Five Bailey Co. Boys Left For Army Training

Five Bailey county men left Muleshoe the latter part of last week for Fort Bliss at El Paso, where they were to be inducted into army service for a year of training.

Woody Glascock, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Glascock, residing a few miles north of Muleshoe and James Roy Watson of the Baileyboro community went into training as draftees.

H. T. Davis, Jr., of Baileyboro, Raymond Holley of Bula and Clyde Brown of Muleshoe, entered the service as volunteers.

Raymond Holley was selected by the county draft board to go with the group as a replacement for a former selectee, who was rejected at an army camp.

Another draft call is scheduled for April 3rd, and this county will be required to supply two men at this time, the county draft board announced.

Otto Smith of Muleshoe and George Henry Coleman of Southeast, Bailey county are volunteers to fill this call.

Including the call for April 3rd, Bailey county will have had eleven calls for men to enter army training.

There has been a total of twenty-seven men to enter the Selective Service army training from Bailey county to date, seven of which have been draftees and 20 were volunteers, according to Ross Smith, secretary of the Bailey County Selective Service Board.

Thanks, Folks!

We wish to express to the people of Muleshoe our appreciation for the welcome accorded us when we were in your city last week. May we say that we had a fine time, and sincerely hope that you did, too.

We especially thank the Chamber of Commerce and Lions Club for their wonderful cooperation and wish for the members of these organizations much prosperity and happiness. Also we want to thank Ray C. Moore Dry Goods and Muleshoe Journal for the flowers they gave us to wear. They were beautiful, and we'll never forget them.

The theft of the car was reported by W. E. Renfrow to Clovis police radio station KNFA. Immediately after the owner reported the car's being stolen. The car had been taken from a downtown street sometime during the night.

It is reported the car belonged to a traveling salesman who was spending the night in Muleshoe.

New Twenty-Year Record For March Rain Fall Is Set

The weather man hung up another record here the past week. Rain actually fell in great quantities.

Beginning before daylight Saturday morning, it rained all day to the amount of .94 of an inch. This had just soaked in well by Monday night when it started again and continued with a slow, soaking throughout Tuesday.

A total of 2.58 inches had fallen up to Wednesday morning, as measured at the government station.

This is the heaviest rainfall for March since records have been kept by the government, starting in 1921.

Previous to this the heaviest for March was in 1929, when the precipitation was 2.25. March, 1940, was a blank. As far as can be learned, the rain was general all over this section.

ROGER M. KYES
Director, National Farm Youth Foundation

FARMERS MUST GET TOGETHER

With the coming of the New Year, men and women of the farm and village are facing problems that will require unified and co-ordinated action. Otherwise, the interests of rural communities will become subjugated to those of big cities which are organized to bring pressure to bear with regard to national policies. This city action is too often detrimental to rural areas.

Kyes

Now that the winter evenings are with us, we folks in rural communities have more time to sit in our rocking chairs and think. National policies give us a great deal to think about. However, thought will not take us far unless we add action. And action isn't worth much unless it is the combined action of a number of people with the same objectives in mind.

Our rural communities have the form as their foundation. The success or failure of the farm operation determines the success or failure of the community which rests upon it.

Successful farming can become relatively easy to attain throughout the United States if the burdens placed upon farmers can be removed. Agriculture has been penalized too long. It is time that rural America expressed itself with authority and determination. We folks in rural communities must get together. Every day national policies are being decided upon which affect agriculture directly or indirectly. Unfortunately, agriculture is not rendering opinions which are sufficiently strong to demand consideration before these decisions are made.

Bill Dotson Shows Champion Calf At Lubbock 4-H Meet

Bailey County 4-H Boys went to town in a big way this week when they grabbed off several dollars worth of Lubbock prize money. Since last year, the boys have worked toward showing the home folks that they can get up among the aristocrats with show stock. This week they did it.

Yesterday morning, Bill Dotson of West Camp, led the champion calf of the junior class into the show ring, and was almost awarded the Grand Champion ribbon. No need to say that Sam Logan, J. C. Smith and J. W. McDermott are happy. They were there with the boys, and today they are stepping around like a kid with a new pair of shoes.

Three boys from this county entered two calves each in the show to help make up the 161 calf entries. These entries were "sifted," leaving only 75 animals and all of Bailey county's stayed. Only one other county, Yoakum, was able to do this. Entries from here were by Bill Dotson of West Camp, Richard Dennis, West Camp and Howard Ashley, Baileyboro. From these entries, five calves were picked to compete in the "county group of five," and his exhibit was judged fourth, and considering the competition this is plenty good enough to brag about.

Livestock from approximately 13 counties were entered and W. L. Stangel, head of the department of animal husbandry of Texas Tech, spent more than an hour and a half picking the winners in two groups.

A REPORT to America

The Ford Motor Company's business has always been to serve the needs of the American people. In providing them with low-cost transportation for the past 38 years, we have developed one of the country's largest and most useful industrial units. During a national emergency, we feel that these facilities should be devoted without reserve to our country's needs. Toward that end we started rolling months ago, with these results:

- 1 A $21,000,000 Ford airplane engine factory, started only 6 months ago, is nearly completed. Production will start with an initial order for 4,236 eighteen cylinder, air-cooled, double-row, radial engines.
- 2 We are building a new $800,000 Ford magnesium alloy foundry, one of the few in the country. It is already producing lightweight airplane engine castings.
- 3 Army reconnaissance cars—military vehicles of an entirely new type—are rolling off special Ford assembly lines at the rate of more than 600 a month. We have produced Army staff cars and bomber service trucks.
- 4 The government has given the "go-ahead" and work is now under way for the fast construction of an $11,000,000 Ford plant to produce bomber airframe assemblies by mass production methods.

5 Several months ago work was started, on our own initiative, on an entirely new 1500 horsepower airplane engine especially designed for mass production. This engine is now in the test stage and plans are being developed for producing it in large quantities when and if needed.

6 A Ford aircraft apprentice school has been established, to train 2000 students at a time.

That is a report of progress to date.

The experience and facilities of this company can be used to do much of the job which America now needs to get done in a hurry.

Our way of working, which avoids all possible red tape, enables us to get results and get them fast. This benefits users of our products and workers who produce them.

We are ready to make anything we know how to make, to make it to the limit of our capacity if need be, to make it as fast as we can go, and to start the next job whenever our country asks us to. And to this end, we know we have the full confidence and loyal support of the workmen throughout our plants.

AN INVITATION TO JOIN
BOY SCOUTS ORGANIZATION

Are you a Boy Scout?
No! Then why not join the organization of Boy Scouts of America and be one to enjoy their program which is offered throughout the year.
You will learn how to "rough it" in the style of the early pioneers who settled our country. You will have the privilege of attending the Scout Circus every year and participating in any party that you desire.
Some of you are pondering over the question, "What is Scouting?" Scouting is a game. A game of outings that are enjoyed by millions of boys throughout the world. Scouting is not a military organization. It has no connection with any branch of military service.
In a recent trip of Admiral Richard Byrd to the South Pole, several who accompanied him were once Boy Scouts. They were chosen because of their ability to "take it" in the roughest types of climate. All of this taught them while they were Scouts.

TO KEEP IN TOUCH WITH THEIR LOCAL BOARDS

The advantages which come to a Selective Service registrant by closely cooperating with his Local Board were stressed today in a statement made by General J. Watt Page, State Director of Selective Service.
In outlining a few of the most important things for the registrant to remember in his contact with his Local Board, General Page pointed out that the registrant's full cooperation cannot be exaggerated. General Page declared, "The reason for this is obvious. The registrant who fails in this violates the law, places himself in needless jeopardy, does himself an injustice and causes the Local Board all kinds of needless trouble."
The State Director also emphasized the fact that registrants can save themselves—and their board—much grief by exercising great care in filling out the questionnaire for his classification.
"Every Local Board has an Advisory Board," he said, "and the registrant who is in doubt as to how to answer any given question should consult this board and follow its instructions. That's what the Advisory Board is for. And to advise him on any other puzzling matter, also."
"The registrant who believes he has been placed in the wrong classification and wants to make an appeal has at his service the Government Appeal Agent attached to his Local Board. This Government Appeal Agent is charged with the duty of protecting the interests of the registrant, as well as those of the Government, and to assist and advise him as to the procedure in making an appeal."
The State Director complimented the Local Boards of the State for their understanding and broad sympathy with individual cases.
"The registrant appreciates it, too," he added, "as witness correspondence and oral comment from them. We don't want any registrant to forget that the Local Board is his friend and that cooperation works both ways. It makes things much easier for everyone."

SELECTIVE SERVICE BOARDS
BEING SOLICITED TO JOIN AN ORGANIZATION

It has come to the attention of State Selective Service Headquarters, according to General J. Watt Page, State Director, that Selective Service boards throughout the nation are being solicited to join an organization whose professed purpose is to secure compensation for the members of such boards.

Director Page said that he had just received a letter from Local Board No. 7, Dallas County, signed by the entire membership of that board, which states in part:
"The members of Local Board No. 7, Dallas County, Texas, all, definitely, specified that they would accept the duties of board members only if done on a purely patriotic basis and with no pay, and we would therefore, not be interested in the forming of an organization to secure compensation for our services."
"This letter fairly bristles with typical Texas patriotism, and I believe expresses the view of every board and field agency of the Selective Service System in this State with regard to such obviously conceived schemes," the Director said.

THE RECORD... Facts That Concern You No. 25 of a Series

EVERY SCHOOL AND EVERY BUSINESS HAS ONE OR TWO

In a school full of bright, self-respecting students, there are very likely to be one or two completely lacking in good common sense. And that goes for business, too... particularly the beer retailing business.
Out of thousands of beer retailers who conduct respectable, law-abiding businesses, there may be a few "dunce" retailers who disobey the law or permit anti-social conditions.
These few unwanted retailers are a menace to the future of the beer industry... and also of the benefits beer has made possible. Right here in Texas, beer provides employment for 31,165 persons, supports an annual payroll of $22,076,182 and contributed $2,273,968.64 last year in state taxes.
It is the brewers' responsibility to make good beer—the retailers' responsibility to sell beer in wholesome surroundings—and the legally constituted authorities' responsibility to enforce the laws. All of these, working together with the public, are needed to protect the future of beer.
You, too, can help the cause of moderation by (1) patronizing only reputable places where beer is sold; (2) and reporting any violation you may observe to the duly constituted authorities.

THE DANGER WITHIN

When Congress endorsed the lend-lease bill it placed all the resources of this nation behind those of other nations which are warring against their existence against the dictators. The lend-lease bill is America's emphatic answer to the liberty-destroying gospel of totalitarianism.

Now is the time for all Americans to do a little down-to-earth thinking. Our government has taken the position that democracy and dictatorship cannot be together.

There is no doubt in any thinking man's mind that this is a battle to the finish. In that battle, the potentially vast industrial production of America will be used to the limit. Tyranny again stalks half the earth, and we are committed to help stamp it out.

What the great majority of the American people want is their heritage of freedom and their hate of despotism, support their government in this immense endeavor without qualifications. But our people will make a great and perhaps irrevocable mistake if they become so involved with events abroad that they lose sight of events at home which are part and parcel of the totalitarian, not the democratic, life.

The essential principles of total government are well known. They involve absolute governmental control over individuals and industries. In many instances, government owns and operates the industry. In all cases management is but the voice of the clique in power, without influence or the right of protest. Civil liberties are abrogated. All power is vested in the government, and government makes all the decisions.

We have not surrendered our liberties in the United States. But any man with even a bare understanding of the forces that have been abroad in this country must realize that we have tended in that direction. We have, for instance, permitted government to go into business, in direct competition with its citizens. We have created bureaus by the dozen—each with new powers, each tending to be ever-perpetuating, each exerting its influence in fields that once were the province of private enterprise.

We have carried regulation of industry to many instances, to so great an extent that to all intents and purposes the government is the manager, directing head and final court of appeal. There never was a time in American history when a dictator and government played so great a role in our lives.

It is true that in times of crisis government must be given certain emergency powers. It is equally true that these powers should automatically end when the emergency ends. If we prize democracy, no new power should be given to government, which is not absolutely necessary. There can be no excuse whatsoever for the entry of government into business so long as private initiative, backed with private money, can do the job. Statistics show that, given a reasonable chance to expand, private enterprise can meet defense no less than normal demands.

To sum up, we have passed a bill giving the President unprecedented authority to aid other governments in their war against slavery, dictatorship and slavery—and at the same time we are spending some $30,000,000,000 on our own defense against aggression. While we are doing this, we must not permit a domestic brand of dictatorship, which has already gained a foothold, to grow unnoticed and unrecognized for what it is, here at home.

Bear Cubs Bear cubs are born while the mother is asleep during the winter hibernation. Imagine mama bear's surprise when she awakens to find the den full of furry little bears!

Shortest and Deepest The strangest stream in America is Lost River in Warren county, Kentucky. It is only slightly over 300 yards in length and more than half as deep as it is long!

Chicken-Eating Fish! Hampton Miller, of Atlanta, Georgia, is convinced that fish, as well as humans, like fried chicken. On a fishing party in the Gulf of Mexico off Carrabelle, Florida, Miller and the rest of the group ate fried chicken on the boat. When Miller had consumed most of the meat from a drumstick, he threw the bone overboard.

No Buffalo in America There has never been a buffalo in North America—except those in zoos. Our so-called buffalo is a bison. The true Buffalo are found in Africa and Asia and have no humps such as do the American bison.

Quee Fish Some fish are usually with respect to their body covering—not all have scales. A South American catfish and the sea horse are armored with bony rings, and certain gars of North America are covered with hard, bony quadrate plates, with an outer sharp-edged edge. The batfishes are completely covered with bony tubercles; the porcupine fish is sheathed with long, sharp spines.

Watch Your Hands Perhaps he's too little to keep now—but he'll grow and might be the difference between success and failure on your trip next year. So handle your fish carefully, Mr. Angler. Before releasing undersized fish from the hook, wet your hands. If you touch a fish with dry hands, you're apt to break the mucous coating of his body. This makes him easy prey to disease.

Spoonbill Has Chinese Relatives The spoonbill catfish, found in some Southern rivers, has relatives in far-off China. Eggs of the spoonbill, or paddlefish as it is sometimes called, make excellent caviar. The fish's only living relatives inhabit the Yangtze and Hoang Ho, and other great Chinese rivers.

The Wyoming Game and Fish Department had a letter from a perturbed fisherman who seemed to think that he was missing something in the art of fishing. "Where," he asked, "is this Blitz Creek that everyone is talking about? Is there any good fishing there?"

The Department was a little hard on his answer: "It's hell, as far as we know!"

Rainy Day In the Desert? A queer lizard is the Gila monster found in the Arizona desert. The strange creature stores up food in its tail. Put away your fish for a rainy day is good logic but those days come so seldom in the desert!

A Deer Can Run HOW Fast? In sportsmen's camps all over the country the old argument as to how fast a deer can run is continually raging. Some of our well-meaning outdoorsmen swear the fleet-footed game can knock off forty to fifty miles per hour. Ernest Thompson Seton in his book "Lives of Game Animals," writes, "A deer can travel at the rate of 20 miles an hour, but cannot keep it up for more than three or four miles."

ATTACK ON AMERICA

THE STORY SO FAR: Intelligence Officer Benning's warning that 200,000 foreign troops were poised in Mexico for an attack on the United States caused great concern in army headquarters, but the people branded the statement as "war mongering." Without warning, four large southern cities were attacked.

CHAPTER XI—Continued In the swift jumble of action Boynton caught the fall of wounded men, heard the cries of pain, and the shrill of commanders' whistles, the air was filled with the howling of artillery. Rifle flashes stabbed the gray dawn as the enemy sprawled to the ground and fired back. Boynton hugged the earth only long enough to satisfy himself that it was an attack wave, not a mere patrol, he had encountered; then he fell back, his men firing intermittently as they ran, to the shelter of fox holes in the outpost.

The outpost line, lightly held, poured lead from its semi-automatics and machine guns. When it found itself confronted by superior forces, the 9th Infantry, it was the main line of resistance which ran a ragged, irregular line of trenches and centers of resistance over a front of ten thousand yards. The 9th was to be replaced by living waves of men that reached across the whole front, struck the main line of resistance just as visibility exposed the attack.

Colonel Hall of the 9th, observing the attack from a vantage-point, expected nothing more than that. Later, when Van Hasek's scheme of maneuver had cut a critical hole into the enemy's line, the main force of the frontal attack would come rushing in to mop up with firepower and bayonets.

The 9th's Garand rifles, light machine guns, 37-millimeter cannon, and small mortars poured all their hot fury into the surging assault. One enemy wave after another melted into dead and wounded, but only to be replaced by living waves that poured relentlessly on.

Half an hour of furious fighting passed before Colonel Hall accepted the evidence of his own eyes. "By God, the fool is going to penetrate our center!" he roared.

Astride the Laredo-San Antonio highway, Van Hasek's infantry drove ahead while successive waves of men marked across the terrain where there was little benefit of cover. Desperately the enemy commanders led in reserves from their superior hordes of men out of which they could pick the best to do the error in underestimating an enemy who had not been expected to offer serious resistance here.

That Van Hasek's infantry lost to the slower tank and rider they made up by auxiliary arms, light machine guns, mortars of many calibers, light and heavy tanks, superiority of artillery. Shrapnel, mortars, and machine guns poured down on the American centers of resistance with the red convolutions of some Satanic scourge escaped from hell. Van Hasek's men burst ahead until Boynton's guns could be reduced from paper models to actual weapons. Boynton turned to rally his men, giving to his voice the full strength of his lungs.

"Up and at 'em," he cried. "To hell with the swine!" His voice rose above the storm. A second time he raised his voice, then he staggered drunkenly, spun helplessly, and fell. Now he saw deep enough into the American center, they knew that the whole American sector would roll up in a chaos of defeated regiments.

As the accomplishment, Van Hasek's infantry made a drive through succeeding lines. Capturing one, they faced another equally resistant. What the Americans lacked in auxiliary weapons was made up by their unshakable fighting spirit, a discipline hard as steel that put men through the terrors of battle and turned a deaf ear to imputes of flight and surrender. When succeeding lines failed to terrorize them or drive them out of position, all the advantages of auxiliary weapons failed to avail.

One surging mass of enemy infantry pushed the right of the 23d, and left of the 9th Infantry, late in the forenoon. Now the storm rose to new heights of desperation as Van Hasek's infantry sought to break through.

Five hundred yards the invader progressed, swamping one strong-point after another. The Second's main line was threatened by a wedge that would force it back to

INSTALLMENT ELEVEN from the air, Washington was bombed and the President killed. National forces were ordered mobilized, but they were ill prepared for immediate action. General Brill, area commander of the army in Texas, reported to General Hague, chief of staff at Washington, that he was being attacked by greatly superior into the melee came rushing American reserves, a co-ordinated counter-attack by the 3d Battalion of the 23d and the 2d Battalion of the 9th. They hit with a vigor that halted the menacing enemy masses. Their semi-automatics, pouring death as fast as fingers could work triggers, gave to the attacking American battalions one infantry weight of twice their own.

Van Hasek's men fell back, dug themselves into fox holes, waited. A full came into the firing. The artillery roared on, machine guns, light cannon chattered and boomed. Now the volcanic eruption of battle lost something of its volume. The cries of the stricken could be heard, plaintive wails of "First aid!"

Van Hasek had lost the first round. He had committed the rash folly of underestimating his enemy. In his haste to blast his way through to San Antonio his concept had misled him to disregard sound tactical principles. No matter if the enemy

Benning was picking at his dinner in the Mess hall when there came a final flash on the Boll incident. "You heard this afternoon of the gallant young officer, Captain Boll of our infantry," the broadcaster announced. "You recall that, although wounded in the check, he ignored his own wound and saw his men through to the Second Division south of San Antonio."

The announcer paused, his voice shook with feeling as he read a brief dispatch from San Antonio that brought the incident of Boll to tragic realization. "Captain Henry Boll, 11th United States Infantry, died early this evening of wounds received in action. Captain Boll collapsed a few minutes after reaching the hospital and died this evening without having regained consciousness."

For a long time Benning sat looking across the blur of somber faces in front of him. In those sections of the country outside the immediate reach of Van Hasek's invasion. They were told there was no immediate danger of new air raids. The Army had been shut out of the War Department because of its problems, black uncertainties, and crushing workload. Official reassurance was being fed out from the War Department to those sections of the country outside the immediate reach of Van Hasek's invasion. They were told there was no immediate danger of new air raids. The Army had been shut out of the War Department because of its problems, black uncertainties, and crushing workload.

He walked to the Shoreham to get himself in hand. Even Flagwill's assertion that the coalition spy nest was more dangerous to the country than Van Hasek's present invasion brought him small comfort. But he finally reminded himself that he had a job to do and not until he had done it would there be hope of transfer back to the line of the Army.

Washington, the whole country, was in a state of fury. All day Benning had been shut out of the War Department because of its problems, black uncertainties, and crushing workload. Official reassurance was being fed out from the War Department to those sections of the country outside the immediate reach of Van Hasek's invasion. They were told there was no immediate danger of new air raids. The Army had been shut out of the War Department because of its problems, black uncertainties, and crushing workload.

Washington, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and other cities were being organized against air raids that could not be circumvented for the time being. It was a matter of avoiding crowds, of getting out of the cities, of avoiding bombs and gas. People who could leave those cities were urged to take refuge in towns and hamlets until the danger could be brought under control. The attention of thousands needed no such warning and were pouring into the country with such of their effects as they could carry along.

In New York, Washington, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and other centers of population, organization against air attacks had been feverishly undertaken. The Middle West and West had been alerted. There was no present need for alarm. However, some highly alarming, if unconfirmed, reports of a mysterious brewing of mischief in the Orient, had the effect of increasing the alertness of thousands.

Mobilization of the four existing Regular Army and eighteen National Guard infantry divisions was reported sixty per cent complete. The Third Army was to concentrate in Texas as rapidly as possible, but the War Department refused to give out military details. No censorship of military news had been stamped down as yet. The press was printing, without restriction, whatever news it could get.

Benning ordered an elaborate dinner at the Shoreham. Though he had no appetite, he made a pretext of eating while he kept under observation those who came and went. Before starting on his rounds, Benning had stationed Lieutenant Jones, an Intelligence assistant, on guard over the Massachusetts Avenue apartment of Mme Pujol, with whom Boggio had dined and danced in the capital a few days ago. Instructions were to hold Boggio under close observation and let Benning know as quickly as possible if the Italian appeared.

Seven-thirty o'clock passed, the Chief of Staff of the Army would soon be on the air in a nation-wide hookup. New dispatches came in from San Antonio. "Bombers reported approaching New Orleans, Galveston, and Houston. The Government's intercept nets and Intelligence service will give prompt advance warning in any planes for north of Texas. Everyone is urged to remain calm."

Several persons got up from table at this news and anxiously left the room. Others kept determinedly in their seats. A few affected melancholy composure. In the dining room at this moment came Finkler's face lined in a surly scowl. He sat down at a table across the room from Benning.

CHAPTER XII As succeeding battle reports from the Texas front poured into Washington over the radio, Captain Benning was assailed by growing restlessness at his own inaction in the face of momentous events. Throughout the day he had loitered about the cafes along Connecticut Avenue looking for the Van Hasek staff spies, Finkler and Boggio. Evening found him huddled over the map. That red weller of the 11th Infantry's retreat from Laredo had been reported in meager but graphic detail along with the heroic stand of the 5th and 12th Cavalry Regiments. Captain Boll's achievement in piloting his men through the storm of Van Hasek's air attacks had stirred the country.

Benning and Boll had been classmates at the Military Academy, had gone to the 11th Infantry together as

By Cecil Spence and Richard Smith

An article in the San Antonio Light calls our attention to an interesting fact. The old U. S. S. Boston, which carries scars from the battle of Manila Bay is now being used as a training ship for radio operators in the Navy. This is interesting because the school is a parallel to one now being conducted in a most intense manner here at the Fort Sam Signal Post. Of course we boast no battleship, but wherever one looks he finds row upon row of tables with sets of headphones and telegraph keys about every two feet. All this week the men who have shown aptitude for receiving international Morse Code, have been sitting at these tables with a pair of these headphones glued to their ears for four hours each day, listening to the Dam Dam Dit; Dam Dah Dah; Dit Dah Dah, and every other combination of dots and dashes which go to make up the alphabet. It is pretty hard to learn, but they know they have to learn it and so they keep cheerfully trying. Some of them find it easier than others and have learned the alphabet in one week. That, dear readers, is plenty good. Stop to think about it, it is really a new language and no language can be learned in a day. By the end of five more weeks, however, we expect all of them to take ten words per minute and then we will spread out, each man for himself and bid the ones who can learn to take fifty words per minute. Of course some of these men who have had previous training can already receive twenty words per minute, and a select few, even forty and fifty. These men will spend the weeks trying to be a little faster and we wish them luck.

Now then, included in this six weeks' schooling comes actual experience in the setting up and operating of various army radio transmitters and receivers. Joint Army-Navy radio procedure" which simply means the manner in which stations send messages), and an insight into radio theory.

Here is something of possible interest to you. Here at this school we have a Ham Radio Station and those who qualify as amateur radio operators can use the station at will. Someone is around all the time and calling all over the United States, so if anyone of you have access to an amateur station just call -WSJEI- here at Fort Sam Houston, on the forty meter band. Give us any message for any person here and we will deliver that message post haste and be very pleased about the whole thing, too. So give us a call if you can.

After graduating from our little school here, and a few months of specialized training, our very own children will be the biggest radio fans anyone ever heard of, and some day they all hope to be able to use their knowledge in the defense of their country.

Although the third Radio Intelligence Co. is housing the equipment here for training of both companies, it will not keep the operations company tied for long. In fact, they will be called away to a short maneuver about April 10, and even next week their top operators and technicians will go to the army airport to practice actual ground-air communications. Radio communication will be carried on with the airplanes in flight. Besides radio communication the Operations Co. will send messages to airplanes by the use of white panels. (white cloth two feet wide and twelve feet long) certain displays of these panels on the ground will convey messages to airplanes in the air regardless of how high the planes may be in their flight. You may ask the question if white panels are used, how would your message be conveyed to planes when snow is on the ground, or when the sender is located on white sand. The answer is simple. In such cases, black panels are used. There must be no flaws in this company set-up, for the air corps must rely very strongly upon the third Operations Co. for that reason each man has an interesting and important job at which he must be well trained. A machine is no stronger than its weakest cog. That too, applies to any organization, whether in civil or army life.

Oh yes, here is some more dope on the "Big" maneuver which will be staged in the west central part of Louisiana from September 15 to 27th. This definitely will be the greatest peacetime maneuver in the history of the United States. Last year there were seventy thousand men which participated in the Louisiana maneuver, but this year there will be around four or five hundred thousand who will make up the two armies. These armies will clash somewhere near Shreveport in September.

Here are some interesting figures: On March 10, 1940, the U. S. Army was less than two hundred thousand strong. March 10, 1941, finds the Army with a strength of one million, three thousand, five hundred men. That means that in the past year your army has doubled and redoubled until it is five times its size a year ago. Our hats off to Sergeant Mack Lee of the U. S. Cavalry for being

and Answers

Q. Can cotton stamps be used to repay advances made against the crop, the landlord's share of the crop, or other indebtedness?
A. No.

Q. Must the entire amount of stamps be used at any one time?
A. No. One stamp or all stamps may be used at any one time, or over a period of time, until the total amount of stamps has been exchanged for cotton goods.

Q. How can retail stores be designated to receive cotton stamps from farmers in exchange for cotton goods?
A. Retailers handling cotton goods who wish to share in this new business should file with the nearest Surplus Marketing Administration office a statement of intention to take part in the program and to observe the regulations under which it operates. (Experience under the Food and Cotton Stamp Plans shows that practically all retailers cooperate willingly in surplus removal programs of the Department of Agriculture.)

Q. What is meant by this "new business"?
A. The 25 million dollars worth of cotton stamps which farmers can earn under the Supplementary Cotton Program will be placed as an "order" in regular channels of trade. From 75,000 to 100,000 bales of cotton will be required in making the cotton goods to fill this order. The larger share of each dollar spent for cotton goods, however, goes to employ labor and to pay other costs in the manufacture, transportation, handling, and selling of cotton products. The program therefore will benefit not only farmers, but labor and industry as well.

Q. How does the retailer receive payment for the face value of the stamps he accepts in exchange for merchandise?
A. Retailers may file proper claims for payment, supported by cards on each of which are pasted $10 worth of cotton order stamps, direct with offices of the Surplus Marketing Administration (names and places of which will be made public). Wholesalers with whom retailers are accustomed to do business, or banks cooperating in the program may also act as agents for retailers in presenting such claims to the Surplus Marketing Administration. (Experience under the Food and Cotton Stamp Plan shows that payments normally are made within two to five days after claims are presented. Bankers throughout the country, where the food and cotton stamp plans in operation, have agreed unanimously to act as agents in presenting the stamps for payment. Their full cooperation has meant much to the success of the program.)

Q. How may a producer who wishes to participate in the Supplementary Cotton Program obtain additional information about the program?
A. By seeing or writing his county farm or home demonstration agent or his local AAA committee-man.

Dr. S. G. Panter
Died Monday, Well Known Here

Following is from a Lincoln county, Nebraska paper as received in Mulshoe by Mayor R. L. Brown:
Dr. Samuel Goodall Panter, 88, resident of Lincoln, Nebraska, from young manhood and for the past 53 years a member of East Lincoln lodge No. 210, A. F. & A. M., died Monday, March 17th.

Dr. Panter was well known by many in Mulshoe, having owned land in Bailey county for many years. News of his death was received here by Mayor R. L. Brown. Born in Philadelphia August 21, 1852, he went west in his youth and was employed in Chicago at the time of the great fire in 1871. Shortly thereafter he came to Nebraska overland, in winter. He slept in a covered wagon in Haymarket square, where the new city building now stands, one winter's night 66 years ago.

Dr. Panter was educated at Washington university in St. Louis, at the old Omaha medical college, now a part of University of Nebraska, and at Bellevue in New York. He began the practice of medicine at Dorchester, went next to Ohio, and seven years later, in 1917, came to Lincoln. He practiced for three years in Lincoln before retiring.

The Masonic lodge awarded him a 50-year emblem three years ago at a ceremonial and dinner meeting in the temple at 27th and S, attended by state officers of the lodge and about 200 members. He had been a member of the Baptist church as a young man.

Surviving are his wife, Catherine H., four sons, Dr. R. C. Panter of Dorchester, Dr. S. G. Hebron, Dr. A. F. of Lincoln, W. G. Panter of Mulshoe; one daughter, Mrs. Laura Martindale of Dorchester, three grand-daughters and four grandsons.

NATIONAL GUARDS WILL SERVE ONE YEAR

A high army authority recently disclosed that, barring the gravest emergency, the war department had decided to demobilize national guard units upon completion of their year in federal service.

The same policy also will apply, it was said, to the thousands of men who have been or are to be inducted into the army for a year's training under the selective service act.

Reports have circulated in recent weeks that the guard's tour of active service might be extended six months or even a year, in view of world conditions.

The army's decision follows the primary purpose of the present peacetime defense preparations, which are to train as large a number of men as possible. Therefore, the land forces will be kept up to their intended strength of 1,418,000 men by the induction of fresh selective service quotas and additional three-year enlistments in the regular army.

The full strength of 1,418,000 will be reached in June, according to present plans. The army then will be composed of about 500,000 guardsmen and 600,000 or more selective trainees.

Salesmanship In The U. S. Navy

Salesmanship is not one of the professions advertised as taught in the U. S. Navy, but Navy recruiters must not be good salesmen in order to fill their rapidly expanding monthly quotas of voluntary enlistments for six-year periods against competition with the one-year Selective Service Act and expanding industry. C. L. Wylie, in charge of the U. S. Navy Recruiting Station at Abilene, said today.

Navy recruiting is now based on selling the prospective applicant a desire for a career which affords opportunity to learn a useful trade or profession with good pay and frequent promotions and retirement on half pay at an early age, Wylie said. Resistance to the Navy's longer enlistment period is usually overcome by the recruiter with a sales talk something as follows:

"You say that you would like to enlist in the Navy but you can't see yourself signing up for six years?" "Suppose one of the larger corporations offered you a job for six years with a starting salary of $21 per month while in training for the first four months, a guaranteed increase to $36.00 when this training period is finished, further promotions just about as fast as you can qualify, living expenses, free medical and dental attention when needed, lots of free entertainment, travel and a guarantee of no lay offs due to illness, strikes and dull times?"

"Suppose that while you are still wondering if you are dreaming, you are told that if you stay with this job for 20 years you may then quit and draw pay, in most cases amounting to $63.00 per month, for the next ten years while working for yourself or someone else, with an increase ten years later bringing your retirement pay up to a maximum of $110.25 per month for the rest of your life? Would you take this job? I took one like it quite a few years ago. This is what the Navy offers. Before you can qualify."

"You say you want to marry and have a home before 20 years have passed. Fine. That is a normal desire. The Navy does not accept married men for first enlistment and discourages marriage of men in the lower pay rating. However, a large percentage of Navy petty officers are married and have happy homes at the home port of their ship. When these men have permanent change of home port or station government transportation is furnished for their dependents and household effects."

first birthdate. Of course you may then reenlist if your naval record is satisfactory."

Until actually inducted into the Army any man registered for Selective Service may, if qualified, enlist in the Navy. No men are being accepted by the Navy after induction. This is due to the fact that highly skilled mechanics are required to operate the ships of the U. S. Fleet and these mechanics can't be made in a one-year training period, Wylie said.

13th ANNUAL TECH ENGINEERS' SHOW TO BE HELD APRIL 4th

Lubbock, March 27—The senior engineering students of Texas Technological College sponsor a two day show each year in which exhibits of the various engineering departments are displayed and explained. Each department has its own departmental manager, a senior engineering student, who supervises and coordinates the work in that department. All exhibits are designed the product or the ingenuity of the students.

All of the departments of engineering, the Department of Architecture and Allied Arts, the Chemical, Civil, Electrical, Mechanical, Industrial, Petroleum, and Textile Engineering, also the Engineering Corps of the Tech R. O. T. C., and the Physics Department, offer exhibits and demonstrations designed to acquaint the public more completely with the theory and application of engineering science. So that every one may have a chance to become familiar with the work expected of engineering students and graduates, the show is open to the public at no admission price.

The 13th annual Tech Engineers' Show will be held in the various engineering buildings of Tech. The opening ceremony is scheduled to be held at 1:30 p. m. Friday, April 4, from which time the show will be in operation until 10:00 o'clock that night. The following day, Saturday, April 5, the show will be opened at 1:00 p. m., and will continue to run until midnight so that those having other business in Lubbock may have ample time for attending to such.

Draftees Get New Language At Ft. Bliss Army Camp

One thing draftees learn in the army is a new language, an enlisted man's slang which includes such terms as "wire city," "rukus juice," "goofing off," and "cracker box."

"Wire City" is the guard house or military jail. When a soldier is thrown in for getting into trouble, he is known as a "foul ball" or "under the gun."

Soldiers are in a bad way if they have "gone over the hill"—deserted.

"Rukus juice" is whiskey. "Goofing off" means to go crazy.

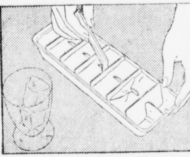

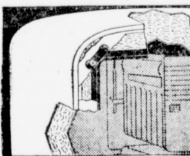

A "cracker box" is a mechanized vehicle, and a pickup truck is a "puddle jumper."

Some of the more familiar army slang terms are "shave-tail" for second lieutenant, K. P. for kitchen

Charles Alsop Writes Letter From Camp Bowie At Brownwood

Following is an open letter from Charles Alsop of Muleshoe, to recent contingents of volunteers for army service at Sudan. He resided in Sudan and was in civilian life employed by the A-1 Cleaners of that city, previous to his enlistment in the army. He has been at Camp Bowie, Brownwood since the national guard was mobilized last fall. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Alsop of Muleshoe.

"The letter is: I have been receiving your newspaper quite often and have enjoyed reading it very much. This week (March 13 issue) topped them all. I got a big kick out of reading about the eight boys that have decided to go to work for their Uncle. Oh boy, would I like to see them when they get to camp!

W. M. POOL, Jr.

General Line of Insurance and Bonds
 Gilbreath Bldg. Muleshoe

I want them to join a club that has been organized in the Army. It is called the Kay Pay, and everyone so far has joined it. It is very easy to get in, and the things they will learn will help them when they get in any cafe washing dishes.

I would give anything to see Wood, Red, Glenn, Jiggs, and especially Sis, washing dishes for about 300 men and scrubbing out a mess hall three times a day, and then go on guard that night. It'd be fun to see Wood with a 71-pound pack on his back walking 25 miles a day, and Wood, don't think you want do it, either.

I am in an outfit that is not supposed to drill, but don't think we don't. It is every day. Jiggs, those long legs of yours won't give you an advantage over Red and Glenn, because each step has to be exactly 30 inches long.

Well, if we could just get Weldon Findley in I would be almost satisfied. I am sure he would make a very bad soldier. But what would be more fun than anything is to get Marvin Greathouse and Milton Wiseman in. I am sure everyone in Sudan would agree with me except Ilylene and Hazel.

I don't think any of those boys there at Sudan will come here because we have just about got our full strength, although I wish they had joined up earlier for I could have gotten them in the same outfit I am in, which is called the "Fighting 61st," and most of the boys uphold it.

We are having fine weather here. This morning it started sleeting and has been doing so for 12 hours, getting harder all the time. And is this a swell place when it rains! The mud gets about a foot deep, but we keep going like it wasn't there. This morning we went out on the firing range which is about 15 miles from camp, and stayed there all day, but we had a lot of fun for they started firing the 75 mm. guns today.

I have always been told that it takes a big man to fire an auto-rifle, but they are wrong, for I have been firing them all last week and they are as light as a feather. Only things, they weigh about 15 pounds, but we don't have to carry them.

I have never regretted the army, for I am having a lot of fun and plenty of work with it, but that doesn't hurt anyone, and when a man has served out an enlistment, he'll be better for it. So you guys that have joined won't be sorry for most of you worked inside like me and it will do you plenty of good.

I am having a hard time writing this letter as there are about 60 guys here in my tent and two radios going, so please overlook the mistakes. I would like very much for the fellows that join to write me when they get located.

Charles seems to be enjoying army life to the fullest extent from the way his letter reads. Several of the boys he mentioned are well known in Muleshoe.

Muleshoe Home Ec. Girls And Teacher Attend Style Show

Home Economics Class girls from nine different schools converged upon Littlefield Tuesday of last week, to participate in the second annual style show, staged by Ware's Department store, in conjunction with the Fourth Annual Quilt Show at the same department store. Registration books at the store, show that nearly 600 Home Economics students attended and surprise though it may be to you—twenty of those students were boys.

Muleshoe High school had a good representation present at the event. They were accompanied by Miss Mary Locher Howell, home economics instructor in the local school.

The day opened with the arrival of visitors, who gathered at Ware's where the day's activities were outlined. Immediately following, in a body, they were taken to the Palace theatre, next door, where the "Thief of Bagdad," and other films were shown.

Next came a trip to the high school, where they enjoyed a 15-minute song fest, followed by interesting short talks by Superintendent Hemphill of Littlefield, and Superintendent Joe Hutchinson of Sudan schools.

Luncheon was next on the program and a grand feast was served in the Home Economics kitchen of the Littlefield school.

A half hour of recreation was followed by group photographing, and then the treat of the afternoon, the style show was on.

Mr. Shaw of the entertaining department store, opened by introducing Mr. Artie, sales representative for a ladies' millinery wholesale house, the proprietor of Stephens Dry Goods in Lubbock and Mr. Hill of St. Louis. Then came the introduction of the visiting Home Economics instructors, including Miss Mary Locher Howell of Muleshoe; Mrs. Samford, Spade, Miss Holloman, Anton; Miss Dickson, Spring Lake; Mrs. Horn, Sudan; Miss Sain, Amber; Misses Mahaffey and Cundiff of Littlefield.

The style parade then opened with little Miss Jimmie Horton of Littlefield, cleverly dressed in cow-girl regalia, leading, Swankily garbed in the season's latest designs of all types of clothing for the modern miss, appeared on the style show entrants. Those from Muleshoe and the mode of dress each represented were: Helen Holt, blue and white sport dress; Gladys Waggoner, gold and brown slack suit; Mary Jane Hill, slack and coat suit; and Doris Gordon, blue taffeta formal.

Senate Bill Provides For Pension Pay

Texas citizens more than 65 years of age will all be eligible for the state's portion of the old age pension and all will receive the same grant under a bill passed out of the Senate Finance Committee and sponsored by State Senator Karl Lovelady of Meridian and Marshall Formby of McAdoo.

Under the bill now pending before the Texas Senate, the state's investigation will be eliminated. All persons over 65, who have lived in Texas 15 of the past 25 years and who have lived in Texas the last five preceding years will be eligible for the State's part of the pension not to exceed $15 per month, or a prorata part. Under this bill every aged person applying for the pension will be granted the same amount from the State after proof of age and there will be no State investigations. The Federal Government will then make its own investigation and will match the State's part to persons qualifying under the Federal laws as being needy.

The two Senators, both former County Judges, explained that under this law considerable money would be saved which has heretofore been spent for investigation and that the problem of one aged person receiving a smaller amount than his neighbor would be eliminated so far as the State's part is concerned.

Senator Lovelady indicated that the bill would be brought up for consideration as soon as possible in the senate. Many Senators believe this bill will be the answer to many of the pension problems as it clarifies the State's obligations and the State is without control of the Federal matching of the grants anyway.

O'DANIEL TELLS INMATES EVERYTHING'S OKAY

Inmates of the Texas penitentiary had his message from Governor W. Lee O'Daniel the latter part of last week.

"Cheer up, boys and girls in white, your troubles are all behind you." "The Governor joined for five minutes the prison talent radio program from Huntsville by remote control from the mansion.

During the program celebrating its third anniversary on the air, the governor declared he had learned from experience that not all prisoners were bad, reiterated his stand against the death penalty, said he was happy whipping had been abolished in the penitentiary and asserted that of 6,287 prisoners he had granted clemency only 345 had violated it.

"That indeed is a splendid record," he continued.

It was O'Daniel's second appearance on the prison program since he was elected chief executive.
