

Appetizing Sauces Do Great Deal For Culinary Dishes

Home Made Preparations Will Add
To Quality of Meat Balls and To Fish Dinners

Denton, Jan. 1.—A perfect sauce is always a triumph for the cook. It can make the most common food an interesting one.

Nearly all sauces are variations of the three basic types: white, brown and the butter sauces. For the white sauces one may use cream, milk or white stock; the brown sauces are made with dark stocks or meat drippings and are the base of the most highly seasoned sauces.

It is most convenient to thicken brown and white sauces with roux that is prepared in ten-day quantities and stored in the refrigerator. This method is practical except for the gravy of a roast which makes rich caramelized gravy drippings. These should not be wasted but used for the added flavor.

Breakfast: Stewed prunes, bacon, fried corn meal mush, syrup, coffee, milk.

Luncheon: Meat balls, carrot and apple salad, whole wheat muffins, cherry cobbler, tea, milk.

Dinner: Baked halibut fish, caper sauce, salted boiled potatoes, stewed tomatoes, lettuce salad, rolls, cup cakes, coffee.

Breakfast: Oranges, soft-boiled eggs, whole wheat toast, coffee.

Luncheon: Spinach with cheese sauce, buttered lima beans, pickled beets, bread and butter, cocoa.

Dinner: Roast beef with vegetable gravy, baked potato, English peas, celery hearts, bread and butter, diced pineapple, coffee, milk.

White Roux

One cup butter, 1 cup flour. Melt the butter, add the flour; stir and cook till the mixture is cheesy, about five minutes. Use two tablespoons of roux to each cup of liquid for a thick sauce. Store the remainder in a covered jar in the refrigerator.

Brown Roux

Make brown roux in the same way as white roux but cook until the flour is quite brown. Stir to prevent scorching.

Caper Sauce

Three tablespoons melted butter, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar, 1/2 teaspoon capers. Add lemon juice to butter and brown, add the vinegar, parsley and capers. Serve hot.

Spinach With Cheese Sauce

One cup spinach, 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons white roux, 1/2 cup grated cheese, salt and pepper. Mix white roux with a small portion of the warm milk. Stir briskly into the remaining hot milk and allow to thicken. Season with salt and pepper and the grated cheese. Combine with the chopped cooked spinach and serve hot.

Brown Vegetable Gravy

Two cups dark liquid, 3 tablespoons brown roux, salt, pepper, 1 cup diced mixed vegetables (carrots, onions, tomatoes, celery, green peppers). Cook vegetables until tender in a small amount of water or meat stock. Drain remaining liquid into the gravy liquid as a part of the total measure. Heat. Mix brown roux with a small amount of warm water and stir briskly into the hot gravy. Season with salt and pepper. Add the vegetables and serve.

Stephen F. Austin Outstanding Texan

Texas School Pupils Choose Ten
Texans For Hall of Fame

Denton, Jan. 1.—Stephen F. Austin was selected the most outstanding figure in Texas history by high school students throughout the state following a recent poll conducted in Texas State College for Women. Sam Houston ranked second and David Crockett, third.

The nine other famous Texans who lead in the balloting and who will be included in the original Texas Hall of Fame, which is being established at the college, include Moses Austin, James Bowie, James W. Fannin, James Hogg, Mirabeau Lamar, Robert LaSalle, Ben P. Milam, Deaf Smith and William Travis.

In the near future the college will attempt to secure portraits of these twelve Texas heroes, and later on when funds are available busts will be obtained. These will be placed in the college library.

Four hundred and fifty-two high schools of the state participated in the project. Two ballots were submitted, the final one containing the names of thirty-nine outstanding Texans.

BANCROFT REVEALED AS ARCH-TRAITOR

Show Franklin's Secretary as Betrayer of U. S.

Boston.—The American embassy in Paris was little more than a branch office of the British secret service during Benjamin Franklin's mission to France, and prolongation of the American Revolution was due, more than any other single cause, to information which Franklin's confidential secretary sold to the British foreign office, according to Burton J. Hendrick in the Atlantic Monthly.

The arch-traitor of the Revolution was not Benedict Arnold, but scholar Edward Bancroft, M. D., who completely bamboozled Franklin, furnished Britain with copies of all letters to and from the Continental congress, of all transactions and correspondence with foreign powers and who betrayed his country with disastrous consequences for more than eight years, states Mr. Hendrick, twice winner of the Pulitzer prize for American biography.

Gave Routes of Ships.

"Bancroft contracted to furnish details about every ship sailing from France to America—its officers, crew, its cargo, especially war munitions, its port of departure and date of sailing, its projected course, so that British warships might be most advantageously placed for interception. Ship after ship cleared French ports for America, only to be scooped in by the British cordon and taken to England. From May, 1777 to 1778, congress received no messages or correspondence of any kind from its ambassadors in France for all ships carrying them were captured," asserts Mr. Hendrick.

He attributes the fact that Bancroft was able to carry on his espionage to Franklin's carelessness, lack of perspicacity and devotion to an old friend, for Franklin was repeatedly informed of Bancroft's activities by Arthur Lee, member of the American mission to France.

"Franklin even took Bancroft to the peace conference that ended the Revolution, Bancroft being still on the British pay roll, and Franklin went to his grave without losing faith in the associate who so successfully sold out his country," asserts the writer.

Better Informed Than Congress.

"From 1776 to 1781 it is not too much to say that the British foreign office was better informed of American activities abroad than was congress itself. Not a thing happened in Franklin's embassy which did not instantaneously find its way to Downing street and Windsor, for the man who took chief delight in reading the reports of British spies was George III himself.

"Over Bancroft's own signature we have a conscientious catalogue of his betrayals, written for the British secretaries of state, and of his interview with the latter, which brought him a pension of £200 for life. He provides, perhaps, the most calamitous instance of misplaced confidence in American history," concludes Mr. Hendrick.

Tradition Makes Prince Pay $5 Rent on Riviera

Golfe Juan, French Riviera.—The prince of Wales paid only $5 a month rental for the sumptuous villa "Le Roc" where he spent his summer holiday.

"Le Roc" is a 20-room house with a swimming pool, private beach, and yacht harbor. The prince of Wales is a multimillionaire in his own right, but he is not allowed to pay any more—nor any less.

This is why: The marquis of Cholmondeley, owner of the villa, invited the earl of Chester (name used by Wales while traveling incognito) to be his guest, placing "Le Roc" at his disposal.

But members of the royal house of Great Britain are not permitted to be guests of their subjects.

A regular lease was drawn up with the amount of the rental fixed at $5 a month!

The lease gives the earl of Chester free use of the villa and the grounds, one speedboat, one yacht, and three Rolls-Royces.

Furthermore the prince insisted on paying the $5.

Viking's Boat, 1,000 Years Old, Is Found in Grave

Uppsala, Sweden.—A 1,000-year-old Viking boat, containing the skeletons of a woman, a horse, and a dog, has been unearthed in a boat grave near here, and, according to archeologists of Uppsala university, is the best preserved find of its kind ever made in Sweden.

In addition to the skeletons the boat contained finely carved wooden vessels, food, a ring of gold wire, a steering oar, and baller.

The horse and dog had been killed before their burial, scientists say, to accompany the woman on her last journey.

Texans' Christmas Made Merry By WPA Works Under Way

Purchasing Power of $3,000,000
Each Month Developed By Wages of People

San Antonio, Jan. 1.—Works Progress Administration state officials today reviewed what they believed to be the longest Christmas gift list of the season. To bolster this belief, State Administrator H. P. Drought called attention to the following:

To 100,000 Texans formerly on relief;

An opportunity to earn a living for themselves and for their dependents who together number a half million people.

To Texas business:

Stimulation from purchasing power created by $3,000,000 per month in the form of security wages paid to these 100,000 workers. Sales of millions of dollars worth of building and construction materials.

To the farmers of Texas:

A hearty lift-out-of-the-mud as improvements went forward on more than seven thousand miles of lateral farm-to-market roads. These roads, many of them formerly impassable in bad weather, will be made water-proof. Enthusiastic comments from all over the state indicate that rural residents have received just what they wanted. To garnish this gift, WPA has transferred several thousand workers from its rolls to payrolls of the $22,800,000 road improvement program executed by the Bureau of Public Roads through the State Highway Department.

To the cities of Texas:

Improvements and repairs on 4,115 city blocks of streets and alleys. Extensions of water lines and sewer installation, valued at $1,652,164, in 148 municipalities. Building of sidewalks in 26 communities. Construction, renovation and repair of public buildings in 155 cities.

To the State of Texas:

A state-wide tax survey to gain thousands of dollars in revenue from tax dodgers, to establish a fair and equalized system of assessing taxes so that there may be no evasion, no duplicate assessments, nor improper evaluation of property.

To school children of Texas:

Parks, swimming pools, gymnasiums, beautified playgrounds and stadia being erected or improved in 70 Texas communities.

To Texas industry:

A state-wide mineral survey, encompassing every county, which is expected to reveal sources of rich natural wealth, and to make available geological data invaluable to industrial development.

To public health:

Malaria control and sanitation projects in scores of Texas counties. Swamps permanently drained, creeks straightened and destruction of breeding places for malaria-carrying anopheles mosquitoes. Installation of sanitary sewerage in many rural communities.

To Texas lore:

A comprehensive manuscript, delving exhaustively into literary, cultural, scenic, historical, statistical, industrial and artistic backgrounds of every city and county of the state. Information prepared by writers on relief will be presented in original manuscript form to the localities from which the material was gathered and an assembled copy will be given to the State of Texas.

To unemployables on relief in Texas:

Hundreds of thousands of garments produced by WPA women workers in 300 Texas sewing rooms. Food products from canning plants operated by WPA labor in Texas.

To musicians, actors, writers, artists and to other persons classified as professional and technical workers, on relief:

An opportunity to work and earn a livelihood in the professions for which they have trained themselves. Efforts have been made to secure worthwhile projects embracing every type of worker to be found on Texas relief rolls.

CITIZENS OF TEXAS
MUST TELL WORLD OF CENTENNIAL YEAR

If Texas and Texans secure the most good out of the Centennial year 1936 efforts to "tell the world" of the state's advantages will have to be started at once and carried on throughout the year. Publicity on the Pacific Coast during the last few days should have drummed home to people there that Texas is observing its Centennial year and that they were invited to visit the central exposition in Dallas and other parts of the state this year.

A clear field will not be the privilege of Texas as it seeks to entertain visitors from everywhere. The San Diego exposition is to be open again. Cleveland is planning a three months exposition on its lake front. There will be many other attractions available to the person who wants to travel a bit, "see things and do things."

Texans, too, must be told about their state and its history through the years. Too few know that history. Texans must be urged repeatedly to attend the central exposition in Dallas as well as others which will be staged by various sections of the state.

By "talking Texas" and "talking Centennial" consistently for the next five months the state may well expect that it will have a very successful exposition in Dallas and that many other sections of the state will profit by the influx of visitors from other states and from other portions of Texas.

GEE! But a fellow's mother could take all the joy out of life. Always wanting him to wash something. Clean your ears, clean your finger nails. Gee whiz! Now she wanted to wash his corduroy pants. She said they were filthy. The clock downstairs chimed four. He'd better hurry and get dressed. He slipped off the corduroys and kicked them across the room. Then sounds of choking, gurgling and splashing came from the bathroom. At last he stood before the mirror, slick in his new blue suit. He gazed at his reflection with dumb hopelessness.

Suddenly the light of inspiration gleamed in his eye. He darted over to his toolbox. Seizing a hammer and a box of tacks, he hurriedly entered the clothes closet. Carefully he spread the corduroy pants upon the floor. It would be better to set the tacks pretty close together so she'd never get them up. Women were clumsy. Still his mother was no dumb-bell. In fact she was smart. But this job would be too much even for her.

His mother stood at the foot of the stairs.

"Where are your trousers? I told you to bring them downstairs."

At that moment the front bell rang. As his mother held the door open Dick discerned, with elation born of hope, the newly washed faces of Ted Wilson and Art Russell.

"We came to see if Dick was ready." Ted had the kind of face mothers always love. Tough! Ted was really a good guy.

Now was his chance; Dick slipped out the door.

His mother smiled as she climbed the stairs. This would be a good opportunity to clean those awful trousers. As she entered Dick's room her smile faded. What a mess! Her mouth tightened as she unearthed a package of cigarettes. Something must be done about this.

Meanwhile she would wash the trousers. She opened the closet door. What a frightful odor! She looked all around and then down to where the pants, drawn smooth and taut, lay outlined in gleaming tacks. One pocket bulged. She put in her hand. Ugh! A dead starfish! In another minute she was down on her knees, puffing and panting as she painstakingly pulled each stubborn tack from the floor.

Next morning early Dick's mother lay in bed and wondered how he would enjoy taking the clean trousers off the floor. She had done as good a job as he. Later they would discuss the cigarettes and the starfish. Gradually she became aware of an unusual yet familiar droning sound. Whirr...click: whirr...click. With a quick motion she threw off the covers. Through the open window she observed a figure in immaculate corduroys pushing the lawn mower. How clean and manly the boy looked! And wasn't it fine of him to take this way of showing her he was sorry! No, she just couldn't be angry with him. After all it had been only a boyish prank. She was glad she hadn't spoke to Jim about it.

In the kitchen pungent odors rose like incense.

"Waffles?" asked Jim, newspaper in hand. "What's the occasion?" "Oh, nothing. Call Dick in to breakfast. He got up early and cut the lawn."

Jim grinned. "Great kid, Dick." The waffles were smoking on the table when an apparition slid past the buffet.

"Dick!"

Dick stood still and looked down at himself. "I couldn't help it, Ma, honest I couldn't. I got green stains on the cuffs cutting the grass, and the mud stains on the knees when I knelt down to trim the edges, and the grease and water stains on the seat and legs are from washin' the car. Dad said he'd give me fifty cents if I washed it, didn't you, Dad?"

"Yes, I did, son. I'm glad you remembered to do it. And here's another fifty cents for cutting the grass."

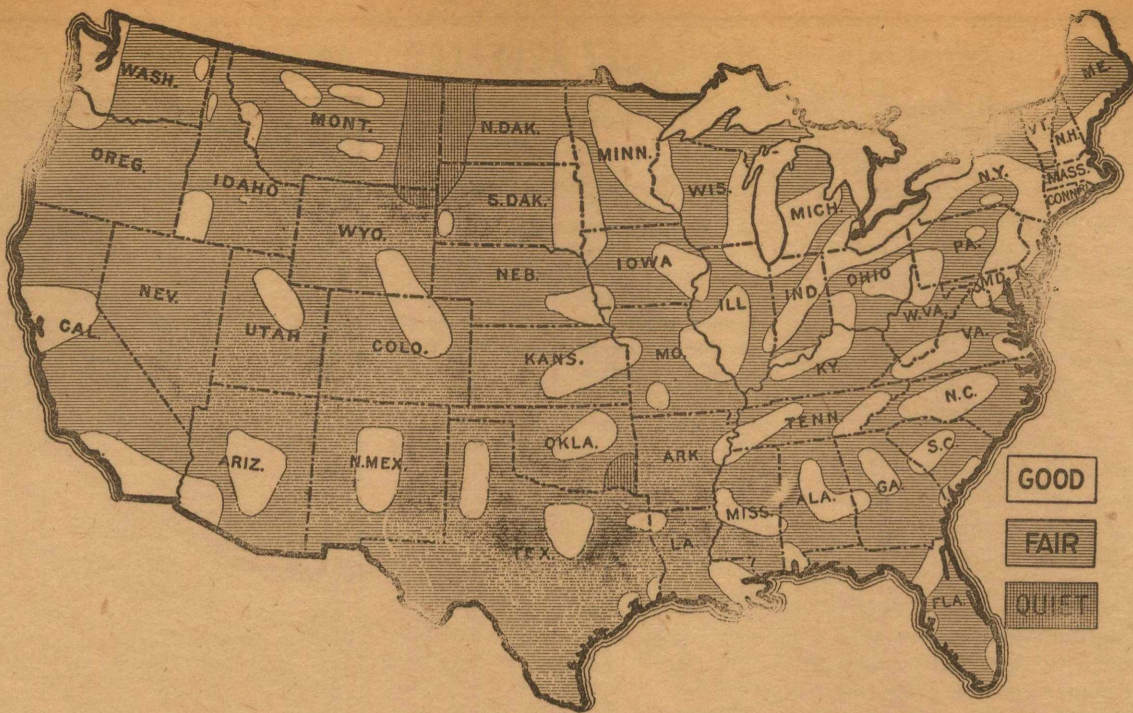

"I guess I better not wait for breakfast," said Dick, "I got to get to school early for basketball practice."

His mother smacked a plate of waffles down at his place. "Sit down!" she said.

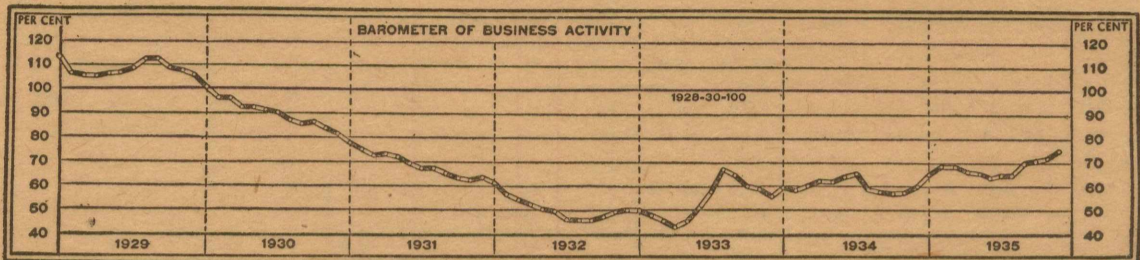

Ireland's Woman Warrior
Ireland long bore the name of Granulle, which is Gaelic for Grace O'Malley, a chieftainess whose headquarters were on Claire Island, off the west coast of Ireland. There tood the Tower of Carrigahoeley, which she called "the rock of her feet." She was a wild and successful warrior. Queen Elizabeth admired her and entertained her in the royal palace.

TRAFFIC TIPS
by the NATIONAL SAFETY COUNCIL

MIXED SIGNALS

Always signal for a turn or for a stop; also when pulling away from the curb. Make your intentions plain.

Hand signals vary in different parts of the country. The National Conference on Street and Highway Safety recommends the usage of three standard hand signals:

- 1. For left turn, hand and arm extended horizontally.
- 2. For right turn, hand and arm extended upward or moved with a sweeping motion from rear to front.
- 3. For a stop, hand and arm extended downward.

The Conference also prescribes that signals shall be given from the left side of the car. Before turning they should be given continuously for a distance of 100 feet.

Familiarize yourself with the signals prescribed by law and custom in the community in which you drive and then use them.

There's not much time to correct hand signals when they are misinterpreted. Remember, the driver behind can't read your mind.

Business Failures in 1935 Least in Fourteen Years

Washington, Dec. 31.—November saw relatively old industries make new highs in filling needs of younger ones. Moving the automobile season forward sent steel, plate glass and electric power outputs to new records for recent years or for all time. Subordinate industries were likewise pushed.

Retail trade found the first half of November too warm for best results but gained in the latter half. Wholesale trade, after holiday preparations, eased up.

Western corn in shock and unpicked southwestern cotton suffered from excessive moisture but newly seeded winter wheat thrived. The stock market advanced for the eighth successive month. Dividend resurreptions or increases were numerous.

Forecasts of volume of 1935 business were cheerful. Building records indicated a doubling of expenditures, cotton exports and consumption increased, woolen mills ran full time, shoe production promised a new record and bank clearings and debits heavily exceeded 1934. Failures were the fewest in 14 years.

The map (illustration) shows a fairly steady enlargement of the white areas.

The Business Activity Barometer for November rose above the October levels and was far above November a year ago. In fact the index is now at the highest since December, 1934.

Unusual Designs
Feature of Prints

Flowers—and Even Vegetables—
Among New 1936 Patterns

Denton, Jan. 1.—With the coming of the new year, women everywhere are anxious to supplement their dull winter woollens with something bright and new. To meet this need prints have come to the foreground and are shown in brilliant hues on dark background.

After years of conservative prints, there has arisen this season an assortment of amusing and exceptionally interesting designs. The amusing quality of these new patterns is centered in the "trick" motif which is the subject of the design. In the past, fruits have been used extensively as subjects for prints, and they still are, but vegetables are the newest inspirations for designs. Radishes, strawberries and any root vegetables are seen in tiny outlines in light colors against dark backgrounds.

Floral prints are exceptionally lovely, according to girls at Texas State College for Women. There is one based on bluebells and another on large calla lilies. The latter rather stiff flower really is graceful and slender when printed on a dark jacquard crepe for evening wear. Daisies with colored centers, shasta daisies, African daisies, asters and cosmos are shown in profile, full view and angle designs. Their variations are innumerable and they make exciting patterns for afternoon frocks.

The new prints are designed for every type of dress. You see them about the house in the morning, at luncheon engagements uptown, at afternoon bridge parties and in the evening at formal affairs. They are simple and young and call for very little trimming. What trimming is used consists of solid materials in blending hues, patent leather cloth, metal buttons and suede bindings.

Both of them students at Texas Military Institute in San Antonio, Stanley Mayfield and Armer Earwood, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mayfield and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Earwood, are spending their Christmas holidays with their parents. The San Antonio educational institution they attend is an Episcopal one, founded in 1886 as San Antonio Academy. It became Texas Military Institute in 1893.

YOUR CHILD
AND THE SCHOOL

By Dr. ALLEN G. IRELAND
Director, Physical and Health Education
New Jersey State Department of Public Instruction

True Essentials
With the consolidation of rural schools, the school lunch problem is less serious than formerly, because modern buildings are provided with kitchens and lunchrooms. Nevertheless the old country school still abounds in great numbers. As long as it does I shall be concerned about the midday lunch of its pupils. If I could have my way every one of those children remaining at school over the noon hour would have his pint of milk, his serving of fruit, one or two tasty sandwiches and a sweet. That would be a minimum.

For cold days I would add a hot soup and during the spring and fall I should try to have a vegetable salad. It would be an attractive salad, something inviting and appetizing.

Still having my way, I would ask parents to furnish metal lunch boxes. These can be cleaned and they resist the raids of mice. I would ask that sandwiches and cakes be wrapped in waxpaper. A napkin would be my next request, and along with it I would attempt instruction in its correct use.

In short, I regard the meal as a cultural situation full of teaching opportunities. Really it is a laboratory exercise wherein food selection, eating habits and meal sanitation can be rehearsed until learned. Later on many a student would thank me for instruction of this kind.

In his next article, Dr. Ireland will discuss the educating of children through normal play.

Alfred Schwiennings Host To Children at Wedding Anniversary Luncheon Monday

The twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage was observed Monday by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schwiennings when they entertained at a luncheon for their children and a few friends at the family home in Sonora.

The Schwiennings have lived in the Sonora section since they were married in Sonora in 1910. Mrs. Schwiennings, before her marriage was Miss Callie Margaret Allison, a daughter of George S. Allison, a pioneer ranchman of Sutton and Menard counties. Mr. Schwiennings was reared in the Mason and Goldthwaite districts and as a young man was a bookkeeper and railway telegraph operator. His parents owned the old Kirkland Ranch on the Llano below Camp Allison at one time. When Mr. Schwiennings was twenty-one he went into business for himself and leased the old Bunton Ranch on the Llano.

Several years later he bought the old Thiers place of one section and leased the Chris Wyatt 8-section ranch. After six years on a place in the Middle Valley section Mr. Schwiennings leased the Allison Llano ranch from his father-in-law and moved to the sixteen sections which comprise it.

Mr. and Mrs. Schwiennings received a number of gifts of silver pieces from their children and the others who attended the luncheon Monday. Those who were present were:

George, Kathleen, Junior and Curt Schwiennings; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jones of Ozona; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schwiennings and son; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stites; Miss Wilma Hamer; Cecil Pearce.

How Calotabs Help Nature
To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package, (Adv.)

Texas Minerals To Be Exploited at 1936 Centennial

Chronological Story, Underground Wealth To Be Portrayed in Hall of State Exhibit

Dallas, Jan. 1.—The almost unlimited natural resources of Texas, the minerals and metals which constitute the basic prop of the state's prosperity, will be featured in a special exhibit at the Texas Centennial Exposition.

The story of Texas' underground wealth will be vividly told through the collection of natural resource exhibits now being assembled by a group of scientists, geologists and business men. The exhibit will be in the Hall of 1936, the sole section of the million dollar Texas Hall of State which will not be devoted to display of historical treasures. It will exemplify modern Texas with its opportunities for future development.

Every college in the state, every public library, the leading geologists and the heads of corporations dealing with minerals, have been asked to aid in the painting of this striking picture of the Lone Star State's natural resources.

Industry History Explained

The story will start with the gold which the conquistadores sought and which has only been discovered in Texas in negligible quantities. Then the history of every industry will be told in compact exhibit form including petroleum production in which Texas leads the world. Coal, sulphur, lignite, building stone, marble, natural gas, graphite, gypsum, iron, lead, limestone, quicksilver, potash, manganese, mica, silver, zinc, mineral waters, copper and asphalt are some of the natural resources which will be exhibited in such manner as to explain their development since their first discovery beneath Texas soil. The exhibit will be entirely non-commercial, the plan being to present to millions of visitors the great scope embraced by the natural resources of the state.

L. H. Lewis, former international president of the Lions Club, is in active charge of gathering the exhibit. John M. Spellman of Dallas is chairman of the Natural Resource Committee of the Exposition which includes L. B. Whitehead, geologist, William C. Grant, Dr. Robert T. Hill, geologist, Dr. J. E. Mifflin, W. A. Philpott, secretary of the Texas Bankers Association, and Dr. E. H. Sellards, head of the Bureau of Economic Geology at the University of Texas.

Two Thousand Working

Building activities at the Texas Centennial Exposition continue at full speed with crews working 24 hours a day to ensure the readiness of the structures by the opening date June 6. Some 2,000 men are now at work on the grounds.

Assured of the success of the Exposition, nationally known corporations are reserving exhibit space daily. During the past week special exhibits totalling more than $375,000 have been contracted for. These include the $100,000 exhibit of the Gulf Refining Company, the $75,000 special building of the Texas Company, the $100,000 Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company display and the $100,000 House of Magic and exhibit of General Electric. A number of other large corporations are negotiating for space ensuring a sell-out of floor space before early spring.

Group Singing at Lions Club Tuesday

Club Sharing in Work of Giving Luncheons To Twenty-five

Lions Club members in Sonora ended 1935 Tuesday noon with a program of songs and the resolution that the organization would devote more time to singing in 1936.

Preston C. Lightfoot and Hillman Brown, editors of the club's monthly bulletin, distributed the January issue which contained words of popular songs. Mr. Lightfoot directed the club in its singing. Piano accompaniment was by Miss Elizabeth Francis.

W. J. Fields, Jr., chairman of the program committee, called attention to the slogan "Drive Safely and Save Lives" being given national prominence at this time. He also suggested that before another holiday season some plan of regulation be adopted which would govern the shooting of firecrackers.

Twenty-five school children are now being given hot luncheons at school, according to J. M. Puckett of the club's boys' and girls' work committee. W. C. Gilmore stated that at the next week's luncheon his committee would probably be ready to make a report concerning the club's entertainment feature to be given soon.

John Eaton, president, informed the club that he had recently registered the club as being the sponsor of the Boy Scout troop. The problem of securing places of residence for road workers and those employed in oil well drilling in this vicinity during 1936 was discussed but no action taken.

Mr. West of the Works Progress Administration office in San Angelo was a guest.
