Coming To Palace

"The Prisoner of Zenda," one of the great romantic adventure stories of all time, is brought to the Palace screen Sunday by M-G-M in a spectacular production filmed in Technicolor, with an all star cast headed by Stewart Granger, Deborah Kerr, James Mason, Louis Calhern and Jane Greer.

The new picture, one of the most ambitious on the Metro production schedule, is set against a rich and colorful background of 19th Century Europe and tells the story of conspiracy and intrigue that caused a Royal Scandal to be whispered throughout a mythical kingdom. It was directed and produced respectively by Richard Thorpe and Pandro S. Berman, who recently scored with the successful "Ivanhoe."

Based on the novel by Anthony Hope and the dramatization by Edward Ross, the screen play was written by John L. Balderston and Noel Langley, with adaptations by Ivins-Hess.

For Stewart Granger, reunited with Deborah Kerr for the first time since "King Solomon's Mines," the new offering is in line with the colorful and adventurous characterization that have made him one of the top box-office stars. He portrays a dual role, acting first a man of fortune who changes the course of a kingdom, and secondly the king himself. Granger's most recent films were "Saramouche" and "The Wild North."

Miss Kerr was last seen in "Thunder in the East" and "Que Vadis." In "The Prisoner of Zenda" she enacts the Royal Princess, engaged to one man and in love with another, yet believing they are one and the same. James Mason plays the villainous Rupert of Hentzau; Louis Calhern is seen as Colonel Zapt, loyal defender of the crown; Jane Greer is cast as Antoinette De Mauban, beautiful but crafty conspirator. Lewis Stone who starred in the dual role of Rudolf Rassendyll and King Rudolf V, when "The Prisoner of Zenda" was first made into a motion picture 30 years ago, now plays the role of the Cardinal. Also in featured supporting roles are Robert Douglas and Robert Coote.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hebble of Lubbock spent several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carol Randolph.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Allen of Amarillo were week-end guests of relatives and friends.

Salmon Salad Is Dieter's Delight

COOL Inviting Salmon Salad Bowl might be called the dieter's delight, since hearty, flavorful canned salmon is a low-calorie food. It's a treat to eat just as it comes from the can, and it combines deliciously with garden-fresh low-calorie summer vegetables.

Canned salmon tallies only about 100 calories per 100 grams (slightly less than a quarter-pound and a very adequate serving). Moreover, it requires no calorie-laden dressing to make it taste good. One of the most popular ways to eat canned salmon is just "as is." When you serve canned salmon to a summer salad, you get the benefit of its complete protein heartiness in a cool, inviting combination of colorful, flavorful garden vegetables. Here's nutrition a la king. And if you want a dressing, take your choice of a luscious Blue Cheese Dressing or a dieter's special low-calorie dressing.

Salmon Salad Bowl
 1 7½ ounce can salmon
 Watercress
 1 large sweet onion, sliced
 2 tomatoes, cut in wedges
 ¼ cucumber, sliced and shredded
 Drain salmon. Flake, keeping pieces as large as possible. Place on watercress in center of salad bowl. Arrange all other ingredients around salmon. Serve with "Blue Cheese Dressing." Yield: 4 servings.

WASHINGTON AND SMALL BUSINESS

Official Washington is concerned over the wave of pessimism that swept nation with Korean peace talks. The spread of the idea that peace means a depression, can, officials say, talk the nation into depression.

A counter-propaganda program is discussed, but so far no one seems in agreement as to the direction it should take.

The probable truth is that there is no agreement on the measures needed to C. W. Harber maintain a healthy economy.

Actually, the United States should be entering into an era of even higher prosperity than at any time in the past. That is the opinion of many economists.

This school of thought points to the fact that home ownership in the United States is at an all time high. And it is well known that far more money in repairs, remodeling, in fact for everything from lawn seed to pianos is spent on owner-occupied homes than on rental homes. Economists also point to high auto ownership whose servicing produces a huge business volume.

Neither do they feel that the U. S. is consuming anywhere near the goods and services that it can. Even during a year of so-called Korea prosperity, almost one-third of the nation's families have incomes of less than $2,000 per year, over 60% of the families have incomes of less than $4,000 per year. There is still a great market to be developed by increasing the average annual family income.

What, then, the question is asked, creates the fear that without the U. S. economy will collapse?

The answer is that too much of the business is controlled by monopoly practices, by manufacturer owned retail outlets, by business practices which deprive independent business, the major furnisher of employment in the nation, from expanding.

Many in government still believe that a major plant expansion of $2 billion per year, as was evidenced during the Korean war, furnishes prosperity. Yet, the expansion of a few huge industrial plants is but a drop in the bucket to the expenditures that could be made by the building of new independent stores, factories, and the remodeling of existing establishments.

However, with the control of business falling into fewer and fewer hands due to cutthroat competitive tactics, employment producing independent enterprises either fail by the wayside, or die a slow death.

At the same time, pessimists, and those seeking rigid controls over the economy, cry that measures must be taken to stop inflation before the economy collapses.

Yet government itself has fashioned the backbone of inflation through taxation. Last year the nation spent $31 billion on food and clothing, but Federal, state, and local taxes cost the public $24.6 billion. There can be no assured prosperity when taxes take more of the people's income than food and clothing.

Many panaceas are advanced.

Yet many in Washington feel no solution is possible until enforcement of anti-trust laws eliminates price fixing competition and taxes are cut. There has never been any substitute for a completely free and open economy in producing prosperity.

Earnest Money Contracts Often Mistaken for "Receipts"

An all too common trap for the prospective home buyer is a sales contract signed under the delusion that he is merely signing a "receipt" for his earnest money payment. Once the buyer has signed such a contract, he is bound by its provisions. Many unfortunate entanglements have been announced by clients to lawyers with the words, "I have just signed a receipt for a house on Black Street. Will you take over now and see that everything is O. K.?"

Sales contracts are often called by other names, such as earnest money contracts, binders, receipts, etc. All of them are for the same purpose and almost without exception involve the deposit of money by the buyer. Some require the seller to put up a good faith deposit. The fact that such deposited sums are usually to be forfeited in event the depositor later fails to go through with his specified contractual obligations lends additional weight to the often stated admonition that no contract should be signed without complete understanding as to its terms.

But many home purchasers (and sellers) rush to sign a hastily prepared contract with very little knowledge of its contents. The pressure of time, the informality of the occasion, the casual appearance of the contract, and perhaps the fact that a partially printed form is used may contribute in causing the true importance of the act to be overlooked. At any rate, many are lulled into a lapse of good business judgment.

Every significant detail of the bargain should be crystalized in unmistakable terms in the contract of sale. Land and fixtures being sold should be clearly described. A complete legal description of the property by lot and block, or by metes and bounds, is a must, the street number being inadequate by itself.

Articles and fixtures included in the sale but not always sold with houses generally should be specifically listed. Included in this category are such items as venetian blinds, removable floor coverings, draperies, air conditioning units and other. In purchasing property under construction, complete plans and specifications form an essential part of the agreement.

The price to be paid must, of course, be specified, along with method and terms of payment. If a certain sized loan is a prerequisite to the buyer's ability to complete the purchase, this fact should be noted. Said indeed is the prospective purchaser who loses his earnest money when a contemplated loan transaction falls through, his contract requiring payment of the entire consideration in cash.

The sales contract should also state the quality of the title to be conveyed to the buyer and the type of title evidence to be furnished.

The buyer's individual circumstances and desires may require that various matters not mentioned above provide for in the contract. A partially printed form may not provide sufficient blank space for the addition of all essential details in your case. Do not fall into the "pitfall of the printed form."

A free pamphlet containing useful information on legal and other problems involved in buying a home has been prepared by Texas lawyers. To obtain a copy, print your name and address on a postcard and mail to State Bar of Texas, Austin 15, Texas. (This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform-not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.)

We appreciate the food, flowers and kind deeds so very much. We especially want to thank Mrs. Barnett Haney, Mrs. Nell Portridge and Miss Eva Collier for being so faithful in taking care of her during her last days. May God always be clear to guide and keep you. The family of Mrs. S. E. Hickman.

Latest figures released by the USDA show that agricultural exports from the United States are continuing to decline. Exports from April were 11 percent below those for March. Totals for the year are expected to be a fourth less than for last year. Cotton, rice and wheat are among the commodities showing the greatest loss.

Garden herbs which are to be used later for seasoning winter foods should be gathered for drying while the leaves are green and tender.

AMERICA'S NEW RAILROAD

15 of these big icing machines are in operation at ice-servicing points along the Santa Fe.

Ever see so much fuss just to chill an orange?

It's the best way there is today to refrigerate a "reefer"—but Santa Fe is developing an even newer and better way to do the job

In 60 seconds flat, the giant ice-crushing machines Santa Fe recently installed can fill the bunkers of a refrigerator car with five tons of ice! They are the newest and fastest machines for icing cars yet devised. And Santa Fe "reefers" are the most efficient type of refrigerator cars now on the rails. These refrigerator cars and icing machines have carried the technique of ice refrigeration to the ultimate of present day knowledge.

WHAT ABOUT TOMORROW?

We can't be sure, BUT—Santa Fe is now experimenting with a newer way to refrigerate cars automatically for hauling foods which may require temperatures as low as 25° below zero.

30 new experimental refrigerator cars designed by Santa Fe, built in its own shops and each with a capacity of 128,000 pounds of frozen foods, are now being utilized in the movement of frozen foods. Each of these new cars has its own thermostatically-controlled diesel-driven compressor-type refrigerator unit. It carries 400 gallons of fuel (almost the exact amount Lindbergh used to fly the Atlantic). It can maintain sub-zero temperatures all the way from California to New York.

BENEFITS FELT ALL ALONG THE LINE

All along the line, people and communities feel the benefits of this building now wherever it actually occurs on the Santa Fe—and day-after-day, something new is done to make "America's New Railroad" a little better.

The millions of dollars this newness costs Santa Fe doesn't cost you a single penny in the taxes you pay.

N. F. L. A. Loans Increase Reported

Mr. James B. R. A. Secretary-Treasurer of the National Farm Loan Association has reported a communique from Mr. Sterling C. Evans, President of the Federal Land Bank of Houston, concerning the drastic increase in demand for long-term farm mortgage loans in Texas.

Mr. Evans stated that a greater volume of loans has been closed during the first six and one-half months of 1933 than was closed in any single year for twenty-nine of the Bank's thirty-six year history. He believes one of the controlling reasons for this increase in the desire of farmers and ranchers to consolidate their short-term debts on a long-term basis...

The Bank now holds about 25 per cent of all of the farm mortgage debts in the State. Mr. Evans further stated that the Land Bank is now closing about 35 per cent of the total number of loans being made in Texas.

Messrs. G. W. Bennett, G. B. Morris, C. F. Martin, Tom Wilson and C. P. Witt, are directors of the local association.

GOLDEN GIRL

Mrs. Peyton Legg left Tuesday to visit her brother who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Hudson are visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Haney.

Palace Schedules "Angel Face" For Next Week.

Talks with the broadening audience of perfecting themselves, the wonderful work has been done in the face of events which follow the heels of an unexpressed hatred. RKO Radio's "Angel Face" achieves a new high in the realm of silent drama.

Robert Mitchum and Jean Simmons star in the Howard Hughes presentation, she as a vibrant young daughter of a socialist whose marriage to a wealthy woman has aroused the daughter's latent jealousy. The young girl hates her stepmother with a whole unexpressed even by herself. Mitchum portrays a young ambulance driver who meets the three of them when he is called to their parental home on an emergency errand. The stepmother has attempted suicide! She denies it hotly, but the evidence speaks for itself. The girl, obviously attracted to the driver, pursues him to the hospital, and, out of her loneliness and his inability to know how to handle the situation, a violent romance springs up between them.

He is aware of the smoldering danger in the girl's charm, but is totally unprepared for her actions. Horror stricken, he finds himself involved in a murder trial. Both he and the girl are accused of engineering the death of her parents. They are acquitted, but they find neither the state's decision, nor their own freedom of movement is sufficient to set aside the basic violence which haunts them both. The masking climax is a logical development which grows out of all the events leading up to one tragically certain moment. Mona Freeman and Herbert Marshall are co-starred, she as the girl, Mitchum develops her role as the hero's father.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Jenkins and family attended the funeral of his father, J. L. Jenkins in San Diego, California this week. They returned to Spur Wednesday, July 22.

SCIENCE and your Health! DIABETES by Science Features

Diabetes has been known to medical science for thousands of years, but only since 1921 have doctors been able successfully to treat it. The diabetic, who once was doomed to certain early death, today can live as long—or longer—than the non-diabetic person.

This advance is due largely to the discovery of insulin, a hormone which is extracted from the glands of slaughtered animals. Insulin is vital to the utilization of sugar by the body. In diabetes, the patient's body cannot produce sufficient quantities of this hormone, with the result that the whole bodily mechanism is thrown out of kilter. Injections of insulin correct this condition as long as they are continued.

Although diabetes does occur in children, most cases appear in later life—after the age of 40. One of the most serious complications of diabetes in elderly people is hardening of the arteries. This results in a reduced blood supply, especially to the legs and feet, and may pave the way for crippling infections. Recently an English doctor reported that terramycin was successful in treating 70 elderly diabetes sufferers from various infections.

Women seem to be more susceptible to diabetes than men, especially those whose weight has increased to the point where the fat-flesh action in the blood has the most diabetes.

Chemical control of hardwoods, through research conducted by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, has been proved both practical and profitable.

The Texas Purebred Dairy Cattle Association was organized by representatives of the Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, Guernsey and Jersey breed association at a meeting held in College Station on July 10.
