IRISH CONFERENCE ABOUT TO BLOW UP

T. & P. RAIL ROAD POSTS NOTICE OF SALARY CUTS

RESUMPTION OF FIGHTING THREATENED

ALL CLASSES OF EMPLOYEES ARE AFFECTED

DALLAS, Nov. 30.—Notice of a reduction in the salaries of all officers and subordinate officials and employes, effective on January 1, 1922, was posted here today by the federal receivers for the Texas & Pacific railroad, acting under the authority of United States District Judge Rufus Foster. Meetings with all classes of workmen's representatives on the road will be called immediately to draw up working agreements. The notice stated that this action is taken in order to lower transportation charges, as demanded by the public.

MULTITUDES ASSEMBLE TO SEE NOTABLES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Ordinarily, if not even "hard-boiled" in its attitude toward "big folks," Washington is taking a keen delight in watching the leading figures at the arms conference. This is especially so on preliminary sessions days when a multitude invariably assembles outside of Continental hall. A mere glimpse of Sir Arthur Balfour, Admiral Baron Kato and others among the notables attending the conference is about all the crowd gets, but that seems to satisfy them. There seems to be just about as much novelty to them in seeing the American delegates. Often the delegates depart the crowd by leaving the hall aloof through an entrance where the crowds are thin.

LOWER ICE PRICES PREDICTED. TEMPLE, Texas, Nov. 30.—Unless an unexpected change in present conditions occurs there is a prospect of relief to consumers from the high prices for ice that have prevailed for the past four years. J. C. Mitchell, secretary of the Southwestern Ice Manufacturing association, just returned from the annual convention at El Paso, is authority for the statement. Lower fuel prices, it is induced members of the organization to agree to pass on some of the profits to the public. The change is expected to occur after Jan. 1, 1922, but the extent of the proposed reduction has not been made public.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO BE EXAMINED

The physical examination of the school children of Cisco under the direction of the Red Cross Public Health service in co-operation with local physicians and dentists will begin at the west ward tomorrow morning, according to an announcement this morning from Mrs. Phillip Pettit, the executive secretary of the county. Mrs. George W. Wilburn, a public health nurse of several years' experience, who comes here from Fort Worth has been assigned to this work in Eastland county by the Red Cross. The school children at Ranger and Rising Star have already been examined. The results of these physical examinations are made a matter of record, a copy being kept by the Red Cross and a copy sent to the parents of the children. The children are weighed, measured and examined thoroughly. If defects are found, notations of these are made on the record and recommendations suggested for their remedy. In the examinations at Rising Star Mrs. Wilburn was surprised to find so few children under weight. Improper nourishment is apparent in the weight of children, and it is seldom that the children of any school are examined where a number are not under weight. The showing made at Rising Star, Mrs. Wilburn says, indicates that the children of that place as a whole are well-nourished. Mrs. Wilburn received splendid co-operation in the work at Rising Star from the physicians, dentists, teachers and parents of the children. She has found the local physicians, dentists and teachers ready to accord her hearty co-operation here.

FINDS HOW GIRLS OF THE CABARET CAN DRINK MUCH

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 30.—Patrons of Juarez cabarets wondered for a long time how girls could drink so much and keep sober all the time. One El Paso man determined to find out and he did. He went to the cabaret after the entertainment got well under way and picked out a small girl to dance and drink with, who already had a good start in drinking that evening. The man ordered beer, always the girl ordered gin and tonics. The man thought surely that the girl would become intoxicated, but she didn't. Then he began to investigate. He found that when a cabaret girl orders gin and tonics or any other sort of mixed drink, the waiter is "wise" and brings her straight gin and ale or soda water that is not "spiked." He found this out by taking a few glasses away from his companion and trying them. Then she explained that the girls had an agreement with the proprietor. The girls were to order expensive drinks and be given a light, cheap one, unbeknowning to the buyer. The girls got checks for the difference between a high priced drink and a low priced one and cash in the checks after the place closes.

Their only guard is a plain clothes policeman who accompanies them and keeps the beggars from bothering the former royal pair.

PROHIBITION IS MAKING PROGRESS IN EUROPE NOW

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—More progress is being made along prohibition lines in Europe and other parts of the world than is generally realized, Dr. Charles Scanlon of Pittsburgh, secretary of the Presbyterian board of temperance and moral welfare, reported here last night to a world prohibition meeting. Last night's conference was called by the prohibition party for consideration of the work of the World Prohibition federation, of which Dr. Scanlon is international treasurer and president of its American branch. He has recently returned from Europe. "Not only are the nations watching America, but they are organizing themselves into study groups of one kind or another to investigate the nature and effects of alcoholic beverages from many points of view as never before," Dr. Scanlon said. "Science, industry, commerce, law, religion, business, philanthropy and sociology are all making investigations, gathering data and comparing judgments to reach a conclusive decision as speedily as possible. "If a drunken man cannot successfully compete with a sober man of equal talent, there is a suspicion that a drunken nation cannot compete with a sober nation."

"We must not fail to demonstrate," Dr. Scanlon added, "that the sufficient and only solution of the liquor problem where prohibition has been enacted is to place men in authority who have the courage and the inclination and the ability to do what they are paid and sworn to do. Given men of this kind and a thoroughly sound law and a healthy public sentiment, prohibition and every other law will be a success. "Misrepresentation, fiction and deliberate falsehood must not be allowed to deceive or mislead our European friends who are being guided largely by our experience."

WOUNDED EX-SOLDIERS.

A zealous friend of the wounded soldiers in a certain district where a government hospital is located wrote to one of the newspapers in her community that only nineteen veterans had ever been placed in the hospital for treatment. She otherwise challenged the activities for the benefit of wounded men. A disabled soldier under treatment in the hospital saw her criticism and answered it as follows:

"I have been a patient in the hospital in question for over a year and have known hundreds in that time who have come from this state and neighboring states to receive surgical and medical attention. All of these men to my mind have been given the best treatment, and upon completion of treatment, a thorough physical examination on which their claims or compensation are based:

"Such statements as Miss Blank's tend to discourage the wartaxed public in their honest inclination to do justice to the ex-service men. For that reason I am writing, so they may know the heavy taxes they are paying are being expended in such a way that the veteran with a legitimate claim is benefitted."

This particular hospital may be an oasis in a desert of neglect, and rehabilitation of the wounded ex-soldier may be far from what it should be, but here is incontrovertible evidence that sometimes, at least, statements as to actual conditions are overdrawn.

OTHER EDITORS

Status of Oil.

(National Oil Journal.)
Oil came down and took the readjustment with all other industries. It reached the bottom and two months ago began ascending. So far the increase has been 125 per cent, which is most remarkable and proves our early contention that the time to buy oil securities is when the greatest amount of oil is offered. Today the majority of the oil security propositions are far better and bigger than they have ever been in the history of oil in the southwest. Operators realize that they must get together for organizers, but these are few, and down to date we do not believe that one of these propositions has slipped its advertising into the columns of the National Oil Journal. They never will, either, if the makers of this publication can prevent. A few days ago the Wall Street Journal carried a squib in its columns to the effect that the public lost $50,000,000 last year in fraudulent movie stock promotions. Even though this tremendous amount be cut five ways, the loss in this one promotion will go far in excess of the loss sustained to investors through oil promotions. However, such losses do not indicate that either business is bad; it simply means that crooks have crept in and that "suckers" have fallen for their bunk. There are many, many good promotions organizing in the Texas and Arkansas fields which have an honest and honorable foundation. Securities of these companies should be sought out before investment is made.

Ford and History

(Louisville Courier-Journal.)
"History is bunk," says Henry Ford. "A fable when agreed upon," said Napoleon, when asked to define history. "History is past politics; politics is present history," said Hume, the English historian. Politics, it is generally agreed, is "bunk" nowadays. If politics is "bunk," it logically follows that history, which Hume says is politics, also is "bunk." Fables are admittedly bunk. Therefore, it follows that history, which Napoleon says is "a fable agreed upon," is also bunk. Three high authorities lift up their heads in agreement that history is at least not all that a perfect lady should be. The New York Times should cease twitting Henry Ford for saying that history is bunk. Henry seems to be in fairly respectable company.

Rainbow Chasing.

(Sarasvatore Times.)
Old timers who headed the Klondike gold rush in 1896 held a reunion in Dawson, city of the Far-North Canadian Yukon. They celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the first rich strike of Klondike on Bonanza creek. There was adventure for you—the only really big gold strike since the forty-niners went overland in prairie schooners to California. Thousands perished in the Yukon snows, seeking gold. Yet the greatest amount of the yellow metal ever taken out of the Klondike in a single year was $22,000,000. In 1900, Klondike took more in human life than it gave in wealth. Generally it's that way with rainbow chasing. It costs more than it's worth.

Water Means Much.

(Arkansas Gazette.)
The people of Tulsa are now giving their earnest attention to a movement for a new and permanent water supply for that young city of remarkable growth. It is proposed to build a 55-foot dam on Spavinaw creek and to provide a 55-mile conduit, which will bring water by gravity to a point about five miles from Tulsa, where it will be lifted by pumps 200 feet to a high pressure distributing reservoir. At the reservoir the water will be aerated and treated with chlorine, after which it will flow by gravity into the mains. The total cost of the new system will be $6,800,000. On October 24 the report of the engineers was submitted to a non-partisan water board and on the following day it was laid before a more meeting of citizens. On November 10th a public hearing will be held to determine what bonds shall be issued and if approval is given work on the project will be begun immediately. Spavinaw vinaw creek is said to be the only permanent source of water supply for Tulsa. The new system will mean the spending of nearly $7,000,000, but good water in abundant quantity will be a priceless benefit for the Tulsa of today and the Tulsa of tomorrow.

Public Enemies.

(New York Telegraph.)
In the early days of the republic statesmen and pamphleteers were fond of discussing grave questions of policy anonymously, using a pen name usually of classical, but sometimes of modern terminology. Even the Federalist is of anonymous origin, although the entire world knows today that Hamilton and Madison and Jay furnished the material. A pen name made famous more than a hundred years ago was "Amercus." "Amercus" has been adopted by a contemporary writer who does not care to confess his identity, and who is making a vicious attack upon the conference now in session at Washington—a conference that has the moral support of more than 90 per cent of the American people. This latter day "Amercus" differs from his namesake's original forerunner in that the earlier writer was inspired by patriotism and an ardent hope that the young republic would prove a successful experiment in government. Our contemporary is apparently inspired by hatred of England, which is bad enough, or by fear of Japan, which is worse. Neither hate nor cowardice should figure in American diplomacy. The people of this old world are fed up on war, and the publicist who does not realize this is laying up a goodly store of trouble for himself. The conference is no guarantee against war; neither will war be made impossible, no matter what it does. But the object is to lessen the likelihood of armed conflict between nations. The individual who tries to block this purpose is a public enemy.

Dr. Chung-Hui Wang.

Dr. Chung-Hui Wang, Chinese delegate at the arms conference, is chief justice of the supreme court at Peking. Though a graduate of Yale law school, Judge Wang is not well known to Americans. He comes of a good Chinese family and was a prodigy at Yale. Chinese in the delegation who accompany him to this country say that when his professors at Yale went through his examination papers they wanted to mark him with a 5, and since the rule fixed a limit of 5 for any student it was suggested that the other students be marked down a point lower.

Dr. Wang was born in 1882. During the Boxer rebellion he went to Japan to study political science, and came from there to the United States, where he received the degree of doctor of civil law from Yale law school in 1904. He translated the German civil code into English and his work is considered the best translation of it that has ever been rendered. He traveled in Europe, studying jurisprudence and international law in England, France and Germany. His diplomatic career began in 1907, as assistant to the Chinese representative to the second Hague conference. In 1912 he was appointed first minister of justice of the newly formed republican government at Peking, but in the same year he resigned and engaged in editorial work. In 1916 he was appointed president of the law codification commission of China. He served as delegate to the second assembly of the league of nations and has been characterized as "one of the most promising intellectual leaders of the new era in China."

Transportation Taxes.

(Houston Post.)
If the transportation taxes are repealed next year, as is provided in the new tax bill pending in congress, it is said $250,000,000 or more will be saved to the patrons of the railroads. This will be a welcome change to the shippers and passengers who have been paying a 3 per cent tax on freight shipments and an 8 and 10 per cent tax on passenger and Pullman tickets. It will be appreciated particularly by the travelers of small means, to whom the tax sometimes is really burdensome. The railroads themselves, however, are likely to be the chief beneficiaries of the elimination of the tax through the increased business that will be stimulated by the lower transportation charges. The curtailment of passenger traffic has been marked since the higher rates went into effect and taxes were piled on to the price of the ticket. The Pullman service has reflected the hospitality of the public to the higher charges in no uncertain way. The freight movement likewise has been seriously hampered, and industry has been restrained. Without exaggeration it may be said that the combined increases in rates and the taxes have been strong factors in keeping the country in its depressed financial state. Reduction of railroad rates is inevitable. Cuts are being made here and there and general deflation is near. The combined saving on rates and taxes should encourage traffic so extensively that the roads will resume activity nearer to their capacity, and be able again to rely on the quantity of business for profits. The government will lose some revenue through the repeal of the transportation taxes, but the improved economic situation to which the repeal will contribute, will enable it to make up the loss from other sources with greater ease.

MENNONITES TO LEAVE CANADA FOR NEW HOME

SASKATOON, Sask., Nov. 30.—The much-heralded exodus of old colony church Mennonites from western Canada to northern Mexico is to become a reality, for arrangements have been completed whereby an advance party of 1000 will leave the Hague district in the near future to do pioneer work on their new holdings. There are about 30 different sects of Mennonites, and this is a distinct movement from that proposed by one section of Mennonites who have purchased land in South America. An official statement, signed by Bishop Wall, of the Hague district, declares: "Our only objection (to staying in Canada) lies in the fact that the concession granted and ratified by the federal government giving us entire right to conduct our schools 'without molestation or restriction' has now been repudiated." The original charter granted by the government was signed in 1873.

The transfer of property from the Mennonites to a Winnipeg land company is near completion and under the terms of the agreement all land must be vacated by Dec. 1, 1922. The holdings of the Mennonites in the Hague district comprise 85,000 acres.

This deal is also entirely independent of the Mennonite colonies of Swift Current and Manitoba, although these people have already contracted for the purchase of blocks of land in northern Mexico. When the trek of old colony church sect has been completed a total of 11,000 of these people will have left Canada for Mexico. Another 11,000 will be affected by the move to South America, but, it was pointed out, they are not members of the old colony church.

It is estimated that the old colony church members leaving the west will take with them a total of some $14,000,000 in cash, or about $15,000 net cash per family on the average.

SAYS WOMEN ARE BRINGING NEW QUALITIES INTO CITIZENSHIP

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—American government has had added to it a voter who believes in a "stitch in time," Mrs. Maud Wood Park of Washington, D. C., president of the National League of Women Voters, declared here at the annual banquet of the Illinois league. "Mrs. Park told of some of the other peculiarities of the great mass of America's new voters. Pointing them out as special qualities that the women bring to their civic responsibilities, Mrs. Park said: "The habit of continuous industry, the ability to do things over and over again—this is first. This comes from the ordinary experiences of women in home-making and in the care of children. Household duties must be done over and over again, day after day. Women who have the care and training of children know that they cannot be made wise or well-behaved at once; it requires line upon line, precept upon precept. "Men, on the other hand, want to achieve some great and glorious thing and then stop off to take a rest. This is why we so often see wonderful outbursts of civic reforming, which flare up and fizzle out because the chief workers have not the habit of 'keeping at it' which women have learned from the routine of repetition which has thus far formed a large part of their working lives." Next, Mrs. Park said, women generally are more given to consider the human side of public questions than are men. "Because they have had the care of the dependent so largely in their hands—the children, the old, the sick, the defective—they have learned a kind of sympathy that most men do not readily feel," she said. "Then, women put more emphasis upon the moral aspect of questions. They have had to teach children that right is right and wrong is wrong. They have not been taught to compromise or to evade moral issues because they have not had the same temptations to do so that men have had in the world of business competition. "There is another special quality of women which I believe is going to be of service," Mrs. Park added, "and that is their willingness to work hard for something that does not mean personal gain or business advantage or local or sectional benefit. I hope and believe women will turn to account for the government that tendency to work for somebody else quite as vigorously as they could possibly do for themselves. "Women know the importance of the 'stitch in time.' They realize the economy of preventive measures. They are keenly alive to the importance of adequate training—moral, mental and moral—for the citizens of the future. And all these qualities will have a direct bearing upon the attitude which women take toward their political duties."

NEW WORKING RULES EFFECTIVE TOMORROW ARE ESTIMATED TO SAVE RAILROADS LARGE SUM

Increased Efficiency and the Recognition of the "Open Shop" on All Railroads is Forecast in the Promulgation of the Revised Working Rules Governing Railroad Shop Employees.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—Economies in operation and increased efficiency, estimated to reach $50,000,000 a year, and recognition of the "open shop" on all American railroads are forecast in the promulgation of revised working rules governing railroad shop employees by the United States Railroad Labor board. The new rules become effective tomorrow, December 1, and take jurisdiction over approximately 400,000 men immediately although a still larger number will be effected when the normal traffic conditions are restored.

Far reaching changes in the rules, which supplant the national agreement made during federal control, were designed to afford a basis for permanent stability in the railroad shops of the country and were declared by members of the labor board to be the most important work yet done by the board and of much greater significance than any decision in the past, even including wage scale adjustments.

Large economies are expected to result from the revision of the classification rules, which were made more elastic, and heretofore will permit members of certain crafts to do previously done by members of other crafts. Statisticians attributed to the labor board estimated that economies in operation, increased efficiency and larger output would approximate $50,000,000 a year.

Provision for the representation of minorities who may have grievances is another important item of the new rules. Under the national agreement, negotiation for a shop was placed almost wholly in the hands of labor organizations, with the result that the railroads and many industrial and civic institutions declared that the agreement forced a closed union shop on the roads. Non-union men found it impracticable to attempt to bring their grievances before the board and as the rules worked out, union officials handled the cases, taking their precedent from the national agreement negotiations in which union officials acted for the employees in drawing up the agreement under federal control.

"The principle of the open shop established by the new rules," a statement by board members said, "will in fact, be more theoretical than practical at the present time, since a large majority of the railroad shops are unionized and the existing unions are recognized by the board and by the transportation act as representative of the majority."

Best Rules Preserved. "Most of the older working rules, sanctioned by the experience of years, are preserved in full effect. Many of the more rigid rules, however, were considerably relaxed in favor of the roads, although the recognized rights of the men are fully protected and the principle of collective bargaining and recognition is retained, as was the case by the transportation act. The controversy dates back to 1920, when the railroads, from government control, removed objections to the national agreement were made in a hearing which began January 10, 1921. After several months of testimony, the rules were referred back to the individual roads with instructions to negotiate such new rules as they could with their employees to replace the federal government rules.

Numerous rules were thus agreed upon on individual roads, but on no road was it possible to draft an entire new set. The rules disagreed upon were then sent back to the labor board and the rules promulgated today will replace any such rules not agreed upon by the roads and their employees. In any case where a rule has been agreed upon by the carrier and its employees, that rule governs, even though the labor board rule may be entirely different.

Classifications Elastic. The majority of the changes effected by the new rules is in the classification of the work to be performed by the various crafts. Almost without exception these classifications are made more elastic. Under previous agreements with the shop crafts, including the national agreement, it has been the custom to define in detail the various types of work belonging to each craft.

The carriers have complained that the national agreement set up in such minute detail the classification of duties that work not requiring specialized skill in any craft was assigned exclusively to a particular craft. For example work not requiring a mechanic's skill was assigned to a skilled mechanic, thus making efficient and economical operation impossible, according to the railroads.

The rules effective today broaden the scope of each craft's work. The machinist working on running repairs may connect or disconnect any wiring, coupling or pipe connections necessary to repair machinery or equipment. This work was previously assigned to electricians and sheet metal workers only. Under the new rules engineers, firemen and craftsmen are not prohibited from making such repairs to equipment on the lines of the road as they are qualified to perform.

The new rules thus allow train operatives to perform repair work even though it is ordinarily considered shop mechanic's work.

Bolter makers' helpers under the new rules are given the job of removing and replacing grates. Under the new rules are given the job of removing and replacing grates. Under the national agreement all grate rigging work was assigned to journey-men bolter makers.

Change Classification. The classification of the work of the sheet metal workers electrical workers and car men has been changed to allow some of the work previously performed by them exclusively to be done by their helpers and to mechanics in other crafts, where the needs of the service require it. Under the national agreement car men were exclusively assigned to wrecking cars. Under the new rules, wrecking crews exclusive of engineers, will be composed of car men, where sufficient men are available but when needed, men of any class may be taken as additional members of wrecking crews.

Another important change effecting car men is that which allows common laborers to dismantle wooden freight cars hereafter. Under the national agreement, only qualified carpenters were allowed to do this work. About 68 per cent of the country's freight cars are built of wood. The new rule will permit employees betting $3.25 to $5.00 a day to do work previously required to be done by car men receiving $5.84 a day.

Agreement Criticized. The national agreement, supplanted today by the new rules, was entered into with the employees by the United States Railroad administration September 29, 1919. From the first it was strongly criticized by the railroad managements and others because they contended it imposed uneconomic methods of operation on the railroads, limited the discretion and control of the management and greatly increased the cost of operation. The railroads also complained that they had no voice in making the national agreement which they declared was "wished on them" by the railroad administration. The employees have maintained that a very large part of the national agreement had been put into effect on various railroads, prior to federal control, and that it fairly represented current enlightened thought of the carriers and employees as to working conditions and rates.

In two previous decisions the board disposed of twenty four shop craft pay mainly concerning overtime pay. Today's decision practically completes the rules for these crafts, with the exception of a few minor matters on which an agreement is probable. These the board has referred back to the roads and the employees for settlement by them.

WILY DICTATOR PLOT TO CAPTURE ISLE FOR TURKEY

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 30.—Hauling down the American flag, hoisting the Turkish flag in its place and driving out all Americans and Christian Filipinos were parts of an alleged plot by certain Moros in Lanao province Island of Mindanao, according to a communication received today by the director of non-Christian tribes, whose headquarters is in Manila.

Alaoya Alonto, who signs himself "Sultan of Ramain" makes the charge and the communication is signed by twenty-five other sultans, 241 datus, ten rajahs, one hadji and more than three score other Moros, who are followers of Mohammedanism.

"We Moros are trying to do all we can in learning from our Christian Filipino brothers, except the eating of pigs, which is forbidden by our religion, for we know now that they are far better than we are," writes the Sultan of Ramain. "The agreement of Datu Anai Nanaband with Datu Anai Binaning to do foolishness caused the death of the latter. We, the young datus of Lanao, will be very glad if all these old datus are killed as they are hindering the progress of our province as well as the whole Philippines. The aim of their agreement was not only to drive out the Christian Filipinos but also the Americans, because they want the Turkish flag to be raised over Lanao and the Turks to take the place of Americans and Christian Filipinos."

The Sultan says the young datus desire that compulsory attendance of public schools should be enforced in Lanao province, notwithstanding the opposition of the old datus who fear that the public school teaching will alienate their girls from the Mohammedan faith.

NEW KIND OF BERRY IS DISCOVERED AT A. & M. COLLEGE

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 29.—All growers of the new A. & M. berry, recently developed by Professor H. Ness, chief of the division of horticulture, Texas Agricultural Experiment station, have been requested, in a resolution just passed by the board of directors of Texas A. & M. college, to designate the berry as the "Ness Berry" for its originator. The resolution was proposed by President W. B. Bizzell upon the recommendation of Director B. Youngblood.

This new berry represents a successful cross between the raspberry, which does not grow successfully in Texas, and the Louisiana dewberry. The plant possesses so many unusual qualities, Director Youngblood said, that it is now being rapidly increased for distribution among the farmers of the state. It is a vigorous grower with large stems or canes, large, round, thick leaves and produces a dark red or crimson berry of large size and excellent flavor. It is said, it has the desirable habit of fruiting for at least one month during the year, making it one of the most valuable berries for the home garden, the director said.

"With characteristic professional modesty and loyalty to A. & M. college, which he has served faithfully for many years, Professor Ness named his new find the A. & M. Berry," said Director Youngblood, in requesting the president to secure action by the board changing the name. Mr. Youngblood called attention to the unusual value of the new berry to the horticulture of Texas, stating that its development is one of the splendid achievements which have marked the years of capable service which Professor Ness has devoted to the development of Texas horticulture, and that his 33 years of patient research for the Texas experiment station system merits this just recognition.

PLAN TO ESTABLISH HOME ON THE COAST FOR NEWSPAPER FOLK

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 29.—Establishment of a home on the gulf coast for superannuated newspaper folks of Texas is one of the objects sought by the Texas Editorial association, which will hold its ninth annual meeting at San Antonio on Dec. 8, 9 and 10. The organization is composed of the "older set" of men and women in the newspaper profession, thirty years' stewardship in the business being the only requisite for membership. Its purposes are purely social, according to Charles L. Martin of Dallas, one of its organizers. In telling of the organization's work, Mr. Martin who is one of the oldest newspaper men in Texas, had this to say:

"The Texas Editorial association is peculiar and unique, in that there are no initiation fees nor dues from the membership. Any newspaper man or woman in Texas who has followed the business for thirty years is automatically a member.

"Its first meeting was in 1912. Its purposes are strictly social, with only one special end to be accomplished—the establishment of a home for superannuated newspaper people, the home to be located at some point on the gulf coast, where the sea breeze are ever delightful and wholesome in the summer and spring season, and mild in the autumn and winter.

"It is the design of the association to hold its annual meetings at some city on the coast. These meetings in the early days of December are always occasions of delight, lasting three to four days with generous and congenial hosts.

GIANT LEVIATHAN, FORMER PRIDE OF THE GERMAN FLEET IS BEING RESTORED BY OUR ENGINEERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—For the second time within three years, American engineering skill has triumphed over obstacles tending to prevent the giant steamship Leviathan, the former pride of Germany's merchant fleet, from going to sea.

The first time was in 1917, when the great 54,000-ton liner interned here at the beginning of the war, was wilfully damaged by her own engineers to prevent her from being used as a transport for American and allied soldiers.

American engineers repaired the damage and made her ready for a trip within a few weeks. Her record for the war was 19 voyages on which she carried, going and coming, 154,253 American soldiers. Sighting of the armistice laid her up. Then the United States shipping board, her custodian for the United States government, began to plan to restore her to the trans-Atlantic trade as the premier American passenger liner.

With an estimated cost of between $7,000,000 and $10,000,000 facing them for restoration, the shipping board declined the offer and decided to make its own plans. A small army of engineers and draftsmen were put to work to ascertain the details of her construction.

Partitions were removed in part, and riddled up in certain sections. A maze of telephone, electric light and other wires were traced, equal miles of treated controlling heating and vent flow systems were followed, plates and fittings removed. The Leviathan was in $6,500,000. The Leviathan was "the ship of the century" to the most militant non-partisan.

Plans and specifications. These bids will be opened December 29.

Under plans now prepared for the bidders she will be entirely restored as befitting her size. The grandeur of her original great dining saloons, lounges, smoke-rooms and libraries will be retained and improved upon. An immense tiled and marbled plunge bath with accompanying rooms for Turkish electric and other baths, will be one of her attractions. Salutes once designed as personal quarters for his former imperial majesty, the emperor of Germany, will be retained—but suggestions of royalty will be replaced by luxurious fittings desired by modern democracy.

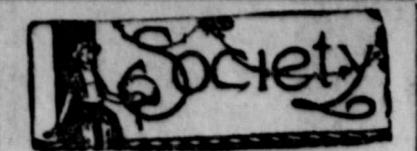

Who will operate the Leviathan when restored to service and under which houseflag she will sail is yet to be determined by the shipping board.

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 29.—Better teaching methods for the more than 3000 dependent children of Texas were discussed last Friday at a special conference of the orphanage teachers at the Texas Teachers' association meeting in Dallas. May Heaven's sweetest blessings rest upon you, and may you feel that we, as a church, appreciate what you all have done for us, and shall be glad to return to one and all any help we may be able to render you at any time. May God be with each and every one of you.

BRITISH FARMER OFFERS LAND TO EMPLOYEES FREE

LONDON, Nov. 29.—S. F. Edge, a scientific farmer, offered some land weeks ago to hand over farm low-lying 23,000 pounds a committee of his employes without cost, but subject to the proviso that they should pay their own wages out of the proceeds.

It is announced that they have declined the offer, and Mr. Edge has extended it to any reputable labor body, such as the agricultural workers' unions.

"The purpose of this offer," said Mr. Edge, when interviewed at his Sussex farm, "is to prove to the trade unions that farming, like every other industry, will only pay wages that are earned, unless they are drawn from capital. Agricultural laborers have been misled as to the profit a farmer makes from corn-growing—ordinary agricultural, and it was to teach them the truth that I made this offer."

"My employes on my farms, which have grown in the last two years from a modest 50 acres to some 2000 acres, have not accepted my offer, knowing that they will make more money in wages than they could make out of the farm."

"I now suggest that one of the farms should be run on a co-operative scheme in charge of the workers and their unions. There would have to be an agreement that accepted methods of good husbandry be observed. It would be possible, of course, to enjoy several years of prosperity by taking everything possible out of the land and putting nothing back. The farm must be kept in good order, fences kept up, ditches drained, land fertilized, and buildings maintained."

"What I am deeply concerned with is the whole of the land of this country should be farmed at a profit, so that many more families may be employed on the land. Tens of thousands can be employed on pig-breeding, at present by far the most remunerative side of agriculture. We have immense areas of unproductive land. Why should we not connect unproductive land with unemployed people, and make the land produce plus?"

If we were all possessed with wings, there would yet be some of us who could not fly. Neither is every mechanic an expert at his trade. The plan which I have adopted, to hire no man except he be a master of the art, is proving very successful for my business. At my place you run no risk of having cheap mechanics or helpers work on your automobile. Here you will get the best there is to be had, such as you justly deserve when you pay your honest dollar.
