinct, may not have opponents, but it is considered certain that Commissioner Cooper of Ranger and Brian of Cisco will have opposition. John Thurman of Ranger, J. C. Allison of Eastland are mentioned as possible candidates for Cooper's place.

R. L. Jones, Walter Gray and Ed

Layton are mentioned for county clerk. Jones is the present clerk.
W. H. McDonald, present district clerk may be a candidate to succeed himself. Milton Newman is also being mentioned as a possible candidate for the office.
