The presence in Reno, Nev., of Mrs. George Band, above, of New York, was taken to mean that the cereal fortune heiress' third marriage since 1930 was on the verge of divorce. Everything Is Prepared For Banquet

Suman Arrives in City Today; Guest At Dinner Tonight

Final arrangements have been completed and everything was today announced as in perfect readiness for the staging of the annual banquet of the Midland Chamber of Commerce in the Crystal ballroom of Hotel Scharbauer Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock, an exceptionally large attendance being indicated by the heavy advance sale of tickets and the large number of reservations made.

John R. Suman of Houston, vice-president of the Humble Oil and Refining Company, who will deliver the principal address, arrived here by plane from Houston at 12:40 this afternoon. He was accompanied by Mrs. Suman, W. W. Scott, head of the petroleum engineering department, David Frame, general superintendent in charge of drilling and production, and W. N. Finnegan, chief statistician, all of the Humble Oil and Refining company.

A dinner is being arranged for the visitors this evening by officials of the Humble company office here. The Humble officials are scheduled to meet with all superintendents of the various districts of West Texas here tomorrow.

The subject of Mr. Suman's address will be "Petroleum and the Future of the Permian Basin," which will be of great interest to members of the oil fraternity and to the general citizenship of West Texas. Ed M. Whitaker, local attorney, will introduce the speaker.

Mayor M. C. Uimer, toastmaster for the banquet, has announced that a brief but highly entertaining program will be presented: Mrs. J. M. Hawkins, choir director of the First Presbyterian church, will render a vocal solo, and Mrs. Tom Sealy, accomplished violinist, will be presented in a violin solo, both artists to be accompanied at the piano by Mrs. W. J. Colman. A selected number will also be offered.

The annual report of activities of the chamber of commerce will be in printed form and will be distributed at the banquet. President Marion Flynt will speak briefly relative to accomplishments of the year.

The election of officers and directors for 1936 will also be held, the nominating committee composed of J. E. Hill, chairman, W. T. Doherty, Allen Watts and R. M. Barron having been in final session this morning. The report of the committee will be read by Chairman Hill.

Reasons for the annual affair can still be made by calling the chamber of commerce office.

Giesecke Wildcat In Southeast Gains Tops Anhydrite

Resumption of drilling in A. G. Carter, Plymouth Oil Company and Continental Oil Company No. 1 Giesecke, wildcat in southeast Gaines county, featured today's developments in the North Basin area. This morning, the well was drilling anhydrite at 2,540 feet. With elevation of 3,115 feet, it topped anhydrite at 2,270, sample analysis revealed. Driller called top of well at 2,330. Remoteness of the Giesecke test from other wells has made correlation difficult. It had been shut down for the past several months at a total depth of 2,130 feet. Location is 440 feet from the north and west lines of land, 1 league 296, Reagan county school land.

Shirley No. 1 Cox estate, at the south edge of the Wasson pool in northwest Gaines, this morning was swabbing five barrels of fluid hourly, 90 percent sulphur water. It originally was drilled into a water in going to a total depth of 4,966 feet, and has been plugged back with lead wool to 4,950. Acid treatment of 1,000 gallons was made day before yesterday. The well is 440 feet from the north and east lines of section 380, block G, C. C. S. D. & R. G. N. C. survey.

Dislikes Minority Justice Role

A member of the U. S. Supreme Court's conservative group—and reportedly unhappy because it is now the minority faction—is Associate Justice James Clark McReynolds, shown above. The elderly southerner, now hearing his 78th birthday, is well past the 70-year age requirement in the recently-enacted law which permits justices to leave the court on full pay. McReynolds was born in Elkton, Ky., in 1857. He practiced law in Nashville, Tenn., and New York City for many years, and served as attorney general under President Woodrow Wilson, who appointed him to the Supreme Court in 1914. He has never married.

Passive Attitude Toward Far East Conflict Urged for United States by Speaker Today; Inaction Seen as Quickest Termination Aid

Deduction from trends of the "Far Eastern Situation" were made in a talk today by J. C. Moore, history professor of Midland high school, before the Rotary club, as an international service program. Introduced by W. C. Maxwell, program chairman, Mr. Moore delved deeply into the origin of the present Sino-Japanese conflict and brought forward the progress of Japan's invasion and of China's unexpected resistance, pointing out the various effects which might come of different outcomes which yet are possible.

In the summer of 1937, Mr. Moore said, Japan was faced with either invading and attempting to crush China or of making concessions. China, on the other hand, was faced with either submitting to attack or with mobilizing to resist Japan. The resulting conflict has been prolonged much farther than Japanese military leaders had expected.

How far the conflict will spread, whether it will remain localized or will become a world conflict, will be determined, the speaker said, by how far Japan goes into the northern territory, and how it will affect Russia.

Whether it will be necessary for European and world powers to intervene, whether sympathetic nations will take sides, is problematical, he said.

He pointed out that in China a new nationalism was born in 1914, that nations holding trade possessions there must help forthrightly to retain them or meet withdrawal from China. Rich in natural resources, the fight for Chinese possessions may draw other countries into the conflict, he said.

Money Used Up. He pointed out that Japan is advancing steadily in the Chinese invasion, but that China is stubbornly resisting, regardless of the fact that cities have been destroyed and thousands killed. He pointed out that Japan had made appropriations which will be exhausted late this month, that a bond issue to finance the conflict failed, and that it may be necessary to seize private capital or dumping of Japanese goods in other countries to finance the war. This, he pointed out, would leave Japan in financial ruin at the end of the invasion, even if successful; and the continued necessity for maintaining troops to keep down guerrilla warfare and enforce the submission of China would be costly.

He pointed out that if Russia should take sides with China, Russia would be the favored nation if

Call to Small Business Men Will be Made

Roosevelt to Ask Their Aid Toward Halting Recession

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP).—A White House aid said today that President Roosevelt would call in small business men soon in seeking cooperative methods regularizing business and employment.

This was disclosed as the president put forward organization of continuing an all-embracing council as a simple method of helping the administration formulate national economic policies.

Thus far presidential conferences have included only captains of industry, finance and labor.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP).—President Roosevelt said Wednesday night he was working slowly toward organization of an advisory council comprising all elements of the national economic life to guide him in the formulation of federal policies.

White House aides announced today that the disclosure to the commerce department's fifty-man business advisory council after generally approving a statement of that group's ideas on what should be done to end the present industrial recession.

In addition, he modified his stand of last week for the abolition of all holding companies. Some holding companies, he asserted, produced a certain amount of mass efficiency in operation or are otherwise in the public interest.

Commenting upon a request by the council for legislation fixing the responsibility of labor unions, Mr. Roosevelt suggested unions should, by common consent rather than by law, list publicly their receipts and expenditures.

The council was formed in 1933 at the suggestion of Secretary Rogers and has been often critical of administration policy since that time. W. Averill Harriman, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific Railroad, and chairman of the council acted as spokesman. The statement approved the objective of wage-hour legislation, but asked a study of the question be made before another bill is introduced. To this, Mr. Roosevelt later replied with the expression of a hope that such a study would not preclude action at this session of Congress.

It pledged the co-operation of the group in working out legislation for the elimination of harmful business practices, "recognized" that the "anti-trust" laws are to an extent outmoded, but asserted monopoly and monopolistic practices were incompatible with democracy.

It pledged the council's help in working toward decentralization of industry, geographically, but "viewed with grave concern any general move to outlaw Roper holding companies."

It deplored the administration's controversy with the public utility industry and asked that that industry be assured it will not be destroyed through government competition. On this point, Mr. Roosevelt said the misunderstanding affected but 15 per cent of the industry.

It endorsed the President's housing program.

It called for modification of both the undistributed profits tax and the capital gains tax as impediments to the flow of capital into industry, and under this heading, as well, asserted that the mass of investors "need reassurances as to the direction reform is to take."

It opposed any "further cheapening" of the dollar.

The annual Midland county health board meeting will be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the district court room, with the public being given a cordial invitation to attend.

A short review of the year's work by the board, a short talk by City Engineer East, who will point out some of the sanitary needs of the city, and a short talk by Ned Cochran, representative of the state health department and the United States public health service, who is in charge of a sanitary pit toilet campaign that will be started here next month.

Egypt's Boy King Weds Judge's Daughter Today

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 20 (AP).—Egypt's boy king, Farouk, was married today to his dark-eyed bride, Farida Zulfikar, amid scenes of oriental splendor, dazzling as in the ancient days of Pharaohs.

Farida, daughter of an Egyptian high court judge, excluded from the ceremony by Moslem custom, watched the rites through a large work partition from an adjoining room of the ancient Koubbeh palace.

Farida's father and the bridegroom signed the Moslem contract as grooms of the ancient citadel and others throughout the country boomed in royal salute.

The bride is 16, the bridegroom 17.

Savings and Loan Association Names Same Officer List

Revealing that over $400,000 had been loaned for construction of homes in Midland since its organization, the Midland Federal Savings and Loan Association held its annual meeting of stockholders Wednesday afternoon. Officers and directors were re-elected as follows: J. B. Martin, president; T. R. Wilson, vice-president; W. J. Sparks, secretary; and Mrs. W. B. Ammerman, assistant secretary; directors, Martin, Wilson, Sparks; holdover directors being John P. Butler, I. E. Daniel, Wilson and D. H. Roettger.

Loans now in effect totalled $188,476.64, it was reported. Only three delinquencies have been reported, and none of them for more than three months. Local funds of more than $70,000 have been invested, the association being qualified for making FHA loans also. Dividends of four per cent have been paid regularly to stockholders, and undivided profits and reserve now total approximately $7,500.

The present amount loaned represents 101 loans, the original amounts of these having been $219,000. In addition to the 101 loans, there are 59 which have been re-rolled to the RFC or other agencies. Directors expressed the hope that local investors this year will place additional funds in the stock of the organization. Stockholders are guaranteed the principal of their investment up to $5,000, by the federal government, the same as in federally insured bank deposits.

Hollywood Artists To Appear Here in Concert February 7

Announcement has just been made by Midland high school Supt. W. W. Lackey of a concert to be presented here on February 7 by Rose Paldar, mezzo-soprano and Mae Gilbert Reese, pianist in joint recital. Both young women come here with the highest praise of critics and musicians alike.

Rose Paldar's lovely voice was first brought to the attention of musicians when she was heard in a Gilbert and Sullivan opera while a student at Coe College. A Chicago music critic chimed to be in the audience and was so impressed by the rich, glorious voice of the young student that he immediately began a campaign to give Rose Paldar the best of musical training.

After several years of intensive study, his predictions are coming true, for she is the possessor of a talent that has already gained wide recognition. Hollywood motion picture scouts have also recently taken an interest in this beautiful young singer.

State, Navy Departments Start Probe

More Information Being Sought at The White House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP).—State and Navy Departments began an investigation today to determine authenticity of reports that an American oil tanker Nantucket chief had been seized by Spanish insurgent gunboats off Barcelona January 18.

Pending receipt of more definite information, officials declined to speculate on what action, if any, the United States might take if reports were true.

News of the tanker's plight reached Paris in a message from a French destroyer which reported seeing the vessel being escorted toward Palma, Mallorca, by two insurgent warships. The tanker's entire crew was recruited in Port Arthur, Texas.

The Nantucket Chief was flying the American flag and carried an American crew. French reports said the tanker was last seen being escorted by the insurgent vessels to Palma, Mallorca, Island stronghold of the insurgent sea and air forces.

Lloyd's shipping register lists the 5,189-ton tanker Gulflight of Port Arthur, Tex., as owned by the Gulf Oil Corporation.

In New York, Daniel Armstrong, Vice President of the Eastern States Petroleum company, said the Nantucket Chief was captured by insurgents as it attempted to deliver its second cargo of gasoline to the Spanish government.

He said his company held the "only certain interest" in the tanker.

Driller Is Held After Kermid Man Slain Wednesday

KERMIT, Jan. 20. Seven leaden slugs, fired from an army .45 automatic, ended the life of Wesley H. Reynolds, 34, service station operator here Wednesday afternoon. Five of them crashing into his body as he lay on his back in his office pleading for his life.

Ernest Jones, 34, employee of the Houston Petroleum Company's drilling department, surrendered to Justice of the Peace W. E. McCargo after the killing and was placed in jail for investigation. He refused to make any statement except, "I've just killed a man, but don't ask me any more questions," McCargo said.

Reynolds was shot once as he walked into the driveway of his service station, located across the street from the Winkler county courthouse.

In a statement to the sheriff's department, an eyewitness averred the only words spoken before the shooting occurred were by Jones, who said: "You know why I'm doing this."

He then fired once at Reynolds who ran around a truck parked in the driveway of the station, and made for his office. As he entered the office, another slug from the smoking automatic tore into his back, knocking him to the floor. He turned over on his back and pleaded for his life, but the witness said Jones pointed the gun at the prostrate man and fired five more bullets into his body.

Jones then strolled across the street to the courthouse and, holding the still warm gun in his hand, welcomed the sheriff's office and asked for Sheriff W. A. Priest. The sheriff was not in at the time, but Justice of Peace McCargo was in and after his questioning Jones would make, or has made, placed him under arrest, and in jail.

Information supplied the sheriff's department by friends of both Reynolds and Jones indicates the trouble that led up to the shooting was rooted in family affairs.

The slain man is survived by a brother, Ernest, 17, who was asleep in the service station at the time of the shooting, and his parents who reside in Snyder. No funeral arrangements have been announced.

Aggie Cagers Take To Road, Meet SMU And Frogs This Week

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 20. — With one-fourth of their southwest conference schedule behind them and one victory and two losses recorded, the Texas Aggie cagers will take to the road this week. They will play the Texas Christian Horned Frogs Friday night, Jan. 21, in Fort Worth and the Southern Methodist Mustangs Saturday night, Jan. 22, in Dallas.

To date the Frogs have been unable to break into the win column, going down twice to the University of Texas Longhorns, A. & M. and T. C. U. have been picked to fight it out for the cellar championship now held by the Frogs, but the Aggies served notice in their 43-39 victory against Rice last week, that they do not intend to accept that spot without a battle.

The Mustangs, 1927 conference cage champions, have split even in their two starts this season. They lost their opener to Baylor, 26-23 but nosed out the Longhorns, 29-28 last week. Aggie Coach H. R. (Hub) McQuillan feels that the Frogs are playing below par and are apt to hit their stride in any game, but hopes they do not find it until after the game Saturday.

Probable starting lineup for the Aggies while on the road will include: Captain Virgil (Buddy) Harris, Mineola, and Everett (Jimmy) Clark, Devers, forwards; Lanky Louie Freiburger, Point, center; Walter (Banjo) Robert, Crockett, and Sophomore Sammy Dwyer, El Paso, guards. All except Dwyer are lettermen.

Library Receives Important Gifts

AUSTIN, Texas. — The library at the University of Texas has recently received important gifts from two members of the faculty, according to Donald Coney, librarian. Dr. D. T. Starnes, professor of English, has presented nine volumes from the Aldine Press at Venice, printed between 1549 and 1560.

"These Renaissance Volumes," Mr. Coney said, "include an Italian translation of Apollon's history, an edition of Sallust's work on the Jugurthian war and his attack on Catiline, an important commentary on the Psalms, a popular Italian work on love written in the form of dialogues, a compilation of the letters and prefaces of Paul Manutius, son of Aldus Manutius, the founder of the Aldine Press; and three interesting works on language, including a work on spelling by the grand son of the first Aldus Manutius. Dr. Starnes also gave the 'Martyr Anniversary Studies in Language and Literature,' a modern volume now scarce and long sought by the English Department."

Dr. Theodore Stenberg, also professor of English, selected from the Johnson collection for presentation to the library a fine copy of the first edition of Johnson's "Dictionary," 1740, in two huge fono volumes, and a copy of "Irene," Johnson's only attempt to write a play, with some two Johnson "Irene."

Dr. Stenberg also gave a copy of Bishop Burnes' biography of Sir Matthew Hale. "The Dictionary," in particular, adds interest to the imposing collection of works already in the library illustrating the evolution of the dictionary, and, in general, should be of great scholarly service to students of the eighteenth century," Mr. Coney explained.

Life in South America Offers Round of Gaieties to Women from States But Has Disadvantages, Former Resident Says

BY KATHLEEN EILAND.
Wives of Midland oil men who have begun to look with longing eyes on company posts in South America, Arabia, Persia, or other countries on the far horizon, and who have premonitions that at some early date, Friend Husband will come home from work to say, "Honey, we're off to Maracaibo—or Bahrain or Teheran—might do well to confer with Mrs. Donald Vigeon on the why and how of feminine living in distant lands. From the vantage point of almost 12 years spent in Maracaibo, Venezuela, as the wife of an oil official of the Lago Petroleum company, a subsidiary of the Standard of New Jersey, Mrs. Vigeon, who moved here with her husband last August, tells interesting facts about what a woman may expect of life in a tropical country.

Tropical Climate.
Conditioning living, of course, is the climate. Maracaibo has warm weather all the year, a sameness of temperature which becomes monotonous. Summer clothes are worn the year round.

The women count it a treat, when from November to February the trade winds bring slightly cooler weather, to display the heavier clothes which they have brought from the states.

The custom of wearing summery frocks is followed even in malds' uniforms. Sometimes pale colors are worn in the mornings but in the evenings the uniforms, aprons, and even the sneakers worn on the girls' feet are white.

Social Life Straggles.
Frequently the alienism is heard that "tropical countries are unhealthful." Maracaibo is very healthful," Mrs. Vigeon stated, citing the example of Mr. Vigeon who spent 12 years there and never missed a day from work on account of illness.

However, women do often get thin and anemic there, she explained. Usually, women come to the States about every year or year and a half or go up into the high, cool Andes. Men usually remain for three years.

Mrs. Vigeon attributes whatever trouble her women friends have with their health in Venezuela mainly to the strenuous social life.

"There is entertaining all the time," she said, "and it is all done in the homes. No one thinks anything of having one or two big dinner parties a month."

If a hostess does not have sufficient number of maids to serve at her party, she may use those of her friends. If her house is too small for the number she wishes to entertain, she moves the party outdoors. Social affairs are very informal.

Picnics are popular and bridge has its devotees below the rim of the Caribbean just as it has in the United States.

Then there are dances every week. Each of the major oil companies which operate at Maracaibo has its own club house. In addition there are the yacht club, with members belonging to the International Sailboat club, and the Country Club, and the native club house.

Each company has its tennis court and the Lago had a golf course in addition.

Naturally, this ceaseless round of social activity is hard on women.

Like any other, this life has its disadvantages. The sameness of climate is one of these, Mrs. Vigeon believes, and so is the fact that the small group of those who work together and play together is so isolated that mere "looking at one another tends to monotony." A third disadvantage is the sameness of food, with not a sufficient variety, especially in meats. Menus depend chiefly on chicken, turkey and national cultural characteristics which make some foreign countries a paradise for souvenir seekers. There is no native dress and no picturesque souvenirs are produced. Mrs. Vigeon commented, though there is some beautiful wood and certain types of graceful wooden dishes and small decorative wooden boxes are made.

As might be expected in year-round warmth, tropical plants flourish. Palms add a picturesque touch to grounds of company employee homes while hedges of red, salmon, pink, and rose hibiscus add beauty to the landscapes. Acacia flowers and so does the bougainvillea vine whose thick branches are almost equivalent to a tree.

There are a few "native" dishes, probably the most popular being the hayaca, which is much like the tamales. It is larger than its Mexican relative, and instead of being steamed, it is made flat, wrapped in banana leaves and steamed. Its ingredients include olives, raisins, and capers as well as other good things. Among the native fruits is the papaya which is considered healthful and which Mrs. Vigeon

Attractive inducements are offered workers in these lands. The company by whom Mr. Vigeon was employed, for example, supplied the couple with a furnished house and utilities paid. Also in Maracaibo, the term "vacation" doesn't mean a breathless hurried two weeks—it means three leisurely months each year. And that, in the opinion of most American workers, is something.

Maracaibo is an oil town and is pre-dominantly foreign in population, although the oil employees' wives mingle with some native Venezuelan families in social affairs. Caracas is the real native center.

Although women of the native classes are now being Americanized and the traditional chaperonage is going away, there are still very strict rules of conduct. For example, a girl's family has to know all about the boys that she dates, and is paritized in Ven-

Hard to Get Men Away.

Does she like living in South America?
"I would recommend anybody to go," she said discussing her life in Maracaibo, declaring that she "would not take" for her experience there, but she likes Midland and its people and does not want to return to Venezuela except to visit.

"It is hard to get men away," she said, "those planning to go and advise a woman who seeks southward to be prepared to stay six or twelve years instead of three.

No Depression.
"That Big Bad Wolf, the Depression," was unnoticed in Maracaibo, and there was no talk of hard times while the Vigeons were there. Men can save money there, and have a good time, too, this dark-eyed woman who was born in Mexico and lived in San Antonio before her sojourn in the neighboring America, explained.

"Well—in a cigarette—it's the tobacco that counts. I know tobacco and I know what tobacco is in what cigarettes. So that's one reason I've smoked Luckies for 5 or 6 years."

Mr. Bobbitt represents the "aristocracy" of tobacco experts. He judges the tobacco that the growers grow. He's impartial, not connected with any cigarette manufacturer.

Many other experts agree with Mr. Bobbitt. Sworn records show that, among independent tobacco experts, Luckies have twice as many exclusive smokers as have all the other cigarettes combined.

Causes of Undulant Fever Outlined by State Veterinarian

Editor's note: The following article was written by Dr. J. O. Shannon, state veterinarian, after examinations of Midland county dairy cattle for Brucellosis (undulant fever).

Brucellosis is a disease primarily found in animals such as the cow, sheep, goat, horse, mule, hog and others, which is secondarily transmitted to his human by the eating of improperly cooked meat, use of improperly prepared milk and milk products and by the contact with infected animals.

The months of June, July and August are the greatest incidences of the disease, and this is explained not only by the greater use of milk during the summer months, but also by the fact that following the birth of the young in the spring, the cow's attention to the milk is more marked. Gentry and Ferensbaugh (1911), in Texas, noted that the cases of Brucellosis were most common in the spring and in the early summer months when the goats were in full milk and the ranchmen were caring for the kids and teaching them to suckle. These investigators also found that the Mexican goat herders attributed "goat fever" to the drinking of raw milk, and escaped the disease by boiling the milk and careful handling of the animals.

Since 1922 when Bevan and Rhoads, noted cases apparently connected with contagious abortion of cattle, cases have been reported in most of the countries of Europe, as well as many of the states of this country. In Iowa many cases have been proved to be from contact with infected hogs. It is endemic along the Rio Grande and for a strip of 80 miles to the north in the goat raising section of Texas. In 1922 thirty-five cases were reported in Phoenix, Arizona, and attributed to the sale of infected goat milk.

The incubation period usually lasts about two weeks, but cases have been reported when the first opportunity for infection preceded the onset of the disease by only five or six days. Then again there have been cases when the incubation period was apparently longer than a month. The typical case of Brucellosis following a rather insidious onset characterized by general malaise, headache, pains in the back of the neck and general muscular pains and loss of appetite, has a fever which reaches its highest point in the evening, with rather marked remission in the morning. This fever lasting for about three weeks. After a few days of slight fever or a normal temperature there is a recurrence of the initial febrile attack, and it is to successions of such relapses, covering on the average of three or four months, but at times extending beyond the limit of a year, that we recognize the appropriateness of the designation "undulant fever."

Because the disease produces symptoms much like our other diseases, and therefore is not easily recognized. One should, when seeking a diagnosis, consult a reputable physician and allow him to use the necessary diagnostic aids such as a thorough physical examination and adequate laboratory tests. The State Department of Health physicians feel that to escape the infection one should avoid contact with infected animals, eat well cooked meat, and be sure that all milk and milk products used come from noninfected animals and are prepared with finely chopped pimiento, Caviar and Chopped Olive. Lightly butter squares of toast. Spread half with Russian caviar and half with finely chopped olive.

Chicken in one of its most exalted moments—planked pullet with a border of duchesse potatoes and garnish of assorted fresh vegetables. Try it for the next party. It looks far grander than it is hard to prepare.

Chicken Plays A Grand Role In Dishes That Are Delightfully New

By Mrs. Gaynor Maddox, NEA Service Staff Writer.
To a hungry man, a chicken in the pot is worth two cars in the garage. Especially when some expert cook applies a little kitchen magic.

Skillet Chicken. (Serves 4)
One broiler (about 2 1/2 pounds), giblet broth, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon pepper, 1/3 cup cream, 2/3 cup whole milk, 1 tablespoon water for paste.
Have butcher cut broiler in 4 pieces breaking joint between drumstick and thigh without cutting through skin. Wipe chicken with damp cloth, dry, then season and dust with flour. Heat butter in large skillet, then brown chicken slightly on both sides. Combine in another pot about 1/2 cup of giblet broth, the cream and milk. Bring to boil and at once pour over chicken in skillet. Do not cover skillet. Remove to preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) and bake for about 45 minutes. Baste occasionally while baking. Remove chicken to hot platter and thicken gravy with smoothed flour. Pour over chicken on platter and that's something.

Skillet Chicken. (Serves 4)
One broiler (about 2 1/2 pounds) cut as for fricasseeing, 2 tablespoons butter, or vegetable shortening, 5 medium white onions, peeled and sliced, 1 large green pepper, 1 No. 1 can tomatoes, 1 1/2 tablespoons salt, 1/2 cup sour cream.
Wipe chicken with damp cloth. Heat butter in heavy saucepan. Add onions and cook slowly for 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add green pepper and continue cooking for 5 minutes. Stir in tomatoes and seasoning and heat. Add chicken. Cover tightly and cook slowly for 40 or 45 minutes, or until tender. Remove the chicken to a casserole. Turn the heat low under the saucepan and gradually add sour cream to sauce, stirring constantly. When hot and blended, pour over the chicken.

One broiler (about 2 1/2 pounds) cut as for fricasseeing, 2 tablespoons butter, or vegetable shortening, 5 medium white onions, peeled and sliced, 1 large green pepper, 1 No. 1 can tomatoes, 1 1/2 tablespoons salt, 1/2 cup sour cream.
Wipe chicken with damp cloth. Heat butter in heavy saucepan. Add onions and cook slowly for 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add green pepper and continue cooking for 5 minutes. Stir in tomatoes and seasoning and heat. Add chicken. Cover tightly and cook slowly for 40 or 45 minutes, or until tender. Remove the chicken to a casserole. Turn the heat low under the saucepan and gradually add sour cream to sauce, stirring constantly. When hot and blended, pour over the chicken.

Shows Sticks to Mismangement Talk About Game Comm.

AUSTIN Jan. 20 (AP)—Assistant Attorney General Harry Pollard today questioned Jess Showers, resigned game commission chairman, but failed to shake the Vernon business man in his allegations of gross mismanagement in the game department.
Showers reiterated charges "politically dominated the commission" to the detriment of game conservation and gave specific instances for record in the senate committee's investigation.
Governor Allred added fireworks to the inquiry late yesterday by cross-examining Showers.

PUZZLING BIRD FOUND

RICHMOND, Cal. (AP) — Although this city has a game bird aviary that houses virtually every type of bird native to North America, a new one has been found that cannot be identified. Park employees have given it the name of "Archie the Fighting Pigeon," because it starts fighting when anyone or anything approaches.

WHISKY PROTECTS SHEEP.

MELBOURNE. — Storms of the late winters and early spring have no terrors for the men in charge of the valuable flocks of sheep at one Victoria ranch. Owners bought gallons of whisky and milk. A solution of the two was injected into each member of a valuable study flock. Not one sheep was lost.

McKee Leases Swab.
Swab lost at bottom of tubing had prevented testing today of Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1-A J. H. McKee, Ordovician well in the Imperial area of northern Pecos county. Swab was lost after only five or six runs had been made, with yield of 20 barrels of wash water. Operators today at noon were deliberating as to the best method of recovering swab without having to pull tubing. Two and one-half inch tubing, with anchor on bottom and four or five feet of perforations above anchor, is set at total depth of 5,294 feet. Difficulty in starting circulation yesterday gave rise to reports that tubing was plugged, but it was found that heavy mud at the bottom of the hole was holding back circulation. Clear water was used to wash hole when circulation finally was established. No. 1-A McKee drilled and cored oil-saturated Simpson sand from 5,271-80 feet. It is in section 24, block 9, H. & G. N. survey.
In western Crane, Gulf No. 7 Waddell, deep test offsetting a large Ordovician producer to the south, is drilling at 2,312 feet in lime. Farther northeast, Gulf No. 3 McKnight is swabbing at 2,800 feet, recovering 20 barrels of sulphur water hourly, with no gas or oil. Pocket of gas was reported, but it exhausted. Total depth of the test is 6,258 feet, in lime.
Floyd C. Dodson No. 1-A Texas American Syndicate, Brewer county, by deep wildcat, is drilling at 6,925 feet, in shale and lime. Bedding Test at 4,798.
Jack D. Bodkins No. 1 Will P. Edwards, southeastern Boster wildcat, is drilling at 4,760 feet, in hard spid lime. Original contract depth was 4,508 feet.
In Yoakum, Denver No. 3-A Whittenburg flowed 461 barrels a day upon completion at 3,070 feet, after treating with 7,500 gallons. It topped pay at 4,896.

'Uncle Billy' Disch Hunts Hopefully for First Class Hurlers

AUSTIN, Jan. 20. — William J. "Uncle Billy" Disch is scratching his white locks these sunny days, wondering where he'll get the pitchers to carry his Texas Longhorns thru their strenuous baseball schedule which includes one big-league game, several tilts with Texas league clubs and a 15-game Southwest conference program.
It may be remembered that Uncle Billy suffered similar misgivings last spring, but a tall right-hander named C. C. Ruffness came through in such fine fashion that the Longhorns have the Texas Aggies a little better for the conference championship.
Coach Disch hopes for a similar surprise this spring but doesn't know where to look for it. John Garmon, a southpaw, and Kirven Fields from last year's squad, and Guy Aldridge, the best 27 freshman hurler, are leading possibilities.
The Longhorns definitely have scheduled a game with the St. Louis Browns here March 29 and a pair with the Houston Buffs April 8-9.
The conference schedule gives Texas eight home games as against seven on the road. It follows:
March 26—Rice at Houston.
March 31—T. C. U. at Austin.
April 1—T. C. U. at Austin.
April 14—S. M. U. at Austin.
April 22—aylor at Waco.
April 28—Rice at Austin.
May 3—A. & M. at College Station.
May 6-7 S. M. U. at Dallas.
May 9—T. C. U. at Ft. Worth.
May 13—aylor at Austin.
May 20-21—A. & M. at Austin.

TURBAN STUFFED IN LION'S MAW

MOBAY, (AP)—Attacked by a lion in the jungle near Jhansi, a young herder saved himself by whipping off his turban and stuffing it in the animal's mouth, according to word reaching here. While the animal struggled to eject the heavy folds of cloth, the youth escaped.

During the coronation of King Edward VII of England the aged Archbishop of Canterbury placed the crown on the King's head backward. He trembled so from weakness that everyone feared he would drop the crown.
