Police, FBI uncover few clues in bank robbery

By ED TODD

The possibility of capturing the bandit who got away with $7,000 in bundled cash taken in the noon-time robbery Tuesday of the Western State Bank here appeared bleak today, Midland police Det. Capt. Sid Corley said this morning.

An unobtrusive customer, a man in his mid- to late 20s, strolled into the bank shortly after noon Tuesday, and took his place in line at teller's window No. 4 manned by an unwary Laura Glass.

Moments later, the man unhurriedly left the bank lobby with 10 bundles of $10, $20 and $50 bills in a white paper sack.

"I don't want to hurt anybody — don't make me use it," reportedly told Mrs. Glass after telling her he was armed and wanted large bills from her teller window.

Mrs. Glass, 25, later told police that he man did not openly wield a firearm.

"I haven't the faintest idea why he picked that particular teller," bank President Bill Mewhorter told reporters in one of several press briefings he held in the two hours following the robbery.

The robbery is possibly the first in Midland's banking history, Maj. Wayne Gideon, assistant police chief, said.

The robber had already left the bank before the silent alarm was triggered.

A teller, identified as Reba Jo Waters, working the bank's enclosed drive-in window sighted the hold-up man driving off from the bank's parking lot in a late model green sedan, and caught the last three digits of the car's rear license tag. The tag's letters were blocked by the car's trailer hitch.

But some clues, some apparent major ones, cropped up that afternoon while the Department of Public Safety troopers were setting up roadblocks along the Andrews Highway, other roadways in Midland and in Odessa. The bank is located at 1030 Andrews Hwy.

Police found an abandoned stolen sedan, matching the description of the get-away car, behind White's Auto Store at the Village shopping center two hours after the robbery.

Acting on a tip, the police found a smouldering mass of clothing inside a large culvert at Wall and Midkiff streets.

Police said remains of the burnt clothing may match witnesses' description of the bandit with the brown wavy hair and who was fitted with platform shoes.

Tax cut bill sent to Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate completed congressional action today on a bill, opposed by President Ford, that would extend this year's tax cuts for another six months.

A voice vote in the Senate sent the measure to the White House a few hours after the congressional compromise bill had been accepted in the House by voice vote.

The final congressional approval came after House Speaker Carl Albert said chances are "pretty good" Congress will override the President, who has said he will veto the measure.

Albert said he had no advance vote count, but told reporters: "I sense ... sitting up there in the chair ... that quite a few Republicans would like to be re-elected next year."

Shortly after Albert's comments, the House briefly debated the bill, which lacks a tie to a federal spending ceiling that Ford insists upon.

Just before final debate began the House, by 232 to 178, denied Republican leaders an opportunity to attach the spending ceiling to the six-month measure, previously approved by a Senate-House conference committee.

Americans may see their taxes increase on Jan. 1 unless the lawmakers can override a presidential veto.

"The issue now is whether taxpayers get a big tax increase in January," House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., said Tuesday.

A quick veto could return the bill to Congress in time for an override attempt before the year-end recess, expected to begin later this week.

In what amounted to a test vote on whether the anticipated veto can be sustained, the House refused Tuesday night to rush the bill through to the Senate under a legislative shortcut procedure.

Stevens confirmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today confirmed President Ford's nomination of Judge John Paul Stevens of Chicago to be a Supreme Court Justice.

Stevens will fill the vacancy left by the retirement of Justice William O. Douglas on Nov. 12 because of ill health.

Ford's first appointee to the nation's highest court, Stevens won the unanimous endorsement of the Senate Judiciary Committee after three days of hearings.

Stevens' confirmation by the Senate brings the Supreme Court to full strength for the start of its new term Jan. 12 when the constitutionality of the death penalty and the free press-fair trial controversy will be among the major issues confronting it.

The Supreme Court may hold a special session later this week for the swearing in of Stevens.

Council OK's phone hikes on first reading

By DEBBIE PIERCE

Midland City Council Tuesday gave its okay on first reading to several telephone rate increases requested by Southwestern Bell and agreed to meet in special session with the parks commissioners for further study of a $4.3 million bond proposal.

The telephone rate increases include a 20-cent charge for coin telephone calls, a $1 a month charge for persons with unlisted numbers and an increase in service connection charges.

If approved at the council's next meeting in January, the increases will become effective Feb. 1.

Council also set 7 p.m. Jan. 12 as the date for a special session with members of the Parks and Recreation Commission to go over a $4.3 million bond proposal for parks improvements.

Bill Spruill, Parks Commission chairman, said the group had been working toward the bond proposal for three years and had hoped for a February bond election on the improvements. Commission members agreed with the council that a decision physically could not be made at Tuesday's council session because various notifications had not yet been made. Therefore, the special session date was set to make final preparations on the issue.

The bond proposal will be divided into three sections — community recreation center, improvements and expansion of existing parks and new park development — but will be considered as a single issue.

The annual audit was presented to the council during their lengthy session by the firm of Billingsley, Johnson, Kubica and Co. The firm's study revealed that the City of Midland is over its budget for revenues and under the budget for expenditures.

City Finance Director Robert Massengale said such a wide difference between the city's revenues and expenditures indicated a good economic situation in Midland and would be a good tool to keep from increasing taxes next year.

Council agreed to a priority schedule on the proposed improvements to be made with the recently voted street funds as recommended by Public Works Director Fred Baker.

Mystery woman says she was 'close, personal' friend of JFK

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The dark haired woman linked to President John F. Kennedy and Mafia figures stepped out of the world of whispers today to say she and Kennedy had a relationship "of a close, personal nature."

Judith Campbell Exner, after a life of public obscurity, told a packed news conference that Kennedy telephoned her many times from the White House.

But the artist, estimated to be in her late 30s, denied that Mafia leader Sam Giancana, who was slain in an unsolved shooting last June in Chicago, had used her to transmit messages to the Kennedy White House in connection with a Central Intelligence Agency plot against Fidel Castro.

There has been public speculation that Mrs. Exner — who was once married to actor William Campbell — may have known of Mafia talks with the Central Intelligence Agency about plans to assassinate the Cuban leader.

"I imagine I probably knew they were part of the underworld," Mrs. Exner said of her friends.

In a statement which she read to reporters earlier and then repeated over and over under questioning, Mrs. Exner refused to disclose the extent of her friendship with Kennedy.

Dan Exner, her husband, sat by her side as she read the statement declaring, "I can at this time emphatically state that my relationship with Jack Kennedy was of a close, personal nature and did not involve conspiratorial shenanigans of any kind."

"I originally met Jack Kennedy in early February 1960 in Las Vegas, she said. "We were introduced by a mutual friend. I was introduced to Sam Giancana by the same friend at a party in Miami Beach in late 1960."

Mrs. Exner, attractive in a plaid jacket and blue pants suit, refused time and again to reveal the identity of the mutual friend. But she said she would "do so when the entire story is told."

"Johnny Rosselli and I were introduced by Sam Giancana sometime after March 1960," she said of another man reputed to be a Mafia chieftain.

Tax 'Christmas tree' missing

By PETER MILIUS

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — A frustrated Senate Finance Committee approved about two dozen special-interest tax and tariff bills Tuesday, but without much hope that most of them will pass this year.

The possible beneficiaries range from the makers of Alpo dog food to the Encyclopedia Britannica, from young doctors in Wyoming to a ship-building company in Sturgeon Bay, Wis.

The committee's problem is that it lacked the usual Christmas tree to which to attach these ornaments — a veto-proof bill of the kind usually saved for December as a vehicle for special-interest amendments as Congress rushes to adjourn.

"All this year I've had a little bill and you've said, 'Wait until December,'" Sen. Bob Packwood (R-Ore.) complained to Finance Committee chairman Russell B. Long (D-La.), who had just told him his "little bill" might have to wait a little longer.

"It's not my fault the House doesn't send us more bills," Long replied in defense. The House has to originate all revenue bills.

The committee finally decided that this year it would have three small Christmas trees instead of one large one.

The first, a bill to continue through June 30, 1978, the present suspension of tariffs on spun silk yarn, will be festooned with just "non-controversial" amendments likely to be passed without objection before Congress adjourns, probably Friday.

The other two, to which will be added those of Tuesday's amendments likely to arouse opposition, would speed certain federal payments to the Virgin Islands and would give tax-exempt status to bonds floated to build an Idaho dam whose electric power will be bought by the Idaho Power Company.

The committee approved the amendments by unrecorded voice vote, but in almost no case was there opposition. Among those adopted were:

— A redefinition of the word "grain," as it is used in one part of the tariff laws, so that it includes soybeans. Proposed by Sen. Carl T. Curtis (R-Neb.). This would save Allen products Co. of Allentown, Pa., maker of Alpo, a little more than $100,000 a year in duty on meat it imports mixed with grain. Imported meat with at least 6 per cent grain is duty-free.

— An amendment by Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen (D-Tex.) that would settle a dispute between Encyclopedia Britannica and the Internal Revenue Service over how fast Britannica can write off the research and other similar costs of preparing an encyclopedia. Under Bentsen's proposal, the IRS could insist on slow write-offs in the future, but could not challenge the fast write-offs Britannica has taken in the past.

— Sen. Clifford P. Hansen's (R-Wyo.) amendment exempting from taxation the money his state gives medical students to pay their tuition if they promise to return to Wyoming to practice.

— Another redefinition, this one by Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis.), under which the city of Sturgeon Bay could issue tax-free municipal bonds for construction of a drydock it would lease to the Manitowoc Co., which builds ships.

The law already allows the issuance of such tax-exempt bonds for "docks," and Nelson argued that docks should be construed to mean dry docks as well as all other kinds.

Long at first objected. "There's a great big difference between a dock and a dry dock," he said. "A dock, that's just a place you can bring a ship up to."

Then he relented. "I'm just trying to help everybody get what can be achieved," he said.

Sirica knocks down planned postage rate increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of mailing a letter will remain at 10 cents indefinitely under a court ruling that could mark the end of Saturday mail delivery.

U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica on Tuesday blocked postal rate increases scheduled for Dec. 28, including a rise in the first-class letter rate from 10 to 13 cents. Postal officials say they will appeal.

The decision is the latest in a series of blows to the financially troubled

Postal Service. The service, which had expected to lose $1.4 billion this fiscal year even with the higher rates, says it will have a $2.6-billion deficit without them.

Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar has said the Postal Service might not be able to afford continuation of Saturday delivery even with an increase in postal rates. He indicated further fiscal problems could lead to an early halt in Saturday service.

After Bailar made that statement, he received a bill for workmen's compensation payments $161 million higher than expected. That was before Sirica's decision.

The court decision will cost the Postal Service nearly $7 million every day the higher rates are delayed, a spokesman said.

If Sirica's ruling is upheld on appeal, the Postal Service must once again file for new rates with the Postal Rate Commission. The new rates could be put into effect no sooner than 90 days after the filing.

The Postal Service spokesman said a delay of 90 days would cost about $600 million and accelerate the deficit rate, which already is at a record level.

In halting the Postal Service's planned Dec. 28 increase, Sirica ruled that required steps prior to a rate hike were not taken.

A 1970 law orders the Postal Service to get approval of its board of governors for any new rates before filing for the increase with the Postal Rate Commission. The Postal Service only discussed the general outline of new rates with the governors, Sirica said.

"The board must have before it for its consideration at the time it approves the request, the specific rate and fees to be requested, together with supporting data and documentation," Sirica said.

In addition to invalidating the higher postal rates, Sirica also struck down the Postal Service's plan to raise fees on Jan. 3 on a number of other services, including registered, insured, C.O.D. and certified mail, special delivery and money orders.

Sirica said the Postal Service failed to file with the rate commission for changes in the fees.

The judge ruled in a suit brought by the Association of Third Class Mail Users and the National Easter Seal Society.

Quinlan investigation revealed

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — A newly revealed investigation to determine if someone tried to kill Karen Anne Quinlan before she lapsed into a coma could complicate her parents' battle to allow her to die.

COURT PAPERS filed Tuesday in Rock Island, Ill., disclosed that Miss Quinlan, 21, had a lump on the back of her head and several bruises on the lower part of her body the night she was admitted to a hospital, last April 15.

The New York Post, which broke the story before the court papers were filed, quoted unnamed sources as saying authorities also are trying to determine if a pimp and an "older woman" who worked at a massage parlor may have somehow been involved.

The investigators also want to know whether Miss Quinlan was illegally supplied with the barbiturates and tranquilizers reportedly found in her blood and in urine tests the night she was admitted to the hospital, the newspaper said.

Miss Quinlan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Quinlan, argue the young woman is in a vegetative state, with no chance of recovery, and have taken the case to New Jersey's Supreme Court. A hearing is scheduled for Jan. 26.

William F. Hyland, New Jersey's attorney general, said he wants to see if foul play was involved in producing the coma.

"There was no apparent explanation for the existence of certain bruises on her body," Hyland said. "The existence of the bruises created an additional responsibility for me to inquire further as to how and why they had been sustained or inflicted."

THE PAPERS, filed in Illinois in an attempt to secure the return of a witness, referred to possible violations of the law, including "atrocious assault and battery and assault with intent to kill."

Despite the information in the court papers, however, Hyland said, "We don't know if we have a crime, we have no suspects, we don't have any targets."

Should criminal charges result from the investigation, sources said, they would pose serious complications to the outcome of the parents' suit. A key question would be whether any assailant of Miss Quinlan would become subject to a murder charge if she were allowed to die.

Tuesday that he would appear in Trenton later this week.

ZYWOT, 22, was with Miss Quinlan between April 3 and April 15, the court papers said. Authorities have said Miss Quinlan, Zywot and others occupied a bungalow in rural Sussex County during that time.

Zywot was one of three men with Miss Quinlan at a Sussex County bar hours before she fell into the coma.

Authorities investigating the case would not comment on the newspaper reports linking the pimp and "older woman" to the case.

The Post said the two were once employed at the Holiday Sauna, a massage parlor in Rockaway Township, N.J., that was razed last April after it was damaged in a fire that also destroyed a nearby store.

THE PIMP is the main target of the state's investigation, the Post said.

An attorney for Miss Quinlan's parents said he sees no relevance to an investigation into what may have caused the coma.

"Seven of the finest physicians in the country testified they ruled out a physical trauma causing the injury," said Paul W. Armstrong, who filed a brief Tuesday in state Supreme Court asserting the parents have a constitutional right to let their daughter die.

Armstrong said he and several doctors examined Miss Quinlan's hospital records, including a nurse's report describing the lump on her head and the bruises on her lower body. But nothing was found to indicate the coma was caused by a beating, he said.

Nude mice may aid research on leprosy

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Nude mice—freaks of nature born without hair or thymus glands—may help scientists solve mysteries about leprosy, Dr. David Drutz of the University of Texas Health Science Center says.

Although Norwegian scientist Dr. Armauer Hansen isolated the leprosy bacteria 102 years ago, researchers have had little luck studying the disease under laboratory conditions.

The bacilli apparently cannot be grown on artificial surfaces and host model animals tested so far have been disappointing.

But Drutz said Tuesday, "The possibilities for research with the nude mice are nothing less than astounding."

It is the first time such mice have been used in leprosy research in this country, he said.

Drutz says the low tolerance for disease of the mice might make them an ideal leprosy research model.

"If someone sneezes, the mice die," Drutz said.

Nude mice are raised in isolated, germ-free colonies.

"As an animal model, the nude mouse looks enormously promising," Dr. Drutz said. "It's an immunological freak. It can't tell self from non-self, and ordinarily that's a lethal defect. Thus in the nude mouse, leprosy bacilli conceivably can grow and bloom unhampered."

Chairman steps down for awhile

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — British Ambassador Ivor Richard gave up the chair of the U.N. Security Council during debate on Iceland's complaint that two British vessels rammed an Icelandic ship in a dispute over fishing grounds.

A rule of the council provides that a president may take that action whenever he "deems that for the proper fulfillment of the responsibilities of the presidency he should not preside... during the consideration of a particular question with which the member he represents is directly concerned."

The chair was taken Tuesday by Ambassador Ferdinand Leopold Oyono of the United Republic of Cameroon, next in the alphabetical order in which the presidency revolves monthly among the 15 members.

Richard noted that the only previous president to invoke the rule was Lord Caradon of Britain, during debate in 1968 on Rhodesia.

Simon due surgery today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon was scheduled to undergo minor surgery at Bethesda Naval Hospital today.

Simon, who had to cancel a trip to Paris for a meeting of finance ministers of top industrialized nations, expects to be hospitalized about three days for hemorrhoid surgery, a spokesman said.

DR. ROBERT MORSE, Miss Quinlan's neurologist at St. Clare's Hospital in Denville, testified at a week-long trial in Morristown that the exact cause of Karen's coma had not been determined.

He said the most likely cause of her brain damage was a lack of oxygen after respiratory failure. He said there were no signs of a head injury that could have caused the coma.

Morse said blood tests made at Newton Memorial Hospital indicated Miss Quinlan had ingested barbiturates and alcohol prior to lapsing into the coma. He said it could not be determined how much of each substance had been consumed or exactly when they had been ingested.

IT IS POSSIBLE, though there is no proof, that the mixture of drugs and alcohol induced the respiratory failure and coma, he said.

"WOMEN TEACHERS — BUT NOT PUBLIC PREACHERS"

The thoughtful person who reads the Bible could never successfully deny that God has instructed the women of the church to become teachers of His Divine revelation. In 2 Timothy 2:2 the apostle Paul said, "And the things which thou hast heard from me among many witnesses, the same commit thou to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also." The expression faithful men in the Greek is from the word ANTHROPOS and is used in general of human beings male or female without regard to sex or nationality. Hence the apostle instructed Timothy to give the sacred charge of teaching God's Word to both men and women.

Great controversy has centered around the function of a woman in God's plans for teaching. Some folks oppose an arrangement made by a local church for a woman to fulfill her charge to teach known as the Bible classes. In these classes no woman teaches a man, but rather little children or other women. But someone says, why not let her teach a man in the Bible class if the class is a private affair? After all, any place a woman can teach she can teach anybody, and a woman taught a man in Acts 18:26? The answer to that is quite simple if one is not too biased to see it.

The first thing that is wrong with such an inquiry is that the statement, "Any place a woman can teach she can teach anybody," is not so. Whenever a woman finds herself in a situation where she teaches OVER a man, she is unscriptural—even if it is a private and informal affair. (see 1Ti 2:12) It is our contention that if a woman taught a class of men ANYWHERE she would be in violation of this citation, just because the situation is a PRIVATE and informal affair does not mean that the women can necessarily teach.

Paul called for the elders of the church at Ephesus (AG.20:17-20-23) and gave them instruction. This was not a gathering of the whole church (assembly) and it was not a private "home gathering," but it was private nonetheless. I wonder if the anti women teachers would say that it would have been scriptural for a woman to have met with them and taught that gathering? To be consistent with the statement under consideration they would have to take such a foolish consequence!

The Cuthbert Street congregation believes in Bible classes and women teachers in some of those classes and feel certain that such can be authorized by the sacred text.

Bush appears sure to gain Senate approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Bush appears certain to gain Senate confirmation as CIA director despite his refusal to disqualify himself from the Republican ticket in 1976.

After two days of hearings, only two members of the 16-member Senate Armed Services Committee have said publicly that they will vote against Bush to succeed William Colby as CIA head. Both John Culver, D-Iowa, and Patrick J. Leahy, D-Vt., said Tuesday they would oppose Bush because his past service as GOP party chairman and his interest in the vice presidency create the appearance of partisanship.

Leahy also said that "informal nose counts" showed it was unlikely the Bush nomination would be defeated either in committee or on the Senate floor.

Chairman Frank Church of the Senate intelligence committee, Bush's most vocal opponent, also acknowledged to a reporter he would not be able to block Bush's confirmation.

Armed Services Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., told reporters he was hopeful action on the nomination could be completed before the Senate begins its Christmas recess on Friday.

Church, D-Idaho, and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., both with avowed presidential ambitions of their own, urged Tuesday that Bush be ruled out as a vice presidential candidate in 1976 before he is confirmed to head the CIA. Otherwise, Church said, Bush would be "hopelessly compromised" in his dealings with President Ford.

Jackson, who stopped short of declaring that he would vote against Bush, said he was concerned that Bush would have to resign from the CIA after only a short time in office if he were named to the GOP ticket by Ford.

While refusing to rule out a vice presidential candidacy, Bush said his chances of being named as Ford's running mate "would be insignificant and they would be diminished further when I keep my word and stay out of politics."

Bush also insisted that his political career as a congressman and chairman of the Republican party had not affected his ability to perform in two foreign policy posts — U.S. ambassador to the United Nations and chief U.S. representative in Peking.

Bush revealed that during the last days of the Nixon administration, while he was still serving as GOP chairman, he wrote President Richard M. Nixon, telling him he should resign.

"Even if that highly partisan job I demonstrated a certain integrity," Bush said.

Judge allows Moore to enter guilty plea

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The federal judge who let Sara Jane Moore plead guilty to a charge that she tried to kill President Ford says he wants to find out more about whether she was involved in a conspiracy before passing sentence.

U.S. District Court Judge Samuel Conti, canceling Miss Moore's scheduled trial, said Tuesday he was convinced that her last-minute change of plea from innocent to guilty was "voluntarily, knowingly and intelligently given."

Conti said he would sentence Miss Moore on Jan. 15. He has the option of sending her to jail for any term up to a life.

Her attorney, Public Defender James Hewitt, urged the judge to order a jury trial at which he could provide Miss Moore with a defense of insanity or diminished capacity.

But Conti declared: "The court finds that, after reviewing all of the evidence, a jury of reasonable minds could find the defendant guilty as charged and there is a factual basis for the plea."

Miss Moore admitted on the witness stand that she fired a shot at Ford as he left a downtown hotel and said she meant to kill him. A bystander deflected her gun, and the bullet missed the President.

But she evaded questions which raise the possibility of conspiracy. "Did you intend to assassinate Mr. Ford prior to Sept. 22?" the judge asked. "Yes," replied Miss Moore.

"Did someone else encourage or assist you?" asked Conti. Miss Moore replied, "As to that particular date, I acted alone."

"How about some other date?" he asked. "I'm not going to answer that, Judge," Miss Moore said.

However, prosecutors say they have no evidence of a conspiracy and don't feel Miss Moore's remarks indicate one existed.

But he expressed concern about Miss Moore's refusal to say under oath whether anyone encouraged her or helped her plan the attempted assassination of Ford before Sept. 22, the day she fired a shot at the President.

'In all honesty...'

Ask George Bush a question and you will receive a frank, honest answer.

This was true in his oil business days in Midland and Houston. This was true when he was a member of Congress, as the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, as chairman of the National Republican Committee, and his other positions of trust in government. It is true in his present assignment as the official U.S. representative to the People's Republic of China.

Members of the U.S. Senate Armed Services Committee found this to be true Monday when Bush appeared before the panel for questioning in connection with his nomination to head the Central Intelligence Agency.

He told the committee very frankly that he cannot rule out future covert political action or paramilitary operations by the CIA should he become the agency's director. He said that in certain cases the United States would be justified in providing arms and money as it is now said to be doing in Angola.

Bush went on to say, however, that he believes presidents should be completely informed of all CIA activities. He added that he does understand the need for "plausible deniability" should a need exist for the United States not to acknowledge certain covert activities. This is being about as frank and honest as possible... putting his beliefs on the line so that there will be no misunderstanding as to where he stands on these matters.

He explained, however, that he believes that some of the abuses committed by the CIA in the past were "outrageous and morally offensive." He said a presidential order to assassinate a foreign leader would be one issue on which he would be forced to resign if he could not change the president's mind. This is the kind of man George Bush really is.

As to politics, Bush said he could not "in all honesty" promise to refuse an offer of the Republican vice-presidential nomination in order to assure his confirmation as CIA chief. But he promised he would not seek public office while serving in the office for which he has been nominated.

Many persons across the land who know George Bush personally or by reputation are delighted at his statement that he would accept the GOP vice-presidential nomination if offered. He certainly would be an excellent choice.

Indications are that Bush's nomination will receive speedy approval by the committee and confirmation by the Senate. This is as it should be.

X-rated bonanza

In spite of the reputation of Paris for racy entertainment, it was not until the French government recently relaxed its censorship laws that pornographic movies became a flourishing business. Now the government cannot resist temptation.

It's not what is happening on the screen which proved so alluring to the finance minister, but the money pouring in at the box office.

Yes, you guessed it... the government is doubling the tax on tickets to X-rated films.

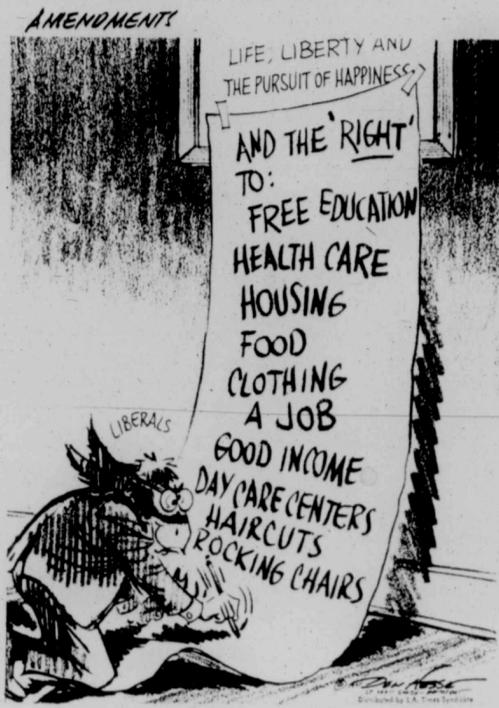

So, it perhaps will be back under the counter for pornography. Frenchmen have discovered it was cheaper that way.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Tip O'Neill's speaker fund

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — House Democratic leader Thomas "Tip" O'Neill, the burly, big-hearted Bostonian, has raised more than $150,000 in the past two years supposedly to elect Democrats to the House. His payments suggest that he is really trying to buy support for his anticipated run for Speaker.

With suspicious charity, he has handed out $500 contributions to colleagues who have no serious opposition and, therefore, no need for campaign cash. But they are powers in the House who could influence the election of the next Speaker.

O'Neill collected $76,024.96 in 1974 at a quiet fund-raising dinner. Last week, he arranged another $1,000-a-plate soiree, with early returns of over $73,000.

We got wind of O'Neill's posh fundraiser last week and sent a reporter to count the fatcats. But our reporter, Marc Smolonsky, was barred from the party.

Apparently, O'Neill got nervous about our inquiries and rushed out a press statement belatedly revealing that the unannounced fundraiser had been held. The statement boasted that he was "willingly" disclosing the contributions "more than a month before the required reporting date."

The statement went on to explain that O'Neill had distributed campaign funds to "more than 85" Democratic candidates for Congress, in 1974,

"many of them in marginal districts."

Our own investigation, however, presents a different picture:

O'Neill doled out five times more money to Congressmen who were likely to be reelected than to challengers whose chances were more risky. This would indicate he was more interested in buttering up old colleagues than in electing new ones.

O'Neill gave $500 a piece, for example, to at least eight Congressmen who had no opposition at all. They were Joe Addabbo, D-N.Y., James Burke, D-Mass., Richard Fulton, D-Tenn., Mike Harrington, D-Mass., Ed Jones, D-Tenn., Bill Lehman, D-Fla., Charles Rose, D-N.C., and Bob Sikes, D-Fla.

Contrary to O'Neill's claim that he helped candidates in marginal districts, 67 of those who received money from him were reelected by two-to-one margins. The biggest winners were Jim Delaney, D-N.Y., who won 93 per cent of the vote; John Breaux, D-La., 89 per cent; Morgan Murphy, D-Ill., 88 per cent; Steve Solarz, D-N.Y., and Joe Gaydos, D-Pa., both 82 per cent; Sam Stratton, D-N.Y., 81 per cent; Torbert Macdonald, D-Mass., and Dominick Daniels, D-N.J., both 80 per cent.

Of the 75 Democrats who won their first election to the House last year, O'Neill offered money to only 25. Colorado is a typical example. He delivered $500 to Rep. Frank Evans,

Margaret Thatcher pulls no punches!

By VIRGIL PINKLEY
Copley News Service

LONDON — A fresh political breeze is blowing in Britain today following Margaret Thatcher's election as head of the Conservative Party and leader of the opposition in Parliament.

Since Winston Churchill left the British scene there has been no one in public life who has really captured the public imagination and who has exhibited qualities of sustained leadership. This seems to be coming to an end as Margaret Thatcher takes over more and more control and authority in her party.

The Labor government is headed by Prime Minister Harold Wilson, who has lost credibility.

He has proved to be a very ordinary prime minister, without any great flair for leadership. He makes promises which are not kept. He is a slick politician in the sense we know this term. He leads the nation from one disaster or crisis to another, always promising something better in the future. But the time is now, and the British want someone they can respect and trust.

Much has been written about the beauty of Margaret Thatcher, who is 50. She has charisma. She is blonde and she has a peaches-and-cream complexion. She is, indeed, lovely of face and figure.

But behind all of this is an extremely determined individual who is willing to work and work and work and assume great responsibilities.

Just before driving to Blackpool for her party's conference Mrs. Thatcher addressed 300 newspaper editors at a UPI luncheon here. Though not a spellbinder in her oratorical delivery, she was direct, succinct and startlingly candid. Her message had great impact because it had great truth and logic. Her melon-colored suit was tailored on classic lines, but the sheen of the fabric and slight flare of the skirt acknowledged her femininity. Never hesitant or wordy, always serious but with a ready smile, she capably used the question and answer period as a second chance to emphasize and expand the points already presented. One questioner asked, "How much do you estimate your being a woman will cost you in an election vote?" She replied instantly, "It'll be a great asset. Next question, please."

She sees her role as a leader of the middle class, of which she is a member.

Born above her father's grocery store, she grew up in the provincial town of Grantham. In school she had a brilliant record and topped every class, graduating from Oxford on scholarships. From university she became a research chemist, teaching herself law and accounting while running a home. She was admitted to the bar four months after twins, Mark and Carol, were born in 1953.

After several defeats she successfully sought a Conservative seat in Parliament in 1959 and became a controversial education secretary under former Prime Minister Edward Heath. Last February she upset Heath as leader of the Conservative Party in a surprise election.

Since her election she has insisted that the people of Britain be told the truth and be informed objectively of their position and plight.

She characterizes the Laborites as the talkers, and the Conservatives as the doers. Further, she says that the Conservatives have faith in the future and in their ability to rise again.

The next general election does not have to be called until October, 1979, unless the Labor Party is defeated on a major issue. Yet Margaret Thatcher works long hours to reorganize her party and strengthen her appeal to youth and the middle classes of the country. Recently she said, "I would like an election called tomorrow. I am confident."

Margaret Thatcher is the most refreshing political leader I have seen on the British scene since the end of World War II. She knows where she is going, how she is going to get there, and what she will do when she enters 10-Downing St. 1

INSIDE REPORT:

Turkish tragedy deepens; Soviets stand to benefit

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The impasse between the United States and Turkey, instead of being resolved with a loosening of the arms embargo, has now worsened to the point where restoration of anything close to intimacy between the two old allies is utterly ruled out — an ominous development in the strategic Eastern Mediterranean.

Without public acknowledgement, private negotiations, begun after Congress in October repealed the most objectionable part of the Turkish arms embargo, are now mired deep in Washington-Ankara sludge. Some officials here doubt the U.S. can ever again become chief arms supplier for its faithful ally.

That would mean finding other ways to keep Turkey viable as eastern anchor of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). One possible way: make other NATO members responsible for supplying Turkey's army, thereby ending the long special relationship between Washington and Ankara.

Any possible "Natoizing" of the Turkish army is for the future. For now, this much is tragically certain: Turkey will never fully recover from the blow to its pride and arms by the congressional embargo, implying permanent loss of this country's towering influence with the Eastern Mediterranean's key power.

American diplomats hoped the embargo's repeal would, partly restore U.S. prestige and entourage Turkey to permit active use of U.S. anti-Soviet espionage bases. Such hope flattened the moment the new negotiations opened Oct. 28. What came through to U.S. negotiators with thundering clarity was this impossible Turkish demand: a U.S. pledge that the flow of American arms would never be interrupted again, either insultingly by congressional edict or otherwise.

The demand invokes Catch-22. No such pledge could be given under the U.S. constitutional system. Even if it could, the U.S. would pledge nothing without a prior understanding that the Turkish government would pull back some troops from Cyprus and return some territory seized during Turkey's 1974 invasion. Turkey refuses to do either.

The impasse is described by one U.S. official: "We've gotten ourselves caught in a Catch-22 situation. They want something we wouldn't give, even if we could, without getting something from them they won't give first."

So deep is the impasse that Turkey has suggested a radical transformation of its underlying relationship with Washington along lines of the U.S.-Spanish bases agreement. Instead of the U.S. having base rights given it by an ally, the U.S. would negotiate a long-term treaty with Turkey guaranteeing annual rental payments for American use of the bases as in the case of Spain. Once the treaty had been confirmed by the Senate, U.S. payments to Turkey could not be interrupted by congressional embargo.

But the relationship between allies (Turkey and the U.S.) and non-allies (Spain and the U.S.) is profoundly different. NATO commits the U.S. to come to the defense of Turkey in case of Communist attack. Spain, with no such commitment from Washington, has every right to charge money for U.S. bases.

Consequently U.S. officials flatly reject such a transformation of the U.S.-Turkish relationship. Besides, Congress would almost certainly never approve a Turkish bases treaty.

At last week's NATO meeting in Brussels, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger tried again to break the Greek-Turkish deadlock over Cyprus — the source of all the trouble. Kissinger has been extremely active recently trying to soften Turkey's understandable but potentially suicidal hard line. One Kissinger ploy: secretly dispatching Democratic Rep. Wayne Hays of Ohio to Ankara last week for a long huddle with Turkish Prime Minister Suleyman Demirel.

According to Defense Department officials, Demirel told Hays that since the five major American bases now closed down are all intelligence stations, the U.S. should guarantee regular payments to Turkey. Spy bases, said Demirel, are an obvious provocation to Moscow, which would make them immediate targets in case of war.

Some progress could result from Kissinger's efforts in Brussels to keep Greeks and Turks in regular contact on the Cyprus issue and from Cyprus negotiations scheduled next month under United Nations auspices. Certainly Greece wants a settlement. Presumably so does Turkey, which was chastised in the UN General Assembly last month, 117 to 1, on the Cyprus question.

But similar anemic signs of "progress" have been a running part of the tragic Cyprus affair for more than a year. They do not modify the harsh truth that Turkey has been transformed from faithful friend to sullen stranger, with dangerous liabilities for the U.S. and NATO and potential assets for the Soviet Union.

English government to bail out British Chrysler

Washington Post

LONDON — The government Tuesday said it will sink up to $325 million into the mortally wounded Chrysler Corp. here, bailing out the British subsidiary of an American multinational concern.

The deal represents everything that is ideologically unpalatable to a Labor government. It rescues a foreign firm and imposes virtually no obligation in return. It gives the state no ownership or equity for its money, only two powerless directors on the local board. It props up an outfit that its own advisers have all but said must die if the inefficient British car industry has any hope to survive.

But Prime Minister Harold Wilson saw a collapsing Chrysler take 25,000 jobs down with it and that he was unwilling to countenance. His anxiety was fed by the fact that 700 of these jobs are in turbulent Scotland, where rising nationalism threatens to drive him from office.

The rescue plan, disclosed in the House of Commons, drew immediate fire from left and right in the Labor party as well as the Tories. The left complained that state money was being used for a private concern with no increase of state control. The right charged that taxpayers' money could not turn a profitless pig's ear into a silk purse.

Eric Varley, the industry minister, labored to defend the scheme but his heart was not in it. In the 10 days leading up to a final decision, Varley had threatened to quit if Chrysler was not allowed to fold. He was talked out of this, however, by the wily Wilson, who appears to be grooming Varley as his successor. At bottom, Wilson's decision reflects the rising strength of the Scottish Nationalists who have just ousted Labor in two local elections and now turn up in polls as Scotland's biggest party. A Chrysler collapse would have destroyed the Linwood community outside Glasgow, fed the sense of Scottish grievance and threatened all the 41 Labor seats in the old kingdom that now keep the party in power.

Wilson's personal economic minister, Harold Lever, is also understood to have urged saving Chrysler, largely for reasons of economic diplomacy. A collapse of the firm, Britain's fourth auto maker, would have sent its 800 dealers scrambling for foreign cars.

That would have hurt the balance of payments. Even more important, it would have set up irresistible pressures for curbs against imports, chiefly from the government's own Leyland Corp. Both Britain's Common Market partners and the United States have indicated they will tolerate import curbs on some products but would be outraged by barriers against cars. Lever argued that sparing Chrysler saves London the need to turn toward curbs on auto imports.

Ironically, the Chrysler scheme was announced on the very day that Wilson made public a devastating report on Britain's car industry by the Central Policy Review Staff, his own think tank.

It says bluntly: "There are too many manufacturers with too many models and too much capacity... Other severe weaknesses are poor quality, bad labor relations, unsatisfactory delivery record, low productivity and too much manpower."

It reports that a continental assembly worker is twice as productive as a Briton and an engine plant worker 50 to 60 per cent more efficient. The report suggests that Chrysler is an ideal candidate to help achieve the needed cutback in capacity because it's operation is far too small for economies of scale.

By any measure, Chrysler in Britain is a disaster. It has lost money in seven of the 11 years since the Detroit firm moved in 1964. Next year, it expects to lose another $80 million. Since 1971, it has been plagued by at least two major strikes a year. It suffers from the defects of its fellows — overmanning, poor quality and colossal management misjudgment. It has brought out one new model since 1967, and that is a flop.

The deal commits the government to do these things:

—Pay up to $145 million outright to cover Chrysler losses in the next four years. After the first $80 million, Chrysler will have to match the government contribution to the red ink.

—Lend $110 million for investments in tools and machinery.

—Guarantee $70 million in other loans Chrysler is raising. According to Varley, all Chrysler must do for this largesse is invest $20 million of its 25,000 workers' money to $24 million of its own. In addition, the company will be allowed to lay off 8,000 of its 25,000 workers.

Jumpsuits 'leaping' on the fashion scene

COLLEGE STATION — Jumpsuits are "leaping" on the fashion scene and will gain new heights of popularity during 1976, Mrs. Becky Culp, clothing specialist, reports.

"Detail interests highlight pockets, short or Mandarin collars, front zippers, drawstring or elasticized waistlines and dropped or raglan shoulder seams," she noted.

"The long, lean jumpsuit look flatters many figure types—but at the same time, it is often difficult to fit. Easier "adapters" for various figures are designs that feature adjustable shoulder straps or have a waistline seams—belts or unbelted, the specialist added.

"Neck to crotch length should allow for comfortable sitting, bending and raising the arms over the head. And, as an all-in-one garment, it requires bodice and pant to fit in, proportion to the figure."

Mrs. Culp is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Copley News Service

COUNTRY BAKED CHICKEN
1 frying chicken, quartered
One-half cup polyunsaturated oil
One-half tsp. grated lemon peel
3 tbsps. lemon juice
Seasoned bread crumbs

For four servings, quarter one chicken. Wash and dry the pieces carefully. Dip the chicken first in a mixture of one-half cup of oil, one-half teaspoon grated lemon peel and three tablespoons lemon juice. Then roll in a seasoned crumb mixture until well coated. Place the chicken skin side up in aluminum foil in a baking pan. Do not crowd the pieces. Bake in a moderate oven one hour and 15 minutes at 350 or 375 degrees or until the chicken is nicely browned. If you wish, rub small peeled potatoes with seasoned vegetable oil and roast with the chicken.

Biscuits may be made with polyunsaturated margarine instead of shortening.

BAKED APPLES
The apples may be baked in the oven at the same time as the chicken.
4 baking apples
One-half cup water
One-fourth cup honey
1 tsp. grated lemon or orange rind
Preheat oven to 375 degrees.
Wash and core apples and place in baking dish.
Combine the honey with the water and grated rind. Pour over the apples and bake, covered, for 30 minutes, basting two or three times.
Uncover, baste again and bake 15 minutes.

VEAL SCALOPINI
1 lb. veal or calf sirloin or round steak
4 tbsps. polyunsaturated oil
One-fourth lb. mushrooms, sliced
Salt and pepper
One-fourth cup Marsala or sherry wine

2 tbsps. chopped parsley
Buy meat prepared especially for veal Scalopini or cut into eight pieces and pound each piece very thin.

Heat two tablespoons oil in a large skillet. Sauté veal, a few pieces at a time, over high heat until lightly browned on both sides, adding remaining oil and removing meat pieces as they are browned. Reduce heat; add mushrooms, sauté until lightly browned. Return all meat to skillet. Slowly add wine; cover and simmer two minutes. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Makes four servings.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By CARROLL RICHTER

(Thurs. Dec. 18)

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's Full Moon gives you the chance to put in action quickly any plan you feel can be helpful to you. A new philosophy can add new dimensions to your life. If you shop, you find Christmas presents quickly.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Some high-flown ideas can now be whittled down to a workable, successful level. Garner information from right sources. Sociable p.m.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Make plans that will increase your income in the near future. Find the right project for you. Handle finances wisely.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Discuss new ideas with partners to improve operations. Do whatever will better your public image. Avoid a troublemaker.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): You can now get the backing you need for important project. Buy gifts for close ties. Make this Christmas memorable.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Stop procrastinating and get at all that work ahead of you and plow through efficiently. Increase vitality with exercise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Think of ways to advance your interests; don't permit small things to get in your way. Make new contacts of worth.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Discuss with good contacts ways to add to present assets, be more productive in future. Plan modern methods of operating.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Know what partners expect; cooperate for more successful alliance. Time for reconciliation with those opposing you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You can get into those secretive matters and polish them off. Use your intuitive faculties for best results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Study important personal affairs and know how to handle them. Accept any invitations extended you. These can prove most helpful.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Do not jeopardize your foundational security in any way and be sure of what you sign to what you commit yourself.

HELOISE

Dear Heloise:
 Christmas is right around the corner and I would like to pass on a few suggestions someone might use.
 We confine our decorations to the living room, dining room and halls, but why not have a "Merry, Merry Kitchen?"
 This year I made a wreath and a big Santa Claus and put them on my kitchen doors.
 Looking at Santa really gave me a big lift.
 I also put little Santas and a snowman, made out of felt, on my cupboard doors and my refrigerator. If you are not artistically inclined, they can be purchased at most stores.
 Even scenes from Christmas cards are pretty and brighten up the kitchen.
 For my kitchen table I made a simple centerpiece out of pine cones and ribbons and placed a candle inside.
 Just use your imagination and see how pretty your kitchen looks this Christmas.
 Mrs. Dave Galliber

What a beautiful idea? After all, the kitchen is where we will be spending a lot of our time so let's pamper ourselves a little bit.
 Besides, it'll give the family a big lift too, I betcha!

JELLY SIDE DOWN

She has fitting-room blues

By-NANCY STAHL
 I truly envy the sartorial freedom enjoyed by those who either live in a tropical climate or travel to Bohemian circles.

Unfortunately, I simply can't appear for a PTA meeting when it's 22 degrees and raining ice balls, dressed in cut-off jeans, rubber thongs, and a sweatshirt that says "I Like Being a Sex Object."

The only alternative seems to be foraging about in women's dress shops for suitable suits, sensible dresses, and enlightened ensembles. It's not that I don't like clothes. My problem lies in the acquisition process.

I detest undressing in tiny cubicles which are invariably so extensively mirrored that I cannot avoid seeing sixteen views of my body, each more revolting than the last. Being a firm believer that no one should be forced to look at the backs of her own thighs under ANY circumstances; I find the effect of being visually assaulted by my forgotten extremities to be completely demoralizing.

Besides, these cubicles are always lighted with fluorescent lights. Under fluorescent lights my complexion turns liverish, my lipstick becomes a virulent shade of magenta, and I develop enormous brownish bags under each eye. The general impression is that of a woman who has spent the past 45 years playing the lead role in the road company version of "Miss Sadie Thompson."

The last thing I need, as I stare aghast at this rather bawdy-looking matron in the mirror, is for a mere slip of a salesgirl, who must weigh all of 98 pounds, to pop her long blonde head into my cubicle and address me as "Madam."

DEAR ABBY

Should he wait until their relationship balances?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
 DEAR ABBY: I am 23 and have recently met a very attractive, intelligent, sensitive 21-year-old woman.
 So what's my problem? Our relationship seems to be on two levels. My feeling for her is on a romantic level, but she says she wants to keep our relationship on a friendship level.
 I am content to wait and let our relationship grow, but my friends advise me to quit seeing her. What do you say?

HOPEFUL

DEAR HOPEFUL: Continue to see her and if she doesn't get on your level by St. Valentine's Day, level with her. Tell her you want a sweetheart, not a buddy.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter has been keeping steady company with a young man for the last three years.

They met at college and both graduated last June.

We have never met David's parents, although we've talked to them on the phone. They seem like nice people.

David now has a good job. I told him I'd like to meet his parents, and he said he'd get us together "soon." Meanwhile, months go by, and we haven't met them yet.

When my wife told David we'd like to invite his parents to our home, he said his father was rather "unfriendly," and it would be better if we met at the wedding! Abby, my daughter doesn't even have a ring, and no official announcement of her engagement was ever made, so a "wedding" is a long way off.

Abby, I told my wife if David had serious intentions with our daughter, we'd have met his parents already. My wife says I should keep out of it—kids do things differently nowadays. Our daughter says she loves him but isn't pushing for marriage. I say if he loved her, he'd become engaged even if they couldn't marry for five years. What do you say?

DELAWARE DAD

DEAR DAD: I'm on your wife's side. Don't pressure David. He's obviously not financially ready for marriage.

December great time for having a good cry

Copley News Service
 It's a misty-eyed emotional time of year. In fact, I get so emotional it is sickening. Yesterday I found myself driving home and crying like a baby over a song on the car radio.

Any other time-of-year I would probably cry if somebody forced me to listen to the song. It is so incredibly maudlin.

But there it was, pouring out over the radio. "The Blind Man in the Bleachers."

And there I was, driving along, with tears streaming down my face.

Why do people get all choked up in December? Some scientific type could probably get a grant to study the subject. For it truly happens.

Maybe it is the holiday season.
Maybe, as we wrap up everything else at the end of the year, we also wrap up a year full of emotions.

Several days ago we happened to be up in the mountains and my wife saw some trees with the mark of death on them — that white slash of paint that designates them to be cut down.

She burst into tears.

Gad, what an emotional lot we are these days. Let somebody put "The Little Drummer Boy" on the phonograph and suddenly there's not a dry eye in the house.

I can get the same effect by dusting off my old blue guitar and strumming three chords of "The Picture That's Turned Toward the Wall."

When I was a boy, there was a song called "Old Shep" that my mother wouldn't even let me HUM. It tore her heart to pieces.

Sadness sells. Love is pretty salable, too. But Tragic Love, now there's a real winner. If Shakespeare had let Romeo and Juliet live happily ever after, the show would probably have closed in a week.

If the girl hadn't died in "Love Story" she would have just turned into a dull, foulmouthed housewife.

If Rhett hadn't left Scarlett at the end, what kind of story would that have been?

Americans LOVE to cry, especially in December.

I imagine Kleenex stock probably jumps two or three points this time of year.

And if the story HAS to have a happy ending, if Scrooge HAS to show up with a Christmas dinner for the Cratchits, then let us see plenty of misery before that.

Be sure to show us the good stuff like Tiny Tim's empty chair. If we're going to be forced to smile at the end, then give us a good cry in the middle.

Thieves take man's cycle

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — At 100, William Galland had one real joy
wheeled cycle every day.
The other day, someone stole the cycle.

"When I got up in the morning, I see the thing is gone. Who wants to steal a thing from an old man
100 years old?" asked Galland, who is almost totally blind.

Until the theft, Galland, who lives alone in a mobile home, would ride
the cycle "for about three-quarters of an hour on a day when the weather was nice. That's how I got my exercise."

Mexican Rotarians visiting area

Fifteen members of the Rotary Club of Juarez, Mexico, arrived here early this morning to spend the day as special guests of the four Rotary Clubs of Midland and Odessa.

The clubs are Midland Downtown and West and Odessa Downtown and East.

Following their arrival at Midland Regional Air Terminal, the visitors had breakfast with Midland and Odessa Rotarians at the Rodeway Inn. Following breakfast, they toured the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum Library and Hall of Fame, before visiting the Museum of the Southwest.

A tour of Midland was made before the group left for Odessa, where they were luncheon guests of the Odessa clubs. A tour of Odessa and vicinity was scheduled during the afternoon.

Ralph E. McLaughlin of Big Spring.

governor of District 573, Rotary International, is accompanying the Rotarians from Mexico on their visit.

The Juarez Rotarians will be the honorees at a reception and fellowship period scheduled at 6:30 p.m. at Midland's Rodeway Inn.

A slide program, "Archeology and History of Mexico," will be presented by a member of the visiting delegation at the Museum of the Southwest, beginning at 7:45 p.m.

Dinner is scheduled at 9:45 p.m.

Members of the visiting delegation include Ezequiel Elizalde Garcia, Rafael Perez-Serna; Hector Mora, Harold Gregory, Joaquin Moreno, Dr. Juan Ramirez, Oscar Sanchez, Andres Marquez, Rafael Aguilar, Guillermo Lizarraga (a Rotary International director), Octavio Aguilar, Jose Maria Avila, Fernando Orozco, Francisco Ortiz and Ignacio Zunzunegi.

Goldwater says Rocky may run

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater says Nelson A. Rockefeller might offer to resign the vice presidency so he can run for the White House if President Ford loses next year's early primary elections. The Arizona Republican said he believes Ford still would remain a candidate, which would in effect have Rockefeller challenging his boss unless he relinquished his office in order to run. A Rockefeller spokesman said the vice president backs Ford, expects him to be nominated in 1976, and would not comment beyond that.

Cathy Walker, regional director of the American Hospital Association was the guest speaker, Tuesday at the meeting of the Evening Lions Club.

She was assisted by two student nurses, Vicki Miller and Dana Salas, who are in the Vocational Nurses program.

A film on high blood pressure was shown.

Members of the club were given blood pressure checks.

Boston school said deprived

BOSTON (AP) — South Boston High School, troubled by racial conflict since it was ordered desegregated a year ago, is "devoid of the youthful spontaneity that one associates with a high school," a federal judge says.

U.S. District Court Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr. in court papers released Tuesday, blames almost everyone associated with the school — parents, teachers, administrators and the Boston School Committee — for conscious or unconscious obstructionism that has deprived the school of its normal teen-age atmosphere.

As Garrity's decision was released, about 40 antibusing protesters were staging sit-ins at the offices of Sens. Edward M. Kennedy and Edward W. Brooke, House Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. and Rep. John J. Moakley.

Before they left, about six hours later, both Kennedy, a Democrat, and Brooke, a Republican, had arranged to meet with them at a later date.

White student attendance at South Boston High, meanwhile, was down Tuesday to about half of what it has been, a School Department spokesman said.

U.S. firm facing suit for boycott

By CHARLES A. KRAUSE
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department is prepared to file an unprecedented antitrust suit against Bechtel, Inc. of San Francisco for allegedly participating in the Arab boycott of Israel.

The suit is being held up by the State Department, according to informed sources.

These sources said Tuesday that, despite State Department "concern" over the foreign policy implications of the civil suit, it is likely that Justice will proceed before the end of January.

If the government wins its test case against Bechtel, a large construction firm, American corporations may be faced with a choice of losing billions of dollars a year of business with the Arab countries or being charged with criminal violations of U.S. law.

While it is not unusual for the Justice Dept. to consult the State Dept. before a suit with foreign policy implications is filed, Justice sources said that only the President can order a prospective suit to be dropped.

Justice does not expect this to happen in this case since President Ford has said publicly that he is opposed to U.S. acquiescence to the Arab boycott of Israeli goods and of corporations that do business with Israel.

Justice sources said that the case against Bechtel is "not simple" and would involve new interpretations of U.S. antitrust law. It could not be learned Tuesday why Bechtel was singled out for the test case since Justice has said it is investigating "a number of U.S. firms" that may have participated in the boycott.

Bechtel had no immediate comment on the Justice Department suit or on Bechtel's record with regard to the Arab boycott.

The Washington Post obtained a copy that appeared to be a Bechtel, Inc. "invoicing instructions," sent to the construction firm's American subcontractors and reportedly forwarded to the Justice Department by the B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League.

According to the purported Bechtel document, suppliers must attach to invoices the following certification:

"We hereby certify that the goods enumerated in this invoice are not of Israeli origin nor do they contain any Israeli materials nor were they shipped on vessels boycotted by the Israeli Boycott Office nor were they designated to visit an Israeli port nor were they exported from Israel.

"We hereby certify that the goods enumerated in this invoice are of U.S.A. origin." The Bechtel document was one of several from American companies provided the Justice Department by B'nai B'rith earlier this year, government sources said.

Other sources said the Justice Department also obtained a list from the Commerce Department of American firms that have acknowledged participating in the boycott.

The Bechtel subsidiary listed on the invoicing instructions is Eastern Bechtel Corp., with a San Francisco post office box. The subsidiary's headquarters is in Saudi Arabia, which is an Arab country that adheres strictly to the terms of the boycott and is also the most lucrative Arab market for American corporations.

B'nai B'rith spokesmen reportedly told Assistant Attorney General Thomas E. Kauper, head of the antitrust division, in July that the documents from Bechtel and other U.S. companies indicate compliance with the boycott.

Although each Arab country interprets the boycott rules differently, under the strictest interpretation firms doing business with the Arab countries must agree not to do business with Israel, with Israeli citizens, with any person of Jewish faith or with any subcontractors or suppliers that do not adhere to the boycott terms.

Bechtel is one of the largest privately held firms in the U.S., with sales of about $2 billion annually, according to industry estimates. Bechtel has done business in the Arab world for about 30 years and is presently headed by former Treasury Secretary George P. Schultz.

Gas plant fire kills Texas man

DUMAS, Tex. (AP) — R.L. Ragle, 48, of Masterson died early today of burns suffered in a flash fire at the Colorado Interstate Corp. natural gas plant near this Texas Panhandle town.

Authorities said Ragle was transferring gas from a transport truck into a tank when a fire broke out, severely burning him.

Pesticide contamination noted

The Washington Post
WASHINGTON — The Environmental Protection Agency

announced Tuesday that the Hopewell, Va., area was "widely contaminated" by the pesticide Kepone, with detectable traces discovered earlier this year as far as 16 miles away in the air and 40 miles in the water.

The plant producing Kepone, which is now being dismantled, was voluntarily shut down in July when Health officials found employees with serious health problems. The officials attributed those problems to high levels of Kepone found in the workers' bloodstreams.

State epidemiologist Dr. Robert Jackson said, however, that initial tests have shown "no symptoms" of illnesses doctors attribute to Kepone in persons who have been exposed only through the general environment.

"We are concerned about more long-term complications," Jackson said.

The plant producing the pesticide, which is used as an ant and roach killer, went under the name of Life Science Products Co. and for the 16 months it operated it sold its product exclusively to the Allied Chemical Corp. which also has a plant in Hopewell.

Results of extensive environmental tests by the EPA were released by the agency's Health Effects Research Laboratory in North Carolina. The results were based on air samples taken from January 1974, to May 1975, and on water and soil samples taken last August, a spokesman said.

Dr. Jackson noted that a small number of Life Science workers who were exposed to constant massive doses of Kepone were found to be sterile. The National Cancer Institute has said preliminary results of its tests show an increase in liver cancer among rats exposed to Kepone in their diets, although there has been no such determination for humans, he said.

At least 70 persons connected with the Life Science plant, including 10 wives and children of employees, exhibited some Kepone-related illnesses including slurred speech, nervousness, twitching eyeballs, liver damage and loss of memory, Jackson said.

A total of 29 Life Science employees have been hospitalized for treatment, according to Jackson. Hospital officials confirmed that the wife of a former Life Science supervisor was hospitalized in Richmond Monday suffering from symptoms related to Kepone poisoning.

Ford visit to Texas desired

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Ford's Texas campaign director says she does not know whether Ford will campaign in Texas for the Republican nomination.

Beryl Buckley Milburn of Austin told a news conference Tuesday, however, that it "would be very beneficial for him to come at least once."

She said Ford's delegates on the presidential primary ballot will be chosen through a process involving hundreds of Texans.

Candidates for president have considerable flexibility in setting up their delegate selection committees in each congressional district — or state senatorial district in the case of Democrats.

A candidate can have as few as 10 people in each district choosing the persons who will appear on the ballot as his delegates to the Republican or Democratic presidential nominating conventions next year.

But Ford will have as many as 120 or 130 in a district, said Mrs. Milburn.

"We intend to see that Ford supporters at the grass roots level have a real say in who their delegates to the national convention will be," she said.

Gleason wed again

MIAMI (AP) — The comment was almost predictable for comedian Jackie Gleason.

"How sweet it is," Gleason, 59, said after he was married to Marilyn Taylor Horwich in a ceremony before a handful of friends at a private club Tuesday.

The marriage was Gleason's third. He was divorced from his second wife, Beverly McKittrick Gleason, Nov. 19 after a long legal battle.

Send $10 and become instant (and legal) minister

By RUSSELL CHANDLER
The Los Angeles Times

For $50 you can become a bishop, no questions asked.

Send in $25, and you're ordained a missionary or an evangelist.

And $10 gets you a chaplain's rating or a license to preach.

An additional $25 "free-will offering" to Calvary Grace Church of Faith in Rilliton, Pa., brings "an embellished elaborate ordination certificate on fine paper bearing our corporate gold seal."

Calvary Church is just one of perhaps 100 mail-away outfits throughout the United States that offers ordination and degrees in religious subjects for little or no work and without educational requirements.

What the mail-order churches and religious schools advertise is true: their ordinations are just as valid in the eyes of the state as those received after years of college and seminary training.

THE RELUCTANCE of the government to tamper with the free exercise of religion protected by the First Amendment makes it possible for these churches and religious schools to remain in business.

On the one hand, many feel mail-order ordination is probably just the price of freedom of religion.

"Most people would not want the government to declare which ordinations are valid and which are phony," wrote the Rev. William Whalen recently in U.S. Catholic magazine.

"At the same time it is worth becoming aware of the ease with which anyone can become a minister."

Only 18 states exercise any control over mail-order degrees.

Thus, for as little as $10, someone can become an instant "Ph.D." or

"D.D." and open an office for marriage counseling or spiritual therapy.

The practice of granting religious and metaphysical degrees to persons who might not be able to qualify for them through traditional channels is proliferating, according to Milton Hood of the California Board of School Approvals in Los Angeles.

Such degrees are seen by many who seek them as the ticket to jobs, prestige and legal status within the religious community.

The Cadillac of the minister-by-mail organizations is the Universal Life Church (ULC), headed by grade-school dropout Bishop Kirby J. Hensley.

The Modesto-based ULC says it has ordained more than 3 million ministers (for free) since 1962, and has issued thousands of honorary doctor of divinity degrees ($20 donation).

ON GROUNDS that his "constitutional right to free exercise of religious beliefs" had been violated, Hensley successfully won a six-year court battle last summer.

Hensley, a one-time carpenter who was born in a log cabin in Low Gap, N.C., was convicted in San Jose in 1969 and fined $625 for violating the California Education Code of charging for his mail-order doctor of divinity degrees.

(His right to ordain ministers was upheld in a separate action in which a judge ruled that the ULC, founded in Hensley's garage in Modesto in 1962, met legal requirements of being organized with officers and trustees.)

The 9th U.S. Court of Appeals overturned the conviction, ruling that Hensley did not violate the Education Code because he had prescribed no educational requirements for the degrees.

Though the Board of School Approvals says it is still investigating Hensley, his operation — and others like it — at least for now appear to be free and clear of the law.

BUT SOME schools offering religious and other degrees are in trouble.

One, using a Pasadena, Calif., post office box address (and also doing business through Arizona and Tennessee addresses) is Jackson State University (not affiliated with Jackson State in Mississippi).

Jackson State's listing in a catalogue entitled "How and Where to Obtain a College Degree by Mail," says: "Our approach to education is considered by many as unusual because we require no courses, books, or form of study for our degree applicants."

For "tax-deductible donations" applicants are offered: "high school diploma, $75; bachelor degree, $125; master's degree, $150, Ph.D., $180; 20 per cent discount if more than one degree ordered simultaneously."

Jackson State claims to be "a non-profit college under the administration of the Church of Universal Education."

A Los Angeles federal district court last August issued a preliminary injunction against Jackson State on the basis of allegations by postal authorities that it was falsely representing itself as a bona fide university with power to confer academic degrees.

The injunction has kept Jackson State from receiving incoming mail — including what one postal inspector said included many checks totaling a large sum. The mail, held in Pasadena since the order, will be returned to its senders if the government ultimately wins the case, he added.

POSTAL authorities also told The Los Angeles Times that investigation is being made of other schools and a Southern California mail order pamphlet that tells how to obtain degrees through the mail.

Neither Jackson State nor the Universal Life Church has sought state authorization to grant degrees, according to the state Bureau of School Approvals.

The bureau has no control over the so-called-mail-order degree mills, according to field representative Collier McDermon, "except to see, whenever we are aware of their operation, if they are complying with the Education Code."

If they do not comply, then they are referred to the office of the state attorney general.

And the bureau's power to police and standardize the performance of schools that do qualify to offer degrees under a controversial section of the code is extremely weak.

Of California's 1,800 private schools, about 60 religiously oriented ones fall in the "A-3" category of section 29023 of the state Department of Education Code.

Under this provision, almost anyone who can muster $50,000 in assets and a $300 filing fee can qualify to open a school and grant degrees ranging from the A.A. (Associate in Arts) up to and including the Ph.D.

REQUIREMENTS for issuing both academic and honorary degrees under the A-3 section are so general that the quality of education offered runs from very poor to outstanding.

"A-3 as now written is an absolute tragedy," as far as the public is concerned, declared Herbert Summers, school approvals chief in Sacramento.

"You don't have to do anything, really. It's unbelievable... there are terrible loopholes."

McDermon added in an interview that there are "many good A-3 schools" with high standards of academic excellence and adequate facilities.

Others in the school approvals office share his opinion that the A-3 degree mills give a black eye to quality A-3 schools — some of which move up to obtain accreditation from recognized associations or state approval.

The amorphous nature of the A-3 code section — and its loopholes — cause particular problems for religious schools and the clergy profession.

For example, there is general misunderstanding about whether such schools have state approval or endorsement to issue degrees.

Often, according to an informal Times survey, the institution implies that it does have such approval.

IN FACT, the A-3 code section clearly specifies that no A-3 school may represent in any way that the state "has made any evaluation, recognition, accreditation, approval or endorsement of the course of study."

All the state has done is to grant the school permission to issue degrees, cautions McDermon.

"Schools that state or imply approval under the A-3 code are violating the law," he said.

A small, new religious school often has no alternative but to begin operating under the A-3 category. And some church schools, for doctrinal reasons, never desire accreditation from secular agencies.

Bureau of School Approvals officials generally would like to abolish the A-3 category of private schools, chiefly because it does not provide for quality control or inspections.

Concert Thursday

Songs of the season will be featured in a three-band concert at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Midland High School auditorium.

Performing will be the Midland High School band, Austin Freshman School and Austin honors band.

The symphonic band will play "Days of Glory," "Rhinstone Cowboy" and "Jingle Bell Rhapsody."

Selections by the honors group will include "Pride of the Wolverines," "Huckleberry Flute," "Salvation Is Created."

Country means pop in England

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Billie Jo Spears, just back from the longest tour by an American in the history of the United Kingdom, has a double image — split at the Atlantic Ocean.

"I'm considered pop in England," she said, reflecting on her 75 shows during a 62-day span. "Over there they just have one chart and run everything together, which is strange for us."

But she describes her music as country.

Banker dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Gilbert W. Kahn, an investment banker whose family had been associated with Kuhn, Loeb & Co. for a century, died Monday after a brief illness. He was 73.

"I guess the best way to describe my music is metropolitan country. We throw in strings and a horn."

Miss Spears, 37, has been established in country music since 1969. Her single "Blanket on the Ground" was No. 1 this year and her current release, "Silver Wings and Golden Rings," is climbing rapidly on the charts.

"Some people say it will be No. 1," she said.

British audiences are different from those in America, she said.

"The audiences are more reserved there," she said. "Maybe you could say they are more sophisticated; they are very quiet and reserved people."

"And the theaters are cold. Until you get out on stage and get warmed up, it can be tough."

A frequent guest on the syndicated country music television shows taped in Nashville, she said the United States may be moving toward a one-chart situation like England.

"I think there will always be a definite distinction between pop and country, but we're getting closer together. I think it would help my career here if we went to one chart."

Miss Spears has found it's difficult to be a woman entertainer.

"You have to be so careful when you work the road," she said. "A man can get bombed and it's funny; if a woman does it, she's looked down on."

She insists her success has not changed her.

"I work more, but I don't think anything would change me as a person. I'm still a country girl from Beaumont, Tex. I still go to the same supermarkets, and I still love to wear boots and blue jeans." End Adv Wed PMS Dec. 17, sent Dec. 15

Operators accelerate gas search in Gulf of Mexico off Texas Coast

An offset has been staked in Cottle County, three outposts were spotted in Cottle County and a wildcat is scheduled to start in Fisher.

Bass Enterprises Production Co., Midland, has scheduled a 3/4-mile southwest offset to its No. 1-C Havins, recently completed, Atoka oil discovery in extreme South Cottle County. The project is No. 1 T. B. Havins, slated to 6,300 feet. It spots 2,200 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of G. M. Huff survey, 12 miles south of Paducah.

The strike was completed last week, to flow 320 barrels of oil daily, through a 16-64-inch choke and perforations at 6,216-6,228 feet.

Knox Industries of Midland has staked sites for three outposts to production in the Lyn-Kay (6.150) field of King County, 25 miles southwest of Spur. Contract depth for the tests is 6,250 feet. No. 2-B Morrison, a one-mile east outpost, is 100 feet from north and 4,150 feet from west lines of the south half of section 7, block B, PSL survey.

No. 1-D Morrison, 3/4 mile east of production, is 100 feet from south and 2,450 feet from east lines of the north half of section 7.

No. 2-D Morrison, 1 1/4 mile southeast outpost, is 100 feet from south and 5,850 feet from most northerly south lines of section 7.

G. P. Johnson & Co. of Dallas will drill a 5,200-foot venture in Fisher County, three miles west of Longworth. It is No. 1 McCain.

Location is 467 feet from north and west lines of subdivision 32, Gillespie CSL survey 305, 1/2 mile northwest of a 6,680-foot failure and three miles southeast of the Claytonville (Canyon) field.

House delays action until next year on natural gas legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is delaying action until next year on a bill intended to soften the impact of any shortage of natural gas this winter.

The decision by House Speaker Carl Albert was announced at a meeting of the House Rules Committee on Tuesday, while the committee considered whether to permit amendments that could turn the emergency legislation into a total deregulation bill.

The committee voted 12 to 4, over the objections of members of the committee that wrote the emergency measure, to allow the decontrol amendments when the legislation comes to the floor of the House.

Rules Committee member Rep. Spark M. Matsunaga, D-Hawaii, said at the session that Albert had told him and other Rules members that he did not want the complex issue of natural gas deregulation to tie up the House in its last week of work before the Christmas recess.

Chairman Harley O. Staggers of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee and Chairman John Dingell of the energy and power subcommittee lost their fight to have the House vote only on the existing bill.

The decontrol amendments had been sought by members of Staggers' committee who had previously been defeated in full committee and in Dingell's subcommittee.

Chairman Ray Madden of the Rules Committee criticized both sides during debate, saying the "proceeding stinks right up to high heaven. This was an emergency and now the bill doesn't come up until next January."

He said he had seen "more major legislation butchered up and crucified under the conditions going on now. It's unfit. This proceeding of legislation coming up two to three days (before the Christmas recess) is the most ridiculous thing I've seen in 33 years in Congress."

New EPA regulations may help clean air

WASHINGTON (AP) — New regulations proposed by the Environmental Protection Agency would reduce by 90 per cent the vinyl chloride in the air near dozens of industrial plants around the nation, the agency says.

The chemical causes cancer, EPA officials said.

The plastics industry agreed on Tuesday when the rules were announced that "rigorous emission controls are in the public interest."

But it disputed EPA's assertions of risk to persons living near the plants.

An estimated $198 million in new pollution-control equipment will be needed, EPA said, when the rules take effect in the spring.

The chemical, which came into increasingly wider use in the early 1950s, is used in the manufacture of a broad array of products, including shoes, garden hoses, electrical wiring, heavy coats, phonograph records, upholstery, sporting goods and flooring.

EPA Administrator Russell E. Train said that 58 plants would be affected by the regulations, and some may close because of them. Train said that between one and 20 deaths from cancer attributable to vinyl chloride exposure have been recorded, but researchers have determined that it takes 20 years for the cancer to appear.

"All these considerations led us to the conclusion that we should take action now to reduce exposure levels to vinyl chloride before it may become too late," Train said.

Ralph L. Harding Jr., president of the Society of the Plastics Industry, said, "We do not believe that there is any current, nor has there been any past risk to the health of individuals residing in the proximity of vinyl chloride resin plants."

He noted that most of the concern over health risks has been focused on plant workers, and the Labor Department has issued its own vinyl chloride regulations on those aspects.

Train said clear medical evidence shows the chemical as the cause of a rare liver cancer, other cancers and other diseases but no firm statistics are yet available on how much exposure is dangerous.

Operations reported in three WT regions

Lubbock County has drawn site for a wildcat, and reentries have been reported in Crane and Andrews.

Arch C. McColl, Midland, No. 1 Klattenhoff has been staked as a 6,100-foot venture in Lubbock County, 6 1/2 miles east of Ropesville.

It spots 3/4 mile northeast of an 11,114-foot failure, which topped the Clearfork at 5,520 feet, under ground elevation of 3,315 feet.

Location of the Klattenhoff well is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 70, block 20, HE&WT survey, 12 miles southwest of Lubbock. Ground elevation is 3,308 feet.

ANDREWS TEST

William E. Hendon Jr. of Midland has rescheduled as an 8,950-foot wildcat, No. 1-AZ University, in the Emma (Strawn) field of South Andrews County.

Drill site is 330 feet from south and 1,721 feet from east lines of section 25, block 10, ULS, 15 miles southwest of Andrews.

It has been cleaned out to 10,165 feet, and is testing, gauge unreported, through Cisco perforations at 8,817-8,947 feet, after treating the pay zone with 5,200 gallons of acid.

The Three B Oil Co., Monahans, has filed application to reenter and clean out to 5,800 feet and test as a wildcat, at No. 1 Wirt Davis Estate, Crane County, 7,576-foot failure, seven miles southeast of Grandfalls.

Originally drilled by Richardson Production, it was plugged and abandoned Nov. 17, 1953. Top of the Montoya was picked at 5,620 feet, under ground elevation of 2,399 feet.

Location is 660 feet from southwest and 1,980 feet from southeast lines of section 39, block 4, H&TC survey, seven miles southeast of Grandfalls.

Vote may come today on bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oilstate senators who blocked final congressional action Tuesday night on an energy bill that would temporarily roll back prices of gasoline and heating oil say they probably will not try to prevent a vote much longer.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., has said that body would not begin its year-end holiday recess until the bill is disposed of. Work here had been scheduled to end Friday.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said he and other opponents of the measure probably would agree to a Senate vote sometime today.

The legislation would roll back the price of oil for about 20 months before allowing it to rise again and would restore for 40 months the federal oil-price controls that expired Monday.

President Ford has not said whether he would sign or veto the bill, which Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb supports.

The opponents contend that the bill's provisions would take away price incentives for U.S. oil companies to increase their production.

Well assured in Ward area

A second producer and 3/4-mile west extension to the Taurus (Ellenburger) field of Ward County has been assured with the flowing of gas at the daily volume of 9.8 million cubic feet, along with 10 barrels of load water per hour, for six hours, at Monsanto Co. No. 1 Jackson.

Flow was through a 24-64-inch choke and perforations at 17,254-17,348 feet, after the pay had been treated with 30,000 gallons of acid.

The sidetracked hole is bottomed at 17,465 feet. Plugged-back depth is 17,420 feet, and a 5-inch liner is hung from 12,303-17,465 feet.

The well has been shut in to await pipeline connection before running four-point tests and calculating absolute, open flow.

Location is 467 feet from northeast and 1,980 feet from northwest lines of section 58, block 34, H&TC survey, five miles south of Pyote.

The discovery, HNG Oil Co. No. 1-57 HNG fee, finalized last May for 68 million cubic feet of gas and 24 barrels of condensate daily, through perforations at 17,502-17,507 feet.

More than million Bicentennial slogans pour in

WASHINGTON — "I Get High on Apple Pie," "The American Eagle Doesn't Need Any Fuel to Fly," "Blood, Sweat 'n' Tears to Make 200 Years," "Renegotiate Our Contract With Destiny," "From Minutemen to Spacemen."

Slogans — more than a million of them — have poured into a red brick mansion in Washington, where dozens of volunteers are searching for the ultimate Bicentennial rallying cry.

They came from the 50 states, from large cities and small towns, written in the trembly letters of octogenarians and the awkward hand of children. Homemade bumper sticker slogans, printed red, white and blue slogans, simple typed slogans on lined paper.

"Slogans USA," the contest sponsored by columnist Jack Anderson, has produced an unexpected outpouring of patriotic response. It is, says Anderson, the Revolution Bicentennial Administrator John W. Warner, "the best evidence we have of how the whole Bicentennial is sweeping the nation."

It all started with Watergate, Anderson said. "It's like the wife who catches her husband playing around."

"After the initial shock, she decides she still loves him and she wants to say so. After Watergate, America was down in the dumps, shellshocked, but people still had a basic faith in their country and they wanted to express it."

So Anderson wrote a column in September 1974 calling on Americans to send him a Bicentennial slogan. "Putting into words our feelings about America may help us to shake off the dirt of Watergate and think constructively about our country," he wrote.

Slogans began to pour in at the rate of 10,000 a week and continued steadily through Monday's deadline. Now the winners from the 1975 tour of the United States as guests at Holiday Inns and $5,000 in expenses from the Copernicus Society, a Polish-American group, which underwrote the contest.

Many of the slogans are from children — whole elementary school classes have sponsored contests.

"America is like frosted flakes, it's great," wrote Charles Jerich, a Cheswick, Pa., sixth grader. From Mary Kiess, Bucyrus, Ohio: "Psst! Our Country Means Freedom — Pass It On!"

"To some cynics, this may appear maudlin," said Anderson. "Sophisticates consider it popular to deride the Bicentennial. But beneath the veneer, people love this country. In spite of the abuses of the CIA and the FBI, they haven't lost faith."

Mexican jails reportedly irked Henry Kissinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger decided last week to send a strong note to the Mexican government protesting alleged mistreatment of U.S. prisoners in Mexican jails, according to four State Department and congressional sources.

A State Department spokesman declined comment beyond saying that no note was actually sent.

There are more than 550 Americans jailed in Mexico, most for drug-related offenses. Rep. Fortney Stark, D-Calif., who has been investigating alleged abuses of the jailed Americans for more than a year, says he has found about 150 cases in which U.S. prisoners have been mistreated.

Stark's findings are supported in a recent House International Relations subcommittee report which concluded that Americans in Mexican jails have been victimized by entrapment, torture, failure by Mexico to adhere to its own legal standards and other abuses.

The State Department press office refused to confirm or deny Kissinger's reported decision to intervene personally in the matter.

A congressional source said he was told last Wednesday by a senior State Department official that the note was already enroute to Mexico and that delivery would be made to Mexican Foreign Minister Emilio O. Rabasa upon his return from a trip abroad.

As of Tuesday, Rabasa still had not returned home, a U.S. official said.

Three other sources also confirmed that a Kissinger note had been sent.

Maximum yield on your Tax Sheltered Retirement Fund.

First Savings and Loan Association is now offering the IRA (Individual Retirement Account) and Keough Retirement Accounts in the following categories:

Passbook Savings	No Minimum	@ 5 1/4% Compounded Daily to Yield 5.39%
90 Day Certificate	No Minimum	@ 5 3/4% Compounded Daily to Yield 5.92%
1 Year Certificate	$1,000 Minimum	@ 6 1/2% Compounded Daily to Yield 6.72%
2 1/2 Year Certificate	$1,000 Minimum	@ 6 3/4% Compounded Daily to Yield 6.98%
4 Year Certificate	$1,000 Minimum	@ 7 1/2% Compounded Daily to Yield 7.79%
6 Year Certificate	$1,000 Minimum	@ 7 3/4% Compounded Daily to Yield 8.06%

KEOUGH - permits the self-employed individual to invest up to 15% of his or her income, or $7500, whichever is less.

IRA - permits individuals not participating in any type of pension or retirement fund to set aside 15% of their earned income or up to $1500 a year in a tax-deductible fund for retirement purposes.

Both Keough and IRA earn interest daily and no federal income tax will have to be paid on either contributions or interest during the time the plan is in force. At retirement, the individual may elect to receive monthly payments from the account or take it in a lump sum. These funds are then taxed as ordinary income, at a rate which would ordinarily be less than it would on the original sum because of the probable change in the individual's tax bracket.

61,000 women, 18,000 men unattached millionaires

Newsday
NEW YORK — Going into the bicentennial year, a fascinating picture emerges of just where the United States is today.
 It's a country where childbearing is going out of style and marriage might be.
 It's a place of seeming inequities, where $281 million is spent in a year on clock and table radios and $154 million for crippled children.
 It's a place of great opportunities, where the number of millionaires has tripled in a decade to 222,000, and (fortune-hunters take note) 18,000 of them are unattached men and 61,000 are single or widowed women.
 Some of these trends might not be the ones that bicentennial boosters will be citing when they orate about the United States at age 200. But they are all down in the fine print of the most authoritative diary of a nation, "The Statistical Abstract of the United States — 1975."

 Offered without comment by the U.S. Census Bureau, some of the trends contained in the tabular matter are the kinds of things that politicians and planners seem sure to be arguing about as the nation goes into its third century:
THE FAMILY: For the first time since the Supreme Court legalized abortions in 1973, there are some definitive figures on just how widespread this trend has become.

Last year about 1.6 per cent of all women of prime child-bearing age had a legal abortion, compared with 6 per cent who chose to have a child.
 In some places, there now are more legal abortions than there are births, notably in the capital itself, with 4,208 for every 1,000 births, and in New York City, with 1,408 for every 1,000. All told around the nation there were 31,137,000 births last year and 745,000 legal abortions.
 Babies once were being born at the rate of 25 for every thousand in the population. That was back in 1957. Now the rate has gone down to about 15, according to the '73-'74 figures. Since 1970, the marriage rate has gone down about 1 per cent, the birth rate has gone down 18 per cent and the divorce rate has soared by about 31 per cent.

QUALITY OF LIFE: Americans shunned electric corn-poppers last year, buying only 3 million of them. In fact they stayed away from most new appliances, except for steam irons and electric hotplates.
 They were reading more books about business, sports and medicine — up 10 per cent alone — but a lot fewer works of poetry, foreign languages and what the census experts classified as "literature."
 Security: While New York City was being criticized for its crime-in-the-streets, the state's rate of 10.6 murders per 100,000 population was actually a lot lower than the conservative South's, where Georgia led the nation with a 17.8 rate, South Carolina scored 16.2 and Louisiana 16. (In frontier Alaska it was 13.6, while North Dakota was the safest place, with only 1.4).

 For a crime whose punishment is directly tied into politics, the raw data shows that the average draft evader is being sentenced to only 14.5 months in prison these days compared with more than three years (37.3 months) back in 1968.
OTHERS: The nation really shouldn't have had much trouble finding a doctor. There were 338,000 active MD's around at last count, against only 311,000 in 1970. But if they looked and talked differently as they thumped your chest, it wasn't your imagination. During that period, the number of foreign medical-school graduates here more than doubled, to 7,400.

 One final note: From what the government statisticians tell us about their own employees, we get the clear indication that the federal government hasn't been much better to minority groups than the rest of the nation has been. In the seven years between 1976 and mid-1974 the number of full-time minority employees of the federal government increased by only about 3 per cent.

Author hides face because of book

NEW YORK (AP) — There's a woman traveling around the country with a black "Lone Ranger" mask on her face. Sometimes she even puts a brown paper bag over her head when being photographed or interviewed on television.
 But no masked rider of the plains is she. She calls herself "J. Aphrodite," and is the author of a book on sex fantasies for women. She says she hides because of the book's subject, because she has a six-year-old daughter and because her telephone number is listed. But the mask adds that tinge of oddball mystery that publicists are fond of while promoting books, especially books on sex.
 The 34-year-old writer talked recently about herself and why she wrote "To Turn You On," a book she insists is not autobiographical.
 "I'm very interested in turning on," she said unmasked, sitting in the lounge of the Museum of Modern Art. "You can have it all if you have it mentally."

 Many sex therapists recommend fantasy books and articles for their patients who are attempting to understand sexual pleasure, she said. But most are written by male psychologists who try to interpret female fantasies for the reader.
 "To Turn You On" was written and edited by women. It is a compilation of fantasies submitted to J. Aphrodite by friends.
 "Friends told friends, and they'd call with ideas that emerged from consciousness raising groups or just discussion," she said. "In every case, they were things that turned women on. Some were very traditional — seduction, domination."
 There are 39 fantasies in the book, ranging from sexual encounters with a masseuse, a gynecologist, a delivery boy and one's best friend, to sex in a pornographic movie, swimming pool, the office, a fraternity house and a gay bar.
 "I spoke to a lot of women around my age — some older, some younger — and I wanted to talk to much older women who have a very special sexual approach and need," she said. "So I added chapters on widows and women who looked less than perfect."
 This is the first book for J. Aphrodite, a book editor who grew up in New York City's Brooklyn, where she said she had a "typically lower-middleclass experience." She was 18 when she married and 30 when she divorced.
 "I am young enough to identify with some of the new sexual values and old enough to know about repression," she said. "Why do we need permission? Sex is such a pleasurable thing. I made a very concerted effort to have women respond the way I think they really do."
 Some feminists have objected to the book, saying some of the fantasies perpetuated longstanding myths about male domination in sex. They particularly disliked the chapters dealing with seduction by the gynecologists, bondage in a gay bar and being nude on a therapist's knee.

Brazil expels priest

RIO DE JANEIRO — Brazil's right-wing military regime has expelled a French Catholic priest who was once involved in a leftist subversion case here.

The National Conference of Bishops of Brazil complained that authorities had no legal grounds for arresting and deporting the Rev. Francois Jentel. This was further evidence that relations between the government and the church in Brazil — the world's most populous Roman Catholic country — still are strained.

father Jentel served time in a Brazilian military prison in 1973 on a subversion conviction that later was overturned by Brazil's Supreme Military Court. A lower court had found the priest guilty of violating Brazil's tough national security law, because he defended peasant farmers who were being forced off their land by a big agricultural development company in the remote western state of Mato Grosso.

Holiday concert festive

The Midland-Odesa Symphony and Choral decked out its "holiday gift" concert in bright wrappings and presented it with a festive flourish to an appreciative and large audience here Tuesday night.

That the contents of this particular parcel were rather light-weight is probably beside the point at this holiday season. The concert offered something to please just about everyone, ranging as it did from motion picture and musical comedy numbers to Christmas carols and devotional works appropriate to the season.

Perhaps the only ones who may have been disappointed last night were those concert-goers who believe a symphony program should offer works a little deeper, a little more enlightening, even a little challenging! But, hopefully, their time will come in the new year when the orchestra launches the more serious portion of its current season. The first two symphony programs this year have been charming curtain-raiser—divertissements, primarily. Fortunately, the recent Choral concert with its more solid programming has helped offset the lightness of these orchestral events.

Two charming guest artists shared the spotlight with the orchestra and Choral in last night's event: Guest conductor Carmen Dragon and pretty young soprano Kathy Knight brought warmth, ease and personality onstage with them and quickly won over the audience in Lee High auditorium.

Miss Knight, equally at home on operatic, musical comedy and concert stages (and on TV) was heard in a variety of vocal works, including "Romany Life" from Victor Herbert's "The Fortune Teller"; an aria,

"The Trees on the Mountains," from the opera "Susannah" by Carlisle Floyd (not Carlisle, as the printed program would have us believe), and "Maybe This Time" from the movie "Cabaret." She also did a quick spoof of the late Marilyn Monroe's version of that old Carol Channing number, "Diamonds Are A Girl's Best Friend," which was okay if you go for that kind of thing in concert. It seemed like a waste of time to me.

ENTERTAINMENT

Miss Knight's voice is not large but it is sweet and pure, and her placement and projection were for the most part excellent in her various numbers. I particularly liked her work in the "Susannah" aria, a piece which, with its Appalachian plain-tiveness and rather simple structure, seemed entirely right for her special vocal qualities.

Dragon opened the program with an evocative and interesting arrangement of "America, the Beautiful," featuring the Choral, and then led the orchestra in the Festive Overture of Dmitri Shostakovich. Dragon was both conductor and pianist for the theme music from the motion picture "Love Story," and he again led the orchestra and Choral in a very pleasing "Yellow Rose of Texas."

The second segment of the program featured the orchestra, joined from time to time by the Choral, in traditional Christmas favorites. These included "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing," "O Come, All Ye Faithful," "God Rest Ye Merry, Gentlemen" and "The First Noel." Miss Knight was presented as soloist in the Cesar Franck "Panis Angelicus"—and quite lovely it was to hear.

Choral, soloist and orchestra joined forces again in still other holiday favorites to conclude the evening. Among these were "Joy to the World," "O Holy Night," "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear" and "Deck the Hall." The concert closed with "Silent Night." Most of the arrangements heard last night were from conductor Dragon's personal music library.

One of the special highlights of the concert event was the traditional presentation of new Symphony Debs. The white-gowned young ladies, daughters of Midland Symphony Guild members, were escorted to the stage by their fathers and in turn introduced to the audience by Guild president Mrs. Paul Rea. —Roger Southall.

Patriotic funeral available

KNIGHTSTOWN, Ind. (AP) — If you want a patriotic funeral, for a little extra money you can be laid to rest in style in a coffin of red, white and blue adorned with two American flags.

The unusual casket is manufactured by the Jaewil Casket Co. of Knightstown—a coffin wholesaler.

Jane Bechtel, manager of the central Indiana firm, said the tricolor casket was not designed with the American Bicentennial in mind, but for "patriotic reasons." "It's aimed at the veteran, the

Autograph party slated by Arthritis Foundation

The Arthritis Foundation will benefit from a special autograph party scheduled all day Thursday in Dellwood Plaza shopping center here.

The party, between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m., will feature Sam Pendergrast, widely-known West Texas newspaper columnist and sage, who will be autographing copies of his just-published book, "Blowing In the Wind." The volume is a collection of his articles of that title which appeared in the San Angelo Standard-Times when Pendergrast was a columnist for that newspaper.

Pendergrast recently ventured into the magazine publishing field and he also will autographing copies of his new monthly magazine, "Oeste," scheduled to hit the news stands immediately after Christmas. The magazine derives from the Spanish word for "West" and, in keeping with the title, is geared to West Texas and New Mexico readership. The first issue features Terlingua and the famous annual chili cook-off held there, and other articles include one on a group of young Midlanders who are expert horsewomen.

Pendergrast will be donating $1 to the Arthritis Foundation for each copy of his book sold here Thursday, and the same amount for each subscription taken for the new magazine, officials of the foundation's West Texas chapter said. Funds derived will help the foundation carry on its programs of arthritis research and education.

Bentsen supports tax cut, phaseout of controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says employment will be the leading issue in the 1976 presidential campaign, and restoring optimism to the United States by improving the economy must be the top priority of the winner.

Bentsen, a first-term senator from Texas seeking the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination, believes the Ford administration's economic plans will prohibit full employment until after 1980 and that without economic growth, improvements in education, health care and housing will not be achieved.

Bentsen also made these points in an interview:

—The 1975 tax reductions, some $16 billion, should be extended but cuts should not be as deep as those proposed by President Ford. Across-the-board spending cuts should also be imposed, a goal generally shared by the Ford administration.

—Oil price controls should be phased out "over a period of months" and price controls on natural gas should be abandoned over a period of years.

—Too much emphasis has been placed on U.S.-Soviet and U.S.-Chinese relationships to the exclusion of traditional U.S. allies and Japan, Latin America and Africa.

—Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has failed to "institutionalize" foreign policy in the State Department, making it, instead, "an extension of his own personality."

"I feel jobs will be the foremost issue of the 1976 campaign," Bentsen said. "Healthy, stable economic growth is the key to fighting both joblessness and rising prices."

He said confidence is "the biggest asset and resource this country has," but it has been "fiddled away by this administration and the previous administration because of the lack of credible leadership and because of economic maladministration."

"We can't restore optimism, put people back on payrolls, stop inflation, provide for health care, education, housing and the other concerns of Americans without a reasonable growth in our economy. This must be our No. 1 priority."

His economic positions are built around three suggestions.

He has proposed offering a tax credit to encourage increased hiring. He would create a youth employment service to reduce unemployment among young people and he would establish a "national job clearinghouse" to link the unemployed with jobs throughout the country.

The senator said the employment tax credit would cost nothing, because the reduced tax receipts would be balanced by a greater saving in reduced unemployment compensation payments by the government.

"I'd give a 10 per cent employment tax credit on the first $8,000 of salary for hiring the unemployed who have been out of work for at least six weeks," he said. The six-week provision would prohibit employers from simply hiring each other's workers. Hiring would be required at levels greater than in 1974 or 1975.

He predicted that such a scheme would produce "permanent jobs, not make-work jobs" for 600,000 to one million persons in two years.

Bentsen says substantial budget cuts in all areas of government, which he advocates, would not damage attempts to reduce unemployment if the cuts are coupled with certain adjustments.

"We have to get a handle on government spending," he said. But Bentsen refused to say how much he wants cut or where it should be cut until President Ford submits his budget proposals in January.

He said a key to fighting inflation would be reduced lending interest rates and that as president he would put pressure on the Federal Reserve Board to bring about lowered rates.

Bentsen favors removal of price controls from oil and natural gas to assure producers that the return on their investment will be sufficient to make continued exploration for more supplies worthwhile.

"Federal regulation has discouraged exploration for natural gas and encouraged waste of natural gas for 20 years," he said.

He believes the United States will never be able to eliminate all oil imports, but that with increased domestic production and emphasis on energy sources other than oil, virtual energy independence can be established at some unspecified future date.

Use of coal should be increased, he said, and solar energy should eventually become a "cornerstone of our national energy policy."

Bentsen criticized what he said was the failure to present a united front with other oil consuming nations in dealing with the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

"We have a big bargaining tool if we can get these consumer nations to bargain together against the OPEC countries," he said.

Bentsen said he has someone in mind for the position of secretary of state in any Bentsen administration, but he refused to name him.

"I'd be looking for one that would not be concentrating so much on just China and Russia," he said. "My secretary of state must possess greater expertise in economics, must place higher priority on openness in the process by which we develop foreign policy, and must be far less insistent on running the whole show...."

"I'd be trying to trade more where I thought we'd get a quid pro quo. I think there's been too much concern with coming home to some television extravaganza to try to display an aura of success without enough concern for the details of the trade."

Bentsen said he favors continued attempts to reach a strategic arms limitation accord with the Soviet Union, but he refused to specify what it should include, citing a lack of information from the executive branch on which to base an opinion.

Texas defeated on picketing bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both U.S. senators from Texas were on the losing side Monday as the Senate voted 52-43 to send the construction site picketing bill to President Ford. Democrat Lloyd Bentsen and Republican John Tower both opposed the bill.

The energetic declarer goes right after trumps in today's hand. The odds are very good that he'll lose a trump trick and go down one.

The best play is to win the first trick with the king of diamonds and tackle the spades at once. East captures dummy's king of spades and returns the nine of diamonds to dummy's ace. It's now pretty safe to ruff a diamond with the eight of hearts. At worst, if West is out of diamonds, your high ruff will operate as a sort of trump finesse.

West follows with a diamond, and you have not committed yourself on the play of the trumps. Your object is to avoid committing yourself.

Give up another spade. No matter what is returned, you can ruff a diamond in your hand and a spade in dummy. Cash the top clubs, reducing to one club and three trumps in each hand.

Now give up the club trick. You are sure to win the last three tricks no matter how the trumps break. The queen of hearts is sure to fall into your lap.

DAILY QUESTION
Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: S-Q1086; H-2; D-QJ108; C-10863. What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass. You would raise an opening bid of one spade, since then you would count 3 points for the singleton in addition to the 5 points in high cards. You have only 5 points in support of hearts, not quite enough for a response.

Early bird breakfast Thursday

The Midland Chamber of Commerce will hold its December Early Bird Breakfast at 7 a.m. Thursday at Ranchland Hill Country Club.

Games, prizes and cash awards will be given out as part of the breakfast program.

Reservations for the breakfast may be made by calling the Chamber office at 683-3381 by Wednesday. The cost is $3 per person, and all Chamber members and their guests are invited to attend.

Sponsoring this month's breakfast will be Southwestern Bell.

Be careful, Hill advises

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A sheriff can hire a county commissioner's son-in-law as jailer, but he'd better be careful how he does it, Atty. Gen. John Hill said Monday.

Since the county commissioner's court has nothing to do with a decision to hire or fire a jail employee, such employment would not violate state nepotism laws, Hill said in an opinion to Childress County Atty. Clarence Darter.

Era ends as 'Tugboat' resigns post

"What am I going to do? I'm going to do whatever I want to do," said Thurman "Tugboat" Jones after his resignation as Midland Schools Athletic Director was announced by Midland School Trustees at Tuesday's meeting.

"I imagine I'll just work at some things I've been wanting to do for a long time. Yes, I'll stay in Midland. I like it here and love the people."

Jones' resignation will become effective June 30, at the end of the current school year and will end a 34-year coaching and administrative career of 16 of those years in the Midland school system as head football coach (1949-1955) and athletic director since 1967.

"It has been a lot of wonderful years," Tugboat said. "There have been ups and downs, but I'm sorry to be leaving."

So were the Trustees, who accepted the resignation of the 57-year-old Jones with regrets.

As a successor, Jones said that would be up to the school board. "I don't know what direction they will go."

He went on, "I'm sure there will be some overlap. There's too much to do in this office to come in cold. I know when I took over Audrey Gill (Tugboat's predecessor) worked with me for two or three months."

Jones' career includes coaching (Continued on 3-D)

STEVE REITER of Midland Lee doesn't know it, but ball is hanging over his head in game with Hobbs, N.M. Eagles Tuesday night in Lee Gymnasium. Hobbs' Kent Williams (24), watches action as Junior Miller and Kevin Davis (24) apply pressure.

Hobbs sinks Rebs, 80-65

By BOB DILLON

The powerful Hobbs, N.M. Eagles, hitting a sizzling 67 per cent of their shots from the floor, broke loose in the second half to down the Midland Lee Rebels, 80-65, Tuesday night in the Lee Gymnasium in an inter-state basketball game.

Hobbs had beaten Odessa Permian, 103-100, in double overtime Monday night in Odessa and in that game hit 23 free throws, but against Lee, the Eagles only hit two free throws, but flipped in 39 of 61 shots from the floor in an amazing shooting display.

The victory for Coach Ralph Tasker's Eagles gives them a 6-1 season record and it was Tasker's 590th victory as the head coach of the Eagles. Tasker has 590 wins and 150 losses in 27 years at the New Mexico city.

Paving the way for Hobbs was Steve Smith, who gunned in 27 points. He was followed by Kent Williams with 13. Jeff Taylor, an amazing sophomore, chipped in with 10 along with teammate Randall Troop.

Junior Miller, Lee's talented 6-6 senior, flipped in 19 points with 16 of those in the second half while 6-3 junior Billy Ray Ennis tallied 18 for the Rebels who now stand 6-5 on the year with the loss. Steve Reiter, a 6-5 senior, added 12 more to the Lee attack.

Hobbs took a narrow 19-18 lead at the end of the first period, but increased it to 37-29 at halftime and led by 15-60-45, going into the final eight minutes of play.

While Hobbs looked ragged against Permian Monday, the Eagles moved, the ball well and shot much better than against the Panthers.

The Hobbs High School Pep Band came over and played and that added to getting the Eagles fired up after losing to Coach Paul Stueckler's Rebs by 24 points here last season.

Hobbs takes on the El Paso Coronado Thunderbirds Saturday in Hobbs in its next outing while Lee hopes to snap a three-game losing streak Friday night in the Lee Gymnasium against the Plainview Bulldogs.

Darryl Jones, although only scoring six points for the New Mexicans, played a superb floor game and Ennis played one of his better games for Lee.

In the sophomore contest, Coach

Jack Stephenson's Lee crew stomped Hobbs, 77-62 with Mike Oestman scoring 15 points followed by David Stueckler with 14 and Joe Garner with 13.

Big guns for Hobbs were Wesley Click with 12 points and Mike Ethridge with 13.

Stephenson's Lee junior varsity posted a 95-81 victory over the Hobbs JV with Mike Denny pouring in 28 points while Barry Blake followed with 21. Mike Wallace also was in the double figures with 10 for Lee. Bryant Marshall had 22 for Hobbs.

Pack rally falls short; Plainsmen win, 45-43

LUBBOCK — Midland's underdog Bulldogs almost won one they weren't supposed to here Tuesday night only Steve Lowery tipped in a rebound with two seconds to play to give Lubbock Monterey a 45-43 victory.

The Bulldogs, who took a four-game winning streak into the game, jumped out to a 14-8 lead in the first period, led at half 24-23.

Monterey took the lead 27-26 with 5:19 left in the third period.

With four minutes to go in the game, Midland trailed 43-36 when a basket by Tim Johnson broke a scoring drought for the Bulldogs.

Elvin Stewart converted a three-point play with three minutes to play to whittle Monterey's lead to 43-41.

The Purple Pack, now 6-6, gained possession with 1:01 to go and ran the clock down to 20 seconds trying to set up the good shot.

John Magness, high scorer for MHS with 11 points, finally got the shot that the Pack was waiting for and tied it at 43.

Casey Conine launched the shot that gave Lowery, a 6-3 transfer from Oklahoma, the opportunity to rebound and win the game.

Lowery wound up with 17 points, but 6-5 Scott Gardner had 20 and it was eight-of-nine from the free throw line in the second period that kept the Bulldogs from pulling out of sight.

In fact, the Plainsmen made 15 of 17 free throw attempts while Midland made only three-of-nine, although outshooting the hosts from the field 20-15.

The win gives Monterey a 7-5 record for the season.

Monterey also won the JV game, 63-42.

Midland travels to Wichita Falls Thursday for a three-day tournament and returns to Midland for a game against Fort Stockton next Tuesday.

CCA cancels tourney event

DALLAS (AP) — Members of the Collegiate Commissioners Association basketball tournament were to meet today amidst reports that they have decided to suspend for this year the annual conference runners-up event.

The CCA officials were scheduled to hold talks with Boyd McWhorter of the Southeastern Conference and Fred Jacoby of the Mid-American Conference to decide the tournament's fate.

A spokesman for the Southwest Conference said he understood that the meeting's agenda included upcoming legislation and replignment of conference divisions.

The Roanoke, Va., Times reported Tuesday that the CCA had decided to suspend the event this year and renew it next season.

The CCA tourney was held in St. Louis in 1974 and in Louisville in 1975. It had been scheduled to be held in Louisville again next year.

Ducats sales reach goal

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — "I wouldn't have gone to New York without it. There wouldn't have been any use."

John Bassett, president of the Memphis Grizzlies, said that Tuesday night after a three-hour, locally produced television marathon, the NFL-ATHON, surpassed a goal of 40,000 season ticket pledges for 1976 with 40,688 to demonstrate the city's interest in a National Football League franchise.

Bassett will meet today with NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle and the NFL's four-man expansion committee to discuss the Grizzlies' application.

"Reaching 40,000 was necessary," Bassett said. "It's not smart business to finance a team to play in front of 20,000. But I feel good about everything. I feel really excited about talking with the NFL people."

Bassett has something to feel good about in Memphis. He brought the business, entertainment and political community together in the ticket pledge drive for the former World Football League team.

"It's a great victory for everyone concerned," he said.

Parseghian turns down pro offer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ara Parseghian, television star, still isn't sure if he ever wants to coach football again.

coaching—not even at Notre Dame—and that any return to football would be at the professional level.

Parseghian, who suffered from high blood pressure during his final season at Notre Dame, said his health "was not a factor" in his decision.

adapting to the pro ranks. "The basics for coaching success are fundamental on any level," he said.

The 52-year-old Parseghian said the distributors and producers of his new show—"Ara's World of Sports"—thought he could combine the TV series with a pro coaching job.

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Kansas State University, in what was described as "a major administrative realignment," has relieved Ernie Barrett as athletic director.
