FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS

A small amount of cotton was harvested last week in Midland County and in the area as drying conditions permitted the resumption of field work for the first time in several weeks. Harvest was restricted to fields that had been chemically defoliated. Green leaves and unopened bolls are still holding up harvest on many acres of cotton. Most producers are waiting for killing freeze to finally prepare their cotton for harvest.

It appears that losses in yield and grade on cotton crops in Midland County will be considerable as a result of the prolonged cloudy, wet conditions this fall and drought early in the season. Projected county yields are estimated at less than half those of 1973, said Charles Green, Midland County agent. The adverse weather conditions of this year mean — at the best — cotton quality may be low. The basic objective in cotton harvesting is to keep moisture and trash content to a minimum. Their removal at the gin creates a major quality preservation problem. Excessive moisture and the presence of green leaves also cause quality losses in storage. The moisture and trash content factor in seed cotton is related to prevailing weather, plant condition, and machine adjustment and operation.

Important guidelines to consider are: (1) Moisture content of seed cotton in the field should be 10 per cent or less. (2) Machines must be conditioned prior to harvesting and kept in adjustment as dictated by plant and field conditions. (3) Operators must be trained and supervised. (4) Seed cotton of varying trash and moisture content should not be mixed in the same trailer. (5) Keep the cotton loose, clean and dry on the trailer.

A good, well-thought-out written agreement when leasing a farm or ranch can often eliminate problems and disagreements between landlords and tenants. A lease should be tailored to fit the farm, the landlord and the tenant, points out Dr. Wayne Hayenga, economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Hayenga says the lease should cover such areas as property rights, land use, and livestock production and restrictions, and should have provisions for conserving and maintaining farm resources, sharing of costs and returns, and length of the agreement.

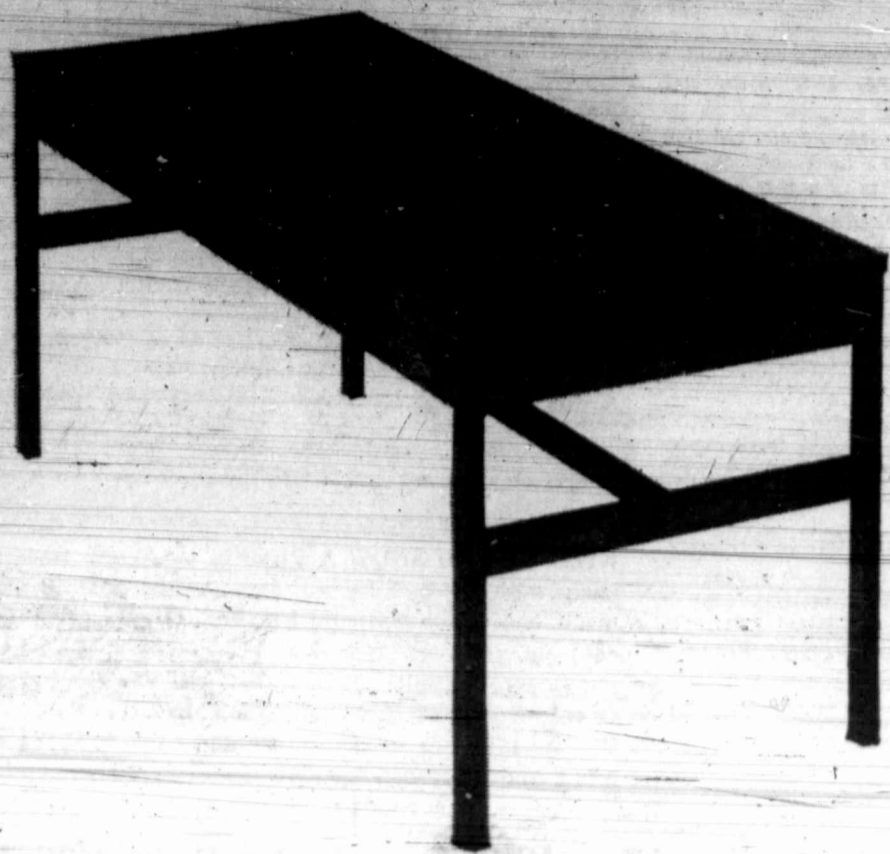

The agreement should clearly state the rights, duties and responsibilities of each party and should provide for change and adaptability. The goal of the agreement should be to provide reasonable returns to both landlord and tenant for the resources provided. A good lease provides for the development, improvement and maintenance of the land, buildings, fences and other improvements. It should assure the tenant a reasonable reimbursement for the investments he leaves in the farm when his period of occupancy ends.

Hayenga contends that a rental agreement should have a provision for equitable sharing. This does not always mean equal sharing. The landlord and tenant should receive an income from the farm in proportion to the amount of total operating expenses each pays. The economist favors a whole farm income sharing plan rather than one for each crop or livestock enterprise. Blank lease forms and other information to help tenants and landlords write a lease agreement are available at the county extension office.

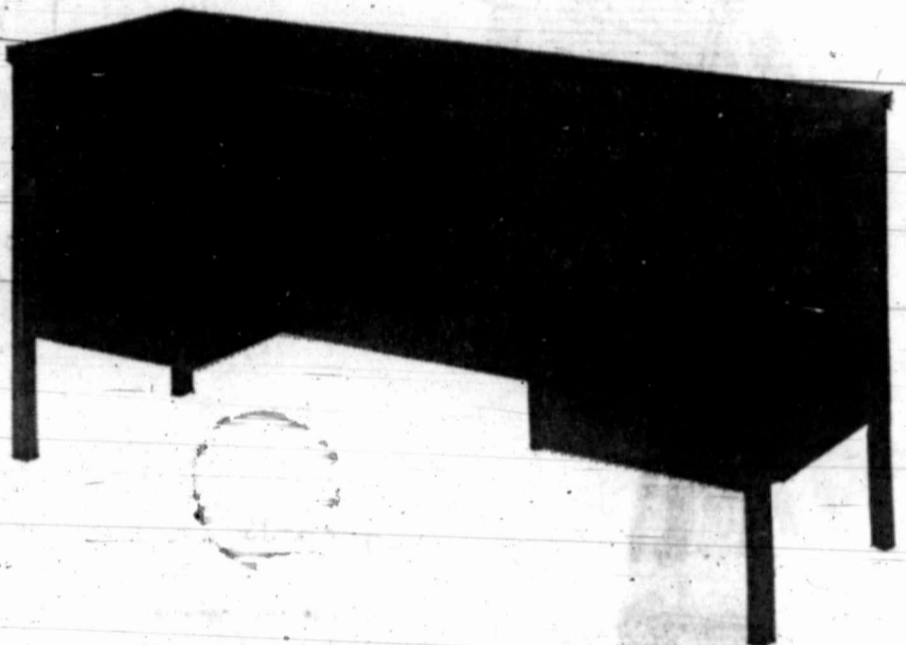

Pointing out that producers need to file production records for each cotton allotment farm each year, Minter McReynolds, local ASCS administrator, emphasizes the importance of identifying all cotton harvested with the farm on which it was grown. The producer who is operating more than one farm should take care not to commingle the cotton from his farms. Separate production evidence is required from each farm in order to establish future payment yields. It's also needed in determining eligibility for and amount of disaster payments. Cotton farmers are asked to file their production records with the county ASCS office as soon as possible after they have completed a farm's cotton harvest. We have a standard form for evidence of cotton production and the procedure is the same as for 1973.

35 Persons Injured Here In Traffic During October

Thirty-five persons were injured in the 199 traffic mishaps recorded within the Midland city limits during October, according to reports released by Lt. H. M. Wicker, head of the traffic division of the Midland Police Department.

There were no fatalities. Wicker pointed out that in 139 of the accidents 149 drivers were charged with violations. During the month, there were 157 wrecks which occurred on the streets of Midland, while 42 others happened on private property.

Five pedestrians were injured, while the 30 other persons hurt were injured in vehicles. Wicker said there were eight accidents in which a person or persons were seriously injured, 16 where hospitalization was required and five in which only minor injuries occurred.

Of the 170 non-injury accidents, 139 of them occurred on the streets, while the others were on private property.

Daredevil Petite Says Stunts Now Will Be Sanctioned

VENICE, Fla. (AP) — Philippe Petite, who has often offended authorities but thrilled onlookers with unannounced stunts — like on a tight-rope 1,350 feet above the streets of New York — says his stunts will be in the proper spotlights from now on.

"I will work above the center ring, alone," Petite says with a touch of pride of his planned show with the Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus. The Frenchman's Jan. 3 debut in this southwest Florida city, winter headquarters of the circus, will be one of the few times he has performed without the likelihood of arrest.

Jon G. Edmonson, 8 Marchelle Court, told Midland police someone had taken a tool chest and assorted tools from his residence Friday. The missing items were valued at $60.

Fire Alarms Down In Midland County

Fire alarms in Midland County showed a decrease through October from the same period of 1973. Fire Marshall W. L. Tarver said.

The fire official said the main factor in the decrease was a drop in grass fires due to wetter weather this year.

Lions, Rotarians Set Joint Meeting

The annual joint Thanksgiving meeting of the Midland Downtown Lions and Rotary clubs will be held Wednesday noon in the American Legion Hall.

The Rev. V. T. Herson, pastor of Greater St. Luke's A.M.E. Methodist Church, will be the guest speaker. "What We Are To Be Thankful For" will be the subject of his Thanksgiving message.

L. N. "Jim" Coker is the Lions Club president, and John Young heads the Rotary Club. The Lions Club will be the host organization.

The two clubs have been meeting together on the day before Thanksgiving, regular Lions meeting date for many years. The Rotary meeting date falls on the holiday.

The service clubs now are 200 Knots in their 46th year, both having been organized and chartered in the spring of 1928.

D. R. MILLER Just Likes To Make People Happy

Circus Owner Says He Has Most Rewarding Life

By JAMES KUTINA Copy News Service

ELGIN, Ill. — D. R. Miller has to work long hours — sometimes under extreme weather conditions.

But he says he has a most rewarding life. For Miller, who owns the world's largest traveling circus, eight months a year he's on the road in a new town almost every day.

Putting up the tent, unloading the animals and packing them up again to go back on the road is routine.

Aside from the circus being an obvious investment, Miller and most of the people at the Carson and Barnes Circus seemed to enjoy their way of life.

Miller was relaxing recently just before an afternoon show to reflect on his 37 years as a circus owner.

"I guess I just like making people happy and acting as a public service," said Miller. "This particular day was a proud one for Miller, because he had just received a new tent."

Waiting for more than a year to get the tent, Miller scoffed at the fact that he had just spent $50,000.

"You know how some people enjoy buying a new car or a farmer may buy a new tractor. Well, my enjoyment in life is something like buying another elephant or this new tent," Miller explained.

"Every time I buy something new, or get a new act, I just think that it's going to make more people enjoy the circus," Miller continued.

In a good year Miller estimates he makes about $40,000 for himself, but was quick to emphasize that every year the circus tours it's a gamble.

Ship Caught Fire Miller recalled a gamble in the 1930s when he put a circus on a ship. The ship caught fire and sank, losing part of the circus.

"I've owned about anything I've wanted, including planes and boats, but there is no satisfaction like making people happy," said Miller. "Most of my success is in the people that have been a part of the circus."

He said it's a unique group of people who are willing to work long hours to be part of a different type of life.

Thinking a minute, Miller said he would have probably liked to have been a doctor if not with the circus.

"It would have to be something to do with people," he said.

"It's Hard To Stop" Whitey, one of the elephant keepers, lives in the back of a trailer in relatively simple surroundings compared to most people. But a happier or more proud man would be hard to find.

"You get started and it's hard to stop. I don't know why I like it, but I know it isn't the money," Whitey said as he was brushing down one of the elephants.

Midland Student Named President Of State DECA

SAN ANGELO — A Midlander, Paul Caudle, has been named president of the state collegiate Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) organization.

A junior distributive education major at Angelo State University in San Angelo, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Caudle, 3500 Lockheed St. in Midland. He is a 1967 graduate of Midland Lee High School.

Caudle is the first president selected to head up the newly-created organization that includes members at Angelo State, the University of Houston and North Texas State University.

Active in DECA work for the past two years, Caudle was one of three Angelo State University delegates who attended the National DECA Career Conference held last spring in Chicago. It was at that meeting that he was elected Liaison Officer for the 13-state Southern Region of DECA.

Caudle explained that the newly-formed state organization for collegiate level DECA activities will focus on two primary objectives:

"First we will be trying to increase the number of high school DECA students who go on to become active in college level DECA organizations. Secondly, we will be working to promote collegiate DECA activities in general."

WILL TRY TO SHOW A PROFIT — Arnell Beckman of Coon Rapids, Minn., poses with the calf he will feed for the next 18 months in an effort to show a profit and prove National Farmers Organization members wrong in their recent slaughter of more than 600 calves in Wisconsin to protest dwindling profits. Beckman ended up with the calf when he wrote an angry letter to farmer Orville Voeltz of Emerald, Wis., after the NFO slaughter with the challenge that he take one of the calves and raise it for profit. Voeltz accepted the challenge and delivered the two week old Holstein calf to Beckman, who is now raising it in his back yard. (AP Wirephoto.)

Marsh May Become Head Of Congress Relations Office For White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential counselor John O. Marsh Jr. may become over-all director of a revamped White House congressional relations office, informed sources say.

Under the realignment, still in the discussion stage, Marsh would supervise Capitol Hill lobbying for the Ford administration, with legislative affairs assistant Max L. Friedersdorf as operating head.

Remaining to be resolved, the sources said Friday night, is whether congressional relations chief William E. Timmons and some of his assistants will remain with the administration or go into private business.

Timmons and two of his deputies, Tom C. Korologos and Gene Ainsworth, have not made a final decision on their future plans, the sources said.

Marsh, a former Democratic congressman from rural Virginia and onetime assistant secretary of defense, was among President Ford's first staff appointments when Ford assumed the presidency last August. The two are longtime friends.

Several changes on the White House staff are expected before the start of the new congressional session in January, as Ford appointees replace hold-

Cocaine Seized, Eight Men Nabbed In Raid At Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Rangers, Dallas police and state intelligence agents swooped down Friday night on eight men, seizing 14 ounces of cocaine in what officers said was the largest such haul in city history.

The arrests occurred in an apartment parking lot and included the arrest of Carr P. Collins III, president of Republic Industries and an unsuccessful candidate for the state legislature.

Officers said the arrests followed six months of investigative work and undercover infiltration of a cocaine ring. Officers valued the drugs at $80,000 on the street market.

Those arrested and charged before Justice of the Peace Robert Cole were Collins, 31; Michael S. Oestreicher, 17; Warren J. Starnes, 30; Larry Propst, 23; Barney Chapman, 20; David L. Crabtree, 27; and Thomas L. Tippitt, 23. Another man was arrested but was not charged immediately.

CONNALLY LEAVES COURT—Former Treasury Secretary John Connally leaves U.S. District Court in Washington Friday after asking the court to dismiss federal charges of perjury and attempted obstruction of justice. Connally has been indicted on two counts of accepting a bribe, one count of conspiring to permit perjury and obstructing justice and two counts of lying to a grand jury. (AP Wirephoto.)

Government Attorneys Appeal Decision On Jacobsen's Case

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Government attorneys have asked the federal appeals court here to overturn a lower court decision to prosecute Texas lawyer Jake Jacobsen, chief witness against former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally in an illegal milk industry campaign contribution case.

The Justice Department and the Watergate special prosecutor appealed orders issued by U.S. District Court Judge Robert M. Hill, who refused to dismiss charges against Jacobsen and appointed his own special prosecutors to try the case in Texas.

Authority Claimed
Friday's appeal said the government had authority to strike the plea bargain with Jacobsen and that Hill was going beyond his rightful powers in continuing the case.

Meanwhile, in Washington, U.S. District Court Judge George L. Hart Jr. denied Friday motions to dismiss perjury and attempted obstruction of justice charges against Connally. Hart postponed until Monday action on defense motions challenging other counts against Connally.

Jury Names Pair
A federal grand jury in Texas last February named Jacobsen and Ray Cowan, directors and stockholders in the First Savings and Loan Association of San Angelo, in a case stemming from an $825,000 loan transaction.

The Watergate prosecution force later decided it needed Jacobsen's help in making a case against Connally in connection with alleged milk lobby payments to Connally.

Bargain Made
A bargain was made under which Jacobsen agreed to plea guilty to a bribery count if the Texas case were dropped. Meanwhile, Cowan pleaded guilty in his case.

Jacobsen then testified before a grand jury which indicted Connally on charges of receiving illegal payments.

But when the government moved to dismiss the Texas case against Jacobsen, the State of Texas objected, saying that in deference to the federal probe it had turned its own evidence over to government authorities with the understanding they prosecute.

Waitress Fired For Not Wearing Ford WIN Button

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dee Wilson says she lost her waitress job because she refused to wear a WIN button on her uniform.

"I don't support either of the two major parties," Miss Wilson, 18, said Friday while explaining she felt wearing the button implied support of President Ford and the Republican party.

Miss Wilson picketed Longfellow's Restaurant for more than an hour Friday and said she refused to compromise her principles.

Inside, half a dozen employees, all prominently displaying bright red WIN buttons, were busy waiting on customers.

The restaurant's management was unavailable for comment.

BIG SPRING — The third armed robbery of a drive-in grocery store in two weeks occurred here Friday.

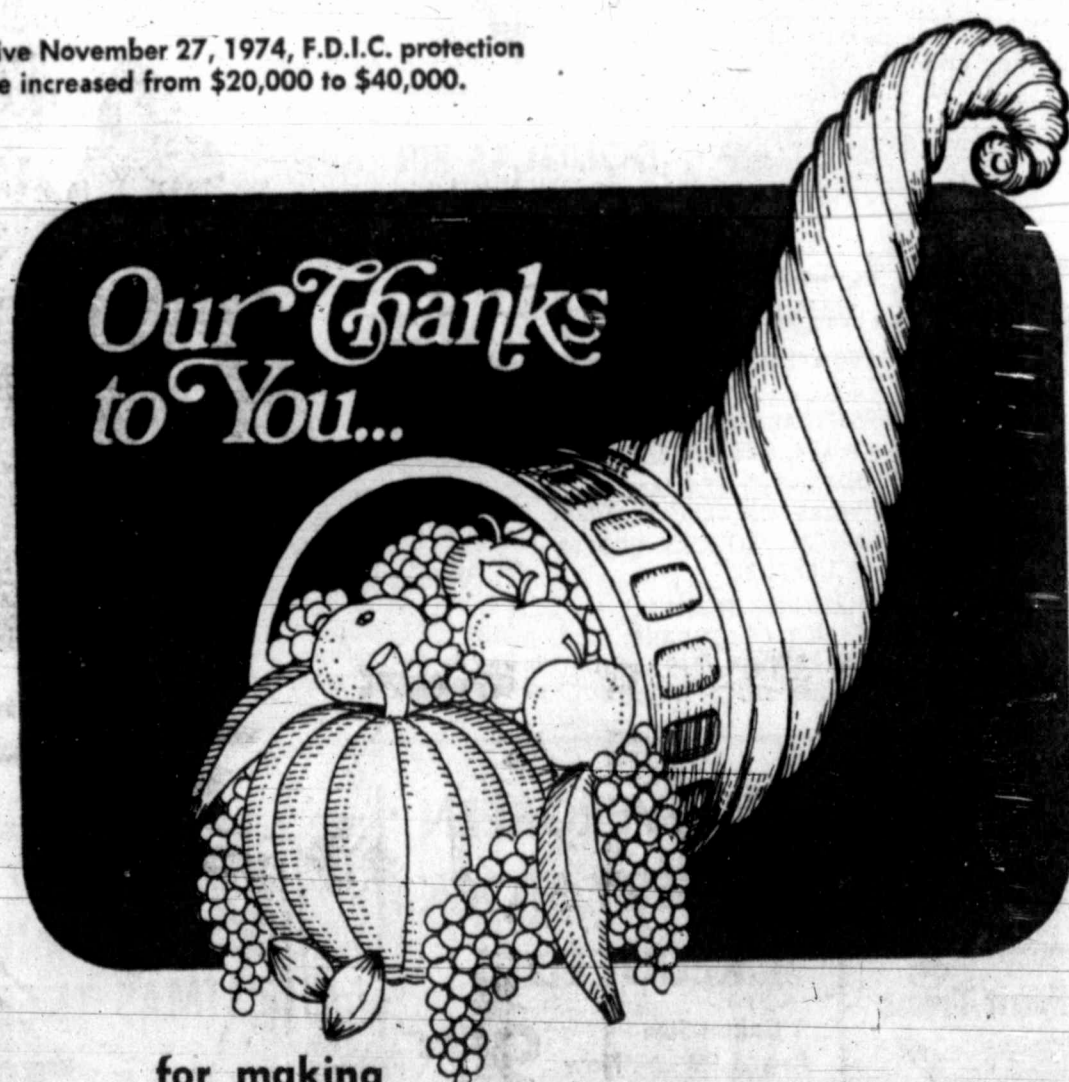

Mrs. Susan Austin, an employee of the store, said a man in his teens took $45 and a carton of cigarettes at gunpoint.

Investigating officers, who said the first two robberies might be related, feel this one was not related, they said.

One Of Foremost Aviation Authorities Looks Like British Bank 'Clark'

By FRANK MACOMBER
Copley News Service

John W. R. Taylor appears to resemble more a typical British bank "clerk" than one of the world's foremost aviation authorities.

Yet he's the latter.

On a tour of the United States from his London home office. Taylor travels by train with his attractive wife. The man who has flown in supersonic aircraft and edited the aircraft version of Jane's for 19 years says that's the only way to see the country and meet Americans along the way.

"Whom can you meet on an airliner, and what can you really see of this or any other country?" he asks. "No busman's holiday for us."

In an interview Taylor said the Russians already might be flying remotely piloted airplanes still under development in this country—and indicated that flying saucers reported sighted over Sweden and West Germany might be remotely controlled planes from the Soviet Union.

An aeronautical engineer volume until an airplane has been in service for awhile," Taylor points out.

"People will ride in the Concorde, for it's a good airplane, and then U.S. airlines will begin buying."

"The Concorde must go into service, for we need to know its performance characteristics to move on to the next era of supersonic airliners."

U.S. air carriers originally had planned to buy a limited number of Concorde, but that Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., by Teledyne Ryan Aeronautical Co. and the Boeing Aircraft Co., the Jane's editor insists they "make good sense," especially as military reconnaissance or decoy planes.

Israel wants more of the U.S. remotely piloted aircraft, he says, partly because they were so successful as decoys during the October war a year ago in the Middle East.

"They sent up robot planes and they were effective in decoying enemy missiles away from the actual Israeli fighters," Taylor points out.

During his West Coast tour Taylor went to Edwards to inspect the Teledyne Ryan and Boeing versions of the remotely piloted planes. During recent tests the Teledyne Ryan craft however, is a "formidable" combat plane with its Mach 3 speed or nearly 2,500-mile-per-hour. Under a development program called Compass Cope, the two firms are competing for an Air Force RPV (remotely piloted vehicle) contract.

Underground Editor Begins Pinch Of Pot Prison Term

DALLAS (AP)—Brent La Salle "Stoney Burns" Stein, 31, has begun serving a 10 years and one day prison term for possession of 1-18 ounce of marijuana.

Stein, a Dallas native, has blamed the city's political hierarchy for his troubles, claiming they result from his work as editor of the underground newspapers "The Iconoclast" and "Dallas Notes."

He reported to a district court here Friday and was marched to the city jail where he will be housed until the Texas Department of Corrections takes custody.

Defense lawyer Doug Larson said he planned to seek Stein's freedom through federal courts. He said he also plans to ask Gov. Dolph Briscoe about pardoning or commuting Stein's sentence.

Briscoe could commute the sentence under Texas' new drug law which makes possession of less than four ounces of marijuana a misdemeanor instead of a felony. Stein was convicted under the old law.

Police arrested Stein after officers stopped his van and found a small quantity of marijuana in the vehicle's glove compartment.

State Road Deaths 2,602 For Year

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas traffic accidents have killed 2,601 persons so far this year, compared with 3,208 during the same period in 1973, the Texas Department of Public Safety reports.

Fatal accidents this year total 2,238, compared with 2,648 at this time last year.

The reduction in fatalities is 607 or 19 per cent, and the decrease in fatal accidents is 410 or 15 per cent.

Mexican Officials Find Pot Believed Stolen From Ft. Bliss In Pickup Truck

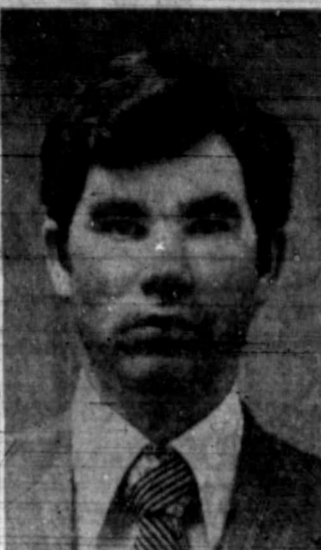

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Mexican border officials say they found 57 kilos of marijuana and several items believed stolen from Fort Bliss in an abandoned pickup truck chased into Mexico by United States military police Friday.

Mexican authorities detained three U.S. Army military policemen nearly 10 hours getting statements on the chase which led two squad cars across the Texas-Mexico border.

Lt. Col. Vincent Carafano at Ft. Bliss said Spec. 4 Otis P. Motley of Jackson, N.C., Pfc. Michael George Pittman of Wynne, Ark., and Pvt. John K. Polly of Pound, Va., returned to the Texas Army post about midmorning Friday.

The military policemen said they spotted a truck at the post shortly after midnight Friday and thought they saw stolen government property in the back of the truck.

Mexican authorities reported no arrests of occupants of the abandoned pickup by late Friday.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

He's Wondering If Lady's A Lush

DEAR ABBY: For the last five years I've been very much in love with a widowed grandmother, age 61. I am 60, and in the process of getting a divorce in order to marry my lady friend, now, the problem:

When my lady and I dine, she orders "a martini" before dinner. I have one, also, but she always has a second, and then a third.

She enjoys wine with her dinner. I order a bottle, and she drinks most of it. After dinner she likes not one after-dinner drink, but two.

When we are at her place, the bottle is always out, and she "relaxes" with "a few drinks." When we're at my place, she always helps herself to the liquor.

She never gets drunk or out of line, but she seems to be drinking a great deal of the time.

The shocker came when I accidentally discovered a nearly empty vodka bottle on the shelf of her bedroom closet. (It was hidden behind a hatbox.)

I asked her what it was doing there and she said her doctor said she should have a little drink before going to bed every night.

Abby, do you think she's an alcoholic? I care for her, and want to know if she has a drinking problem before I marry her. How can I find out for sure? She insists she can take it or leave it alone.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: You have good reason to worry. Tell her of your concern, and suggest that if she can take it or leave it alone, you'd like her to leave it alone for awhile. Her reaction to your suggestion should tell you all you need to know.

DEAR ABBY: I am a teen-age girl and every time I come back from a boy-girl party, my grandmother asks me if we played "post office."

I know post office is a kissing game, but that's all I know about it. I've asked my grandmother (and several other people in their 50s and 60s) how that game is played, but nobody seems to know. Do you?

And if you don't, will you please try to find out what are the rules?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: I've heard about the game, but I don't know how it's played either. Readers? Anybody out there know how to play post office?

DEAR ABBY: We are an elderly couple who invited three relatives to stop over for the weekend during their vacation travels. They accepted.

We hired a woman to help with the extra work — bought

Six Found Guilty In Heroin Case

FORT WORTH (AP)—Six men accused of conspiring to distribute heroin were found guilty in federal court here Friday.

The defendants were Edd Douglas, 41; Arthur Douglas, 33; Elbert Douglas Jr., 42; Hargis Ray Murray, 24; Leon Buhl Jr., 25 and Joe Wesley McDonald, 28.

They were accused with 12 other persons of involvement in a drug ring here. Six other persons were convicted in the case, and the remaining six still await trial.

U.S. District Court Judge Eldon Mahon did not set a date for sentencing. The men face life to 30 years in prison or fines from $25,000 to $50,000.

You deserve a lot of credit for paying cash.

In this day and age it makes more sense than ever to save for major purchases and then pay cash.

Midland National Bank is not against buying on time, credit of financing. Sometimes that's the most practical way to pay for needed items. In fact, we make available one of the most widely used and accepted credit cards in the world, BankAmericard.

By its very nature, the privilege of credit or borrowing costs you money. Saving, however, earns you money. So, if you can afford to wait a while, a savings account is a very economical alternative.

Just how advantageous becomes clear in this simple illustration, based on current interest rates:

1. To save $5,000 at 5% for 5 years, compounded daily, you'll pay $75.40 per month. In 5 years, you'll have earned $4,524 plus an additional $476 earned as interest.
2. If you borrow $5,000 for 5 years at 12%, simple interest it will cost you $111.22 per month. In 5 years, you'll pay back the $5,000 you borrowed plus an additional $1,673.33.

The difference is a net savings to you of $2,149.33.

Several ways to begin.

Midland National offers a variety of savings plans. Each is designed to fit a different savings need. They pay the highest interest rate the law allows, and protect you up to $40,000* by the F.D.I.C. There's nothing magic about any of these plans, except that they continue to work for lots of people.

Regular savings is on account particularly well suited for savers just starting out. A minimum deposit gets you started. And you earn interest from day of deposit to day of withdrawal... compounded continuously. You can add or withdraw at will, so your money is readily available when you need it... anytime, without penalty. It's a simple, comfortable, and sensible savings account that will grow, with interest.

Whether you're a new saver or an experienced one, there's a banking officer waiting to explain the details of all our savings programs. For complete details, contact a Midland National Banker, or fill out the handy request form at right and simply mail it to The Midland National Bank Customer Service Department.

At Midland National, we're getting better, not just bigger.

Rocky May Sell All Of Oil Stock

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller says "he is considering selling all $1.9 million of his oil stock in an effort to lay to rest any concern over potential conflict of interest."

Rockefeller also agreed Friday during his testimony to the House Judiciary Committee to talk to his brothers and sister about giving details on the entire Rockefeller wealth to congressional confirmation committees.

Confidence Needed

But the former New York governor said, as did several committee members, that unless he can establish public confidence in his integrity any move to insulate himself from his money will do little good.

"If people don't trust me," he said, "I don't think they will be convinced by any gesture I might make."

The Senate Rules Committee unanimously recommended Rockefeller's confirmation as vice president Friday and, despite the concern over money, questioning in the House committee indicated only five to seven of the 38 members will oppose him.

Such overwhelming recommendation by the two committees would virtually assure Rockefeller's confirmation by the full House and Senate.

Sole Concerned

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie said he was concerned about the Rockefeller family's $20 million in political contributions over 18 years and said he believed that money was partly responsible for Rockefeller's election as New York governor and the late Winthrop Rockefeller's as Arkansas governor.

Under Waldie's questioning, Rockefeller acknowledged the reason many of his loans to public officials have turned into gifts has been to conform to the law against giving gifts to public officials.

The vice president-designate told the committee and newsmen early in the hearings that he was trying to think of something he could do to end the question of potential conflict of interest once and for all. But he indicated it was difficult.

When Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio, suggested he do something like sell all of his oil stock since that is so closely linked to the Rockefeller wealth, Rockefeller replied: "It's under study."

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Nov. 24, the 328th day of 1974. There are 37 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1963, the accused assassin of President John Kennedy, Lee Harvey Oswald, was shot to death by Jack Ruby in Dallas, Texas.

On this date:

In 1784, the 12th American president, Zachary Taylor, was born in Orange County, Va.

In 1867, barbed wire was patented by Joseph Glidden of De Kalb, Ill.

In 1942, the Germans were suffering heavy losses in the Battle of Stalingrad in the Soviet Union.

In 1944, U.S. bombers based on Saipan attacked Tokyo. The raid was the first against the Japanese capital by land-based planes.

In 1963, the body of President John Kennedy was taken from the White House to the Capitol Building to lie in state.

In 1967, many foreigners on Cyprus moved inland on the island, fearing an invasion by Turkey.

Ten years ago: Eighteen hostages were executed by Congolese rebels at Stanleyville in the Congo as Belgian paratroops dropped from U.S. planes to retake the city.

Five years ago: The U.S. Army ordered a court-martial for 1st Lt. William Calley on charges of murder in the massacre of South Vietnamese villagers at My Lai.

One year ago: Arab representatives met in Algeria to form policy after the October war with Israel.

Today's birthdays: Former New York Mayor John Lindsay is 53. Political Columnist William Buckley is 49.

Thought for today: The sooner every party breaks up the better — Jane Austen, English novelist 1775-1817.

Stuffing In Turkey May Be Dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP) — If your Thanksgiving turkey is stuffed, it may be dangerous.

That warning comes from the Agriculture Department, which says that cooking stuffing inside a turkey increases the danger of salmonella poisoning.

The department issued the warning this week in reporting the results of a survey of food safety practices in the home. The survey indicated that many American homemakers would flunk tests for cooking turkey safely.

May Have Bacteria

Fresh meat and poultry may contain salmonella bacteria, which cause a disease characterized by flu-like symptoms such as severe headaches, vomiting, diarrhea, cramps and fever.

It can cause death in particularly susceptible persons such as infants, elderly persons or those with chronic diseases.

Although salmonella can be killed when the turkey is cooked, it may be transferred from the turkey to the stuffing, the department said.

"Therefore, for absolute safety, stuffing or dressing should be cooked in a separate container," it added.

Thoroughly Cooked

"If the homemaker insists on cooking stuffing inside the turkey, it is imperative that she cook the stuffing thoroughly," the department said. "In the cavity of the turkey, it takes longer for the stuffing to be sufficiently cooked."

It should reach a temperature of at least 165 degrees during roasting, the department advised.

"Just because the outer surface of the turkey appears to be done does not necessarily indicate the stuffing is safely done, too," it said.

The risk of cooking the stuffing in the turkey is further compounded when the stuffing is packed tightly because it does not allow the oven heat to penetrate as quickly, the department said.

PBLMA Meeting Slated Tuesday

The Permian Basin Landmen's Association will hold its monthly meeting, Tuesday, at Midland Country Club, commencing with a social hour at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Ed Thompson, executive vice president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, will be the guest speaker. His talk is entitled "Petroleum Politics" and will cover recent developments in Washington and his appearances before various congressional committees.

Thompson will address the members on the opportunity and responsibilities that each individual has to help the Petroleum industry at this time.

Kansas City Board Big Wheat Market

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Traders on the Kansas City Board of Trade — the world's largest winter wheat market — buy and sell an average of more than six million bushels of wheat each day.

Officials at the KC grain market say that's the equivalent of 180 million loaves of bread.

Ehrlichman Attempting To Protect U.S. Security Interests, Lawyer Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Ehrlichman was convicted along with three others last July 12 of violating the rights of Dr. Lewis J. Fielding, the Los Angeles psychiatrist who treated Ellsberg.

In an argument reminiscent of last summer's Plumbers trial, defense lawyer William S. Frates said Friday that Ehrlichman's motive in the cover-up was to keep secret the 1971 burglary at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Although Ehrlichman was convicted for approving the 1971 Ellsberg break-in, Frates said whatever participation the former presidential assistant had in the Watergate cover-up resulted from his belief that the Ellsberg incident was a legitimate national security operation.

No Intent Claimed
 "He had no intent because in his mind there was no crime so there was no intent to cover up," said Frates, his voice booming.

Associate Prosecutor James F. Neal responded during a spirited and lengthy exchange which helped delay completion of the prosecution's case from Friday to Monday.

"There are some things that are just inherently wrong," Neal said.

Krogh said the Plumbers had the personal sanction of former President Nixon, who once ordered him to conduct mass lie detector tests among government employees to trace the source of news leaks.

On questioning by U.S. District Judge John Sirica, Frates said no one was saying that Nixon authorized the break-in, but that once he learned of it, Nixon "instructed all people not to discuss the work of the Plumbers under any circumstances." The Miami lawyer said that is why Ehrlichman participated in the cover-up.

PLO Vows To Continue Fight Against Israel After Victory In U.N.

By GENE KRAMER, Associated Press Writer
 UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Palestine Liberation Organization, whose claim to statehood was decisively endorsed by the United Nations, says it will continue to struggle against Israel and "cling to our revolutionary rifles."

The General Assembly voted 89-8 with 37 abstentions Friday night for a resolution affirming Palestinian rights to national independence and sovereignty and to return to homes abandoned after Israel was created in 1948.

Only Israel, the United States, Iceland, Norway, Bolivia, Costa Rica, Chile and Nicaragua voted against it.

A second resolution granting the PLO permanent observer status at the General Assembly and other U.N. meetings won 95-17 approval with 19 abstentions. The same eight countries opposing the Palestine rights resolution voted against observer status plus nine others — Belgium, Denmark, West Germany, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Canada and Britain.

All nine European Common Market countries abstained from voting on the Palestine rights resolution because the resolution failed to back Israel's right to existence.

Eight of the European nine voted against permanent observer status while France abstained.

Countries Thanked
 Farouk al-Kaddumi, deputy PLO chief Yasir Arafat, thanked the countries which had supported his cause in the name of "the militant Palestinian people" but he had harsh words for Israel, the United States and others against it.

He said the Palestinians would "cling to our revolutionary rifles."

Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah said his country "will treat the resolutions for what they are and deserve to be utterly contemptible and devoid of legal and moral worth."

16 Midland Dignitaries Set For Marathon Swim

Sixteen Midland dignitaries will get the City of Midland Swim Team's annual Marathon Relay under way at 2 p.m. today in the Mabee Memorial Swim Center on North A Street.

The other dignitaries include State Rep. Tom Craddock; John Cox, general manager of the Midland Cubs Baseball Team; Joe Dominey, Downtown Optimist Club; Ted Kerr, school board; James Cagle, Midland High School head basketball coach.

And, John Ed Cooper, The Midland National Bank; State Sen., W. E. "Pete" Snelson; Dr. Al Langford, president of Midland College; Chester Storey, Midland College athletic director; Paul Stueckler, Lee High School head basketball coach; Bill Malone of Commercial Bank and Trust Co.; and Joe Campbell, president of the Midland Jaycees.

Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. signed up to swim one of the legs on the relay, but he has been called out of the city. His wife will take his place in the lineup.

Ethiopian Military Ousts Council Boss

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Ethiopia's reformist military government Saturday ousted Lt. Gen. Aman Michael Andom as chairman of the ruling council and accused him of "dictatorial tendencies" in the government radio announced.

Sporadic bursts of machine-gun fire were heard for about 10 minutes in the southern outskirts of Addis Ababa where Aman lived as the provisional military council's announcement was being broadcast.

The broadcast gave no indication of Aman's fate nor the reasons for the gunfire. There was no indication whether Aman had also been fired from his positions as chairman of the civilian council of ministers and defense minister.

Sources reaching Nairobi, Kenya, from Addis Ababa reported Aman was removed from his home by soldiers and taken to the Grand Palace to join deposed Emperor Haile Selassie and almost 200 aristocrats, landlords and former government officials awaiting trial on charges of corruption.

Aman's residence had been surrounded by heavily armed troops since Friday.

The popular 51-year-old war hero, nicknamed "Aman, the Desert Lion" for his combat exploits, emerged as Ethiopia's leader after military reformers capped a six-month anticorruption campaign and ousted Haile Selassie on Sept. 12, ending his half-century of feudal rule.

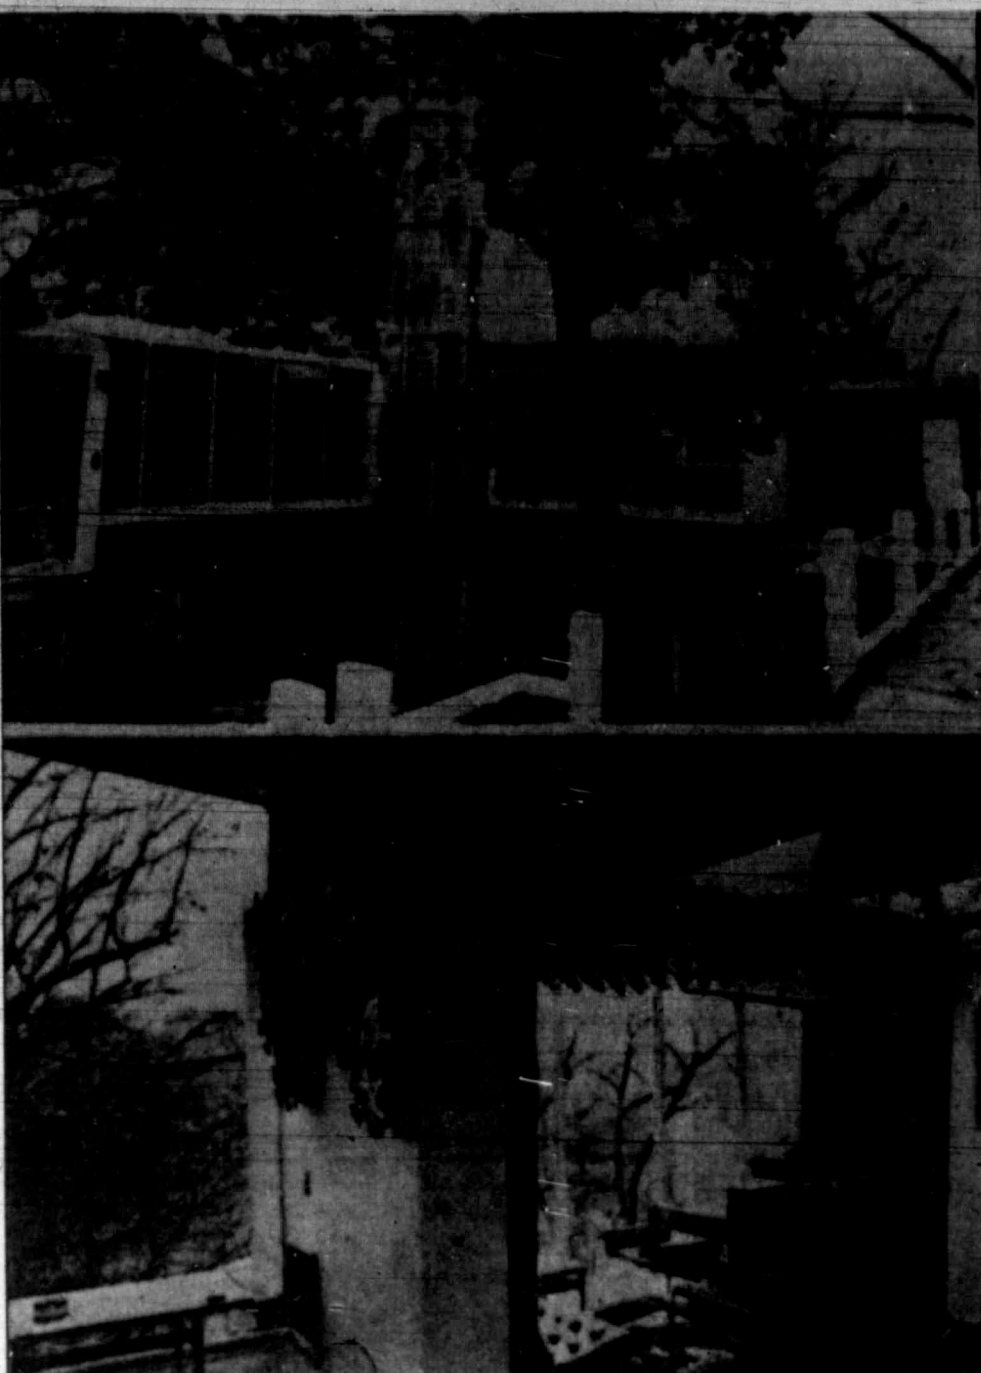

The ruling 120-man military council, beset by inner dissension in the first weeks of its rule, is now governed by an inner cabinet led by 36-year-old Maj. Mengistu Haile Mariam.

Policy clashes between Aman and Mengistu surfaced openly for the first time a week ago when Aman offered his resignation.

Observers said Aman, himself an Eritrean, opposed a military solution to the separatist problem in Eritrea province and resisted demands for immediate radical moves to transform the country.

New UTPB Student Newspaper May Overlap Press Club Aims

Karen Storey, co-editor of the yet-to-be-published unofficial student newspaper for The University Press Club, said Saturday the publication would "overlap" the purposes of the newly-formed University Press Club.

Mrs. Storey said the newspaper "is going to be an independent effort by students, rather than a publication of the press club."

She said the club's organization was considered even prior to Joel Asbery's dismissal as editor of The Windmill, described by university officials as a "newsletter." Asbery had printed a letter criticizing the board of regents, and UTPB president Dr. B. H. Amstead ordered all copies shredded.

The University Press Club last week obtained Dr. Lee Edward Dutter as a faculty sponsor and will present the organization's constitution to Student Life Director Kent Bulkeley when he returns from vacation Dec. 2.

Bulkeley must approve the organization for it to be recognized by UTPB officials.

The club will be open to all students regardless of major.

Mrs. Storey said mass communications students had earlier considered an organization which would seek affiliation with Sigma Delta Chi, society of professional journalists which includes student chapters. The idea was discarded, she said, because SDX affiliation would preclude non-mass communications majors.

Diversified Staff

The proposed newspaper will also be "interdisciplinary," with staffers coming from all schools of education.

Mrs. Storey said students will meet at 11 a.m. Monday in the second floor of the lab building on the south campus to make assignments and choose a name for the paper.

The first issue is expected to be printed the week after Thanksgiving without any letters or editorial except for an editorial policy written by Mrs. Storey and co-editor Lark Edmiston.

Most of the students on The Windmill staff will also be on the staff of the new publication, which neither gives students academic credit for their work nor enjoys administrative sanction.

Gloria Godfrey, a senior mass communications major, will serve as advertising director.

Mrs. Storey said students hope advertising will finance their effort, which will likely be a bi-monthly, tabloid four-page paper.

Currently no campus facilities are available to staff members.

Mrs. Storey said students involved in the project hope they will receive some administrative support once the newspaper has begun publication. They have unsuccessfully attempted to meet with Dr. Amstead on the matter, she said.

5,200-Mile Tour Costs Father, Son Only $320

By FRANK MACOMBER
Copley News Service

What travel agency could offer a 14-day tour for two through seven states for $320? The answer is zilch, or none.

Put Paul V. Tomosky, of Vestal, N.Y., near Binghamton, and his 10-year-old son, Calvin, traveled 5,200 miles from New York to Colorado and back again on a German-made motorcycle. It cost them only $320.

During the two-week tour the Tomoskys encountered heat, wind and traffic. They estimate about 10 days of the trip was spent riding the motorcycle.

In Golden, Colo., the Tomoskys visited a friend and inspected the narrow-gauge railroads that served the once fabulously rich Colorado silver mines.

Before they left Vestal, Calvin spent long hours doing extra homework so he could leave his fourth grade class for a couple of weeks.

"Calvin's teacher was willing to allow him to leave school because she felt the trip would be educational," Tomosky explains. "And it certainly was."

Aside from the historic railroad at Golden, Calvin saw, among other things, the Indian ruins of Mesa Verde, near the New Mexico border, and much of the wild mountain country that makes Colorado so popular as a tourist state.

Tomosky began riding motorcycles when he was in his early teens, has owned six of them and rides one to work every day at the nearby International Business Machines plant.

To save money, the Tomoskys slept in private camp areas or in national forests during the cross-country foray. They spent only $50 for gasoline. The other $270 went for food and recreation.

They encountered favorable riding weather during most of the journey, except for the 100-degree temperatures on the plains of Kansas. There the searing heat forced the Tomoskys to rinse their riding helmets in water to create a sort of on-the-road air conditioning system.

By averaging about 525 miles a day, they had four days left in which to visit and sight-see.

Calvin, who rode behind his dad all the way, says he enjoyed the entire trip but wouldn't want to repeat it soon "because my hind end started hurting me."

Ringling The Bell

with BOB TIEUEL

The Black Experience: This Brooke, Vernon E. Jordan of the National Urban League, correspondent is modestly flattered to receive the following letter recently from William C. Matney of ABC-TV and Educational Communications Inc. of Northfield, Ill. After more than 40 years in journalistic circles and a few less years in church circles, we have a sneaking feeling that our semi-retirement years are rapidly drawing to a close and before many moons we can sit on the front porch with "my girl-of-the-year" and watch the younger newsmen and churchmen carry on.

Anyway, we had fun telling it like it was and often how we thought "it ought to be." Anyway, here is the note in part:

"Dear Mr. Tieuel: We are pleased to inform you that because of your leadership and achievements, you have been recommended to have your biography published in the first edition of Who's Who Among Black Americans, 1974-75.

"Who's Who is being published to meet the reference needs of our nation's libraries, schools, media, government officials and research organizations. The publication will be the most comprehensive and professional compendium of black leaders ever published. We wish to emphasize that there is no obligation to purchase the book. Your biography is to be published for the benefit of current and future historians.

"In the past it has been relatively easy to identify the super blacks of national and celebrity status. These prominent individuals will, of course, be included in Who's Who Among Black Americans. In addition, however, this publication will include the growing number of blacks who have distinguished themselves in business, government, education, athletics, journalism, entertainment and community services.

"This long awaited publication has already received wide support and acclaim from many influential leaders of the black community. It will represent a landmark publishing achievement of significant educational value for everyone. We look forward to publishing your biography.

Sincerely yours, Who's Who Among Black Americans, William C. Matney, Editor." Contributing editors include Arthur Ashe, U.S. Sen. Edward

Mutscher, Others Formally Sentenced

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Former Texas House Speaker Gus Mutscher and two associates convicted of conspiring to accept a bribe faced five years each of probated prison terms Saturday.

District Judge J. Neil Daniel formally sentenced Mutscher, former State Rep. Thomas Shannon of Fort Worth and the former House speaker's aide Rush McGinty at a three-minute hearing Thursday.

Defense lawyer Frank Maloney said he was optimistic about a planned appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

"It is unfortunate when you have to take the rap for something you didn't do," Mutscher told a reporter as lawyers marched him from the courtroom.

An Abilene jury convicted the trio in connection with the Sharpstown stock scandals. Texas courts denied all appeals and the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals ordered last week that sentences be executed immediately.

Judge Daniel transferred probation supervision to the men's home counties at the request of Maloney.

Two Stabbed, Two Shot In Odessa Pool Game Hassle

ODESSA — Two persons were stabbed and two others shot following an argument over a pool game here late Friday night.

Edward L. Draughn, 23, of Odessa was charged Saturday with aggravated assault in the shooting of Mickey Randall Redwine of Odessa.

A $5,000 bond was set by Justice of the Peace Jimmy Harris.

Also injured in the incident were Sam Crockett of Odessa, who was stabbed in the left side and treated and released from Medical Center Hospital. James Lee Williams, of Odessa was reported in guarded condition in Medical Center Hospital with stab wounds to the stomach.

Redwine was shot in the left side and was in guarded condition Saturday in Medical Center Hospital.

David Hughes was treated and released at the hospital for a gunshot wound in the right side.

Police were told the fight followed an argument over a pool game at the University Lounge and ended outside the lounge.

Scaling Tall Buildings Simple For Tall City's Human Fly

By LUANNA CROW

Don Kettle has a job most people would regard as more dangerous than a test pilot's first ride in a supersonic jet.

He's the tiny speck often visible at the top of the Tall City's tall buildings where he may be washing windows, painting, sealing or anything else that falls under the category of exterior building maintenance.

Working near the clouds is no big deal to Kettle who has been in high-rise work 36 years. "It's second nature to me now," he said.

"I started working with my dad during the summer vacations when I was 11 years old. I went out on my own when I was about 22, mostly repairing church steeples, shingling and painting — they call that steeplejack work.

"I've had a lot of close calls, but I only fell once," Kettle said. "I'd worked all my life from 75 to 200 feet in the air, and I fell off a ladder 12 feet up" while working at a motel in Jackson, Miss. "I thought I broke my ankle but it was just a bad bruise.

"I worked with a fellow up by Chicago who specialized in clocks on church steeples," he recalled. "He told me he had worked on Lincoln's nose (a repair job) on Mount Rushmore. He was killed in his middle 60s trimming a tree in front of his house."

He seemed mildly amused that most people think he's outrageously daring to maneuver up and down the sides of high buildings.

Executives have told him, "You couldn't get me up there to paint that smoke stack for a thousand dollars, but they scream when I try to get fifty."

Kettle, having started his southward migration from the Midwest, has been "following the Mississippi mainly. I was in Midland in 1972 for two months. I went back to Mississippi then returned last year and decided to stay. I like the town and I'm the only one who does this type of work."

He said West Texas weather was also a factor in his decision to stay here. "Up north I'd work outside about six months out of the year, then I'd have to work in a factory. I like to work outside."

His father was a steeplejack all his life and Kettle himself did steeplejack work until two years ago when he began exterior building maintenance.

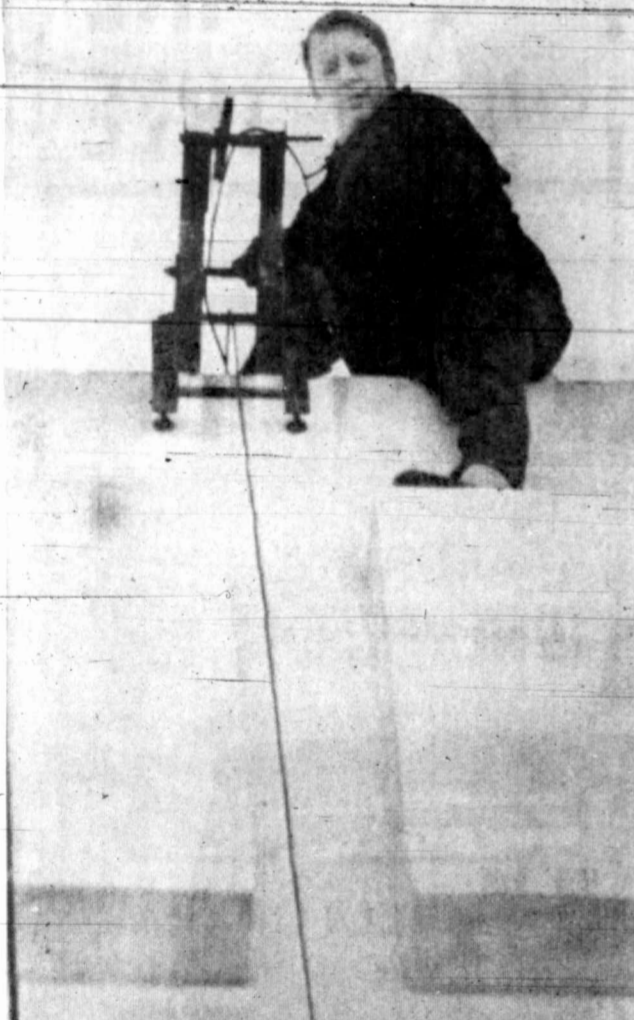

"I guess the main difference between the two is the steeplejack works out of ropes and boatswain's chair. There's no difference in danger," he said, "but somebody else might think so because with the ropes you climb over the building down the side into the chair.

"This here is a lot easier; it's not as tiring."

A self-employed operator, he said such jobs as window washing are usually done once a year. A building such as Wall Towers, which has 998 windows, can be completed in about two weeks of good weather or about 80 hours.

Kettle lives at 4008 Avondale St. with his wife Donna and 9-year-old daughter Lori.

Asked if his wife worries about his safety on the job, he replied, "She doesn't even like to see me work. I was working on Gihls Towers one time and I took her up there. She got sick. She was sick for two days."

HEIGHT OF NONCHALANCE—Or is it nonchalance at a height? Kettle's careful, but he's cool as he starts over the top of Wall Towers.

Graham Pays Surprise Visit To Western Texas

SWEETWATER (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham paid a surprise visit to West Texas Saturday to honor his associate evangelist and lifelong friend, Grady Wilson.

Graham told some 350 family and friends of Wilson at the West Texas Ranch for Christ, 23 miles south of here, that Wilson, a fellow native of Charlotte, N.C., had made a "tremendous impact" on his life and worldwide ministry.

The activities Saturday preceded a public observance of "Grady Wilson Day" today in Sweetwater and West Texas Ranch for Christ. The ranch is a Christian discipleship training center directed by Evangelist Billie Hanks Jr., president of the Fort Worth-based International Evangelism Association.

Noting that Wilson, his childhood pal in Charlotte, had gone into the ministry two years before he did, Graham said, "I used to sit in wonderment, listening to Grady's sermons, that a kid I'd known in high school could know that much."

Briscoe To Back Veterans Day Date Restoration

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe said Saturday he will urge the legislature to follow the lead of 42 other states and restore Veterans' Day to Nov. 11.

Briscoe said in a statement he will support such a proposal by Rep. Lindon Williams, D-Houston.

Veterans' Day originally was Nov. 11, but federal legislation changed it to the last Monday in October.

Decomposed Body Of Boxer Found

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The decomposed body of well-known San Antonio boxer Jimmy Pedraza, 22, was found Saturday on a ranch in nearby Wilson County.

Police said three men already jailed will be charged in the death of Pedraza who had been missing since Oct. 26.

Most House Texans Vote Yes To Override Vetoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas senators Lloyd Bentsen, a Democrat, and John Tower, a Republican, voted last week against tabling and killing an amendment designed to weaken efforts to desegregate schools. The amendment was tabled.

In another vote Thursday Texas congressmen almost split their ballot as the House passed 288 to 109 a compromise bill for an $11.8-billion, six-year program to help mass transit systems.

Nine Democrats voted for the bill and seven opposed it. Three Republicans voted against the bill and one, Alan Steelman, cast his vote with the majority.

Here is how Texans voted: Democrats: Brooks yes; Bursleson nay; Casey nay; de la Garza nay; Eckhardt yes; Fisher nay; Gonzalez yes; Jordan yes; Kazen yes; Mahon nay; Milford yes; Patman xxx;

Midlander To Receive Honorary Degree

MISENHEIMER, N.C.—Pfeiffer to Jacques Brouman, musical who is a patron of numerous fer College will confer three director of the Charlotte humanitarian causes, and the honorary degrees and 86 Symphony and recognized as Rev. Earle Ross Haire, bachelor of arts degrees at its one of the nation's leading young Salisbury, superintendent of the 1974 Christmas Commencement symphonic conductors: Walter Salisbury District of the on Dec. 19. Royal Davis, a North Carolinian Western North Carolina United each made a marked contribution in their professional area as well as in the enrichment of the lives of countless others.

In announcing the honorary degrees, Pfeiffer President Douglas Reid Sasser said, "We are indeed honored to recognize these three individuals who have each made a marked contribution in their professional area as well as in the enrichment of the lives of countless others."

"In his own way, each man has demonstrated a special interest in the cause of higher education, including private higher education."

Brouman, now in his eighth season with the Charlotte Symphony, will receive a doctor of Arts degree.

He also has been musical director and conductor of the Boise Symphony, the Sun Valley Music Camp, the Sugar Mountain Music Camp, and the Charlotte Symphony.

Davis, born in Elizabeth City, N.C., was educated at Hargrave Military Academy in Virginia. Upon moving to Midland in 1952, he organized the Permian Corp., a crude oil marketing firm. This later was merged into Occidental Petroleum Corp., a firm he served as executive vice president until 1970.

From 1970 through 1973 he was active in oil and gas production activities. In 1973, he formed Basin Inc., a crude oil marketing operation, based at Midland.

Davis maintains a residence on the North Carolina outerbanks where he spends a portion of each year. He is a Methodist layman, a trustee of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and a member of the North Carolina Seashore Study Commission. In addition, he is a trustee of the Midland Memorial Hospital and Trinity Towers (senior citizens home) at Midland.

Davis has devoted considerable wealth to humanitarian causes associated with community facilities, education and scholarship assistance for youth. Few of his benefactions are ever announced publicly.

Pfeiffer will confer the honorary degree Doctor of Humanities upon Davis.

The Doctor of Divinity degree will be conferred upon Mr. Haire, who is recognized across the Western N.C. United Methodist Conference for his effective ministerial leadership.

Newspaper Sold At Pryor, Okla.

PRYOR, Okla. (AP) — Purchase of the Pryor Daily Times by State Sen. Gene Stipe and his brother Francis was announced Friday by William A. and Ada Reynolds, co-publishers.

The purchase price was not announced. Sale of the newspaper is effective immediately. Reynolds said he sold the paper to devote more time to other business interests in Oklahoma City.

Francis Stipe is business manager for other newspaper and radio interests his brother has at McAlester and Oklahoma City.

Religious Leaders Start Campaign To Increase U.S. World Food Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of American religious leaders has launched a national campaign to force the Ford administration to agree by Thanksgiving Day to a major increase in world food aid.

Although President Ford recently turned down a request from the U.S. delegation to the National Farmers Union, the World Food Conference for an immediate increase of one million tons of food for needy nations, these religious leaders say the American people want to do more.

"I believe public support for a decision to feed the world hungry is widespread and broadly based among the American people," said Terence Cardinal Cooke, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York and one of the leaders of the movement.

The leaders, who include Protestants and Jews, want President Ford to announce by Thanksgiving an increase of two million tons in U.S. food aid and to agree to another two million tons for next year.

They are supported by the League of Women Voters, the National Farmers Union, the United Presbyterian Church, the National Education Association and a large number of other groups and individuals.

Estimates of the number of people in the world suffering from severe malnutrition and starvation vary.

Ambassador Edwin M. Martin, a U.S. delegate to the recent World Food Conference in Rome, estimates the total is at least 400 million, which is nearly double the population of the United States.

Economic Conditions May Keep Road Toll Down On Holiday

CHICAGO (AP) — A general tightening of the belt because of the economy may reduce long range highway travel during the Thanksgiving holiday period and help lower the traffic death toll, the National Safety Council predicted Saturday.

The council's forecast of 625 to 625 traffic fatalities is its lowest in the six years it has been making such forecasts for Thanksgiving.

The holiday period begins at 6 p.m. local time Wednesday and ends at midnight Sunday.

Higher costs of travel and enforcement of the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit are factors in the projection which also includes 23,000 to 27,000 disabling injuries during the holiday span.

For the 1973 Thanksgiving period, the council projected 625 to 725 fatalities and 27,000 to 32,000 disabling injuries.

The 1973 toll, however, proved well below the estimate. According to the council, 542 deaths and 23,000 disabling injuries were recorded a year ago.

A spokesman said this reflected the onset of the nation's energy crunch which included gasoline shortages. The 55 m.p.h. speed limit did not become federal law until this spring.

The council said last year's Thanksgiving experience, as well as lower traffic fatality trends in the first nine months of this year helped form the 1974 projection.

The council also stressed that the toll could be reduced even further if all motorists wore safety belts.

"We estimate as many as 145 lives could be saved over the Thanksgiving holiday by universal safety belt usage," a council spokesman said.

The National Safety Council, based in Chicago, is a non-governmental, nonprofit public service organization dedicated to safety education and development and implementation of accident prevention programs.

AAUW Plans For International Food Fair

TICKETS, FINANCE — Mrs. David Whytlaw, right, ticket chairman, distributes tickets for the International Food Fair planned Dec. 5 by the Midland Branch, American Association of University Women, to Mrs. Richard Prigmore, left, AAUW president, and Mrs. Bruce Pope, branch treasurer. Tickets may be purchased from any AAUW member.

DECORATIONS — Mrs. John Garrett Jr. and Mrs. Jimmy Floyd, decorations chairman, from left, discuss foreign decorations to be used for the December luncheon with Mrs. A. G. Nangea. An international atmosphere will be created to complement the foreign dishes which will be served by AAUW members. Members of the International Group of AAUW also will be hostesses for the occasion.

PLANNING COOKBOOKS — Mrs. Loyd Whitley, finance chairman, and Mrs. Robert Anson and Mrs. Bob Jones, ways and means chairmen, left to right, are compiling gourmet cookbooks containing international menus and recipes from the files of AAUW members. These will be offered for sale at the luncheon. Proceeds from the sale of these collectors' cookbooks will go to the AAUW scholarship fund. The University of Texas-Permian Basin scholarship is a special award offered to a Midland woman furthering her education while attending UTPB.

INTERNATIONAL CHEFS — AAUW members are busy preparing foods from several foreign countries to be served at the group's annual International Food Fair to be held Dec. 5 at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, 1412 W. Illinois St. Midlanders are invited to attend the tasting luncheon from 11:15 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. An interesting variety of international cuisine will be served buffet style in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Chefs pictured are, from left, Mrs. Larry Larsen, Mrs. John Hinchey, Mrs. Ted Noel and Mrs. Bill Johnson.

SCHOLARSHIPS, FELLOWSHIPS — The AAUW International Food Fair is held for fund-raising purposes for the Midland branch's annual scholarship and fellowship awards. The scholarships are for local high school graduates, while the fellowships are national and international. Scholarship applications are studied here by Mrs. Tom M. Robinson, Mrs. Cary Geron and Mrs. George Berry, from left. AAUW also recognizes outstanding high school girls throughout the year. Applications may be obtained from Mrs. Berry, 683-1745.

Mrs. Vance Roy Wilson

Debra Cox, Vance Wilson Wed In Church Ceremony

Covenant Presbyterian Church was the setting for the marriage at 7 p.m. Saturday of Debra Louise Cox and Vance Roy Wilson. The Rev. John T. Alexander performed the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ennis Cox, 2606 Maxwell St., and Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Brown of 203 Achlen St. Candelabra adorned with white pompon chrysanthemums and snowdrifts flanked the communion table, which was centered with pompons, snowdrifts and carnations.

Debra Tindle was organist for the ceremony. Carla Seebly of Oklahoma City, Okla., attended as maid of honor. Melissa Cox of Houston, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. The best man was Danny Wilson of San Angelo, brother of the bridegroom, and Tommy Beardson were the ushers. Mr. Cox presented his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of Oriental silk overlaid with Chantilly lace. It had an Empire waistline, portrait neckline, bishop sleeves and floor-length brush train. Her headpiece of sprays of Viennese flowers held a fingertip veil of illusion encircled with Chantilly lace. She carried a cascade bouquet with a Japhette orchid surrounded with white rosebuds, baby's breath and miniature white carnations.

The maid of honor wore a dress in two shades of pastel blue, with the bodice being the lighter shade. It had an Empire waistline and lace of light and dark blue enhancing the collar and cuffs. She carried a nosegay of white snowdrifts, baby's breath and miniature blue carnations.

The couple will reside in Midland following a trip to Lake Proctor. The bride and bridegroom are graduates of Lee High School. She is employed by Stilco Engineering and he is employed by Dyna-Drill Co.

Couple Married On Roller Skates At Skating Rink

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Mark Gordon, 19, and Cathy Wilson, 19, who met on roller skates, dated on roller skates and talked about marriage on roller skates, were married recently on roller skates at a local roller skating rink. Everything rolled right along as some 500 people — most wearing roller skates — watched. And the bride was never once swept off her feet. The Rev. A. B. Hammett said he was a little hesitant about performing the ceremony. But after talking with the couple, he said, he found that skating was an important part of their life and decided it could offer a good "pivotal point" for their love.

Sara Bullock, Hugh McIntosh To Be Married

Retired Couple's Interests Can Be Tip To The Young

By JEAN BARNES

(Newspaper Enterprise Association)
Women's Lib and instant mixes have tended to belittle the importance of the kitchen in family life, according to Hattie Stewart. She believes the kitchen should be just as attractive and inviting as any other room in the house.

Sarah Stewart, Brunner To Wed In Tulsa, Okla.

A mid-winter wedding is being planned by Sarah Stewart and William Regan Brunner Jan. 25. Miss Stewart is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Truman Aura Armstrong of Tulsa, Okla. Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Brunner of Midland. The couple plans to reside in Midland following the ceremony to be held at 4 p.m. in the Trinity Episcopal Church in Tulsa.

A junior student at Texas Christian University, Miss Stewart is a member and officer of Kappa Alpha Theta social sorority.

Brunner is a 1974 graduate of TCU, where he was a member and officer of Phi Delta Theta fraternity and was named to the Dean's List.

Brunner is associated with Avance Oil and Gas Co., Inc. Midland.

Her kitchen is a "gallery in miniature" where she displays her collection of hand-painted porcelain, apothecary jars, iron trivets and other things of a bygone era.

Hattie and her husband, Dan, are in their 70s. Both like old things, although Hattie's interest is in glass and china, while Dan is more apt to collect furniture and metal objects. Together, their interests have been blended in the kitchen.

Cabinet Maker
Dan was a construction superintendent with a flair for cabinetmaking. Since retirement he has spent many hours restoring and refinishing the furniture in their home. His hands are responsible for an oak commode which accommodates several electrical appliances and the beautiful oak kitchen table and chairs.

Hattie began collecting back in the '30s when a farm fire destroyed most of the family possessions and they had to start "from scratch" to accumulate all that was needed to make a home for their four children.

Exceeds Collection
But what they have acquired is more than an accumulation to them — more than a collection. Each item represents memories of a friend or relative.

Woman's Club Luncheon Held In Clubhouse

The Midland Woman's Club met Thursday in the clubhouse for its monthly luncheon, with members of Twentieth Century Study Club as special hostesses. They were Mrs. R. L. Noah, president, and Mrs. W. S. Dill, Mrs. C. N. Courter, Mrs. Jack Shepherd and Mrs. Glen Davis.

Bill Cormack, co-ordinator of fine arts and director of the migrant program for the Midland Independent School District, presented an audiovisual program on "Our Country 'Tis of Thee," in keeping with the Bicentennial observance.

Cormack also spoke on "What America Means to Me," and told how this subject was being presented to students in Midland schools. He stressed the importance of teaching students to "be something" and avoid the attitude of apathy.

The luncheon table decorations were made by fourth grade students at Anson Jones Elementary School, under supervision of their teacher, Mildred Mills.

Mrs. Joseph H. Mims and Mrs. Richard Story were recognized as "Clubwomen of the Year" of the Western District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. Both have served as president of the Twentieth Century Study Club.

Special choral selections under the direction of Rhonda Hair was presented by students from West Elementary School. The students also spoke on what America means to them.

Flying Roster Has One Female Pilot

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Joellen Drag's experience with aircraft until a couple of years ago was limited to passenger flights in jetliners. Today she is one of 96 pilots in the Navy's helicopter Combat Supply Squadron 3 at North Island, San Diego, and is the only woman on the flying roster.

Ensign Drag, who is a California State University political science graduate, is also one of only two women helicopter pilots in the Navy and among the first six women wearing gold Navy wings earned in regular training with male students at Pensacola, Fla.

"I was looking for a job when a friend told me about the Navy flying opportunity and it looked better than a legislative internship at Sacramento," she said.

Parade Of Homes Plans Under Way By Woman's Club

Members of the Junior Woman's Club's ways and means committee are making plans for the upcoming "A Christmas Parade of Homes" to be held between 1 and 5 p.m. Dec. 8.

Tickets for the tour of four Midland homes may be obtained at A La Carte Gifts, Anese Jewelers and Gallery, Donnell's Gallery of Gifts and House of Kasco.

Homes included in the tour are those of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Evans, 2608 N. Garfield St., with A-1 Floral, Inc., as the participating florist; Mr. and Mrs. John Hendrix, 1607 Country Club Drive, A-1 Floral, Inc.; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Scharbauer, 2810 Sentinel St., Buddy's Flowers, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam White, 1702 Maberry St., Mildred's Flowers.

The club's civic affairs projects are Planned Parenthood and Learning Resources Center of Midland College. Proceeds from the tour of homes will be contributed to these two groups.

Jam Making
When making jam, cook berries and sugar together in a fryer cooker set at 300 degrees F. The constant, even heat will make a fine jam without burning or sticking, and with very little stirring.

Woman Receives Air Force Bars In Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Sheila Pike, the first woman ever commissioned through the Reserve Officer Training Corps program in the state of Minnesota, received her U.S. Air Force second lieutenant's bars at the Air Force ROTC office in the University of Minnesota Armory.

Lieutenant Pike commanded the Air Force ROTC Cadet Corps during the winter quarter of her senior year, which involved directing the activities of more than 100 men and women.

New Officer Slate Installed By Midland Rose Society

Jim Galyean was installed as new officers, Mrs. John A. VanAuken gave a short program of color slides taken of locally grown roses. The major portion of the pictures were made in the garden of W. D. Watson.

Other officers installed for 1975 were: Dr. T. E. Spires, first vice president; Darold Hobbs, second vice president; Mrs. T. L. Bond, third vice president; Mrs. B. L. Huggins, recording secretary; Mrs. John Butts, corresponding secretary; Frank Morris, treasurer; and Miller Price, parliamentarian.

The resignation of Hobbs was read, and a second vice president will be named to replace him at the next society meeting. Mrs. Henry C. Kinman of San Angelo was a guest.

Dr. Spires, outgoing president, presided during a short business session. Members voted not to have a December meeting and to schedule a Christmas party. The next meeting will be a report on business sessions at the South Central District convention and rose show held recently in San Antonio was given by Mrs. E. W. Cowden, who attended as area American Rose Society chairman.

Galyean presented information he acquired at the San Antonio rose show. He won three major trophies in the artistic division. He urged members to participate in next fall's district convention and rose show, which will be held in Tulsa, Okla.

Dr. Spires, who also attended the San Antonio meeting, discussed a number of roses not usually grown in this area. It was noted that of the more than 800 single specimen roses entered in the horticulture division of the show, more than 270 of those were miniatures. Galyean was named winner of the 1974 Continuous Rose Show, with 161 points and a most blue ribbons and another award for the highest number of points. Second was Mrs. A. L. Barry, 82.

Unique Campbell Museum Collection Of Tureens Is Surprising, Startling

By JEAN BARNES (Newspaper Enterprise Association) Soup is the standby of the household executive confronted with last-minute guests or a "too-busy" day. Yet that simple bowl of soup has inspired many of the world's finest artists and craftsmen for more than three centuries.

A visit to the Campbell Museum at Camden, N.J., will attest to this. This unique museum was founded in 1966 and its collection consists of objects pertaining to the service of soup and its equipage.

Tureen Collection There has been no special effort made to preserve these symbols of elegant dining and many of the early ones have been lost through breakage or scattered throughout the world. Recognizing this need, the Campbell Soup Co. set about to assemble and house a collection of tureens which would include the finest examples available.

The 18th century is unmatched in history for its elegant formal dining and it was during this period that the tureen became an important part of the dinner service.

The word "tureen" probably derives from the Latin word "Terrinus" meaning earthen and can refer to either the large covered vessel from which soup is served or smaller bowls which contain sauces or gravy. Assembling this unique collection was often difficult. Because of their historical significance or artistic merit, many are considered "national treasures" and are not allowed to leave the country of their origin. Thus, it became necessary to locate similar outstanding examples by scouting countries other than the one of origin.

Wide Variety In describing the collection for you, it is possible to use a wide variety of adjectives. It seems best to quote from the museum catalogue, which states, "No other part of the dinner service has lent itself to the unusual and bizarre in form and design as have tureens. They run the gamut from ship to fish, fowl to animals, vegetables and fruits to flowers and often a combination of several. They may not all be appetizing and they may not all be objects of beauty but they are often surprising — if not startling — and certainly not dull."

Women Pilots On The Increase

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — A sharp increase in the number of women pilots all over the world has nothing to do with Women's Lib, says Mrs. Owen McEwen, president of the Ninety-Nines, an international organization of licensed women pilots.

"When you fly, you're liberated," Mrs. McEwen said. "It's a separate thing from Women's Lib. The earth below you is beautiful, glorious and you're closer to God. There's nothing like it — absolutely nothing."

GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY — Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Lamb, 1006 S. Johnston St., will celebrate Friday and Saturday 50 years of marriage with a family reunion and open house at the Valley View Community Center. The couple married Nov. 20, 1924, in Holdenville, Okla., formerly resided in the Roswell, N.M. area 28 years, where Mr. Lamb was a farmer. They moved to Midland in 1937. There are 61 immediate descendants, including 12 children, 38 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren. Midland children are Mrs. Lowell Cessna, Mrs. D. R. Allison, Judy Griffin and Buddy Lamb. Friends are invited to attend the affair.

Newcomers View Homemade Items; President Welcomes New Members

Two hundred and eleven members and guests enjoyed choosing from homemade arts and crafts made by members during a Thursday morning "Show and Sell" and luncheon held by the Newcomers Club at Ranchland Hill Country Club.

In a business session which followed the luncheon, Mrs. Larry Tenison, president, welcomed new members and expressed the club's desire to continue its growth in both new residents and renewal of memberships.

A year-round program sponsored by the club includes luncheons, dances, art and fashion shows, speakers, book reviews and card parties. Group activities include sewing, arts and crafts, bowling, gardening, tennis, golf, bridge and cooking. Special prizes, were donated by Mrs. Edward Walger, Mrs. Wayne Henry and Midland merchants. They were won by Mrs. Ken Fisher, Mrs. Ken Buckles, Mrs. Andrew Marchuk, Mrs. Ron Sutcliffe, Mrs. Bill Delois, Mrs. Jerry Blair, Mrs. Tom Rutland, Mrs. Robert Scott, Mrs. H. K. Renfrow and Mrs. Jack Runan.

Slide Program Presented At Birthday Party

Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Maley and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Hickman showed color slides of Vermont, where the Maleys have a summer home, for residents and guests attending the Trinity Towers party Thursday for residents having November birthdays.

Other slides shown were taken at the dogwood festival in Fairfield, Conn.

Clyde Haden, administrator of Trinity Towers, recognized the birthday honorees, Mrs. Leta Hughton, who was unable to attend, and Mrs. Maude Blakeney, Mrs. Mae McDonald, Mrs. Faith Mummert, Mrs. Julia LaRoche, Mrs. Rue Hargrave and Mrs. Nena Daniel. The honorees were presented boxes of maple sugar candy, a gift from Mrs. Maley.

The Newcomers Garden Club provided the table arrangements, and the Circle L Class of the First Presbyterian Church arranged for the birthday cake, which was baked by Mrs. Gil Denny.

Mrs. T. G. Tappin, birthday chairman for November, was assisted by the following members of the Auxiliary to Trinity Towers: Mrs. R. P. Bridgewater, Mrs. Harry Denton, Mrs. Maley, Mrs. Roy Minear, Mrs. John Reid, Mrs. Laura Self and Mrs. James Swann.

Guest attending were P. F. Bridgewater, Mr. and Mrs. John Bussey, Mr. and Mrs. Clovis Chappell, Mr. and Mrs. James Frizell and Mac, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McCullough, Roy Minear, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Redding, Ed Smead and Mrs. Ernest Sparks.

Flank Steak Used For Stew

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Although flank steak is no longer the most inexpensive of beef cuts, it still is a lean cut that stretches to serve several persons. For a different beef stew, roll a beef flank steak around a layer of fresh herbs, onion and bacon. Simmer slowly until done and combine cooked vegetables with the sliced steak for a different beef stew.

Lay the steak flat on cutting board. Mix parsley, onion and uncooked bacon. Spread over steak, roll jelly roll fashion and fasten with skewers securely. Cut roll into 2 pieces. Brown in oil in large soup pot. Add broth, salt, bay leaf and celery leaves. Cover, simmer 50 minutes or until tender. Skim off fat. Meanwhile cook vegetables in boiling salted water until barely tender. Remove beef from broth and cut into slices. Arrange beef pinwheels in casserole or individual bowls with vegetables. Heat broth to boiling. Pour over beef and vegetables. Makes 6 servings.

'Edge Of Fall' Landscape By Mrs. Scott Named Painting Of Month By Club

The Midland Palette Club met recently in the Midland Palette Club Art Center, Inc., 604 N. Colorado St., with Mrs. Reginald C. Keyes, president of the Tuesday Painters Group, presiding. During the meeting it was revealed that Mrs. C. F. T. Scott's "Edge Of Fall," an oil landscape painting, was named "Painting of the Month" and is on display in the lobby of The Midland National Bank.

Also, the Palette Club will have an exhibit in the Midland Woman's Club during the month of January.

Plans were discussed for the Marilyn Todd workshop to be held in the Art Center the early part of 1975.

Mrs. Joe V. Birdwell and Mrs. Ernestine Rogers now are exhibiting their paintings in the upstairs gallery of the Lancaster Garden Center-Museum of the Southwest through Dec. 8.

Members painting in a recent workshop were Mrs. Cecil McClatchy, Mrs. L. G. Robertson, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Ralph Crays and Mrs. G. A. Schofield, an oil painting workshop of Mary and David Slade from Southpark, Colo. Mrs. J. B. Zant took china painting lessons from Mrs. Cecil Jones of Lovington, N.M., and Mrs. Julian Grace is taking design and painting courses

Woman Rescues Male Swimmers

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — June Verbostra, a telephone company service representative, collected a cluster of honors recently for saving two young men from drowning in a lake a year ago.

June received the phone company's Theodore N. Vail Bronze Medal for heroism with a $750 cash award; the American National Red Cross Certificate of Merit and Lifesaving Pin; and certificates of commendation from the County of Marin and the City of San Rafael.

She became a heroine when two men swam out beyond their limits and cried for help. She swam 75 yards to reach them, calmed them, then towed them to safety.

It was her second rescue. Several years ago she dived 50 feet from a bridge to save a drowning swimmer.

from Midland College. Mrs. J. T. Klingler studied watercolors under Ronald Thomson of Mineral Wells. Fred Hogan exhibit in the Museum of the Southwest, Mrs. Hannifin pointed out. Guests were Mrs. Hattie Hudson, mother of Mrs. Winnell Gaines, and Mrs. S. A. LaGreca. The next meeting will be a Christmas covered dish luncheon Dec. 10 during which members will exchange gifts.

Married Couple Happy Apart

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Although she and her husband live in different cities, Diane Duerr Levine says she is having "a great marriage and a great career."

Mrs. Levine, who was here on a trip recently, said she was reluctant to accept an airline job when it was offered her two years ago because she didn't want to "wreck a good marriage."

"And do you know what happened?" she asked. "Instead of a problem, it's an absolute trip. Black led the opening ritual after nearly 10 years of marriage, we were dating again. American's Creed."

He's in Los Angeles two or three days a week on business and I can get on an airline touch the daily progress of any time and go to San Francisco for dinner. It's exciting."

Midland Church Minister Speaks At DAR Meeting

The Rev. Mike Halsey of the Midland Bible Church was the guest speaker for a recent meeting of the Col. Theunis Dey Chapter, Texas Society, daughters of the American Revolution, in the home of Mrs. W. C. Hubbard, 1501 Cuthbert St.

Mrs. George VanHusen, president, presided and, with the Rev. Mr. Halsey explored the various spheres of life which she presented a graphic diagram illustrating the spheres of life which had been set forth in the American's Creed.

The NSDAR has provided strong leadership during past years to foster community efforts in developing impressive and creative ways in which to dramatize the 200th birthday of America. The two Midland DAR chapters, Col. Theunis Dey and Lt. William Brewer, have been stressing the permanent advantage of the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum and Hall of Fame, which could be done through a community effort of landscaping the museum grounds.

In the national defense report, Mrs. Frank Essex summarized what the future re-opening of the Suez Canal will mean to the United States. Compared to the benefits this route will give Russia, it could prove costly to the U.S. The U.S. access to the Middle East oil fields would be seriously involved, Mrs. Essex said.

Following the meeting, a potluck luncheon was held. Guests were Mrs. D. L. Anderson of Dallas, Mrs. M. W. Armistead, Mrs. Leland Davison, Dr. Dorothy Wyvell, Mrs. Clarence Kerth, Lunelle Zeeck, Mrs. John Terry, Mrs. Mike Halsey and Mrs. Sam Conner.

Japan's Economic Miracle Hasn't Made It To The Ghetto

By HARRY SHLACTER

IZUMI, Japan (AP) — Japan's much touted postwar economic miracle never made it to Izumi Buraku.

The 10,000 residents of the hilltop ghetto of dilapidated houses and foul-smelling cesspools are outcasts. They are called "Burakumin"—literally "people of the village."

They represent a social problem few Japanese admit still exists, although there are three million Burakumin in Japan. Most live as do the people in the ghetto of Izumi Buraku—deprived of basic civil rights and ostracized.

The ghettos are found in western and southern Japan, in prosperous industrial cities such as Izumi. Some Burakumin have fled to Tokyo, where they are able to pass as average Japanese and escape the barriers of prejudice.

The men of Izumi Buraku are forced to eke out lives as day laborers, usually with gaps between jobs.

Others are "four-and-a-half-mat" manufacturers, running cramped home workshops which turn out costume jewelry or woven goods. They are finding it increasingly difficult to compete with the efficient modern plants nearby.

Few Burakumin are hired to work in Izumi's factories.

Once called "Eta," meaning "full of filth," the Burakumin are descendants of people involved in trades deemed "impure" centuries ago because of social and religious conventions. These trades included leatherworking and basket-weaving.

Forced to dwell in generations in specially-designated villages apart from the rest of the population, a cordon of ignorance has been built up in the population around them, reinforcing the discrimination.

Although racially and culturally no different from other Japanese, they are in the eyes of many unfit for employment or marriage. Two anthropologists who studied the Burakumin and the prejudice they face call them "Japan's invisible race."

"Very few high school graduates from here can join large companies as regular, full-time employees," said Kenkichi Sakai, 51, a resident of Izumi Buraku and a spokesman for the community.

"They don't tell us it's because we are Burakumin, but that's always the reason," he said. "We're told something like 'You live too far from the factory' or 'You should go to a better company.'"

A recent government report admitted that much of the ancient discrimination remains intact.

The report said Burakumin are not guaranteed freedoms the rest of the population of 107 million takes for granted—the right to freely choose a spouse, an occupation or an area in which to live. Burakumin are deprived of many educational opportunities, the report added.

But Sakai says living conditions are gradually improving in Izumi Buraku.

"Nine years ago the city began piping water into the buraku. Before it reached neighborhoods all around us, but we still had to use wells. Of course, we don't get city gas like the rest."

The Japanese government is spending $141 million this year to build sewers, roads, public bath-houses, centers for the aged and public housing in the country's Buraku ghettos.

In Sakai City, several miles from Izumi, futuristic split-level public housing projects already have risen next to the hovels, producing a sharp contrast, and, for Burakumin, a new sense of hope.

One official boasted that the Sakai construction is the best public housing project of its kind in Japan. But discrimination remains strong in Sakai City and residents say it's as difficult as ever to land a good job.

Satoru Izutani, 25, who has had a dozen different jobs since leaving junior high school and today is a carpenter's assistant, said that until a year ago he was ashamed to admit he was a Burakumin.

"I would get off the bus several stops past the Buraku so no one would know I lived there," he said. But whenever he applied for a job, the company soon knew he was a Burakumin from his address—Kyowa-Cho, Sakai City's well-defined Buraku area.

Mrs. Nishiko Sakamoto, 64, a poet, heads the politically oriented Buraku liberation movement in Sakai City's Buraku. Illustrating the despondency of many Burakumin faced with discrimination, she told of a man working at an Osaka post office who committed suicide after word spread that he was Burakumin.

"He came from a nearby prefecture to escape prejudice in his hometown, but became despondent after realizing it had followed him to Osaka," she said.

"After he killed himself, the assistant manager of the post office took responsibility for the incident by also committing suicide."

Only a small percentage of Burakumin are active in the Buraku Liberation Movement.

Archeologists Hunt Old Fort

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — The soil of a swamp-dirt mound alongside the Bolinas Lagoon near here is painstakingly being sifted by skilled archeologists who hope to prove without a doubt that they have found a fort built by Sir Francis Drake when he repaired his ship in 1579.

"We've definitely got an old structure, but the $64 question is whose it is," said Dr. V. Aubrey Neasham, former Marin County resident whose historical research led him to the Bolinas site as probably being Drake's long-lost fort.

Uncovered thus far are traces of an earthen-walled structure that appears to be centuries older than the oldest known European-built structure in Marin County.

LTV Takes Control Of J&L Steel Corp.

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—Despite protests from minority stockholders, LTV Corp. of Dallas has acquired full control of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., the nation's sixth largest steel firm.

The takeover, a foregone conclusion since LTV already owned 81 per cent of J&L stock, was completed at a meeting of the steel firm's stockholders last Friday.

About 300 shareholders attended, and the merger was approved by 92 per cent of the shares voted.

However, some shareholders criticized LTV for offering an allegedly unfair price, $29-a-share, and others protested that LTV had no right to force the full merger.

"I come here filled with anger and disgust because you are able to put a price on our shares and make us accept," said Paul Piccirilli, who said he has worked the past 25 years at J&L's Aliquippa, Pa., works.

Piccirilli said "pride of ownership" was important to him because his father has worked at J&L and his two sons now work for the company.

The final vote was 14.8 million shares in favor and 347,391 against, and J&L said 60 per cent of the minority shareholders voted in favor.

J&L Chairman Roscoe G. Haynie said there would be no change in the company's management or its business affairs.

Asked why LTV wanted total control, Haynie said only that it was the Dallas conglomerate's "policy" to have wholly-owned subsidiaries.

LTV's first tender offer was revealed Aug. 28 and suggested a price of $25 per share. That was later boosted to $29. J&L stock was selling for just under $29 on the New York Stock Exchange Friday.

The steel firm's stock will no longer be listed on the New York Exchange, nor will it be sold publicly.

Pioneer Natural To Cut Gas Rates

Pioneer Natural Gas Co. announced a reduction for its West Texas system gas rates last week and said the price of gas will drop in December 2.14 cents per thousand cubic feet from the September rate.

In a letter addressed to the mayor and city officials of Midland, Pioneer stated the cost to the company of gas for its West Texas system for the month of October will be the basis for adjusting bills rendered during December.

The letter showed an average wellhead cost of gas during October was 46.51 cents per thousand cubic feet—a reduction of 2.14 cents from the September cost.

First, it stated, "We (Pioneer) feel that we have been prudent and are pleased with the results of the year in the purchase of gas for the West Texas system.

Second, the letter stated, "Revenues from domestic and commercial customers... were less for the first nine months of 1974 than for 1973... average domestic rates over cost of gas for the first nine months was 54.22 cents per thousand cubic feet, a reduction of 3.22 cents for the same period in 1973."

A third question aimed at the effect on gas rates due to the purchase of gas by Pioneer from subsidiary producing companies was answered in the letter. It was stated that "Pioneer purchases approximately 16 per cent of its West Texas system supply from its subsidiaries and Young & Co., an accounting firm has paid no more to its subsidiaries than the going field weighted average cost of gas price paid other sellers of gas in the area."

The letter was received less than one week after Fred Poe, assistant city manager for the City of Midland, traveled to Amarillo to study Pioneer's operations. Poe spent two days in the Amarillo offices of Pioneer for the purpose of determining whether Pioneer was treating its customers fairly with gas pass through provisions in relation to various city ordinances.

Poe said he did not involve his study with the auditing of the amount of gas used from each source and compare it with the contract price of the source. But Poe did note that a quarter-report furnished by Arthur Young & Co., an accounting firm deals (for wellhead gas) being made in the $1.33 to $1.50 bracket."

used by Pioneer is in accordance with the various city agreements with the gas company.

Poe said that consumer gas rates have gone up an average of 3.15 cents per month since March. He said the gas rate is up "simply because of the demand for gas by competing companies and their consumers."

Poe said negotiations with Pioneer last winter included offers up to 65 cents for gas at the wellhead with prevailing offers being in the 50-cent to 60-cent bracket. He said, "To day, 10 months later, there are scattered offers that I know of up to $1.67 with the prevailing deals (for wellhead gas) being made in the $1.33 to $1.50 bracket."

IDS Begins Sale Of New Certificates

Eddie Mee, 3602 Imperial St., district sales manager for Investors Diversified Services (IDS), has announced that the company has begun sale of a new single payment face amount investment certificate, the series SP-74. The certificate is issued by Investors Syndicate of America (ISA), an IDS subsidiary.

The SP-74 features increasing assured cash values over its 20-year term. The new certificate also features additional credits pre-declared by the ISA board of directors for each of the first five certificate years.

Mee said the purpose of the certificate is to provide an assured yield on a tax-deferred basis.

More Cutbacks, Layoffs Are Announced

By The Associated Press
The auto industry has laid off more than 50,000 workers and the Pentagon has announced a shakeup that will eliminate 11,600 civilian jobs at military installations.

The nation's two largest steel producers also announced cutbacks Friday, blaming the coal strike.

The latest auto layoffs brought to 178,000 the number of auto workers who will be out of work all or part of next month, but the cutbacks also extended to office personnel as sales continued to decline.

Under union contracts, many employees will continue to draw salaries during the layoffs.

Ford Motor Co., the nation's second-largest auto maker, announced production cutbacks Friday that will idle 32,474 employees for one to five weeks between Thanksgiving and March 1.

Earlier this month, Ford said it would lay off 3,000 white-collar workers next month.

In other cutbacks announced Friday:

—Chrysler Corp. said it was laying off almost 11,000 white-collar workers — including engineers, designers and clerical workers — for 5 weeks, starting Dec. 2. Chrysler, the nation's third-largest auto maker, announced earlier this week that it was shutting down five of its six U.S. plants and laying off 64,000 blue-collar workers.

—American Motors Corp., the No. 4 automaker, said it will suspend production of the Gremlin and Hornet for five days next month, idling 7,000 workers in Kenosha, Wis., and 1,000 in Brampton, Ont.

—U.S. Steel, the nation's largest steelmaker, said the coal miners' strike has forced it to shut down more coke and iron production. More than 13,000 of the company's 120,000 production workers have been laid off.

—Bethlehem Steel Corp., the industry's No. 2 firm, said it was laying off 2,300 of its 22,000 employees at Sparrows Pt., Md.

—The Defense Department announced realignments at 111 facilities which will result in the elimination of 11,000 civilian jobs and the relocation of 11,500 military personnel.

In other developments:

—Amstar Corp., the nation's largest sugar refiner, boosted its prices again. Within hours, two other refiners had followed suit. Amstar's wholesale price hike is expected to add at least 10 cents to the current price of 63 cents a pound at groceries. The increase may be passed along to the consumer, depending upon local conditions and store policy.

—First National City Bank of New York, the second-largest commercial bank in the country, lowered its prime lending rate for the eighth straight day.

Frustration Gripping Many Parents Of 'Jesus Movement' Members

By PETER ARNETT
 BETHEL, Conn. (AP) — A week after Derek Neve abruptly joined a secretive religious sect called the Children of God, his worried parents were startled by the suggestion of a senior Canadian police officer: "If I were you, I'd knock him on the head, bundle him in your car and take him home."
 Three years later they did just that. But even that didn't work.
 In the intervening years, friends and David Neve said they used tears, angry words and hours of patient argument to change their son's mind.
 They flew in an evangelical preacher from Texas to reason with him. They brought in a Roman Catholic priest who specialized in exorcism.
 They said they finally decided to kidnap Derek, and to hand him over to a team of professional "deprogrammers" flown in from San Diego, Calif. to do overnight what they had failed to do in four years.
 "It was a cold, calculating thing I was doing. I was going 100 per cent against what I always thought was right. And it was probably illegal," said the father, David C. Neve, general manager of an electronics company with a factory here.
 His 25-year-old son was furious. "You've gone too far this time, Dad," his father quoted him as saying after the first few hours of captivity. Ten days later Derek was back with the Children of God, his parents' expenditure of heavy emotional stress — and $2,600 — all in vain.

Grips Thousands
 The frustration that pushed the Neves toward direct action has gripped thousands of other parents in America. Their sons and daughters have helped swell the ranks of the proliferating religious sects spawned by the hippie and Jesus movements of the 1960s.
 Some parents have resigned themselves to the aberrant way of life of the youngsters.
 Others fight back. The most visible battle is against the Children of God, with more than 100 communes in North America and Europe. It is a fundamentalist sect which applies a sexual as well as a spiritual interpretation to the Bible.
Sect Changed
 According to a recent report by the New York attorney general's office, the sect has changed "from a religious hippie-oriented group to a cult subservient to the whims and desires of its leaders."
 The report outlined what it called "shocking testimony of sexual abuse, rape, brainwashing, solitary confinement of recalcitrant proselytes and demands that children kill their parents."

 But the report said the attorney general could take no direct action because the Children of God has an "outwardly religious appearance" giving it First Amendment protection.
 A leader at the sect's Dallas headquarters, Cornelius Copp, charged that the attorney general's report relied "on false witnesses to vilify us" and resulted from "religious intolerance."
 "The accounts contained in the report of incest, rape, sexual promiscuity and cultish behavior, while sensational and lurid, are simply false. We deny them," Copp said.
 The Neves had never heard of the Children of God when the phone rang at 2 one morning in 1971. It was Derek, their eldest son.
 They said he calmly told them: "I have called to say goodbye, you will never see me again. We are going underground because God will destroy America."
 When his parents tried to renege, to seek an explanation, they said Derek slammed the phone down.
Neves Ill-Prepared
 That was the first of a series of shocks. And the Neves were ill-prepared. They had raised three children in the Canadian arctic where Neve worked as a government administrator after migrating from England in 1957.
 Derek went to grade school in places like Great Whale, Yellowknife and Annavik, remote settlements at the edge of the Arctic Ocean where he was one of a handful of white kids among scores of Eskimos and Indians.
 "He was a big, good-looking boy and a born leader," said his mother. "He loved dog-sledding and the everyday tests of endurance required when you spend a lot of your life in below zero weather."
Brought Together
 The Neves said they were brought together as a family not only by the elements but also by their faith in God. They were members of the theologically conservative Christian Missionary Alliance that has 1,000 churches in the U.S. and emphasizes missionary work in undeveloped areas such as India and Africa.
 "We prayed together and he believed in high moral principles," said the elder Neve. Derek had wanted to be a minister and was ending his second year at the Canadian Bible College at Regina, with a year to go for his doctorate of divinity, when he had his fateful meeting with the Children of God.
 The Neves had moved to Connecticut by then. The shock of their son's phone call was not tempered by a letter a few days later explaining: "I am sure of it as anything I have done. It is radical but so was Jesus. We are selling out to God. We are the underground church of America."

Neve said he decided that his son had become involved with something evil; "I wouldn't say he was possessed by a demon. Oppressed by a demon is more like it."
 The parents said they thought their son was undergoing a Jekyll and Hyde transformation. "He had been a trim 6-foot-3 with neatly clipped dark hair when he entered the Children of God. But since then we have seen him always in dirty, tattered clothes, bearded and with unkempt scraggly hair," Mrs. Neve said.
 And they felt he abused his sister Wendy's trust by attempting to have her join his sect. "My parents asked him to leave me alone," but he wrote her convincing letters, and in a visit home at Christmas, 1972, he won me over," Wendy said in an interview.
 Her parents told Wendy: "You're 21, you know what you're doing. But you are breaking our hearts." Wendy changed her mind in the end, "because I couldn't answer the question that if the Children of God has a worthy movement, how come it hurt my parents so much?"
After Attempt
 It was after Derek's attempt to have his sister Wendy join the sect that her parents said they began feeling serious concern.
 At first, they thought the Children of God was just a youthful, rigidly fundamentalist group of Christians who were disillusioned with the world and sought isolation in communes.
 But as the Neves acquired more literature and information about the movement, they said a seamy side appeared.
 Through a national organization called "The Parents Committee to Free Our Sons and Daughters from the Children of God" (FREECOG), they learned about the "No" letters written by the man who founded the sect in 1968, David (Moses) Berg.
 These rambling letters written from Europe, where Berg is in hiding, give the movement guidance on everything from international politics to sex. They are spiced with four letter words, sexual instructions and crude line drawings. The New York attorney general's report advocating incestuous behavior and the nonsanctity of marriage and family.

 This reporter phoned Derek at his commune in London, Ontario, to get his comments. A man who identified himself as Derek said that a "general statement" on what he called "press misrepresentation" of the sect would be issued soon. Then he hung up.
 Increasingly concerned about their son, the Neves flew in to Toronto the Rev. Buddy Hicks, a Texas preacher who had worked with young sect members. A Roman Catholic priest, a specialist in exorcism, also talked with their son. He said he could do nothing.
Force Necessary
 So Neve decided that force was necessary to remove his son from the sect. That meant "deprogramming," a technique requiring that his son be kidnapped and held in seclusion while a team of skilled operatives tried to talk him out of his beliefs.
 Derek agreed never to return to the Children of God.
 "It was just too wonderful to hear," said his mother, and soon afterward they all left for Bethel, Conn.
 But the ordeal was not over. Derek didn't settle down in the Neves' white frame ranch-house with blue shutters. He was restless, and his parents said they wanted to separate him from his wife "because we know that at night they are interpreting the No letters as talking about the sect, the old haven't given up days."

 They recalled that during the deprogramming, Derek said to them: "Mom and Dad, why don't you give it up, go home, forget about me."
 "We told him we're doing this because we love him. We're not going to stop," the Neves said.

California Law On Peace Changes

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California has revised its law relating to disturbing the peace, replacing one that has been on the books since 1872.
 The new law goes into effect on Jan. 1, 1975, and defines disturbing the peace as fighting or challenging to fight, maliciously and willfully disturbing another person and using in public offensive words likely to produce violence.
 A provision in the old law which made it a crime to use vulgar, profane or indecent language in a loud and boisterous manner before women or children was eliminated.

Federal education grants and part-time work study positions are available for qualified students, according to Bill Burns Midland College financial aids director.

There are five immediate openings in the work-study program, Burns explained.

The two grants are available now or for students planning to enroll in the spring semester. One of them — the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant — may be used at any college or university the recipient chooses. The other is the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant.

For further information on either of the grants or the work-study program, contact Burns at 694-1686.

Author Says HEW Misusing Sex Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sponsor of a 1972 law banning sex bias in education says it never was meant to force college football teams to field women players or the Girl Scouts to admit boys.

Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., said the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has gone overboard in interpreting the law creating Title 9 to abolish sex discrimination in schools and colleges.

"It wasn't designed to do any of this nonsense such as force the Girl Scouts to integrate with the Boy Scouts," she said in an interview.

Nor did she envision the proposed HEW rules that physical education classes might need to be integrated or that contact sports teams might need to be open to both sexes.

"The word is spreading that I'm to introduce legislation to repeal Title 9," Rep. Green said. "That is totally unfounded. But if we continue this kind of nonsense, somebody is going to do it."

Strong Mandates
Last week, she persuaded Senate and House conferees on the HEW-Labor appropriations bill to add to the report strong mandates to HEW to curb its interpretations on physical education classes and on the sexes groups such as Scouts, Campfire Girls, YMCA, YWCA and sororities and fraternities.

The conferees also directed the secretary of HEW to trim the paperwork required of schools and colleges.

HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger has indicated he welcomes guidance from Congress but said Friday that would have to be in the form of legislation, not in a conference report.

Real Goals Obscured
If Congress limits Title 9 concerning contact sports, physical education classes and the Girl Scouts-YMCA issues, Rep. Green said, it won't undermine the real goals of the law.

"My intent was to stop the nonsense of different admission policies in graduate and undergraduate schools for women and men," said the retiring legislator.

"Many of them have required a higher graduate record exam score for girls than for boys. It would put a stop to the quota system which law and medical schools have had at graduate levels limiting women," she said.

U.S. May Sell Billions In Arms To Saudi Arabia

By KENNETH J. FREED

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Saudi Arabia have ended the first round of negotiations that could lead to the sale of billions of dollars of American arms to the oil-rich Arab nation over the next 10 years.

U.S. officials stress that the two weeks of talks, which took place in Washington and Saudi Arabia, were preliminary and no deal was made. However, they said there was progress toward shaping the ultimate program.

As the basis of their talks negotiators are using secret Pentagon recommendations that would give the Saudis a highly mobile and mechanized army along with a larger air force and greatly expanded navy.

The American view was presented during a week-long visit earlier this month to Saudi Arabia by two high-ranking U.S. officials.

This past week, Saudi Deputy Defense Minister Prince Turki was in Washington for more detailed discussions.

The Pentagon's still-classified recommendations proposed:

- Four mechanized brigades with three mechanized infantry battalions attached.
- A tank battalion with other combat and support units.
- An airborne brigade and three airborne infantry battalions.
- Two assault helicopter battalions attached to an aviation group headquarters.
- One attack helicopter battalion.
- Two air cavalry battalions and two assault support helicopter companies.

Other secret documents indicate the Saudis will need 26 new naval vessels, including missile-equipped patrol boats, torpedo boats, mine sweepers and other craft.

It was known earlier the Saudis were considering buying several U.S.-built F5 fighters.

Gonzalez May Ask Restudy Of Kennedy Assassination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Tex., says he is studying the possibility of asking that the assassination of President John F. Kennedy be restudied.

In remarks printed Thursday in the Congressional Record on the 11th anniversary of Kennedy's visit to San Antonio—the day before he was killed in Dallas—Gonzalez said he has begun to have doubts about the thoroughness of the investigation of the assassination by the Warren Commission.

"The shock and confusion of what happened left us all really not sure what caused it to take place," he said. "No one in a responsible position seriously considered a conspiracy—at least not at that time.

"Everyone wanted to believe the results of the official conclusion—Lee Harvey Oswald killed President Kennedy."

Gonzalez said his suspicions about the Warren Commission findings "were greatly aroused as the result of some of the Watergate testimony regarding CIA-related activities and the Bay of Pigs."

Karpov New Chess Hope Of Soviets

MOSCOW (AP) — A shy 23-year-old Russian stood Saturday as his country's hope for winning back the world chess championship snatched away two years ago by American Bobby Fischer.

Anatoly Karpov won the world chess challenger's final Friday night with a draw against longtime Soviet grandmaster Viktor Korchnoi. Karpov captured the title on the strength of his three earlier victories compared to two for Korchnoi as the match went to his maximum 24 games.

Slowdown Still In Doubt
Despite Karpov's victory, a showdown with Fischer is still up in the air because the American has been involved in a long squabble with the International Chess Federation over ground rules for a world championship match.

If the federation does not conform to his wishes, Fischer has said he will not participate in a championship. The federation, in turn has said he must participate or give up the title.

Karpov, who has been a recognized chess genius since childhood and who is 20 years younger than Korchnoi, had been the clear favorite to win the all-Soviet challenger's match which began Sept. 11.

About 10,000 Goans and visitors watched as chanting Roman Catholic authorities, preceded by priests swinging censers, brought out the silver-and-glass casket containing the remains of Father Xavier, the 16th century Jesuit missionary who brought Christianity to the Orient.

Blessing Through Saint
"God bless you through Saint Francis Xavier," intoned a priest as the solemn procession moved out. "God bless you from far and near; all and every one of you."

The bishops and priests carried the remains about 100 yards from Goa's Bom Jesus Basilica to the Se Cathedral where for the next 44 days, pilgrims from Goa, the rest of India and abroad will stoop to kiss the glass and pray for miracles.

The exposition marks only the 13th time since Saint Francis died 422 years ago that Goa church authorities have taken the remains out of their Bom Jesus crypt in which they believe holds power to work wonders.

Some pray for miracle cures, buying little candles in the shape of the organ they want healed from stalls around the basilica where the remains are kept.

Others—Catholic and Hindu alike—approach the glass casket for "blessing," the belief widespread in India that coming near a sacred person or object is a source of grace and inspiration.

Intact For 150 Years
The Jesuits at the basilica say the exposition allows Goa's 250,000 Catholics and the outside visitors to venerate relics from a body that their records show remained intact for 150 years after death.

"It was examined by doctors," said the Rev. Moreno de Souza, assistant director of the basilica. "We stake their word. And if it cannot be explained by natural law, then it is divine law."

For several hundred years church authorities here claimed the body was preserved. But in 1951 they had it examined by modern medical men, and soon after church authorities began referring to "relics" and stopped talking about a "body."

Parade Of Sainly Relics Opens Goa Religious Event

GOA, India (AP) — The relics of Goa's patron saint were paraded through the sleepy former Portuguese colony Saturday to open a religious festival centered on supernatural powers attributed to the remains.

About 10,000 Goans and visitors watched as chanting Roman Catholic authorities, preceded by priests swinging censers, brought out the silver-and-glass casket containing the remains of Father Xavier, the 16th century Jesuit missionary who brought Christianity to the Orient.

Bronze Statuette Brings $40,000

NEW YORK (AP) — A 2,000-year-old bronze statuette of Eros, the Greek god of love, sold for $40,000 at auction Friday, the highest price ever paid here for a classical antiquity.

The figure, with a blue and green patina from long exposure to the sea, is 19 1/2 inches tall, which brings the price to about $2,000 an inch.

The bronze came from the collection of retired dealer J. J. Kleiman whose ancient Iranian bronzes were also auctioned at Sotheby Parke Bernet.

Michael Dollard of New York bought the Eros statuette. London dealers said that the Iranian bronzes were intended for a newly oil-rich clientele.

Dollar You Pay For Meat Stretched Almost As Much As Family Budget

By LOUISE COOK
associated Press Writer

The dollar you plunk down at the meat counter is being stretched almost as many ways as the family budget these days. The biggest chunk goes for the cost of the meat itself and the next largest portion pays the wages of the butcher and other employees.

Supermarkets traditionally have claimed they lost money — or made very little — on meat departments. But they refused to release specific figures.

Now, under pressure from government officials and consumers who want to know why farmers are getting paid less while retail prices are going up, the stores have agreed to disclose some figures to back up their claim of low profits.

A spokesman for Jewel Supermarkets, a Midwestern chain which says it lost $5 million on $95 million in meat sales during the first nine months of 1974, provided The Associated Press with a breakdown of where the consumer's meat dollar actually goes.

For every dollar you spend on meat, the spokesman said, Jewel pays out: 81.7 cents to the wholesaler for the meat; 12.4 cents to store employees; 1.6 cents for employee fringe benefits including health, accident and life insurance and payroll taxes; 1.6 cents for wrapping and packing; 3.8 cents for rent, depreciation and interest; 1.2 cents for advertising; 8 cents for warehouse and transportation costs; 1 cent for remodeling, repairs, property tax and insurance; and 1.6 cents for all other costs.

That adds up to $1.057, the spokesman said, and shows that for every dollar you spend on meat, Jewel is losing almost six cents.

Comparable figures for 1973 were not available.

Other supermarket sources, while declining to release specific dollars and cents breakdowns for meat department expenses, said that labor costs went up 18.4 per cent over the past year, light and power 38.6 per cent, paper bags 31.5 per cent, interest rates 55 per cent and laundry costs 40 per cent.

A recent Cornell University survey showed that supermarket expenses in fiscal 1973-74 actually represented a smaller percentage of sales than they did in fiscal 1972-73. Gross margin — the difference between the amount the stores took in and the amount they spent on merchandise, expressed as a per cent of sales — also declined.

The government, however, says retailers are getting a bigger chunk of your money than they used to.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says the average price of a pound of beef during the week ended Nov. 2 was $1.358 — just about the same as it was at the start of a meat boycott in April 1973. The USDA says the farmer is getting almost 7 per cent less than he did in April 1973 while the wholesaler is getting 2 per cent more and the retailer is getting 5 per cent more.

Untouchability Is Continuing In Indian Life

By EDWARD CODY

DEOLI VILLAGE, India (AP) — In all his 70 years, Dharma Anand has never entered the homes at the other end of his village.

"No, not inside," he said. "I may go along the road, but not inside the houses."

Anand is an untouchable, the lowest rung on a strict Hindu ladder. The homes down the road belong to upper caste Hindus, his religious, social and economic betters.

Inherited Prejudice
Their closed doors illustrate inherited prejudice still poisoning human relations across India a quarter-century after untouchability was abolished by the Indian constitution.

Despite thousands of pious words from government officials and a set of special laws, the 80 million untouchables continue to suffer the vicious discrimination assigned them by ancient Hindu laws.

"It is 27 years since India became free, and it has not changed," said Kishuri Lal, who runs a school for untouchable children in New Delhi.

"Outside there is a show, but inside things have not changed much. Old people are unable to get out of the rut. It is for the young to build a new order."

Beatings, Rapes
Upper caste Hindus often enforce their centuries-old domination with violence. Indian newspapers carry frequent reports of beatings, rapes and group attacks against untouchables.

A private opinion poll this spring found that one in seven villages surveyed had experienced group violence by dominant castes against untouchables.

In one documented case in Gujarat state, two untouchables were killed with spears and staffs by a mob of caste Hindus enraged because untouchables had drawn water from an upper caste well when their own went dry.

Attacks Increasing
Several members of parliament complained recently that such attacks are increasing, particularly in backwater villages where local administration is weak.

The trend was driven home to Nafe Singh Tanwar, 28 years ago when he first entered a classroom with upper caste children in this village 15 miles from New Delhi.

Because he took a drink of water, the teacher caned him on the hands and buttocks. Then, to make the lesson clear, the teacher smashed the earthenware water jug to make sure upper caste children would not drink from a vessel defiled by the lips of an 8-year-old untouchable.

It is perhaps a gauge of progress that Tanwar, a 35-year-old electrician, now regularly enters the homes of upper caste Hindus — to fix broken lamps.

Tanwar's job makes him a local success story and he heads the untouchable association of Deoli Village. He believes his generation can force better relations with high castes and looks forward to an easier life for his five-year-old son.

"We are all united now," he told a recent visitor. "If anything happens, we can put up a fight. The law is with us."

The basic law is Article 17 of the Indian Constitution, which abolished untouchability for India. A 1955 law makes discrimination against untouchables a crime.

Caste System
The caste system stems from sacred Hindu scriptures dividing society into Brahmins for priests and educational work, warriors for defense, merchants for commerce, and peasants for agriculture.

Below all four categories came noncaste common laborers — untouchables for dirty work. Their jobs included removing carcasses of dead animals and emptying chamber pots that were for years the only plumbing — and still are in some backward towns.

Noncaste workers assigned these repugnant jobs became, sometimes literally, untouchable. Caste Hindus traditionally barred them from drawing water at village wells, visiting temples or even passing too closely.

Tradition Goes On
In villages where 80 per cent of India's 580 million inhabitants live, tradition goes on unperturbed by the 20th Century, despite some progress in big cities.

The untouchables sweep streets, scrub others' homes, plow others' fields, tend cattle and collect trash. Many live in segregated pockets and get water only from their own wells.

A delegation of untouchable peasants marched on government headquarters in Gujarat on Indian Independence Day Aug. 15 to complain that dairy cooperatives refused to market their milk because it was considered unclean.

"Even if we go to court, the laws may say one thing, but the policeman and judges are caste Hindus," said Tanwar. "Naturally they will decide in favor of their fellow caste Hindus."

"They can go," he said of aggrieved untouchables, "but they know they have to live together. So they do not go."

Canada Planning Slash In Oil Exports To U.S.

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada has announced plans to reduce oil exports to the United States next year by up to 28 per cent and completely eliminate them by 1982.

The plan was announced in a Friday night address to Parliament by Energy Minister Donald Macdonald.

Macdonald said the 900,000 barrels a day now being exported to the United States — about 15 per cent of U.S. oil imports — would be reduced to 800,000 by Jan. 1, 1975, and be further cut to 650,000 in July if the main oil-producing provinces, Alberta and Saskatchewan, agree.

Purpose Cited

Macdonald said the immediate purpose was to arrange for sufficient oil to be shipped to eastern Canada when the country's first east-west pipeline link is completed, while the long-term objective was to avert an oil shortage predicted for the next decade.

The proposed cut to 650,000 barrels a day is tied to a government promise to pipe oil from Canada's western states to Montreal by 1978 for use in markets in the east of the country. A pipeline extension capable of carrying 250,000 barrels a day is scheduled to be built to Montreal from Sarnia, Ont., but it won't be ready before 1976.

Objections Possible

The minister told newsmen later that if Alberta and Saskatchewan raise serious objections, the 800,000 level would be maintained throughout 1975.

However, this would not affect the long-term intention of phasing out exports by 1982, a date when existing supplies of crude oil are expected to fall below domestic demand.

Macdonald said the proposal to "lock up the oil ahead of time" is primarily a political move in response to criticism over the volume of exports now going to the United States.

Eastern Canada, cut off from its country's oil by the lack of an east-west pipeline, has relied until now on imported oil, mostly from Venezuela and the Middle East.

Boycott Products, Not Supermarkets, Chain Official Says

HARTFORD (AP) — Boycotting high-priced food products, not supermarket chains, is the way to fight rising grocery bills, says the president of a New England supermarket chain.

Kenneth Abrahams, head of Food Mart Co., of Holyoke, Mass., a chain having 28 stores in Connecticut and Massachusetts, expressed his views after a consumer group announced plans to boycott a different supermarket chain each month to force prices down.

"I say to them, if the price is too high, boycott the item. If they don't buy it, we're not going to buy it. I can't afford to buy sugar and leave it in the warehouse," he said.

Chimp Found Innocent Of Frightening Woman

FREEHOLD, N.J. (AP)—Mr. Jiggs, an 11-year-old, roller-skating chimpanzee, has been found innocent of frightening a woman while at her after-dinner coffee in a restaurant.

After two days of testimony, a seven-member jury found no cause for action Friday in a personal injury suit against Mr. Jiggs, his owner Ronald A. Winters, and Fricke's Old Hook Inn at Emerson.

Mrs. Joan Hemmer of Ocean Township, who filed the suit, claimed Jiggs so startled her by putting his chin on her table that she jumped up and smashed herself against a wall, injuring her neck, left shoulder and rib cage.

She said she subsequently suffered mental anguish, with nightmares "of little monkeys crawling over me, which kept her awake; was plagued with repeated migraine headaches and lost 22 pounds; had to sleep in traction in her one-bedroom apartment; and had to hire help one day a week to do the heavy housekeeping in the apartment.

Winters testified he was holding Mr. Jiggs' hand while accompanying him through the restaurant to a banquet room where the chimpanzee was to perform at a cub scout awards affair.

Mr. Jiggs made a brief appearance on the opening day of the trial. He appeared in Boy Scout uniform atop bright red roller skates.

Famed Photographer Recalls Earlier Days

By JOHN BARBOUR when he read the headlines. NEW YORK (AP) — David "Dillinger Captured At Crown Douglas Duncan, like some Hotel Fire."

Phoenician merchantman, plies. He read about how a fireman his trade between ports of vio had dared the smoke to re- lence and pleasure, war and trieve a guest's luggage, had stumbled on the way out. The art.

His photographs have won suitcase broke open, spilling him fame from the Korean war to the art treasures of the Kremlin, from the siege at Khe Sanh to the Villa La California of Pablo Picasso in the south of France.

He is an itinerant between extremes. He was born in Kansas City, Mo., but lives in France, in the soft breath of the Mediterranean amid olive groves. He is a retired World War II Marine officer who speaks in a voice sometimes too soft to be heard. He says he would like to get back into action photographing the news again "because there is so much going on." Yet he con- templates as his next work a photo book about a very special dachshund, named Lumpe, his pet and for a time Picasso's.

Which is why, when he sits in his tasteful room in New York's Plaza Hotel and savors his tenth book as though it were human, there is a certain stark black and white quality to the story he tells of the first picture he ever took, the first camera he owned.

18th Birthday The first camera? "My youngest sister, Jeanie, gave it to me on my 18th birthday. I was at the University of Arizona and she sent me a 39-cent Bakelite camera called a Univex."

The morning after it came in the mail he tuned in the radio in his college room and heard the news that the Congress Hotel in downtown Tucson was afire. He got as far as the sidewalk before he remembered the camera.

"I thought, my God, a fire and the camera. I didn't even know how to load it. I loaded it while I was running."

The hotel was billowing smoke when he got there and he worked his way to a smoke- less side.

Much Older "And I saw from the firelines a guy who was much older, middle-aged, rather slight, half-dressed, arguing with a fire- man, trying to go back inside, saying, 'Look, my room's not burping yet. I was startled by the fire and I want to go back for my baggage.'"

"And finally the fireman said, 'Okay fella, I'll go get it.'"

Duncan snapped the fireman arguing with the man, going back in and returning, coughing and sputtering. He promptly forgot the incident and looked for other pictures. The film was still in the camera the next day.

Can Learn To Raise By Book NORTH BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Boy Scouts can now learn to raise rabbits by the book.

To stimulate interest in the beneficial hobby, the Boy Scouts of America is selling a new, 32-page merit badge pamphlet, "Rabbit Raising." Not only will the booklet help as a major reference tool for Scouts in preparing for the BSA's Rabbit Raising merit badge, ac- cording to the youth group, but the publication can also be of great assistance to animal hus- bandry students, teachers, farmers, game wardens and Scoutmasters.

And he lingers over the cov- er, jute, woven in England, dyed in Bangladesh, bound in Switzerland, a rich, brilliant orange burlap. "Did you look at the binding on this book... I love that material. It's like feeling Picasso's coat. He would have liked it."

His advice for good pictures to the layman: "There's nothing to it. One thing, remember, the way they make cameras now with automatic exposure meters they're going to give you exposure, so remember one thing and you cannot fail. Just move in close. If something in- terests you, just move in close and fire. You're going to get it. Whether you're in Afghanistan, or Tucson, or it's Dillinger, you're going to get it. It's al- most foolproof."

Four Leicas Today, at 58, Duncan's pro- fessional treasures are his capital investment: four Leicas cus- tom built for him about 1954. He uses them for compact, fast-action situations, and says that in combat he wears two of them "crossed, bandolier-style across my chest, one with a normal telephoto lens, one with a wide angle."

His work as a Life Magazine and war photographer notwith- standing, almost all of his life since 1956 has in some way been tied to Picasso, whose work revolutionized 20th Centu- ry art.

There have been three books: "The Private World of Pablo Picasso," "Picasso's Picassos" and the latest, "Goodbye Pi- casso."

Never Painted Duncan has never painted himself. "I've always said I've a friend who is the best painter of this century, the most pro- vocative, the most revolution- ary, and the dearest guy."

Picasso is dead, Duncan says he thought that the old man would live forever. But now, after his death in 1973, he has painstakingly produced a $35 book of the personal and pro- fessional life of the artist, with 200 photos of Picasso and his works.

The letters and text carry an enthusiasm, almost a hero wor- ship, born of his immediate im- pressions. They are, he says, "Letters of the moment" to match "photographs of the mo- ment."

And he lingers over the cov- er, jute, woven in England, dyed in Bangladesh, bound in Switzerland, a rich, brilliant orange burlap. "Did you look at the binding on this book... I love that material. It's like feeling Picasso's coat. He would have liked it."

Midas Open Meet Set For February

HARTFORD, Conn. — The $100,000 Midas Open will be the richest professional bowling tournament ever held in New England when it rolls here late next February at Bradley Bowl in the Hartford suburb of Windsor Locks, according to a joint announcement by Ralph J. Weiger, president of Midas-International, and Ken West, Springfield, Mass., sponsor of the annual tournament in this area.

Dates of the 1975 Midas Open are Tuesday, Feb. 25 through Saturday, March 1. Midas staged its initial Professional Bowlers Association (PBA) tournament last year in Alameda, Calif., and the cross-country move this year to the Hartford area is due in large measure to the highly successful $50,000 Home Box Office Open staged at Bradley Bowl last summer.

Weiger said he was extremely pleased with the site for the next Midas Open. "PBA officials told us of the very successful tournaments staged by Mr. West in New England since 1969 and of the enthusiastic support given the tournament by bowling and sports fans throughout the area. We are certain this tournament will be just as successful," he stated.

In Akron, Ohio, home of the PBA, Executive Director Joe Antenora said the finals of the Midas Open will be televised nationally over some 200 stations by the ABC-TV Network, Saturday, March 1 from 3:30 to 5:00 p.m. (EDT). The Midas Open last January opened the PBA's winter tour and Jim Stefanich, Joliet, Ill., helped launch it in spectacular fashion when he rolled a 300 game during the finals. He received $10,000 from ABC-TV and a new Cougar automobile from Lincoln-Mercury for the feat.

Dick Ritger, Hartford, Wis., is the first Midas Open champion and he'll defend that title here, along with Nelson Burton Jr., St. Louis, Mo., who won at Bradley Bowl last August. Others expected to compete include Earl Anthony, currently the leading money winner on the tour; Larry Laub, Alex Seymore, Stefanich, Don Johnson and Dick Weber.

West was equally pleased about securing the tournament. "We've been discussing with the PBA for a spot on the winter tour," he said, "and we're certain we'll get the support needed to make the Midas Open successful." West said he and Red Burnham, Bradley Bowl general manager, will organize an opening day Pro-Am on Tuesday, Feb. 25, that will be open to both men and women from throughout New England. Details will soon be available.

The $100,000 Midas Open is one of four $100,000 tournaments on the PBA's soon-to-be announced winter tour. The Showboat Invitational in Las Vegas and the BPAA U.S. Open in Dallas both are $100,000 events, while the Firestone Tournament of Champions in Akron, Ohio, is a $125,000 tournament.

Midas-International Corporation is an IC Industries company which specializes in the installation of exhaust systems, brakes and shock absorbers in more than 700 Midas outlets in the U.S., Canada and the United Kingdom. Midas also manufactures and sells a complete line of recreational vehicles.

Broyles Praises Ike Forte

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles, emerging fully clothed but dripping wet from the shower after a dunking by his players, told newsmen Saturday, "You just can't say enough about Ike Forte's performance today."

Broyles' Razorbacks had just mowed down Peach Bowl-bound Texas Tech 21-13 and Forte, a junior running back from Texarkana, Tex., had turned in one of the finest performances in Arkansas football history.

Forte stepped through the Texas Tech defense for 215 yards on 32 carries and scored twice on runs of 17 and 9 yards in an 18-point Porker uprising that was to run straight at them instead of trying to go around them. We had to be lucky because they had a good team... but you just can't say enough about Ike Forte's performance today."

Aggies In Preparation For Invasion Of Texas

COLLEGE STATION — This week will be a light one for Aggie footballers. After the 37-7 win over Rice, the players were off last Sunday and Monday, viewing the Rice film Tuesday before doing some jogging. Short workouts were scheduled for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday and they'll be off today. Monday they'll start the serious preparations for Texas.

The bowl picture is such that the Aggies will go to the Cotton Bowl with a 9-2 record and or stay home with an 8-3 mark. "We want to go to bowls like everyone else," Coach Emory Bellard says. "I think the bowl people should wait until the season is over, that seems like the logical time but I realize that the bowl people have problems, too."

With the 12-day gap between the Rice and Texas games, the Aggies should get all the ailing folks back in top shape. It appears that Skip Walker will be ready after missing several games. Halfback Bubba Bean has rushed for 915 yards this season and needs 85 against Texas to reach the magic 1,000-yard mark.

Bellard (on Cotton Bowl): "We have our opportunity. No one can help us. Either we do it or we don't get it done. We know we have a tough old job ahead." The Aggie football squad picture will be taken at 10 a.m. Saturday at Kyle Field. Crowd-wise, it has been a great season for the Aggies. At home they had their largest crowds ever against three foes — Texas Tech (50,620), Arkansas (47,887) — and Rice (45,334). Kyle Field's capacity is 48,000. Too, the Aggies helped set a new stadium attendance record at Baylor (51,200)...

LSU Captures 24-22 Win

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana State capitalized on early Tulane errors to jump out to a 17-point lead on touch-downs by Billy Broussard and Terry Robiskie, then withstood a Green Wave passing blitz for a 24-22 football victory Saturday night.

The victory avenged a 14-0 defeat at the hands of Tulane last season, which was the first Greenie victory over the Tigers in 25 years. It also kept the Tigers' hopes alive for avoiding their first losing season since 1956.

LSU is now 4-5-1 heading into its season finale against Utah down by Billy Broussard and Terry Robiskie, then withstood a Green Wave passing blitz for a 24-22 football victory Saturday night.

LSU's first two touchdowns on short runs by quarterback Broussard and running back Robiskie, came after drives of only five and 28 yards early in the contest after a blocked punt and a Tulane fumble.

Rusty Jackson added a 23-yard field goal in the second quarter after another short Tiger drive following an interception to give LSU a 17-0 halftime lead.

ODESSA — Dory Funk Jr. and Killer Karl Kox take on Michel (The Judge) Dubois and Jim Dillon in a double-main event Tuesday in the Ector County Coliseum in a tag team match with lumberjack rules.

Washington scored on runs Ricky Romero also battled Goliath in a one-fall bout while rushing in 20 carries broke Marowski and Georgeus George broke a Division II playoff record of 143 yards.

TLC, top-ranked in the division, is now 10-0 for the season. Mr. Okuma and Nick Kozak bat-Second-ranked Linfield finished at 9-1.

First bout is set for 8 p.m.

Vanderbilt Impressive During 44-0 Victory Over Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Peach Bowl-bound Vanderbilt rolled up 603 yards offense en route to a 44-0 pasting of Louisville in college football action here Saturday night.

Vanderbilt meets Texas Tech in the Peach Bowl Dec. 28. Vandy, quarterback David Lee passed for 139 yards and ran for 66 more as the Commodores won their seventh game against three losses. Louisville slipped to 3-7.

Vanderbilt opened a 14-0 lead in the first quarter, gaining 192 yards, while Louisville picked up 65 yards in that period. For Vanderbilt, Mark Adams kicked field goals of 28, 32, and 34 yards.

Vanderbilt Coach Steve Sloan said: "We were as ready to play as we ever were all year. I didn't try to run up the score, we played everybody we could."

Louisville Coach T. W. Alley, referring to the score, said: "It doesn't surprise me. They have a real fine team and I think they'll do well in the Peach Bowl. They aren't quite as physical as some of the other teams we've played, but they get off the long play."

Running back Jamie O'Rourke was the leading rusher for Vanderbilt, carrying the ball 18 times for 90 yards and three touchdowns, all three coming on one-yard runs. Adolph Groves opened Vandy's scoring with a spectacular 45-yard touchdown dash early in the first quarter.

Cardinals Meet N.Y. Giants In Key NFL Contest Today

Redskins One Game Behind Hart's Team

By The Associated Press
If St. Louis Cardinals quarterback Jim Hart looks over his shoulder today, he'll see more than the New York Giants' defensive line rushing in.

The Cardinals lead the National Football League's Eastern Division by one game over the Washington Redskins.

Today St. Louis travels to New Haven, Conn., to take on the Giants while Washington is at home against the Philadelphia Eagles.

St. Louis has already won eight games, the most since 1968 when they captured nine NFL contests. The Cards knocked off Philadelphia last week to halt a two-game skid.

The Giants have become tougher lately, but suffered two close losses in their last outings. Last week, New York was edged by Detroit 20-19 on a field goal in the final two seconds.

In other NFL games today, Buffalo is at Cleveland, Denver travels to Oakland, Kansas City goes to Cincinnati, Miami takes on the New York Jets, New England meets Baltimore, Atlanta is at San Francisco, Chicago is at Detroit, Minnesota meets Los Angeles, Dallas is at Houston and San Diego travels to Green Bay.

Monday Game
Pittsburgh clashes with New Orleans in the nationally-televised Monday night game.

Washington has captured its last three outings and six of its last seven games. Right now, the Redskins have a two-game advantage over Dallas. Detroit and Green Bay for the NFL "wild card" spot in the playoffs.

Only Oakland has sewed up a divisional championship, clinching its third consecutive American Conference West crown last week. The Raiders own the best record in the AFC West.

ADVERTISEMENTS
DEPRESSION ART "FOUND"
Public Offered
1937 U.S. Gov't.
Art Prints

Imagine, if you can, finding several thousand sets of antique prints of the world's greatest paintings that were lost for more than 35 years! It actually happened... and this is the true story of the discovery of that lost treasure.

Eleanor Roosevelt
Back in 1937, immediately following the depression years, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and a select group of a dozen nationally prominent people formed a voluntary national committee for art appreciation to create an art program that would give the public a well-needed moral lift. It was the committee's decision to select the world's most famous paintings from the 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries — the best paintings of Matisse, Van Gogh, Renoir, Picasso, Gauguin, Titian, etc. — and to reproduce them in full color as perfectly as humanly possible and make them available to the public at a price within the reach of nearly everyone.

Abandoned in 1937
For some unknown reason, after a quantity of these beautiful reproductions were made, the entire project was abandoned and this collection of perfect reproductions was stored in a Brooklyn warehouse, where they remained undisturbed since 1937. Through a series of rare coincidences, the lost collection was "rediscovered" and leading lithographers and art critics agreed that the subject matter and quality of detail and color reproduction was incredibly accurate. Over $500,000.00 was spent to make finely engraved glass printing plates. It would be impossible to reproduce prints such as these under existing methods, and for that reason these prints are literally collectors' items. Once they have been sold, there will be no more available. A truly excellent art "investment" that makes a fabulous gift.

Available to Public
These authentic original 1937 prints have been appraised by the American Appraisers' Assoc. at $7.00 each print. Now, these full color 11"x14" prints are finally available to the public at $19.95 for a collection of 18 prints. Send cash, check or money order to: U.S. Surplus, Dept. J8, P.O. Box 805, Tarzana, Calif. 91356. Fully GUARANTEED. Certificate of authenticity given with each set. Master Charge and BankAmericard OK (give card number). Adv.

record in the league, 9-1, while Denver is 4-5-1.

Step Closer
The winner of the Minnesota-Los Angeles collision will move a step closer to a post-season spot. The Vikings can clinch the NFC Central title if they win and Detroit and Green Bay both lose. Los Angeles can nail down the NFC West crown with a victory coupled with a New Orleans loss.

Los Angeles quarterback James Harris has been hampered with an ankle injury all week, but it's his arm that Minnesota has to worry about. Harris has completed 59 of 114 passes for 855 yards and seven touchdowns since becoming a starter. Veteran Minnesota signal-caller Fran Tarkenton gained 222 yards through the air last week and is second on the career list to John Unitas. Miami takes its one-game edge in the AFC East to New York where the Jets have come alive. Behind quarterback Joe Namath, the Jets have won their last two outings, while Miami is on a five-game winning streak.

Buffalo fell one game off Miami's pace last week, but still scored 28 points in defeat. Cleveland not only lost the game last week, but also had quarterback Brian Sipe and running back Greg Pruitt injured.

The only time Dallas and Houston have met in regular season play was in 1970; Dallas won 52-0.
Slim Chance
Cincinnati still has a shot at the AFC Central title, but can't afford another loss. Last week, the Bengals were stopped three times inside the Houston 30, although quarterback Ken Anderson connected on 21 of 36 passes for 204 yards. Kansas City, an up-and-down team all season, can score a lot of points, as it did last week in beating Denver 42-34.

New England was riding high in the AFC East until three weeks ago. Now, the Patriots are out to break a three-game losing streak against a team they easily defeated in October. The game could revolve around the Pat's miniback, Mack Heron, and Baltimore's Lydell Mitchell, who gained 151 yards on the ground last week against Atlanta.

San Diego rookie running back Don Woods might put out a little extra effort against Green Bay this week. Woods was a sixth round draft choice of the Packers, who released him when the veterans showed up at camp. Woods joined the Chargers and has rushed for 790 yards this season.

Hadl Helps
Green Bay's attack picked up when they acquired John Hadl in a trade. The only other time the two teams have met, Hadl was the San Diego quarterback. Detroit has won five of its last six games while Chicago is on a four-game losing streak. Chicago won the earlier meeting this year, and may go with Bobby Douglass, the lefthander, at quarterback today.

Another team on a long losing streak is Atlanta, which now hasn't won in five weeks.

Schoolboy Play In Second Week

The Monahans Lobos swept past the Canyon Eagles, 34-7, Saturday night in Lubbock with Wayne Petties scoring four touchdowns and rushing for 110 yards, but the gifted 210-pound tailback suffered a knee injury and was carried from the field with less than three minutes left in the game. Monahans advances into the regional round against Brownwood, 42-0 winners over Snyder Friday night. The site has not been determined yet.

Denver City battles Apline next week in the Class AA regional playoffs at a site to be determined today while Seagraves tangles with Jim Ned next week in Class A action. Seagraves surprised Rankin, 32-19 while Jim Ned beat Knox City in Abilene Saturday night.

Lamar Cops 8-0 Victory

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — Robert Murphy and Jabo Leonard booted field goals of 43 and 21 yards Saturday night to lead Lamar University to an 8-0 victory over The University of Texas at Arlington in a Southland Conference football game.

The victory, the fourth against one loss for the Cardinals in conference play, secured for them a second place finish as they ended the season with an 8-2 record.

The Mavericks finished a disappointing season with a 1-10 record and a 1-4 mark in the conference.

Lamar tackle Gary Wright sacked Maverick fullback Derrick Jensen in the end zone in the first quarter for a safety.

Murphy-kicked his field goal in the second quarter and then Leonard booted his with six minutes left in the fourth quarter. It was his 11th field goal in 13 tries this season.

The Mavericks cranked up their best drive in the waning minutes of the game but fell short at the Lamar five as they failed to complete a fourth-down pass.

Defensive play dominated the game as Lamar had 177 yards in total offense and the Mavericks were held to 170.

DCO Season Short But Sparkling

By ROGER SOUTHALL
Reporter-Telegram Staff

DALLAS — Dallas Civic Opera's 18th season is less than a month old, but already at the half-way point.

In contrast to the seasons of the Fort Worth and Houston Operas, which are "strung out" over a period of four or five months, DCO's annual season is short but nonetheless sparkling—and, of a certainty, star-studded and successful!

Wednesday night will see DCO's third production of the season unveiled at the Music Hall in Fair Park—a new production of Ambrose Thomas' infrequently-performed "Mignon," with no less than the great American diva Marilyn Horne in the title role. A second presentation of the work will be offered Friday night. Then, on Dec. 5, 8 and 10 the fourth and final attraction, Bellini's "Puritani," will be presented and that will be the end of opera for Dallas until the Met makes its annual visit next spring. Fortunately, in the meantime, Dallasites can make the short drive west to their sister city for performances of the four operas in the Fort Worth season, again, DCO rallied, went looking under way just as the Dallas season is staging. Permian Basin opera fans are in luck, too, because neither city is all that far away!

By all accounts (including that most significant account, ticket sales) DCO's current season has been one of the most successful—if not THE most successful—in its history, and that no doubt is a point of great satisfaction to DCO backers and boosters since this season is dedicated to the late Lawrence Kelly, founder of the opera back in 1957 and its general manager-director through the years. Kelly died in September, on the eve of the new season, and what could have been a demoralizing blow turned out instead to be a strengthening one: Management, company and backers rallied, marshalled forces and were synthesized into a stronger-than-ever operatic entity!

It hasn't been without its tribulations, this new season. Famed Beverly Sills, who had signed to sing the title role in the season-opener, "Lucrezia Borgia," had to withdraw just slightly more than a week before the opening, to undergo Kabaivanska had to cancel out production, "Tosca." Here, again, DCO rallied, went looking under way just as the Dallas season is staging. Permian Basin opera fans are in luck, too, Sills' replacement was Turkish soprano Leyla Gencer—better-known in Europe than in America—and fortunate indeed, was DCO in finding a singer of her competence who was free to step into the role.

I can't imagine anyone not being disappointed in Sills' absence from the production; she is, undoubtedly, America's foremost "singing actress" and Donizetti's bitter heroine needs an actress as well as singer in the role to impart appropriate dimension.

Miss Gencer is a singer but not much of an actress so that while the notes emerging from her throat were competently structured, she did not impart much life to the role. Visually, Regality she had, and a kind of demonic grandeur on occasion, but she did not emerge as the legendary creature of passion and evil. (Actually, legend has much maligned Lucrezia Borgia, the experts say; purportedly, the real Lucrezia poisoned only two people. However, the libretto of Donizetti's opera is based on Victor Hugo's play which pictures the lady in the legendary manner, as rapacious and vengeful.)

Miss Gencer's full tones were sometimes disturbing, the fortes not always agreeable to the ear. Her half tones and softer placements came off best, to my way of thinking.

Acquitting themselves remarkably well in their assignments were Italian baritone Matteo Manuguerra as Alfonso and Spanish tenor Jose Carreras as Lucrezia's son, Genaro. Both were making DCO debuts in "Lucrezia Borgia" and both will, I think, be making names for themselves as the legendary creature of passion and evil. (Actually, legend has much maligned

Mezzo soprano Tatiana Troyanos, who appeared here in Furcell's "Dido and Aeneas" two years ago, was in the "trouser role" of Orsini in the Donizetti opera. Miss Troyanos' voice has a rich, dusky, many-shaded quality that would be entirely pleasing were it not for her rather noticeable breathing, which was bothersome.

So, all things considered, my vote for outstanding singers in the male contingent, Manuguerra and Carreras, with some excellent assistance by Enrico Campi as Gubetta, Piero de Palma as Rustighello, William Eleck as Petrucci and Nicola Zaccaria as Astolfo.

Nicola Rescigno conducted "Lucrezia Borgia" and Tito Capobianco staged the work with his usual flair.

'Christmas Gala' To Feature 'Nutcracker'

For the third year, Midland's "Les Patineurs" (The Skaters) and part-time artist-in-residence for Permian Civic Ballet will be utilizing the talents of members of the Permian Civic Ballet. The Nutcracker, with its lavish and melodic score by Peter Ilyich Tchaikovsky, has been a Christmas favorite around the world since its premiere presentation in St. Petersburg, Russia, some 80 years ago.

Permian Civic mounted the entire ballet in 1972 and 1973, but this year will present only the second act—the "heart" of the work—which takes place in the Kingdom of Sweets.

A brother-and-sister team, Patty and Jimmy O'Neill, will be in the rolls of Clara and Fritz, the children who go on a magic journey to the Kingdom of Sweets, the domain of the Nutcracker Prince and Sugarplum Fairy.

Martin-Viscount will dance the Prince and Miss Burton will be seen as the Sugarplum Fairy. Permian Civic dancers will dance the variations, including Julie Hall as the Arabian queen; Mary Motter, Kerri McClatchy and Kelly Shaw in the dance of the Mirlitons; Anne de Compiègne, Kelly Walker and Rudy Galsomim as the Chinese dancers; Sandra Huxman and Teresa Turner as the grapes; Leslie Freeman and Alice McKinney as the candy canes; and Jeanne King and Alice Muzny in the Spanish vacation. Cheryl Jones, partnered by Edward Tuell, will be seen in the beautiful Waltz of the Flowers.

"Les Patineurs," the other dance work scheduled, has choreography by Britain's Frederick Ashton and music from Giacomo Meyerbeer as arranged by Constant Lambert. The work was premiered by the Vic-Wells Ballet at London's Sadlers Wells Theater in 1937.

Season tickets for the Christmas Gala and Permian Civic's annual Spring Gala next April have gone on sale in several Midland locations, including Grammer-Murphy in The Village, the Oak Leaf bookstore in Oak Ridge Square and Service Drug in Northland Center. The season admissions are $7.50 for adults and $2.50 for students.

was just coming into its own through such creative playwrights as Eugene O'Neill, Thornton Wilder, Clifford Odets, William Saroyan and Tennessee Williams. Julie Hayden, 20 or so years younger, was Nathan's Galatea, his pride-and-joy, from the time they first met in 1937 until his death in the mid 1950s.

Globe producer-director Charles McCally's direction of "George's Jean" produced many of the play's warmer moments and certainly saw to the excellent framing of Donald Berry as Nathan and Carla Dragoni as Miss Hayden.

Nathan, in Berry's expert characterization, emerges as very much the dedicated bachelor and sophisticated critic, given to making pronouncements on almost any subject at hand. Miss Dragoni's Julie is finely-wrought, delicate, and she looks very like Miss Hayden at moments. I think it might have helped had she matured (over so subtly, of course) through artful makeup to mark passage in the play of almost 20 years. Always, she brought charm to the role.

"George's Jean" will have a matinee at 2:30 today and evening performances Tuesday through Saturday this week.

You're Invited For Year-Long Ride On MCT Entertainment Express

Midland Community Theatre is inviting you to make a voyage on a luxury ocean liner, spend a few hours with a friendly drunk, relive important moments in the lives of England's much-married Henry VIII and his second queen, witness the rituals of a West Texas fraternal organization, be uplifted by the majestic and warmly humorous tale of Biblical farmer and share the frustrations—and fun—of finding an apartment with a panoramic view.

Impossible, you say? Not at all! Not when Midland Community Theatre does the work in providing all this for you, leaving you with all the fun and pleasure.

For its 1975 season officially beginning Jan. 1 and continuing through December, MCT has scheduled a wide variety of stage works, running the gamut from a rollicking 1930s musical to a drama dealing with the Biblical character Gideon and the Angel of God.

and $3 for straight plays and $4 and $5 for the musical, whereas a regular membership at $30 gives the purchaser 16 admissions for only $1.88 each.

Mail orders for season memberships may be sent to Midland Community Theatre Inc., at P.O. Box 4847, Midland 79701. The season subscriptions also may be purchased in person at the Theatre Centre box office, 2301 W. Indiana St.

Starting the season off in traditional style will be the MCT musical, opening in early February. The 1975 production will be "Anything Goes," a Broadway success of the mid-1930s that wears its years gracefully, thanks to the late Cole Porter's timeless music and lyrics and Howard Lindsay's and Russell Crouse's revision of the original Guy Bolton-P.G. Wodehouse book. The MCT production has already been cast and will go into rehearsal in late December.

The musical, set aboard an ocean liner, has such memorable and ever-green songs as "All Through the Night," "I Get A Kick Out of You" and "Blow, Gabriel, Blow." The show was one of Ethel Merman's first Broadway successes.

Coming in March is a courtroom comedy loaded with laughter, "Drink To Me Only." The original Broadway production back in the '50s starred comedian Tom Poston as the friendly, lovable inebriate.

April will bring a special presentation to the Theatre Centre stage: A new play, "The Last Meeting of the Knights of the White Magnolia," written by Dallas Theater Center actor and playwright Preston Jones. "The Last Meeting" is one of a trilogy of plays by Jones, the latest of which, "The Oldest Living Graduate," is now having its first presentations at the Dallas Theater. The plays have a West Texas setting.

Jones recently received a special playwright-in-residence fellowship for 1975 from the Rockefeller Foundation.

"The Last Meeting of the Knights of the White Magnolia" has had Texas performances only at Dallas Theater Center and in San Angelo up to this time.

It is released under the aegis of the American Playwrights Theatre (APT) of which Midland Community Theatre is a member.

In June, MCT will reach back to Biblical times—when it presents "Gideon," the Paddy Chayevsky play which tells with simplicity and humor the story of Gideon and the Angel of God. According to Howard Taubman of The New York Times, the play "has the modesty and sweetness of legend and the freshness and keenness of a modern man asking questions about himself and his place in the universe."

Reaching not quite so far back—a mere 450 years—MCT's September offering will be the story of one of history's most famous couples, Henry VIII and his second queen, Anne Boleyn. "Anne of the Thousand Days" is the title of the play and its author, Maxwell Anderson, has combined eloquence and theatrical excitement in his brilliant reconstruction of the fateful alliance between Henry and Anne.

Finally next December, MCT will bring "6 Rms Riv Vu" to Theatre Centre. The title is real estate advertising shorthand which describes an

'Poets Of The Cities' Exhibit Opens At Dallas

DALLAS — In the 1950s and early '60s a group of poets began to develop ideas and attitudes that were to influence subsequent developments in every facet of American avant-garde art. The Dallas Museum of Fine Arts and Southern Methodist University have joined in a pioneering effort to explore the various currents of this art movement in a new exhibition, "Poets of the Cities: New York and San Francisco, 1950-65."

This important exhibition, which has just opened at the DMFA, consists of 66 paintings and sculptures by leading artists of the so-called "Beat Generation." A related arts festival involving leading figures of this period in music, dance, film and theatre is being held at SMU this weekend.

The emphasis of the DMFA show is on Assemblage and pop tendencies in art with examples of the Abstract Expressionism which paralleled and nourished the Assemblage directions. The basic attitude of the artists in this exhibition, both visual and performing, was one of directness and spontaneity—a breaking with tradition. The resulting innovations and stylistic changes had, as their most important result, a radical alteration of the basic notion of what a painting could be. There were changes in size, intensity of effect and concepts of texture and handling. The utilization of found objects (junk) in their art was engineered as a social commentary on the usefulness of consumer products, society's trivia and the impermanence of possessions in the modern American culture.

The new show contains John Chamberlain's powerful compositions using automobile fenders, Richard Stankiewicz's pipes and boiler parts and

Robert Mallery's grisly tuxedos, garments which have been made rigid and fashioned into deformed human poses. Jim Dine has conferred similar personal or human attributes upon articles of clothing in his "Shoes Walking on My Brain."

Robert Rauschenberg came to Dallas to install his culminating work, "Oracle" in the DMFA's large West Court. Rauschenberg assembled the various components of the aural and visual five-unit assemblage which includes scrambled radio sounds and trickling water emanating from the junk components, each one like an individual personage.

"Poets of the Cities" was organized by Robert M. Murdock, curator of contemporary art for DMFA, and Neil A. Chassman of SMU. The exhibition will travel to the San Francisco Museum of Art and the Wadsworth Atheneum at Hartford, Conn., following its closing here several weeks hence.

Profit System Essential

"The American free enterprise system is headed for new and serious attacks from those persons, institutions and organizations who would like to bring about the nationalization of American business."

This was the warning cited by J. Fike Godfrey of Abilene, executive vice president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce...

Perhaps you hadn't thought about the stepped-up attacks being made on the petroleum industry and other businesses by Congress, government agencies...

Think about it, and it begins to make sense. Remember, certain members of Congress, among other things, seek a government-owned and operated oil firm...

And remember, please, the calculated campaign among certain groups to persuade the American public that business shouldn't make a profit...

He said the American business community has never faced a situation just like the one which confronts it today. It must begin to fight for its existence.

There is clear evidence today, he said, that American business will be increasingly accused on every side of reaping windfall profits at the expense of consumers and taxpayers...

"There is nothing wrong with making a profit. In fact it is essential if all people are to enjoy prosperity," Godfrey emphasized.

Yet the attacks on profits and the profit motive often go unanswered. Business and all Americans interested in preserving the free enterprise system must stand up and be counted now and in the future.

This is why the West Texas Chamber of Commerce devotes much time and effort to its "Profits Create Jobs" campaign, pointing out that "America was built on hard work... work that created profits... profits which created more jobs for more people."

"We are in a race in this country between those forces that have weakened and eventually destroyed free societies in the past and those forces which can keep us a vigorous, happy, free people," Godfrey said.

'Leave The Driving To Us'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — The Hollywood make-up artists who bleached Jonathan Livingston Seagull's winged pals to make them white enough for the movies, reportedly succeeded in killing many of them.

The Humane Society of the United States, which has conducted a lengthy investigation, is so incensed over this and similar findings about other films that it has begun a secret infiltration of the movie industry.

The seagull movie's producer, Hall Bartlett, insists he is equally militant about the birds' welfare. Bartlett claims he spent a fortune to protect them during filming, even to the point of putting rubber gloves on a hawk's talons before it attacked a gull for one scene.

More recently, children's heads have been shot off, mice stomped to death, sheep's throats cut, donkeys shot and a goose decapitated, all on camera.

Earlier this year, the American Humane Association, the Humane Society of the United States, and the Fund for Animals met privately with Motion Picture Association head Jack Valenti. Valenti promised to work with moviemakers to get voluntary reform.

According to the society's 40-page secret report on "Seagull," the Bartlett production team got permission from the U. S. government to "take" 250 gulls.

Some 88 of 113 birds suffered eye injuries and others were crippled "as a result of strings being attached to their legs to control them while in flight," witnesses said.

"Birds (were) made to do difficult flying stunts—and, as a result, crashed on the rocks and bled," the report goes on. It charges that some of the 50 to 100 bleached birds were treated with hairspray, others were dosed with a caustic so strong it burned handlers' fingers.

In all, the society's witnesses reported that bleaching, filthy accommodations, poor feeding and movie stunts, killed dozens of the gulls and may have permanently injured more. Other films produced similar reports.

As a result, the Humane Society is now enlisting several movie stars as spies. And society investigators will shortly adopt undercover poses to get close to the animals during filming.

pleaded "no contest" to charges that he hid $48,000 in contributions to the 1972 presidential campaign of Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

Although thousands of such apparent violations of the law have been referred to the Justice Department, action is unlikely. The Justice Department has only a dozen staffers, including secretaries, to prosecute the cases.

FAMILY AFFAIR II: In an earlier column, we reported that Dr. Morris Chafetz, head of the government's alcohol abuse program, was under investigation.

Not long after HEW investigators began looking into Chafetz's dealings and billings, Dirks, in a committee report, called for a cut back in funds for HEW investigators.

By Oswald and James Jacoby (Newspaper Enterprise Association) "Pretty nice end play wasn't it?" chortled South.

the nine of hearts that South was still holding blocked his chance to run the rest of the suit.

South thought a while and cashed his three high diamonds. West had to chuck two spades to keep heart and club protection, whereupon South led a heart to dummy's king; threw West in and made the last two tricks and his contract with clubs.

All this was made necessary because South had not learned the automatic unblock with the sort of heart spotcard holding he had been dealt. If he had learned it, his first heart play would have been the nine; the second the eight and the third heart from his hand would be the deuce.

No Bright Light At End Of Energy Tunnel

WASHINGTON (NEA) — If you think we have coal troubles now, wait a few years.

President Ford's energy advisers have come to the reluctant conclusion that those much-touted esoteric energy sources — shale, geothermal, solar and gasification — are a long way off practically and politically.

Administration planners therefore conveniently have forecast a major increase in mining. They plan strong pressures to get oil-using utilities to shift back to coal. They have been pushing devices for sulfur control, essential to comply with environmental standards when burning coal mined in the East today.

I've been sitting through a series of meetings with the men in that industry and in others which must provide the money and the equipment for boosting coal production rapidly enough to meet the need. The outlook is dismal.

Here it's not principally the environmental restrictions as such but the delays as one group after another halts the start of operations to have its day before government agencies or in court.

Since fear is our most powerful emotion (and frequently employed by religious and secular persuaders) it has come to dominate our vision of space and the years and centuries to follow.

There has been a tendency of late to solve all problems by means of new laws. The coal dispute shows once again that this is not possible or practical. There is a law on the books — Taft-Hartley and President Ford's aides have made it clear through leaks to the press they believe the application of that law would be counterproductive in a coal strike.

One new massive volume of illustrations and text on "Our World In Space" has done much to encourage a more rational and confident vision of the time ahead.

Here are more than 100 color and black and white illustrations from the gifted hand of Robert McCall. Millions of people now are familiar with the space imagination of McCall which became so vivid in the film "2001: A Space Odyssey."

The administration doesn't want to invoke Taft-Hartley if needed. It doesn't want rationing. So far, so good. These may be logical decisions, but then what? What we have from

The Country Parson

By Frank A. Clark

"A poor man is anyone who has less than he wants."

DAVID POLING, D. D. Theology, Outer Space Talked By Clergyman

NEW YORK (NEA) — What has been the influence of theology on space exploration? Or conversely, what has been the influence of a decade of space shots on the religious considerations of man?

Well, it's another good news-bad news combination. Space exploration has forced the religious community to rethink and reconsider many of the doctrines or at least interpretations of its faith concerning Creation, the Future and the destiny of Man. Fresh thinking, even when forced or compelled by events, generally has good results.

The bad news is that so much popular thinking in religious circles concerning space ends up in wild, distorted projections of ancient Biblical themes. Join this with much of secular science fiction and you are faced with futuristic visions of calamity, disruption and universal destruction.

There are some groups in North America who look to space as a salvation device for the problems of Earth — particularly overpopulation (and as a way to avoid the serious questions of world people control). These naive folk need to ponder this statement: "Even if we could place any human being anywhere in space by merely snapping our fingers, and if every world in space were as warm and welcome as Earth, the fact is that within five thousand years at our present rate of increase (70 million a year), the total mass of human flesh and blood will equal the mass of the known Universe."

In a bleak social and economic period, it is heartening and lifting to have Robert McCall remind us of the dependability, friendliness, and above all, beauty of the Universe.

How Sweet It Ain't—Sugar Prices Not Dropping Soon

By DICK BARNES
WINDSOR, Colo. (AP) — Sugar farmers and processors are reaping record prices and profits. But in a time of spiraling costs for everything sugar men use, from pumps to potash, don't expect the price of the scarce sweetener to go down soon.

Relief, if it comes at all, looks months or more away. For the short term, expect still higher prices.

Increasing worldwide demand for sugar the last several years combined in 1974 with massive sugar purchases by Arab countries and a concentration of disastrous weather that harmed sugar cane and sugar beet crops in virtually every sugar-producing country.

As clamor for sugar outpaced available stocks, the price zoomed upward in a classic example of the economic law of supply and demand at work.

The increase in costs at farm and mill indicate, however, that sugar prices won't ever return to their previous lows. If they did, producers and processors would operate at big losses — and presumably go out of business.

The price of sugar this year has more than tripled in grocery stores and for such big sugar-users as soft drink and candy manufacturers.

No softening of those prices seems likely until another cane and beet crop is planted and harvested next year — and then only if the crop is big enough to cut the demand gap.

Right now, however, sugar prices are going up so fast that, ironically, sugar at the grocery store costs less than imported raw sugar. This is because today's grocery shelf sugar was purchased days or weeks ago by refiners for processing, when the raw sugar price was lower.

So it can be sold for perhaps 55 cents a pound, while the raw product is bringing more than 60 cents a pound.

Raw sugar is a partly processed crystal product with some molasses content which is produced from the cane or beet. When refined, 100 pounds of raw sugar will produce 100 pounds of pure sugar.

More Than Half

The United States depends on foreign sources for more than half its sugar.

Refiners who process foreign raw sugar have had to meet worldwide competition to get their supplies, and thus have paid higher and higher prices.

The producers and processors of sugar grown in the United States, in turn, get about the same market price for their output as the foreign sellers.

The sources of sugar — beets and cane — differ in a number of ways. But similar cost pressures affect the growers of each, reducing what might have been a bonanza year for them into simply a good one.

Domestic beets yield about 30 per cent of the sugar consumed in the United States. They're grown in more than half the states, mostly in the upper Midwest, the Rocky Mountain states and the Far West.

Sugar cane is the source of about 10 per cent of the sugar consumed in this country. It's grown in Louisiana, Florida and Texas.

Manuel Pineda and Jack Boegel are typical beet growers in northern Colorado, a state which has 10 of the nation's 52 sugar beet processing mills.

Because beets should be grown on the same land only once every three or four years, each man also farms other crops such as corn, pinto beans and alfalfa. And each feeds cattle.

Each man estimates production costs for beets this year at between $500 and $550 an acre, 50 per cent higher than the previous year.

"Gasoline and diesel fuel doubled this year," said Boegel. "When we were a quarter of the way through this year, we were already up to all of last year's fertilizer bill," said Pineda.

Boegel said tractors this year cost 35 per cent more than a year ago, and repair parts are up 55 to 60 per cent.

"And there's a parts shortage," he added. "You better have your parts ahead of time."

Pineda complained that "the government stops a wheat sale from their beets as the price escalated.

Initial payments right after the harvest are made on a basis of projected sugar prices. Subsequent payments are made during the year as the actual prices unfold.

Beet sugar companies like Great Western process the beets directly through the raw sugar stage and into refined sugar, ready for consumption. Sugar brokers act as middlemen between the sugar company and the wholesale purchasers.

If 150 pounds of sugar were sold for $50, or 50 cents a pound, the sugar broker's commission would be about 12 cents.

Other sales costs for the sugar company — including such post-manufacture items as freight, taxes, sales staff salaries, insurance and any special packaging costs — might total $2.25 to $2.50.

If $47.50 remained from the price after deduction of these costs, about 64 per cent would go to the farmer. The sugar company would retain the rest to cover its production costs.

As the sugar moved to the retail grocery shelf, it would pick up added freight and administrative costs plus perhaps 1 per cent for the grocery's profit. It would wind up in five-pound bags selling at the $2.79-$2.89 range seen on some suburban

Washington, D.C., store shelves last week.

About 20 per cent of sugar is sold for direct use by consumers, while the rest is used in the manufacture of foods.

If the price stayed at the current level through the rest of the crop sales year, the farmer would get a healthy return of double his direct costs.

But for diversified farmers like Pineda and Boegel, profits this year from sugar are being used to cancel losses from cattle feeding. At the same time that sugar prices were hitting record highs, Boegel said he was selling cattle at a loss of $150 a head.

Acres Of Beets

He also figures he used $75,000 worth of specialized equipment to farm his 119 acres of beets. Pineda said he got 14 days of use out of a $10,000 beet harvester on his 180 acres.

"We've waited all our lives to have a good crop. The public gets one damned rise in sugar prices and they blow their tops," said Pineda. "They forget about years when we got $7 a ton for beets (less than 3 cents per pound for refined sugar)."

For the sugar processors, high prices have brought profit measured by hundreds and even thousands of per cent increases over the previous year. While acknowledging the sugar producers and processors could break even at a sales price of perhaps 30 cents a pound.

"But we're not in business to break even," he observed. And there's no indication other prices will hold even.

Despite the rapid rise in sugar prices, there are no indications of mass movement into growing either cane or beets in this country. In recent years, beet production has drifted downward. In Colorado, for example, a number of beet men pulled out after a freeze disaster wrecked much of their 1969 crop.

Little Change

Even if the raw product was grown at record rates, additional refining capacity would be needed. Sugar mills use a process which hasn't changed much since early this century, so many plants are fairly old, though their equipment has been modernized in part.

The best bet for improved sugar supplies may hinge on Mother Nature.

Hurricane Carmen knocked out part of Louisiana's cane crop this year, weather devastated sugar production in Europe and the Soviet Union, and a string of typhoons wracked the Philippines' cane.

Less disaster next year could mean more sugar — and more sugar could mean lower prices.

Congressional Hearings Set

By CARL C. CRAFT
WASHINGTON (AP) — As sugar producers continue to increase prices, a congressional panel has scheduled hearings on "the continuing rapid rise in the price of sugar."

Within hours after the hearings were announced Friday, an additional sugar price hike was announced.

"The average price of baked goods has gone up 20-25 per cent in one year. The price of cookies in particular has risen 30-35 per cent, almost triple the inflation rate. A case of 16-ounce cans of soft drinks has gone up 97.5 cents in the last year. The price of hard candy, which is 50 per cent sugar, has risen 50 per cent in 12 months," said Joseph P. Vigorito, D-Pa.

He gave those statistics in announcing that a House Agriculture subcommittee that heads will hold hearings Dec. 3 and 5 on the soaring sugar prices.

Meanwhile, a source close to the Agriculture Committee said that an attempt may be made in the remaining weeks of the congressional session to resurrect the House-killed sugar bill.

Without the bill, the 40-year-old sugar control law would expire at the end of the year.

The law allocated shares of the U.S. sugar market to Americans and friendly nations producing sugar, fixing allotments for American production and setting quotas on the amount of sugar which may come in from abroad.

The law's defenders insist it protects American consumers and at the same time provides U.S. producers with a reasonably profitable crop. But its critics contend the law's program of quotas and price-fixing is costly and has outlived its usefulness.

ST. JAMES, La. (AP) — A newspaper ad urging Louisiana shoppers to boycott high-priced sugar twanged a lot of sensitive nerves down here where they remember the "Dance of the Millions."

"They'll think twice before they do something like that again," F. A. Graugnard Jr., president of the St. James Sugar Cooperative Inc., said Friday.

He helped mobilize the protest to National Supermarkets Inc., which ran the ad. But it would be difficult to fight many similar messages from alarmed customers across the nation.

They range from other supermarket chains to individuals like Mayor Nicholas Panuzio of Bridgeport, Conn., who came up with a T-shirt emblazoned, "Revenge is Sweet. Boycott Sugar."

In Washington Monday, sugar prices come under scrutiny by the federal Council on Wage and Price Stability.

In some instances, price hikes by separate companies have been for identical amounts on the same day, ex-low taxes then. Calculated on relative buying power, the 1919 price had almost as much impact in its day as today's price, which hovers around 64.4 cents a pound on the spot market.

There is little "free" sugar in Louisiana for the spot market. Most of it already is under contract, with the price based on a world average over a period of months.

"Right now its averaging $44 a hundred," said Graugnard.

"Here at the sugar grower level, we are unable to influence market prices," he added. "But we watch the market—and we're smiling."

Kissing's Okay, But Just Forget About Handshake

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A researcher on the common cold says you probably won't catch one by kissing, but beware of shaking hands. And rubbing noses.

"The most important method of transmission is when the fingers become infected and go to the nose," Dr. Jack H. Schiebale told a health care seminar at Alta Bates Hospital.

Dr. Schiebale, a research specialist for the California Health Department, said experiments have shown kissing is not likely to transmit a cold because very few viruses remain in the mouth. But anyone who touches a person or object containing cold viruses and then touches his nose is a likely candidate to wake up sneezing the next morning.

Sugar prices move up so often lately some supermarkets, rather than stamp a price on the sugar sack, post it on a blackboard and keep chalk and eraser handy.

In southern Louisiana, where big cane trucks crowd the roads and sand-colored raw sugar piles high in the warehouses, this harvest marks the biggest boom since 1919, when demand soared after World War I.

"That was the time called the 'Dance of the Millions' and sugar went to 22 to 24 cents a pound—and then the next year it was back to 3 cents," said Graugnard.

There were hard dollars and

Sugar Thieves Cutting It Off In Doggie Bags

AUSTIN (AP) — A newspaper survey here showed that some residents are fighting rising sugar costs by putting sugar in their pockets rather than their coffee.

Craig Edgerton of Hamburgers by Gourmet said keeping sugar behind the counter "cut sugar consumption 60 per cent and gave us a pretty good clue" how much was being taken.

Other restaurant workers say they are using open bowls and pour-top containers rather than the individual packets to cut down on thefts, but even that doesn't always work.

"They pour into little bags," moaned Buddy Holloman, manager of the Kettle Restaurant. "They'll do anything to get it out."

LEASE INSTEAD OF BUYING—Clay Barbee and Dave Rutherford, Greater Southwest Auto Leasing Inc., 2002 West Wall St., discuss the merits of leasing a car instead of buying. For more information call 682-2516.

Greater Southwest Offers Luxury Cars For Leasing

Why buy a car on time, with the headaches of ownership, when leasing would be easier and monthly payments might even be lower? You've heard that argument. Is it true? Well, leasing can be a reasonable alternative in some cases (though it's almost never cheaper) provided you fit into a rather narrow profile: You have an income above $15,000 a year, along with good credit, job and insurance records. You want a new car every two years or so, either because you pile up so much mileage or because you are willing to pay to drive a new car. Your cash can be put to better use somewhere other than in a depreciating asset like a car. You can afford the monthly lease payments on the luxurious car you want, but a down payment to buy it would be beyond reach. You want the conveniences of leasing, as opposed to the buying-selling hassle of owning more than you want to save every dollar possible. You can tell the difference between a good leasing contract and a bad one. The principles involved are comparatively simple. In most basic forms, the company buys its cars from the dealer. When you lease a car, the manager simply adds up the costs of the car, his financing, overhead and profit. He finds what mileage you expect to put on the car and estimates what the car will be worth wholesale at the end of the lease - the residual value. He subtracts this from the total cost, adds the fees for what ever extra services you want and divides the remainder into equal monthly payments. Some people like to buy the car from the company at the end of the lease and use it as a second car. If you have this in mind, make sure the contract allows it. Ultimately, you will have to determine what sort of arrangement fits your style of living; if you use your car for business or other tax-deductible purposes and want the convenience of simple and reliable records that leasing provides. For a personal and detailed discussion of your leasing needs, visit Greater Southwest Auto Leasing, Inc., 2002 West Wall St., or phone 682-2516 and discuss it with one of the qualified assistants. To assist you with your leasing needs are Clay Barbee, Dave Rutherford, LeRoy Luckey, Lynda Brinberry and Cris Hubble.

INTRODUCING THE EVOLUTIONARY NEW 1975 VOLVO.

The Volvo 244

Between smaller big cars, bigger small cars and smaller small cars, car makers are introducing a lot of "revolutionary" new cars this year.

But before you rush out to finance a revolution, consider the 1975 Volvo 240.

Years of careful evolution have created a car totally thought-out, from energy-absorbing bumper to energy-absorbing bumper.

Consider the Volvo windshield wiper. On most cars, wiper blades are shiny. And the shine can end up in your eyes. And the shining glare, Volvo paints them matte black.

All cars have head-rests. Volvo's head rests have openings so you can see behind you better.

So you can see beside you better, Volvo has another thought. Side window defoggers.

Not even the gas cap has gone unnoticed. It's red, so it's hard to lose. So it's less likely to be misplaced, we provide a place to put it: a holder behind the door.

When you add all these thoughtful little touches to Volvo's thoughtful big touches—fuel injection, rack and pinion steering, 4-wheel power disc brakes, spring-strut front suspension, 12 outlet heating and ventilation, infinitely adjustable bucket seats with lumbar supports, child-proof rear door locks, steel belted radials, rear window defroster — you have a car which some people might consider revolutionary.

But to us it's simply a Volvo. A car which has evolved through years of careful improvement into what it is today.

And what that is, is perhaps the world's most carefully thought-out car.

It's not surprising that a car like this would appeal to thoughtful people.

And the people who buy Volvos are thoughtful, indeed.

87% of them have been to college. The other 13% are just plain smart.

Wing Flap Failure Caused 747 Crash, Airline Reports

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — The crash of the Lufthansa Boeing 747 jumbo jet at Nairobi airport Wednesday was due to faulty positioning of wing flaps, according to the airline.

The crash killed 59 passengers and crew members. Twenty of the 98 survivors were hospitalized.

Lufthansa said Friday that an investigating team found that "not all lift devices were in the usual position upon takeoff."

"While the trailing edge flaps were at their correct low-degree position as reported earlier, it has meanwhile been established that the leading edge flaps were not in the extended position after takeoff," Lufthansa said.

"This would explain that the aircraft got airborne after its normal takeoff run but could not develop full climb capability due to insufficient wing lift," the airline added.

The plane crashed moments after takeoff.

Authoritative sources said the pilot, Capt. Christian Krack, and the co-pilot, Hans Joachim Schacke, both told investigators Friday that they had completed all the usual preflight checks and "everything was in a normal condition."

Democrats Try To Avoid Blow-Up

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

(An AP News Analysis)
WASHINGTON (AP) — Key Democratic factions, following the lead of the party's governors, are making progress in their effort to avoid a blow-up at next month's Kansas City charter convention.

Party leaders, headed by national chairman Robert S. Strauss, have felt that in the wake of Democratic election victories, a peaceful mini-convention is the next necessary step in showing the nation that Democrats are ready for national leadership.

Proposal Adopted
The progress in that direction began when the governors and governors-elect adopted a proposal by Ohio's John J. Gilligan to compromise an important charter dispute.

Within two days, black and labor leaders indicated they too want to settle potentially divisive questions before the 2,000 delegates open the unprecedented mid-term meeting Dec. 6.

Major Achievement
The major achievement so far is substantial agreement on a compromise anti-discrimination provision that would take the delegate selection rules already approved for 1976 and make them part of the permanent charter that will govern Democratic affairs after that date.

Other issues, however, still remain to be resolved, particularly a provision that would incorporate into the charter the 1976 rule providing proportional representation of differing viewpoints.

These, too, could be resolved before the actual mini-convention meets.

The arena in which the pre-conference compromises will be discussed is a 50-member Rules Committee, composed of the Democratic National Committee's executive committee and the executive committee of the panel that drafted the proposed charter.

To Screen Amendments
It will have authority to screen all amendments. Those rejected by the committee could still be brought to the floor with the backing of 20 Rules Committee members or 20 delegates from at least five states.

But rival factions are in might still permit some sort of quota system in 1976 and be efforts to secure approval of provisions rejected by the Rules Committee.

For example labor spokesmen who hastened to Hilton Head Island, S.C., where Democratic governors were meeting after the governors endorsed the anti-discrimination promise expressed concern it

Shreveport Man Arrested In Death Of Dallas Resident

BOSSIER CITY, La. (AP) — A Shreveport man was in custody Saturday in connection with the shooting death of a Dallas man at Padre Island and the kidnaping of his female companion.

Charged with murder, robbery and kidnaping was Tommie Lee Case, 35, arrested Friday by Bossier Parish sheriff's deputies. He has a long criminal record.

Case is charged with the slaying last Sunday of Thomas Turner, 19, and the kidnaping of Dallas cocktail waitress Frances Gardner, 18. The couple was camped with two other Dallas men when Turner was shot in the head, the two other men were robbed and Miss Gardner was abducted.

She was released unharmed Monday near Denton.

Big Spring Lions Hear Midlander

BIG SPRING — C. E. McCain of Midland, district director of the Texas Lions League for Crippled Children, was the speaker last Wednesday at the meeting of the Big Spring Downtown Lions Club.

He reviewed the triple ministry — camps for crippled and diabetic children and for the blind — supported by dues from Texas Lions and supplemented by endowments and special gifts.

Since the opening of the camp at Kerrville a number of years ago, more than 15,000 crippled children have been given a free camping experience, McCain said.

Eagle Reverses Game, Makes Hunter Cuckoo

DENVER (AP) — Terry Hauf, 25, was hunting game birds on a farm near his Yoder, Wyo., home when he was struck and knocked unconscious by an eagle. He estimated the bird's wingspan at between 4 and 5 feet.

"I didn't see the bird until I came to. He was dazed too," Hauf told reporters at a hospital where he was recuperating Friday. He added that the bird took off across the field at kind of a trot, flapping its wings.

1974 Seems To Be Destined As Year Of Terror Epidemic

By WILLIAM L. RYAN (An AP News Analysis)
Already holding dismal records in many other respects, 1974 seems destined to enter the books as the year of the great terror epidemic.

All year long bombs have speared sudden death among innocents. Hostages have been seized and ligatured with cold-blooded murder. Quixotic rebels of all manner of political persuasion have warred on establishments.

One frightening aspect of the contagion is the tendency of extremists to imitate one another, thus making it doubly likely that what has happened is only the beginning.

Last week brought shocking but far from untypical performances. Scores, including many teenagers, were killed or particularly in Mexico, which experienced a rash of political kidnappings. The Dominican Republic witnessed a spectacular seizure of the Venezuelan consulate where seven hostages, including a U.S. woman diplomat, were held for 13 harrowing days and nights.

In the Orient, young Japanese have been running riot. One August day an extremist group calling itself "Red Army" killed eight persons and injured 300 more with a bomb, and it threatened more of the same.

In the Middle East, there is no letup in the deadly cycle of random and often bloody Arab terror against Israel, answered by efficient military counter-terror against the Arabs.

Northern Ireland's ancient fratricidal feud grew in fury this year and many innocents died, caught between hatreds. — Once again last week, that violence spilled over into Britain, where Britons were noting that the "Irish war" had come to their shores with a vengeance and feeling ran high against the Irish.

The United States once was relatively free of such phenomena, but lately it has experienced frequent, if sporadic, terror, in the form of bombings, kidnappings, etc.

Headless Santa

What's behind it all? It appears that general world instability has much to do with it and there seem to be no discernible signs of cure on the horizon. Restlessness is widespread. Small wars, big feuds, ideological conflict and revolutionary ferment have made violence commonplace for many areas.

In recent times, extremists made an important discovery: Terror worked. Governments could be bent to the will of a few. Money could be made to pour into revolutionary war chests.

Study of the record suggests a striking conclusion: When spectacular terror succeeds, it is almost certain to be repeated.
