South Plains Areas Draw Probe Sites

Guines, Lynn and Terry counties draw sites for exploratory projects.

Clinton Oil Co., Midland, plans to drill No. 1 B. H. Jones in a 13,000-foot wildcat in Guines, 11.6 miles southwest of Denver City and 1 1/4 miles southwest of the depleted Devonian opener in the Russell, Southwest field.

Location is 900 feet from south and west lines of section 1, block A-4, PSL survey.

Devonian pay was opened in the Russell, Southwest field in 1968.

Lynn Probe

Hayes Oil Co., Midland, accounted for an 11,200-foot venture in Lynn, 10 miles southwest of Tahoka. It is No. 1 T. V. Tate.

Drill site is 900 feet from south and 2,200 feet from west lines of section 26, L&SV survey, abstract 1161, 3/4 mile east of a 10,967-foot failure.

There is no nearby production.

It gauged a 24-hour flowing potential of 615 barrels of 41-gravity oil, no water, with gas-oil ratio of 620-1. Production was through a 15-64-inch choke and perforations at 8,378-8,405 feet, which had been acidized with 2,000 gallons.

Drilled to 9,200 feet, it has 5 1/2-inch casing set at 9,187 feet, and is plugged back to 9,136 feet.

Location is 900 feet from south and east lines of section 87, block A, G&MMB&A survey.

Midlanders Safe In Air Crash

PASSENGERS, PILOT SAFE—F. T. Levens of Midland, pilot of this plane when it hit an electric high line northwest of Midland Air Terminal during its approach to the field, received only minor injuries. His wife and Mr. and Mrs. Freddie McAnear were passengers. They were not hurt seriously.

Federal aviation authorities today were examining the wreckage of a twin-engine executive aircraft which struck a power line and crashed Sunday night during a landing approach at Midland Air Terminal.

All four Midlanders aboard the plane escaped serious injury, although one was hospitalized.

Injured in the crash of the Twin Bonanza Beechcraft were its pilot, F. T. Levens, 48, and his wife Estelle of 2011 Winfield St., and Freddie McAnear, 28, and his wife Tedda, 28, of 2601 North A St.

Mrs. McAnear, the only one hospitalized, was listed in satisfactory condition and under observation for neck injuries this morning in Odessa's Medical Center Hospital.

McAnear, an accountant, was treated for lacerations and released.

Mr. and Mrs. Levens were checked and released from Midland Memorial Hospital.

The aircraft had entered its southerly approach for landing on runway 10 about 7 p.m. when it struck and severed a 138,000-volt power line about a mile northwest of the runway's threshold.

"I'm still amazed that they came out of that alive," said Dave Dorchester after surveying the crash site and the demolished aircraft. Dorchester is division engineering manager for the Texas Electric Service Co.

The plane did not burn.

Still in Daze

Mrs. Levens said this morning she still was in a daze over the excitement of the crash.

"I'm not hurt, just sore and very thankful that nothing worse happened," she said.

"We were going along okay, preparing to land, and all of a sudden, there was a big flash and we lost power, hit the

One Killed In Oklahoma Bank Holdup

GOULD, Okla. (AP)—One woman was killed and another was injured today when three men held up the First Bank of Gould just before 9 a.m.

The men fled the bank with two hostages and an undetermined amount of money. It was not known immediately whether the two women were the hostages.

One FBI agent was at the scene and several others were en route. An FBI spokesman in Oklahoma City said he had no further details at the time.

The robbery occurred just as the bank was opening for the day's business. Asst. Atty. Bill Fancher said a short time after the robbery officers believed they had spotted the getaway car, but were not sure.

At the time of the robbery, Homer Simmons was being sworn in as Harmon County sheriff.

Gould is about 35 miles northeast of Childress, Tex.

At Least 10 Killed As Freighter Rams Bridge In Tasmania

HOBART, Tasmania (AP)—Officials believe at least 10 persons were killed when a British ore freighter rammed the Tasman bridge Sunday night and brought down a 240-foot section of the span that took the 11,200-ton ship to the bottom.

The bodies of five of the ship's 42 crewmen were recovered, and two other crewmen were missing. But police said they believed two and possibly three cars plunged from the bridge into the Derwent River 150 feet below. They had no idea how many persons were in the cars.

35 Crewmen Escape

The ship, the Lake Ilawarra, stayed afloat for about 10 minutes, and the other 35 crewmen got off alive. Three were hospitalized. The survivors included the ship's captain and the chief engineer.

The four-lane, mile-long bridge connected the business district of Hobart, on the west bank of the river, to residential areas on the east side. The city is the capital and largest city of Tasmania, the Australian island state 150 miles south of the mainland.

The accident occurred about 9 p.m. during a light rain, officials said.

"The ship steered to the left of the navigation span and hit the bridge on the third pylon from the eastern shore," said Maurice Allan, who saw the accident from his home. "The ship went straight down after the bridge collapsed on top of it after wavering for about 60 seconds."

Allan's son, Gordon, 20, said he heard "a big bang" and saw a car heading into town swerve across the bridge. It hit an oncoming car and both fell into the river."

Judge Rules Bell Executives Must Answer Questions

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A state district court judge today ruled that Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. executives must answer questions raised in a lawsuit about any political slush funds.

Judge Peter Michael Curry issued the ruling in a hearing in the $29.2-million lawsuit filed against Bell by a dismissed executive and the family of another executive who committed suicide.

Curry ruled on a motion to compel witnesses to answer questions "propounded in oral depositions" — which are sworn testimony in advance of a trial in a lawsuit.

Curry said that Bell executives must also answer questions about any of the following:

- Wiretapping activities.
- Hunting lease improvements with company funds.
- Abuses of the voucher system.
- Kickbacks by contractors.
- Personal political contributions for the years before 1974.
- Rate data falsification.

Secrecy Request Denied

Curry also denied Bell's request to have depositions in the case remain secret until it comes to trial.

The outcome of the hearing means many developments in the case may be a matter of public record.

Lawyers may or may not submit depositions to the court, but if they choose to do so Curry's ruling means the testimony will be part of the public record.

The motion to compel testimony was filed after the first two Bell executives to give depositions refused on advice of their lawyers to answer questions about any of the areas to

First Baptist Pastor May Accept Convention Office

Dr. L. L. Morriss, pastor of the First Baptist Church here for more than 20 years, has revealed he may be resigning his position soon.

Dr. Morriss told his congregation Sunday night he is being considered for the position of Director of Evangelism for the Baptist General Convention of Texas. If his selection is approved, Dr. Morriss said he would resign his pastorate here effective Feb. 1.

Contacted by The Reporter-Telegram this morning, Dr. Morriss said approval hinges on votes by two Baptist boards.

The first will come today during a meeting of the State Mission Commission in Dallas.

If the selection is okayed by that group, the final approval will be up the convention's executive board, which will vote during a meeting in Fort Worth next Monday.

If the executive board approves, Dr. Morriss will be commissioned the night of Jan. 14 during the state evangelism conference in Fort Worth. The conference begins next Monday with an address by the Rev. Billy Graham and will conclude at noon Jan. 15.

As director of evangelism, Dr. Morriss would be responsible for such conferences in the future and would have his headquarters in Dallas.

Dr. Morriss explained that if he resigns his position, a pulpit committee would be elected by the congregation to nominate a successor. Until a permanent pastor could be selected, an interim committee would choose an interim pastor.

Dr. Morriss came to Midland June 6, 1954, from Mount Pleasant. Before Mount Pleasant, he had served in churches at Cameron, New London and Baytown.

A native of Tyler, he attended the College of Marshall — now East Texas Baptist College — Baylor University and the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary at Fort Worth.

When Dr. Morriss arrived in Midland, the new $1.4-million church building at Louisiana and Garfield streets was nearing completion. Four years later, a $205,000 addition was constructed; a $205,000 Activities Building was completed across

LATE NEWS FLASHES

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Treasury Secretary William E. Simon today predicted that President Ford will announce a "tough, comprehensive and effective" new economic program later this month that will require personal sacrifices in energy consumption.

BOSTON (AP)—Mayor Kevin H. White said today he will ask a U.S. judge to appoint a citizens' group that will have a voice in planning and implementing any school integration plan.

TUCUMAN, Argentina (AP)—Two Argentine army generals and 11 other military officers died when their twin-engine plane crashed about 35 miles from Tucuman, authorities said today.

Weak Cold Front Makes Minor Weather Changes

There was scarcely a ripple in the Texas weather pattern as a weak cold front finished sweeping across the state and into the Gulf of Mexico before dawn today.

The Tall City should be windy but warm this afternoon and turn a little cooler Tuesday.

The National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal is predicting a high temperature in the middle 60s today, after recording a high of 54 degrees Sunday.

Tuesday's high should be in the lower 60s after a forecast low for tonight in the middle 30s. The overnight low Sunday dipped to the 30-degree mark.

The mercury stood at 55 by noon today.

Skies were generally clear but fog hung low in early morning around Lufkin and Beaumont in the eastern part of the state and McAllen in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. There also were patches of fog near the Upper Texas Coast.

While the frontal system exerted little effect, temperatures near dawn were mostly below normal for this time of year.

Near dawn the range was from 18 degrees at Dalhart in the Panhandle up to 54 at Galveston on the coast.

Other points with freezing weather included Marfa 23, Amarillo and El Paso 24, Lubbock 30, Wichita Falls 31 and Big Spring 32. The Associated Press reported.

Rockefeller To Head CIA Spying Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional leaders say their planned investigations into the CIA's alleged domestic intelligence work will proceed even though President Ford has appointed an eight-man commission to probe the spy agency.

Ford Sunday named Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller to head the commission, which was created to "determine whether the CIA has exceeded its statutory authority." The agency, which is limited by law to foreign intelligence, allegedly has spied on Americans in the United States.

The panel is to report in 90 days. White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the report would be sent to Congress and released to the public.

The other commissioners appointed by Ford were former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, retired Army Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, former Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold, AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer Joseph Lane Kirkland, retired University of Virginia President Edgar F. Shannon, former Commerce Secretary John T. Connor and former Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott praised the commission members as "distinguished men without personal axes to grind" and as "men of great national reputation."

But Scott said it was necessary for the congressional inquiries to go ahead. CIA investigations previously were announced by Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., chairman of the House CIA oversight committee; Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate CIA oversight panel, and Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., incoming chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Nedzi, vowing to continue his panel's probe, welcomed the appointment of the presidential commission and said he would appreciate any insights the commission may offer "into the problem of reconciling a secret agency with an open society."

The House CIA subcommittee will meet next week to map its investigation. Nedzi said he will urge that the panel's work be done in public.

Neither Stennis nor Sparkman was immediately available for comment.

Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., who conducted his own personal inquiry into the CIA's links with the Watergate scandal, commended Ford for creating the commission. Baker added that the commission did not reduce the need for independent congressional action.

The make-up of the commission came under some criticism. One lawmaker, who asked not to be identified, said the close personal relationship between Rockefeller and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger made it a "self investigation."

Kissinger also serves as head of the National Security Council, which is directly responsible for the CIA. Kissinger is known to have urged Ford to create such a commission.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said the panel was "very one-sided."

"With the exception of Griswold, members of the panel haven't been very conspicuous for their championship of civil liberties," Proxmire said.

He also said he was concerned about the fact that Rockefeller "has been on the President's foreign intelligence advisory board for five years" and about the close relationship between Kissinger and Rockefeller.

Nessen was asked Sunday whether the Kissinger-Rockefeller friendship and Kissinger's CIA relations constituted a conflict of interest.

"The President didn't think so," Nessen responded.

Lemnitzer, as a former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, also had contacts with the CIA, but Nessen said they were "not in a sense that would hamper his role on the commission."

In establishing the commission, Ford restricted its investigation to "CIA activities within the United States."

POLLY'S POINTERS

Off Flavor Chills Her On Ice Cubes

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Association

DEAR POLLY — Our new refrigerator has an ice maker. The cubes have a funny or "off" taste. I washed the hard plastic pan they fall into with soda and soaked it but the smell still seems to be in the pan. I even have to buy ice cubes when having a party. I certainly would like to know if there is anything I can do. — MRS. K.S.

DEAR MRS. K.S. — As the refrigerator is new you should certainly take the pan back to the dealer from whom it was purchased and ask for a new one. Meanwhile, remove what you believe to be the trouble maker and use another suitably sized pan to catch the cubes as they fall and see if there is an improvement. If the cubes continue to "taste" you should still talk to the dealer and try to find the trouble. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with manufacturers who put cloth-covered buttons on dresses that will be laundered many many times. Long before the dress is worn out the buttons have pulled out and have to be replaced. — MRS. E.A.E.

DEAR HOMEMAKERS — Before the holiday season how we clean, wash and shine the house until everything sparkles. The added holiday decorations are then the frosting on the cake. During the Christmas season everyone gushes with compliments on how beautiful the house looks but we all know outside to air and scare away all good things have to end. The day the tree and the decorations come down is the stroke of midnight for that Cinderella-like look. There are marks and stains, dust and pine needles in the most unexpected places. That thorough cleaning has to start all over again.

Alumnae To Meet

A few Pointers on this after-holiday cleanup job seem in order. First, examine anything and everything for spots. They are easier to remove when Court.

European Fashion Takes To Road For Showings

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor
NEW YORK (NEA) — It was almost like taking a hurried trip through the fashion markets of eight European countries. The din of voices talking excitedly in French, Italian, Hebrew, English, German and even Turkish added to the glamor of previewing 1975 European spring-summer fashions at an European Fashion Fair right in New York.

Fully a month before the pre-a-porter showings in Paris, European Fashion Fair was shown here and at the California Apparel Mart where western department stores and boutique buyers had the opportunity of buying these fashions for their customers.

European ready-to-wear fashion has come of age for the American woman. Almost all the problems of fit, styling and delivery have been eliminated so that now we have fashions really geared to our lifestyle and our pocketbooks. But none of the fashion excitement has been eliminated.

Lengths for day are mid-calf or just below the knee. For evening skirts reach mostly to the floor. The chemise and smock looks continue into spring. A trend is indicated via a more constructed fashion with belted or defined waistlines, with interest centered in shoulder, yoke and collar treatments.

Chic Look
"Instant" dressing with chic is achieved with body shirts and matching skirts that double as Curtain Mending.

Holes in thin curtains can be mended by placing a piece of tissue paper over the hole and stitching over it with sewing machine. The paper comes off when the curtain is laundered.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

Breasts Of Any Size Would Gratify Her

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would print this for all the women who write to complain about the size of their breasts—either too small or too large. I would gladly change places with any of them.

I had one breast removed at the age of 36, when my children were 3 and 7 years old. Twelve years later, I had my other breast removed.

Fourteen months ago, I was told that I had inoperable cancer of the abdomen. With chemotherapy, prayers and the love and support of my family and friends I am still able to enjoy life.

Women with two breasts—regardless of their size—should thank God every day for them. And women with only one breast should thank God for that one. I thank God for every day that I'm alive (at the ripe old age of 52) to be with my family and friends. I am reminded of an old proverb that goes something like this: "I wept because I had no shoes, until I met a man who had none."

I can still find people who are worse off than I am. Sign me...
"THANKFUL"

DEAR THANKFUL: It's letters like yours that will give many people cause to pause. God love you.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are in our late 20s and have been married for five years. We are both college-educated and have fine jobs, a good home and a beautiful child. On the surface our marriage seems perfect. And it is, except for one thing. Our sex life.

About two years ago my husband began losing interest in sex. I tried everything I could think of—frank discussions, tears, attempts at "new variations" recommended in the "how to" books. Nothing worked.

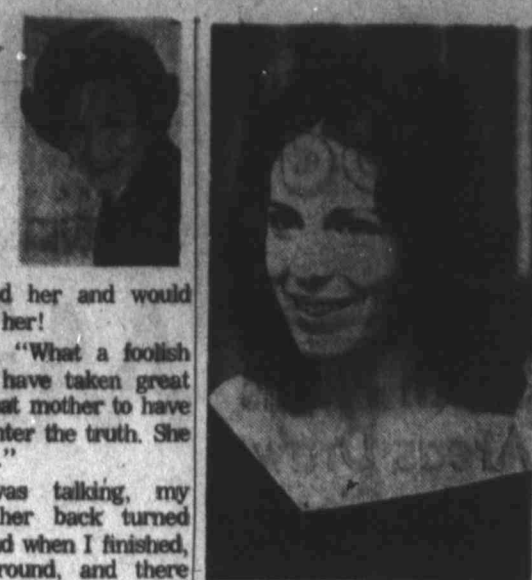

Finally, I suggested we seek professional help. My husband flatly refused to see either a doctor or a marriage counselor.

The total absence of a physical relationship has left me frustrated. My husband claims he "loves" me, and that his coming home right after work, buying the food, etc., rather than drinking and gambling, is proof of his love. He says, "hugs, kisses and sex" do not prove love.

He is a good man, and an excellent father. But I refuse at 27 to forego an active sex life. In the past year I've even had erotic dreams about some of the 18-year-old boys in my classes. Please help me.
FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: If your husband flatly refuses to get professional help (which is the only solution to your problem), you have two choices: (1) Accept things as they are, or (2) make other living arrangements. Personally, I think he's unfair to you, and unless he changes his mind, I see an unhappy ending to this otherwise perfect marriage.

DEAR ABBY: Nine years ago, when I was 13, I was reading your column aloud to my mother when I came across a letter from a mother who had a daughter my age. The mother said that to clear her conscience she told her daughter that the man she thought was her father was not her real father—someone else was. The daughter then told her mother that she hated her and would never forgive her! I then said, "What a foolish girl. It must have taken great courage for that mother to have told her daughter the truth. She didn't have to."

While I was talking, my mother had her back turned toward me, and when I finished, she turned around, and there were big tears in her eyes. She said, "Do you really mean that if I were to tell you something like that you wouldn't hate me?"

I replied, "How could I hate you for being human?"

Then she told me that I had been conceived when she was 40 and a widow, and that my real father had then been 24. (He was a friend of my older brother.) He wanted to marry her, but she was ashamed of being in love with a man young enough to be her own son, so she refused. Soon after, she married the wonderful man I've always thought was my real father.

I am 22 now, and want to thank you for printing that letter. Otherwise I never would have known.

Texas Legislative Leaders Predict Shakeup Of School Finance System

By LEE JONES
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Like an unwanted dog that can't be chased away, the school finance issue is yapping at the legislature's door.

This time, that starving hound will get fed, legislative leaders predict.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker-apparent Bill Clayton all say they are committed to the elimination of inequities in the state school aid system and to beefing up school district budgets with more state tax dollars.

Timing, details and competition from other state programs for available dollars—starting off with a $1 billion surplus—are the stumbling blocks that could overwhelm those good intentions.

Hobby rates school finance as the session's most controversial issue. But he thinks the 140-day regular session can produce a bill guaranteeing every school child "an opportunity to receive equal quality education."

Clayton said, "I think something will pass. I think the people who will assemble Jan. 14 will be ready to do something."

Both Clayton and Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, predicted a total revision of the Foundation School Program. The FSP prescribes how much money must be spent on various items, such as teacher salaries, to give children a minimum "foundation" education. It also lays out an extraordinarily complex formula for deciding state and local shares of the cost of the program in each district.

Inherently Unfair
A committee headed by Leon Jaworski, who later became special Watergate prosecutor, found the system inherently unfair, but its recommendations died in the 1969 legislature.

In 1973, another push was made for school finance reform because of a federal court ruling that the FSP unconstitutionally discriminated against children in poor districts.

But the urgency vanished when the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that while Texas' system was, indeed, unfair, federal courts had no power to compel the legislature to change it.

The new legislature will have plenty of different ideas to work with. Proposals have been issued by the Governor's Office of Educational Research and Planning, the State Board of Education, the Texas State Teachers Association and the Texas Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations.

State Aid Controversy
Controversy in the past has centered on how to determine a district's state aid, but some think this session will be different.

"An economic index" is used now to measure a school district's wealth, and it includes such irrelevances as payrolls, agricultural returns and number of pupils.

"The economic index is the biggest villain of all," said Rep. Dan Kubiak, D-Rockdale, whom Clayton is expected to replace as chairman of the House Education Committee.

The governor's education office, the State Board of Education, the Texas Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, the present House Education Committee and the TSTA all have urged abandonment of the economic index.

In its place, they say, should be a single measurement of a district's ability to pay for Foundation School Program expenses: actual market value of taxable real estate.

Real estate, the argument goes, is the source of all school district taxes and is the only accurate index of financial strength or weakness. State aid makes up the difference between foundation program costs and taxing ability.

Market Value Approach
Clayton, Hobby, Mauzy and Kubiak all said they expect the legislature to adopt the market value approach.

Differences begin to emerge when talking about raising the level of state expenditures on the foundation program.

It is probable that the legislature will quickly pass an emergency bill funneling $80 million into the financially strapped school districts shortly after it convenes.

After that, the schools will be vying with the other state agencies for their share of the treasury surplus and future revenue. The governor's plan, using a "weighted pupil" method for determining expenditures, would boost state spending by $600 million over the next two years. The State Board of Education, mainly increasing present program allocations, would cost $495 million. The Texas State Teachers Association, seeking large teacher pay raises, has offered a plan that would cost $2 billion.

Both Mauzy and Clayton, recognizing that state agency pressure for more money will be strong, say they want the school finance bill passed ahead of the general appropriation bill.

"It is imperative to pass a school finance bill before the appropriation bill," Clayton said.

Mauzy said, "I personally feel that whatever money is available, education ought to have the first bite at the apple."

Major League Baseball Star, 16 Others Die In Weekend Violence

By The Associated Press
Major league baseball star Don Wilson, who pitched for the Houston Astros in the National League, was among persons who met violent death in Texas during the weekend.

Wilson and his son Alexander, 5, were found dead Sunday in their Houston home, which officers said was filled with automobile exhaust fumes. Mrs. Wilson, who suffered a broken jaw, and her daughter Denise, 9, were taken to a hospital and attendants said both suffered from inhaling carbon monoxide.

Verdicts on the causes of death were withheld pending autopsy reports.

Altogether there were reports of at least 17 violent deaths between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday, including eight in traffic, six from gunfire and one drowning.

These were among the other victims:

Police Chief Charlie Mitchell said one of his officers at Harker Heights, near Killeen, shot and killed Ascencion Campos Delgado early Sunday after Delgado threatened policemen with a knife at a bar.

Donald Wayne Adams, 22, of Houston died Sunday when his pickup truck plunged off a highway overpass.

Police said Ferol Rodgers Chandler, 73, of Groveson died Sunday when the car she was driving collided with a van about a mile north of Groveson.

Edward Bazan of Brownsville drowned Sunday in the Rio Grande about 12 miles south of Brownsville. An employee in the U.S. Agriculture Department's tick eradication program, Bazan was helping a friend check live-stock and drowned when he tried to retrieve an animal that had gone into the river.

The body of John E. Sledge, 34, was found about a block from a Dallas police substation early Saturday. Police said a man later admitted shooting Sledge during an argument at the suspect's house and Sledge tried to make his way home but collapsed.

Arlie W. Boone, 54, was killed Saturday and another man was wounded in a shooting at a Fort Worth residence. Richard Thomas Boone Jr., 56, suffered a shotgun wound in his shoulder. Police held another man for questioning.

Four persons were killed Saturday in three separate collisions in Houston. A three-car accident on the Southwest Freeway resulted in the death of Travis Buell, 18, of Houston. Juan Gomez of Houston died when his car hit a curb, crashed through a bridge railing and fell 60 feet into a bayou. A collision on a city street killed two Pete Galvin and David Appreccio, both 17.

Beverly Jasper of Houston was killed in a flaming two-car crash in the suburb of Pasadena.

Antonio Recendez-Lajja Jr., 42, was shot and killed late Saturday night at a lounge in Temple. Three other persons were wounded. Police held a suspect without immediate charge.

Snow, Rain Plague Wide U.S. Areas

By The Associated Press
Travel advisories remained in effect today for several sections of the country hit by rain or snow over the weekend.

Heavy rain and snow descended upon most of northern California, Washington and Oregon. The snowfall also extended eastward to the northern and west central Rockies.

Travel advisories continued for portions of southeast Idaho, the northern mountains of Utah and most of Colorado. Accumulations of six inches of snow were expected in some mountain areas.

Snow mixed with rain plagued travelers through the upper Plains and upper Mississippi Valley. Scattered showers and a few thunderstorms occurred over the Florida peninsula.

Elsewhere partly cloudy skies extended from the mid-Atlantic Coast northward through New England and from the Ohio Valley to the lower Mississippi Valley. Skies were cloudy also over much of the Plains, southern Rockies and Southern California.

Early morning temperatures ranged from -18 at Alamosa, Colo., to 75 at Key West, Fla.

Seven Californians Find Way To Offset Inflation

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Seven county officials in California have found a way to beat the soaring cost of living. They collect a salary and a pension for the same government job.

By retiring from office for only a few days, the seven — including five sheriffs — have taken advantage of a loophole in state law. They are now eligible for two checks a month.

All seven left office Dec. 31 after up to 32 years service. They begin new elected terms in the same offices today and will begin to receive both pension and salary checks.

Monterey County Sheriff W. A. Davenport was the first official to declare this year he would take advantage of the loophole. He will get a $1,500-a-month pension along with his $2,400-a-month salary.

"I think morally and honestly I am right," said the 55-year-old sheriff of his annual salary and benefits totaling $46,800. "I know that I am right legally."

Officials at the Public Employees Retirement System, the state agency that runs the county pension programs, agreed that the officials' actions are legal — if not exactly what the legislature intended.

One spokesman for the system said that use of the legal provision is not uncommon, since any local elected official over the retirement age — which varies from 50 to 55 — is eligible.

The short-term retirements have drawn adverse reaction from two legislators who have introduced bills to close the loophole.

And Gov. Ronald Reagan, who leaves the state's top office today to draw a little more than $19,000-a-year in pension, voiced his own doubts.

"I don't think anybody ever intended that someone should be able to have pension and salary from the same governmental body," he told his last news conference Friday. "I think that it is a loophole that somebody ought to take a hard look at."

News stories about Davenport's retirement apparently sparked a spate of similar moves by others.

Officers Nab One Of Guards Sought In Payroll Theft

HOUSTON (AP) — Gene G. Rivas, one of two private security guards charged with theft of a $40,000 payroll shipment, was in jail today after being arrested in a motel room.

Rivas, 30, was not armed and offered no resistance, detectives said, when he was arrested Sunday.

Gene Rudolph Herrin, 45, the second security guard, was being sought by police.

Detectives said several thousand dollars was recovered in Rivas' motel room.

Rivas and Herrin, both of Houston, were employed by Danner's Inc., a private guard service. They were enroute with the payroll from Houston to Texas City when the truck disappeared last Wednesday police said.

Authorities said the blue and white panel truck was recovered early Thursday in an alley in Beaumont by police there.

Westmoreland Said Recovering

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland, retired Army chief of staff, is reported resting comfortably while recovering from a mild heart attack.

Westmoreland, who commanded U.S. forces in Vietnam, entered Eisenhower Medical Center Friday with a diagnosis of a mild heart attack.

Westmoreland, 60, will be kept in the coronary care unit another four or five days and there will be no further medical bulletins barring a "significant change in his condition," a spokesman said Sunday.

WHAT IS THE TRUTH?

"Thy Word is Truth" (John 17:17)
by Bryan Bost

The beginning of a new year is always a good time to examine our lives. Are we really the people we want to be and God wants us to be? Are our lives being used for worthwhile and wholesome purposes? Of one thing we can be sure: if we are leaving God out of our lives, we are not living life to the fullest, and we are missing glorious spiritual blessings.

We must decide to serve God if we are to experience life as it is intended to be. Joshua in the Old Testament serves as an admirable example for us. In challenging his fellow countrymen to faith and obedience, he said, "Now therefore fear the Lord, and serve him in sincerity and in faithfulness. . . . And if you are unwilling to serve the Lord, choose this day whom you will serve. . . . but as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord" (Joshua 24:14-15).

In 1975 let's choose to serve the Lord.

Agnew, Partner Buying Coal Mines

WASHINGTON (AP) — A business associate of Spiro T. Agnew says the former vice president and he are in the process of acquiring, or are considering acquiring, 16 coal mines, the Washington Post reports.

The newspaper Sunday quoted Walter J. Dilbeck Jr. as saying foreign money was being used to make the coal deals, but "not from the Mideast."

The story also quoted Lester Burns, an attorney who represents Dilbeck and Agnew, as saying he understood that in other deals and negotiations, the two were relying for financing on "Far East, Middle East and Near East oil monies and Japanese industrialists."

Dilbeck was quoted as saying Agnew and he have bought one mine in Oklahoma, plan to close a deal on another in Kentucky, and are considering buying 14 others.

The story was from Henderson, Ky.

Plane Hits Power Line, Causes Blackout

ground and slid for 600 or 800 feet before we stopped," Mrs. Levens said.

The severed line caused a 22-minute shutdown of the power company's Midland West substation and the temporary blackening of about a third of the city's residential and business areas.

Dorchester said power to the city's western sector was disrupted at 8:55 p.m., apparent time of the crash. Power in that sector was re-routed from the eastside substation, one of three supplying the city's power needs.

Leading an investigation into cause of the crash today was Lee Boedeker of the Federal Aviation Administration's general aviation satellite district office at the Air Terminal. He could not be reached for comment.

Though the airport's landing lights were without power immediately following the crash, Wilson Banks, city aviation director, said no air traffic had to be diverted. However, Banks said Continental Airline's Flight 195 out of Dallas was delayed in landing for about 45 minutes. The 6:15 p.m. flight out of Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport was scheduled to land here at 7:13 p.m.

Traffic on U. S. 80 was congested near site of the crash on the Schärbauer Ranch, as curious area residents rushed to the scene prior to many emergency units. "It (traffic) was worse than a Midland-Odessa football game," Trooper David Hancock of the Department of Public Safety said. "It was ridiculous. I think it is pretty bad when an ambulance has to be escorted to the scene of an accident," he said of the "heavily congested traffic."

Air Force Agrees To Stop Bombing Crane Nest Grounds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force says it will halt all bombing and gunnery exercises on a Texas island that serves as a wintering ground for nearly extinct whooping cranes.

A spokesman said Sunday the Air Force probably will abandon Matagorda Island, near Corpus Christi, Tex., before the wintering season ends. The Air Force agreed last year to halt bombing practice during the wintering season, and the latest decision will give the birds exclusive use of the island year round.

The whooping cranes have wintered on the island for centuries. In 1942 the Army Air Force began using the island for bombing and gunnery exercises.

Only 46 of the birds returned to the island in 1973, and the Interior Department said it was "reasonable to assume" that the bombing and high-speed, low-level flights were a reason. The department wants to make at least part of the island a wildlife refuge.

The Air Force said its practice bombs were not explosive and that the target area was five miles from the nearest place where a whooping crane ever had been spotted.

Shots Interrupt Indian Cease-Fire

GRESHAM, Wis. (AP) — Indian demonstrators, censured by tribal leaders for having seized a northwoods religious estate, have interrupted an uneasy cease-fire with intermittent shots.

An attempt to resume talks was frustrated when an Indian spokesman declined to negotiate after being denied unrestricted freedom to visit the estate. Mediators said they hoped to resume negotiations today.

Shawano County Dist. Atty. Earl Schmidt said the demonstrators had agreed to a cease-fire of "undetermined duration" Sunday.

Schmidt said gunfire was heard later Sunday night, and that officers returned "a couple of shots."

Midland police were investigating the Sunday theft of two tires and wheels from the Independent Wrecker and Storage, 609 S. Marienton St. The missing items were valued at $47.

Gold Bids Opened

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government opened bids today on two million ounces of gold put up as a lure to keep down imports of the precious metal. Officials had no exact count of the sealed bids submitted in the auction, but they numbered well over 10.

The first dozen or so bids ranged from $45.10 an ounce to $188 an ounce for the 400-ounce bars being offered.

The first bid opened was from Austern & Paul of New York. It bid on a 400-bar at $156 an ounce.

The second bid, from Vito G. J. D. Smith, 70, Dies; Rites Held

James Derrill Smith, 70, of 203-B Plaza St., died Saturday at his home.

Services were held at 10 a.m. today in the Newnie W. Ellis Chapel with the Rev. Jerry Reed, associate minister of Kelview Heights Baptist Church officiating. Graveside services were to be held at 2:30 p.m. today at the Rotan Cemetery near Rotan.

Smith was born Nov. 3, 1904, at Telephone. He was reared in Fannin County and moved to Lamesa in 1941. He was employed there as a cotton gin-ner. He married Eloise Wooley on July 5, 1957 at Lovington, N. M. They moved to Midland in 1971. He was a member of the Primitive Baptist Church.

Survivors include the widow; a son, Jimmy Reed Smith of Lamesa; four step-sons, Doyce Dan Kolb and Marrol Kolb, both of Andrews, Carrol Kolb of Paul, Idaho and Jess Hittson of Levelland; a daughter, Mrs. Bobbie Ruth Lackey of Lamesa; a step-daughter, Mrs. Betsy Wheat of Clovis, N. M.; 16 grandchildren and 6 great-grandchildren.

Active Minister Notes Birthday 101
KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — The Rev. James E. Newman celebrated his 101st birthday and vowed to continue as pastor of St. Peter's Baptist Church "as long as I am able."

"I feel just the same as I did when I was 25," he told well-wishers Sunday at a reception at the Grant Chapel A.M.E. Church. "I just thank God for the privilege of being here this long."

He has served as pastor of St. Peter's about 40 years.

De Martin of San Diego, Calif. was for a single bar at $48.10 an ounce.

The high offer in the early bidding was from Leslie E. Estilsson of Wayne, N.J., for a single bar at $168 an ounce. The early bids were all for amounts no greater than 400 ounces. Besides individuals, other bids came from jewelry and electronics manufacturers.

Most of the bids were clustered in the $180 to $185 range. The bid opening took place in a government auditorium at a long table where auctioneer George Jamieson, received envelopes containing the offers.

In calm tones, Jamieson called out the bids and the names of the bidders, one after another.

The amount of gold offered by the government at the auction totals less than one percent of the entire U.S. gold holdings.

The offering is worth around $350 million at the $175 an ounce price prevailing on most markets late last week.

The auction was planned to avoid a surge in imported gold once it became legal on Dec. 31 for American citizens to own gold for the first time since the Depression. A rush of imported gold would have weakened the

Kissinger Moves For Oil Conference
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has sent messages to Saudia Arabia, Iran, Venezuela and other oil-producing countries outlining prospects for a conference with consumer nations.

Kissinger also reported on the mid-December accord between President Ford and French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing in Martingue to coordinate their energy policies.

Administration strategy for coping with quadrupled oil prices calls for a united consumer front as well as a reduction of oil imports and development of new energy sources. Both Ford and Kissinger have also served a warning that consideration of U.S. military intervention could not be ruled out if the industrialized world faced strangulation.

However, both have also said they could not foresee such a situation. And, officials indicated, the messages to the oil producers did not reiterate the implicit warning.

Former Diplomat Stuart Dies At 88
LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — Robert Douglas Stuart Sr., 88, U.S. ambassador to Canada during the Eisenhower administration and treasurer of the Republican National Committee from 1948 to 1953, died Sunday.

He retired as chairman of the board of the Quaker Oats Co. in 1962.

Designation Asked
AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe asked Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz today to declare Castro, Floyd and Hale counties disaster areas because of prolonged drought and other adverse weather.

Security officials said about 300 students protested near Cairo and Elin Shams universities and were quickly dispersed by police.

Leaders of last week's demonstration, called to protest rising prices, were charged with using Egypt's economic troubles to instigate antigovernment disturbances.

The Egyptian cabinet met for 10 hours Sunday and allocated more foreign reserves toward relieving recurring food shortages.

U.S. balance of payments situation.

Application that U.S. citizens would eagerly acquire the precious metal sent gold prices upward near $200 an ounce late last month. However, the no-bid response from the American public last week sent the price down to the $175 level.

Foreign governments and their agents were barred from participating in the auction. The government reserved the right to reject any bids it considered too low.

Moynihan Ending Ambassador Term
NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Dhanji P. Moynihan today ended his 22-month term as ambassador to India with plaudits from Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and Foreign Minister Y. B. Chavan.

Driving back to the U.S. Embassy from a 20-minute farewell call to the prime minister, Moynihan said: "Our meeting couldn't have been more cordial."

He said Mrs. Gandhi described him as "a friend of India."

Moynihan leaves Tuesday to resume teaching at Harvard. He is being succeeded in New Delhi by former Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe.

Moynihan was appointed ambassador when U.S.-Indian relations were at their lowest ebb following former President Richard M. Nixon's tilt toward Pakistan during the 1971 war on the subcontinent.

Birth Control Backer May Quit Because Of Threats
BOSTON (AP) — Bill Baird, who has made a name as a champion of birth control, says that threats on his life may force him into retirement.

Baird, who is currently involved in a court challenge of the Massachusetts law that requires minors to gain their parents' consent for an abortion, said Sunday death threats have already forced him to live apart from his family.

"I really don't know where my life is going to go this year after this case," Baird said in an interview on WNAV-TV's Newsmakers show. "But I do wish there would be some people out there who'd recognize that all I'm trying to say for these 11 years is that people have a right to be free and control their own bodies."

Security officials said about 300 students protested near Cairo and Elin Shams universities and were quickly dispersed by police.

Leaders of last week's demonstration, called to protest rising prices, were charged with using Egypt's economic troubles to instigate antigovernment disturbances.

The Arab world reacted angrily over the weekend to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's statement that the United States would intervene militarily against Middle East oil producers if they threaten "strangulation of the industrialized world."

His comments, published in Business Week magazine, prompted a storm of editorial and government protests in Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Lebanon, Libya, Iraq and Algeria over the weekend.

President Houari Boumediene of Algeria said U.S. military action against any Middle East oil nation would lead to the destruction of the oil fields. Libyan Premier Abdel-Salam Jallout declared: "We are not afraid and we will fight for freedom."

Mrs. Krumrey was born Aug. 25, 1885, at Albany, Wis. She moved to Beloit, Wis., at an early age. She married the late Robert G. Krumrey at Beloit.

Mrs. Krumrey resided at Beloit until 1956 when she came to Midland. She led an active business life in Wisconsin, where she was employed by the Fairbanks-Morse Co. for many years.

Survivors include a son, Henry A. Krumrey of Florissant, Mo.; a daughter, Mrs. Charles Linahan of Midland; seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

'Archie' Creator Bob Montana Dies
MEREDITH, N.H. (AP) — Bob Montana, 54, creator of the "Archie" comic strip, died Saturday of a heart attack while cross-country skiing near his home. He created Archie in 1942, drawing from family, friends and neighbors.

He told the legislators Amstead may have lied to the group as he received as director of state funds had been used to construct three duck ponds and a golf course at UTPB.

The resultant investigation led to Amstead's resignation last month and the appointment of Dr. V. R. Cardozier as acting president.

Cardozier said this morning that Hise would assist Dean Lee Harrisberger with administrative matters. Cardozier emphasized that the action was not a reinstatement of Hise but was a new appointment to a new position. Hise's salary will be $17,827 annually, the same as he received as director of development.

Hise had asked Cardozier to rehire him, and Cardozier met with UT System Chancellor Charles LeMaistre in Odessa Jan. 2 on the matter. LeMaistre told him it was a question to be settled at UTPB, Cardozier said.

Cardozier met with upper-level administrators at the school to get their opinion on the matter. At that time, he said, Harrisberger asked to be allowed to offer Hise a position as his assistant.

Friday, Cardozier named a six-member committee of faculty members and administrators to study the matter. This morning, they unanimously recommended that Hise be offered the position.

Harrisberger made the offer this morning and Hise accepted, Cardozier said.

The appointment is subject to final approval by the UT System Board of Regents. UTPB Information director Sarah Crowe said this morning the matter would probably not be on the regents' agenda for two or three months. She noted that such approval usually is routine.

STANTON — Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Preston Garner, who only recently had moved 3 1/2 miles north of here, were found dead late Sunday in their home. Martin County Sheriff Dan Saunders said he did not believe there was foul play associated with the deaths, "but we are conducting an investigation just as we would if we believed there was foul play."

Saunders said the bodies were found by Daria Lawson and Dean Lawson, grandchildren of the couple, when they went to check on them.

The sheriff said the couple had been to Las Vegas, N.M., and according to a neighbor, P. G. Yates, had returned late Thursday.

Dr. Thomas Miller, Martin County health officer, told Saunders that he believes the Garners had died sometime late Thursday or early Friday. Saunders said when he was summoned to the Garners' home he found two burners on a stove burning. "It looks like they prob-

Hise Rehired By UTPB

ODESSA — H. W. Hise today was named assistant to the dean of the college of science and engineering at The University of Texas at the Permian Basin.

Hise, former director of development for UTPB, had been removed from that position several months ago and detailed to studying the possibility of growing grapes in the Permian Basin. His employment with the university was terminated Dec. 31 by former UTPB president B. H. Amstead.

Hise was removed as director of development after testifying before a legislative committee in September. At that hearing, he told the legislators Amstead may have lied to the group as he received as director of state funds had been used to construct three duck ponds and a golf course at UTPB.

The resultant investigation led to Amstead's resignation last month and the appointment of Dr. V. R. Cardozier as acting president.

Cardozier said this morning that Hise would assist Dean Lee Harrisberger with administrative matters. Cardozier emphasized that the action was not a reinstatement of Hise but was a new appointment to a new position. Hise's salary will be $17,827 annually, the same as he received as director of development.

Hise had asked Cardozier to rehire him, and Cardozier met with UT System Chancellor Charles LeMaistre in Odessa Jan. 2 on the matter. LeMaistre told him it was a question to be settled at UTPB, Cardozier said.

Cardozier met with upper-level administrators at the school to get their opinion on the matter. At that time, he said, Harrisberger asked to be allowed to offer Hise a position as his assistant.

Friday, Cardozier named a six-member committee of faculty members and administrators to study the matter. This morning, they unanimously recommended that Hise be offered the position.

Harrisberger made the offer this morning and Hise accepted, Cardozier said.

Briscoe Still Owes $489,000 To Family Firm For '68 Race

AUSTIN (AP) — A sworn statement filed by Gov. Dolph Briscoe in a civil suit says he still owes $489,000 to a family firm on his unsuccessful gubernatorial race in 1968.

The deposition, on file in the Travis County courthouse, quotes Briscoe as saying he did not list the money as his debt because he considered it a use of his personal funds.

The money came from the Uvalde Wool and Mohair Co., a partnership between himself and the estate of his father, according to the deposition given by the governor last Nov. 14.

The Associated Press has learned the deposition, which has been sealed and has not been open to public inspection, was taken by lawyers for Frances "Sissy" Farenthold, who sued Briscoe for alleged campaign contribution violations. Trial is scheduled Feb. 18.

The governor also said in the deposition he received part of his 1972 campaign funds from the Uvalde company, but he said he could not remember how much he got from the firm for that race.

According to records filed by Briscoe with the secretary of state, neither the 1968 nor the 1972 funds received from the Uvalde company were reported in the columns provided for loans.

He did not do this, he said in the deposition, "because it was really a deficit created from my personal funds or an advance from my personal funds. Loan should be there if you borrowed the money from a bank or commercial institution."

The money has not been paid back, but he intends to pay it back, he said. Meanwhile, he is paying interest on it, he said.

The suit also claims Bell unfairly has solicited rates in Texas. It also alleges that Gravitt was hounded to death by the investigation.

Bell agreed to turn over to Ashley and the Gravitt family numerous documents which were compiled in the internal investigation. The documents concern, among other things, any irregular reporting of working time by Ashley, any probable misuse of company funds and any sexual indiscretions by either Ashley or Gravitt.

Activities of some 144 Southwestern Bell executives but that Bell could not prevent the plaintiffs from acquiring any such documents in their own methods of discovery.

Bell Officials Must Answer Questions which Judge Curry now says they must respond.

The plaintiffs contended the questions "go to the very heart of plaintiffs' cause of action."

Bell lawyers argued today that the areas were immaterial to the lawsuit, which is a libel and defamation suit.

Curry, in making his ruling, said, "I ruled that they must answer the questions that I consider relevant."

The judge said, in reference to answers about any political funds or political slush funds, "My position in this . . . is that they are relevant. Political slush funds, if any, are relevant."

Curry, noting past denials by Bell of the existence of political slush funds, asked, "All the defendants want to say is there were no such slush funds?"

Bell lawyer Hubert Green responded, "Yes, sir."

On wiretapping, Curry said, "If they haven't done any wiretapping all they have to do is say that."

The suit was filed by James H. Ashley, a rate negotiator for Bell in two-thirds of Texas, and the family of T.O. Gravitt, Bell's No. 1 man in Texas when he committed suicide Oct. 17 in Dallas.

Trick Roper Still Performs At 81

PONCA City, Okla. (AP) — spinning a big loop of rope above his head. Trick roper Mike J. Sokoll, who once performed before four queens in London, is still showing his skills at the age of 81.

His audience now is composed of 4-H club youths who want to learn fancy roping from the wiry, seemingly inexhaustible Sokoll.

The youngsters make up one of the few trick roping clubs in the nation. Sokoll's former "students" have included U.S. Sen. Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma and U.S. Rep. Clem McSpadden.

Bellmon Among Pupils

Bellmon received a "can barely get by" rating while McSpadden, a rodeo announcer, got an "all right" opinion.

"I'm not anywhere as good as I was," Sokoll said. "No, I don't have the body flexibility I once had."

One of his best tricks in his prime for Sokoll, a native of Hungary, was a backward somersault off a galloping horse, landing on his feet while

Then, with the loop still whirling overhead, he would hop back on the horse.

Joe Borrero, a trick roper for the old 101 Ranch who began teaching Sokoll in 1909, told the then 15-year-old youth the new stunt was just what the show needed. "That's what we want — a new trick," Borrero told him. "Practice it, Shorty."

"Practice it, hell. I didn't even know how I did it," Sokoll replied.

Because of Borrero, a man who could rope six horses with a single loop, Sokoll went from potato peeler at the 101 Ranch to roper.

His good years followed — nationwide tours, trips to Mexico and several overseas appearances with the ranch's famous Wild West show.

Command Performance

Sokoll's high point came in 1914 when the 1,200-member show was appearing in a command performance before the king and queen of England. Also on hand were queens from Denmark, Sweden and The Netherlands.

"Right after our grand entry, the trumpeter blew 'attention,'" and the show suddenly stopped," Sokoll recalled. "Two riders in military uniform came in and one announced that war had been declared between the Imperial German government and the Commonwealth of Great Britain."

IN NEW ROLES — Former Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., left, and former Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson have early morning coffee before appearing on a new television show in Washington today. The program, A.M. America, was aired by the American Broadcasting Company. (AP Wirephoto.)

HE WANTS HIS MEDALS BACK — Determined Vet Fights Pentagon

By JOHN KUGLIN

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — The Vietnam War never really ended for Michael J. Davis, who wants the Army to return the medals it once awarded him.

Davis began hitchhiking from Spokane to the Pentagon last week, carrying in a red, white and blue knapsack the 10 pounds of correspondence accumulated since he began writing to the Army five years ago.

The medals, while important to Davis, are but a small part of the ton of his possessions stored in an Army warehouse in Bangkok, the capital of Thailand. There also are a deactivated submachine gun, a huge ceramic Vietnamese water urn, aircraft mechanic's tools and much else.

The Thai government claims Davis owes it 183,922 bahts — 9,181 U.S. dollars.

The property that the Thai government wants to auction for claimed storage charges during an earlier customs dispute includes a redwood walking stick. Davis says the stick was whittled by his great-grandfather, who broke his foot during the 1849 California gold rush.

"Since I was shot in the foot in Vietnam and must occasionally walk with a cane, I could use this family heirloom," Davis said.

Discharge papers for the highly decorated veteran show that Davis, 31, is considered by the Army to be 30 per cent disabled due to a bullet wound in the foot. He received the wound during the 1968 Tet offensive in Bien Hoa.

When he received the Distinguished Flying Cross, one of his 17 decorations, the Army noted he flew a helicopter in "repeated low level passes into withering automatic weapons fire to pinpoint enemy positions," during an offensive on Saigon.

Davis' second war, he said, began after he returned to his home in Austin, Tex., five years ago. He claims the Army told him his belongings could be shipped without duty to Bangkok, where he hoped to get a job as an aircraft mechanic.

But when he arrived, the Thai government imposed a $8,000 customs charge. Davis said he couldn't get work without his tools. He blames the charge on negligent misinterpretation of regulations by the Army.

"Recovering my property has been my primary issue in life for the last five years," said the unemployed Davis, who lives in Spokane on a small Davis sued and won a temporary victory Dec. 18 when a U.S. district court judge in Spokane for a time barred the Army from turning over his belongings to the Thai government.

But Davis, represented by a free lawyer through a legal services program, later was told by Judge Marshall Nell that the court could not help him recover his belongings from the Thai government. The ruling came after the government argued that it was not bound by the misrepresentations of its employees.

The government told Davis, however, that diplomatic efforts had extended until Jan. 17 the date when his belongings will be turned over to the Thai.

Davis' weighty load of correspondence includes a letter from the U.S. Embassy in Bangkok, saying that the Thai government was at one time willing to settle the matter with a rigged auction. The Army transportation office made the same suggestion.

"I would have been the only bidder," Davis said. "But that's just not honest. I'm trying to get the Army to admit that they made a mistake."

"My Dad didn't teach me to quit when I was a kid. I'm going first to the Pentagon and talk to the chief of staff of the Army. Then I'll go up the chain of command to the secretary of the Army, the secretary of defense and finally to the President, if I don't get satisfaction."

Davis would especially like to recover a rifle which he said was given him when he was 6 years old by an uncle.

"I would like to give that gun to my son," he said. "My wife and I are expecting our first child in February."

Ford Signs Bill Making 55-Mile Limit Permanent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, working his way toward the bottom of a stack of bills sent him by Congress last month, signed legislation Saturday setting a permanent 55-mile-per-hour national speed limit.

The measure also increased the allowable weight for trucks on interstate highways.

The 55-mph speed limit was imposed as a temporary measure during last winter's energy crisis and would have expired on June 30.

Ford said in a statement that the permanent speed limit is needed not only to save fuel, but also to reduce the loss of life from highway accidents.

Ford defended the controversial increase in weight limits for trucks, calling it modest and saying that "largely because of the lower speed limit, many truckers have found themselves in an economic bind, with decreased productivity."

The weight limits were increased from 18,000 to 20,000 pounds for single-axle trucks; from 22,000 to 24,000 pounds for tandem-axle trucks and from 72,300 to 80,000 pounds for overall gross weight.

The same measure also extended the federal car-pooling demonstration program for one year, provided $347 million in additional authorizations for existing highway programs and $45 million for new categorical grants.

'Living With Energy'

Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) is making available to teachers throughout the Midwest a new teaching aid to stimulate junior and senior high school students' thinking about solutions to the nation's energy problems.

This is a most significant program, and it very well could be that one or more students in that section of the nation will come up with sure-fire solutions to the problem. Some fresh approaches almost certainly will be forthcoming.

Interesting junior and senior high school students in studying and submitting solutions to the problem may be just what has been needed all along. It is hoped the program will be expanded to include other regions of the nation, including West Texas.

It is said that rather than suggesting any easy, clear cut answers, the main thrust of materials in the "Living With Energy" kit is to increase students' awareness of national energy problems and encourage them to think constructively about a broad range of solutions.

The kit, containing five spirit duplicator project sheets and an activity guide for teachers and students, includes concise, basic background material on the nation's energy resources and how they are being used. It also reveals some of the measures energy companies and researchers are taking to develop an adequate supply of energy for America's future.

Perhaps this is where the educational program should have been launched in the first place. Many adults across the land have adopted a "so what" attitude, doubting all the while if an energy shortage actually exists. Getting accurate information to the junior and senior high school students could be the answer to this particular problem.

Each of the five project sheets in the kit are designed to create maximum student involvement.

Suggested activities range from finding out how energy affects the students' life style to exploring some exotic alternative sources of energy.

The students are asked to assemble information which will give them a better understanding of the dramatic changes one form of comparatively cheap energy—gasoline—has brought to America over the last several decades.

Two of the activity sheets stress the need for conserving energy.

The final two sections of the kit deal with finding energy solutions.

The program seemingly is worthy of nationwide adoption.

He Should Know Better

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — In the backrooms of Washington, alarmed policymakers are calling for a showdown with the oil-producing countries before it is too late.

They point out that the United States has befriended the principal oil rulers in the past and has helped them develop their fields. The policymakers advocate, therefore, that the President draw upon this good will to seek an oil-price settlement that will avert the economic collapse of the West.

If a peaceful settlement cannot be reached, they believe military intervention will become inevitable. They don't see how the United States can stand by helplessly while the Western world is plunged into economic and political chaos.

They contend that the United States must take the lead in pushing down world oil prices. The other consuming countries apparently are too divided and disorganized to unite against the oil-producing bloc. The also are paralyzed with fear that their oil might be cut off completely.

The backroom strategists urge, therefore, that the United States should prepare to act on its own. An early showdown, they believe, will reduce the risk of military action.

If the allies had stood up to Adolf Hitler at the Rhineland, they say, citing a lesson from history, he would have backed down and World War II might have been avoided. In an economic sense, they suggest, the oil powers have already occupied the Rhineland.

Leaders Listening
The strategists now are preparing their arguments to present to President Ford. They also have the ear of powerful congressional leaders, who have agreed to join them in urging Ford to press forcefully for an oil price reduction.

From sources privy to the backroom discussions, here are the arguments that will be laid before the President.

—The Western nations simply cannot afford to pay the rigged prices that the oil cartel now is charging. These nations became dependent upon oil because it was a cheap source of energy. They cannot get along with the 30 million barrels a day that the oil cartel sells them. If they must pay $11 and $12 for a barrel of oil that costs 11 and 12 cents to produce, the Western nations, one by one, will go bankrupt.

—Western leaders, staggered by the sudden quadrupling of oil prices, haven't come to grips with the problem. They have offered only peripheral solutions, which cannot possibly work. The consuming countries cannot reduce consumption enough to pay the soaring oil deficit without paralyzing their economies. Recycling the massive oil profits, most experts now agree, will break down the world monetary system. Meanwhile, it will take more than a decade to develop new sources of energy.

—Exorbitant oil prices, like bombs, are killing people. In impoverished lands like India and Bangladesh, oil costs have reduced the funds available for food and fertilizer. This already has brought starvation to people who otherwise would have survived. —One confidential analysis estimates that hundreds of thousands of people will die

RAY CROMLEY Energy: The Mirage And The Reality . . .

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Ford is getting bad advice on energy.

It's come, principally, but not entirely, from Nixon holdovers, mesmerized by the concept of self sufficiency. And from theoreticians, unencumbered by engineering and economic realities.

These men have made dreamworld projections of what this country can do with oil shale, sunshine, coal gasification and liquefaction, nuclear power and windmills in the next five to 10 years or so.

In part, this is good. These possibilities should be explored to the hilt. But much of what is dreamed of will take two to four decades or more for sound, orderly, economical development, and then not lead to self-sufficiency. Of course the latter is not desirable economically in any event.

In the beginning, self-sufficiency was intended more as a political slogan than an attainable goal. But Mr. Ford's men persist, against all logic, in acting as though they were dealing with reality when working on their plans for 1980 and 1985 energy production in the United States. Persistence in this self-hypnosis will lead only to major financial bondages and to eventual disillusionment.

There's another, more logical path open to the President and the United States. Our problem now is not, of course, a world petroleum shortage, but an oil cartel, small enough and, in the main, sufficiently close knit to raise prices or to run a boycott any time they choose. The leaders of this group are also rich enough in dollars, and small enough in population, to afford boycotts.

The practical problem, then, is not greater oil production as an end in itself but rather finding a way to break the cartel. Sure ways to achieve a breakup exist. The practical technique would be, through exploration and financial assistance, to develop a sufficient number of oil-producing areas in a range of nations worldwide so that the natural forces of competition break the power of the monopolists.

This is where the earth resources satellite will come in handy. Also wide-ranging conventional geological surveys and the talents of our own experienced oil searchers. The continental United States has been heavily explored. There may be important finds yet to come. But the probabilities are greater in wide regions overseas.

There are possibilities off the coasts of East, Southeast and South America, in Central and South America, in Africa south of the Sahara, in Canada's own North Slope. Added to the finds now being developed in Alaska and the North Sea, a range of new developments in the areas mentioned would make it exceedingly difficult, over the long run, for any oil cartel to enforce its dictates. In any event, much of the money these countries earned from oil revenues would be spent in the United States and the West. Most are too poor to afford a boycott.

For the short run, increased production either in the United States or abroad, is no answer to our problems. The only remedy which makes any sense in the 1970s is the development of techniques for the more efficient use of petroleum and other energy sources. Here the

"A Londoner running himself down serves many purposes . . . it suggests to sensitive Londoners that it was at a posh public boarding school that he learned his shy clumsiness in the presence of women and it makes him terribly British by nature, for if there is one thing an Englishman seeks to avoid, it is having himself thought of as a womanizer or suave Latin lover." — Excerpt from "The Londoners: Life in a Civilized City" by Walter Henry Nelson, on British wooing techniques.

DON OAKLEY What Do We Really Think About Welfare?

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — Everybody talks about the welfare system, but what do people really think about it?

To find out, the University of California's Regional Research Institute in Social Welfare polled 9,346 persons over 18 years of age in eight states. Researchers conducted home interviews in Nebraska, Ohio, New Mexico, Washington, New York, Georgia, Florida and California to get a comprehensive cross-section of American society.

The average interviewee was about 40, a high school graduate who may have had a year or two of college, was a homeowner in an urban area and had an annual family income of $9,000.

It was found that people clearly recognize the place of public welfare in the scheme of things, that their image of relief recipients is not negative or rejecting and that they do not hold the individual entirely responsible for his poverty. They clearly believe that welfare services and programs for rehabilitation and assistance are an appropriate use of tax money.

Even so, a surprising proportion of people interviewed had misconceptions about welfare. For instance, that welfare pays more to a mother with dependent children than it does for an aged, blind or disabled adult; that the majority of the heads of poor families are usually employed rather than underemployed or unemployed, and that the majority of people on welfare are able-bodied adults.

New Mexico Crash Kills West Texan

RUIDOSO, N.M. (AP) — Jimmie Lee Armstrong, 47, of Littlefield, Tex., was killed Sunday when the car he was driving plowed into a truck parked along U.S. 70 in southern New Mexico.

The mishap occurred about 20 miles east of Ruidoso, officers said. Police said it appeared Armstrong fell asleep at the wheel.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Attitudes about public welfare are sensitive, understanding and favorable. Only 5 per cent of the public could be described as totally resistant to the public welfare concept.

People say that tax-supported welfare programs should provide a decent level of living, not just the bare necessities.

They also say that government, not private enterprise or charities, has the responsibility to provide for the poor.

People believe welfare services should be made available to the general population according to ability to pay, and 86 per cent of the public supports financial aid to the working poor.

While all welfare services are favored to a substantial degree, medical care and protective services for children receive the highest priority. Abortion counseling and suicide prevention are the least-favored services.

Ice-Age Study May Foretell Food Supplies

By SETH MYDANS
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — help scientists learn to predict world food supplies of the future, a meteorologist at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology says.

Scientists may be able to anticipate the smaller climatic changes that can decrease harvests and bring famine if they can learn what causes ice ages, says Professor Reginald E. Newell.

IRA Offers Indefinite Truce, Newspapers Say

LONDON (AP) — The Irish Republican Army has offered to prolong its cease-fire in Northern Ireland indefinitely if Protestant guerrilla groups will negotiate with it, London newspapers reported today.

The people of Northern Ireland have now enjoyed their longest period of peace since fighting between Catholics and Protestants began five and half years ago, England, too, has been free from the bombing campaign that brought terror to its streets in the past two years.

in the atmospheric flow patterns over the Soviet Union in 1971 and 1972, he wrote. Crop failures followed. Then came the huge Soviet grain deal with the United States and a worldwide increase in the price of wheat.

He said the price of soybeans rose when temperature changes in the waters off Peru reduced the catch of anchovies, a prime source of fish meal. The result was a price increase in soybeans, the most common substitute for fish meal.

The African drought, in which thousands have died of starvation, was the result of shifts in the movements of the tropical rain belt. He said men might some day be able to prepare for such shifts. He said that in an effort to learn the secrets of climatic shifts, some scientists have been studying the movements of beetles. Newell said beetles "can run and fly considerable distances and can follow temperature changes quite rapidly."

BALLOONS START TO BREAK LOOSE — Some of the 13 clusters of balloons which were to carry publisher Malcolm Forbes and a companion on a flight across the United States from Santa Ana, Calif., and on over the Atlantic start breaking loose as the gondola still rests on the ground at lower extreme left. The balloons finally were cut loose as the launch failed. (AP Wirephoto.)

Balloon Launching Attempt Misfires With Near-Tragedy

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Efforts to launch a 40-unit balloon on a transatlantic flight failed during a mishap early today, but the two passengers escaped injury after a French flight commander leaped onto the gondola and cut it loose from the balloons.

A spokesman said two mooring lines broke loose as the balloons were being launched, causing the gondola to be dragged along the ground instead of lifted into the sky.

Gondola Tips Over
A spokesman said the gondola tipped over with its two passengers, magazine publisher Malcolm Forbes and aerospace scientist Dr. Thomas Heinshelmer.

Flight Commander Jean-Pierre Pommereau, of the French national space agency, grabbed onto the moving craft and cut the rest of the mooring lines to prevent the craft from lifting off at a precarious angle. Heinshelmer called Pommereau's action heroic and said the effort was made at great peril to the Frenchman's life.

Destruction Averted
"If he (Pommereau) had not pulled the release lever, the capsule would have disintegrated and we would have been destroyed beneath it," a Forbes told a pre-dawn news conference.

About 100 spectators were rushed from the scene at the Marine helicopter station here when flight personnel feared that two oxygen cylinders atop the gondola might explode. The white balloons which were to have carried the gondola on the historic journey drifted off into the crisp temperatures prevailing in the predawn Southern California sky.

The press reports, quoting sources in Dublin, said the British government is studying the IRA proposal. There was no official confirmation of the reports.

The reports said the proposal did not include the IRA's long-standing demand for a British promise to pull out of Northern Ireland ultimately. Instead it calls on the British government to give its public blessing to direct peace negotiations between leaders of the Roman Catholic and Protestant extremist organizations, the papers reported.

There was no immediate reaction from the militants who now dominate the Protestants in Northern Ireland. But they have repeatedly warned against concessions to the IRA since the Catholic guerrillas proclaimed a Christmas cease-fire on Dec. 23 and extended it until Jan. 16.

Those people who think this cease-fire means it is all over are living in a fool's paradise," one Protestant spokesman said Sunday. "Only when the IRA is crushed will there be lasting peace."

The IRA's aims in the past have always included amnesty for its members, the return of British troops in Northern Ireland to their barracks and a British declaration of intent to withdraw eventually from the disputed province.

The Daily Telegraph said David O'Connell has resigned as chief of staff of the IRA's Provisional wing "so that he

Bid To Curb Drug Prices Said Brewing

NEW YORK (AP) — Limited competition among drug companies is costing consumers at least $180 million a year in the purchase of expensive antibiotics, the Council on Economic Priorities has found.

The council, a nonprofit public interest organization, said in a study released Sunday that "market domination" by large drug companies has created a situation where one company can sell the highest priced version of an antibiotic and still retain a major share of the market.

The council said a look at seven antibiotics revealed that five of the drugs were the highest priced but yet were the most widely sold.

Paul A. Brooke, who headed the study, attributed this situation to patents which last 17 years and leave the original brand name imprinted on doctors' memories, and federal regulations that require pharmacists to fill prescriptions with the brand name specified by the doctor.

Ford Signs Enabling Law For Licensing Superports

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The bureaucrats and planners have been at work for months setting the wheels in motion to build the nation's first deepwater ports for huge oil-bearing ships. Saturday they got a go-ahead from President Ford, who signed a law enabling states and the federal government to license construction of superports.

Three conglomerates that have been waiting in the wings for final action on the legislation say the next step is to submit applications for licenses. The three ports already in the planning stages would be in the Gulf of Mexico off the coasts of Texas, Louisiana and the Mississippi-Alabama border. The ports will be pumping stations on stilts, standing up to 30 miles out in the Gulf. The 400,000-ton oil carriers—which are too big to come much closer to shore and dock in shallower ports—would discharge their cargo into pipe lines running along the ocean floor.

LOOP, Inc., a consortium of 14 oil companies, has not made a final selection among six Louisiana sites, but is looking most favorably at one about 18 miles south of the mouth of Bayou Lafourche. Two firms in race

The Texas port would be 30 miles south of Freeport and is planned at an estimated cost of $500 million. A New Orleans-based company called SPLITT is racing LOOP for the honor of completing the nation's first superport. SPLITT—formed by Southern Pacific Pipe Lines, Inc. and International Tank Terminals—is hoping to complete its $168 million "Ameraport" by the end of 1978.

LOOP has set up a similar timetable for its $925 million Louisiana port. The Louisiana Superport Authority, set up months ago to regulate the deepwater ports, is the agency that will grant superport permits for the state. Louisiana Ready To Proceed

P. J. Mills, executive director of the port authority, said Louisiana will make "the necessary review and environmental requirements." Meanwhile, LOOP will be applying to the U.S. Coast Guard for a license. "We are now moving into the licensing phase, which will be followed by a period during which the federal government will conduct public hearings," Mills said.

If licenses are granted as planned, construction should begin late this year or early in 1976, he said.

Louisiana's superport will be able to handle five supertankers a day, receiving up to five million barrels of oil daily.

Brezhnev Reported Ill With Leukemia

CHICAGO (AP) — Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev is suffering from leukemia, and his recent cancellation of a trip to Egypt indicates the "sad necessity to contend with the progressive ravages" of the disease, the Chicago Sun Times has reported.

Columnist Charles Bartlett said Sunday his information that Brezhnev has the disease was confirmed. His column did not indicate confirmation by Soviet authorities or how seriously ill Brezhnev is. On Friday, there were unconfirmed rumors in Moscow's foreign colony that Brezhnev is ill. Soviet officials would not talk.

In Saturday's article, Bartlett said Soviet spokesmen have attributed Brezhnev's recent absences from the scene "to the flu because the knowledge that he suffers from a far more relentless affliction has been closely held."

At Least Six Convicts Free After Prison Fire

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — At least six convicts were believed free after fire Sunday night swept the trusty dormitory outside state prison walls, authorities said.

minutes to control the flames. "It's impossible to determine at this time the cause of the fire," Crisp said Sunday night. There were reports from inmates that the fire started in electrical outlets.

Prison guards, highway patrolmen, Pittsburg County sheriff's officers and a civilian emergency squad searched for the men throughout the night after a "rough head count" established that at least half a dozen were missing.

The warden said there were 269 inmates on trusty status but all did not sleep in the dormitory because of work assignments known as "sleepouts."

Warden Richard Crisp said the fire broke out about 6:30 p.m. in the center of the one-story brick building and raced through the structure. There were no reported injuries and no immediate estimate of the damage.

Officers reported the "sleepouts" hampered attempts to determine how many convicts might have escaped.

Land Use Policy Urged For Gulf South Region

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — States in the Gulf South region should take immediate steps to protect valuable coastal wetlands from commercial exploitation, the Southern Assembly has concluded.

Texas and Arkansas urged Gulf South states to band together to develop a land use policy to protect these and other valuable lands.

"Private economic interest is currently the primary determinant for land use in the Gulf South region," the report said. Profit motives for business, industry and land developers, workers' jobs and politicians' votes make up the bulk of these interests, it said.

The assembly is "particularly concerned for the coastal fringe of the Gulf States," the report said. Within this fringe, it continued, "are the estuaries that are among the most productive of the earth's eco-systems."

These estuaries provide essential support for Gulf fisheries, the assembly said, adding, "Their present economic value is enormous, their future incalculable."

"There is a need now for systematic controls so that multiple uses of the resources of the coastal zone may proceed without destroying the coastal environment."

The topic for this year's assembly was land use and planning. It was the 19th year that citizens had gathered to study a particular regional issue and present a report to decision makers.

The conference is sponsored by Tulane University in cooperation with the American Assembly of Columbia University.

Board Calls For Improved Safety In Airline Emergency Evacuations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal safety experts say airlines need to improve emergency equipment and procedures because passengers have been killed or injured while trying to escape from accidents.

Other recommendations which the board said should be ordered by the FAA include: —Develop a maintenance surveillance program to insure greater reliability of emergency evacuation slide systems.

—Require that exterior emergency lighting activate automatically when emergency chutes open.

—Require that passengers be warned during pre-takeoff briefings how important it is that they understand how to use emergency exits.

NCAA Meetings Under Way

Recruiting Abuses Will Be Discussed

WASHINGTON (AP) — An effort to eliminate the abuses of recruiting high school athletes highlights the 69th annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association which officially gets under way today.

The some 800 delegates face a package of 131 proposals which, in addition to recruiting reform, deal with the collegiate battle against inflation.

The recruiting proposals would, among other things, prohibit a college from contacting a student-athlete off campus until after his junior year and ban arrangements for summer jobs before enrollment in college.

Another proposal would prohibit arrangements for loans for athletes while one other would restrict schools to a maximum of three in-person, off-campus contacts with an athlete during his high school years.

NCAA officials deny the many recruiting measures being proposed to the convention are a result of last year's wooing of Moses Malone, the Petersburg, Va., high school basketball sensation who agreed to attend Maryland but later turned pro with the Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association.

However, the then 18-year-old Malone was a victim of many of the recruiting abuses which the legislation attempts to abolish.

Malone was given a summer job at $7.50 an hour before entering Maryland. Arrangements also were made for him to obtain a loan to purchase an automobile.

Recruiters literally lived in Petersburg for months, attempting to persuade him to attend their schools. Malone also is believed to have visited a record number of schools since currently athletes have unlimited, paid visiting privileges.

The NCAA also plans to boost its enforcement staff to 11, up from the current four, to watch recruiters and other rules violators more closely. Funding of an additional $200,000 would come from an increase in members' dues and television money, a proposal which must be approved here.

The package of inflation-fighting proposals would restrict all scholarships, except football and basketball, to tuition and fees only, increase the basketball season from 26 to 27 games and would eliminate two-plateau football.

The proposal to return to one-plateau football is not given much hope for passage.

However, there is sentiment to reduce the number of football scholarships from the current allowable 105, although no action probably will be taken here because of convention rules.

Heart Attack Claims Milburn

SAN ANGELO — Bob Milburn, the Executive Sports Editor of the San Angelo Standard Times and the Dean of West Texas sportswriters at the age of 57, died at his home here Sunday at an apparent heart attack.

Funeral services will be at 3 p.m. Tuesday at the First United Methodist Church.

Milburn came to San Angelo in 1943 after a short stint with a small Pennsylvania newspaper and was associated briefly as editor of the Oil Department of The Midland Reporter-Telegram in 1943.

He was named as Executive Sports Editor of the Standard Times in 1960 after serving as a reporter, sports writer, wire editor and sports editor.

In 1956, Milburn was named as sports director of radio station KGKI, and conducted a daily afternoon radio show called "Bob Milburn Sports."

Milburn was probably best known during his 31-year career with the Standard Times for his long-running sports column "Sport-O-Scopes."

Super Bowl Teams Set

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — If there is one play both Minnesota and Pittsburgh would like to see next Sunday, it's a reverse.

The Vikings would like to see a reverse of their fortunes in the Super Bowl and the Steelers are hoping for a change in history.

As the teams got their first looks today at the practice facilities they'll be using as the prelude to the National Football League championship game at Tulane Stadium, both had to be thinking back a bit as well as looking ahead.

Vikings' Coach Bud Grant faces the unpleasant prospect of becoming the first coach to come out on the short end of three Super Bowls. Don Shula also lost two — one with Baltimore and one with Miami — but he also tucked away two victories.

Grant's first setback came right here five years ago, when the Kansas City Chiefs upset the Vikings 23-7. The other was last year's 24-7 loss to Shula's Dolphins.

The Steelers, meanwhile, have never lost an NFL championship game — but that's because they have never played one. It's their first shot at all the marbles in 42 years.

And, like the Vikes, they'll be trying to alter a bit of Super Bowl history, mainly that first time entries can't cut it against teams that have been there before.

NHL ACTION—

California Raps Philadelphia, 5-1

By The Associated Press

The California Golden Seals' scourge of the West? Well, they're still in last place, well behind the Toronto Maple Leafs in Division 4 of the National Hockey League, yet the Seals have compiled an impressive record in their last six games.

They beat the burly Boston Bruins and surprising Los Angeles Kings on consecutive nights before 1974 ended, and had their modest winning streak stopped by the Detroit Red Wings on New Year's Eve.

But they're unbeaten this year, with ties against Toronto and the bruising Buffalo Sabres and a glorious 5-1 victory over the Stanley Cup champion Philadelphia Flyers Sunday night.

Elsewhere in the NHL, the Sabres beat the St. Louis Blues 4-2, the New York Rangers downed the Vancouver Canucks 6-2, the Atlanta Flames blanked the Washington Capitals 3-0, the Montreal Canadiens tripped the Chicago Black Hawks 6-4, and the Maple Leafs ripped the Red Wings 1-0.

The Flyers had allowed just 76 goals in 36 games going into the contest, and hadn't permitted five opposition goals in one game since Nov. 16. The Seals had permitted 163 goals in 40 games.

Those figures got turned around Sunday night, however, as Larry Peley scored twice before the Seals' largest home crowd this season — 11,157 — and California outshot the Flyers 35-31 on the way to their second triumph in three games against Philadelphia this season.

Dave Gardner and Al MacAdams added Seals goals while rookie Fred Ahern made his first NHL game a memorable one with an insurance goal against 1973-74 co-Vezina Trophy winner Bernie Parent.

Bill Barber managed to ruin the shutout dreams of Seals' goalie Gary Simmons with a power play goal after 42 seconds of the third period, but otherwise, it was the Seals' night.

Sabres 4, Blues 2

Buffalo played "the best we've played in some time," according to Coach Floyd Smith as his Sabres broke a three-game winless streak by giving St. Louis the blues on national television.

Rangers 6, Canucks 2

Ted Irvine scored twice and Rod Gilbert contributed three assists in carrying New York to its sixth consecutive victory. Steve Vickers, Ron Greschner, Bill Fairbairn and Walt Tkaczuk also tallied for the Rangers. Leon Rochefort and Don Lever scored for Vancouver.

Flames 3, Capitals 4

Two goals by Eric Veil, who had one arm in a cast, and 20 saves by Phil Myre handed the Washington its second shutout in as many nights and their eighth shutout of the season. Buster Harvey has the other goals to back Myre's third whitewash of the year.

Canadiens 6, Black Hawks 4

Montreal stretched its unbeaten streak to 17 games with a come-from-behind triumph over Chicago, which held a 3-0 first period lead but never led after that.

Bucks Topple Chicago Five

By ALEX SACHARE AP Sports Writer

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, goggles and all, is back on top of his game — and that's bad news for the rest of the National Basketball Association.

Abdul-Jabbar tossed in 33 points, including 22 in the second half, and hauled down 15 rebounds to lead the Milwaukee Bucks to a tingling 96-95 victory Sunday over the Chicago Bulls, their arch-rivals in the NBA Midwest Division.

Bob Dandridge of the Bucks also poured in 33 points in the hard-fought battle, in which the Bucks watched an 11-point lead get whittled down to one in the closing minutes. The game was played before a sellout crowd at the Milwaukee Arena and a national television audience Sunday afternoon.

In Sunday night's NBA games, the Cleveland Cavaliers beat the Phoenix Suns 97-86, the Houston Rockets defeated the Kansas City-Omaha Kings 116-106, the Portland Trail Blazers topped the New Orleans Jazz 111-102 and the Los Angeles Lakers edged the Washington Bullets 112-109.

Abdul-Jabbar, who has been wearing goggles following an eye injury Oct. 5, netted 16 of his points in the final period as the Bucks, leading by 11 points with 3:17 to go, held off a Bulls' charge. The Bucks are now 4-1 against Chicago, with an average winning margin of just two points, and are only 3 1/2 games back of first-place Detroit.

The Bucks have now won five in a row, their longest winning streak of the season. Abdul-Jabbar has averaged 36 points in that span.

Rockets 115, Kings 106

Mike Newlin came off the bench to score 37 points for the Rockets, including 16 in the third period when they broke away from a 60-62 tie to an 85-90 lead. The Rockets connected on 14 of 18 shots from the field and eight of eight from the free throw line in the quarter.

Lakers 112, Bullets 100

Brian Winsters' 25-foot jumper with two seconds to go in overtime snuffed a 109-109 tie for Los Angeles, then Stu Lantz added a free throw on a technical foul after Baltimore called an illegal timeout.

Mike Ricardan scored 14 of his 34 points for the Bullets in the final period to help send the game into overtime. Lantz, starting in place of the injured Gail Goodrich, led the Lakers with 25 points, Happy Hairston added 19 — including a big three-point play in overtime — and Elmore Smith had 15.

Cavs 97, Suns 86

Bobby Smith and Dick Snyder poured in 25 points each for Cleveland, to break the game open in the second half. Jim Chones added 19 points and 15 rebounds.

Blazers 111, Jazz 102

Portland halted a five-game losing streak behind 24 points by Sidney Wicks.

All-Star Coaches Chosen

NEW YORK (AP) — K.C. Jones of the Washington Bullets and Al Attles of the Golden State Warriors were officially named today as the coaches for the East and West Conference teams, respectively, in the National Basketball Association's All-Star Game Jan. 14 at Phoenix.

They are the first blacks ever to coach in the NBA's mid-season contest.

They were selected because their teams had the highest winning percentages in their conferences through games of Sunday. The Bullets, Central Division leaders, had the best record in the Eastern Conference with a 26-12 mark for a 68.4 percentage, while the Warriors, Pacific Division frontrunners, topped the Western Conference with a 24-12 record for .667.

This will be the first All-Star appearances — either as coach or player — for Jones and Attles, both former standout guards in the NBA. Jones, now in his second season as Bullets coach, played nine years with the Boston Celtics, and Attles, coaching the Warriors for the sixth season, played 11 seasons with the same franchise when it was in Philadelphia and San Francisco.

Each coach will have one member of his own team in the starting lineup.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL ROUNDUP—

Kentucky Impresses

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

Dale Brown's Louisiana State basketball team lost a battle and eventually lost the war to Kentucky.

But like Douglas MacArthur, he promises to return.

"There will be a day when I shall return with a team that will beat Kentucky in Lexington," the LSU coach said Saturday night after his troops were routed 115-80 by the Southeastern Conference's big guns.

To make the defeat more painful, Brown was unhappy with the officiating — so unhappy in fact that he threatened at one time during the bruising game to retreat to the locker rooms.

"It was an emotional binge on my part," he said. "I just thought we were being physically manhandled out there. It's against SEC rules to say anything about the officials so I'm not going to break the rules."

Brown particularly bristled over an altercation between his freshman scoring star Kenny Higgs and Kentucky's Mike Flynn. Higgs was ejected with 14:42 left in the game for a flagrant foul on Flynn.

"I'm not Higgs' guardian angel, nor his mother," snapped Brown. "But I felt he was done a tremendous injustice here tonight."

State Rebounds

Elsewhere, top-ranked North Carolina State rebounded from a loss Friday night to whip No. 8 North Carolina 82-67 in a consolation game of the Big Four tournament in Greensboro, N.C. Wake Forest, the team that handed North Carolina State its first loss in 37 games, defeated Duke 75-71 to win the Big Four title.

Indiana, the nation's No. 2 team, hammered depleted Michigan State 107-56. The Spartans were forced to play with reserves when 10 of their players staged a dramatic walkout just before the game after a dispute with Coach Gus Gonakas.

In other games involving the ranked teams, No. 3 UCLA walloped Oklahoma 111-66; fifth-ranked Southern Cal defeated Furman 91-84; No. 6 Alabama crushed Vanderbilt 104-77; Maryland, No. 7, stopped No. 19 Notre Dame 90-82; 10th-ranked Oregon whipped No. 11 Providence 86-73; Princeton upset No. 12 Penn 50-49; No. 15 South Carolina defeated Manhattan 82-63; 17th-rated Michigan stopped Ohio State 85-73; No. 16 Purdue was upset by Minnesota 54-51 and No. 19 Memphis State downed Western Kentucky 79-72.

Kevin Grevey led five Kentucky players in double figures as the Wildcats easily beat Louisiana State. Grevey scored 20 points while Mike Phillips added 18, Rick Robey 15, Bob Guyette 14 and Mike Flynn 10.

Led by David Thompson's 26 points, North Carolina State defeated North Carolina. The Tar Heels took an early lead, lost it briefly, but the poised Wolfpack then took command behind their high-flying forward and never let go.

Skip Brown, the player who burned North Carolina State Friday night, scored 28 points to lead Wake Forest over Duke in the Big Four championship game.

Indiana toyed with Michigan State, whose lineup consisted of a bunch of junior varsity players. Ten black players walked out of a squad meeting before Saturday's game because they objected to the use of freshman Jeff Tropf in the starting lineup. The team's other white varsity player, James Dudley, is sidelined with an injury.

"I don't think it's a racial thing," said Gonakas, admittedly mystified by the walkout. "It might have been caused by a lot of things, not one thing I don't know."

Richard Washington scored 17 points and five of his teammates scored in double figures as UCLA beat Oklahoma. The Bruins gained their 10th straight victory of the season and 73rd in a row at Pauley Pavilion, a home court streak that stretches back to March of 1970.

Clint Chapman scored 22 points and Buff Burrell added 21 to lead Southern Cal past Furman. Furman's Rufus Mayes had 26 points to lead all scorers.

Tide Tough

Center Leon Douglas scored 25 points to lead a balanced Alabama scoring attack that crushed Vanderbilt. The Commodores grabbed an early lead at 8-4 before Alabama took over and began to pull away, eventually piling up a 51-29 halftime lead as Douglas scored 20 points.

John Lucas and Owen Brown combined for 45 points and Tim Roy grabbed a career high of 16 rebounds to lead Maryland over Notre Dame. Roy, who heard jeers from the fans the last time he played at home because of a poor game against Appalachian State, was covered with cheers Saturday.

Houston's Don Wilson ... found dead in car

DON WILSON— Astro Pitcher, Son Found Dead

HOUSTON (AP) — Autopsy reports were expected today on the bodies of Houston Astros pitcher Don Wilson and his 5-year-old son, Alexander, both found in their carbon monoxide-filled home Sunday.

Wilson, 29, preparing to start his 10th season with the Astros, was found slumped over in his car in the attached garage of his fashionable home in the city's southwest section.

Young Alexander was found in a bedroom above the garage. Mrs. Wilson was listed in fair condition at a hospital with injuries that included a broken left jaw.

The Wilson's 9-year-old daughter Denise, was in critical condition at a hospital and remained in a coma late Sunday night.

The tragedy started unfolding early Sunday afternoon when Mrs. Wilson phoned the fire department.

Fire department ambulance service spokesman Jack MacGillis said a woman called saying she could not wake up her children and her husband was in the car. He said the call came in at 1:24 p.m. CST.

Juvenile officer T. R. Trinkle said he talked to Mrs. Wilson at the hospital but she was under sedation.

He quoted her as saying she awoke after hearing a car motor running and went to check on the children.

She said the children "sounded like they were crying in their sleep."

Trinkle quoted her as saying she picked up the boy and took him to the master bedroom and shut the doors to both the daughter's bedroom and the master bedroom. She said she could not go back to sleep because the car motor was still running so she went to check and found her husband.

She said she called a registered nurse friend who told her to check for a pulse.

She said she did not know how she suffered the broken jaw.

Authorities said the garage and house were filled with the odor of exhaust fumes and hospital attendants said Mrs. Wilson and her daughter had inhaled carbon monoxide. The assistant Harris County medical examiner, G. Sheldon Green, declined, however, to speculate on the cause of death.

The news sent gloom throughout the Astros organization.

South Slips Past North

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Tampa quarterback Freddie Solomon gave up a trip to the Hula Bowl in Hawaii to play one last time before the hometown crowd in the All-America Bowl football game. And he's glad he did.

"The people of Tampa wanted me to play in this game," Solomon said Sunday after running for two touchdowns and passing for another to lead the South to a 28-22 victory over the North. "I felt like I owed it to them."

Solomon, named the South's most valuable player, connected on all three of his passes for 66 yards and gained 45 yards on 11 rushing attempts.

It was Solomon's 26-yard scoring pass to Florida's Lee McGriff that won the game after a flurry of scoring in the final 75 seconds.

With the score tied at 14-14, Solomon tallied on an eighty-yard run, then passed to McGriff for a two-point conversion.

But the North came right back, as Temple quarterback Steve Joachim engineered a 60-yard drive in 43 seconds, capped by a 16-yard pass to wide receiver Barry Hill. The North tied the game at 22-22 with a two-point conversion pass from Henry Hynoski.

Solomon began his final drive on the 50 after an outside kick.

He hit McGriff with a 24-yarder on the first play, and then found the University of Florida wide receiver in the end zone for the winning touchdown.

The North drew first blood in the opening quarter when Joachim hit Steve Grogan of Kansas State with a 15-yard touchdown pass. But the South came back on the next series when Solomon carried it in from the three after a 70-yard, 11-play drive.

MSU Players Reinstated

Ten Blacks Join Squad

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Everything is supposed to be peaches and cream now with the Michigan State basketball team.

But it remains to be seen whether Spartan fans will consider 10 maverick players as bad apples who have spoiled the season.

The 10, suspended Saturday by Coach Gus Ganakas for walking out of a team meeting, were reinstated by him Sunday after a reconciliation meeting which included the players, coaches and university athletic officials.

Ganakas characterized the reconciliation as "a matter of two lovers being separated a short period of time ... Our basketball family solved this problem within the family."

"Nothing would be gained by continuing the suspensions," he said.

Captain Lindsay Hairston, spokesman for the dissidents, said: "Our grievances have been met and we're definitely ready to play basketball."

Ganakas said reinstated Spartans would play tonight at MSU's Jensen Field House against Big Ten rival Ohio State. After the suspensions Saturday, the junior varsity was called upon to face No. 2-ranked Indiana. Subsequently Michigan State suffered the worst loss in its cage history, 107-55.

Hairston, sitting beside Ganakas at a news conference Sunday, said the walkout was the result of a number of problems. He would only specify two: workmen leaving the field-house doors open in the chilly Michigan winter and the failure of the administration to put the pictures of the team in the lobby as has been traditional.

Precipitating the walkout, according to Ganakas, was the announcement at the team meeting that freshman forward Jeff Trott would start against Indiana to guard star Steve Green.

Hobbs Defeats Bullpups In JV Tourney Finals

HOBBES, N.M. — Coach Don Humphrey's Midland Bullpups dropped their first game of the season, losing to the Hobbs junior varsity, 54-51, in the finals of the Hobbs JV Tourney Saturday night in Ralph Tasker Arena.

"We really didn't play too well in the finals, but still should be 11-0 on the year," said a disappointed Humphrey.

Craig Dunn and Phillip Ward paced the Bullpup attack with 16 and 10 points, respectively.

The Pups face the Odessa Permian JV at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday in their next outing. The Panther JV is undefeated on the year.

Coach Goes For Aggies, Raiders

By The Associated Press Southern Methodist Coach Bob Prewitt took time out from his problems—and it may be a long season for the Mustangs if their star center doesn't win an appeal to regain playing status from the NCAA—to size up the other Southwest Conference basketball teams and Prewitt says it should be a wide race.

"Texas A&M, Texas Tech, Texas and Arkansas are improving every week," Prewitt said. "I can't see either A&M or Tech losing as many as four games in the conference race."

"And you can't count Texas out and Arkansas is improved," Prewitt said. "The Aggies are tough on the board but Tech probably has the best balance in the league. The other teams are capable of causing trouble but it's hard to see TCU, Baylor, Rice or my team winning the title. We just don't have any depth within IRA."

Terrell, who admitted he accepted a small amount of money, has been ruled ineligible by a three-man NCAA committee.

SMU will take the case before the full NCAA board in Washington, D.C. this week.

Texas A&M and member-elect Houston, playing an independent schedule, won holiday tournaments last week. Texas and Baylor will try for more tournament trophies this week.

Using electricity more efficiently for heating takes very little energy on your part.

A lower thermostat setting will result in less energy use. The setting of 65°-68° has been recommended for energy conservation. If you are going to be away, turn your thermostat down to a lower setting or turn it off unless freezing weather could damage plumbing and appliances.

Help seal in the heat you're paying for by weatherstripping the doors and windows. Open the draperies or shades on the sunny side of the house and let the sunshine in. Otherwise, keep the draperies and shades closed to help keep the warm air in. When your fireplace is not in use, be sure the damper is tightly closed. For more ideas on how to use your electric service wisely, call us, we'd like to help.

Cut household drudgery with a General Electric Electronic Air Cleaner. Removes up to 92% of airborne particles. SCOOTERS PLUMBING 400 E. ILLINOIS - 682-5994

Mart Rings Up Broad Gain On Strength Of Early Buying

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rang up another broad gain today on the strength of some early buying inspired by the Federal Reserve's reduction of its discount rate.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 3.13 at 637.67, and gainers held a 6-1 edge on losers at the New York Stock Exchange.

The Fed's half-point reduction to 7 1/2 percent, announced late Friday, in the Key Rate on its loans to member commercial banks was widely seen on Wall Street as a further move by the central bank to ward a more stimulative credit policy.

Ramada Inns, the most active issue on the Bigboard, declined 1/4 to 2 1/4. A huge 604,000 share block of the stock traded at 2 1/4.

The current contract expires at midnight Tuesday.

Each company's contract must be approved by the union's 12-member bargaining policy council in Denver before the approximately 400 locals can vote on the proposals.

Grosprion, who is authorized to call a strike at midnight Tuesday, said Sunday he has made no decision whether to do so.

"We have two days of negotiations left," he said. "I'm not in a hurry on this thing. It's very easy to call a strike."

Grosprion said if a strike is called, it might be directed against selected companies rather than against the entire industry.

Even if a nationwide walkout is launched, he said, the public probably won't feel the impact immediately.

"I don't foresee any trouble or inconvenience to the public for 30 days," Grosprion said. "Our people who work in the plants making gasoline and other products inform us there are vast reserves. There shouldn't be any shortages for some time to come."

Last week Grosprion called the oil companies of creating a crisis atmosphere in negotiations and of failing to submit a reasonable contract proposal.

"This industry has always been a 'crisis bargainer,'" he reiterated Sunday. "They run down to the deadline and then look in the sack. So far there's very little in that sack."

"I'm trying to set a climate where we'll be negotiating rather than bombarding each other in public."

The average hourly wage in the industry is about $5.85, and the union wants an increase of about 25 percent in each year of a three-year contract.

The union is seeking an increase of about $1.50 per hour for each contract year, in addition to 50 cents an hour to "catch up" with inflation in the past year. The 50 cents an hour would be paid immediately.

The companies have offered increases of 60 cents an hour for the first year and 50 cents for the second year of a two-year contract. Grosprion called the company offers "inferior" and said the union would not settle for less than a three-year pact.

Among companies involved in the negotiations are Atlantic-Richfield, Gulf, Mobil, Shell, Texaco, American, Continental and Hess.
