Morrow Gas Flows From Lea Project

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 1-A Covington-Federal, Lea County, N.M., wildcat, four miles southeast of the Red Tank (Morrow) gas field, was bottomed at 14,720 feet, and operator was taking a drillstem test from 14,458-14,720 feet.

A 15-minute drillstem test in the Morrow from 14,610-14,720 feet, using a 2,200-foot fresh water cushion, had gas to the surface in 20 minutes, at the rate of 765,000 cubic feet per day. The test was mis-run.

The test is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 25-22s-32e, 16 miles southeast of Halfway.

WT Counties Gain Wildcat Operations

Exploratory sites have been staked in Mitchell and Schleicher counties.

Tri-State Oil & Gas, Inc., Houston, will drill No. 2 W. R. McGuire as a 3,300-foot search in Mitchell, seven miles northeast of Westbrook.

Location is 467 feet from south and 1,650 feet from east lines of section 5, block 27, T&P survey, two miles west of the Sharon Ridge field.

Schleicher Try

Amoco Production Co. has staked site for No. 1-A Doris Mayer Rousselot, an 8,700-foot probe in Schleicher, 18 miles southwest of Eldorado.

Drill site is 1,320 feet from north and west lines of section 3, block D, GC&SF survey, 5 1/2 miles north of Pennsylvania gas production in the Turkey Roost field.

Andrews Producer Reopens Pay Zone

San Andres production has been reopened in the Triple N multizone field of Andrews County with completion of Gulf Oil Corp. No. 5-BM State, 10 miles southwest of Andrews.

It gauged a daily pumping potential of 92 barrels of 27.1 gravity oil and 37 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio measuring 207-1.

Production was through perforations at 4,371-4,415 feet, which have been treated with an unreported amount.

Well site is 2,125 feet from north and 575 feet from west lines of section 29, block 9, ULS.

Extender Indicated In Winkler Sector

A 3/4-mile southeast extension to Canyon production in the Darriner (Queen and Canyon) field of Winkler County has been indicated with the flowing of oil on one drillstem test and the reversing out of oil on another at Hillard Oil & Gas, Inc. No. 1-B Sealy-Smith.

Tool was open 30 minutes on the test taken from 8,290-8,375 feet, on which gas surfaced in six minutes, mud in 20 minutes, and oil in 25 minutes, no gauge. Reversed out of the tool was

Battle For Provincial Viet Capital Rages

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Fighting for Xuan Loc, the provincial capital 40 miles east of Saigon, raged on today and government officials claimed another North Vietnamese attack was repulsed.

Other sources reported heavy fighting outside the city. Military analysts said it was still too soon to say whether the repeated attacks on Xuan Loc, capital of Long Khan Province, were the prelude to a drive on Saigon. Nor could they say whether the resistance being shown by the defenders of the city meant that the South Vietnamese army was stiffening after the debacle that cost it three-fourths of the country and would now stand fast and fight.

On the political front, police broke up a small antigovernment demonstration by about 30 Buddhist youths in suburban Gia Dinh city. The protestors carried banners calling for President Nguyen Van Thieu to resign and an end to the draft. They passed out leaflets reading: "Vietnamese lives must not be exchanged for American dollars."

In other Indochina developments: —South Vietnam will allow 219 more Vietnamese orphans to be airlifted to the United States on Friday, said Betty Tisdale of Columbus, Ga., who has been lobbying for the airlift for two days. "I am not going to let the Communists have these children," she added.

—South Vietnamese Foreign Minister Vuong Van Bac flew to Saudi Arabia on Thieu's instructions and will meet Saturday with King Khaled and hold meetings with Saudi leaders "on matters concerning the two nations," the official Vietnam Press said. No other details were given. —Cambodian rebels broke through government defense lines and moved to within two miles of Phnom Penh airport, military sources said. Six more U.S. Marines arrived in Phnom Penh from Bangkok to strengthen the security force at the U.S. Embassy and one source said more Marines aboard a carrier in the Gulf of Thailand might be landed if chaos breaks out in Phnom Penh. Rebel shelling killed three cargo handlers and wounded eight others at the airport and suspended the rice airlift into Phnom Penh for five hours but it later resumed.

—Communist-led rebels launched a major ground assault against government forces in northern Thailand, killing 16 government soldiers and wounding 20, officials in Bangkok said.

Two Duval County Officials Charged With Filing False Income Tax Returns

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — District Court Judge O. P. Carrillo of Duval County, his brother, Ramiro, who is a Duval County commissioner, and Arturo D. Zertuche were charged with filing false income tax returns in a federal grand jury indictment unsealed today.

The single indictment contains 12 counts, one charging the three men with conspiracy to file false income tax returns, and 11 counts of filing false returns. The dates listed for the returns are Jan. 1, 1967 and May 31, 1974.

The Carrillos were engaged recently in a power struggle with suspended Duval County Judge Archer Parr and the late George B. Parr who shot himself to death April 1.

Judge Carrillo signed the order suspending Archer Parr. Zertuche is believed a businessman in the Zertuche General Store in Duval County.

A federal grand jury in Corpus Christi returned a number of indictments on Good Friday, five of the indictments were sealed, the last one naming the Carrillos and Zertuche being sealed today.

The Carrillos and Zertuche all showed up in federal court at 9:30 a.m. today and posted cashier check bonds for $10,000 each and were freed. Numerous amounts involved in the tax charges were listed.

Housing Authority To Readvertise For Bids On Project

The Midland Housing Authority voted Wednesday to readvertise for site locations on a 100-unit low-income housing project for the elderly and handicapped.

The authority had previously designated a site at the southeast corner of Scharbauer Drive and Big Spring Street as its choice for the project, but that site failed to receive approval of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The authority's previous site choice was being appealed to the regional HUD office when the land became unavailable.

The proposed site was taken off the market by Furr's when an El Paso developer failed to exercise an option to purchase it.

Harry Clark, chairman of the authority, said Wednesday new bids for the federal turnkey project will be opened May 6 and the authority will at the time pick a new site for the project.

mitted to the authority by May 2. The authority placed no geographical limitations on developers' proposals. Clark said, however, "We are going to inform the developers any proposal on the east side of (See HOUSING, Page 2A)

Thousands Of American Orphans Ignored

WASHINGTON (AP) — As people scramble to adopt Vietnamese war waifs, thousands of American children remain orphaned and ignored.

Government officials estimate that there are between 100,000 and 120,000 children in foster care homes and institutions around the country. Many are victims of parental neglect. Others are caught in legal snarls and have never been freed for adoption.

Most are members of minority groups, a factor that makes

Texas Gets More Rain

Wet weather gave water-logged areas of Texas nearly half a day's respite before cropping out again this morning in nearly every section of the state.

Clouds returned to cover areas from the warm and humid coastal plains to the cool plains of Northwest Texas, and showers, thunderstorms or simply light rain quickly developed once more.

There was early morning fog also in parts of the Lower Rio Grande Valley, enough to drop visibility to less than one-quarter mile in places.

Showers started here and there along the coast and spread inland past Eagle Pass, Austin and Lufkin. Another area of light rain embraced such points in West Central Texas as Sweetwater, Wichita Falls and Childress.

Separate parts of the moisture belt included most of the (See RAIN Page 2A)

A Pie In The Face: Some Don't Think It's So Funny

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Splat! Here come the pie throwers. Stalking their targets in classrooms and cafes, on campus and maybe even on Capitol Hill, they are pushing pies in the faces of unsuspecting citizens.

The fad started almost a year ago with the establishment of Pie Kill Unlimited in New York. Rex Weiner, the organizer, was a former political prankster who decided that "politicians shouldn't have a monopoly on dirty tricksters."

For a fee of $40 and up, Weiner and his crew threw pies in offices and at conventions and parties.

The practice appears to have spread, with some of the pie throwers operating on an amateur basis and others organizing into money-making groups.

Most of the victims apparently take their faceful of pie filling or shaving cream in good humor, but a few have filed charges.

Bruce Vallone, 20, of Cranston, R.I., was charged with assaulting a teacher at his former high school after he and three other young men entered Cranston High School and tossed a pie at Albert J. Gambardella. Vallone has pleaded innocent.

A teacher at Wilson Junior High in Glendale, Calif., made a citizen's arrest after her glasses were knocked off when a 14-year-old girl, who was moving to Florida the next day, took aim with a cream pie. The girl was released in her father's custody and left town as scheduled.

Two Groton, Conn., high school students were charged with breach of the peace and reckless endangerment when they threw a shaving cream pie at a science teacher. Officials decided not to prosecute one of the students and the other case was expected to be dropped.

The principal said the incident "started out as a joke and backfired" when the teacher struggled, cutting his knee and tearing his clothing.

The pie throwers pick their targets carefully. A group called Pie in the Eye, Inc., at the University of South Carolina, said it would throw pies at anyone if the price was right. The group turned down an offer of $75 to hit Gov. James B. Edwards, saying the fee wasn't high enough "considering all the possible consequences."

Senate, House Study Energy Measures

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a surprise vote to allow 50 per cent higher prices for a share of the nation's oil production, the Senate is considering whether Americans should be forced to reduce energy consumption.

Final action was scheduled this evening on a bill giving the President broad authority to impose conservation measures during an emergency, and requiring the states to enforce fuel-saving measures.

Meanwhile, the House Ways and Means Committee planned to continue its consideration of various options for an energy tax package.

Chairman Al Ullman's plan for increasing the gasoline tax by up to 37 cents a gallon by 1980 may be scaled down to an increase of either five cents or 10 cents per gallon, committee sources said.

Committee tax staff experts said this proposal may also contain standby authority for the President to push the hike to 25 cents a gallon subject to congressional veto.

Before the final vote in the Senate, Republicans planned efforts to eliminate the mandatory-conservation provisions, designed as a substitute for President Ford's program to save fuel by sharply raising its price.

In a significant victory for oil-state senators, the Senate on Wednesday voted to allow higher prices for a portion of domestic oil production. Sponsors claimed the action could provide the incentive for pumping 19 billion barrels of oil that would not be produced at today's frozen price of $6.25 per barrel.

Under the amendment offered by Sen. J. Bennett Johnston, D-La., and modified by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., the $5.25 price would be raised to $7.50 a barrel on oil obtained through certain expensive techniques.

Under the Jackson-Johnston compromise the higher price would be paid only on production that is increased beyond 1974 levels.

"For the sake of this country, let's get some new sources of energy," said Johnston. "But it can't be done at $5.25 a barrel."

Jackson, chairman of the Interior Committee, said high prices have failed to increase domestic production. "Production is going down steadily but oil-company profits are going through the roof," Jackson said.

Speech Slated Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP)

President Ford is expected to ask Congress in a major foreign policy speech tonight for more humanitarian and military aid for besieged Indochina.

In his address to a joint session of Congress, Ford will appeal for a bipartisan approach to foreign policy and ask for "a strong working relationship" with Congress on international matters.

Ford's speech will be broadcast by major television and radio networks beginning at 8 p.m. CDT. House Democratic leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. said Ford told 16 congressional leaders the address would be the most serious that he as President will ever make to Congress.

Exchanges Confirmed

As Ford worked Wednesday on revisions in his text, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen acknowledged that the Nixon administration promised South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu in "confidential exchanges" that the United States would "react vigorously to major violations" of the 1973 Paris peace accords.

After Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., asked for an investigation of exactly what those exchanges embodied, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield indicated that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the Armed Services Committee would look into the matter.

'No Agreements'

Jackson had asserted that "secret agreements" existed between Washington and Saigon. Just hours after Nessen described the communications as "confidential exchanges," Ford was telling bipartisan congressional leaders that there were no "secret agreements" involved.

Nessen, asked if Nixon had envisioned renewed U.S. military intervention in Vietnam, said: "I just don't have any idea what the intention was."

He declined to make public the exchanges but declared that "in substance, the private exchanges do not differ from what was stated publicly" by Nixon and others at the time.

Nessen referred to several of Nixon's public statements as evidence of what he said was in the "confidential exchanges."

One was a quotation from a news conference of March 15, 1973, when Nixon said the United States had informed North Vietnam of U.S. concern (See FORD Page 2A)

Prosecutors Trace 'Cigar Box Money' In Connally Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prosecutors in the John B. Connally bribery trial today continued tracing the trail of the "cigar box money" as they moved toward the finish of their case.

They questioned more Federal Reserve bankers to show that all 280 bills could have been in circulation on Oct. 29, 1973. That's the date Jake Jacobsen swears former Treasury Secretary Connally handed him the money, stuffed into a cigar box, as cover-up cash intended to replace $10,000 Jacobsen says he gave Connally as a bribe 2½ years earlier.

Connally is charged with accepting the money for supporting higher dairy price support levels.

None of the witnesses contradicted Jacobsen's story about the alleged cover-up cash.

The prosecution hopes to complete its case today.

English Relatives Visiting Midlander

Dr. Jock L. Moilliet of Aberly, England, is a special visitor in Midland.

A former Texan, Moilliet hadn't visited in the state in 44 years until he arrived here at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Serratt. Serratt is his first cousin.

Moilliet arrived Wednesday, will remain here today and leave Friday morning to continue a month-long tour of the U.S.

The English resident is the son of an English doctor who practiced in Mexico where Moilliet lived before moving to Seymour when he was 10. He graduated from Seymour High School and then attended Baylor University and Rice University.

Moilliet recently retired as a research associate with Imperial Industries Ltd.

He will tour West Texas oil fields and ranches before continuing on his tour. He is accompanied by his wife, Allison.

During Wednesday's session Asst. Special Prosecutor Frank M. Tuerkheimer questioned three present and former FBI agents, a Treasury Department currency specialist and seven assistant Federal Reserve officials from around the country.

None could contradict Jacobsen's story about the money. According to their records, all of the bills could have been in general circulation at the time Jacobsen says he got them from Connally.

The most recent date that any of the bills were recorded as being in the hands of the Federal Reserve banking system or the Treasury Department was Aug. 29, 1973. That is two months before the alleged cigar-box transfer.

Jacobsen turned the money over to prosecutors March 7, 1974, saying he had kept it in a bank vault and in a drawer in his bedroom since getting it from Connally.

Jacobsen said it was the first of two batches of cover-up cash that Connally gave him. The second $10,000 is the money found in Jacobsen's safe deposit box in Austin, Tex., he said.

Rodgers, Now Held In Bexar County, Faces New Charge

SAN ANTONIO — Robert Jefferson Rodgers, 25, of Fort Worth remained in Bexar County Jail this morning in lieu of $200,000 bond after being charged with interstate transportation of stolen property.

Clark Dean Anderson, special agent in charge of the San Antonio FBI office, said the arrests of Rodgers and George William Brewer, 60, of Dallas, culminated a two-year investigation which began after securities valued at more than $500,000 were reported stolen during a burglary in Midland May 31, 1973.

Brewer has been released on $10,000 bond set by U.S. Magistrate Frank Baskin here.

The securities were taken from a safe-like cabinet owned by Robert S. Brennan Jr., Midland police said.

Charges of theft of property over the value of $10,000 were filed Monday against Rodgers with Justice of the Peace Jimmy Gutierrez here, Assistant Dist. Atty. Charles Roberts said.

Abilene Jewelry Store Robbed

ABILENE — With a patrol car parked across the street, two men robbed a jewelry here Wednesday of about $20,000 in jewelry and left on foot.

Mrs. Beverly Walker, owner of Bev's Indian Things, told police two masked men, one carrying a handgun, walked into her store about 10:40 a.m. and took about 200 rings, two dozen bracelets and an unknown number of necklaces.

Police said that most of the jewelry was made of turquoise and silver.

Midlander Given 15-Year Term In Shooting Death

A. L. Rolison, 56, of Midland was sentenced to 15 years in the state penitentiary this morning following his pleading guilty to murder.

Rolison had been indicted for the Feb. 9 shooting death of Ida Mae Simmons, 42, at 111 S. Madison St. He had been held in county jail in lieu of a $25,000 bond. He was sentenced by Dist. Judge Perry Pickett.

Five additional guilty pleas for felony offenses were taken in district court today. They were:

- Henry Abshire, 26, of Midland was sentenced to five years on a plea of guilty to the burglary of a residence here Oct. 28.
- Antonio Hernandez, 28, of Midland was meted eight years for the aggravated robbery April 1 of a Sun Valley Motel room occupant.
- Angel Ortiz, 33, was sentenced to two years for the burglary Feb. 27 of the Koko Lounge here.
- Rudell Whitley, 23, of Midland was given a five-year probation sentence for forgery by possession of a $75 check.
- JoAnn McNew, 27, of Midland also was given a five-year probation term for forgery by alteration of a company check of approximately $1,500.

Goldwater Doubts More Arms Would Help Saigon Now

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Long-term Senate "hawks" and "doves" remain divided on the future U.S. role in the Vietnam war as Congress awaits President Ford's recommendations tonight.

In a replay of previous themes in debates over Southeast Asia, some senators who were active earlier in opposing U.S. involvement in Indochina now advocate limiting further U.S. military involvement in Indochina, said in an interview.

By the same token, some of those who supported the U.S. war effort before American troops were withdrawn in 1973 appear generally willing to supply more arms aid to South Vietnam. Some would consider resumption of U.S. bombing and naval shelling.

However, one key supporter of the previous war effort, Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., said he doubted more military aid would help.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, co-sponsor of a series of bills that ultimately cut off funds for U.S. military involvement in Indochina, said in an interview that "a strong president would recognize that a mistake has been made." He said that the United States should "accept the inevitable."

On the other side, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., ranking Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he would support use of U.S. air power and sea power if Ford recommends it, "based upon the combined judgment of the U.S. ambassador and the Joint Chiefs of Staff."

Sen. James L. Buckley, Con-R.N.Y., said he would neither recommend nor rule out the use of U.S. bombers.

"I would be willing to listen to that option," he said.

Both Thurmond and Buckley ruled out the use of U.S. troops to help the South Vietnamese defense effort. So did Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Goldwater said he would support — "for moral reasons, because it was promised" — sending more military equipment to South Vietnam, "but I don't think it will do any good."

Goldwater said Congress is not to blame, that all the blame goes to former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Goldwater said "simpletons in the Pentagon headed by McNamara" issued orders "not to try to win the war."

Goldwater said that when he ran for president in 1964, both he and President Johnson knew that victory in Vietnam would require increased effort.

"My answer to that was: 'Bomb the hell out of the North,'" Goldwater related. But he said U.S. forces, because of "complete civilian ineptitude," continued to be "prohibited by order, called rules of engagement, from defeating the enemy."

Goldwater said Ford should "ask the country to get together, put all this behind us, recognize the lessons, and start over."

One lesson, he said, is that decisions to go to war and to win the war have to be made together.

Opposing arms aid, Church referred to the abandonment of an estimated $1 billion of equipment by retreating South Vietnamese soldiers.

"We have already armed North Vietnam beyond their fondest dreams," Church said. "To provide more weapons would arm them still further."

Administration Sounds Stern Warning About Wage Pressure

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration warns there will be fewer jobs and more inflation if labor unions press for higher wages than the recession-weakened economy can afford.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability noted that wage increases lagged behind price increases last year, but said attempts to recover this loss in 1975 could be counter-productive.

At the same time, Labor Secretary John T. Dunlop warned of a wave of strikes in the depressed construction industry unless labor and management show restraint at the bargaining table.

Dunlop said negotiators should "look to their longer-run interests rather than to press immediate and short-run interests to the hilt" if the industry hopes to recover from its worst downturn since the 1930s.

In its quarterly report for the President and the Congress, the wage-price council said wage increases negotiated last year, combined with the recent drop in productivity in the economy, will increase inflationary pressures in 1975 and 1976.

"There seems to be a growing recognition that the current severe recession is not the appropriate time for precedent-setting wage increases," it said.

"Rather, it is the time for bargainers, management and union alike, to evaluate the financial health of the firm or industry and the demand for its output and to weigh the importance of preserving jobs for as many workers as possible against the need for higher wages for what might be a smaller number of workers," the report added.

The council noted that while few major contracts are up for negotiation this year, it intends to monitor contract talks beginning later this month in the U.S. Postal Service.

"These talks cover 600,000 workers, and major wage hikes are likely to result in higher postal rates than those already requested, the council said.

Another critical area cited by the council is in construction, where average first-year wage increases in 1974 rose to 11 per cent, more than double the figure for 1973 despite rising unemployment.

Light east winds fanned the state as temperatures near dawn ranged from 44 degrees at Dalhart in the Panhandle up to 71 at Brownsville in the extreme south.

Forecasts called for at least partly cloudy skies across the state and scattered rain, mostly in East Texas. The Associated Press reported.

The Tall City still stands a chance of showers or thunderstorms this afternoon through Friday with a probability of 20 per cent, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal.

Accompanying the partly cloudy to cloudy skies are anticipated high temperatures in the middle 60s for both this afternoon and Friday. Tonight's low should creep into the lower 40s.

The Wednesday maximum was 65, with the overnight low reported as 32.

Senators Charge Papers Withheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee investigating American intelligence agencies has not been supplied with all documents requested from the White House, CIA and FBI, says the panel chairman.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, head of the committee, said he is sending a letter to President Ford asking him to expedite the request.

Church said the White House has supplied only "those directives which they regard as least sensitive."

Plaques, Rites To Honor WASPs For War Service

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Women's Air Service Pilots will be honored with plaques and a rite to Air Force.

To date, WASPs have yet to be included in veteran's benefits or otherwise recognized as military veterans.

They were civil service employees, trained at Randolph Field near San Antonio.

The bronze relief plaques were designed by Dallas sculptress Jewell Estes, herself a former member of the WASPs.

Rosie the Riveter and other women who tended the home fires during World War II were well known among the American public but perhaps less recognized were the women pilots who freed male pilots for combat by taking on essential aircraft ferrying tasks.

They were the nation's only long-haired military pilots who wiggled their frames into drab flying suits, heavy parachutes and took off into the wild blue yonder, in such fighting planes as the B17 Flying Fortress, B24 Liberator, P5A Mustang, P47 Thunderbolt and every other aircraft operated by the Army.

Cross Burning Lights Campus At Aldine High

HOUSTON (AP) — A cross was found burning Wednesday night on the Aldine High School campus where a youth was stabbed to death in a cafeteria line Tuesday.

M. B. Donaldson, principal, said the cross-burning obviously was linked with the death of Christopher Albert Barski, 17.

Donaldson said six or seven men dressed in white robes and hoods ignited the cross and left peacefully. He said the men were not armed.

The principal said he and three assistants found the cross burning after they had attended a rosary service for Barski. Donaldson said he and the assistant principals kicked over the cross and extinguished the fire.

Juvenile authorities were questioning a 15-year-old youth about the fatal stabbing.

Election Loser Charges Illegal Loan In Lawsuit

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Unsuccessful city council candidate Joe Rainey Manion filed a $4.4-million lawsuit against the National Bank of Commerce here today.

He alleged that the bank loaned $50,000 to the Good Government League on March 6 in violation of the Texas Election Code.

National Bank of Commerce President R. W. Calvert said the loan was legal and was guaranteed by 25 or 26 prominent community residents before the funds went to the Good Government League, which sponsored nine candidates in the city elections.

However, the suit indicated that names of those guaranteeing the loan failed to appear on the loan note. Nor were the names listed immediately on campaign reports filed with the city clerk, the suit said.

Ford Motor Co. Cuts Dividend

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Ford Motor Co. has cut its second-quarter dividend by 25 per cent, the first dividend reduction by the firm since the 1958 recession.

Ford's board of directors today declared a 60-cent dividend payable June 2 to shareholders of record on April 30, a cut from the 80 cents a share paid by the firm since the third quarter of 1973.

Bomb Threat, Fire Evacuate Hospital

LARGO, Fla. (AP) — A bomb threat and a fire that followed a few hours later forced the evacuation of about 200 patients from Largo's Suncoast Hospital, officials said early today. No patients were injured.

"We definitely suspect foul play," hospital administrator Ken Whisenand said. He said he referred to the possibility of arson.

He said the fire was in an empty area being renovated one floor above a pediatrics section housing about 60 children.

Whisenand said the threat was made by telephone at about 10:15 p.m. Wednesday.

He said the caller said a bomb would go off at midnight.

A quick search by employees and police turned up nothing, Whisenand said. But he said the hospital was emptied shortly before midnight as a precaution.

When a more intensive search failed to locate any suspected devices, the patients were taken back in, Whisenand said.

Two hours later, shortly after 3 a.m., fire was reported on the vacant top floor of a five-story wing, he said. The patients were again moved out.

Whisenand said he was sure the fire was started after the midnight search.

Chase Ends With Cyclist Dead, Officers Wounded

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — A high speed chase on the southwest side of Wichita Falls ended with a motorcyclist dying and two policemen wounded today.

Officers said Donald A. Crow, 27, of Wichita Falls was shot about 1 a.m. after grappling with two patrolmen who had sought to stop him for speeding. He died an hour and 20 minutes later at Wichita General Hospital.

The wounded policemen are David Ball, shot in the upper chest, and Larry King, struck by a bullet between his neck and left collarbone. Attendants said both were expected to survive.

Authorities said Crow had been placed on probation after being convicted of selling narcotics.

King related these details: Pursuit began on a highway toward Seymour and turned into a residential section after an officer tried and failed to halt Crow's speeding motorcycle.

The motorcycle hit a curb and Crow jumped off as Ball and King approached him from opposite directions in the middle of a block. As the three men wrestled on the ground, a shot from Crow's pistol hit Ball. King and Crow then shot one another.

Fellow officers already coming to the aid of Ball and King summoned an ambulance and escorted them to the hospital.

Federal Disaster Officials Slate Tour Of Flooded Louisiana Area

By The Associated Press
Federal disaster officials planned today to inspect flooded areas of seven Louisiana parishes for which Gov. Edwin Edwards requested emergency relief.

Kelly Nix, an aide to Edwards, said the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration officials would tour Avoyelles, Catahoula, Caldwell, Concordia, LaSalle and Franklin parishes and Ward 11 of Rapides.

Nix said that if the federal officials agreed to the emergency declaration, Louisiana could immediately provide trailers for some of the 397 families whose residences have been flooded.

Nix said that to speed relief to Louisiana flood victims, his state probably would seek an emergency declaration instead of the usual presidential disaster declaration.

Four Counties Approved
He said the state would have to pay for transporting the trailers under the emergency declaration, but they would be available a week earlier than under the presidential declaration.

Four counties in Mississippi's Delta region north of Vicksburg have been approved for emergency disaster aid, clearing the way for up to 200 trailers to be used to shelter flood victims.

The Marathon-LeTourneau plant on the Vicksburg waterfront this week laid off 480 employees and said more layoffs would occur should its flooded plant remain closed for an extended period.

"There is a possibility that we may have to close our entire plant operation—about 1,250 workers—if the river operation is out more than eight to 10 weeks," said company president Clyde Wilson.

The flooding in Louisiana and Mississippi is from backwater of Mississippi River tributaries which cannot drain properly while the big river is running high.

An estimated 800 families in the area north of Vicksburg have had to leave their homes because of backwater from the Yazoo River which has covered over three million acres.

Louisiana's backwater flooding is mainly along the Red and Black rivers, although some areas farther south have flood problems or are preparing for them.

The Mississippi River itself is contained by tall levees which Army engineers say they are watching carefully, especially at New Orleans where much of the city is below sea level.

A crest of 19.3 feet had been predicted for New Orleans on April 19 but officials said they had revised that to 19.0 feet on April 17. The river would flood at 17 feet without the levees.

Army engineers are expected to decide soon whether to open the Bonnet Carre spillway which connects the river upstream from New Orleans with Lake Pontchartrain.

At Vicksburg, where the river would flood at 43 feet without the levees, a crest prediction of 50.6 for Saturday was revised to 50.5 for Friday.

"I think it's encouraging," said John Anderson of the Army engineers. "That tenth may be just a tenth below somebody's floor."

However, a National Weather Service spokesman said that after the crest passes Vicksburg, drainage of water from the Yazoo basin will be slow.

Thunderstorms Trigger Torrential Rains, Flash Flooding Over Deep South

By The Associated Press
Thunderstorms cracked across the Deep South today, triggering torrential rains and flash flooding.

A tornado spun down the main street of Malone, Fla., late Wednesday night. Some homes were damaged but no injuries were reported in the town of 667 persons. Sections of Alabama, Georgia and Florida remained under a tornado watch in the predawn hours.

More than 10 inches of rain since midafternoon Wednesday swamped the southeastern Alabama city of Enterprise. Numerous roads in the area were closed by flood waters. Dothan, southeast of Enterprise, was hit by 5 inches of rain, more than half of it falling during the night.

Similarly heavy rains drenched portions of Mississippi Wednesday. Four-inch rains doused Evergreen in only three hours. Local flash flooding plagued Jackson and Raymond. Urban flooding developed in sections of Louisiana as well.

Heavy rains in recent weeks already had many Southern rivers and streams at or over their banks before the latest downpours. An estimated 800 families in the area north of Vicksburg, Miss., have had to leave their homes because of backwater from the Yazoo River which has covered more than three million acres.

Far to the north, light snow lingered in the northern Rockies and Plains where preparations were under way to begin an emergency airlift of feed to save hundreds of cattle stranded in deep snow.

Sixty members of the Montana National Guard were mobilized to make the feed drops in north-central counties of the state where up to 2 feet of snow fell and was whipped into huge drifts earlier this week.

Heavy snow piled into southeastern South Dakota again Wednesday. Seven inches dropped into Mitchell, and high-altitude areas in the Southwest.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 9 at Lewistown, Mont., to 78 at Key West, Fla.

Some other reports: Anchorage 37 cloudy, Atlanta 58 rain and fog, Boston 32 clear, Buffalo 29 partly cloudy, Chicago 33 cloudy, Cincinnati 43 partly cloudy, Cleveland 34 cloudy, Dallas 62 cloudy, Denver 38 cloudy, Detroit 32 cloudy, Indianapolis 37 partly cloudy.

AT NEWS CONFERENCE — Basketball star Bill Walton, left, and Jack and Miki Scott talk at a press conference at Glide Memorial Church Wednesday in San Francisco. Jack Scott and his wife have been sought for questioning in the Patricia Hearst case. (AP Wirephoto.)

Another Radical Sports Figure Won't Answer Questions About Hearst Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Phillip K. Shinnick, the latest radical sports figure slated to be quizzed in the Patricia Hearst case, will decline to answer the questions of a federal grand jury, his attorney says.

The stand is the one advocated by his friends Jack Scott and Bill Walton.

Shinnick's session with the grand jury was scheduled for today. Scott and his wife, Miki, emerged Wednesday from hiding. With Walton at their side, they told newsmen they would not answer questions about the Hearst case.

They said the U.S. government is "morally bankrupt" and added, "We believe a position of total noncollaboration with this government is our moral responsibility."

Walton, of the Portland Trailblazers of the National Basketball Association, said he was sorry he had spoken with the FBI and "you can rest assured that I will never talk to the enemy again."

James Larson, Shinnick's lawyer, said the onetime Olympic long jumper "had already decided that he's not going to answer any questions."

Mrs. Scott said she and her husband went into hiding because they had fears of being "gunned down by some trigger-happy agent."

The Scotts dropped from the only members of the terrorist group still at large.

The Scotts did not mention the Pennsylvania farmhouse they reportedly rented last summer — a spot pinpointed as a possible hideout of the fugitive heiress.

"Our actions of the past year are completely defensible," said Mrs. Scott. "If we somehow acted to avert bloodshed and killing, we certainly find nothing to apologize for or be ashamed of."

"We have chosen to surface so the harassment of our loved ones will cease," she said, referring to grand jury subpoenas of friends such as Shinnick and of Scott's parents. His father and mother, John and Louise Scott of Las Vegas, resisted testifying and have been excused by the Hearst grand jury.

Scott, 33, a former athletic director of Oberlin College in Ohio, has been known for his criticism of the values motivating professional athletes. Walton, 22, shared many of Scott's views.

"I would like to reiterate my solidarity with Micki and Jack Scott and also to urge the people of the world to stand with us in our rejection of the United States government," said Walton.

Airport Planning Meeting Held Here

Airport needs of Midland, Ector, Glasscock, Upton and Winkler counties were discussed at a Texas Airport System joint planning conference held here Wednesday.

Representatives of the Texas Aeronautics Commission were on hand to receive recommendations for a statewide airport planning program.

The conference examined general aviation airports in relation to community and county development goals.

The commission representatives said Midland Air Park and Ector County Airport will be shown in the Texas plan as basic general facilities with Midland Regional Air Terminal carrying the jet traffic for several years to come.

Wilson Banks, Midland's director of aviation, reported on progress of improvements at Terminal. He said runway improvements amount to approximately $8 million.

Banks said engineering studies are under way to determine needs at Air Park and expansion of the Terminal building and parking facilities.

Ken Esmond, consulting engineer for the Ector County facility, said continued improvements at the Odessa-based airport are planned with business jet capability a priority for future growth.

Banks said jet traffic at Air Park is not being considered. He said Terminal "will be able to handle all of the jet traffic for several years to come."

The aviation planning representatives said both state and federal help will be offered at every opportunity to upgrade air facilities in the five-county area.

Girl Scouts Visit Mexico After 5 Years Preparation

"Buenos dias" and "gracias" were as words frequently used by Midland Girl Scout Troop 138 members on their recent trip to the Cabana in Cuernavaca, Mexico. The trip was a culmination of five years of planning and preparation.

The Cabana is an international house sponsored by the World Association of Girl Scouts and Girl Guides. Attending during the troop's stay were girls from Michigan, New York State, six girls from 11 different parts of Mexico who spoke almost no English and two girls from Panama.

While at the Cabana, the girls participated in an ongoing service project at Gualupita Parish Church, where between 600 and 700 children come each week for crafts and games. Troop 138 took a broken mirror project for crafts, with all 250 pieces arriving intact.

A trip into Cuernavaca for shopping and a look at the Museum with its famous Diego Rivera mural was a highlight one day. On another day, the girls and their leaders went to Tepoztlan, an Indian village, for more sightseeing and shopping.

The troop was in Taxco on Good Friday to see the procession of penitence, the only place in Mexico where this ceremony is carried out. During the crush of people immediately following the procession, some of the girls heard a woman tell her granddaughter, "We will depend on the Girl Scouts to get us through." After visiting with the woman a few minutes, one of the Scouts asked, "Aren't you Helen Hayes?" She said she was.

The group also learned songs and games from Hetti Smith of England, who compiled the "Diamond Jubilee Songbook" for the United Kingdom Girl Guides and directed the Guides when they made three records for the British Broadcasting Corporation.

One whole building of the many at the Cabana was devoted to different crafts of Mexico that the girls might work on at any time. A swimming pool, volleyball tournaments, evening programs and a fiesta complete with mariachis and pinatas also kept the girls busy.

Girl Scout Troop 138 will have an exhibit at the Girl Scout Fair scheduled April 26 at the Midland County Exhibit Building. All Girl Scouts over the age of 14 are eligible to participate.

Diane Hartman Honored At Party

Diane Hartman, graduating senior at Lee High School, was the honoree at a recent Coke party held in the home of Mrs. Roy Williamson, 6 Chatham Court.

The co-hostesses were Mrs. Williamson's daughter, Jana, and Mrs. Robert Ward and Mrs. Tim Cloyd.

The serving table was covered with a red and white checked gingham cloth and was centered with a white tree branch decorated with gingham checked flowers, diplomas, a white owl and mortar board.

A special guest was the mother of the honoree, Mrs. Jim Hartman. Miss Hartman received a hostess gift. She plans to attend The University of Texas-Austin.

Program Given On House Plants

Juanita Williams of Midland Garden Center presented a program on house plants for a meeting Monday of the Dandy Lions, auxiliary to the Southside Lions Club. The meeting was held in the Southside Lions Club building.

A business session was conducted by Mrs. Leo Scoggin. Plans were made for the District 2A-1 Lions Convention to be held in Midland May 2-3. The group will decorate for the 12 noon luncheon May 3.

Mrs. Bill Anderson was introduced as a new member. Hostess to the meeting was Mrs. C. E. McCain.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

Stepson Says Advice Wrong

DEAR ABBY: I read your column all the time and usually agree with you, but the answer you gave the mother who had a running battle with her teenage children because they wouldn't keep their rooms picked up is wrong. Dead wrong!

I am a 16-year-old boy who came to live with my father and stepmother last summer. Before I came here, I had to jump from my door to the bed (if I could see it). Now, my room is so neat and orderly, it looks like the operating rooms of a hospital.

I fought it as long as I could, but my stomach and my stepmother finally won. I got no breakfast until my bed was made. She put a clothes basket in my closet, and nothing got laundered unless it was in that basket. Everything left on the floor went into a "mess box" in the garage, and I had to go there to retrieve it, which was a lot of trouble. On my day for the car, unless my room was vacuumed, no keys!

I'm glad my stepmother didn't do what you advised that other mother to do ("Say no more, keep their doors closed, and enter their rooms only to change the beds, and raise it once a week. When they get tired of living in that mess, they'll clean it up. Until then, don't let them aggravate you. It's not worth it.")

Want to know something, Abby? I've come to like it this way. I can take my friends into my room now.

PROUD OF ROOM AND WELL-FED

DEAR ABBY: Since your stepmother's formula worked with you, it's worth recommending. Thank her for hatching the idea, and thank you for sharing it.

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that widows aren't asked over to their sisters' homes for a visit now and then? Are they afraid we might steal their husbands?

Nonsense! I don't want anyone's husband. But I notice that when someone in the family has a birthday or a shower, I am first on the list. I am called and asked to please pick up this or that because "You have the time."

It would be so nice to be invited over just once for a visit (I don't mean for dinner) on a Sunday or an evening just because someone wanted my company.

I never thought this could happen to me, but it did. Then my sister said: "If anything happens to my husband, I'll move in with you."

I thought: "NEVER!"
ANOTHER WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: If she says it again, why don't you say it aloud? It would do you a lot of good to say it. And her, to hear it.

First Baby Watched Carefully Second Left To Eat Dust Balls

During his first two years of life, your baby becomes adept at hundreds of miraculous activities. And the beautiful fact of the matter is that you are there to watch.

Let's face it, if you don't spend the greater part of the day watching, he will engage in hundreds of not-so-miraculous activities, like stuffing cigarette butts up his nose, teething on electric cords, and drinking a whole bottle of Johnson's baby oil.

Jelly side down

By NANCY STAHL
My first child's baby book runs to two volumes. In addition to being a meticulous, moment-by-moment chronicle of every event in her first two years of life, between the pages of the book are pressed wisps of hair, fingernail parings, and her umbilical cord.

Fortunately, by the time your second baby becomes mobile, the firstborn is so sobbingly eager to flink on him that you can safely go to the bathroom alone, knowing full well that if the second one does anything remotely resembling misbehavior, you'll hear about it immediately.

And instead of spending hours on your hands and knees, wiggling your fingers seductively at him and crooning "Come on, dumpling. Just an itty bitty step for Mummy," a second baby is often simply left to lie on the floor and eat dust balls.

Any mother with a grain of sense is not nearly so eager for number two to crawl, walk, and talk, once she realizes how much simpler it is when they don't. Anyone constantly pleading with a two-year-old to sit down and keep quiet is most unlikely to feel compelled to encourage her brother to walk and talk.

My second child's baby book contains nothing but a newspaper clipping. It's not even his birth announcement; it's a recipe for banana cream pie.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Are You Planning To Buy A Puppy?

Dear Heloise:

When our new puppy came to live with us, she never cried during the night from the first. The gravy. It works.

I give credit for this to the fact that the cardboard box which was her bed was lined with an old baby blanket and placed beside the refrigerator. I'm sure the warmth and the hum of the refrigerator kept her happy.

And this might make you laugh, but if you have a frisky puppy under your feet when you're trying to work, just try this and see if he doesn't have a ball.

Cut the elastic from an old pair of your husband's underwear, slip it under the leg of the table or other heavy piece of furniture and let the puppy get its own exercise.

"Princess" tugs and lets snap, chases it, snarls, and starts all over again. And, best of all, I can watch and laugh at her and still get my work done without having to stop and roll a ball or other toy.

Sassy

My secretary tried putting their new puppy by the deep freeze in the garage and never heard a whimper all night.

Beats hunting up an old clock to put in the bed with your new pet to keep him quiet.

LETTERS OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

I'm not too fat, I'm just too short for all the weight I'm carrying around.

Mrs. Slender

Dear Heloise:

Here is a hint for you. Of course, maybe you already know this.

When making stew, and require a richer, browner color, add a bit of instant coffee to

Sophie McQuitty

You can bet I rushed to my kitchen to try this little hint! And my, is it great! I fixed a stew the other night and it was delicious.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I do a good deal of sewing and consequently a good deal of pressing, and I found that I often wanted my scissors close by.

I took an old type drapery hook and inverted it in the end of the ironing board and now I have the scissors whenever I need them.

Disgruntled Runner

Steve Prefontaine perhaps is the best amateur distance runner in the United States.

"To hell with love of country," he is quoted as saying at Denver, Colo., recently.

He said he is fed up with the treatment of American athletes and that he would change his citizenship if given the chance.

If he really feels this way about it, the opportunity to change his citizenship perhaps could be arranged.

"I compete for myself," Prefontaine said.

He is quoted as saying at Denver, Colo., recently.

He said he is fed up with the treatment of American athletes and that he would change his citizenship if given the chance.

Prefontaine, a 1974 graduate of the University of Oregon, was spouting off about the plight of amateur athletes in the United States, who, he said, are at a financial disadvantage to those in the rest of the world.

We have no idea what he wants or expects from his homeland, but he is going about trying to improve the situation in a most peculiar manner.

doubt if he scored a single point for his cause with his "to hell with love of country" declaration.

Many persons may wish the same for him.

He is quoted further as saying that he is not bitter — just "outraged."

He says American athletes, particularly distance runners, are at a big disadvantage against the rest of the world.

At the same time he has enjoyed the advantages of an excellent educational system in a great nation which has guaranteed his individual freedom.

It wouldn't be so bad if the track star's feelings and opinions affected only him.

Meanwhile, he says that being a success in business and making some money are the most important aspects of his life.

So, availing himself of the opportunities offered under America's free enterprise system, he is opening a bar and restaurant in Eugene, Ore., his home city.

Hopefully, he yet will realize that the United States isn't so bad, after all.

'Don't Be Stampeded'

Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. and officials of several other West Texas cities Monday in Austin cautioned the House State Affairs Committee against creating a state utilities committee.

The testimony they presented was expert in every detail, based on a wealth of experience in dealing with utility firms at the local level.

"Don't let Texas be stampeded into giving up a broad area of local control," Angelo said.

The committee and the legislature would do well to heed the testimony of the West Texans.

INSIDE REPORT

Ethnic Foreign Policymaking Reviewed

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Even while publicly implying the Democratic Congress is to blame for catastrophe in Vietnam, President Ford has been privately negotiating with individual Congressmen — unsuccessfully, so far — in an attempt to control a rising menace: ethnic foreign policymaking.

Specifically, Mr. Ford sought but did not find a formula that would lead to Congress repealing its ban on military aid to Turkey, which if continued threatens new reverses abroad for the U.S. rivalling Vietnam.

This explains genuine alarm inside the administration that numerically small but politically powerful ethnic groups are now influencing foreign policy as they long have been a force in domestic decision-making.

Nowhere has the danger been clearer than in the ban on Turkish aid, pushed through Congress by an alliance of the small, potent Greek lobby and the large, potent Israeli lobby.

To deal with it, Mr. Ford on March 21 found himself personally negotiating with the three liberal Democratic Congressmen who lead the Greek-Israeli alliance.

as the price for permitting resumption of aid.

In the background of the President's secret negotiations with them is the disaster awaiting the U.S. within one month when Turkey begins closing down highly sensitive American bases along the Turkish-Soviet border.

The first bases earmarked for closing are three or four "listening posts" (among a total of at least 30 U.S. installations in Turkey). These posts conduct intelligence operations, mostly electronic, against the Soviet Union — so secret that even the host country, Turkey, has no access to the information obtained.

With the formation of a new Turkish government after months of a caretaker regime, the U.S. has now been handed a list of the bases that Prime Minister Suleyman Demirel intends to close down if the congressional ban on aid is not lifted.

That was the setting for Mr. Ford's personal effort with Rostenhal, Brademas and Sarbanes. His message: the moment Americans are evicted from a Turkish base in retaliation for cutting off aid,

Deadly Business

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Congress set aside $975 million in 1973 to make the nation's highways safer, but the effort has been a "dismal" failure.

This is the conclusion of the Center for Auto Safety, founded by Ralph Nader, which has just concluded a study of the highway safety program.

In a report that hasn't yet been released to the public, the center uses words like "misleading," "unwise" and "listless" to describe the program.

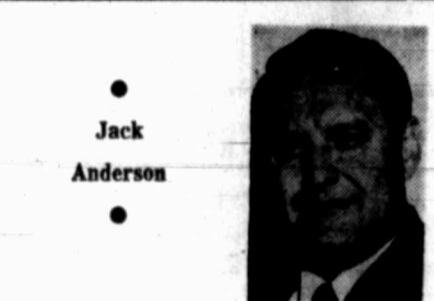

This sharply contradicts the Polyanna picture which the Federal Highway Administration gave Congress in February of how the $975 million is being used. The center dismissed this progress report as "camouflage."

The $975 million was supposed to eliminate dangerous rail crossings, to transform "high hazard" stretches of roads, to tear down roadside obstacles, to erect better signs on poorly marked roads and to improve smaller thoroughfares.

The program was supposed to reach virtually every street in America except interstate highways and back-country car paths.

According to the Center for Auto Safety, however, here is what really has happened:

Contrary to the Federal Highway Administration's claim that "railroad-highway crossing surveys... are completed or underway in all states," the center found two states hadn't even started the surveys and 17 states hadn't initiated a single project "to remedy their rail crossing situation." Indeed, only $12 million of the apportioned $97 million had been obligated," the study charged.

Only $24.5 million of the $122 million set aside to improve the "high hazard" stretches has been spent. Adds the study "Six months after the availability of the federal aid funds, 34 states had not yet obligated any funds for this program."

The nation's roadways are lined with protruding trees, dangerous banks, sudden drops, steep ditches and other hazards. Yet of $97.5 million available to remove these obstacles, "only $10 million had been obligated by Jan. 31, 1975." One reason, alleges the report, was that the federal government's instructions to the states were "ambiguous, misleading and incomplete."

"Only 31 safety construction projects" in the safer roads demonstration program had been started by the end of the program's first fiscal year, and these were concentrated in just three states, according to the study.

Under this program, another $150 million was provided to make the back roads, with their hairpin turns and soft shoulders, a little safer. But as of Jan. 31, the center found that only $13.8 million had been obligated.

The center assigned most of the blame for the lagging highway improvements to "the generally unsatisfac-

KEVIN P. PHILLIPS

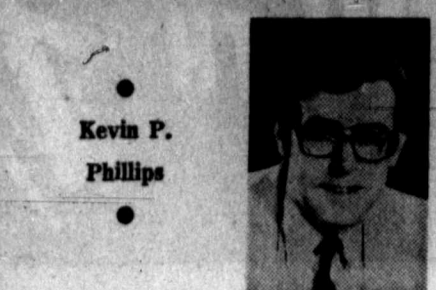

Schlesinger's Balkan Analogy Discussed

WASHINGTON (KFS) — Defense Secretary James Schlesinger has suggested a disturbing and plausible parallel. In a recent public television interview, he said: "The Middle East today is somewhat akin to the Balkans before World War I. It is a tinder box."

The unfortunate thing about the comparison is the retrospective inexorability with which the various Balkan territorial fixations, assassinations and extremist movements led to war. It may be happening again.

Early 20th Century Balkan volatility flowed from the disintegration of the old regime — the Turkish Empire — and the weakness of relatively new independent states like Serbia, Bulgaria and Rumania. In a sense, today's Middle East is a kindred legacy of the final collapse of the Turkish Empire, because Palestine, Iraq, Jordan, Lebanon and Syria all trace their political origins to the 1918-1923 period.

Much of what's happening in the Middle East truly does bear resemblance to the pre-World War I Balkans. In 1975, the leader assassinated was King Faisal of Saudi Arabia. Those killed in gaslight era Eastern Europe included the Prime Minister of Bulgaria, King Alexander of Serbia and the fateful Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria.

Kevin P. Phillips

terrorist groups are the PLO (Palestine Liberation Organization) and "Black September"; 80 years ago, they were called IMRO (Internal Macedonian Revolutionary Organization) and "Black Hand" (Serbia's "Unity or Death" movement).

From 1875 to 1914, the "Eastern Question" built towards larger conflict. Diplomats called the area "The powder keg of Europe." The two Balkan wars of 1912-1913 increased many of the tensions that pushed Russia, Serbia and Austria-Hungary to combat after the June, 1914 assassination of Franz Ferdinand in Sarajevo.

British historian Allen Palmer, in his chronicle of Eastern Europe, "The Lands Between," noted that "the Balkan crisis of 1912-1913 was imposed upon Europe by peoples who had reached political maturity only in the previous generation. This was, in many ways, a disturbing portent." It is equally disturbing that such political immaturity now characterizes the Arab states, yet they may have the same capacity to drag the great powers into war that plots by the Serbian "Black Hand" had in 1914.

Secretary Schlesinger makes a different point. He says that the Middle East is a "tinder box" like the pre-World War I Balkans because of the temptation it dangies in front of the superpowers — "it is an area in which the tendency to play with the tensions and strains for marginal advantages is very great, and therefore the situation is explosive, or potentially explosive."

In the years before 1914, Russia was up to her neck in Balkan intrigue, openly providing guns and generals to Serbia. Sixty years later, Russia is again playing with tensions and strains — this time arming Syria instead of Serbia.

Hardly more reticent, the United States also has pumped in its share of armaments and intrigue. Whether we are fated to play the hapless Austro-Hungarian Empire in a Middle Eastern rerun of the "Guns of August," 1914 remains doubtful, but apparently our scholarly secretary of Defense has considered the analogy. It would be interesting to know his private thoughts on the possibility of a latter-day Sarajevo triggering a third world war.

It Happened Here—

Thirty-Five Years Ago (Apr. 10, 1940): El Paso Goodwill Trippers, 35 strong, "invaded" Midland on an overnight visit.

More than 100 persons had registered for the annual Presbyterian meeting of El Paso Presbytery in the First Presbyterian Church.

L. C. Link was elected president of the board of education of the Midland Independent School District.

The Midland Cowboys dropped a 19-4 exhibition baseball game to the El Paso Texans of the Arizona-Texas League.

Twenty-Five Years Ago (Apr. 10, 1950): Justice of the Peace Joseph A. Seymour, fined a Midland man $1 and costs for failure to have a driver's license and for driving a vehicle without headlights.

THE BIBLE

Can you quote it?

By LAVINA ROSS FOWLER

- 1. All water is holy water. Perhaps not in just the sense that some denominations feel about it, but it would not take long for any of us to feel pretty "unholy" without it. It is an important part of the Eucharist or Holy Communion. What does 1 John 5 say on this subject?
2. "I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain..." Revelation 21:6
3. In which miracle did Jesus use water? John 2.

Plans Being Made To Airlift Orphans Out Of Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Plans are being made to fly hundreds of Cambodian orphans to the United States and Australia amid vehement criticism from American diplomats that the Indochina baby-lifts are a "phony emotional issue."

World Vision, a U.S. relief agency, is planning to send more than 200 children to families waiting for them in the United States. Two free-lance American journalists, Denis Cameron and Lee Rudakewych, are trying to organize an airlift of at least 350 orphans to Australia.

So far only 22 children have left.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman stressed that the only part it is going to play is to provide transportation out of the country for the journalists' baby-lift. He said the embassy had not intervened with the Cambodian government for permission to evacuate the orphans.

Reliable U.S. sources said the embassy agreed to help Cameron and Rudakewych only after explicit instructions from Washington.

"It's a phony issue to take people's minds off the real events here," one U.S. diplomat said. "The American people have to get some phony emotional issue. That was the same with the POWs and now they have manufactured the orphan issue."

This attitude was shared by other Western officials here.

Several key U.S. Embassy officials regard the baby-lifts from Saigon and Phnom Penh as an attempt to save American feelings of guilt over Indochina and to swing American public opinion behind the Ford administration's efforts to continue military aid to the area.

Minister of Refugees Kong Orn said the cabinet had recently passed a special measure allowing the orphans to depart without the usual formalities.

"The only solution is to let them go," he said. "We favor this evacuation to countries like the United States, Canada, Australia or Europe. These countries can take care of them."

Cameron and Rudakewych hope to get their operation moving this weekend.

They said they have 350 children aged "from zero to 14" ready to leave and that the Embassy has agreed to fly them to another Asian capital — as yet not determined — where Australian aircraft will pick them up.

Search Continues For 3 Missing Fort Worth Girls

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A search will be made beneath bridges in two South Texas counties Sunday for the bodies of three Fort Worth girls, private investigator Jon Swaim said.

Swaim said he received information from an unnamed source that the three girls, missing more than three months, have been killed and their bodies hidden beneath a bridge somewhere near Port Lavaca.

Port Lavaca police already have searched beneath the bridges once this year. Fort Worth police said they received similar information in February and notified Port Lavaca officers, who checked bridges and river banks without finding any trace of the three.

Swaim said water beneath the bridges in February was "two or three feet deep" and made it difficult to find anything. The water level is supposed to be lower now.

"I'd say that we've got one of two things," Swaim said. "Either the girls have met with foul play and are down there, or somebody has been killed and someone up here wants them found."

The girls—Rachel Trlica, 17, Renee Wilson, 14, and Julie Ann Moseley, 9—disappeared Dec. 23 after leaving for a shopping trip at Seminary South shopping center on Fort Worth's south side.

Swaim was hired by the girls' families after police failed to find them. He would not say how he received his information about Port Lavaca.

The search will be conducted by several hundred people Sunday instead of a week day because of the problems of getting searchers together, he said.

Young Guru Drops From Public View

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Guru Maharaj Ji, the 17-year-old Indian religious leader, has dropped out of sight.

The guru had threatened to oust his mother from the Divine Light Mission, the spiritual movement founded by his father in 1961. She had renounced him and accused him of being a playboy.

Devotees at his Denver, Colo., headquarters insist he arrived in Bombay two days ago to begin a campaign to take control of the Indian operations of the spiritual movement.

But inquiries in New Delhi, Bombay and Calcutta on the guru's whereabouts turned up nothing.

Bicentennial Exhibit On Way To Warsaw

WASHINGTON, D.C. — After setting attendance records and winning critical acclaim during its premiere show in Paris, the Bicentennial exhibit "The World of Franklin and Jefferson" is on its way to Warsaw, Poland, where it will open May 17.

The American Revolution Bicentennial Administration is presenting the exhibition in cooperation with the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, with the assistance of a grant from IBM Corp. The exhibit was created by Charles Eames and Ray Eames, American designers.

"The World of Franklin and Jefferson" spans 120 years of American history (1706-1826).

The American Embassy in Paris reported final attendance figures were in excess of 50,000 or 1,000 per day during 51 days the exhibit was open to the public. Chief Conservator Reynaud Arnold said this was the largest attendance recorded in a French national museum for a foreign show.

The exhibit will remain at the National Museum in Warsaw until July 9 and then will show at the British Museum in London from Sept. 15 to Nov. 15.

It will make its American debut at the Metropolitan Museum of Art from March 1 to May 1976. Following that, it will show at the Art Institute of Chicago from July 1 to Sept. 1 and then at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art from Nov. 1 to Dec. 31.

Midland County Vehicle License Sales Top 1974

Sale of Midland County vehicle license tags is increasing over last year's receipts by approximately 5 per cent, according to data released this week by the Midland County tax assessor-collector's office.

Through mid-week, the tax office has taken in $1,383,335.70 in revenue on tag sales, said Frances Shuffield, chief deputy.

The plates went on sale Feb. 3. Since then, approximately 53,000 sets of plates, including 37,000 passenger car tags, have been sold.

She said the volume is running a consistent 3,000 units ahead of last year's comparable-time sales.

She projects a 65,000-plus total sale of 1975 tags. Sale of 1974 tags totaled 62,001.

Of the revenue from those sales, $1,306,002.77 went to the Texas Highway Department and $175,000 plus fees was routed to the county's road and bridge department.

Revenue from the sale of plates this year may reach $1.5 million.

Graham Offers Senate Prayer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a prayer opening a session of the Senate, evangelist Billy Graham said: "Forgive us if we have compromised our ideals and shut our eyes to the dangers abroad and the common good of all the American people."

Quoting from the Bible on Wednesday and saying that legislators are "ministers of God for good," Graham said: "Where there is division, bring accord; and where there is indifference, bring concern. May this nation get moving again in Thy direction. Help us to remember the words: 'Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto thee.'"

Miller, Nicklaus Debate Adjourns To Masters Course

Player Questions Major Tourney Performances

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — A Nicklaus, who has 14 major titles and 12 if you throw out the challenge of golf's newest wonder boy, Johnny Miller, and prepared for another faceoff with Jack Nicklaus today in the 30th Masters Tournament.

"I could win this tournament," the 38-year-old South African said as if to quell speculation that the season's first major championship shapes up as a Nicklaus-Miller shootout at Augusta National.

"If you have a favorite charity, I will bet you $500 I was 30 strokes better than Miller—maybe as much as 40—in the four majors last year," Player said. "I feel that the best judge of a player is how he does in the four big championships. That's how history will judge us all."

Player A Winner

The informal comment in the players' dining room after Wednesday's final day of practice sent researchers thumbing through the record books and, sure enough, Player would have won his bet.

Based on performances in the U. S. and British Opens, the Masters and PGA, which represent the Grand Slam, the intense part-time farmer from Johannesburg was 39 strokes better than Miller, six better than Nicklaus.

"Actually, I would have preferred Player's record over that of Miller last year because Gary won two majors," Nicklaus said. "But you must remember that Miller was just trying to establish himself on the tour, and he did."

Tops Money

Miller won eight U. S. tour titles and a ninth in Japan, leading the money winning list with $353,021 and gaining Player of the Year honors. Besides the Masters, Player won the British Open and the Danny Thomas tournament at Memphis.

Rangers Stumble Again

Rube Mistakes Costly Against Minnesota Twins

By The Associated Press

The Texas Rangers, Manager Billy Martin's pick to dethrone the Oakland A's as baseball champions of the American League West, are going about it in strange ways...like rally-killing baserunning, costly errors and, most of all, losing.

The Rangers made it two batters in a row when they bowed to the Minnesota Twins 3-2 Wednesday night.

Minnesota capitalized on two Texas throwing errors and Tony Oliva's second home run in as many games in edging the Rangers, 3-2.

Eric Soderholm's sacrifice fly in the second inning and Oliva's homer in the fourth gave Minnesota a 2-0 lead. The Twins scored what proved to be the winning run in the sixth. Soderholm singled with two out, stole

Scott gave the Brewers the lead in the third inning with a two-run single off loser Bill Lee and Milwaukee raked Lee for three more runs in the fourth on Sixto Lezcano's doubles, singles by Darrell Porter, Pedro Garcia and Yount, and Bob Coluccio's sacrifice fly.

Yount drove in another run with a sacrifice fly in the sixth. Meanwhile, Pete Broberg allowed only four hits in his first start for Milwaukee until he trilled in the seventh.

M-Cub Grad, Burriss, Gets Starting Chance

Midland Cub fans were disappointed when Ray Burriss, the 6-4 righthander, jumped from the Texas League to the National League in one giant stride and then wound up in the bullpen for two years.

However, all is forgiven. Ray is getting his chance in the starting rotation for the pitching-troubled Chicago Cubs this season and he's ready to make the most of it.

"I hung in there and now I'm getting my chance," says the 24-year-old Southeast Oklahoma State product.

Ray signed with Chicago fresh out of college, was sent to the rookie league and showed so much that pitching coach Fred Martin recommended bringing him up to Midland right away.

Burriss responded with a 7-5 record for two months. If he had a weakness, it was a tendency to tire in the late innings after going through opposing batter batting orders like the grim reaper for five or six innings.

Burriss' work in the Fall Instructional League earned him a look in the spring from the Chicago Cubs and all he did was wind up as the top rookie in spring training with a spot on the big club.

His two years in the bullpen were not without their moments, but Ray really didn't make it big as a reliever. However, the big righthander figures the apprenticeship as a fireman may have helped prepare him for a starting role.

"I have better control of my breaking pitches, but the variety of pitches I throw now is the key," he said.

Battle Scene

By Ted Battles

Everybody talks about the Cubs' pitching questionmarks, but Burriss is thinking positive. "We're going to hold our end. It's up to the offense to get us some runs."

Burriss was back in the Fall Instructional League last year using it as an opportunity to "evaluate himself."

During the off-season he has lifted weights and done a lot of endurance running.

"It has paid off," he says. "In the late innings I still have the good sinker and fast ball."

Burriss plans to continue his running, a mile or two every day when he isn't pitching and the usual sprints.

"Endurance running is important for the legs so that you can get that good push off the mound. That's what pitching is all about. It also puts more velocity on my fast ball and I can throw it longer."

Burriss has another reason for wanting to develop his durability. "I don't like the idea of a reliever losing or winning a game for me. I want to be in position to do it myself."

As a major league now who can look back on his Texas League days, Burriss says the big difference between the two is simple but basic, "Money!"

Nevil Seeks 3rd Straight Magnolia

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — Dwight Nevil says he hasn't been playing well but is favored to win his third straight championship in the $35,000 Magnolia Classic golf tournament.

The Magnolia Classic, a pro satellite event, was scheduled to open today at the Hattiesburg Country Club, although weather forecasters reported a 70 per cent chance of rain.

Nevil's opponents for the $7,000 first prize include 1972 champion Mike Morley and 1971 winner Roy Pace.

Marvin Barnes says he's a seasoned pro now, although he was named the American Basketball Association's Rookie of the Year today.

"There was a time when I was just playing for myself," Barnes said Wednesday after leading the Spirits of St. Louis to a convincing 115-97 playoff victory over the New York Nets, evening their best-of-seven playoff series at 1-1.

"Now I feel as if I'm a season pro. A little time and a little experience has changed me," Barnes said. "Now I'm playing for the coach, the team, the owners, the people in St. Louis and me."

The difference was devastating to New York.

Barnes put on a scoring display while another St. Louis rookie, Maurice Lucas, demonstrated how defense should be played. Barnes finished with 35 points, high for the game, while Barnes' hero, the Nets' Julius Erving, was held to just six points by Lucas.

Lucas, who skipped his senior year at Marquette to sign with St. Louis, also sparked on the boards, grabbing 21 rebounds, including 12 in the second period when New York got a total of four rebounds.

"It's a hell of a thing when one guy can out-rebound a whole club," Nets Coach Kevin Loughery said.

Barnes scored 14 points, including 12 in a row, as the Spirits exploded to a 22-12 lead, then continued to increase their advantage until 1:09 remained in the third period when they led by 29 points, 87-59. It was the Spirits' first victory over New York in 13 games this season.

"It was the worst game they've played in the two years I've been here," Loughery said of his team.

In the only other ABA playoff game Wednesday, rookie Moses Malone scored 30 points and hauled down 33 rebounds, lifting the Utah Stars over the Denver Nuggets 122-109. Denver leads the best-of-seven series 2-1 with the fourth game set for Salt Lake City Friday.

Thousands Of Students Now Utilize College Shortcut

By WILLIAM G. WILLIAMS
HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Thousands of students across the country are cashing in on what they've learned in life for college credit, and it's saving them class time and tuition money.

money, take the test, pray for a good grade and presto: months of sitting in a classroom and paying for room, board and tuition are nipped.

She took one test at a cost of $40 and qualified for the junior class at Penn State University's Capitol Campus here. As a part-time student she'll graduate next year.

William Calder is 59 and a professional civil engineer with the state's Public Utility Commission. He had two years of college extension work in engineering before the depression forced him to drop his studies in the 1930s. He qualified for an engineering license through experience and self-education.

"We began in 1967 with some 1,400 candidates taking 4,400 tests at 50 centers," Arbolino said.

Other colleges accept the general test only as part of the proof of qualification and some disregard it entirely. They insist that candidates take the other type — subjective tests which cover individual subjects and cost $20 apiece.

The College Entrance Examination Board said the cost to attend a public college will rise 12 per cent nationally in the 1975-76 academic year. Private schools will go up about 8 per cent.

anyone. We encourage the program for the more mature students, usually those over 24. However, some right out of high school have taken the tests," said Mrs. Gundel. "Others may be people just out of military service, those who left college and now want to return or mothers whose children are grown."

MC Offers Full Scholarship For High-Ranking Graduates

Free tuition, free books and paid fees at Midland College await all high school students within a 150-mile radius of the Tall City who graduate in the upper 5 per cent of their respective classes.

The new scholarship, announced today by college president Dr. Al G. Langford, is thought to be unique to Midland College.

requirement and reside in a town not served by a local college or university. The scholarship will be recurring for the full two years of the community college curriculum if the student maintains minimum scholastic achievement.

Calder doesn't plan to change professions. Going to school nights and Saturdays means he'll finish in about three years. He said it keeps his children interested in education.

From July through December 1974 more than 154,000 tests were given to almost 55,000 people.

The tests are designed for those with little or no college experience. Some, with no formal education beyond high school, have gained credit for two years of college and gone on campus for the first time as juniors.

The average resident student's over-all costs will be $3,594 for the nine-month school year. That figure is based on an average of $2,411 for students at public colleges to an average of $4,391 for those at private colleges.

Dogs Slated To Compete Sunday In Own Art Show

By COLEMAN T. MOBLEY
ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP) — Some people have long contended that modern art has gone to the dogs. Now they have proof.

would never come to the art gallery came to see that mitten." Bina said. "I think it's just great and lots of fun. Some art does happen by accident anyway and that mitten was charming but, no doubt, frustrating to those in the weaving arts."

"I feel this is an outstanding program that will help us recruit top notch talent to our college and community," Langford said.

Calder has a son who is a freshman at Grove City College and four other children in high school.

But its growth in the last two years has been dramatic, said Jack Arbolino, head of the program for the College Entrance Examination Board, a private, nonprofit firm headquartered in New York.

Ruling Changed In Dallas Jail Inmate's Death

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas County Medical Examiner's Office has changed the ruling on the death of a city jail inmate from suicide to "pending".

Dr. Charles Petty, county medical examiner said Wednesday he will present a complete report to the city council Monday on the death of David Carroll Walker, 23.

Walker was found March 20 inside a phone booth used for prisoners to make phone calls. He was in a sitting position, a shirt sleeve tied around his neck and attached to a bar above his head.

Police said he was found about 15 minutes after he went into the booth.

"There is no question that the cause of death was by hanging," Petty said, "but the manner is still in question."

Rockefeller Has Difficulty Keeping Up With White House Developments

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like previous vice presidents, Nelson A. Rockefeller appears to be having some difficulty keeping up with White House developments.

"But he says he isn't upset that he didn't know anything about the 'confidential exchanges' between the United States and South Vietnam disclosed by the White House Wednesday.

"There is no concern on my part," the vice president told reporters aboard his plane as he flew back here after a speech in New Orleans.

The incident recalled other occasions when vice presidents were left in the dark: Franklin D. Roosevelt did not tell Harry S. Truman about the atomic bomb; Richard M. Nixon did not let Spiro T. Agnew, who was traveling in Africa, in on Nixon's decision to visit China; and Nixon kept Gerald R. Ford ignorant of important Watergate evidence.

But Rockefeller, who noted he has known every vice president for the last 35 years, insisted, "I don't feel embarrassed at all."

Less than six hours earlier, Rockefeller had plunged into the controversy by telling reporters after he landed at the New Orleans airport that Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., was "totally irresponsible" to charge there were secret deals between the United States and South Vietnam without showing proof. "The existence of a secret document is totally unsubstantiated," Rockefeller said.

At almost the same hour in Washington, presidential press secretary Ron Nessen was advising reporters of the secret letters in which Nixon assured South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu that the United States would "react vigorously" to major violations of the Paris peace treaty.

When a reporter asked Rockefeller later about Nessen's statement, the vice president looked startled. "I know nothing about it," he said. "I never heard of it."

Then, during the question period following his speech to the American Newspaper Publishers Association, Rockefeller said his airport comments were based on a column criticizing Jackson by James Reston in Wednesday's New York Times.

"While I didn't write it, I stand by every word of it," Rockefeller said. He added that from what he had been told, the Nixon-Thieu letters "simply confirm what he (Nixon) said publicly at the time." Nessen also said the letters reflected Nixon's public statements.

FTC Proposes Loan Firms Discard Old Standard Contracts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission says that individuals are at the mercy of finance companies and other lenders when it comes to settling on terms for personal loans such as those to buy cars and appliances.

To remedy this, the commission issued a proposal Wednesday that would require lenders within its reach to throw out their old standard loan contracts and write new ones.

The commission's proposal would revise repossession procedures, among others. Under current standard procedures for example, a loan company can take back a $3,000 car if the purchaser falls behind in payments. The car is sold for $1,000, perhaps to the dealer who sold it in the first place and sends his loan business to the loan company. The buyer is stuck with making up the difference.

The FTC proposal would require the lender to get a fair market price for any repossessed goods.

The proposal also affects the case of someone who takes out a personal loan and signs a contract with a clause giving the lender the right to seize and sell any of the borrower's personal effects in case of default.

This practice would stop under the FTC proposal. The loan contract would have to specify which household furnishings or other personal property were being taken as security and only those items could be attached.

Another standard clause requires the borrower to waive any rights to receive advance notice that the lender is initiating collection action or to contest the action. The FTC proposal would require that a borrower retain those rights.

Other provisions of the proposal, which will be the subject of public comment and hearing, would limit collection fees which can be assessed against debtors and bar lenders from using wage assignments to collect debts bigger than $300.

The FTC regulations apply directly only to lenders not already regulated by the Federal Reserve Board and other federal agencies. But the Fed is required by a new law to decide no later than 60 days after the FTC rule becomes final whether to extend the provisions to the banks it regulates. The Fed must justify any decision not to afford the same protections for bank loans.

The regulations would not apply to home mortgages. FTC staffers said they considered current protections in the cases of home defaults to be adequate.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The State Insurance Board has shifted seven West Texas Counties from the North-Northwest Territory to the Central Inland Territory, effective June 2.

Sen. Tom Creighton, D-Miner-al Wells, chairman of the Senate Committee on Economic Development, said the change would reduce extended coverage and homeowners' insurance rates considerably.

Officials of Montague, Jack, Young, Wise, Eastland, Brown and Stephens Counties argued at a Feb. 11 hearing before the state board that the counties did not have the hail, tornado and windstorm experience to justify keeping them in the high-rated north territory.

Insurance industry spokesman opposed the move.

Extended coverage policies protect owners of buildings from financial loss due to windstorms, hail, broken pipes and a variety of other hazards.

Champion Papers To Close Houston Plant One Week

HOUSTON (AP) — Champion Papers says it will shut down its Houston Ship Channel mill April 14 for one week because of what it calls generally poor economic conditions.

The mill, a division of Champion International, has about 1,500 employees.

Cecil Parker, general manager of operations, said most of the employees will have the option of taking paid vacations during the shutdown week. He said a few workers will remain on duty for normal maintenance.

Parker said the plant has customers worldwide and the shutdown has nothing to do with economic conditions in Houston, which have been described as considerable stronger than for the nation as a whole.

Parker said the shutdown is to reduce inventories that have increased because of declining sales.

Cattle Raisers Group Officials Say Predators To Blame For Mutilations

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Officials of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association say the cases of cattle mutilations reported in recent months are most likely the work of animal predators and not that of members of occult sects engaged in satanic ceremonies.

"You can easily say 99 percent of those animals died of natural causes," Cullen Robinson, assistant general manager of the association's Fort Worth office said Wednesday.

Much publicity in recent months there has been widespread publicity involving discoveries of dead cattle in Texas and neighboring states. In most cases witnesses said the cattle had ears, eyes, and sexual organs removed.

The mutilations were attributed to satanic cults and witches.

But Robinson said that "even in the handful of cases where mutilation by a human might have been involved, we haven't come up with any solid evidence."

Association officials said they were angry over recent "scare stories" in television and in newspapers alleging a definite link between the mutilations and a cult known as "Sons of Satan."

T. O. Tinsley, a field inspector who covers 12 East Texas counties for the cattle association, said: "The facts are that practically all of these cases are the work of animal predators. We have found nothing to indicate that any cult — even any human being — is involved."

Tinsley added that "it is a known fact that vultures always eat the eyes of dead animals first. It's also an obvious fact that most old cows die with their tongues hanging out, so they can easily be ripped off by predators."

Not Enough Grass
The field inspector said that a lot of cattle is dying of blackleg and malnutrition. "The prices of feed and fertilizer have forced some people to try to winter their cows on grass, and there just hasn't been enough grass to keep them alive."

Tinsley said that one strong indication that disease and a shortage of grazing are responsible for the deaths is the fact that such deaths have come to a virtual fact since the arrival of warm weather.

In Fort Worth, Robert King, minister of the Church of Satan, one of the largest satanic groups operating in the area denied that a satanic group was responsible for the deaths.

Senate Tentatively Approves Textbook Witness Immunity

By JACK KEEVER
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas senators voted 20-11 Wednesday to grant special legal immunity to state textbook witnesses.

Another vote must be taken, however, and the bill's sponsor, Sen. Betty Andujar, R-Fort Worth, plans to wait until Monday.

Sen. Kent Hance, D-Lubbock, protested that the bill would permit a person to lie about a textbook and still be immune from prosecution.

The measure was inspired by a $30-million lawsuit by an Oklahoma publishing house, The Economy Co., against three Texas women who criticized six of the company's readers at public hearings.

Economy contended that Mrs. Billy Hutcheson of Fort Worth, Drusilla Bearden of San Angelo and Linda Eichblatt of Clear Lake City conspired to libel the books, causing the State Board of Education to reject them for use in Texas' public schools.

Mrs. Hutcheson filed a $600,000 countersuit in the names of all three women, alleging that two Economy officers libeled them by telling reporters, "We (Economy) were the victims of malicious half-truths, innuendoes and in some cases outright lies," and that "the objections to the textbooks were racially inspired."

Mrs. Andujar's bill would make textbook witnesses "immune from civil liability for libel, slander or other injury" as long as the witnesses followed education board rules in testifying.

Her bill, she claimed in a written statement, "might be called the 'Citizens Right to Speak Bill.'"

She said the $30-million suit was designed "to eliminate criticism, to remove from Texas citizens their freedom to speak before their own State Board of Education. What family can risk the mental anguish, the financial drain of fighting such a malicious suit?"

"The only possible conclusion is that this suit is one to blackmail the people of Texas."

Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, contended that "truth is an absolute defense against libel and slander" and that the women did not need the bill to fight the suit. "I don't want to see us creating special legislation for special people."

"We won't be intimidated by two Economy officers libeled them by telling reporters, "We (Economy) were the victims of malicious half-truths, innuendoes and in some cases outright lies," and that "the ob-

Utility Regulation Bill To Be Ready This Month

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The chairman of a House committee considering five state utility regulation bills says he expects to have a bill out of committee by April 30.

Rep. Tom Uher, D-Bay City, said Wednesday his State Affairs Committee might have the bill ready as early as April 23. "I never planned to sit on the bill," Uher said.

The committee completed five nights of hearings Wednesday when it heard from witnesses mainly from the utility industry.

Joe Foy, president of Houston Natural Gas Corp., said it would be a "tragic mistake" to take gas utilities from the supervision of the Texas Railroad Commission "place them under a newly-organized, inexperienced and overburdened new agency."

Foy said the Railroad Commission has done a good job for 40 years in regulating gas utilities.

The Railroad Commission's "constructive influence should not be diminished by reducing their regulatory jurisdiction," Foy said.

Four of the bills being considered say natural gas utilities should be regulated by any new commission.

Foy said his company was neither for or against the creation of a commission to regulate telephone or electric utilities. But, he said, any commission should not "create bad principles affecting adversely the operations of the existing state commission which regulates gas."

Saunders Gregg, senior vice president of Entex, a gas distribution company, said gas utilities "are currently regulated by a capable state commission and this form of state regulation should be continued rather than changed."

Gregg said he was in favor of some form of continued local utility regulation.

"I cannot imagine a single commission being able to make good decisions for all utilities in Texas," Gregg said.

Uher said any bill that comes out of committee is going to have to be a compromise. "None of the bills currently in committee could ever pass the House in their present forms," Uher said.

Take Your Risk Early In Hand

If your opponents are going to be brilliant, give them the earliest possible chance to shine. They may not hear opportunity's first knock.

Suppose South plays a low heart from dummy at the first trick. Would East play the queen? And if East does play the queen of hearts, holding the trick, would he shift to the jack of spades immediately?

South makes the contract unless East finds these two plays.

If you're going to refuse a trick in the opponent's suit, the earlier the better.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes. You hold: S-A Q 4 H-K 4 3 D-9 8 3 C-A J 9 2. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 2 NT. This shows a balanced distribution, stoppers in the unbid suits and a count of 13 to 15 points.

Winners' Speeches Presented To Club

Members of the Westside Optimist heard Wednesday the speeches which won two Midland students first prizes in the club-sponsored oratorical contest.

At the noon Wednesday meeting in the Elks Club Lodge, Goddard Junior High students Peggy Ellis, eighth grade, and Tony Muldrow, seventh, delivered their winning speeches on Optimist International's universal contest theme of "Give Me Your Hand."

The pair, who won their titles in March, will compete against other winners representing Optimist Zone 11 clubs at 7 p.m. tonight at the Rodeway Inn in Midland.

Takes Finesse

South lost a finesse to the king of spades. Back came a spade to the ace.

South could still make the contract by a rather fancy play. But South tried the diamond finesse instead, and went down two.

Declarer won the first trick with dummy's ace of hearts, cashed the ace of diamonds and then lost a club finesse to West's king. Back came a heart, and South allowed East to hold the trick with the queen of hearts.

If East returned a heart, South would win and try the diamond finesse for a total of 10 tricks. But East shifted to the jack of spades. This was the killer.

Midlander's Father Now In 66th Year Practicing Medicine

WYMORE, Neb. — Dr. C. W. Thomas, 91 years young and in his 66th year of medical practice, acknowledges that he has "all I need to eat and all the wood I can burn."

He is the father of John C. Thomas, 613 W. Cuthbert St., Midland, Tex.

Dr. Thomas hasn't visited his son in Texas, but he says he just might one of these days. He lives with his two daughters here.

Actually he is too busy in his practice of medicine to take a long trip. He's still to be found each afternoon in his small brick office which has been his headquarters since 1927.

"Coming down to work every day is what keeps me alive," he told Dean Terrill, Southeast Nebraska Bureau of the Lincoln Sunday Journal and Star.

"Besides, every now and then some grandma friend comes through with a little hug of appreciation — and sometimes the patient is even a little younger."

Although this city has two fully active physicians, there are those patients who insist on care from the kindly Dr. Thomas. Many were among his "900 or more" deliveries, and not a few are persons whose bills he carried during the depression.

He is a 1909 graduate of the Nebraska Medical College and practiced in three other Nebraska cities before locating here. It is interesting to note that the doctor served on school boards in all four towns where he had practices.

Spiraling Arson Rate May Hike Insurance Cost

AUSTIN — A soaring increase in arson cases in Texas could soon result in higher fire insurance premiums across the state.

Incendiariness rocketed from 1,653 cases in 1973 to 2,301 in 1974, and the total is expected to climb even more this year, according to the state fire marshal's office.

"Like any other fire loss, eventually the loss must be paid by the insurance customers of Texas," said Joe Christie, chairman of the State Board of Insurance. "This, in reality, is an indirect but unnoticed effect long after the ashes of arson have grown cold."

Jerry Schappe of the fire marshal's office believes the rising rate can be traced directly to the economy.

In 1972, he said, when times were better, there were only 1,236 reported cases of arson in Texas—the lowest total since the 1,413 cases reported in 1967.

Arson often increases during economic slumps, but insurance men say the problem has never been as bad as it is now. The Fireman's Fund, a San Francisco-based insurer, reports about 20 per cent of the fires in stores and other businesses are believed set by desperate proprietors. In normal times, only 5 per cent of the commercial fires are suspect, the company said.

The National Automobile Theft Bureau said there has been a surge in mobile home fires as many owners fall behind on their payments.

The National Automobile Theft Bureau, which investigates fraudulent claims, said suspicious car fires increased about 50 per cent in 1974 over 1973.

In the first three months of this year, another 50 per cent increase has been recorded.

Such fires in Texas cost an estimated $3 million, according to officials.

A spot check at the Austin fire marshal's office revealed about the same pattern, and Fire Marshal Jim Loflin echoed statements made by Christie and other insurance experts—it is virtually impossible to prosecute arsonists.

"You just about have to catch them with the match in their hands before a prosecutor will take the case," Loflin said, noting that most arson charges are based on circumstantial evidence.

"If evidence of incendiary origin is found, it's hard to find fingerprints in the charred remains of a home, business or automobile," Christie said.

"Prosecutors frequently shy away from arson cases because evidence is difficult to obtain."

Schappe said it was the state fire marshal's duty to assist in arson investigations whenever asked by local fire marshals, insurance companies or sheriffs.

He said it was not always difficult to detect arson, but bringing a charge against a person for an incendiary fire was a tough proposition.

C. C. Benson of the Automobile Theft Bureau said his agency had an easier time with auto fires because "when they burn to a total loss and the front headlights, motor grills and tires are melted, it's a little suspicious."

Gray Panther Tired Of Society's 'Pats On Fanny'

By BARBARA HERRERA
Copley News Service

Forget about providing more bingo cards for the old. Or more shuffleboard courts. Instead, give them a hearing by the city council. A voice in public meetings.

Maggie Kuhn, 69, leader of the nation's growing Gray Panther movement, says:

"We are tired of society patting us on the head—or fanny—and sending us on our way like wrinkled babies to take our naps and play games while our society becomes sicker and sicker.

"Our retirement years are a new opportunity to give the lie to the myth that old age is a loathsome disease that nobody wants to have contact with."

Kuhn, small, frail-looking and single, is at once a genteel and forceful advocate of better living conditions and fuller lives for old people.

Her peaceful methods fall short of flaming militancy. But, nevertheless, she demands nothing less than total revolution.

As with blacks and the women's movement, self-determination is the issue.

"Elders" is her term for people over 65. Or just "old people." She wants to drop such euphemisms as "senior citizen" or "elderly." No pussyfooting around for Maggie Kuhn.

She directs the Gray Panther movement from a Philadelphia home base. Retired from the national staff of the YWCA and a Presbyterian social work agency, she is author of "Nothing to Lose," a book on aging, and "Get Out There and Do Something About Injustice."

The Gray Panthers is a 5-year-old coalition of young (about 15 per cent of the membership) and old people with chapters in several U.S. cities working for "human liberation."

The Gray Panther revolution, she said, is not to benefit the old only. "It is ill-advised for any of us to seek only our own vested interests."

But "age discrimination" is her special target.

And the mandatory retirement age at 65 or younger is the bull's-eye.

Kuhn denounced what she calls "the Detroit mentality—the idea that old models should be thrown out to make way for the new."

Meanwhile, whether they retire from their jobs or not, Kuhn suggests that old people should never retire from three important roles as good neighbors, good consumers and good citizens.

By good neighbors she means closing the ranks between age, race, class and money distinctions.

And as consumers, old people have the responsibility to work against consumer fraud, monitor the care given in rest homes, and speak out for good health care and public transportation, she said.

An outspoken advocate for a new health-care delivery system in the United States, Kuhn says that "as the largest consumers of health services, we old people have the right to demand a decent health-care system.

"We need a health system that is not a disease-care system but a disease-prevention system that covers everybody," she adds, "and by that I mean socialized medicine—let's say it right out."

Kuhn also speaks of the right to die peacefully.

"It's up to each of us to decide with our heirs and family that no extraordinary medical means will be used to extend our lives or prolong our dying," she said. "None of those tubes!"

And, finally, being a public citizen, she said, means being aware of the public arena.

"Your city council needs input. Public hearings need input," she said.

And giving such input, she suggested, means facing public gatherings "with facts and with dignity."

"If you have done your homework, you can walk right into anybody's office or any meeting and get your point across."

Life For Hiroo Onoda Round Of Nostalgic Promotions

By SUMI OKUMA
Kyodo - Copley News Service

TOKYO — For Hiroo Onoda, the World War II Japanese imperial army lieutenant who emerged last year from the Philippine jungles to end a "30-year" war, the return to his home country after visiting Brazil and promoting a book in the United States has become another round of nostalgia-centered promotion jobs.

The latest song and dance in which the diminutive, dapper Onoda appeared was a television songfest which double-billed him with a former Japanese film actress he once admitted admiring.

Since returning to Japan from Lubang Island last March, Onoda has appeared several times dancing—most memorably, perhaps, doing the tango with an unidentified Brazilian beauty while visiting his brother Tadao near Sao Paulo and dancing with Lisa Carroll en decollete in the Persian Room of New York City's Hotel Plaza while promoting a book about his Lubang experiences entitled "No Surrender: My Thirty-Year War."

He was coaxed back on the dance floor of Dick Mine's "Old Japanese Melodies" show on a local channel by Toshiko Yamaguchi, a former movie actress who won popularity in wartime films under the stage name of Ri Koran.

Nowhere in the Japanese or foreign press has it been indicated where Onoda picked up his dancing lessons, but he guided Miss Yamaguchi with the aplomb which has been his trademark since returning to civilization.

While on Mine's show, Onoda smiled evenly and answered questions in a cool, strong voice. More eloquent than the patter of semiserious interview on the show was, however, the deportment of Onoda himself.

When the last singer launched into a rendition of "Shanghai Blues"—a song popular when Onoda was young—Onoda tapped a cigarette out of a pack on the table in front of him, lit up and listened with a solemn expression that implied he was listening, not to the words the audience heard, but to the voices of countless dead comrades who never made it back to Japan—whose bones still lie uncollected and bleaching on the beaches and in the jungles of the islands he left just a year ago.

Looking fit and far younger than his 52 years, Onoda apparently realized even before he left the jungle that the Japan he was returning to would bear few recognizable traces of the nation he had given up his youth to defend.

Months after his return, thousands of people were still flocking to Onoda's home on weekends to get a view of Japan's spectacular "samurai."

The calling cards left by visitors made a pile nearly three feet high only a month after Onoda's return, and the ex-soldier himself spent a good part of every afternoon trying to answer all his mail.

"Reading their letters is often a painful job for me," Onoda said in an interview at the time.

"Some write, 'I feel as if my father killed in the war had come home. Welcome back, Mr. Onoda' and the like.

"I often think of my fate while writing letters to them.

Sometimes I sit up well past midnight thinking and writing."

In explaining his reasons for wanting to emigrate to Brazil,

Onoda said he felt he could not make a normal living in Japan.

"For example, if I were to become a taxi driver, people would always gape at me and I could not pursue my profession in a normal way," he said.

"The Japanese today," he continued, "are too money-oriented. There are too many people in such a small country and life is very difficult."

"Brazil, on the other hand, is large and there aren't too many people. There I can live almost unnoticed raising cattle and planting vegetables on a farm with a climate like Lubang."

BOY SHOT, KILLED--

Swim In Pool Ends In Death

MIAMI (AP) — "Help, help my friend is shot!" Domingo Gutierrez cried after an afternoon swim by five boys in a private pool ended in the fatal wounding of one of the youngsters.

Domingo, 12, said he and four friends slipped into the pool of a private apartment building Wednesday to escape the 80-degree heat. He said Maria Otero, owner of the building, got angry at them.

"She screamed for us to get out of the pool, and we were going to," he told newsmen later. "We started running away, and she shot at us and hit Johnnie."

Several hours after the incident, Mrs. Otero, 56, surrendered to police. She was charged with first-degree murder and is being held without bond.

Police said Mrs. Otero refused to discuss the incident. She is scheduled to appear at a magistrate's hearing today.

Neighbors said the shot, fired from a fifth-floor balcony, struck Johnnie Perez, 13, in the head. He stumbled across the street, then collapsed face down on the grass.

A neighbor said Domingo ran to his friend's aid.

"He was crying, and blood was just pumping out of the back of the other boy's head," the woman said.

Doctors were able to keep the Perez boy alive for about 90 minutes, but he was pronounced dead at a local hospital Wednesday afternoon.

Neighbor Kathleen Leger, 21, said Mrs. Otero had chased the youths away from the pool several times previously.

"The kids usually go from one building to another so they can swim somewhere," Miss Leger said. "Just last week, I saw Mrs. Otero chase them from the building."

Hilda Sanabria, a neighbor, said Mrs. Otero is a "very kind woman who is always inviting our children to come and swim in her pool." But she said Mrs. Otero didn't like the children to come uninvited.

Another neighbor, Lila Wacilviz, said the group of boys, who often play in the neighborhood, never caused any serious trouble.

"The same kids came around the same building this past Monday," Mrs. Wacilviz said. "Kids are just kids, they like to swim."

Midland Youth Center Chatter

By GAYLE GRIMLAND, LESLIE MORGAN & VICKI THROCKMORTON

As the 1975 edition of the Bulldog School Year approaches completion, volumes of activities constantly are being added to Midland's Library of Memories.

This week's Chapter is filled with Drama, Suspense and Mystery. Our "Tale of Two Cities" began with a mass "Exodus" coming to Midland for the district U.I.L. Speech, Drama, and ready writing contest. These will be held at MHS Friday and Saturday. There are 22 competition categories, which range from slide rule to editorial writing.

"Bulldogs with a Cause" are MHS girls practicing for the upcoming track and field meet to be held against Lee next weekend. "Turning the page" to victory will be the Boys Track team this weekend. Roadrunners will race around home track for the first time in awhile during UIL district competition. Preliminaries will be Friday with finals Saturday. Hope those cinder stomping' cinders capture many gold medals!

The "thesis" will be victory for the too-tough tennis team as it will top its target again in district UIL competition also here at the Bulldog courts Friday and Saturday.

Adding another paragraph to the winning tradition was the girls golf team which last week clinched the District "title." A worn out copy of Arnold Palmer's "Rules for Putting" was in the pocket of Mary Owen as she was named Medalist. Way to go!!!

The "setting" will be familiar for the boys golf team as it hosts other district teams Friday. In our "Point of View" an easy victory is ours in an all-out effort by the team. Easy Win Boys!!!

It was "Joy in the Morning" Wednesday when the volleyball girls realized the bi-district victory of the night before. The "mood" this Saturday at McMurry College in Abilene for REGIONALS will be ecstatic, as this game will set up our team for state competition. Its undefeated record is a "symbol" of MHS pride and spirit. All the way to STATE, ladies!!!

The baseball team's baseballs will be "Gone with the Wind" over the fence Saturday as the

IRS Files Tax Lien Against Craig Morton

DALLAS (AP) — Craig Morton, the former Dallas Cowboys quarterback who was traded to the New York Giants, owes $22,028.61 in 1973 income tax, the Internal Revenue Service claimed Wednesday.

The IRS filed a lien for that sum against Morton with the Dallas County clerk, putting it in position to foreclose on property owned by the professional football player if it chooses.

In the lien the agency contended Morton had not paid all the tax he owed for 1973, but it did not allege that he sought to evade taxes.

Bulldogs face Permian in a "turning point" match for the beginning of second-half district play. Tuesday, the Big Spring Steers will be smashed to a pulp. The game's here, so show your spirit and watch!

"Little Men and Little Women," but big people on campus are Mike Wiley and Vicki Throckmorton as Junior Rotarians and Charlie Northington as Junior Lion. This Chatter is "dedicated" to Joni Helm for re-establishing her Bulldoghood, Randell McClesky for getting a Petroleum Engineering scholarship to Texas, and to Vicki Jones for being crowned queen in the Miss Debutante Pageant.

Those "stereotyped" KCRS disc jockeys will face our fabulous MHS faculty in a fund-raising project for the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. Be sure and not miss it this Tuesday night at our gym!

At the thoughts of summer, all thoughts of studies seem to fly out the window, but not for our '75 honor Grads: Tanya Zoller, Sara Moore, John Wambaugh, Laura Carlsen, Marcia Blackwell, Holly Heard, Sarah Hardwick, James Davidson, Ange Dickson, Bea Lea Somerville, Ross McCasland, Peter Scherer, Judy Blaylock.

Market Analysts Advise Now's Time For Bulls To Pull In Horns

By HELEN L. CALL
Copley News Service

Now is not the time to buy stocks, they said. A further decline in the market is expected, but they agreed it may be a shallower correction than most people are expecting. "Investor strategy now," said Rolfe, "is to hold what you have, if well chosen, and buy stocks on weakness but not indiscriminately." He said specifically, "We like the steels, the bigger oil service companies, seed companies and a number of individual issues." Some with favorable fundamentals are Philip Morris, Denny's, Syntex and Continental Oil.

Zweig has been urging readers of his letter to be fully invested, but said he may change this advice. "I would not buy at all on the rally. Maybe modestly on a dip. I would hold now, and not be a seller either."

If the stock market continues bullish, Zweig added, "I would want to buy airline stocks." His newest recommendations, based on data concerning insider buying, low price-earnings multiple and high dividend yield, are: International Minerals & Chemicals, Crane Corp., Colt Industries and Fluor. Bache & Co.'s weekly market comment also emphasized stock selectivity. "We sense that once through first quarter results, the market can do better," said analyst Larry Wachter. "But selectivity has become the keynote." Companies he expects to show improved quarterly results: Howard Johnson, W. R. Grace, International Minerals, McDonald's and Clorox.

Vickers Associates has released a study of institutional favorites in 1974 and reports that for the second straight year, American Express, Raychem and Roadway Express were the most widely held over-the-counter securities. Other OTC issues in institutional portfolios: Medtronic, Chicago Bridge & Iron, Anheuser-Busch, Northrup King, Betz Labs, Lowe's Cos. and Millipore.

Investment Quality Trends has put together a chart showing the inverse relationship of the prime interest rate and the Dow Jones industrial average. Says publisher Gerry Weiss, "Interest rates could move up without the market going down, because there is a six-month lead time in the averages." Weiss recommends three undervalued dividend payers: McGraw Hill, Pacific Gas & Electric and Santa Fe Industries.

Profit-Taking Hits Market After Broad Gain Built Up

By CHET CURRIER

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market built up another broad gain today, but ran into some profit taking as the session wore on.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials up more than 10 points at its mid-morning peak showed a 7.04 gain at 775.03 by noon. Advances maintained a lead of better than 3-1 over declines in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said some profit taking appeared after IBM, one of the most closely followed companies on Wall Street, reported first quarter earnings of $2.96 a share, compared with $2.94 in the like period last year. Anticipation of a better showing from IBM than had earlier been expected had been cited as one

$500 Million Annual Price Tag Put On School Violence

WASHINGTON (AP) - A casualty list from a war zone or a vice squad annual report, said Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee's juvenile delinquency subcommittee.

In addition, teachers are the victims of an estimated 70,000 serious physical assaults each year and "literally hundreds of thousands of students are assaulted," the report said. "The ledger of violence confronting our schools reads like

Americans Turning Land Into Huge World's Fair

EDITOR'S NOTE — Up and down the East Coast — and across the country — Americans are beginning to celebrate the bicentennial of the American Revolution, turning the land into a huge world's fair.

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer

Celebration of the Bicentennial of the United States' birth as a nation finally begins next week, and instead of the usual world's fair, the country is turning to grassroots festivities. On April 18, 200 years ago Paul Revere began his midnight ride and the next day Massachusetts Minutemen fired the first shots of the American Revolution. Officially the celebration continues through 1976, the bicentennial year of American independence. To the more dedicated, it will continue through 1981, two hundred years after Yorktown, or 1989, the bicentennial of the first government formed under the Constitution. The federal government, whose creation is being commemorated, has failed to provide a focal point for the national celebration. Instead, the celebrating will be done in a variety of ways and places. The best part is probably the refurbishing, restoration and even salvation of America's historic treasures in the name of the Bicentennial — and the invitation for Americans to visit their shrines instead of a fair. There won't be a midway in Philadelphia, but you can stand on ground where history and a nation were made and see it all most as it was. Battlefields from Concord to Yorktown are spruced up and waiting. So is George Washington's birthplace, the place he died, and the church pew from which Patrick Henry demanded liberty or death. And there are places less noted for great events than for their view of what life in America was like in those days — from the elegance of Old Charleston to the rustic charm of Sturbridge. Traveling attractions will bring the Bicentennial to you. A red, white and blue Freedom Train drawn by a genuine fire-belching steam engine will shuttle across the nation this year and next with a cargo of historic documents and memorabilia, including George Washington's personal copy of the Constitution. A great wagon train will start in the West and reverse the historic trek of early pioneers, picking up wagons from every state until they all converge on Valley Forge on July 4, 1976. The National Society of Mural Painters is putting together a traveling show depicting American freedoms in 40-foot murals. The Smithsonian Institution, which is planning some of the better attractions for Washington D.C., also is sending exhibits across the nation. Operation Sail '76 will bring as many as 35 major sailing ships to American waters. They'll finally converge on New York harbor for a water parade on Independence Day 1976. And a Bikecentennial will send Americans pedaling about the country, including inauguration of the first transcontinental bicycle trail. The cultural midway of the Bicentennial is those 13 states which fought the Revolution and formed the union. Boston is where it all began, the city where Sam Adams and John Hancock stirred rebellion, the city which threw British tea into the bay and forced retaliations which brought war. Today the old State House before which the Massacre victims fell, a replica of a tea party ship near its original berth, and the Old North Church are features of Boston's Freedom Trail walking tour. Most of the city's historic sites are within walking distance of key information centers, and a shuttle bus service is provided for the less energetic. For the price of a single day-long ticket, the rider can hop on and off at will. Similar bus service is available in New York, Philadelphia and Washington.

During April, special ceremonies in the Boston area include services at Old North Church, a modern-day Revere ride and re-enacted battles at nearby Lexington and Concord. New York City's revolutionary sites are more scattered, but for the Bicentennial visitor things have been simplified by a special bus service which stops at each place of interest and runs every 15 minutes from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. New York was the first capital of the United States, and George Washington took the oath as the first president at Federal Hall in 1789. The original building is gone, but the present structure, built in 1842 as a U.S. Customs House, is now maintained as a national memorial. Philadelphia, where independence was proclaimed, was to have been the site of an international exposition in 1976, as it had been in 1876. When the world's fair plan died, the city and the National Park Service turned to Philadelphia's heritage and landmarks. The historic square mile known as Independence National Historical Park is being spruced up with restorations and construction of a new visitor's center and a new home for the Liberty Bell. Independence Hall is a feature attraction, flanked by Congress Hall, where the federal Congress sat from 1790 to 1800, and Old City Hall, which housed the Supreme Court from 1791 to 1800. Within strolling distance are Betsy Ross' house, the headquarters of the American Philo-

Like most good shows, America's Bicentennial world's fair probably will be packed

Medals Being Planned To Honor Early Heroes

By GARY L. PALMER
Copley News Service

A lot is going to be said about America's early heroes during the nation's Bicentennial celebration. And the Letcher Mint of Lancaster, Calif., hopes to firmly implant the memories of these early historians in the minds of the public with a series of medals honoring them. The "American Patriots" will be depicted in 12 special medals featuring gold relief against a silver field. Each issue will feature the bust of a renowned American and the entire set will contain 60 grains of pure gold and 288 grams of pure silver. The gold and silver in each medal are combined to form one permanent piece of metal so the gold is all within the area of the bust of each patriot and the field and reverse are silver. This is not a gold-plating process, but a relatively new coining process resulting in the production of coins and medals in the contrasting yellow and silver colors of two precious metals. Patriots selected for the series include Nathan Hale, Thomas Jefferson, George Washington, Paul Revere, Patrick Henry, John Hancock, James Madison, John Adams, Molly Pitcher, Commodore Perry, James Monroe and Andrew Jackson. Sculptor for the series is Carl Romanelli of Beverly Hills, Calif. This gold-silver edition will be limited to only 7,800 sets sold on a first-come-first-served basis. The sets are available on a monthly subscription basis for $30 per issue. Delivery is via first-class mail and a hardwood presentation case is included. The first issue features Nathan Hale. Orders may be sent to The Letcher Mint, Lancaster, Calif. 93534. A new crown commemorating "30 Years of Poland" has just been released by that country. Struck in proof condition, the coin is of 0.625 fine silver and is of a new high denomination—200 zloty. It is dated 1974. The obverse features an outline of the country and the reverse features the Polish eagle plus the denomination. The crown has a mirror-like field with frosted relief, according to a spokesman for the World Proof Numismatic Association. Purchasing information may be obtained by writing the association at 1429 Hawthorne St., Pittsburgh, Pa. 15201. Declares Independence Norway has been an independent country since 1905 when she declared her independence of Sweden.

Disney Plans Set

By BOB THOMAS
ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP)

While the rest of the nation's 200th birthday celebration may be in disarray, the Disney organization is marching resolutely ahead with its own plans. One can see the progress all over the backlots of Disneyland. Dancers modeling the costumes and huge heads of Pilgrims, pioneers and other "People of America." Huge floats arriving from theatrical prop companies all over the country. Newfangled, battery-powered vehicles being tested on the backlot streets. All this is part of "America on Parade" which will open to the public at Walt Disney World on June 7 and here on June 14. The parade will appear daily at both parks until Sept. 6, 1976, with an estimated audience of 25 million. The Disney people don't like to put a price tag on the birthday celebration, but the cost has been reported at $8 million. The nerve center for the whole operation is the office of Bob Jani, who plans the entertainment for both parks. The office is appropriately decorated in red, white and blue, with handsome antiques of early America as well as models and sketches of the parade wonders to come. Also music. "Listen to this," the enthusiastic Jani said to a visitor. He slipped a cassette into a player and out came the spine-tingling sound of a Fourth of July parade half-remembered. Music will be continuous during the 40-minute parade, Jani explained, with each display ("we don't like to call them floats") carrying its own sound equipment. The Disney organization started thinking about the bicentennial four or five years ago, said Jani. American history from Columbus to the present was researched with an eye for elements that could be placed in a theatrical setting. "It finally dawned on me that this should not be a history lesson, but a celebration," said Jani. "A celebration that would also be an entertainment. I wanted to create all the emotion of a party. This would be a party that everyone could enjoy — our country's 200th birthday." Planning intensified three years ago, and 100 creative people were assigned to the parade.
