Two Convicted Murderers To Be Shot At Sunrise Jan. 21

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Two men convicted in the murders of three Ogden residents are to be shot at sunrise next Jan. 21, but a judge has permitted stays of execution to allow appeals.

Death sentences for Dale S. Pierre, 21, Brooklyn, N.Y., and William A. Andrews, 20, of Dallas, Tex., were formally pronounced Wednesday in a hushed courtroom.

Jurors assessed Pierre and Andrews the sentence last Wednesday on three counts of murder each for the killings at the Hi Fi shop here April 22.

Shortly after sentencing, Pierre and Andrews were put in unmarked cars to go to the Utah State Prison, where there has been no execution since 1960.

choice between death by hanging or a firing squad. He was sentenced first, and stood motionless with his right hand over his heart while Wahquist ordered death by the firing squad and set the Jan. 21 date.

Andrews gazed at the ceiling and around him as he was sentenced. His lawyer said he would choose the firing squad, but under protest on the ground that the choice no longer is provided in Utah statutes.

Each man was sentenced on five counts, including two five-years-to-life concurrent terms for aggravated robbery and three for the murders of Sherry Michelle Ansley, 18; Mrs. Byron Naisbitt, 52, and Stanley Walker, 20.

when armed men entered the Hi Fi Shop in Ogden the night of April 22. Three persons were forced to lie on the store's basement floor and shot to death.

Two others survived being shot. One of them—Orren Walker, Stanley Walker's father—testified at the trial that Pierre shot the victims in an apparent attempt to silence witnesses to the theft of stereo equipment.

Andrews talked about the death penalty in an interview with Salt Lake City television Station KUTV after the sentencing.

"They've had the death penalty since before Christ was born and crime hasn't ceased," Andrews said, adding that he didn't think capital punishment is a crime deterrent.

Asked what kind of punishment would be proper for the type of crime he was convicted of, he said:

"Well, it would have to be punishment wouldn't be the answer. They'd have to check out why he did it..."

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

Choice "Rewards" Shared With Readers

DEAR READERS: It's your parents now. They will Thanksgiving and I am mindful of my many blessings. Among them is the privilege of writing this column. The responsibilities are awesome, but the rewards are great.

May I share a few of the choice "rewards" of 1974 with you?

DEAR ABBY: Our problem son left home two years ago, giving us no clue as to where he was headed.

Then out of the blue we got a phone call from a volunteer from "Operations Peace of Mind" in Houston, Tex. (We live in Maryland.)

She said our son had dialed the toll free number he got from the DEAR ABBY column, and he wanted someone to call us to say that he was doing fine.

When we got that message, we told the volunteer that if our son called again to tell him that we would gladly accept a collect call from him.

The next morning our son called! He told us that he had been living in a religious commune in Santa Barbara. It's Christian with Jewish overtones.

The end of this wonderful story is that our son came home to spend Thanksgiving with us.

Will you please publish that toll free number again, so other runaways can establish communications with their families? Our son said he posted that number near phones in all the places where runaways hang out.

Thank you for returning our son to us, Abby. We love you!

ETERNALLY GRATEFUL
DEAR GRATEFUL: With pleasure: Runaway, call this toll free number: 1-800-231-6946.

An operator will telephone your parents anywhere in the United States and convey a message from you. There will be no lecturing or counseling. Your call will not be traced, and the only question asked of you will be, "Do you need anything?" If you do, you will be told where you can obtain it, free.

I repeat, no one will attempt to contact you or bring you home regardless of your age. Runaways, please forget the past and send that message to your parents now. They will sleep better tonight and so will you. God bless.

To date "Operations Peace of Mind" has been responsible for reuniting 2,064 runaways with their families. Beautiful!

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago, my mentally ill mother had been temporarily released in my care from the state mental institution. I doubted my ability to cope with her, and wrote to you in desperation.

You wrote me a beautiful letter which I came across again yesterday. I want to thank you for encouraging me to give my elderly, sick mother six months of freedom, church visits and home life after 35 years of confinement in a mental institution.

For the benefit of those who must care for their aging parents and feel it burdensome, I felt the glorious feelings you said I would feel after my mother passed away.

Being a semi-invalid myself then and now, your reminding me of Him who cares gave me the extra strength and patience I needed to cope with my mother's quarrelsome and sometimes irrational behavior.

You were right, Abby. Love found a way. May the Lord ever bless you.

GRATEFUL IN ILLINOIS

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for being an understanding friend when I was unable to turn to any of my friends here at home. I am the 45-year-old widow who believed herself to be pregnant. I wrote that I was putting my son through medical school, and asked you for abortion information. No one could have been more desperate than I.

Thanks for telling me about Planned Parenthood. I had no idea they would help in an emergency of that kind.

I really believed you when you wrote, "Please let me hear from you again. I care."

It is a great comfort to know that there is someone like you out there who cares enough to want to help others. Bless you.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—When Sam Mosenanko and Linda Slatten were married recently, they didn't forget to share their happiness with the unfortunate.

The couple asked their guests to bring a child's toy rather than the usual wedding gift. They then turned the toys and games—more than 100—over to a group of handicapped children being helped by the Sacramento County Health Agency.

"We like kids," the bride explained.

GRADUATION CEREMONY — Eleanor Dellenberger receives her certificate for completion of a Food Service Supervisors Class from James E. Bramlett, director, Department of Community Services of Midland College.

Graduation Dinner Held For Food Service Class

The Food Service Supervisors Class, offered through the Department of Community Services of Midland College, observed completion of the course with a dinner and graduation ceremony Tuesday in the cafeteria of Midland Memorial Hospital.

Twenty-eight class members received certificates.

The course instructor, Sister Aniceta Redmond, registered dietitian, of MMH, presided. She introduced James E. Bramlett, director of the Department of Community Services, Midland College, who gave the welcome address.

Several class members entertained the group with the presentation of a humorous skit prepared by members of the class.

Mrs. L. A. Curry, RD, of the Dairy Council of Midland, spoke on "The Hospital, Institution and Educational Food Service Society — How Its Members Can Serve Their Institutions."

The presentation of graduation certificates was made by Bramlett.

Special guests were the spouses of class members, administrators from health care facilities in which the students are employed and consultant dietitians from these facilities.

Institutions in 12 West Texas cities were represented.

Successful completion of the 90-hour, American Dietetic Association-approved course entitles the graduate to membership in the HIEFSS, national organization founded in 1960 by the ADA for supportive personnel in the field of dietetics. The organization offers an opportunity for individuals in similar positions to enjoy continuing education opportunities with their peers.

Former Residents Report Marriage

CLAUENE — Connie Louise Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otice E. Brown of El Paso, formerly of Midland, and Louis Ray Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Ray Webb of Camp Wood, also former Midlanders, were married at 10 a.m. today.

The ceremony was held in the Fellowship Baptist Church here, with the Rev. Homer Stephens officiating.

The bride, presented in marriage by her father, wore a candlelight ivory Victorian gown with a picture frame yoke encircled with gathered Venice lace ruffles. The high wedding band neckline had lace ruffle accents and the long slender sleeves had lace cuffs. The full princess skirt was gathered in back and swept to a chapel train. A Victorian caplet held waist-length tiers of illusion edged with lace. She carried an off-white orchid with pink carnations.

Shirley Cooper was the maid of honor and Roland Hidalgo was best man. The usher was Dennis Ward.

Mrs. L. R. Webb

A reception was held in the church's Fellowship Hall, before the couple left on a trip to Ruidoso, N. M. They will reside at 2408 Auburn St., Space 143, Lubbock. The bride is a senior student at Texas Tech University. The bridegroom is a Tech junior and is employed by Texas Instruments.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Stained Quilt Causes Grief

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Association

DEAR POLLY — Mother gave me one of my grandmother's quilts but it has a large water stain on it. I had the quilt dry cleaned but the stain remains. Does any reader know how such a stain can be removed? — N.S.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve concerns baby food jars. Everyone with a baby knows how many uses for them but one is still left with many many jars. It seems the companies could offer the customer a tiny refund for jars returned and they could be reused which would help cut down on costs and also be good ecology. — MRS. G.J.V.

DEAR POLLY — Darlyn should rub lard into the oil stains on her husband's work shirts and then let them set at least an hour before washing as usual. The odor will disappear along with the stains. My Dad worked in a steel mill and this is what my mother did to his clothes that were always greasy and oil-spotted. — D.F.M.

DEAR POLLY — Darlyn should add 1½ cup of a waterless hand soap to her wash. This removed the oil stains from my clothes and should work for her, too. — BILL

DEAR POLLY — Darlyn could remove the clear oil stains from her husband's work clothes by generously applying shampoo to the spots, let clothes rest at least half an hour and then wash with detergent as usual. Unless the stain has been "set" by a hot dryer the spots should leave. — E.M.B.

DEAR POLLY — The easiest way I have found to clean inside my young son's sneakers is to use an old bottle brush. It really gets all the dirt out of the toes. Then they are ready to toss in the washing machine to get the outside clean. — NAOMI

DEAR POLLY — I have three small children whose meat has to be cut at supper. Rather than use a knife I find it easier to use the flat end of a 2½ to 3-inch pancake turner. With one downward stroke a strip is cut and several such strokes both ways on a hamburger or meat patty and you have bite size pieces quick and easy. To put no longer used jigsaw puzzles to good use I had my children reconstruct them and then glued them to a piece of cardboard. These puzzles were all attached to a large board and make an impressive panel for the children's playroom wall. — DONNA

HOLIDAY WEDDING — Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Matthews, 1420 Ainslee St., announce the engagement of their daughter, Molly Lynn, to Thomas M. Rogers, son of Thomas Rogers of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho. The wedding is set for 7 p.m. Dec. 28 in Trinity Presbyterian Church, Miss Matthews is a Texas Tech University graduate and her fiance is attending Tarrant County Junior College.

BSP Chapter Plans Crafts, Pastry Sale

The Iota Beta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met recently in the home of Mrs. Bob Parsley, 2207 Gulf St., to make plans for a crafts and pastry sale to be held prior to Christmas at Dellwood Plaza Mall.

During the meeting, members were assigned to committees for the Little Miss Contest scheduled in March. Mrs. Travis Crouch and Mrs. Dale DeBord gave a program on Christmas crafts.

Ground Meat

Roll out biscuit dough, butter and spread with seasoned ground meat. Roll up like a jelly roll, cut in one-inch slices and bake just as you bake biscuits. Serve with tomato sauce or a rich brown gravy.

'Kidnap Breakfast' Surprises BSPs

Members of the Iota Beta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi were surprised recently with a kidnap breakfast in the home of Mrs. Danny O'Grady, 2209 Gulf St.

Co-hostesses with Mrs. O'Grady were Mrs. Bob Parsley, Mrs. Rocky Williams and Mrs. Roy Mauldin.

Surprised guests were Mrs. Kay Miller, Mrs. R. G. Albertus, Mrs. Dale DeBord, Mrs. Stephen Hoback, Mrs. Dan Ballard, Mrs. Al Holloway, Mrs. Ira Kirby, Mrs. Richard Banning and Mrs. Glen Thomason.

Bell Required Top Officials To Make Political Contributions, Ashley Claims

DALLAS (AP) — A former executive of Southwestern Bell has charged that the firm required its top officials to contribute $50 or more from their salaries to selected politicians.

The charges were made by James H. Ashley, former commercial manager for Southwestern Bell in San Antonio and now a co-plaintiff in a $29 million libel and defamation suit against the utility company.

The other plaintiff is the family of T. O. Gravitt, a former Southwestern Bell manager for Texas who committed suicide last month and reportedly left notes accusing the company of using deceitful rate-setting practices and making illegal political contributions.

Ashley said in an interview that the executives were told that money was included in their salaries for political contribution.

Denies Charges

But C. L. Todd, vice president and general manager of Southwestern Bell, called charges by Ashley and other accusations made against the company in the suit "wild and ridiculous."

"We have apparently been accused, tried, and judged in the minds of some people without benefit of a trial," Todd said, referring also to recent charges that Southwestern Bell security men helped law enforcement agencies set up illegal wiretaps.

Ashley said that "up until 1966, we gave $50 a month in cash." He added that after that a "political contact man" for Bell would send out notices to executives telling them where to send the contributions. The money then was paid by personal check, Ashley said.

"We had no choice," Ashley said. "We were required to make those 'voluntary' contributions."

Ashley Fired

Ashley was fired by Southwestern Bell during an internal probe which the company said touched on Gravitt's area of responsibility. Ashley claims in the suit he was fired and Gravitt "hounded into suicide" because the two resisted "corporate rapacities."

Todd said that the charges made against the company "will be answered thoroughly and completely in court."

Referring to Ashley, he said some of the charges he has made, "are the very reasons for which he was dismissed."

Ashley said the contributions amounted to $90,000 a year. He added that he knows from experience that this same system of political contributions was used among Bell executives outside of Texas.

Raises Given

Ashley said that in 1966 Bell executives were given $1,000 raises with the understanding that all or part of this money was to be used for the political contributions. The executives then received handwritten notices telling them where to send the contribution and for what amount.

San Antonio attorney Pat Maloney, who is handling the suit against Southwestern Bell, said that among Gravitt's papers were notes directing him to make political contributions and canceled personal checks made out to a number of politicians.

But a Bell spokesman said there was no way such raises could be given "because of the rigid criteria set forth for granting raises."

Ashley claimed the political contributions were "disguised as executive salaries."

Executive salaries are one expense considered in the establishment of the telephone company's rate use, Ashley said.

Embarrassment Cited

Todd said that public charges made against Southwestern Bell have become a source of embarrassment for "thousands of honest telephone employees."

He denied the wiretapping claims by Ashley and added he was "amazed that any such groundless charge, from wiretapping to improper rate-making methods, could be made by anyone—nameless or named—and reported as fact."

Todd said he personally "could take charges leveled" at him, but added that the charges "hurt and humiliate fellow employees."

"It seems that our long and unblemished record for honesty and civic work has been forgotten," Todd said. "It seems that some have forgotten that telephone people are their neighbors and friends, often praised for their interest in community affairs."

Man Dies Six Years After Getting New Lease On Life With Heart Transplant

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Louis B. Russell Jr., who survived longer than any other person with a transplanted heart, is dead at age 49.

Russell, a school teacher in Indianapolis, died at the Medical College of Virginia Hospital on Wednesday — six years and three months after receiving a new lease on life.

His body was to be taken to Terre Haute, Ind., today. A funeral service will be held Monday in Indianapolis.

Death came after a sudden turnaround in Russell's condition. At the end of last week, doctors had given him a clean bill of health and planned to release him Wednesday.

But doctors reported Tuesday morning that his condition had taken a turn for the worse. He had suffered his first serious setback since receiving the heart of a 17-year-old boy in an operation on Aug. 24, 1968.

His condition worsened until his death Wednesday morning. The 34th person in medical history to undergo heart transplant surgery, Russell had returned to Richmond for periodic checkups since his operation.

He always appeared in good health.

But when he came back Oct. 7, Russell complained that he hadn't been feeling as well as usual. Doctors soon implanted a pacemaker to regulate his heartbeat and he improved rapidly.

His wife, Thelma, had arrived here when Russell was preparing to return home, and she was at the hospital when he died.

During those six years after Russell's new heart was implanted, he led a vigorous and active life, traveling about the country and robustly telling everyone he met how great it felt to be alive.

By DOROTHY CRYDER
Copley News Service
JOLIET, Ill. — Do bottles

turn you on?
I confess I hadn't thought too much about bottles, particularly empty ones, until I attended the Bottle Show and Sale here. The show, sponsored by the Chicago Jim Beam Club, drew collectors and dealers from all over the United States.
What kind of person collects bottles? Almost anyone and everyone I discovered.
It starts with a decanter at Christmas or a birthday. When the liquor is gone, the container is too pretty to throw away. Presto, a new collector is born!
A collector races from store to store, to flea markets, garage sales, even to garbage dumps always searching for a bottle he doesn't have.
The originator of the fancy ceramic bottles was the James Beam Distilling Co. of Clermont, Ky.
In 1955 the distillery had an abundance of very old bourbon and the president of the company asked his executive staff to find a way to dispose of this valuable sipping bourbon.
They hit on the idea of making ceramic bottles, hoping they would be the answer.
In the first years they did not sell too well. However, as the public began to save the ornate decanters rather than throwing them away, their value grew.
The hobby spread and today it ranks just behind collecting coins and stamps.

"Collecting Jim Beam bottles is the household word in thousands of homes throughout the world," explained Angelo Aggelopoulos of Joliet, president of the Chicago Jim Beam Bottle and Specialties Club.
He said there now are 75 clubs worldwide and many more are in the process of being formed.
Bottles range in price from $5 to $2,900 for the First National Bank of Chicago bottle. There only were 125 of these handsome gold-trimmed blue decanters made in 1964 for the 100th anniversary of Chicago's First Bank.
Aggelopoulos said the Jim Beam company has over 300 requests per year from businesses, organizations and centenarians asking to have a commemorative bottle made for a special occasion.
Only 35 requests per year are honored.
The Spokane, Wash., Expo '74

World Fair has been honored with such a commemorative bottle.

Aggelopoulos said the company is making a Model T Ford bottle that will look exactly like that vintage automobile. Only recently the 1904 Oldsmobile and Volkswagen were duplicated into liquor decanters.

Lacking the $2,900 to purchase the elegant First National Bank bottle, I was struck by two particularly appealing ones, the famous Emmett Kelly clown, and one of old "ski nose" himself—Bob Hope, made for his 14th annual golf classic.

For Civil War buffs there also are two—one for the South featuring Gen. Robert E. Lee and the Confederate soldiers and the other for the North with Gen. U. S. Grant and the Union Army.
Although Aggelopoulos is the handworking president and spark plug of the 250-member area club, he no longer is a bottle collector.

"I had a really great collection, and then one night when we were out for dinner, our house was robbed," he said.

"They took everything not tacked down but not the bottles because they didn't realize how valuable they were.

"But it scared me and I decided to sell my collection," he added.

Other leading distilleries that now manufacture ceramic decanters and had collectors at the show were Lionstone, Ezra Brooks, Grenadiers and Ski Country.

Forecasters Cautious

Guarding against sticking their necks out is an old precaution of weather predictors, the National Geographic says. "Poor Robin" wrote in his 1664 almanac: "We may expect some showers of rain this month, or the next, or the next after that or else we shall have a very dry spring."

Special Aura Surrounds Members Of Blue Angel Team

By BETH POLSON
Copley News Service
SAN DIEGO, Calif. — Take his A-4 II away from a Blue Angel and he's just another fighter pilot. But give him a royal blue jumpsuit, a gold neckerchief and his airplane and he's a hero.

PLEASANT SURROUNDINGS — Pryor Shoes, 120 North Main St., has a complete line of shoes for men and women. You'll enjoy the pleasant surroundings and pleasing atmosphere, plus the friendly, courteous service and special fitting knowledge.

An aura surrounds him. People want his autograph. Men admire. Women gush. And children put him in a place formerly held by Hank Aaron or Larry Conka.

An Angel smiles and says he believes in what he's doing. "You have to give up a lot of your personal life and you have to smile all the time," said Capt. John Fogg, the only Marine member of the Blue Angels' 1974 team.

"Every one of us has to feel that he has the ability to go out and sell a program," Lt. Jerry Tucker said. "And that program is the Navy."

The Navy's precision flying team, the Blue Angels talk about their job is no different than that of any other fighter pilot.

"The big difference," Tucker said, "is that the public sees us. They don't see the average naval aviator who flies over Vietnam."

"No one of us could do this by ourselves," said Lt. Vance Parker, "or learn it by ourselves."

"They're not going to remember our names," Lt. Cmdr. Marlin Wiita said. "They'll remember the Blue Angels but they won't remember us."

But is there a special Blue Angel image?

The group sat relaxing in a conference room at nearby Miramar Naval Air Station. When a photographer came in, they put their neckerchiefs back on.

"We work on our image but that's our job," Tucker said.

Why do people like that image?

"I think people identify with us a little bit. They project themselves into the cockpit maybe," Fogg said.

"Fogg is a psychology major," Wiita said.

"It's hard to say why people come to see us," Parker said. "We don't know why people come to air shows."

"From the feedback we get, people say things like they're glad to see their tax dollars going into something so professional," Cmdr. Tony Less, commanding officer and flight leader, said. Less is known as "the boss" to the other pilots.

How does being a Blue Angel change one's life?

"I feel like I'm about 103 years old," Wiita said.

"We find out more about ourselves," Lt. John Chebansky said. "It motivates you to put out 100 per cent of the time."

"The family separation bothers me," Cmdr. Less said. "I'm away from my wife and children 250 days a year. But I think we're going to wind up better naval officers for having been Blue Angels."

"I think I have a better understanding of people and institutions now," Wiita said. "I found out I was very parochial."

"If you had perceived any barriers before, I think you would come off the team with confidence to be able to tackle anything," Fogg said.

The Angels are away from their Pensacola, Fla., base more than 250 days per year.

The schedule is demanding, professionally and socially. People like to talk with the Angels, so the pilots get invited to numerous cocktail parties and dinners. They all dress alike in blue blazers, plaid pants and blue patent leather and suede shoes for such occasions.

"They looked so much alike I even met one twice," one woman said at a cocktail party for the Angels here. "I even went around checking their socks. They all wear the same socks."

But do women basically like the image?

"I think that's one of the main myths about the Blue Angels," Wiita said. "I sit here and observe (he's married). And all those dollies that are supposed to be chasing 'em just aren't around."

Is there a bigger following of children or women?

"Children, dammit," Parker said.

Midland Youth Center Chatter

By GAYLE GRIMLAND, VICKI THROCKMORTON And LESLIE MORGAN

This is Thanksgiving Day. Think for a moment about what this day really means. It is a time to be especially thankful for all our many blessings, so count those blessings now and every day of the year.

Welcome home to all Bulldog exes. Finally we get to see those who we have missed in our halls this year for the first time.

Our talented speech team represented MHS victoriously last weekend at the West Texas State Forensic Tournament, bringing home many individual trophies and an over all third in sweepstakes.

Last night everyone had a foot stompin', knee slappin' good time at the Y. C., as the King Country Roads band from Nashville strummed out lots of lively country tunes. The Youth Center will be planning more fun dances.

Ice cream sundaes, banana boats, the Youth Center is gonna have a winning float! Junior Council members, 100 Club members, and anyone else who would like to help with the float come any night, starting at 7, to Trinity Mud Co., 201 S. Baird St. We won't be working tonight, though since it's Thanksgiving. The float needs to be finished by Dec. 5 for the Christmas Parade on Dec. 7, so everyone come out and let's get busy.

The German and French clubs are having paper drives. If you would like to contribute to their cause, call one of the officers and a club member will come by and pick up your papers. For German Club contact Dale Rittenhouse, 682-5475; French Club, Katie Arnold at 682-9197.

Friday and Saturday, Lee High will host many basketball teams for the annual Tall City Basketball Tournament. MHS roundballers will begin play at 7:30 p.m. Friday. They'll be looking for a good turnout to back them all the way to the finals. Tournament tickets are being sold by basketball players for $2, which is cheaper than having to buy a ticket to get into each game.

The cagers will have their first home game next Tuesday against Pecos. Varsity begins at 8 p.m. with the J. V. preceding it at 6:15. The predictions read a winning season for Bulldog roundballers, so let's back 'em all the way to state.

Hope everyone is out on the streets selling magazines after the inspiring assembly last Tuesday. It pays off in the end to sell magazines with prizes like a bike, stereo, cash or giant slow pokes. Let's help support either Jeff or Mary to their foreign country this summer. So hit Midland with the ol' one-two sales pitch.

Since this is a day for thanks, we speak for many when we give our thanks to our leader, Rasco. Along with his arrival, Rasco has brought success and restored faith in the Y. C. WE LOVE YOU RASCO!!!

Happy Giving,
Gayle
Leslie
Vicki

P.S. John Kennedy will be celebrating his 18th birthday Sunday. You're finally legal!

P.S.S. Nancy Nickel begged to have her name in the Chatter so here it is — Nancy Nickel! That's three times, Nancy.

Ford, Kissinger Visits Bitter Pills For North Koreans

By EDWARD NEILAN
Copley News Service
WASHINGTON — The most unique political impact of President Ford's Asian trip could be felt in a country he didn't visit—North Korea.

The spectacle of the President of the United States—Pyongyang's most intensely hated enemy—visiting the "puppet" South Korean leader Chung Hee Park in Seoul is one thing. Even Mr. Ford's visit to Japan (home of more than 600,000 overseas Koreans) can be swallowed in the North Korean capital.

But the U.S. President's reception in Vladivostok by Soviet Party leader Leonid I.

Brezhnev is a bitter pill. The Soviet Union has been North Korea's most consistent patron in terms of military and economic aid since the founding of the country in 1948.

Adding insult to injury for North Korea was the visit of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to the Peoples Republic of China, after the Ford-Brezhnev meeting in Vladivostok.

The shock waves of Ping-Pong diplomacy that saw China and the United States improve relations stirred some rethinking of North Korea's rigid policies toward South Korea. An agreement to hold talks was made in August 1971, and on July 4, 1972, North and South Korea announced an agreement to work toward national reunification through peaceful means and to end the atmosphere of mutual hostility that had prevailed.

But the talks bogged down and North Korea resumed a tough stance, seemingly with the support of both China and the Soviet Union.

The meetings of Mr. Ford and Kissinger with the Russians and Chinese respectively, in North Korea's own backyard has to be perplexing to Pyongyang policy makers. It is an awkward situation for them to explain to the 15 million citizens of what has been called the most thoroughly communized nation in the world.

Diplomats representing Peking and Moscow will have some explaining to do also as they try to convince the North Koreans that their apparent friendliness with the United States does not represent serious backsliding from Communist principles.

Pyongyang has made some relatively bold criticisms of the Chinese and Soviet ventures into detente with the United States. But because of the country's tiny size (slightly smaller than Mississippi) and economic dependence on its Communist neighbors, the North Koreans have few options to pursue in trying to allay their frustrations.

After World War II, the Soviet Union provided the economic and military aid that enabled North Korea to mount its invasion of South Korea in 1950.

Soviet influence and assistance remained at a high level throughout and following the war and was responsible for much of the rebuilding of the postwar North Korean economy.

Chinese troops, dispatched as "volunteers" during the Korean War, remained in North Korea until 1958, increasing Peking's influence.

In 1961, North Korea signed formal treaties of mutual assistance with Moscow and Peking which continue in force.

In 1962, North Korea began to lean toward China's militant political line as the Sino-Soviet dispute intensified.

North Korean relations with Moscow reached their lowest ebb in 1964 but economic and trade ties have since improved (more than 50 per cent of North Korea's trade is with Moscow) even though ideological disagreements remain.

Pyongyang's relations with China were strained in 1967 when Red Guards, in the midst of the cultural revolution, sharply criticized North Korea's leader Kim Il Sung, who epitomizes personality-cult political leadership.

North Korea's relations with both Communist powers are regarded as quite good at present. American visitors to China in 1973 noted large delegations of North Korean civilians and military officers in leading Chinese cities.

China backs the North Korean position at the United Nations, where another Korea debate is due soon. A main goal of the Communist powers is removal of U.S. military forces still based in South Korea.

North Korea's diplomatic ties outside the Communist bloc are limited. In 1973, with Peking prodding, full diplomatic relations were established with Sweden, Denmark, Finland and Iran.

Award-Winning Mailman Now Charged With Crime

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Four years ago Frank Sosnenski received an award for his work as a letter-carrier. Now postal inspectors have filed a complaint charging him with detaining and delaying mail intended for delivery—12 to 15 tons of it.

Louisville Postmaster S. N.

DeVito said the mail was found in Sosnenski's home, most of it in the attic.

Sosnenski, 54, has been employed by the Postal Service since 1964. He has been a carrier on a route in southwestern Louisville since 1967.

Christmas Tree Prices Going Up

SEATTLE (AP) — With the holiday shopping season about to begin, the next likely price increase will be for — you guessed it — Christmas trees.

Representatives of the multi-million-dollar Christmas tree industry in Washington state say the prices are likely to be 10-15 per cent higher than last year, although no one is willing to predict just what the prices will be on the highly competitive retail market.

"Nobody will know for sure until they open up the lots," says Paul Reid, whose firm ships out 300,000 trees a year. "This is free enterprise, you bet your life it is. It's not like prices on sugar or oil."

DeVito said the mail was found in Sosnenski's home, most of it in the attic.

Sosnenski, 54, has been employed by the Postal Service since 1964. He has been a carrier on a route in southwestern Louisville since 1967.

Officials said the amount of first class mail found was "very small in terms of percentage." Most of it was advertising matter, catalogs, toothpaste samples and the like. DeVito said he had no idea how many individual pieces of mail were involved.

"This kind of mail doesn't usually generate complaints," DeVito said, explaining how the mail stack grew for six years before being discovered. He said the Postal Service relies heavily on customer complaints in discovering problems about nondelivery of mail.

He estimates it will take about a month for the half dozen persons assigned the task to deliver the mail.

Sosnenski appeared before U.S. Magistrate Dale R. Booth and was released on his own recognizance Tuesday. A preliminary hearing was set for Dec. 5.

Nostalgia Said To Be 'In' For Christmas Greetings

NEW YORK (AP) — This holiday season marks the 100th anniversary of the first mass-produced Christmas cards in America.

It is a year when card buyers are expected to show a decided preference for nostalgic themes. Cards bearing religious greetings and traditional messages are expected to follow in popularity, with contemporary and humorous design themes coming next in appeal.

This is the prediction of Morry Weiss, president of the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers, and group vice president of American Greetings Corp.

"After another year of inflation, the continuing political turmoil, materials shortages and other energy crisis problems," says Weiss, "Americans are yearning for things that remind them of less complicated, more peaceful times. The exchange of Christmas greetings affords them one opportunity to recall them through cards reminiscent of those times."

Although some Americans exchanged greetings at Christmas prior to 1874, at least one Christmas-type card was printed here at that time, it wasn't until 1874 that lithographer Louis Prang produced a line of cards which he introduced in England — where the custom of sending cards had been gaining in popularity since 1843.

He began selling his cards in the United States and within five years was turning out more than 5 million each Christmas.

The first Yule greetings were

Colombia Explains Oil Policy

By PENNY LERNOUX
Copley News Service

BOGOTA, Colombia — Colombia hopes to get back into the world oil market, but under its own terms, not those of the foreign oil companies.

"No more concessions" to the big petroleum companies, is the keynote of this South American country's new oil policy.

Concessions, that is to say, a relatively free hand for the foreign oilmen, are outdated, Colombia feels, just as do neighboring Venezuela, Latin America's most bountiful oil producer, and Peru, which is developing its petroleum resources under a system of service or association contracts.

From now on, in Colombia, foreign oil investors will be welcome only if they work for the state oil enterprise, Ecopetrol.

The 169 petroleum concessions that Colombia has granted over the years will be respected, but when they expire, current plans call for their replacement by contracts.

The decision to switch to service contracts is economically motivated. The government hopes to significantly up its take of the profits under association contracts.

Under the concession system, foreign companies in Colombia paid 11.5 per cent in royalties plus taxes and exploited their oil fields with a minimum of government interference for stated periods, usually around 30 years.

Under association contracts, the company enters into a partnership with Ecopetrol. The company pays all the costs of exploration but, if it strikes it rich, it must share the oil or its cash equivalent with Ecopetrol. Profits are split on a 50-50 basis after the state takes a 20 per cent royalty and the foreign company amortizes its costs.

Moving with the times, the foreign oil companies do not object to association contracts "so long as we can make a reasonable profit," as one oil executive explained.

There are some 550 requests for petroleum concessions pending approval by the mines and energy ministry now. Under the new rules, they will be converted to association contracts if the companies so desire. The quests cover 92 million acres and were submitted by many of the same companies already operating concessions in Colombia. Texaco, Gulf, Phillips, Arco, Cities Service, Chevron Petroleum and British Petroleum are prominent among them. Concessions already granted total 12.5 million acres.

Association with Ecopetrol is the least of the companies' worries, say oilmen.

small single cards (usually 3 1/2 by 5 inches) illustrated on one side (from 8 to 20 color plates) with blank spaces for the sender to add his message.

After 1885, the American market was flooded with imported cards, primarily German, which imitated the designs but not the quality of the Prang originals. They were so cheap that he could not compete and ceased publication in 1894.

It wasn't until 1906 that the American greeting card industry began and started producing sentiments for all occasions.

Unlike Prang's cards, this generation of cards emphasized sentiment rather than illustration.

In the period between the wars the custom of sending greeting cards, not only at Christmas, but throughout the year, became firmly established.

And it was during this period and the historical into contemporary times.

He cited especially the popularity of early Americana with old-fashioned dress and rural settings and sentiments that recall the simplicity of yesteryear as typical of the nostalgia trend that is growing ever stronger.

In the religious card category, Weiss sees a trend toward designs highlighting the basics of the season — the Christ child, the Nativity, messages and the Bible — rather than snow-topped church spires, ornate, stained-glass church windows and similar designs popular in past years.

For the young and the young-at-heart, he predicts a continued demand for Yule greetings with a tender, sensitive design and message.

For the card sender with a sense of humor, Weiss sees a preference for the tongue-in-cheek "poverty" approach design in cards and messages.

Cuba Claims Vote In Quito Doesn't Reflect Reality

By ALFONSO CASTRO
Copley News Service
MEXICO CITY — Most of the governments in the Western Hemisphere appear to side with Communist Cuba.

True, only a dozen nations voted at the recent foreign ministers conference in Quito in favor of lifting the 10-year-old economic and diplomatic sanctions imposed on Premier Fidel Castro's dictatorship.

But, the way the Cuban Communists count things, that vote did not accurately reflect the hemispheric opinion of the Castro regime.

Although Costa Rica, Colombia and Venezuela, Cuba's newest team of apologists, were unable to drum up the 14 affirmative votes required to compel a two-thirds majority in Cuba's favor, not all hemisphere republics were able to vote at the Quito meeting.

Canada, Barbados, Jamaica and Guyana fell in that category. All maintain formal relations with Cuba. But neither Canada nor Guyana are members of the Organization of American States, which imposed the sanctions in July, 1964, and neither Barbados nor Jamaica are signatories to the inter-American reciprocal assistance treaty, under terms of which Cuba was quarantined.

The way Cuba's apologists like to view things, votes of those four nations added to the 12 affirmative ballots that the eligible countries cast mean that relations with Cuba. But neither and eight other countries—Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Guatemala, Haiti, Nicaragua, Paraguay and Uruguay—oppose Castro's dictatorship.

There is a flaw in the Cuban Communist argument.

Those Latin American diplomats who demanded and obtained convocation of the foreign ministers meeting in Quito, knew in advance which nations would have the right to vote and which would be limited to merely observer status.

To bolster their forces, however, Cuba's supporters did insist that both Jamaica and Barbados be given at least a voice in conference proceedings. Nevertheless, they miscalculated. Apparently they were counting on Haiti, which is Cuba's nearest neighbor, to the east, to vote with them.

And then, knowing the disinclination of the United States, at this point in time, to withhold the deciding vote, they expected it to go along with the majority.

But things did not work out that way. Mexican diplomatic sources told newsmen that Venezuela turned down a Haitian request for a sizable loan, and Haiti abstained.

To judge by postconference statements, a number of the dozen nations that voted in favor of the Cuban Communists plan to re-establish relations with the Castro dictatorship in defiance of the Organization of American States, already Mexico, Peru, Argentina and Panama, along with the English-speaking countries of the Caribbean, Jamaica, Barbados, Trinidad and Guyana, have normal relations with the Havana government.

Judge Reduces Ramsey Sentence

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge has reduced from five to three years the prison sentence of former Harris County Commissioner V. V. Ramsey.

U.S. District Court Judge Woodrow Seals has ordered Ramsey to surrender to federal agents by Dec. 10.

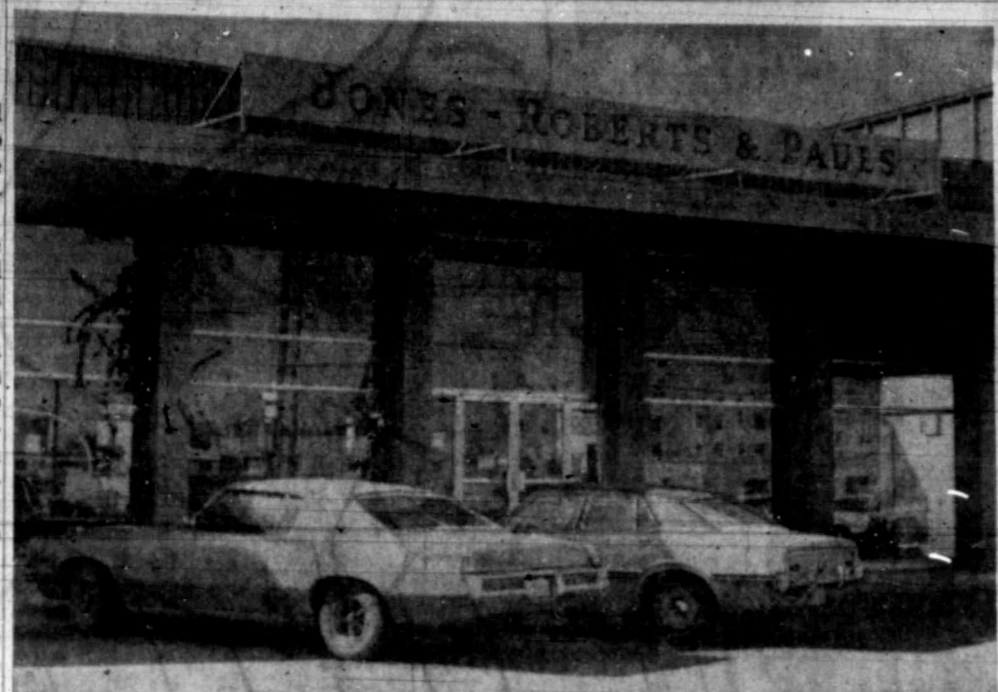

Ramsey, 60, was named in a three-count indictment which accused him of taking bribes to influence his acts as commissioner, alleging he was liable for the voting machine department and that the mail was used to effect a fraud on the county.

He was convicted in January 1973 after a three-week trial. He was later sentenced to five years in prison and fined $21,000 by Seals.

Efforts to appeal the conviction were not successful when the Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans reported it found no reason to reverse the Houston federal court decision.

Seals, in reducing the sentence Tuesday, commented that certain medical and financial statements submitted by Ramsey's lawyers had been taken into advisement.

Ramsey has been free on $5,000 bond. He served as a commissioner for 18 years before he was defeated in 1970.

Oval Office Renovated

WASHINGTON (AP) — While President Ford was traveling last week, renovations were begun on his Oval Office.

Out went a blue rug and the battle flags that stood behind the desk when Richard M. Nixon was chief executive. In came a yellow rug, a portrait of Benjamin Franklin and a grandfather clock.

"The President wanted an office that more reflects his style and taste. He wanted a room that was less formal and had a warmer feeling about it," a spokeswoman said.

Onoda Not Happy With Homeland

TOKYO (AP) — A former intelligence officer in Japan's old imperial army who hid out in a Philippine jungle for 30 years is disenchanted and having difficulty adjusting to a new life after a gap of three decades.

In the half year since he came back to Japan, former Lt. Hiroo Onoda has written a best seller on his experiences, brushed up on his tango steps, gone in for Japanese fencing, started driving lessons and traveled up and down the Japanese islands.

He has also moved frequently to escape the news media and the curious public. The 52-year-old Onoda now declines interviews and refuses to answer questions, but on a recent visit to Brazil he told Sao Paulo newsmen that he plans to move to Brazil, because he is disappointed in his homeland.

Information from persons who have been in contact with him and from published reports in two Japanese weekly news magazines show he is disillusioned. This came despite the hero's welcome he was accorded when he returned home after his surrender on Lubang Island, 75 miles southwest of Manila, March 10, 1974. He gave himself up only on orders from his onetime superior officer.

Since he emerged from the jungle and returned home, Onoda, like another straggler before him, has been sought after eagerly to tell about his experiences at public gatherings. The earlier straggler, former Sgt. Shotchi Yokoi, was captured by two fishermen near his jungle hideout in Guam after hiding 29 years. He returned to Japan in 1972, six months later married a 44-year-old spinster, toured the country giving lectures, ran unsuccessfully in the parliamentary elections last July and also wrote a book.

His return, activities and adjustments were different from Onoda. The two news magazines, Shukan Asahi and Shukan Shincho, reported in extensive articles that one of Onoda's problems is that he doesn't like being tied to his mother's apron strings.

Material pieced together on him was said to show: His mother, Tamae Onoda, 88, a former women's college teacher, is proud of the Spartan-like education she and her husband Tanejiro, 86, gave their five sons and two daughters. Now that he's home, she expects Hiroo to show devotion. He feels that they are being selfish.

"I did my duty and didn't bring shame on the family," he said. "Now I'd like to lead an ordinary life."

Two weeks after his return to Japan he left Kinan, his hometown in southeasterly Honshu, for seclusion to write his memoirs. His book, "My 30 Year War in Lubang Island," first serialized in a popular weekly magazine, has sold 170,000 copies.

He occasionally dropped into the bars on the Ginza. He doesn't touch a drop of hard liquor but enjoys singing newswar songs. He likes to dance, having learned in China as a clerk in a lacquerware export house before he was conscripted in 1942.

As a youth, Onoda was known as a dandy who also loved the blues and the waltz. The 5 foot 2 former officer is again a natty dresser, wears fashionable glasses and keeps trim by calling at a kendo, Japanese fencing, hall where he displays the finesse of the old Samurai warrior, swinging the bamboo sword from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. once a week against some 10 opponents.

Battle Scene

By Ted Battles

It's About Time . . .

Texas Coach Darrell Royal has hinted at several times within the last year and now seven of the eight Pacific Eight Conference members have endorsed a return to one-platoon football on the collegiate level, so maybe it will happen one of these days.

Imposing a 30-player a year recruiting limit led the coaches to re-examine the possibility, but soaring expenses and the threat of what the HEW may require in the way of equal opportunities for women in athletics make such a move more than idle conversation.

Two platoon football's effect on what were once great competitive rivalries and the financial structure of some of the have-not victims makes it something that should have come under scrutiny a long time ago.

Most of the competitive and financial woes of the TCUs, SMUs, and others not blessed with unlimited exchequer resources can be traced to the adoption of the gradual swing to unlimited substitutions.

The Michigan's, Nebraskas, Oklahomas, Ohio States, Texas, Alabamas and Southern Californias have flourished simply because they have vacuumed up all the top talent in sight. So maybe they miss on a few, but it really doesn't matter. With a surplus of blue chipper lured to their campus by the prospect of playing for a national champion, they can afford to guess wrong.

Perhaps what is worse, however, is that they don't guess wrong that often and talent that could be playing regularly elsewhere languishes in obscurity or is relegated to menial tasks and token appearances.

It's a little surprising to see Royal join the one-platoon ranks since his program has flourished artistically, at least, under the present system.

In fact, it's downright magnanimous, since Royal figures to suffer more than anyone else in the Southwest Conference.

USC Likes Its Breathers

USC, on the other hand, is the lone member of the Pacific Eight against the change. Perhaps, John McKay doesn't relish the idea of playing Oregon, Oregon States and Washington that might suddenly emerge as Rose Bowl challengers. After all, he has a pretty good thing going on the West Coast. Outsider of Notre Dame, UCLA, Stanford and maybe an occasional sleeper like Arkansas this year, McKay has a schedule of breather typical of 30 years ago.

The same goes for Ohio State and the rest of the powers. The Buckeyes play a one-game schedule against Michigan, but the surprising thing is that a Purdue or Michigan State usually slips up on the Buckeyes on their way to the dance.

One other aspect of two-platoon has hurt the college game in relation to the pros . . . and it was adopted by the colleges to combat the growing popularity of the pros at a time when the colleges didn't know when they were well off . . . is player identity, which is paramount to fan involvement.

The way players flood in and out, outside of the quarterback, a running back or two and a spectacular wide receiver, unless it's your team, they're just a bunch of bodies, here today and gone in a couple of years.

When you come right down to it, last year the pros adopted rule changes in an attempt to loosen up a game that has been computerized to the brink of boredom and stagnation. The pros have become fanatical about perfection on every play and at every position to the point where they have virtually de-humanized the game and it has become a giant chess game dictated from the sidelines.

Many of the changes sought after last season could be achieved by bringing back one-platoon football. Think of the challenges it would offer.

O. J. Simpson is a joy to watch when he's running the ball, but O. J. on defense might offer the opposition a seam to exploit.

And, although they'd probably pass special legislation to protect the Dresden china, those fragile quarterbacks, would Roger Staubach, Joe Namath or Roman Gabriel produce as many points as they might surrender as defensive safeties? Where would you hide a Paul Warfield or Randy Vahata on defense?

Classy Field Tips Off Tall City Play

By BOB DILLON

The 7th annual Tall City Invitational Basketball Tourney gets underway Friday with a classy eight-team entry field set for the Lee Fieldhouse for the two-day, 12-game affair.

Four games are on tap Friday with always-tough El Paso Austin's Panthers taking on Amarillo Tascosa's Rebels in the 4 p.m. opener. Then at 6 p.m. the El Paso Coronado Thunderbirds tangle with the Lubbock Monterey Plainsmen followed by the Midland-Del Rio clash at 7:30 p.m. Midland Lee takes Hereford in the feature game, starting at 9:00 p.m.

A full eight-game schedule is on tap for Saturday with the first loser's bracket game at 10 a.m. followed by games at 11:30 a.m.; 1 p.m.; 2:30 p.m.; 4 p.m.; 6 p.m.; 7:30 p.m. and 9 p.m.

Trophies will be given for first, second, third, fourth consolation and seventh place honors, according to Coach Stueckler of Lee who is the tourney director for this year's meet.

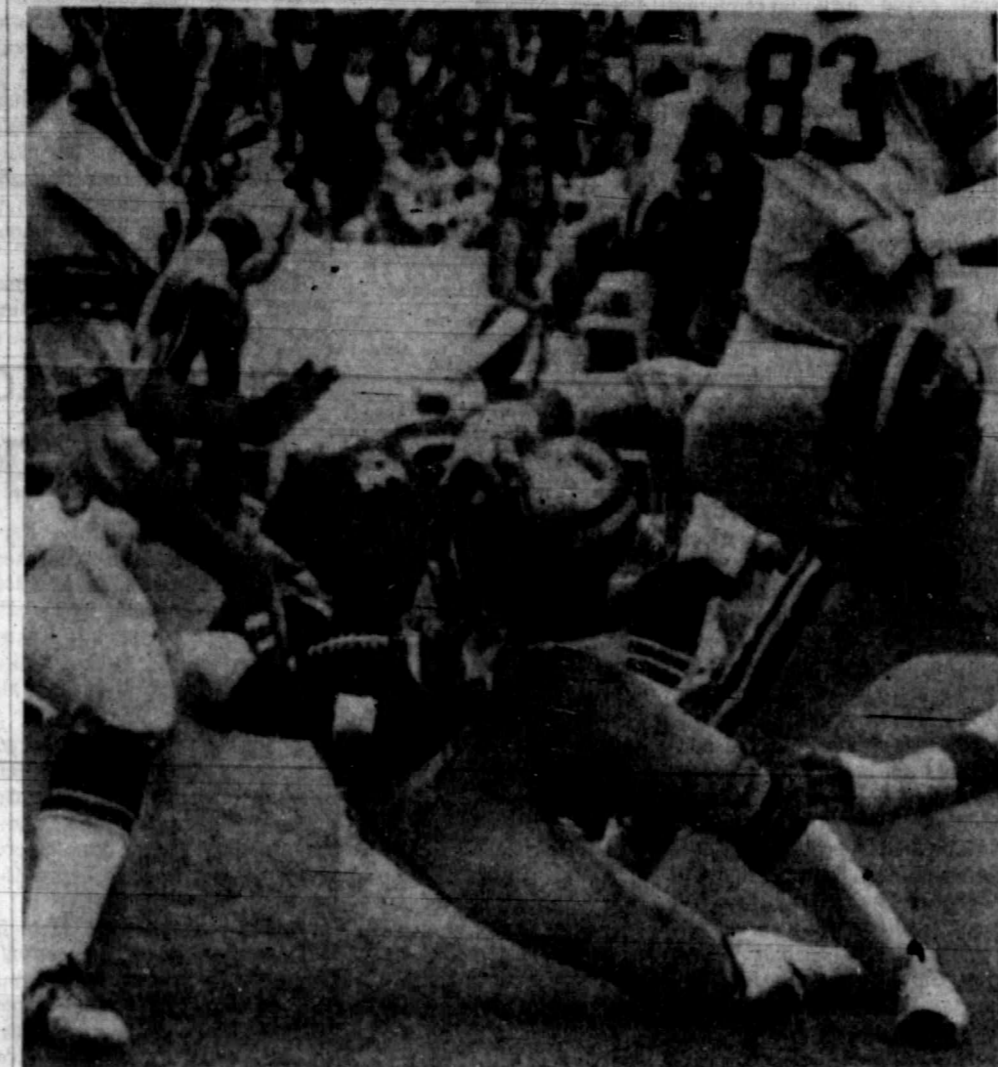

Both Midland and Lee bring 2-0 records into the tourney and could wind up facing each other in the championship game. Both, if they win in the first round will face tough semifinal opponents to gain the finals, however. El Paso Austin and Monterey will be favored along with the two Tall City teams to take opening round games.

Stueckler's Rebels have won four of the previous six tournaments with Midland winning the title in 1971 and 1972, beating Monterey both times.

Lee beat Amarillo Palo Duro in the 1968 finals and then Lubbock Coronado the following year. Then in 1970, the Rebs gunned down El Paso Austin in the finals followed by two of Midland's victories over the Plainsmen under Coach James Cagle.

Last year, the Rebs, behind the 23-point performance of Melvin Jackson, dumped a strong San Antonio Jefferson

Aggies, Steers Forego Turkey For Grid Feast

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Longhorns have won 23, lost 11 and tied one in the traditional Thanksgiving turkey games although early season A&M injuries knocked out Texas A&M's bid for the Cotton Bowl.

Steak and potatoes were on the menu as Texas Coach Darrell Royal wanted his troops' stomachs in shape for the noon kickoff Friday before a sellout Memorial Stadium crowd of 77,500 and a national television audience.

If eighth-ranked A&M wins, it would represent the Southwest Conference against No. 10 Penn State in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas Jan. 1. If the Aggies lose, they would be shut out of the bowl's despite an 8-3 record. Baylor would play Penn State in Gator Bowl.

Texas, No. 17 with a 7-3 record, has accepted a spot, win or lose, in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 30, to play No. 7 Auburn.

Asked if he was excited about that prospect, Royal, whose teams have been to the Cotton Bowl six straight years as SWC champions, said:

"I couldn't get excited traveling with John Glenn right now, not until this A&M ball game's out of the way."

It will match Texas' Wishbone-T offense, featuring the powerful thrusts of the fullbacks Earl Campbell, 226, and Roosevelt Leaks, 220, and 200-pound quarterback Marty Akins, against the Aggies' devastating defense, the best in the conference with an average yield of only 122.2 yards rushing a game.

But the Aggies have three of the top 10 runners in the SWC, led by junior Bubba Bean with 915 yards and a 6.2-yard average, and Texas' defense, anchored by 250-pound tackle Doug English, held No. 1 Oklahoma to a season low of 16 points.

A&M, says Royal, has the best team Texas has played since Oklahoma defeated the Longhorns, 16-13.

"I think they are larger, taller, stronger, I think they're more physical than us."

A 13-day break since A&M defeated Rice (on Nov. 16) has allowed halfback Skip Walker, 180-pound speedster and the Aggies' second best rusher with 540 yards and a 5.7-yard average, to recover from ankle in-

Lions Favored

Pitt, Penn State Kick Off Big Weekend

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Established Penn State meets emerging Pitt tonight on national television, and Nittany Lions' safety Jim Bradley says he's pleased the Pitt Panthers aren't patsies anymore.

Although Pitt led 13-9 at half-time last season, Penn State went on to a 35-13 triumph. That's the closest Pitt has come in eight straight losses to Penn State.

"I like these big games much better," said Bradley. "They're more fun that the ones which get out of hand in a hurry. I'll get to play in only so many big games in my life, and this is the biggest one I've played since I've been here."

Ranked 10th and bound for the Cotton Bowl, while 18th-ranked Pitt was snubbed by the bowls. Yet a Pitt victory would leave both teams with 8-3 records.

The game kicks off a big Thanksgiving weekend of college football action in which seven of the nation's top ten teams will compete, countless other traditional rivalries will be renewed and television audiences will have a chance to watch five of the top games. Series Even

The Penn State-Pitt series is deadlocked at 35-35-3 over-all, and the intra-state rivalry will be fueled by friendships across the line of scrimmage.

For example, Bradley once played on a high school all-star team with Pitt quarterback Billy Daniels, who'll miss the game after undergoing knee surgery.

Daniels, hurt in Pitt's 14-10 loss to Notre Dame two weeks ago, will be replaced by senior Bob Medwid, who played well in the second-half with Notre Dame.

Friday, the Southeastern and Southwest Conference championships will be decided in a pair of nationally televised clashes. The winner will become South eastern Conference champion. OU Ineligible

One team not headed for any bowl action is top-ranked Oklahoma, 10-0, ineligible because of NCAA probation. So the Sooners will get their last chance to prove they deserve to be national champions on Saturday against traditional rival

IN NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE—

Key Tilts On Tap Sunday

By The Associated Press — Quarterback Greg Landy was on the spot in Detroit, where he was to replace Bill Munson, out for the year with a shoulder injury. In key games this Sunday, separation as the Lions, 6-5 and a game back of Minnesota in Pittsburgh, 8-2-1, entertains was to replace Bill Munson, out the NFC Central, met Denver, Houston, 5-6; St. Louis, 9-2, plays host to Kansas City, 4-7; Buffalo, 8-3, is at home against Baltimore, 2-9; New Orleans, 4-7, is at Minnesota, 7-4; and Green Bay, 6-5, is at Philadelphia, 4-7. Cincinnati, 7-4, is at Miami, 8-3, Monday night.

Elsewhere Sunday, New England, 7-4, is at Oakland; Los Angeles, 8-3, is at Atlanta; San Diego, 3-8, is at the New York Jets, 4-7; the New York Giants, 2-9, play at Chicago, 3-8; and San Francisco, 4-7, is at Cleveland, 3-6.

Terry Bradshaw is set to start at quarterback as Pittsburgh tries to clinch the American Conference Central with a victory over Houston, which had a four-game winning streak snapped last Sunday by Dallas.

St. Louis will again look to the passing of Jim Hart and the placekicking of Jim Bakken in search of its 10th victory. Kansas City's offense has sputtered all season.

Buffalo, led by O.J. Simpson, hopes to run over struggling Baltimore in an effort to apply pressure to Miami, which is tied for first place with the Bills in the AFC Eastern Division.

Minnesota will be trying to snap a two-game losing streak at the expense of New Orleans, which has been having offensive problems much of the season, and hold on to its NFC Central lead.

Green Bay, currently tied with Detroit, will be looking for its fourth straight victory since John Hadl became starting quarterback. Philadelphia has lost six straight.

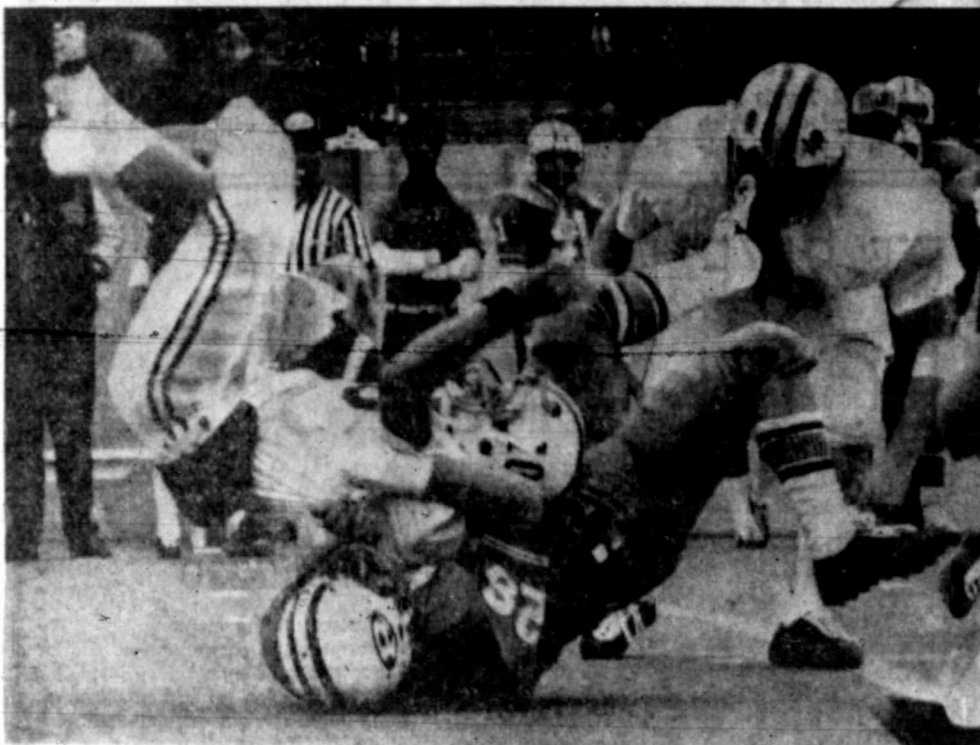

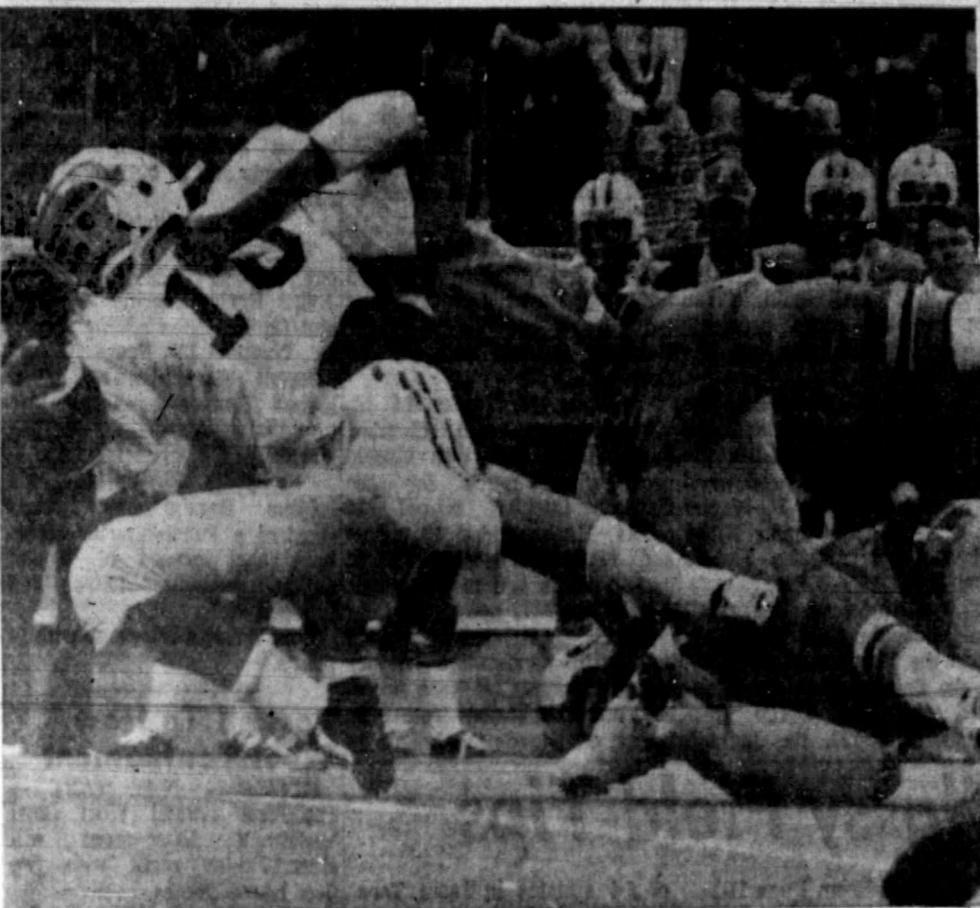

Miami, bidding for a third straight Super Bowl victory, will be counting on Bob Griese quarterbacking against a tough Cincinnati defense and hoping its own defense can stop the pinpoint passing of the Bengals' Ken Anderson. Even if Pittsburgh wins, the game would be important to Cincinnati's play-off hopes as a wild-card team.

Sabres Full Of Surprises

16th Win Puts Buffalo 11 Ahead Of Schedule

By The Associated Press

The surprising Buffalo Sabres keep on surprising National Hockey League observers with 16 victories and three ties in 23 games. Wednesday night, they even surprised their coach, Floyd Smith.

It took the Sabres 34 games to record their 16th triumph last season, but Wednesday night's 3-1 decision over the Chicago Black Hawks put Buffalo 11 games ahead of schedule.

In other games, the Los Angeles Kings tied the New York Islanders, 3-3, the Vancouver Canucks bombed the St. Louis Blues, 6-1, the New York Rangers whipped the Toronto Maple Leafs, 4-1, the Atlanta Flames scalped the Kansas City Scouts, 4-2, the Montreal Canadiens edged the Pittsburgh Penguins, 3-2, the Minnesota North Stars tripped the Washington Capitals, 6-4, the Philadelphia Flyers dropped the Detroit Red-Wings, 6-2, and the Boston Bruins topped the California Golden Seals, 3-1. It was the first time in NHL history that all 18 teams were in action on the same night.

Kings, New York Islanders 3 — Two third-period goals by Mike Corrigan and one by Mike Murphy with 1:36 remaining brought another surprise team, the Kings, back to a tie from a three-goal deficit.

Canucks, Blues 1 — John Gould scored his 12th and 13th goals of the year to give the Canucks, still another surprise this season, their 14th triumph of the year. It took Vancouver 52 games to win 14 last season.

Rangers, Maple Leafs 1 — Only a spectacular 48-save performance by Toronto's Doug Favell kept the score respectable. The Leafs, who have won only one of their last nine, lost defenseman Rod Seiling and Jim McKenny early in the game — in addition to the two already injured — and the Rangers ran all over the place.

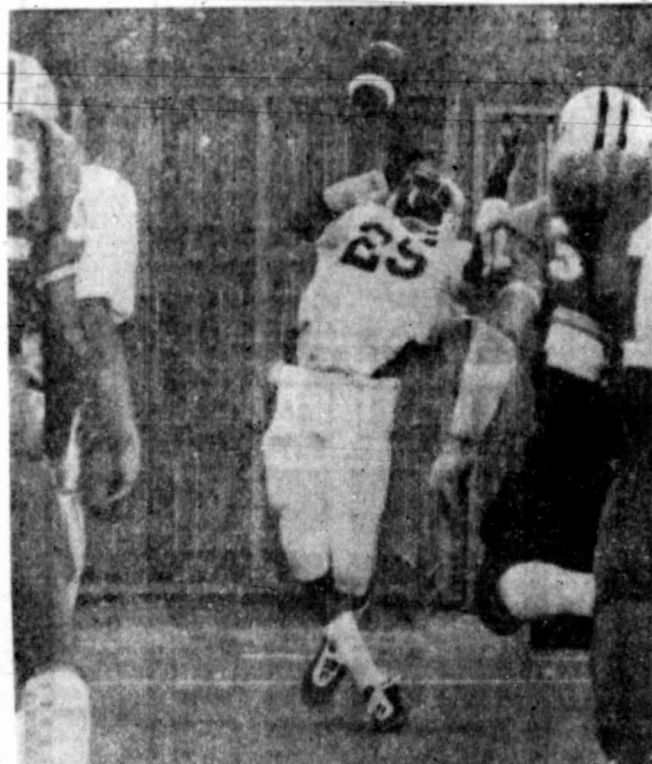

Flames, Scouts 2 — Eric Vail scored three goals for Atlanta, which raised to 15 games its unbeaten string on home ice.

Canadiens, Penguins 2 — Jacques Lemaire netted the winner for Montreal midway through the third period, with Mario Tremblay and rampaging Guy Lafleur the other Canadian marksmen.

North Stars, Capitals 4 — Two goals on deflections by Bill Goldsworthy paced Minnesota and handed Washington its 10th loss in as many road games.

Flyers, Red Wings 2 — Reggie Leach hit for three goals; all on assists by Bobby Clarke, to lead Philadelphia past Detroit.

Bruins, Golden Seals 1 — Phil Esposito scored his 21st goal in Boston's 22nd game this season to carry the Bruins past the Seals, who have won only three of 23 games.

LONE-LEE SCORE — Halfback Clyde Gary, 25, juggles ball but recovers in time to catch this pass for Midland Lee's lone touchdown in 35-8 AAAA bidistrict loss to Wichita Falls Rider Saturday. (R-T Staff Photo.)

BASKETBALL — ST. LOUIS (AP) — Rookie center Marvin Barnes has announced that he will honor his $2.1 million contract with the American Basketball Association's Spirits of St. Louis and that he hopes to join the team Friday at Salt Lake City, Utah.

The 6-foot-9 former Providence star skipped the club last week at New York after saying he was unhappy with his contract.

Alabama-Coushatta Indians Building Theater

LIVINGSTON — The "Sundown Theater," America's newest outdoor drama theater, is one of several facilities presently under construction at the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation near Livingston, in East Texas. Designated as the last phase of a four phase economic development project begun in 1965 through the cooperation of the state legislators, Texas Indian Commission and the Alabama-Coushatta Indians, the $2.2 million construction project upon completion will pave the way for a new era of self-reliance for East Texas Indians.

Another major undertaking of the Texas Indians is the building of a pottery factory scheduled for completion in late 1975 which will employ over 20 persons on a full-time basis in the manufacture of small Indian-designed pottery pieces. Campground expansion, a new museum, tribal office, remodeling, a new water system, sewage treatment plant and a service center are the other construction projects in the last phase of economic development.

The theater, being built at a cost of $630,000, will seat 1,000 for Dr. Kermit Hunter's great new epic drama, "Beyond the Sundown," scheduled to open next June 21. Dr. Hunter, the dean of fine arts at Southern Methodist University, has written successful outdoor dramas such as "Unto These Hills" in Cherokee, N.C., and "Trail of Tears" in Talequah, Okla., which depict the tragic history of the Cherokee Indians. He is regarded as one of the top writers of pageants in the country. The theater will be open nightly except Sundays in its beautiful setting of the Big Thicket.

Directing the play will be Richard Ayers, member of the theater staff at SMU. Original music for the drama is being composed by Frank Lewin with Demeter Music, Inc., of New York City.

Emmett Battise, superintendent of the reservation and a second chief of the tribes, stated, "This is a very critical project and perhaps the most important phase of economic development that has taken place here on the reservation. The amphitheater program will draw more people to our tourist facilities and will have an impact on our surrounding communities for years to come. Also, when this phase is completed, it will mean an uncertain step in a direction few Indians have taken — requesting the termination of government aid."

Globe Show Continuing

ODESSA — Four performances remain in the premiere production series of "George's Jean" at the Globe of the Great Southwest.

The new play by Regina Walker McCally opened at the Globe last weekend. Final presentations are scheduled for 8:30 p.m. today, Friday and Saturday, with a matinee at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Tickets for all the performances are on sale at the Globe box office, 2308 Shakespeare Road, and ticket reservations may be made by telephoning the theater at 332-4031.

"George's Jean" is a romantic paraphrase on the real-life romance of the late critic-author George Jean Nathan, and actress Julie Hayden. The play is to be taken to Fort Worth as The University of Texas of the Permian Basin's entry in a regional collegiate play competition, after which it may go to Washington, D. C., for performances in a national collegiate drama festival and competition. Mrs. McCally is a fulltime student at UTPB and the Globe Theater is now the theater laboratory for UTPB's department of theater.

The Globe's premiere presentation of "George's Jean" was made possible by a generous donation from Bessye Cowden Ward, prominent Odessa ranchwoman, to cover all production costs.

Mrs. Ward, 1962 recipient of Beta Sigma Phi's annual "First Lady of Odessa" award, is a longtime Globe supporter and patron. She has made several gifts to the theater in recent years, including the lights that front the theater and a camera for use in theater promotional and publicity work.

The former art teacher received her training at the old Midland College and Texas Christian University. She taught art at Wayland Baptist College at Plainview in 1918, and later at John Tarleton College at Stephenville. The walls of her ranch home are lined with her own colorful paintings, including "Song of the Lark" and "Sheep Herder." Beside them are the many honor plaques and certificates of merit she has received for outstanding civic work. She has served on the boards of directors of the Globe, Permian Playhouse, Odessa Presidential Museum, the Young Men's Club of Odessa, the Young Women's Christian Association, the American Red Cross, the Permian Historical Society and the Ector County Library and holds membership in numerous other organizations.

Toy Exhibit Open

HOUSTON — A new exhibition at the Houston Museum of Fine Arts features more than 200 toys from the 19th Century. The show, organized by HMPA's associate curator of education, Alvia Wardlaw Short, was assembled to complement the forthcoming American genre painting show, "The Painters: America: Rural and Urban Life, 1810 to 1910," scheduled to open here soon, by providing further examples of the artistic styles and craftsmanship of the period.

The antique toys are part of a large collection, valued at several hundred thousand dollars, acquired some years ago by the Houston Museum of Historical Toys. The toys were gathered over an 11-year period by Mr. and Mrs. Preston Weathered, who traveled throughout the United States to find toys at small-town garage sales as well as in big city antique auctions. The toys have been exhibited at the now-defunct toy museum on Montrose Boulevard in Houston, but they have not been on display for the last two years.

Unlike most antique collections that specialize solely in certain toy categories (such as dolls), the collection here is uniquely comprehensive, including as it does miniatures, mechanical toys, books for children, child-scale furniture, rag dolls and bell toys. A highlight object of the collection is a Pennsylvania horse-drawn carriage, complete with coachman, embroidered interior seats and a horse covered with the hide of an unborn calf. A French advertising doll that was originally designed as a mannequin for fashion displays and a rocking horse with a painted baseboard, and real horsehair are also prominent in the collection. The toy collection also includes an entire workshop of antique tools for making toys.

The exhibition "Antique Toys: Selections from the Houston

'New Sound' Returns With Gala Concerts

The Midland-Odessa Symphony will be showcasing its "new sound" when the orchestra continues its current season with gala Christmas concerts Dec. 16 and 17.

According to Dr. Thomas Hohstadt, music director and conductor, much of the "new sound" is provided by the almost three dozen musicians new to the ensemble this season. Many of these players have recently moved to the Permian Basin to live and work while other instrumentalists have rejoined the orchestra after an absence of one or more seasons.

Midland instrumentalists new to the orchestra this season or returning after an absence, are Sandra Baxter, Marty Connally, Louise Goode, Elizabeth Baseline, Rose Ann Hughtson, Ike Nail, Steve Smith, Marian Stone and Clyde Wilson.

The orchestra has, for the first time in its history, a complete "resident ensemble," which, according to Dr. Hohstadt, means that musicians attend every rehearsal even though some have to drive in some distance from area cities. Last season, he noted, approximately one-third of the instrumentalists came down from Lubbock for Sunday dress rehearsals, plus returning on two evenings for the actual concerts.

The new "resident ensemble" concept allows main positions in the orchestra to be filled by persons living in the immediate Permian Basin area, with a few other strong players being "imported" to enlarge the orchestra in its major concerts.

Stretch "Cultural" Dollars

However, the orchestra will perform numerous times during the season — such as at the series of youth concerts in Midland and Odessa — with only its resident players, the conductor pointed out.

Dr. Hohstadt stressed that "our cultural dollars will stretch much farther now with our musicians becoming more and more an integral part of the total community," and noted that "when you figure that each new dollar in a community turns over seven times, you begin to sense that the Midland-Odessa bazaar is becoming a major economic as well as cultural asset."

The quality of the orchestra has also reached significant new levels. The players have an average of 15 years' performing experience and most have four years of advanced training at the college level, he said.

The upcoming December concerts will offer "Christmas With Meaning," and will feature the Midland-Odessa Chorale, under direction of Dr. Lawrence Marsh, as well as the orchestra.

Programmed for the Dec. 16 concert in Odessa and the Dec. 17 concert in Lee High School auditorium here are Bizet's "Faradole," Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony and Respighi's exciting "The Pines of Rome."

Highlighting the pair of Christmas events will be J. S. Bach's reverent and monumental "Christmas Oratorio."

Dr. Hohstadt is in his first season at the helm of the Midland-Odessa Symphony. He came here in late summer following 10 successful seasons as music director-conductor of the Amarillo Symphony Orchestra.

Art Bazaar Set At Lubbock This Weekend

LUBBOCK — Artists and artisans from Lubbock and surrounding areas of West Texas will join in an art bazaar here this weekend which will benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association of Lubbock.

The show and sale will open Friday morning in the Villa Inn of Lubbock, 5601 Ave. Q, continuing there through Sunday evening. Hours will be 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. each day.

A wide variety of paintings in all media will be on view in addition to large selections of bronzes, ceramics and pottery, original jewelry and other art items.

The Muscular Dystrophy Association, which will receive a commission on all works sold, will use the proceeds to initiate a fund for the purchase of a motor van to be used for local patient service. The Christmas bazaar is sponsored by the Heritage Gallery of Lubbock.

Comedy Begins Run Friday

"How the Other Half Loves" Simon, Alan Ayckbourn, opened in London in 1970. The play also had a healthy New York run and more recently has proved even more popular with audiences in other American cities—Miami, Washington, Boston, San Francisco and Chicago, among others.

Ayckbourn's newest comedy offering, "Absurd Person Singular," currently is packing them in Broadway. His earlier laugh-riots included "Relatively Speaking," "A Case of Mistaken Identity" and "The Story So Far."

"How the Other Half Loves" written by "the British Neil" is a scatterbrained comedy centering around a business executive whose wife has been engaged in amorous pursuits with one of his employees, who just happens to live next door. The guilty parties have explained their absence from their homes by saying they were out with a friend, whereupon all kinds of complications ensue.

Playwright Ayckbourn, instead of switching from one household set to the other, has used a single setting that manages to combine two living rooms with two front doors. The two couples carry on without taking notice of one another. This is a place-and-space staging trick that appears to delight audiences inordinately.

Miss World Drops Title

LONDON (AP) — Helen Morgan, the 22-year-old unwed mother who won the Miss World title last week, has resigned the title, a spokesman for the contest's organizers said Wednesday.

She became the second Miss World in a row to vacate her title prematurely. Last year, Marjorie Wallace of Indianapolis was stripped of the honor by the organizers after 14 weeks because of publicity over her relationships with pop singer Tom Jones and former soccer star George Best.

Eric Morley of the Mecca organization said Miss Morgan "mentioned there is a possibility of a divorce case and she thinks in the circumstances she should resign."

Anthony Quayle To Appear In Production At UT-Austin

AUSTIN — Anthony Quayle, noted British actor and director, will appear in a special production of "Everyman," the masterwork among morality plays, next week at The University of Texas here.

UT-Austin's College of Fine Arts, in association with the League of Southern Theaters, is bringing in the production plus uproarious comedy and becomes a companion show. "The Second Shepherd's Play," both of which have been staged by, and are on tour under auspices of, a new professional theater company from the University of Tennessee, the Clarence Brown Auditorium to see "Everyman," Scholar's Troupe.

Productions of "Everyman" and "The Second Shepherd's Play" will present something of a "moveable feast" for theatergoers in that the two plays will be presented in different campus locations.

In each instance, "The Second Shepherd's Play," a medieval drama that begins as an uproarious comedy and becomes a companion show. "The Second Shepherd's Play," both of which have been staged by, and are on tour under auspices of, a new professional theater company from the University of Tennessee, the Clarence Brown Auditorium to see "Everyman," Scholar's Troupe.

are set at 8 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, with matinee performances also announced for Tuesday and Wednesday. Tickets for the double-bill are on sale at the box office in Hogg Auditorium, with the price $2 for evening performances and $1 for matinees.

An added attraction of Quayle's visit to UT-Austin will be his one-man show of dramatic readings to be presented Dec. 5 at 8 p.m. in the IBI Auditorium. His readings are to include Elizabethan sonnets, poetry and prose, excerpts from some of the major Shakespearean roles he has performed, and some personal commentary. Tickets for this program are $1 for students and $2 for others, and also are on sale at the box office at Hogg Auditorium.

Quayle, internationally known for his work in theater, tv and films, was artistic director of the Stratford Memorial Theater at Stratford-on-Avon from 1948 to 1956, a period in which that theater became world famous. He is known as a center for Shakespeare. The actor has also appeared with the Old Vic on numerous occasions and in frequent productions in London's West End. His most recent success was in the leading role of "Sleuth," which he created in London and then played for two years on Broadway.

Quayle received an Academy Award nomination for his portrayal of Cardinal Wolsey in the motion picture version of Maxwell Anderson's "Anne of the Thousand Days." He also has been featured in other films such as "The Guns of Navarone," "Lawrence of Arabia," "The Fall of the Roman Empire," "Hamlet" and "The Tamarind Seed." Currently serving as a visiting professor at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville, Quayle is helping to develop a professional repertory company that will form a major regional theater by the company.

The "Everyman" production is directed by Ralph G. Allen, chairman of the theater department at the University of Tennessee. The Tennessee theater company is touring six cities in three states this fall. The performances at UT-Austin are the only Texas appearance planned for the company.

Edrington Scott Theater in the Fort Worth Art Center, West Lancaster Ave., near Camp Bowie Blvd. Dallas' Preston Ticket Agency also has tickets.

Mail orders of the season subscriptions as well as single admissions for "Traviata" should be sent to the Fort Worth Opera Association, 3505 W. Lancaster Ave., Fort Worth 76107.

Stars of "Traviata" will include Karan Armstrong, beautiful young Metropolitan Opera soprano, as Violetta, and tenor John Stewart, a member of both the Metropolitan and New York City opera companies, as Alfredo. They will be joined by baritone Rayan Edwards as Germont, and a large supporting cast of singers.

Items For Home More Popular This Year

25 STORES IN ONE CENTER — Dellwood Plaza on West Illinois offers the convenience of 25 stores in one climate-controlled mall for Midland's shopper this season. Stores located in Dellwood are Austin Shoes, Balie Griffith Firestone, Baskin Robbins 31 Flavors, Bed & Bath Fashions, Photo Kwik, The Book Worm, Del-Plaza Card Shop, Casual Colony, Plaza Cleaning Center, Dunlap's, House of Koscot, Kresge's, Levine's Kruger Jewelry, "M" System, Olan Mills, French Chateau Beauty Salon, Patteson's Pit Stop, Together by Robinson's, Singer's, Skibell's, Umberson's Water, Winchell's Donuts and The Pecan Shop.

NEW YORK (NEA) — Home furnishings prognosticators see Americans buying items for the home this Christmas.

The reasoning is that people will spend more time in the home — cutting back on outside entertainment and dining. However, purchases are expected to be in the smaller accessories, such as clocks, curios, desks, occasional tables, collectors etageres — the $100 and under category. Reproductions will be big gift items, especially those that reflect early Americana because of the Bicentennial influence. Another reason, home furnishings experts say, people are out of work they tend to do constructive work around the house, such as home wallpapering and painting, making things. This should help Christmas sales of electrical tools this year, too.

different. In 1974 a high percentage of families have at least two persons working so if one is out of work it hurts but not like in 1929. Microwave oven will be at the top of the giving list, especially for singles and couples who work. Home gardening items, handsome planters and baskets also will be less expensive gifts many will find under the Christmas tree this year.

World Record Set

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — A South African pilot, Miss Yvonne Leeman, has set a world gliding record for women at the Rhodesian National Gliding Championships. Officials of the Central African Soaring Assn. authenticated the record when Miss Leeman flew at an average speed of 113.9 kilometers (70.0 miles) an hour over a 500-kilometer (310.68-mile) triangle.

Briarcliff Sets Up Program

BRIARCLIFF MANOR, N.Y. (AP) — Briarcliff College, a private women's college here, has established a program it calls the Institute of Public Affairs. The institute offers Briarcliff students specialized courses in government and the social sciences, integrated with the natural sciences and the humanities, in order to train them for public service and leadership.

NOW AT ONE LOCATION — Sharp Carpets this year consolidated operations to their warehouse and store at 401 Industrial. The facilities on Industrial near Marienfeld offers a complete selection in carpet and carpet installation tools for those who wish to "do it yourself." A competent crew of installers is available with guaranteed installation and pad being offered along with quality carpet.

Everyone In Family Gets Into Gift Act

NEW YORK (NEA) — Everyone in the family gets into the gift act on Christmas. Even the home is festively decorated and new lamps, cooking utensils and furnishings replace the old. But it's the kids who have the most fun.

Toyland '74 steps up child involvement and minimizes gimmicks. Standout trends include enrichment of old favorites with extra play dimensions, broader use of boy-girl pictures on box tops responding to women libbers, simplification of early American crafts and play adaptations of Bicentennial and ecology themes.

Updating the ancient sport of quizzes is Lexidata, which uses a mini computer to defy memorization with 43,200 possible combinations. Questions are at three age levels.

Newest dolls do not vie with each other on emulating human behavior but are more real than ever in appearance like Miss Peep, who is easy to mistake for a newborn infant with soft, soft skin. She arrives in a package that converts into a serviceable bassinet. The doll world's record for muscular versatility goes to the Bendi dolls, acrobatic wonders from Europe introduced here in the likenesses of Donald Duck, Mickey Mouse and Pink Panther and made of squeezable latex.

There's a record roster of sports figures sponsoring toys and games, including Evel Knievel and Hank Aaron. Ecological concern has inspired a variety of gardening kits, including a desert terrarium that has pre-measured, prefed soil in layers of varying elevations of cactus.

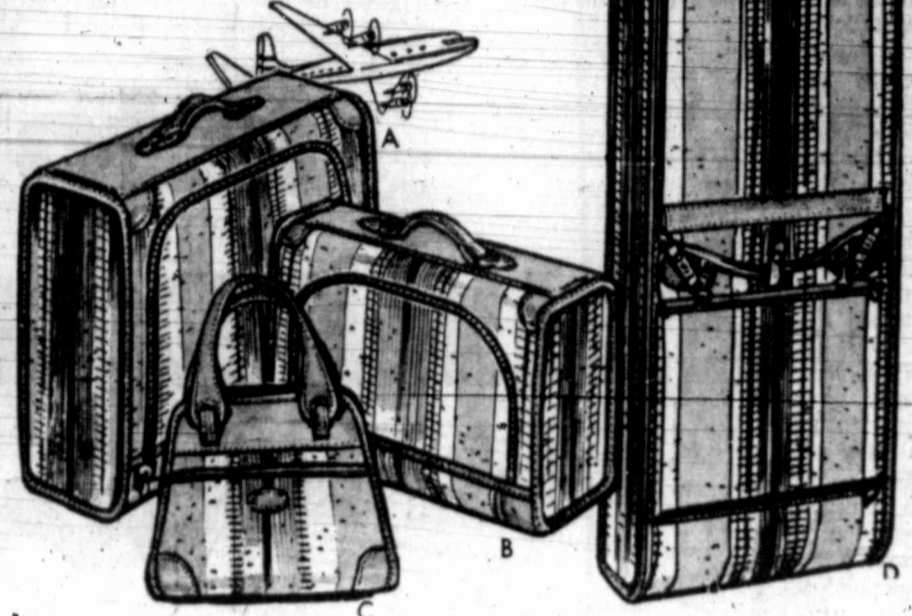

Happy Huff 'n' Puff marks Lionel's first venture into the preschool market. It's a non-electric, "Kid-powered" toy train complete with trace and a picture story book that tells how the train got its name. The engine is humanized through the use of a smile and bright, blue eyes.

The lady of the house, be she 6 or 60, will come in for her share, too. And if Dad is puzzled about what to give her that will please her most, just wait until he shops. He may silently scream for help when faced with the massive array of robe-and-gown ensembles, jewelry, perfumes and furs available. So the wise wife and devoted daughter would do well to express loudly and clearly just what they want most for Christmas.

On the other hand, Dad and Junior will give the gals a chance to have more fun shopping for them than in years past. The store counters are stocked with new items in men's furnishings: shirts, ties, slippers and all the old standby gifts

Wilson's Chair In Old Office

TRENTON, N. J. (AP) — President Woodrow Wilson's chair is back where Wilson once did a lot of sitting in the first political job he ever held — in the governor's office in the State House here.

The chair is made of 48 pieces of different unfinished wood, one from each state in the union at that time. Gov. James Fielder, who succeeded Wilson, had it made to mark Wilson's inauguration as President in March of 1913.

By HELEN M. PAGEL
Copley News Service

Sooner or later, for birthday or Christmas, you were practically certain to receive a book of Aesop's Fables if you were a child 50 or 60 years ago. Parents and teachers in those days never lost an opportunity to drench all children with sugared wisdom in the firm belief that some of it was bound to stick to even the most uncooperative youngster. And just possibly they were right.

Even the school readers of that period always contained a few of the fables and usually the children loved them. There was the story of the town mouse and the country mouse, for instance. Did anyone ever get through school during that period without learning that story?

In those days it was quite the fashion to act out the stories in school readers and this was a favorite because there was so much chance for real dramatic talent. It was a question which was the most fun, to take the part of one of the mice and come sneaking into the dining room, or to be the cat or the girl with the broom and spring from some hiding place upon the hapless mice and send them scampering for their lives.

And whether they realized it or not, the children did learn the moral of the story and everybody agreed that it was better to have beans and bacon in peace than cakes and ale in fear.

Even today you hear people using such expressions as "sour grapes," "dog in the manger," "a wolf in sheep's clothing" or "put your shoulder to the wheel." But how many of them know that they are quoting Aesop?

But had they owned a book of Aesop's Fables they would have known about the fox who tried and tried to reach a luscious looking bunch of grapes, and when he failed, walked away saying, "I don't really want the grapes. They are, probably sour anyway."

Or they would have known

about the dog who made his bed in the cow's manger and refused to allow the cow to eat any of the hay although the dog himself could not eat it. Of course, that was a dog and people don't do such selfish things, do they?

And there was the wolf who dressed himself in sheepskin and looked so much like a sheep that he could wander into the flock and pounce upon unsuspecting sheep and kill them so cleverly that even the shepherd wasn't suspicious. That was another thriller to act out, but in this case there was no doubt about the leading role.

Everybody wanted to be the wolf. But of course things are different in real life. All the children knew about the farmer whose cart was stuck in the mud and he and his horse couldn't move it. But along came Hercules and "put his shoulder to the wheel" and in no time at all the cart was out of the mudhole and ready to travel on. They had "good guys" in those days, too.

Then there was the story about belling the cat, where all the mice knew exactly what should be done, but not one of them had the courage to do it, so the cat went destroying the mice as fast as she pleased.

Rather quaint, old-fashioned stories—or are they?

Volunteer Work Done With Inmates

WAPPINGERS FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Sometimes there aren't enough hours in the day for Joe Ladanyi Jr., a 29-year-old electric company engineering inspector.

Several nights a week, Ladanyi drives 15 miles from his home here to Green Haven Correctional Institution to work as a volunteer-counselor. Ladanyi, who studied psychology in college, conducts group discussions there with inmates who have problems with alcoholism.

THE FUN MACHINE IS HERE — Baldwin Piano and Organ at 406 Andrews Highway is currently offering the Baldwin Fun Machine, a unique experience in musical instrumentation. Sam Jones, owner-manager, has acquired a good selection of the machines through a special purchase. "Anyone can play it in minutes," Jones states and he urges the public to come by for a demonstration. Also available for Christmas giving at the store is a large selection of other musical instruments, including organs, pianos, guitars, banjos, drums and others.

Work Completed On Grant's Tomb

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. William Hendrickson, superintendent of the New York Group of the National Park Service sites, has announced the reopening of the General Grant National Memorial.

The memorial had been closed for two months, while the National Park Service initiated a restoration of the interior dome of the site, where Gen. Grant is entombed and memorialized, with his wife by his side.

The work on the dome included a complete cleaning, repairing and painting.

Science Gaining On Birth Defects

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the first year of life, birth defects cause the highest number of deaths. But, in recent years, medical scientists have made considerable progress improving the situation.

"Many children are now leading meaningful lives, thanks to the fact that their problems were identified and treated in time," says Dr. Nina Scribanu, a pediatrician in charge of Georgetown University's Division of Clinical Genetics and Birth Defects.

Dr. Scribanu has started a "crisis intervention" program, aimed primarily at the diagnosis, prevention and treatment of birth defects. During the past decade, she notes, medical scientists have made several breakthroughs in their efforts to conquer or control birth defects, permitting scientists, in some cases, to replace missing enzymes and detect chromosomal abnormalities.

Old Friends Get Together

WEERT, The Netherlands (AP) — Thirty years ago, six little Dutch girls from this newly-liberated town in the south of Holland wandered into a near-by encampment of American troops. They struck up a friendship with the GIs and one Yank, Sgt. Alvie Davis, had his picture taken with them.

Davis, now a retired Veteran's Administration employee living in Magnolia, Miss., cherished the snapshot through the years and kept up contact with one of the girls, the present Mrs. Gerda Roosen-Saelmans.

Recently, when Davis returned with other members of the U.S. Seventh Armored Division to retrace the unit's World War II route, he and his six female friends were reunited at Gerda's home and posed for a companion picture to the old snapshot, identical except for the passage of time.

Hawkins' Autobiography 'Remarkable'

By DICK KLEINER
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — One of the most remarkable autobiographies yet published is Jack Hawkins' "Anything For a Quiet Life." What makes it remarkable is the last chapter, written after he died by his widow, Doreen.

or even today. But then, three days after Jack died, it was so fresh in my mind.

Scrimshawing Art Making Comeback At Hawaiian Seaport
 MAUI, Hawaii (AP) — The old art of scrimshawing is coming back to Lahaina, once one of the leading whaling ports of the Pacific.

of course. She says she and Jack's editor got it ready for publication — "But it was unfinished, and it needed a word from somebody to tie it all together, and that somebody had to be me."

Doreen Hawkins was an actress when she was younger, but gave it up to marry Jack. There's been some talk that she should take it up again, but she doubts she will.

In the early 1800s as many as 100 to 200 whaling vessels would anchor off shore during the winter. The whalers, when they weren't ashore carousing, could be found finishing the scrimshaw work they started when at sea. Scrimshawing is recognized as an original folk art, developed by whalers during their long voyages. They used the teeth and jawbones of the sperm whale for their carvings. The sperm is the only whale with teeth. The whalers also employed the black fibrous whalebone from the mouths of toothless whales.

A good-size sperm whale has about 42 teeth. After a catch the captain has first choice and then distributes the remaining teeth to the crewmen. The men used shark's skin to smooth the teeth.

Recent Rains Improve Wheat Harvest Prospects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Recent rains in the southern plains not only have improved prospects for winter wheat but have helped provide grazing for livestock this fall, according to a weekly weather report by the Agriculture Department.

Wheat pastures were improving in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, so more livestock were being moved to them for grazing, the report said. Slower growth of wheat in Colorado has limited grazing, but as of Nov. 24, the report said Tuesday, winter wheat planting in Texas was about 97 per cent completed, slightly behind normal. In Oklahoma, where heavy rains and flooding have been a problem this fall, farmers took advantage of clear skies last week to replant washed out fields and to seed others which had been too wet.

Winter wheat continued to improve, making excellent growth in Kansas except in scattered western counties where moisture has been on the short side, the report said. Dry conditions still exist in much of the northern plains.

You'd Better Be Quiet—Or Else...

By SUMI OKUMA
Kyodo - Copley News Service
TOKYO — Who would have thought a piano would become an instrument of death?

Yet the "unbearable" sound of all-hours practicing by an 8-year-old girl in the apartment next door drove a nervous, unemployed construction worker to buy a fish-filleting knife and murder the girl, her mother and younger sister in residential Hiratsuka City, Kanagawa prefecture, in early September before turning himself in to police.

The slayer wasn't so different from his neighbors, since he is not the only one harassed by different kinds of noise pollution in overcrowded Japan.

Two decades ago, the average citizen was plagued by no more than cicada cries, wind-bells and an occasional bulldozer clearing a site for a building.

Now noises ranging from a 6-year-old's piano scales on the other side of a thin apartment wall to the roar of six-ton earth-moving trucks outside the paper and wood bedroom sliding screen affect nearly every citizen in the nation.

The roar of 200-odd trains traveling over 200 miles an hour between 5:30 a.m. and 11:30 p.m. daily just outside his one-room apartment window this spring caused a 67-year-old man to write to his daughter: "The noise and vibration are too much, and I am too old and sick to bear it."

Carefully turning off the gas and electricity, he put the note where someone could easily find it, and, using an electric cord, hanged himself.

The housewife-leader of a 500-member nationwide Federation of Noise Victims based in Yokohama estimates that between two million and three million Japanese are affected in various ways by unbearable noise.

"Any noise that may sound disagreeable should be carefully heeded," says Mrs. Yoshiko Sano. "Even the sound of a wind-bell, a symbol of quiet natural beauty, can be irritatingly noisy to some people."

Tokyo metropolitan government standards set permissible noise levels at 40 phon (sound measurement) in the morning and evening and at 45 phon during the day, but this goes unheeded in a country where interference is taboo and harmony to the point of homicide is the norm.

"Our group is receiving an ever-increasing number of reports on noises emitted by pianos, air conditioners and phonos," Mrs. Sano says.

"Yet people are unbelievably apathetic about noise. We have to keep in mind that a piano played in a house across the street is 65 to 70 phon and that a telephone rings at 70 phon."

And what about the construction worker who murdered an unplanissimo neighbor? In his confession to police, he said he had repeatedly asked the mother of the piano-playing girl to limit her daughter's practicing to daytime hours or to when he could arrange to be out of the house.

This continued over half a year before the man decided to go out and buy a knife to cut short his torture.

CBS Vice President Fred Silverman Tuesday said Cavett's contract will run from Jan. 1, 1975, through the 1975-76 television season with an option for CBS to use him in a prime time series of his own in the 1976-77 season. The amount of Cavett's salary was not disclosed.

Most Crime Victims Don't Call Police

By LEE BYRD
 WASHINGTON (AP) — An overwhelming number of crime victims keep their mouths shut rather than call the police, a federal survey shows.

According to Census Bureau data gathered in the first six months of 1973, the combined incidence of rape, robbery, assault, burglary and larceny was three times that recorded by law enforcement agencies.

Projections based on a sampling of 125,000 individuals and 15,000 businesses across the land indicated a total of 16,682,600 crimes in those categories during the survey period. But the victims conceded they reported only 5,320,000 to the police.

Larceny — simple theft — led the way in unreported crime. A total of 11,065,900 larcenies were projected by the study, compared to 2,406,500 reported to police.

Burglary Second
 Burglary was second, with some 3,691,300 survey burglaries, compared to 1,863,300 reported to police. Following were aggravated assault, 637,200 vs. 314,500; robbery, 600,600 vs. 318,100; auto theft, 586,100 vs. 281,700, and rape, 81,600 vs. 35,900.

The figures released by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, represent the first nationwide findings of the National Crime Panel, a $10 million-per-year survey project operated for the LEAA by the Census Bureau.

LEAA Administrator Richard W. Velde noted that the survey found that the reason most often cited for not reporting a crime was the victim's feeling that "nothing could be done."

Other highlights of the report: About two-thirds of all personal crimes of violence involve a confrontation between strangers.

The 16.7 million total crimes involved 18 million individuals, households or business as victims. About 57 per cent of the crimes were against individuals, 39 per cent against households and 4 per cent against business.

Blacks were more likely than whites to be personal crime victims. Men were more often victimized than women, with black males having the highest victimization rate.

Pioneer 11 To Pass By Jupiter Monday

By FRANK MACOMBER
Copley News Service

The most significant space event since the last Skylab mission is coming up fast on the calendar. It is the flight of Pioneer 11 as it passes by Jupiter Monday at a speed of more than 107,000 miles an hour—25,000 m.p.h. faster than any man-made object ever has traveled and 55.5 times swifter than a speeding bullet.

After the Jupiter bypass, Pioneer 11 will zoomerang back across the solar system 1.5 billion miles to the ringed planet Saturn, literally carried off by the force of Jupiter's huge gravity system.

Closest Approach

Pioneer 11 will reach pericenter (closest point of approach) 26,600 miles above Jupiter's clouds at 9:22 p.m. (PST) Monday. History's second encounter with Jupiter will produce, hopefully, the first exploration of the planet's immense polar regions, the first closeup approach to the planet and the next major step in space—the trip on to Saturn.

Pioneer 11's path, however, could be hedged with peril. Jupiter's inner radiation belt easily could destroy spacecraft electronics. It grows swiftly more intense with diminishing distance from the planet.

The unmanned craft will travel three times closer to Jupiter than its earlier sister ship, Pioneer 10. The route involves some carefully calculated risks, federal space agency officials concede.

Unique Look

But if the passage is successful, it will provide some unique observations of both Jupiter and its environment, they point out.

To achieve all its missions, Pioneer 11 controllers are bringing the spacecraft in far below Jupiter's south pole. From there it will hurtle almost straight up through the disk-like radiation belt at the 107,000 m.p.h.-plus clip.

Pioneer 10 reached Jupiter a year ago come Tuesday. As it sped to within 82,000 miles of the planet's boiling clouds the spacecraft reached, by coincidence, a speed of 82,000 m.p.h.

Both spacecraft have earned the name of Pioneer. Built by TRW in Redondo Beach, Calif., for NASA's Ames Research Center at Mountain View, Calif., they have been setting all kinds of space records.

Pioneer 10 now is heading clear out of the solar system. By 1987 it will cross the orbit of Pluto, outermost of the nine planets. Then it will become the first man-made object to cruise in interstellar space.

Pioneer 11 will be the first spaceship to use one outer planet to hurl itself—like the rock in David's sling—from one outer planet to another.

Middle-Income Group Gets Socked Most On Revolving Credit Accounts

By HELEN L. CALL, Copley News Service

Money, Credit and Banking

This picture of how Americans typically make use of their revolving credit accounts came out in Dunkelberg's study. He constructed 12-month accounts histories for credit card customers of retailers—more than 80 per cent of all retailers with revolving credit," he said. The purpose was to provide "real data" to legislators and companies which, according to Dunkelberg, had always followed "old wives' tales."

"They were going by somebody's ideas, or the conventional wisdom on who pays and who gets hurt," he said. "Everybody thought all the poor people must be paying all the finance charges because they don't have enough income to pay it off."

It's not the poor but the middle-income group that gets socked the most on finance charges for revolving credit accounts. Yet, while an 18 per cent annual interest rate may be a stiff penalty for credit buying, in the long run it can be a very economical way for young Middle America to run its accounts.

These are some of the surprising results turned up in a survey of charge card customers in California. Prof. William Dunkelberg, assistant director of the Credit Research Center at Purdue University, made the survey which will soon be published in the Journal of

This picture of how Americans typically make use of their revolving credit accounts came out in Dunkelberg's study. He constructed 12-month accounts histories for credit card customers of retailers—more than 80 per cent of all retailers with revolving credit," he said. The purpose was to provide "real data" to legislators and companies which, according to Dunkelberg, had always followed "old wives' tales."

"They were going by somebody's ideas, or the conventional wisdom on who pays and who gets hurt," he said. "Everybody thought all the poor people must be paying all the finance charges because they don't have enough income to pay it off."

There's no sense in paying finance charges, because their cash flow they don't need it," Low-income people spend more time "worrying" about their accounts, Dunkelberg said. They plan more. They keep their expenditures within their income level and use credit only when it is very worthwhile. But they have more volatile incomes, and they are the first to lose their jobs.

They also are the first to be cut off from credit, Dunkelberg said, not only because collection costs are high, but because they generate smaller sales than either the high-income or middle-income groups.

The middle-income people, by carrying charge balances for a longer time (an average of six months) and at higher figures, are the ones who pay most of the finance charges, Dunkelberg said. "They subsidize the others."

In a separate study, Dunkelberg asked questions about "what it is worth for consumers to have access to this kind of credit."

His conclusion is that the advantage to consumers "may make an interest rate change inconsequential, even if it is doubled." (Big retailers currently are campaigning in state legislatures to lift the 18 per cent ceiling on retail credit.)

Dunkelberg listed some of the advantages consumers attach to credit cards:

- It is a cash substitute, making management of cash balances easier, especially for those who are paid once a month.
- It makes management of debt easier, as debt can be taken on or paid off on a monthly basis.
- It allows customers to take advantage of price breaks—which can have a real effect on the rate of return when investing in durable goods.
- It eliminates transaction costs and search costs because it extends very small increments of credit, so buyers do not have to try to get a small loan.

Susannah York Is Herself First

NEW YORK (AP) — A star, a woman, a mother, a wife and the author of a children's book, Susannah York is all of these and none of these.

"I'm first and foremost me," she proclaimed. "Every human being is first and foremost he or she, and that is the most important thing about anybody. I don't want any labels stuck on me. I don't want people making an easy assumption about me, because the most important thing is the person. The individuality."

The blonde British actress with the throaty voice was here on a promotional tour for her latest film, "Gold," a drama set against South African gold mines.

'Incredibly Lucky'
"Like when I did 'The Killing of Sister George,'" Miss York went on, warming up to the subject. "It was exploited as a film about lesbians. But, first and foremost, it was a film about a tired marriage, and the marriage happened to be between two women."

For instance, "Childie," whom I played... It's not that "Childie" was a lesbian, but she was "Childie." And one of many things "Childie" was happened to be a lesbian. First, it's her. The person."

Well, then, what kind of a person is Miss York? A very successful, busy, happy and fulfilled one, thank you. "I've been incredibly lucky," she declared.

Smooth Sailing
Careerwise, it has been smooth sailing ever since she left the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art. Making her film debut in "Tunes of Glory" as Alec Guinness' daughter, she has appeared in such well-known films as "Tom Jones," "A Man for All Seasons," "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?" "The Killing of Sister George," "Sebastian," "Duffy," "Country Dance" and "X, Y and Zee." Her co-stars range from Michael Caine, Peter O'Toole and Dirk Bogarde to Roger Moore. In a few months, she'll start filming "Conduct Unbecoming" in London with Michael York.

"I've had marvelous parts," she said, explaining she has won all of these parts without begging or resorting to politics, and building development companies and travel firms accounted for sizable sectors of the bankruptcies.

have never had to push. I've proved myself enough now."

Miss York is also having a very serene private life. In her teens she married Michael Wells, a former actor who now writes plays, and she is still happily married to him.

Victorian Gothic
"We live in a big, strange, lovely house an hour out of London in the country. It's Victorian Gothic and was built in 1850," she said. "We've put much work into it. I'm a great painter and plasterer."

There, when she is not working, she cooks, looks after their daughter, Sasha, 2, and Orlando, 1, and writes children's stories. Her first book, "In Search of Unicorns," was recently published.

"Many actors turn to writing. There is a tremendous link between actors and writers," she said. "Actors often turn to writing as a new way of expression."

And as if all this is not enough, Miss York and her husband have opened a Greek-style amphitheater on a hillside near their house. There they plan to produce two plays a year. Last summer, they staged their first production, a musical play called "Long Burrow" by husband Michael, and Miss York starred in it.

It Takes Lots Of Green Stuff

DETROIT (AP) — It takes a lot of money to change the face of a city.

The $200-million, long-term mortgage loan by four insurance companies to help build the first phase of Detroit's Renaissance Center is the largest amount ever floated for a single urban redevelopment project.

Another $200 million has been raised from a couple of dozen banks in various parts of the country for short-term construction needs, while some 50 "blue chip" companies, which form the Renaissance Center Partnership building the riverfront project, put up the $40-million down payment.

IN NEW HOME—The National Building Center, 3111 W. Front St., is spending its first Christmas season in the building recently completed next door to the old. A complete line of building and home care items can be found in NBC's Home Care Center and Don Bartley, manager, and his staff extend a warm invitation to the public to come by and look over the many gift items available.

Bankruptcy Count Rises In England

LONDON (AP) — The High Court listed a record number of 426 companies waiting for winding-up petitions to be heard. Many of the companies failed because they borrowed at high interest rates and then could not sell their product. Property and building development companies and travel firms accounted for sizable sectors of the bankruptcies.

Jingle In Pocket Is Gleam In His Eye

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP) — Not everybody has that jingle in your pocket is Naimy's carefully cultivated $5 million gleam in Bob Naimy's otherwise tired and will increase. Prestige pays immediate cash for coins, and this year, the turnover will be about $5 million. Twenty per cent of that amount should be gross profit, Naimy says. The largest buys have reached $40,000, he says, with one former taxicab company owner dumping $7,500 worth of coins a few weeks ago in Los Angeles. "They really shock you sometimes," says Naimy. "A guy who looks like he couldn't buy a cup of coffee might have $10,000 worth."

Naimy began his business in 1958. "My wife had a penny collection, and every time we moved, pennies dropped out of it," says the former insurance salesman. "I got sick and tired of it. A State paper last month 'Paying 250 per cent of face for U.S. silver coins dated 1964 or before,' the alluring appeal continued.

For higher silver content, Prestige will pay $1.25 for each half dollar $2 cents for each quarter, 25 cents for each dime and $3.50 for each silver dollar dated before 1935. A $1 gold coin gets at least $5.10, for Edgar Degas's (1834-1917) bronze Petite Danseuse de Quatorze Ans, extremely common, he casted in an edition of about 12 says "Everybody's got it" casts in 1820.

Marine Installation Adjusts To New Tank Mechanic

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) — When the new tank mechanic reported for duty at Camp Pendleton, they didn't know what to make of this Marine. That was last February and the Marine Corps Base had never had a woman tank mechanic until Regina T. Musser arrived. "Our restroom facilities and our language had to be changed," said Master Sgt. William R. Rowell, tracked vehicle maintenance chief. "Neither were acceptable for women, but we needed someone in optics and she fit the bill."

Lance Cpl. Musser, 19, of Youngstown, Ohio, works on everything from binoculars to tank sights to ballistics computers. "I was unhappy when I first learned I was going to be a tank repairman," she admitted. After boot camp they sent her to an Army post for 19 weeks to learn about fire control mechanics. "I didn't even know what fire control was," she said. "Now I can maintain all the units responsible for launching ammunition and that's what fire control is all about." The 5-foot-5 tank repairman, who spends her off duty time painting, drawing, writing poetry, singing and studying the Bible, said, "I enjoy my job very much now because I do different things every day."

Movie Admissions Take Spectacular Spurt Upward

NEW YORK (AP) — Movie theater admissions have taken a spectacular spurt upward, reports Paul Roth, president of the National Association of Theater Owners. In 20 major cities around the country, ticket sales have jumped by more than 20 per cent this year over the same period in 1973. And they have registered a gain of more than 34 per cent over the figure of three years ago.

The boom is especially evident in Miami, where attendance has soared at double the national average. Based on the current situation, movie attendance should average 20 million people weekly this year, Roth predicts. Roth attributes the influx of moviegoers partly to "a sizeable string of boxoffice hits, films like 'American Graffiti,' 'The Sting,' 'The Way We Were,' 'The Exorcist,' 'The Great Gatsby' and 'A Touch of Class.' They've touched a responsive chord with the American public — not only the below-30-year-olds who are the major segment of moviegoers, but those in higher age brackets as well."

Meeting To Draw 3,000 Participants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — More than 3,000 doctors, social workers and other professionals will attend the North American Congress on Alcohol and Drug Problems here in December. Sen. Harold E. Hughes (D-Iowa), a recovered alcoholic and chairman of the meeting, says, "This is a far cry from the day I quit drinking 20 years ago. You could have used a phone booth for a meeting of all the people in responsible positions who were interested in alcoholism and drug abuse."

Don't Buy 'Pig In A Poke' For Christmas, New York Trade Commission Man Advises

NEW YORK (AP) — When Richard A. Givens shops for toys and games for his two children he insists on seeing what's inside the sealed box — and he advises all consumers to do the same.

By this action, he suggests, the public can guard against such deceptions as finding only a tiny item in a large, fancy package; absence of parts or necessary additional equipment; an assembly job advertised as simple enough for a 2-year-old that really requires the knowhow of a graduate engineer; and safety warnings inside that were not specified on the outside.

"I won't buy a pig in a poke and neither should anyone else," declares Givens, who as the Federal Trade Commission's New York regional director is concerned with deceptive packaging. "Both consumer action and legal action are needed to stop questionable practices."

He reports that recent legal action in six cases against toy manufacturers for alleged deceptive practices resulted in three consent agreements and two cease-and-desist orders, with one still in the process of being settled.

"The theory of the complaints has been upheld and we have a firm legal foundation for going forward with enforcement," adds Givens, whose office serves some 20 million consumers in New York, New Jersey and Puerto Rico. "I see some improvement but more enforcement action is needed and we need help from the public to find out how much."

Though the store is not obliged to show a sample of a product in a sealed package, he points out that by refusing to shop at stores that decline to do so the purchaser can exert pressure to change the policy.

One major source of irritation, Givens explains, is a gift for a child that is opened on a holiday and can't be used because it needs batteries or glue or paint that have not been specified on the box. "It's important for children not to be disappointed. Their attitude toward the market place is formed by whether or not they've been misled."

Negative features of the item, such as necessary warnings and the fact that "it's in 400 pieces and complicated to assemble," should also appear on the package, adds Givens, who believes that the majority of manufacturers are honest.

As for the consumer who finds he has been "cheated" by getting contents that are minute in relation to the size of the package, finding parts missing or assembly more difficult than promised, he advocates taking the purchase back to the store.

"But getting an individual refund is only half the battle," he maintains. "We want the customers to let us know so we can attack the practice at the source. Keep your sales slip and records of correspondence with the store and manufacturer and send copies to the FTC office in your region, which will investigate."

Though there is no clearcut line, Givens cites as a rough guideline that if the amount of material in a package fills less than 50 per cent of the space it is indicative of deception.

"For instance," he says, "there may be a small window covering an area that's chock full of goodies, but in fact 90 per cent of the items in the box are behind that window and the other three fourths of the box contains only cardboard."

The argument has been made that people want a gift to look impressive and that manufacturers are catering to consumer taste, Givens says. "That's assuming the giver doesn't care that the recipient will be disappointed, and we don't accept that argument. And it's environmentally harmful to waste packaging for the sake of making an item look big."

"Some manufacturers have been able to get away with it, toys being less expensive than an automobile or refrigerator so that few people complain. The practice has been perpetuated because if the price tag is under $50 many people will just absorb the loss, but people are becoming less and less tolerant of being deceived."

Givens, who practices what he preaches while shopping for his daughters, Susan, 14, and Jane, 10, was appointed to his present post in January 1971. The 42-year-old former Assistant U.S. Attorney served for four years as Chief of the Consumer Fraud Unit in the Southern District of New York.

Philadelphia Blend Of Old, New

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — do anything, they can let the red brick houses and cobblestone streets of old Philadelphia bump shoulders with the steel and glass buildings of today.

Society Hill, the city's swankiest residential section, looks like it did in colonial days, but modern houses sandwiched between historic row homes remind visitors that things have changed.

"We're concerned with the total development of the area," explains Robert Heisler, member of the Old Philadelphia Development Corp., one of several city agencies that impose rigid controls over construction there.

"We like to see materials that fit the neighborhood and show some sensitivity to what has been done down there. We don't object to a modern design, we just want it to be compatible, and compatible doesn't mean exactly the same," Heisler says.

Fifteen years ago, what had been the prestigious historical area surrounding Independence Hall was a dilapidated, deteriorated food distribution center, congested and falling apart.

The city's redevelopment authority stepped in and took over the crumbling row homes that stretched west from the Delaware River for about eight blocks.

The Philadelphia Historical Commission, created in 1955, collected information about the shape and design of the original homes.

"We have files of insurance surveys," says historian Richard Tyler. "They used to send out an inspector and he'd write up the house, so that if the place burned down the owner could not exaggerate the ornamentation that was there."

The commission can tell a new owner what his house should look like and commission architects have to approve the restoration.

"We cannot compel them to

Pride Leads To Facelifting

DETROIT (AP) — Pride is said to be uplifting, but for this city it also leads to facelifting.

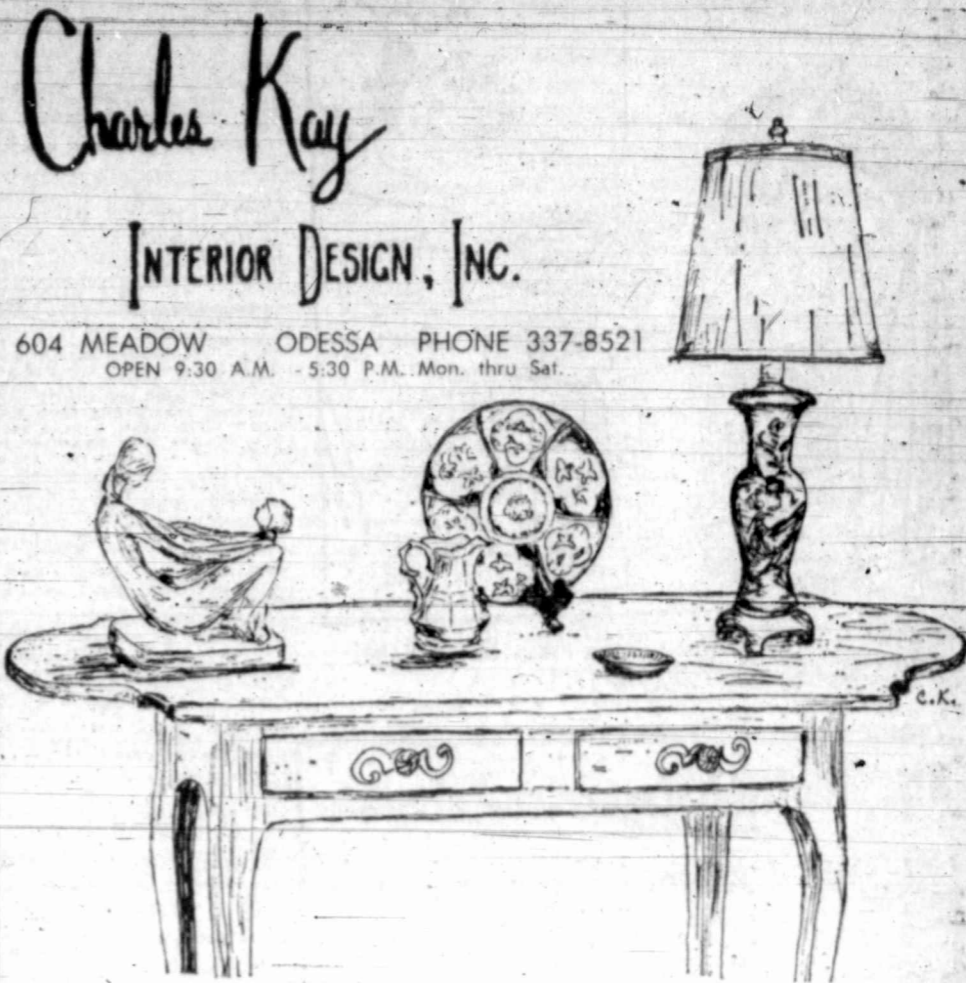

This year's annual spring cleaning, a project called "Pride" by Detroiters, saw over 4,000,000 pounds of trash and debris picked up from the streets and alleys of an 80-square-mile section of the Motor City.

The program, which began in 1970, involved some 125,000 residents as well as Detroit businessmen who contributed $25,000 to pay for supplies and promotional material. Fire stations passed out 250,000 trash bags and police precincts distributed bumper stickers and posters. The Detroit Department of Public Works sent 1,000 men and 250 sanitation trucks on special runs throughout the city, while the Michigan National Guard assigned 50 trucks and 200 men to patrol the area, collecting debris too heavy or bulky for the sanitation trucks to handle.

Petition Urges Regular Hours

LONDON (AP) — Maureen Colquhoun and five other members of Parliament have signed a motion, urging establishment of regular office hours for House of Commons sessions.

Mrs. Colquhoun, a Labor member, said she wants to get home in time to cook her husband's dinner. One MP suggested that if Mrs. Colquhoun couldn't stand the Commons pace she should return to the kitchen.

Solar Power From Satellites Could One Day Run Your Home

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In 1975 your crystal ball may show a satellite in your future. The drum-like spacecraft covered with solar cells that are spinning around the world may soon provide your home with space-age efficiency.

Within the decade with satellite antenna on your rooftop you may be able to transmit your own letters, push buttons to get the latest news, do your shopping and banking and even school your children by means of the interaction of satellites, video, computers, microwaves and other electronic wonders. You may even conduct your business at home with the help of satellites.

Economy Cited

So says Russell W. McFall, chairman of the board of Western Union, whose second domestic satellite has just been launched. He doesn't venture a guess on how the lady of the house will react to all that togetherness making inroads on her day, but we may soon know.

"It is all technically feasible now, but it is a question of how long it will take to change people's habits," he explained. The economy has a lot to do with it, too.

Business and government are big in the new electronic era and many of the tests that are being made by these users will eventually be enjoyed by smaller domestic users, he says.

McFall's conversation is an example of the changing vocabulary that might accompany our space-age lives. Such electronic terminology as transponders, earth stations, megabits, gigabit, issue from his lips as he discusses upcoming possibilities.

Typewriter Used

For example, right now there is the capability of sending a letter into the mail system from a certain type of electric typewriter now being tested, he explains. That giant step toward an eventual home-to-home, do-it-yourself letter is also evident in the recent inauguration of the mailgram system — you dictate a letter to an operator over your telephone and it automatically goes to the post office for delivery the next day.

As for your newspaper, it will not need to fear a paper crunch in a satellite era, he maintains. It will still perform its main function, gathering and transmitting news, and you will not doubt pay for your newspaper subscription and whatever services you use — print-outs perhaps, of some things you may want to save — recipes, batting averages, weather forecasts, a news story, which may be obtained by pressing buttons.

Travel, too, will be "revolutionized by the adoption of such systems," he says. In addition to persons conducting conferences from home with their long-distance business contacts (as some do now from their offices on closed circuit television), a family can see more of its loved ones in far-off places. You'll merely dial to see your grandchildren or new grandchild without making the expensive trip every time.

"And you won't have their sticky hand prints on your furniture," McFall, a genial man, says facetiously. "When our own grandchildren go home, and my wife asks what we are going to do next, I always suggest that we begin by washing all the doorknobs," he laughs.

One advantage of a complete satellite system will be the dispersion of people from cities, McFall predicts. Instead of everyone being crammed onto 5 per cent of the land, any person may enjoy the good life by moving wherever he wants to live. He can still be in contact with the world.

Idea Formed

His company welcomed "the revolution in communications" because it could no longer provide many personal services they had long given, walking dogs and even supplying a third and fourth for bridge.

"We regularly supplied 10 messengers in uniform to a retired Army colonel who felt the need to drill troops, but such special services have had to disappear with the upstairs maid."

McFall, who had been in the missile area before joining his present company, got the idea of instituting the domestic satellite system in 1966, he says. Six months ago after getting permission from the FCC, the company launched Westar, the first domestic communications satellite system in the United States. A back-up system has been recently put into space and a third is not too far off. But a two-satellite system costs $90 million. "More predictions may be in order as economies get better," McFall explained.

However, there will no doubt need to be a second generation of satellites before neighborhoods can be put into "complexes," he observed.

"The five unmanned earth stations designed in a module fashion can be expanded to accommodate growth. A single satellite can transmit messages at the rate of 8 million words per second. A mailgram from New York to Los Angeles traveling at the speed of light to the satellite, a mind-boggling 47,000 miles in space, is received in less time than Samuel Morse's four-word telegraphed message. "What Hath God Wrought!"

It's Hard To Get License In Austria

VIENNA (AP) — It's tough and expensive to get a driver's license in Austria.

Last year nearly 132,000 persons received their pink-colored driver's license but 57,000, or 44 per cent, failed to pass the test on the first run. They had to come back for a second time, some of them even a third time.

As the failure rate ranged from a high 55 per cent in the province of Styria to a considerably lower 23 per cent in Carinthia, minister of traffic and transport Erwin Lanc ordered an investigation.

He said he could not believe that the traffic situation could be so different in the provinces. He suggested written tests instead of the direct confrontation between traffic officers and applicants under the present system. Most applicants' stumble on theoretical questions.

People who passed the driver's tests also admitted they became nervous when facing traffic officers to explain such things as traffic laws and engine functioning. Some even claimed the traffic officers liked to make applicants nervous, and to catch them off guard with tricky questions.

Although it is possible to get a learner's permit in Austria just as in other countries, hard-foot-high waterfall that plunges by anyone bothers to get one, as too much red tape is involved. Instead, learners go to driving schools.

Some 1.6 million private cars are licensed in Austria. The saturation point is expected to be reached in about ten years and driving schools are still booming.

An applicant must count on spending a minimum of $3,000 Schillings ($162) before getting his driver's license. The average monthly wage is 5,500 Schillings ($297).

Driving schools on the average charge 1,200 Schillings ($64) for 40 hours of theoretical lessons and for fees for paper work. One hour in the driving

Fish Swim In Luxury

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Fish gotta swim, but nowhere does it say they gotta swim in luxury. Nevertheless, there are some select goldfish that reside in aquatic splendor.

These fish, known as "The 100" of underwater society, dart around in a 30-foot pool off Hotel here. The pool, adorned with Egyptian papyrus and water lilies, is at the base of a 60-foot-high waterfall that plunges through a tropical garden.

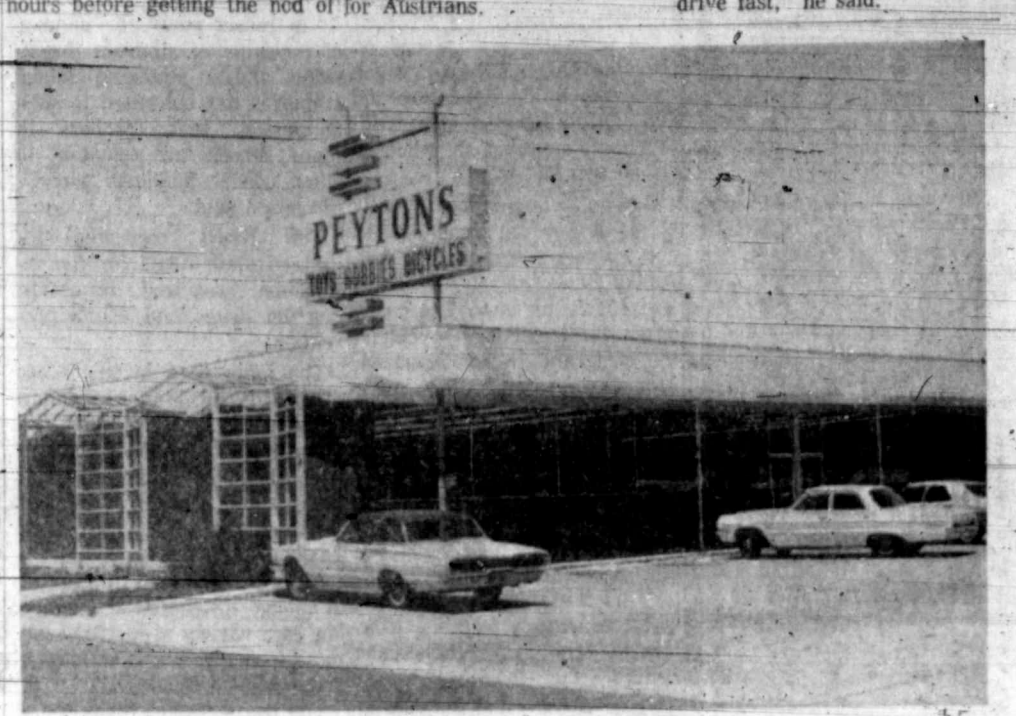

school car with an instructor the driving school for taking costs an additional 130 Schillings ($7).

Applicants who have had some experience such as driving their father's car may be able to get by with ten hours of driving. Others may need as much as 40 hours before getting the nod of

While insurance companies in other countries try to tell their clients to "take it easy" and that "speed kills," a top man of the Insurance Branch here in a television interview said he did not care for speed limits. "I have a quick car and I like to drive fast," he said.

However, Austrians, who otherwise have a reputation of being courteous people, seem to forget this once they have a car. A television interview said he did not care for speed limits. "I have a quick car and I like to drive fast," he said.

Chain Puller Gets Promotion

FLUSHED BY SUCCESS
HULL, England (AP) — Dennis Bateson, 23, who formerly flushed 2,000 toilets a day as tester at a bathroom equipment factory here, has been promoted to the position of junior foreman.
Bateson was known as Britain's top chain puller and had held his previous post for two years. Now the company reports having trouble finding a new man for the flushing job.
