Sonora Season Ends As Eldorado Wins Football Game Sat.

Bronchos Fail to Get Thanksgiving Game so Suits Turned in Monday; Next Fall Brighter

The Sonora grid season ended when the Eldorado Eagles won their game at Ozona Saturday and thereby entered the district finals. The Bronchos were slated to oppose the Eagles Thursday in Eldorado, but now the Eldorado team must play Junction for the district title this week and the Sonora game was called off by agreement.

Failing to secure another opponent for his charges for Thanksgiving, Coach H. S. Griffin decided Monday to disband the team, and suits were turned in by squad members.

The Bronchos, handicapped by lack of experienced material, displayed a fine spirit throughout the season and despite a disastrous season from a scoring standpoint, they showed wonderful development and earned the admiration of local supporters. They played 9 games, defeating Mason, and losing to Del Rio, Iraan, Rocksprings (twice), Ozona, Eldorado, Menard and Junction.

Next fall should be a different story, with both the team members and Coach Griffin looking forward to a better season. They will lose only four men from this year's team, with only two of the four regulars. The co-captains, Herbert Fields and Ernest Smith will be sorely missed in their backfield positions. Cleve Jones showed up well at end when he played but was not eligible for conference games. Neither was Pug Roueche eligible.

With added weight from a year's growth, together with some new material, the squad next year will have a lot more to start the season than was the case this year.

Beef and Hog Make 191 Big Cans Meat

Demonstration Monday at Johnson Ranch Attended by 10

With the co-operation of the home demonstration agent, Mrs. Etta W. Ringgold, and with the aid of 10 interested workers who were present, a baby beef and a hog were processed and canned Monday at the Alvis Johnson ranch.

The meat was put in 11 different forms, as follows: sausage, steak, beef roast, pork roast, pork chops, chili, cowboy stew, soup, veal loaf, stew meat and scrapple.

The meat was first seared in hot grease, then sealed in the cans. Cans were then placed in a pressure cooker for 45 to 60 minutes. Over half of the cans were the large No. 3 size, the remainder being No. 2 size.

Those attending were: Mrs. Etta W. Ringgold, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Berger, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Shurvell, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Logan, Mrs. Hub Hale and Mrs. George A. Smith.

This was the first time pork had been canned in Sutton county. Mr. and Mrs. Berger canned a beef several weeks ago, however. Others are expected to convert low-priced meat animals into food in this economical manner.

Attend Funeral of Grandmother

Mrs. C. H. Carson, Mrs. E. C. Garvin, and their brother, Floyd Dungan, were called to Marlowe, Okla., last Wednesday by the serious illness of their grandmother, Mrs. S. K. Sweden. Mrs. Sweden died Thursday morning, after they had arrived, and was buried that afternoon. She was 85 years old.

Return from Sherman Friday

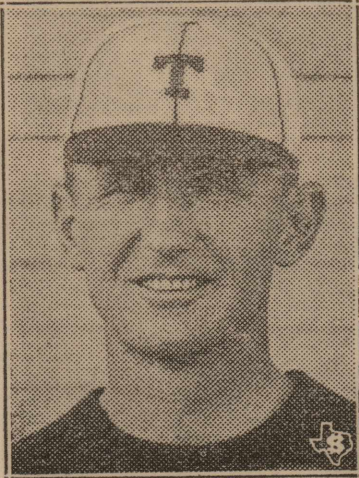

Mesdames S. T. Gilmore and W. C. Warren, Sonora representatives to the annual convention of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, meeting last week at Sherman, returned Friday night, reporting a highly successful meeting. Mrs. T. J. Martin of Brackettville, and Mrs. C. K. McDowell of Del Rio were house guests of Mrs. Gilmore here Friday night.

W. R. Cusenbary made a business trip to San Angelo Monday.

Change of Coaches at Texas A. & M.

Coach Homer Norton, hired

Coach Madison Bell, retired

The powers that be at Texas A&M college, College Station, have announced that Coach Madison Bell, who came to Texas A&M from TCU, Fort Worth, has been replaced. His successor is Coach Homer Norton of Centenary college, Shreveport, La., who has run up an impressive football record against Southwest Conference teams in the last several years. Texas A&M's defeat at the hands of Centenary 20 to 0 early in the 1933 season is thought to have had much to do with Norton's selection.

PIGSKIN BATTLE BRINGS DEFEAT TO FREDERICKSBURG, OZONA; TITLE GAME THURS. JUNCTION-ELDORADO

Semi-finals in the heated race to determine a football winner in district 14-B saw Fredericksburg and Ozona receive the lemons last Saturday in two hard-fought contests.

Eldorado and Junction, by virtue of their victories Saturday, were to meet Thursday in a widely-heralded battle on the Eldorado field, and from that Turkey Day tussle will emerge the district champion.

It was a heart-breaker for the Ozona fans Saturday. They saw their Lions outfight the invading Schleicher county Eagles through the first half only to see a first-half 13-point lead evened up in the last 7 minutes of the game by the desperate Eldorado men. Then Eldorado was declared winner because of three penetrations of the Ozona 20-yard line to only 2 for Ozona.

Observers felt that the best team lost on over-confidence and a bad break or two.

At the same time as the tie at Ozona, the Kimble county variety of Eagles were finding the Fredericksburg lads mighty tough, and they felt lucky to eke out a 7-0 victory over the east-end contenders.

Many Sonora people attended the game in Eldorado Thursday, for both teams are well-coached fighting ball players, a real battle was in prospect. Previous performances point to an Eldorado victory.

Winner of Thursday's game will meet some team from the district to the north in a bi-district contest next week. Winters has won the flag in the west end, while a big dispute over eligibility of both San Saba and Brady men leaves the result of the east end race yet in doubt.

Thanksgiving Day Brings Students Home Once More

Numbers to Attend Texas-A&M Game at College Station, Coming Here Later

Many varying plans are reported for celebration of the Thanksgiving holidays by Sonora people, with the return of college students as usual featuring largely in holiday plans.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Aldwell left Wednesday afternoon by special train from San Angelo for College Station to attend the Texas-A&M football game there Thursday, and to return here accompanied by their son, Lea Roy, a student at A&M, for the duration of the vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Sawyer and their son, Wesley, left Wednesday morning by motor for Austin, accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Francis, who will spend her vacation in San Antonio, and by Miss Elizabeth Caldwell, who went part way with them enroute to Galveston. The Sawyers will be joined by their daughter, Miss Alice, who is a student at the University of Texas, and will attend the game at College Station where their son, Edwin, is a student. After the game the family will return here for the rest of the week-end.

Miss Dorothy Baker of the University of Texas planned to attend the game at College Station, and probably, to come here later.

Sam Logan, a student at A&M may not have returned from a stock-judging trip to Kansas City in time to be home this week-end.

John Hull and James Ed Hutcherson, both of A&M are expected home this week-end.

The Misses Babe White and Edythe Carson were accompanied here from the University of Texas Wednesday by S. R. Hull, who drove down for them.

Miss Mae Cauthorn of Baylor University, Waco, accompanied by

Cauthorn Bros. Get Lease on 6 Sections

Will Hold 10,000 Lambs Until Spring on Ranches

Cauthorn Bros. of Sonora have leased the 6-section ranch of Sid Slaughter adjoining their ranch near Mertzon, and with extra range they are holding over their 1933 lamb crop of 10,000 head. The lease price was 40 cents an acre. They have put 2,000 lambs on the Slaughter place.

The Cauthorns sheared their spring lambs in this area but left their Mertzon bunch in the wool. The lambs in Sutton, Edwards and Val Verde counties averaged four pounds, and the fleece is long enough to grade as 8-months, rather than short wool. It has not been sold.

They recently sold a thousand shorn aged ewes to Dee Finley, price unannounced.

For their coming crop of lambs they used black-faced bucks on 8,000 ewes and will ship the lambs milk-fat in the early summer, provided range conditions are right.

From the Mertzon ranch they sent a double deck car of lambs out of Karakul stock they bought last year from S. E. McKnight to feed at Morris, Kan. The half-Rambouillet, half-Karakul, lambs were a new thing to buyers and none wanted them, so the owners decided to experiment with them as feeders.

Carroll Attending Code Meeting

Ernest Carroll, local Texas Company agent, accompanied by L. R. Rike, San Angelo representative of the company, left Tuesday for Houston to attend a regional hearing on adoption of a code for the petroleum sales industry. Mr. Carroll is chairman of a region of several counties surrounding Sutton in the administration of the code. He plans to return Saturday.

Mrs. Will Wilkinson returned Wednesday from a visit in Menard.

Trainload Cattle Sent from Sonora West Wednesday

Sheep Movement Heavy Last Week-end, with Whiteheads Big Shippers to Feedpens

Livestock activity continued unabated here during the last few days. A trainload of cattle, 21 cars, left Sonora Wednesday, shipped by Harold Evans to the Van Horn ranch of J. M. West for grass. Part of this shipment was shipped into Sonora about a year ago from Marathon.

Evans is also shipping 5,000 sheep from the ranch north of Eldorado which he recently sold Ben F. Meckel to the Martin & West ranch at Marathon.

The big sheep movement last week-end was principally that of Whitehead Brothers. All of the sheep shipments since last Thursday went to feeders.

Friday of last week the following went out: 315 sold by Tom Sandherr by J. E. Boog-Scott to Fort Worth; 122 from Henry Diebitsch and 277 from Howard Espy by Finley-Kitchens to Fort Worth; 621 mutton lambs from the Fred Earwood Langtry ranch by Roy Hildreth to Colorado; 618 from Thomas Espy by Finley-Kitchens to Fort Worth. The Sandherr lambs weighed 65 pounds.

Saturday F. H. (Tuff) Whitehead delivered 1935 lambs, 1600 going to W. L. Harrison, Hagerton, Tex; and 365 to J. L. Templeton.

Men Enjoy Social Meeting at Church

Banquet Friday Night Followed by Evening of Games

About 35 Sonora business men and ranchmen enjoyed a social gathering at the Methodist church Friday and heard plans discussed for making such a non-denominational meeting a regular monthly affair.

Following a banquet served by ladies of the church the men heard talks by the Rev. S. L. Batchelor, presiding elder of the San Angelo district, and W. E. Caldwell, and a humorous reading by James Montgomery of San Angelo. A third member of the San Angelo party was C. K. Sterling.

After the program was concluded the men played dominoes and "42" for about two hours.

Lions Hear Number of Readings, Talks

Dr. I. B. Boughton New Member; Good Meeting Tuesday

Tuesday's luncheon of the Sonora Lions Club was marked by good attendance and considerable enthusiasm in discussion of a number of questions.

Members enjoyed a number of readings. Glen Richardson and Peggy Gilmore gave a musical dialogue. Mattie May Friess gave an Italian dialect reading, "Mia Carlotta." Miss Lois Daniel, their teacher, read James Whitcomb Reiley's "That Old Sweetheart of Mine," to a piano accompaniment of "Humoresque," played by Miss Marie Watkins.

Mayor W. C. Gilmore reported on the progress being made in public works projects. On the motion of Lion W. E. Caldwell, the club passed a resolution expressing appreciation to the Santa Fe railway for its co-operation in furnishing engineering service and tools for the drainage work.

Lion W. H. Dameron reported the illegal killing of a doe on the Ranch Experiment Station properties last week-end, and the club was asked to support all movements for improving the game supply of the county.

W. E. James read a letter from Frank Knapton expressing appreciation for the assistance given him by the Lions in undergoing an operation in San Antonio several weeks ago. Mr. Knapton is now recovering after a serious relapse which resulted from an infection after the operation.

Total of 300 Applications Expected by Taylor

ORDER ON BRIDGE

Non-Citizens Employed on Street Widening Project

With 280 men signed up for work in Sutton county Tuesday afternoon, R. E. Taylor, Sutton county relief administrator, expects to have a total of 300 applicants within the next few days.

Work began this week on a large scale, with the first preliminary work on the flood control project on Lowrey Draw started Tuesday morning, Wednesday morning about 90 men were started on this job.

The county's other major project, $56,000 concrete bridge and road award at the North Llano crossing, was expected to begin soon.

WORKMEN MUST REGISTER

It is emphasized by officials in connection with the CWA that only those who register for work may be employed. There was some criticism of selection of work foremen this week, through misunderstanding. There was also some discussion of the placing of certain men in so-called "preferred jobs." It has been stated repeatedly that there are no such jobs—all must work and all will be paid alike, with the exception of the engineers directing the general flood control work.

since a work order was received Monday by the W. W. Vann Construction company from the state highway department. The firm had indicated a desire to begin work as soon as the order was received. This project, while under the highway department, will employ men through the office of Mr. Taylor.

The drainage control work is a Civil Works Administration job, under sponsorship of the city of Sonora. Engineering work is being done by the staff of the Panhandle & Santa Fe Railway company, and supervision is under F. G. Coburn. Timekeepers and foremen have been chosen from local applicants.

Since only United States citizens are eligible for CWA positions, all alien Mexican residents of the city who have been given work are employed on the street widening project east of the courthouse.

The pay on the CWA projects is 40 cents an hour, with a maximum of five hours a day and 30 hours a week for each man. Two shifts work on the flood control, one in the morning and one in the afternoon.

SOME QUITTING JOBS

It has developed that a number of ranch workers are leaving regular jobs to come to town to sign for work on the CWA, attracted by the shorter hours and good pay. The co-operation of employers is requested in stopping this practice, for there are so many men enrolled now that all cannot be placed. Employers are asked to report the name of any man who quits to R. E. Taylor at the courthouse.

Many citizens of the city protested the destruction of a number of the large liveoak trees in the Woman's Club Park, but the removal of a large part of the grove was necessitated by the engineer's plans for dirt removal. None was removed unnecessarily, and Mayor W. C. Gilmore assured local residents that no trees would be destroyed unless absolutely necessary.

Teams are being used on the job.

Oklahoma Plans Quail Reservoirs to Restore Birds

125 Preserves in State Would Be Used to Build Up Surplus Stocks of Game

New York.—Mother Nature has been enlisted in a new plan to restore bob-white quail in Oklahoma after the expenditure in that state of millions of dollars and enforcement of restrictive regulations for 24 years in a futile attempt to increase America's most popular game-bird, according to the More Game Birds Foundation.

Establishment of a system of 125 state-operated game preserves, where the bountiful lady would be aided in eventually producing in one year more quail than state game farms turn out in 10, is the plan just inaugurated. The preserves will act as reservoirs, with the natural overflow of birds relied upon to restock the state instead of promiscuous annual restocking methods employed in other states.

A survey of the Oklahoma game department has revealed that in one year more quail than state men took approximately 1,500,000 bob-whites. The total output from the state game farm and other sources this year was but 5,000 birds. "Obviously the water is running out much faster at the open end of the barrel than we are pouring it in at the bung hole," Roberts P. Chandler, state game warden points out. "But the one state game warden farm and a score like it cannot hope to produce quail as rapidly as they are annually killed.

"We propose to establish annually a managed game preserve in each of 25 districts throughout the state. These areas will be carefully selected and predatory animals and birds systematically controlled. The department will then plant quail on each managed preserve, hunting will be prohibited there and the birds will be fed during severe blizzards. Such a project will serve not only to increase the quail population of that immediate vicinity but will be an object lesson for those willing to put out a little effort and money each year. A similar area will be added to each district each year for five years.

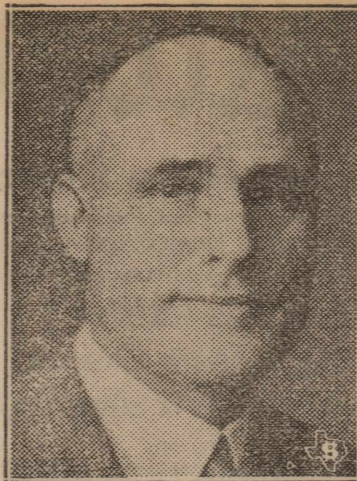

"Individuals and groups can be encouraged to develop private shooting preserves for the season that the more who do so will mean taking that many off the public shooting grounds. The value of private hunting and fishing places is already demonstrated by the success of the many private fishing lakes in the state. Those who depend upon public waters for their fishing have enjoyed better sport in recent years because of the fact that thousands of fishermen have built their own fishing ponds."

A political feud of long standing in the Lower Rio Grande valley of Texas has reached newspaper headlines again when two Mexicans have allegedly confessed to the killing of Claud Kelley, son-in-law of Ed Couch, prominent county judge of Hidalgo county. The Mexicans, Mateo Cuellar and Julian Ybarra, are alleged to have admitted that they thought they were killing Judge Couch, since Kelley was sleeping in Couch's room at the time of the slaying in 1929. Others held in connection with the slaying are Cam Hill, former county treasurer of Hidalgo county, now of El Paso, and George Beck.

'Watch Oysters,' Says State Health Officer

Safe Ones Certified by State to Protect the Public

Austin.—"Beware of uncertified oysters," warns Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer. In Texas each grower of oysters is furnished a certificate from the state department of health covering the oyster beds that he uses, provided surveys of such areas have shown these to be free from pollution and that the shucking houses are sanitary. With such certificate granted a shipping number which must accompany each shipment to show the source of the shellfish.

Each operator of a shucking house where oysters are opened must have a certificate testifying that his shop has been found sanitary and his employees have been examined and found negative for communicable disease, especially typhoid fever. Certificates are issued annually. The federal government co-operates with the states by exercising supervision over methods used and issues lists of certified shippers in all parts of the country.

The safest oysters in Texas are the ones accompanied by a certificate. The oyster has much to commend as a food—protein of good quality, a rich source of iron and copper (important as a protective against anemia), a liberal source of iodine essential to the proper functioning of the thyroid gland and a fair amount of vitamins.

Taxi Code Hardest to Work Out Under Supervision NRA

Business Has Been One of Worst in Country for Price Cutting Wars and Sharp Practice

Washington.—National Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson has announced that representatives of leading groups of taxicab owners, representing more than a dozen states, have agreed unanimously upon provisions of a proposed code of fair competition.

Conditions in the taxicab industry have long been recognized as chaotic. General Johnson expressed gratification over the agreement among approximately 60 per cent of its organized groups, following 3 days of final conferences with NRA officials, preceded by more than 2 months of constant effort. To work out acceptable provisions for self-government proved exceedingly difficult—more than in any industry. With few, if any, exceptions, communities of all sizes have been called upon to support too many taxis for the traffic in sight. The result has been devastating price wars, constant wrangling, and other evils combining to deprive drivers of a living wage and owners of income. In a public statement the executive chairman of the United Taxicab Board of Trade said:

"It is felt that the fine stand taken by the NRA to obtain na-

NEW LIGHT IS THROWN ON FAMED ODESSA RABBIT-ROPING IN ST. LOUIS

(The Odessa News-Times)

Easterners recently were given the real low-down on the now famous rabbit rodeos held in Odessa, when a "Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine," wrote for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch a full-page article, titled "The Big Rabbit Rodeo, Something New Under the Sun, at Odessa, Texas." A copy of the Post-Dispatch, with the full-page write-up, including photographs and art work, was received this week by A. H. Dennison, from relatives living in St. Louis.

Odessans, although they have witnessed several rabbit roping contests, might learn something of the sport from reading the following account:

(By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine)

Odessa, Texas. — Maybe there's nothing new under the sun, but the boys around Odessa doubt it. They think the rabbit rodeo they put on here the other day was the first one ever held. And everybody says it was the most entertaining spectacle this little prairie town has seen since a monocled Englishman in a deer-stalker cap came a-visiting in '96.

The American Legion got up the show. They hit on the idea in casting about for a stunt that was novel. Probably it was suggested by the fact that jackrabbits were pestering the farmers and truck gardeners of this vicinity more than usual, making serious inroads on the crops. It would serve a double purpose, therefore, to get rid of a lot of these nuisances and at the same time provide something new in entertainment—a rodeo in which the contestants roped rabbits instead of cows.

But scarcely had preparations been begun when an obstacle loomed up that came near wrecking the enterprise. The humane society thought the exhibition would entail cruelty to the jackrabbits, and appealed to court to prevent it. It looked for a time as if the Legionnaires would have to call off the show. And then someone figured out that jackrabbits were not animals in the meaning of the law against cruelty, but were "destructive rodents," and as such outside the pale of humane society protection. The court agreed with this argument and dissolved its restraining order. The Legion was free to proceed with its plans.

The rabbit rodeo was well advertised, and on the day of the event men, women and children from all over Loving county assembled at Odessa. Shortly after daybreak the little town was crowded. The holiday spirit was in the air, mingling with hot sunshine and the aroma of barbecued beef.

The arena for the contests consisted of a half-acre of ground surrounded by a three-foot fence of wire and canvas. At one end of the arena was a chute leading from a corral where the rabbits were collected. Around the fence the crowd of spectators gathered.

A gunshot signaled the beginning of the program. Out of the chute into the arena bounded an uneasy jackrabbit. A judge shouted "Go!" Stop watches clicked. A waiting cowboy, lariat swinging, dashed on foot toward the rabbit. The rodeo was on.

The cowboy made a throw. The loop came down right over the rabbit's head. But by the time the loop was tightened, the rabbit's head was no longer there; the jack had jumped right on through it. The cowboy hauled in the rope and went after the rabbit again. He was just about to make another toss when the rabbit changed its course suddenly. Running awkwardly in his high-heeled boots, the cowboy tried to match that sudden turn. The result was a sliding fall. With one shoulder the cowboy dug into the earth. The rabbit bumped along a couple of paces, wagged its great ears, then sat down and took it easy until its pursuer was ready to get up and resume the chase.

And that's the way it went throughout most of the weary day—wary, that is, for the rope throwers. The spectators had about the best time of their lives watching the rabbits make monkeys of the lasso experts.

Casualties among the lariat men were numerous—sprained ankles, skinned noses, knees and elbows. Two of the hardy plainsmen received medical attention after their bout with a rabbit. And suffering from injured dignity was general among the contestants. It became evident that the humane society's concern had been misdirected; the cruelty in a rabbit rodeo is to the cowboys. These men were extremely skillful lasso-tossers, too. Some of them could rope the ashes off a girl's cigarette without touching her make-up. They could cast a noose around a galloping steer's leg with ease and certainty. But roping jackrabbits, they discovered, was a vastly different matter. For one thing, they are used to working from a horse, and are a disadvantage when dismounted. For another thing, their cowboy boots, useful in their ordinary workday activities, proved a tremendous handicap to fleetness.

STAYING ON THE JOB PAYS RETURNS
Staying on the job pays big returns when it comes to sharing in the benefits of the government's recovery program.
Sonora is about to benefit to large extent in the working out of the long-existent flood control program. The fact that Sonora was chosen as one of the sites of a major civil works project so soon after announcement of the plan may appear to be merely a piece of good luck to some citizens.
Luck may have been a factor in the securing of the approval on this big piece of work, but it was backed up for months past with persevering effort on the part of city officials, interested property owners in the affected area, and a few other individuals.
For months Mayor W. C. Gilmore and his commissioners, Alfred Schwiening and Vernon Hamilton, George E. Smith, city manager, G. A. Wynn, attorney for the council, and a number of Lions Club members have been hammering away at applications of all sorts for federal financed projects, in order that Sonora might be assured of a fair share of the benefits of recovery-aiding works.
Now the harvest time is here, and all Sonora is to benefit from the work to be done. Tribute is due those who have given unselfishly of time and effort in effecting these achievements.

35 YEARS AGO

"The Thanksgiving programme arranged by Judge Tayloe, Dr. Dodson and Prof. Cahill was carried through without a hitch and was engaged in by a number of citizens," related The Devil's River News for Dec. 2, 1899, following a Thanksgiving which came, as it does this year, on Nov. 30.
"The opening instrumental and vocal music and that which interspersed the numbers on the programme was well rendered. Prof. T. C. Cahill spoke of the object and aim of Thanksgiving. Rev. A. R. Watson on what to be thankful for from a religious standpoint, Prof. J. H. Bradley on educational matters closed the morning's program.
"Those present at the courthouse and any others who did not have the opportunity of attending proceeded to the Commercial lodging house where the large store room was filled with tables laden with a fine Thanksgiving dinner of turkey and accessories; and showed their thankfulness to the amount of $40 for benefit of the Methodist church. The speaking and musical program was resumed after dinner at the courthouse and Lawyer Anderson, Dr. Dodson, Editor Woodruff, Cowman Stokes, Dentist Love, Shoemaker Cannaday, Waterworks Newell and Jeweler Wilson, told in ten-minute talks what they and their professions had to be thankful for. The programme being a success from start to finish the ladies of the Methodist church concluded the celebration with a social and supper at the Commercial."

THANKSGIVING MENUS HARK BACK TO PURITAN DAYS; HERE ARE MEALS

Our Puritan forefathers set aside the last Thursday in November each year for the day on which to be thankful for the favors God has granted them during the past year. They commemorated this day by praying and feasting. Now we find a great tendency to make this day a day for football and various other frolics.

In olden days housewives and servants spent days and even weeks in preparing for the feast but today in this age of ready prepared foods and rush in everything we must strive for menus which have the same or better food value than in the olden days but which can be prepared in much less time. Then, too, we must strive to produce the best flavor possible.

We find in menu number one (Continued on page 8)

Provisionally, it was not a long course dinner, such as Roberta had expected would be served and which she had looked forward to with dread. A soup, a salad, a roast, two vegetables, a light dessert and black coffee. That was all.

"He runs his household like a sensible man, at any rate," the girl reflected.

She watched a humming bird flitting from flower to flower, saw a quail come forth and bear away a crust tossed him by Don Jaime. Then, as the shadows lengthened, the mocking birds, replete with food and happy, perched in a lime tree and paid for their meal in melody. Roberta had never heard a Spanish mocker before and was delighted with the beauty and variety of their extensive repertoire.

"You are fond of music?" Don Jaime queried.

Roberta nodded and he tossed a quick order in Spanish to one of his dusky maids.

From behind the climbing passion vines on the gallery across the patio a guitar was strummed; Roberta heard the mellow notes of a harp as unseen fingers ran the scale. Then a girl's voice—without much volume, but wondrously sweet and sympathetic—commenced to sing "La Golondrina."

"When I am unhappy," Don Jaime explained, "they sing that sad song to me and make me unhappier."

"Why don't you have them sing something joyful?"

"My dear Miss Antrim, no Higgins ever wants to be made happy when he's unhappy. It's like enjoying poor health. We must feed our racial melancholy."

"You incorrigible Celt! Are these professional entertainers brought out from Los Algodones?"

"No, they're part of the ranch assets. The harp has been in our family since the first Higgins emigrated to Madrid. Hello, hub, you getting sleepy? Tired after your long ride today, eh?"

Robbie had left his chair and climbed up into Don Jaime's lap; his thin little arm was around the brown, powerful neck, his head cuddled under the big square chin. Don Jaime held him close with his left arm, and Roberta noticed that with his right hand he gently massaged the atrophied muscles of the boy's left leg.

The purple shadows crept over the patio, the music sobbed and mourned behind the passion vines. Presently Don Jaime shook Robbie gently. "Come, son," he said softly. "Say your prayers—in Spanish, as I have taught you. Nuestro padre—"

The sleepy voice spoke haltingly the unfamiliar words, the man prompting from time to time. When the prayer was finished he rose and, with the boy in his arms, stooped over Mrs. Canby that she might kiss her son good night. Then he passed around the table to Roberta's chair. "Innocence and helplessness," Roberta heard him murmur. "Who could not love it!" He stooped over her and lowered the boy until the childish lips brushed her cheek; then he bore the lad off to bed.

The two women exchanged glances, the mother's eyes were moist. "That is the Latin in him, Miss Antrim. He's not ashamed to demonstrate his affection."

Roberta did not answer. She was thinking of a remark that Crooked Bill had once made in her presence. "When children and dogs love a man a woman is usually safe with him." She wondered now if Glenn Hackett loved children and dogs and decided presently that he would love his own children, if and when he had them, but that he would not be interested in dogs or human beings beneath him in the social scale.

"He is a strange man, Mrs. Ganby," she said at last. "I have never met his kind before. How long have you known him, Mrs. Ganby?"

"Since three days after he killed your uncle. I am a trained nurse and I came down here to tend his wounds, although he would have recovered without my aid, for he is as healthy as a horse. Later he asked me to be his housekeeper, but since he does not appear to regard me as a servant, I imagine I am a sort of paid hostess. I think he had a hope that you might visit the ranch some day, and of course you would never have been invited unless he had a duenna here. He is very punctilious in matters of social propriety."

"And Robbie?"

"When he discovered I had a little crippled son he sent his general manager to El Paso to bring the boy here. He knew I'd want him with me, of course."

"I understand. Innocence and helplessness. Of course his heart went out to Robbie."

Further confidences were interrupted by the return of the host. He called something in Spanish to the singer and she came and handed him her guitar, received the thanks of her audience and departed covered with embarrassment.

"Now, then," quoth Don Jaime, "we'll have a little old Anglo-Saxon minstrelsy from the boss himself." He snote the strings with a firm, assured hand and in a perfectly thunderous basso began. "The Yellow Rose of Texas." To his great delight Roberta joined in the song. He cocked one lazy eye at her inquiringly; at a half-rest in the music he demanded:

"How come?"

"Uncle Bill," she replied, and he nodded comprehension. Yes, of course Uncle Bill would know that one. But Don Jaime played now while Roberta sang.

The song ended and Don Jaime looked up, a fleeting gleam of sadness, of resignation in the lazy eyes.

"For a moment I had forgotten I had killed your Uncle Tom!" He murmured.

"For a moment I had forgotten I had killed your Uncle Tom!" he murmured.

"Oh, please, Mr. Biguenes—"

"Oh, please, Jaime," he corrected. "I had forgotten, too, Jaime."

"Now that you have made up your mind not to dislike me or the task of trying to like me, I have a confession to make."

"I'll try to bear up under it."

"A few days after I shot it out with your uncle, his man, Bill Dingle and five others came over here with the intention of doing me great bodily harm—lynching me to one of the crosspieces in that heavy trellis in the grape arbor yonder, as a matter of fact. I captured Dingle and his idiots and confined them in my private bastille here for thirty days. Before turning them loose I had my foreman flog them all."

"Oh, Jaime!"

"That's the sort of bad egg I am, senorita. That's why I was wearing two guns today. By the way, can you sing Gounod's 'Ave Maria'?"

"Why, yes!" she answered a little breathlessly.

"Oh, grand, wonderful! Let's go inside and practice it with a piano accompaniment. I want you to sing it at mass tomorrow for my people. You will, of course. I know you will. Poor devils. They'll love it so! But first send your telegrams. The office in Los Algodones will soon be closing."

Blind Man Battling Rattler Is Unhurt

Georgetown Farmer Held Snake in Hand Without Injury

Charles Page, a farmer living west of Georgetown, is blind. One night not long ago he was awakened by something falling in the kitchen. By feeling about, Page found a lard pail that had been knocked from a shelf. He was confident it was the work of a family cat. As he started to return the pail to its place on the shelf he stepped on what he thought was the cat's tail. Intending to put the cat out of the house, he held it firmly with his foot until he had disposed of the pail.

When he reached for the cat he found it was a snake he was holding captive. Page thought of nothing worse than chicken snake invading the home, so he felt about

Farmer Charged After Family Disappears

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McGehee George Patton

A year ago J. W. McGehee, his wife and two little sons disappeared from the home of George Patton, bachelor, with whom they lived on a Henderson county farm near Athens. A blood-stained mattress, rotted and blood-stained clothing, and buckshot imbedded in the walls of the house where the McGehees lived form a chain of circumstantial evidence against Patton, who says that he parted friends with the McGehees, who went away. Released on a $1,000 bond after being charged with murder, Patton cannot be tried until the body of one of the missing family is discovered.

War Veterans' Problems

Not since the period of the World War has the Red Cross faced a greater problem in handling the claims of World War and other veterans. Due to the changes in the regulations covering veterans' claims, chapters all over the nation have been crowded with veteran applicants for relief and for service in preparing appeals. During last year Red Cross home service workers in 3,268 chapters dealt with the problems of 411,124 ex-service men or their families. The chapters also aided 7,346 men still in the regular army, navy and marine corps.

Safeguarding Public Health

The Red Cross reports that 693 nurses are employed by 428 of its chapters in public health nursing. During the past year Red Cross nurses made 1,234,000 nursing visits other than to schools, and also inspected 633,000 children in schools. Nursing at the bedside of the sick unemployed, or other needy is a major part of their work. The Public Health Nursing Service of the Red Cross also directs the teaching of classes in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick. This course was taught to 53,000 persons during last year.

An Army of Children

The membership in the Junior Red Cross last year was 6,629,866 boys and girls in schools, private, public and parochial. They enjoyed volunteer work in hospitals and for orphans, the aged and crippled, and also aided their schoolfellows by providing attention for their eyes, purchasing their glasses, and giving many other types of service to them. The Juniors aid their school work by carrying on correspondence and the exchange of portfolios with school children in other nations.

The Red Cross enrolled 3,701,866 members in its roll call a year ago. Join in the 1933 roll call—Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

until he secured a hold on its head. When he raised his foot he heard a rattling noise. There was but one thing to do. Page beat the rattler against the kitchen floor until his hand slipped from its head.

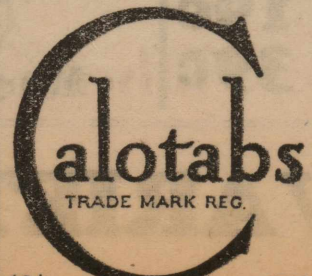

Uninjured, he went back to finish his night's rest. The next morning other members of the Page family discovered blood on the kitchen floor, but the rattler had disappeared during the night.—Georgetown Sun.

Nevada Men Named by Legislative Act

Only That Body Could Change His Name in Future

Austin.—A. L. Kendall of Virginia City, Nev., University of Texas junior, was named by the state legislature of his native state, and should he ever desire to change his name, it would necessitate the repeal of a state law. For, having been born on the hundredth anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birthday, the son of Senator Zeb Kendall was named Abraham Lincoln Kendall by the passage of a bill introduced in the Nevada state senate.

The President's namesake was born in Tonapah, a boom mining town in Nevada, and has the Nevada state legislature as a godfather. Kendall attended the university in 1930-31, and is enrolled again this year.

MURIEL REILEY LEADS IN SWEETHEART RACE

As the ballot now stands, Tuesday, Nov. 28, Muriel Reiley is leading the race for Football Sweetheart, with a margin of 83 votes.

The standing of the four girls who were nominated last Wednesday is as follows:

|------------------|-----|
| Wilma Hutcherson | 313 |
| Muriel Reiley | 396 |
| Bobbie Halbert | 248 |
| Ora Altizer | 144 |

So far, a total of 1101 votes has been cast.

The candidates were selected according to the number of votes cast for them. Each nominee was required to have 100 or more votes before she was allowed to enter the race. The nominees were not elected by their respective classes, though the 7th grade class has decided to support Wilma Hutcherson and the 10th grade class Muriel. Announcement of nominees was made last Wednesday, and the announcement of the three candidates who qualify for the final run-off is to be made this week.

Boxes bearing the name of these three leading candidates are to be placed in the two drug stores down town, and everyone will have a chance to vote for the football sweetheart.

The voting is to be done by dropping money in the box. Each penny counts as one vote.

Season for 1933 Bronchos Ends

The football season of '33 is coming to an end. The boys have played hard, trained faithfully, and done everything to make the season a success.

As Coach Griffin said, so far as winning games is concerned the season has been almost a failure, but a great moral victory has been won and a grand fight has been put up all the way through.

The boys this year have fought harder than any team that Sonora has had in several years. In every game they have gone up against odds that were against them. On every field they have been outweighed and each opposing team has had from thirty to forty men from which to pick the first string. Sonora has had a small squad of men and light weights but against every team they have put up a big, hard fight.

Where Four Died When Cars Crashed Near Ballinger

Here is the wreckage of a truck and a light roadster, mute evidence of a terrific crash which resulted in four deaths. Millard King and C. T. Matthews of San Angelo were killed instantly when they were pinned under the wreckage of their car, a roadster. O. C. Aternathy, driver of the truck, met death when he was thrown 20 yards into a ditch, and his companion, John Pearson, died four hours later. Both were from Sterling City. The crash occurred six miles west of Ballinger.

PRINCIPALS ARE INTERESTED IN THEIR GRADUATES

The real efficiency of success of a school system and its principal heads is reflected through the future activity of its graduates.

The soundness of high school training is not proven until one has faced the world's problems and tested the foundation of his education.

It is only natural, therefore, that high school superintendents and principals have a keen interest in the future plans of each of their graduates, since their success to a large degree is governed by the success of their former students.

If high school principals should keep a record of the lives of their graduates for a period of twenty years, it would be interesting. A few would probably reach an outstanding place in life, some would be complete failures, but the majority would be average citizens in a position merely to dispose of the ordinary duties of life. Only individuals who are a little better prepared than this great mass are in demand.

Entirely too many young people, in making their plans after graduating from high school, fail to realize the difference in schools, as well as the courses they have to offer. Every student could not attend the university and be a successful doctor, lawyer, engineer, or teacher; neither could they attend a business or vocational school and all be successful. There is a specific place in life for everyone.

Much thought should be given to the selection of specialized training. Consult your high school principal or superintendent. He will welcome an opportunity to help you. He is interested in you.

Tyler Commercial College and School of Business Administration will also assist you in selecting the proper type of specialized training. Ask for their valuable book, "Achieving Success in Business." Use the coupon below.

Pattern School Is Held for Sonora Women Recently

Mrs. Dora Barnes, Clothing Expert, Demonstrates Methods at Courthouse Meeting

"Since commercial patterns are made according to standard measurements for the average size woman and since few women have an average figure, a perfect fitting foundation dress pattern is a necessity to the woman who does her own dressmaking," said Mrs. Dora Barnes, extension clothing specialist of A&M college, at a pattern school held at the courthouse Nov. 15 and 16.

Several foundation dress patterns were made, after which each woman, using her own pattern, learned to make collar patterns to fit any dress, a slip pattern, a pajama pattern, and several types of sleeve patterns.

Quoting Mrs. Barnes: "It is not too early to start planning the spring wardrobe, using the coat as a center around which to build the color scheme."

She showed how, by conservative buying and planning a woman can be well dressed on $25 a year.

The school was attended by the following ladies: Mesdames Dee Gibbs, Leonard Gibbs, M. G. Shurley, J. T. Shurley, George E. Smith, Stroley, O. G. Babcock, Etta W. Ringgold, Ben Cusenbary, Annie Cusenbary, J. E. Grimland, M. C. Puckett, Joe Berger, B. W. Hutcherson; and the Misses Zella Riffe of Anna, and Gertrude Babcock.

Cider Ice—1 quart sweet cider, 1/4 to 1/2 cup lemon juice, 1 to 2 cups orange juice, 1 to 1 1/2 cups sugar. Mix well without heating and strain. Freeze, using 3 parts ice to 1 part salt. Turn the crank slowly at first, but always steadily, to insure a smooth and fine-grained mixture. Serve in a sherbet dish with the turkey.

Fruit Cocktail—2 grapefruit, 3 oranges, 1/2 cup pineapple juice, 1 can sliced pineapple, green mints, 3 tablespoons lemon juice. The arrangement of a cocktail may be very decorative, with the fruit so cut and garnished as to make flowers, stars and the like, but this is not necessary. However, the pieces of fruit should be so cut and arranged that there is no effect of mussiness.

Remove the pulp of grapefruit and orange keeping sections together as well as possible. Dice pineapple and arrange in cocktail glasses. Sprinkle green mints and lemon juice as the fruit goes in. Chill about one hour. At serving time, pour over juice of pineapple.

Thousand Island Dressing—4 T chili sauce, 1 T chopped green pepper, 1 t tarragon vinegar, 3 T catsup, 1 T olives, 1 T chopped red pepper, 1 t paprika, 1 c mayonnaise dressing. Chop materials and blend with mayonnaise.
