Any movement tending to aid the farmer never fails to substantially benefit the merchant.

MAN BURNED IN BROWNWOOD FIRE

LEWIS BOOSTS MARSHALL

SAYS HE IS LOGICAL MAN IS OPPOSED TO BIG COMMITTEE

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 2.—Development of the democratic national committee into a militant, efficient organization with the capacity of the dissemination of facts concerning the "shortcomings" of the present national administration among "average citizens" is in brief to be the policy of Cordell Hunt, new democratic chairman, as outlined today to the Associated Press. Hunt expects to leave today for Washington.

Former United States Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois said today the conflict between the McAdoo and Cox forces over the reorganization of the democratic national committee would make former Vice President Thomas R. Marshall the nominee for president in 1924.

Lewis advocated the abolition of the national committee, and all other party national committees, declaring they are not needed in elections.

MAN'S BURDEN LIFTING.

Now the dispatches are being worded something like this:

"Jake Spizzlefuss, husband of Mrs. Matilda Spizzlefuss, noted politician and committeewoman from Kalamazoo, has been named collector of customs at the port of Get-it-All.

This is the result of the new day and the new freedom for women.

And how convenient it is. President Harding has made it so by the recent appointment of a couple of insignificant husbands of a couple of very significant suffragettes who contributed something to that brutal majority he received last November.

Ultimately friend hubby may sit serenely by the fire-side while the political battle rages on the outside. For is not the wife of his heart out there doing valiant service for the "cause." And is not this assurance enough that after the votes are counted and friend wife's candidate is duly installed, he will be given some place at the public trough in keeping with the social aspirations of friend wife?

The fact he may have been forced to conspire with the maid in caring for the children while the campaign raged will be forgotten in the flush of victory as the newspapers herald the fact that "John Jones, husband of Mrs. Sally Jones, noted G. O. P. politician, will be the next minister to Monte Cristo."

President Harding is entitled to a vote of thanks from those husbands who have always thought the women ought to do the work anyhow.

LET'S WORK TOGETHER.

In a small town in North Carolina, where a tent tabernacle had been destroyed by a storm, the citizens of the town got together and built a wooden tabernacle, with a seating capacity of 1,500, in one day. The structure was used for a meeting the evening of that day. That shows what can be done when all work together.

If the people of Cisco would go to work in this same spirit to build up the inherent prosperity that lies here, the results would be just as remarkable and satisfactory.

We can never get very far by wishing things, nor by dreaming visions. We have got to get down to a working basis and take off our coats. A movement is now on foot to publicize the resources and advantages of this section of Texas. Plans are afoot for the joining together of several cities and towns in a comprehensive campaign of publicity. Such a campaign has its advantages, but it is not on a par with the action taken by the citizens of the small North Carolina town. They got busy themselves — they didn't wait to call in help from neighboring towns.

Cisco can do the same thing. Cisco has many splendid advantages, and there is no time better than the present for Cisco men and women to get together to raise a fund sufficient to give Cisco the publicity that will bring new interests, new people, new vigor here.

The News would like to hear from its readers regarding such a campaign.

REVOKING PAROLES.

The purpose of penal institutions is to punish the crime and reform the criminal.

When that object is attained it is the duty of the pardoning power to release the man or woman upon whom the sentence has been running.

The Daily News knows a man who, according to the verdict of the jury, in a moment of rashness committed a crime against the laws of his state. In due time he arrived at Huntsville and began serving his sentence. Later Gov. W. P. Hobby decided that justice in his case had been satisfied. The man was paroled to the chief of police in a city known to all readers of this newspaper. The chief says the man has not violated any of the terms of his parole. He asserts furthermore that the man has been a model citizen since his release from the penal institution. According to all indications he has reformed, he has set his face toward the rising sun and has been determined to make a good citizen and care for his wife and little children.

But, like a thunderbolt from a clear sky, came the announcement of Gov. Pat M. Neff that this man's parole had been revoked and that he must return to the penitentiary. The paroled man carried the case to the court of criminal appeals and that tribunal has sustained the governor, insofar as his legal right to revoke the parole is concerned. It now appears that the man must return to the penitentiary and do further penance for his crime.

The Daily News, all circumstances considered, can but wonder what course of reasoning caused the governor to revoke this parole.

With one sweep of his pen he has destroyed outright the aspirations of a young man to become a good citizen and repay to society in right living the debt he owes it. With a sweep of the same pen he has plunged a little woman dependent upon this man for support into misery unspeakable. By the same act he has taken the ray of hope from innocent little children who in the months which have elapsed have learned to again love "Daddy" and who will wonder through the long winter nights why he doesn't come home and administer to their wants.

The Daily News understands that the edicts of the law are inexorable. It understands that those who trespass the statutes must pay the penalty, and it would have it so.

But when a man has been paroled for good behavior, when in good faith he has observed the conditions of that parole and has made a good citizen and a faithful husband and father, violating none of its provisions, the governor who then revokes it has made a great mistake.

And, instead of making good citizens, has contributed powerfully toward tearing down the hope that lies in the breast of every condemned man in this state—men who, sooner or later, will again return to the outdoor world.

The governor of Texas is a big man, we think, and he ought to be big enough to admit he is wrong in this case and rescind his action. There are those who assert he had no right in morals to revoke a parole which has never been violated in the remotest sense.

Homeless Men.
(New York Telegraph.)

Homeless men sleeping on park benches may not be handsome objects to look at, but they certainly are doing no mischief. Many of them more than two score of bench sleepers who were arrested by the police had no occupation and quite a number of them never worked in their lives; and it was apparent, from the way they talked, that they never intended to. Be that as it may, we must humor these idlers, these loafers, as long as they harm no one. It is easy enough for a man who was born tired to get along. An hour's hold-up of pedestrians and the whining request for the price of a cup of coffee will enable a man to get enough change to feed him for a day or two. Chronic loafers take no exercise, they toil not and never spin, and require little nourishment. It is not even necessary for them to "keep up their strength," for they never require it. What we are driving at is this: Loafers sleeping or dozing away on park benches are doing no harm; they are where the police can keep their eyes on them. The loafers are not robbing any one; it would require an effort to do that. Then, we say, let them alone. If they can get necessary sleep on a bench, let them have it. Better there than in some side street holding up their more prosperous brother.

Crime Decreasing?
(Waxahatche Light.)

For many months following the conclusion of the world war crime was on the rampage throughout the entire nation with an alarming decrease in the number of convictions which the courts of the land were able to secure. Now it appears that a reaction has set in along with the readjustment process and the country at large seems to be becoming conscious of the fact that society's only safeguard against the crime is the rigid enforcement of the law. The officers and courts are being given better support in their efforts to administer justice to the transgressors. Recently in Texas not less than half a dozen death penalties have been assessed against alleged man-killers who have been a little too handy with a gun. Within the last few days juries at Waco, Sherman, McKinney and Hemphill have assessed death penalties against the defendants in murder cases. This is a helpful and hopeful sign. If a greater number of juries throughout the state would assess similar drastic penalties there is no question but what such action would prove a great deterrent to the commission of crime.

Fanatical Minorities.
(St. Worth Record.)

Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, warned us the other day that fanatical minorities are the chief danger of the republic. There undeniably has been of late years an accelerated tendency of our body politic and society to split into minorities, each one more or less aggressive, defiant, assertive, each one developing as a particularistic unit and becoming militant, generating intention to override other opinions, to inflict its opinion despotically upon all others.

The tendency perhaps has been chiefly exemplified by groups more recently derived from Europe. We have witnessed in this country racial, nationalistic, cultural or religious propaganda. These movements irritate the larger body of Americans. That largest group of our citizens are naturally tolerant and easy-going; it is the principle of their tradition to let everybody talk, think, do as he pleases, it is the political experience of their race that if "the agitator is not agitated," if things are left to run their course, common sense will prevail in the end and a general right adjustment befall.

This political and social philosophy is correct nine times out of ten. But the old American population of the United States, founded by men of their blood, belief, habit of mind and temperament, and presented to the children of the continental stocks of Europe as a privilege and opportunity—that true American group has been baited, rallied at, its traditions disparaged, its convictions questioned, its culture challenged by this occasionally foreign propaganda and that essentially alien treason to the ideals and the methods of America.

Easy-going as old Americans are, they can be provoked into resistance, and into self-assertion, into retaliation even. They who fancy otherwise play with fire. They little realize the spirit they may evoke. They do not understand that, slow as the Americans are to arouse, once aroused Americans cannot be stopped. And after all the United States is still American and can be trusted to remain so, even if forceful assertion of the fact becomes imperative.

There is only one thing to do, and that is for us all to get together as Americans. It behooves us to do that in all counts, and if we do not, what have we ahead of us but discord at home and weakness abroad? It is the implied contract of everyone coming here, as well as of everyone born here, to respect the traditions of the land and not to seek to substitute the European ones.

The purpose to do so is futile. There is no other tradition strong enough to oust the American one. But others can make discord. And if persisted in, they are bound to arouse a counter attack which, when it gets under way will be irresistible, because it is truly American and national.

Let us all be American. There is no other way.

Politics Boiled Down.
(Toledo Blade.)

Lloyd George, it is said, is on top again, and nothing can dislodge him. There will be no general election in Britain. There will be no new government with the Welshman left out. The news might have been anticipated months ago, even when the predictions were commonest that the British premier was about to go into eclipse. For Lloyd George is politics boiled down, concentrated, mobilized, just as Napoleon was military genius 89 per cent proof. These are the finer days of world politics and the fittest for the purpose alone survive.

"Bikes" Coming Back.
(Indianapolis News.)

Returning popularity of the bicycle is remarked throughout the country, and with the resumption of bicycle riding has come a change in models. The newer bicycles differ almost as much from those of twenty years ago as the "safety" differ from the high wheel type. With the invention of the safety came bicycle racing and this sport influenced the designing of models for ordinary use. Bicycles were made much lighter and he was proudest who owned the lightest wheel. Ramshorn handle bars, which caused the rider to lean far over, were popular. Perhaps it was the early taste for speed that caused riders to make use of every smooth piece of highway for "scorching." Even in those days there was much complaint about the riders who endangered pedestrians. The ordinary bicycle was stripped down to the lowest weight, about twenty-three or twenty five pounds. The motor car came and bicycles began to disappear. The sight of a woman on a bicycle became unusual. Recently several new bicycle tracks have been built in the east and racing is a weekly feature. For a time the old six-day grind was about the only event that survived. In the newer bicycle raised handle bars are usual. Coaster brakes have made control easier. Bicycle dealers report a gradual increase in sales. People who once rode and then gave it up are going back to the bicycle both as a means of pleasure and of healthful exercise.

Bragging Americans.
(Farm and Ranch.)

An indorsement by friends and acquaintances is desirable. It is a compliment to have them say that your word is as good as your bond; that you are square and above board in all your dealings, and that you are 100 per cent American. But what about the fellow who goes around claiming all of these qualifications for himself? Does an honest man find it necessary to continually brag about being 100 per cent American make it so? The man who deals honestly and squarely with his fellow-men; who loves his home and family; who is generous; who exercises his sovereign right of franchise; who upholds the law—isn't he 100 per cent American? He is, and he does not have to parade that fact through the public prints or make a public nuisance of himself by bragging about it. During four long years of conflict an attempt was made to tear down and destroy our civilization. Patriots—100 per cent Americans—stood to the defense of home and country. Millions of others remained at home and just as generously, just as honestly and with an equal spirit of patriotism performed valiant service in preserving the right of self-government. Today with much of the wreckage in the United States that is to be removed, the United States and the world require 100 per cent patriots—real men and women who believe in the constitution and bill of rights and who will come out in the open bathed in God's sunlight and fight for the preservation of the right of trial by jury and for the protection of individuals and the home. Let our Americanism be known through our mode of living, through service in sustaining and upholding the law and not through word of mouth. Let our neighbors proclaim our honesty and our patriotism instead of doing it ourselves. An honest man and a 100 per cent American does not have to wear a brand or a tag to identify himself as such.

Job Printing and Advertising.
(Rising Star X-Ray.)

Publicity is the only thing a newspaper has for sale. We pay the preacher to give publicity to the Gospel; we pay teachers to give publicity to knowledge; we pay commercial secretaries to give publicity to towns; and merchants pay newspapers to give publicity to their goods. Every line in a newspaper is an expense, whether it be a paid ad or a news item. No charge is made for news items, but sometimes the expense of gathering them and putting them in print is more than can be met with the funds received from the sale of publicity to business men. The home paper should be the pride of the town as it is the agency that shows to the world what the town is whether it is progressive or non-progressive. Every citizen should be anxious that the paper show up well. All can help greatly by giving news and save the paper the expense of a reporter; and all who have things to sell can help themselves and the paper by using the paper as a means of publicity.

Hydrolyzed Sawdust.

Hydrolyzed sawdust as cow feed may be good while it lasts, but the discovery of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin that cows thrive upon it is of less interest than it would be if the forests of America were not vanishing and sawdust going down in volume while forest products go up in cost, despite a temporary recession of lumber prices incident to the situation now existing. The discovery that cotton seed makes good cow feed was important because cotton is produced annually and always will be produced. Cotton is a crop. Timber has been treated as a natural resource, like coal. If there is a means of making coal a crop it has means of treating timber as a crop has not caused that policy to be adopted in America upon a scale sufficient to put the supply of sawdust upon a basis of permanency in a country whose dairy herds must increase if the increasing population is not to be forced to turn to substitutes for cow products quite as disappointing as a drink of Alaskan boochino, is to one who has been accustomed to Kentucky whisky or French wines. It is probable that hydrolyzed sawdust, served with an abundance of rich cream and plenty of sugar, might be as palatable as any of the prepared breakfast foods, and as full of vitamins as the cake of yeast the health crank eats nowadays, or the plate of greens and the hockeak which make an ambrosial feast for the rural American. But with the cows consuming sawdust and with the breakfast food manufacturers selling countless tons of sawdust to delighted consumers who must have cream with which to wash it down, and with the woodman in the forest sparing not one tree, we shall succeed no further than in pampering the dairy herds for a short time upon a diet of sawdust and getting the breakfast food addicts used to it when sawdust will become worth $4 a bushel.

Momentous Gathering.
(Cleburne Enterprise.)

Perhaps the most momentous gathering in the history of the world is coming soon, when the nations of the earth get together in a peace conference. If some plan can be arranged whereby a disarmament agreement can safely be made, pilgrims of the earth may be able to rest more safely. May the dread menace of war be lessened, we should all earnestly pray. The Enterprise has seen it stated that as many as 17,000,000 people lost their lives in the great world war. Besides this billions of dollars worth of property was destroyed, and the world is full of miserable helpless cripples and hungry paupers as a result of the work of this cruel monster.

TRAVIS COUNTY GRAND JURY SEVERELY ARRAYS KU KLUX KLAN IN REPORT TO JUDGE

AUSTIN, Nov. 2.—Words were not minced in the report filed by the Travis county grand jury which investigated the Ku Klux Klan upon special charge given by District Judge James R. Hamilton. The Klan is condemned from a legal standpoint and otherwise even though it may claim to have the best intentions.

The grand jury report as made public by Judge Hamilton and signed by Guy A. Collett as foreman is in part as follows:

"In an effort to convey with the clarity of this honorable court, your grand jury has made a study of the operations of the Ku Klux Klan, a militant organization composed of a carefully selected citizenship in an epilepsy of reform.

Their debut into public notice was through the medium of an orderly masked parade, viewed by the largest audience Austin has ever furnished for any local enterprise.

The press had heralded the event and it but slightly smacked of exaggeration to say the whole city turned out to view the curious spectacle of about 500 native-born Americans, disguised in their silent march along our principal streets, exhibiting placards on which the temper and determination of the marchers were expressed in no uncertain terms. The strength of the organization startled the average citizen and spread terror into the hearts of evildoers whose conduct came within the list of offenses shown upon the placards displayed to threaten and to warn.

Notices Are Sent. "Soon persons, whose conduct good citizens would of one accord condemn, began to receive threats by mail under the seal of the organization, and in two instances these threats were executed by personal violence, and, on one occasion, the victim was stripped to the waist and received a coat of tar and feathers, the broadly accepted decorations of disgrace.

"Mistakes may have been made in the personnel marked for treatment by the Klan, but the cunning shown, in the main, in their judgment of bad character, tempered the public's attitude to unlawful treatment charged and determined aggression.

"The effect has been to drive from our midst some characters any city can well afford to lose, but with a nationwide consideration of the problem, do we permanently profit by the plan, when other cities like ours drive out their undesirable, who find refuge in our midst? For the sake of a more selfish example of the effect, let us suppose that we drive out all our undesirables and in our orderly, law-abiding city there exists no invitation for the criminal class of other cities to come in lieu of those we lost, have we done our holy work and well, by dumping the pollution of our community in the alley of our neighbor?

Making a Reservation. "If some area could be condemned where all the victims of the Klan could be housed, and then this man-made hell regulated by militant methods severer than the Klan's, the world would experience only an enlargement of the penitentiary system now in vogue, whose inmates were denied the constitutional right of public trial by a jury. The Klan's process of community purification by elimination is afforded ideal conditions in the foregoing suggestion, but such a dream must of necessity be started to a sad awakening because it is founded on illegal practice and this government is too firm for even the best intentions wrought out in an unlawful way to long succeed. And now we reach the point where constitutional government suffers its most vulnerable criticism in procedure. We intend to make the enforcement of the law—which is the spark the organization contends grows into the flaming torch of klansmanship.

"In the long list of names submitting to the court in a secret report no one acquainted with our citizenship could fail to find many who would not through design break or defy our laws, but who would or have subjected themselves to the hazards of war that this nation might endure. The names transmitted to the court were part of a secret report because of the gravity of its data.

Some Arguments. "Three persons in our county have been whipped and one subject tarred and feathered. Numerous persons who have been in the hands of law on former occasions, some of them chronic offenders, have received threats and warnings from the Klan. Some are fearless, others badly frightened, but all are on the defensive and like mad rattlers will strike at anything in reach, in the hope of retaliation. Some are even vicious enough to hope to get the names of members that they may pay with their lives, if punishment is ever meted to the recipient of a notice, and it is not the function of a grand jury to foster assassination; especially would it be unfair to publish the list, when by a rigid application of the rules of law, our list may have a name which can not be proven as belonging to the Klan and perhaps this very man will be the one to fall.

"Such possibilities any one can readily see can be expected to change our armed for self-protection and the preservation of ideas and property rights and when such a percentage of otherwise ordinary citizenship, through excitement or through misdirected zeal, announce the principle, 'To hell with law, I'll be a law unto myself,' it is time for those of sober judgment to seek a remedy for the cause.

Law Is Suggested. "Those who are empowered to prescribe for this ill condition of our time might apply the simple remedy of a law that every society, organization, clique or Klan whose entire procedure is not open to public review should file with its respective county clerk the names and addresses of every officer and member of the organization or society and have it corrected and augmented by names of new converts or members as often as once a year. This idea put in legal form with proper punishment for violation would do a wondrous work, for it would stop the epidemic of reform which adopts methods in defiance of our laws and is so hard of detection because of the concealed identity of its reformers.

"Your grand jury has made a serious effort to carry out the instructions of this honorable court and the secret report can speak for itself as to the value of our labor."

ARMS PARLEY MAY BE PICKETED BY WOMAN CLAN

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Picketing of the president's armament conference by an army of women became a possibility with the announcement of the Woman's Peace society, a national organization, that it would use suffrage tactics to put through its program for complete disarmament.

A great parade of women, planned to be the highest peace demonstration ever held in this country, will precede the organization's activities in Washington.

Thousands of women, headed by Mrs. Henry Villard, daughter of William Lloyd Garrison; Zola Gale, the author, and others of national fame, will march through the streets of New York as the momentous conference opens in Washington.

Later an army of prominent women will descend on Washington to await developments.

"And if we see that nothing is likely to come of the conference, we shall stage a demonstration to emphasize our demands. We may picket; we may do many things," said Miss Elinor Byrnes, vice-chairman of the Woman's Peace society. "We intend to make the gentlemen in the conference understand in an emphatic manner that the women want war ended and will not be satisfied with mere talk.

"We stand for complete disarmament and our program will be suffrage tactics."

ARTIFICIAL GAS MANUFACTURERS TO DISCUSS PROBLEMS

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Problems before the growing artificial gas industry will be discussed at the annual convention of the American Gas association November 7 to 12. Delegates representing more than 4,000,000,000 worth of properties, according to officials, are expected.

Among the questions coming up, it is stated, are the industry's ability to raise a billion dollars in new capital in the next three years for additional plants and equipment, conservation of the nation's coal and oil resources, the oil situation, demand for abatement of the smoke nuisance in cities, and proper rate and service standards.

Charles A. Monroe of Chicago is president of the association. Among others who will speak are George B. Cartogou, president of the Consolidated Gas Co. of New York, and Samuel Insull, president of the People's Gas, Light and Coke Co., Chicago.

FOCH TO DEDICATE MEMORIAL HOUSE FOR LEGION GOYS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 2.—Dedication of the Indiana War Memorial building, which is to be permanent national headquarters of the American Legion, will be the most notable feature of the visit of Marshal Foch to Indianapolis November 4.

Indiana's leading military bands will participate in a great parade in honor of Marshal Foch.

Purdue University's noted musical organization of 150 pieces has been designated to march at the head of the parade.

So that the big Purdue drum, the largest in the world, may be in the parade, a truck will be provided to haul it from Lafayette to Indianapolis and return. This drum is 12 feet in diameter.

IF HUSBAND LIVES AT CLUB WOMAN LOSES VOTING RIGHT

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—A woman whose husband establishes his legal residence at a club loses the right to vote in this state. Her only recourse under existing laws, it was brought out recently, would be to go home and live with him.

Appearing before the secretary of state and attorney-general seeking repeal of a law requiring that women voters must be registered from the same address as their husbands, a delegation of women asserted that several of their sex had been refused the ballot because the legal residence of their husbands was at Boston clubs.

Other cases cited included that of a Brookline woman who did not know the whereabouts of her husband and was refused registration, and that of a woman in Sharon who said that she was legally separated from her husband but had been given to understand that she was "not divorced enough" to maintain a separate residence and so could not vote.

PRIZE DOG TOWN.

DENISON, Nov. 2.—Denison apparently is a prize cat and dog town. After Vernon Verillion, a large red male cat, owned by Mrs. J. M. Dean of Denison, was crowned king of the felines at the Texas state fair in Dallas, the cocker spaniel of H. Y. Parrot won first honors in the canine class.

McLUCKIE WAS UNLUCKY WHEN PICKING WIFE

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Although, according to the court, Mrs. Elizabeth McLuckie seemed "an impossible woman to live with," she was granted a separation allowance of $20 a week by a Mount Vernon, N. Y., supreme court justice. Her husband, John McLuckie, is a Scotchman and a New York school teacher. He defended the suit and said that since their marriage in 1910 he had been dodging china and glass-ware daily. He stated on the witness stand that his wife had acquired skill in marksmanship "amazing in a woman," but that as her skill in finding the range increased so did his ability to dodge her missiles increase until he became a proficient and artful dodger.

On one occasion, McLuckie testified, his wife asked him for money. He gave her $2, all he had. After concealing it on her person, McLuckie said she threw at his head every article in her toilet set, a wedding present from him, which contained 18 pieces. He managed to dodge them all but one. His failure to dodge that one was due to the fact that he slipped on a rug.

When asked by the court if he was afraid of his wife, McLuckie, who is Scotch, replied: "I'm no afraid of her when I'm awake, but I'm no able to watch her when I'm sleeping. I set the bureau to the door so I might close an eye."

VETERANS OPEN OFFICE.

Cosig of Chicago, quartermaster general; Joseph Gallagher of Erie, Pa., chief of staff; W. D. Tucker of Canton, O., national historian, and Fred E. MEASURE PASSES IMMEDIATELY WHEN BLANTON OBJECTS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Objection from Representative Blanton to unanimous consent for the consideration of a bill offered by Representative Hudesteth of Texas, transferring Pecos county from the jurisdiction of Del Rio to the El Paso division of the United States district court for the western district of Texas, resulted in the immediate passage of that measure under suspension of the rules. The bill, designed to relieve lawyers of Fort Stockton and that section from the necessity of making a trip of 200 miles or more and permitting them to return processes at Pecos City instead of Del Rio, was deemed of little moment and had received no attention from the Republicans until Blanton interposed his objection. Then a dozen Republicans championed the cause of the astonished congressman from the El Paso district, and when they ascertained that the bill did not effect or touch Blanton's district, Floor Leader Mondell suggested that they do with the advisories of a typical American family, the mother of which is called upon to bear the brunt of all the shortcomings of her little flock. The principal characters, aside from the mother, are a lazy father and six lively kids—one of whom is destined to figure as the black sheep. As the story unfolds, the youngsters are seen growing to manhood and womanhood, and eventually leaving the homestead to set out into the world for themselves.

AMUSEMENTS.

Broadway.
"Over the Hill," the William Fox picture of Will Carleton's "Farm Hobbies," which has broken the best record of any screen attraction that ever visited Broadway, playing there a solid year in six different theaters, will be seen at the Broadway.

The story of "Over the Hill" was adapted from Carleton's poems by Paul H. Sloane, who is said to have written a screen story that defies criticism in this form of entertainment. The story has to do with the adventures of a typical American family, the mother of which is called upon to bear the brunt of all the shortcomings of her little flock. The principal characters, aside from the mother, are a lazy father and six lively kids—one of whom is destined to figure as the black sheep. As the story unfolds, the youngsters are seen growing to manhood and womanhood, and eventually leaving the homestead to set out into the world for themselves.

The usual procedure in showing a big moving picture production is to first show it in the larger towns, like Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston, and then show it in the smaller cities. However, in the case of the showing of "Over the Hill," which opens at the Broadway theater tomorrow, the case has been reversed, and the public of this city will have the advantage of seeing this picture before it is shown in the larger cities.

William Fox, who presents this picture to the thronging public of the United States, places so much stress upon the premier Cisco showing that he has sent his personal press representative direct from New York to this city. James B. Kelly, who, by the way, is a well-known short story writer. Mr. Kelly arrived in Cisco this morning and will remain over for the opening tomorrow.

Special Pre-Showing of "Over the Hill."
On account of the tremendous magnitude of the production, "Over the Hill," which opens at the Broadway theater tomorrow, William Fox, the producer, has communicated with his press representative, James B. Kelly, who is at present in Cisco, to present this production tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in a special showing to the press, mayors, city commissioners, clergy and other dignitaries, and an invitation has been extended to them by Mr. Kelly.

WE ARE HERE TO PLEASE THE PUBLIC.

Elks Dance.

The first dance of the season was given by the Elks Tuesday evening in the labor temple. It was a costume affair and a grand affair, and clowns, rhapsies, yamps, tramps and Spanish dancers added a brilliance and gaiety that only a costume dance can give. At eleven o'clock the guests unmasked, the identities revealed causing much merriment. Miss Gladys Hughes, dressed as Pierrot, was awarded the prize, a box of candy, for the young lady wearing the most attractive costume. S. N. Goldman, dressed as a negro, was given a box of cigars for having the best costume of the men. Exceptionally fine music was furnished by an out-of-town orchestra. Punch was served throughout the evening. Over 75 couples were present, many from out of the city.

Holds Open Session.

The Women's Missionary society of the First Christian church held a very interesting and profitable open session last Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. W. J. Armstrong, on West Ninth street. This meeting was held in honor of the associate members. Mrs. John Elkins, the efficient president, presided. Following the opening hymn, and prayer, Mrs. H. Floyd gave the Bible study, taken from John 6:4-15. This was followed by a prayer by E. B. Isaac. Mrs. J. B. Gatz then gave a very interesting talk on missionary work in India, illustrating her lecture with pictures taken by the missionaries on the field. The president then conducted a round-table discussion on a series of questions touching on all phases of the work being done by the society. The closing address was given by Mrs. Alfred Iry on "The Purpose and Work of the Woman's Missionary Society." This was a splendid presentation of the work of the women in all lands. Special numbers were a piano solo by Mrs. E. B. Isaac, violin and piano duo by Mrs. W. C. Patterson and Mrs. E. G. Hart, and a much appreciated play, "Ruth's Donation Party," by the Junior Christian Endeavorers. Pumpkins and coffee were served. The meeting was one of the best held during the year. A number of new members were received.

Spook Party.

Oma Lee Spoon entertained Monday evening with a Halloween party. Twenty little girl friends came dressed in sheets and caps and wearing masks. A number of grown-up spooks accompanied them. After a parade, they returned to the home and were invited into the spook room, which was lighted with pumpkins and decorated with Halloween symbols. Bobbing for apples proved the most amusing feature. Oma Lee Spoon received first prize, and Flossie Cogburn second. Mrs. Spoon, assisted by Miss Leig Lanham and Mrs. F. H. Petty, served soda, pop, cake, orange and apples. These present were: Nym and Wilma Burman, LaVerne and Wilma Scarlett, Velma and Cecil Everetts, Opal and Iris Pelfrey, Flossie Cogburn, Dorothy Abbott, Cluma Brubaker, Ann Gates Moore, Lucille Nichols, Louise Petty, J. Richardson and Lorene Laney were received.
