A Texas 4-H boy reports that their farm tractor often was filled with gasoline to overflowing when the engine was warm.

But right here in our little city of Spur, U. S. A., there will be at least a half a dozen or so persons who are important enough and influential enough to claim "I just knew it would rain today because we got our car washed yesterday, and every time we get it washed it rains the next day."

Msrs. Cale, Oakley and Finch, representing the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, paid us a visit yesterday to discuss the proposed rate increase for local telephones.

We were assured by the three gentlemen that their company plans to work harmoniously with Mayor George Gabriel and the city commission. They assured us that under present drought conditions their company did not intend to push the rate increase on our city immediately.

We may quote Mr. Oakley as saying "You folks are having to tighten your belts for now, so we are willing to tighten ours, too."

Our friend Homer Hindman plans to do a little lake fishing while vacationing down around Austin this week.

They've moved to Abilene now, but lots of folks around here still love and appreciate the Edge Caudle family.

Occasionally there flares up among our readers a poetic urge and we receive copies of their work to print.

Far be it from us to claim to be poetry critics - we really can't tell the masterpieces from the stink-pots - so we feel it best to make it our policy not to print poetry of any sort in our news columns.

Mayor George Gabriel stated this week that the attendance and interest shown in the Spur Municipal swimming pool the remainder of July will help determine whether or not the pool will be open during the month of August.

San Hawkes, manager of the pool, states the attendance has been fairly good recently. However, in years past, the attendance has fallen off sharply during the first part of August.

"If folks want to swim, we surely want to keep the pool open through August," states Mayor Gabriel. "But there's no point in keeping it open if folks are not going to use it."

NEW FRONTIER IN MEDICINE

by Science Features

One of the most exciting new frontiers in medicine is in the control and regulation of human metabolism. Metabolism is the functioning of various cells in the body to provide the energy necessary for life. Some scientists believe that in the understanding of these functions may lie the key to the conquest of many diseases.

The hormones, secretions of the internal ducts and glands, are the body's chemical messengers in the regulation and operation of metabolism — and life. Only in the past decade have scientists gathered any exact knowledge of how the hormones work. Out of this knowledge has come a radically new concept of disease.

Dr. Hans Selye, a Canadian physiologist, has offered a theory explaining between 30 and 40 diseases, including arthritis, rheumatic fever, and high blood pressure, as a result of an abnormal body reaction to what he calls stress. The hormones play the central role in this theory.

Whenever the body is subjected to a stress or strain—such as extreme cold, emotional shock or injury—there is always an outpouring of hormones from the adrenal glands. These hormones help the body compensate for the stress, but exactly how they do this is a mystery.

Dr. Selye thinks that after repeated stresses the body becomes exhausted and what he calls "an adaptive disease" results. Why this disease should take the form of high blood pressure in one person and arthritis in another is unknown. But if the theory proves to be correct it will explain a basic unity for seemingly different diseases and treatments.

SMALL BUSINESS

Often those who work for salaries or wages, or those engaged in agriculture, write this column, asking a question on this theme.

"What," they ask, "can I as an individual do to help promote small business and the free enterprise system?"

Many inquiries are in small communities. They go on to explain that their town is not keeping pace with the progress of some nearby trading center.

where many C. W. Harter nationally owned concerns have retail outlets.

The problem is common to many towns, and with the need for new school capacity, and other improvements to cope with population growth, small city management is hard pressed to find ways of raising money.

In meeting their problems, all residents of these communities can take one helpful step.

That step is to patronize to the fullest extent possible the local independent businessmen. This should not be undertaken, either, from the spirit of helping the local businessmen out.

Instead, the approach should be one of self-interest. If adequate schooling and other facilities are to be maintained without prohibitive burdens on the residents of a community, it is necessary to have more enterprises to share the tax load.

Independent business establishments have long carried a heavy proportionate share of any communities revenue needs. But an increase in these establishments is only possible if local business in addition, there is no substitute for money in circulation for local community progress. Some economists claim that a dollar spent locally with a locally owned concern, by the time it completes its cycle, will produce eight dollars worth of business. On the other hand, they feel that a dollar spent with a non-independent concern often results in the production of about two dollars worth of business before it leaves the community.

While this is a theory that can be debated extensively, the fact remains that just as the strength of a nation rests on the basic family unit, so does national prosperity rest on the well being of the smaller towns.

Many observers claim this. For generations, country people were considered inferior in education and ability because under a feudal system, facilities for the education of the children of the rural areas was limited.

This was changed by the development of independent trading centers through the nation which provided centers of population that could support schools, libraries, and other advantages equal to that which the big metropolitan centers could offer.

But these observers also feel that the trend is turning back to the old pattern, because growth of smaller communities is not keeping pace, due to profits of local trading being siphoned to distant financial centers.

The only way to reverse this trend, they feel, is for the public in the local communities to support their independent business establishments and thus in turn, draw more business to their communities creating more employment, more sources of support for the community.

ROLLED CRISPS

For those afternoon "teaparties" children love so well, here is a fine recipe for Rolled Crisps—the kind of cookies everyone likes to find in the cookie jar all year long.

Cookies

- 2 cups fortified margarine
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- Grated peel of 1 lemon
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice

Cream the margarine; adding the sugar gradually and continue creaming until light and fluffy. Mix in the lemon peel and eggs, beating until the eggs are well blended. Sift the flour with the baking powder. Combine the flour and milk with the creamed margarine-sugar-egg mixture. Stir in the lemon juice. Shape into a ball and chill in the refrigerator. Roll to one-fourth inch thickness on a lightly floured board or pastry cloth. Cut with fancy or plain cutters. Sprinkle with sugar, if desired. Bake in a moderately hot (400 degrees F.) oven for 12 to 15 minutes. Makes about 100 two-inch cookies.

For other excellent kitchen-tested recipes, write the National Cotton Council, P. O. Box 15, Memphis 1, Tennessee, for your free copy of "Menu Magic with Margarine," an attractive 24-page booklet in two colors.

Mrs. R. C. Littlefield and son, Robert, and Miss Sandra Reid spent the week end in the home of their mother, Mrs. Alvis Wilson.

It's Time To Make Jams and Jellies Says Co. HD Agent

One shelf in the family food pantry doesn't change with the trend in present day methods of preserving food. The variety of jellies, jam, preserves and other sweets for the family table is still bright with colored fruits in various size and shape containers.

According to the foods and nutrition specialist for the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, the Texas food standard includes some sweets every day. And, they agree, they are best taken along with the meal.

To help the farm and ranch families with providing these sweets for their family meals, the specialist has compiled a new publication giving detail directions for many favorites.

The table of contents includes jellies, preserves, marmalades, jams, conserved and fruit butters. Copies of B-299 Sweets For The Family Table are available in your county home demonstration agent's office.

as farms and ranches. It means they can afford to include beef on their menu a often nowadays.

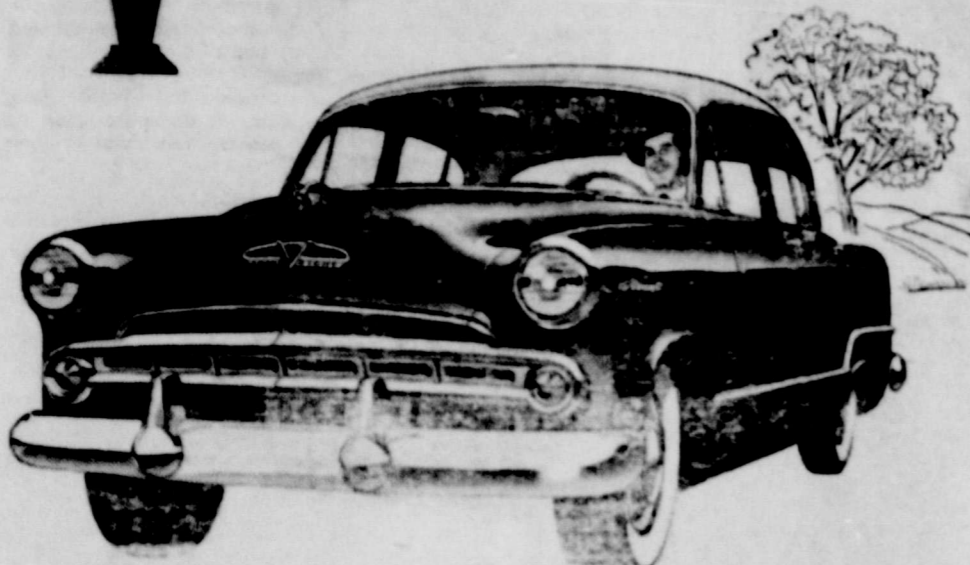

Record number of cattle coming to market have brought beef prices in recent weeks to the lowest point they have been in many years. The large supply and lower price caused the U. S. Department of Agriculture to put beef on its Plentiful Food list for the first time in 15 years.

Good News for Home Gardeners

By BETTY HUDSON

If the weeds in your garden are getting the best of you, don't give up yet because science has come up with the answer to your weeding problem—a new formula that actually prevents weeds before they grow. Called CRAG Herbicide-1, this easy-to-use "weed preventer" will keep your garden free of weeds for as long as six weeks. It can be used safely on several important vegetable crops and on more than 50 different varieties of flowers and shrubs. CRAG Herbicide-1 can be put on easily with either a sprayer or just a sprinkling can. It can save you from many hours of weeding work after your vacation by keeping weeds from growing while you're away.

GOODBYE TO WEEDS—Crag Herbicide-1 will prevent weeds in rose gardens as well as in perennial flower beds. Because it does not become a weed preventer until after contact with the soil, there is little or no danger of spray drift hurting the leaves of other established plants.

The International will pay tribute to the 50th Anniversary of the Wright brothers' original flight when 500 of the top model plane fliers assemble in Detroit August 15 through 24.

GLAD AND SORRY

One night in ancient times three horsemen were riding across the desert. As they crossed the dry bed of a river, out of the darkness a voice called, "Halt." They obeyed. The voice then told them to dismount, pick up some pebbles, put them in their pockets and remount.

The voice then said, "You have done as commanded. Tomorrow at sun-up you will be both glad and sorry." Mystified, the horsemen rode on. When the sun rose, they reached into their pockets and found that a miracle had happened. The pebbles were diamonds, rubies, and other precious stones. Then they remembered the warning. They were both glad and sorry—glad they had taken some, and sorry that they had not taken more.

Cottonseed 15 Years Old Still Germinates

Under controlled conditions, cottonseed has been stored for periods up to 15 years and germination was good at the end of the test period. The percentage of germination was most effected by moisture and temperatures, says Fred C. Elliott, cotton specialist for the Texas Agriculture Extension Service.

Seeds from two upland cotton varieties were used in the tests which were conducted jointly by the Tennessee Experiment Station and the USDA. The seed were divided into lots and adjusted to moisture levels ranging from 7 to 14 percent. Samples of each were stored in constant temperatures of 90, 70, and 33 degrees Fahrenheit.

Seeds stored at 70 degrees and with 7 percent moisture for 15 years still showed 73 percent of the seed capable of germinating. All lots stored at 70 degrees were dead at the end of the test period. Seeds stored at uncontrolled air temperature did not fare so well, says Elliott.

First shipments of government surplus powdered milk released to Church World Service and its Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP) for distribution to needy children and undernourished refugees in 14 countries are beginning to leave storage centers in Wisconsin and Minnesota. CWS-CROP was allocated 14,500,000 pounds out of a total of 60 million pounds released by the government through its Commodity Credit Corporation to all accredited voluntary foreign relief agencies.

Hot Weather Tips On Marketing Hogs

A live hog weighing 200 pounds is worth more than $50 at most markets but a dead one represents a loss instead of a profit. And warns, E. M. Palace Film To Show Sea-Giant Rip City

The fascinating tale of a prehistoric monster that comes back to life to attack a modern-day city is told in "The Beast from 20,000 Fathoms," Warner Bros. presentation opening Wednesday at the Palace Theatre.

The picture relates the fabulous story of a dinosaur which had been buried in the ice of a North Pole iceberg for 100 million years until freed by an experimental atomic blast. Making its way down the Atlantic coast to the U. S. shores, it forges inland on a bustling metropolis. Authentic reproduction of the ponderous beast and the havoc it wreaks are seen in the film.

Towering over the streets of the city, the beast plunges the metropolis into panic as it leaves a path of death and destruction—hurling automobiles about like toys, and crashing the walls of the buildings.

To gain a true perspective of a prehistoric monster an actual mechanical beast was constructed in full scale. Weighing over 30 tons, the "beast" was capable of moving its scaly head, opening its cavernous jaws, even rolling its eyes. Built at a cost of $25,000 the beast worked in the film five weeks.

Another feat of construction was the erection of an iceberg. Thirty tons of plaster, ten tons of salt, 500 pounds of cornflakes and forty tons of ice were needed to duplicate the icy wastes of the far north.

Pecans were first marketed through the channels of trade around 1880. At that time San Antonio was considered the pecan capital and in 1880 about a million and a quarter pounds were sold through the San Antonio market. The average annual Texas production now is about 30 million pounds and last year's crop was worth approximately $10 million.

CHECK TITLE WHEN PURCHASING HOME

A real estate title claim of ownership, or your right to land you have purchased. Most of us have little or no idea of the possible pitfalls in acquiring a good title when we buy a home. Many prospective home buyers' title difficulties result from commonly held misconceptions of the significance of certain kinds of real estate papers.

If you can prove your title against all the world, it is a good title. If, in addition, the evidence of your claim of ownership is contained in proper public records, it is a good record title. Ordinarily only a good record title is salable.

How do you know if you are receiving a good title to property you plan to purchase? The safest method is to have a title examination made—that is, a careful study of the abstract and other title evidence.

Here are a few of the common sources of trouble in real estate transactions to show why the minor expense of a title examination is justified.

Many persons sign "earnest money contracts" believing that they are mere receipts with no serious implication. In reality they may specify, among other things the kind of title you must accept.

A "warranty deed" from a reasonable seller is comforting to have but it is a poor substitute for a careful title examination. A warranty deed does not guarantee a marketable title.

Moreover, serious title defects may come to light until long after the seller in a warranty deed is dead, has moved to an unknown address, or is bankrupt. Even if he is available and a good title is much better than a law suit.

The fact that the seller has possession of an "abstract" does not mean that he owns the property. An abstract is only a history of a title. Possession of an abstract no more indicates ownership of land than possession of the history of Texas means that you own the state.

Some purchasers of land feel safe because the title is being examined at the time of purchase by an attorney for the mortgage lenders. This seems logical but is a dangerous theory. Mortgage lenders are sometimes willing to accept less than good record title as security. This is sound business for them because, among other reasons, the chances are that the mortgage will be paid off so that no expense in perfecting the title would ever need be incurred. It is risky business for you when you are putting your life savings into the purchase.

These are a few of the reasons why a title examination is an important safeguard to you. When it is completed, the attorney gives you a written opinion stating his conclusion as to who owns the land, the defect in or charges against such ownership, and the requirements to be met if any, to make good record title.

Off-hand this may seem a simple operation. In fact it is not. It requires the interpretation of numerous deeds, mortgages, wills, court decrees and other instruments; the consideration of the order in which transactions and events affected the title occurred; and the application of statutes and court decisions to the various situations disclosed in the abstract.

Post Junior Rodeo To Be Aug. 13, 14, 15

POST-Special - The Southwestern Championship Junior Rodeo will be held at Post on August 13-14 and 15 in the Post Stampede arena. This will be the sixth annual "world's original all-junior rodeo" and it is open to boys and girls nineteen or under. It usually draws several hundred junior cowboys and cowgirls from six southwestern states.

These top junior contestants will be competing in calf roping, calf badling, bull riding, bareback bronc riding, flag race, cutting horse contest, and barrel race. A new event which will be featured is the Kid Pony Race which is open to twelve year olds or under.

A big parade will open the show at 8 p. m. on the first afternoon and it will feature riding groups from all over west Texas. The performances of the rodeo, which has gained the reputation of being the top rodeo of its kind in the nation, it will be at 8 p. m. nightly. A big rodeo dance will follow each rodeo performance on the dance slab at the arena.

The annual Quarter Horse show which is held during the rodeo will be held in the arena on the afternoon of August 15th. It will have halter and performance classes for all age horses.

The annual meeting of the members of the American Junior Rodeo Association which has members in eighteen states will also be held during the rodeo. Post is headquarters for this organization and the annual meeting is always held during the rodeo. This meeting is to be held at 4 p. m. on August 15th.

Goat Mayo of Petrolia, Texas is furnishing the stock for the rodeo and all features of the show should make it one of the top rodeos of the season.

Hot weather and high humidity spell huge hog losses unless special attention is given to making the trip to market safe and comfortable for the hog. Good ventilation, wet, clean sand for bedding and frequent checks while enroute will help keep losses down.

Man Wins Dreamed-of Wings With Aid of Petroleum

We might be celebrating aviation's 50th birthday this year—instead of its 50th—if Leonardo Da Vinci had possessed a gasoline engine. Just about the time Columbus was discovering America, Da Vinci, an equally famous Italian, was designing airplanes and even helicopters that could have flown if motive power and liquid fuels had been available.

Man could not win his wings until those fuels, together with good lubricants, were developed around the turn of this century to meet the needs of the infant automobile industry.

Wilbur and Orville Wright, two young mechanics of Dayton, Ohio, realized that the age of flight was at hand. After studying Da Vinci's drawings, they designed and built a richly biplane in their bicycle shop. After studying the equally richly automobiles that occasionally stopped at their shop for repairs, they designed and built a lightweight 4-cylinder, 12-horsepower motor.

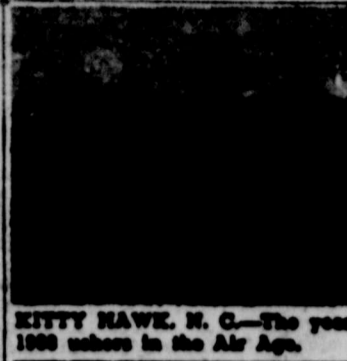

They took the contraption to Kill Devil Hill at Kitty Hawk, N. C., for testing. They filled its tank with the uncertain mixture that passed for gasoline in those days. On December 1, 1903, they unshined in the Air Age.

From that brave beginning, American aviation has grown until, in 1952, the nation's sched-

Constant improvement in engines, planes, airports, flight instruments, fuels and lubricants all have played their parts in this amazing growth.

FIFTY YEARS LATER—Somewhere in Korea a U.S. jet fighter fuels up, a far cry from the Wright Brothers' contraption of 1903.
