Soremouth Talk Heard by Scores of Sutton People

Station Veterinarians Tell Result of Experimentation and Show Methods

In the first of a series of demonstrations to be given throughout the sheep and goat country, Drs. I. B. Boughton and W. T. Hardy, veterinarians at the Ranch Experiment Station, revealed the results and demonstrated methods used in treating soremouth Friday afternoon of last week in La Vista theater here.

Dr. Boughton told in detail the results of their tests, both in the laboratory and in the field. Of particular interest to ranchmen were the figures on their ranch tests, conducted on the Aldwell Bros. ranch and the Dock Friend ranch in Sutton county, on the Wilce Owens ranch in Crockett county and the Charlie Cannon place in Fecos county.

The veterinarians vaccinated 7,884 lambs, and on the same ranches left a total of 10,173 head unvaccinated. Of the vaccinated lambs only 30 later suffered from soremouth, and several of that number had light attacks. Of the untreated lambs 6667, considerably more than half, had soremouth in varying stages of severity.

The lambs were scratched on the flank, under either leg, and the virus then applied to the scratch in the skin. A large sore, similar in appearance and effects, and passing through the same stages as the soremouth, resulted on the flank. After the twenty-one days, average time required for soremouth to run its course, the lambs recovered fully, and then proved immune to later attacks of the complaint in the mouth, with the exception of 30 and in more than seven thousand.

And remarkably, only 2 lambs in the entire 7884 became infested with screw worms. Usually it is (Continued on page 8)

Big Load Tuesday Gets Most Sheep

Nineteen Cars in Day's Shipment; 32 Week's Total

A big trainload Tuesday caught a majority of the sheep shipped from Sonora during the last week. On that day 19 cars were shipped, all feeder stuff. Wednesday 10 cars went out, with none Thursday. Saturday three cars were shipped, by Woodward & Ramsey, 2 to Mt. Hope, Kan., and 1 to Kechi, Kan.

Tuesday's load was made up as follows: Abe Mayer, 6 doubles of Claude Hudspeth sheep to Byrne; Virgin Powell, 2 doubles to Ballinger; National Commission Company, 2 doubles to La Mott, Okla., and one each to Kremlin and Pond Creek, Okla.; E. L. Hildreth, 5 cars of Hudspeth sheep to Brush, Colo. John Clay & Co. shipped two sin- (Continued on page 8)

Ducks Having Hard Time; Season Open

Numerous Shallow Lakes Attract Birds in Sonora Country

Ducks are having a hard time as the fall hunting season gets underway. The duck season opened Tuesday at noon and a number of Sonora hunters have made successful excursions to the shallow lakes on the divides in this area.

Recent heavy rains filled many ponds and provided attractions for hundreds of the migratory fowl.

C. D. Wyatt Sells 2,400 Acres to Son

C. D. Wyatt this week transferred to his son, Henry Wyatt, title in four sections in Sutton county ranch land.

The consideration involved was $12,800, and the assumption of $1404 due the state of Texas on two sections of the tract, a total of $14,204, according to records of Sutton county.

NEWS HAS BIRTHDAY; 43RD YEAR STARTED

With last week's issue The Devil's River News completed its 42nd year of publication in Sonora, and this issue marks the beginning of the 43rd year of continuous service as the 'Newspaper of the Stockman's Paradise.'

Founded by the late Mike Murphy, and later edited by his brother, Steve, The News files are a record of the early day development of Sonora and West Texas.

With the possible exception of the San Angelo Standard, The News is the oldest paper in West Texas still operating under its original name. Likewise it is the oldest business institution in Sutton county retaining the original name.

HALLOWE'EN OBSERVED QUIETLY MONDAY NIGHT

Hallowe'en was observed quietly in Sonora Monday night, with little or no property damage. Numerous parties enlivened the evening and tended to prevent the destruction that sometimes accompanies the advent of the night of spooks and black cats.

Aside from misplaced signs, street markers, a few gates, and some filling station equipment, the only annoying consequence of the evening's pranking was an overturned barrel of burned lubricating oil, which has been tracked into many homes and business houses to the detriment of floors and rugs.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Evans were in Sonora Tuesday on business.

Mrs. Tom Murray and Dayton Murray were San Angelo visitors Saturday.

Mrs. W. E. James returned Monday from visiting relatives and friends in San Antonio and Austin.

She accompanied the Rev. O. E. Moreland, of Water Valley, a former pastor, to San Antonio, where he attended the Methodist annual conference, and returned with him following the conference.

Rev. E. P. Neal Is Pastor of Sonora Church 3rd Time

Local Methodist Minister One of 8 in West Texas Returned by Conference

The Rev. E. P. Neal was assigned by the Bishop of the San Antonio conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, to the Sonora Methodist church as its pastor for a third year at the close of the annual conference program in San Antonio Sunday night.

The Rev. Mr. Neal came to Sonora two years ago from Sinton, in the Corpus Christi district, and his re-appointment here makes the third time he has been assigned the Sonora pastorate.

In the San Angelo district eight ministers were returned to their former charges, while fourteen new assignments were given. Among others remaining in this area are the Rev. Grady Timmons, San Angelo, the Rev. J. H. Meredith, at Ozona, the Rev. F. M. Jackson, former pastor here, at Miles, and the Rev. O. E. Moreland, Water Valley.

Charlie Knuppe, who lives a few miles north of McGregor, Texas, doesn't depend entirely on his cotton crop. He raises feed, feeds it to the hogs and sells hundreds of pounds of "sausage in the casin," every year, besides having plenty for himself and family. Charlie is shown with several big lengths of his hog fruit around his neck.

Nearly Perfect

A Texas tot, Colleen Rita O'Conner, aged three, of Marshall, Texas, stepped across the state line last week and won first place in the Baby Welfare contest of the Louisiana State fair at Shreveport, in competition with 451 children. Her score was 99½—a mole on her tootsie prevented a perfect score.

Firemen Plan Dance for Armistice Day

Monthly Meeting Held Wednesday; Two New Members Voted in

The Sonora Fire Department plans to sponsor a dance at the Scout Hall on the night of Nov. 11, following the Armistice Day football game here between Ozona and Sonora. Jodie Trainer, Nolan Kennedy and Hillman Brown were appointed as a committee to plan and arrange the dance.

Two active members were voted in. Bobbie Allison was re-instated and Louis Trainer became an active member.

Following a routine business meeting, Floyd Dungan took the floor and gave an oral examination covering work he has taught members of the department regarding his course in training last summer at A & M college.

WAREHOUSE CONSIGNS LONG WOOL AT 11 CENTS

The Sonora Wool & Mohair Co. this week consigned its accumulation of 12-months wool, only about 10,000 pounds, to A. W. Hilliard of Boston on an advance of 11 cents a pound. The wool was made up of a small remnant from last spring and small lots shorn this fall.

In the spring long wool was consigned here on an 8 and 8½ cent advance, and fall advance represented a substantial increase.

Kring Gallops 80 Yds. for Touchdown on Second Play

Although showing excellent form, and gaining more yardage than the Rocksprings Bulldogs, the Sonora Bronchos went down under a 19 to 6 count at the Edwards county capital Saturday.

The outstanding feature of the game was Kring's eighty-yard run for a touchdown on the second play of the game. The Bronchos received the kickoff, returning a 45-yard kick 5 yards to their own 20-yard line. The first play from scrimmage Kring slipped through tackle, stiff-armed a halfback, and farther down the field, eluded Cloudt, Rocksprings stellar safety, and ran, untracked, to the goal.

Rocksprings scoring was done on power plays. Every threat was made good, and every break that Sonora was penalized nine times and (Continued on Page 8)

Kring's Relative Dies in Ft. Worth

Victim in Fire Truck Collision Had Visited in Sonora

G. E. Wilson, 39, a fireman of No. 1 station of the Fort Worth Fire Department, and a brother-in-law of Jess Kring of Sonora, was one of the two firemen killed in a crash between two fire trucks which occurred at a street intersection at four o'clock Sunday morning.

Both trucks were answering one alarm, and unavoidably collided. Both men killed were riding a rear step of the truck. Mr. Wilson catapulted along the street and his bones were broken in several places by the impact. He was pronounced dead by the time an ambulance had carried him to a hospital.

Mr. Wilson had visited the Kring family in Sonora and was known to numbers of people here. Mr. and Mrs. Kring, his mother, and son, Dewight, left immediately Sunday after learning of the tragedy and attended the funeral in Fort Worth Monday morning at 10 o'clock. They returned home Wednesday.

Mr. Wilson is survived by his wife and two daughters, one 14 and one 12.

Truck Injures Cattle on Road

Early Friday morning a Schleicher county truck ran through a bunch of cattle being driven along Highway 30 toward Sonora from the E. M. Kirkland ranch, crippling about 10 head of stock. The accident occurred near the Sonora dump ground, two miles below town. According to witnesses the truck made no effort to stop and drove straight into the cattle.

Election Holds Spotlight as Campaigns Nearing Close

HERE'S PROOF FARMING PAYS IN SUTTON CO.

Farming pays in Sutton county—that is, if farming pays anywhere, for real crops can be made in Sutton county, as proved by the work of A. J. Faught, one of the few men in the county to take the tilling of soil seriously.

On his place 10 miles northwest of town Mr. Faught this year produced 25 bales of cotton on 30 acres, and it was good cotton. He had it ginned at Bailey Ranch in Schleicher county.

His corn, part of which he gathered in a boat after the submersion of his field in big rains, made 35 bushels to the acre. Kaffir corn was good, and each acre produced 800 bundles—of the size that a man keeps for his own use.

Bronchos Favored to Take Invading Menard 11 Today

Yellow Jackets Here for First Local Conference Game; Only One Local Out

The Sonora Bronchos are being doped to take their first home conference game of the year here this afternoon when they tangle with the invading Yellow Jackets from Menard. The game begins this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Bronchos have lost two conference games, one with Eldorado and one with Rocksprings, and have

Buzz-Saw Captures Interest

In the midst of the game a run-away buzz-saw captured the interest of the spectators completely. A wood saw in a neighboring pasture suddenly went haywire, the blade came loose and was whirled several hundred feet into the air, with a most unusual noise. Fortunately it alighted in the road at the side of the field, and did not seriously endanger people witnessing the game.

Sentiment in Sutton Favors Bullington for Governor

TO SPLIT TICKET

Democrats Appear As Winners in All But State Office

Politics and the general election Tuesday hold the spotlight of public interest as heated campaigns draw to a close both in state and national races.

With the straight-line Democrats giving their support to Ferguson, and with the former governor pleading for party regularity, the Democratic supporters of Orville Bullington, Republican nominee, are urging the dissolution of party lines and greater attention to individual merits of the respective candidates.

Contested elections, together with the bitterness which usually attends a campaign in which the Fergusons take part, have made the present campaign one of the most far reaching in the history of Texas. On the part of the non-Ferguson faction there is a definite and frank plea to the voters of the state to repudiate party pledges and partisan politics and elect a Republican governor of Texas.

Political observers feel that Sutton county, always opposed to the Ferguson rule, will go emphatically Republican insofar as the one state race is concerned. Too, in West Texas the Republican party has considerable strength under normal circumstances; and this, coupled (Continued on page 8)

Rocksprings Record Denies Road Trade

Edwards County Says it Did Not Want No. 29 Discontinued

The Rocksprings Record this week will publish a denial of reports to the effect that designation of Highway 55 from Rocksprings to Sonora was accomplished through a trade in which Edwards county representatives agreed to cancellation of state designation on Highway 29 from Rocksprings to Junction.

The Edwards county delegation made no such trade, the story will say, and in fact, insisted that designation of No. 29, along with state maintenance, be continued. Designation of No. 55 was granted only on need for such a road.

In support of the fact that there was no swapping of designations, the Record quotes a letter from (Continued on page 8)

East Texas Development Features Oil History of Last Few Years; State Is Now Producing 40 Pct. of U. S. Total

Editor's Note—The early years of development in this state were spectacular enough, but later years have witnessed just as intensive and aggressive movements on the part of the oil industry. This is the conclusion of James L. Dwyer's thumbnail sketch of oil in Texas as written for the Petroleum Engineer, and reproduced here in The Devil's River News:

Following the discovery of Boggy Creek in March, 1927, the eastern portion of the state was treated to a very intensive geophysical and geological play, with the result that the Van Field, Van Zandt county, was found in October, 1929. This is one of the most interesting fields in the state. Immediately after its discovery all the acreage owners in the area pooled their holdings under the unit plan of operation. As a result the field has been carefully and slowly developed.

In September, 1930, C. M. Joiner completed a wildcat producer in Rusk county, followed in December by the Bateman well eight miles to the north. In January, 1931, a well 14 miles north of the Bateman producer was completed in Gregg county. These wells started a storm of leasing and drilling activity, the greatest ever witnessed. The East Texas field has established many remarkable development and production records which are amazing. In these two years, nearly 7,800 wells have been completed in the district, and have spread the proven productive acreage to a total of more than 113,000 acres, nearly 50 miles in length and ten miles wide. As many as 172 wells have been completed within one week. In some cases rapid drilling has enabled drillers to penetrate the 3,600-foot producing horizon in 72 hours time from surface to bottom. During the first two years of its life the field produced 200,000,000 barrels of oil, and at one time (just prior to strict proration enforcement) the field made 848,350 barrels in 24 hours—a figure far exceeding production records of any field in the world.

Since 1911, production in the state of Texas has reached new peaks each year, and in 1928 it became the leading producer of the Union. A new all-time record output for any state in the Nation was established in 1931, when it produced 330,720,000 barrels—a figure exceeding the combined output of all producing states with the exception of California, and which represents a total almost equal to the annual quantity produced by all foreign countries. Latest figures of the American Petroleum Institute show that at the present time the state is producing approximately 40 per cent of the Nation's output.

Texas' accumulated production up to January 1st, 1932, was 2,677,945,000 barrels, an amount produced in the last 35 years. Much of the oil in Texas has been found in relatively shallow pools, but a great deal of new production has been found at much greater depths. Today, oil producing horizons in the state extend from among the shallowest to the second deepest commercial production in the world.

Texas is also the leading gas producing state in the Union, with an annual volume which has increased from 5,500,000 cubic feet in 1911 to nearly 517,808,000,000 cubic feet in 1930 for domestic consumption alone.

The state also holds major rank in refining and pipe line activity, being second from the standpoint of refinery capacity with facilities for handling approximately 838,000 barrels daily. In pipe lines, the state is first in point of mileage of both oil and gas trunk lines.

Several of the world's largest natural gas transmission systems originated in Texas, the largest being the Natural Gas Pipe Company's 24-inch line to Chicago. This line carries gas from the Texas Panhandle, which is the world's largest known natural gas reserve.

It is evident that the present productive fields in the state do not define the extent of production and that many important extensions are logical conclusions. Thus far in 1932 Texas has accounted for nearly three-fourths of the completions and producers of the entire United States and approximately one-half of the rigs and drilling wells. This activity has resulted in the discovery of more promising new oil fields than are to be found in any other state, many of which are but awaiting the decline in activity at East Texas before active intensive development is commenced.

Any story touching on the history of the petroleum industry of Texas or any statement concerning the importance of this industry to the growth of the state, would be incomplete without some discussion of the industry's contribution to the growth of the area.

The petroleum industry is one of the three or four major factors in the growth and development of the state of Texas, and as such its inclusion in any economic study of the region is imperative. The discovery of petroleum production has attracted a vast army of people to the fields of the state. The development of every new producing territory affects the movement of population, necessitates expansion of transportation and communication facilities, requires changes in banking, increases the value of property, and opens up new avenues of wholesale and retail distribution of both luxuries and necessities.

Every strike has been the signal for a wild rush to the new territory and for a complete change in the complexion of the surrounding countryside. Farmers who had formerly been able to earn a scant living suddenly found themselves owners of very valuable property. Small communities sprang up by the hundreds, the need for capital to finance the drilling operations expanded the banking facilities, the new communities had to be supplied with the necessities of life, and the new wells required immense quantities of industrial goods. If the strike proved to be the opening of a large producing area, the district gradually assumed the aspect of a settled community, the original shacks were replaced by real dwellings and roads were built to connect the community with the outside world, and provision had to be made for transporting the oil to refining centers.

Population figures for a period of ten years shows that 55 counties in which oil was found had an increase of 35.6 per cent in population, and while the remainder of the 199 counties in the state showed but 20.6 per cent increase. Certain towns closely connected with the oil fields had even more startling gains in population, for instance: Breckenridge, 310 per cent; Amarillo, 178.4 per cent and Longview, 400 per cent.

The shipment of crude oil and, more particularly, of refined petroleum has been a very important factor in railway transportation. The availability of large supplies of fuel oil and gas has been one factor in attracting large industrial concerns to the district, thus furnishing comparatively lucrative employment to thousands of men.

Some idea of the tremendous importance of the petroleum industry to the state may be gained from the fact that no other industry has as large a payroll, pays out as much money in all kinds of taxes, has as large a capital investment, or pays out as much money in maintenance work.

TAMED MOSQUITOES ARE LATEST MALARIA FIGHTERS

New York, Oct. 26.—The tame mosquito was announced today as the latest contribution of science to the fight upon malaria.

The difficulty previously was that mosquitoes refused to breed in captivity. Boyd feeds his captive males on raisins.

The last session of congress, in its effort to combat the depression and solve the unemployment question, passed a bill whereby municipal corporations may obtain money through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for such improvements as sewer systems, payment on same to be made solely out of revenues derived from connection charges, and it is through this procedure that our city officials propose to give the citizens of Fort Stockton a $50,000 sewer system without a raise in the present tax rate.

Aside from adding much to the appearance and sanitary condition of Fort Stockton the installation of a sewer system at this time would give work to numbers of unemployed, who are now facing a long, hard winter without a dollar in their pockets.

Mayor Winfield, in discussing the proposition with a Pioneer representative, stated that after a thorough investigation of the proposition he is 100 per cent for it, and that he is thoroughly convinced af in the administration of his government. It was on this noble idea that our present basis of electoral representation was based.

Only at the time of the election does the average citizen have ready opportunity to express his opinion of the policies being promoted, or carried out, by the men who run the affairs of state.

Don't let anything prevent your taking part in the selection of government officials next Tuesday. The next four years will be important ones in the history of nation, and state, and it behooves us to give every serious thought to the matter of government.

It is easy to stay away from the polls, to adopt the attitude of "Don't care—will not make any difference, anyway." But the loyal citizen, interested in the future of the nation, should go to the polls and vote, and encourage others to do the same thing.

Stock Shipments in Texas Show Decline

Decrease of 21 Per Cent Noted from Total in October, 1931

Austin, Oct. 28.—Total rail shipments of Texas livestock to Fort Worth and interstate points during September amounted to 1,958 cars, a decline of 21 per cent from the 2,468 cars shipped during the corresponding month in 1931...

ped during the same month a year ago by 11 per cent.

During the first nine months of the year, total interstate shipments, including both rail and truck shipments to Fort Worth, were almost the same as those of the corresponding period a year ago, amounting to 36,584 cars during the current year against 36,932 cars during the corresponding period last year.

Interstate movements of livestock to feeding areas are beginning to assume considerable importance and indicate that feeding operations are getting under way in certain sections of the state.

Sheep feeding has taken on considerable momentum in the Ballinger, Abilene and Sweetwater areas of Runnels, Taylor and Nolan counties in contrast to last year at this time. On the other hand, feeding in the Lubbock area appears to be slow in getting under way, but reports indicate that activity will soon quicken in that area also.

PETER RABBIT MEETS LIGHTFOOT

PETER RABBIT was on his way back from the pond of Paddy the Beaver deep in the Green Forest. He had just seen Mr. and Mrs. Quack and their ten young Quacks start on their long, terrible journey to the far away Southland.

"I Hope They Will Get Through All Right," Said He.

A hunter was coming, and could hide in a hole if I wanted to. I never had to worry about my meals. But with the Quacks it is a thousand times worse.

"It's awful," declared Peter. "It's worse than unfair. It doesn't give them any chance at all."

"I suppose it must be so if you say so," replied Lightfoot, "but suppose you tell me what all this awfulness is about."

"I hope they will get through all right," said he, "and I hope they will get back in the spring. It is bad to be hunted by men at one time of the year, as no one knows better than I do, but to be hunted in the spring as well as in the fall is more than twice as bad."

"At the idea of your hunting a man," replied Peter. "Your heart is right, Lightfoot, but you are too timid and gentle to frighten any one. Big as you are, I wouldn't fear you."

With a single swift bound Lightfoot sprang out in front of Peter. He stamped his shapely hoofs, lowered his handsome head, and pointed straight at Peter, lifted the hair along the back of his neck, and made a motion as if to plunge at Peter.

"Oh!" cried Peter in a very faint, frightened-sounding voice, and leaped to one side before it entered his foolish little head that Lightfoot was just pretending.

Lovely Party Ends In Bridal Shower Given Mrs. Prater

Honoring Mrs. Preston Prater, nee Miss Lena V. Stokes, recent bride, Mesdames R. A. Halbert and Cleve Jones, and Miss Muriel Simmons entertained at the Sonora Woman's Club house Thursday afternoon of last week with 17 tables of auction, a party which proved, following the playing of bridge, to be a miscellaneous shower of gifts to the honoree.

The club room was attractive with pink roses and pink and blue bridge table accessories, including pink crepe paper covers on score pads with blue table numbers, dainty sky-blue tallies bearing bridal motifs, and pink-wrapped pencils, made to resemble rosebuds. Attractive refreshments of chicken salad, macaroons, coffee, and knick-knacks, were served by former school friends of the bride.

Shortly after lovely linen prizes won by Miss Dora Petmecky and Mrs. J. A. Cauthorn for high and low scores, respectively, had been presented to Mrs. Prater who also received a guest gift of linen, a knock at the front door of the clubhouse attracted attention to a rotund negro mammy, bandannaed and aproned, who dragged herself toilsomely through the doorway with a tremendous white pack on her back, inquiring, in broad dialect, for "Miss Lena V.", and then depositing her burden at Mrs. Prater's feet with the announcement, "I bring youalls' laundry!" whereupon the sheet fell apart, disclosing a myriad of dainty parcels wrapped in pink and blue tissue, which lay strewn on the floor awaiting opening by the honor guest. Miss Vivian Ball was identified as the actress of the clever presentation.

The profusion of beautiful gifts was unwrapped amidst a chorus of admiring comments on the part of those present, all of whom enjoyed the arrangement of pretty things on card tables around the bride; who acknowledged her gratitude by a few words of appreciation.

Attendees at the party were the following: Mesdames T. D. White, B. M. Halbert, Joe Hull, S. R. Hull, Miers Savell, R. C. Vicars, E. C.

HALLOWE'EN FROLICS REIGN IN SONORA AS TRADITIONAL SPOOK NIGHT COMES AND GOES

A gala Hallowe'en season prevailed this year in Sonora, with many club parties employing the seasonal motif in details of decoration, and an unusually large number of frolics taking place in observance of All Saints' Night.

Sixth Grade Celebrates Friday
Members of the sixth grade enjoyed an exciting time Friday evening when Mrs. Murton Shurley and Mrs. Orion Brown, school room mothers of the class, entertained them with a Hallowe'en party at the Shurley ranch home. Additional atmosphere was added by awe-inspiring ghosts placed along the road to the ranch by the hostess, who had draped trees in sheets to obtain the thrilling effect.

The house was beautifully decorated in true Hallowe'en style with more spooks provided there. The Misses Vivian Ball, teacher of the grade, Ruth Tipton, and Maurine Phillips were present at the affair.

The children enjoyed a truck ride given them by Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Stokes, after which the young masqueraders enjoyed doughnuts, apples, and orangeade around a great bonfire. The drink was served from milk bottles, with straws, much to the amusement of the partakers.

Third Grade Parties at Scout Hall

A hilarious evening's fun was enjoyed by members of the third grade and their friends Monday night at the Boy Scout hall when Mrs. W. C. Gilmore and Mrs. Lois Landrum, room mothers, entertained the little folks with a masquerade party. Amidst orange and black decorations the children, in amusing costumes, were happily entertained from 7:00 to 8:30 o'clock, enjoying refreshments of popcorn, stick candy, fudge, and apples, for which last dainty they "bobbed."

The hostesses were assisted by Miss Ruth Tipton, grade teacher, and Mrs. W. S. Evans.

Seventh Grade at H. E. Cottage

The seventh grade found that the erstwhile prosaic Home Economics cottage at the high school housed a mysterious old mill Monday night, when, after a blood-curdling story of an old mill, told by Superintendent R. S. Covey, they were led through a similar old mill, where they were allowed to handle the dissected parts of the dragon which was killed by a prince, and even shook hands with the prince himself.

Outsidethe cottage, in rounding a corner of the building, they encountered a friendly ghost who handed them fortunes written in invisible ink, which was brought to light only when held over the flame of candles.

The occasion for all of this mystery was a Hallowe'en party given by Mrs. W. L. Davis, room mother of the grade, assisted by Mrs. Richard Vehle, Mrs. Vernon Marion, and Miss Allien Swafford. Cocoa and cookies were served to about 20 young people. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Logan and W. L. Davis were also attendants.

Fifth Grade Has Celebration

Mrs. G. G. Stephenson was hostess to members of the fifth grade Monday night at her home with a Hallowe'en party for her little daughter, Wirt Ellis. About 19 children came in costume and enjoyed fortune telling with a crystal ball, various games, and refreshments of cocoa and cake.

Mrs. Bode Entertains Small Artists

The Junior Art Club, recently organized under the sponsorship of Mrs. Edmond Heinze, was entertained by Mrs. E. A. Bode at her home Monday night with a Hallowe'en party. A Jack-O'-Lantern welcomed the young guests from the porch as they arrived, and were ushered into a transformed living room which represented a mystic woodland. Here they found fascinating spooks, and enjoyed various forms of entertainment. Fishing for apples was greatly enjoyed.

A high point of the evening was the presentation of a prize for the best costume, won by Danny Friess. Judges in this awarding were Russell Long, E. A. Bode, and Edmond Heinze.

Mrs. Bode was assisted by Mrs. Heinze and Mrs. Long in serving cocoa and cookies to the club members and their friends, about 24 in number.

Mrs. Sawyer Entertains Seniors

The Senior Class of the high school was entertained Monday night at the home of Mrs. E. E. Sawyer with an unusually delightful and original Hallowe'en party, beginning with various games, and reaching its climax in a truck drive in the Gilmore Hardware Company's truck, driven by Woodrow Norris.

Miss Allien Swafford entertained with a fascinating ghost story.

In a fishing game each guest received a Hallowe'en noisemaker, which added festivity to the occasion. Ghosts at entrance door, landings of the stairway, and elsewhere created thrilling atmosphere. A chamber of horrors further carried out the spirit of the night, with one of the more novel features of the party being the telling of fortunes from another room by radio and the "coming back" of spirits from the dead, after they had ben led out of the roomful of guests by a ghost.

Following the truck ride, refreshments of cocoa, sandwiches, and cookies in Hallowe'en colors were served.

Mrs. George Baker Is Hostess at Two Parties on Friday

Mrs. George Baker entertained, Friday of last week, at the Sonora Woman's Club house with five tables of contract and four of auction in the afternoon, and seven tables of contract in the evening.

Mrs. Baker was assisted in the afternoon by Mrs. S. T. Gilmore and Mrs. J. T. Sellman.

A Hallowe'en motif was carried out in bridge accessories and refreshments and a color scheme of orange and black prevailed. Cosmos and marigolds were used as floral decorations. Chicken salad, with cheese snax, cookies, and cocoa, was served at each party.

High scores in the afternoon went to Miss Alice Karnes, for contract, and Mrs. J. A. Ward, jr., for auction; and to Mrs. P. J. Taylor and Sam Thomas at contract in the evening. Low scores went to Mrs. R. C. Vicars for contract and Mrs. Ben Martin, of Eagle Pass, for auction, in the afternoon; and to Mrs. Jack Earhart and Collier Shurley in the evening. Ladies' prizes were pieces of thermo-porcelain, in a garden design. Men's prizes were playing cards and linen handkerchiefs, for high and low, respectively.

The afternoon guest list was as follows:

At auction: Mesdames Ward, O. G. Babcock, E. W. Hutcherson, W. H. Curry, John Eaton, Josie McDonald, E. A. Bode, C. H. Jennings, E. E. Sawyer, J. W. Trainer, W. D. Wallace, E. C. Mayfield, J. A. Cauthorn, A. W. Awalt, and Ben Martin, and Miss Cora White Calahan, of Brady.

Contract Awarded on Last Stretch No. 27

Grading and Drainage Structures Thru Crockett Near End

L. J. Miles of Fort Worth was awarded the contract for grading and drainage structures on the last section of Highway 27 through Crockett county not already under construction at the Tuesday session of the Texas Highway Commission sitting in Austin. This section is a 13-mile stretch from Live Oak Creek east to Bachelor Hill, and includes the immense fill to be made down the slope of Government Hill near old Fort Lancaster.

The total amount of the contract as announced from the Highway Commission is $220,038.91. Grading and drainage structures on other sections of Crockett county highways measuring the same distance as this have been awarded recently at costs of from $40,000 to $60,000. The contract price of this 13-mile section was more than tripled by the grade to be made down the hill near Fort Lancaster. This job is estimated to cost from $150,000 to $180,000. It will be a huge cut in the mountain with a two-mile long fill down the side, keeping the road within the grade percentage allowed and leveling off a drop of 600 feet.—Ozona Stockman.

Man Blown From House Is Charged With Arson

Here are the remains of a Fort Worth house owned by Frank Nelson, following a mysterious explosion which blew Nelson through a window. Later he was charged with arson. According to Nelson, he bought the house recently and on the night of the blast, went there to sleep because small boys had been shooting air guns through the windows. The blast completely wrecked the house and set fire to the house next door. It blew people from their beds and broke windows for blocks around.

Range Conditions in Hill Country Best in Many Years, Say Ranchmen

Range conditions in Kerr county are equal to the best ever seen and are better at the approach of winter than they have been in a number of years. Leading ranchmen reported early this week also that livestock was in excellent shape to face coming cold weather.

There is plenty of grass and much of it is green. Rescue grass, which makes a growth similar to wheat in the winter, is beginning to come out in parts of the county. Early in the week about one inch of rain was needed to bring up weeds and grass on the ranges, and to start recently planted wheat and oats.

Oats that were planted in time to get the benefit of the last good rains, about a month ago, have made a good stand, and can be used for winter grazing up to February, according to agriculture observers.

In the Johnson Creek and Guadalupe headwaters sections, however, planting was late because fences and other property damaged by the July 1 flood had to be repaired. Ranchmen were hoping that slow rains which fell part of the day

Monday and Tuesday would be enough moisture to start up oats recently planted in soil too dry to sprout the small grain.

It is believed that the acreage sowed to oats and wheat in Kerr county this season will be the same as last year.

With the present outlook for plenty of range feed, indications are that sheep, goats, cattle and other livestock will fare well this winter. Ranchmen are hoping that there will be no long dry northers unless they are supplemented with regular and adequate rains.—Kerrville Mountain Sun.

Texas Short Wool Clip About Moved

Top Price Ranges from 11 1/2 to 12 Cents; Big Buyers Represented accumulation at that figure. Earlier sales had been at 9 to 10 cents a pound.

The Texas short wool clip for the fall of 1932 has about moved. Top price ranging from 11 1/2 to 12 cents a pound was reported at the last of the month. N. P. Peterson of Brackettville sold his 300,000-lb.

Big buyers were A. W. Hilliard and son of Boston represented by Tom Ritchey who got more than 2,500,000 pounds; Hallowell, Jones & Donald, who acquired about 750,000 pounds; Charles J. Webb Sons Company, who got over 160,000 pounds; while some wools were consigned to the East. Colonial Wool Company acquired 750,000 pounds.

Much of the wool will move into consumptive channels now. The states clip will be about 5,000,000 pounds. Prices were about 3 cents a pound above what the ranchmen had expected. They also got about 2 cents a pound over prices paid for 12 months wool in the spring.

Wool Growers Central Storage Company in the meantime offered 3,250,000 pounds 12 months wool at sealed bid sale and rejected all offers.

At the last of the month only about 750,000 pounds of the clip were unsold.

Texas Outlaws Entertained Bored Ex-Ranger Who Sought Variety from Dull Life

With little fighting, army life became irksome to Frank Dalton, ex-Ranger, and in the spring of 1877 he quit and joined the Texas Rangers in hope there would be more action. He found what he was looking for, he recounts, in writing of the last battles with outlaws in the Big Bend country in a recent issue of the Alpine Avalanche.

After the battle of the Jester and Horn, where 40 of the Seventh Cavalry were killed, the Sioux Indians got scared and crossed over into Canada. That just about ended the fighting along the northern border, therefore my regiment was ordered to Texas to assist in subduing the Comanches and Apaches who had become pretty bad west of the Pecos River. Our regiment was scattered among the posts of Western Texas, with regimental headquarters at Fort Concho, just across the Concho River from San Angelo.

There were still roving bands of young Indian bucks that committed depredations now and then, but the Comanche tribe, as a whole, had been put on reservations at Fort Sill, in the Indian Territory, where they were kept under guard by U. S. soldiers, which meant that their wholesale depredations had practically ended.

With so little fighting, army life became irksome, and in the spring of 1877 I quit the army and joined the Texas Rangers in the hope there would be more action and more excitement for a young man of my venturesome nature. And so there was.

Joins Rangers

The Texas Rangers, organized as a kind of rural police, had been mustered into state service for several years. Their duties were to enforce a semblance of law and order along the Mexican border as well as to keep down Indian raids and depredations as much as possible.

In the early days outlaw bands were well organized, and horse and cattle stealing were done on a large scale in Texas. Stock stolen in Mexico, after passing through several hands, would finally wind up in Wyoming or Montana. Other stock, and sometimes whole herds at a time, would be stolen from ranchmen on the Texas side and run into Mexico. Big herds of cattle were being driven over the trail from the ranges of Texas to the shipping points of Kansas, and the cattle thieves were a constant menace to herds all along the way. Their usual plan of operation was to stampede cattle at night, frequently kill the men on night herd and then round up as many of the cattle as possible next day and rebrand them. Guarding so vast a territory was mostly up to the Rangers, and considering how few there were of us, we had a pretty big job.

Another class we had to deal with was the train and bank robbers who, when driven out of the more thickly populated states of the East, invariably came to Texas. Criminals Picked Brewster County

LOW LIVESTOCK PRICES COMMON 43 YEARS AGO

While you are thinking about low prices for livestock in 1932, move back 43 years and see what 2- and 3-year-old steers were bringing. In the items of 43 years ago in last week's Burnet paper the following clipping is taken: "Wanted—100 or one thousand one and two year old steers. Will receive at Grip Atkinson and Hoover's Valley in the early part of September. Notice given when I will receive. Prices: $6 for yearlings and $9 for twos. Advancement made on cattle."

Most of these crooks and outlaws from other states picked out Brewster county as a base for their nefarious operations. Brewster county takes in most of what is known as the "Big Bend" country, is ideal for outlaw dens and robbers' roosts because of its rugged topography.

Our Ranger company was stationed at Fort Davis and we got word to be on the lookout for a bunch of Mexicans and white men who had robbed a train near Deming, N. M. It was reported that they had crossed into Texas and were headed for their hideout in the Big Bend. So six of us Rangers (we were always short-handed back in the 70's) saddled our horses and rode out to head off this band of outlaws. The Rangers were all armed with winchester saddle guns, but I still stuck to my army block 45-70, Springfield carbine, and although slower perhaps than the Winchester repeater was more dependable since there was no danger of "jamming." All Rangers, however, were equipped additionally with the long barrel single action Colts 45-calibre sixshooter (I wore two) as that was the most reliable pistol of those days, and the one used by the army as well as by men on the frontier. You did not have to kill a man with it—the shock of the big bullet would stop him.

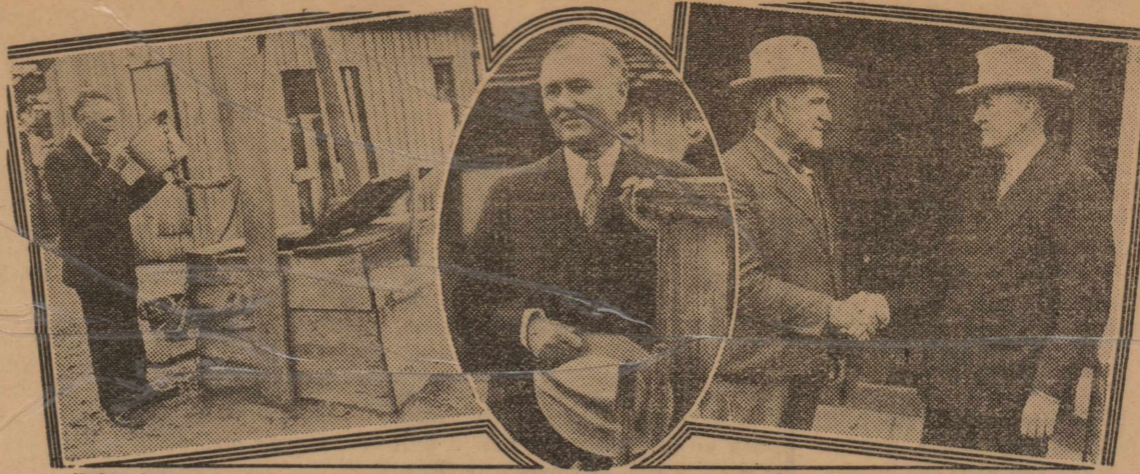

But, getting back to the New Mexico train robbers, we struck their trail just east of where the town of Alpine is now located and followed it for two days in a south-westerly direction, toward the roughest part of the Big Bend country.

Battle Bandits

We finally came upon the bandits while they were eating dinner, about two miles from the Rio Grande, in a country of canyons and mountains. Evidently thinking they had evaded pursuit and were safe, they had failed to put out a guard and we took them by surprise. There were 10 in the gang, all heavily armed.

When the smoke of battle had cleared away there were six dead outlaws and two, desperately wounded, died later. Two of the outlaws surrendered, one of whom was the leader of the gang, a big pock-marked Mexican by the name of Martin Labro; the other prisoner was a white man by the name of Frank Denson (who was one of the few "two-gun" men I ever knew). Our casualties were one dead and two badly wounded Rangers. It happened to be one of the two wounded and it took me nearly a year to get patched up and ready for duty again.

Well, that was a Ranger's life back in the 70's and early 80's, and it was a great life if you didn't weaken. A Ranger needs not only to be cool and courageous but he must have patience and physical endurance—he must be able to ride horseback 48 hours without sleep or anything to eat. We had some tough and some smart law-breakers to deal with. Many of those tough ones could ride as hard and shoot as straight as a Ranger.

Cow Town Boisterous
Once in a while a cow town would get out of hand and, when the local law officers could not handle the situation the Rangers would be sent for; we seldom failed to "clean up," run the tough ones out and restore order. There were political factions and elections in those days the same as now, and your frontiersman was usually a hothead when it came to politics and a great booster for his party or candidate, which meant more work for the Rangers. Whiskey always flowed like water and the candidate who would "set 'em up" the oftenest was usually sure of election. Dance and gambling halls ran wide open day and night with no latches or locks on the doors.

I am 82 years old—my step is feeble and my eyes are dim—and it will not be long now until I shall be mustered before the Great Commander, but as I look back on nearly 70 years of life on our western border, a large part of it as a soldier, Texas Ranger and peace officer, I am content and proud of the small part I have played in the winnings of our glorious Southwest.—Val Verde County Herald.

Sonora's "Purse Strings" Are in Her Hands----

HANDS that rock the cradle also hold the purse strings. :: In Sonora—as elsewhere—it is the women who buy over 85 per cent of everything that is sold in retail stores. What an opportunity this gives to Sonora women to help build up Sonora.

By spending here at home, what their husbands earn at home, Sonora women have it in their power now to make Sonora one of the brightest business spots in the Southwest.

Sonora women have it largely in their power to decide how many people will get and hold jobs with Sonora enterprises—how much money will circulate in Sonora trade channels—how much will be deposited in local banks—how much taxes will be paid to maintain Sonora schools and in the last analysis how much their own incomes will grow with Sonora.

You may think it doesn't matter if you go out of town to buy a dress, a pair of shoes, a hat or piece of furniture. But remember—it's the aggregate of many little purchases like yours—that makes all the difference. It is the many little purchases in Sonora that makes business active or makes business bad in Sonora. It is the example which you set that your friends will follow.

are expected to put up a wonderful fight today.

Menard lost a hard battle last week to Junction, 13 to 6, and had lost to Eldorado earlier in the season.

The Bronchos will put their full strength on the field, with the exception of Jesse Green Barton, who received a damaged shoulder Saturday in Rocksprings. He is expected to be fully recovered for the big Ozona game here next Friday. G. W. Archer, hurt at Eldorado two weeks ago, is wearing a special shoulder collar which affords complete protection to his injured member, and will be ready to go today. He played a part of the game in Rocksprings.

Rocksprings once. Eight of the nine penalties were for off-side, and one for roughing.

The entire Sonora squad showed to advantage. Friess carried the ball for several nice gains, and Ory also covered many yards. Kring played his usual consistent game, and Jesse Green Barton's blocking while playing halfback was particularly good.

The work of Castillo at guard continued to be a bright-spot in the Broncho machine. Ernest Smith played a powerful game at center, and Wes Hill stopped all runs at his end of the line. He was held down on offense, though, and though his blocking prevented his getting loose for pass receiving.

Cloudt played for the Bulldogs, and while he was on long runs, his consistent short gains enabled the Dogs to make nine first downs, to Sonora's six.

Highway—

W. R. Ely, chairman of the State Highway Commission, under date of October 31, as follows:

J. W. Hutt
Rocksprings, Texas

Dear Mr. Hutt:

I have your letter of Oct. 29 in regard to an action of the highway department in cancelling the designation of Highway No. 29. It may be agreeable to reinstate this road with the understanding that when Highway No. 4 is complete, it will be cancelled.

It will be utterly impossible to ever construct a road on the location of Highway No. 29 and I thought that it was generally understood that it was to be cancelled.

I do not understand how the impression ever got out that a trade was made because the committee that saw me insisted that the designation remain.

I will think over the matter and, as stated above, I might reach the conclusion to join with the other members of the commission in keeping this road under maintenance temporarily.

Very truly yours,
W. R. ELY, Chairman
State Highway Commission.

with objection to Ferguson, will likely make West Texas a Bullington stronghold, just as it went to Sterling in the primary.

While the National Republican ticket will receive considerable support in this area, largely from ranchmen who feel that the Republican tariff policy is in their favor, the Democratic nominees, Roosevelt and Garner, seem destined to get the big end of Sutton county votes. The fact that Garner is a Texan will swing many indifferent votes to the Democratic ticket.

Election judges appointed by the commissioners' court follow: Precinct 1, O. L. Richardson, Joe Berger; Prec. 2, W. R. Cusenbary, Dow Puckett; Prec. 3, Edwin Joy, Herman Thiers; Prec. 4, J. P. Reilly, W. D. Valliant; Prec. 5, L. L. Stuart, Frank Bond.

Polls will open at 8 o'clock and close at 7. A huge ballot can be voted quickly, since the voter need only draw lines through the tickets for which he does not wish to vote. In voting amendments the for or against paragraph is scratched out, leaving the one which the voter favors.
