

DISTRICT COURT CONVENE HERE MONDAY; GRAND JURY RETURNS 7 INDICTMENTS

Criminal Docket Set For Second Week; Fewer Law Viola- tions Than Before.

District Court convened here last Monday morning with Judge Chas. Clements of Plainview on the bench. When the grand jury was empaneled Judge Clements instructed them to give the business of investigation of the affairs of this county their close attention, and especially instances where liquor law violations were brought to their attention. This body of men got to work immediately and Monday morning four indictments were returned for various law violations. The docket this term consists mostly of civil cases which, according to Judge Clements, speaks well for Bailey County with so few criminal cases. Some of the cases up for this term of court are:

Mossie Erwin Miller vs. Virgil G. Reed; plaintiff granted divorce.
Ila May Gaston vs. James Gaston; plaintiff granted divorce.
I. C. Enoch vs. Pauline J. Seragut; set for trial Friday, first week.
C. Pooch vs. Ross Maxwell et al; set for trial December 2.

Halsell Cattle Co. vs. P. & S. F. RY.; set for trial December 2.

Mrs. L. E. Wacasey vs. Blackwater Valley State Bank; case dismissed at costs of plaintiff.

Frank L. Stegall vs. J. M. Shutesworth; set for trial Wednesday of the second week.

D. V. Osborn vs. J. C. Paul; set for trial Tuesday of third week of court.

Valley Motor Co. vs. Charles Walke et al; dismissed at costs of plaintiff.

Hellen R. Latham vs. T. C. Wiseman dismissed at costs of plaintiff.

GLENNA TO TRY AGAIN

Glenna Collett, four times winner of the American women's golf championship, has decided to make another attempt to lift the British title, which so far has escaped her. She is planning a trip to England next year to play in the British championship.

NEW BRICK BUILDING FOR MULESHOE; WORK STARTED

Construction of a new brick building started last Monday. The structure is located on Main Street, across from the E. R. Hart Lumber Company. It is being built for Mr. L. R. Saelter of Olney, Texas, who will put in a line of hardware and implements, it is understood. The building is 25 by 60 feet and J. T. Walkup of Lubbock is the contractor.

This new building will add greatly to the appearance of that part of town, as will the new restrooms now under construction. The demand for houses in Muleshoe the past few months has not lessened and each week there are calls for houses. The many new settlers coming in have taken every available house and despite the fact that new ones are being built all along, the demand is greater than the supply.

Land sales are being made each week and it is variously estimated that at least 18,000 acres of new land will be put into cultivation near here by spring.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means of thanking our many neighbors, friends and acquaintances for their assistance and for the floral offerings and for every kind word or expression of sorrow and sympathy tendered us during the recent illness and death of Thomas Charlie Wafford, our beloved husband, father and friend.

BLACK-OWENS

Mr. W. T. Black and Miss Ruth Owens of this city were united in marriage Sunday, November 17, at Farwell, Rev. J. L. Chunn, pastor of the Methodist church of that place performing the ceremony.

The contracting parties are well known here, having resided in this section for several years. The bride is the charming daughter of C. D. Owens of Farwell. The groom has been with Valley Motor Company here for some months. The Journal joins with their many friends in extending congratulations and best wishes.

Spring Lake School

Well, examination time has rolled around again and everyone wonders what they have learned during the last six weeks, and just what the teachers are going to ask. One had that everything doesn't turn out just so-so. The school carnival was a grand success. The proceeds from the carnival together with what the merchants gave was money that $200. That goes to show what can be done when effort is put forth. The Earth business men have stood by the school in a loyal way and we surely thank them for it. We are now out of debt and have some money to purchase some additional equipment for the grades. The school athletics has been supported entirely by outside finance.

The Wolverines of Spring Lake have been playing football this year. Last Friday they trounced Friona 26-0 on the local field. Abe Martin had the honor of carrying the ball over the line for four touchdowns. The team fought hard and each man played his position successfully. Almon Whitford made a great deal of play by his long end runs. The last half coach Wilkins put in some of his second string men and gave them a little experience. The Friona boys were good sports and played well, but were never able to put over a touchdown.

The Wolverines play the Muleshoe team on the local grid this coming Friday. This will probably be the last game of the year for the Wolverines. The high school play, "Headstrong Joan," will be presented at the school auditorium this coming Friday night, November 22. Don't fail to see this play as it is the kind that will appeal to anyone.

The boys and girls are getting ready for the basketball season about to open. Coach Wilkins informs the boys that there are a number of boys who are ready for workouts and that prospects are good for a strong team. Martha Tannery will coach the girls. We will soon be ready to schedule some games and we are willing to meet any team in this section of the Plains.

UNION SERVICES AT METHODIST CHURCH ON WED. NOV. 27th

Union Thanksgiving services will be held at the Methodist church at 7:30 p. m., Wednesday, November 27. An appropriate program is being arranged and members of all denominations are cordially invited to attend. These services are being held on Wednesday in order that people desiring to leave town on Thursday may do so.

The 11-year-old son of D. W. Esory was probably fatally injured Monday morning when he was struck by a car driven by E. E. Booth of West Camp.

Mr. Esory had only been at West Camp a few days, having obtained work on the Tom Brannon farm where the family was living at the time of the accident. Their home is near Vaughn, N. M., but they have been in this section of Texas working for the past few weeks.

It is understood that Mr. Esory and his son had started to work early Monday morning, going down the public road. Mr. Booth and some other parties who were on their way to Muleshoe to attend court, came up behind them and when some distance away Mr. Booth sounded the automobile horn. Mr. Esory and his son stepped to the left of the road, but when the car was almost abreast of them the boy suddenly turned and ran in front of the car. Mr. Booth did everything possible to avoid the accident, according to witnesses.

Mr. C. E. Dotson was some three-fourths of a mile behind the Booth car when the accident happened. When he arrived on the scene he assisted in the care of the boy and accompanied the car which took him to the hospital at Olvris. First reports here were that Mr. Dotson had driven the car that was in the accident, but this is an error, and according to all who witnessed the accident it was unavoidable.

Reports from the hospital Thursday afternoon were to the effect that the boy is improving. A fund of $122 was made up at Muleshoe, West Camp and Farwell for the Esory family.

MULESHOE HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS ORGANIZE BASKETBALL TEAM

The Muleshoe High School basketball girls met November 12th to organize their 1929-30 ball team. The following officers were elected: Captain, Iris Harden; assistant captain, Lowene Rice; Reporter, Mildred West. Five of last year's players are still with us; they are: Rice, Ragsdale, Douglas, Harden and West. We have some very promising new players with us also.

The girls played their first game of the season last Friday night on the local court with Littlefield. The game was rather rough but full of pep as all fans will testify. There were few fouls called during the game, Muleshoe finishing with the big end of a score of 16-19.

With a little more fast work-outs we hope to play some fast games in the season to come.—Reporter.

HUNTERS RETURN FROM TRIP

Messrs. C. C. Brooks, Eddie Moore and Robinson of north of town returned Sunday from a hunting trip to South Texas. These gentlemen evidently know their "venison" as they brought home an eight-point buck. The party was gone about four days and report a fine trip. They report deer plentiful in the section of country visited, and also plenty of hunters.

LONE STAR THEATRE WILL PRESENT FIRST TAKING PICTURE HERE ON MONDAY

Equipment Being In- stalled This Week; Musical Comedy Pic- ture For Opening.

Muleshoe, the smallest town in the State to put in talking pictures, will receive its first thrill in this line Monday night, November 25, at the Lone Star Theatre, with one of the most popular shows that has been released by Vitaphone up to this date.

Workmen arrived Thursday and the installation of the new equipment will start at once so that everything may be in readiness for the first show at 7:00 p. m. Monday evening.

"On With the Show" is on the program for the first three days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and this is a 100 per cent natural color, talking, singing and dancing picture. It includes in the cast many of the greatest stars of the stage, including Ethel Waters, famous blues singer, and everyone who has seen this picture in the larger cities declares that to hear Ethel sing one song, "Am I Blue" is worth the admission price.

Ever since the advent of talking pictures of this section have been forced to drive from 35 to 100 miles to see shows of this kind. We wish to join with the citizens of Muleshoe and surrounding territory in congratulating Mr. Brooks for giving the citizens of this community some show equipment as good as the best.

Other big pictures will be announced in next week's issue of The Journal. Watch for them—come and hear the country's best musicians and singers.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR T. C. WAFFORD HELD HERE LAST SUNDAY

Thomas Charlie Wafford, aged 67 years, 11 months and 24 days, passed away at his home south of town Saturday, November 16. Funeral services were held at the Baptist church Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. C. A. Joiner, pastor of the First Baptist church of Muleshoe.

Mr. Wafford was born near Mt. Pleasant, Titus County, Texas, and came to the Plains in 1884 to engage in ranching. He moved to this section some ten years ago and has resided at the Triangle Ranch during that time. He had a wide acquaintance over the Plains country and was loved and respected by all who knew him. Mr. Wafford was a member of the Baptist church of Tulla, and the tribute paid him by his former pastor was an inspiration to the many friends he left. He was also a member of the Masonic lodge.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. G. E. Thompson of Fort Worth and Connie, 7 years old, and one son, Tommie, of Tulla, Texas.

The Journal joins with the many friends in extending sympathy to the bereaved family.

BASKET BALL GAME

There will be a basket ball game at the High School auditorium Friday night between Muleshoe town team and Lubbock. On Friday, Nov. 29, the town team will play YL. Everyone is asked to come out and see these games.

M. E. MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The Methodist Missionary society with Mrs. R. L. Faulkner Monday afternoon. The books for the study course had not been distributed to the hour was turned into a social meeting.

Plans for the bazaars which will be held early in December were discussed. There were fifteen members present. The hostess assisted by Mrs. W. C. Bury served delicious pie a la mode.

MANY HOUSES ARE BEING BUILT AT EARTH THIS FALL

The prosperous condition of the little town of Earth and community is reflected in the building which is in progress at that place now. Earth is some twenty miles east of Muleshoe on the Lee Highway and in one of the finest farming and ranching sections on the Plains.

People passing this little town a year ago would not recognize it today. Small frame residences are being replaced with nice modern homes and several new business houses have been built and two new brick and tile buildings are being erected at this time. There are also a number of very attractive camp cabins in the process of construction, and all these things are making Earth a real Plains city.

Messrs. Roy B. Houston, president of Panhandle Lumber Company, John E. Hill, vice-president and general manager, and Elmer J. Scott, auditor, were business visitors in Muleshoe the first of the week.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER XIII.—Locato leaves Dawson. Athol finally prevails on Berna to marry him, and the ceremony is set for the next day. Then, with no warning of his coming, Athol's brother, Garry, arrives.

CHAPTER XIV.—Garry rebukes Athol for "living in sin" with Berna but as time passes means to be reconciled to the situation. While on a business trip, Athol is handed a note, which he postpones reading. He learns Locato is back in Dawson, and knowing the desperate character of the man, hurries home, finding Berna away. Then he reads the note he received, which tells him he will find Berna with Garry. Unbelieving, he goes to Garry's room—and finds Berna there. Garry explains that he deceived her to prove her unworthiness. Athol tells him she is his wife, and he believes in her. Locato, bursting into the room, attempts to shoot Athol, but Garry takes the fatal bullet. Locato stuns Athol and attempts to kill Berna. She falls with a lighter lamp, the flames setting the room in a blaze. Berna drags Athol to safety while the fire spreads from the burning hotel to the doomed city. Then Berna, heartbroken at the misfortune she has brought on the man she loves, disappears, and only in his last moments is Athol reunited to her in the spirit.

Between the curtains that hung over the bedroom door I could see Berna standing motionless. I wondered if he could see her too. His eyes followed mine. They rested on the curtains and the strong, stern look came into his face. Yet again he banished it with a sunny smile.

She Was Standing There, White to the Lips and Trembling.

"Mother's one regret was that you were not with her when she died. Do you know, old man, I think she was always fonder of you than of me? She missed you dreadfully, and before she died she made me promise I'd always stand by you and look after you if anything happened.

"Now you must come home. Back there on the countryside we can find you a sweet girl to marry. You will love her, have children and forget all this. Come."

I rose. I could no longer put it off.

"Excuse me one moment," I said. I parted the curtains and entered the bedroom.

She was standing there, white to the lips and trembling. She looked at me pitifully.

"I'm afraid," she faltered.

"Be brave, little girl," I whispered, leading her forward. Then I threw aside the curtain.

"Garry," I said, "this is—this is Berna."

They there stood, face to face at last. Long ago I had visioned this meeting, planned for, yet dreaded it, and now with utter suddenness it had come.

The girl had recovered her calm, and I must say she bore herself well. As she gazed at my brother there was a proud, high look in her eyes. And Garry—his smile had vanished. His face was cold and stern. No doubt he saw in her a creature who was preying on me, an influence for evil, an overwhelming indictment against me of sin and guilt. All this I read in his eyes; then Berna advanced to him with outstretched hand.

"How do you do? I've heard so much about you I feel as if I'd known you long ago."

She was so winning, I could see he was quite taken aback. He took the little white hand and looked down from his splendid height to this sweet eyes that gazed into his. He bowed with icy politeness.

"I feel flattered, I assure you, that my brother should have mentioned me to you."

Here he shot a dark look at me.

"Sit down again, Garry," I said. "Berna and I want to talk to you."

He complied, but with an ill grace. We all three sat down and a grave constraint was upon us. Berna broke the silence.

"You will stay with us for a time, won't you?"

"Well, that all depends—I haven't quite decided yet. I want to take Athol here home with me."

"Home—? There was a pathetic catch in her voice. Her eyes went toward the little room that meant would not tell me, and I've had letters, warning letters. It was left to other people to tell me how you drank and gambled and squandered your money; how you were known to a madman. They told me you had settled down to live with one of the creatures, a woman who had made her living in the dance halls, and every one knows no woman ever did that and remained straight. I would not believe it, but now I've come to see for myself, and it's all true, it's all true. Boy, I must save you. I must for the honor of the old name that's never been tarnished. I must make you come home with me."

"No, no," I said, "I'll never leave her."

"It will be all right. We can pay her. It can be arranged. Think of the honor of the old name, lad."

"I shook him off. "Pay"—I laughed ironically. "Pay" in connection with the name of Berna—again I laughed.

"She's good," I said once again. "Wait a little till you know her. Don't judge her yet. Wait a little."

He saw it was of no use to waste further words on me. "I'll see you again," he said, "have it your own way. I think she's ruining you. She must be bad, or she wouldn't live with you like that. But have it your own way, boy; I'll wait and see."

In the days that followed I did much to bring about a friendship between Garry and Berna. At first I had difficulty in dragging him to the house, but in a little while he came quite willingly. His sunny charm returned, and with it his brilliant smile, his warm, endearing frankness.

I must say I tried very hard to reconcile Berna and Garry. I threw them together on every opportunity, for I wanted him to understand and to love her. I felt he had but to know her to appreciate her at her true value, and, although he spoke no word to me, I was soon conscious of a vast change in him. Short of brotherly regard, he was everything that could be desired to her—cordial, friendly, charming. Once I asked Berna what she thought of him.

"I think he's splendid!" she said quietly. "He's the handsomest man I've ever seen, and he's as nice as he's good looking. In many ways you remind me of him—and yet there's a difference."

"I remind you of him—no, girl. He's as much above me as I am above—say a swash. He has all the virtues; I, all the faults. He is the self I should have been if the worst had been the best."

"Hush! you are my sweetheart," she assured me with a caress, "and the dearest in the world."

"By the way, Berna," I said, "you remember something we talked about before he came? Don't you think that now—?"

"Now—?"

"Yes."

"All right." She flashed a glad, tender look at me and left the room. That night she was strangely elated.

I was head over ears in work. In a mail just arrived I had a letter from the Prodigal, and a certain paragraph in it set me pondering. Here it was:

"You must look out for Locato. He was in New York a week ago. He's down and out. Blood-poisoning set in in his foot after he got outside, and eventually he had to have it taken off. He's got a false mit for the one Mac sawed off. But you should see him. He's all shot to pieces with the 'hoohoo.' It's a fright the pace he's gone. Seemed to have a terrible pick at you. Seems you have copped out his best girl, the only one he ever cared a red cent for. Said he would get even with you if he swung for it. I think he's dangerous, even a madman. He is leaving for the North now, so be on your guard."

Locato coming! I had almost forgotten his existence. Well, I no longer cared for him. I could afford to despise him. Surely he would never dare to molest us. If he did—he was a broken, discredited blackguard. I could crush him.

Coming here! He must even now be on the way. He was coming back to the scene of his ruined fortunes, and God knows with what wild schemes of vengeance his heart was full. Decidedly I must beware.

As I sat there dreaming, a ring came to the phone. It was the foreman at Gold Hill.

"The hoisting machine has broken down," he told me. "Can you come out and see what is required?"

"All right," I replied. "I'll leave at once."

"Berna," I said, "I'll have to go out to the Forks tonight. I'll be back early tomorrow. Get me a bite to eat, dear, while I go round and order the horse."

On my way I met Garry and told him I would be gone over night. "Won't you come?" I asked.

"No, thanks, old man. I don't feel like a night drive."

"All right. Good-by."

So I hurried off, and soon after, with a jingle of bells, I drove up to my door. Berna had made supper. She seemed excited. Her eyes were starry bright, her cheeks burned.

"Aren't you well, sweetheart?" I asked. "You look feverish."

"Nonsense, girl. You mustn't be so foolish. It's only for a few hours." She clung to me tightly, so that I wondered what had got into the girl. Then gently I kissed her, disengaged her hands, and bade her good-night.

As I was rattling off through the darkness, a boy handed me a note I put it in my pocket, thinking I breast he would captivate entirely. How happy we would all be! I would buy a small estate near home, and we would settle down. But first we would spend a few years in travel. We would see the whole world. What good times we would have, Berna and I! Bless her! It had all worked out beautifully.

Why was she so frightened, so loath to let me go? I wondered vaguely, and flicked up the horse so that it plunged sharply forward.

Both! In my elation I had forgotten to get off at the inn and read my note. Never mind, I would keep it till I reached the Fort. As I drew up at the hotel, the clerk came out to meet me.

The Trail of '98

"Gent wants to speak to you at the phone, sir."

It was Murray of Dawson, an old-timer, and rather a friend of mine.

"Hello!"

"Hello! Say, Meldrum, this is Murray speaking. Say, just wanted to let you know there's a stage due some time before morning. Locato's on board, and they say he's headed for you. Thought I'd better tell you so's you can get fixed up for him."

"All right," I answered. "Thank you. I'll turn and come right back."

So I switched round the horse, and once more I drove over the glistening road. A grin fear was gripping me. Of a sudden the shadow of Locato loomed up sinister and menacing. Even now he was speeding Dawsonward with a great hatred of me in his heart. Well, I would get back and prepare for him.

There came to my mind a comic perception of the awkwardness of returning in one's own home unexpectedly, in the dead of night. At first I decided I would go to a hotel, then on second thoughts I determined to try the house, for I had a desire to be near Berna.

I knocked gently, then a little louder, then at last quite loudly. Within all was still, dark as a sepulcher. Curious! she was such a light sleeper, too. Why did she not hear me?

Once more I decided to go to the hotel; once more that vague, indefinite fear assailed me and again I knocked. And now my fear was becoming a panic. I had my latch-key in my pocket, so very quietly I opened the door.

"Berna," I whispered.

No reply.

That dim, nameless dread was clutching at my heart, and I groped overhead in the darkness for the drop-light.

Instantly the cabin was flooded with light. In the dining room I could see the remains of our supper lying untidy. That was not like her. She had a horror of dirty dishes. I passed into the bedroom—Ah! the bed had never been slept on. What a fool I was! It flashed on me she had gone over to a neighbor's to sleep. She was afraid of being alone. Poor little girl! How surprised she would be to see me in the morning!

Well, I would go to bed. As I was pulling off my coat, I found the note that had been given to me. Blaming myself for my carelessness, I pulled it out of my pocket and opened it. As I unfolded the sheet, I noticed it was written in what looked like a disguised hand. Strange! I thought. The writing was small and faint. I rubbed my eyes and held it up to the light.

Merciful God! What was this? Oh no, it could not be! My eyes were deceiving me. It was some Hinton feverishly I read again. Yes, they were the same words. What could they mean? Surely, surely—Oh, horror of horrors! They could not mean that. Again I read them. Yes, there they were:

"If you are fool enough to believe that Berna is faithful to you visit your brother's room tonight."

"A Wellwisher."

Berna! Garry!—the two I loved. Oh, it could not be! It was monstrous. It was too horrible! I would not believe it; I would not. Curse the vile wretch that wrote such words. I would kill him. Berna! my Berna! she was as good as gold, as true as steel, Garry! I would lay my life on his honor. Dashed! I sat down. The paper lay on the hearth-rug, and I stared at it hatefully. It was unspeakably loathsome, yet I was fascinated by it. I longed to take it up, to read it again. Somehow I did not dare. I was becoming a coward.

Well, it was a lie, a black devil's lie. She was with one of the neighbors. I trusted her. I would trust her with my life. I would go to bed in the morning she would return, and then I would unearth the wretch who had dared to write such things. I began to undress.

Wearily I took off my clothes. I lay in bed with the darkness enfolding me, and I closed my eyes to make a double darkness. Ha! right in the center of my eyes, burned the fatal paper with its atrocious suggestion. I sprang up. It was of no use. I must settle this thing once and for all. I turned on the light and deliberately dressed again.

I was going to the hotel where Garry had his room. I would tell him I had come back unexpectedly and ask to share his room. I was not acting on the note! I did not suspect her. Heaven forbid! But the thing had unnerved me. I could not stay in this place.

The hotel was quiet. A sleepy night clerk stared at me, and I pushed past him. Garry's rooms were on the third floor. Through the transom I could see his light was burning.

I knocked faintly.

There was a sudden stir.

Again I knocked.

Did my ears deceive me or did I hear a woman's startled cry? There was something familiar about it—Oh, my God!

I reeled. I almost fell. I clutched at the door-frame. I leaned sticky against the door for support. Heaven help me!

"I'm coming," I heard him say.

The door was unlocked, and there he stood. He was fully dressed. He looked at me with an expression on his face I could not define, but he was very calm.

"Come in," he said.

I went into his sitting-room. Everything was in order. I would have sworn I heard a woman scream, and yet no one was in sight. The bedroom door was slightly ajar. I eyed it in a fascinated way.

"I'm sorry to disturb you, Garry," I said, and I was conscious how strained and queer my voice sounded. "I got back suddenly, and there's no one at home. I want to stay here with you, if you don't mind."

"Certainly, old man; only too glad to have you."

His voice was steady. I sat down on the edge of a chair. My eyes were riveted on that bedroom door.

"Had a good drive?" he went on genially. "You must be cold. Let me give you some whisky."

I held the glass with a shaking hand.

"What's the matter, old man? You're ill."

"I clutched him by the arm.

"Garry, there's some one in that room."

"Nonsense! there's no one there."

"There is, I tell you. Listen! Don't you hear them breathing?"

He was quiet. Distinctly I could hear the panting of human breath. I was going mad. I could stand it no longer.

"Garry," I gasped. "I'm going to see, I'm going to see."

"Hold on—"

"Leave go, man! I'm going, I say. You won't hold me. Let go, I tell you, let go—Now come out, come out, whoever you are—Ah!"

It was a woman.

"Ha!" I cried, "I told you so, brother; a woman. I think I know her, too. Here, let me see—I thought so."

I had clutched her, pulled her to the light. It was Berna.

Her face was white as chalk, her eyes dilated with terror. She trembled. She seemed near fainting.

"I thought so."

Now that it seemed the worst was betrayed to me, I was strangely calm. I made her sit down. She said no word, but looked at me with a wild pleading in her eyes. No one spoke. There we were, the three of us:

Proof of Scotch Thrift Found in Bankbooks

Glasgow, Scotland.—Scotch thrift is not fiction. One of every three of the population has a bankbook, and savings for $228 constitute a record, says the annual report of the Glasgow Savings bank.

The amount due depositors is $120,000,000, an increase of $4,000,000 over last year, while 40,000 "homesafes"—small cash boxes—are in use. The number of depositors, the volume of business transacted, the balance at depositors' credit and the banks' reserve each constitute a record.

SHE MAKES BIG GAIN BECAUSE OF A LOSS

Mrs. Amy Boulter of 135 West Eighty-third street, New York, a widow with two young sons, just has been handed a certificate for two hundred shares of stock in the Radio Corporation of America. The stock replaced two hundred shares of original no par value common stock represented by two certificates which were lost after Mrs. Boulter put them in the mail on May 22, 1923. The transaction which just has been completed was the happy end of a long wait by Mrs. Boulter for the expiration of the legal period in which the shares represented by the lost certificates might have been presented for exchange.

MRS. AMY BOULTER

Many times in those years while she was supporting herself and her sons by nursing and renting some of the rooms in her apartment, Mrs. Boulter says now, she wished she could sell her stock.

When the time of waiting was up a few days ago Mrs. Boulter found that the $11 she invested through a broker on the installment plan in the then new enterprise of radio had grown to approximately $20,000.

Primitive Home Life
Rural Japanese housewives roll up their beds and store them away every morning. The Siamois have no bathtub. They bathe daily in the cool mountain streams. Their furnishings are limited to pots or gourds. Pehel on the bare ground replace carpets. The Egyptian peasant along the Nile lives in a clay house. His bed and chair are a ledge of earth on the side of the room. In Arabia, dinner is served in a huge pot into which the diners dig with their hands and bring forth their portion.

That the grantee shall not be required to extend main lines more than one hundred and fifty (150) feet to any one consumer.

Section 4.

That said grantee shall at all times after said gas distribution system has been established and placed in operation, be prepared to furnish said City and its inhabitants with a good quality of gas for light, heat and power, and other purposes and said grantee shall furnish such gas for all purposes for which same may be used in sufficient quantities to supply the needs of the said City and its citizens.

That said gas shall be furnished to said city and its inhabitants for domestic use at a net price not to exceed one dollar and fifty cents ($1.50) for the first 1,000 cubic feet or less, and sixty-seven and one-half (67 1/2) cents per thousand cubic feet for all gas used in excess of the first 1,000 cubic feet; provided, however, that gas used for heating public buildings, churches, hotels and apartments shall be sold at the following rates:

For the first 1,000 cubic feet or less used per month, $1.50. For the next 49,000 cubic feet used per month, 67 1/2 cents per thousand. For the next 100,000 cubic feet used per month, 50 cents per thousand. For all used in excess of 150,000 cubic feet per month, 40 cents per thousand.

That the maximum rates for industrial gas shall not exceed the rates set out in the following schedule:

For the first 1,000 cubic feet or less used per month, $1.50. For the next 49,000 cubic feet used per month, 45 cents per thousand. For the next 150,000 cubic feet used per month, 35 cents per thousand. For the next 300,000 cubic feet used per month, 30 cents per thousand. For the next 10,000,000 cubic feet used per month, 25 cents per thousand. For the next 20,000,000 cubic feet used per month, 20 cents per thousand. For the next 29,000,000 cubic feet used per month, 15 cents per thousand. For the next 60,000,000 cubic feet used per month, 16 1/2 cents per thousand. For all above 120,000,000 cubic feet used per month, 15 cents per thousand.

That all above rates are to be charged for gas used through one meter only.

That all bills shall be due and payable monthly, and within ten days from date rendered, and in case of default or non-payment within said time, the grantee shall have the right to discontinue service to said consumer, and to make an additional charge for the gas used for any purpose equal to one-ninth (1-9) of the bill rendered. And in case said consumer shall make application to have service re-established and re-connected with his premises, he shall be required to pay all delinquent bills, together with the penalty thereto, and to pay a cut-on charge not to exceed $1.50 for domestic use and heating purposes, and $2.50 for industrial use. It is further provided that the grantee shall be allowed to make a minimum charge of $1.50 per month for gas for domestic and heating service and $25.00 per month for industrial gas service.

All gas furnished or supplied by grantee shall be metered, and for this purpose the grantee shall, at his own cost and expense, provide and install for each consumer a good and accurate meter of standard make. Grantee shall also provide and maintain at his proper cost and expense facilities for testing gas meters, and said grantee shall also provide and maintain, at its proper cost and expense a standard meter prover of not less than five cubic feet capacity, equipped with suitable thermometers and other necessary accessories, which shall be maintained to the accepted standard of accuracy, all to be to the satisfaction and approved by the City Council. Section 5.

The natural gas to be furnished hereunder shall be at all times kept to a standard of eight hundred British thermal heat units or higher per cubic foot at the point of consumption, at a temperature of thirty-two degrees Fahrenheit, zero Centigrade.

Each consumer of gas shall install and maintain suitable piping within his property lines and suitable appliances and fixtures, except meters, subject to the approval of the City Council. Such supervisor, inspector or other representative as may be authorized by said City Council to pass upon the same.

Section 6.

of Muleshoe shall have the right by ordinance duly passed therefor to forfeit all the rights and franchises herein granted to the said grantee, provided that the City of Muleshoe shall give the said grantee, its successors and assigns, sixty (60) days notice in writing, specifying the conditions claimed to have been violated, and giving full and fair opportunity to be heard thereon before declaring such forfeiture. The City shall fully and fully set out all of the conditions claimed and complained of and shall be given by the said City and shall be signed by the City Clerk under the seal of said City, after having been proposed by authorized by the Mayor and City Council of the said City; provided, however, that the said grantee shall have sixty (60) days after receiving such notice in which to rectify and correct such violations and to comply substantially with the terms and conditions of the ordinance; should the violations of this ordinance so complained of not have been rectified and corrected and the terms and conditions of the ordinance not fully complied with at the end of sixty (60) days, then and in that event the City shall have the power to forfeit this franchise on account of the violations specified in said notice. That in case of forfeiture as herein provided, the City of Muleshoe reserves the right to purchase the distributing plant of the grantee at its fair appraised value or to allow the grantee to remove same within one year from the date of such forfeiture, provided that before any of the grantee shall be required to give to the City a good and sufficient bond that the streets and alleys will be placed and left in as good conditions as found.

That in further consideration of the privileges and franchises granted to the West Texas Gas Company, it shall adopt and use all and any reasonable safeguards to provide for the protection of persons or property against injury or damage growing out of the use of gas and that they shall construct and maintain in good order all mains, pipes, and equipment used in said City for the distributing of gas, and shall always be prepared to furnish said City and its inhabitants a sufficient quantity of gas for all purposes; provided, however, that in case of explosion or accidents of any character or nature beyond the control of grantee, such supervisor, inspector or other representative as may be authorized by said City Council to pass upon the same.

Section 11.

It is provided that the grantee shall in good faith begin the construction of its main lines and distributing systems by October 1, 1930, and shall complete such main lines by December 31, 1930, and shall be prepared to serve gas to consumers on or before December 1, 1930, and shall be liable for any damages resulting from such accidents either to the line of the grantee or to the lines on property of consumers.

Section 12.

That the grantee herein shall have the right and privilege of assigning this franchise and all the rights and privileges granted herein, and wherever the word "grantee" appears hereon it shall be construed as applying to its successors and assigns.

Section 13.

NOW, THEREFORE, be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Muleshoe, Texas, that the foregoing franchise and all the rights and privileges are hereby granted to the West Texas Gas Company, its successors and assigns subject to the terms, conditions and liabilities hereinabove set forth.

CAUSE—

Something besides rubber and fabric has gone into every tire Goodyear has ever made. That something has been an implicit confidence in the values of science as applied to the design and manufacture of products intended for public use.

In the application of those values, Goodyear has built up man by man and now maintains the foremost engineering and development department in the whole field of rubber manufacture.

That is why, through invention, special processes and materials, new factors in design and construction, Goodyear has been consistently able to offer the public superior quality at no premium in cost.

RESULT—

Goodyear Tires today outsell any other tires in the World. This has been true not for one year, but for fourteen years. It is due not to guarantees, discounts, special inducements, or anything of the kind. It is the result of ceaseless scientific endeavor steadily to advance Goodyear quality.

From the day of the bicycle tire, on down through the clincher, the straight side, the cord tire and the modern balloon tire, Goodyear science has labored side by side with the Goodyear workman. It has persistently sought and accomplished higher and higher mileage and lower costs. It has repeatedly set the Goodyear standard above and beyond other standards. That's why

RADIO TELEGRAPH NOW GOES INLAND

Fourteen Cities in Nucleus of Network, With Plans for Twenty-nine as Wave Lengths Are Granted.

Plans for the immediate establishment of a radio-telegraph system serving all the interior of the United States through fourteen strategic cities just have been announced by General James G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation of America. The service will be managed and operated by the Corporation's subsidiary, R. C. A. Communications, Inc.

The stations will be at New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle, Denver, New Orleans, Kansas City, Detroit, Cincinnati, Cleveland, St. Louis, Boston and Washington, General Harbord's announcement reveals.

The establishment of the new service, which will give the inland cities direct communication with the world wide wireless networks radiating from New York and San Francisco to foreign countries, was made possible by the recent grant of ten exclusive wave lengths already granted.

The above map shows the twenty-nine cities which the Radio Corporation of America hopes to include in an inland radio telegraph network soon. Work already is under way to give radio telegraph service to fourteen of the cities, on wave lengths already granted. These stations will be at New Orleans, Kansas City, Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, Los Angeles, Seattle, Denver, St. Louis, Cincinnati, New York, San Francisco, Boston and Washington.

Other cities whose commercial importance and strategic location justified a place in the new radio network, General Harbord said, were Philadelphia, Miami, Fla., Savannah, Minneapolis, Memphis, Pittsburgh, Houston, Norfolk, Buffalo, Portland, Me., Rochester, Schenectady, Portland, Ore., Milwaukee, and many others which it is hoped will eventually be added to the radio-telegraph chain. "Establishment of a new service," General Harbord said, "will give the leading commercial and industrial centers of America a new, quick and reliable means of communication with each other. "But its greatest significance, as the United States turns more and more to foreign markets, is that it brings Europe, South America and the Orient closer to America through radio's new and efficient avenues of communication." Supplementing General Harbord's announcement, W. A. Winterbottom, vice-president in charge of communications, revealed that the construction program for the fourteen cities was already under way. Three million dollars has been set aside for the initial expenditure.

FORD FINANCING COMPANY REDUCES COST TO TIME BUYERS

Officials of the Universal Credit Company, which is associated with the Ford Motor Company for the exclusive purpose of financing purchasers of Ford products on a time basis, issued the following information to the Muleshoe Motor Company, local Ford dealers.

The reduction in financing costs announced on November first by the Universal Credit Company, were made in conformance with Ford policy to contribute towards the continuation of good business throughout the country, and in contemplation of lower money costs to them as a result of the general softening of money rates.

The reduction amounts to from 8 to 15 per cent of previous financing costs on a general average over previous costs for the same model car, and appreciable savings are possible in all territories, depending upon the amount of the unpaid balance, the number of months the transaction is to run and the amount of the reduction in the price of the particular Ford car purchased.

Universal Credit Company was organized in February of 1928 and began operations on the 1st of last year when the first Branch of the organization was placed in operation in the City of
