Cisco Sand Strike Finals In Sterling

The Sterling Co., Midland, has completed No. 1-30 Reynolds as a Cisco sand gas discovery in Sterling County, eight miles northwest of Sterling City.

The calculated, absolute open flow was for 2.4 million cubic feet of gas per day, with gas-liquid ratio of 10,823-1. Condensate gravity was 49.5 degrees.

Production was through perforations at 7,506-8,043 feet, which had been washed with 3,500 gallons of mud acid and fractured with 65,000 gallons and 65,000 pounds.

Drilled to 8,113 feet, it has 4 1/2-inch casing seated at 8,106 feet, the plugged-back depth.

Location is 660 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of section 30, block 23, H&TC survey. The well originally was scheduled as No. 1 Reynolds.

2,500-Foot Probe Set For Stonewall

C. W. Gore of Albany has staked site for a 2,500-foot exploratory test in Southeast Stonewall County, nine miles northeast of Hamlin. It is No. 1-133 Swenson Land & Cattle Co.

It spots 1,870 feet from north and 330 feet from east lines of section 133, BBB&C survey, 1/4 mile northeast of the SL-C (Tannehill) field and one location west of production in the E.O.C. (Tannehill) field.

Eddy Sector Gains Wolfcamp Opener

Reed & Stevens, Inc. of Roswell, N. M., completed No. 1 Allright as a shut-in Wolfcamp gas discovery in Eddy County, N. M., 10 miles southwest of Lake Wood.

It flowed 2.6 million cubic feet of gas per day, with gas-liquid ratio of 61,900-1, on the last production gauge. Gravity of the condensate was 56.7 degrees.

Production was through an 18-64-inch choke and perforations at 7,000-7,030 feet.

Log tops picked under ground elevation of 3,586 feet were San Andres, 730; Golieta, 2,407; Bone Springs, 3,545; Wolfcamp, 6,345; Cisco, 7,625; Canyon, 8,080; Strawn, 8,478; Atoka, 8,985; Morrow, 9,360 and Barnett, 9,616 feet.

The well is bottomed at 9,750 feet, and plugged back to 7,254 feet, in 5 1/2-inch casing seated at 7,270 feet.

Well site is 660 feet from south and 900 feet from east lines of section 30-20e-25e, 1/4 mile south of Morrow production in the Cemetery field.

Peruvian Military Raids Death Toll May Hit 50

LIMA, Peru (AP)—Military patrols killed, wounded and arrested an unspecified number of persons in night raids against looters and arsonists, the government said today, following widespread rioting against the six-year-old military regime of President Juan Velasco.

Although the government did not give figures in its communique, unofficial sources put the number killed between 30-50 and the number wounded possibly at more than 100.

The government declared a "holiday" today in an attempt to keep looting and casualties under control. It was the leftist regime's worst crisis since taking power in a bloodless coup in October 1968.

Tanks, troops and helicopters enforced a nighttime curfew in Lima after the riots broke out Wednesday, sparked by a police strike two days earlier.

Stone-hurling demonstrators smashed 40 windows at the U.S. Embassy compound Wednesday, and a fire bomb was hurled into the garden but did not explode, sources said.

Some members of the national police returned to duty on the streets Wednesday afternoon, indicating an agreement in response to their demand for a pay raise to counter the effects of inflation might be near.

Velasco's military government ordered a 10 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew and said patrols had orders to fire on violators.

The curfew was applied only (See DEATH TOLL Page 2A)

Congress Begins To Pick Ford's Programs Apart

WASHINGTON (AP)—With many Republicans joining the fight against President Ford's oil import tariff, the Democratic-controlled Congress is beginning to pick apart the President's economic-energy program.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, vowed to press his panel into action Friday on the House-passed tariff repeal and to report early next week to the full Senate.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, brings the committee back to work today for what he hoped would be the final work on an anti-inflation tax cut. The panel earlier approved an $8.4 billion tax cut for low- and middle-income taxpayers, rejected Ford's plan for a rebate of 1974 taxes and indicated it would develop its own rebate plan.

The brisk schedules of House leaders for action on economic and energy legislation appeared likely to be set back somewhat by the traditional 10-day Lincoln Day recess the House begins at the close of business today. The Senate decided to forego the recess this year.

On the House vote to repeal Ford's oil tariff hike, 42 Republicans sided with 267 Democrats to block the three-step increase that partially went into effect last Saturday. The 309-114 vote was 27 more than the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto which Ford has promised.

Before the vote, House GOP Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona appealed to his fellow Republicans, saying this was the "first key vote we will have as members of the party of the President of the United States."

Democrats sought to delay the tariff to give them time to come up with their own energy-conservation program.

The fate of the tariff repeal in the Senate appeared in some doubt, despite Long's pledge of quick action, because tariff supporters there are threatening to filibuster.

Asked about the setback on the tariff bill, a White House spokesman said Ford "was encouraged by the size of the vote and he felt that he had come a long way since he began his meetings with members of Congress. He plans other meetings with members of Congress to continue the explanation of his program."

Ford has been meeting with congressmen in groups of 100 to urge support for administration proposals.

The bar to higher food stamp prices sailed through the Senate 76 to 8 following earlier House approval, 374 to 38. Both margins were more than the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto, although there was no indication Ford would reject the bill.

Ford had said the higher prices would save an estimated $648 million.

Ford won House approval of a bill increasing the federal debt limit to $531 billion to allow borrowing expected through June 30 as government spending continues to outpace revenues.

Standard Time Ends Feb. 23

WASHINGTON (AP)—Clocks across the country will be set forward one hour on Feb. 23 as the nation ends four months on standard time.

Beginning at 2 a.m. on Feb. 23, Daylight Saving Time will be in effect for eight months. Then, unless Congress intervenes, the regular alternating pattern of standard time six months and daylight time six months a year will be resumed in October.

Congress put the nation on 10 straight months of daylight time last year in an energy conservation step. The nation switched to standard time for the four winter months last Oct. 27.

Late Bulletins

WASHINGTON (AP)—A proposed special $1 billion tax break for financially troubled firms such as Chrysler Corp., Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and Pan American World Airways was rejected by the House Ways and Means Committee today. The vote was 17 to 16 against incorporating the proposal into the multibillion-dollar emergency economic tax cut bill.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Initial claims for unemployment insurance benefits eased somewhat during the week ending Jan. 25, but still remained well above normal, the Labor Department reported today.

Arctic Air Nips At Most Of State

Light snow spread from Lubbock in the Panhandle-Texas' Panhandle-Plains sector across the north and east sections of the state today as Arctic air nipped sharply at all but its south tip.

With temperatures diving to zero or barely above at some points, a treacherous glaze coated roadways and bridges in some areas — particularly in the Panhandle, where the snow started the day before.

Skies already were clearing over most of West Texas, however, as occasional snow reached all the way across the state through the Dallas-Fort Worth area, past Texarkana into Arkansas and as far south as Killean in Central Texas.

Two inches accumulated on the ground at Perryton and one inch at Wichita Falls.

Clouds covered the rest of the state and bitter winds swept most sections.

Near dawn thermometers dived to zero at Perryton, 7 degrees at Amarillo, 9 at Dalhart, 16 at Childress and 17 at

Mini Job Boom On At State Unemployment Offices

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

The rising unemployment rate has created a mini job boom at state unemployment offices. An Associated Press sampling shows officials in every area are hiring extra workers to deal with the long lines of jobless Americans seeking unemployment benefits.

"We've enlarged the staff because we have a lot heavier workload ... and because the federal government has introduced two new (public service job) programs that we have to handle," said Raymond Hope, director of unemployment insurance for Colorado.

Hope said the staff handling benefits at the state's 33 unemployment offices has been doubled from 200 to 400 since the end of December.

Terry Wiley, assistant manager of the unemployment office in Minneapolis, said he did not know exactly how many people had been added. "Personnel changes so fast and we've hired so many more that Marching scouts show appreciation to city for support.

Scouts Show Appreciation To City For Support Of Program With March

By JAN WILLIAMS Up With Midland, Self-Reliance, Free Enterprise, Scouts Love Brownies, We Love Midland (and a discarded We Love Odessa) were emblazoned upon signs sported around the Midland County Court House Wednesday by Boy Scouts of the Buffalo Trail Council.

Ten scouts and 25 cubs from the Midland area marched around the courthouse carrying the signs to show their appreciation for the support the city has given scouting.

Steve Odom, Scout Executive of the Buffalo Council, said Midland citizens have supported scouting activities by participating in scouting activities, providing volunteer leadership and through contributions.

A current council project is the Boy Scout Capital Campaign which is an effort to raise funds for the development of scout camps in West Texas. The total goal is $500,000 of which 60 per cent has already been raised in the 18 county area which the Buffalo Trail Council encompasses.

Odom said Midland played a big part in helping the council reach its goal. It is hoped the total goal will be reached by the end of March.

Ike McCarroll, president of the Buffalo Trail Council, said it was great for the scouts to show their appreciation to the city and hoped they would repeat the demonstration in the future, providing they have reason to.

recognition to the White House. Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., said Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz conceded to him two weeks ago that the price-raising plan was lost in Congress and the courts.

But the secretary asked that any fundamental changes in the food stamp program wait on full studies later this session, McGovern said.

The Senate also unanimously approved a nonbinding resolution directing Butz to submit within four months specific recommendations to improve the program.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., author of that resolution, said the studies that preceded those recommendations and the congressional oversight hearings to follow them should lead to a program in which the needy will receive more benefits from money saved by reforms.

The administration plan would require all participants after March 1 to pay 30 per cent of their net income for the coupons.

The present system, under which 17.1 million persons are receiving stamps, uses a sliding scale of required payments, according to household size and income.

Under that scale a single person with a net income of $154 a month pays about $30 for $46 worth of coupons, redeemable for food at retail stores. Under the Ford plan, he would pay $45 for $46 worth.

Proposal Sent To Senators

AUSTIN (AP)—The House passed today and sent to the Senate today an $80 million emergency relief bill for the state's inflation-strained public school districts. The vote was 136-4.

Senators passed their own virtually identical version of the bill Wednesday, but the two houses must get together on a single measure before the school districts can get their money.

Legislators completed action on a constitutional amendment authorizing higher pensions for retired school teachers. Voters will make the final decision at an April 22 special election.

House members approved the measure 133-1, and the Senate finished work on it by voting 30-0 to accept a House change shifting the election date from April 5 to April 22.

Awaiting House action next week is a teacher retirement bill, increasing pensions from 5 to 12 per cent and costing $98 million in general revenue, contingent upon final approval of the constitutional amendment.

Key Provision

The key provision of the amendment raises from 6 per cent to 10 per cent the amount of total teacher compensation that the state can match as its contribution to the retirement fund. The same provision also applies to the state employees retirement system. Also, the state would not be limited to dollar-for-dollar matching of teacher contributions but could put in a larger amount up to the 10 per cent limit.

In an emergency, as determined by the governor, the legislature could appropriate even more to either retirement system as required to fund benefits authorized by the lawmakers.

New Message

The governor submitted a new emergency message today, asking for rapid action by the legislature to:

—Authorize county commissioners courts to exercise urban renewal powers in unincorporated areas.

—Amend the Lower Colorado River Authority Act to enable the LCRA to immediately implement construction plans to provide greater amounts of electrical energy to its service area.

—Appropriate $200,000 to the Texas Transportation Institute for a feasibility study "of a rail system to link the major metropolitan areas of the state with intermediate service to rural areas." (See AMENDMENT Page 2A)

Probe Continues At UTPB Today

ODESSA — Interviews on The University of Texas at Permian Basin campus continued here today, the third day of investigation by the Ector County District Attorney's office into alleged illegal pay hikes for school employees.

Dist. Atty. John Green was out of the city today on other business, according to a spokesman from his office, and investigator Tom Barker continued interviewing persons who are or have been members of Faculty and Staff Enterprises Inc. (FASE).

This morning, investigators completed only two interviews — with James Speltzoff and Dr. Jim Caldwell — and said six or more individuals would likely be interviewed this afternoon.

Investigators met with 13 persons on Wednesday, with two of them in for a second time. They were Sarah Crowe, director of news and information services, and Mrs. Betty

Canada Increases Export Tax On Oil To United States

OTTAWA (AP) — The export tax on crude oil shipped to the United States will be increased 30 cents to $5.50 a barrel effective March 1, Energy Minister Donald Macdonald announced.

Macdonald said in a statement issued Wednesday the increase reflects changes in the international price of oil, and particularly a 38-cent boost in the price of Venezuelan oil announced last month.

Canada exports 800,000 barrels of oil a day to the United States.

The minister also announced that the tax on Lloydminster, Sask., heavy crude oils was being increased from $4.10 to $4.40 a barrel, and the tax on other types of heavy fuel oil is being increased from $4.70 to $5.

Taxes which will remain unchanged are $5.20 a barrel on condensate, produced with natural gas; $1.50 a barrel on motor gasoline and $2 a barrel on middle distillates.

The export tax was introduced more than a year ago to cover the difference between the domestic price of oil, which is frozen at 50 cents a barrel, and the world price.

Pet Owners, Take Notice

ARVADA, Colo. (AP) — Owners of stray pets in this Denver suburb had better watch out.

A drafting error in the city's animal control ordinance has just been noticed. It provides that if a stray pet picked up by the city is not claimed by its owner within 24 hours, the owner will be destroyed.

City Manager Capp Shanks says a careful check of city records indicates that so far no owners have been disposed of, however.

House Taking 10-Day Recess

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House begins a 10-day recess at the end of today's session.

Although the Senate canceled its plans for the traditional Lincoln Day recess to deal with pressing economy and energy problems facing the nation, Speaker Carl Albert said the House decision to take a break after less than a month was justified "on the basis that I made a commitment and others made commitments."

He said that newly elected members had booked speaking engagements and other events in their districts.

ments will spend about $1 billion this year to aid the unemployed through public jobs projects and benefit programs. Some states say their benefit funds will run out of money if the unemployment rate, which stood at 7.1 per cent in December, does not decrease.

The New York State Labor Department has 20 principal unemployment offices in New York City and opened six supplementary offices last month.

Two more offices are in the planning stages. A department spokesman said that in the week ended Jan. 31 there were 1,334 persons employed in the 26 offices and he said that about 400 had been hired recently to deal with the increased number of applicants.

The Cheyenne, Wyo., unemployment office, which has one full-time employee a year ago, has tripled its staff to three and Harold Bolger, head of unemployment insurance for the state's Employment Security Commission, said that "because of budget reductions, we haven't been able to add staff at the rate we feel necessary."

The largest of the five unemployment offices in Phoenix, Ariz., had 14 workers a year ago. Now it has 61; some of whom work on an hourly basis during rush periods only. The office also extended its hours and now is open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. in contrast to the 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. schedule it used to keep.

TMA Sets Feb. 13 Midland Meeting

The Texas Manufacturers Association (TMA) has scheduled a meeting here Feb. 13 to discuss legislative issues expected to surface during the 64th Texas Legislature session.

The meeting will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the Community Room of the Commercial Bank & Trust Co.

Topics for discussion will include taxation, environmental quality, workers' compensation, unemployment compensation, public school finance and the right to work laws.

The Midland meeting is one of several sponsored by the TMA. The first was held Tuesday at Houston and the second at Longview Wednesday.

Another meeting is scheduled in Arlington tonight, with an El Paso meeting slated next Tuesday and one at Lubbock next Wednesday.

After the Midland meeting, sessions are slated at San Antonio Feb. 19 and Corpus Christi Feb. 20.

Bill Introduced On Private Use Of County Equipment

AUSTIN — Commissioners no project could be undertaken for which the charges would exceed the amount specified in the order, and the charge assessed for the work would be the prevailing rate for similar work in the same area.

The order issued by the commissioners court would apply uniformly to all four commissioners precincts in a county.

Funds collected for work on private projects would be credited to the county road and bridge fund for use in the precinct where the work was done.

Massey's bill was referred to the House Committee on Intergovernmental Affairs.

Rebels Batter Government Convoy Bound To Asmara

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Eritrean rebels battered a government convoy carrying troops and supplies to embattled Asmara, reliable sources said today.

The sources said the convoy of tanks, troops and arms was attacked near the town of Dekehale, about 15 miles south of Asmara, on Wednesday. They said it was possible some units of the convoy may have reached the Eritrean capital, but reports from there early today said no reinforcements had been sighted.

Casualties in the rebel attack were not immediately known.

Asmara, 450 miles north of Addis Ababa and the country's second largest city, was reported calm today, but the streets were still deserted.

The Ethiopian army was reported in firm control of the city, but reliable diplomatic informants said the city was surrounded by the Moslem rebels of the Eritrean Liberation Front fighting for independence.

Diplomats reported that some water was being made available to some sections of the city. The 200,000 residents had been without water for five days; food was also scarce.

Foreigners evacuated to Addis Ababa said unless water and food were supplied to the city soon, it could turn into a death trap.

Contract Breach Suit Filed In Building Sale

FNB Development Corp. of Midland Wednesday filed a $500,000 payment and installment payments for the $2.2 million balance.

Charges of atrocities by the Ethiopian army in Asmara continued to reach Addis Ababa.

"We saw army soldiers looting food and grocery stores," said the foreign evacuee.

"There was artillery bombardment of the Moslem quarter, and there are reports that women and children have been killed indiscriminately."

An American resident of the city said Eritrean friends told him the government troops were always trigger-happy and most of the 2 million inhabitants of Eritrea province backed the 17,000 rebels.

"Army Atrocities Cited

"We were safe, but our good Eritrean friends told us of things we couldn't imagine," the American said. "But knowing the situation, we are inclined to believe them. One charge of atrocity was that some army troops slashed the wrists of babies while conducting house to house searches.

"A diplomatic source said: "We heard, and are inclined to believe, reports of indiscriminate killings by army troops including blasting an Eritrean village wedding."

The ELF office in Beirut called for urgent intervention by the United Nations and the Arab League to stop the alleged atrocities.

Settlement Okayed In Tuskegee Study

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — More than 600 black men from Macon County, Ala., participated in the U.S. Public Health Service's Tuskegee study which began in 1932 and ended in 1972 when it was brought to light.

Details of the settlement were revealed last December but were subject to approval from the U.S. attorney general. Now that approval has been made, a Feb. 17 final hearing in the case has been canceled.

Plaintiffs in the class action damage suit originally asked for $3 million each. Forty of the survivors of the experiment filed suit in U.S. District Court in 1973, seeking a total of $1.8 billion for the survivors and for the estates of the deceased men. About 100 of the 600 men are still alive.

The settlement calls for $37,500 for each syphilitic participant who is still alive and $15,000 for each nonsyphilitic participant who is still alive. Also, $15,000 for the estate of each deceased syphilitic participant and $5,000 for the estate of each deceased nonsyphilitic participant.

Midland Board Of Realtors Breaks Ground For New Home

The Midland Board of Realtors broke ground for its new $100,000 office at 1000 W. Wall St. today with the help of community leaders in business, government and civic affairs.

A large gathering of hardy citizens, braving near-freezing weather, heard past president of the Midland Board of Realtors Bunnie Kent say: "Every man's dream of having his own home has finally come true for the Midland Board of Realtors."

She said it is a "proud day" for the board, and gave special thanks for those members of the board whose foresight and planning has resulted in the construction of the new office facility.

Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr., County Commissioner John Thomas and Bill Mewhorter, president of the Chamber of Commerce, each praised the Realtors for their work in the past and congratulated the board for bringing about the construction of its permanent home in Midland.

Weldon Taylor, chairman of the MBR's Building Committee, said the new office will encompass some 2,200 square feet and is scheduled for completion in approximately three months.

Taylor said the board will continue to work out of its temporary office at 2002 W. Wall St. until moving to the new quarters.

Contractor for the office project is the Allen Construction Co. of Midland.

to Lima, Callao, the capital's port, and nearby beach towns. Arequipa, Peru's second largest city, was reported quiet.

Earlier Wednesday, Velasco put central Peru under military administration, declared a nationwide state of emergency and suspended individual rights to cope with the worst crisis of his six-year rule.

The measures authorized military administrators to make arrests without warrants, search premises, deport people and ban all rallies and public demonstrations.

The military placed tight controls on all travel, banned the sale of alcohol and warned the press and radio stations not to publish or broadcast anything that might incite disorders.

The trouble began Monday night when large numbers of the 20,000-man Guardia Civil struck for higher pay and barricaded themselves in a police compound in Lima.

Early Wednesday, an army detachment stormed the compound. Machine-gun and rifle fire lasted for half an hour. A government communique said six persons were wounded, but some witnesses said there were several dead.

Provide the state comptroller's office with $472,000 in supplemental funds to carry it through the present fiscal year.

Emergency Measure

The school aid bill, sought as an emergency measure by Gov. Dolph Briscoe, would distribute $80 million in state funds on the basis of a school district's wealth and the number of pupils it has.

A district would get between $7.32 and $39.74 per pupil in average daily attendance, depending on local wealth as measured by the Texas Education Agency's economic index. The average amount would be $32.60 per pupil.

Briscoe turned down requests in 1973 and 1974 by the school districts for a special legislative session to help them out of a fiscal tight budget on by inflation, particularly in utility and gasoline costs.

The junior college bill would provide an additional $12 million for vocational-technical instruction and $6 million for general classroom programs. The schools' enrollments rose 20 per cent since 1972, against estimates of only 18 per cent.

Resolution Passed

In legislative action Wednesday, lawmakers quickly passed a resolution enabling the governor to spend $500,000 appropriated in 1973 for relief to flood victims in counties designated as disaster areas by President Ford. The federal government will match state money $3 for every $1.

The Senate Constitutional Revision Committee sent to the floor on a 4-1 vote a proposal allowing the legislature to set its own daily expense allowance, up to the maximum non-taxable amount permitted by the Internal Revenue Service for travel status in Austin. The present IRS maximum is $44.

Senators planned to wait and see what action the House took on its version of an expenses increase before taking up the proposal.

Crane Girl's Death Ruled Self-Inflicted

CRANE — Mizzi Lee Shepard, 17, died of self-inflicted gunshot wounds, according to a ruling Wednesday by Justice of the Peace Clara Cromer of Crane.

The girl was found on the floor of her home about 10:45 p.m. Sunday by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Shepard.

The girl had been shot once in the head, according to Sheriff Raymond Weatherby, who said a .22 rifle was found next to the body.

Services were held here Tuesday afternoon at Sheppard Funeral Home, with interment in Crane Garden of Memories.

ley, where it was still 63 at McAllen and 64 at Brownsville. Clear to partly cloudy skies and another cold night were forecast in all sections.

Midland received a trace of precipitation in the form of light freezing drizzle early this morning as the city felt the effects of a new cold front that pushed its way into the area on Wednesday. Visibility in those early hours was reduced to one-eighth mile due to fog.

The National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal predicts continued cold weather through Friday with a low mercury mark tonight in the middle to upper 20s and a high Friday near 60.

The thermometer reached 61 on Wednesday, and plummeted to 27 degrees at 8 a.m. this morning. The anticipated high for this afternoon is the upper 40s.

Housing Authority To Continue Fight With HUD Over Proposed Project Site

By GEORGE MASSEY

The Midland Housing Authority chose Wednesday to continue its fight with the Department of Housing and Urban Development on a site choice for a proposed low-income housing development here.

The decision came after the HUD office at Dallas which stated opposition to the authority's site proposal at the east corner of Big Spring Street and Scharbauer Drive.

Midland stands to lose more than $2 million in federal housing funds if the project, designed to house elderly and handicapped persons in low-income brackets, fails to get underway.

The HUD letter dated Jan. 15 stated, "The aim of the site selection criteria is to promote an opportunity for minorities to move from the areas of minority concentration. We (HUD) would be derelict in our duty if we sanctioned the development of a project in a location, even on an experimental basis, which we believed to be in violation of the current rules and regulations relating to equal opportunity."

The letter offered three options for the Midland authority to take concerning the housing development, however, the authority refused to act on any of the proposed options and instead continued its fight for the eastside location.

The HUD options are — 1. Choose one of the acceptable sites submitted by two firms (one at Ward and Princeton streets and the other at Pecos and Neely streets; 2. Reject all proposals submitted and readvertise for new housing sites; or 3. Consider cancellation of the program in its entirety.

Harry Clark, chairman of the authority, said, "the width of a street (Big Spring Street) is keeping us away from agreement with HUD's requirements."

Clark said HUD would agree to a site location less than 100 feet west of the Big Spring street and Scharbauer Drive location because it would then be in a census tract of majority negro population.

The housing authority will meet in special session on Feb. 24 to consider HUD's reactions to further negotiations on the development site choice.

Odessan Injured In Gas Explosion

ODESSA — Henry B. Dunn of Odessa received first degree head burns when his mobile home exploded Wednesday morning.

He was reported in satisfactory condition at Medical Center Hospital today.

The explosion occurred when Dunn lit a cigarette, setting off an accumulation of gas. Dunn reported he smelled gas fumes before going to bed Tuesday night but said he thought he had turned off the gas.

The fire was quickly extinguished by firemen, who reported seeing a ball of flame while they were still some distance from the trailer park west of Odessa.

Kreuz Speaks To Kiwanis Club

C. R. Kreuz, environmental engineer for Mobil Oil Corp. here, spoke to the Midland Kiwanis Club Wednesday.

The meeting was held in the Sheraton Inn, with James M. Wheat, president of the organization, presiding.

Ralph Crays, the club's program chairman, announced the club's annual sweetheart luncheon will be next Wednesday. Wives of the members will be special guests.

Freight Cars Derail Near Colorado City

COLORADO CITY — Sixteen Texas and Pacific freight cars derailed in an accident just west of here Wednesday.

Officials said the cause of the accident apparently was a broken wheel. They estimated damages at $92,000 to cars, cargo and 600 feet of track.

Bonds were set and charges accepted by Justice of the Peace John Biggs.

Bill Would Give State Land Tract To Big Spring

AUSTIN — Legislation which would give a 70.67-acre tract of state land to the City of Big Spring has been introduced by Sen. Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls.

The land adjoins the state hospital in Big Spring, but the change in ownership would not affect the state facility.

City officials in Big Spring plan to use the tract for a softball park. If the land should be used for any purpose other than a public recreational area, the bill provides for the land's title to revert to the state.

Farabee's bill has been referred to the Senate State Affairs Committee.

A companion bill to the Senate version will be sponsored by Rep. Michael Ezzell of Snyder.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

Nora Wears Track Shoes To Weddings

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been invited to a wedding. My husband is unable to attend, so I am taking my 16-year-old cousin. She does not know the bride.

At the last four weddings this cousin attended, she caught the bride's bouquet. Maybe I should tell you that she is a very large and athletic girl who is fast on her feet.

I feel that because she is only 16, and she has already caught four bouquets, she should not make an all-out effort to catch this one.

Don't you think she should give the bride's friends and relatives a chance to catch the bouquet?

NO BOUQUETS FOR NORA

DEAR NO BOUQUETS: If you want to risk telling a "large, athletic girl who's fast on her feet" what to do, go ahead.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my husband's driving. Whenever another motorist breaks one of the highway courtesy rules and cuts in front of my husband, or passes him when another car is coming in the opposite direction, my husband has to get back at him. He'll pull up real close to him, or he'll immediately pass him to let him know that he is not going to let him get away with anything.

Sometimes he doesn't like the way a truck driver is driving, so he'll start playing games with him. I get scared half to death and beg him not to take such foolish chances, but he insists that he's going to "teach him a lesson."

We've had a few minor scrapes and several close calls, but nothing really serious yet. He argues that he is a safe driver, but to me, that's not safe. What's the matter with this 33-year-old baby? How can I make him realize that that kind of driving is not safe?

WORRIED IN OREGON

DEAR WORRIED: Part of my definition for maturity is... "the ability to bear an injustice without wanting to get even." Your husband isn't mature. Just keep on nagging him to let the other guy have the road—unless he's trying to beat him to the cemetery, and take you with him.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Bleach Pins

Marks left on your clean laundry by dirty clothespins need not happen again if you bleach the pins. Soak them in a pan containing half a cup of household bleach; then rinse well and dry them thoroughly.

Kappa Alumnae Meet Tuesday

The Kappa-Delta Alumnae Association will meet at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Paul King, 2613 Frontier St.

There will be an antique doll tour to the home of Clem Hodges, Solomon Lane, followed with a salad luncheon in the home of Mrs. King.

A program entitled "Opportunities for Women in Continuing Education," planned by Mrs. Ross Dawkins, chairman of the professional affairs committee, was presented. Mrs. Robert Boykin, committee member and Midland High School librarian, spoke on opportunities, especially for drop outs, at the high school level. Jo Caverley, Midland College journalism instructor, told of the many courses offered at the college for furthering education in many fields.

The chapter voted to give a donation to the Delta Kappa Gamma expansion program.

DENTAL HEALTH WEEK — Mrs. R. Ken Carpenter, chairman of the Children's Dental Clinic for the Junior League of Midland, Inc., distributes toothbrushes to Mary Robledo and Chris Ramos at Crockett Elementary School. The league, in observance of Dental Health Week, is showing a film and distributing the brushes to kindergarten and elementary school children.

League Showing Dental Health Film To Schools

In observance of Dental Health Week, a film, "Showdown at Sweet Rock Gulch," is being shown to all kindergarten morning sessions and grades one and two in eight public schools by the Junior League of Midland, Inc.

The elementary schools are Milam, Pease, Crockett, Travis-Bunch, Washington, DeZavala and South.

Mrs. R. Ken Carpenter, chairman, and Mrs. Preston Bridgewater Jr. and Mrs. Carlton Beal Jr. staff the Dental Clinic and are showing the film. Following the film showing, the committee demonstrates the proper way to brush teeth to the children and distributes toothbrushes.

The Children's Dental Clinic, founded by Dr. and Mrs. George Ulvestad, is located in the outpatient wing of Midland Memorial Hospital. The clinic is financed and staffed by the Junior League of Midland, Inc., and provides needed dental care for many children. Currently,

HOROSCOPE

by Carroll Righter

(Feb. 7)

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Matters in the world and at home appear confusing. Associates are in an argumentative mood now and the best way to avoid arguments is to use your charm. Eliminate discontent and build harmony.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Situations in outside activities and at home seem tense but you can help overcome this by helping those in trouble. Be calm.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Get together with a charming friend who can relieve tensions and keep you from getting upset. Not a good day to attend the social.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): If you are worried about something and you do something charitable for another you find that your situation is improved.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): A communication could worry you but if you look at it from a logical standpoint, you will benefit in the long run.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): A professional matter at work could be bothersome, but it will soon clear up, so forget it. Don't neglect health treatments.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): You want to have fun but don't force anything with anyone and you don't relieve tensions. An associate can be very helpful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23): Make improvements to surroundings and avoid argument with a complaining opponent. Use that artistic sense you possess.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21): Seek the company of one who makes you feel important and happy. Not a good day for starting any new enterprises. Be wise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21):

Do only those things in the outside world that are absolutely necessary. Making home improvements will be appreciated.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Tension may be high today, but a kind thought or act of another cause matters considerably. Shop for new clothing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Listen to what a financial expert has to say about improving the value of your property. Show more devotion to loved one.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Your financial situation may look grim, but will improve if you put brakes on your free spending habits. Use common sense.

Crusades For Good Bread

By KAY JARVIS
Copley News Service

"American kids are growing up not knowing what a good loaf of bread tastes like. They use that white, spongy junk like an edible napkin for their peanut butter."

Bernard Clayton considers himself a crusader for the "honest loaf" and has become sort of a bread-baking Diogenes.

"We all know the clichés about bread being the staff of life," he said during an interview to discuss his book, "The Complete Book of Breads" (Simon and Schuster). "But it truly has been, and for thousands of years."

Clayton, an editor and writer for Indiana University, has traveled the world as a correspondent for Time-Life, crossed Europe by bicycle, seen England by canal boat and Ireland in a horse-drawn Gypsy wagon.

And through it all he collected recipes for breads of every shape, texture and variety. The best are included in the 565-page book.

His recipes have been collected from old church and family books in France, farming families in the Midwest, the Amish in northern Indiana.

Of the 350 recipes in the book, Clayton says his own favorite is one for Milwaukee rye.

OLD MILWAUKEE RYE BREAD

This is a two or three day affair that produces a fine rye loaf. It can be made into two large loaves—good for husky family sandwiches—or three or four long, slender loaves, best for the buffet.

Under the taut plastic wrap covering the bowl, the sponge will rise and fall as it bubbles to its maximum goodness in approximately three days, give or take a few hours.

The sponge:
1 pkg. dry yeast
One and a half cups warm water (105 to 115 degrees)
2 cups medium rye flour
½ Tbsp. caraway seed

All of the sponge:
1 pkg. dry yeast
1 cup warm water (105 to 115 degrees)
One-fourth cup molasses
1 tsp. caraway seed
1 egg, room temperature
1 tsp. salt
1 cup rye flour

Five to five and a half cups all-purpose flour, approximately 3 tbsps. vegetable shortening

Glaze:
1 egg
1 tsp. milk
3 tbsps. caraway seed

Baking sheet, greased or Teflon

Set the sponge in a large bowl by dissolving yeast in the water. Stir in rye flour. Add caraway seeds. Cover the bowl snugly with plastic wrap so that the sour loses none of its moisture which condenses on the plastic and drops back into the mixture. The dark brown paste will rise and fall as it develops flavor and a delicious aroma.

The sponge, which will resemble a wet mash that's too thick to pour and too thin to knead, may be used anytime after six hours although the longer the better—up to three days when it will have ceased fermenting.

On bake day, uncover the sponge bowl, sprinkle on the new yeast and add water. Blend well with 25 strokes of a wooden spoon. Add molasses, caraway, egg, salt, rye flour, and about two cups of the white flour. Beat till smooth—about 100 strokes. Add shortening.

Stir in the balance of the flour, a half cup at a time, first with the spoon and then by hand. The dough should clean the sides of the bowl but it will be sticky due to the rye flour.

Turn the dough out on a floured surface—counter top or bread board. Knead until the dough is smooth. It may help to grease fingers to keep the dough from sticking. Takes about five minutes.

Return the dough to the large bowl, pat the surface well with butter or shortening and place plastic wrap tightly over the top of the bowl. Put in a warm place (80 to 85 degrees) for about one hour, or until the dough has doubled in bulk. Punch down and let rise 10 additional minutes.

Divide the dough with a sharp knife.

For two round loaves, mold each into a smooth ball and place on the baking sheet. For the long, slender loaves, roll out a long rectangle of dough with a rolling pin. Starting at one long edge, roll tightly and pinch together firmly at the seam. Place these side by side on a baking sheet.

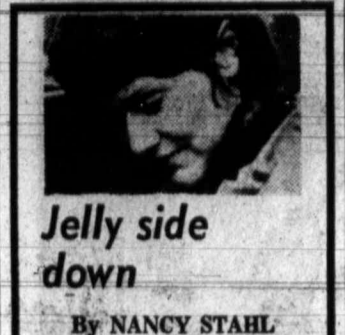

Cover the loaves with wax paper supported on glass tumbler so that paper will not touch the dough. Return to the warm place until loaves have doubled in bulk. About 40 minutes.

Preheat oven to 375 degrees.

With a sharp razor, carefully slash three or four diagonal cuts on the top of each loaf. Brush the tops with water (for an unglazed crust) or a whole egg mixed with one tablespoon of milk for a shiny crust. Sprinkle the moist glaze with caraway seeds.

Bake the loaves in the oven. When tapping the bottom crust yields a hard and hollow sound, they are done. If the loaves appear to be browning too quickly, cover with a piece of foil or brown sack paper. Takes about 40 minutes.

Remove from the oven and allow to cool on metal racks.

By NANCY STAHL

At one time, we would casually fling around seemingly innocuous phrases such as "Did you know that the Wilson's baby finally learned to walk?"

Unfortunately, every time he heard the word "walk," our dog leaped three feet straight up in the air, ricocheted giddily off the walls while emitting a rapturous whimper-sob combination, then hurled himself into my arms and began licking my nose.

Explanations at this point were useless. There was nothing for it but to get out the leash, slip a trench coat over my pajamas, and have a quick trot around the block.

Equally dangerous were the words "eat" and "dinner" the uttering of which never failed to send our dog bounding into the kitchen in a paroxysm of drooling delight, where he would snatch up his plastic dish, press his head against the refrigerator, and begin moaning ecstatically.

The only solution we have found is to substitute other words for "eat," "walk," and "dinner." While it is an admirable arrangement, the resulting exchanges are, at best, bizarre.

"I'm going to Barbie's house now."

"Are you taking the bus?"

"No. I'm going to gump."

"That's a mighty long gump."

"Don't be silly. Gumping is good for you. By the way, what's there to markle?"

"How about a cookie?" "They are all gone. I'm so hungry I could markle a horse."

"What time is gorge?"

"About 5:00."

"How come we never markle gorge in restaurants any more?"

"I had thought we might tonight, but the car is sick."

"Why don't we gump?"

HINTS FROM Heloise

A Budget Saver For Baby's Bib 'N' Tucker

Dear Heloise:

During the past several months, my daughter has gone through countless bibs and, as you know, those plastic ties are the first part to go. Heretofore I have replaced them with a length of bias tape.

This time on the way through the sewing box to find the tape, a length of that two-piece nylon stick-together stripe caught my eye, and I knew immediately it was just the thing.

I put about two inches of the "fastener" at the neck opening of the bib and it works really great. No more broken ties, no more dangling strings, and, best of all, no more "hair-pulling" when fastening and unfastening the bib.

Mrs. R. Wibbelsmann

Dear Heloise:

I recently discovered an easy way to reheat baked potatoes. I cut the medium-sized spuds in half, placed them peel-side down in the cups of my egg poacher (no need to oil the cups), with water in the bottom of the poacher. Just put the lid on and place over the stove-burner. In minutes—hot potatoes!

For those who can't have fried foods, I find this hint a quickie.

Verna Helgeson

Dear Heloise:

I had an old pair of jeans that were ripped on the leg. Rather than throw them out, I put a patch on them.

I took a hard-cover book (about the size of the leg) and put it in the pants leg where the rip was. Then I sewed the patch on by hand.

It's so easy and saves time.

Young Reader

Dear Heloise:

Kitchen potholders seem to be getting thinner and thinner—often burned my hands on hot oven dishes.

Now I but two potholders, put one on top of the other and stitch together firmly.

I now have nice, thick ones like grandmother used, and no more burns!

Margaret Rogers

P.S. But I still burn the food sometimes!

Dear Heloise:

I was sewing on a sheer fabric that was lined, and the corners had to be squared.

Rather than using scissors to turn them as I usually do, I used a cotton bud.

Worked great and no holes in the sheer material.

Mrs. Little Demonstrates For Midland Porcelain Club

Mrs. Ruth Little of Lubbock demonstrated china painting to members of the Midland Porcelain Art Club when they met recently in the Midland Woman's Club.

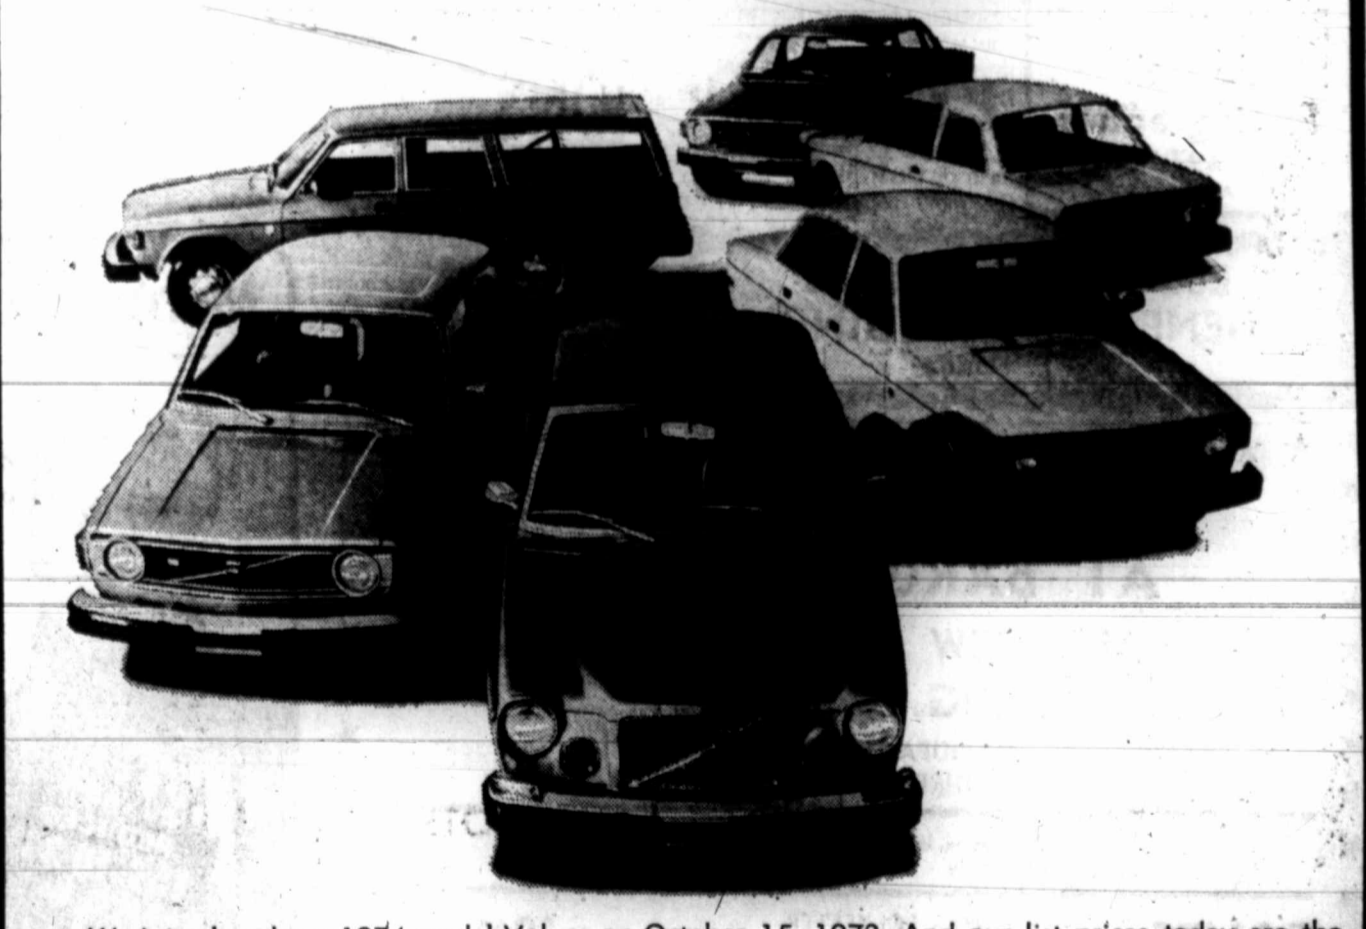

Mrs. Little, a widely known china painter, has traveled extensively throughout Europe, both as a student and teacher of the art. She taught for some time in Australia, and has published several books on the subject of china and glass painting. She also maintains an art studio in Lubbock.

The following slate of officers was elected, with installation to be held in April: Mrs. J. B. McCoy, president; Mrs. C. P. Robinson, first vice president; Mrs. A. W. Shaw, second vice president; Mrs. Rex D. Talley, recording secretary; Mrs. Faye Kelley, corresponding secretary; Mrs. T. L. Paris, treasurer; Mrs. Stella Maye Lanham, historian, and Mrs. E. E. Locklar, auditor.

Mrs. Melvin Simmons, club president, will be the club's representative to the Texas Porcelain Art Club convention scheduled April 3-5 in Brownsville. Other delegates include Mrs. McCoy, Mrs. W. H. Bond, Mrs. Roy McKee, Mrs. Jesse Burns, Mrs. T. L. Tyson, Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. Locklar, Mrs. Lanham, Mrs. L. H. Lock and Mrs. James B. Lyles.

Seven guests attended the meeting, including Mrs. Billie McCarty of Lubbock, daughter of Mrs. Little.

Valentines Origin Uncertain

By HELEN M. PAGEL
Copley News Service

Nobody seems to know just when the custom of giving Valentines originated, but certainly it has been in existence for at least 100 years—perhaps longer.

There is an old legend that St. Valentine, who lived many hundreds of years ago, spent his life helping the poor and needy, especially the children. When he became too old to visit them he wrote loving messages to all his friends. And to keep his memory alive, people continued to send messages to each other on St. Valentine's birthday which was Feb. 14.

Just how much actual truth there is in the story might be a matter of speculation, but certainly somebody started sending messages to someone and eventually friends were exchanging Valentines every 14th of February as a matter of course.

Valentine Day was a big event in school 50 or 60 years ago. Each room had a Valentine box which was covered with crepe paper and lavishly decorated with paper hearts and flowers and cupid and bows and arrows and whatever else the young designers' fancy dictated.

In those days you sent Valentines to your friends and only to your friends. There was no drawing of names to be sure that everyone in the room received exactly the same number of Valentines. That would have taken all the spice out of the day and made a pretty flat affair of it.

For half the fun was the suspense of wondering whether you would get as many Valentines as the girl who sat in front of you or the boy who sat across the aisle.

Actually it was an excellent form of discipline, for naturally the most popular children received the most Valentines, and if you didn't get very many it meant that you had better take a self-inventory and figure out just where you could do with some improvement. And it was surprising how well it worked.

Around the turn of the century, Valentines were heart-shaped and decorated with wild roses, forget-me-nots, pansies, carnations, morning glories and other old-fashioned flowers. Then there were cupids with bows and arrows, or plump red hearts or enormous white envelopes which probably contained affectionate messages.

Then came the era of chubby little boys and girls in blue overalls and bright-colored gingham dresses. There was one little girl in a green dress and pink hair ribbon who was buying hearts over the counter from a little boy in a blue-striped shirt and blue overalls.

There was a little girl in blue standing under a tree which bore heart-shaped apples, and a little girl in pink carrying a gay Japanese parasol and a mysterious package wrapped in white tissue paper.

There were Valentine postcards, too, but somehow they were never quite as popular as the other Valentines, although some of them had sparkles and little round shiny metal pieces on them which reflected the light in a dazzling way.

Car Company's Officials Named In Arrest Warrants

DALLAS (AP) — A company that moved from California to Dallas promising to make the Texas city a big auto manufacturing center found itself under control of a court-appointed receiver today and with its top officials dodging sheriff deputies armed with arrest warrants.

The warrants for Elizabeth Carmichael, 42, president of Twentieth Century Motor Car Corp., and 10 other company officials were issued Wednesday by the sheriff's office on a complaint filed by the Dallas district attorney's office. Justice of the Peace Robert Cole set individual bonds at $25,000.

The complaint charges conspiracy to commit theft by promoting a car the company said would revolutionize the automobile industry.

Warrants Issued

Warrants were issued shortly after a court hearing in which the company was denied a motion to dissolve a restraining order granted Tuesday prohibiting the company to sell stock in Texas.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Gerald

Banks said the charges stem from an investigation conducted by his office's specialized crime division of alleged sale of options to buy the cars and dealerships after making allegedly false claims about the automobile's capabilities.

Moved Last Week

Twentieth Century Motor Car Corp. moved to Texas from California last week saying it intended to begin production by the middle of the year, in a new Dallas plant, of its three-wheel, two cylinder Revette, a two-passenger car Mrs. Carmichael said would give 70 miles per gallon of gas. She said the car was made of a new plastic material and could stand crashes at a speed up to 30 miles per hour.

Late Wednesday night sheriff's deputies reported they could not find Mrs. Carmichael or other members of the corporation's staff. The company's new Texas offices were named Wednesday only by personnel under the direction of Dallas lawyer W. R. Session, who was appointed receiver for the company Tuesday by District Court Judge Dee Brown Walker.

"We have not seen any of the officers of the company since yesterday," a spokesman for

Sessions said Wednesday night. "We do not know where they are."

Went Through Home

Deputies went through Mrs. Carmichael's home Wednesday evening after a friend who was in the house opened the door for them. The friend said she had not seen Mrs. Carmichael.

Twentieth Century Motor Car Corp. came to Texas shortly after it was enjoined in California by the State Department of Corporations from selling stock in the firm to the public. The state agency said the firm did not have enough capital to back up investments.

California Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger, acting on behalf of the Commissioner of Corporations, filed suit Wednesday in Los Angeles Superior Court to enjoin Twentieth Century Motor Car Corp. from "continuing with the sale of securities and making misrepresentations and offers of securities."

In another development Wednesday, John Michael Power, a designer recently fired by the company, testified at a hearing that the prototype automobile promoted by the company was "cannibalized" and there were no original parts in it. He said the two-cylinder, air-cooled engine was the type used for portable generators and the steering wheel a type found on a small foreign car.

Prison Escapee Pleads Guilty To Slaying Of Rotan Rancher

ASPERMONT, Tex. (AP) — One of two Colorado prison escapees charged with capital murder in the death of a Rotan rancher faced life imprisonment today after pleading guilty to the slaying Wednesday.

Williams, 29, a former resident of Snyder, also pleaded guilty to robbing the slain rancher's son last August.

He was sentenced to two concurrent life prison terms, thus avoiding a possible death sentence, had he been convicted of capital murder.

Two jurors had been seated for Williams' trial here when he pleaded guilty before Judge William Ratliff.

Williams and Jerry Ulmer of Garland were charged with the killing of rancher T. L. Baker near Rotan in Stonewall County three days after they and Richard Mangum, 22, of Denver escaped from state prison in Colorado.

Mangum subsequently was killed by officers near Stephenville in a shootout after which Ulmer and Williams were captured. The shootout climaxed an intensive weeklong manhunt triggered by a two-day crime spree.

TIA, Union Again Break Off Talks

HOUSTON (AP) — Contract negotiations between officials of Texas International Airlines and the striking Air Line Employees Association have been broken off and no date for resuming them has been set.

TIA officials said negotiations halted Wednesday after the union refused to accept a package offered by the company.

Union officials were not available for comment here.

The National Mediation Board, which has been acting as a referee in the bargaining, said no date for resumption of the Washington talks to end the two-month-old strike had been set.

Other felony charges including rape, burglary, and assault totaling up to 16 have been filed against the men.

Williams was immediately transferred to the Texas penitentiary at Huntsville following sentencing here.

Lynn Confirmed For Budget Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has confirmed the nomination of James T. Lynn to be director of the Office of Management and Budget.

Lynn, now secretary of housing and urban development, will succeed Roy L. Ash, who resigned as budget chief.

Lynn was confirmed Wednesday by a voice vote.

Teague To Chair Technology Unit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Olin Teague, D-Tex., has been elected to succeed Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., as chairman of the Congressional Office of Technology Assessment.

Teague, chairman of the House Science and Technology Committee and a member of the panel since it was formed in 1969, will head the 12-member board which oversees activities of the Office of Technology Assessment.

The office advises Congress on technological development.

By statute, the board leadership posts shift between the House and Senate in alternate congresses.

TIA officials said negotiations halted Wednesday after the union refused to accept a package offered by the company.

Future Bulldog Roundballers, Edison Freshmen, have an all-city tournament starting at 3 p.m. Friday and at 9 a.m. Saturday in our MHS gym. Good luck, Edison!

ANIMAL FARM

"Send a Mouse to College" is a fund-raising plan in which students at Midland High will be given the opportunity of purchasing mice to be used for cancer research. Each mouse costs 51 cents, but students do not have to buy a whole mouse and there is of course, no limit to how many can be bought; the more the better. This project, sponsored by the Midland Youth Centers, is to further educate the youth to the dangers of cancer. Bulldogs, let's outsell those crosstown rivals and let it be a MHS mouse that discovers the cure to cancer.

THE GAMES PEOPLE PLAY

In one of the top meets of this year with the stiffest competition, Midland High's mermen came in fifth and mermen finished eight out of more than 100 teams in Dallas last weekend. The swimmers next big test will be at the Regional competition March 7-8 at the City of Midland pool. This is the first time ever to have swimming regional competition here in Midland. This meet will enable them to qualify for state competition.

THE CHOSEN

Please give Kim Martin and Steve Campbell your congratulations as Junior Rotarians and Terry Nelson as Junior Lion.

Stage stars are found in the MHS halls. Barbara Buckley and Beverly Hicks presently are performing in the Community Theater's musical production "Anything Goes."

ALL QUIET ON FRONT

Hey, Dogs, what is great big and suddenly empty? It's MHS, of course, with most of the Bulldog population sick with colds or flu. Get 'em antibodies!

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:

Youth is when you blame all your troubles on your parents; maturity is when you learn that everything is the fault of the younger generation.

Through rain, sleet, or snow the golf team carries on. Last weekend in the San Angelo Invitation Tournament, Kirk Branum set a new tournament medalist record with a two-day low score of 145. "Wood" you believe that Friday and Saturday the golfers will "swing" into action in San Antonio and "iron" out all contenders!

we're behind them all the way. Blazing their way to Odessa Friday and Saturday will be Ellen Tubb, Anita Wilson, Kim Martin, sets; Tammy Holton, Sara Moore, Laretta Poole, Cindy Pulte, Carolyn Wolf and Tracie Chandler, spikers!! After all, the games aren't that long and you don't want to do homework, do you?

On the victory road for their last out of town district games, Roundballers make their way to Abilene Friday night and to San Angelo Tuesday night. J.V. and Soph teams are doing well too, supporting only a few losses! New J.V. coach, Don Humphrey has inspired these teams to a successful season. Presented at a recent halftime was basketball sweetheart, Debbie Rassmussen. She, along with Karen Rooker and Carole Fisher, are basketball secretaries. The boys give their THANKS for these girls' support.

Federal Hamburger Program In Schools Is Grinding To Halt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government bought enough frozen ground beef in school cafeterias before the term is over, one of the largest buying programs on record.

Beef isn't bought at all in some school years. And the department bought 45 million pounds worth $43.4 million for the 1973-74 school year.

In other years, large quantities of poultry were bought for the school lunch program. The meat selected depends on what is cheapest and most available.

The purchases for the 1974-75 school year works out to more than 1 billion hamburgers, allowing for the Agriculture Department formula of slightly less than six servings from each pound. But the hamburger formula is illusory because ground beef, as most families know, can take on a variety of forms from meatballs to stew.

If all the beef were made into hamburgers, it would work out to cost the government about 13 cents each.

The price of ground beef during the past year has varied greatly. For example, the first batch last spring cost about $45 million for 45 million pounds or $1 per pound. The 134 million pounds purchased since last July 1 cost less than $92 million, or about 68 cents a pound.

One reason for the difference was that the first order had to be of superior quality from grain-fed cattle while the meat since July 1 has been of regular specification similar to ground beef in supermarkets.

Three Years After Flop, Jackson Is Bidding Again For Presidency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three years after his first presidential bid flopped, Sen. Henry M. Jackson is entering the 1976 race as one of the best-known and best-heeled of the Democratic contenders.

The 62-year-old Washington Democrat, who will declare his candidacy on a five-minute paid telecast tonight, raised some $1.1 million last year, more than all potential rivals except George Wallace.

He runs close to President Ford in opinion polls, is putting together a broad-based organization and is in the midst of the congressional battles on energy and the economy.

But Jackson's vote-getting ability on a national level was placed in question by his 1972 showing. He also has a problem that was emphasized, probably accidentally, by a man who could turn out to be a major supporter, Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago.

It happened in 1973 when Daley introduced Jackson as the main speaker at the annual Cook County Democratic dinner. "And with God's help," Daley intoned, "Scoop Jackson will lead this nation in 1960."

To many liberal Democrats, Jackson is more a candidate for 1960 than for 1976, still holding pro-military, anti-Soviet "Cold War" views.

Jackson, however, sees himself as the man who can put back together the traditional New Deal-style Democratic coalition that enabled his party to win seven of nine presidential elections between 1932 and 1964.

However, Jackson first will have to be nominated. Even his backers say this will depend on whether he is able in the early 1976 primaries to erase the memory of 1972, when he was third in Florida after a major effort, fell to fifth in Wisconsin.

and finished a weak third in Ohio.

Until 1972, Jackson had always been considered a champion vote-getter in his home state of Washington. He won 11 straight elections, starting at age 26

Two Texas Cities First To Share Federal Bonanza

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Texas cities, Fort Worth and Sinton, will share nearly $3 million in federal community development funds under a new law which eventually will aid more than 1,200 cities.

Municipal League Opposes Utilities Commission Plan

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Municipal League has come out against passage of legislation that would create a new state agency to regulate public utilities.

Instead, it said, intrastate long distance telephone rates should be regulated by an existing agency, such as the Texas Railroad Commission.

Laws providing for regulation of local electric, gas and telephone service by municipalities should be clarified and rewritten, the league said.

While wanting most regulation to remain at the city level, the league said a nine-member state board should be created to hear appeals from rate decisions. There also should be a state agency to provide expert assistance on utility matters to local governments.

when he was elected prosecuting attorney of Shoshone County.

Two years after winning his first election, Jackson was elected to the House. After 12 years there, he was elected to the Senate in 1952.

His Senate seat is up for election in 1976, but Washington's primary is in September and Jackson won't have to decide whether to seek a fifth term until after the 1976 Democratic convention.

By then, he hopes to parlay a combination of organization Democrats, labor leaders and Jews into the party's nomination. Long a supporter of Israel, Jackson sponsored the amendment to prevent trade concessions to Russia unless it permitted expanded emigration of Soviet Jews.

Jackson Blamed

When the Soviets denounced the trade bill, the Ford administration blamed Jackson. But the senator is convinced that limits on credits to the Russians, rather than the emigration amendment, led to the action.

Though he gained a reputation in 1972 as a boring speaker, he often displays himself to be a forceful questioner at committee sessions.

Rockets Kill 12 In Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Two Khmer Rouge rockets killed 12 persons and wounded 45 in the heart of Phnom Penh today. Many of the victims were schoolchildren in a crowded classroom.

It was the heaviest toll from a rocket attack on the Cambodian capital since the Cambodians began an offensive in the Phnom Penh area on New Year's Day. Officials said that since then, 553 rockets have been fired into the city and its airport, killing 74 persons and wounding more than 335.

for more, little survivors under 10 ran wildly about, tears streaming down their faces. Blood-covered books were strewn about the classroom.

Frightened families rushed to the school. The wail of mothers could be heard above the din of pieces of construction material and glass through the classroom beneath the tree. Nine of the 107 children reciting their morning French lesson in unison were killed instantly, and 35 were wounded.

All were under 10 years old. The side of his two dead children and sobbed quietly, rocking back and forth on his knees.

Salvation Army Begins Program For Families Of Huntsville Inmates

By JAN WILLIAMS

Inmates at the State Penitentiary in Huntsville may soon be experiencing more lenient visiting privileges if the Salvation Army comes through with its latest project.

Mrs. G. S. Humphries at Andrews, who is working with the Salvation Army in Odessa, in an effort to initiate the program, says it will involve chartering buses to transport area persons wanting to visit inmates in Huntsville.

Mrs. Humphries maintains that many area persons are not able to visit their relatives or friends at the prison because of lack of transportation, or because of the expense it would involve to travel there.

The Salvation Army's program involves the chartering of buses for these persons at a nominal fee. Mrs. Humphries estimates the cost per person, roundtrip, at $25.

In order to charter a bus, 32 persons must sign up for the trip. Since initiation of the program last November, 20 persons have signed up. Should more than 32 sign up, another bus could be chartered.

Interested persons in the West Texas area may contact the Salvation Army, P. O. Box 1244, Odessa, or Mrs. G. S. Humphries, 911 N.W. 5th St., Andrews.

Necessary information includes a name, number and unit of the inmate, and the visitor's relationship to the inmate.

Visiting time has been extended from two hours on Saturdays and Sundays to four hours on Saturdays and Sundays, if visitors have traveled 500 miles or more.

Expected departure from this area will be on a Friday night, with an estimated time of arrival in Huntsville Saturday morning. Visits would then be conducted Saturday and the chartered bus would depart Saturday night.

Mrs. Humphries says further details will be worked out when the required number of persons have signed up for the trip. There is no cutoff date for the program. It will continue as long as possible until enough persons have signed up.

Mrs. Humphries says a similar program was sponsored by the Catholic Church in Amarillo and the First Christian Church in Lubbock. But it failed after four to six months, because of a lack of interest.

Packers Owe Beef Feeders For Animals

DALLAS (AP) — The president of the National Livestock Feeders Association (NLFA) estimates that feeders are owed between $20 million and $25 million by American Beef Packers, Inc.

The Omaha-based meat packing firm has filed for reorganization under federal bankruptcy laws.

Milton J. Brown of Mount Pleasant, Mich., president of the 22,000-member NLFA, said in an interview the American Beef problems point up the need for programs or legislation to guarantee that feeders are paid for their animals.

Expects New Proposals
Brown said he expects the NLFA to come up with some proposals during their annual convention here this week.

Brown said the meat packers have resisted attempts to guarantee payments for livestock within a certain time period. But the American Beef situation has given the backers of such guarantees a new weapon.

Brown said most feeders—the men who take cattle and fatten them up before selling them to slaughter and packing firms—are losing money now.

He said the problem is one of oversupply which began when feeders and producers stepped up expansion in 1972 to meet the growing demand for meat. That was during the "meat shortage" days.

Record Cattle Supply
Now the cattle supply is at a record level, but feed prices are high and consumers—caught by inflation-recession—are less willing to buy quality meat cuts, Brown said.

Many feeders have cut back their operations. They say that by the time they purchase a young calf and fatten it on expensive grain-feeds, they cannot sell it at a profit.

Brown said he believes meat prices will begin to stabilize as production declines to meet demand.

Another goal of the NLFA, is the removal of barriers, both foreign and domestic, to allow the free movement of meat and meat products.

Brown said he believes the heaviest losses are over for the feeder industry, but bleaker days lie ahead for the producers—the ranchers and cattlemen who raise the baby animals and sell them to the feeders.

By ROBERT HEARD
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Barbers are fighting for their economic lives and will be seriously harmed by proposed legislation allowing cosmetologists to cut hair, says Charles Babb, lawyer for United Barbers of Texas.

He testified before the House State Affairs Committee Wednesday night in opposition to two bills that would allow cosmetologists to cut hair.

Rep. Benn Munson, D-Denton, asked: Babb, "Who does it hurt?"

Barbers Claim Injury
"It's putting barbers out of business," Babb replied. "What if we passed a law that said real estate brokers could practice law just like lawyers?"

Munson, a lawyer, grinned and said, "You done gone to meddling?"

The lawyer for the Texas Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, Cooper Blankenship, agreed it was an economic issue. Half of the income of cosmetologists comes from cutting hair, he said.

"Millions of dollars are involved here, and the livelihoods of thousands of people," he said.

1971 Law Stricken
Under a 1971 Texas law, barbers could cut men's hair, and cosmetologists could cut women's hair. A federal court in Dallas struck down that distinction because it discriminated on the basis of sex.

Both barbers and cosmetologists then began cutting hair of both sexes, but the barbers filed a district court suit in Austin to stop the cosmetologists, and the court held that the legislature never would have passed the 1971 cosmetology law if it had known the federal court would rule it discriminated sexually.

Therefore, Blankenship said,

Old furniture frames are generally better than most new ones. Hines-Woods can redo your frame with half the cost of a new piece of furniture. After you select the fabric, the price quoted is the price of reupholstering. Direct-from-the-mill buying enables Hines-Woods to pass the savings on to the customer.

Besides, on approved credit, you may have up to 12 months to pay.

You may visit Hines-Woods and look over the variety of colors and designs of upholstery materials or in order to select the exact pattern and color for your home, call for one of Hines-Woods qualified people to bring samples into your home. If you select an in-the-store fabric labor will be free. If you desire something that is not in stock, then labor is extra.

Visit Hines-Woods whatever your upholstery needs. The experts at Hines-Woods can do the work on one piece or many. Visit the store at 5109 Andrews Hwy. or call 694-8891.

Auto Workers Demand Jobs In Mass Protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — With unemployment rising, Wednesday's protest by 10,000 auto workers demanding jobs may be a prelude to mass worker demonstrations as discontent grows within organized labor.

United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock threatened again to return in the spring with a quarter-million workers if the government fails to take immediate action to restore the nation's economic health.

"Our country needs action and it needs it now," Woodcock declared. "If Congress doesn't listen, we've got to come down here, 200,000 to 250,000 in the streets, to make them listen."

Some 10,000 UAW members, most of them laid off from their jobs, shouted their approval and responded with chants of "We want jobs."

After the rally, Woodcock told newsmen he has discussed with other labor leaders the possibility of mass worker mobilization protests in Washington and other cities.

He declined to identify the union chiefs, but in recent weeks leaders of electrical, textile and tobacco unions have made similar suggestions.

"What we have to do is pull out our troops and come back with a massive army," President Paul Jennings of the International Union of Electrical Workers told an emergency meeting of the AFL-CIO general board here two weeks ago.

Although the AFL-CIO has yet to take an official position on calls for mass protests, George Meany, the federation's president, sent Woodcock a telegram Wednesday saying his organization is "fully united in this battle to put America back to work" and pledging to lobby side by side with the UAW for jobs.

The UAW rally at the Washington armory was the largest workers' protest in the capital since Woodcock's predecessor, the late Walter Reuther, organized a similar demonstration during the 1958 recession.

AP Shifts Major News Attention

YORK (AP) — The Associated Press began to shift news attention from Watergate and the grassroots coverage in the past few days, according to AP executives today.

View of the United States had become distorted by the Washington news back in the rest of the country, Gallagher said in his report to AP members.

It became particularly with the onslaught of the crisis and recession that the entire nation in view.

AP's own Marketbasket Round-up mirrored price trends, and a series of roundups on the why and how of meat prices, on fuel supplies and utility rates were among many stories that focused the report on the daily concerns of readers.

"Reporting like this seemed the best journalistic response to a time of uncertainties."

Geared To Watergate

Gallagher pointed out that AP's Washington staff remained geared throughout the year to Watergate news, to the release of White House tape transcripts, the impeachment inquiry and the resignation of President Nixon.

"The transcripts," he added, "involved wire movement of text material in unprecedented volume: some 78,000 words of presidential text, Nixon's lawyer's summary of what the transcripts showed, excerpts of key passages — and finally the

HEMISPHERE REPORT—

Communists Turn On Mrs. Maria Peron

By WILLIAM GIANDONI Copley News Service

In Argentina, the Communists seem to be abandoning hope of getting a foothold.

The Moscow-line Argentine Communist Party is complaining that the government of President Maria Estela Peron is making deals with the oligarchy and the monopolies.

Nuestra Palabra, the Communist weekly, recently called on Argentina's "democratic and anti-imperialist forces" to join ranks and redouble their fight against reactionaries.

That is a thinly veiled call to arms against the government of Mrs. Peron and signals a radical turn in Communist policy in Argentina.

Argentina Communists have been on their good behavior for almost two years now, since they regained legality after the Peronists won the elections in 1973.

Most of the guerrilla activity, the killings, bombings, kidnappings and terrorism that have plagued Argentina have been attributed to other Marxist-oriented groups, including even extremists within the Peronist movement.

But the Communist Party of Argentina (PCA) has worked hard to maintain a facade of respectability.

How many times have you heard the expressions "nothing is new," "nothing is true," and "nothing really matters."

This makes nothing pretty important, doesn't it?

It is said further that nothing is controversial, for there are very few people who agree on nothing.

One would think... but then again, nothing is the name of the game.

And of all the scholars and experts here and elsewhere across the nation, not a single one of them dares claim that he knows nothing.

This nothing business is right intriguing when one gets to researching it.

Hope we can remember next year's observance so we can wish you a Happy Nothing Day!

Education At National Level

By KENNETH J. RABEN Copley News Service

A classic confrontation over access to pupil records and government harassment is under way between a major school system, Congress and a federal civil rights office.

Involved in the dispute are the Anne Arundel County, Md., school system, outside Washington, D. C.; Maryland's state school board and the governor; U.S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall Jr., R-Md.; U.S. Rep. Marjorie Holt, R-Anne Arundel County, on one side; and on the other, the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare's (HEW) civil rights office and the Department of Justice, which has filed complaints and requests for injunctions in federal district court.

At issue is whether the federal government or the local board will control the schools, says Thomas J. Wohlgemuth, board attorney. For county taxpayers, it could mean the loss of $7 million to $8 million in federal funds, or about eight cents on a county real estate tax bill.

An investigation has been under way about 18 months, but it was only last August that the civil rights office formally advised county school officials that it was investigating discrimination complaints under Title IV of the Civil Rights Act related to pupil discipline.

The complaints allege that different standards were used for black and white pupils; that the number of blacks disciplined, suspended and expelled far exceeded the proportion of blacks in the school system by any reasonable measure; and that discipline was being used to force blacks from schools, thereby maintaining an illegally segregated system.

About a year ago, an independent contractor working for the civil rights office demanded within one week information that would have taken Supt. Edward J. Anderson 18 months to compile. That is when the superintendent and school board decided they had had enough.

The civil rights office, acting under federal regulations, had continued to ask for individual pupil records, other documents and access to school personnel.

School officials have provided a great deal of information, but drew the line at individual pupil data, Anderson says to do so would violate state regulations and attorney Wohlgemuth adds that the request violates the new Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act.

Anderson asked Gov. Marvin Mandel to have the state school board investigate the federal allegations and clear his school system. The state board formed an investigatory panel. Mandel, meanwhile, met with HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger in a futile effort to quash the probe.

The board counsel said civil rights office investigators demanded to interview school personnel at any time of their choosing without a third party or lawyer present. Investigators also threatened school officials and personnel with loss of federal funds, Wohlgemuth explained.

The battle became enmeshed in national politics last October when Mrs. Holt introduced HR 16900. It would have prevented such investigations or made them pointless since the penalty for failure to comply — loss of federal funds — no longer would have existed.

The House defeated the bill, but it was inserted in a House-Senate conference committee report on an education appropriations measure.

This gave Sen. Beall the opportunity to file legislation to exempt the county from certain Civil Rights Act regulations. Ironically, the bill was filed the same day that the senator's brother, George Beall, the U.S. attorney for the District of Maryland, joined the Justice Department in filing a complaint in federal court to enforce the act. The bill failed.

Wohlgemuth points out that the U.S. attorney general did not notify the school district of Civil Rights Act violations before going to court, despite federal laws requiring such notice.

The Post-Watergate Mood Of Fear Cited

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Efforts to politically insulate President Ford from the spreading congressional investigations of the Central Intelligence Agency reached a ludicrous peak when Ambassador Richard Helms, former CIA director, was invited in for an Oval office chat with Mr. Ford two weeks ago.

Without the President's knowledge, top White House aides quietly took Helms aside before he entered the Oval Office to warn him that the President was "the nation's highest law enforcement officer." Translated, that meant Helms should fully understand that anything he told the President about CIA activities during the time he ran the nation's intelligence operations could be used against him.

Conveyor of that incredible warning, White House aides have confirmed to us, was the President's chief counsel, Philip Buchen. But other senior presidential aides fully supported Buchen's position.

The reason goes to their fear that, in the wake of sensational Watergate exposures of cover-up by President Nixon, Mr. Ford could be vulnerable to charges that he learned about questionable intelligence activities and tried to conceal his knowledge — a new "cover-up."

Inside the CIA, the State Department and the Pentagon, this effort to insulate the President from the facts and to place him, in effect, in an adversary role to the CIA at its time of maximum political danger is viewed as an outrage.

At one point White House aides actually considered not allowing Helms to see the President at all on his return from his ambassadorial post in Iran to face congressional inquisitors. That extreme position did not carry, but the warning to Helms did.

The warning dramatizes the post-Watergate mood of fear and recrimination which many top officials feel is undermining the CIA and other intelligence-gathering organizations as the politicians run for cover. The fact is that the CIA, both during and before Helms' directorship, seldom if ever strayed from the secret policy and operational directives laid down right from the Oval Office.

formal political opposition is tolerated. In Central America, there are frequent terrorist incidents attributed to the Communists or Marxists, and most of the governments seem to maintain their guard high against them.

Even in Mexico, if one is to judge by the public protests of the Communists and other Marxists, President Luis Echeverria does not tolerate any subversion of his government.

Much the same is true in the Caribbean. While the governments of the island republics do often adopt left-leaning stances in their foreign policy, they do not hesitate to crack down on Marxists who make so bold as to challenge them.

The Post-Watergate Mood Of Fear Cited

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Efforts to politically insulate President Ford from the spreading congressional investigations of the Central Intelligence Agency reached a ludicrous peak when Ambassador Richard Helms, former CIA director, was invited in for an Oval office chat with Mr. Ford two weeks ago.

Without the President's knowledge, top White House aides quietly took Helms aside before he entered the Oval Office to warn him that the President was "the nation's highest law enforcement officer."

Conveyor of that incredible warning, White House aides have confirmed to us, was the President's chief counsel, Philip Buchen. But other senior presidential aides fully supported Buchen's position.

The reason goes to their fear that, in the wake of sensational Watergate exposures of cover-up by President Nixon, Mr. Ford could be vulnerable to charges that he learned about questionable intelligence activities and tried to conceal his knowledge — a new "cover-up."

Inside the CIA, the State Department and the Pentagon, this effort to insulate the President from the facts and to place him, in effect, in an adversary role to the CIA at its time of maximum political danger is viewed as an outrage.

At one point White House aides actually considered not allowing Helms to see the President at all on his return from his ambassadorial post in Iran to face congressional inquisitors. That extreme position did not carry, but the warning to Helms did.

Urban Crime Rate Is Soaring Again

WASHINGTON (KFS) — A prediction: The law-and-order issue is on the tracks again, building up steam to roar back into American politics with the oomph of one of yesteryear's big eight-wheeleders.

Skeptics need only watch the way in which unemployment and crime are moving up together. After leveling off from 1970-73, the urban crime rate is soaring again. Detroit's surge can be chalked up partly to the city's huge, special auto-related unemployment. But the trend is almost as bad in other major cities.

Consider the situation in Chicago. Although joblessness is a bit below the national average, the crime rate has climbed sharply since unemployment began spreading in September. Fourth quarter 1974 murders were 61 per cent above figures for the same period in 1973. Fourth quarter 1974 robberies were up 55 per cent.

Criminologists aren't sure why. Some feel that crime follows the business cycle, and now is rising with unemployment. Inflation adds to economic pressure. Other experts mention the dangerous age profile of the slums — the birthrate of the 1950s has swollen the crime-prone 15-25 age bracket.

Then there is the impact of television violence which makes crime seem stylish and death uneventful in a plastic sort of way. Although unemployment is doubtless a major contributory factor, I can't buy it as the basic explanation.

First of all, most criminals are chronically unemployed; they are not people driven to crime by losing their job. Secondly, while the 1930s showed some upsurge in crime, there is just no comparison. Books about the depression contain relatively few references to the crime rate. Our big cities had more crime in 1966, when the national unemployment rate was under 4 per cent, than they did in 1933, when unemployment was at 25 per cent!

A better explanation probably lies in the disintegration of urban culture that has taken place over the last 40 years. Since Roosevelt's days, black migrations from the South have poured into Northern inner cities. Millions of illegal aliens have come in the last decade. Unemployment is high, reaching 30 to 40 per cent among ghetto youngsters.

For many families, welfare is a way of life. Spreading joblessness is icing the cake of despair, and increasing inflammatory television violence is adding a dangerous catalyst that did not exist in 1933.

All of the factors probably responsible for the late 1974 upsurge are expected to get worse as 1975 progresses.

Petroleum Tests Scheduled For Permian Basin Sectors Total 86

Operators exploring for oil and gas and planning development of existing fields in the Permian Basin of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico, last week filed applications for 86 projects.

Twelve of the scheduled tests were wildcats and the remaining 74 were field projects.

Texas Railroad Commission District 8 office, with headquarters in Midland, received the largest number of applications in both categories. The office processed applications for permits to drill five wildcats, and 35 development wells.

Southeast New Mexico got three new prospector sites, while RRC Districts 8-A (Lubbock), and 7-C (San Angelo), recorded two each.

In pool tests, Lubbock talked 14, San Angelo, 12 and Southeast New Mexico, 13.

The county-by-county tabulation:

Swap Meet Invigorating

By MORAG VELJKOVIC
Copley News Service

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — How can one begin to explain the thrill of it all? Let me see. It's like getting something for nothing, it's the age-old trick of bartering and it brings out my Scottish blood. I loved my first day at the Las Vegas swap meet.

Las Vegas—billions and trillions of dollars are changing hands in casinos up and down the Strip, where the only sound that fills the air is the clanking of slot machines, the click of the craps dealer, the click of the roulette wheel.

Fortunes crisscross back and forth over the green baize tables; reputations are made and ruined in a flash; laughter is practically nonexistent in these clockless casinos. But where is yours truly? Standing behind a makeshift stall with a variety of relics for sale; sweating under the hot sun along with hundreds of other hardy souls who relish the fresh air.

Every Saturday and Sunday morning, Las Vegas flock to the local drive-in where a swap meet is held. There is to be bargain and barter, to boo and cheer, to argue and exchange. What is so attractive about junk? Why is there such a wave of enthusiasm over my plastic tree, fruit and flowers? Come to think of it, my whole stall is a veritable shrine in plastic, all relics left by long-gone tenants.

What on earth has made that man buy a mixer sans beaters? And why did that lady give me 50 cents for a chipped plate? What is worse, why have I bought another useless ornament? Of course, I'm a once-a-year swap meetee but I strolled along to the market for a few hours and discovered that it is a serious business for some people. Indeed they live off their takings—they're the pros.

For others it is a place to go where they can meet new people. As one elderly lady put it, "If I wasn't sitting here smiling at the world, I'd be home alone and miserable. So, I make things for a few weeks then come here and set up a stall."

There are whole streets of housewives who gather up their communal junk to sell, then split the profits.

There are those who come at 6:30 empty-handed, buy from other stalls for a couple of hours and then set up their own stands.

I met businessmen and housewives, dancers and shopkeepers, I also met prospector Mark Dotson. Mining is a hard business in southern Utah and money is tight. Dotson gathers up all the old bits and bobs thrown away by fellow prospectors — old kettles with holes in them, worn shoes and even old chamber pots with ... you guessed it ... holes in them. He does a roaring business selling them to doctors and attorneys as conversation-piece planters.

And why do people go to swap meets to buy?

The general consensus is that you get better service than you do in the shops, you bypass the middleman's profit, you meet fascinating people from every walk of life, and someone else always has something that you desperately want. The whole fun is in the bargaining which goes something like this:

"How much is the vase?"

"Five dollars."

"I'll give you $3."

"Sold for $4.50. Thank you."

We parted contentedly and an ornament that I've always detested (wedding present) departs forever into the vague blue yonder.

There are terrific bargains to be had but really good stuff doesn't move too fast.

Junk Sells Best

It's the real honest-to-goodness junk that flies back and forth between eager hands.

Yes sir, maybe the millions are crossing the tables in Las Vegas casinos but the spirit isn't the same and the easy joke-cracking camaraderie is conspicuously absent. Driving in our air-conditioned boxes on wheels, speeding through a supermarket checkstand may be our new way of life but it can also be a lonely way. People do need people, bar a few exceptions, and the swap-meet provides a perfect excuse for human contact.

Ants Attack Police

SYDNEY (AP) — Millions of flying white ants attacked the Darlinghurst police station in Sydney, climbing into switchboard holes and devouring paper on police teletype machines. Parts of the building had to be evacuated briefly and officers called in insecticide sprayers from the Public Works Department.

The Patriot Years

Copley News Service
From the Pennsylvania Packet, Philadelphia, January 1775, 200 years ago:

EXTRACT OF A LETTER From Portsmouth, New Hampshire dated DEC. 16:

"We have been in confusion here for two-days, on account of an express from Boston, informing that two regiments were coming to take possession of our fort."

"By best of drum 200 men immediately assembled and went to the castle in two gun-dalows, who on their way were joined by 150 more, and demanded the surrender of the fort, which Capt. Cochran refused; and fired three guns, but no lives were lost."

Iran Seems Hell-Bent On Hurling Itself Into 21st Century

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

TEHRAN (AP)— "Beard... moustache... special," Reza, my taxi driver, kept saying over and over. He was learning English at the rate of three words a day to get a better job in the oil fields. Those were his words for the day. "My father," he said over the blaring horns of a noon traffic jam, "has retired as a night watchman on a 9,000-rail ($135)-a-month pension. This is twice what he made when he worked. Iran is now rich, like America. My older brother makes 1,500 rials ($223) a month driving a forklift truck. He left school in the sixth grade to care for my uncle's camels."

Iran is rich, all right. Like Reza, the whole country is hell-bent on hurling itself into the 21st Century. With oil pumping $2 billion a month into the Shah of Iran's treasury, schools, roads, hospitals, air bases, ports, steel mills and nuclear power plants are going up all over the country, which is roughly the size of the United States east of the Mississippi. "Everyday life gets a little less primitive for Iran's 32 million people, still 60 per cent illiterate, but changes often come so fast the police have to use force to make villagers abandon their palm-frond shacks and move into the 300,000 new electrified and centrally heated homes going up each year.

Tehran, population 3.3 million, is building a subway, an airport for the supersonic Concorde and block after block of high rise banks and office buildings. It remains, perhaps, the largest city in the world without a sewage system—its open-ditch drainage canals are used illegally to carry off garbage.

Its pollution, mostly from the rickety old buses, and its traffic congestion are the worst in the Middle East. In a land pumping six million barrels of oil a day, gasoline sells for 25 cents a gallon.

But a new Chevrolet, made in Iran, costs $11,000, and there is a five-year wait for delivery. A Mercedes-Benz or a Cadillac, both dear to the image of Iranian bureaucrats, costs $62,000, which includes 500 per cent import duties.

Since helping to increase world oil prices fourfold, the Shah of Iran has had his own problems with inflation at home, now running 20 to 25 per cent annually.

Iranians, fanatical tv watchers, receive both the government channel and U.S. Armed Forces Network. By summer, they will have color tv. A color set costs $2,000; black and white, $600. "Naked City" and "Perry Mason" top the popularity charts, but right behind is "Norad, the Electrician," a locally produced comedy show.

Helicopters are a daily, almost hourly sight in Tehran.

ferrying off heads of state to see the Shah. But camels still come to town, especially near March 21, Iranian New Year's Day.

Iran is one of the few countries in the world where income taxes are going down — about $100 a month less for most workers and none at all for professional military personnel.

After Saudi Arabia, Iran is the world's second largest oil exporter, yet its crown jewels, which include one half of the world's cut diamonds, serve as backing for 75 per cent of the national currency. When Empress Farah Diba wants to dazzle with a bauble, like the egg-sized Star of Light diamond, she sends off an order form to the Central Bank, where the jewels are kept along with the Peacock Throne, set with 26,733 emeralds and rubies.

"Iran's agriculture," says an American agronomist, "is absolutely stagnant and food consumption is rising 10 per cent a year. People want more and can afford more but the Shah has got to do something to get the farm economy going." Since decreeing his "white revolution" from the throne, land reform has broken up old estates, which sometimes were as big as Switzerland.

But big agricultural cooperatives have left the small farmer, who still produces 90 per cent of Iran's agricultural products, little better off than before. Many are abandoning their farms in the 60,000 villages for better jobs in the oil fields.

Abraham, Isaac and Jacob are rug dealers all in a row in Tehran's busiest of Persian markets near the British Embassy. All are prominent and prosperous members of Iran's old and large community of 250,000 Jews.

"Thank God for the Shah of Iran," says Abraham Cohen, one of six brothers in the rug trade. "He gives Israel its oil; he gives us the freedom to live in peace."

Iran also has a quarter-million Christians and large regions of Kurds, Baluchis, Turks, Azerbaijanis and Armenians, most of whom do not speak Farsi, the native language, but give meaning to George S. Kaufman's famous quip: "One man's Mede is another man's Persian."

Now, amid the oil bonanza, all are seeking a corner of paradise, a Persian word meaning "the King's domain."

Most Toll Roads

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — Pack plenty of change if you're driving through Kentucky. According to the 1975 Rand McNally Road Atlas, that state leads the nation in the number of toll roads, with 10. Florida and Oklahoma share second place with five toll roads each.

Think Of Defense In Planning Play

Which suit should you try to develop? This is a problem of offense, but you may have to answer the question by thinking of the defense.

Opening lead — ♠ 6

West opens the six of spades, and you must decide whether to try for the clubs or for the diamonds. How do you make your choice?

The way to hamper the defense is to knock out the entry of the dangerous opponent before he can make good use of his right to lead. West is the dangerous opponent, since he has presumably led from a long spade suit. You must plan to work on clubs rather than diamonds to knock out West's entry early.

Refuse First Trick

You refuse the first trick, allowing East to win the queen of spades. Take the spade return in dummy and take a club finesse. West wins and forces out the king of spades.

Now, however, the West hand is dead. You cash the ace of clubs and give up a club trick to East's queen. No matter what East returns you can take nine tricks.

You would lose the contract if you went after the diamonds. East would win the first diamond and would return a spade to set up West's suit. When West got the lead with the queen of diamonds, he would run the spades to defeat the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer, at your right, bids one club. You hold: S-K 10 4 H-A 9 5 D-9 C-A J 10 8 6 2. What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass. If your opponent has a short club suit, you may be able to make two clubs but it will be no great triumph. If he has a real club suit, there is no advantage in rescuing him and getting yourself into the soup.

Fresh Air Doesn't Protect Nepalese From Disease, Malnutrition

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — About half the babies born into this kingdom of unspoiled mountains and pure Himalayan air get sick and die before the age of 5.

More than 80 per cent of the rosy-cheeked mountain folk who climb smiling along the trails linking Nepal's remote villages suffer from intestinal diseases.

Despite an almost complete lack of industrial and automotive pollution, about 12 per cent of those who find their way to hospital are found to suffer respiratory troubles.

"Fresh air and good environment don't make a man healthy," said Dr. Nagendra Dhoj Joshi, director-general of the Nepalese Health Service.

The 12 million Nepalese, blessed by surroundings of pristine natural beauty, are also cursed by undernourishment and traditions that help make them among the unhealthiest people on earth.

"Nepal is not unique; it just may be a little worse," said a public health expert in Katmandu, referring to the generally poor health of undeveloped nations.

But the extent of disease — life expectancy is 40-43 years — nonetheless staggers a Westerner.

"In all the hospitals, if you go, the No. 1 problem is intestinal disease," said Joshi. "People have got no latrines. They don't like that smell. So they just go into the fields or the rivers."

As a result, he added, between 80 and 100 per cent of the population suffers from infections brought on by use of unclean water. Infants are particularly susceptible.

"It is probably true that at least one-half the population never reaches 5 years of age and that of those, half die of preventable diseases," said an American health adviser.

Other killer diseases in Nepal are smallpox, malaria, tuberculosis and whooping cough, he said.

"Underlying all this is malnutrition," added the adviser. "In well nourished kids, these diseases don't kill."

Also responsible are the severe winters in northern Nepal's mountain regions, where villagers huddle more than a dozen in a room to keep warm with body heat.

The Nepalese Health Ministry has a budget of $8 million to grapple with the problem. The country has only 2,000 hospital beds for a population of 12 million.

Artists Exhibition Planned At Abilene

ABILENE — The Abilene Fine Arts Museum is announcing its 31st annual artists exhibition, which will be open to Permian Basin artists as well as those throughout Texas.

The show, which will open here March 2, will offer $450 in cash awards in addition to purchase prizes totaling $1,000. The museum is accepting entries until Feb. 21. Entry fees will be retained whether or not the entries are accepted. Attached entry blank and notification card must accompany entries.

All entries must be in good condition, framed and ready for hanging, and must have a label firmly attached to the back upper right hand corner of the painting or frame. Artists who fail to receive a prospectus and labels may request them by writing to the AMFA at P.O. Box 1858, Abilene 79604. Sculpture must be of a size to go through a regular doorway.

An entry fee of $3 per entry and completed entry form must be mailed to the Abilene Fine Arts Museum by Feb. 21. Entry fees will be retained whether or not the entries are accepted. Attached entry blank and notification card must accompany entries.

All entries must be in good condition, framed and ready for hanging, and must have a label firmly attached to the back upper right hand corner of the painting or frame. ## Final Audition Sunday For 'Drink To Me Only'

Midland Community Theatre will hold one more tryout session before casting its March production, "Drink To Me Only."

The courtroom comedy has parts for 11 men and seven women. The first three tryout sessions early this week drew a number of qualified actors and actresses, MCT spokesman said, but not enough to fill all parts.

More men are needed to audition for the comedy, it was announced. MCT "old hands" and city newcomers are equally welcome to read for parts.

The fourth and final tryout session will begin at 2 p.m. Sunday in the children's room at Theatre Centre. No parts will be filled until after that time. Copies of the script are available at the theater office.

Casa Manana Will Present 'Taming Of Shrew' Feb. 17-21

FORT WORTH — The Casa Manana Playhouse will present Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew" Feb. 17-21 as part of its Classics Series for middle school and high school students in the area. Performances will be at 10 a.m. each day.

The Playhouse production will be executed with set design and costumes based on the "cavalier" period of 1685-90. Cook, as director, believes that the gaiety of this period's apparel and furnishings will heighten the comedy action in "Shrew."

Information about general admission to the series of performances may be obtained by telephoning the Casa Manana box office at (817)332-6221.

Priceless Renaissance Paintings Stolen In Italy

URBINO, Italy (AP) — Three priceless paintings by the Renaissance masters Raphael and Piero della Francesca were stolen early today from the Ducal Palace in Urbino. Police said it was the "greatest art theft in modern Italy."

The police said the thieves climbed a scaffold erected on the palace wall for restoration work, broke a window and escaped with Raphael's "La Muta" (The Mute Girl) and Piero della Francesca's "Madonna of Senigallia and The Flagellation of Christ."

The canvases were taken from their frames, which were left behind.

Officials said the value of the paintings could not be estimated since it has been years since a work by either painter has come on the market. Although Raphael is the more popular of the two, the paintings by Piero della Francesca were considered among the best examples of that 15th Century master's work still in existence.

Officials said the three paintings would be difficult if not impossible to sell since they are so well known.

There were two theories: that the thieves had been commissioned by a collector who would keep the paintings for his secret enjoyment, or that they would try to collect ransom for their return.

The Ducal Palace is now a museum.

Bruno Molaioli, Italy's former director-general of fine arts, said the stolen Raphael "is a masterpiece of the master's Florentine period when the young Raphael was still under the influence of Leonardo da Vinci."

Italian art officials said recently that thefts of art from Italian museums, churches and private collections were averaging four or five a day. Last year the national police said a total of 2,420 art works were stolen in the first four months of 1973, and most of them are still missing.

Miss Dorsett received a B.A. degree in theater and English at Hardin-Simmons University in 1973. She is currently working toward the M.F.A. degree in theater via a graduate fellowship. She was recently named director for the TCU spring production, "George M."

Puccini's 'Tosca' To Be Broadcast Saturday Afternoon

NEW YORK — Puccini's dramatic and melodic "Tosca" will be Saturday's broadcast over the Texaco-Metropolitan Opera Radio Network. It will be aired over Station KCRS in Midland, Tex., beginning at 1 p.m. Off-air time will be approximately 4 p.m.

The production from the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House in New York's Lincoln Center will feature soprano Teresa Zylis-Gara in the title role, tenor Carlo Bergonzi as Cavaradossi and baritone Gabriel Bacquier as Scarpia. The performance will be under the baton of Alberto Erede.

During the first intermission, another of the "Opera News on the Air" features will present William Weaver, European correspondent for "Opera News," in a program titled "Five Generations of Puccini." The second intermission will offer another "Texaco Opera Quiz," with MC Edward Downes quizzing a panel of experts including John Ardoin, music critic of The Dallas Morning News, and Ivan Davis and Terry McEwen.

Enrollment Sets Houston U Record

HOUSTON (AP) — University of Houston officials say enrollment at the Central Campus for the 1975 spring semester increased 11.8 per cent over that in the spring of 1974.

They reported 28,388 students have registered for classes on the Central Campus, compared with 26,279 at this time last year.

Show Done With Mirrors?

By JAY SHARBUTT
NEW YORK (AP) — They must do it with mirrors. Because in the flesh, Sherman Hemsley is short, nervous, tends to mumble and generally resembles a man facing $1,000 in taxes with two bits in assets.

On the tube, he appears tall and feisty, has impeccable diction and portrays a confident man of middle-class means named George Jefferson in the new CBS comedy series, "The Jeffersons."

The show, about a black family, is a spinoff from "All in the Family," in which Hemsley initially appeared in 1973 as the first black man on the block to swap zingies with hardhat Archie Bunker.

Hemsley, 37, said he auditioned three years earlier for Norman Lear, coproducer of "Family," after Lear saw him in "Purlie," a Broadway musical. He said the screen test was a flop, but Lear's staff promised that "we definitely will use you."

Hemsley, a Philadelphia native who dropped out of high school, spent four years in the Air Force and six unhappy years afterward toiling as a postal employe while studying acting and scuffling for acting jobs.

Midland Community Theatre, Inc. presents
COLE PORTER'S 'Anything Goes'
With Cole Porter's "Anything Goes" on stage at the Midland Community Theatre Centre. The show is a musical comedy with songs by Cole Porter. It is now playing at the Midland Community Theatre Centre.

The jobs included children's plays, a local tv comedy series in Philadelphia and a stint with the famed Negro Ensemble Company.

He transferred to a U.S. Post Office branch in New York in 1967, but he and the mailroom parted company a year later.

"I left because I hated the post office," he said. "It was a grind."

"So I just decided to quit one day and go for broke."

Hemsley, who now lives near the oceanfront city of Malibu, Calif., said he didn't get off his creak when he first learned last February he'd be starring in "The Jeffersons."

The reaction was delayed. During the filming of his last two "All in the Family" shows, he said, "Carroll (O'Connor) had to sort of pull me together because I couldn't remember anything. My mind was bewildered and soggy."

"So Carroll helped out a lot and said things like, 'Look, just relax. You're doing great and you're going out on your own now.' And Jean (Stapleton) and Sally (Struthers) also helped a lot."

"I really appreciated it because I was sort of panicky."

Goldwater Tags Federal Budget 'Total Disaster'

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater has termed the 1976 federal budget "a total disaster" and predicted the nation would go broke in two years if spending continues at the present pace.

"If we had to go through two years of deficits of $50 billion or more," the Arizona Republican said Wednesday, "I think we would go broke."

The fiscal 1976 budget unveiled on Monday by President Ford envisions a $51.9 billion deficit, second-largest in history.

Goldwater told the National Association of Equipment Distributors that the deficit "could reach as much as $70 billion."

'No, No, Nanette' Tryouts Set

Permian Playhouse's 'New' Musical Opens In April

ODESSA — Permian Playhouse, Odessa's community theater, is announcing forthcoming tryouts for the "new" 1925 musical, "No, No, Nanette," which will open at the theater in April.

Midland, Odessa and surrounding areas. Permian Basin newcomers are given a special invitation to try for parts in the show.

"No, No, Nanette" is the musical extravaganza which scored a solid hit on Broadway in the early 1970s and did much to kindle the current nostalgia craze in the American theater.

The auditions for actors, singers and dancers will be held Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights at the theater, 310 W. 42nd St., and will be open to all interested persons in the area.

The tryout sessions are scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Additional information is available from PPH director End Holm at the theater, 363-2326.

Winnie, a trio of young flappers; Jimmy Smith, an overstuffed Teddy Bear-type who has lots of money, and Billy Early, Jimmy's lawyer, a sharpshooting ace who has several excellent opportunities as both singer and dancer. Finally, there is Tom, the young romantic lead who plays opposite Nanette and collaborates with her in several numbers, including the popular "I've Confessed to the Breeze."

Hart, Mandrell Due At Lubbock

LUBBOCK — Singer Freddie Hart of "Easy Loving" fame and Barbara Mandrell — best-known for her recordings of such hits as "This Time I Almost Made It," "Show Me" and "The Midnight Oil" — will be the headliners in a musical presentation scheduled here Friday night.

The two singers and their respective groups will perform in Lubbock Municipal Auditorium beginning at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Tickets, priced at $4, $5 and $6 are on sale in advance at several outlets in the city, and will be for sale at the auditorium box office before show time Friday.

Then there is the role of Pauline, taken by comedienne Patsy Kelly in the Broadway production who, in the course of the show, is given the chance to sing and dance in her own comedic style — and astounds herself with her abilities.

Still other choice roles in the musical are Flora, Betty and Jimmy Smith, an overstuffed Teddy Bear-type who has lots of money, and Billy Early, Jimmy's lawyer, a sharpshooting ace who has several excellent opportunities as both singer and dancer.

'Anything Goes' Features 'Imports'

Midland Community Theatre's "Anything Goes," the 1936 musical which opened at Theatre Centre last weekend, has more than one guest performer in the cast. Michael Calkins, an import from New York, has the lead role of young Billy Crocker in the musical. Another "import" is Yoichiro Fujiwara, from Japan. Sixteen-year-old Yoichiro, or "Yo" as he is known to his fellow cast members, has the part of Ling, one of two Chinese characters in "Anything Goes." A Midlander, George Lindsey, is teamed with him as Ching. The young man, currently a student here under the Youth For Understanding exchange program, attends Midland High School. His Midland hosts are the Ralph McCleskeys.

Yo is from Osaka, where his father is a teacher of English. The young man's hobbies are photography, which he has ample opportunity to indulge in here, and mountain-climbing, which he obviously hasn't. At last report, Yo was teaching fellow actor Lindsey some Japanese phrases so Ching and Ling will at least sound Oriental, if not exactly Chinese. "Anything Goes" will have a performance at 8 p.m. today and 8:30 performances Friday and Saturday. A matinee is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Sunday, with additional presentations scheduled throughout next week and the week following. Telephone the theater, 682-2544, for information on availability of seating for specific performances.

Miss America 1960 Believes Concept Of Pageant Outmoded

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In 1960 at Atlantic City, dazzling Nancy Fleming told Bert Parks "a woman's place is in the home," she showed off her sewing, then went on to be crowned "Miss America." She was queen of the country's beauties. Now — two children and a divorce later — television talk show hostess Nancy Fleming says the pageant which thrust her into the nation's eye perpetuates an outmoded concept of women.

"Miss America is not a real person," she said in a recent interview. "She's something that happens every year.

"Times have changed in the past 14 years since I was Miss America," said Miss Fleming, who is now a card carrying member of the National Organization for Women. "Women between the ages of 18 and 22 are much more issue-oriented than we were. I'm amazed that they can get 50 girls from 50 states."

Contestants are very unlikely to open up to Bert Parks about today's "new morality," she said. "When they're contestants, they always come on as very right-wing politically, and for God, the flag and apple pie."

She said when they appear on the pageant a few years later, "They seem to be wearing the most outrageous clothes — slinky, jump suits cut to the navel. It's as though they want to say, 'There's another side of me.'"

Miss Fleming, who received a $10,000 college scholarship for beauty, says the money ought to be for outstanding service to the community.

She said it was hypocritical of pageant officials to conduct swimming suit competition then to bar Miss America from being photographed in a swimming suit during her reign, except for the traditional water-skiing shot in Cypress Gardens. She likened the stance to the "look but don't touch" concept of Playboy, bunnies.

"They say it's not a flesh show 'but we do want to get a look at their bodies,'" she said laughing. "They say they are judging the girls on 'beauty of form, face and posture'" and other "incredible euphemisms."

No sooner had the strains of "There she is, Miss America" faded than 18-year-old Nancy Fleming was barnstorming high schools around the country, armed with a well rehearsed speech on preparing for the future.

Her face appeared on a billboard welcoming people to her hometown, Montague, Mich., population 2,500. Tourists took snapshots of her parents' home and plucked flowers there.

Long after her reign ended, people still were whispering "That's Miss America." Then she married. Ten years later she was divorced and looking for work.

She became cohost of a call-in television show, and now is cohosting a new local talk show.

Amarillo Woman Named President Of Theatre Council

SAN ANTONIO — Marilyn Myers Pool of Amarillo is president of the newly organized Texas Theatre Council.

Mrs. Pool's selection as first president of the TTC came at a recent theater conference here. She also serves as president of the Texas Non-Profit Theatres.

The new theater council has as its major purpose the promotion of higher standards of theater in the state and the increase in communication between various theater elements in Texas, including community, professional, public school, college-university and children's theater groups.

Serving with Mrs. Pool on the council will be Lynn Murray of Austin, who heads the Texas Educational Theatre Association, as council vice president, and R. W. Wenck of College Station, secretary-treasurer. Directors include Roland Myers of Lubbock Theatre Centre, Fred March of Southwest Texas State University at San Marcos, Dorothy Dodd of The University of Texas-Austin, Joe Wheelis of Baytown, Don Irwin of the Texas Education Agency, and Maury Coats of the Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities.

Youth Center Receives Grant

ODESSA — The Ector County Youth Center received a $100,000 grant Wednesday from the Criminal Justice Division. The grant was approved by Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

The grant provides funds for staffing the center, described as the first of its kind in the country.

Included in the center are a juvenile court, probation office, living quarters and classrooms.

Woman Commands Wing At Goodfellow Air Force Base

SAN ANGELO (AP) — The first woman commander of the 6940th Security Wing at Goodfellow Air Force Base here believes you can't have top-notch production without satisfied employees.

Col. Norma E. Brown says that is her operating philosophy.

"Treatment of people is my very strongest well, I'm not sure what I should call it, but I feel stronger about the treatment of people than anything else in the whole spectrum of what a commander's business is all about."

Since her arrival in San Angelo and her assumption of duties Nov. 29, Col. Brown is in the process of meeting "every soul—military and civilian—on base, to see if they are happy and if there's anything I can do to make them happy."

The women's lib movement has not been a driving force in her career, she says.

"I don't know anything about it much—I'll be honest. The small town that I'm from (Madison, Fla.) and the places I've been—that just wasn't in the part of the world where I was."

Col. Brown says she has managed to have her career and adopt two children, Denise, 11, and Tim, 10, with the help of the children's paternal grandmother, a retired nurse from Maryland.

Asked about future plans for Goodfellow, she said, "I can't say at this stage, but as I'm going around the sections, shops, and offices, looking at facilities and whatever, I'm delighted with what I see. And some of the long-range plans that are in the program now I would certainly support and try to bring forward a little quicker. But that's not to say we'll be able to because the defense budget is a very tight one and you just have to wait your turn... If I have any ideas that nobody else has had or if I think we ought to do something differently, then we'll try it, of course—after I discuss it with the people responsible."

"I don't run my outfit—my job—with just unilateral decisions being made," said Col. Brown. "I believe in participative management and I ask my staff and the people it affects how they feel about certain things before I jump into doing them."

Recruiting Is Now Whole New Ball Game

Battle Scene

By Ted Battles

With a limit of 30 scholarships, college recruiters are exercising more care and selectivity than they were a couple of seasons ago in lining up high school talent, so it's quite a compliment to Midland that four Tall City footballers were signed to major college letters-of-intent on the first day of open season.

"We had 12 head coaches visit us," Midland Lee Coach Jim Acree said. "And we had so many interruptions in our daily routine, that one of our coaches said he'd be glad when it was over."

Acree grinned. "That's the kind of inconvenience we can take. When they don't come around, that's when we're in trouble."

Lee had three players signed (tackle Keith Bishop by Nebraska, guard David Sledge by Baylor and back-linebacker Milton Jones by SMU) and Midland High fullback Mike Gaddy went to Texas Tech.

"They tell us each scholarship is worth $15,000 over a four-year period," noted Acree. "So that's $60,000 the community landed in scholarships. And we feel we have three or four more who will land scholarships at smaller schools and Midland probably has some, too. Who will be signed later, so it has been a pretty good year."

With the restrictions on the annual number of signees, the old days when recruiters dashed around the state signing everything that moved are gone.

A couple of years ago, it didn't matter whether your super star was among the first 30 or the final 15. The important thing was that a Lucious Selman, who happened to be among the final 15 that Oklahoma recruited in 1970, was there when it came time to count noses.

In the future, a mistake on a borderline case like Selman could result in his lining up on the opposite side of the line of scrimmage.

It also means that the day when a youngster could get a free college education by suiting up and losing himself somewhere on the bench for four years is gone, too. Now it will be a rare recruit who isn't counted upon to make a contribution to the program, and the thrust of mandatory responsibility may not be welcome either.

Strange as it may seem, one of the premiere schoolboy quarterbacks in Oklahoma schoolboy circles may wind up outside the state.

Putnam City's Joe Dale Hough, voted the Sooner state's offensive prep player of the year, didn't receive a nibble from Oklahoma or Oklahoma State, but Tennessee, Arkansas and Texas have been camping on his doorstep.

"He's an awful good passer," says Arkansas' Frank Broyles. "He can hum the ball and he's an adequate runner."

Darrell Royal of the Longhorns labels Hough a winner. "I like the look in his eyes. I like his whole approach. He's a winner."

Hough probably feels a little neglected, but says, "I can understand Oklahoma... and well, Oklahoma State, too. Both have real young quarterbacks and others waiting in line. And they run the wishbone. I think I could run the wishbone good, but not great. My better asset is passing. So no, I'm not disappointed because I can understand why."

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Johnny Miller's thinking about another runaway. He's not just thinking about another victory. He's thinking about running away with it again.

"If I lead every day, it will seem like an eternity," he said. "If I lead every day, I'm going to be awful tired," he said.

The phenomenal young man made the comments Wednesday after a fast-finishing, eight-hole event on the pro tour.

"I've got them thinking about me now. The rest of 'em are in the position where they've got to catch me, and that's good. I'm really in good shape."

And then he took it from a different angle. He's two under par 64, giving him a two-stroke lead in the first round of the marathon, $160,000 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic.

"That's good," he said after his opening effort in this unique five-day tournament, the only 90-hole event on the pro tour.

Miller, who scored those sensational record-setting runaway victories the first two tournaments of the year, opened up a two-shot lead over Tom Jenkins, a third-year man on the tour who has yet to win. Jenkins had a 66 in the bright, warm sunshine.

Arnold Palmer, a five-time winner of this tournament and a sentimental favorite to do it again, headed the group at 68, four strokes back.

"Johnny is playing some unbelievably fine golf," commented Palmer, who finished third in the Hawaiian Open just a couple of days ago.

Also at 68 were former U.S. Temple, 81-79, Tuesday night. Corsicana, 7-1 and 15-6, is in hot pursuit of Waco.

Tyler John Tyler, 22-4, also jumped into the top 20, No. 12, after beating out Longview for the first half district title and posting a 2-0 record in the second half.

In District 6-4A, Wichita Falls Rider continues to lead the North Zone by Half a game over Hirschi, although the Raiders were beaten by Wichita Falls last week.

In the South Zone, defending champion Richland leads with a 4-0 record after beating Haltom City and Castleberry. The race winds up a week from Friday and then the zone champions square off in a best of three playoff.

Open champion Ken Venturi, veteran Doug Sanders, Miller Barber, Buddy Allin, Jerry Heard, Australian Bruce Crampton, Mack McLendon and Allan Tapie.

Miller, Jenkins, Palmer, Venturi, Sanders, Barber and Tapie all played at Indian Wells, probably the easiest of the four desert courses that are being used for the first four days of the tournament. Allin and Crampton were at Tamarisk, McLendon and Heard at Bermuda Dunes and Canadian George Knudsen's 66 represented the best score at La Quinta.

Defending champion Hubert Green had a 73 at Indian Wells. Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino and Gary Player are not competing.

Kashmere Streak At 66

Houston-Kashmere, 34-0 for the season, stretched its winning streak to 66 straight over a two-season span and continued to exercise a hammerlock hold on the No. 1 Class AAAA ranking in the Reporter-Telegram's weekly basketball listings.

It was a good week for the top 10 with only 10th ranked San Antonio Jefferson, 29-4, biting the dust. Jeff was upset by San Antonio Holmes, 20th with a 25-5 record, for the second time this year, but Jeff already has the first half of its district race sacked away.

Issel Sparks Colonels Win

By The Associated Press

Dan Issel, Julius Erving, Dave Robisch and George Gervin were in the American Basketball Association's spotlight Wednesday.

Issel scored 22 points and led a third-period rally that carried the Colonels to a 118-97 victory over the Spirits of St. Louis.

Issel scored 22 points and led a third-period rally that carried the Colonels to a 118-97 victory over the Spirits of St. Louis.

Erving intercepted an inbound pass with four seconds showing on the clock and turned it into a three-point play to lead New York past San Diego.

Spurs 143, Sounds 119

A 51-point performance by George Gervin, including 25 in the second period, gave San Antonio an easy victory over Memphis.

Nuggets 123, Pacers 113

Coming off the bench, Dave Robisch poured in a game-high 31 points to lead Denver past the Indiana Pacers.

LA SALLE, VIRGINIA TECH WIN--

Spartans Tip Irish, 76-63

By The Associated Press

Notre Dame couldn't get its Irish up Wednesday night.

"We just had too many bad turnovers and we didn't hit the offensive boards enough," said Coach Digger Phelps. "We gave up too many easy buckets in the first half. Michigan State came to play and we didn't."

This lack of motivation resulted in a 76-73 upset of the team by the revitalized Spartans from the Big Ten.

"Michigan State has won for the comfort of Spring all Winter long humidity with an Aprilaire HUMIDIFIER JERRY'S SHEET METAL 700 N. FT. WORTH 684-4495 three in a row on the road now and they're a good team," said tonight's win. They earned it. They're as quick a team as any we've played in getting it down the floor."

The Spartans, troubled earlier in the year by team problems that resulted in a walkout by varsity players for the Indiana game, have never looked as good or as happy together.

"We had our incident when the varsity failed to play against Indiana early in the year and now we're really putting it all together. We've gone unnoticed and we have had no TV exposure at all. We are on the threshold of national prominence," said coach Gus Gerardus.

La Salle, the No. 13 team in the country, crushed Drexel 80-63 in the only other game involving a ranked club Wednesday night.

Michigan State beat Notre Dame despite a 31-point performance by Irish star Adrian Dantley. Terry Furlow's 20 points led the Spartans.

The Spartans led most of the game, holding a 39-34 halftime edge, but Notre Dame managed to take the lead for a short time in the second half.

Don Wilbur scored a career-high 26 points to lead La Salle to an easy victory over Drexel.

Wilbur hit 12 of 16 field goals attempts, including 8 of 10 shots in the first half.

Elsewhere in college basketball, Larry Cooke scored 29 points to lead Virginia Tech over DePaul 87-74. Alex Engel scored inside with five seconds left, lifting South Carolina over Pittsburgh 64-62; Oral Roberts used a 33-point performance by Anthony Roberts to beat Canisius 100-93; Billy Lynn came off the bench to score 25 points as Georgetown defeated Dickinson 102-60 and reserve Bill Suk sank four free throws in the final minute to lead Duke past Wake Forest 75-68.

Also, Joe Meriwether had 21 points and 10 rebounds to lead Southern Illinois over Stetson 95-60; Roger Morningstar's 19 points led Kansas past Nebraska 72-44; Tom Cutler's 31 points paced Western Michigan to a 1974 broke a city record that stood for 70 years.

 Texas' disappointment at losing Lee was soothed somewhat by the signing of a top Colorado running back, 6-foot-1, 215-pound Craig Rider. The Longhorns also inked Steve and Tim Campbell, twin brothers of Texas fullback Earl Campbell. Both were all-state performers on defense.
 SMU also was active Wednesday, signing all-state receiver and defensive end Eddie Horn of Beaumont South Park.
 Still uncommitted are three blue chippers — running back Billy Sims of Hooks and two San Antonio quarterbacks, Ted Constanzo and Thomas Lott.

EPA Proposes Two-Year Delay In Opening Untouched Areas For Offshore Leasing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency has proposed a two-year delay in opening untouched offshore areas for oil and gas leasing and an indefinite ban on leasing of the Alaska coast.

The EPA recommendations were sent to the Interior Department, which was directed by then-President Nixon in January 1974 to lease 10 million offshore acres in 1975, more than triple the 1974 schedule.

However, Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton has pulled back from that target and now says the department will

The proposed regulation would carry out the Ford administration's previously announced policy to encourage maximum use of coal in place of oil and gas, in agreement with the Environmental Protection Agency.

Meanwhile, FEA chief Fred G. Zarb said the Ford administration may impose a limited oil quota system to reduce demand if its $3-a-barrel tariff program does not reduce imports.

"We think the levies will work, but if they don't work we'll limit the imports," Zarb said.

WEATHER FORCES SCHOOLS' CLOSING, SNARLS TRAFFIC— More Arctic Cold Follows Sprawling Ice Storm

By The Associated Press

Light snow squalls ranged from the Plains to New England today and arctic cold moved in following a sprawling snow and ice storm that closed schools, snarled transportation and cut-off electrical power.

Eight to 12 inches of snow on Wednesday buried much of New England as the region got its first big snowstorm of the winter. Rhode Island was hit by 7 inches of snow, its biggest one-day snow in four years.

The storm caused cancellation of numerous school classes and civic, social and work activities from the Carolinas to Connecticut.

Several deaths were attributed to Wednesday's storm, either in accidents or over-exertion from snow-shoveling. Uncounted numbers of accidents slowed highway traffic on snow- and ice-slicked roads.

Public transportation and airline users from the Great Lakes to the East Coast were subject to delays throughout Wednesday.

Interstate 96 was closed for more than three hours from Attleboro, Mass., to the Rhode Island line after two trucks jackknifed and blocked the road. Two teen-age girls were injured at Northboro, Mass., when a bus carrying students from Blue Mountain Academy at Hamburg, Pa., overturned and slid off Interstate 290.

The worst ice storm in six years left a wide path of fallen debris and electrical outages across central North Carolina and South Carolina on Wednesday.

Heavy ice coatings brought down power lines and cut off service to some 30,000 customers in the Charlotte area alone. Repair crews were brought in from Georgia, South Carolina and West Virginia to help restore service.

A number of schools that opened for classes Wednesday in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg County area closed shortly thereafter when electricity failed.

In Rock Hill, a South Carolina city 25 miles south of Charlotte, downtown streets were covered with tree limbs. A newsman on the scene said the streets "look like a tornado went down them."

Nine persons were injured when 10 vehicles piled up at the Interstate 40 and 85 interchange near Greensboro.

The storm dumped three inches of snow across much of the Midwest and ranged up to 8 to 12 inches in the Washington-Baltimore area. While the snow tapered off in the Midwest, temperatures plunged sharply and road surfaces became snow-packed sheets of ice in many places.

Freezing rain and drizzle kept travel advisories in force today in portions New Jersey and New York. Similar advisories were in effect due to snow in parts of New Mexico, Texas, Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland and Virginia.

Rain and snow were mixed southward from the lower Great Lakes to the Ohio Valley and rain spilled into the South.

Fog dropped visibilities near zero in scattered sections from the Gulf Coast across the Southeast and north to the lower lakes.

Temperatures fell below zero over the northern Rockies and Plains and the upper Mississippi Valley. The teens extended south into the Texas Panhandle. Readings near zero were expected to spread over much of the Midwest by early Friday.

FBI Men Question, Release Young Woman Resembling Patricia Hearst

SUMMERVILLE, Ga. (AP) — FBI agents questioned a young woman who looks like Patricia Hearst for several hours Wednesday night and then announced that it was not the missing California newspaper heiress.

"The girl that we checked out in Summerville, Ga., is not Patricia Hearst," said James P. O'Keefe, assistant special agent in charge of the Atlanta Division of the FBI.

An FBI agent who questioned the woman said, "It's not her. We have one available fingerprint from Patty Hearst and it is not her."

The woman, who identified herself as Cathy Lynn Villeneuve of El Cajon, Calif., was detained by Chattooga County Sheriff Gary McConell when she went to the county jail to try to obtain the release of a man identified as Ronald Davidson, alias George Herman Bailey, also of El Cajon, near San Diego.

Davidson had been arrested on a charge of theft by taking, the sheriff said. He was accused of trying to shoplift film.

McConell said the woman was jailed on a charge of giving officers false information about her name and address. He did not elaborate but noted Davidson had two sets of identification, one with the name Davidson and the other with the name Bailey.

McConell said he noticed the woman "looked strikingly like Miss Hearst. Newsmen on the scene agreed."

"She is a very good look-alike," said one. Another said, "It looked like her, it sure did."

The FBI said the woman was questioned for more than four hours and fingerprints and other identifying features were checked.

Miss Hearst, 20, the daughter of San Francisco Examiner president and editor Randolph A. Hearst, was kidnapped Feb. 4, 1974, by the Symbionese Liberation Army and several months later announced she had rejected her family and joined the SLA.

She later was charged with violating federal firearms laws and bank robbery, stemming from the $10,690 holdup of a San Francisco bank on April 15, 1974.

Hot Air Balloon Meet Announced At Breakfast

The Midland Chamber of Commerce Early Bird Breakfast crew hosted a full house of American balloonists from Texas, Kansas, New Mexico and Arizona today as they gathered for a 7 a.m. breakfast and Conner's Banquet Room.

Contests and gag prizes highlighted the breakfast, which was sponsored by Mike Choucalas' Balloon Promotions Inc.

Harry Clark, director of economic development at Midland's First National Bank, came up with the winning ticket for a "expense-paid" one-way trip by air to a mystery destination. The trip will actually be a guest ride on one of the hot-air balloons participating in second annual Midland Balloon Bash to be held Feb. 15 and 16.

Choucalas told the breakfast audience that aeronauts from England and France along with American balloonists from Texas, Kansas, New Mexico and Arizona will be on hand for the annual flight.

Choucalas said more than 40 balloons, averaging in height to about 10-stories, will be in Midland for the annual flight event.

Connie Mack Hood, master of ceremonies for the breakfast, reminded the gathering that Friday is the deadline for making reservations for the chamber's annual banquet Tuesday at the Midland County Exhibits Building.

Featured speaker at the annual banquet will be Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton.

Pioneer Soviet Rocket Expert Dies

Sworn statement of Charles Miller: "I really didn't expect it would work, I was very cynical. I was a heavy smoker for 37 years and I quit in five days."

Sworn statement of Mariellen Tisot: "I really wanted to quit but I couldn't do it on my own... and after going to the Schick Center, it kind of took away that horrible craving that you get. I'd say go to the Schick Center because it really works!"

Sworn statement of Joe Brockley: "54 years I smoked... and approximately $10,000 for cigarettes... Maybe it don't work like this on everybody but the first day that I want... I never wanted a cigarette... and my mind came back, you know... I'd say 75% of what it was."

Sworn statement of G. K. To lime: "The big difference between cold turkey and the Schick Center is... after the first or second day I had no desire to smoke."

AFFIDAVITS ON FILE. AVAILABLE UPON REQUEST

The famous SCHICK CENTER FOR THE CONTROL OF SMOKING will bring its extremely successful program to our area, for a limited time only.

This service was previously available only in major cities but now local residents who act promptly can enter the program and stop smoking within five days. Only a limited number can be accommodated.

Over 20,000 former smokers now enthusiastically endorse the Schick stop smoking method. The program has been officially commended by the following:

- THE UNITED STATES SENATE
- CALIFORNIA STATE LEGISLATURE
- GOVERNOR RONALD REAGAN
- MAYOR OF LOS ANGELES TOM BRADLEY

If you have a friend or loved one who needs help to stop smoking, please tell them about this ad.

The Schick Center For The Control of Smoking is a division of the same famous company that brings you personal care products.

Just What Do Those Jobless Figures Mean?

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
WASHINGTON (AP) — The January unemployment rate, to be reported Friday by the Labor Department, is expected to surpass the 7.5 per cent peak of the 1967-68 recession.

But unlike in the Great Depression of the 1930s, the jobless have unemployment benefits, welfare programs and food stamps to fall back on.

Just what do the monthly unemployment statistics mean? How are they gathered? How accurately do they measure the problems of joblessness and lost wages and purchasing power?

In a series of questions and answers based on the methods and contents of the government surveys, here is the background for those monthly news reports.

Q. The government reported in December that 7.1 per cent of people in the labor force were out of work. How many people are actually out of work?

A. With a civilian labor force of 91.7 million, a jobless rate of 7.1 per cent means that 6.5 million people were out of work, or about one of every 14 workers.

At the height of the Great Depression, one of every four workers was unable to find a job.

In 1933 the unemployment rate hit 25 per cent with nearly 13 million out of work. The work force was much smaller then, totaling about 52 million.

Q. How does the government determine who is employed and who isn't?

A. Every civilian 16 years old or over, who is not in an institution such as a prison or mental hospital, is classified as living for a family of four.

People with jobs are employed. People who are jobless, are looking for jobs, and are available for work are unemployed.

Q. Who's being hurt most by rising unemployment?

A. Nearly every industry is being affected by the recession, but particularly hard-hit are the automobile, construction and textile industries.

Q. In measuring unemployment, shouldn't greater emphasis be placed on the breadwinners who are the sole support of the family?

A. The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, in December, the jobless rate for married men, generally reported, says that is a value judgment which is not its role.

Q. Even though the nation's over-all unemployment rate will eclipse the 1957-58 recession, the rate for married men still is substantially lower than in past recessions. Doesn't that indicate less hardship for most families in the current recession?

A. Not necessarily. The composition of the nation's work force has changed dramatically since the 1960s. The postwar baby boom has pumped millions of teen-agers into the job market and more women are working.

Q. Doesn't recession mean that consumer prices are declining? And if that's so, wouldn't that ease the impact of unemployment?

A. That was the case during the Great Depression and past recessions, but it isn't that way now. Despite the economic slump, consumer prices rose 12.2 per cent in 1974 and are expected to rise almost that much this year.

Q. Don't today's unemployed have various benefits to sustain them, thus easing the impact on the economy?

A. Yes. Congress recently extended unemployment benefits from a maximum duration of 39 weeks to one year and widened coverage from 65 million workers to 87 million, almost the entire work force.

Q. How does the government check to see if a worker is needed to reach the $4,598 annual income the government says is necessary to maintain an above-poverty-level standard of living for a family of four?

A. Employment and unemployment change during the year as a result of holidays, vacations, harvest time, changing seasons, shifts in production schedules and other occurrences.

Q. What is seasonal adjustment?

A. Employment and unemployment change during the year as a result of holidays, vacations, harvest time, changing seasons, shifts in production schedules and other occurrences.

Q. Are the figures released each month always seasonally adjusted?

A. Yes.

Q. How are the statistics gathered each month?

A. The survey is taken by the Bureau of Census which selects a sample of one in every 1,500 households in the country, or about 58,000 total. Each household is the site of an interview for four consecutive months.

Then it goes on an inactive list for eight months and comes back for four more months of interviews before disappearing altogether. This way 75 per cent of the households in the survey were in the previous month's sample, and the remainder are new each month.

Vacancies and other reasons reduce the active sample each month to about 47,000 households, with about 100,000 members over the age of 16. Interviews, mostly women, ask standard questions to establish whether these persons are working full or part time, looking for work, etc.

Q. How accurate is the survey?

A. The size of the sample is larger than any used for television ratings or national public opinion polls. Most independent statisticians accept as valid the government's claim that the margin of error is not more than two-tenths of 1 per cent.

Q. What is seasonal adjustment?

A. Employment and unemployment change during the year as a result of holidays, vacations, harvest time, changing seasons, shifts in production schedules and other occurrences.

Q. Are the figures released each month always seasonally adjusted?

A. Yes.

Q. How does the government determine who is employed and who isn't?

A. Every civilian 16 years old or over, who is not in an institution such as a prison or mental hospital, is classified as living for a family of four.

People with jobs are employed. People who are jobless, are looking for jobs, and are available for work are unemployed.

Q. Who's being hurt most by rising unemployment?

A. Nearly every industry is being affected by the recession, but particularly hard-hit are the automobile, construction and textile industries.

Q. In measuring unemployment, shouldn't greater emphasis be placed on the breadwinners who are the sole support of the family?

A. The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, in December, the jobless rate for married men, generally reported, says that is a value judgment which is not its role.

Q. Even though the nation's over-all unemployment rate will eclipse the 1957-58 recession, the rate for married men still is substantially lower than in past recessions. Doesn't that indicate less hardship for most families in the current recession?

A. Not necessarily. The composition of the nation's work force has changed dramatically since the 1960s. The postwar baby boom has pumped millions of teen-agers into the job market and more women are working.

You Might've Guessed It: There's No Hangover Cure

By EDNA CLOYD
Copley News Service

You're not wrong when you call that hangover a "swell head."

"Excessive alcohol causes a moderate swelling of the brain, called a cerebral edema," says Dr. Tom Tavoularis of Gardena, Calif.

And that brings on the headache.

"The headache isn't the only thing excessive alcohol does to the body. It irritates the stomach and the intestinal tract, breaks down two body chemicals, the ketones and the

WTCC To Hold Reception, Dinner In Washington

ABILENE — For the ninth consecutive year, the Texas congressional delegation will be the guests of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in Washington at an informal reception and dinner at the Sheraton-Carlton Hotel on March 3.

A large group of WTCC members, guests and wives will join WTCC President and Mrs. Burl B. Hulsey Jr. of Fort Worth for the flight to the nation's capital March 2.

A special lounge has been set up at Dallas-Fort Worth Airport for a pre-departure gathering. The annual event is a very informal affair and gives Texans a chance to visit with their senators and congressmen.

aldehydes, and causes a toxic condition.

"Alcohol also causes dehydration and lowers the B-complex vitamins in the body causing the drinker to feel quite ill.

"On top of all these things, alcohol is a depressant," the doctor says.

But if you insist on getting high, the doctor suggests taking two to four aspirins before you go to bed. An antacid tablet (and you can get them without a prescription) is also advised by the physician.

Lots Of Water
But the most helpful treatment for the hangover, for which there is no cure, is lots of water when you get up. And even though food makes you nauseous, eat a good breakfast, the doctor orders. That will get the nutrition back. Sugar in fruit juices and honey help protect the liver.

"Don't take another shot of the hair of the dog." That's the way people become alcoholic. They think that another drink will relieve them but that other drink is just as detrimental.

"There are no cures for hangovers," says Dr. Harold Cozen of Gardena. All those so-called cures passed down from grandma's day are not good. "However, we have found that an injection of Dramamine may bring relief. "The Dramamine tablets you can buy at the drugstore are worth a try," the doctors adds. "That is if you are not too sick to swallow them." For the heartburn caused by excessive drinking, the doctor suggests Milanta or some of the other stomach coaters.

To prevent a hangover, Dr. Cozen suggests eating before and while you are drinking. A big glass of milk helps protect the lining in the stomach.

A few tips from the National Institute of Health to help prevent a hangover are:

Don't gulp. The faster you drink the quicker you get drunk. Drink sitting down and relaxed. You'll get tight less quickly than if you drink while standing up.

Watch your drinking when you're emotionally upset, under stress or tired. The drink will get to you quicker under such circumstances.

In other words, sip slowly with food in the stomach under relaxed-social circumstances and pay attention to your responses to the alcoholic beverages so that intoxication is avoided.

To boil it down, the time to avoid a hangover is the night before.

Flu Hospitalizes Senator Mansfield

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has been admitted to Bethesda Naval Hospital, apparently suffering from the flu.

Aides said they don't think the illness of the 71-year-old Montana Democrat is serious. They said he isn't feeling well and could be watched more carefully at the hospital since his wife is out of town.
