LANSING RESIGNS PRESIDENT'S CABINET

OPPOSE GERMAN SHIP SALE

SHARP OPPOSITION ARISES IN SENATE ON SALE OF LINERS

DISCUSSION CROPS OUT IN SENATE BUT CHAIRMAN PAYNE OF SHIPPING BOARD APPEARS AND EXPLAINS PLANS.

WELL ONLY TO AMERICANS

Injunction Filed by William Randolph Hearst as Tax Payer of New York; Supreme Court Orders Shipping Board to Show Cause for Refusal.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Vigorous opposition to shipping board plans for the sale of 30 former German passenger liners, broke out in the senate today, pressed in sharply critical debate and presentation of several resolutions proposing to block the action. While the debate was in progress, other developments came thick and fast.

John Barton Payne, chairman of the board, appeared before the senate committee to explain the whole plan and after hearing him the committee through its chairman, Senator Charles McNary, reported to the senate that no immediate action was necessary. No action accordingly was taken.

At the white house there was made public a letter concerning the proposed sale sent by Mr. Payne to the president which remarked on the "vicious and characteristic attack against the shipping board emanating from a certain quarter regarding the sale of the German passenger ships."

Parts Injunction Proceedings.

In the District of Columbia supreme court, William Randolph Hearst of New York, appearing as a tax payer, filed application for an injunction to prevent the proposed sale of the ships at that court Monday. The court issued an order requiring the board to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued.

Denies Senatorial Charges.

Chairman Payne assured the senate committee and his assurances were related to the full senate that the whole matter merely received bids Monday for the vessels, and would report the results to the senate before acting. He charged that the sale of the vessels to a single purchaser for $28,000,000 was intended, with a flat denial, he repeated his own conclusion that the sale of the vessels to American private owners at the present time was to the advantage of the government. Senator Ashurst, democrat of Arizona, opened the debate and later sought it to a head by offering a concurrent resolution directing the shipping board not to sell the ships except through regular bidding after three months advertising. He and the senators supporting his resolution declared the board's action would result in the sale of vessels worth $200 a ton and are to private interests for around $50 a ton. The possibility that they might to English ownership was strongly attacked by opponents of the immediate sale.

DESEMONA WOULD TAKE CISCO CLUB FRANCHISE

Cisco fails to "come across" with required backing for a team in new Olt Belt league being formed on membership in six West Texas cities. The little town of Desdemona will be the first to take the franchise for a baseball team in the league. The league is being organized by M. B. Murphy, promoting project, who has received advice that effect.

In fact, Desdemona is quite anxious to obtain the franchise for a baseball team and Cisco being the only city in the league to do so. In an effort to catch somebody napping, Murphy, however, does not believe Cisco will fail to put up the money the club. He has already obtained several thousand dollars in subscriptions and says he is promised more and although the citizens seem to be in coming to his side, enthusiasm for the baseball team is not lacking. As Cisco falls down during Murphy's canvass today he will go to Fort Worth tomorrow to the meeting of the representatives of the various towns in the league as Cisco's representative.

Big Concern Comes to Texas.

Things You Should Know About Cisco

There is enough proven oil territory in West Texas to drill 250,000 wells, and that at the rate of drilling in 1919 not all of the territory could be developed in 100 years.

And do you know that more than 70 per cent of all the wells drilled in the Texas field in 1919, and the average daily production of every oil well that produced, was more than 500 barrels?

LEERAY SINCLAIR WELL MEANS MUCH TO CISCO

Offset to Sam Thorpe Well Looed Era of Drilling at Townsite—Predict 100 Rigs Within the Year.

Development in the vicinity of Leeray, the new townsite on the Cisco & Northeastern railway, reached a climax Friday, when the Sinclair company drilled in a big well half a mile from the townsite. This well, offsetting the Sam Thorpe well, is the first into the deep sand, and has started an era of drilling that means at least a hundred rigs running there within the year.

At least 15 wells are now drilling, at depths ranging from 500 to 1500 feet. The development of the field will not only build Leeray. It is predicted, but will also make Cisco a greater oil hub. The demand for material in the field will be taken care of by local supply houses, and the completion of the Cisco & Northeastern to this point will make transportation problems easy to solve.

Local citizens were very much enthused over the possibilities the new well will develop in a business way in Cisco.

"I regard it as one of the most important events in the history of the city," said John Sue, "It is a fine well and will undoubtedly increase, as they are only eight feet into the lime."

"Nothing that has transpired in this vicinity of recent months will have the effect this well will have," declared Mayor Williamson.

RUPTURE BETWEEN EXECUTIVES FOLLOWS EXCHANGE OF SERIES OF CANDID NOTES

President Charges Cabinet Chief With Usurpation of His Powers—Secretary Replies His Actions Were Best for Republic.

LANSING EXPRESSES PROFOUND RELIEF AT FIFALE

Differences Were of Old Standing and Originated at Peace Conference in Paris—United States Attitude on Mexico Was Salient Point.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Robert Lansing ended his career as secretary of state today after President Wilson had accused him of usurping the powers of president by calling meetings of the cabinet during Mr. Wilson's illness.

Mr. Lansing denied he had sought or intended to usurp the presidential authority. He added, however, that he believed then and still believed that the cabinet conferences were "for the best interests of the republic," that they "were proper and necessary" because of the president's condition and that he would have been derelict in his duty if he had failed to act as he did.

As the record stands, Mr. Lansing tendered his resignation and Mr. Wilson accepted it. The resignation was offered, however, only after the president, under date of February 7, had written asking if it were true that Mr. Lansing had called cabinet meetings and stating that if such were the case, he felt it necessary to say that "under our constitutional law and practice, as developed hitherto, no one but the president has the right to summon the heads of the executive departments into conference."

Mr. Lansing answered two days later—last Monday—saying he had called the cabinet conferences because he and others of the president's official family "felt that, in view of the fact that we were denied communication with you, it was wise for us to confer together on matters as to which action could not be postponed until your medical advisers permitted you to pass upon them."

Offered to Resign. The secretary concluded by saying that if the president believed he had failed in his "loyalty" to him and if Mr. Wilson no longer had confidence in him, he was ready to "relieve you of any embarrassment by placing my resignation in your hands."

Presidential Authority Unjustified. The president replied last Wednesday that he was "much disappointed" by Mr. Lansing's letter regarding "the so-called cabinet meetings." He said he found nothing in the secretary's letter "which justifies your assumption of presidential authority in such a matter," and added that he "must frankly take advantage of your kind suggestion" to resign.

"I must say," continued the president, "that it would relieve me of embarrassment, Mr. Secretary, the embarrassment of feeling your reluctance and divergence of judgment, if you would give up your present office and afford me an opportunity to select some one else whose mind would more willingly go along with mine."

Broke Up Cabinet Meeting. Before this letter was written, the day for the regular cabinet meeting—last Tuesday—had passed and the correspondence discloses why the cabinet did not meet. On the same day he received this letter from the president, Mr. Lansing announced that he had written other cabinet officers that he would not call any more cabinet conferences for the present, but no explanation was offered. Inquiry at the

GOVERNMENT MUST USE FORCE WITH RADICALS

ITHACA, Feb. 13.—The American Government is compelled "in self protection" to use its "physical power" against the radicals who "seek to overthrow our government by violence," as President Schurmann of Cornell University said, in an address here today. The socialists, he added, have lost their right to present their policy and program to the American people because "socialism has given birth to communism, the international and other revolutionary parties who seek to destroy our government by force and intimidation."

RUMORED THAT WILSON NAMED DUTCH MINISTER

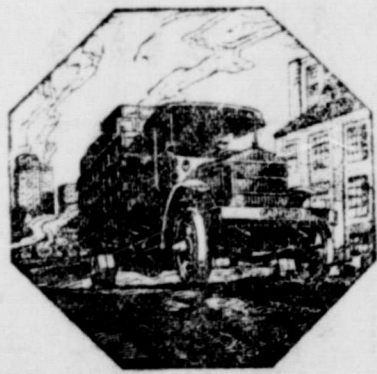

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—President Wilson is understood to have decided upon the appointment of William Phillips, assistant secretary of state, as minister to The Netherlands. The nomination of Mr. Phillips, who will arrive in New York within a few days, after a trip to England, made necessary by the illness of Mrs. Phillips' mother, is expected to be sent to the Senate soon, perhaps together with the nomination of Robert Underwood Johnson of New York, recently selected as ambassador to Italy.

Hudson Car Rivals the Hudson Super-Six?

Its Exclusive Motor Gives it Performance Leadership. And Hudson is Creator of Motor Style

What can any fine car give to compensate for lack of the Super-Six motor?

It is exclusive in Hudson. And for five years it has meant unquestioned performance supremacy.

In speed—in acceleration—in hill-climbing—in endurance—no stock car ever matched Hudson's famous records.

The Super-Six motor reduced vibration more than any other type. It checked the most destructive force automobiles must contend with. It added 72 per cent to power, and almost doubled efficiency. It accounts for all Hudson's supreme records. And it made the Super-Six the largest selling fine car in the world.

Supreme in Motor and in Design

But performance is not Hudson's only title to leadership. From the first it has set styles that the motor industry accepts.

it is a creator of coach design. Not only America but Europe reveals its influence in motor style. Models that are now standard with all fine cars were first introduced by the Hudson Super-Six.

Eighty thousand Super-Six owners place Hudson endurance above all its other notable qualities. For durability must always be the most important car advantage.

The Super-Six motor has proved the dominant factor in car endurance. None except Hudson can use it. If you would own all the supreme advantages of speed, power, acceleration, plus endurance, for which the Hudson.

Weigh the facts.

What can any fine car give to compensate for lack of the Super-Six motor?

HOOVER

HAVE you been wondering about Herbert Hoover? Have you as a voter, pictured the man as a candidate for the highest office in the nation? Have you looked him up, and studied his qualifications?

As we understand Mr. Hoover, he is a highly successful engineer, with a record of having made $10,000,000 before he was 30 years of age. For the past few years he has been pretty much in the public eye, and the public has seen him as an aggressive, stouthearted organizer, with an ability to accomplish things. He seems to be a first-class executive. He has made good on every job assigned by the nation during the war period.

A United States senator recently had a lot to say about Mr. Hoover, accusing him of being of the J. Rufus Wallingford type and even suggested that in the event the democrats nominated him for president the republican party should nominate Mr. Wallingford. All of which is interesting to the man who has been demanding a business administration.

The curse of the nation has been the politician, we've all been saying. "What we need is a business man for president," is a common expression. Yet as soon as a man who has shown a capacity for business is proposed, he is subject for attack by the cheap-screw politician, who appeals to the prejudice against success that has long since come out of fashion.

There was a time when successful business men were grilled because of that success. We recall the paunching press and public gave the late Mr. Hanna, yet he was really a great man, and while he passed into the beyond with a record of wonderfully successful business and political activity, few men have suffered the humiliation and the bitterness from the hands of politicians.

Mr. Hoover seems to have every qualification of presidential timber. But cheap politicians have already commenced to undermine that reputation in the nation by bitter assaults upon trivial things in his career. What difference does it make if Mr. Hoover is from Washington or California, so long as he qualifies for the office? What the nation needs is a business manager—one who can organize and run the most gigantic corporation in the world. What difference does it make if he has accumulated a fortune? It isn't any disgrace these days to be well-fixed. In fact, it's the very thing we're all trying to be.

In spite of the fact that Mr. Hoover is a man of means, he is also a man of action. And if that isn't what the people of the nation want, will some one please stand up and give us an answer to the political problems of our country? In many ways, Mr. Hoover seems to fill the bill.

USE THE COURTS

MARSHALING the military forces of the states of Oklahoma and Texas may result in an armed clash—but probably won't. We hope not. The sending of rangers to the Oklahoma border on the part of Texas, and threats of troops from Oklahoma being mobilized strikes the average man as being the last word in bunkum, and is poor advertising for either state.

If there is a dispute over the right of property along the Red river, the way to settle it is through the courts, and not by six-shooters. Let the parties in the controversy file a suit for right of possession in the state or federal courts and there settle it in the usual orderly manner.

It isn't a question of which state is right. No matter how serious the situation might be, the only way is the court way. Threats and strutting of an armed force up and down each bank of the dividing stream is about as far-fetched a situation as could possibly be pictured. It makes citizens wonder what sort of a heathenish country they are living in.

We've been trying to draft a league of nations to keep us out of war. Yet we find our state officials, in what we say is a civilized country, adopt a rule by force and march on a neighboring state with a swagger and bluster that would do credit to a state in Europe.

What is this country coming to?

SUNDAY CLOSING

"If it is unlawful for one to labor at an organ in a picture show for money on Sunday, isn't it unlawful for one to be paid for playing an organ in church on that day?"

This is the gist of a communication from a reader of the Morning News, in reference to labor on Sunday and the enforcement of the Sunday law.

Now, that's a pretty fine point, and probably would take a court decision to decide it. But it might be. To be honest about it, we don't know.

Why not ask the county attorney, or present the matter to the grand jury?

PASSING THE BUCK

WHILE newspapers throughout the nation were facing a print paper shortage, the United States senate was talking, and 48 tons of perfectly good news print were used up in printing the speeches.

And 48 tons of print paper would produce a pretty good newspaper for about six months. If you don't find the Morning News up to the size you expected, just charge it to the United States senate.

WHO'S WHO IN THE DAY'S NEWS

LEON BOURGEOIS.

Leon Bourgeois, the new president of the French senate, and consequently the second dignitary of that republic, is, of all the statesmen of his native land, the one who has been in closest sympathy with the aims and views of President Wilson in the matter of the league of nations, over the first meeting of which in Paris he recently presided.

He has been the principal representative of France at the two peace congresses held at the League in 1899 and in 1919, and as such is widely known abroad.

He has held office as premier, as minister of foreign affairs and as president of the chamber of deputies. He may be accredited with American affiliations. For he has been a lecturer on social science at the Institute of Social Science under the terms of the will of the late Comte de Chamburn, uncle of Comte Adolphe de Chamburn, married to Miss Clara Longworth of Cincinnati. Indeed Bourgeois occupied until his recent removal to the official residence of the president of the senate, in the Palace of Luxembourg, a suite of apartments in the mansion which had been the Parisian home of the late Comte de Chamburn. Through his wife M. de Chamburn had become the principal owner of the world-famed baccarat glass and crystal works and bequeathed his house at his death to the Institute of Social Science.

Bourgeois is a gifted man, clever with his pen, with his brain and with his pencil, being a sculptor of no mean skill. He is an enthusiastic violinist, while he has been in the habit whenever in office of cultivating the meetings of the cabinet and of the chamber of deputies by dashing off drill caricatures of his colleagues.

He is a veteran of the war of 1870. A great traveler, he can boast of an intimate acquaintance with most of the leading statesmen of the old world and of the new, and has been twice married. His present wife having been successful in bringing about his recovery from that species of melancholia into which he had been plunged by the death of his first wife and a rapid succession of other bereavements.

Because the league of nations figures as the chief issue, national interest centers in the special election to be held in the third congressional district of Missouri today to elect a successor to Joshua W. Alexander, who resigned his seat in congress to become secretary of commerce of the United States.

DINNER STORIES

In old England the following story admirably illustrates the industrial situation: Two miners were discussing the minimum wage.

"Say, Bill," said the first, "what's this 'ere minimum wage?"

Bill spat. "The minimum wage? That's what we gets for goin' down an' if we wants ter make any more brass, we goes and does some work for it."

"Have you ever had any experience in handling high-class ware?" asked a dealer in bric-a-brac of an applicant for work.

"No, sir," was the reply, "but I think I can do it."

"Suppose," said the dealer, "you accidentally broke a very valuable porcelain vase, what would you do?"

"I should put it carefully together," replied the man, "and set it where a wealthy customer would be sure to knock it over again."

"Consider yourself engaged," said the dealer. "Now, tell me where you learned that trick of the trade?"

"A few years ago," answered the other, "I was one of the 'wealthy customer class'."

It was a little argument between two women in Shoreville, High street.

"There is one thing no one can say about you," said one of the combatants: "No one can ever call you two-faced."

"No, they can't neither," snapped the other.

"No, if you had two faces you would never be seen out with the one you're wearing now," was the rejoinder.

THE MARRIED AN AVERAGE MAN

It is easy to imagine things. And I got the habit of growing easier and easier, bursting all bounds of reason, making you utterly and unaccountably wretched. I am I, a sensible, intelligent married eight days to a man I love me, and whom I truly adore myself into a nervous breakdown my Jim—my nice, big, old, honest, honest Jim—got a letter from a green border addressed in a handwriting I didn't know about it. That was the point I reached me into a sleepless night and a groggy day. If he hadn't gotten another one I think I today I doubt if I probably would have let the thing rattle and rattle in my mind, like the silly woman I am all here—until we shake ourselves from the "possessive" attitude to the "social."

Of Interest to Women

The first marriage of a Hindu widow was celebrated at Calcutta in 1856. It is just fifty years since the medical profession in Sweden was opened to women. In the United States there are more than fifty women who earn their livelihood as blacksmiths. Yellow, signifying 'the serene and joyous leaf,' is the mourning color of the widows' caps in Brittany. The first notable convention of women's suffrage advocates in the Pacific Northwest was held at Portland, Ore., in 1873. The women's bowling championship of the United States will be decided at a tournament to be held in Chicago next April. Since 1892 women students have been admitted to nearly all departments of the University of St. Andrews, the oldest of Scottish universities. Typewriter dealers in New York report that an ever-increasing number of society women are using the machines for their private correspondence. One of the few equestrienne statures of women to be found anywhere in the world is that of Queen Victoria, which was erected in Liverpool just fifty years ago. The only woman ever honored with a public funeral in Washington, D. C., was Harriet Burns Van Ness, noted social leader and philanthropist, whose death occurred in 1832. Prominent New York society women, members of the National League for Women's Service, acted as judges in a series of boxing bouts staged recently in the army base hospital at Pegg Hills, Staten Island, for the entertainment of wounded soldiers. A peacocks' court train is strictly regulated as to length, and varies according to her rank. A duchess will have her train three yards long, a marchioness two and a half, countesses to one and a half, and baronesses to one yard. No Italian maiden will consent to be married in May. Certain days of the week, too, are prohibited—Monday, for instance, is held to be unlucky to future generations, Saturday is reserved for widows, Tuesday is considered impossible on account of its being a day devoted to witches and evil spells, and Friday and Wednesday are fast days. Sunday therefore is the day almost always chosen for the celebration. In Canada women are eligible both for the Federal parliament and the Provincial legislatures. No woman has yet been elected to the Dominion parliament, but several have been chosen to seats in the lawmaking bodies of the different provinces. Mrs. McKinney, who stood as an Independent, was elected to the Alberta legislature in 1917, and in the same year Miss Roberta MacAdams was returned by the overseas Canadian forces. Mrs. Ralph Smith was also elected in 1917 to the British Columbia legislature, and Mrs. Ramsden, a Liberal, was recently returned in Saskatchewan.

As a WOMAN THINKS

By Edith E. Morley. "Have girls changed in the last few years? Well, I should say the 'bes' are the same. They always were, 'nowadays.'" Thus spoke the professor of English in a western college to some of the older graduates. The went on to tell just what were the differences between the modern college girl and the one of a few years back. Among other things she told how many more girls were taking political science and economics than heretofore. Gymnasium classes, aesthetic dancing, courses in public speaking, oratorical courses, business or administration courses and financial courses are all much more popular in women's colleges than they ever were before. The girls who used to take Greek, Latin, essay and poetry courses are turning to these modern subjects. The most interesting observation that the professor made, however, was concerning the frivolous, butterfly type of girl who only went to college to pass the time until she should take up her place in society. She admitted that the type still existed, although there were fewer such girls than ever before. They, too, it seems, have changed their choice of subjects. They used to take the easy courses. And when those gave out they took music, French, art and other finishing school subjects. Today they are surprising the old professors by taking household economy and domestic science. Colleges which are offering these courses find the classes in them over-crowded. The English professor stated that in her particular institution almost without exception the girls who were taking the household economy were those who did not have to make their own way in the world. The courses were usually known as "rather soft" and there were many afternoon laboratories and other features which never used to appeal to the girls, but yet they flock to them now. Whatever the reason for this change, it certainly deals a blow to the pessimistic people who claim that the modern woman, particularly the college woman, is growing away from the home and home duties. This is a bit of information for those people who claim that college does not fit a girl for marriage and often spoils her for it, making her too independent and self-sufficient. The head of one of the science departments in that college is bewailing the fact that her graduates so many are married that she can not fill the demand for teachers. Copyright, 1920.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What would you do if a young man had asked you to marry him and you loved him truly, then he turns you down and brings another girl where you are and introduces her to you; then after two or three days he wants to come back? MAJORS AND MINORS AGREE TO FUNCTION FOR MUTUAL BENEFIT

AFTER A YEAR OF DISAGREEMENT REPRESENTATIVES OF BIG AND LITTLE CIRCUITS AGREE TO BURY HATCHET.

All Disputes to Be Handled by Arbitration Brings Greatest Gathering of Baseball Council—Action Not Final But Ball Thinkers to a Close.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—The major and minor leagues decided at their joint meeting here today to continue to work under the same gentlemen's agreement which prevailed last year, with the exception that an arbitration board will be appointed to handle all disputes. The board will consist of two members, who shall include the chairman of the National Commission, which position has not been filled, and one representative from the minor leagues. At any time this board is unable to reach a decision a third referee, a man not connected with any baseball organization, shall be chosen to cast the deciding vote.

Last year the major and minor leagues came to the parting of the ways, but it was agreed in New York at the league meeting of the National and American organizations, that the major league would respect the contracts of the players in the minor organizations. Under this agreement, which was not in written form, they operated in 1913 and it was hoped they would get together here at this time and put the agreement into writing.

The action taken today, however, is not final. The presidents of the two leagues told the committee from the major league that they would take up with the club owners the question of carrying into an agreement with them, at some time in the future, a plan for the bettering of the player's position.

The action taken today brings to a close the longest and most bitter struggle in the history of the game.

ATHLETIC CLUB BACKED FOR OIL BELT LEAGUE

D. M. Hunter Elected President and W. P. Dwyer Vice President at Fort Worth Meeting.

ABILENE, Feb. 12.—Abilene is ready to enter the proposed Oil Belt baseball league, following a meeting of local clubs at which a club was formally organized and S. D. Hunter, well known sportsman, was named president. E. W. Wade was elected vice-president and W. Richard Kilde, secretary-treasurer.

The hundred dollars of the guarantee of $100 required of the city was subscribed at the meeting, and Secretary E. F. Donney of the chamber of commerce and "Chuck" Kelly, noted athlete, raised the balance in an hour's time among the business men. Ben Hunt and President Hunter will represent Abilene at the Fort Worth conference.

If Abilene enters the league it will be with one of the strongest teams possible to gather, it is asserted by the local leaders.

Sport Gossip

Jimmy Wilde, the English flyweight champion, finally has been matched with a man of his own poundage. Wilde is scheduled to tackle Patay Wallace over in Philadelphia the latter part of this month. It will be the little Englishman's first appearance in the east and the bout promises to be a good one, for Wallace has repeatedly demonstrated that for a man of his poundage he is something of a sensation. Wallace, like Wilde, never scales over 105 pounds. He is a hard hitter as well as a clever boxer, and he promises to make things decidedly interesting for the English midget.

Big Fred Fulton knocked John Lester Johnson, the negro heavyweight, for a goal the other night. John Lester once defeated Jack Dempsey, but Dempsey was only a novice at the time. Some years before that, when Johnson himself was a novice, he met Sam Langford in a bout that always will be remembered as one of the fiercest affairs ever seen in a ring. The moment the gong sounded Johnson turned his back to the Boston black and began to hot-foot it around the ring as fast as he could tear. Old Sam, soft and fat, could not keep up at all. He was distanced so badly that he could not get within six feet of the rapidly-flying Johnson. Sam cut across corners to intercept Johnson as he made the next lap. Johnson went by so fast that the best Sam could do was to slam him on the back. But that was plenty. Johnson did a nose dive and he never came up for air until the referee had counted ten.

"LILLIAN COATS" WINS OPEN FIELD TRIAL DERBY

HOUSTON, Texas, Feb. 12.—Lillian Coats, a bright young dog of great promise, owned and handled by C. N. Andrews, of Wichita Falls, Texas, won the open derby at the Texas Field Trials association at Hot Wells Friday afternoon. Ben Sterling, owned and handled by J. C. Garrison of Houston, came in second and Johnny Walker, owned by James Avell of Waco, and handled by James Avell of Tennessee, took third place.

The open all-age stake was started Friday afternoon, when four braces of dogs went out, flushing 13 coveys of birds. Saturday afternoon the all-age will be continued at Hot Wells. Twenty-two braces of dogs were entered for this stake. A good sized crowd was on hand Friday to witness the field trials and more people are expected Saturday.

INDIANS PUT FISH TO SLEEP.

"Devil's Shoestrings" Used as Bait and Some Fine Catches Made.

From the Tulsa World.

Fishing season is soon to arrive in Oklahoma and the "old heads" are digging up their rods and lures, but Judge J. M. Bond, state health officer, said that he knew of a better way of getting the fish on the dinner plate than nabbing them with a hook. Indians do not use hook and line methods, the Judge asserted, and the old fishing grounds were the source of food for many a tribe.

"Devil's Shoestrings" will bring in every fish in the pond, Judge Bond maintains. This manner of "string" fish is understood to be something like this:

A weed, long, soft and pithy, was found by the Indians about the year 1890 B. C. It is poisonous to a human being, but to a fish it is a narcotic. They called the weed "devil's shoestrings." Botanists call it goat's rue. It is a fabaceous plant; the pithy stem resembling a bean pod.

Fishing with the devil's shoestrings, literally, is accomplished by beating to a pulp the stems of a number of the plants in a pool of standing water. Running water will carry away the poison before any effect is made upon the fish. It takes but five or ten minutes for the "strings" to take effect, the fish finally being overcome, rise to the surface peacefully sleeping and it is easy to pick them out of the water and place them in baskets for the homeward journey.

Indian boys are reputed to have foamed the devil's moccasin cords easy aids in shooting fish with slender arrows, shot from bows. After the fish are put to sleep they rest comfortably upon the surface of the water and the rest is easy.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

out, the man's size ball is too heavy for kids of from 14 to 16 to throw from a regulation pitching box, and those who do so frequently spoil their arms. Also the 90 feet between bases is too much for them. The large diamond necessitates a throw from behind the bat to the bases that is too long, and the throw around the field are too long.

It is true that boys in playing among themselves frequently lay out a diamond smaller than that in the professional leagues, but the fact remains that the elementary school championship games and other big contests be-

John B. Sheridan, the veteran St. Louis critic, has evolved an elaborate plan for having the national baseball commission adapt the baseball rules to boys. He would have the weight of the ball, the pitching distance and the distance between bases reduced on a scale of proportions which would make the same more suitable for players of immature strength.

There is a vast deal of common sense in Sheridan's suggestion and it should be carefully considered. As he points tween kid teams are played on standard diamonds. Sheridan's argument is that baseball is essentially a sport that has to be grown up with the pastime, for, indeed, baseball is a vastly more complicated and intricate game than the average American who has been familiar with it all his life is wont to remember. He holds that the physical tasks imposed by the big diamonds are beyond the strength of mere boys, and that therefore many of them are discouraged from taking part, although they may later develop into sturdy men.

By the formal sanctioning of a set of rules that would reduce the size of the playing field until it was commensurate with the physical capacities of average boys, the boys would be encouraged to play the game even more than they do now, and would show to better advantage, to say nothing of obviating the risk of injuring themselves from over exercise.

The United States, Great Britain and all Europe except Russia could be put into Siberia.

LUCKY STRIKE CIGARETTE

WHEN you see this famous trade-mark, think a minute! Think of the delicious taste of a slice of fresh toasted bread!

That's the real idea back of the success of Lucky Strike cigarettes. Toasting improves tobacco just as well as bread. And that's a lot.

Try a Lucky Strike cigarette—

It's toasted

There's a World of Solid Comfort In the Rich, Red Tin

YES, sir, we mean that same warm red and gold tin that smiles a welcoming "Howdy" to you in every tobacco store. Know what those colors mean?

The red is for the friendly warmth, the mellow cheeriness, that Velvet puts into your old pipe. And the gold is where the Kentucky sunshine, that ripens good old Velvet, has just sort of soaked through.

Remember what Velvet Joe'd about it?
"You've met canned meat and red music. Ever see any tinned sun line? Well, look into any Velvet tin."

And think this over:

We don't have to hide Velvet' taste or smell with a lot of this, that and the other. Because Velvet has naturally what pipe smokers want—real simon-pure tobacco taste and fragrance. It's the best good, honest Kentucky leaf, made still more friendly and mellow by two years' ageing in wooden hogsheads. Just good tobacco. That's all. But it's mighty strong enough for the man who wants a pipeful of tobacco. And not a box of bon bons.

The picture of a pipe on the tin needn't keep you from rolling a jim-dandy cigarette with Velvet.

How's the Velvet holding out in your old tin?

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—Corn developed fresh strength today largely as a result of farmer's persistent refusal to sell.
The market closed nervous, 1 5-8 to 2 3-8 net higher, with May $1.32 7-8 to $1.33, and July $1.29 3-4 to $1.30.
Oats gained 1-2 to 5-8 to 1 1-8. Provisions ranged from 1 1/2 decline to 5c advance.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The cotton market has shown continued nervousness during the last week and fluctuations have been more or less irregular. On the whole, however, the tone has been firmer owing to the absence of pressure from southern spot holdings and there was a particularly sharp rally during today's trading on active covering by Wall street and local shorts. The advance was promoted by the continued strength of the Liverpool market and talk of a renewed trade demand. The strong technical position of March contracts here also appeared to be attracting considerable attention, owing to rumors that local and southwestern spot houses were long of the near months and were planning to take up deliveries. Nothing definite has been reported with reference to possible shipments of cotton back here from Liverpool, and the steady ruling of sterling exchange has been accompanied by active Liverpool buying here to undo the short straddles, while private cables have attributed the advance in the English market to a better spot demand, trade calling and buying for Manchester account. Private returns published during the week estimated domestic mill consumption for January at 586,000 against 512,000 for December 565,000 last year.

routed by speculative selling based on depression in New York stocks. Re-belief which became prevalent that there would be no rail strike.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The local market for raw sugar continued quiet and prices are more or less nominal.
There were sales of 20,000 bags to refiners at 11 cents cost and freight, afloat, equal to 12.04 for Centrifugal, but local refiners were again indifferent and offers of late February shipment at even 10 1-2 cents cost and freight found no buyers. The market closed nominal.

OLD TASTE!—once more. "Way down in

REAL
Country Made
The Crockett

SYRUP
There's no other syrup near so good as Country
Made—the Crockett & Weil kind. No factory syrup can duplicate its delightful flavor, or its wholesomeness. It is syrup like grandfather used to make, and like Southern farmers make today—pure cane juice in an open evaporator, cooked 'till it trickles off the strainer in a ropy, golden stream.
—and it's real food, too!
Crockett & Weil's Country Made has something beside the taste, too. It is real food! It contains 58.1 per cent digestible sugar—FOUR TIMES the FOOD VALUE of ordinary compound syrups!
Put in your order now for Country Made—But be sure and say: "The Crockett & Weil Kind." (There are so many so-called country-made syrups now you must demand the genuine.)

With grading completed and culverts all in, an effort is going to be made to complete the Cisco & Northeastern from Cisco to Leeray within 30 days.

"We have everything ready, and will make an intensive drive to complete the first 12 miles of the track within a month," Mr. Lee said yesterday.

LEAGUE IS AN ISSUE IN MISSOURI ELECTION

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Feb. 13.—The League of Nations will be the dominant issue in tomorrow's special election in the third Missouri district to elect a successor to Secretary of Commerce Joshua Alexander as representative in congress and political interest generally is centered upon the outcome.

The voters will choose between Capt. J. L. Milligan, Democratic nominee and a league supporter, and John E. Fross, republican and a league opponent. Both sides were claiming victory tonight and predicting an unusually heavy vote.

The three-week campaign has attracted wide attention and drawn into the district nationally known supporters and opponents of the league including Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer and United States Senator Hiram Johnson of California.

Long Standing Differences.

But the difference between the president and Mr. Lansing long predated the first cabinet call by Mr. Lansing, which was issued last October 5, seven days after Mr. Wilson returned from his western speaking tour and took to his bed.

They began at the peace conference in Paris, as Mr. Lansing disclosed in his final letter to the president, under date of yesterday, and had continued since that time—one of the chief differences being over the government's attitude toward Mexico.

When the cabinet met on October 5, Joseph P. Tumulty, private secretary to the president, issued a formal statement explaining the reasons for the conference. He said:

"The cabinet was called to consider questions in which more than one department was concerned and also to discuss the industrial conference."

He referred to the first conference called by the president with the hope of allaying the industrial unrest.

In his statement Mr. Tumulty said that Rear Admiral Graydon, Mr. Wilson's physician, was present and suggested that only urgent matters be brought to the president's attention.

Thereafter until this week the cabinet met more or less regularly. During the coal strike it met twice a week in an effort to avert the walkout of the miners and several weeks ago it was decided to have meetings every Tuesday and Friday.

During the coal wage controversy the president was said at the White House to have been advised of the meetings and to have been kept informed as to the progress his advisers were making toward a settlement of the controversy. He finally took the matter out of the cabinet's hands and suggested a settlement which the miners accepted.

The correspondence between the president and Mr. Lansing which resulted in Mr. Lansing's resignation, was made public tonight at the state department an hour after Under Secretary Polk had conferred at the White House with Secretary Tumulty.

Mr. Lansing, in his final letter to the president, said that "in thus severing our official association," he felt that he should make public a statement he had prepared recently showing that the continuance of our present relations was impossible, and that it was his duty to bring them to an end "at the earliest moment compatible with the public interest."

"Ever since January, 1919," Mr. Lansing continued, "I have been conscious of the fact that you no longer were disposed to welcome my advice in matters pertaining to the negotiations at Paris, our foreign service, or to internal affairs in general."

He added that had he followed his personal inclination, he would have resigned while in Paris, but that he had refrained because he felt it his duty to "cause you no embarrassment in carrying forward the great task in which you were then engaged."

Again Mr. Lansing said that while he had been "surprised and disappointed" at the frequent disapproval of his suggestions, he had never failed to follow the president's suggestions and decisions "however difficult it made the conduct of our foreign affairs."

Mr. Lansing accompanied the president to Paris in December, 1918, as one of the American peace delegates, but his friends have said that while Mr. Wilson was at the peace conference Mr. Lansing was virtually without authority and that naturally he felt this keenly since the other allied and associated countries were represented by their premiers and not the heads of their governments.

Mr. Lansing finally returned from Paris before the work of the American peace delegation was completed, being succeeded by Mr. Frank L. Polk, under secretary of state. The friction between himself and Mr. Wilson continued after he came back to Washington.

Jenkins Case a Link. During the president's illness the Mexican issue again came to the front with the kidnapping and subsequent arrest of American Consul Agent Jenkins in Mexico. After the Jenkins case had been discussed at cabinet meetings presided over by Mr. Lansing, the state department sent a note to Carranza bluntly warning him that further "molestation" of Jenkins would "seriously affect the relations between the United States and Mexico, for which the government of Mexico must assume sole responsibility."

President Wilson was advised of a situation which apparently had grown acute and he was said at the time to have personally taken charge of the matter. The Mexican government delayed its reply some time and subsequently Jenkins was released on bail furnished by J. Salter Hansen, without the consul agent's knowledge. Jenkins' case is still pending in the Mexican courts, having been transferred from his Puebla state courts to the federal supreme court, which the state department has contended was the only court in the Puebla state courts to the case. No further action has been taken by the American government so far as has been announced.

Meetings Infrequent. While a few members of the cabinet have conferred with Mr. Wilson since he was taken ill, it was said tonight that Mr. Lansing had not seen him and that whatever business he had had with the president had been carried on by daily correspondence.

Before the president left on his western trip, however, Mr. Lansing, after his return from Paris had a standing engagement to see him daily and he visited the White House each noon to discuss foreign and other affairs.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The state department issued the following statement:

"Secretary Lansing has resigned and his resignation has been accepted, taking effect today. Following is the correspondence between the president and Secretary Lansing.

"THE WHITE HOUSE. Washington, February 7, 1920. "My Dear Secretary: "Is it true, as I have been told, that during my illness you have frequently called the heads of the executive departments of the government into conference? If it is, I feel it my duty to call your attention to considerations which I do not care to dwell upon until I learn from you yourself that this is the fact. Under our constitutional law and practice, as developed hitherto, no one but the president has the right to summon the heads of the executive departments into conference, and no one but the president and the congress has the right to ask their views or the views of any one of them on any public question.

"I take this matter up with you because in the development of every constitutional system, custom and precedent are of the most serious consequence and I think we will all agree in desiring not to lead in any wrong direction. I have, therefore, taken the liberty of writing you to ask you this question, and I am sure you will be glad to answer.

"I am happy to learn from your recent note to Mrs. Wilson that your strength is returning.

"Cordially and sincerely yours, "Woodrow Wilson. "Hon. Robert Lansing, "Secretary of State."

"Wilson's Final Letter. "THE WHITE HOUSE. "Washington, Feb. 13, 1920. "My Dear Mr. Secretary: "Allow me to acknowledge with appreciation your letter of February 12. It now being evident, Mr. Secretary, that we have both of us felt the embarrassment of our recent relations with each other, I feel it my duty to accept your resignation, to take effect at once, at the same time adding that I hope that the future holds for you many successes of the most gratifying sort. My best wishes will always follow you, and it will be a matter of gratification to me always to remember our delightful personal relations.

"Sincerely yours, "Woodrow Wilson. "Hon. Robert Lansing, "Secretary of State."

CISCO INFLUENZA CASES DECREASING IN NUMBERS. Influenza is waning rapidly in Cisco says Dr. Joseph W. Gregory, city health officer. There has been a sharp decline in new cases during the last four days, but pneumonia which has followed the influenza retards convalescence, and makes recovery difficult.

Pneumonia is developing in the Dothan district a little too rapidly, and because of lack of nurses the Cisco Red Cross found it necessary to request Miss Alma Jones to go to Dothan to assist in cases there.

GERMAN ARMY YET STRONG; BOTH MEN AND MACHINES. PARIS, Feb. 13.—The German army is still 400,000 strong, according to a report received by the committee on foreign affairs today from General Niessel, head of the Baltic mission. In addition, there are 10,000 policing forces, officers and non-commissioned officers. Germany also is well supplied with tanks, machine guns and airplanes and in the neutral zone alone one of the right bank of the Rhine the policing forces number 15,000.

DE LEON MAN MAY ACCEPT WEST TEXAS CHAMBER JOB

Dr. J. C. Harkey, secretary of the DeLeon Chamber of Commerce, passed through Cisco yesterday on his way to Abilene, according to friends.

It is understood that Harkey will succeed the secretary of the Abilene Chamber of Commerce, who has resigned to take a place in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

RAILROAD NEGOTIATIONS ENDED

After Mr. Hines had given the administration's final word to Mr. Lee's organization, the railroad's president announced he regarded the white house decision as "binding on our union as well as the others." Although Mr. Lee declined to discuss his next move, it was understood he would not break from the other organizations.

It was indicated also that he would permit the wage agreement, notice of abrogation of which was given for February 23, to remain in effect until the termination of federal control. Members of his committee seemed to accept this as their chief stand.

Union Men Disappointed.

The general attitude of the union officials after hearing the president's statement in a conference on the south lawn of the white house, was plainly one of disappointment. Some of them were openly dissatisfied but the more conservative leaders urged that they bide their time in the hope of success along other lines.

It was understood that Mr. Hines had told the president that the railroad earnings were insufficient to take care of a new raise. The director general was said to have informed Mr. Wilson also that the railroad administration had adopted a policy last fall, which ended the "war cycle" of increasing the pay of its men and that any further revision in the wage agreements could be made only if there was more revenue provided.
