THE Editor's Corner...

By Joe Harrison
Spur may be in danger of losing its Public Library according to Mrs. T. H. Blackwell, president of the City Federation of Women's Clubs.
In our opinion a Public Library is a great asset to any town, and Spur is fortunate in having one.
On page two is an article dealing with this subject. We invite you to read it.

Prospects for a good crop this year, along with the Soil Bank, seems to be the major topic on the street.

Oscar Kelley even went so far as to predict that this will be the year that all farmers get out of debt. He even was brave enough to put it in writing. (See his ad on the back page.)

Here's one of the most humorous, true to life stories we've read in a long time. Read it, and we hope you get as big a laugh from it as we did.

"Consider the editor," it commands. "He weareth purple and fine linen. His abode is among the mansions of the rich. His wife hath her limousine and his first-born sporteth a racing car that can hit her up in forty flat."
"Lo: All the people breaketh their necks to hand him money. A child is born unto the wife of a merchant in the bazaar. The physician getteth ten gold plunks. The editor writeth a stick and a half and telleth the multitude that the child tippeth the beam at nine pounds. Yes, he lieth even as a centurion. And the proud father giveth him a Cremona."
"Behold, the young one groweth up and graduateth. And the editor putteth in his paper a swell notice. Yea, a peach of a notice. He telleth of the wisdom of the young woman, and of her exceeding comeliness. Like the roses of Sharon is she and her gown is played up to beat the band. And the dressmaker getteth two score and four iron men. And the editor getteth a note of thanks from the SGG."
"The daughter goeth on a journey. And the editor throweth himself on the story of the farewell party. It runneth a column, solid. And the fair one remembereth him from afar off with a picture postal card that costeth six for a jitney."
"Behold, she returneth and the youth of the city fall down and worship. She picketh one, and lo, she picketh a lemon. But the editor calleth him one of our most promising young men and getteth away with it. And they send unto him a bid to the wedding feast and behold, the bids are fashioned by Muntgummary Hawbuck, in a far city."
"Flowery and long is the wedding notice which the editor printeth. The minister getteth ten bones. The groom standeth the editor off for a twelve month subscription."
"All flesh is grass and in time is the wife gathered into the silo. The minister getteth his bit. The editor printeth a death notice, two columns of obituary, three lodge notices, a cubit of poetry and a card of thanks. And he forgetteth to read proof on the head, and the darn thing cometh out 'Gone to Her Last Roasting Place.'
"And all that are akin to the deceased jumpeth on the editor with exceeding great jumps. And they pulleth out their ads and cancellleth their subscriptions and they swing the hammer unto the third and fourth generation.
"Canst thou beat it?"

Six other candidates for county and district office are unopposed.

With only six churches reporting, attendance for 1957 was 481, compared to 781 recorded this year. Rev. Cal Wright, pastor of the First Methodist Church, said he thought the low attendance recorded last year could be attributed to a large snowfall.
Other area churches are urged to call in their Sunday School attendance to the Texas Spur by Monday morning of each week.

Application For Federal Funds Is Filed By White River Directors

Directors of the White River Municipal Water District voted in Spur last Thursday night to file their application for a $4,000,000 federal loan without the required three letters from the bond houses.
The letter from the bond companies regarding how much of the bond issue can be sold to the public is provided for in the application.
Eugene Vineyard and Ransom Galloway, representing the bond companies, were of the opinion that a letter from their organization at this point would prove ineffective.
Lloyd Wicks, attorney for the Water District, suggested that the directors file the application with-

THE LAW

As man finds out more and more about himself and his world, as his experience and wisdom grow, the law may get better. For example, as the psychological laboratories find out more about man's reaction times, his fears and faults, our laws about driving, for instance, may improve.
And here is another purpose the different kinds of laws may serve. You may look upon each as a sort of experience. Some turn out badly, and some well.
But in the give and take of public discussion, these efforts may yet bring us more nearly to the "one best way"—if any such thing exists.
(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

You can find these traits of law in most groups from the most primitive to the civilized.

Rabies Threatens Wildlife

A dangerous undercurrent of rabies runs throughout the broad range of Texas wildlife. The condition, while not new, could erupt into a full scale epidemic in an unguarded moment.

Rabid wildlife species infect dogs, and dogs infect other dogs. Therein lies the greatest source of danger to humans.

Twenty-eight cases were diagnosed in State Health Department laboratories during December. In addition, six positive cases were diagnosed in dogs by the El Paso County laboratory.

The 28 cases were submitted from 15 counties. Included in the total were 12 dogs, 11 foxes, three cats, and one bat and one coyote.

Jasper County in deep East Texas was hardest hit. Situated in the center of the most active focus of wildlife rabies, the county reported eight positive cases—six foxes, one cat and one dog.

Cameron County at the southern tip of the State was second with four cases, all in dogs. Freestone, Llano, and Red River Counties experienced two cases apiece. Bexar, Grayson, Hardin, Harris, Hidalgo, Marion, Presidio, Tom Green, Tyler and Wichita Counties each had a single case.

There is general agreement among health and veterinary officials that only a small fraction of the actual number of cases is reported. Thus, rabies in Texas is much more prevalent than indicated by heads submitted for the laboratory analyses.

Authorities also agree that we need not tolerate the constant threat of rabies provided we are willing to take these three tried and proved steps to erase it from the Texas scene.

1. Enforced vaccination of all dogs and cats. Some vaccines give effective protection for a year. Others, composed of egg-grown live virus, may protect for as long as three years without revaccination.

2. Adopt and enforce stringent city ordinances against stray dogs. Ownerless dogs—those without licenses or vaccinations—should be impounded.

3. Set up local programs of thinning wildlife populations in areas of over-abundance. Of greatest concern in Texas are foxes and skunks.

England and the Scandinavian countries have taken these steps. So have several of our own northeastern states. Their reward has been complete freedom from one of the most dreaded of all diseases.

All three steps demand full cooperation from all pet owners and local governing officials. Without such cooperation, rabies eradication is doomed to failure before it starts.

At Least It's Unanimous

In an interim report, approved by all seven members, the Senate Preparedness subcommittee proposed a space-age program of 17 points to catch up with the Russians on missiles and satellites. It calls for speed-up in all missiles — including anti-missile missiles and manned missiles.

The members, said the report, had heard no testimony that would suggest that we are unable to maintain our present ability to deliver "blows of almost total destruction". It also said that the US is in a race for survival—and (which is nice to know) intends to win.

All in all it seemed like an elaborate effort to say as little as possible and to respect Chairman Lyndon Johnson's desire to let bygones be bygones and lay no blame for the missile lag on the White House doorstep.

Perhaps this is just as well, since we could hardly be more confused on the whole subject of defense than we already are. But the claims and the counterclaims of the high brass, the President's promises to do something about the Pentagon, the sudden decision to hire 25,000 more civilians in the Department suggest that we are not alone in this condition.

According to National Association of Manufacturers' statisticians, 47.1 percent of current defense spending is accounted for by the Air Force; 27.4 percent by the Navy; and 23.5 percent by the Army. The remaining two percent goes for inter-service projects.

Alaskans do more talking on the telephone. In a recent year they averaged 630 calls each, as against 426 for the continental United States and 51 for the world as a whole.

U.S. News & World Report finds that the current business decline is felt most severely in the factory towns and smaller cities — the "...places that have cut loose from their dependence on the farmer but have not developed a broad base of industry and trade."

According to National Review, the Soviet Union had a "catastrophic" crop failure last year. Output is estimated at 15 to 20 percent below the 1956 level.

Trendex News Poll asked what age a U. S. President should be when first inaugurated. Three out of four people queried said 50 or under. Only two percent said over 55.

Taxpayer's Dollar anticipates that the 1959 federal budget will come to $72.5 billion, with defense spending accounting for $39—40 billion of that. Other forecasters look for a budget of as much as $74 billion.

There has been only one unmarried U.S. President — James Buchanan.

TO DELINQUENCY PROBLEM

Punishing Parents For Child's Misconduct Offers No Solution

By Judge Sarah T. Hughes
(Ed Note: This is one of a series of articles on the state's growing problem of juvenile delinquency by one of Texas' foremost authorities on the subject, District Judge Sarah T. Hughes of Dallas, who has handled more than 25,000 juvenile and family relations cases, along with a never greater number of other civil cases in 22 years on the bench. "Family law is probably the most important phase of the law," says this internationally known jurist, whose work has been honored throughout the United States and in Europe and whose name was put in nomination for vice president of the U. S. in 1952. A discussion of a different aspect of the problem will appear each week.)

How good is the new idea that has spread so fast over the country, the idea of punishing the parents for their children's misdeeds? How much does it solve? Does it cut down juvenile delinquency in the communities that have tried it? Does it have any unexpectedly harmful effects?

Surveys show that its overall results are harmful, that it does not offer the solution its advocates hope for.

Mistaken Enthusiasm

The wide enthusiasm caused by this new and seemingly apt attempt at a simple solution seems—for awhile—to be effecting, if not a cure, at least a definite improvement. (And these apparently good" early results excite other communities into trying the same tack.)

"Terrible Damage"

"But each year we prosecuted more and more parents and each year we saw more and more delinquency," he said. "We did terrible damage under that law. We broke up homes, we took people's emergency savings, we caused children to become public charges."

Toledo, Ohio, also tried it for a long time. Here's what the judge there reports: "We certainly find no evidence that our practice has deterred other parents. . . . Punishment as a method of control of that great bulk of delinquent parents whose contributing consists mainly of acts of omission—failure to teach, train, and supervise the child from the cradle up—is so impracticable as to be worthless." Other communities have had the same experience.

And yet a Gallup poll not so long ago showed that 85 percent of the cross-section of the public interviewed believed that parents should be held responsible for their children's property damage, that the public believed that blame for the rise in juvenile delinquency lay definitely with the parents. They should ask those who have tried punishing the parents.

Does Much Harm

Here are some of the reasons punishing the parents doesn't work:

1. Children often become vengeful toward their parents, try to "pay them back" for fancied or real wrongs by getting THEM in trouble with the law. "I was sore at my father and wanted to get him in trouble," one said.

2. Parents may become vengeful toward their children and make matters worse instead of better. "Don't worry, Judge, when I get through with him he won't even be able to walk," one father said.

3. Children use the law as a stick over their parents' heads to get their own way—the latter being often, of course, the path to delinquency.

"If I don't let him alone he'll do something so bad they'll send me to jail," one mother quoted her son's threats.

Conceal Trouble

Juvenile case workers oppose the law because, in addition to the above reasons, it often makes the parents afraid to admit they are having trouble with their children so they no longer bring them in for counseling, thus closing up an avenue of help that nips some of the trouble in the bud.

5. The counseling and other services which have been doing some good are often neglected or even cancelled by communities in their first enthusiasm for the new law.

6. Taking earnings or job-time from parents sometimes puts the family on relief and stigmatizes the good children in a family as having "jailbird parents."

Good Parents Punished

7. In a simple matter of justice, this law often punishes innocent parents, who may have one bad child but who are raising other children well.

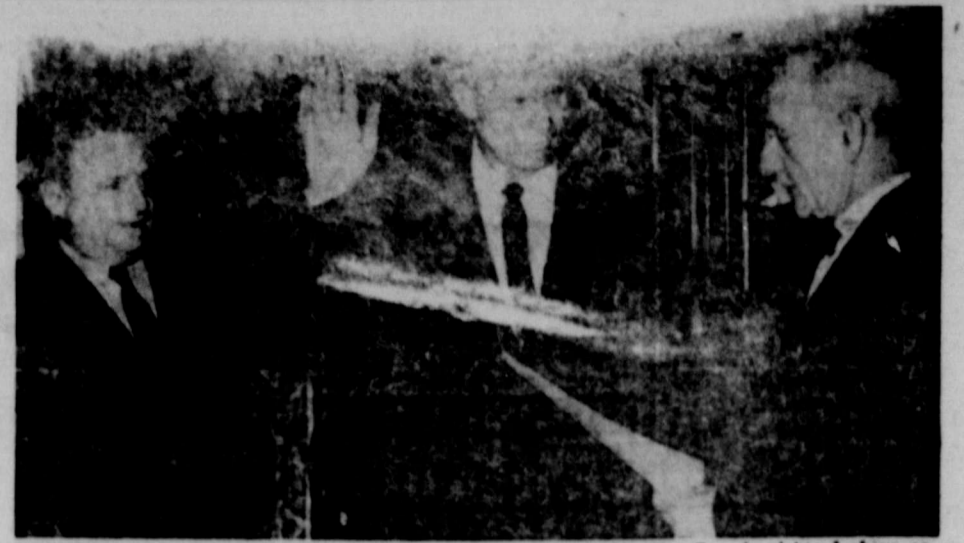

Judge Justine Polier, for many years a New York domestic relations jurist, and Dr. Martha Eliot, former head of the government's Children's Bureau and now a Harvard professor, both decried the punish-the-parents laws as equally unworkable and unfair.

"Every community should have, instead," they say, "diagnostic, counseling, and guidance services . . . family counselors, child guidance clinics, school social workers, parent-education classes, child welfare services, probation workers, and juvenile police officers. We don't have enough of any of these."

My next article will be called "Is More Severe Punishment Needed to Deter Teen-Age Delinquents?"

Since the initiation of the 7-Step Program 12 years ago by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the average lint yield per harvested acre in the United States has climbed from 134 pounds in 1946 to 291 pounds for 1957. The program brings together on the county and state basis committees representing every segment of the cotton industry. They work for the betterment of their industry. Fred C. Elliott, extension cotton specialist, gives full credit to the 7-Step Committee for the achievements made.

1,800 demonstrations conducted in 56 Texas counties last year under the direction of county agents showed that odorized methyl bromide was 96 per cent effective for controlling the troublesome leaf-cutting ants.

Extension Entomologist F. M. Fuller says the leaf-cutting ant poses a threat to the record plantings of pine seedlings in East Texas especially if the seedlings are planted on lands heavily infested with the pest. He recommends treating the colonies with odorized methyl bromide and suggests that details on the use of the material be secured from the local county agent.

IT'S THE LAW

Some people find confusing our different state and national laws dealing with the same things. Income tax laws for an example.

Surely, they say, you can have no real justice, unless there is some one "best way" to do each thing—to hold property, to manage traffic, to pay taxes, or to enforce contracts.

So it bothers them. Why English men drive on the left side of the street? Why should married couples hold title under community property laws in some states and not in others?

Is law merely a man-made contraption?

It is true that like good manners much law is man-made, growing out of custom or local problems? In card games you can play many different games with one deck. You merely change the rules. But as with cards and all games, the law goes deeper than convention into man's basic needs for order, for a grasp of the part he is to play, and for a way to settle disagreements.

Law provides an orderly way to do things so that people can make long-range plans and work together. Its rules help you to find where you stand—your rights and duties. And last, law has binding ways of settling disputes if need be, first to keep the peace, and then win people over by dealing with them in ways that satisfy their sense of fairness.

You can find these traits of law in most groups from the most primitive to the civilized.

As man finds out more and more about himself and his world, as his experience and wisdom grow, the law may get better. For example, as the psychological laboratories find out more about man's reaction times, his fears and faults, our laws about driving, for instance, may improve.

And here is another purpose the different kinds of laws may serve. You may look upon each as a sort of experience. Some turn out badly, and some well.

But in the give and take of public discussion, these efforts may yet bring us more nearly to the "one best way"—if any such thing exists.

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Rev. Calvin Bailey, pastor, officiated in the double ring ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white ballerina length gown of embossed organza, featuring a net overskirt and a low scooped neckline. A waist length veil was attached to a pearl Tiera. She carried a white orchid corsage atop a white Bible.

She was attended by Elizabeth Norton, Hamlin, maid of honor and four bridesmaids, Janis Crowley, Annette Smith, Mittie Ann Roy, Barbara Bell of Hamlin, who were attired in frocks of light blue cotton satin, with flared skirts, boat necklines and cummerbunds at the waist. Win 4-H Awards

Kay Botard, 15, of Jim Wells county, knows how to make a house a real home. Proof of her ability is that she won the 1957 state award in 4-H Girls' Home Economics. Receiving this future Texas homemaker with a $150 scholarship is Montgomery Ward, donor of awards for the 14th consecutive year.

In six years as a 4-H'er, Kay compiled a long list of achievements. She sewed 250 garments and articles for her home, prepared and froze several hundred pounds of food; cooked 250 meals; completely redecorated her bedroom.

Since 1955, Kay has served as 4-H Junior leader. A year ago she organized the Lucky Clover 4-H Club for girls between 9 and 11 years old.

A green thumb and a willing hand proved a winning combination for Rita Stewart, 15, of Brown county who won the state 4-H Beautification of Home Grounds award.

For Rita's outstanding work with lawn, flowers and plants she received a 19-jewel wrist watch from Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen, Inc. Rita led a shrub identification which recently placed first the district, state and youth. She was a two-term president of her local 4-H club. These 4-H award programs are conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Car, Garage, Damaged By Flames

FIRE COMPANY CALLED OUT
About eleven o'clock Monday night our little city was aroused by the fire siren. It proved to be the garage at the D. Y. Twaddell home on Third Street. The building was damaged a great deal. A car in the garage belonging to E. L. Tanner, County Agriculture Agent, was destroyed also.

The origin of the fire is not known. Mr. Tanner had his car insured, and Tuesday morning he was not long in securing a new car and getting back on the job. He is now driving one of the new Model Fords purchased at Godfrey & Smart.

LINDBERG NEEDED
By Arthur Brisbane
Lindbergh, world's champion flyer, landed in Mexico City, notifies the world that young men in this country know how to fly in spite of the fact that their Government does not yet realize the importance of flying.

The United States Government ought to insist the services of Lindbergh to instruct American flyers and enlighten those responsible for our defense. If another war ever comes, it will seem very extraordinary to future historians, writing of American cities bombed and gassed, that the richest cities in the world should have gone along without adequate air protection.

Not one of our cities is protected today by anything but distance. Coast defense guns and battle- ships are obsolete, anti-aircraft guns absolutely inefficient. We spend $6,000,000 a year for "de- fense" and have none.

Dickens County will probably have 46,000 acres of cotton unless there is a 25% increase in the acreage by Mr. Benson which would make a total of 59,000 acres.

A 50,000 bale cotton crop would really put a lot of people in Dickens County out of debt--what do you think? So look up, brace up, conditions are a lot better than you think!
