Defense Bonds On Sale May 1

Below is a copy of a letter received by the County Superintendent Wednesday. Plans will be announced later for carrying out the suggestions of this letter. Every true loyal Dickens County citizen will be interested in doing his part in connection with so vital an issue as that of dealing with the success of our National Defense Program. County Superintendent O. L. Kelley urges that every individual read this communication and watch for further announcement.

To The County School Superintendents of Texas

Our own State—along with North and South Carolina, Connecticut, Michigan and Missouri—has been selected by the Treasury Department as the proving ground for the sale of United States Defense Bonds. These bonds, as you know, go on sale to the public on May first.

This is a challenge to everyone in Texas, and we must bend every effort to make the sale of these bonds and stamps highly successful. To do this it is essential that we use every means of advertising to that these bonds will be called to the attention of every man, woman, and child in our state.

With this thought in mind, it seems to me that the schools of our state are in an enviable position to perform an outstanding service to the nation. We are calling upon the school authorities in Texas to assist in presenting these Defense Bonds and Saving Stamps to the public through the medium of the school room.

In addressing you, the County Superintendents, we have uppermost in our minds the problem of reaching the rural people of Texas. Cannot you develop some program within the schools of your county that will carry the theme of Defense Bonds to each family? We will welcome your thoughts along this line, and will be deeply grateful for your suggestions.

In these times when the liberty of ourselves and our posterity is so vitally dependent upon the complete success of our National Defense effort, we are anxious to know just what our own contribution should be. I know the schools of Texas will meet this appeal generously and wholeheartedly.

Very sincerely yours,
John M. Griffith

Wife of Editor Dies in Flames

Mrs. W. L. Garner, wife of the publisher of the Aspermont Star, perished in flames as her home burned Monday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Garner had returned from Haskell in the afternoon and spent some time working in their yard and garden. About six o'clock, Mrs. Garner went into the house to take a bath and accompany Mr. Garner to some social event in the evening.

Shortly after she went into the home Mr. Garner heard an explosion and saw flames and smoke issuing from the building. With the assistance of a neighbor he tried to enter the home but the flames kept both of them out. After the home had been destroyed the body of Mrs. Garner was found in the bath tub. It is thought possibly the explosion had stunned here or possibly it may have caused her death.

The survivors are the husband, two sons: B. E. Garner and C. C. Garner of Ranger; the mother, Mrs. G. A. Dulaney; three brothers: D. C. Dulaney of Haskell, T. O. Dulaney of Clyde and S. C. Dulaney of Painview; two sisters, Mrs. J. J. Josuan of Ranger and Mrs. H. Dobbins of Haskell.

The Garners moved to Aspermont last August.

Used Car Industry Increasing

Each spring sees the use dear business grow larger and more important in the automobile industry. In 1940 it attained the proportions of half the size of the new car part of the industry, in dollar volume, and it continues to expand in 1941.

It is the Cinderella of the motor story with a dollar volume of more than two billion a year at this time, a constant following that numbers more than 12,000,000 of the 32,000,000 motor vehicle owners and its train of specialized workers has reached a huge total. Conservative estimates place the number of people who earn their livelihood from the used car business at more than 100,000.

"Whereas the used car and truck business totals a dollar volume of sales to customers one half as large as that of the new car and truck business, the total units handled in the used car field are double those handled in the new car and truck business," said William E. Holler, general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Division, who has pioneered modern reconditioning and merchandising of used cars.

"The entire used car business is conducted by dealers and those in the field. Trading, reconditioning and merchandising of used cars and trucks takes place in dealerships and on used car lots.

"To bring dealers the most efficient aid in handling used cars, the Chevrolet sales department patterned a used car organization on its new car organization and the results were beneficial for customer as well as dealer.

"More than one-third of all motor vehicle owners find an adequate answer to their transportation problems in the used car field. The majority of them have learned that it is to their advantage to buy used cars and trucks from a dependable dealer."

Latest step to assure the public confidence in Chevrolet dealers' used car reconditioning program is a series of placards prepared by the Central office service department for use in the dealer's place of business.

A series of seven cards are made available to the dealer, each of which maps one step in the exhaustive reconditioning program Chevrolet dealers observe. These cards are placed in the service department or used car reconditioning shop, where each service man can see them as he progresses through the 98 different steps usually involved in the renovating operation.

Under the general heading of "Cleaning" are six different operations, all of which must be checked off before the used car advances to the next division of the reconditioning department. "Mechanical" lists 12 different steps. An even dozen phases of "Upholstery Cleaning" are outlined. "Metal Bumping" requires seven operations. "Painting" calls for 29 various steps. "Final Check-up" requires the used car mechanic to check on 17 different points. And finally, 15 different checks are made during "Final Inspection."

This careful process, handled by skilled mechanics Chevrolet-trained to know their jobs, means that the used car buyer now may purchase a vehicle with confidence from Chevrolet dealers operating under this Reconditioning Plan.

Rural Workers to Register With State Employment Service

Register now with the local office, or the traveling representative, of the Texas State Employment Service for your area, Mr. J. H. Bond, Director of the Texas State Employment Service, urges workers in rural and remote communities. He explained that a Nation-wide inventory of available workers is being conducted by the United States Employment Service, through cooperating State Services, as a part of the national defense program, farm labor is just as important as industrial labor. Moreover, he said, that man workers located in rural areas also have training and experience needed in defense industries.

Mr. Sam G. Wynn, Manager of the Lubbock office, made it clear that persons who register may not immediately find jobs waiting for them as defense contracts are slow in coming to Texas. He explained that the present registration has been undertaken so that national defense officials may know how many and what kinds of workers are available throughout the country for jobs or training in defense occupations. He said that the registrations serves to direct purposes. It enables the employment service to reach the unemployed worker as soon as there is a job for him and it makes it possible for defense industries and other enterprises in the country to get in touch with suitable workers when they need them. The registration will also bring to the attention of the employment service men and women who may be available for training in one of the many vocational training programs which have been set up throughout the country to help prepare people for jobs in defense industries. Complete information about these training programs can be obtained from the local state employment office.

The Texas State Employment Service has previously called upon every unemployed person in Texas who can hold a job and every worker experienced in one of the following trades, but not now employed at that trade, to register with his local office of the state employment service: in aircraft manufacturing — airplane sheet metal workers, wood workers, and inspectors; in shipbuilding—ship carpenters, loftsmen, boatbuilders, ship fitters, caulkers, marine machinists, and aeronautical engineers; in machine shops and machinery manufacturing—machinists, tool makers, lathe operators, die makers, and tool designers.

The employment service does not encourage or desire workers who are employed in any of the above industries to register.

The importance of farm labor in the defense program was stressed by Mr. Wynn. He said, "The emphasis thus far in the defense program has been on industrial and commercial workers. But we must not forget that farmers are also defense workers and they have a vital part in this country's preparation for defense. That is why I am making an appeal to rural workers to register with the state employment service. There is no charge for this service, and it puts them in line for consideration when a job opens up for which they are qualified. Whether the rural worker can serve best on the farm or in an industrial job, he should register with the state employment service so he can be notified of any job available which he can fill."

Mr. Wynn called the attention of rural workers to the fact that there is a part-time office in rural and smaller communities where traveling representatives make regular calls. In addition to the full-time office at Lubbock, the location and office hours of itinerant employment service points

Citizens of Dickens County will register at the Courthouse in Dickens each Tuesday morning from 10:45 until 12:00 noon.

New Service by Car Manufacturers

With the increasing emphasis upon mechanical training in modern life, motor-minded young American rank "tops" in the world in their comprehension of the machine—its construction and its possibilities. Thousands of public and private schools the country over offer courses in motor mechanics, and hundreds of schools and colleges are devoted entirely to instruction of this nature.

At present, more than 1,000,000 American boys and girls are receiving mechanical training based upon data compiled by a leading automotive manufacturer. Through its Educational Service, Chevrolet Motor Division, under the direction of M. E. Coyle, general manager, aids the student of mechanics by making available a broad range of material for mechanical training that is sound in every detail.

A total of 5,163 professors, teachers and instructors receive a monthly mailing from Chevrolet of latest mechanical and service information, comparable to that sent to more than 25,000 service men in Chevrolet's 8,500 dealerships. In addition, such data is provided directly to 592 colleges and universities, 2,272 high schools, 1,096 C. C. C. camps, 367 trade schools, 67 Y. M. C. A.'s and 673 miscellaneous outlets.

To all parts of the world this information goes — including many schools in the Philippine Islands, several in Africa, Hawaii, Alaska, South America, and parts of Europe.

Included in an initial mailing of educational material is a Chevrolet shop manual, which explains basic principles common to all internal combustion engines and tells a complete up-to-the-minute authentic story of car maintenance and repair. In addition is a series of booklets devoted to specific aspects of the motor car written in non-technical language—brakes, wheels, combustion, the chemistry of the automobile, and tips to drivers. Likewise an owner's manual is in the package, giving each student a comprehensive outline of car care and conditioning.

Of unusual interest to educational institutions is the draftsman's handbook prepared by Chevrolet engineers and distributed to department heads in approximately 700 colleges and universities. Said to be the most comprehensive guide book of its kind, this manual is used as an auxiliary text in many advanced mechanical drawing classes.

Arithmetic, geometry, trigonometry, algebra and calculus are represented on a unique wall poster for school diagram, which thus is of value to all levels of classroom work, from the grades through college. With the chart is a pamphlet explaining the correlation of mathematics and engineering, with illustrations drawn from the motor industry. Write for them.

McAdoo Boy Earns Promotion

KELLY FIELD, TEXAS, April 10, 1941—Colonel H. R. Harmon, Commanding Officer of Kelly Field, has just issued orders, retroactive to April 1, 1941 making Anthony W. Van Leer, Jr., son of R. W. Van Leer of McAdoo, who was promoted from the rank of Private to Sergeant. Military authorities at Kelly Field stated that, Sergeant Van Leer's promotion was based on his attention to duty and soldierly qualities. Promotions in the Air Corps are not easily obtained even in national emergency. They must be earned by application and hard work.

Gerald Mann for U. S. Senate

Gerald Mann, native Hopkins County son, and at present Attorney General of Texas, has announced his candidacy for the U. S. Senate seat left vacant by the death of the veteran Morris Sheppard.

And right here and now we of this "little paper" want to tell the "big old world" that we're strong as horse-radish for Gerald Mann—no "if" and no "ands" about it—we are "really" for Gerald Mann. We've known him ever since he was a knee-trousered little boy, and during all of these years have followed with much pride his meteoric career which reads like one of the old time Hoatio Alger stories.

In the first place, Gerald Mann is a clean-cut, Christian gentleman in every sense of the word. He's not only a Christian in name, but he lives a Christian life, as an official and as a citizen. In fact, he's an ordained minister. Never, at any time in all of his life has a "black mark" been chalked up against him—his public and his private life is an open book. And in our opinion, that's exactly the type of man Texas needs to send to the U. S. Senate.

In the second place, Gerald Mann is eminently qualified to serve with honor and distinction in the U. S. Senate. Following his graduation from S. M. U. at Dallas, he finished at Harvard Law school with honors. Entering the private practice of law in Dallas, he soon built up a large civil practice, after which he was elected Attorney General of Texas, which position he holds at this time. As such, he has gained more valuable experience in statesmanship and government practices. As for the record he has made, it goes without denying that it has been many a day since the State has had an Attorney General who has made as great a record as has Gerald Mann. In the opinion of many, he is well on his way to making one of the greatest Attorney Generals Texas has ever had. The office of Attorney General of Texas is a really big place—it takes a really big legal mind to handle it as it should be handled. Upon the opinions and decisions and interpretations of this office, many times the course of the State is chartered or even changed. It takes a brilliant, alert, legal mind, constantly on the job, in close touch with all affairs of the State for this office and in all of this Gerald Mann has been faithful and has not been found wanting. And, in our humble opinion, that's ample proof that Gerald Mann, from a standpoint of experience, is ably qualified to be a United States Senator.

In the third place, Gerald Mann is not an old, worn-out, professional politician. He is young, alert, ambitious and has a determination to even more than "make good" on his every undertaking. Regardless of whom Texas sends to the United States Senate it will take a little while to get "on to the ropes"—to get him "trained"—and with a little "preliminary training" for Gerald Mann, Texas will have a brilliant young Senator capable of rendering many years of faithful service. In other words, his life will be before him and not behind him. That's another reason, we're for Gerald Mann for United States Senator.

In the fourth place, if Gerald Mann goes to the United States Senate, all the "shady" big business, special interests, lobbyists and political gangsters had just as well get it in their heads "once and for all" that there will be no special favors for them. Even Gerald's closest friends and acquaintances need expect nothing "just for them." With Gerald Mann in the U. S. Senate, every one, every interest, every business will get a square deal, but there'll be no favorites. He's absolutely honest, no "yes" man, and does not play politics to build up an army of supporters. As Attorney

A VERY BEAUTIFUL FLOWER

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Adams, corner of Trumbell and Third Street, have enjoyed a beautiful Spanish Dahlia for several days. It is just blooming out and the main cluster of blooms is about 30 inches long, and all symmetrically beautiful. There are two more clusters just starting to bloom and they are a joy to any lover of beautiful flowers. The Spanish Dahlia is a South Texas plant, and Mr. Adams transported this from there some years ago.

General of Texas, Gerald Mann has rendered his opinions strictly according to the law, with no fear from any one and yet he has done this in such a sincere manner as to command the respect of all. And that's the kind of a man, in our opinion, that Texas needs to send to the United States Senate.

So there you are, brother—like the little nigger, "dem's our sentiments" about Gerald Mann. If you see him as we do, vote and support him. But if you have another choice, it's certainly your privilege to work and vote for your man. We're merely stating our position, not trying to vote nor change any one. Of course, there are and will be other good Christian men, well qualified, in this race—we're not denying that—we're only telling about our favorite—Gerald Mann. After all, this is America—not Germany, nor Italy—and that's why he have elections, so that the man the majority of the people want may be selected as our officials.

Establish Fishing Camp

Cecil Meadors, manager of the Dickens Lumber Company, and W. F. Gilbert, manager of the Tri-County Lumber Company, returned the first of this week from Lake Buchanan where they established a permanent fishing headquarters. On the headwaters of the lake they erected a commodious fishing shack with all modern conveniences, mosquito proof and a great hazard to the fish. If these gentlemen should be missed from business headquarters during the summer, there should be no questions asked, for it will be necessary for people to await their return in order to be able to transact business with either of them.

New Pa and Two New Grandpas

Mr. and Mrs. Hansford Ousley, of Pampa, report the arrival of a daughter in their home Thursday, April 17. The little lady weighed eight and three-fourths pounds and has been named Linda Louise, after the grandmother and the mother. Mrs. Ousley was formerly Miss Louise Powell, daughter of Luther Powell of our city. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ousley of Dickens, and it might be a little odd to say we have a grandpa now for County and District Clerk. Yes, there are two happy grandpas in our county, but possibly they are not more hilarious than are the parents.
