Upton Explorer Rates Gas Flow From Silurian

KCM Co., Midland, was drilling below 7,440 feet in lime and shale on an 8,200-foot Ellenburger wildcat contract, at No. 1 Exxon-Shirk, Upton County project, 2 1/2 miles northwest of the Silurian and Ellenburger oil sector of the McCamey field, after taking a drillstem test, probably in the Silurian.

Tool was open 1 1/4 hour on the test taken from 7,150-7,190 feet. Gas surfaced in eight minutes, flowing at the estimated maximum of 750,000 cubic feet per day. Recovery was 200 feet of oil and 10 feet of heavily oil- and gas-cut mud.

Flowing pressure measured 155.344 pounds; one-hour initial and two-hour final shut-in pressures were 3,143 and 3,092 pounds, respectively.

It is 1,900 feet from south and east lines of section 17, block 3, MK&T survey, four miles north of McCamey.

Hytech Reports Penn Gas Flow

Hytech Energy Corp. No. 1 Frank Rashap, Terrell County Devonian gas strike, three miles south of the Allison (Pennsylvanian) gas area, flowed gas for seven hours from the Pennsylvanian, at the rate of 396,000 cubic feet daily.

Flow was through a 9-64-inch choke and perforations at 10,336-10,427 feet.

Turned to an open 2-inch choke, it flowed two hours at the rate of 583,000 cubic feet, increasing to 644,000 cubic feet in two hours, then at 533,000 cubic feet daily for the next three hours, and decreasing to 453,000 cubic feet daily, after 2 1/4 hours.

Testing continued. The project is 660 feet from north and 469 feet from west lines of section 3, block 176, TMR survey, 11 miles south of Sheffield.

Phillips Plans Test Of Strawn

Phillips Petroleum Co. plans to plug back to 10,000 feet as a wildcat in No. 1-RR Texas University, 3/4 mile northeast of Strawn production in the Magutex field of Andrews County.

Originally staked as a 12,600-foot field project, it has been drilled to 12,697 feet and was waiting on cement after setting production string.

Site is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 32, block 5, University Lands survey, 13 miles northeast of Andrews.

Shallow Test Set In Mitchell

Clifton Thomas of San Angelo will drill No. 1 Mrs. Olive Price et al, as a 150-foot test one location northwest of depleted production in the Hurbut 130 (Sunflower 130-foot sand) field of Mitchell County.

Location is 467 feet from southwest and 1,074 feet from east lines of J. Babcock Survey 26, abstract 855, 17 miles south (Continued On Page 5B)

Major Drop In Inventories Brightens Economic Picture

WASHINGTON (AP) — Led by a big decline in the backlog of automobiles, inventories of the nation's businesses fell by a record $1.5 billion in February, the Commerce Department reported today.

The development was good news for government economists, who have said a large-scale decrease in inventories, especially autos, is essential for recovery from the nation's current recession.

A decline in inventories means people are buying goods faster than they are being produced. As inventories continue declining, manufacturers eventually will need to begin producing again to rebuild inventories. That means more jobs on production lines.

Virtually all the February decline in inventories occurred in automobiles, which were down $1.6 billion, the largest monthly decline on record.

Figures on auto inventories showed the sale rebate plans of auto manufacturers, in force during all the month, apparently were successful in reducing the auto backlog.

The over-all decline in inventories of $1.5 billion was

High Court Bans Practice By Convicted Ehrlichman

WASHINGTON (AP) — John D. Ehrlichman, former White House aide convicted of Watergate cover-up charges, was suspended today from the practice of law before the Supreme Court.

The court gave Ehrlichman, who at one time was former President Nixon's chief domestic adviser, 40 days to show why he should not be disbarred. Ehrlichman was convicted

Jan. 1 of conspiracy, obstruction of justice and perjury. He was sentenced to a term of from 2 1/2 to 3 years and is at liberty while an appeal is pending.

The court has issued similar suspensions to former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Assistant Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian, who were convicted along with Ehrlichman and others, and to former White House counsel John W. Dean, who pleaded guilty to charges in connection with the Watergate cover-up.

In other major actions, the court declined to promise a speedy decision on whether it will review the censorship power of the Central Intelligence Agency. The request had been made by the publishers and authors of the book "CIA and the Cult of Intelligence," which was published with deletions required by the government.

Refused to allow further delay of an order requiring the National Right to Work Committee to disclose names of contributors.

The court let stand a ruling that the defendant in an Illinois swindling case was denied a fair trial by the use of statements which he made to his victim's lawyer.

The court agreed to review a ruling that a person whose name and photograph are circulated among merchants as a suspected shoplifter may sue in federal court for invasion of privacy.

The court declined to review an order giving preference to blacks and persons with Spanish surnames in the hiring of firefighters in Massachusetts cities and towns.

The court agreed to review a $100,000 libel judgment awarded to the former wife of rubber heir Russell Firestone because of a Time magazine account of their divorce.

Tax Deadline Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 20 million Americans have little more than a day to file their tax returns.

The deadline is midnight Tuesday. The Internal Revenue Service says that as of the first week of April an estimated 25 million persons had yet to file their returns.

For those who don't make the deadline, the penalty is 5 per cent a month on any taxes due with the maximum penalty 25 per cent of any money unpaid. Late filers can cut down their liability if they owe money by sending in their returns on time without the tax due. This way mark their penalty is 6 per cent a year on the unpaid money, or five-tenths of 1 per cent a month.

As long as the envelope on a return carries an April 15 postmark, the return will be considered to have met the deadline, the IRS says.

Returns mailed at the Main Post Office in Midland by midnight Tuesday will bear the April 15 postmark, according to Postmaster D. E. Holster.

Holster said late filers should deposit returns in either inside or outside drops before midnight to insure the April 15 postmark.

Australia Eyes Poison Gas Charges

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — The Australian Defense Department began an investigation today into a claim that Australian pilots killed American volunteers with poison gas in a World War II experiment.

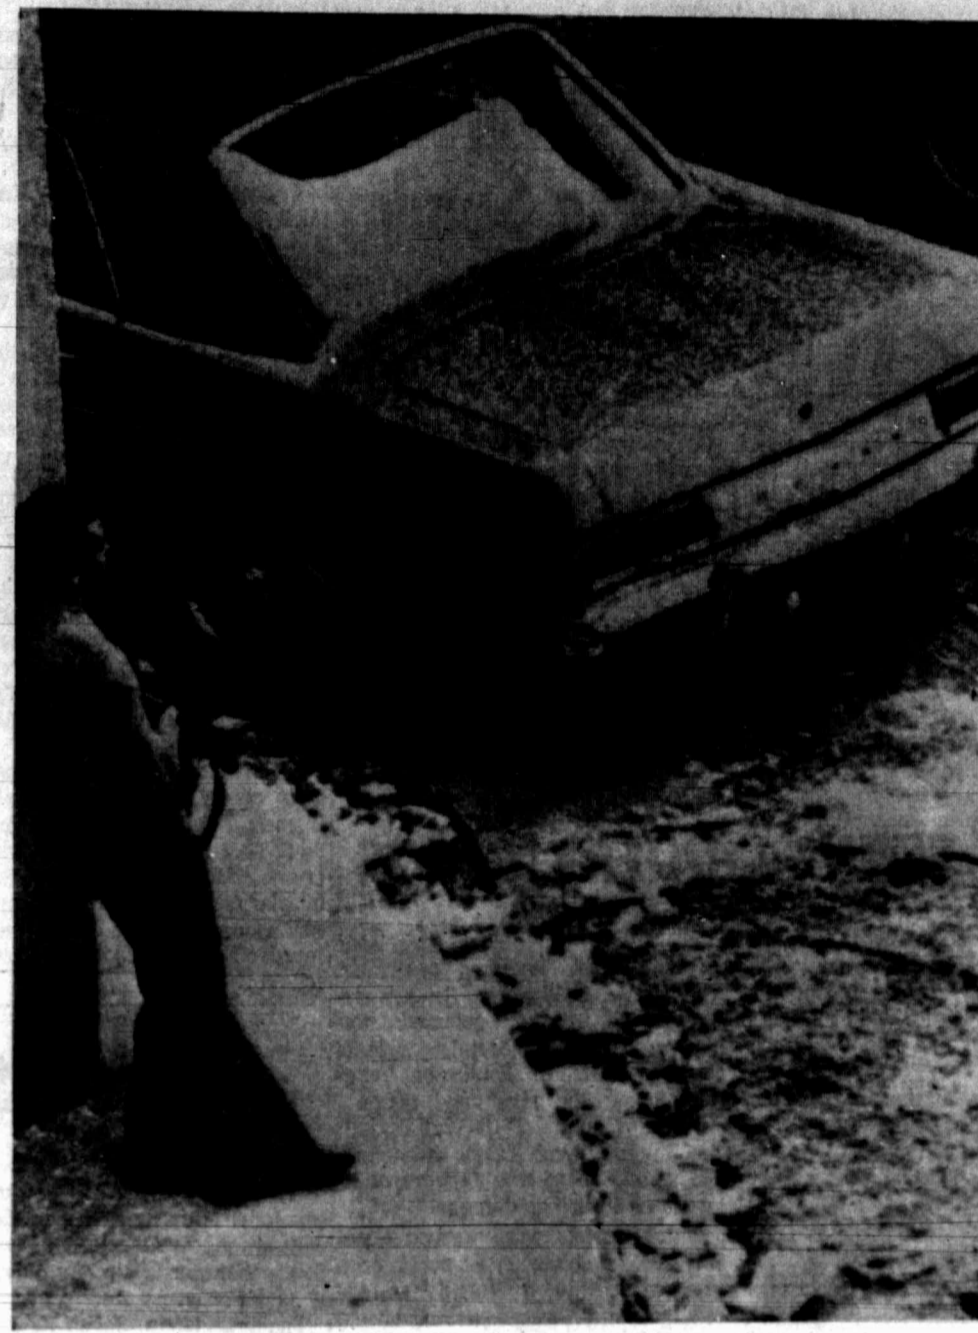

John Hampshire, 57, a retired group captain of the Royal Australian Air Force, claimed that on Jan. 21, 1944, he and 50 other Australian airmen dropped 360 canisters of poison gas on a usually uninhabited island off Cairns, in northeastern Australia.

U.S. Planes Used They used American Army planes and were under the command of American officers, he said.

A few days after the experiment, Hampshire continued, he was told informally by an American officer that there had been prisoners on the island from American jails who had volunteered for the experiment in hopes of reducing their life sentences.

All Prisoners Killed The American officer said all the prisoners were killed along with sheep and goats that were also used in the experiment.

Hampshire said he did not know how many prisoners were involved or what type of gas was used. He said he was making the (See GAS Page 2A)

Lebanon Battles Leave 38 Killed, 60 Wounded

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Street battles between Palestinian guerrillas and Lebanese Christian rightists in Beirut tapered off to sporadic clashes today after 38 persons were reported killed and 60 wounded by machine gun and bazooka fire.

Elsewhere in the Middle East, the Egyptian cabinet resigned and President Anwar Sadat prepared to form a new government to tackle domestic problems that have sparked two riots this year.

Banks, Shops Closed Banks and shops in the heart of Beirut were shuttered, and few persons ventured out on the usually crowded downtown streets. Scattered clashes were reported continuing on the outskirts of the city, near several Palestine refugee camps. Clouds of smoke rose over several areas.

The government said it had ordered security forces to "storm into the fighting areas and arrest those responsible." But the Interior Ministry reported only eight arrests by midday.

Other Cities Affected General strikes closed Lebanon's two other major cities, Tripoli on the north coast and Sidon south of Beirut, as their inhabitants expressed support for the Palestinian guerrillas. Armed men and burning-tires blocked roads.

According to casualty reports from government sources and the warring factions, 28 guerrillas, two militiamen of the right-wing Phalange party and eight Lebanese civilians had been killed since noon Sunday. Three Phalangists and 27 Palestinians were among the wounded.

The fighting in Beirut began Sunday during the inauguration of a new Maronite Christian church which was attended by Pierre Gemayel, the leader of the right-wing Phalange party, and many members of his party militia. They claimed they were fired on by Palestinian guerrillas. Palestinian leaders charged the Phalangists with ambushing a busload of 22 Palestinian civilians driving past the church on their way to a refugee camp.

Initial reports in Beirut said a police armored car, a soft drink factory, a men's fashion party militia. They claimed (See LEBANON Page 2A)

Armed Forces Kill Chad President, Take Over

N'DJAMENA, Chad (AP) — The leaders of Chad's army have seized power after overthrowing President Ngarta Tombalbaye. Official sources said the president, who had survived seven previous coup attempts, was killed in a brief but bloody attack on his palace. The sources said a number of persons were killed or wounded Sunday when troops and national police attacked the presidential palace with mortars and artillery shortly after dawn.

Some firing was also reported from a military camp in the center of the city, which was named Ft. Lamy when Chad was a French colony. Chad is a poverty-stricken republic in north central Africa.

The palace guard resisted for about four hours, the sources reported. After the firing subsided, jubilant troops drove through the streets shouting: "We've won! Tombalbaye is dead!" Gen. Noel Odingar, acting commander of the armed forces, ordered a dusk-to-dawn curfew in the country and appealed for calm. He said: "Our forces have taken their responsibility before God and the nation."

The new military rulers ordered leaders of Chad's only political party, the Movement for Cultural and Social Revolution, to meet at the city's race course along with members of the Supreme Court and legislators present in the capital and promised they would be safe.

Several thousand French troops are stationed in Chad, but there was no word of any action by them. About 3,000 French civilians living in N'Djamena were reported safe. The coup makes Chad the 19th African country under military rule.

Tombalbaye, 56, was a former schoolteacher and union leader who entered politics in 1946, served as president of the National Assembly, premier and defense minister under the French, and became president in 1960 when the drought-stricken country of desert and jungle got its independence from France. He was elected in 1962 and re-elected without opposition for another seven-year term in 1969.

City's Fall Now Seems Imminent

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Rebel forces fought their way into the western outskirts of Phnom Penh today. They burned down refugee camps in the area and sent thousands of civilians fleeing toward the center of the city in panic, field reports said.

The fall of the city seemed imminent.

The government clamped a 24-hour curfew on the shrinking Phnom Penh enclave in an attempt to keep order. Shops were shuttered in the center of Phnom Penh and there were only a few people on the streets.

Headquarters Bombed An Air Force T28 fighter-bomber, flown by a pilot that the government called a "criminal" trying to destroy the Cambodian people and armed forces, bombed the military command's headquarters in the capital, killing seven persons, but no member of the general staff, the government radio said. The rebel radio appealed to government troops to lay down their arms and join the insurgents, and there were reports that hundreds of rebel soldiers were infiltrating into Phnom Penh. Field reports said insurgent troops were on the road to the airport.

Airport Closed The Phnom Penh airport was reported closed, and a government broadcast said several planes under contract to the U.S. government air-dropped fuel and ammunition into Phnom Penh and several other cities.

Lt. Gen. Sak Suthsakhon, the armed forces chief and new head of the government, claimed resistance against the insurgents was continuing. He ordered a round-the-clock curfew as the bombing of the military headquarters touched off panic among the population. Small arms fire could be heard as military police tried to control the terrified people.

Defense Column Formed Field reports said the Khmer Rouge were in Samrong village, one mile north of the airport. They said 1,000 government troops had formed a defense column along a railroad track parallel to Route 3, the road from Phnom Penh to the airport, which is four miles to the west of the city.

Three rebel commandos reportedly set fire to refugee camps northwest of Phnom Penh, and Route 3 was choked with panic-stricken refugees on foot, ox carts or motorbikes streaming into the city.

Military police used the butts of their weapons in a futile effort to maintain order on the highway.

U.S. Supply Drops In Washington, a Pentagon spokesman said U.S. cargo planes made several supply drops into the city.

"We will never surrender," Premier Long Boret declared. But his troops obviously were unable to check the Khmer Rouge advance.

Long Boret was one of seven political and military leaders named by armed forces chief of staff Gen. Sak Suthsakhon to govern Phnom Penh after Acting President Sau Kham Khoy (See CAMBODIA Page 2A)

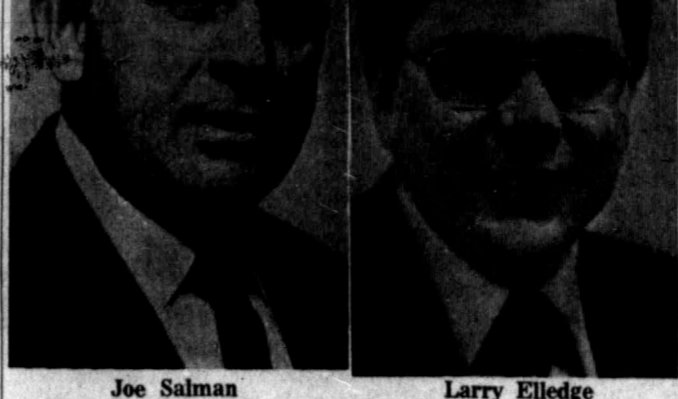

Spanish-American War Vets Become Scarce; Many Surprisingly Active

By JERRY T. BAULCH
WASHINGTON (AP) — The day is rapidly approaching when the ranks of America's oldest veterans, those who fought in the Spanish-American war, will dwindle to fewer than 1,000. But many are still surprisingly spry.

The Veterans Administration counted 1,086 Spanish-American war vets alive last month. That compares with 1,595 alive last July and 1,804 alive in July of 1973. There were 392,000 Americans who participated in the turn-of-the-century hostilities. The oldest is believed to be 105-year-old Nelson Norton of Whitesboro, Ind., whose 95-year-old brother, Everett, of Palestine, Ill., makes them the only known Spanish-American war brothers alive. Nelson lives with his 70-year-old daughter.

The youngest veterans of that war are probably 87, with the average around 95. There are 36 who are 100 years or older. More than half require somebody to help them get around, but that's how the VA dis-

Six Persons Die In Head-On Crash

THIBODAUX, La. (AP) — A car carrying seven persons veered off and back on the highway and collided with another car, killing six persons Sunday, state police said.

Officers said they did not know why the car went out of control.

The lone occupant of the second car, Joseph E. Ward of Morgan City, La., suffered minor injuries.

The only survivor in the other car was identified as Mary Ann Barnes, 27, of Labadieville, La., who was reported in serious condition.

Names of the dead were withheld until relatives could be notified.

Brown, arrested Saturday, was being held without bond at the Lee County jail at Opelika, authorities said.

The victims were identified as:—Brown's children, Donna, 6 months; Anita, 4 years; Richard, 5; Vicky, 7, and Wanda, 2.

Another, age 98, had just returned from 18 holes of golf. He explained it helped restore his strength after a series of heart attacks and he mentioned that he is still "dating."

VA counselors shared lunch with a 95-year-old veteran who had given up his hearing business only four years earlier. After lunch, he crushed an empty beer can in his hand.

All the states have Spanish-American war veterans, with California having the most by far, with 180.

Alaska, Delaware, Vermont and New Mexico each has only one Spanish-American war veteran still alive, according to VA records. Florida, with 80, has the second highest total behind California.

Judge Refuses To Order Acquittal For Connally

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief U.S. District Judge George L. Hart refused today to order acquittal of former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, charged with bribery.

Hart's ruling means Connally's trial will continue with the defense presenting its case.

Connally's lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, had asked the judge to order the jury to acquit Connally because of insufficient evidence and because prosecutors chose the wrong law to accuse him of violating.

Hart disagreed on both counts.

Connally is accused of taking two illegal $5,000 gifts in 1971 for urging President Nixon to order an increase in milk price supports.

Williams argued that the chief witness in the case, Jake Jacobsen, gave testimony so maintained by Jacobsen's prior perjury and his plea bargain with prosecutors that no jury could believe his accusations beyond reasonable doubt.

Jacobsen, one-time lawyer for Associated Milk Producers Inc., swears Connally took the gifts.

But Jacobsen also says he lied under oath on previous occasions when he swore Connally didn't take the money. And he accused Connally only as part of a deal in which the government reduced a number of felony counts against Jacobsen to a single bribe count.

Congress Eyes 'Food Stamp' Plan For Embattled Auto Manufacturers

By G. DAVID WALLACE
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is considering a bill to boost employment in the depressed auto industry by having the federal government buy 121,000 new cars and trucks to replace virtually all of its nationwide fleet.

The proposal, characterized by one supporter as a "food stamp program for the automobile manufacturers," would cost $443 million. Its provisions are included in the emergency employment bill which has passed the House and is pending in the Senate.

Instead of replacing its vehicles only after six years or 60,000 miles, the government would replace all but those bought after May 1974.

But President Ford feels the measure is uneconomical, says White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen. James T. Lynn, director of the Office of Management and Budget, says the provision is one reason he would recommend the President veto the bill in its current form.

Because not all of the $443 million would be spent in the same fiscal year, administration officials are hard pressed to figure out exactly how much the measure would add to the budget deficit for fiscal 1976, which Ford has said should be limited to $60 billion.

Nessen has also complained that the bill would "take away $4,000 sales from new and used car dealers because the government, in effect, would be competing with the new and used car dealers." The number used by Nessen is the number of 2-year-old to 6-year-old cars which would be sold by GSA to make room for the new cars.

But specialists in the used car market don't share the White House concern. "My feeling is it would have little, if any, impact on the used car market," said Harry Lawrence, the National Automobile Dealers Association official who compiles the authoritative "Blue Book" on used car prices.

Stanley Roe, a statistician for the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association, said the main reason the big purchase would be likely to have a quick impact on employment is because government cars are special orders. That means that instead of simply drawing down their sizeable inventories to fill the orders, manufacturers would have to crank up their assembly lines.

Heavy Rains Soak Gulf Coast States

The eastern portions of the Great Plains had scattered rain, drizzle and fog, while snow was reported in portions of western North Dakota and northwest Kansas.

Stockmen's advisories remained in effect today for parts of northeast and north central Kansas, as well as southwest and central Nebraska because of cold rains.

Elsewhere, skies were clear throughout the Great Lakes region, Central Appalachians, New England and Mid-Atlantic Coast States.

Temperatures early today ranged from 17 at Phillipsburg, Pa., to 79 at Key West, Fla.

Some other temperatures and weather conditions included: Anchorage 34 light snow, Atlanta 48 rain, Boston 37 clear, Buffalo 30 clear, Chicago 41 cloudy, Cincinnati 40 clear, Cleveland 29 clear, Dallas 52 cloudy, Denver 33 clear, Detroit 30 clear, Honolulu 73 clear, Indianapolis 42 clear, Kansas City 43 rain, Los Angeles 57 cloudy, Louisville 45 cloudy, Miami 78 cloudy, Minneapolis-St. Paul 43 cloudy, Nashville 53 cloudy, New York City 37 clear, Philadelphia 36 clear, Phoenix 58 clear, Pittsburgh 29 clear, St. Louis 50 cloudy, San Francisco 49 cloudy, Seattle 40 clear, Washington 42 clear.

Search For Bodies Of Missing Girls Proves Fruitless

PORT LAVACA, Tex. (AP) — A search for the bodies of three missing Fort Worth girls ended without success Sunday after more than 100 volunteers and law officers searched beneath bridges along Texas 35 south of here for six hours.

The search was headed by Jon Swaim, a private detective from Fort Worth, and Maurice Woods, Calhoun County sheriff. It centered beneath a bridge spanning Hog Bayou, where Swaim said an anonymous caller told him the girls' bodies would be found.

Among the searchers were members of the missing girls' families.

The girls have been missing since Dec. 23 when they disappeared while on a shopping trip to Seminary South shopping center on Fort Worth's south side.

Dear Abby People Don't Consider Feelings Of Handicapped

— By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Thank God someone wrote in to say she had had it with clods who always ask handicapped people, "What happened to you?"

I am engaged to a handsome 24-year-old man who lost his left hip and leg to cancer surgery. He wears a prosthesis, but it doesn't function like a real leg, and he must also use crutches and has a lot of difficulty getting around.

It never fails, no matter where we go. Some idiot will come up to him and ask, "What happened to you?" When he tells them, they reply that they know about a dozen people who had the same thing and most of them just died from it. This is the God's truth. We have gone to restaurants and have had drunks come up and fall all over us slobbering and crying about what a pity it is to see such a good-looking young man in such terrible shape.

Believe me, we have taken to staying home lately rather than to go out and run into such stupid numbskulls.

Please ask parents to teach their children to be a little more considerate of handicapped people. They've suffered enough.

ALSO HAD IT WITH CLODS

DEAR ABBY: The annual "POOR-ME" award should go to "Had it with Clods." She (or he) wrote, "The next time you see a handicapped person, don't ask, 'What happened to your legs?' What happened to your arm? What happened to your face? Just keep your mouth shut and leave us alone!"

"Had it" appears to be suffering from a disability far more serious than physical. An emotional one.

Unfortunately the "leave us alone attitude" is exactly what the physically handicapped do not need. They need more attention when it comes to building designs, education, employment, medical assistance and housing. The tendency to divorce the physically disabled from the mainstream of life is one of their biggest problems. I am an active, 50-year-old, single paraplegic, and I sure as hell don't want to be left alone. I want to live, learn, work and play. And I enjoy flirting with the opposite sex just as any other redheaded healthy grandmother would—I just do it from a fast-rolling wheelchair.

PEGGY BENDRICK, RICHMOND, VA.

DEAR ABBY: I have the perfect solution to the "clod" who asks, "How did you lose your leg?"

Simply say, "I will tell you if you promise that you will not ask another question about it."

When the "clod" promises, reply, "It was bitten off. Now—no more questions from you!"

WINTER HAVEN, FLA.

DEAR ABBY: Can you stand one more "clod" letter?

I have a friend who has one leg and a marvelous sense of humor. Someone once asked, "Chum, how did you lose your leg?" He replied, "I didn't lose it. I know where it is!"

OAK PARK, ILL.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "Had it with clods," the handicapped person who resented being asked about his (or her) handicap.

I, too, have a handicap that shows—arms, legs, face. But unlike "Had it," I am not resentful if strangers inquire.

My handicap is part of me, although admittedly, probably the least important part of all. But if someone is sufficiently interested to ask, why shouldn't I answer politely and calmly?

ANSWER POLITELY AND CALMLY

Luncheon Honors Two Senior Girls

Mrs. Debbie Gentry Elder and Leslie Hahn, graduating seniors at Lee High School, were the honorees at a luncheon held Saturday in the Garden Room of Midland Country Club.

Mrs. Elder is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gentry, and Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Hahn are the parents of Miss Hahn.

Spring floral arrangements were used in the table decorations.

To pretend that the handicap doesn't exist, and to expect others to, is unrealistic.

In the case of people who ask maliciously, I think it's even more important to answer them calmly and kindly. They obviously need to be shown an example of gracious behavior.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Folks:
 As far as I am concerned, ground beef (hamburger) is the most popular meat in the entire universe because it has so many uses.

Heloise's Hamburger: A Dee-Licious Budget Saver

meat packer, I learned just what extenders are, what CAN and should be used, and the things that CANNOT be added to hamburger because they show or just won't mix.
 Extenders are something that we add to ground meat, which blend into the meat and when it's cooked it seems to have disappeared, and the meat looks like ALL meat. In other words, it doesn't show anything has been added.
 Naturally, some things we do not want to disappear — such as grated carrots — because they add color, etc.
 Ground or finely crushed corn flakes, or any other cereal that suits your taste, such as oatmeal (pre-cooked or raw), bread crumbs, cracker crumbs, packaged turkey stuffing which contains sage (and that is wonderful . . . wow!) can be blended into the hamburger and will disappear when it's cooked.
 Now here are some hints on what NOT to use because they don't blend with the meat without showing when it's cooked — if that's what you want.
 Enriched farina cereal . . . just plain won't blend, etc.
 Rice will show up in the cooking as a separate ingredient.
 So don't forget, gals, try those wonderful stretchers and extenders. They're worthy in my book.
 Use them along with the bouillon cubes. (And I often wonder why somebody doesn't make HAM bouillon cubes.)
 And don't forget to try that packaged turkey stuffing. If you can't afford it, save your bread and use that for stretching, and when you add your liquid to your meat loaf, just put a dab or so of sage into the liquid, then squeeze and mix away. And don't ask me how much a "dab" is! Just use it according to your own taste. You can also use poultry seasoning 'stead of sage. I sometimes mix both together.
 Anyway, here's to it. I do suggest that you try these meat extenders.

Last night, I put chili powder (yep, one teaspoonful) with some grated onions in my pound of hamburger meat, and it was a knockout!
 Sort of gave it the flavor of barbecue. Imagine?
 Love you,
 Heloise

WHAT IS THE TRUTH?

"Thy Word is Truth" (John 17:17)
 by Bryan Bost
 What would happen if the apostle Paul came to Midland? What would he say? How would Midlanders respond? While these are hypothetical questions, we can discover what happened when he went to the city of Corinth by reading Acts 18.

Paul came to Corinth to preach the good news about Jesus Christ. At first he could only preach part of the time, having to work as a tentmaker to support himself. When financial help arrived, he spent all of his time preaching. His preaching won both eager listeners and vocal opponents. The outcome is stated in verse 8 of the chapter: "many of the Corinthians hearing Paul believed and were baptized."

What would happen if Paul came to Midland? I don't know, and, anyway, the apostle has been dead for nineteen centuries. However, the gospel he preached is available today in Midland. And in Midland as in Corinth people who learn the truth of the gospel believe and are baptized.

American To Lead Climb Of Second Highest Peak

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Seattle, regards K2 as tougher in some ways than Everest. The mountain, assailed by unpredictable weather, is steep on every side. There are no easy routes and few camp site possibilities.

Some 600 porters have been engaged to carry 22,000 pounds of equipment and food to the 18,000-foot-level, the base camp for seven higher camps. The final assault on the summit will come in July or August.

The first attempt to scale K2 was made by Briton Oscar Eckenstein in 1902. He failed. Since then, only six other attempts were made, of which only one was successful. A 1954 Italian expedition scaled the southeastern ridge to achieve the summit.

Whittaker's 26-year-old photographer-wife vows to make the K2 expedition the best photographed climb in mountaineering history. She's taking 13,000 feet of 11 millimeter movie film and 1,000 rolls of 35 mm color.

"This is an outstanding opportunity to do superb photographic work," she said, noting that the expedition has publishing arrangements with National Geographic and the Sierra Club, which together have underwritten $45,000 of the expenses. The total cost of the climb will run about $200,000.

"This opportunity comes along only once in 100 lifetimes," she said feelingly. "I'm a photographer but I'm a member of the expedition too and I'm going to do everything I can to get somebody on the summit."

Whittaker, general manager of a huge sports-camping supply business centered in Seattle, has already shipped more than 10 tons of supplies to Skardu, 125 miles from K2. The expedition leaves from Seattle.

"The northwest ridge hasn't even been attempted before," said Whittaker in an interview.

In May 1963, Whittaker became the first American to set foot on the 29,023-foot summit of Mt. Everest.

American Fathers Encounter Troubles Getting Stepchildren Out Of Vietnam

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — American fathers with stepchildren in Vietnam are finding it extremely difficult to get their children out of the country before the war reaches them.

Air Force S.Sgt. Elton Johnson, now stationed at Dyess Air Force Base, says he has been trying for a year to obtain proper documents for his two stepdaughters and a stepson in Vietnam.

He married his wife in Vietnam and they had two children who were able to return to the United States with them since they were naturalized citizens.

His wife, Huu Thi, says she fears for her children's lives if Saigon falls to the Communists.

"When I was in Vietnam after the Tet offensive in 1968, we got reports of Communist death lists in which teachers, priests and anyone else connected with Americans were executed," Johnson said.

"We had been told that the Communists would kill any children resembling Americans," he said. "People who have seen what happens there have no doubt that it can happen."

Johnson said he finally got approval from the State Department Friday for the three children to immigrate but he still faces getting visas from the South Vietnamese government. It's been two years since he's seen his stepchildren, Kim Chi, Kim Chau and Hoang Tuan, who are living with a teen-aged aunt in Saigon.

The war being so close to Saigon has made it increasingly harder to obtain the necessary documents, such as birth certificates, Johnson said.

Another Abilene man in a similar situation is James Indindoli, a retired chief warrant officer who has three stepdaughters in Saigon.

"We were going to let them finish high school before bringing them over here," Indindoli said.

"But of course now we are trying everything we can to get them out as fast as we can. I could write a book about all the darn red tape—theirs and ours," he said.

Anderson Faces Trial For DWI

MILLERSVILLE, Md. (AP) — Dale Anderson, the former Baltimore County executive convicted last year on charges growing out of the probe that toppled former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, will go on trial Tuesday on charges of drunken driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Anderson, 53, was stumbling and slurring his speech when he was arrested Saturday night, according to Anne Arundel County police. He was jailed at county police headquarters here for several hours and later released on his own recognizance.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, April 14, the 104th day of 1975. There are 261 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: In 1865, President Abraham Lincoln was shot by John Wilkes Booth at Ford's Theater in Washington. Lincoln died the next morning.

On this date — In 1775, Philadelphia Quakers under Benjamin Franklin organized the first society for the abolition of slavery.

In 1890, delegates to the Washington conference of American states created what was to become the Pan American Union.

In 1912, the ocean liner, "Titanic," struck an iceberg in the North Atlantic shortly before midnight. The ship sank two and one-half hours later, with the loss of more than 1,500 lives.

In 1931, King Alfonso of Spain went into exile, and the Spanish Republic was proclaimed.

In 1945, in the Pacific war, U.S. B-29 bombers pounded Tokyo and the Japanese imperial palace.

Ten years ago: British Prime Minister Harold Wilson began a visit to the United States. The emphasis in talks with President Lyndon Johnson was on Britain's economic problems.

Five years ago: The Apollo 13 spacecraft headed back to earth after a moon mission that had been aborted because of mechanical problems.

One year ago: The first U.S. communications satellite, Westar 1, was launched.

Today's birthdays: Actress Julie Christie is 34. Actor Rod Steiger is 50.

Thought for today: no matter how much cats fight, there always seems to be plenty of kittens — Abraham Lincoln.

Takeout Double Shows Good Support

Most players know about the takeout double. What they don't know is how the partner should respond and how the doubler should rebid. Perhaps we can clear up these mysteries by discussing the takeout double this week.

South has a very weak hand and must make a simple (non-jump) response. South's preferred response is one spade. The takeout double, meant as a move toward game, should promise good support for at least one major suit. When the responder has a choice, therefore, he should go slightly out of his way to bid a major rather than a minor suit.

North passes the response of one spade. He knows that the simple response shows 0 to 8 points. (South would take stronger action if he had more than 8 points.)

Even though the bidding continues, North and South know they are not heading toward game. At a part score in spades, South may win 9 tricks, losing one spade, one diamond and two clubs. However, West can get a diamond ruff if the defenders lead diamonds at every opportunity.

DAILY QUESTION

The opening bid, at your left, is one club. Partner doubles, and the next player passes. You hold: S-A 10 4 H-7 6 4 3 D-8 7 3 C-A 10 5. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart. You have 8 points, maximum value for a non-jump response.

Unneeded, Unwanted!

American consumers, by a 75 per cent majority, are opposed to the creation of a new superagency to protect their interests as consumers.

This, of course, is contrary to a view spread on Capitol Hill by active consumer groups, but it is the percentage figure revealed by a nationwide survey of public attitudes made by Opinion Research Corporation of Princeton, N.J.

The same survey discovered that approximately 13 per cent of those polled favor creation of a new independent agency. But it is significant that more than 50 per cent said they would just as soon forget it if it was going to cost $60 million to operate its first three years of existence.

It isn't surprising that Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., is sponsor of Senate Bill 200, the 1975 version of consumer protection legislation, which was reported out by the Senate Government Operations Com-

'Envy Of The Nation'

Members of the Texas Legislature should heed the observation of a Wall Street banker that Texas electric utilities are the envy of the nation, and it would be a mistake to regulate them.

John F. Childs told the House State Affairs Committee, "You have been highly successful under your existing system."

He went on to say that many utilities, particularly in other states, today are struggling to get capital.

"That means the consumer is going to pay," the banker said. He warned also that investors may shun Texas electric utilities if the system is changed.

This is something which the legislators, as well as consumers, could and should be able to understand.

Other opponents of proposed utility regulation bills, including Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. and representatives of other West Texas cities, also have presented factual testimony against utility regulation proposals at the state level. The proposals should be cast aside by the legislature.

The committee, by a 7-6 margin, voted to retain exemption of organized labor's activities from the purview of the new agency.

The exemption promises to bring on a big floor fight. A strong majority of the people, according to the Opinion Research poll, believe they are treated fairly by business, regardless of what the consumer groups maintain.

The survey found that 27 per cent of consumers believe they are "almost always" treated fairly by business, while an additional 59 per cent feel they are "usually" treated fairly.

It is interesting to note also that business fared better than government agencies on the question.

The Opinion Research poll, incidentally, is one of the most comprehensive efforts to learn what consumers—rather than consumer activists, are thinking. It was sponsored by the Business Roundtable, which represents more than 100 major companies.

Second Thoughts

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — For a moment in history, Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis was superb. The nation will not soon forget that time of shock and grief after Dallas when she rose above the shattering personal ordeal to give those bitter hours a presence of dignity and nobility which has become part of our national heritage.

And there were other moments, too, when this most beautiful of First Ladies helped to weave the spell—that mixture of high purpose, vaulting aspirations and joy in life and the battle—that was once called Camelot.

For the Kennedy legions who look to her as the keeper of the legend and to the millions who saw her as a latter-day Madonna, her sudden marriage to Aristotle Onassis—the aging, alien gnome of colossal wealth and sinister reputation—clouded the vision of Camelot.

Reassuring explanations were put out about the bereaved widow's need for a quiet haven, about Onassis' submerged irresistibility. But the matriarch Rose Kennedy spoke for the majority when, after a kindly reference to Onassis, she expressed her reaction to the marriage: "I was completely surprised. In fact, I was stunned and then perplexed."

Up to now, out of respect for what once was, we have been content to let the matter rest there in a merciful fog. But we never doubted that the time would come when the full story, even if it turned out to be unfavorable, would be told.

For Mrs. JFK is forever a historical figure, whose entire life will be studied as diligently as, for instance, the lives of Mary Todd Lincoln and Eleanor Roosevelt continue to be. To the historical interest now is joined a current public interest in discovering the disposition and control of one of the world's greatest financial empires.

We have interviewed dozens of intimates of both Jacqueline and Aristotle Onassis. We have reviewed some of Jackie's personal letters and have examined other private documents. Witnesses have given us detailed accounts of Ari's most private conversations. Every fact to be cited here, and in columns to come, has been corroborated by two or more independent, competent witnesses.

We can reveal that Jacqueline Onassis will not control any part of the Onassis empire, nor is it planned that she will receive an inheritance of any significance. The keys to that kingdom will be held by the departed shipping magnate's daughter, Christina.

Jackie has not been left destitute, however. For she carefully provided for herself in advance of her remarriage. Sources close to the couple say she wheedled a pre-nuptial commitment from Ari. As he later recounted to intimates, she pleaded that the marriage would cost her the support of the Kennedys and that she simply had to have some money of her own.

INSIDE REPORT—

Vietnam: Eternal Dishonor, Or What?

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — One morning recently a top-level Pentagon official was horrified to hear the television news quoting Gen. George Brown from Indonesia on possible renewed U.S. military intervention in Vietnam—his horror pointing up the impossible dilemma facing President Ford and darkening this nation's future.

The Defense Department civilian immediately placed a transoceanic telephone call to Gen. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, in Jakarta. Brown protested he had been slightly misquoted. However, he did concede saying that renewed U.S. bombing was an option to consider. Since Mr. Ford March 6 ruled out any return of American military force to Indochina, Brown's explanation did not greatly reassure the Pentagon official.

But this was not just another blooper by the General. It reflects widespread feeling among senior U.S. military officers that a bombing bluff might at least slow down the Hanoi politburo's plans to swallow South Vietnam. That, in turn, reflects the pessimism engulfing the national security establishment here over Vietnam—particularly since Gen. Frederick Weyand, Army Chief of Staff, and other officials had a firsthand look.

There is no realistic hope that South Vietnam can survive the invading horde from the north. The attempt to give Hanoi pause by talk of renewed bombing is intended not to save the country but merely win enough time to evacuate hundreds of thousands of South Vietnamese doomed to death or imprisonment by the Communist takeover.

Whatever its purpose, high officials here view any threat of bombing as futile—its credibility doomed by public and congressional opposition. Thus, having assured the victory of the North Vietnamese military juggernaut by reneging on its commitments, the U.S. may now be guilty of a more poignant betrayal in leaving its South Vietnamese friends to their doom.

The hopelessness of the situation was brought home last week to Gen. Weyand's traveling party, stunned by the deterioration of South Vietnamese leadership. They were told by the people of Saigon, from politicians to the man in the street, that fresh leadership must be exerted with the newly reclusive President Nguyen Van Thieu shoved into the background.

The unanimous choice to lead is Lt. Gen. Ngo Quang Truong, considered not only the finest troop commander in the South Vietnamese army (ARVN) but one of the best in the world. Yet, symbolizing the despair in Saigon, Truong is now hospitalized there with temporary exhaustion following disintegration of his entire army corps in the north.

In truth, however, even revitalized leadership would face impossible odds, thanks to the disastrous ARVN retreat combined with the flood southward of North Vietnam's strategic reserves; (contradicting the notion of a "civil war"). ARVN combat effectiveness has been halved, from 109,000 to 54,000; Communist main force strength is 225,000 and growing. Lavishly supplied with Soviet tanks and heavy artillery, the North Vietnamese firepower advantage is awesome.

With some of ARVN's best divisions having panicked in the north, there is no certainty that generally inferior troops to the south will stand and fight. The 7th and 9th divisions, the best ARVN units in the Mekong Delta, have been fighting mostly Vietcong guerrillas; now they must encounter crack North Vietnamese regular divisions, which have pulled away from Tay Ninh and are moving into the Delta to complete the final envelopment of Saigon.

Realistically, the remaining question in South Vietnam is who shall leave. At least 5 to 6 million probably want to escape Communist rule. By limiting the figure to ARVN officers, government officials and their families, the figure still exceeds one million. Even a draconian paring to those Vietnamese certain to face Communist repression—employees of the U.S. government, those who worked with the CIA and high officials of the Saigon regime—would total 150,000.

One means to evacuation would be negotiation with Hanoi, but nobody here believes the politburo would agree to any such exodus. The other option: force or the threat of force by Washington.

That has produced brainstorming here about landing U.S. Marines and warning Hanoi of renewed bombing to permit breathing space and time for evacuation—brainstorming reflected by Gen. Brown in Jakarta. But the reality, recognized by high officials, is that no credible threat can be made in today's American political climate. Thus, the prospect is not only a Communist takeover but abandonment by the United States of all but a handful of millions of Vietnamese who placed their faith in this country.

Military expert Sir Robert Thompson stopped in Washington six weeks ago on his way home to London from Vietnam while public and congressional opinion loudly denounced permanent U.S. commitments in Indochina. "Eternal dishonor," commented Sir Robert, "is a permanent commitment." That will be a heavy load for Americans to bear in the years ahead.

NICK THIMMESCH —

Reverse Discrimination At D.C. Conference

WASHINGTON—Racism can cut many ways, including blacks against whites. Usually, we can only deplore racism, but if federal funds are involved, we can act.

There's reason to believe that federal "tax dollars, paid by blacks and whites, might have helped support an African Heritage Studies Assn. conference here recently which barred a reporter because she was white. This incident should be looked into.

The reporter, Diane Brockett of the Washington Evening Star, asked why she was forbidden to enter the meeting where D.C. School Superintendent Barbara Sizemore was to deliver the conference keynote speech and was told, "because you're white."

The conference cochairman, Dr. Ronald W. Walters of Howard University, was quoted as explaining that the association has a longstanding rule of allowing only blacks to attend and that "it's our experience that whites would come to our meetings and try to rip off information."

Two black reporters from The Washington Post were admitted to the conference proceedings, held at the Shoreham Americana Hotel.

Now, Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act states that no federal funds may be used for programs or activities which discriminate as to race, color or national origin. The conference's official program lists as "Secretariat and Co-Sponsors," the Afro-American Studies Program of the University of Maryland, and the African Studies Program of Howard University. Sources at both programs told me that their staffs, facilities and postage were used to support the conference.

The University of Maryland program receives no federal funds. But Howard University received $49.8 million for academic purposes in the current fiscal year from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare—thus federal funding. Spokesmen at Howard would not deny that staff and facilities dependent on federal funds were used to support the conference.

Dr. Sulu Nyang, director of Howard's African Studies Department, acknowledged his department helped this way. Chairpersons for the conference were Dr. Nancy Arnez, acting dean of Howard's school of education, and Walters, who is chairman of Howard's political science department. Additionally, Asst. Prof. Robert McGuire, of Howard, co-ordinated the labor and facilities contributions of the two schools and also served as program chairman.

Can you imagine the fuss, say, if a white ethnic organization, drawing support from federally financed activities, would bar blacks from a national conference here? The uproar would be loud and justified.

Not so with the African Heritage conference just concluded here. The biggest uproar was provided by Superintendent Sizemore, who charged some members of the school board (black and white) with "promoting and maintenance of the idea that blacks are incompetent and/or inferior."

"... a racist white culture will try to rid itself of black rule," Mrs. Sizemore cried out to conference delegates. She painted a conspiratorial policy wherein young, middle-class married whites would be lured back into the city, and where tenure was being abolished so that black administrators and teachers "can be removed easily upon the return of whites to the city." She also claimed the board, which has a black majority, is blocking her efforts to change schools so they won't just benefit "affluent whites of European descent."

Mrs. Sizemore must know that only 4 per cent of D.C. public school enrollment is white, and it's hard to conceive how the well-funded public schools (currently $1,579 per pupil) are run for affluent whites. The D.C. schools are bad because of bad administration; middle-class blacks here know that better than anyone.

The power structure in D.C. government is black, not white, as Mrs. Sizemore charges. The mayor is black, so is the sole U.S. congressman, and 11 of the 13 members of the city council.

If a black official, like Councilman Marion Berry, disagrees with her, then, naturally, he's a dupe of the whites. Berry's response to Mrs. Sizemore's blasts was to say: "If she spent as much time teaching kids how to read and write as she does attacking people, the city would be much better off."

What all this has to do with African heritage is another question, the kind which perplexes authentic Africans like Howard's Dr. Nyang and Dr. Mariyo Nzuwah, director of African Studies at the University of Maryland. Neither appreciates apartheid of whites or blacks.

"I disagree with Dr. Walters who wants to keep whites out of our meetings," Dr. Nzuwah told me. "We have integrated faculty and classes in my department. We must all live in this world as human beings. All can make a contribution. The public should know what African scholars think, and they can only learn if we let all reporters in, black and white."

Yanks Win One Finally

By The Associated Press
Hey, guess what? The New York Yankees won a ballgame.

Normally, that wouldn't be so surprising—but it is the way New York's "finest" have been playing so far this season. The Yankees, on paper one of the strongest teams in the American League, had gone nearly a week without a victory before finally breaking the ice Sunday.

"The fans seem to be worrying more about the early losses than the players do," said Doc Medich, whose two-hit beauty earned the Yankees a 6-0 victory in the first game of a doubleheader with the Detroit Tigers.

The Yankees then reverted to early-season form and dropped the second game, their fourth loss of the year, by a 5-2 score. Sunday's first game total was the biggest run production so far this season by the Yankees, who currently have last place all to themselves in the American League East.

Jackson Batters Travelers By 9-1
By The Associated Press
The Jackson Mets gathered 15 hits Sunday in a rout of the Arkansas Travelers in Little Rock Sunday, winning 9-1 in Texas League action.

Jackson righthander Greg Palvick scattered five hits in getting the win. Traveler pitcher Mark Covert did not allow a hit the first five innings but the Mets then pounded him.

Spirit Flip-Flop Bewilders Nets
By The Associated Press
The New York Nets, the American Basketball Association's defending champions, are on the verge of elimination from the playoffs at the unlikely hands of the Spirits of St. Louis.

"They're playing good ball, we're just playing better," said St. Louis Coach Bob McKinnon after his young club beat New York 100-89 Sunday night to take surprising 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven Eastern Division semifinal series.

The Spirits finished 20 games below .500 and a whopping 26 games behind New York during the regular season. They lost all 11 regular-season meetings with the Nets and the first game of the playoff series.

But since then, it's been all St. Louis, and the Spirits need only one more victory in the next three games to advance to the division semifinals against the Kentucky Colonels.

Japan's 'Examination Hell' Hikes Youth Suicide Rates

By SUMI OKUMA
Kyodo - Copley News Service
TOKYO — Preceding the new Japanese school year each April is a traumatic, sometimes fatal ordeal through which all Japanese students must pass—the "shiken jigoku" or "examination hell."

Traumatic because the results largely determine an examinee's future in Japan's bureaucratic, "one-road-to-success" society. Sometimes fatal because of Japanese social acceptance of "taking responsibility" for a person's real or imagined failures. With youthful suicides on the increase, Japan is competing with Germany for the highest international suicide statistics for citizens under age 25. In the case of Japan, examination pressures are the major cause of teen-age suicides.

The Japanese road to success can be summed up in the word "education"—which here means passing exams to enter the "right" schools from which the "best" companies annually hire new employees. Because of Japan's traditional lifetime employment system, what school a student enters largely determines which company he can get into, thus making it one of the most important decisions in his life.

Aggravating this is the fact that, unlike in the United States, where job mobility is high and even encouraged, Japanese companies still generally view with suspicion anyone who seeks to change jobs, labeling him "unstable" or "irresponsible."

With Japan's college-age population reaching two million this spring, competition for entering top schools like Tokyo University is grueling. Chances of successfully passing national university entrance tests this year are slimmer than last, particularly for those aspiring to enter medical and dental courses—which are most popular because they represent a stable, high-income, lifelong meal ticket.

As noted in the 1974 Government White Paper On School Children and Youth, the ordeal of preparing for entrance examinations increasingly affects junior high, elementary and preschool pupils. More and more children now forgo outdoor play in order to cram, either under private tutors at home or at special cram schools, called "juku," outside of school hours.

According to a survey cited in the government's white paper, high school students spend twice as much time as college students studying outside regular classes, averaging over eight hours daily. Elementary school students average just under eight hours daily at the same thing.

With the coming of examination hell season, visitors to "tenjin" shrines nationwide increase dramatically. These shrines house the spirit of Sugawara Michizane (845-903 A.D.), a scholar-statesman who students hope will pass on some of his famous cleverness when hearing their prayers.

One large central Tokyo shrine has enjoyed a 20 per cent increase in business over last year, with an average 1,000 visitors daily. A third of this year's visitors were elementary school pupils and their parents.

Side by side with junior and senior high students, the grade schoolers pray for success in their exams and buy talismans on which prayers for divine protection are inscribed. Talismans cost about $2.50 apiece.

On buying them, aspirants register their names, addresses and the names of schools they hope to enter. Shrine priests then read these names aloud every morning before the sanctuary, asking Michizane's protection.

Despite divine help, however, places open to successful applicants decrease annually, with the number of those failing increasing.
