

Three Areas Get Locations For Ventures

Exploration has been scheduled in Martin, Mitchell and Fisher counties.

Foy Boyd Associates, Inc., of Midland, accounted for an 11,700-foot searcher in southwest Martin, 3/4 mile northeast of the two-well Fran-Glass (Pennsylvanian) oil field, it is No. 1 Hamblin.

Drill site is 1,320 feet from north and west lines of section 3, block 38, T-1-S, T&P survey, seven miles northeast of Midland.

Mitchell Re-Entry

G. B. Harding Co., Inc., Coahoma, will re-enter and plug back to 2,200 feet as an attempt to re-open San Andres production in the Turner-Gregory field, and also for tests of the Clearfork, the regular field pay, at No. 1 T. A. Reese, former Clearfork producer, in Mitchell County.

The project is 2,340 feet from north and 530 feet from east lines of section 13, block 19, T-1-N, T&P survey, seven miles northwest of Westbrook. It is two miles north of the former San Andres opener in the field. Fisher Venture

Mercury and Texland Petroleum, Inc. of Fort Worth, have staked site for a 5,800-foot wildcat in Fisher County, three miles southwest of Royston. It is No. 2 W. P. Bomar Jr., Trust.

Drill site is 660 feet from north and 1,450 feet from west lines, of lot 6, T. H. Cosby survey 315, one location north of a 6,502-foot duster and 3 1/4 miles south of the Sandy Hill (Canyon) field.

Reeves Gas Field Outpost Planned

American Quasar Petroleum Corp. staked site for No. 1-23 Worsham as a 2 1/2-mile southeast outpost to the dual Devonian and Fusselman gas opener and one mile east outpost to the Fusselman confirmation in the Worsham, North field of Reeves County.

Drill site is 990 feet from south and west lines of section 23, block 6, H&N survey, 13 miles east of Pecos. Planned depth is 16,800 feet.

The discovery, the same firm's No. 1-19 Worsham, was completed Dec. 7, 1973, for a calculated, absolute open flow of 12.8 million cubic feet of gas per day, through Devonian perforations at 16,611-16,670 feet, and for a calculated, absolute open flow of 9.6 million cubic feet of gas per day, through Fusselman perforations at 17,110-17,196 feet.

Eddy Area Draws Permian Discovery

Gene A. Snow of Lovington, N.M., has completed a small Queen-Grayburg-San Andres discovery in Eddy County, N.M., about 12 miles southwest of Loco Hills.

It gauged a 24-hour pumping potential of 41 barrels of 36-gravity oil and 120 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio too small to measure. Production was through perforations at 1,804-2,836 feet, which had been

Panel Kills Tax Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A multibillion-dollar tax bill, ending the petroleum depletion allowance and hiking oil industry taxes while cutting taxes for millions of average Americans, was killed today by the House Rules Committee.

The committee, which serves as the traffic cop for the movement of bills to the House, voted 9 to 4 to refuse to consider the massive measure which the House Ways and Means Committee had recommended after many months of work.

The bill's chief features would have raised petroleum industry taxes on production at home and abroad, cut taxes for millions of average Americans in low-income and middle-income brackets, boosted the investment tax credit for public utilities, and closed assorted major loopholes while hiking taxes on foreign-source income of multinational firms.

Furthermore, it would have made a series of other changes in tax laws ranging from new benefits for investors with capital losses to revisions in the tax treatment of political organizations.

The tax bill went to its death without even a hearing by the Rules Committee on the merits of the legislation. The panel simply decided it was time to virtually close shop for the remaining days of this congressional session on all matters except those involving a strip-mining control bill, the vice presidential nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller and emergency measures.

The series of tax increases and reductions for various corporations and individuals would have resulted in a gain of $600 million for the Treasury this year.

The Ways and Means Committee argued that the legislation (See TAX REFORM Page 2A)

Israeli Planes Hit Targets On Edge Of Beirut

By The Associated Press

Israeli jets bombed a suspected Palestinian commando training site on the southern edge of Beirut today less than 24 hours after a terrorist set off grenades in a Tel Aviv movie theater, killing himself, an Israeli woman and a British engineer and wounding 38 others.

Beirut airport was closed to all incoming and outgoing flights. Casualties in the air raids were not known, and there was no immediate comment from the Israeli command.

But an informed Israeli source in Tel Aviv said: "The target area in the Beirut raid is a PLO training installation. We have every reason to believe that it was where the planning for the cinema raid was carried out. It is a center for special operations of a very delicate and sensitive nature." At least four Israeli jets flew over the Lebanese capital dropping bombs on several camps shortly after 3 p.m. — 9 a.m. EST. Smoke rose over the camps as air raid sirens wailed throughout Beirut.

The jets dipped low over the city as they made at least two bombing passes. Witnesses said the major camps of Sabra and Shatila and the smaller Tal Zaatar camp near the Beirut airport took hits.

Residents at another camp, Bourj el Barajneh, said they were not hit but that guerrillas fired antiaircraft rockets at the attacking jets.

The proguerrilla newspaper Al Mubarrar quoted Yusef Arafat, head of the Palestine Liberation Organization, as claiming responsibility for the Tel Aviv movie attack Wednesday night.

Arabs Are Expected To Hike Oil Prices Eventually

VIENNA, Austria (AP) —

The oil-exporting countries are not expected to raise prices at their two-day meeting that opened in Vienna today. But Iran's oil minister says they will have to be an increase eventually to keep pace with inflation.

"We must uphold the purchasing power of our oil," Jamshid Amouzegar of Iran told newsmen Wednesday night as oil ministers gathered for the session of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Amouzegar said the Shah of Iran, OPEC's leading "price hawk," does not insist on a price rise immediately after Dec. 31, when present prices are subject to revision. But he said the oil exporters eventually will need more revenue to offset the increase in the cost of their imports due to inflation.

The leading "price dove," Saudi Arabia's Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, said "a certain reduction of prices is not excluded." But other sources doubted the meeting would vote any cuts.

Yamani said energy conservation by the oil-consuming nations to reduce their imports would not bring the price down. "There is no alternative to holding a meaningful dialogue with us," he declared.

The oil ministers are considering a new, simplified pricing system to replace the present involved system based on the artificial "posted" price set by the OPEC. Members of the organization claim that the foreign oil companies have used the complicated setup to make excessive profits and have shifted the blame unfairly to the oil nations.

The conference was also expected to discuss Amouzegar's proposal that OPEC open discussions with the International Energy Agency of 16 oil-consuming nations, which was formed at the urging of the United States to bargain with the oil producers.

Cut In Taxes Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Auto industry and union leaders "all highly attentive to the problems of the auto industry as presented at the White House meeting."

Woodcock said he cited the crisis situation affecting the automobile industry and construction industry and dragging down the economy. Woodcock also said he expressed a belief that a five-year pause is needed in automobile emission and safety controls to help get costs down.

Ford said in a speech here Wednesday night he expects to have new programs to combat the nation's economic problems ready for the new Congress when it convenes Jan. 14. His advisers will be working through the Christmas holidays to prepare it, he said.

Treasury Department sources said the options the President will consider include tax cuts, mandatory fuel allocations, financial aid to troubled industries, and additional help for the nation's unemployed.

"This country badly needs an income tax cut," Woodcock told reporters in the White House driveway after the session that was also attended by Michigan's Gov. William Milliken; the state's congressional representatives; the Transportation, Labor, Commerce and Treasury secretaries; Ford's economic advisers, and two top executives each from the big four auto manufacturers — Ford, (See ECONOMY Page 2A)

Inflation's Pace Seen Subsiding

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices last month rose 1.2 per cent, less than half the October increase, the government reported today. There were indications the pace of inflation was subsiding.

Although the November increase was high by normal standards, the Labor Department said price increases over the month were less widespread than in preceding months.

And, while agriculture prices continued to increase sharply at the wholesale level, prices of industrial commodities — regarded by economists as a truer measure of inflation — rose at the slowest rate in 13 months.

Smaller Increase
Wholesale prices of industrial goods rose nine-tenths of a per cent last month, slightly less than in September and October and the smallest rise since October 1973 when they rose eight-tenths of a per cent.

Over-all wholesale prices have risen 23.5 per cent in the past 12 months, the biggest year-to-year increase since 1947. But the rate of increase has slowed in recent months, indicating that the nation's inflation rate may soon begin to subside.

Easing Predicted
President Ford in his economic speech Wednesday night said price pressures were beginning to ease and predicted that "inflation will move steadily down from the intolerable double-digit level."

The 1.2 per cent rise in wholesale prices last month, on a seasonally adjusted basis, compared with October's increase of 2.5 per cent and a rise of one-tenth of one per cent in September. Unadjusted, prices rose one per cent last month.

Trends in wholesale prices usually show up at the consumer level eventually, offering hope that the rise in retail prices may soon trail off.

Detailing its wholesale price report, the Labor Department said prices for farm products rose 1.3 per cent in November while processed foods and feeds increased 3.5 per cent. In October farm products climbed 4.8 per cent and processed foods and feeds 5.5 per cent.

Sugar and confectionary goods accounted for most of the 3.5 per cent increase in prices of consumer foods, those goods ready for sale on supermarket shelves. (See PRICES Page 2A)

Mercury Again Plunges In State

Another mass of cold air aimed its blustery breath at Texas this morning even before sunny skies warmed the chill from the last wintry assault.

Temperatures plunged into the 20s in the Panhandle and far West Texas during the night and dipped into the 30s on the South Plains and across Central and Northeast Texas.

The Tall City should experience mild and generally fair weather today and Friday, according to a report by the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal.

Weathermen are calling for a high temperature in the low 60s this afternoon, but forecast a cold overnight low with temperatures expected to drop below 30.

Wednesday's high here was 54 degrees, and this morning's low was 32. The high Friday should be in the middle 50s, the weatherman said.

At dawn readings ranged into the 40s along the Coastal Plains and the 50s in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. The Associated Press reported.

Despite the nippy temperatures and approaching cold front, Texas skies remained mostly clear.

Only the coast was expected to be cloudy.

They Want To Buy The Sun

By LINDA DEUTSCH

LOS ANGELES (AP) — They are scientists, sociologists and dreamers. They know nothing of show business but are planning a superconcert for a cause: They want to buy the sun.

Calling themselves Consumers Solar Electric Power, they say they have found a way to harness the sun's power for cheap mass use.

"Do we plan to market the sun? Yes we do," says Gerald Schaflander, president of CSEP.

Other scientists working on the urgent need for new energy sources say this group may be on the right track. But no one will know unless they can raise the money to test their theories on a large scale.

Privately funded and unwilling to trust their ideas to corporate giants, CSEP founders hit on the idea of a "Solar Power Concert" to finance their efforts.

CSEP officers recently bought a full page ad in Daily Variety, trumpeting in huge black letters: "The Sun!" It addressed 36 top entertainers from the Allman Brothers to Stevie Wonder and including Barbra Streisand and Mel Brooks.

"Won't you join us in a fight for human survival?" said the ad, imploring stars to perform at a five-hour benefit closed circuit concert.

Eartha Kitt accepted immediately. So did Yehudi Menuhin and the rock group Atlantic. Others have expressed interest.

"At first, we thought we could put on the show by December," says Schaflander, a political sociologist and former university teacher. "Now, after talking to people in the business, we realize that's impossible. But we feel we can be ready by late January or February. We're waiting for responses from some of the people we really need — people like Paul Newman, George Harrison, Robert Redford, Elton John, John Denver, Joni Mitchell and Bob Dylan."

The concert would be held at two major arenas on the East and West coasts and would be transmitted live to motion picture theaters.

"We will submit to every ticket buyer an outline of what will be done with the money they're paying," says Schaflander.

The outline would tell of CSEP's efforts to weld space technology with economy to develop a cheap, nonpolluting, abundantly available energy source: sunpower.

"The general line of thinking these days is that solar power is a very exciting thing but that it's 20 years away," says Schaflander. "We are saying that solar power is here now. All we need is the money to produce the solar cells."

"We do not want to eliminate other forms of power," says Schaflander, 54. "What we want to provide is an alternate form of power, solar electric power that will be competitive with fossil and nuclear fuel. We want to sell it to the public utility companies."

Ehrlichman Claims Nixon Repeatedly Deceived Him

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House aide John D. Ehrlichman told the Watergate cover-up trial today he now believes former President Richard M. Nixon never wanted him to come up with an accurate report on Watergate.

Under cross-examination by chief prosecutor James F. Neal, Ehrlichman was asked about the Watergate report he has said Nixon requested on March 30, 1973.

"That report was not supposed to be a full and true report, was it?" Neal asked.

"So far as I was concerned it was, but after looking back and listening to the tapes it is my present view he (Nixon) was hopeful it would not be," Ehrlichman replied.

"He didn't want an accurate report?" Neal asked.

"That's true," responded Ehrlichman.

Neal referred to a number of passages on the tape of conversations in March and April 1973 which he contended showed that Ehrlichman, rather than being misled, was recommending issuance of a less than truthful report.

Ehrlichman responded by disputing the accuracy of prosecution transcripts of the conversations, particularly the transcript of a conversation on March 21, 1973, in which Nixon, Ehrlichman and H. R. Halde- man discussed a report which they refer to as "a limited hangout."

The government transcript has Ehrlichman referring to a "modified, limited hangout."

"What is a modified, limited hangout when you talk about a report that isn't phony?" Neal asked.

"I don't know what a modified, limited hangout is," said Ehrlichman, who denied he was the one who used the term.

He admitted using the term "limited hangout" which he called "a less than full disclosure."

But Ehrlichman added: "I said it in a mode of disapproval of what was being proposed."

Ehrlichman, once among the staunchest Nixon loyalists, said under cross-examination Wednesday he now realizes Nixon deceived him at least four times about Watergate.

Mine Construction Workers Reject Pact, May Close Pits

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — The rejection of a new contract for 4,500 mine construction workers threatened to shut down many of the nation's coal mines today, partially renewing a walkout that idled most of the industry for nearly a month.

The United Mine Workers 38-member bargaining council, after meeting in Washington Wednesday night, sent the tentative accord back for further negotiations with the Association of Bituminous Contractors.

Union negotiators said immediately after hearing of the council's action that they would seek a meeting with representatives of the contractors association as soon as possible.

The contract for the ABC employees was similar to the settle-

School Board Minutes Declared Open Records

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas attorney general says school board minutes are open to anyone who wants to see them, with a few narrow exceptions.

In another opinion Wednesday, Atty. Gen. John Hill also held that federally-required reports about salaries, sex and race of governmental employees are public information.

The school board opinion was asked by Superintendent Glyn B. Williamson of the Rains Independent School District, Emery, who said a news reporter had asked to see copies of the Rains School Board minutes after they had been approved.

The opinion noted that the Open Records Act allows governmental bodies to keep from the public "discussions" involving appointments, employment, evaluation, reassignment, duties, discipline and dismissal of employees. He said such "discussions" as reflected in any minutes could be withheld, but warned that any final actions, decisions and votes on employees must be made public.

Dent Draws One Month's Probation On Plea Of Guilty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harry S. Dent, onetime political strategist for former President Richard M. Nixon, has pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor violation of federal political campaign contribution laws and says his name will be linked unfairly with Watergate for the rest of his life.

"I'm destined for the history books as a bad footnote," Dent said Wednesday after being sentenced to one month's unsupervised probation.

Dent pleaded guilty to aiding and abetting an illegal fund-raising operation which was organized by the White House in 1970 and pumped nearly $3 million into Republican congressional races.

The 44-year-old Dent, a South Carolina lawyer who resigned Saturday as general counsel to the Republican National committee, is the third person prosecuted for taking part in the secret operation, known as the "Townhouse" operation because it was run from the basement of a Washington townhouse.

Stieb Appointed Judge Of District

SAN ANGELO — Curt F. Steib, a San Angelo attorney since 1949, has been named 119th District Court judge here by Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Stieb replaces Judge Glenn R. Lewis, whose retirement is effective Dec. 31. The unexpired term runs until Dec. 31, 1976.

The 119th district includes Tom Green, Runnels and Concho counties.

Regional Planning Commission Schedules Seminole Meeting

The semi-annual general membership business meeting for the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission will be held Jan. 23 at Seminole. It will feature a presentation by personnel from NASA in Houston on the region emergency medical systems program.

The business session was set at a meeting of the PBRPC board on Wednesday. The directors also picked a committee to nominate new board members for 1975. The board will vote on the nominations.

Named to the committee were Midland County Judge Barbara Culver, Dawson County Judge Leslie Pratt and Nerbon Sikes, Monahan city councilman.

Two proposals failed to receive the board's approval at Wednesday's meeting.

A grant application by the American G.I. Forum was denied because the Permian Basin Manpower Advisory Committee reported the application was for a statewide program, which would take funds out of the 17-county PBRPC area.

Also denied was a request by the Department of Community Affairs, Office of the Governor, to amend the PBRPC Manpower Plan to supplement the State Migrant Worker Program.

Ernie Crawford, PBRPC planning director, told the board the state migrant worker program had wanted approximately $50,000 already designated for the Permian Basin sent back to the state for use in the statewide program.

Crawford said there was no assurance the money would be returned to the West Texas area. He also noted the governor's office had withdrawn its request but said he felt the commission should go on record as opposing such a move.

Among grant applications approved were those of the City of Odessa for its Crime Prevention Unit, Ector County for its Juvenile Rehabilitation Program and the Texas Highway Department for improvements to a section of Grandview Street in Odessa.

Also approved were grant requests for the Big Spring Juvenile Department, the Permian Basin Dual Probation Service, the Permian Basin Police Radio Communications Project, the Regional Crime Prevention Program, runway and taxiway improvements at Pecos Municipal Airport, Lamesa-Dawson County Senior Citizens Center, the Saragosa Headstart program in Reeves County and the General Community Program in Reeves County.

Christmas Program Scheduled Tuesday

Midland's annual Christmas Program at Crier Park has been scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday.

The Christmas program is conducted by the Midland Parks and Recreation Department in cooperation with the Midland Jaycees.

Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. will open the Christmas celebration with the official lighting of the 80-foot tree and present the opening address.

Christmas music will be provided by the Edison Freshman School Band and Choir.

Members of the Jaycees will serve free coffee, hot chocolate and soft drinks to spectators.

And according to sources at Santa Land, close to the North Pole, "The jolly little fellow in the red suit is expected to make a visit during the Christmas program."

Both the Midland parks personnel and the Jaycees have made preparations for the expected visit by Santa Claus, and a special "Santa's House" will be available to all children so they can talk to Santa personally.

Should the weather be cold, warm fires in protected pits will be supplied to keep everyone warm.

Chrysler, General Motors and American Motors.

Ford's speech offered few clues about his proposals to the next Congress, but it was clear he has abandoned or changed much of the economic program that he announced Oct. 8 after the economic summit.

"We will meet the changing priorities of present and future realities," Ford told the Business Council, a group of about 100 of the nation's top corporate executives.

Ford said he would support increased spending over what he has proposed previously to help the nation's jobless with extended unemployment benefits and public service jobs.

The Senate is planning to vote soon on a $4 billion emergency public service jobs bill to create about 530,000 jobs in the next year. The House is scheduled to take up an emergency unemployment compensation bill to extend benefits an additional 13 weeks for jobless workers.

Irate Cattlemen Take Beef To Butz

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cattlemen disgruntled over low prices for their beef delivered 45 head of cattle to Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz's official doorstep today.

Alongside makeshift pens in front of the department they posted a sign: "Here's Our Beef, Mr. Butz."

But officials said Butz would not accept the cattle. An aide, Donald E. Brock, said USDA lawyers had raised questions over the legality of receiving the animals and that Butz may suggest the owners donate them as beef for needy people.

Butz arranged to meet with the cattlemen later in the day.

Odessans To Begin Campaign For Park

ODESSA — "Make Odessa an Oasis" is the slogan on bumper stickers which high school students here will sell Saturday in a drive to finance the development of a new Odessa "show" park.

Students from Ector, Odessa and Permian high schools will also be collecting funds throughout the city Saturday for the project which originated with the Oasis Foundation, a non-profit group formed by citizens interested in upgrading the parks here.

The show park would be called "Freedom Park" and would be constructed on a site immediately east of the Odessa YMCA. A drive to raise approximately $180,000 to finance construction will begin early next year.

Duck Pond Hassle Spawns UTPB 'Watergrape' Yarns

ODESSA — University of Texas as of the Permian Basin president Dr. B. H. Amstead and vice president for business affairs R. C. Thompson are in Austin today for a regatta meeting, temporarily leaving behind the controversial golf course, duck pond and a wave of "Watergrape" jokes.

Both administrators are expected to return Sunday evening to the university where University of Texas System auditors are currently studying funds and vouchers to answer the charge of Rep. Neil Caldwell of Angleton that state funds may have been misappropriated in use on the two facilities.

Retired Marine Corps Gen. H. W. "Hank" Hise in September told the regents he had information that Amstead gave false testimony to Caldwell's House Appropriations Committee when he told them no state monies were used on the gold course or duck pond.

Gen. Hise estimated $300,000 in state funds had been used on the two facilities.

The auditors' probe has so far directly traced $3,145 to golf course expenditures and $3,660 to the duck pond in 1972.

A top University of Texas System official said Wednesday, however, that UT Regents' rules may have provided for local spending of state funds for the controversial items without approval from the regents.

Legality Under Study

According to Mike Quinn, assistant to system chancellor Charles LeMaistre, the legality of the expenditures now under study by the system's auditors could depend on the amount of state funds spent.

Quinn indicated projects costing more than a $50,000 need regents' approval.

Gen. Hise, who told regents he thought the two projects quadrupled in cost what the rule allows, was relieved of his position as director of development shortly after he addressed them. He was demoted to make a study of the feasibility of growing grapes in the Permian Basin.

Trade Bill 'Deal' May Boost Gasoline Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting under White House pressure, Senate leaders have reached an agreement that could result in passage next week of a far-reaching trade bill. But the arrangement may mean higher gasoline prices for American drivers.

Senate sources say it has been made clear to the White House that if President Ford is to get the trade legislation he is pressing for, he will have to accept another bill requiring that 30 per cent of imported oil be carried on U.S. tankers.

It is generally conceded that the tanker bill, which the Ford administration previously has opposed, would raise the price of gasoline and heating oil, especially in New England states.

Ford has called the trade legislation one of the most important bills in recent years. It would give him authority to negotiate for lower tariffs and for reduction of other barriers to free trade with the rest of the world.

The bill also would grant trade concessions to the Soviet Union as the result of an understanding between the Ford administration and Soviet leaders that would liberalize Soviet emigration restrictions.

Rotarians Hear Employee-Employer Relations Expert

A special program on Employee-Employer Relations highlighted the meeting of the Midland Downtown Rotary Club held today noon in the American Legion Hall.

The speaker was E. L. Wagener, employee relations manager for Exxon's Mid-Continent Division, headquartered here.

More than 50 high school students, many of whom plan to enter the work field immediately upon graduation, were special guests of club members.

Wagener discussed a wide range of relations between employer and employee, but explained specifically what a new employee may expect from his employer and conversely on what the employer expects from a new employee.

The program was arranged and introduced by Rotarian Jack Shepherd, program chairman.

Bentsen Says Ford's Policies Abet Recession

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., says President Ford's economic policies have "driven the U.S. further into recession."

Bentsen, mentioned as a possible Democratic presidential contender, said in a speech here Wednesday that the government should reduce interest rates, provide tax relief, avoid excess budget cutting and reduce energy consumption.

He said he has introduced a bill to give tax credits to parents who save for their children's college education.

The President has concentrated on the pitfalls of inflation without attempting to deal with worsening unemployment, Bentsen said.

Stripper Fanne Charged With Indecent Exposure

SANFORD, Fla. (AP) — Fanne Foxe, the stripper-protégé of Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, was arrested early today and charged with indecent exposure, officials said.

Asst. State Atty. Jack Fulewider said Miss Foxe was arrested "for being completely naked" during a performance. He said the Argentine-born stripper was "charged with a violation of the state statute as it pertains to indecent exposure."

Fulewider said club owner Mike Pinter also was arrested "for letting this happen." The precise charge against Pinter was not immediately released.

Miss Foxe was receiving $15,000 a week for a two-week engagement at the night club near this central Florida city.

The engagement began Monday night.

A mother of four, Miss Foxe, whose real name is Annabella Battistella, broke into the headlines two months ago when she jumped into Washington's Tidal Basin after police stopped a car in which she and Mills were riding.

Mills, Arkansas Democrat who is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, was re-elected despite the publicity that followed. But a furor erupted after Mills appeared on a Boston stage with Miss Foxe two weeks ago. He entered a hospital several days later, complaining of exhaustion.

On Tuesday, House Speaker Carl Albert said Mills, because of ill health, had decided not to seek reappointment as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee.

Tower Sees Little Opposition To Ford's Nomination Of Texan For U.S. Attorney

HOUSTON (AP) — A spokesman for Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, says he doesn't expect much opposition to President Ford's nomination of Edward B. McDonough of Houston as the new U.S. attorney for the 45-county Southern District of Texas.

McDonough graduated from Notre Dame University and The University of Texas School of Law. He spent four years after receiving his law degree as an assistant Harris County attorney. In 1969, Farris appointed McDonough an assistant U.S. attorney.

one of 12 assistant U.S. attorneys chosen from among 1,300 across the nation to receive the department's award for meritorious service.

Other candidates for the U.S. attorneys post included assistant U.S. Atty. Bill Bowers, chief of the civil division; assistant U.S. Atty. Boone Vantine, and three Houston attorneys, Bob Scott, Lynn N. Hughes and George M. Bishop.

Battle Over Aid Bill Looms

WASHINGTON (AP) — A battle in Congress over cutting off foreign aid to Turkey has been set in motion by House approval of a foreign aid bill that extends the present moratorium until June 30.

President Ford has opposed the cutoff but his congressional supporters offered little resistance to it. They said they will try to win agreement for the delay when House and Senate conferees work out a compromise with a $2.7 billion for foreign aid bill passed by the Senate.

withdrawal of Turkish troops from Cyprus. That cutoff expires next week, and the House bill would reimpose it.

accepted a compromise to cut military aid to South Korea by $20 million until Ford can report that President Park Chung-hee is loosening restrictive policies.

TEACHER APPRECIATION — The 35-member Chicano, Anglo, Negro Organization (CANO) at Lee High School designated Wednesday as Teacher Appreciation Day. Javier Torres and Mary Jane Morales, president of the club, serve, from left, Mrs. Darlene Kissinger, Rosemary Patterson, CANO sponsor, and Mrs. Art Hinds. The organization has been in operation two years.

Ford, after almost three months delay, nominated McDonough Wednesday.

Tower recommended McDonough after Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D-Texas, blocked the reappointment of Anthony J. P. Farris, who announced his resignation in September.

McDonough, 35, currently is an assistant U.S. attorney in charge of the office's criminal division. He would become one of the youngest U.S. attorneys ever for the district.

A Tower aide said Wednesday he didn't know if McDonough was a Republican.

The Southern District includes Houston, Corpus Christi, Laredo and the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

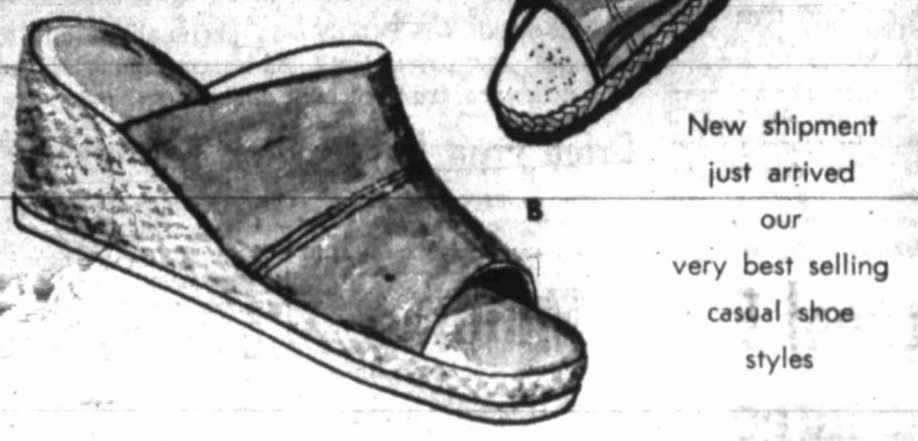

many against others being investigated, pleaded guilty to relatively minor banking and security violations and received a $5,000 fine and three years probation.

Farris, U.S. attorney more than five years, was opposed by Bentsen because of alleged mishandling of the 1971 Sharpstown scandal. Bentsen complained about the arrangements Farris worked out with Houston financier Frank W. Sharp.

In November 1970, McDonough became chief of the criminal division.

Three Surviving Sextuplets Said Gaining Ground

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Halfway through their first week of life, the three surviving sextuplets of Charlotte Lange are gaining in their struggle against oxygen starvation, hospital officials say.

The premature babies, born after their mother took a fertility drug, remained in guarded condition today at Valley Medical Center and Dr. James Harrod said the next few days will be "most crucial."

Jason Wesley, Brian Walter and Jolene Rene are fighting in respirators against hyaline membrane disease which killed William and Kelley Irene within five hours of each other Tuesday. The sixth infant, a boy, died within hours after the birth Sunday.

The nursing supervisor said the tiny survivors showed "slight improvement in respiratory functions."

Trudeau Has New Armored Vehicle

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Elliott Trudeau has a new $80,000 limousine with armor plating, bullet proof windows and two telephones.

The silver-gray Cadillac replaces a similar black automobile that now will be used as a spare and for touring dignitaries such as British royalty.

"It's not my idea, driving through life with an armored Caddy — like a tank — that I lend to the queen when she comes," Trudeau complained during a recent speech in Alberta.

A member of the audience grabbed the terrorist, and a third grenade exploded, killing the terrorist.

Two more grenades were found on the terrorist's body, and plastic explosives were found in a suitcase in his hotel room.

Drug Charges Dropped Against Mayor's Daughter

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Drug charges against the daughter of Mayor Thomas Bradley, Phyllis Bradley, 29, have been dismissed. But a codefendant was convicted of possessing LSD and cocaine.

The police said the terrorist carried a British passport issued to Alexander Adam Hopper, born in Accra, Ghana, in 1948. They said he had "European" features and black hair, wore gold-rimmed glasses and arrived from Bombay Wednesday morning.

The young man sat in the last row of the balcony at the theater, which was showing a movie titled "Flatfoot." Suddenly he stood up and threw two homemade grenades. The crowd began screaming and ran for the doors.

Five persons were wounded in the attack on the three PLO offices in the Lebanese capital Monday. They were hit by rockets fired by time devices from the top of parked cars.

West Virginian Killed Near Belton

BELTON, Tex. (AP) — John W. Zelnick, 24, of Fairmont, W. Va., was killed early today in a two-car collision two miles south of here on Interstate 35.

David P. Liggins II, 20, was convicted Wednesday in the nonjury Superior Court trial and was scheduled for sentencing Jan. 16. A third defendant previously pleaded guilty and was sentenced to a year in jail.

Investigators said four other persons received injuries in the smashup. Hospital spokesmen said all were in satisfactory condition.

PERSONAL GIFT — For a personalized gift to friends, try Dried Fruit Balls, combining mixed fruit, coconut and rum.

Dried Fruit Balls Quick To Make

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Dried fruit balls are quick to make and prove a very personal gift for friends during the holidays. Increase recipe as necessary by doubling or tripling amount of ingredients needed or make a batch of 54 dried fruit balls from original recipe and pack in air free container if you have the time.

DRIED FRUIT BALLS

- 2 tablespoons margarine
- 1/2 cup light corn syrup
- 1 tablespoon water, rum or orange juice
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 3/4 cup nonfat dry milk powder
- 2 cups dried mixed fruit, finely chopped or ground

- 2 cups flaked coconut, finely chopped
- Confectioners' sugar (optional)

Stir margarine in large mixing bowl. Gradually stir in corn syrup, then water, vanilla and coconut. Add mixed fruit and shape into small balls. Roll in confectioners' sugar, if desired. Chill. Makes about 54 (1-inch) balls.

Cheese Cookery

Keep temperature low when cooking cheese dishes. For oven dishes, 350 degrees is right. Put the casserole in a pan of hot water to keep bottom and sides from overcooking before the center is done.

Mrs. John Terry Presents Program

Mrs. John Terry presented a program, "The First Christmas" for a guest day meeting Tuesday of the Twentieth Century Study Club in the Midland Woman's Club.

The president, Mrs. Robert Noah, opened the program with a holiday greeting and introduction of guests. Mrs. Woodford Sale, homelife chairman, introduced Mrs. Terry, Mrs. John Greer, soprano, and Mrs. Lester Morton, accompanist for the program of Christmas music.

Tables were decorated with candles and fruit and holly rings. The serving table had an original colored glass Christmas tree made by Mrs. W. S. Dill, member of the club.

The hostesses were Mrs. Alex Clarke, Mrs. C. N. Courter and Mrs. Dill.

Guests introduced were Mrs. James T. Smith, Mrs. Harold Welch, Mrs. Tom Cowan, Mrs. Carroll Graja, Mrs. Conard Reaves, Mrs. Donald A. Ross, Mrs. Granville Dawson, Mrs. Raymond Viverette, Mrs. Clifford Ashton, Mrs. Earl Davis, Mrs. Fred Belasu, Mrs. J. F. Bussey, Mrs. J. D. Moring, Mrs. A. W. Perryman, Mrs. Davis Norton, Mrs. Alan Leeper and Mrs. Loyd Whitley.

Sweet Adelines Program Given

The Desert Winds Chapter of Sweet Adelines, under the direction of Bill Cornack, presented a program of Christmas selections for a meeting Monday of the Dandy Lions Club, auxiliary of the Southside Lions Club, in the Southside Lions Club Building.

The program arrangements were made by Mrs. Audie Porter. A business session was conducted by Mrs. Leo Scoggin, president. The club voted to participate in the Salvation Army's dress a child for Christmas project.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, who were Mrs. Leonard Hanson, Mrs. Scoggin and Mrs. C. E. McCain.

Susan Thompson, Scott Fisher Wed

HOUSTON — Susan Marie Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Thompson of Houston, and Scott Allen Fisher, son of Dr. Allen M. Fisher and Sue K. Fisher of Stanton, were married at 4 p.m. Saturday in the Timbergrove Baptist Church of Houston.

The Rev. O. L. Bryant performed the double ring ceremony.

Brenda Thompson, cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor. Debbie Pearl of Houston and Michelle Fisher of Stanton, sister of the bridegroom, were the bridesmaids. Mrs. Steve Crawford and Mrs. Mike Smith, cousins of the bride, were bridesmaids. Charlotte Thompson, niece of the bride, was the flower girl.

Randy Nichols of Lubbock served as the best man. Ray Stone of Kyle, Vincent Solito of San Marcos, John Thompson, brother of the bride, and Kenneth Thompson, cousin of the bride, were the groomsmen. Ushering the guests were Mike Carrington of Buda and Raymond Thompson, brother of the bride.

Artificial Lights Excellent For Growing Plants, Says Specialist

COLLEGE STATION — If containing doors for ease in controlling temperatures and humidity. As you become more interested in indoor gardening, you may want to invest in more elaborate equipment.

Fluorescent lamps are excellent for growing plants because they give off little heat and can be placed near the plant to provide high light intensities, points out Everett Janne, landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The standard cool light lamp is the most popular for growing plants although other colors can be used.

For best results, Janne suggests a fixture with at least two 40-watt tubes. This fixture should be suspended over a bench or table not more than a foot above the plant trays or flats. If the fixture is lit 14 to 16 hours per day, it will provide sufficient light to produce good quality plants. Two lamp fixtures mounted side by side will adequately light an area four feet by four feet.

If the growing area temperature remains between 60 to 75 degrees F., no additional heat is needed, notes the Texas A&M University System specialist. If the room becomes cooler, supplemental heat may be necessary. Such heat should be controlled with a thermostat to prevent over-heating.

Many garden shops and hobby centers have units equipped with lights and trays for growing plants from seeds or cuttings. Some of these are elaborate.

Whichever your interests, Janne suggests a try at indoor gardening under artificial lights.

Shower Courtesy For Lisa Cotten

Lisa Cotten, bride-elect of Rick Graham, was the honoree at a recent gift party in the home of Mrs. Tom Frizzell, 3600 W. Shandon St. Mrs. Charles McNeese, Mrs. Bill Tatch, Mrs. Frank Felts and Mrs. Sally Davis were co-hostesses.

The serving table was covered with an imported hand-embroidered cloth and was centered with a miniature wedding cake decorated with pink and white roses. Burgandy candles in silver holders and pink and white mints accented the bridal colors of burgundy and pink.

Mrs. Felts presided at the coffee service, and Mrs. McNeese served punch. The miniature cake prepared by Mrs. Tatch was presented to the honoree.

Corsages were given to the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Dan Cotten, and Mrs. Bill Graham, mother of the bridegroom-to-be. A special guest, Mrs. J. A. Davis of Talco, grandmother of the bride-elect, also received a corsage.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

Should Her Dad Wait Bit Longer?

DEAR ABBY: I am a 20-year-old girl away at college. I have an older brother in graduate school.

My mother, who was 52, died very suddenly and, even though we didn't get along very well, I was very upset by her death. She and my father, who is 53, didn't exactly have the ideal marriage and I'm sure they stayed together because of my brother and me.

Last night my father phoned to tell me that he was dating a 38-year-old woman who was working for him, and it could be "serious." Abby, my mother has been dead only six months! Don't you think out of respect to her memory he could have waited for at least a year before dating?

I talked to my brother about it and he didn't see anything wrong with it.

I told my father that as long as he was seeing this woman I wanted nothing more to do with him. He seemed to think I was unreasonable.

What do you think is the proper amount of time to start dating after a spouse's death? Was I wrong to sever my relationship with my father?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: The amount of time one waits before "dating" has nothing to do with respect. The time to show respect is while the mate is living. And yes, I think you were wrong to sever your relationship with your father.

DEAR ABBY: This is for that woman who is marrying the same man for the fourth time and says, "We can't live with each other and we can't live without each other."

Listen, you kids, make up your minds that neither one of you is going to change the other. If you insist on being married again and again, it's time you realized that your love is really greater than your differences.

A sudden coronary could take your mate from you in a few seconds, and then you'd cry your eyes out wishing you had a chance to say all those sweet and lovely things you should have said when you were together.

That's what happened to me. Get wise to yourselves, and live!

UNCLE GEORGE IN SANBORN, IA

DEAR UNCLE GEORGE: That should shake up a few young lovers. And some old ones, too. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday, I

glanced at my husband while he was brushing his teeth, and I noticed that he was using MY toothbrush!

I asked him where his own toothbrush was, and he said he couldn't find it.

Then I asked him to please never use my toothbrush again. That's when he got angry and said it bugged him that I should object to sharing the same toothbrush.

Well, Abby, maybe other couples don't mind sharing one toothbrush, but the very thought of it repels me.

My husband says I am ridiculous to feel this way, so I am writing to ask how you feel about it.

B. IN OKINAWA

DEAR B: I'm all for sharing, but I'd draw the line when it comes to toothbrushes.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CONN INQUIRY: The divorce laws in this country differ from those abroad. Don't marry again until your lawyer assures you that your French disconnection is legal.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Parish Workers Have Yule Dinner

The Parish Workers of Grace Lutheran Church had an annual Christmas dinner recently in the Kimble-Len Clubhouse.

Mrs. Bill Braden, Mrs. Del Doehling and Mrs. Bill Bartlett planned the entertainment, and the menu was prepared by Mrs. Alan Smith, Mrs. Lee Teland and Mrs. Bill Owens.

A freewill offering was taken to aid Donald Rosenreiter, ministerial student at Concordia Theological Seminary in St. Louis, Mo. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Rosenreiter of 3624 Humble St. and is a 1969 graduate of Lee High School. He has studied two years at Concordia College in Austin and Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Members and guests decorated Christmas trees with strings of popcorn and cranberries. One tree was taken to Casa de Arriago and one to a family the church assists at Christmas. The Scotch pine trees were donated by M. System.

Gene Jumpers Will Be Honored

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Jumper will be honored on their 25th wedding anniversary with an open house from 2 until 4 p.m. Sunday in their home, Parker Acres.

Mr. and Mrs. Jumper have two children, Jan and Jimmy. They have lived in Midland since 1964, coming here from Albany. He is a carpenter for Pace Construction Co., and she is a bookkeeper for Basin, Inc. Both are active members of Bellview Baptist Church.

Virgin Islands Develop St. Croix Cultural Center

By HELEN HENNESSY
Women's Editor
NEA

NEW YORK — Not so long ago one of the most delightful and popular of Caribbean ports of call, the Virgin Islands have suffered greatly from the publicity of recent years.

For many mainlanders, the mention of St. Croix conjures up visions not merely of a tropical paradise, but of one overcast with racial tension and unrest.

As real and troubling as headlines incidents have been, however, they are still not the entire story of the islands today, as many concerned islanders are anxious to point out. There are great efforts among thinking residents toward reconciling and harmonizing the interests of a multiracial people.

There is particular emphasis on the island's unique cultural heritage.

An amateur theatrical group of blacks and white recently sang and danced its way through five memorable performances of Rogers and Hammerstein's "Cinderella." More than 800 residents and tourists turned out each night to applaud this venture of the Island Center, a community facility built for the people of St. Croix through private contributions.

Perhaps the most unique feature of the center is the opportunity it affords the natives to explore their cultural heritage and that of the West Indies and to share it with their white neighbors and visitors from the states. Native dances and art are among the most popular attractions. And there is a growing exchange of talent between the islands of St. Croix, St. John and St. Thomas with neighboring Puerto Rico.

At the celebration of the 25th anniversary of a landmark hotel in Christiansted, guests danced to the music of a traditional Scratch-Band (the players make music from a variety of homemade instruments), ate island foods and drank famous Virgin Islands rum. Among those present were the governor and his wife and film star Maureen O'Hara, who with her husband, Capt. Charles Blair resides on St. Croix.

St. Croix remains as colorful and historic as ever, and responsible citizens as interested in maintaining their place in the Caribbean sun. This is also part of the story.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polish Remover Descuffs Shoes

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — How do you clean black scuff marks off of children's white vinyl shoes without scratching them? Also, what is the best way to safely clean an electric can opener?
— LUCY.

DEAR LUCY — I clean scuff marks off my own white vinyl patent shoes with nail polish remover. It seems this would apply as well for children's shoes but perhaps readers with small children will tell us of their experiences.

I find white vinegar poured on a cloth or crushed paper towel does a good job of removing the dark greasy substance that accumulates around the cutting wheel on my electric can opener. Wipe away with cloth wet with detergent and then rinse the same way. Work in and all around. DO BE SURE to first unplug your can opener.
— POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the manufacturers of knitting yarn. I use a lot of it and it takes so much time rolling skeins into balls. I live alone and have no one to hold the skein as I wind so have to put it over the back of a straight chair. It seems they could wind the yarn into balls as they do crochet thread and twine and save us hours of work.

As a big yarn user I had accumulated lots of leftover yarn. I used some of it to make a sweater of squares like a patchwork quilt and find it goes with any slacks or skirts because of its many colors.
— WILLIE MAE.

DEAR POLLY — I think the tone of a pocket-size transistor radio is improved by placing it in an empty open fruit jar with the speaker side down but do be sure to leave air space between the radio and the jar. The jar acts like a resonance chamber to bring out the bass tones.

If a whetstone is not handy when you want to sharpen the edge of a knife, try using the rim of a clay flower pot. With this emergency stone you can hone the edge of a paring knife to razor sharpness.
— EILEEN.

DEAR POLLY — I save tubes from waxed paper, foil and best of all Christmas wrap, as they are larger. Cut off a slice of a tube with a sharp knife and put it around bows on Christmas packages being mailed as so to keep the bows from being crushed.

— ELLA.

POLLY'S NOTE: When such tubes are not large enough, use cardboard cut to the proper size and staple together.

DEAR POLLY — Never throw away a quilted bed pad because it is worn in the center. I recycle my worn ones by using the good parts, usually around the edges, as a padding for pot holders. When recovering my vinyl kitchen chairs a section of a pad was used to make the seats much more comfortable.
— MRS. J.S.

Try Tape.
Eliminate pinning and basting by setting a zipper in place for machine-stitching, using two pieces of cellophane tape. After sewing through the tape, it can easily be removed.

Midlanders Cautioned About Christmas Lights

Midland Fire Chief J. M. Little this morning warned Midlanders to be extra careful with indoor and outdoor lighting decorations during the Christmas season.

"Our records show that Christmas is prime time for accidental fires and extra precautions should be taken in decorating homes," Little said. The fire chief offers the following suggestions:

Natural trees should be fresh-looking and firm-needed when selected and the trunk should be placed in water and kept in water until the tree is disposed of.

W. T. Davis Dies; Rites Set At Slaton

SLATON — William Thomas Davis, 73, the father of Midlander Mrs. Judith Carole McCain, died Wednesday in a Dallas hospital following an illness.

Funeral services will be at 11 a.m. Friday in the First Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. Robert Boynton Smith, minister, officiating.

Interment will be in Resthaven Memorial Park under the direction of the Newvie W. Ellis Chapel.

Simmons was born May 13, 1896, at Montgomery. He was

Do not rely on do-it-yourself flameproofing, as none is truly effective.

Trees should be set up away from heat and where it won't block doorways or passageways.

Artificial trees should clearly be marked as made of slow burning materials and there should be a Underwriters' Laboratories (UL) label on trees when a built-in electrical system on the tree is used.

With the use of metal trees only indirect lighting should be used to avoid the possibility of shock.

In regard to lighting, check all lighting strings for frayed and cracked wires, loose connections or broken sockets.

Little pointed out that bulbs made in the United States are generally the safest, as some foreign bulbs have hot spots.

For safety while asleep or away from the house, even for only a short time, lights should be turned off.

In regard to decorations, non-combustible materials, such as metal, glass and asbestos should be used as much as possible. Make sure that cotton batting, flocking or decorating paper are flameproofed.

Natural evergreen decorations dry quickly, burn readily and should be kept away from candles, the fireplace or over heating.

Polystyrene foam shouldn't be used for decorations where there are lit candles.

Keeping matches away from children during this season also is extremely important. Children should not be allowed to play underneath or near the Christmas tree. Children also should not be left alone, even for a short time.

Every family should have a rehearsed escape plan in case of fire.

Nominee For Young Texan, Banker Meet Optimists

Members of the Westside Optimist Club heard a presentation by a Midland banker and were introduced to the organization's nominee for Young Texan when they met Wednesday in the Elk's Club Lodge.

Harry Clark, senior vice president in charge of economic development for the First National Bank, addressed club members on the need for diversification of the economy in the Midland area.

Also introduced was James Coldewey, a Midland High School senior and son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Coldewey who reside on Route 3. He is Westside Optimist's boy of the month and will compete statewide for the Young Texan award.

An active participant in his school's choral program, Coldewey has served as choir librarian and is currently president of the a cappella choir. He played the lead role in the MHS production of "South Pacific" as a sophomore and was a member of the chorus in "Mame" last year.

He has garnered two superior and one excellent ratings in University Interscholastic League competition in the last three years. Twice named to the all-region choir, he last year was also in the all-area and all-state choral groups.

Coldewey is also a member of the Society for Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America and often sings in local nursing homes.

A member of the National Honor Society with 3.9 grade average, he was given an excellent rating by the National Piano Guild during both the ninth and tenth grade.

He lettered in both football and track as a freshman and has worked part-time and during summers performing yard work in pizza parlors and is currently employed by Structurmax, L.T.D.

Coldewey is also music director for North Main and Parker Street Church of Christ where he is a member.

fractured with 180,000 gallons. A re-entry project, 1-1 originally was drilled to 2,280 feet, by John H. Trigg, and plugged and abandoned in 1960 as No. 1 Sibley-Alcott. Snow deepened the well to 2,873 feet, where 4 1/2-inch casing is seated.

Location is 1,732 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 31-18-29e.

Spread Scheduled For Andrews Area

Adobe Oil Co. plans to drill a 1/2-mile south offset to the current two-well Wolfcamp area of the Huler, North field of Andrews County, 18 miles northeast of Andrews township.

The project, slated to 10,400 feet, spots 933 feet from north and east lines of section 49, block 6, ULS.

Prospect In Ward Pumps Oil, Water

BTA Oil Producers, Midland, No. 2-7407 J.V.S. Winkler, prospective re-opener of the Del-Straf (Brushy Canyon) field of Ward County, five miles southwest of Wink, pumped 26 barrels of oil and 120 barrels of water in 16 hours.

Recovery was through perforations at 6,978-6,988 feet, which had been acidized with 500 gallons.

A re-entry operation, it is a former producer in the field, which has become depleted.

It originally was drilled by Mobil Oil Corp. as No. 1-73 George Sealy, and was completed in 1959.

It is 1,960 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 73, block F, G&MMB&A survey.

Strike Is Offset In South Sutton

Gas Development Corp., Midland, plans to drill a one-mile southwest offset to the one-well Jo Nell (Canyon D) gas field of Sutton County, 17 miles southwest of Sonora. It is No. 1-17 Jo Nell Johnson.

Location is 900 feet from north and 1,540 feet from west lines of section 17, GC&SP survey, abstract 156. Planned depth is 9,200 feet.

The discovery, Gas Development No. 1 Jo Nell Johnson, was completed May 22, for a calculated, absolute open flow of 1.575 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations at 8,334-9,074 feet.

Official Potential Told For Eddy Well

Beico Petroleum Corp. of Midland has reported an official, calculated, absolute open flow potential for No. 1 Huber-Federal, previously completed Alaska producer in the Lee Medarosa multipay gas field of Eddy County, N.M.

Calculated, absolute open flow was for 3.285 million cubic feet of gas per day, with gas-liquid ratio of 19,883-1, producing through perforations at 12,989-12,995 feet.

The well is 1,830 feet from north and 1,960 feet from west lines of section 1-23-30e, 15 miles northeast of Loving.

Stepout Planned In Coke Oil Pool

James R. White of Fort Worth plans to drill No. 1 R. E. Hickman Estate as a 1/2-mile southwest stepout to the Wendkirk (Cisco) oil field of Coke County, six miles southeast of Robert Lee.

Location for the test, slated to 3,700 feet, is 300 feet from southwest and 780 feet from northwest lines of S. A. Mawrick survey.

Amoco Schedules Schleicher Test

Amoco Production Co. has staked site for a 1/2-mile southwest offset to the Turkey Root (upper Pennsylvania) gas field of Schleicher County.

Drill site is 4,200 feet west of the northeast corner of McMullan CSL survey 7, thence 1,320 feet north to location in Day Land & Cattle Co. survey 1026. Slated depth is 8,300 feet.

Extension Finals In Andrews Region

The Block 12 (Yates) field of Andrews County gained its fourth Yates gas producer and a 1 1/2-mile south extension to that pay with recompletion of Adobe Oil Co., Midland, No. 1-27 University, 18 miles west of Andrews.

It gauged a calculated, absolute open flow of 490,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day, producing through perforations at 2,840-3,063 feet.

A re-entry operation, it formerly produced gas from the Yates.

Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 27, block 12, ULS survey.

Planning Commission Okays Midland Request For MC Tennis Center Funds

By GEORGE MASSEY

The Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission Wednesday afternoon approved a Midland request for a $53,000 grant application for the development of a tennis center at Midland College.

The application requests matching funds from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department to aid in the development of the proposed $186,000 project.

The request now will be forwarded to the Parks and Wildlife Department for consideration.

The center would be located on a five-acre site. The plans include 12 lighted courts, wind screens, a tennis center building and parking space for 120 cars. Midland College has leased the tennis complex property to the City of Midland under a 25-year agreement. Terms of the lease provide that the courts would be accessible to both students and the general public, and that the city would be responsible for maintenance of the facility, the PBRPC planning staff revealed.

The Texas Highway Department received approval for a grant application for improvements on a one-mile section of Midkiff Road in Midland, from West Wall Street to Interstate 20.

The grant application now will go to the Federal Highway Administration for consideration under the Federal Aid Highway Program.

Paul Coleman of Odessa, highway department district engineer, said an additional 40 feet of right-of-way would be required for the completion of the project and said the City of Midland would be required to provide that additional right-of-way.

Coleman said the project includes expansion of the two-lane traffic to four lanes, with two parking lanes and a continuous two-way left turn lane.

Midland also received approval from the board for a grant application amounting to $55,000 made to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the continued staffing of its Mental Health and Mental Retardation Center. If approved by HEW, the grant will supply funds for the Midland health center's fourth year of operation.

A pilot project for coordinating the interplay of various drug prevention, treatment and control agencies in Midland and Odessa received approval of the planning board.

The pilot drug abuse program is seeking $17,708 from the state program on drug abuse for the first year's operation.

The Patriot Years

Copley News Service
From the Pennsylvania Packet, Philadelphia, in the fall of 1774:

BOSTON — Tuesday last the encampments (on Boston Common) were broke up, and the (British) troops are gone into houses, stores, etc., in different parts of this town.

The same day the regiments that lately arrived from Quebec and New-York, landed and went into barracks also.

We have now eleven regiments in this town, besides the artillery.

In the last transports that arrived here, came a large quantity of powder, cannon balls, shells, etc.

Last Thursday evening a poor woman was knocked down, near the Common, by a soldier and his wife, and robbed of a large bundle, consisting chiefly of women's wearing apparel.

ROCHESTER, in New Hampshire — On Tuesday the 8th instant, the Committee of Correspondence of this place, at the desire of a number of people, wrote to Mr. Nicholas Austin of Middletown, to attend them at the house of Mr. Stephen Wentworth, it being suspected that he was employed in procuring artificers at Woblesborough, etc., to go to Boston to build barracks for the soldiery there.

Mr. Austin accordingly waited upon them, and the charge in some measure being proved against him, he was obliged on his knees, as nothing else would satisfy, to make the following confession, viz.:

"Before this company I confess I have been aiding and assisting in sending men to Boston to build barracks for the soldiery to live in, at which you have reason justly to be offended, which I am sorry for and humbly ask your forgiveness and I do affirm that for the future I never will be aiding or assisting in any wise whatever, in act or word, contrary to the constitution of the country, as witness my hand, NICHOLAS AUSTIN."

Pregnancy Can Be Start Of Lifelong Muscle Problems

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — Pregnancy's common discomforts are often the beginning of lifelong muscular problems for women, says the medical director at a local rehabilitation center.

But through exercise pregnant women can combat the lasting effects of childbearing, according to Dr. Thomas F. Coyle of the Eastern Fairfield County Easter Seal Rehabilitation Center.

Describing pregnancy as "the forgotten disability," Coyle said "very few texts give more than a passing mention to exercise programs for pregnant women."

In a pilot program started at nearby Park City Hospital last spring women have successfully dealt with problems such as weak abdominal muscles, lower back pains, sagging breasts, urinary stress, and muscular weakness, Coyle said.

"These are very significant problems and, unfortunately, many of them do not abate with the delivery of the child, but continue to persist over the years," Coyle said in a report to the American Congress of Rehabilitation Medicine.

Coyle said that through his 10-week program, incorporating techniques used in other countries, pregnant women were instructed in exercises to build muscle tone.

"Exercises taught in the course were specifically designed to offset the varied common complaints of pregnancy," said Coyle, adding that the women are encouraged to engage in the exercises on a continuing basis throughout pregnancy.

"To make the exercising more enjoyable, musical background was introduced into the program."

The women participating in the 90-minute weekly sessions are also instructed in other areas of childbearing such as sleeping position, lifting methods, nutrition and childbirth techniques, he said.

Coyle said he has also developed a postnatal exercise program to help women restore muscle tone and offset possible circulatory problems in the legs.

"The women who have taken the course report less pelvic and perineal pressure and reduced discomfort in the lower extremities," Coyle said.

Democrat-Big Business Cleavage Never Wider

NEW YORK (AP) — Big business quite likely will find itself in direct opposition to many proposals in the Democratic party's "economic recovery" program, enunciated in Kansas City last week.

On some issues the cleavage never seemed wider.

The Democrats declared themselves in favor of wage-price controls. Corporate officials not only are opposed to such measures but believe they might worsen economic troubles.

Economic Perversion

At the annual meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers last week, controls were termed an economic perversion by some executives, an intrusion into the decision-making process by many, and a cause of marketplace distortions by almost all.

The Democrats spoke of "excessive, and sometimes windfall, profits." While big business cannot deny that many profits were very high this year, they argue that great misunderstandings exist about corporate finances.

Profits, the executives argue, were distorted by inflation, aren't likely to continue two years in a row, and are actually depressed in terms of the return on investment.

Profits Not Understood

Big business is especially disturbed about what it feels is a failure of the public to understand the role of profits. They say that while return on sales might be high, return on investment is shrinking.

Because of this, they claim it is increasingly difficult to attract investment capital. And without that capital, they say, industry cannot fulfill the pro-

Referring to his frustration in conveying the message, Harold Schaub, chief executive of Campbell Soup Co., told newsmen: "We in industry have done a lousy job in explaining it." He asked the newsmen to help.

The Democratic program states: "For too long our people have suffered the inequities of a tax system that needs reform." But they were referring to injustices to individuals. Big business feels it is the group treated unjustly.

The Democrats referred to the "worst recession since the Great Depression and the most serious inflation ever experienced in peacetime." Big business might agree with the latter, but many of its members fear the recession will be cut short before inflation is licked.

Ordinary Folk Offered
Businessmen at the NAM meeting felt the administration and probably the Federal Reserve would begin anti-recession moves too quickly, bowing to short-term complaints and risking more inflation in 1975 and 1976.

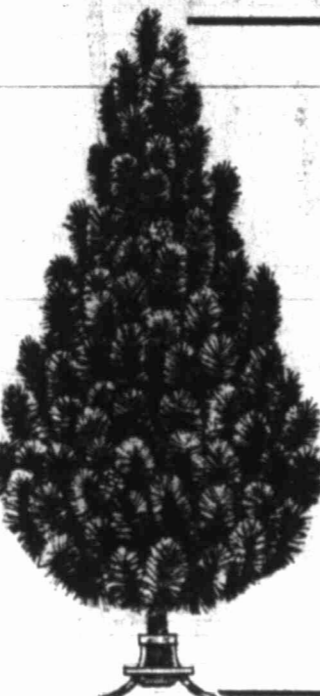

Reading between the lines of the Democrats' resolution, the impression emerges that the ordinary people of America — consumers, householders — are the offended. Many in big business feel they are.

The Democrats would seem to call on the spending powers of the federal government to insure the security of the populace in the face of what could be referred to, when reviewed in years to come, as a depression.

Pint-Sized Solar System Will Be Installed Soon

By FRANK T. MARTIN
Copley News Service

Nightmare dreams of $90 monthly utility bills for American homeowners in the 1980s have sent inventors scurrying for ways to produce heat of the sun's energy.

One of these is William Martin, a San Marcos, Calif., research engineer who has spent his time away from running a tool plant by putting together a comparatively pint-size solar energy system to heat or cool houses.

The first experimental system will be installed, soon in a three-bedroom house at Vista, Calif. Martin also is using some of the same technology to develop a solar-powered electric engine for autos.

"Solar heat is efficient for the average-size home," insists Martin. "It has been used in other countries for thousands of years. But today American homes using solar heating are ugly because their roofs are half-covered by unsightly heat collectors, or their yards are cluttered up with big energy absorption units."

The Martin solar energy collector for the average home, however, is only about 3x4 feet in size, can fit on a small area of a rooftop or in a corner of the garden, hidden by shrubbery, the inventor points out.

"It's so efficient it can generate about 175,000 BTUs of energy—more than the average house ever needs for heating," Martin says.

His system is relatively simple. The sun's rays hit a large magnified lens to increase the original heat many times over.

Water heated by hot oil is pumped into the heating system. Fan coils blow heat through conventional home-heating ducts. There is an additional unit that uses heat to convert outside air into refrigerated air. So you have hot water, warm air and can add in air conditioning if you need it where you live.

The cost to install the solar heating system in a three-bedroom, two-bathroom house of about 1,500 square feet is $2,000, Martin says.

There is an energy-storage unit as a backup for days when there is no sun. But even on most cloudy days, solar radiation seeps through to feed the system, Martin points out.

In the automotive field, Martin is working on a solar engine which would generate enough electrical power from the sun's rays to drive a Fiat-type car up to 85 miles an hour and carry four passengers or more. He hopes, with proper financing, to have the engine ready for experimental driving within a year.

The solar engine is so compact it will fit into most small cars, according to Martin.

Nation's Flying Past Still Lives Near Paris

PARIS, Tex. (AP) — Mus-early 1960s, attending flight school on the GI bill. He had a B25. These memorable names from the nation's flying past live in the present near this Northeast Texas City.

I. N. Burchinal Jr. keeps 25 of these World War II vintage aircraft at a museum and flying school five miles west of here on U.S. 82. He says his interest is not only in preserving the colorful craft but in passing on the skill it takes to fly them.

In his hangar are the popular North American P51 Mustang fighter, the Boeing B17 "Flying Fortress" bomber, the North American B25 Mitchell medium bomber, the Lockheed P38 Lightning fighter and other classic aircraft.

No Room For Error

"These planes were designed before today's specialized engineering. You had to be a half-Superman to fly them," Burchinal said. "They weren't designed to forgive very much. Modern planes have more room for pilot error."

The Mustang fighter, capable of speeds greater than 400 miles per hour, has so much power that it may flip or spin full circles if accelerated too much on takeoff by a novice flier, Burchinal said.

Burchinal says he averages about 10 students a year who come from all over the United States and several foreign countries for periodic training sessions.

One training technique Burchinal uses is to "show them how easy it would be to kill themselves" by sending a plane into a controlled flip or spin. Burchinal said, "It leaves an impression they don't soon forget."

Burchinal says in five years he has been operating the flying school none of his students or graduates has had an accident in the planes.

He attributes this partly to a rule against mixing alcohol and flying. "We don't try to stop people from drinking, but we won't let them drink and fly with us," he said.

Prayer, Faith Helps

Burchinal, a Baptist lay minister, also says prayer and faith have helped him out of some tight spots in the air. "Many, many times that prayer has meant my life."

"Once at an airshow at Weatherford (Tex.), I was flying a Mustang upside down and it just quit on me. But I managed to get it back down without even damaging the plane."

For 15 years, Burchinal was pastor of the rural Honey Grove Bible Baptist Church in Northeast Texas. When he moved from the neighborhood, he gave up the pastorate.

"I felt I could reach more people this way than as a full-time pastor, where I'd be more isolated," Burchinal said.

Burchinal now maintains a chapel in his hangar and holds daily morning prayer services. 100-member Church of Doves Burchinal began flying in the

He soon began collecting them, getting the planes from aircraft graveyards all over the Southwest and rebuilding them.

The first was a PC13 which Burchinal converted to a crop duster. He still does some crop dusting, and estimates he has sprayed nearly a million acres in the past 20 years without an accident.

Burchinal says his planes have increased in value since he dug them out of junkyards. A 4F Wildcat he bought for $450 is now worth about $100,000, he says.

Some of the planes have been used in movies or television, including "Catch-22," "Murphy's War," and "12 O'Clock High."

Burchinal takes the planes to air shows across the country. He says, "Wherever we landed with the B17, you just couldn't believe the attraction. People in those little towns would just shake everything loose and come out."

He estimated that 11,000 persons turned out to see the Flying Fortress at a recent show in Peoria, Ill.

And, Burchinal says, the B17 means many things to many people. One was an Israeli Air Force colonel who visited the flying school.

Story From War

"The man came up in the air with us. Since he was obviously interested in the B17, I offered to let him fly it. He was moved to tears. Back on the ground, he told us why."

"He said, 'My sister and I were children in Holland when the Nazis came in. They killed our parents, who hid us under a floor just before they died. We lived in the fields and caves for several years. One Saturday afternoon we heard a patrol of German soldiers coming up the hillside toward us with dogs. We knew we were going to die. We embraced each other, just as the soldiers were approaching, a B17 appeared and shot our pursuers. I never thought I'd ever see another B17, much less fly one.'"

... Much To Be Proud Of

"There's So Much To Be Proud of in America—Let's Talk About That."

This was the interesting subject of an address delivered by J. Fike Godfrey of Abilene, executive vice president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, at the recently held annual Christmas banquet of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post at Spur.

It is true that this country has so very many things of which to be proud, yet all to many of us are inclined to talk more about the things which are wrong. We really should talk a whole lot more about the far-greater number of things which make America great.

Godfrey, in his address, cited specifics. He cautioned, however, that Americans continually must be alert to those individuals and groups who would destroy many of the very things which have made this country great.

Heeding his words of caution in this regard is just as important as talking more about the nation's greatness. We should be more familiar with both the nation's blessings and the dangers which confront them.

"We are in a race in this country between those forces which have weakened and eventually destroyed free societies in the past and those forces which can keep us a vigorous, happy, free people," Godfrey said.

In reviewing some of the dangers, the WTCC executive stressed the fact that "no nation throughout recorded history has ever preserved political or personal liberty for very long when the government acts as a dictator to private enterprise. . . . This nation grew into greatness under the free enterprise system."

"This is why it seems incredible," he continued, "that the profit system should come under attack from those who have reaped its blessings and benefits."

He pointed out also that the American free enterprise system is headed for new and serious attacks waged by those who would like to bring about the nationalization of American business.

There is a growing urgency, he said, to communicate the necessity of profits. This is why it is so important to stand-up and to speak out for the free enterprise system at every opportunity.

"If our enemies are ever able to do away with profits, then they will achieve what they want—a communist socialist dictatorship for America," he concluded.

Godfrey certainly has given all of us something to think about . . . and talk about.

One-Party System

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON—A Greek military hero, who fought beside American troops in Korea and later was tortured unmercifully by the Greek dictatorship, now is seeking treatment in the United States.

He is Maj. Spyridon Moustaklis, now 48, who began his military career against the Nazis in World War II and then fought the Communists in the Greek civil war.

He bore arms against the Communists again in Korea where he won six U. S. Greek and Korean citations for his bravery.

But when the Greek colonels took over the Athens government in 1967, Moustaklis was thrown into a military prison for his democratic views. He was tortured in the presence of the hated head of the military police, Dimitrios Ioannidis.

The mistreatment, particularly beatings, left him paralyzed and speechless except for a few simple words. He was shunted into an Athens hospital to vegetate.

But friends got word of his plight to a prominent British specialist, Dr. Peter Schurr, who visited Moustaklis in Greece and found some hope. His spirit was strong, despite permanent damage to his system.

At the suggestion of American doctors, a Greek exile leader, Elias Demetropoulos, lobbied to get the tortured hero into Walter Reed Army Medical Center and even agreed to pay the cost of well over $130 a day. But the Pentagon turned down the application.

Now, thanks to pressure from Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., and others, the Pentagon has reversed itself. Shortly, Moustaklis will journey to the United States for evaluation at Walter Reed, with the new Greek government paying all the expenses.

TAX-PAID ROMANCE: The chief counsel of the General Services Administration has spent thousands of dollars of the taxpayers' money on a whirlwind romance with another man's wife.

The government Lochinvar is Harold "Ted" Trimmer, who flew with a beautiful associate on romantic escapades and charged the expenses to the taxpayers as official business. He was then associate administrator, the No. 3 man in the government's vast housekeeping agency.

So taken was Trimmer with a lovely young trainee, Joan Riordan, that he promoted her in 1971 to her present job as national coordinator of the GSA's information centers in 37 cities.

Not long thereafter, they embarked upon trips to several of the 37 cities, including Atlanta, Boston, Chicago and New York City, where they bedded down in luxurious hotels.

Their frequent official trips finally roused the suspicion of the lady's husband, Lee Riordan, who followed them to New York City. He drove all night and surprised them in a double bed at the Statler-Hilton.

Trimmer fled in wild disarray, leaving his T-shirt under the bed and his watch under the dresser. Riordan quickly

He faltered, for example, over the Justice Department's failure to produce good background reports on nominees for top jobs. The check on would-be fuel czar Andy Bigson, for one, failed to shake loose the skeletons in his closet . . .

Fat government studies, including a heavy Pentagon report, are being passed on to Ford in undigested form instead of summaries. This makes it almost impossible for the busy chief executive to get a handle on the documents . . .

The explosive-shouting head of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, John Powell, evidently believes some people are more equal than others. The other night, he refused to sign out of his building after hours, as is required by government regulations. The lordly Powell, a Nixon holdover and ex-GOP pol, screamed at the security guard, who held his ground in spite of the bigwig's abuse. Powell finally signed, but when we asked him about it, we, too, got a round of expletive deleted.

When power appears to be evenly distributed, there seems to be a sense of public confidence that these institutions will operate in the public interest by maintaining checks and balances on each other. But business people, Thomas charged, have not participated to the extent they should in governmental affairs—the right kind of participating. This is reflected in the current balance of power among government, labor and business. The latter's influence on public policy has seriously eroded in recent years.

On the other hand, organized labor, despite its declining membership as a percentage of the total work force, has maintained a strong influence on governmental affairs and political activity. The balance of institutional power has also been affected by the tremendous growth and proliferation of government agencies. Increasingly, said Thomas, many important business decisions are not being made in corporate headquarters or in boardrooms. Rather, they are being made in Washington, in state capitals, in city halls and in township halls.

The system will operate without the business community's input. But if it produces restrictive measures that, in the judgment of business leaders, unfairly impede operations and do not serve the public

TIMELY QUOTES

"The temptation is to turn to the vigilante route. We should not be so naive as to believe that such horrors could not happen here . . . Right now we have this movie 'Death Wish' with Charlie Bronson and it shows him getting the muggers by self-action. And everytime he shoots a mugger in a subway car, the theater cheers. It's kind of frightening."

— Attorney General William Saxbe warning against a rise of vigilantism in the country.

DON OAKLEY Business Seeks Its Own Activists

NEW YORK (NEA)—Some two decades ago, Charles E. Wilson told a congressional committee that "What's good for the country is good for General Motors and vice versa."

At the time Wilson uttered his famous quote—of which most Americans heard only the "vice versa" part—the responsibilities of business to the consumer were relatively simple: to manufacture products at prices people were willing and able to pay.

Since then, the corporate philosophy attributed to the former GM head has been drastically altered by such factors as inflation coupled with a depressed economy and sagging stock market, food and commodity shortages, the energy crisis and environmental legislation, as well as by consumer activists.

It also has been discredited by that aspect of Watergate in which many corporations made illegal contributions to the 1972 Nixon re-election campaign.

Out of it seems to be emerging a new breed of corporation leader, one who believes that business must adjust to the new realities if it is to help preserve the balance of institutional power that is so critically needed in a democratic society. Representative of this new type of businessman is G. Pendleton Thomas, chairman of B. F. Goodrich, who said in a recent speech:

"It's time for more business people, working through their organizations and acting independently as private citizens, to take a more energetic, active part in political and social causes to preserve and perfect our economic and political systems for the good of all the people."

In America and other democracies, Thomas pointed out, the public has always sought to ensure a balance of power among its major institutions. This is especially true as it applies to business, government and labor.

When power appears to be evenly distributed, there seems to be a sense of public confidence that these institutions will operate in the public interest by maintaining checks and balances on each other.

But business people, Thomas charged, have not participated to the extent they should in governmental affairs—the right kind of participating. THE CONSUMER ALERT—Always Good Idea To Buy From Reputable Dealers

By JOHN L. HILL
Texas Attorney General
AUSTIN—The first northern to sweep into Texas this year brought with it a rash of consumer problems about antifreeze.

The Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division has received several complaints from individuals who have purchased and added "antifreeze" to their car radiators, only to discover that what they added didn't perform properly. As most car owners know, antifreeze is added to water in a car radiator to lower the freezing point. Some types of antifreeze (known as coolants) are needed year-round in many late-model cars to protect not only from freezing, but from boilovers. Without antifreeze, the plain water in a car radiator can freeze when it reaches 32 degrees, cracking the car's block as it expands and necessitating a major—and very expensive—repair job.

Our attorneys also suggest that consumers purchase antifreeze from reputable dealers and check to see that the label contains required information about the formula of the contents and the protection that can be obtained. If it doesn't call this to the attention of the store manager or owner.

It's a good idea to check the protection chart on the antifreeze label each time you buy it, too, since some companies have reduced the amount of the base in their product this past year, and more antifreeze will be needed to obtain the desired result.

Reports also have been received from other states of unconscionable actions regarding price gouging for antifreeze. Although prices for antifreeze generally are up in Texas due to increased demand, our attorneys have received no complaints about price gouging.

Violence Shuts Boston Schools

BOSTON (AP) — A new outburst of violence at South Boston High School has led officials to close all schools in the area for the rest of the week in hopes a cooling off period will relieve racial tension.

Eleven police officers and at least five civilians were injured and required treatment Wednesday after being struck by bricks, stones and other flying objects hurled by a crowd of nearly 1,000 whites outside the school's main building.

One white student, Michael Faith, 17, of South Boston, was reported in good condition after being stabbed at the high school in an incident which is believed to have touched off the day of violence.

A black youth, James A. White, 18, of Roxbury, was arrested in connection with the stabbing incident, and three white South Boston youths were arrested later in the day and charged with assault and battery with a dangerous weapon on a police officer.

Elsewhere in the city, about 600 white students walked out of classes at Roslindale High School, following a reported slapping incident between a black and a white student.

The atmosphere at Hyde Park High School, the scene of previous racial outbreaks, was reported to be tense with white student walkouts threatened. Extra police were on the scene, but there was no outbreaks of violence.

Over-all attendance was slightly below average at 75.6 per cent.

Convicts Release Three Hostages

WALPOLE, Mass. (AP) — Eight prisoners who wanted to "find a way to speak to the people" have released their three hostages unharmed after a 26-hour ordeal.

The hostages, two Walpole State Prison guards and a medic, were taken captive Tuesday night by men who at one point said they were "willing to die before being dehumanized any further."

The hostages were freed late Wednesday night after negotiations bargaining between the prisoners, correctional officials and state Sen. elect Bill Owens, who himself served two years in the maximum security prison on an assault charge.

The eight inmates made a lengthy series of demands, including more educational programs at the prison, an end to alleged harassment by guards, the release of three prisoners from a segregation unit and full amnesty for their actions over the 26 hours.

The only pledge from Correction Commissioner Frank Hall was that he would meet with them on their grievances. They received an emphatic "no" on their amnesty bid.

Israel Not Prepared To Be Sacrifice For Oil, Mrs. Meir Says

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Israel's former Prime Minister Golda Meir says Israel is not prepared to be a sacrifice for Arab oil.

"I understand the need for oil and I understand that it is in the hands of five men who can control the world," she told an audience of some 2,200 at Princeton University Wednesday night. But she added that Israel refuses "to sacrifice its sovereignty and the life of its people so that others may be warm and prosperous."

During her speech, a group demonstrated outside, chanting "Golda is a tool of imperialist rule" and "No more lies, support the Palestinians." About 10 persons began the demonstration. The number later grew to about 50.

Their voices could be heard inside the Dillon Gymnasium where the 76-year-old Mrs. Meir was speaking, and at one point she said sarcastically: "They are talking about our best friend Arafat. She referred to Yasir Arafat, leader of the Palestine Liberation Front.

During her talk she criticized the United Nations for receiving Arafat recently. She said Arafat "stood on the rostrum of the U.N. with a gun and said, 'You give me the right to use my gun and here is my olive leaf to go with it.'"

She added, "I suppose when Arafat sends in another group to attack a school he will look carefully at the charter of the U.N."

On Tuesday night, Princeton's Whittier Society, a student debating group, presented her with its James Madison award for distinguished public service. The award has been given annually for the last 12 years, and Mrs. Meir is the first woman and first foreigner to receive it.

Saxbe May Get Envoy Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford plans to nominate Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe as ambassador to India and is looking for a new attorney general, reliable sources say.

"I'll soon be leaving," Saxbe told friends in Ohio Wednesday night. But he told reporters any announcement must come from the White House.

Administration sources and associates of Saxbe in his native Ohio said Saxbe has agreed to accept the ambassadorship.

Announcement Expected

The White House was expected to announce the choice of Saxbe to replace Daniel Patrick Moynihan as soon as the Indian government expresses approval, probably by the end of the week.

Saxbe was said to be well-acquainted with Indian officials because of several trips there.

The move would put the Justice Department in the hands of the fifth attorney general in as many years.

Ford has been under pressure from some members of Congress and other groups to rid the Cabinet of all the holdovers from the administration of former President Richard M. Nixon. No Cabinet members have left since Ford took office.

Fourth Nominee

Saxbe was Nixon's fourth and last nominee for attorney general and was sworn into office last Jan. 4.

The former Ohio senator has figured prominently in weeks-long speculation about an impending Cabinet shakeup, even though he was never considered a Nixon loyalist and he maintained his independence from the White House during Nixon's final months in office.

But Saxbe was widely criticized for blunders during his first four months at the Justice Department. Always outspoken, he stirred the greatest criticism when he labeled kidnaped heiress Patricia Hearst "a common criminal" before she had been charged with a crime.

Since that remark last April 17, Saxbe generally has kept his personal opinions to himself.

Saxbe had announced his retirement from the Senate after one term when Nixon picked him as attorney general following the "Saturday night massacre" when Elliot L. Richardson and William D. French resigned as the two top Justice Department officials.

They quit to protest Nixon's attempt to fire the special Watergate prosecutor.

Replacement Eyed

The Wall Street Journal reported recently that Ford is considering as Saxbe's replacement John Robson, a Chicago lawyer and friend of White House staff chief Donald Rumsfeld.

Contacted by telephone Wednesday, Robson said White House officials have not contacted him about the job. But he indicated that he would be interested in it.

Kidnap Suspect Arrested; Boy Is Found Safe

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A man charged with kidnaping a 7-year-old boy Sept. 23 because he claimed the mother didn't care for him properly has been arrested in Florida and the boy found unharmed, the FBI announced today.

An FBI spokesman said Thomas V. Burns, 23, was arrested late Wednesday at the Holiday Inn motel in Miami Beach, Fla. No ransom had ever been demanded.

Found With Burns

The boy, George Kaloyerakis of Rutherford, N.J., was found with Burns, said J. Wallace LaPrade, special agent in charge of the FBI for New Jersey. LaPrade said the boy's mother, Natalie Kaloyerakis, was to fly to Miami today to bring her son home.

Burns was to be arraigned before a U.S. magistrate in Miami Beach.

In a telephone interview early today, Mrs. Kaloyerakis sang like a happy child, "I have my George, I have my George!"

Feel So Good

"I feel so good, you don't know. I can't stop shaking. I don't know what I would have done without my little girl. I tried to wake her up to tell her but she's sound asleep," she said. Her other child is a 4-year-old daughter, Brenda.

Mrs. Kaloyerakis, who is separated from her husband, left George during working hours with Burns's mother. She said at the time of the kidnaping that Burns, a trainer of German Shepherd security dogs, became a close companion of the boy and spoiled him with special treatment to the point that he became unmanageable at home.

Woman Has Her Jaws Rewired

WYANDOTTE, Mich. (AP) — Debi Horn wants to lose another 40 pounds. So she's had her jaws wired shut for the second time in a year.

Mrs. Horn, who became the first American to try the unique "lockjaw" diet in December 1973, says she gained back nearly five pounds since the wires were removed in July and now tips the scales at 162 pounds. She lost 73 pounds with her first diet.

"I got the wires put back on yesterday because I want to lose 40 more pounds," the 23-year-old woman said Wednesday. "It went faster with the wires on."

Mrs. Horn weighed 230 pounds when Dr. Gilbert Kleiff, a Trenton, Mich., oral surgeon, wired her mouth shut last year.

"When you get over 200 pounds, that's ridiculous. My dad is over 6 feet tall and I was outweighing my dad, so I knew I had to do something," she said.

So for seven months she sipped a liquid diet through clenched teeth.

Mrs. Horn got the idea from a woman in England, Shirley Turner of Nottingham, who dropped from 247 to 146 pounds after having her jaws wired shut from November 1973 to May 22, 1974.

Kleiff said he has wired up more than 150 patients since Mrs. Horn drew national attention as the first to try the method in this country. But nobody in the dental or medical profession has done a follow-up study to see how the dieters are faring.

Mrs. Horn, who is getting a divorce from her husband — she says it has nothing to do with her diet — said her eating habits had changed following the initial diet.

"There's just me and my 3-year-old daughter. I make her eat three meals a day but I only eat one. And it's usually just soup and sandwiches at that," she said.

She says she is finding other things to do with her time besides eating now — "I do crafts and I'm learning to crochet." But she admits she still likes to cook.

Kleiff said he is planning a follow-up study of his own wired patients, but the result won't be ready until next April.

Doctors say as many as 5,000 American women have had their jaws wired in a last-ditch effort to shed pounds since Mrs. Horn tried the procedure. But they say they still don't know if the diet is safe.

Record Wheat Crop Is Likely Next Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government grain experts say if farmers have good weather the United States probably will have a record wheat crop in 1975.

If weather is normal, an Agriculture Department expert said today, the 1975 wheat harvest could exceed two billion bushels. This year's crop, projected last spring at nearly 2.2 billion bushels, was reduced to less than 1.8 billion because of poor yields in many parts of the country.

Frank Gomme, a grain specialist in the department's Economic Research Service, said today that total wheat plantings for 1975 harvest — including winter wheat planted this fall — will be up "moderately" over the 71 acres farmers planted for this year's crop.

However, Gomme told the National Agricultural Outlook Conference that the 1975 wheat acreage increase will not come close to the 19 per cent boost in plantings farmers carried out for 1974 production.

The National Association of Wheat Growers has estimated wheat plantings for 1975 might rise 3 to 5 per cent from this year, and some other private authorities say those could rise even more.

Gomme told a reporter he felt "more comfortable" with plantings boost in the range of 2 to 3 per cent for 1975 but added he does not quarrel with higher estimates.

"If weather is improved for the 1975 crop and yield return to more normal levels," Gomme said in a prepared speech, "the summer of 1975 could see harvesting yields of from 30 bushels per acre to a new record of 35 bushels."

In a report issued earlier this week, USDA said the 1974 wheat crop averaged 27.4 bushels per acre, the lowest since 1967. The average in 1973 was 31.7 bushels and in 1972 was 32.2 bushels.

Gomme skirted how wheat prices may shape up next summer, assuming the bumper crop materializes. However, he said, there probably will not be precipitous declines in any case.

Grain Held

One reason for USDA thinking that wheat prices may not decline drastically next summer, even with a huge crop of more than two billion bushels, is that farmers demonstrated this year a willingness to hold grain in anticipation of better prices.

Wheat prices for 1973-crop grain soared to a record $5.52 per bushel at the farm, on a national average, last Feb. 15, according to USDA statisticians and then declined sharply during the spring. They recovered to around $4 a bushel by July and in recent months have climbed further, averaging $4.87 at the farm level as of Nov. 15.

Arabs Double Number Of Fighter-Bombers They're Buying Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wealthy oil-producing Arab countries have doubled the number of French Mirage fighter-bombers they are buying for Egypt's air force, U.S. intelligence sources report.

They say Kuwait and Abu Dhabi are paying for a new order of 36 Mirages for Egypt. France has started delivery on a previous Saudi Arabian purchase of 36 of the fighter-bombers for the Egyptian air force.

Analysts believe the three rich Arab countries are providing the 72 Mirages in part to encourage Egypt from turning again to Russia for arms.

Russia Halts Shipments

Russia stopped sending new military equipment last April after the two countries quarreled over Egypt's renewed and closer relations with the United States.

But Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev is due to visit Cairo next month and some U.S. analysts suggest this could lead to improved Soviet-Egyptian relations and a fresh flow of arms to Egypt.

U.S. intelligence sources say the Egyptians have not yet made up for all the 120 planes they lost in last year's war with the Israelis.

At the same time, the Russians have built the Syrian air force to its biggest size ever, sources say. The 450 Syrian military aircraft reportedly include 45 MIG 23s, Russia's most advanced fighter.

According to recent intelligence reports, the Russians also have strengthened Syria's missile firepower with significant shipments this fall.

Meanwhile, the Pentagon declined to comment on a report that a formal offer has been made to sell Israel 48 F15s, the U.S. Air Force's newest fighter now entering service.

The United States has been maintaining a steady flow of military equipment to Israel and experts say that country now is stronger than before the 1973 war.

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — Tyler's oldest known resident and the daughter of a slave, Mrs. Celia Roberson Black, 115, of Colonial Manor Nursing home died Wednesday after a long illness.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Brooks-Sterling Mortuary.

Mrs. Black was born Sept. 10, 1859 in Smith County and was also believed to have been the oldest nursing home resident in the nation.

A special celebration was held on her 115th birthday when state officials, friends, and relatives gathered to honor her.

Letters, and telegrams, including one from President Gerald Ford and another from Gov. Dolph Briscoe congratulated Mrs. Black on her birthday.

Mrs. Black's parents and grandparents were slaves owned by the Henry Butler Sr. family of Smith County; her mother was bought as a young girl by a Mrs. Clay, believed possibly to have been the sister of Henry Butler Jr.

Fog, Rain Dampen East

By The Associated Press
Fog, rain and drizzle dampened much of the eastern half of the nation today as unseasonably mild weather thawed most sections outside the far North.

Visibility fell near zero at various foggy locations from eastern Kansas to northern Lower Michigan. Fog also rolled over parts of the Louisiana and Texas coast and the central valley and coast of California.

Rain and drizzle dripped on Christmas shoppers from the Great Lakes to the Eastern Seaboard. Thundershowers roamed the South from Mississippi through Florida and Georgia.

Snow was mixed with rain in portions of Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio and Michigan.

Storminess over the Rockies diminished during the night, and travel advisories for northern Utah were canceled. A few rain showers and light snow lingered in the northern Rockies and adjacent Plains.

Rain also ended for the most part across the Pacific Northwest except for a pocket in northern California and southwest Oregon.

Fair weather was scarce, confined generally to the Southwest from southern California to the Colorado Rockies and to parts of the Northwest.

Mild weather held temperatures above freezing during the night in most of the country outside the northern tier of states and the Rockies.

Readings before dawn ranged from 15 at Hibbing, Minn., to 73 at Key West, Fla.

Some other reports: Anchorage 23 mostly cloudy, Atlanta 49 rain, Boston 35 cloudy, Buffalo 25 rain, Chicago 36 drizzle, Cincinnati 41 cloudy, Cleveland 36 rain, Dallas 37 clear, Denver 29 clear, Detroit 34 rain, Honolulu 75 partly cloudy, Indianapolis 36 cloudy, Kansas City 32 fog, Los Angeles 33 clear, Louisville 43 rain, Miami 67 cloudy, Minneapolis-St. Paul 22 partly cloudy, Nashville 43 cloudy, New York 42 cloudy, Phoenix 42 clear, Pittsburgh 41 cloudy, San Francisco 49 cloudy, Seattle 39 clear, Washington 45 cloudy.

Mahan Still Trying To Introduce Rodeos In Russia

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Texas rodeo star Larry Mahan still is trying to get the rough-and-tumble American sport introduced to the Soviet Union.

Mahan, six-times All Around a Cowboy finalist, was here to compete this week in the National Finals Rodeo and said the first step in getting the rodeo into Russia will be getting the movie made about it shown there.

The Great American Cowboy, it was going to be distributed over there," said the 31-year-old Salem, Ore., native now living in Dallas.

"I've received a letter from the executive producer of the movie and he said it looked like it was going to be distributed over there," said the 31-year-old Salem, Ore., native now living in Dallas.

Murder Cases Set At Wichita Falls

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP)—Separate murder trials for two persons charged in the same crime were to begin here today.

Norman Draidfort Jr. and Leslie B. Williams were indicted Nov. 20 by the Wichita County grand jury for the Oct. 8 shooting death of Blanch Nell Bailey at a residence here.

Draidfort was scheduled to appear before Judge Temple Driver. Miss Williams is to be tried before Judge Stanley Kirk.

The judges said the trials could be combined if the state and defense counsel agreed. The two judges said this was the first time they had faced such a situation.

Gifted Children Need Special Help

THE MIDLAND REPORTER-TELEGRAM, THURS., DEC. 12, 1974-11A

Copley News Service
If your child does things a little earlier, better, faster and differently from most children, he or she may be gifted and require special help. Gifted and talented children must be nurtured at home and school if they are to realize their potential, says Mrs. Gina Ginsberg, who provided the above definition. Mrs. Ginsberg is a former efficiency expert whose experience with her gifted children and independent investigations brought her national recognition as a specialist in this field. She formed the Gifted Child Society Inc. this last summer which she directs from its Oakland, N.J., office. The society provides a means for parents of gifted and talented children to exchange information "to increase public awareness of the special needs of our children and to push for action and legislation," Mrs. Ginsberg explains in "Talents and Gifts," official publication of The Association for the Gifted. At the recent Maryland state conference on the education of gifted and talented pupils, Mrs. Ginsberg offered hints to parents whose children are gifted and talented academically, intellectually, athletically and artistically. Here are her suggestions for parents. "Remember that your gifted, talented person is a child first and gifted second. "Don't compare him with anyone. It is not fair to apply the same standards to any two humans. "Listen to gifted, talented children, even if it is the wrong time for you and dinner is burning. You may not get another chance to answer that question.

Give your undivided attention. "Give the child books, take him to museums, the airport, a bakery, to hear concerts. Show him new horizons every week. "Let him do for himself what he says he can do. He probably knows better than you. "Don't overstuff him with information. Let him daydream. He does not have to be gainfully employed every minute. "Daydreaming may be the most important part of his day. "If he says he likes chemical equations, don't rush to buy him a chemistry set. He may just like the way the equations look. "Let him have fun, be silly, nonsensical and enjoy life. "Praise him. Bright children must take more intellectual risks than others and they need more praise either for success or for trying. "Discipline him when it is needed. He must realize when it is dinner time, for example. He should take his rightful orderly place with the family. "Don't expect him to be gifted all the time. It makes for headaches." Mrs. Ginsberg urged parents of gifted youngsters to search each other out, to form special interest groups and to work closely with other education groups, school officials and teachers, school boards and state legislators. Special Classes Some school people believe that removing the bright and most able pupils from regular classes to put them in special classes, deprives regular classes of their spark. "That plainly is not true," Mrs. Ginsberg said. "If the most able, the leaders, are removed from a class, new kids come to the fore to shine and fill the vacuum. It gives other pupils more opportunity. "When all bright kids are placed in one class they must learn that they are not necessarily the smartest in the class as they were in regular classes. This is a humbling and a very important concept."

Christmas Cards Returning To Spirit Of Simpler Times

NEW YORK (AP) — Greeting card manufacturers this season say they have doffed the slick, mod look of previous years for a whimsical return to the Spirit of Christmas Past.

The Santa Claus who on last year's cards flashed the peace sign to order two beers has been replaced by jolly St. Nick, arms laden with toys, dolls and gaily wrapped presents. Touch More Folkay Some of the tinsel and glitter may be gone — to help cut production costs, manufacturers say — but the sentiment is a bit more intimate, a touch more folksy. The designs are traditional and old-fashioned, keeping pace with the current nostalgia trend.

And this, say Christmas card-makers and sellers, is what Americans want during this gray period of recession and energy shortages. "People are buying cards that reflect their feelings," said David Cohen, vice president, Fifth Avenue Card Shop, a chain of 57 stores east of the Mississippi River. "These are serious times. Nostalgia is a reflection of this seriousness."

In keeping with the nostalgic look, the Drawing Board features its "Christmas Past" collection, showing wistful little urchins in holiday scenes. Simple Message Designs have moved away from the hot, loud and splashy colors of the 1960s," said creative director Peter Vastures, and the message has become "simple and heartfelt." But there are some contemporary designs, such as the streaking Santa and Santa riding a bicycle and playing tennis.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art and other museums across the country offer cards reproducing their own collections, from Sandro Botticelli's "The Annunciation" to Currier and Ives prints to more contemporary line drawings and graphics. There are over 1,300 designs in the year's Hallmark Christmas card line, but the biggest sellers are traditional: the snow scenes, holiday table settings and little children of every description.

Students To Learn About One Million

FORT DEFIANCE, Ariz. (AP) — The third grade class at Fort Defiance Elementary School is trying to realize just what one million would look like.

The class, taught by Dianne DiPaolo, is trying to answer the question by collecting one million pop tops. By school's end this spring, the class had gathered an estimated 34,000. Mrs. DiPaolo invites people to send the class leftover pop tops to help reach the one million goal. They can be sent to Evan Roberts, Box 790, Fort Defiance, Ariz. 86504. Fort Defiance is a Navajo Reservation community near the Arizona-New Mexico border.

Midland Area Has Worst Housing Shortage In Decade

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a story focusing on Midland and Odessa, prepared by The Associated Press in Dallas for national distribution.

By RICK SCOTT
Associated Press Writer
The energy shortage that has contributed to the nation's economic problems has created a boom in the West Texas oil fields.

In the twin cities of Midland and Odessa in the heart of one of America's great oil fields, civic and government leaders are grappling with the worst housing shortage in a decade. Unemployment is less than half the national standard and industry is begging for workers. Equipment—pipe, drilling rigs, tubing—are not available in sufficient supply. Resurgence of the oil business has led the revival here, says H. A. Tuck of the Midland Chamber of Commerce. "It's like the 1950s again." Domestic crude oil, which sold only a few months ago for $3.60 a barrel, now sells at about $10 a barrel. The higher price has spurred new exploration and production. Oilmen are drilling new wells in the area about 90 rigs per month ahead of the same time a year ago.

"If we had the pipe, rigs and labor, it would be up another 50 or 60 rigs per month," Tuck said. The boom is most evident in Odessa, the center for the area's service industry. Since 1970, the town's population has grown from about 92,000 to more than 100,000. The most serious problem is a housing shortage, especially in the price range that blue collar workers can afford. Both Midland and Odessa officials said they were caught off guard by the boom and are cautious in their optimism. Harry Clark, vice president for economic development of First National Bank in Midland, said the oil industry is keeping a watchful eye on the federal government.

The boom would be even greater except for skepticism about possible government actions, such as ending the domestic oil depletion allowance which gives oilmen a tax break, Clark said.

"If we could just get the government out of everybody's business, we could probably WIN real quick," said Ed Thompson, executive vice president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association. Known reserves in the great Permian Basin, which extends 100,000 square miles from West Texas into southeastern New Mexico, is roughly seven billion barrels, said Thompson. Oilmen are pumping about 2.24 million barrels a day. Texas oil wells have been running at 100 per cent production for nearly three years now.

In the Permian Basin, drillers are returning also to many old wells deserted in the late 1950s and early 1960s. With new technology they can pump more oil from these old holes. It would not have been profitable to do so at the old prices. "The backlog of orders (for equipment) is unbelievable," said Thompson. "Replacement parts are becoming more difficult to find."

Midland is the administrative center for the area's petroleum industry, housing headquarters and financial offices. Its population has grown to about 65,000 from the 1970 census figure of 59,000. Odessa is the worker's town. Rigs are built. Roughnecks live here. Odessa claims to service much of the world's oil industry. Pipe and other equipment manufactured here is shipped around the world. The region's new growth has had side benefits for citizens. Major projects that have been on the drawing boards for years are nearing completion. A new $5 million campus for Midland College, a two-year institution, is about half complete. Enrollment at the new University of Texas-Permian Basin has thrown students in the housing shortage. Within four months, a $3 million Oil Museum will be completed in Midland.

Commercial building in the basin is running about 100 per cent ahead of one year ago, said Clark, the banker. At Odessa, Gene Garrison of the Chamber of Commerce said the labor shortage is acute. "We have about zero unemployment. We could place 1,500 workers this afternoon in everything from welding, machine work, truck drivers to assembly line workers. "The economy is very good out here," said Clark in Midland. "Industrial employment is up. Gas field and oil employment is up. "We've run advertisements in metropolitan area newspapers throughout Texas and in a number of cities outside the state. What we need is people... all kinds of people," said Clark.

The boom came at a time when both Midland and Odessa were engaged in programs to diversify their economic base and lessen their dependence on petroleum. The oil boom was an added bonus, Clark said.

Char Lynd

She's Got Bad Case Of Skydiving Fever

By TRISH HUETHER
Copley News Service
ELSINORE, Calif. — Charlene dropped through the heavens spread-eagle, the ground rushing toward her. "From her right a man cut through the air and propelled his body toward her, he reached Char, grabbed her wrists, and kissed her—a smacker at 120 miles per hour.

The two broke off, grinning as they plunged their separate ways. They pulled their rip cords and their chutes unfurled. That's a typical weekend adventure for 5-foot Char Lynd, who has a severe case of skydiving fever. Call Of Wild As often as she can she sheds her waitress uniform for her cornflower blue jump suit, her high-top boots and her goggles and helmet. She carefully packs her orange, green and white chute and hits the road for Elsinore Paracenter, the largest drop zone for sky divers in the world.

"I had always wanted to skydive ever since I was little," the petite brunette said. She had competed in water skiing meets for five years, but the call of the wild led her to eventually make her first leap from a plane. "A combination of friends pitched in some money for my first jump, my birthday present when I turned 27. That was what I wanted."

"And on my first jump I landed in yellow flowers in a field. I just lay there thinking, 'Far-out, I want to do this again!'" And she did. Makes Progress "When I first started jumping I didn't pay my rent. I didn't pay my car payments." The fever had taken hold of her, and all her time and money went to skydiving.

After more than a year she has progressed to 50-second delays from an altitude of 11,000 feet. That means Char steps out of the plane at 11,000 feet and waits 50 seconds before she pulls her rip cord.

She has also been the base of a three-person star formation in the air, two divers flying themselves to her and hooking wrists. "I'm ready now to go out for a 10-man hookup," the Anaheim, Calif., resident said. In forming the star "everyone's life is in everyone else's hands."

She explained that those participating have to propel toward the person acting as the base at 120 m.p.h. without "railroading," crashing into him.

"If the jumper passes within 10 feet over you he will be sucked down onto you and you will both go tumbling. "Then when the star breaks you each do a 360-degree turn, look above and below you, and do a 'wave-off,' just wave your hands to make sure there is no one around you," she said. "It's easy to have someone above you and you can't see them."

She said women have some disadvantages in skydiving. In forming a star an 80- to 100-pound stress develops between those grasping wrists. As divers fly into the star to widen it the stress increases. She said it is hard for a petite woman like herself to keep holding on under the mounting stress. Also, since she is light, her canopy tends to take her where it wants to and she has to work harder to guide it. But she added that in relative work—making formations in the air—landing isn't any harder for women than men.

Letters To Santa

Bell Security Agents Appear Before Jury

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal grand jury investigating alleged illegal wiretapping heard from four Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. security agents and a former high Houston police official here Wednesday.

Jerry Slaughter, head of the six-man Bell security force here, spent about three hours in the jury room. He declined to comment on what was asked him, but noted, "It seems like a short time (to testify) when you've nothing to hide."

Accompanied by an attorney, Singleton was in and out of the grand jury room in less than five minutes. Three Bell security agents, Billy G. Hubbard, Fred Bolton and James Russell, spent about 30 minutes each with the grand jury. Another Bell official, district manager Roy Moore, testified briefly also.

Houston Police Chief Carroll M. Lynn claimed last month that a small number of Houston police officers may have participated in illegal wiretapping.

He said it was "sophisticated wiretapping" that required the assistance of Bell employees. Bell company officials have stoutly denied that telephone company employees are involved.

HALFWAY MEASURE — Several months ago mechanic Tommy Mortenson of Odense, Denmark, sold a station wagon to a man in a nearby town but claimed that his customer never paid more than half the agreed price. So Mortenson picked the car up, cut it in half and says his customer can have whichever half he prefers. (AP Wirephoto.)

On Tuesday, Russell gave newsmen tours of a small room on the 12th floor of the Bell building here which the security agents was equipped to monitor any telephone conversation in the Houston area.

Russell, however, said that the equipment is never used illegally. Asked what prevents this, he said, "My integrity and the integrity of those I work with."

In another development, Lynn said the Internal Revenue Service is investigating irregularities in payments made by Bell to Houston police officers for moonlighting security work.

Some officers work during off-duty hours as building guards and in other security jobs for Bell. The telephone company sends pay checks to a police supervisor for distribution.

Briscoe, Hobby Cancel Inaugural Parade, Balls

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby have decided to cancel the usual elaborate inaugural parade and inaugural balls because of the current economic situation.

At a time when government, business and private citizens are cutting back on excessive spending, it would be inappropriate to have lavish inaugural ceremonies and expensive social affairs, Charles Nash, Austin inaugural committee chairman, said Wednesday.

Nash said Briscoe and Hobby, who have been re-elected to serve four-year terms, have decided to limit inaugural activities on Jan. 21 to the traditional prayer breakfast and the noon swearing-in ceremony on the front steps of the Capitol.

However, the State Democratic Executive Committee announced that it still planned to hold its usual fund-raising "Victory Dinner," Monday, Jan. 20, 7 p.m., the night before the inauguration. Party faithful will be asked to pay $25-a-plate for a seated dinner at Austin Municipal Auditorium with Briscoe and Hobby as the main speakers.

DELLWOOD PLAZA MALL WILL BE OPEN EACH NIGHT EXCEPT SUNDAY UNTIL 8 P.M.

AUSTIN (AP) — Cloyce Box, president of OKC Corp. of Dallas, has been reimbursed by 81 present or former employees for $100 campaign contributions made in their names to Gov. Dolph Briscoe, a Briscoe fundraiser's report says.

Briscoe received $10,000 from Box in the name of those individual employees at his Oct. 20, 1973, appreciation dinner. Report Filed

The governor's dinner chairman, Jess Hay, filed a new report on the donations with Secretary of State Mark White. Included are copies of 13 letters, dated Nov. 14, to former employees from D. James Fajack, OKC's vice president for financial affairs. The letters remind the former employees that they made a "commitment" for the $100 contributions last fall.

Firm's Chief Reimbursed For Donations To Governor

AUSTIN (AP) — Cloyce Box, president of OKC Corp. of Dallas, has been reimbursed by 81 present or former employees for $100 campaign contributions made in their names to Gov. Dolph Briscoe, a Briscoe fundraiser's report says.

Briscoe received $10,000 from Box in the name of those individual employees at his Oct. 20, 1973, appreciation dinner. Report Filed

Former Corporation Chief Convicted On Fraud Counts

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The former head of the AVM Corp. was found guilty Wednesday of defrauding the stockholders of the automatic voting machine company.

Lloyd Dixon Jr. was convicted on five counts of mail fraud and one count of failing to report loans to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Rice Growers Holding Crops

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said today that rice farmers have held on to their harvested grain longer this year than usual because of lower market prices.

Usually, a USDA official told the National Outlook Conference, rice producers sell more than one-half their crop in the three months following harvest. "They have placed more rice under (price support) loan this year, lessening the urgency of selling the crop," James J. Naive, a grain specialist in the department's Economic Research Service said in a prepared speech. "Also, good returns for the 1973 crop are permitting growers greater marketing flexibility."

Tenneco Reveals Plans To Acquire Louisiana Company

HOUSTON (AP) — Tenneco Inc. President Wilton E. Scott has announced that a subsidiary, Tenneco Oil Co., will acquire La-Terre Co. Inc. of Houma, La., in a $267-million transaction.

La-Terre primarily has oil and gas interests, but also holds 280,900 shares of stock in 35 corporations and a mutual fund.

Scott said Tenneco Oil Co. would make the acquisition with a $17-million initial payment and subsequent payments of $25 million per year for 10 years.

Scott said La-Terre's 55 employees would be absorbed by Tenneco which will continue to operate the Houma office. La-Terre assets include about 48,000 net producing acres and 371,400 net undeveloped acres. Also included are royalty and working interest in 18 oil and gas fields in Louisiana's Le Fourche and Terrebonne parishes and in a productive, but shut-in natural gas lease in Alberta, Canada.

E-Systems Cites Employment Climb

DALLAS (AP) — E-Systems says employment in its Dallas installations in 1974 went up from 3,500 to 4,000 employees and a similar increase is expected in 1975.

"At a time when other companies are reducing employment we are hiring," said John W. Dixon, chairman of the board and president of the company, explaining that the increase was due to additional business.

Dixon said the company now has 7,500 employees at six divisions and subsidiaries in five states. The firm produces electronic and aerospace systems for government, industry and international customers.

"We expect employment to rise in 1975 almost as much as in 1974," Dixon said adding that the company's backlog at the end of September was about $237 million.

East Germany's Envoy In Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rolf Sieber, East Germany's first ambassador to the United States, will be calling on President Ford soon with his letter of credence. Copies of Sieber's credentials were presented Wednesday to acting Secretary of State Robert S. Ingersoll. The East Germans opened a Washington embassy earlier this week.

Midland Youth Center Chatter

By GAYLE GRIMLAND, LESLIE MORGAN and VICKI THROCKMORTON

Like Greetings man! Just a few lines to let you know that all the Bulldogs are digging Christmasville the most this year. We can hardly wait for Nick Sweetie to make the scene in those crazy red threads and that swinging white beard. We guess you know that Santa man is the Northern most Bulldog and is actually our leader. He helped out our drooling dribblers to blast into wins against Fort Stockton and Hobbs last Monday and Tuesday nights. Way to Jive Big Five!

Bulldog Cagers will travel far out to Wichita Falls today for the Midwestern Basketball Tournament. Next Tuesday, roundballers will get on Monterey's case with a victory. Varsity and J.V. play in their home gym. Go dig that scene.

Hey Dudes! Hope you've lined up a hot date for the Youth Center's Christmas Dance Saturday night. Leave your pad and get there around 8 to jive to "Sweet Briar." They are worth the bread. Only 4 bucks a couple. (It beats the show) Keep Cool! Boogie on Down!

The Youth Center's float in the Christmas Parade last Saturday was out of sight. We appreciate everyone who really got into the Christmas spirit and helped with the float. Working on the float was just as neat as Matt's party. Special thanks go to Mike McMillan, Mike Darden, Pat Brown, Karen Rooker, Mrs. Jimmie Goodenough, Ken's United Rent-All, Silck Cochian with Trinity Mud Co., and the biggest thanks to our director, Mr. Rasco and his wife. Without him, we wouldn't have had a float. You're the coolest sat of them all!

We hope you get it together this year and make the "Big List!" There's nothing cooler than to wake up from no-land when you're bagging some "Z's" and find a big pile of loot under the tree!

Calico nominees should watch out — better not pout if they're hoping to make the court. Looking forward to Wednesday. We'll be on Bell No. 2.

We really flip when the "Ho-Ho-Ho" man makes it on our roof in that swinging eight-reindeer chariot and falls down the smokehole! We're leaving a huge cup of hot espresso on the mantel for Mr. C. We hope he thinks it's Super.

Blow off your homework and come munch out at the Foreign Language Festival at 6:30 p.m. Monday night in the cafeteria.

Ancient African Language The language of the ancient African kingdom of Meroe, which flourished between 600 B.C. and A.D. 400, was written in hieroglyphics that showed a strong similarity to the Egyptian.

For international entertainers and food, it's hip! Don't get spaced out and forget these meetings: Thursday — German Club — Room 214 — 6:30. Tuesday — Latin Club — Room 215 — Time 7:30. Wednesday — Soul Club — Room 132 — Time 7.

The boy's golf team was in the groove as it made a sweep over all 36 other contenders in a San Antonio tournament last Sunday and Monday. They came in 8th and Greg Lutke was 2nd medalist out of 187 players.

Give me five, other side, in the hole, you've got soul. At the Midland Invitational Swim Meet, held at the City of Midland Pool, M.H.S. girl's team placed first, and the boy's team swam in second. Way to haul, swimmers.

Being Junior Rotarians ain't no bummer. This week Rich Gaines and Marcey Pinard ripped off the honors. Also taking a honor is John Webb as Junior Lion. Lisa Howe was named recipient of the D.A.R. Good Citizen Award.

The Youth Center would sure like some "sharp" scissors for Christmas. Place under the tree in the Y.C.!!

Everyone should be thinking how they can decorate their third period door so they can win a trip to the Y.C. during class time. Also Please don't forget your canned goods for the White Christmas.

We're got to fade now and change the tape on the hi-fi. Later Man! Have a cool Yule! Gayle, Leslie and Vicki.

P.S. Happy "B" day Larry Underwood. You're finally "big 18." P.S.S. Heamle Horvath, are those real turtles at the Midland Reporter-Telegram: What will Junior Cottillon do with Gayle Grimland not knowing how to do the Twist? Oh, No!

ALL BULL RIDERS BITE DUST— National Finals Cowboys Finish Fifth Go-Round

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—straight bull rides. A competitor is allowed to miss two go-rounds and still compete in the finals.

Jack Ward placed out of the money in the bareback bronc event Wednesday night but still rode his horse and retained the lead for the average with 361 total points.

Joe Alexander, who has already wrapped up the bareback bronc title for the year came in third in the fifth go-round, the first time he's placed in the money during the NFR this year.

First-place money in the from the remainder of the competition in the finals. He dislocated a shoulder earlier in the week and missed three animal in 4.73 seconds.

In team roping, the team of Frank Ferreira Sr. and Doyle Gollerman took first for their only money place so far in this year's NFR competition.

Joe Marvel has stayed atop all five of his broncs so far and leads in the average in the saddle bronc riding event with a total of 356 points. He placed second Wednesday night with a 74 on the back of Widow Maker.

In calf roping, Ronny Sewalt leads for the average with 67.31 total seconds after five go-rounds, but finished out of the money Wednesday night as first-place went to John Rothwell with a time of 9.9 seconds.

Colette Graves is determined to take top money this year in the NFR's barrel racing event. She's finished first, second, first, first and third in the five go-rounds so far. She has a total time of 55.49 seconds.

Skitch Henderson Convicted Of Filing False Tax Return

NEW YORK (AP) — Conductor Skitch Henderson faces up to three years in prison and a $5,000 fine after a federal jury found him guilty of filing a false income tax return.

He had been charged with evading more than $40,000 in federal income taxes.

The jury resumed deliberations today on two other tax charges against the conductor — an attempted tax evasion count and a second false filing count.

The 56-year-old former musical director of NBC-TV's "Tonight Show" reacted impassively to the guilty verdict in U.S. District Court Wednesday night.

He is accused of trying to skirt a new tax law in 1969 by backdating a $350,000 gift of his music library from the "Tonight Show" to the University of Wisconsin and by inflating his voice. The second false filing charge involves his 1970 tax return, which had a carryover deduction.

The jury acquitted Henderson of one of two attempted tax evasion counts and of obstruction of justice.

Tv Link Seen In Skid Row Slayings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police said Wednesday they are studying a possible connection between a recent segment of the television series "Police Story" and three Skid Row deaths in which the throat of each victim had been slashed. The body of the third derelict to have his throat cut in less than two weeks was found Wednesday in a vacant building. He was not immediately identified, but police said he appears to be in his 40s or 50s. Earlier, two other transients died when their throats were cut from ear to ear and a fourth derelict is in a coma from critical head injuries suffered in an attack four days after a "Police Story" segment Nov. 28 in which a psychotic killer bludgeoned to death a number of Los Angeles Skid Row derelicts. Stan Kallis, executive producer of "Police Story," said Wednesday that the murders in the show was depicted as a derelict himself who each time he killed was symbolically "killing himself" as punishment for his own failure. He said the show was based on an actual case history. Police investigators said they would attend a special showing of the murder drama at NBC's Burbank studios to determine how closely the real life killer may be following the script.

U.S. Executives Are Faced With Much Pressure Now

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — Seldom has the executive suite been subjected to such pressure as it is now enduring, and whether it can solve all its problems is debatable.

Eugene Jennings, management professor at Michigan State University, is very concerned that many of the men who head the nation's largest companies are ill-equipped to deal with the multifaceted challenges before them.

Problems Challenging
Products of the 1960s, when the focus of their efforts was mainly on profits, these men are being challenged now by capital shortages, consumerism, ecological concerns, nationalism, controls, product safety, equality, etc.

The men needed today must have imagination, vision and a broad understanding, said Jennings, who is also a confidential adviser to corporate chief executives and a recognized authority on executive mobility.

But the men who worked their way to the top during the 1960s lack lateral vision and foresight, he believes. They do not have a sense of the grand plan. Many of them are confused.

Problems Cited
Here are some of the strains on the executive suite that Jennings believes constitutes a crisis of the management system:

Manufacturing executive: He knows production hasn't kept pace with the increase in labor costs. But he can't obtain funds from the financial officer to obtain labor-saving tools and machinery.

On top of this he is faced with demands to humanize the assembly line, to enrich jobs, to make them more rewarding. He is thus faced with at least one dilemma and probably many more.

Marketing executive: His fundamental problem is that the consumer has lost his respect for the market place as an arbiter of prices. He knows the public is looking to the government rather than the market place for price constraints.

Sales executive: His problem is the profit margin. It has been declining in the past two or three years. He has to lower the cost of selling. But productivity also is falling, so he is forced to sell at a high price in a sluggish market.

Finance executive: The debt-to-equity ratio has doubled since 1967 and now is up to 44 per cent. Secondly, the cash flow to investment ratio is far too low to finance capital expenditures.

He can't get capital from the stock market, and is forced into bonds. He needs to build liquidity, but how can he do it? Especially when banks are returning to more traditional banking practices.

He is faced also with the fact that employees are getting an increasingly large share of the corporate dollar and shareholders a smaller percentage. He has to consider a bigger dividend to get shareholders back. But can he afford it?

Situations Change
Accounting and auditing executive: He once had a cozy relationship with his outside auditors. Now they try to keep more than arm's reach away from him. The public accounting firms are under pressure to report more of the corporations' financial affairs, and to be extra aware of indiscretions.

Personnel manager: He is faced with the problems of equality of opportunity, seniority versus equality, health and safety of personnel. "He is up to his neck in alligators."

Purchasing agent: He's under a gun he never faced before. His office has been raised in stature because it is believed he can control costs. But he is expected to buy at low cost items that are unavailable or in short supply.

Atop this mountain of problems, Jennings places a chief executive who has been trained to concentrate narrowly on profits. Too often he is unable to envision the over-all challenge to his company.

The chief executive also has his own peculiar worry. He must now deal with a board of directors that is not nearly as passive as it was in the 1960s. Directors have bigger legal responsibilities, and they demand that the president be candid and permit them to participate in decisions.

Can he handle the job? Jennings has doubts. And he has doubts too about the system's ability to produce the men of vision and foresight to bring corporations through the new complexities.

"Where do we find the new managers?" he asks. "What do they look like? How do we find and develop them? Which of them knows what the future is like?"

Rocky's Approval By House Panel Seems To Be Certain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller's confirmation as vice president appears headed for approval by the House Judiciary Committee despite nagging concern over his money.

An Associated Press survey found 25 of the 38 members inclined to vote for confirmation, nine inclined to vote against and four not saying which way they will go.

However, several of the 25 members inclined to vote for confirmation said they were uneasy about it and could yet switch their votes. The vote is scheduled for today. Chairman Peter Rodino said he didn't expect more than a dozen members to oppose the nomination. One Republican, Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan of Maryland, was among those refusing to say. Several other Republicans said Hogan has been trying to get them to join him in voting no and that he appeared to be reluctant to be the only Republican voting against confirmation.

President Ford predicted Wednesday that the House will overwhelmingly confirm Rockefeller next week although he said there could be as many as 100 votes against Rockefeller.

Commenting on the Senate's confirmation Tuesday by a vote of 90 to 7, Ford said, "I assume the House will do roughly the same." He noted there were 35 votes against his own confirmation as vice president last year.

The President made the comments to Rockefeller's brother, David, during a meeting at the White House.

Ford said Rockefeller would be sworn in as vice president shortly after the House confirmation next Thursday or Friday but said it has not been decided where.

Nearly all of Nelson Rockefeller's opponents and some of his supporters on the House Judiciary Committee cited potential conflict of interest from his wealth and his loans and gifts to public officials.

Suit Against AT&T Says Telephone No Longer Mysterious Instrument

WASHINGTON — When a consumer wants an electric lamp, he may buy one at a store of his choice, take it home and plug it in. If it doesn't work, he can return it for repair or replacement.

Buy a gas stove and it is hooked up by the dealer to the home's gas line.

So why can't a consumer buy and use a telephone the same way?

Why are telephone companies, unlike gas and electric utilities, permitted to levy high fees on anyone who buys a phone from a store, fees high enough to discourage most buyers?

That is one of the many questions that the Justice Department hopes to have answered as a result of its recently filed antitrust suit against the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., which owns and operates 83 per cent of the nation's telephones.

The government believes there can and ought to be free and effective competition in many aspects of the complex communications industry.

Gas and electric utilities are government-regulated monopolies only up to the front door of a house, factory or office building. Furthermore, government and industry regulations have assured consumers that stoves and lamps meet basic standards and will work with all gas and electric supply systems.

What is Mysterious? What, then, is so mysterious about the telephone that has permitted AT&T to enjoy a total government-sanctioned monopoly? Why do AT&T and its defenders say only AT&T can provide such consumer products efficiently and at low cost?

The government and growing segments of the communications industry say the mystery was stripped away by technological advances over at least the last decade. In other words, they argue that Western Electric, the equipment manufacturer owned by AT&T, is not the only company capable of making modern equipment.

There are many domestic and foreign companies making equipment—telephones, switchboards, data transmission systems—superior in capability and cheaper than Western Electric equipment offered by Bell System telephone companies.

Big Savings

In hearings last year before the Senate antitrust subcommittee, an executive of Montgomery Ward testified that the giant retailer is saving over $1 million a year by buying non-Bell System equipment for data transmission linking the corporation's computers around the country.

Montgomery Ward also is replacing many of its Bell System telephone switchboards with competing equipment that has provided greater communication flexibility at lower cost, the executive reported.

The subcommittee, chaired by Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., has collected evidence for several years on the alleged anticompetitive activities of AT&T. The files were made available to the Justice Department and reportedly played a role in convincing the government to broaden its suit.

To Test Accuracy

The files bulge with reports of Bell System policies that effectively prevent small businesses from buying their own telephone equipment to replace what is provided by the local telephone company. The accuracy of these reports will be tested in the courtroom through the government's suit.

One such policy, approved by state regulatory agencies, explains why many stores don't sell telephones. The policy, insisted upon by the Bell System, requires the installation of an interface device on all telephone equipment not manufactured by Western Electric.

The Bell System argues that equipment made by someone other than Western Electric might be electronically incompatible with the Bell System's intricate switching and transmission system and may cause an electronic "blowout."

Thus an interface device, which is essentially a fuse, is required on all equipment not made by AT&T's Western Electric. The cost of such a device usually convinces all but major telephone users, like Montgomery Ward, to stick with the Bell System.

For example, the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co., an AT&T subsidiary serving the Washington area, tells customers that the company installs the devices for between $10 and $25 "or maybe more," depending on the particular telephone.

Then there is a $14 charge for connecting the telephone, even though most come with sockets for do-it-yourself wiring.

The four-prong plug designed to fit standard telephone jacks, just like any lamp plug fits any socket.

On top of all this is a 96-cent charge per month for an extension telephone, a total of $11.40 a year.

Since many electronic supply stores sell telephones for $8.95 suitable for a garage or basement workshop, plus cords and penalty can be the disconnection of all telephone service.

But there is nevertheless a brisk trade in private telephones. Many salesmen will explain the simple installation procedure to customers while warning them of the tariff regulations.

Years ago the need for an interface may have been necessary. But today, according to communications experts, there is equipment being made that is identical electronically to Western Electric products.

Thus they say the interface and connection requirements in most cases is only a ruse to discourage competition.

In testimony before the subcommittee last July, Clay Whitehead, director of the White House office of telecommunications policy during the six years of the Nixon administration, made this point: "It is unbecoming for a company the size and the stature of AT&T to use its legal, political and economic power to seek to extend its monopoly by governmental fiat into areas where monopoly is not called for."

"In my judgment the government cannot let such an effort go unnoticed or unchecked."

RON MIX STILL HAS FAITH

Portland Storm Players Suffer WFL Money Crunch

By BOB ORTMAN
Copley News Service

I finally located Ron Mix in the office of the Portland Storm lawyers. If I'd been thinking, I would have tried there first.

"How are you?" said I.

"You can read," said he, laughing hollowly. "What do you think?"

I think he has a headache even Excedrin couldn't cure. I've read that Storm players were not paid for the last seven weeks of the World Football League season.

That Portlanders were urged to take a starving Storm to lunch (that's when it was suggested the name be changed to Portland Panhandlers). That team owner Bob Harris took his $500,000 loss... and tax deduction... and ran. That, finally, Internal Revenue Service padlocked the Storm offices for nonpayment of $168,000 in taxes.

Seeks Capital

General manager Mix, former San Diego Charger player and official, was the man in the middle of the mess. Now he is seeking to resuscitate the franchise with a transfusion of new capital.

"There are three separate groups that have expressed a serious interest in purchasing the team and keeping it in Portland," he said.

For what it is worth... perhaps $16 in Confederate currency... Mix is not alone in his misery.

The path to the poorhouse is clogged with WFL operators. Of the 12 teams that started the season, two (Detroit and Jacksonville) folded before the finish, and all but three of others (Memphis, Philadelphia and Hawaii) are feeling financial pain of varying degrees.

Still Has Faith

"The founders were not too discriminating in selling franchises," judged Mix, who however, still has faith in the future of the WFL. "Guidance of the league is now in the hands of a very responsible, wealthy group of owners, who are committed to making the league work and to operating it in a responsible way."

The storm broke in Portland when Harris wearied of seeing red every time he looked at the books.

"He just came to the point where he decided he had put in enough money," said Mix.

"We began to have cash flow problems about the 13th week. Our owner indicated he would be injecting additional money into the club, and the money simply never came."

"The players played a couple games under those promises. At that point I had to modify my presentation. Instead of telling them that money is forthcoming, I had to say, our owner says that money is forthcoming. The players went along with this another week and another week. May Work Out.

"There comes a time where you're past the point of no return, where it makes more sense to finish the year and hope something will happen than it does to abandon everything. In the event of abandonment, there's no hope of recouping what has been lost in wages. Our players made that decision. It wasn't a decision they made happily. It was just a very practical decision. And it looks like it may work out."

"I couldn't give them any promises. I told them frankly I was pessimistic about the chances of regaining past wages. But I'm at the point now where my pessimism has turned to optimism."

"It was an education," said cornerback Clancy Oliver, ruefully. "So far that's all I've gotten out of it."

Through it all, Mix retained his good humor and black hair. "I would be gray," he confided, "except my wife loaned me some hair color. She told me, 'You mustn't let this pressure show.'"

New Trial Appeal Fails For Carter

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Lawyers for former middleweight boxer Rubin "Hurricane" Carter and a co-defendant say they will appeal a judge's denial of a bid for a new trial for the convicted triple murderers.

The motion for a new trial by Carter and co-defendant John Artis was rejected here Wednesday by Superior Court Judge Samuel A. Lerner, who said he did not believe the recantations of the state's two key witnesses.

"If mere recantation in itself dictates a new trial, the entire judicial process could be frustrated by the mere whim of a witness recanting his testimony," Lerner said in rejecting the motion.

An evidentiary hearing was ordered in October when it was learned that the two key witnesses, Arthur D. Bradley and Alfred P. Bello, said they lied at the 1967 trial in return for leniency in pending criminal matters. The men also claimed they were coerced into identifying Carter and Artis.

In an interview at Trenton State Prison, Carter, 37, lashed out at Lerner, who presided at the original trial. "I wasn't expecting anything to come from this man... this judge has shown me consistently in the past that he was totally against me," said Carter.

Carter's boxing career reached a peak on Dec. 14, 1964, when he fought Joey Giardello for the world middleweight crown in Philadelphia. He lost by a decision.

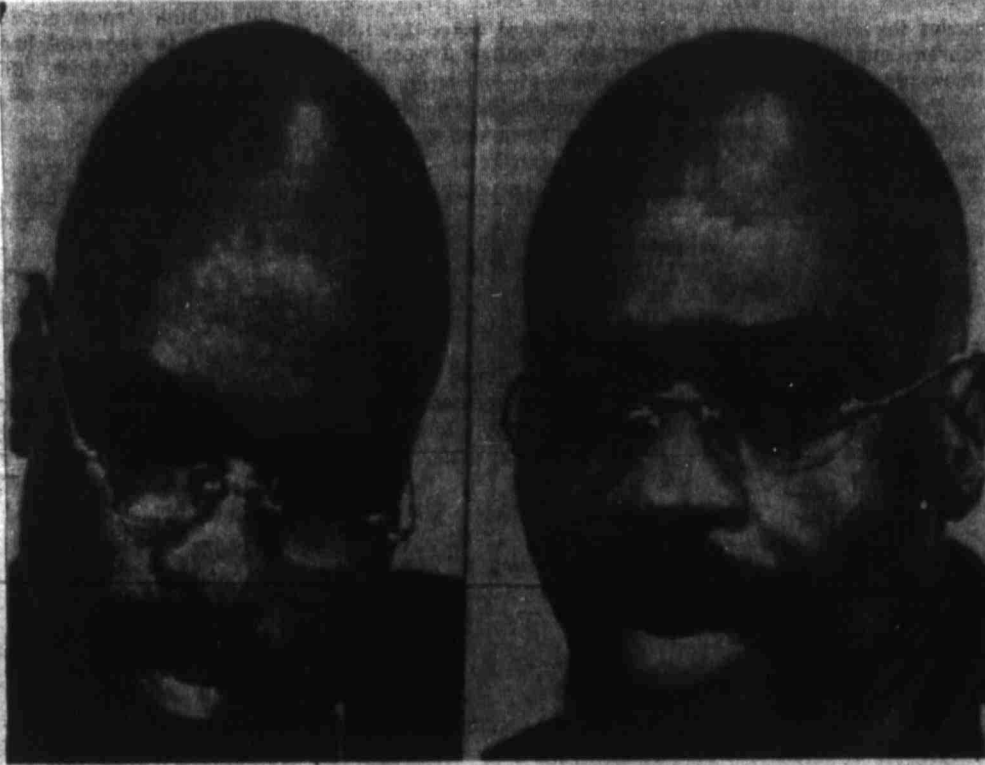

In between the June 1966 slayings at a Paterson bar and his arrest in October of that year, Carter fought his last boxing match. It was in Argentina on Aug. 6 against Juan "Rocky" Rivero, an Argentinian middleweight.

Bello, currently in a county jail on unrelated charges, and Bradley testified at the original trial that they were attempting a break-in at a sheet metal firm a block from the Lafayette Bar & Grill at the time the murders occurred there.

Passaic County Prosecutor Joseph D. Gourley, whose office handled the murder case and subsequent appeals, said the ruling "gives a certain vindication to the office," which Gourley assumed leadership of in 1970.

Gourley said he felt all along that the law enforcement officials accused of coercion "were not the type of individuals who would resort to that type of activity to get a conviction."

The prosecutor refused to rule out the possibility of perjury charges against Bradley and Bello. "Some prosecutor might look into that once all appeals have run their course," Gourley said.

THE "HURRICANE" — Rubin "Hurricane" Carter, former middleweight contender, is shown after his appeal for a new trial was rejected by Superior Court Judge Samuel Lerner. Carter, convicted of murder and sentenced to life in prison, said he will appeal "as far as I can go." (AP Wirephoto.)

Hall To Induct 14 Blacks

NEW YORK (AP) — World heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali is "the super star of super stars," says former tennis star Althea Gibson.

"He brought not only talent but charisma. He has made the black man an admired and outstanding personality the world over," she said.

Althea was on hand Wednesday when the Black Athletes Hall of Fame elected 14 members. She was honored a year ago along with Ali, Willie Mays, Bill Russell, Hank Aaron and others.

Althea, who broke the tennis color barrier and won Wimbledon, and has played on the ladies' professional golf tour, welcomed one of the new honorees, former Brooklyn Dodgers catcher Roy Campanella, with a kiss on the cheek.

Campanella, confined to a wheelchair since an automobile accident in 1958, said being named to the Black Athletes Hall of Fame "is probably more important to me than being named to the Baseball Hall of Fame."

"It's the influence it will have on young black kids," he said.

Others elected included the late Roberto Clemente, boxing's Henry Armstrong and Jack Johnson, track stars Willie White, Harrison Dillard and William De Hart Hubbard, track coach Joe Yancey, basketball's Elgin Baylor and Bob Douglas, soccer star Pele, football's Gale Sayers, Pop Lloyd,

Nine AL Hurlers Win 20 Games

NEW YORK (AP) — Nine American League pitchers had 20-victory seasons in 1974 with Oakland's control ace, Catfish Hunter, and California fireballer Nolan Ryan, leading the honors list released today by the league.

Hunter, the AL Cy Young Award winner, led the league with 25 victories and had the skimpiest earned-run average among regulars with a 2.49 mark. He also led the world champion A's to the team well ahead of Baltimore's 3.27.

Ryan, who pitched the third-most hits of his career during the season, pitched a league-high 332.2 innings and, in the process, struck out 367 batters. He thus became the first pitcher in major league history to surpass 300 strikeouts three years in a row. He fell only 16 strikeouts shy of his own record of 383 set in 1973.

Ferguson Jenkins of Texas, runnerup to Hunter in the Cy Young balloting, also won 25 games while Ryan, Steve Buson, Oakland's Rolie Fingers, the Most Valuable Player in the A's World Series triumph over Los Angeles, appeared in the most regular-season games, 76, while Chicago's Terry Forster led in saves with 24.

Cuellar, with his 22-10 record, had the best winning percentage, a .688 mark, followed by the 684 of Al Fitzmorris, who finished at 13-6 for Kansas City.

Wood, the White Sox knuck-leballing workhorse, started a league-high 42 games but Jenkins completed the most, 29, and Tiant had the most shut-outs, seven.

Most Valuable Player in the A's World Series triumph over Los Angeles, appeared in the most regular-season games, 76, while Chicago's Terry Forster led in saves with 24.

HUNTING & FISHING

Those worms you sometimes find in fish may be ugly, but they are not harmful to humans, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials.

And throwing away wormy fish is a waste of good meat, they say.

According to officials, fishermen may find two types of worms in fish, bass tapeworms and roundworms which appear in the internal organs of fish and yellow or black grubs which are encysted along the dorsal spines of fish.

Parks and Wildlife Department fisheries biologists say that ordinary cleaning will remove internal parasites. If the fisherman finds an encysted grub, removing a slice of meat from both sides of the dorsal fin is the easiest way to get rid of them.

The "grubby fish" say officials, are actually victims of the larval stages of parasitic worms which have burrowed into the fish and formed cysts. In the next stage of the parasite's life cycle, the fish is eaten by a bird where the parasites reach their adult stage in the digestive tract.

When the eggs from these worms enter the water by way of the bird's feces, they are hatched into tiny free-swimming larvae which penetrate snails.

Within the snails the larvae go through different stages known respectively as sporocysts and rediae.

The rediae form thousands of tailed larvae known as cercariae which are free-swimming and emerge from the snail. These swim about in the water and will develop no further until they encounter a suitable fish in which to continue their development and life cycle.

The January Tournament of the Permian Bass Club will be hosted by the Monahans Bunch on Jan. 11-12 at Oak Creek. Doug Watts won the November Tournament with a string weighing five pounds, 41 ounces.

A short wintry stab slowed fishing momentarily at Lake E. V. Spence last week, but there were still several good catches.

Several fishermen had strings of black bass, and there were three sizeable striped bass. Crappie and blue cat eaned back into the reports, too.

Here are the reports: — Glen and Randy Young, Midland, 12 crappie to 2 1/2 lb.; Mames Pruett and party from Midland, 8-lb. striped bass, 6-lb. black bass.

Permian Basin Areas Draw Sites For 20 Explorers, 84 Field Projects

District 8 of the Texas Railroad Commission headquartered in Midland, took the honors last week in planned exploration for and development of hydrocarbon areas in the Permian Basin.

The Midland RRC office processed 13 wildcat and 36 pool applications. Total number of exploratory tests scheduled in the Basin was 20, while operators projected the drilling of 84 field tests, for a grand total of 104.

During the preceding week, only 32 permits were sought for oil and/or gas tests.

RRC District 8-A in Lubbock, received applications for 15 field projects and District 7-C, in San Angelo, 23.

'CBS Radio Mystery Theater' To Begin Second Year Jan. 6

By JAY SHARBUTT
NEW YORK (AP) — Last January, the CBS Radio network, barking to an era of radio many thought had died, began a seven-night-a-week thriller series with a show aptly called, "The Old Ones Are Hard to Kill."

On Jan. 6, the "CBS Radio Mystery Theater" will commence its second year on the air with "The Premature Burial" starring actor Keir Dullea in the first of seven Edgar Allen Poe stories to be dramatized that week.

"As far as I am concerned, this series is something that's going to go on and on and be bigger and better than ever," says Sam Cook Digges, president of the CBS Radio division. It was Digges who provided the impetus for getting the 54-minute nightly series on the air last year, following a series of talks with veteran radio producer Hy Brown, who still produces the show.

Digges chuckled when asked if there was any point during the series' first few months on the air when he felt he might have made a mistake. "Nope," he said. "Once we got the thing on the air and got the kind of response we did from our stations and listeners, we knew we had a hit on our hands."

CBS Radio officials say the program currently is carried on 221 stations, 30 of which aren't CBS affiliates. They say that's approximately the same number that carried the show at the start.

Digges, who said veteran actor E. G. Marshall would continue hosting the series next year, said there wouldn't be many changes in the basic format of the show.

"We'll again do 195 new shows and 170 repeats, just as we did this year," he said. "I think you may see a few more detective stories worked in next year, but in general terms it'll go along pretty much as it has in the past."

'Forty Carats' Continuing

ODESSA — "Forty Carats," a saucy Parisian comedy adapted for the American stage, will have performances this weekend and next at Permian Playhouse, Odessa's community theater.

The adult comedy is the third production of PPH's 1974-75 season. Seat reservations for the 8:30 p.m. performances Friday and Saturday of this week and for the concluding performances Friday and Saturday nights next week, may be made through the theater box office, 362-2323.

'Death In Venice' To Be Broadcast

NEW YORK — Composer Benjamin Britten's newest opera, "Death in Venice," will be the second offering in the 35th season of the Texaco Metropolitan Opera broadcasts. The opera will be heard beginning at 1 p.m. Saturday over Station KCRS in Midland, Tex., along with more than 200 other commercial and non-commercial stations in the U. S. and Canada. "Death in Venice," based on the late Thomas Mann's famous novella, was completed in 1973 and the Saturday presentation will be its U.S. broadcast premiere.

Singing principal roles in the opera will be British tenor Peter Pears in his Met broadcast debut as the aging Gustav von Aschenbach. Baritone John Shirley-Quirk will also be heard in his first Met broadcast in the various roles of the traveler, the elderly fop, the old gondolier, the hotel manager, the hotel barber, the leader of the players and Dionysius. Tenor Andrea Velis will be heard as the voice of Apollo. Joining them in the two leading non-singing roles will be dancers Vicki Fisera as the Polish mother and Bryan Pitts as the son Tadzio. The opera will be conducted by Stuart Bedford in his Met broadcast debut.

Midland Naturalists Will Participate 'n Bird Counts

The Midland Naturalists organization will participate in a series of bird counts in the region during the holidays. The events will be in conjunction with the annual Christmas bird count of the National Audubon Society.

The first counts will be Saturday at Fort Davis and Sunday at Balmorhea. Persons interested in joining Midland Naturalists members in the counts as well as those desiring more information on the events may contact Mrs. Walton Porter at 694-6358.

Additional counts scheduled at intervals through Jan. 1 will be at Stanton, Big Spring, Lake J. B. Thomas, Sheffield, Midland, Colorado City and Robert Lee.

Oriental Art Now On Display

ODESSA — Oriental art works from an Odessa couple's private collection is on display at The University of Texas at the Permian Basin.

The exhibition is in two parts. One display case, consisting primarily of pottery, is on view in the university's main lounge. The second display is in the rare books room of the Learning Resources Center and includes items from the 7th and 8th centuries through the 20th Century. The various art objects represent the variety of Korean skills developed in clay, brass, bronze, teakwood, and pottery. The art objects are on loan from Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Marvin, who spent nearly six years collecting assorted art objects that reflect Korean culture and craftsmanship. The couple served as Presbyterian missionaries in South Korea.

The public is invited to view the exhibit, which will be on display for the next six months, any weekday between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. There is no admission charge.

Western, Wildlife Art Exhibit Slated

Western and wildlife paintings by J. A. Roach Jr. of Pagosa Springs, Colo., will be exhibited Saturday in Dellwood Plaza mall.

The collection will be presented by the artist's daughter, Karen Roach Morrow of Alpine. Viewing hours will be 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. The public is invited to see the 18 paintings in the show. Roach, who grew up on a Reagan County ranch, lived for many years at Fort Davis after serving in the Seabees during World War II. A builder by trade, he and his wife recently built a log home at Pagosa Springs.

Self-taught in art, Roach has exhibited his works in numerous cities in Texas, including Houston, Austin and San Antonio.

Jetliners Must Use Crash Alarms

WASHINGTON (AP) — All U.S. commercial jetliners will be required to install alarm systems that tell the pilots when the aircraft is on a collision course with the ground or a mountain, the Federal Aviation Administration says.

The device, which will be required equipment as of next Dec. 1, emits a recorded sound and voice: "Whoop, whoop, pull up," if the airplane descends below safe altitudes.

More than 30 of the world's 200 airlines already have the device.

Guided Tours To End Soon

Guided tours of an important art exhibition at Midland's Museum of the Southwest will end soon.

The exhibition itself will continue through the Christmas holidays and is a not-to-be-missed show.

The exhibition presents paintings, drawings and sculpture by some of America's most noted artists of past and present ranging from Albert Bierstadt and Winslow Homer to Norman Rockwell and Robert Wood. Of special interest are the canvases of the Taos Society of Artists, the so-called "Taos Founders" who were the pioneers of the now world-famous Taos art colony.

Sculpture in the show includes pieces by Nicolai Fechen, Don Poland and Grant Speed.

The works on view are on loan from Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Hogan, longtime Midlanders who have assembled their definitive collection over a 40-year period.

During the past month, dozens of the Junior League of Midland Inc., have provided guided tours of the show to the public as well as to art classes of Midland's junior and senior high schools and those at Midland College.

The exhibition in the museum's Turner Memorial Gallery, 1706 W. Missouri St., is on view to the public between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. each weekday, and from 2 until 5 p.m. on Sundays. There is never an admission charge.

Casa Manana Playhouse To Do 'Rudolph'

The Casa Manana Playhouse, a resident theater company producing entertainment for children at Fort Worth's famed theater-in-the-round, will present performances of "Rudolph the Reindeer" this Saturday and next.

Performance times each Saturday will be 11 a.m. and 2 p.m., with tickets available at the Casa Manana box office, (817) 332-6821.

"Rudolph," a Christmas musical, has been adapted by Margo Brandt of the Playhouse staff from the popular holiday song, "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer," written by Johnny Marks in 1949. Miss Brandt's original lyrics enhance a Victorian-era theme. Ragtime melodies and barber shop harmonizing by Santa's elves make the production lively and unique while period costumes and nostalgic gauntlet scenes recreate the warmth of an old-fashioned Christmas.

Miss Brandt's scripting for "Rudolph" has been done in cooperation with Texas Christian University where she will receive credit towards a masters degree in theater.

Music for the production has been composed by Michael Danziger of New York City. Danziger also composed music for "The Littlest Angel," produced by Casa Manana Playhouse in 1973.

Rudolph will be played by 12-year-old Kevin Kemp of Arlington, a student at Casa Manana Playhouse School. Both a singer and dancer, Kevin was featured in "Gypsy" during the 1974 Summer Musicals season at Casa Manana.

Jimmy Joe Steenbergen will portray Santa Claus while Mrs. Claus will be played by Lou Hancock. Both are professional actors and have performed in major theaters in the Fort Worth-Dallas area. Steenbergen is also known for his accomplishments in the fields of film and tv.

Scenic and lighting designer for "Rudolph" is Lynn Manning, a graduate of Southern Methodist University who serves as stage manager for Casa Manana.

Costumes and properties mistress for the Alley Theatre in Houston and for Casa Manana Summer Musicals. She holds a master's degree in theater from TCU.

'Painters' America' On View At Houston

HOUSTON — An exhibition of 87 American paintings which have gone on view at Houston's Museum of Fine Arts portrays scenes of the life and manners of Americans as observed and imagined by artists who worked in the time between the War of 1812 and World War I. "The Painters' America: Rural and Urban Life, 1810-1910," is the title of the new show, sponsored by a public service grant from the Exxon Company, U.S.A. It will remain on exhibit through Jan. 19.

Patricia Hills, associate curator of 18th and 19th Century art at the Whitney Museum of American Art in New York City, organizer of the Exxon exhibition, selected paintings by artists well-represented in museums—George Bellows, George Caleb Bingham, Mary Cassatt, Thomas Eakins, Winslow Homer, Eastman Johnson, William Sidney Mount, John Sloan, and Lilly Martin Broome—in addition to less well-known regional artists such as Henry Bacon, John Carlin, Robert Koehler, William Ranney and Lilian Westcott Hale. In explaining the range of the show, she commented: "The earliest genre paintings in America were close to their English and European prototypes—paintings of village inns and country dances. But nationalism and idealism urged American artists to paint scenes touching the patriotic hearts of their patrons, particularly scenes of idealized farmers and their families. Occasionally artists turned to the pressing realities of slavery and the Civil War, but often with a sentimental view of the conflict. In the post-Civil War years of rapid industrialization, painters catered to an increasingly prosperous and more sophisticated middle class, depicting urban ladies and gentlemen promenading in city parks, relaxing at summer resorts, or listening to music in well-appointed parlors. The early years of the 20th Century saw a number of artists rejecting such scenes of leisure class living and turning their attentions to street vendors, hairdressers and working-class picnickers. Banging from country to city scenes, from working class to wealthy class subjects, and blending fact and fantasy depending upon the demand, most artists painted America with a large measure of optimism and affection, even through they perpetuated a number of stereotypes, some not so benign, which are with us still.

The exhibition, which was shown at the Whitney Museum earlier this fall, will travel to the Oakland, Calif., Museum of Art following its showing in Houston. Midland-area residents visiting Houston during the holidays are invited to see the show. The concert will be open to the public at no charge.

'Children's Hour' Being Performed By WT College

SNYDER — "The Children's Hour," a shocker when it had its first Broadway production in the 1930s, is having a series of performances this week in the Fine Arts Theatre of Western Texas College. The production will play nightly through Saturday. Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Written by Lillian Hellman, "The Children's Hour" has been revived in recent years with great success, and many persons also will remember it as a movie which more recently has had tv showings.

Charles Holland, WTC drama director, describes the play as a serious stage work dealing with the power of lies. Even though the play is now more or less acceptable in terms of language or values, it is recommended for adult audiences because of the depth of its subject matter, he said. It is the second production of the WTC drama department for the 1974-75 season. A dinner theater production is planned for the spring as well as touring show scheduled March through May.

'Extracurricular' Promised In Globe's New Season

ODESSA — The Globe of the Great Southwest, the Permian Basin's near-perfect replica of Shakespeare's own Globe Theater in Elizabethan London, is promising "extracurricular" in its new season beginning Jan. 1.

The 1975 season ticket campaign opened here this week and will continue during coming weeks. Setting the pace for the "extracurricular" year are three musicals, two Shakespearean productions, a religious drama and a contemporary play — a seven-production season offering something for everybody, proponents say.

Initiating the season in January will be the acclaimed musical, "West Side Story." Other musical productions on the schedule include "The Wizard of Oz" in April and "Dames At Sea," to have performances June through August. In addition, there will be a production of Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing" along with either "Troilus and Cressida" or "Measure for Measure," to be presented during the Globe's annual Summer Shakespeare Festival. A religious drama, "The Life of Christ," is planned for presentation at Sunday matinees next June through August. The season will conclude with a production of a contemporary American play.

Reporter Says Martha Mitchell Struck Daughter

NEW YORK (AP) — Martha Mitchell said she struck her daughter when the 13-year-old girl refused to leave school and come home with her, according to CBS-TV reporter Trish Reilly.

Mrs. Mitchell, who has claimed her estranged husband, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell "poisoned" daughter Marty's mind against her, was accompanied by Miss Reilly to Sacred Heart Convent School in Greenwich, Conn., Wednesday.

William Goldman's Writer Who Doesn't Like Writing

By PHIL THOMAS
 NEW YORK (AP) — William Goldman is a writer who doesn't like writing. Although he has an impressive list of novels, screenplays and other writings to his credit, the 43-year-old Goldman quietly remarks, "I don't enjoy the act of sitting down and writing. When I do, the muses do not sing to me. It's brute labor." Goldman, who lives in New York City with his wife and two daughters, decided to earn his living writing after finishing military service and then obtaining a master's degree. "I took a couple of writing classes in college," he observes wryly, "and I got bad grades. I had no encouragement of any kind, but I wanted to be a writer. So, when I was 24, I wrote a novel in desperation and sent it off. 'The Temple of Gold' was accepted by the first publisher it went to. Which was great, because if that hadn't happened, I wouldn't have had the courage to write another book. I probably would have become a copywriter."

That first book "didn't do much in hardcover but it took off in paperback and it made enough money for me to write another book." In four years he published three novels, then turned his hand to the legitimate stage. He collaborated on two plays ("Blood, Sweat, and Stanley Poole" and "A Family Affair") and I doctored one, but I didn't like it much, especially the out-of-town experience, so I got out of it as quickly as I could."

He then turned to screenplays, which he finds "hard." "Look," he points out, "you've got to fill maybe 150 pages with words and they may as well be the best you can produce as well as garbage. I don't believe in the myth of Hollywood the destroyer. Very few people deliberately start out to write junk, it's too hard. Writing for the screen is a peculiar craft, but it's an honorable one."

Years of Thought, Research
 Goldman said he often spent years thinking about and researching his books and scripts before actually sitting down and writing them.

"'Butch Cassidy' was on my mind for eight years before I wrote it," he said, and the idea for the recently published "Marathon Man," a novel about a charming young man who wants to be a great runner as well as scholar but instead finds himself plunged into a world of violence and sudden death, first came to him in 1965 "but rattled around in my head for years before it got to me and was ready to go."

Then, he concluded, "when it all comes together, I write, usually very quickly because I've got it all in my head before I put it down. I'll write every day, but I'll never read what I've written until I've finished. Then, I'll read it over once, do it over somewhat, and it's finished."

Father Of Hundreds
 The last Sharifian Emperor of Morocco, Moulay Ismail (1672-1727) known as "the Bloodthirsty," was reputed to have fathered a total of 548 sons and 340 daughters.

Monterey County Favorite Of Wineries

By MARY LESTER
 Copley News Service
 Monterey County, Calif., is where the action takes place each January when Bing Crosby holds his famed Pebble Beach Golf Tournament. This event is 28 years of age, while the planting of top varietal vineyards started a mere dozen years ago about 50 miles southeast of the resort area.

In those early years of the 1960s, the U.S. wine market was beginning to accelerate and prospective wine men started looking for available land suitable in climate and soil for growing the finest varietals. I remember the 1963 pioneer plantings of Paul Masson and Mirassou vineyards, totaling less than 1,000 acres.

Mind-Boggling Total
 By 1974, the mind-boggling amount of 37,000 acres were planted in Monterey—as much vineyard acreage as in Napa and Sonoma counties combined. Eight wineries own vineyards in Monterey; six of them well-known nationally. Almaden, Gold Seal of New York State, Paul Masson, Mirassou, San Martin and Wente Brothers, Chalona Vineyard is one of those very small quality wineries whose products one has to seek out.

The giant of the area is the 9,000-acre vineyard of The Monterey Vineyard, a new name that aims to be nationally recognized in the very near future. Its chances of becoming known are excellent since it is in an association with Foremost, McKesson, and that insures good distribution—an essential in the battle of the wineries to get shelf space.

The Monterey Vineyard will start marketing its new wine in 1975. Dick Peterson, who left Beaulieu after the 1973 crush, is the wine master and president. Dr. Richard (he has a Ph.D. in enology) has always longed to make wine HIS way and that is why many of us old-timers are looking forward to his first at The Monterey Vineyard.

One of my favorite red wines is Paul Masson's Cabernet Sauvignon from their Pinnacles vineyards in Monterey and, after a decade of promising to visit the plant there, I finally made it and was duly impressed with the 1,500 acres in one single piece. It was a 1.2 mile ride from the entrance gate to the end of the stretch of vineyard.

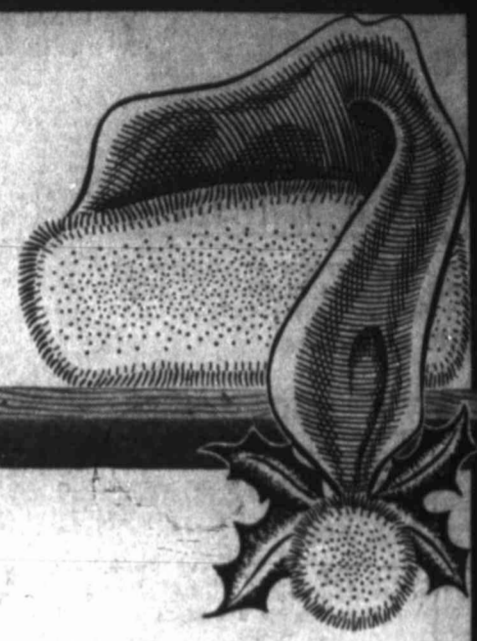

Why is Monterey County a favorite vineyard ground for wineries?

Plenty of Land, Water
 First, there were large parcels of land available; relatively flat land that is good for farming. There are adequate supplies of water and, climatically, the degree days are comparable to other prime varietal grape growing areas in California. Then the added advantages of an area less troubled by unseasonal rain and not getting as much frost over as long a period of time.

So, let it be known the area around Monterey Bay is cold and foggy and great for golf games and growing artichokes but further south it is warmer and, according to those believers who planted 37,000 acres—an enormously exciting new grape growing region.
