Eddy Gas Well Opens New Pool

Great Western Drilling Co., Midland, has completed its No. 1 Hay Hollow Unit as a Strawn lime gas strike in Eddy County, N.M., 14 miles southwest of Malaga.

It gauged a calculated absolute open flow of 10,866 million cubic feet of dry gas per day, natural, through perforations at 11,611-11,642 feet. Drilled to 12,966 feet for tests of the Morrow, it has 5 1/2-inch casing set at 12,678 feet, the plugged-back depth.

It is 2,060 feet from south and 1,960 feet from east lines of section 11-26s-27e.

Pennsylvania Pay Extended In Ward Area

Pennsylvanian oil production was extended one mile east in the HSA field of Ward County, with completion of Texas Oil & Gas Corp. No. 2 Marston.

It had a 24-hour flowing potential of 174 barrels of 41-gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 563-1. Production was through a 24-64-inch choke and perforated interval from 7,400-7,490 feet, which had been acidized with 3,250 gallons.

Drilled to 7,700 feet, it has 8 1/2-inch casing set at 7,535 feet, and is plugged back to 7,660 feet.

Well site is 1,650 feet from north and 560 feet from west lines of section 15, block B-19, PSL survey, abstract 694, five miles south of Monahans.

Strawn Oil Flow Gauged In Pecos

Texas Oil & Gas Corp. No. 1-C Blackstone-Slaughter, 3/4 mile west of a recent undesignated Strawn oil strike in Pecos County's Hokit sector, flowed oil at the hourly rate of 10 barrels, for four hours, from the Strawn.

Flow was through a 12-64-inch choke and perforations at 8,548-8,574 feet.

It earlier assured production as an Ellenburger gas strike, with the flowing of gas at the maximum, daily rate of 1.15 million cubic feet, through a 10-64-inch choke and perforations at 10,624-10,714 feet.

Operator closed sleeve on the Strawn section, and was resuming testing in the Ellenburger zone to clean up.

It is 967 feet from north and 847 feet from east lines of section 64, block A-2, TCR survey, six miles west of Sheffield.

The Strawn opener, Texas O&G No. 1-B Blackstone, was completed early in March, for 204 barrels of oil per day, through perforations at 8,292-8,304 feet.

U.S. Unemployment Rate Jumps To 8.7

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate jumped to 8.7 per cent in March, as the number of Americans without jobs increased to eight million, the government reported today.

The Labor Department said job losses last month totaled nearly 200,000 and this, combined with a rise of 300,000 in the size of the U.S. labor force, pushed the increase in unemployment to 500,000 over the previous month.

The loss in jobs dropped total employment in the nation to 83.3 million, and marked the sixth consecutive month of job losses. They have totaled 2.6 million since last September.

Analysts with the Bureau of Labor Statistics said the March figures show no indication of any abatement in the nation's rising unemployment rate, which now is at the highest level since the early 1970s.

In Midland, Ed Wright, manager of Texas Employment Commission, said today the local unemployment figure is "still in good shape."

Wright said the estimated unemployment within the local work force is presently 3.6 per cent.

Unemployment since last fall has climbed at the fastest rate since the Great Depression. It hit 8.2 per cent in January and remained at that level in February, when the decline in jobs was offset by a sharp increase in labor force dropouts.

President Ford said Thursday that while he anticipated further increases in joblessness he believes the recession is slowing down and predicted the economy will begin improving this summer.

Earlier, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said that unemployment will continue to rise for some months, peaking at nine per cent. However, he contended that gains in job totals tend to lag behind the start of an economic recovery.

Rep. White Expects Congress To OK Incentives For Drillers This Year

By LARRY LOVELACE
ODESSA—U.S. Representative Richard C. White said this morning he expects Congress to pass this year incentives for drillers to offset the effects of the partial oil depletion phase out.

White held a news conference at his office here along with Dr. Gorman C. Smith, acting administrator for operation, regulations and compliance of Federal Energy Administration.

Smith has primary responsibility for formulating FEA allocations and price regulations.

Smith and Jim Langdon, FEA associate assistant administrator for pricing, accompanied White and Smith on a visit to West Texas.

White and Smith attended rededication ceremonies for the Presidential Museum here. Smith was to speak at a 12:30 p.m. luncheon at the Inn of the Golden West in Odessa.

Gorman said, "I'm unable to qualify the impact of production of the partial depletion phase out. How it will affect production depends upon investment decisions to be made by producers."

"It will have the effect of reducing incentive or increasing the cost of exploration and production activities."

"As a result either the prices will increase or the exploration will decline. If prices rise enough to offset impact, it will get us toward our goal of energy independence faster."

"However, those goals will be postponed if the price does not increase, thereby resulting in a decline of exploration."

White said that the chances of restoring the depletion allowance in "its former state are highly unlikely."

"I expect that we in Congress will provide for some sort of incentive to drillers, whether it be called capital gains benefits or by some other name. And I expect it this year."

Smith said, "We've got to have more petroleum and natural gas and use less of it in order to get through this tight time" until alternate energy resources can be developed.

As one of the time-buying measures, Smith said that the administration is still strongly backing the deregulation of natural gas prices.

He said, "Natural gas is clearly our scarcest resource and we have to provide production incentives and conserve it for (See INCENTIVES Page 2A)

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston jury today, after 18 hours of deliberation, assessed prison inmate Ignacio Cuevas the death sentence for his role in the Huntsville prison shootout last summer which left two prisoners and two hostages dead.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — President Ford, shaken by the crash of an orphan flight that he had planned to meet in California, said today, "This tragedy must not deter us from offering new hope for the living. Our mission of mercy will continue."

Trustee Elections Saturday

Midland County voters return to the polls Saturday to cast their ballots in the trustee elections for both the Midland and Greenwood independent school districts.

Midlanders will elect two trustees to three-year terms and Greenwood area residents will elect three board members, also for three-year terms.

Voting in the Midland district will be from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Casting their ballots in the Lee High School gymnasium foyer will be persons residing in polling precincts 4, 8, 11, 13, 15, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 26 and 28.

Balloting at Midland High School will be persons in precincts 1, 3, 5, 6, 7, 9, 10, 12, 14, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25 and 27. Those voting at MHS are advised that voting machines this year will be located in the auditorium foyer, rather than in the office, as in previous elections.

Seeking election to the Midland district's Position 3 are Johnny R. Warren, Peggy Redmond, Steve Scott and Jerry Pitts. The post is being vacated by two-term trustee Ted M. Kerr.

Voting for Position 4 are in (See ELECTIONS Page 2A)

Welfare Fraud Charges Filed

By ED TODD
Complaints accusing 14 Midland welfare recipients of fraudulently obtaining "in excess of $20,000" in benefits were filed today in the county's two justice of the peace courts.

The 14 complaints were filed by Bill Robinson of El Paso, senior investigator-examiner for the Texas Department of Public Welfare's newly created investigation division.

Robinson said 13 of the Midlanders named in the felony theft complaints are charged with taking monies allotted to the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program.

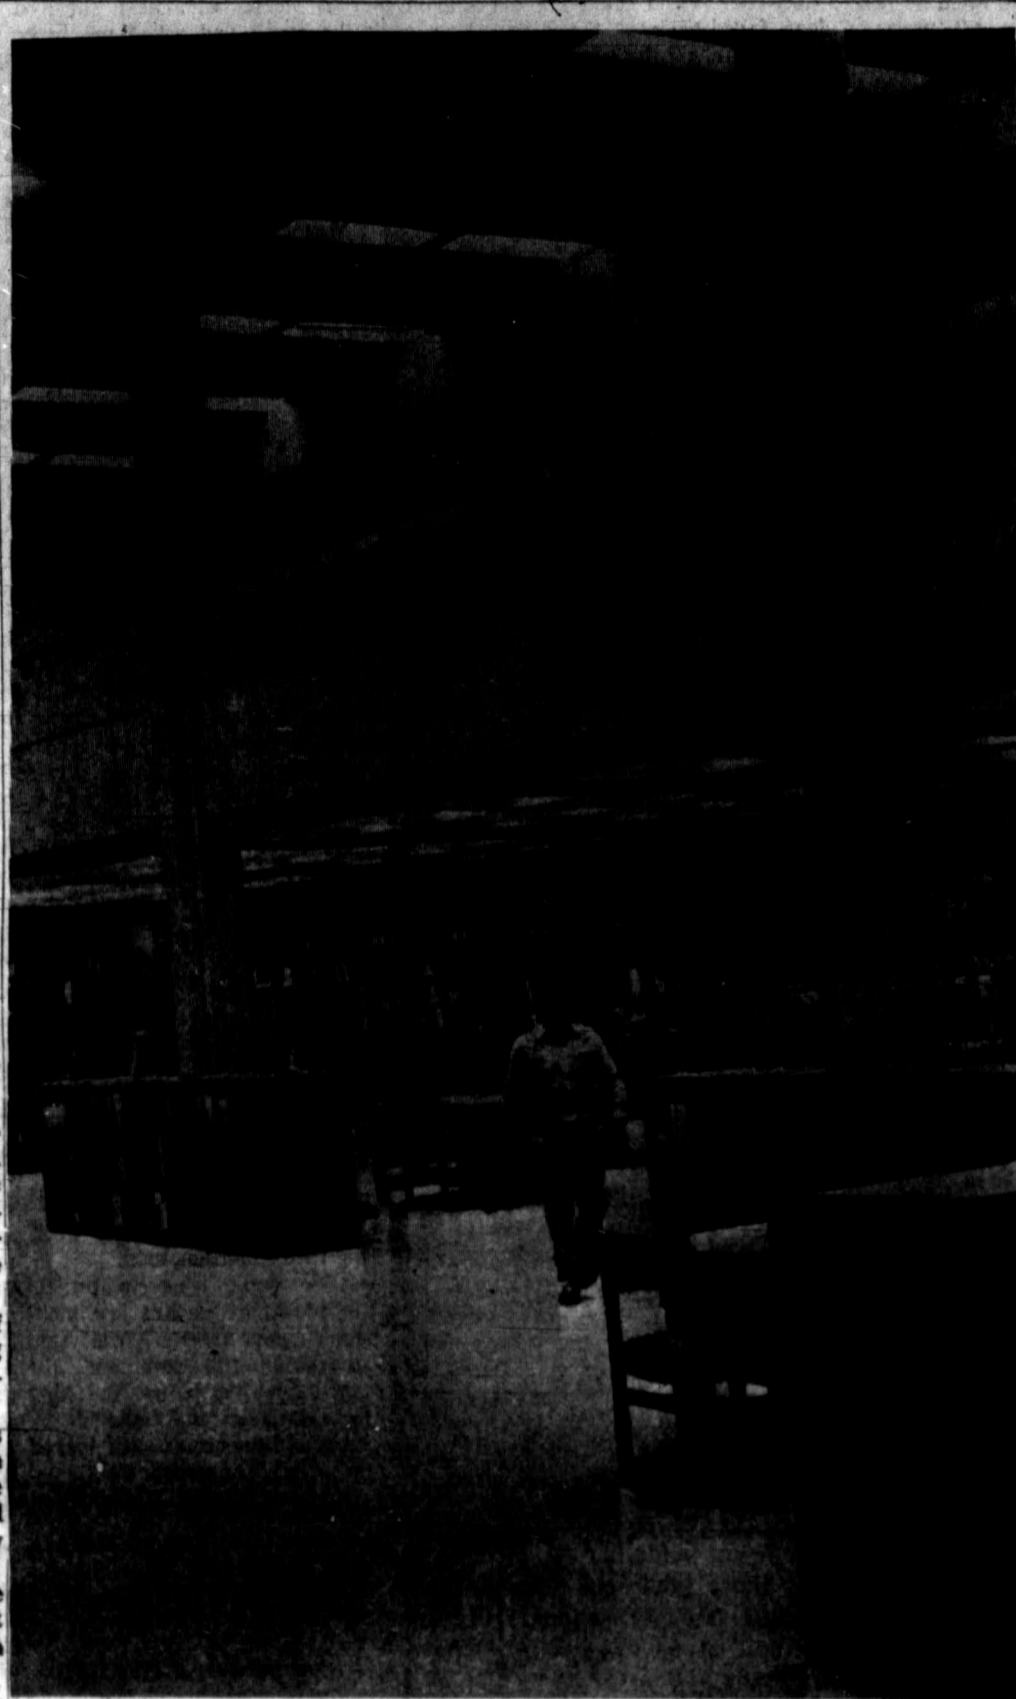

One case—that involving a man—deals with food stamp fraud. Twelve named in the complaints are women, Robinson said.

Robinson said those named in the complaints allegedly falsified government forms. Mothers were working, bringing in income and failing to report that to the state welfare office here, in many of the cases, Robinson said. Also, the fathers—the supposed chief breadwinners—in some cases had not deserted their families, as indicated on welfare application forms, Robinson said.

Outside income, he said, normally would reduce welfare benefits, he said.

The maximum in benefits allowed a mother with one dependent child is $86.25 per month. The maximum, for a mother and 11 children, is $300 per month.

Summons, rather than arrest warrants, are being served the defendants today, Rusty Wall, (See WELFARE Page 2A)

243 Viet Children On Board

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The first official U.S. evacuation flight of Vietnamese orphans, carrying 243 children in the world's largest plane, ended in explosions and flames today only minutes after take-off from Saigon.

U.S. officials said nearly half the children survived the crash. There were a total of 305 persons aboard the plane, a U.S. Air Force C-54 Galaxy transport that stands as high as a six-story building, officials said.

100 Orphans Survive
The U.S. Embassy said that in addition to the orphans, the transport carried 44 escorts, 16 crewmen and two flight nurses. A spokesman said about 100 orphans and 15 to 20 adults were pulled out alive. Hospital officials said the rest were either dead, injured or still trapped in the wreckage in a paddy field 1 1/2 miles from the airport.

One survivor said there were not enough oxygen masks to go around, and a congressman in Washington urged that all CSAs be grounded because the plane "has never performed up to specifications." The headquarters of the 13th Air Force in the Philippines refused to comment on reports that the plane's departure from Manila earlier today had been delayed by mechanical trouble.

Cargo Hold Flattened
Pages of a Donald Duck comic book flipped in the wind in the paddy field where the giant transport plummeted to earth, flattening the cargo hold where about 20 per cent of the orphans were strapped in.

"Some of us got through a chute from the top of the plane, but the children at the bottom of the plane didn't have a chance," a woman survivor said. Headless bodies were buried (See 'ORPHAN' Page 2A)

THIEU WILL FORM NEW GOVERNMENT
SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu announced today he has accepted the resignation of his cabinet and named the speaker of the lower house of the national assembly to form a new government. Thieu made the announcement in a nationwide broadcast as tension mounted in the national capital in the aftermath of the huge military losses to the North Vietnamese.

Vietnam Veterans: Five Years Change Their Views

By JAN WILLIAMS
Mike Baimbridge and Kenneth Parker spent time in Vietnam—fighting, watching their friends die and thinking about why they were there.

Baimbridge and Parker are now living in Midland, but they haven't forgotten the friends they left behind in Vietnam or those who were shipped back in boxes.

They felt, they say, they were there for a purpose—to stop the spread of communism in Southeast Asia. They felt those who died there, died for a reason. But that was five years ago. Today, their feelings are different.

The Vietnamese Communists are now successfully pushing their way southward and it appears they may eventually overtake the entire country.

Baimbridge and Parker, who five years ago willingly fought alongside the South Vietnamese as comrades in arms, now feel a bitter resentment toward the South Vietnamese army for its "chicken attitude." They're also perhaps a little bitter toward the U.S. government for its "bark, but don't bite" policy while U.S. troops were in Vietnam.

"When we (U.S. soldiers) left Vietnam," Baimbridge said in an interview, "we left millions of dollars worth of equipment and a supposedly well-trained South Vietnamese army. It's very frustrating to learn that it was all for nothing."

As far as the U.S. government is concerned, both Baimbridge and Parker feel if the generals had been allowed to run the war instead of the politicians, there would be no Vietnam conflict today.

"We should've gone all the way when we first got involved in the war," Parker said. "But we were political soldiers. We did what we were told. We grew a lot, but we couldn't bite."

Baimbridge believes the U.S. should have fought offensively, instead of defensively.

"If we had taken the war to the North Vietnamese instead of letting them bring it to the South," Baimbridge says, "they (the North Vietnamese) would've thought twice before trying it again."

Both Baimbridge and Parker feel Congress is right in denying military aid to the South Vietnamese.

"I don't think more U.S. aid would help the South Vietnamese anyway," Parker said. "I don't think they (the South Vietnamese) care what government they're under—as long as they're offered peace."

Although Parker and Baimbridge feel the U.S. should not get involved in Vietnam again, both say if they were called to serve in that capacity they would go.

"It's my country, right or wrong," Parker said, "and if I were in the Army and my (See VETERANS Page 2A)

'Orphan' Airlift Plane Crashes After Saigon Takeoff

(Continued from Page 1A) put aboard the choppers which flew them to a morgue. The plane arrived from Clark Air Base in the Philippines carrying emergency war materials, including 14 howitzers for the hard-pressed Saigon government and it picked up the orphans for the return trip. The pilot, identified as Dennis Traynor and who escaped unharmed, said he was about 18 miles from Tan Son Nhut Air Base when he had to turn back. The aft pressure door failed and blew out," he said. "In blowing out, the door damaged the elevator and as a result there were problems in controlling the rate of descent of the aircraft. This became critical to the point of almost losing control as the aircraft made its turn into the airport. It was the fourth worst crash in aviation history and the first fatal one for a C5A. Air Force Sgt. Jim Hadley, a medical technician from Sacramento, Calif., who also survived the crash unhurt, said, "You could see the hole in the back of the plane. You could see the sunlight streaming in. Things started flying around. Eye glasses. Pens. Pieces of insulation tore off the ceiling. The pillows exploded. They were plastic lined. "That went on for a little while until the air stopped. By then the oxygen masks had dropped down. He said, "There weren't enough oxygen masks. We had to keep moving them from kid to kid. We kept on our own because otherwise you get drowsy, and then you go out." A nurse who also survived the crash and asked not to be identified said the orphans were "getting dozy from a lack of oxygen." She said she and the other adults "had plenty of time" and talked about "what doors we were going out of when we impacted. We didn't stand by the doors. We were feeding oxygen to the kids." In Washington, a spokesman for the Agency for International Development, which is handling the airlift, said "the flight will continue." But Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., urged temporary grounding of all C5As because he said the plane "has never performed up to specifications." He cited wing problems. The plane is 248 feet long and has a 223-foot wingspan. In San Francisco, Richard Blanchfield, the man coordinating the evacuation of Vietnamese orphans for the Friends of All Children, said when he heard the plane had crashed, "Oh, God. This is horrible!" U.S. officials in Washington said it was the first fatal crash of a C5A, which the Air Force has been flying since 1970. Witnesses told Associated Press correspondent Huynh Minh Trinh that they heard two explosions before the plane plunged into the paddy field. The plane skidded through the field and exploded. After the impact the cockpit was lying about 100 yards from the fuselage and the tail section about the same distance away. An hour after the crash, black smoke still billowed from the plane's cockpit. Air America and South Vietnamese helicopters plucked survivors from the wreckage, taking them to the Seventh Day Adventist Hospital near the air base. The choppers also carried out the mangled bodies of children and Americans who were escorting them.

THIS ONE MADE IT—Denise Ingram of Casper, Wyo., holds her adopted Vietnamese daughter Camille. The child was among those flown out of embattled Saigon earlier this week on a World Airways plane. Twenty-seven of the orphans arrived at Stapleton International Airport at Denver, Colo., early today. (AP Wirephoto.)

Commissioners Formally Accept Courthouse

By ED TODD
In a two-phase final payment Thursday, the Midland County Commissioners' Court virtually closed out its pact with the J. W. Cooper Construction Co. by paying the Odessa building contractor $152,691.05. The commissioners paid Cooper $140,000 at noon and the $12,691.05 balance in the afternoon in formally accepting the renovated courthouse. Those payments bring to $1,386,109.09 the amount the commissioners have paid Cooper on the remodeling project authorized through a $1.95-million bond issue of 1970. The commissioners had held off in paying Cooper until they were satisfied that no $100-a-day construction delay penalties should be held against Cooper and that they were agreeable with a warranty period. "Are you convinced that it (the courthouse) was finished in time without desultory horsing around?" County Judge Barbara Culver asked architect Joe Bill Pierce. Pierce replied that "I don't think anybody maliciously dragged his feet." Four contractors were involved in renovating the 1930-built courthouse. And one contractor's task depended upon another's, and, Pierce explained, sometimes the continuity was missing. The county awarded Cooper, the quasi-general contractor, the construction contract in December 1971, and the four-story building was vacated by the following March. Completion was to take 700 days, discounting inclement weather. The building, replete with its new, suspended fifth floor for the jail, was to be renovated and ready for occupancy in April 1974. The jail was occupied in January of that year, but the rest of the courthouse was not moved into until early July. The building was dedicated in September. "When you moved in," Pierce opined, "you substantially accepted it (the courthouse) despite the conversation." The commissioners had been discussing what date following construction the one-year warranty should begin. However, John Cooper, representing the contractor, said the warranty "for the building, not the jail" was to begin upon final payment to the contractor or upon occupancy of the courthouse—whichever is earlier. "I'm just quoting from the contract—no argument. I won't argue with anybody," he said. However, Cooper, son of the owner of the construction company, said, "I'm conciliatory to anything you want to do except Commissioner Charlie Welch responded: "The more arguments you can leave out of this thing the better I like it." "Amen," someone uttered. Any threats of arguments seemed to end when Commissioner Durward Wright made a motion to pay Cooper $12,691.05 in the afternoon meeting and thereby clear the county's account with the contractor. The motion passed unanimously. Cooper phoned his Odessa office, as he had done earlier, and gave the commissioners this news: "We'll be more than happy to certify the warranty beginning Jan. 1, 1975." Though the commissioners have formally accepted the courthouse as renovated by Cooper and that company's subcontractors, the commissioners have yet to accept the mechanical work. They are withholding $10,000 from Roche-Newton & Co. of Lubbock, the mechanical contractor, until touch-up work is completed. So far, the mechanical contractor has been paid $362,546.35. The other two contractors have been paid in full. Cardinal Electric Co. of Midland was paid $140,812.34; the final payment came in July 1974. Southern Steel of San Antonio, builder and installer of the jail ironworks, was paid $206,385; the final payment came in December 1973.

Welfare Fraud Charged 14 Midland Recipients

(Continued from Page 1A) recipient used fraud to take at least $200, the minimum amount allowable for a felony theft charge under the new Texas Penal Code. Prior to 1974, the amount was $50. "There is far, far more abuse that $200 in each of these cases," Wall said. Maximum penalty on a third-degree felony such as those alleged is a 2-to-10-year prison sentence or a fine of $5,000. Robison said that Johnny Adams, supervisor of the AFDC program here, aided in the team investigation here that got under way in January. Robison said Adams and the state welfare office here furnished his five-man investigative team with information leading to 11 of the 12 complaints. "The investigation is continuing," he said.

Both said they felt they were doing the right thing by fighting in Vietnam back in 1968 and 1970. They went with almost a gun-ho attitude, proud of the fact that they were American soldiers with a job to do. Now, if they had to return, they say they would go with different feelings and for different reasons—if for any reason at all.

Midland, Rankin, Wink Win District Laurels

Dramatic teams from both Tall City's high schools advanced to areawide University Interscholastic League (UIL) competition Thursday as a result of the District 5-4A spring meet. In one-act play competition held at Midland High School, the Lee High School dramatists presented "J. B." with the MHS team performing in "The Dark of the Moon." Both squads will advance to the area meet scheduled April 11 at Lubbock Christian College. Chosen as alternate was Abilene High School with "The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail." Gary Robertson of San Angelo Central was named best actor, with Kathi Spannaus of Big Spring cited as best actress. Other members of the all-star cast are Fred Crooks, Odessa; Bruce Urnee, Abilene; Cooper; Jamie Pelly, Big Spring; Sean Grathoul, Big Spring; Brad Robertson, Midland; Lee; Clay Guthrie, Midland; Julie Jackson, Midland; Wanny Chick, Midland; Lynn Lumpkin, San Angelo Central, and Greg O'Neill, Abilene. Five Midlanders also were awarded honorable mentions including Rhea Womack and Megan Coffield, both of LHS. Wanda Holland, David Smith and Mike Robards are MHS students named. In District 6-A competition held Thursday in Rankin, the host city's team was named to compete on the area level for its presentation of "Aesop's Fables." Also chosen for the April 11 contest in Snyder was Wink's "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals." Named as alternate was Clint's presentation of "Wizard of Oz." Best actor in the meet was Ewan Richardson of Wink, with Sara Barrett of Rankin selected the best actress. Other all-star cast members are Tony Castillas, Balmorhea; Mary Jobe, Clint; David Macias, Clint; Karen Howard, Wink; Dub Hasteley, Rankin, and Marlene Mobley, Rankin. Honorable mentions went to Ubaldo Elquea of Iraan; Cynthia Flores, Gary Euentes and Sherry Elliott, all of Balmorhea; Bill Smyer and Pat Downer of Clint; Julia Harding, Jeff Boff and Cindy Elliott of Wink; and Teresa Johnson, Carla McVea and Allen Speed, all of Rankin.

Incentives For Drillers Due This Year, Says Congressman

(Continued from Page 1A) would raise gasoline taxes, and rebate the tax to consumers. He said this approach is preferable to the allocation approach which "does nothing to change the amount of gas people want to use." He noted that Ford's proposal would give disproportionate rebates to lower income people to offset "the disproportionate impact of higher gasoline taxes on them." Ford's proposal has not yet been acted on by Congress and White said he couldn't predict if the proposal would be passed. "We're all trying to get a handle on this thing and I think what's going to happen is going to be somewhere in between. "On the gas tax rebate, I think Congress is going to approach that skeptically because of their realization of the administrative difficulties it would entail." Smith agreed it would be difficult to administer the rebate program equitably. "If we give the same amount back to guys in the same bracket in Arlington, Va., and in West Texas, have we really been equitable?" Smith said, "We're way ahead of where we were last year because now we're working on how to do it and not what to do."

Elections—

All posts open in the trustee election may be voted upon by all qualified voters, unlike city council elections. Already tallied in the absentee balloting are 1,101 votes, a record absentee turnout for the district. Five persons voted absentee in the Greenwood district which has slated voting for 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the school. Competing for the three at-large positions on the Greenwood board are incumbents Elzy Cox, Bud Lea and Charles Dunn. Paul W. Cooper is seeking a first term.

Bill To Help Teacher Veterans Sent To Governor

Austin Bureau AUSTIN—School people with military service in the Korean and Vietnam wars can get credit on their teacher retirement benefits under a bill which went to Gov. Dolph Briscoe for signature after legislative approval. Rep. Joe Wyatt of Bloomington and Sen. W. E. "Pete" Snelson of Midland sponsored the bill, which passed the House, 130-0, and the Senate, 29-0. The teachers and school people will have to pay in the amounts they would have paid had they still been teaching at the pay rate before they went into service. The big change is to allow teachers to "buy" retirement benefits for military service before they became teachers. Previously, it was permitted only for those who left school work to join the military. Advertise Or Be Forgotten!

Midlander Held In Burglary Case

Roy Lee Shaw, 19, of Midland was arrested late Thursday and charged today with attempted burglary of the B&B Trading Post at 617 E. Illinois St. Justice of the Peace John Biggs accepted charges and set bond for Shaw at $3,500. Police said a burglar alarm sounded at the trading post shortly before 9 p.m. Thursday and on arrival of units Shaw was seen running away from the store. Police said a brick had been thrown through the front window of the trading post.

Ford, Kissinger Discuss Vietnam

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today began a series of conferences aimed in part at seeking "an opportunity to salvage the situation in Vietnam." Ford told a Thursday news conference in San Diego he saw such an opportunity and would be discussing "the sad and tragic events" in Vietnam with Kissinger and Gen. Frederick C. Weyand, Army chief of staff who is soon to return from a fact-finding mission in Saigon. Kissinger was first to arrive at Ford's Easter holiday retreat, arriving late Thursday night and going directly to the President's rented mountain-side home for a midnight meeting. Weyand will join Kissinger for a session with Ford Saturday.

High Clouds Spread Across South Texas

High clouds spread over much of South Texas today as the state essayed a slow warm-up. Skies were clear across the north half. It was unseasonably cool again, however, at many points. Waco, near the center of Texas, saw the temperature dip to 34 degrees, matching a record for the date set there in 1915. Readings elsewhere near dawn ranged up to 56 at Galveston on the coast, with most early morning marks in the higher 30s to 40s. Maximums Thursday after-

Stanton Denied Funds From HUD

STANTON—The City of Stanton's pre-application for funds from the Department of Housing and Urban Development was turned down this week. However, the Stanton Jaycees plan to go ahead with the park renovation program already under way here. They have planned a work day for Saturday at 12:30 p.m. in Shelburne Park, and ask for help from the community. The city applied for funds to renovate the park from HUD and from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. The HUD funds could have been used as matching funds with the TPWD grant, which the city has a good chance of receiving.

Tower Cites Discrimination Against Mexican Americans

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Mexican Americans face more discrimination from the federal government than do blacks, U.S. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said Thursday. Tower gave that assessment during questioning after a speech before a predominantly Spanish-surnamed audience here. He said also: —That the ratio of Spanish-speaking persons in high federal positions is too low. —That more Mexican Americans should be brought into the mainstream of American business. —And that minority business enterprise will continue to be funded despite the recession. In his speech Tower said that Texas oil industry is threatened by an unwarranted and unnecessary federal encroachment. "We have a Congress that doesn't know anything about the oil and gas industry but wants to dictate to us in Texas what we do with our oil," he added. The senator said also that the United States must be careful not to kindle inflation in at-

Jacobsen Says Connally Asked For And Received Two $5,000 Payments

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jake Jacobsen, a Texas lawyer who has known former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally for 25 years, says Connally asked for and accepted two $5,000 payments supplied by Associated Milk Producers Inc., a dairy farmer cooperative that was one of Connally's clients.

Jacobsen, testifying Thursday at Connally's bribery trial, also accused his old friend of supplying two separate batches of currency, $10,000 each, in a bungled attempt to cover up the alleged bribery with perjured testimony claiming the money had never left Jacobsen's bank vault in Austin.

Their eyes met only briefly across the packed courtroom as Jacobsen matter-of-factly detailed his allegations against Connally.

Prosecutors introduced a White House tape, first made public in transcript last year during impeachment proceedings, that showed Connally pushed hard and finally helped convince former President Richard M. Nixon to raise price supports.

Jacobsen said that shortly after that Connally told him "in effect that the dairy farmers raise a lot of money for a lot of people and why didn't they raise a little for him? ... I said I'd see what I could do."

Jacobsen said he then got $10,000 in $100 bills from the milk producers and gave half of it to Connally on May 14, 1971, in Connally's Treasury Department office. "I said, 'There is more where this came from,'" Jacobsen said.

Jacobsen said that on Sept. 23, 1971, "I was in his office talking about another problem and I told him I had some more of that money.... He said, 'Yes, bring it over.'"

On the morning of Sept. 24, Connally's official log of his daily activities shows, Jacobsen dropped into Connally's office for about ten minutes without an appointment. It was then that Connally took the second $5,000 just before rushing off to testify to a Senate committee, Jacobsen said.

Jacobsen said that in 1973 he and Connally conspired to cover up the alleged bribery after Watergate investigators got wind of it through testimony by an official of the milk producers.

Jacobsen said Connally, wearing rubber gloves, handed him a cigar box containing $10,000 at a meeting in Connally's Houston law office and that Jacobsen agreed to put it in his Austin bank vault and claim that the $10,000 had never left the vault.

Jacobsen and Connally both testified in 1973 and 1974 that Jacobsen had offered Connally $10,000 for political use but that Connally had turned it down and that the money had stayed in Jacobsen's bank vault. Connally still swears the story is true. Jacobsen says it is a lie.

School Board Members, Aldermen To Be Elected

RANKIN—Three city aldermen and five school board members will be elected here Saturday.

Six persons are seeking two-year terms as aldermen, including three incumbents. The top three votegetters will be elected since the election is citywide and not by places.

The three incumbents are Tommy R. Latham, D. J. Rose and Darrel Northcott, all employees of Union Texas Petroleum Co.

Contesting them are Jesse Perritt, Rankin postmaster; Don Vickers, a Western Co. employe, and James E. Covill Jr. who is associated with Red Bluff Lumber Co.

Five incumbents are among the seven persons seeking election to the school board.

Three persons, including incumbent Sam Fitzhugh, are seeking the one-year position on the board. Fitzhugh's opponents are Eddie Hyatt, who works for Halliburton Service, and Jimmy Lee, an employe of Northern Natural Gas Co. Fitzhugh owns a waterwell service firm.

Running unopposed for the two-year term is Rusty Ratliff, a rancher. Ratliff was appointed to the board to replace Jimmy Neal who had resigned.

Incumbents Joe Loftin, production foreman for the Handley Oil Co.; C. E. Taylor, superintendent of Halliburton Services, and Ray Barrett, a rancher, are running unopposed for three-year terms.

Crane's Mayor Is Unopposed For Re-Election

CRANE—Crane voters will go to the polls Saturday to elect two members to the Crane County Independent School District Board of Trustees.

Incumbent Benny Joe Morrison is opposed by Ira Lewis Overton, John J. Bilberry, and Dewey L. McCoy Jr. for the Place 1 seat.

Incumbent Edgar M. Doshier is running unopposed for the Place 2 post.

In the election for a mayor and three city councilmen, four men are running unopposed.

Mayor Don Charney is seeking re-election, and two incumbents are seeking two of the three at-large council seats. They are incumbents Douglas Darnon and Ronald Ashburn and new candidate Gary E. Edmiston.

The first Scandinavian boats were hollowed-out logs.

STAR WITNESS — Jake Jacobsen, the government's star witness in former Texas Gov. John B. Connally's bribery trial, leaves U.S. District Court in Washington Thursday. Jacobsen testified he gave Connally $10,000 while he was secretary of the Treasury after Connally asked "why don't they raise money for me?" (AP Wirephoto.)

Amarillo Officers Probe Girl's Slaying

AMARILLO (AP) — An autopsy confirmed that Law enforcement officers were continuing their investigation today into the slaying of 17-year-old Katina Elizabeth Moyer, who was found dead early Wednesday with a single shot in her head.

Texas Rangers, Potter County sheriffs deputies, Amarillo police and highway patrolmen met behind closed doors Thursday to discuss the case. They said there are no suspects, and that the motive is still unclear.

"It's still a wide open investigation," said Capt. Arthur Fields of the Potter County Sheriff's department. "The meeting was just a matter of making sure we all weren't following each other's tracks. Basically, we were just comparing notes."

An autopsy confirmed that Miss Moyer, daughter of former Rep. Hudson Moyer, was killed by a single shot in the head. Authorities said they still have not found the bullet that killed her, nor the weapon, but they theorized it might have come from a handgun or a small bore rifle.

Funeral services for Miss Moyer will be at 4 p.m. today in Amarillo.

Sheriff's deputies found the body of the high school junior lying in a pool of blood about 2:15 a.m. Wednesday on a lonely dirt road about five miles north of this Panhandle city.

She was reported missing about 5 p.m. Tuesday by her parents.

I want to thank the many people that helped in my campaign for the City Council, Place 3, especially those that went the extra mile to make my effort so worthwhile. I feel my first experience in politics has been rewarding because of each of you.

Houston Airport Screenings Bare Varied Weapons

HOUSTON (AP) — Police at Houston airports say weapons ranging from cheap handguns to a souvenir sword-cane have been detected by screening devices in the past two years.

Capt. John Collins said in most cases owners of the potentially dangerous weapons were not charged with a crime providing they cooperated with police.

"Our main objective is to keep someone from running off with a plane," said Collins, who is the active chief of airport police.

No one has attempted to hijack a plane at a Houston airport since the passenger and luggage screening procedures went into effect in February 1973.

TO THE PEOPLE AND PARENTS OF MIDLAND:

It is a great honor to me to serve as a member of your School Board. I have always had a deep interest in education, and much of my life has been devoted to working with children and young people. I have tried to make a real contribution to our school system, and have done my very best to fairly represent every citizen, every parent and every child as School Trustees.

Midland has been good to the Robles family, and we believe that we live in the finest city in the world. We must build the very best school system anywhere, and our people have the dedication, the ability and the resources to be satisfied with nothing less.

Please believe me when I tell you that Roger Robles wants to serve you and help to realize your ambitions for educational excellence. Our schools belong to you, and you can be sure that I shall do everything I can to make our schools whatever you demand that they become. With your help and support, the sky is the limit.

Thank you very, very much for giving me the opportunity to work for you and with you. I will be forever grateful for your vote for re-election to a first full term at the polls tomorrow . . . and please help me to do a good job for you by giving me your advice, counsel and suggestions. Those are the things I need the most.

Sincerely,

Sneaky Lecturer Takes No Chances On Losing Her Students' Attention

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Dr. Flora Zbar took no chances of losing the attention of her students recently when she pulled a 4-foot redtail boa constrictor out of a pillow case the first day of class. Her subject was "The Literature of Terror and Horror" at the University of South Florida. Dr. Zbar exhibited the reptile so students could identify and distinguish between the two emotions. "Snakes have been around for many thousands of years, and they always have been universal symbols of fear, reverence and horror," Dr. Zbar said. She made her point as Roman, the snake, wrapped himself around her body. "Terror and horror stem from two different sources," she said. "If you are horrified, that's an ethical or a moral judgment in some way. But terror is fright, immediate fear for your personal safety. The snake is one of the few things that evokes the dual reaction." Dr. Zbar said she "grew up with snakes," going on snake hunts with her brother who raised them.

Surprise . . . He's A Woman

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — The office of a subcontractor working on a city building here hired Rosalie Bolt as a carpenter, but nobody realized she was a woman until she showed up for work.

Foreman Rodney Carlson said he was walking a scaffold when he was hailed by "this guy on the ground" asking about a job. Mrs. Bolt was in jeans, sweat shirt and hard hat.

Carlson was in need of two more men so he directed Mrs. Bolt, 32, to the office.

Not until Mrs. Bolt punched in for work, and somebody referred to her as "He" did the truth dawn. Mrs. Bolt said: "I'm not a he, I'm a she."

A spokesman for Carpenters' Local 792 said, "She's the first woman outside carpenter we've ever had. We've had women in the local before but they were in-shop workers."

A divorcee and mother of a 14-year-old daughter, Mrs. Bolt said she learned her trade from her older brother and father.

Hi Mom!

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP) — Judge R. Jay Cook was quizzing a prospective juror in a civil case here recently. From his bench, he announced: "I only have one main question for this lady — will she obey my instructions?" The woman said she would. She is the judge's mother.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:
May I offer something that I'm sure will help many others as it has me?
The manufacturer of a household glue, which is sold in a tube, added to the general instructions: "to prevent cap from sticking, apply a drop of oil to the threads of the cap and tube."
Heloise, this worked so well, I use it all the time now on any bottle, jar or tube of "sticky stuff."
When the contents are glue, paint or some other inedible, I use regular, light machine oil. However, when doing pancake syrup bottle, cough medicine or anything else that will be taken internally, I use a drop of cooking oil.
Try it—it works!
"Sassy" A Reader

Ever Come Unglued By A Stuck Tube Of It?

Dear Heloise:
How to remove wax from a rug? Simple!
Take a spoon and scrape off as much as possible. Then grab that box of facial tissues or white paper napkins. Lay 3 or 4 thicknesses on top of the spilled wax, using your iron set on synthetic or medium — and just iron away.
As soon as the grease appears on your paper, remove IMMEDIATELY so that you won't iron it back into your rug. Replace with fresh tissues. Repeat process until napkins no longer absorb any grease.
A safe dry-cleaning fluid might be effective. In some cases, it should be used sparingly to avoid damage to the latex backing, but it is doubtful that any will be needed if the above method is used.
LETTER OF LOVE
Dear Heloise:
I want to thank you for all your helpful hints all these past years.
I was so dumb when first married and how your hints and books helped me! I even fooled my dear mother-in-law into thinking I was a whiz of a housewife.

Wednesday Club Program Given

The Women's Wednesday Club met for a program presented by Mrs. Allen Turner, a guest, on "A Foreign Service Wife's Experiences," in the Midland Woman's Club.

Mrs. Turner discussed her experiences in China, Japan, Belgium, Canada, Venezuela and England.

Other guests were Mrs. C. R. Moncrief and Mrs. Paul Jimenez.

Presiding was Mrs. James T. Smith, president. The club collect was led by Mrs. Yale Key.

Mrs. Key reminded members of the luncheon and program on creative stitchery to be held April 17 at the Woman's Club.

Mrs. William L. Kerr announced the Woman's Club will have a Polynesian dinner at 7:30 p.m. April 18. A style show with fashions from Career Girl will be held at the dinner.

U. S. Checks Possible Monopoly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is investigating whether major oil companies would gain a monopoly on oil in a naval petroleum reserve in California if the government opens it to private production.

The Ford administration has proposed to allow commercial development of the Elk Hills Naval Petroleum Reserve, which has been maintained since 1942 as an oil stockpile for emergency military use.

As the result of the administration's proposal, a dormant five-year-old antitrust investigation of California's oil market has been revived and speeded up. Officials of the Justice Department's Antitrust Division say they expect recommendations within weeks from their West Coast investigators.

The issue has received relatively little attention in congressional hearings on bills to open up the reserve.

But Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., testifying last week before the House Armed Services subcommittee on investigations, revealed memos and letters documenting the Justice Department's concern over the possibility of antitrust violations in California's oil market and the prospect of opening Elk Hills.

Standard Oil of California (SOCAL) is both the operator of the Elk Hills reserve for the Navy and the owner of about 20 per cent of the petroleum reserve. The documents say this gives SOCAL "insider's knowledge" and thus a competitive advantage in any bidding for commercial production.

SOCAL also owns the only major pipeline out of Elk Hills, effectively controlling the flow of oil by its competitors, the documents say.

SOCAL also owns the only major pipeline out of Elk Hills, effectively controlling the flow of oil by its competitors, the documents say.

Abobe Producer Opens Oil Zone

Adobe Oil Co., Midland, has completed No. 1-A Mims as a lower Wolfcamp discovery in assistant attorney general for antitrust, said the Justice Department is reviving the antitrust investigation. However, he said last week that the administration proposals for opening Elk Hills would "incorporate antitrust safeguards," including requirements for "full and equal opportunity" for all oil companies to obtain Elk Hills oil.

But Moss said such safeguards are not strong enough.

Moss suggested the federal government might want to take over SOCAL's Elk Hills property and pipeline, bar major oil companies from bidding for Elk Hills oil, and "press antitrust action in California against existing oil monopoly there."

Permian Basin OIL & GAS LOG

Bernecker field of Fisher County, three miles northwest of Bernecker township.

It had a 24-hour flowing potential of 160 barrels of 42 gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio measuring 4,900-1, producing through a 14-64-inch choke and perforations at 6,758-6,763 feet, after washing with 500 gallons of mud acid.

It was drilled to 7,067 feet, where 4 1/2-inch casing is seated, and plugged back to 7,050 feet. Ground elevation is 2,262 feet, and the top of the Strawn was picked at 6,723 feet, and Ellenburger, at 7,065 feet.

Location is 2,000 feet from south and east lines of section 249, block 3, H&TC survey.

Strawn pay originally was opened in the field in 1955.

Silurian, 17,706; Fusselman, 17,848 and Montoya, 18,000 feet.

Location is 1,097 feet from southwest and 660 feet from southeast lines of WTK survey, abstract 376. It originally was staked as No. 2, 660 feet from southwest and southeast lines of section.

Penn Gas Flows At Terrell Site

Hytech Energy Corp. No. 1 Frank Rashap Jr., Terrell County recent Devonian gas discovery, three miles south of the Allison (Pennsylvanian detrital) gas field, flowed gas at the rate of 500,000 cubic feet per day, from the Pennsylvanian.

Flow was for an unreported time, on a 10-64-inch choke, and through perforations at 10,336-10,427 feet, which had been acidized with 1,000 gallons.

Devonian completion was effected in early March for 950,000 cubic feet of gas daily, through perforations at 11,143-11,212 feet.

Well site is 660 feet from north and 489 feet from west lines of section 3, block 176, TMRR survey, 11 miles south of Sheffield.

American Quasar Completes Strike

American Quasar Petroleum Co. has completed No. 2X-Barstow Township Unit as a Devonian pay opener and two-mile northwest extension to Wolfcamp gas production in the Barstow field of Ward County, 1/2 mile southwest of Barstow township.

From the Devonian, it gauged a calculated, absolute open flow of 14.3 million cubic feet of dry gas daily, through perforations at 17,573-17,657 feet. It had been acidized with 10,000 gallons.

From the Wolfcamp, it rated a calculated, absolute open flow of 390,000 cubic feet of gas daily, through perforations at 11,440-16,460 feet.

Drilled to 18,123 feet, it is plugged back to 18,048 feet, and has a 5-inch liner hung from 16,641-18,123 feet.

The following tops were picked under ground elevation of 2,561 feet: Wolfcamp, 11,440; Atoka, 15,786; Barnett, 16,460; Mississippian, 16,905; Woodford, 17,146; Devonian, 17,506.

Stepout Slated In Crockett Area

Hamilton Brothers Oil Co., Midland, plans to drill No. 1 C. J. Terry as a 3/4-mile northwest stepout to Ellenburger production in the Tripoli (Pennsylvanian and Ellenburger) field of Crockett County, six miles southeast of McCarney.

It is slated to 8,200 feet, and spots 2,007 feet from northwest and 467 feet from southwest lines of section 21, block 36, H&TC survey.

Corn Cobs Used As Bottle Stoppers, Scrubbers

Early Indians used corn cobs as bottle stoppers, scrubbers, and fuel.

Three Wildcats Staked In Pecos

Three wildcats, one a deep probe, 3/4 mile east of the Sun Valley, North (lower Tubb) field, and six miles northwest of Girvin.

It spots 3,107 feet from most southerly south and 1,787 feet from most westerly east lines of section 106, block 11, H&GN survey, abstract 8474.

Mitchell Well Takes Potential

HMH Operators, Midland, completed No. 1 Barber as a location northeast extension to the marginal four-well Dockrey (Clearfork) field of Mitchell County, three miles southwest of Westbrook.

It was completed to pump 66.24 barrels of 29-gravity oil and 11 barrels of water daily, with gas-oil ratio too small to measure.

Production was through perforations at 3,001-3,019 feet, which had been acidized with 2,000 gallons and fractured with 15,000 gallons and 30,000 pounds.

The well has 4 1/2-inch casing seated at 3,058 feet, total depth. It is 467 feet from south and 2,100 feet from east lines of section 9, block 28, T-1-S, T&P survey.

Amoco Will Drill Test In Schleicher

Amoco Production Co. has staked site for No. 5-B Edwin S. Mayer Jr., as a 3/4-mile northwest outpost to the five-well Turkey Roost (upper Pennsylvanian) gas field of Schleicher County.

Location is 1,470 feet from south and 2,000 feet from east lines of section 4, block 5, Matt (P. H.) Lee (GC&SF) survey, abstract 1553, 17 miles northwest of Sonora. Depth is 8,500 feet.

Soviet Union's Power And Influence In World Growing

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
(An AP News Analysis)

The Kremlin is probably in a happy mood today, as its power and influence in the world grows in direct relation to a decline of the United States image, battered and tattered by world events.

It may be almost too much prosperity, because it can endanger the detente, that has been the keystone of Kremlin policy for five years.

A superabundance of Soviet and Communist success — for example, should the Communists move too fast in Portugal — could wreck the fragile detente structure.

Soviet military might challenges the United States in the air and on the seas, and on land surpasses the Americans by far in conventional capabilities.

ity and manpower. The Russians also expect to reach at least equality in terms of nuclear potential.

The psychological impact of a series of policy reverses suffered by the United States seems to lift Soviet world political authority to an all-time peak. In consequence, not for 25 years has the international Communist movement had such invigorating shots in the arm.

A Kremlin-eye view of the world would see its superpower rival on the run on a number of key fronts. For the Americans, the picture is far from reassuring.

Asians watch attentively as American hopes in Indochina, after a quarter century of enormously expensive effort, are buried in rubble by Communist offensives in Vietnam and Cambodia. Laos, as a result of agreements that ended its fighting, is on its way to being brought under dominating Communist influence.

Future Trouble In Asia
The Indochina resolution may herald future trouble in Asia, especially if North Korea now is encouraged to try its luck in the South on the assumption that the American will resist communism in Asia as just about petered out.

Thailand, though fearful of a reinvigorated Communist guerrilla war in its northeast, has politely invited U.S. troops and aircraft to get out within also-year, after decades of that nation's role as "staunchest ally" of the Americans.

In the Middle East, the Soviet Union patiently outwaited Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's step-by-step diplomacy and won. Kissinger himself sadly calls his recent experience there a setback. The Russians now can look forward hopefully to resurgent influence even in Egypt, whose fear of the Communists had persuaded its leaders to welcome U.S. mediation efforts.

American hopes of constructing a road to Arab-Israeli settlement having been dashed, Moscow will be able to throw its weight around in a cumbersome Geneva conference. It can insure a lasting and dangerous instability that can badly hurt the West.

Even the assassination of Saudi Arabia's King Faisal opens possibilities for Moscow, particularly if conservative Arab leadership should be weakened or if the event generates nervous uncertainty in the whole area to the detriment of stability.

In Europe, Portugal moves steadily left and Communist party authority grows accordingly in what is the southwest anchor of the North Atlantic Alliance. On the Alliance's eastern flank, Greece and Turkey, both members, glare at each other and the Americans because of spinoff from the durable Cyprus crisis. In the Alliance center, Italy struggles with what seems insoluble problems as the Communists strive industriously to wedge themselves into the government.

Around the world, leaders of many a Communist party have waited hungrily for decades for a distant scent of power. Immediately after World War II their hopes were high as Soviet arms presided over seizures of East European nations and Mao Tse-tung's legions swept across China. But the years since have been lean. Except for North Vietnam and Cuba, the Communists were stalled.

national Communist movement, they have high hopes of looking respectable. Perhaps more importantly, it could also end the detente and whatever hopes Moscow had of economic advantages from it.

In this last year of the Ninth Five-Year Plan, the Soviet economy has failed to achieve major goals in agriculture and on the consumer side. Top priority still goes to heavy industry and military power.

The Russians thus still eagerly want vastly increased trade with the West and access to Western and American technologies. Thus it may be that Moscow will have to make some difficult choices between restraining client parties or killing the detente.

Portfolio Losses Hit Foundation

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight years ago McGeorge Bundy, then the new president of the Ford Foundation, attracted considerable comment when he chided colleges and universities on their poor performance in the financial markets.

If a return of just 1 per cent more could be obtained on total endowments of $2 billion, he said, it would mean a net of $120 million added to the funds available to financially pressed institutions.

This was a time, you may recall, when the cult of performance was reaching its peak. Some mutual funds were providing returns in excess of 50 per cent, and in at least one instance, more than 100 per cent in a year.

Space-Age Geniuses
A new era was said to have arrived. It was the space age of stocks, and the astronauts were the self-proclaimed geniuses of money managing, the young aggressive fearless portfolio managers.

They scorned tradition and history. "Why invest for dividends?" they asked, implying that to do so wasn't suitable even for the old family trusts of Boston and Philadelphia. "Invest for fabulous capital gains instead!"

McGeorge Bundy's life evolved around history and tradition: Born in Boston, Harvard student and professor, special assistant to the president of the United States. He joined the crowd.

"We recognize the risk of unconventional investing," he told university officials and trustees, "but the true test of performance in the handling of money is the record of achievement, not the opinion of the respectable."

Glittering New Stocks
A document he issued, "Public Issues, Philanthropic Foundations and Straight Talk," was studied by institutions everywhere, and some of the richest and most conservative of them seemingly took his advice to heart.

"Caution costs our colleges and universities much more than imprudence or excessive risk-taking," Bundy announced. Spurred by his words, many colleges experimented. Shares of fast food franchisers appeared in portfolios next to the staid old utility stocks.

Soon thereafter the days of performance were over. The fearless leaders of performance ditched their spacecraft. They disappeared, some of them humiliated by huge losses. Their clients stayed aboard and came crashing down.

Cutbacks Under Way
Now, in an interview with the New York Times, Bundy told of plans to cut the Ford Foundation staff in half by laying off 300 professional and other employees by Sept. 30, 1978.

In addition, the nation's largest foundation will be forced to cut its philanthropic programs by 50 per cent. It might even rent out space in its architecturally unconventional headquarters here.

The reason for the moves: portfolio losses. A spirit of caution now exists. You just don't fly through that extraordinarily bad financial weather as you would have done back in 1967.

It's Different Now
Although today the White House staff consists of numerous aides, secretaries, etc., early presidents were forced to pay for their own secretarial help. President Woodrow Wilson often answered letters on an old typewriter that he owned.

Giving His Best— That We May Have The Best

Johnny Warren has always given his very best to any job he has tackled — as president of a successful and growing company, as a Sunday School teacher of young people, as a Little League coach, YMCA worker and basketball coach, as a working member of many church and civic organizations. And Johnny Warren has always turned in an outstanding job . . . because he takes responsibility seriously, and because he has an unusually fine ability to work with people and to provide effective leadership. He is uniquely qualified to give Midland the same dedicated service as a member of our School Board and we enthusiastically commend him to you as the best-qualified candidate for Place 3 in tomorrow's election.

Storm Churns Toward Atlantic After Leaving 47 Dead

THE MIDLAND REPORTER-TELEGRAM, FRIDAY, APRIL 4, 1975-9A

By The Associated Press
Heavy snow and high winds battered parts of the Northeast today as a powerful spring storm that left 47 dead in the Chicago area churned toward the Atlantic.

Winds up to 90 miles per hour hit State College, Pa., as the fast-moving storm whipped across Pennsylvania on Thursday. Between 10,000 and 15,000 persons were without power at times in western Pennsylvania.

Nineteen inches of snow swept into Rumford, Maine, and 10 to 15 inches fell elsewhere in Maine. Thirteen inches piled onto Plattsburgh, N.Y.

The storm had staggered the Chicago area with up to a foot of snow before swirling eastward early Thursday. Lesser amounts were the rule through Ohio and Pennsylvania.

The high winds felled trees and power lines across Pennsylvania. Two persons were killed.

Hundreds of travelers on the Pennsylvania Turnpike spent Thursday night in Somerset because of hazardous highways. About 1,500 were put up in eight churches after motels filled.

The wind whipped up waves as high as 12 feet on Lake Erie off northwestern Pennsylvania. It also shattered the third floor windows of a downtown Erie building and lifted off the roof. Winds gusting to 90 m.p.h. raked Washington late Thursday, damaging several buildings, toppling trees, downing power lines and claiming three lives. Several thousand households in the District of Columbia area were without electricity for varying periods.

The 24-hour closing of Chicago's O'Hare International Airport caused problems as far away as Pittsburgh, where hundreds of travelers were stranded because flights were diverted there from Chicago. O'Hare reopened late Thursday, but service was limited, delays were numerous and many travelers were forced to spend still another night at the airport or in nearby motels.

The Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry said the storm, the heaviest to hit the city since 1967, kept home Thursday half of those who normally work in the downtown district. Major streets and expressways were reopened by late Thursday.

Deaths attributed to the storm in the metropolitan area came by accidents, heart attacks and exposure.

Heavy rain soaked southern New England below the snow areas. More than 2 inches in local downpours pushed some rivers and streams toward the top of their banks.

Unseasonably cold weather rolling in behind the storm plunged temperatures to the low 20s, or lower, across the Midwest and dropped the mercury into the frosty 30s deep in the South.

A new weather system moving through the West scattered snow in the northern Rockies and rain and snow showers along the Northwest coast.

Stockmen's advisories were issued for parts of Montana and South Dakota.

The Charlotte Observer quoted its sources as saying the audit indicated extensive use of bogus expense vouchers in fueling the fund, although some pay-raise kick-backs were used.

Ryan, who was dismissed by the company in June, 1973, has said he intends to sue Southern Bell for $12 million in damages to his reputation and career.

The first flight left Dallas-Fort Worth at 6:15 a.m. for Houston, Corpus Christi, and McAllen.

The airline announced Thursday it has postponed a previously announced plan to provide service at Houston's Hobby Airport because of expenses incurred in the strike against the Houston-based carrier by its ground workers.

A contract between the airline and the Air Line Employees Association (ALEA), which struck the carrier Dec. 1, has been ratified by union members, an ALEA spokesman confirmed Thursday, clearing the way for the airline to resume service.

Additionally, the airline announced it has suspended service to Dallas Love Field because of strike expenses and pending a court decision on whether Love is available to commercial flights.

Although the airline had built a ticket counter and gate facility at Hobby prior to the strike, the expenses of regaining traffic plus strike-related costs don't justify flying out of two airports in one city, vice president Jim O'Donnell said. Normally the airline boards about 6,000 passengers on a typical day, O'Donnell said, but for the first day back in service he said 2,000 "would be a heck of a day."

Three incumbents in Big Lake Races

BIG LAKE—Three incumbents will be opposed by three other candidates Saturday when Big Lake voters go to the polls to elect three members to the city council.

The incumbents are L. E. Armstrong, an employee of Northwest Production Co.; G. R. Solomon, Santa Fe Railway Co. agent; and Jim Tucker, owner of Jim's Service Co.

Opposing them are Donald Young who works in the Reagan County Independent School District maintenance department; Kenneth Soles, a test engineer for Continental Oil Co., and James Noland, an employee of John L. Cox Oil Co.

The three candidates that poll the most votes will be elected.

U.S. Judge Issues Restraining Order in Love Field Suit

DALLAS (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge William M. Taylor Jr. has issued a temporary restraining order against the cities of Dallas and Fort Worth and eight airlines to keep them from prosecuting a portion of a suit against Southwest Airlines.

The judge described the controversy Thursday as a contest between airlines over flights within Texas.

"What is before this court is a contest involving competition for this service," Taylor said, "and the interstate certified carriers don't like this competition."

The portion of the suit mentioned in the 10-day restraining order seeks to remove Southwest Airlines, an intrastate airline, from flying out of Love Field in Dallas. The suit was filed in a state court in Austin.

Southwest has refused to move its commuter flights to the new airport. The two cities and several airlines have filed suits against Southwest. Judge Taylor has ruled the airline cannot be forced to move to the new airport as long as Love Field remains open.

Ex-Tv Star Faces Cocaine Charge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Thomas Noel Rettig, 33, star of the "Lassie" television series in the 1950s, has been arrested on a charge of conspiring to import cocaine, according to the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration.

Rettig was arrested at his home in Morro Bay Thursday. Agents said he had brought cocaine from Peru to California by hiding the material in a bottle that normally contained a popular Peruvian liquor.

Paper Says Bell Auditors Determine $140,000 Of Firm's Funds Went Into Improper Channels

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Southern Bell Telephone Co. auditors have concluded that about $140,000 in corporate money, instead of $40,000 previously acknowledged, was secretly funneled into political contributions or other improper purposes, according to The Charlotte Observer.

The newspaper quoted two independent sources Friday as saying the audit, covering a 30-month period that ended in June 1973, estimated that $80,000 was delivered to former Southern Bell executive John J. Ryan to be contributed to political campaigns during the period.

The newspaper quotes its sources as saying the audit shows at least 35 Southern Bell middle and top-level executives in North Carolina contributed to the fund.

The sources quoted the audit as saying it was not known where the remaining $60,000 went, according to the newspaper.

The Charlotte Observer said the audit, completed about three weeks ago, has not been given to federal and state authorities investigating Southern Bell. A company official was quoted as saying the audit would not be made public but would be given to investigators.

The Charlotte Observer quoted its sources as saying the audit fails to specify who among the executives contributed to the fund and where the money went.

The audit was launched by Southern Bell after charges last January by Ryan, a former chief executive for Southern Bell in North Carolina. He charged that he managed an illegal political slush fund with company approval.

The newspaper said that B. Franklin Skinner, Southern Bell's current general manager for North Carolina and Ryan's successor, when asked to comment on the audit report, replied that he would not discuss it, under advice of legal counsel.

Ryan charged that the fund he managed was fed by kick-backs from pay raises given to eight top executives under his command, but he has declined to say how big the fund was and has denied any knowledge of a system of falsified expense vouchers.

TIA Resumes Operations

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas International Airlines resumed operations today after a four-month strike.

A spokesman said early flight operations were running "very smoothly."

"Passenger traffic was not surprisingly light," he said.

Veterans Land Program Increase, Mass Transit Measures Gain Approval

AUSTIN (AP) — The House has tentatively approved the new maximum loan under the Veterans Land Program, and the Senate has finally approved a merger of the Highway Department and the Mass Transit Commission.

Land values have gone up so much, veterans in large cities cannot buy the minimum 10 acres within easy driving distance under the present $10,000 ceiling, Rep. George Preston, D-Paris, told the House Thursday.

By voice vote, the House tentatively approved a Senate bill moving the limit up to $15,000. The bill must go back to the Senate for approval of an amendment.

The Senate voted 28-2 for the merger bill, which would make the mass transit commission an advisory council to the highway commission. The bill goes to the House.

The Senate voted 15-14 to table a bill that would take a cent from the present four cent motor vehicle sales tax and put it in a special fund to be used in matching federal funds to develop mass transit systems in Texas.

Sen. A. R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, said the highway department would end up using this $100 million "to build some of the same old highways and freeways they have been building."

Sen. A. M. Alkin, D-Paris, said encumbering this money might cause the appropriations bill to have to be rewritten, and it might threaten passage of a public school finance bill, which he termed much more important than mass transit.

The Senate adjourned until Monday.

In other action Thursday, the House:

- Finally passed, 87-47, and sent to the governor a bill that would allow group legal insurance programs similar to the health maintenance organizations in the medical field.
- Tentatively approved a bill that would allow doctors trained in foreign medical schools to substitute a year of clinical training in this country for two to three years of internship and social services in the foreign country before qualifying to practice medicine in Texas.
- Tentatively approved a bill allowing political parties to set their state conventions anytime between the first and third Tuesdays in September.
- Tentatively approved a bill allowing servicemen and students to choose whether they want to vote at their old home address or at their military post or school, providing they have been at the post or school 30 days. This bill would conform the Election Code to federal court decisions.

Clinic Declares New Saudi King In Good Health

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — King Khaled has been given a clean bill of health by two Cleveland Clinic doctors who said they examined the new ruler in Saudi Arabia last weekend.

Khaled had a heart attack in 1970 when he was crown prince, and he underwent open-heart surgery at Cleveland Clinic in 1972 to repair damaged heart muscle, the hospital said.

Drs. Donald Effler and Mehdi Razaivi said Thursday that the king has made a complete recovery and has held up well through "obviously very stressful times."

Khaled succeeded his brother, King Faisal, last week after Faisal was assassinated by a nephew.

Fire Breaks Out Twice In French Quarter Restaurant

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Fire broke out twice at Brennan's Restaurant Thursday night, searing the second time through the roof of the three-story building in the French Quarter.

Two persons, one a fireman, were taken to hospitals with injuries, a fire department spokesman said. The extent of their injuries was not known.

Diners were evacuated when smoke filled dining rooms during the dinner hour. The building was thought to be empty when the blaze came alive a second time.

About 100 firemen responded to the second four-alarm call, fighting the blaze as it licked through third floor windows of the stucco and wood frame building.

The restaurant had been closed after the first blaze started in air conditioning ducts over one of the dining rooms and spread upstairs.

Relations Council, Globe Theater Win Study Grants

Midland's Human Relations Council has been awarded a $2,132 grant to explore decision-making processes in government and existing barriers in governmental communications on the community, county and state levels.

The grant was awarded by the Texas Commission for the Humanities and Public Policy.

Dr. Thomas Hohstadt, a member of that commission and the conductor of the Midland-Odessa Symphony and Chorale, Inc., said it also awarded a grant to the Globe of the Great Southwest in Odessa. It will total $4,459.

The Globe grant is designed to examine public policy issues related to ecology, war and taxation through discussion of Jerome Lawrence's play, "The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail."

The Human Relations Council in Midland will develop a series of community programs in accomplishing its goal.

Hohstadt said the commission awarding the grants is affiliated with the National Endowment for the Humanities and recently has awarded grants totaling $31,000 to help support five different programs in Texas which focus on humanities and public issues of concern to the state's residents.

Mrs. Chalmers Burke of Midland also is a member of the commission.

Jaworski Honored As 'Texan Of Year'

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex. (AP) — Houston lawyer Leon Jaworski received the second annual "Texan of the Year" award in a ceremony here Thursday night.

Former State Supreme Court Justice Robert Calvert made the presentation to Jaworski, who was cited for his service as special prosecutor in the Watergate investigation.

Calvert was the first recipient of the Texas Legislative Conference's award.

Jaworski told the 350 persons assembled in the New Braunfels Civic Center that while he thinks America is great, the country "isn't so great that it can keep from falling from grace and greatness."

Ford To Speak On Anniversary Of Revere Ride

BOSTON (AP) — President Ford will deliver a speech at Old North Church on April 18, the 200th anniversary of Paul Revere's ride, according to White House sources.

Unconfirmed reports also came from the White House Thursday that Ford will appear in Concord, N.H., the same day for a northern New England economic conference.

At the famed Boston church, a candlelight ceremony will commemorate the posting of lanterns in the church steeple to signal that the British were coming in a march on Lexington and Concord.

Legislative Issues Topic For Conservation Meeting

Legislative issues involving Texas farmers and ranchers were discussed at the spring meeting of the Far West Texas Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts held Wednesday in Big Spring.

Directors of the Midland District attending the meet were Oswald Raggatt, chairman; Vernon Chandler, Edwin Dwyer and Dick Hagelstein, district conservationist.

State Representative Mike Ezzell of Howard County led the discussion on legislative activities including a state utility commission, constitutional revision, school finance and land use planning.

He told the group 2,194 bills have been introduced including 15 on land use planning, which are unacceptable in their present form.

Another discussion at the meeting, on federal land use legislation and the detrimental effects it could have on both urban and rural Texans, was presented by Joe Antilley, member of the State Soil and Water Conservation Board, and Kenneth Kuykendall, vice president of the state association.

I Believe These Things:

I BELIEVE we have a fine public school system — which we should work to make even better. I want to help do that by strengthening our programs and providing maximum opportunity for development of every child.

I BELIEVE that parents of every elementary school child should be allowed to choose between the traditional classroom teaching method and the K-1 concept.

I BELIEVE that we have two fine high schools, and that we should spare no effort to keep them equal in every way, and to keep BOTH schools superior to any other high schools in West Texas.

I BELIEVE in and will work for implementation of a full and complete technical-vocational program for students who are not college-bound.

I BELIEVE in the best possible education at the least possible cost to hard-pressed taxpayers.

Courthouse Employee Says No One Will Fill Parr's Shoes

BENAVIDES, Tex. (AP) — George B. Parr's body was lying in a freshly-dug grave Thursday when a courthouse employee in the county he controlled for decades said, "No one will ever fill George's shoes."

Parr, 74, who took his own life Tuesday, was buried under sunny skies Thursday in the Benavides city cemetery. His grave, along with others of the Parr clan, is behind an iron fence in a grassy plot.

Perhaps 1,000 mourners were at the graveside services. Parr, who faced a five-year prison term for federal income tax evasion, held the title "Duke of Duval", inheriting that title from his father, state Sen. Archie Parr, whose grave is in the same plot. The two men helped many political careers.

But there wasn't a large delegation of politicians at the funeral. Among those who did attend were Mexican Americans, who were followers of the Parrs.

'Goodbye, George'
A Roman Catholic priest from Laredo, the Rev. Antonio Arguelles, closed out the brief services with a simple "goodbye, George."

Will anyone become the third "Duke of Duval" to control Duval County the way George Parr and his father did, and influence, as both did, South Texas Democratic politics?

Besides the courthouse employee, others questioned whether there would be a successor. There were questions whether one will ever fill George's shoes. Archer Parr, George's nephew, could step in. Archer Parr, recently ousted as county judge, is appealing a federal perjury conviction.

Archer May Step In
At least one person said he felt Archer Parr could step in "but I don't know if he will."

Archer Parr, however, is confident the power will remain in the Parrs' hands. He said, "There'll be no doubt after Saturday about who's running the county."

So, as George Parr was laid to rest, some of the talk in Duval County was of politics. On Saturday, two school trustee positions are being contested in the Benavides-Freer school district. The election is viewed here as a showdown between the Parrs and a faction led by members of the Carrillo family, who were one-time allies of the Parrs.

Sympathy Vote Seen
Former state Rep. Oscar Carrillo said he believed the Carrillo candidates were going to win Saturday before George Parr's death, but now he is concerned about a "sympathy vote". "A lot of people will vote out of respect for George," Carrillo said.

AFTER FUNERAL—The nephew of the late George B. Parr, Archer Parr, right foreground, is embraced by a friend following brief funeral services for George Parr Thursday at the Parr Ranch near Freer, Tex. Hundreds of South Texans paid tribute to Parr, a long-time Duval County political leader who shot himself Tuesday. (AP Wirephoto.)

New Tax-Withholding Schedules

WASHINGTON (AP) — New tax-withholding schedules that will mean more take-home pay for American workers are being sent to employers by the Internal Revenue Service.

The new rates, which take effect May 1, comprise the second stage of the tax-cut package designed as a stimulant to the economy.

The IRS said earlier this week that it will begin mailing rebate checks May 9 to taxpayers who already have filed returns for their 1974 income. All of the rebates are expected to be distributed by the end of June.

The new withholding tables provide, for example, that a worker earning $15,000 a year, supporting a family of four and taking the standard deduction will have $33.40 in federal tax deducted from his or her weekly paycheck. This amounts to a $4.73-a-week decrease from the $38.13 withheld under the old schedules.

The IRS added a cautionary note regarding the new tables.

Diet, Heart Disease Seminar Scheduled

"Diet and Heart Disease" is the title of a nutrition seminar scheduled for 7:30 p.m. April 15 in Midland Memorial Hospital's cafeteria.

The seminar, open to the public, will stress the importance of proper diet in reducing the risk of heart disease. It is being sponsored by the West Texas Dietetic Association in conjunction with the American Heart Association, Midland County Division.

Thursday, saying that three types of wage-earners should consider revising the forms on which they claim exemptions for tax-deduction purposes.

One group comprises those workers who end up the year with large tax refunds due from the government because too much money has been withheld from their wages.

The second category consists of married couples where both partners work. They are likely to be under-withheld because of the new schedules, thus leaving them open to a large tax bill at the end of the year.

And workers who have been claiming extra exemptions because of large itemized deductions, such as interest on home mortgages, now may find themselves under-withheld as well, the IRS said.

New forms needed by individuals to adjust their exemption claims will not be available until around April 14, the tax agency said.

Here Are Tax Tables

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are tables illustrating the effect on weekly take-home pay of the new federal withholding tax rates due to go into effect April 30.

The tables presuppose that wage earners take all the withholding allowances to which they are entitled and that persons earning more than $15,000 a year take itemized deductions amounting to 17 per cent of their gross income.

The first column represents Single Persons, the second the New Weekly Withholding Tax, and the third the Weekly Take-home Increase.

Table with 3 columns: Single Persons (Income), New Weekly Withholding Tax, Weekly Take-home Increase. Rows for income levels from $5,000 to $35,000.

Table for Married Couple with No Children. Columns: Income, New Weekly Withholding Tax, Weekly Take-home Increase. Rows for income levels from $5,000 to $35,000.

Table for Married Couple with Two Children. Columns: Income, New Weekly Withholding Tax, Weekly Take-home Increase. Rows for income levels from $5,000 to $35,000.

UT-Dallas Adds 21 Faculty Members
DALLAS (AP) — A spokesman for the University of Texas-Dallas says 21 new faculty members have been added in the first of a series of new appointments to meet the university's expansion to include junior and senior class levels.

More than 100 other appointments are expected before September.

The Agriculture Department announced Thursday the grain inspectors whose licenses were suspended are Billy Ray Davenport, 34; Jerry Roberts Parker, 35; Arthur Jones Taute, 41; Billy Gene Marcy, 44, and Billy J. Westbrook, 43, all of Houston.

The FBI and the USDA's Office of Investigation cooperated with the U.S. attorney in conducting the investigation which resulted in the grand jury indictments.

Big City Residents Are Still Getting Unhealthy Substances In Lungs

EDITOR'S NOTE: — Generally speaking, the nation's air is cleaner than it was a decade ago. But residents of the nation's big cities still get a dosage of unhealthy substances in the 16,000 quarts of air everyone breathes daily. And the progress toward cleaner air might be slowed.

By WARREN E. LEARY
BOSTON (AP) — Most of the motorists nudging through Kenmore Square during the rush hour on a recent rainy day didn't realize that the water on their windshields was acidic and that microscopic amounts of paint were being eaten from their cars.

The marble, slate and mortar on the buildings around them were dissolving ever so slowly. And the trees in Boston, on any day, grow more slowly than they did a generation ago. Some plants no longer grow at all.

Caught in a traffic jam, the motorists didn't take much notice of a small trailer parked on an intersection island in the square. Inside, instruments and technicians were analyzing the quality of the city's air. And what they found was discouraging.

Looking at yearly figures, air quality officials employed by the U.S. government say Boston is one of the few major cities where air pollution has gotten worse in the last few years. For most of the country, there has been an improvement. Russell E. Train, head of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), said in a recent report that the country had finally "turned the corner" on air pollution. Train said that data covering the years 1969 through 1973 showed that anti-pollution measures had begun to clean up the air.

President Ford, in his State of the Union address, has proposed softening some environmental rules and delaying implementation of others, including those for cars. Train, in testimony before a House subcommittee, has asked for a five-year delay (until 1982) for the achievement of final auto emission standards. He also wants Congress to amend the Clean Air Act of 1970 to speed conversion of oil-fired electric power plants to coal. An EPA spokesman said these changes won't increase air pollution, but the recent rate of progress toward clean air might slacken.

Some environmentalists disagree. "If we move away from oil to using more coal and push back auto pollution standards, as has been proposed, we will have an increase in pollution," said Richard Ayres of the Washington-based Natural Resources Defense Council. The NRDC is a private organization that seeks enforcement of environmental laws through court action.

The Council on Municipal Performance (COMP), a non-profit New York-based watchdog group that monitors city governments, issued in February its air quality survey of 43 cities.

The report, based on EPA figures and questionnaires to local antipollution officials, noted that air quality had improved over the last five years. "However, controllable emissions, on the average, are still nearly double what they were in 1940 and are well above federal health standards," said John T. Marlin, COMP executive director.

"Also, pollution levels have continued to rise in over a dozen cities, notably Boston, Buffalo, Miami, New Orleans, New York, Portland (Ore.), Phoenix, Syracuse and Washington," he said. Air pollution was down in the majority of cities COMP surveyed. EPA administrator Train, in his year-end report, noted a disturbing factor in the New York area that may have implications for other parts of the country.

During the peak of last year's energy crisis, utilities and industries in the area were allowed to burn higher-sulfur fossil fuels to decrease dependence on Arab oil.

"A preliminary study of sulfur dioxide data from the New York-New Jersey area indicates a slight increase in levels in the 1973-74 winter," Train said, "probably attributable to the issuance of variances to switch some major users to more readily available higher sulfur fuels."

Environmentalists say this indicates that air quality would suffer if the EPA gives in to pressure to lessen pollution controls.

A Federal Power Commission-sponsored report released last year said dirty air could kill 25,000 persons in the Eastern United States alone pollutants are documented now. Further research is needed, the AMA says, to determine exactly what are "safe" levels of each and the effects of exposure over a period of years. Industry representatives counter by saying antipollution measures create unemployment by forcing shutdowns of non-complying plants, feed inflation by raising prices, and hurt the goal of fuel independence by restricting the use of certain fuels.

EPA officials deny that antipollution efforts contribute significantly to inflation or unemployment. But recognizing the increasing pressure of economic and energy considerations, EPA administrator Train says the nation now must "steer a middle course" between environmental and economic needs.

Victim-Survivor Faces Watergate Issues Head-On

By JOHN T. WHEELER
CAPE MAY, N.J. (AP) — Charles Sandman, at once a victim and survivor of the Watergate tragedy, squares his boxer's shoulders and confronts both question and questioner head-on.

"Sure, I'd do it all over again." A pause. "I'd have to, given the same circumstances." He speaks forcefully and his triple chin trembles slightly.

"It" was Sandman's robust defense of Richard M. Nixon during the House Judiciary Committee impeachment hearings last July, and Sandman's vote against the articles of impeachment.

Last summer, Sandman recalls now, he voted with the president although he sensed the pro-impeachment mood of the nation, including his own second congressional district in southern New Jersey. He remembers feeling that his vote as a Judiciary Committee member would not save Nixon, and that it might also shatter his congressional career.

It did. Sandman was defeated last November for re-election to a fifth term in Congress. He didn't even carry his home county, where most of the constituents are fellow Republicans.

"No, I'm not bitter," he says slowly as he adjusts his golden clam tie clasp during an interview at his law office here. Yes, he adds, he was betrayed by Nixon who let him stick his neck out without a word of caution about the damaging White House tapes which Nixon made public shortly after the Judiciary Committee vote. But Sandman says the emotion evoked now by the man in San Clemente is one of sadness for a once-powerful president ravaged by Watergate.

At 53, Sandman is a portly, optimistic man. He says that he can await history's judgment. Brimming with a trial lawyer's aggressive confidence, he sees Watergate passions cooling to the point that he will be vindicated, or at least understood. He likens himself to Winston Churchill ("my greatest hero"), who was deposed as Britain's prime minister after World War II only to be reinstated in a later election.

Sandman's view of history's ultimate judgment is not everyone's. But then Sandman in the past has not always followed the accepted path of political wisdom. For example, in 1967 Sandman voted with the unsuccessful minority to seat Rep. Adam Clayton Powell in the 90th Congress, a seat denied to Powell on the ground that he had misused public funds. Sandman was no friend of Powell, a liberal representing Harlem, but he argued that the vote to unseat him was unconstitutional. The Supreme Court later agreed.

"At the time, some of us wondered what had gotten into old Charlie," said a friend back in Cape May, which is a summer resort community south of Atlantic City, on the tip of the peninsula separating Delaware Bay and the Atlantic Ocean.

And there was the irony of Sandman's relations with Nixon. He helped lead Nixon's defense before the Judiciary Committee, he says, because he thought the impeachment charges were vague and perhaps unconstitutional. But the president and the congressman had not been friends. In 1968, Sandman had backed Nelson Rockefeller, not Nixon, for the Republican presidential nomination.

"He never forgave or forgot," Sandman recalls. "I could hardly be classed a Nixon man."

However, Sandman explains: "To impeach on the evidence we had (during the Judiciary Committee hearings) set a precedent for a sort of national lynch law for unpopular presidents."

Watergate might be the main reason for Sandman's election defeat last Nov. 5, but there were local issues also working against him. Sandman was the leader of a political machine in Cape May County. All five county freeholders (supervisors) are in his faction of the Republican party. Mayor Bruce Minix, who shows up at Cape May's City Hall in bell-bottoms, baggy sweater and Van Dyke beard, isn't.

A reformer from the non-Sandman faction of the local GOP, Minix sees the former congressman's fall as more than voter anger and disillusionment over Watergate. "People just don't want professional politicians anymore and haven't for some time. And there's stupidity in that," Minix says. "The professionals devote their lives to finding out how to make government work."

Talk to others stopping for their morning paper on Washington Street's mall, or out shopping, and a similar sentiment crops up. "It's almost as if the only way we can ward off disaster in the economy or with energy is by breaking clean with the past and the people who ran things then," a woman said as she set her purchases on the conveyor belt at the supermarket checkout counter.

Bullock Warns Texans Face Huge '77 Tax Hike

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas state government had better enjoy its current budget surplus because Comptroller Bob Bullock says the next session of the legislature is going to face a massive tax bill.

Bullock told a news conference Thursday that he expects the 1977 legislature will have to raise between $300 million and $2 billion in new taxes.

According to Bullock, new taxes in 1977 could be kept at $300 million only if the present legislature saves $400 million of a current $715-million budget surplus and adopts a $7.9-billion budget for the next two years.

"What's ahead for us in the next four years depends on what the legislature does in the next two months," Bullock said.

The comptroller's office released a study of revenue and expenditures projections through 1978-79.

The study says the tax bill in 1977 will be $1.3 billion if the legislature spends all of its surplus and adopts an $8.3 billion budget for 1976-77.

The tax bill will be $2 billion if the legislature adopts the same $8.3 billion budget and approves a long range school finance package, the study says.

Lynn Moak, assistant comptroller for planning and research, said even the least expensive school finance bill now before the legislature would push the 1977 tax bill to $2 billion.

Moak said the only way the legislature can control the size of the tax will be to maintain a working capital reserve from the present surplus and embark on a tight spending program.

"This would mean no school finance bill at all this session," Moak said.

Bullock said a tax bill of $1.25 billion in two years would mean each citizen would have to generate $100 each in new sales taxes to meet the demand.

"What it means is that a family of four would have to spend an additional $10,000 to generate $400 to pay for the new taxes," Bullock said.

Bullock said his report included the assumption that funds from the federal revenue sharing program would continue coming to Texas after 1976.

Speaker Raps Political Use Of Food For Peace

DALLAS (AP) — Aid by the United States to hungry nations should be channeled through multinational organizations to avoid the political pressures that go along with bilateral aid, says a former administrator of the Agency for International Development.

William S. Gaud also told a conference on world food and population crisis here Thursday that the United States should be motivated by moral obligations rather than political gain in providing food to hungry nations of the world.

"Shipments of food abroad have been used as an article of commerce to beef up American exports," Gaud said. "We should ship food to people who need it, not use it to line our pockets."

"It is not in our tradition, not in our character, to let people starve," he added.

Gaud specified he was talking about foreign aid and not trade. He said food shipments under the foreign aid programs often have been based on political considerations or diplomatic aims.

"There is nothing wrong in trying to achieve those various goals," he said. "But it is wrong to do so under the pretense that we are carrying out a Food for Peace program to help the needy."

Gaud said aid through multinational organizations is much more likely to be free of political or other bias than capital assistance furnished bilaterally. "Let us recognize the distinction between programs intended primarily to benefit the donor and programs intended primarily to benefit the recipient," he said.

Gaud told conference participants that a new farm policy is needed that not only meets domestic considerations, "but also takes into account world food needs, provides for the creation and maintenance of reserve stocks for world use" and recognizes that food growth by U.S. farmers is a vital international resource.

Other speakers at the conference warned of world crisis unless the population growth is controlled.

Philander P. Claxton Jr., a former special attorney for the Department of Justice, raised the specter of "unspeakable tragedies," but he added: "I believe they can be avoided, but only by the most determined and urgent combined efforts of international agencies, national governments, private organizations and alert citizens."

Catholics Are Urged To Educate Public About Mexican Americans

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Catholics should use the mass media to educate the public about Mexican Americans, Catholic bishops attending a bi-centennial conference here were told Thursday. "The 'sacred cows' worshipped on the home tv altars must be dethroned so that all people know the truth," Sister Maria Consuelo Pacheco told the second session of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops Committee for the Bi-

The dominant group, through its use of tv, movies, and other mass media, has distorted reality and imposed its own laws. It has set up its own categories for judging the world of the Indian, the black and the Hispano," she said.

Sister Maria Consuelo outlined the situation of Mexican Americans as first witness in a three-day hearing titled "Liberty and Justice for All."

Sister Maria Consuelo is assigned to the Mexican-American Community here. The Rev. John McCarthy, executive director of the Texas Catholic Conference, outlined the religion's history of discrimination, particularly the history of Texas.

Dallas Officials Say Alarming Number Of Big Cars Torched

DALLAS (AP) — Blame it on the economy, or soaring fuel costs, or whatever, but Dallas fire officials say an alarming number of big cars are going up in smoke. And, according to fire and insurance investigators, a number of them are set ablaze purposely so owners may collect insurance. Officials reported also that there was a sharp rise in the number of large, expensive burned cars, which looks suspiciously like someone might be having dif-iculty with monthly payments. The National Automobile Theft Bureau, which investigates fraudulent claims, said suspicious car fires in 1974 increased about 50 per cent over 1973. And in the first three months, this year, another 50 per cent increase over the same period last year has been noted. A bureau official, C. C. Benson, estimates suspicious automobile fires each year mean a $3 million loss in Texas.

"In the typical cases," Benson said, "owners don't want the car to burn just a little. They add flammables to be sure the car really burns up." However, he said, trained arson investigators easily spot "tell-tale" signs of the flammables and many insurance claims are denied. "Vehicles are not that much of a fire hazard, and when they burn to a total loss and the front headlights, motor grills and tires are melted," he said, "it's a little suspicious."

Meetings Scheduled
Bishops will meet at six United States cities leading into the 200th birthday of the nation to solicit discussion and reflection on American life from the Catholic standpoint.

Thursday's session dealt mainly with discrimination against Mexican Americans and their culture. "To many of our people, equality and justice is a myth because what is practiced is inequality and discrimination in jobs, housing, education and even our own religion," Sister Maria Consuelo said.

She said inadequate education is part of the problem for Mexican Americans as well, citing cultural and language barriers often interpreted by teachers as unintelligence on the part of pupils.

Reassessment Urged
The Catholic Church must reassess its own schools and ask: "What kind of people are we producing—men and women who hunger and thirst for justice or individuals who continue to feed the institutional violence against God's poor ones?" Another problem facing Mexican Americans, she said, is the same which faced America's founding fathers—taxation without representation.

From Corpus Christi, Tex., to San Diego, Calif., wherever there is a large concentration of Mexican Americans, the number of Mexican-American elected officials is insignificant, she added.

Warning Issued
She warned the bishops that with or without the church, "We have just begun to demand equal representation—the process of making the politicians accountable will continue to expand."

The nun said that although Mexican Americans have been considered as a burden and problem in the past, they live a culture which could have enormous positive contributions to the Church and to the world. Mexican-American emphasis on the person rather than his production could particularly benefit a society in which Americans are discovering that "having" has become more important than "being" and things have greater value than people, she said.

U.S. Auto Makers Facing Assault On Nation's Market By Importers

DETROIT (AP) — The nation's auto makers, plagued by recession, are facing an unsettling assault on the U.S. car market by importers. For the second consecutive month, imports in March recorded a sharp sales gain over the same month last year to capture a near-record share of the U.S. market.

Without the help of broad cash rebate plans, domestic sales for the month fell 10 per cent from February and 20 per cent from a year ago to the lowest levels for a March since 1961.

Deliveries of U.S.-made cars in March, reported by the companies on Thursday, were 523,380, compared with 653,246 the year before, when fuel shortages were putting a big dent into sales. By contrast, import sales of 144,784 were up 16 per cent from a poor 125,200 a year ago. While import sales did not approach the March record of 178,700 set in 1973, their strength, combined with a decline in domestic deliveries, gave the foreign makers a 21.7 per cent share of the U.S. market. They achieved a record 22 per cent share in August 1971. Spokesmen for both foreign and domestic firms attributed the renewed popularity in imports to lower prices, better fuel economy and a growing belief by American consumers that foreign companies build more durable cars than the U.S. companies. "Unlike us, the importers have huge stocks of 1974 models left over to sell at lower prices," explained one U.S. industry analyst. "Not only are the '74s cheaper than the new models, but they're rebating them like we did so we can't touch them in price." Some of the foreign manufacturers introduced their new model cars substantially later than American auto makers.

A spokesman at Nissan Motor Corp. in USA, which imports the popular Datsun from Japan, added, "We figure the domestic rebates in January and February got people thinking about buying cars again. And when they looked at prices, the cost of operation, fuel economy and quality they started thinking import." A New York import dealer said his customers have complained that U.S. cars aren't built as well as they use to be. Some U.S. analysts said they are not overly concerned with the recent gains by the imports. "As soon as the importers run out of 1974 models, they'll return to their customary (16 per cent) share of the market," said one.

Another analyst said March domestic sales were low because the cash rebates that ended Feb. 28 boosted February deliveries by borrowing sales from March. "We expect to bounce back in April and May," he said.

VOTE FOR QUALITY EDUCATION

To the Voters of Midland:

Loss of certain State funding is given by the School Trustees as a primary reason for making a change from the self contained classroom. This reason is also given as a consideration for consolidation of the two high schools.

We MUST NOT allow State funding to dictate critical decisions in educational procedures. Quality education for the children of Midland MUST BE the goal of the Board of Trustees. WE CANNOT AFFORD LESS!

Health Maintenance Organizations Measure Wins House Panel Approval

Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — One of the issues the Texas House will be debating in the coming weeks is whether health maintenance organizations should be established in the state.

The House Health and Welfare Committee voted 8-0, with one member abstaining, to send HB 450 by Reps. Tim Von Dohlen of Goliad and Mickey Leland of Houston to the House for debate.

Health maintenance organizations (HMOs) are corporations established to pay medical treatment for subscribers. An HMO does not provide the actual medical service but pays for that service.

Many people look upon HMOs as partial means of implementing a national health insurance plan.

Von Dohlen described the final version of HB 450 as "quite comprehensive" with "a great deal of flexibility" to provide all levels of service, based upon the amount of money a person can spend.

The House sponsor says the bill now offers such flexibility that it would take several years of actual operation before "an average cost" to the customer could be determined.

Hearings on HB 450 and other HMO bills were held during a joint meeting of the House Health and Welfare Committee and the Senate Human Resources Committee.

Similar to HB 450 is SB 180 by Sen. Bob Gammage of Houston. Gammage and Von Dohlen were co-chairmen of an interim committee which dealt with the establishment of HMOs.

Also in producing the latest version of Von Dohlen's bill, the House subcommittee "laid on the table" HB 1285 by Rep. Richard Geiger of Dallas.

Under HB 450, as it now stands, primary authority over the creation and regulation of HMOs rests with the state insurance commissioner, although Von Dohlen says "checks and balances" are provided to the State Health Department.

Von Dohlen says the legislation will not allow the "corporate practice of medicine." Rather it will allow a non-profit corporation to pay a reduced price for medical service, on the philosophy that more can be bought for less.

Frenchman Planning To Sail Atlantic In 25-Foot Boat

TOULON, France (AP) — A French father of two who has just undergone open heart surgery plans to sail alone across the Atlantic in a 25-foot boat.

"I have only a few years to live," said Douglas Cellini, 43, in an interview. "The doctors have condemned me. I will not live to be 50. Therefore I want to use the time that's left doing something I think is useful."

He plans to sail via England and Canada to Houston, Texas. "People say I'm crazy," he said while preparing his yacht inally planned to sail last Constance for the voyage Wednesday but put the voyage off.

"They're calling it a veritable suicide and say I want to die in my own way — that I don't-have anything to lose. "That's not true. I want to show all heart patients that we're not invalids. People think of us as sort of diminished — and that's the way it used to be.

"But that's like being dead! You have to fight it. You have to live. "And that's why I'm making this trip."

Cellini said his doctors have okayed the trip and will be at the pier to see him off. He originally planned to sail last Wednesday but put the voyage off a few days to finish work on his craft.

He has equipped his craft reduced the annual tax to the State Board of Insurance on the gross revenue collected.

The tax, paid on all insurance policies, goes to the Agency for administration.

Under the original bill, Von Dohlen proposed that each HMO pay two per cent of its gross revenues annually. The committee version of HB 450 reads that one per cent be collected and paid as the tax.

Presently a one per cent tax is collected on life and health insurance policies, although legislation has been introduced to raise that tax to two per cent. Von Dohlen offered the amendment to lower the tax on HMOs, so they would correspond with other health insurance, at the present and in the future.

While the insurance commissioner would prescribe the format under which HMOs could operate, Von Dohlen says the health department would "promulgate rules" relating to the type of medical service which is covered.

He told the committee HB 450 was "in excellent shape" as it was sent to the House floor.

The Goliad legislator also said the State Board of Insurance, the State Health Department, the Texas Medical Association and the Texas Hospital Association all played a part in the latest version of the bill and would support it in its present form.

The polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

McCamey Voters To Name City, School Officials

MCCAMEY — A mayor, three city councilmen and two school board members will be selected at the polls here Saturday.

J. O. Bradford, an employee of Texaco Inc. and currently councilman for Place 2, and Raymond McCann, field superintendent for Southern Gas Co., are seeking the mayor's post being vacated by B. A. Epply.

Epply is stepping out of the mayor's seat to run for the Place 2 councilman job being vacated by Bradford. He is unopposed.

The Place 1 council race is between incumbent F. P. Strubling, a retired city worker, and Richard Partney, a service station operator.

James E. Price, a high school teacher, is running unopposed for the Place 5 seat currently held by James A. Kilgore.

Incumbents A. E. Bradshaw, who runs a well servicing co., and Mrs. Peggy Stacy, a housewife, are being challenged by Douglas Mitchell, with Shell Oil Co., for two seats on the school board.

The two candidates receiving the most votes will win the seats.

Virginia Professor Says World Is Experiencing Revolution In What It Expects From Education

EL PASO (AP) — The director of international education at the University of Virginia told delegates at the second International Community Education Conference Thursday night the world is experiencing a revolution in what it expects of education.

Dr. Peter Hackett addressed the final session of the three-day conference, which drew educators from Australia, Canada, New Zealand, Nationalist China and South America.

Thursday night's final session was held at The University of Texas-El Paso. The conference opened Tuesday at New Mexico State University in Las Cruces.

N.M. New Mexico State and the International Association of Community Educators cosponsored the meeting.

A spokesman said the third international conference will be held next spring in Seattle, Wash., and Vancouver, British Columbia.

Hackett said the method of education was repeated in many developing countries during the 1950s.

"These countries found failure in an educational system which was a academic and urban rather than practical and rural," he said.

Hackett noted the same failure is occurring in the United States and other countries as evidenced by high dropout rates and unemployment.

"The function of education should be expanded to involve the whole community," he said. "All people are teachers and all are learners."

Hackett encouraged educators to examine educational methods in other countries and develop a sense of community with them, moving educational emphasis from a national to a global level.

Sunday Exhibition May Have Surprise

By TED BATTLES

Baseball fans may get an unexpected treat when they show up for the Chicago Cubs-Milwaukee Brewers exhibition baseball game at Cubs Stadium Sunday.

The unsinkable Ernie Banks has issued a challenge to baseball's home run king Hank Aaron for a fence-busting derby.

Last year Aaron broke Babe Ruth's all-time home run record of 714 and has a total of 733 for his career going into the 1975 season.

Banks, who hit 512 career homers and was the greatest slugging shortstop the game has known, expressed confidence in the outcome, if Hank accepts his challenge.

"I can beat him any day," says Banks, who serves as a roving instructor for the Chicago organization.

The Permian Basin's first major league exhibition is scheduled to start at 1:30 p.m. and an overflow crowd is expected.

All box seat and grandstand seats have been sold, but extra bleachers have been erected for the game and the Midland Cubs' front office still has tickets and promises there will be tickets on sale the day of the game.

General Manager Charles "Stoney" Feeney and Bill Johnson, in charge of special assignments, aren't so worried about cramming the fans into the park as they are of crowding the cars into the parking lot.

"If the fans would form carpools to get to the park, it would help us accommodate everybody," Johnson commented.

The Cubs and Brewers will fly to Midland after an exhibition game Saturday afternoon in Albuquerque, N.M., and depart from Midland Sunday night for their major league openers on Tuesday.

It will be homecoming for several Chicago players. Pitcher Ray Burris, infielders Rob Sperring and Ron Dunn and outfielders Jim Tyrone and Pete LaCock all served minor league apprenticeships in the Tall City.

Weiskopf Takes Greensboro Lead

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The long drought is about to end, Tom Weiskopf says. "Not to win in over a year with my golf swing, well, it has to happen," Weiskopf said. "You can't just keep on playing that good, playing winning golf, championship golf, and not win. It's just a matter of time before it happens."

And Weiskopf, who hasn't won since his banner season of 1973, made it very evident that he's ready to break his string of second place finishes. He fired a seven-under-par 64 — an absolutely incredible score under the all-but-impossible playing conditions — and established a three-stroke lead in Thursday's first round of the $225,000 Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament.

Cub Rally Clips Thetford Mines

By ED PRELL, R-T Correspondent

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Things were not too right for the Midland Cubs when they came to bat in the ninth inning, Thursday in Eldorado Park. They trailed Thetford Mines of the Eastern League by two runs, putting their winning streak in jeopardy.

But Julio Gonzalez led off with a double. Joel Green did even better, smashing a homer over the left field fence to tie the score. Joe Wallis bounced a double past first and Wayne Tyrone ended it with a single to left.

All of this happened with none out, producing a 9-8 triumph and fourth Midland exhibition victory in succession.

The winner was Bruce Sutter, who despite fanning 5 in the eighth and ninth innings, was on the way to becoming the loser after he was whacked for two runs in the eighth.

Sutter, a 6-2, 190-pound righthander from Mount Joy, Pa., was on the Chicago Cubs roster at the start of spring training and recently was transferred to Midland.

He finished the 1974 season with Midland winning one of three decisions and posting a 1.44 earned run average. In the Arizona Instructional League later in the year, Bruce was 3-0 and had a fantastic 0.90 ERA. He also had seven saves.

Wayne Doland, 21, a righthander from Haverhill, N.J., with no previous pro experience held Thetford to one run on four hits in the first three innings.

Twenty-two year-old Steve Hamrick, a southpaw, yielded four runs and five hits in the three middle innings. The Ohioan had a 0.93 ERA for Bradenton in 68 innings last season, his first in pro ball.

Sutter yielded a double and two singles when Thetford broke a tie in the eighth.

Ed Putnam, fresh out of the University of Southern California, hit a three-run homer and double. He broke up an attempted double steal by throwing out a runner at third. Hank Aaron Randall, whose bat has been sizzling, doubled for one of Midland's 14 hits.

The two teams meet today in Tempe.

COM Hosts Swim Meet

The City of Midland Swim Team will host a "Last Chance" A swimming meet at the Mabey Memorial Swim Center Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The meet is really a last chance affair for those entered since it will be the last opportunity for A swimmers to obtain AA times for the upcoming Texas Aquatic Games (TAGS) to be held in Dallas April 18-20.

Eight teams are entered in the meet.

The meet will begin at 5 p.m. Friday with timed finals while preliminaries will be held Saturday and Sunday in two shifts beginning at 8 a.m. Finals each day will begin at 8 p.m. The public is invited.

Site of Masters— Golf History Served At Famous Augusta

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Late evening shadows were falling over the Augusta National course and in the bridal-white clubhouse Craig Wood was being fitted for the green jacket symbolizing the 1935 Masters golf championship.

A handful of players, including Gene Sarazen, were still on the course but on the balcony overlooking the rolling, garlanded layout, sports writers were fashioning their stories.

The only communication from the outlying holes was provided by black caddies serving as couriers by foot.

One of the runners rushed up the one flight of steps to the porch and approached his boss, Alan Gould of The Associated Press.

"What did Sarazen have at 15?" Gould asked impatiently.

"A two," the breathless runner said.

Impossible.

"A two?" Gould blurted in disbelief. "Impossible. Go out there and find out what Sarazen had at 15."

The second trip merely reconfirmed the first. "Yes, sir, Mr. Gould, it really was a two," the courier insisted.

It was. The bouncy, knickered Sarazen had holed a 220-yard four-wood from the fairway for a double eagle duce on the 520-yard, par five 15th and one of the most incredible shots in golf history had taken place in semi-privacy.

WTC Takes Golf Lead

AMARILLO — Western Texas College of Snyder jumped into first place in the Great Plains Invitational Golf Tournament by shooting a team score of 325 in Thursday's first round at Amarillo Country Club.

Midland and Odessa colleges are tied for second at 331 and New Mexico Junior College is fourth with 338 as the scene shifts to Tascosa CC today. All Western Junior College Athletic Conference teams are entered.

Midland College is the team low ball leader with a 67, one stroke ahead of WTC while David Gage of Midland had the day's medal round, 77.

Other Chaparral scores included Terry Lester 83, Kelly Sewell 85, Fred Nobles 86, and Keith Williams 91 as golfers teed off Thursday in 23-degree temperatures accompanied by high winds.

But the wind and cold apparently bothered Weiskopf not at all.

"One of the finest rounds of golf I've ever played in my life," he said.

He was the only man in the field to escape without a bogey. He scored three deuces. He once holed it from a bunker. He finished on a string of three consecutive birdies. He missed

GALLUP, N.M. (AP) — Top-seeded Wayland Baptist College of Plainview, Tex., will battle fifth-seeded Allentown, Pa., and second-seeded Fullerton, Calif., will clash with sixth-seeded Brownstown, Ind., tonight in the semifinals of the Women's National AAU Basketball Tournament.

The four earned the semifinal berths by posting quarter-final victories in Thursday's third day of tournament action.

Wayland topped eighth-seeded Ankeny, Iowa, 68-61, Fullerton rolled over New York City 91-51, Allentown held off fourth-seeded Raytown, Mo., 85-77 and Brownstown breezed past tournament host Gallup 76-58.

The winners of tonight's tussles will tangle in the tourney title game Saturday night, ending the five-day meet that began play with 21 teams. Tonight's losers will vie for third-place honors in a game preceding the championship bout.

While Thursday's losers are out of the running for the championship, the four teams will continue playing as they shifted today to a consolation bracket with Ankeny playing Raytown and Gallup challenging New York City. The winners will play for fifth place and the losers for seventh in Saturday afternoon games.

Wooden Lost One In High School

By DICKSON J. PRESTON
EASTON Star-Democrat

When John Wooden closed out the most amazing career ever as a college basketball coach this week, my own thoughts went back to another March evening I witnessed almost 50 years ago.

The man who would become a legend with 10 national championships in 12 years was then a 17-year-old from Martinsville, a small town in the southern Indiana hills.

Wooden had led Martinsville to the state title. Now, in March 1928, he was back as the team's captain to try to make it two in a row at Butler University's new field house before a record 15,000 fans.

With his teammates, he had come to the big city, Indianapolis, to show the folks how to play basketball. And he did it so well that by Saturday night Martinsville was matched against Muncie in the finals of the annual tournament known then and now as "Hoosier hysteria."

On tournament weekends, stores were closed and jobs neglected all over the state as thousands poured into Indianapolis to pay as much as $50 to scalpers for seats to the final game.

Even at 17, Wooden was in a class by himself. Although small he was considered by most to be the finest player in the state's history.

One writer said, "The tumbler 'Chako' Matsui of Japan finished 24th with a 79."

ward could possibly need. He is fast, he can dribble like a streak, he can guard, he can shoot long, he can twist 'em in as he flies under the basket. He also had a cool head, fierce competitive spirit and brains.

As a junior the year before, Wooden had led Martinsville to the state title. Now, in March 1928, he was back as the team's captain to try to make it two in a row at Butler University's new field house before a record 15,000 fans.

The pressure of that night can scarcely be believed in a more sophisticated sports era. Indiana, for reasons still not clear to sociologists, had gone completely insane over high school basketball.

On tournament weekends, stores were closed and jobs neglected all over the state as thousands poured into Indianapolis to pay as much as $50 to scalpers for seats to the final game.

Teen-agers like Wooden and Charlie Scrist, Muncie's gangling center, were Hoosier heroes on a par with Babe Ruth and Jack Dempsey. Martinsville had a fieldhouse which seated more people than the entire population of the town—and it was packed every game.

But there was no joy in Martinsville. Johnny Wooden, the incomparable, had failed. His missed free throw had cost Martinsville the big game.

He grabbed the next tipoff himself, dribbled down the left side, and passed to a teammate who shot and missed. A follow-up also went wild. It was over, and Muncie was the Indiana state champion, 13-12.

Scrist was the toast of Indianapolis in Muncie, 60 miles away, what The Associated Press called the "wildest celebration since the signing of the Armistice" was soon in full swing.

Baugh, Stacy In Golf Lead

TOKYO (AP) — Laura Baugh and Hollis Stacy of the United States shot three-under-par 71s to share the first-round lead by a stroke today in the $33,333 third World Ladies Professional Golf Association Tournament.

American Sandra Haynie, who ranks second in the 1975 money winners with $11,883, shot a 73 and shared fourth place with Mary Mills of the United States and two Japanese pros.

Japan's Yumiko Toriyama was second with 72, one stroke behind the co-leaders.

Jane Blalock of the United States, who leads the 1975 money winners with $18,188, was eighth with 74.

A field of 74 players including 14 on the U.S. Ladies PGA cut, teed off on the 6,490-yard women's par 74 course at the Tokyo Yomiuri Country Club in the outskirts of Tokyo for the $6,666 top prize money.

The defending champion Hi-sako "Chako" Matsui of Japan finished 24th with a 79.

claiming his ankle was bothering him. Nearly everyone, including his teammates, thought Scrist had gone out of his mind. The extra time-out was a technical foul, and if the sure-shooting Wooden made it, Muncie could hope for no more than a tie.

But Wooden missed. It was one of only two free throws he failed to convert during the entire weekend.

Under the rules then prevailing, the ball went back to center court for a tipoff, with Martinsville still one point ahead. Scrist controlled the gap, looped it backward and grabbed it himself (which was legal in those days). Then he twirled and heaved a two-handed underhand shot from well beyond the center circle. It seemed to rise forever into the smoky haze.

Many years later, Wooden could recall that shot as vividly as if it had occurred the night before. In a letter to this writer in 1970, he said the shot was "one of the highest arched shots that I have ever seen and it came straight down through the basket." Wooden also remembered precisely what happened as the final seconds ticked away.

He grabbed the next tipoff himself, dribbled down the left side, and passed to a teammate who shot and missed. A follow-up also went wild. It was over, and Muncie was the Indiana state champion, 13-12.

Nets Face Colonels In One Shot Playoff Contest Tonight

By The Associated Press
The New York Nets and Kentucky Colonels will play an extra game tonight at Kentucky to determine the champion of the American Basketball Association East Division.

Both New York and Kentucky won their final regular season games Thursday night, finishing with identical records of 58-26.

With Julius Erving scoring 28 points, the Nets came back from a 16-point deficit with 4:18 remaining in regulation play, to defeat the Virginia Squires 116-111 in overtime. Kentucky, with Dan Issel leading the way with 24 points, handed the Memphis Sounds a 103-93 defeat.

Ali To Fight Lyle

Quotebook

Norris Replaces Catfish Hunter

Cincinnati's Reds open their 110th baseball season Monday and 83-year-old Joe Anderson has been there for half of them. "I've only missed opening day twice since 1910. That was 1917 and 1918 when I was in the Navy."

Anderson saw his first ball game in 1907 and settled in Indiana, but spent so many days on trains between Indianapolis and Cincinnati that a friend said, "If you're so nuts about the Reds, why don't you move there?" That was 1910. Sports came first with Anderson. "I was very close to marriage once. Then she told me she hated sports."

Mike Norris, 20, who has been battling to make the Oakland A's roster, not only made it, but will replace Jim "Catfish" Hunter in the starting rotation. A San Francisco, Norris was an all-city pitcher in high school and played on a city championship football team before being Oakland's first pick in a 1973 free-agent draft. As far as owner Charles Finley is concerned, the nice thing about Norris is that his salary will be a shade over the $17,500 major league minimum.

Retired second baseman Dick Green says he's willing to return to the Oakland A's for "$85,000." Hunter noted, "I've gotten about $85,000 the past years because we've been in the World Series. Now that we don't have Catfish Hunter, I don't believe we will be winning another championship. It's not my fault we lost Catfish. I just don't want to play for a $25,000 cut."

Although his fielding made him an MVP candidate in last fall's series with the Dodgers, Green remembers the 1972 Series. "I got six hits in that series. I didn't get any last year."

Jack Pardee, the new coach of the Chicago Bears of the National Football League, had no sooner finished introducing his staff when he was hit with the obvious question. What about the quarterback problem?

"I'm sure the so-called quarterbacking problem will be straightened out if we give our quarterback decent protection. Either Bobby Douglass or Gary Huff," Pardee said, would get the job. "We also have Joe Barnes and Bob Avellini, but both are lacking in experience."

Tv Bout May 16

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali will appear in the nation's living rooms in May, but you'll probably have to go to the theater to watch him perform in September.

"The fight is on, the money is up," Herbert Muhammad, Ali's manager, said Thursday in Chicago about an Ali title defense against Ron Lyle in Las Vegas May 16, which will be shown live on home television by ABC.

"The terms are agreeable and we will sign a contract," said Irwin Rose, Lyle's manager of record, who added that he had talked with Lyle's business partner, Bill Daniels, owner of the pro basketball Utah Stars.

Ali reportedly will get $1 million and Lyle $100,000.

The first home telecast of a heavyweight title fight since Joe Frazier stopped Ron Stander May 25, 1972, will be promoted by Don King Productions, Inc., and Video Techniques, Inc., co-promoters of Ali's title-winning performance against George Foreman in Africa last Oct. 30 and his defense against Chuck Wepner March 24 at the Cleveland Coliseum.

King also said Thursday that he expects to make the Ali-Lyle fight the second half of a home television doubleheader with middleweight champion Carlos Monzon or lightweight champion Robert Duran.

Santa Anita Dazzled

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — The show at Santa Anita these days is supposed to be Laffit Pincay and Bill Shoemaker, but don't tell that to Sandy Hawley.

The little-known Canadian, 25, scored his fifth consecutive triple at the track Wednesday.

In 10 days he has posted 25 victories to climb from a distant sixth to a strong third in the jockey standings, increasing his victory total from 37 to 62.

"I can hardly believe the luck I'm having," he said Wednesday when he won three straight races, scoring aboard Uniformity, $11.80, in the featured $33,550 Baldwin Stakes after wins on Pink Castle, $7.40, in the sixth and Selecting, $11.80, in the seventh.

Pincay, who broke his collarbone on March 5, is racing again in an effort to catch Shoemaker and win his fifth straight Santa Anita meeting riding title. He was easily leading the race for the title, but he was sidelined by the injury and Shoemaker passed him.

Cases Pending Against Red Sox

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox will open the 1975 baseball season with a landmark discrimination case pending against them.

It stems from two hiring discrimination complaints initiated against the American League team in March 1974 by the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination.

State officials have said it is the first discrimination case of its kind brought against a professional sports team.

The Red Sox were the last major league team to field a black player when infielder Pumpsie Green joined the club in 1959.

RANGERS SERIOUS TITLE CONTENDERS

A's, Yanks Top AL Picks

By The Associated Press

Through a series of deals such familiar National League players as Hank Aaron, Bobby Bonds, Lee May, Billy Williams, Willie Davis, Nate Colbert and Ken Singleton are now wearing American League uniforms.

They're expected to make the tough American League even tougher, and the job of picking a champion nearly impossible.

As the winner of three straight World Series the Oakland A's must be given due consideration—even if they did lose Catfish Hunter to the New York Yankees in one of the biggest steals in baseball history. While their 25-game winner escaped through a loophole in his contract and left the A's on one contract pitcher short, they did land Williams, the longtime Chicago Cub slugger.

This gives the A's a real swing in the middle of the lineup and their potentially best hitting team in history. The figures should add up to another West Division title for the A's, who face only the challenging guns of the Texas Rangers in that group.

The Rangers have one of the best collections of young talent in the majors, including 1974 Most Valuable Player Jeff Burroughs and Rookie of the Year Mike Hargrove. Some of the older talent includes one of the best pitchers around, perennial 20-game winner Ferguson Jenkins, and Davis, one of the best outfielders in the game.

SPORTS SCRATCHPAD

Boys Invade Girls Team

Baseball

The Montreal Expos have announced that Rich Coggins has a kidney and liver disorder that will require hospitalization, treatment and rest.

Dodger Bill Singer says that his road back to baseball glory is filled with a strict diet and grueling exercise with thousands of boring situps each week.

It was bound to happen sooner or later. Five boys from Philadelphia's Neshaminy High School have tried out for the girls' softball team after a court ruling declared that boys and girls must be allowed to compete together in Pennsylvania high school sports. "We were out to prove one point," said Paul Salvatore, 18. "And that is that boys would eventually dominate girls' sports. We're trying to force the action now."

Basketball

Charles Ridl has retired as head basketball coach at the University of Pittsburgh, and Tim Grgurich has been named as his replacement.

Rutgers' basketball star Phil Sellers says he will not declare a hardship for the pro basketball drafts and will attend the New Jersey school for his senior year.

Caldwell Jones, a seven-foot center who has signed with the Philadelphia 76ers of the NBA while under contract with the ABA's San Diego club, is being sued by his former team.

The University of Kentucky students have found a cure for the spring "blahs" that resulted from their basketball team's loss in the NCAA final. They've been going around throwing pies at top university figures.

The San Diego Chargers say that some very important scouting data is missing, but that the FBI doesn't want anything said about it publicly.

The 42-day strike by the National Football League Players Assn. last summer cost the union from $400,000 to $500,000 and left a deficit of about $200,000 for the fiscal period ended last Nov. 30, according to Ed Garvey, executive director.

Linebacker Derrel Luce of Baylor has signed a grid contract with the Baltimore Colts.

Fred Stolle of Australia has been signed as player-coach of the New York Jets of the World Team Tennis league.

John Newcombe says he will train with two left-handed "sparring partners" over the next three weeks to prepare for his $1 million match against Jimmy Connors. "Going into seclusion just doesn't fit my personality," Newcombe said.

Britain's golf stars will each be paid $2,400 for playing in the Ryder Cup. Last year the British linksters were paid $440 each.

George Foreman maintained Thursday that he was dragged before his losing heavyweight title fight with Muhammad Ali and also said that he will be his own man from now on. "If we ever fight again I'll have a personal guard to guard my food and the water I drink," Foreman said.

Promoters denied Thursday that they took a financial beating in the Ali-Chuck Wepner fight March 24, saying that 200,000 of the 600,000 closed-circuit seats available were sold.

5-4A BASEBALL—

Lee Meets Eagles; Pack Faces Cougs

By BOB DILLON

Midland Lee entertains Ahlens while Midland travels to Ahlens Saturday in District 5-4A baseball to face Cooper in 2 p.m. contests.

Lee currently shares first place with Odessa Permian and Cooper with a 4-1 mark following its 6-1 victory over the Panthers Tuesday while Ahlens is 0-5 after a 6-1 defeat to Odessa in a makeup game Thursday.

The Rebels have the No. 1 hitter in the loop in first baseman-pitcher Bobby Stevens, who is hitting the ball at a torrid .556 clip. The 6-1, 180-pound senior is also hitting a cool .368 on the season for the Rebels. Javier Torres, senior outfielder, his hitting .400 in loop play and teammate Rusty Laughlin, senior second baseman, owns a .333 loop average.

Midland, meanwhile, takes a 1-4 district mark into its game with the Cougars. Jackie Wells, who had a single, triple and home run Tuesday against Odessa, is hitting .500 in loop play and leads the league in runs-batted-in with 10 and homers with four. Catcher Terry Copeland also continues to hit well for the Purple Pack in league play with a .409 average. Lee has a season record of 8-10 compared to Ahlens's 5-10 reading while MHS stands 10-10 on the year. Cooper has won 12 and lost four.

Thomas Takes Lead In Bass Tournament

BULL SHOALS, Ark. (AP) — Dee Thomas of Newark, Calif., with a catch of eight bass, moved into first place Thursday in the $21,000 Arkansas Invitation Bass Tournament at Bull Shoals Lake.

Thomas upped his two-day total to 27 pounds, 15 ounces.

Patty Hearst Said Now Wearing New Short Hair Style

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI released Thursday a new composite photo and drawing of fugitive newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst, with her hair cut very short and apparently bleached blonde.

An FBI spokesman said agents had been told by a source that Miss Hearst had changed the style of her natural blonde hair, which was long at the time of her abduction on Feb. 4, 1974, by the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Along with the picture, FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley released an eight-page justification for the bureau's forced entry March 15 into an Alexandria apartment in a futile hunt for the fugitive heiress.

The statement said the decision to break in was made because of the "definite air of authenticity" of the anonymous tip that led the FBI to the apartment.

Organist Plays Favorite 'Oldies' At Rodeway Inn

Organist Tracy Ratliff is the current headliner at Midland's Rodeway Inn Supper Club.

Ratliff presents his keyboard artistry for patrons' dining and dancing pleasure nightly from 8:30 to 11:30.

Originally an organist and choir director, Ratliff has been entertaining supper club and cafeteria patrons in Wichita Falls, Sweetwater, Eastland, Abilene, San Angelo, Big Spring and Odessa for the last 14 years. He also was associated with a local country club for 10 years as a musical entertainer.

Ratliff, although he doesn't offer country-type music, says he thoroughly enjoys playing such old favorites as "Put Your Little Foot" for his listeners' pleasure, along with scottiches and polkas. His fans claim that Ratliff has forgotten more songs than most organists ever knew!

At any rate, he can play for hours on end without repeating a tune.

Ratliff joins the Rodeway Inn management in inviting the public to come out and hear him play.

Infant Offered For Sale Placed In Foster Home

HOUSTON (AP) — A three-month-old boy whom a couple allegedly tried to sell for $100 has been placed in a foster home by Harris County child welfare officials.

A welfare department case worker said Thursday it had been decided to seek permanent termination of the mother's parental claim to the infant.

Betty Kay Norris of suburban Pasadena told police a couple tried to sell the baby to her, and her husband in a bar Wednesday night. Mrs. Norris said she called police because she was not sure it would be legal.

Police arrested the child's 17-year-old mother and her 29-year-old companion for investigation but found no charges could be filed in connection with the alleged proposal to sell the infant.

Victoria Arrests Suspect Wanted In Midland Theft

VICTORIA, Tex. (AP) — A 41-year-old man who the Department of Public Safety says is wanted by 15 Texas cities and counties was being held in the Victoria County jail today on a charge of felony auto theft.

Samuel C. Houston was charged before Justice of the Peace Alfred Baass here Thursday. His bond was fixed at $10,000.

DPS officers said the cities where Houston is wanted include Waco, Houston, Corpus Christi, San Marcos, Midland, Rockdale, Edna, Caldwell, Waxahachie, Hearne, Mexia and Beeville plus DeWitt County. They said some of the cities have more than one warrant against him.

Assistant Midland Police Chief Wayne Gideon said this morning Houston is wanted in Midland on an automobile theft complaint.

Gideon said Houston is accused of stealing an automobile from Berg Motor Co. here Dec. 31, 1974. He said the automobile was recovered at Georgetown a few days later.

Houston was released on parole from state prison at Huntsville last year and most of the warrants against him are believed to be connected with crimes committed in the past year.

He was arrested Wednesday near the Victoria-DeWitt County line.

New Mexico Seeks Way To Cope With Range Spoilers

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — A man who got $20,000 to study them says range caterpillars are a fascinating insect with a habit of munching prime cattle pasture to dirt.

"A heavy infestation can completely denude hundreds of thousands of acres of range grass," said Dr. J. Gordon Watts of New Mexico State University.

Watts, nearing the end of a three-year study financed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, said the munching trait makes the caterpillars unpopular with cattlemen.

Other Problems Seen

"Even lesser infestations cause severe problems," he said. "Cattle won't graze where there's an infestation. The insects have poisonous spines that can give you a hefty sting. If a cow brushes one with her lips, it stings her."

The professor said range caterpillars "seem to occur only in two isolated areas — the five northeasternmost counties in New Mexico and just into Colorado, and in a four- or five-county area around Lincoln County in southeast New Mexico."

"Two of the questions that puzzle us most are why they don't spread, and why heavy infestations occur only in certain years," Watts said.

Range caterpillar outbreaks can be controlled through pesticides. But environmentalists say, among other things, it's undesirable for cattle to graze on land sprayed with pesticide.

Watts said the federal grant was made "to study the ecology and physiology of the range caterpillar. Out of that we hoped to arrive at some non-chemical means of controlling the insects."

The study, which ends May 21, has not turned up a practical, nonchemical means of controlling the creatures.

But Watts said it has produced hitherto unknown information that may prove useful later.

"When we learn everything we can about the normal development of the insect, perhaps we can throw a monkey wrench into the wheels."

Watts said the caterpillar is a "very long time in the larval stage and a short time in the adult stage."

The moths that emerge from range caterpillars mate the day they leave the cocoon, lay eggs the following day, and die a day or so later — usually in late September or early November.

The tiny eggs spend the winter attached to plants, and hatch sometime the next summer, depending on temperature and moisture conditions, the study showed.

The search for a natural means of control began by looking for the caterpillars' natural enemies.

"We found a tiny wasp, smaller than an eye gnat, that was a caterpillar egg parasite. We also found two or three different species of flies, one or two larger wasps and a beetle that feeds off the larvae."

"But we could never find more than one or two per cent of the caterpillars infested by the parasites. We determined that the natural enemies existed in small numbers, and played no significant role in determining the major outbreaks," Watts said.

Larvae Affected

"We also found a disease in the field that affects the larvae, but it was the same story. It killed some, but it wouldn't bring an outbreak under control."

Researchers turned to another approach, involving the insects' lifecycle.

"We found the larva within the egg is fully formed by mid-April, depending on temperature. From that point, we found the development depends mainly on moisture."

"We figured if we could make some sort of application that would cause the eggs to hatch early in May, before the new grass is up, it would be suicidal hatch.

"We made no progress in doing that in the field, but we can do it in the laboratory."

The professor said it appeared the cost would make such application prohibitive in the field.

The remaining weeks of the study are being devoted to a study of the biochemical processes that take place in the egg during the dormant season and until it hatches."

He said researchers also are investigating the means by which the moths locate their mates.

"The moths find their mates by means of minute amounts of food, which in turn is dependent on soil moisture, which is dependent on rainfall, which is related to elevation," Watts said.

"We've found the insect will feed on any grass we know of. The ranchers say it feeds on other plants, but I think they see it resting on other plants."

"Another thing we found," the professor said, "is that the insect seldom occurs below an elevation of 5,000 feet, and it usually occurs between 5,500 and 6,500 feet."

"Hidden somewhere in this complex you have a significant point on the occurrence and survival of this insect. The answer to controlling it is in there somewhere, but I can't speculate on what it is."

Watts said he hoped to have a report on the results of his findings available next fall.

European Contracts Would Produce Only Minor General Dynamics Boom

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — If General Dynamics receives orders for the new F16 fighter from European countries, the immediate impact on Fort Worth will be minimal, an official says.

However, the company spokesman said Thursday the contracts from The Netherlands, Belgium, Denmark and Norway would bolster the F16 production schedule and keep the production line operating longer.

GD received a $417.9-million contract to produce F16s for the U.S. Air Force. This contract is the backbone of F16 production.

Company officials pointed out at the time of the contract announcement in January that Fort Worth plant employment rolls could reach the 12,000 mark by 1980.

A spokesman said the addition of the European contracts probably would not alter this figure.

When the F16 program gets in full swing (officials estimate within two years), it will generate approximately $150 million a year in payrolls and local purchases.

One of the main reasons a European contract for the F16 will not affect this area very much is that most of the assembly work will take place in those countries.

Officials said GD will provide European countries with some program management personnel and some airplane parts. However, most of the work will be done there.

"There will be a long-term benefit to an European contract," one official said, "in that it will keep the production line working longer."

Texan Named Head Of Negro College Fund-Raising Unit

DALLAS (AP) — Bishop College President Dr. Milton Curry is the new president of the United Negro College Fund. He replaces Dr. Herman Long, president of Talladega College.

Dr. Curry, whose appointment was announced Thursday, has been president of Bishop for 23 years and is credited with increasing its enrollment from 350 students to almost 2,000.

As president of the UNCF, Curry will be in charge of shaping the policies of the national fund-raising group representing 41 predominantly black colleges and universities.

Dr. Prezell Robinson, president of St. Augustine College, was elected vice president and Morris B. Abram, former president of Brandeis University and now a New York attorney, was re-elected chairman of the board.

New Police Unit No Shotgun Squad

HOUSTON (AP) — Police Chief Carroll M. Lynn says a new police division to combat armed robbery and burglary in Houston is "not the typical shotgun squad."

Lynn said Thursday Houston's Special Weapons and Tactics (SWAT) division will be concerned primarily with arresting suspects, not killing them.

He said shotgun squads are mainly used to stake out anticipated scenes of burglaries and robberies and shoot criminal suspects.

Lynn announced creation of the 40-member division Tuesday. He said it will be guided by computer to stake out locations deemed likely to be scenes of robberies and burglaries.

Quite A Girl!

Aunt Sara looks about as stern as they come, doesn't she? As they used to say, "better wouldn't melt in her mouth." I don't remember the occasion of this picture, since I was the baby. But I do remember Great Aunt Sara very vividly and she was quite a girl!

She was what they call a "pillar of the church." She must have baked an astronomical number of chicken pies for church suppers and served on almost every committee at one time or another. You might say she was pious, a word we don't usually care for. What I mean is that she revered her God and loved Him.

She also had a tremendous sense of humor. I remember she used to tell the funniest stories.

The point is this. So often people mistake religious fervor for a certain "holier than thou" attitude. They don't believe that humor and religion go together. But Aunt Sara proved them wrong. The Church encompasses all of life—humor and wit—as well as love and compassion... and so much more! You can easily find out for yourself.

PLAN MIDLAND PERFORMANCE — The Symphony Concert Band of Howard Payne University, Brownwood, will present a concert at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in Midland's First Baptist Church. The 93 members of the band, shown above with director Greg Berry, currently are on a West Texas-New Mexico concert tour. The ensemble is unique in that its members sing as well as performing on instruments in concerts. The Sunday night program here will be open to the public at no charge.

Covenant Players Return To Perform In Midland Sunday

The Covenant Players from Reseda, Calif., who have presented performances in recent months at St. Nicholas' Episcopal and First Christian churches here, will return to perform in Midland's Unitarian Church Sunday.

Organized more than 10 years ago by Charles M. Tanner, Covenant Players is a non-profit, self-supporting interdenominational group whose various units have now performed a total of 130,000 or more times in almost a dozen countries. The company has a repertoire of more than 200 one-act plays and shorter vignettes of varying lengths. The presentations cover a variety of subjects — ethics, morality, human relationships, social concern, involvement, commitment, affluence and poverty, alcohol and drug abuse and many more. Using humor as its mainstay, the players leave no facet of drama untouched in their attempt to provide a diversified program that is both entertaining and challenging.

The Sunday morning Adult Forum of the Midland Unitarian Church, 3400 North A St., will begin at 10:45 a.m. It will be open to the public.

Odessa Rabbi Is Appointed Webb Chaplain

BIG SPRING—Dr. Josef Zeltin, rabbi of Temple Beth El at Odessa, which serves Permian Basin Jewry, recently was appointed by the National Jewish Welfare Board to serve as a chaplain at Webb Air Force Base here.

Dr. Zeltin, who recently marked his fifth anniversary as rabbi of Temple Beth El, also serves on the chaplaincy staff of the Veterans Administration hospital here. He is active in interfaith work in the Permian Basin.

Sacred Music Concert Slated

Jim Tate, new minister of music and education at Bellview Baptist Church, will present a concert of sacred music there Sunday evening.

Tate, who assumed the Midland post in February, is a graduate of Howard Payne College at Brownwood and attended Southwestern Baptist Seminary at Fort Worth. He formerly was a fulltime musical evangelist. He is a recording artist for a Dallas-based record firm.

The musical program, scheduled for 6:40 p.m. Sunday in the sanctuary of Bellview Church, 1710 N. Big Spring St., will be open to public without charge.

Pastors Conference Set This Weekend

SWEETWATER—Pastors will join with Dr. Coleman in conducting workshops on such subjects as theology and methodology involved in equipping deacons, key laymen and church members in the ministry of evangelism and discipleship.

The conference will get under way at 9:30 a.m. Saturday and conclude by 4:30 p.m. The conclave will include small group workshop sessions as well as major addresses by the guest speakers.

Dr. Coleman, a professor of evangelism at the Asbury Theological Seminary in Wilmore, Ky., has spent 20 years developing his popular curriculum of evangelism and discipleship training. He recently was selected to serve on the U.S. Continuing Committee of the Lausanne Congress for World Evangelism. He is the author of nine books which have been translated into 40 languages. Texas-born Dr. Coleman is a graduate of Southwestern University, Asbury Theological Seminary and the State University of Iowa, where he earned his doctorate.

Dr. Fish, who serves as chairman of the evangelism department at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary at Fort Worth, is widely known as an author and educator. His most recent book is "How to Give a Good Invitation," published by Broadman Press. At the conference here, he will serve as pastor of Texas churches, his last pastorate being at Alice.

Andy Elliott of Nederland will direct special music at the services scheduled for 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday and 7:30 p.m. daily next week. The revival will continue through Sunday, April 13 and all services will be open to the public.

Dallas Minister To Lead Revival

DALLAS (AP) — Slowly, in one form or another, religion is making its way into the habitat of Dallas apartment dwellers.

At one apartment complex, about 50 young adults gather at the clubhouse for a give-and-take session on Christianity.

Twice a week, single and divorced apartment residents at another complex meet with young ministers to talk out their problems.

A third complex has organized a chapel service on Sunday afternoons for singles who were out late Saturday night.

"With a lot of pastors, all they know about apartments is that every time they visit one, they get lost," the Rev. Jim Ozier says.

But Ozier says, in an interview with the Dallas Times Herald, that apartments are where most of the church's congregations will be living in the future.

"Living in homes will be reserved for the wealthy," he says. "Apartment living is not a fad; it's here to stay."

Through research, contacts, even regular visits to singles bars, Ozier tries to assess the needs of apartment dwellers.

Operating out of his own apartment, Ozier's Apartment Ministries Project, Inc., which receives no denominational funds, offers information on jobs, babysitting, transportation and referrals on professional services as well as Bible studies and prayer groups.

The Rev. Norma Meyer, chaplain-director of a 40-unit complex, says she believes the services and her presence in the apartments are comforting to most residents.

"Even those who feel they don't want anything to do with me feel some comfort in the fact that the church is running things here," she says. "We've tried to make this a community. We hold town meetings and develop programs together."

Bill Knott, head of the singles program of the Campus Crusade for Christ, says his group draws some lonely people, and some who come to talk about religion in a way they may not be able to in conventional churches.

"A lot of them are just looking for fellowship; they may not even be Christians," Knott says. "Even in 'name-brand' churches, they don't get the Gospel in a way meaningful to their lives."

Both Jim Ozier and Norma Meyer believe it is the church's mission to seek out apartment residents, find out what's hurting them, and respond to their practical, personal needs.

Europeans Slate Grant For Kenya

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — The European Economic Community is to make a $6-million grant to Kenya to offset the effects of inflation aggravated by spiraling oil prices, it was announced here.

Kenya is one of 17 developing nations to benefit from a fund channeled through the U.N. Emergency Program. The EEC contributed about $73 million to the program, of which $30 million will remain in the U.N. Special Fund.

Vietnam Church Relief Efforts Being Built UP

By GEORGE W. CORNELL AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A swift build-up of church relief efforts in South Vietnam was under way this week to ease what some experts saw as the gravest human crisis ever faced in that war-battered land.

With tides of displaced people left homeless amid the chaos of flight and military retreat, the church organizations ordered major increases of aid to the stricken region.

"It's the greatest social welfare emergency in the history of Indochina," says the Rev. Robert Charlebois, Southeast Asia regional director of Catholic Relief Services.

He says the number of uprooted people, put at more than two million, far exceeds that involved in the 1954 partition of Vietnam, and the plight is probably worse for larger numbers left in fallen towns, including the old, children and crippled.

"As of now, there's nothing we can do for them," he said in an interview.

But where the church agencies still can function, in the refugee-swollen area around Saigon and outlying towns, relief operations were being heavily expanded in goods, cash and personnel.

Church World Service, the relief arm of the National Council of Churches, including most major Protestant and Orthodox denominations cabled an initial extra $100,000 to field representatives to purchase rice, dried fish, sleeping sheets and medicines.

"We can only work now in certain limited places," said Nancy Nicol, assistant director of CWS, which has a staff of 20 Americans and 150 Vietnamese working in South Vietnam.

Noting the difficulty of shipping in supplies, rather than buying them on the spot, she added: "Road transportation has become almost impossible and air transport has become most expensive."

The first $100,000 was part of a projected $300,000 in emergency aid, as the present response of U.S. member churches to a $1 million appeal by the World Council of Churches in Geneva, Switzerland, for extra help to the Vietnamese.

Special shipments of food and other supplies also were ordered, including diversion by Catholic Relief Services of 4.2 million tons of wheat that had been en route to India to Vietnam, and shipment of 1.7 million tons of fortified soy flour.

Father Charlebois said the soy flour can be baked into nutritious biscuits and dropped in plastic bags to refugees in places that can't be reached

Missionary Convention Opens Here Next Week

Assemblies of God missionaries serving in Central America, Africa and the Orient will be special guests at the annual missionary convention at Gardens Assembly of God here next week.

Featured speaker at the convention will be the Rev. Paul Finkenbinder, a missionary to Central America. He will speak at the Sunday morning and evening worship services at Gardens Assembly as well as at special services there Monday through Wednesday nights, said the Rev. Paul Cox, host pastor.

Mr. Finkenbinder, widely known in Central America as "Herrniano Pablo," has a far-reaching radio and tv ministry and also produces religious films and Bible study aids, Mr. Cox said.

Other missionary guests at the upcoming convention are to include the Rev. and Mrs. George Grosshans from Hong Kong, Canadian missionaries who are longtime friends of Pastor Cox; Mrs. Janetta Fairbanks of Nicaragua, who will be accompanied here by her two sons; and Miss Gwendolyn Goodwin, teenager whose mother is a missionary in Tanzania, East Africa. At the Sunday evening worship service, scheduled to begin at 7, Miss Goodwin will describe missionary life from the standpoint of a teenager.

Another special guest at the

convention will be the Rev. Homer T. Goodwin, a former missionary who now serves as district director of the missions program of the West Texas Area, Assemblies of God and also as pastor of the Assembly of God Church at Hereford. He will speak at the Tuesday night conference session.

Special films on missionary outreach will be shown during the convention and various departments of the Gardens Assembly will have special displays on view. The Women's Missionary Council of the congregation will hold a missionary luncheon during the convention.

All meetings of the convention will be open to the public, Pastor Cox announced. Gardens Assembly of God is at 2901 W. Kansas St., near Andrews Highway.

Delegation Seeking More Cities Funds Plans To Regroup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of a delegation of officials from small Texas cities who came here to request additional federal aid-to-cities funds and were turned down say they are going back to Texas to regroup.

"We are not ready to admit defeat," Bill Neu said Thursday.

The group met with officials from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development who told them there is no money left under the 1974 Community Development Act to fund applications filed by 177 small Texas communities.

The act was designed to provide community assistance funds for communities and municipalities within large metropolitan areas. Under the distribution formula, unincorporated counties with populations over 200,000 had first crack at the funds.

The officials from the small Texas cities — all with populations under 50,000 — claim that so many large counties qualified that they drained the $240 billion program dry.

With Neu, who is also mayor of Denton, were Mayors David Demison of Lewisville and Al Ruschhaupt of McKinney and City Managers Lloyd Ross of Cleburne, Mark Reynolds of Weatherford and Ed Seigmiller of Waxahatchie.

Revival Services Begin On Sunday

Evangelist Dave Craddock will be in the pulpit for revival services next week at Travis Baptist Church, 1000 E. Gist St. Steve Kiser will be the singer and song leader.

Mr. Craddock, with headquarters in Midland, conducts numerous crusades and revivals throughout the Southwest each year and has conducted evangelistic campaigns abroad.

According to the Rev. O. N. Reed, pastor of Travis Baptist Church, the revival will begin Sunday and continue through the following Sunday. Services will begin at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. both Sundays, with weekday services announced for 7:30 p.m. All will be open to the public.

Opposition Justified

Directors of the Midland Chamber of Commerce are due commendation for taking a firm stand in opposition to pending state legislation designed to create a state utilities regulatory agency.

The Midland chamber endorses the concept that local regulation is more responsive to local service, and that the Midland City Council has expressed the desire and illustrated the ability to provide Midland with good utility service at favorable rates.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

the simple, straight, flat rate of 12 per cent. Treasury experts tell us, the government could raise all the revenue it now takes in.

INSIDE REPORT— Lisbon's Big Lie Works Against U.S.

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak
WASHINGTON — Continuing the chilling techniques by which Portugal's Communist-leaning regime is systematically undermining U.S. influence, the weekly Lisbon news magazine "Vida Mundial" has cunningly linked an anti-CIA U.S. Congressman to charges that the U.S. embassy has become a CIA haven.

Tucked into the March 27 article was the implication — totally untrue — that Rep. Michael Harrington of Massachusetts leaked to the magazine a list of all U.S. personnel assigned to the U.S. embassy in Portugal since the April 1974 revolution.

Under the new bill, upper-income couples can deduct up to $4,800 for the cost of a housemaid. Thus, while a poor woman scrubs her own floor without tax benefit, the affluent will get Uncle Sam to pay part of their maid's salary.

Every loophole, every inconsistency, every example of non-taxpaying millionaire, encourages the once dutiful American to become a tax cheat.

But, it will be argued, what about all those worthy enterprises which genuinely need tax relief to survive? We say they should get direct, open subsidies, rather than indirect, hidden subsidies tucked away in the print of the tax laws.

THE BIBLE Can you quote it?

- 1. The English Bible, as we know it, has been used for 300 years. (K.J.V.) However, for the first 1,000 years it was the Vulgate, Jerome finished his translation about 404 A.D. The first translation in English is credited to Wyclif. What did God tell Israel about learning, teaching and living with "these words"? Deuteronomy 6:6-10.

Indeed, Harrington, while an intransigent foe of the CIA, is no admirer of Portugal's new leftist regime. He told us the "deliberate, planned disruption" of center parties "by forces under the internal discipline of the Communist party" gravely concerns him.

The afternoon "A Capital" on March 3 smeared Carlucci as an "agent and strategist for the CIA" who has made his embassy "a CIA base." The U.S. also said, "is blocking Portuguese efforts to secure foreign credits" (though President Ford asked and the Congress last week appropriated $20 million in Portugal aid).

It Happened Here—

Early Selling Keeps Mart On Week-Long Downtrend

NEW YORK (AP) — Some early selling on the news of an over jump in unemployment kept the stock market in its week-long downtrend today. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, down more than 5 at its mid-morning low point, was off 2.27 at 749.92 at noon. Losers held a 2-1 lead over gainers in fairly quiet trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The government reported at the opening that the nation's unemployment rate had jumped to 8.7 per cent in March from 8.2 the month before, with the total number of jobless workers hitting the 8 million mark.

Continental Telephone was the most active issue on the Big Board, down 1/4 at 11 1/2. A 106,000-share block traded at that price.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index, slipped 1/4 to 38 1/2.

Insurance Industry Working To Boost Policy Loan Rates

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — A concerted effort is being made by the life insurance industry to boost the rate on policy loans to as much as 8 per cent a year through state legislative action.

The campaign, which already has met success in some states, threatens what some consumers consider the best credit available to them, the 5 per cent loan on a policy's cash value.

Critics contend, however, that the low-cost life insurance loan never has been the deal it was cracked up to be. In effect, they contend, policyholders merely borrow their own money — and pay for the use of it.

Whatever, 24 states already have passed legislation to permit an 8 per cent rate. The industry has succeeded in having its model bill passed in North Dakota and Virginia. Efforts are being pressed in 21 other states, but many limitations prohibit passage in some of them.

The effort to eliminate the better served by a viable law to lend at 5 or 6 per cent.

Israeli Official Asked To Postpone U.S. Visit While Policy Reassessed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli Defense Minister Shimon Peres, who intended to visit this country to discuss new arms aid for his nation, has been asked to stay home while the United States reassesses its Middle East policy.

State Department officials disclosed this Thursday as other administration sources confirmed that talks about providing Israel with F15 jet fighters and an advanced missile system also have been suspended because of the reassessment.

Services will be in Westmont, Ill., on Monday at a time to be announced, said Thomas Funeral Home, which is in charge of local arrangements. Interment will be in the Clarendon Hills Cemetery of Westmont, Ill., on Monday.

SECOND ANNUAL SALE OF SALES

Last year at this time the energy crisis was at its peak. Getting gasoline was the question on everyone's mind. This year the questions are oil depletion, economic recession and higher car prices. The Federal government has given us tax refunds and everyone has given rebates of some kind to all of us. We at ROGERS want to continue to try and stimulate the economy by offering lower prices and payments on every vehicle we have in stock. During our 2nd ANNUAL SALE OF SALES we are offering the lowest prices anywhere plus top trade-in values given in the Permian Basin. Shop and compare anywhere, then come to ROGERS for the purchase of a lifetime.

Today In History

By The Associated Press Today is Friday, April 4, the 94th day of 1975. There are 271 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: In 1917, the U.S. Senate approved a war resolution against Germany by a vote of 81 to six.

On this date: In 1581, Queen Elizabeth I of England knighted Sir Francis Drake.

In 1841, President William Harrison died of pneumonia at the White House, one month after his inauguration. John Tyler became President.

In 1865, during the Civil War, President Abraham Lincoln visited Richmond, Va., the fallen Confederate capital.

In 1932, Professor C.Q. King of the University of Pittsburgh isolated Vitamin C.

In 1964, heavy fighting broke out in northwestern Cyprus after Archbishop Makarios abrogated a 1960 treaty among Cyprus, Greece and Turkey.

In 1968, the civil rights leader, Martin Luther King, was assassinated in Memphis, Tenn.

Ten years ago: North Vietnamese MIG fighter planes shot down two U.S. Air Force jets in the first air clash over North Vietnam in the Vietnam war.

Five years ago: Some 40,000 demonstrators marched down Washington's Pennsylvania Avenue in what they called a response to a previous anti-war parade.

One year ago: Hank Aaron hit his 714th home run in a baseball game in Cincinnati at the opening of the 1974 season. The homer tied Babe Ruth's record.

Today's birthdays: - Dance teacher Arthur Murray is 80. Airline executive Floyd Hall is 59.

Thought for today: I've never been hurt by anything I didn't say — President Calvin Coolidge, 1872-1933.

Don't let anybody tell you that bridge is a purely scientific game. You'll do better if you play people as well as cards.

Opening lead — ♠ 4

South won the club opening in his own hand and laid down the ace of diamonds. This gave East two sure diamond tricks. Since East had sense enough to switch to hearts, the defenders took two diamonds and three hearts to defeat the contract.

Naturally, North pointed out that South could make the contract by leading the first diamond from dummy. If East failed to play an honor, South could finesse.

This play would lose if West rather than East happened to hold K-J-x of diamonds. How should South play the suit if he isn't gifted with 20-20 hindsight?

Apply Pressure

The best method is to put the pressure on West. Win the first club trick and lead a low diamond from the South hand.

In the actual hand, West would play his low diamond, and declarer would finesse with dummy's nine.

After East has taken the jack of diamonds, declarer gets back to dummy and leads a diamond through East. When East plays low, South finesesses. The assumption is that West did not play low from K-x, and that East must therefore still hold the king.

This line of play isn't sure-fire, since it loses when East has the singleton jack, but no other way of playing the suit is as good.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S-Q 9 8 4 H-10 8 4 2 D-K J 4 C-10 8. What do you say?

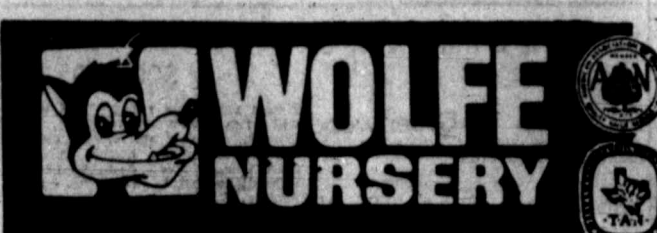

ANSWER: Pass. You have only 6 points, so the combined count is not enough for game. Pass at the first safe part-score contract — one notrump in this case.

Heating, Cooling Furnished By Sun

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — This town boasts the first school in the nation that uses solar energy both for heating and cooling.

The Timonium Elementary School, through sponsorship of the National Science Foundation, installed equipment for heat by solar energy in one wing of the school about a year ago. When the experimental system provided surplus energy, a 50-ton air-conditioning unit powered by water heated by the sun was added. The unit, manufactured by Borg Warner's York Division, is one of the few capable of operating with water at a temperature of only 180 degrees.

Solar collectors atop the building absorb the sun's rays and heat the water which then is circulated through conductors for space heating. For air conditioning, the hot water is directed to the cooling unit to serve as its power supply. By this method the school estimates it saved 1,200 gallons of fuel oil last March, when the system was installed, through low, South finesesses. The
