H. T. Kennedy Instantly Killed Monday Night West of Farwell When Auto Collided With Truck On Highway

Grim Tragedy, bearing its black flag of disaster with the skull and cross bones imprinted upon its bosom, stalked in the darkness on Highway No. 60 Monday night when Hugh T. Kennedy, Muleshoe baker, fell a victim to its inevitable clutches.

Kennedy had been to Clovis, N. M., on business that afternoon and was returning home that night about 9:30 o'clock, when the Chevrolet coach he was driving collided with a truck owned by Shipley Bros., ranchers, residing about 20 miles northwest of Clovis, and occupied by John Shipley and L. P. Hickson.

The accident occurred on a culvert about four miles west of Farwell. Shipley and his driver had been to Borger after a heavy steel tank which they were bringing back to their ranch to be used for grain storage purposes.

Doc Neely, local welder, stated he was returning home from Clovis the same evening, driving a model "T" Ford car, and going about 15 miles per hour. About a mile and a half out of Clovis he was passed by Kennedy who at that time, was traveling at a very reasonable speed, estimated by Neely to be not more than 30 miles per hour.

According to Shipley, who was in the on-coming truck, Kennedy pulled well over toward the right-hand side as he approached the truck, but seeing the road markers on either side of the culvert both cars were approaching, again pulled nearer toward the center of the road. It is supposed he became blinded by the opposing lights and pulled too far toward the center, crashing into the truck. The lights of both cars were said to have been burning just before the impact, and Shipley's driver realizing the approaching auto was swinging in from the right, as the driver attempted to pull the truck toward the right-hand bar pit as much as he could in passing over the culvert, according to report.

The truck eventually went into the bar pit, crumpling up the front end and axles the left front corner of the body also being damaged by the impact. Kennedy's car is said to have become a total wreck on the left side, the impact crushing the front corner and stripping everything away from that side as it contacted with the truck. It rolled over at least once in the ditch, according to Shipley.

As soon as Shipley and his driver could extricate themselves from their truck, they ran to Kennedy's assistance, and found that the impact of collision had thrown him into the rear of the coach, pinning his head under the back seat. The left side of his head was crushed beyond recognition and he was later identified by a note found in his pocket. He was still breathing, though unconscious, when discovered. By that time Neely, from Muleshoe had arrived, and a farmer, Chester Watson, living south of Clovis, drove up in his truck, Kennedy was placed in Watson's truck and hurried to a doctor's office in Farwell, but died within a few minutes after his arrival, never having regained consciousness.

Sheriff H. Sterling, of Bailey county, was notified of the accident, and took Mrs. Kennedy to Farwell. Sheriff R. M. Witherspoon, of Curry county, was also notified, and an investigation was made by these officers, accompanied by other citizens from Farwell and Muleshoe.

Kennedy is well known in and around Muleshoe, where he has lived most of his life. For several years he has conducted the bakery here, and has always been looked upon as one of the town's most honored and trustworthy citizens. His untimely death came as a distinct shock to the entire community. Funeral services had not been definitely decided upon Wednesday noon, being held in advance pending the arrival of relatives from Mrs. Kennedy's home.

Mr. Kennedy was a member of the Church of Christ.

The deceased is survived by his wife and small children, his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Kennedy, living 10 miles northwest of Muleshoe, two brothers, Bob and Will Kennedy, of Muleshoe; Tom Kennedy, a brother and Mrs. D. W. Beecham, a sister, at Matador; Mrs. Dilla Hunt, a sister, at Denver, Colo.; Mrs. Jess Gird, a sister, at San Angelo; Mrs. Jennie Parikh, a sister, at Dallas, and Miss Lillie Kennedy, a sister, at Lorenzo.

Outlook Is Good For Big Yields In Cotton and Grain

Cotton and grain sorghum crops in Bailey county and contiguous territory are in the very best possible condition at this time of the year, as a trip over this area will prove to anyone making it. Very little difficulty has been experienced with hot winds or blowing sand.

Practically all fields appear to be remarkably clean of weeds, the farmers having kept the cultivators going until the desired freedom from foulness was achieved. Indian corn varies in height from three to five inches, and the leaves all have good color. Most grain sorghums are advanced slightly more, some of it being a foot high.

Cotton stands are all good and some farmers are already boasting of a bale per acre condition. The stalks look exceptionally healthy and are showing from eight to 10 leaves, sometimes more. Some chomping is going on this week where planting was too thick.

There is an excellent underground moisture season this year, which largely accounts for the present crop conditions, farmers also being inclined to take better care of their crops this year than formerly. No real suffering from lack of moisture is yet noticeable, and rain early in July will be of great value. There has been very little damage from hail in this area, and comparatively few farmers have had to replant from any other cause.

Kiwanians Make Protest of Sale Gov'm't Wheat

The Muleshoe Kiwanis club went on record at its regular meeting held Friday of last week as being against the immediate sale of wheat now being held by the Government, and forwarded a telegram to James C. Stone, president of the Federal Farm Board, Washington, D. C., urging the indefinite holding of all grain now in the hands of the Stabilizing Corporation.

Much indignation was expressed by various members attending the meeting over the present unprecedented low price of wheat, and it was unanimously voiced by them that they consider this would be an immediate dumping of government controlled wheat on the market be expedient.

The telegram sent was as follows: "Hon James C. Stone, Federal Farm Board, Washington, D. C.

"The Kiwanis club passed unanimous resolutions that they favored the Farm Board holding their wheat for a stipulated higher price and making the fact known publicly. We consider this would be a great help to our wheat growers the U. S. A. at this time. We are in the midst of our wheat harvest on the South Plains of Texas.—R. L. Brown, Secretary."

Three Are Charged With Stealing Oil, Etc., In Parmer Co.

Earl and Todd Hamblin and Bill Pickard, all residing near Muleshoe, were arrested Saturday of last week on a charge alleging theft which came out of the Parmer County court and placed in the Bailey county jail until Sunday night when Sheriff Bill Hall of Parmer county took them to Farwell where they were being held pending a hearing in county court, according to H. Sterling, sheriff of Bailey county.

According to Sheriff Sterling, the Parmer county sheriff called upon him for aid in apprehending thieves who were stealing oil and grease in Parmer county, and stated he thought the stolen goods was being brought to this county. After watching for four nights, Mr. Sterling reports, he noticed strange maneuvers of an automobile in the Parmer county vicinity which made several return trips to the Hamblin farm about three miles north of Muleshoe. The Sheriff reports that the car had an automobile mud chain attached to each of the rear fenders to drag out the tracks in order that the car could not be traced to the Hamblin farm.

Mr. Sterling obtained a search warrant Saturday and found stolen goods approximating $300 in value at the Hamblin farm. The stolen property, he says, was found under grape vines in the orchard at the farm. It consisted chiefly of oil, grease, grease guns and wrenches. The sheriff states that the prisoners admitted the theft to him here Saturday.

They had not made bond Tuesday.

Stone Sells Wheat That Yielded 44 Bu. Per Acre, Irrigated

The best wheat yield to date reported in Bailey county is 10 acres of irrigated grain grown by A. P. Stone on the Fred Warren land located a few miles east of Muleshoe in the Blackwater valley.

"This wheat yielded 44 1/2 bushels per acre, all of it testing better than 60 pounds per bushel. There were 140 acres in the field, the remaining 130 acres grown by natural rainfall yielded an average of 25 bushels per acre.

The 10 acres grown by irrigation was designed largely as an experiment, but the value of water officially applied is fully demonstrated to Mr. Stone, who will have a considerable larger acreage under irrigation next year.

Robbers Attempt Entering Blackwater Bank Foiled

The efficiency of the burglar alarm at the Blackwater Valley State Bank, this city, was demonstrated Monday night when an attempt to enter it was made by unknown parties.

The big gong on the north side of the building sent forth its clarion call for assistance the instant it was tampered with. Mrs. E. W. Carles, sleeping just across the street, was awakened, phoned the night police and Cashier Jess Osborne, who quickly came for an investigation. The instrument board showed the alarm button had been released and the indicator registered the fact that an attempt had been made to enter the building. Nothing was missing, and it is supposed the would-be-burglar failed to even make an entrance because of the vigilance of the alarm system.

Farwell Votes Bonds

Members of the Farwell school district last week voted $30,000 bonds for the construction of a new auditorium and classrooms on their high school building, the measure carrying 67-41 votes.

The new addition will be 120x102 feet over all.

Band Concert Elevator Men Are Held Responsible By Lien Holders

The Muleshoe Municipal band will give a concert on Main street Friday afternoon, at 7:15 p. m. promptly at 4:30 o'clock, and every one is invited to attend and enjoy the music.

The band has recently added several new pieces to their repertoire which it believes the public would like to hear. Specially numbers in arrangements for saxophone quintets and brass fours are also being worked out by the organization and will soon be ready for rendition.

15,000 Guests To Attend Plainview Event On July 4

Plainview, June 30.—Plainview is expecting 15,000 guests for the mammoth Fourth of July celebration which is to be held here with appropriate program and entertainment.

Invitations have been extended through the Chamber of Commerce to all neighboring communities, and the responses that are already coming in indicate that there will be a number of large delegations here for the day's program.

A big parade, with floats, bands, clowns, decorated cars, and delegations from adjoining towns will start the day's program at ten-thirty o'clock. Bill Gouldy, and his committee are working hard to make this one of the most colorful and unique parades ever to be staged in Plainview.

At noon, the big feature of the day will be the gigantic barbecue when Plainview will be host at dinner to the most colorful and unique parades ever to be staged in Plainview.

In the afternoon there will be varied entertainment. A negro ball game, athletic contests, and other attractions. Joe Lee, popular humorist, will speak twice during the big celebration.

One of the most stupendous displays of fireworks ever to be shown in a Plains gathering will be staged Saturday night at the City Park. David Bales, chemist, states the display will include many unusual and beautiful novelties as well as the old favorites. A sham battle between the Legion and Battery A, 131st, P. A. will conclude the program.

A wrestling match and a dance will also be features of the evening's entertainment.

All events will be held at the City Park at Plainview, and every citizen of this section is given a cordial invitation to attend.

Clovis Crosses Bats With Muleshoe Here July Fourth

What is declared will be a hard fought game to be played here Saturday, July 4, when the Clovis, N. M., baseball team cross bats with the Muleshoe team Saturday afternoon, the game beginning at three o'clock.

These teams are old enemies on the diamond and, according to Manager O. K. Angeley, of the local team, will furnish the spectators with one of the hottest contested games ever seen this season.

Caponizing Interests Farmers; Exhibition Slated At Willman's

Another caponizing demonstration was held at the home of I. F. Willman, at 9:00 a. m., Friday, June 26. Mr. Willman has Bared Rocks, which make a most desirable capon.

Last week half a dozen people learned to use the instruments at the demonstration of W. M. Jauns at Circleback and at W. M. Pool's Purdy Seed farm. Fifteen families attended these demonstrations.

Caponizing, which is the castration of male chickens, is best performed on birds from 7 to 10 weeks old. Many people put off the operation until the cockerels are two and four months old. This delay increases the number of deaths and will cause more slips to be made.

Chinese literature indicates that caponizing was practiced in China before Jesus Christ was born. At the present time, the farmers of France practice capon production quite generally. This phase of the poultry industry continues to grow in the United States. It has been popular in the Eastern states nearly 20 years and is rapidly spreading Westward. In spite of this expansion, the price of capons holds above that of other broilers.

To Attend Portales Bout

Several Muleshoe boxing fans will attend the boxing bout to be held at Portales, N. M., Thursday night of this week.

The principal contestants will be Jack Doss vs. Marlin Owens, in 12 three-round bouts.

These men are old fighting enemies. About a year ago Doss knocked Owens out, breaking his jaw, in a fight at Littlefield. Little more than a month ago these same men fought to a decision draw at Portales. The coming scrap anticipated in reference to the disposition of what it now has on hand, is thought, will have considerable influence on farmers as to whether they sell their crop now or wait until later. Probably by July 1 something definite in this line will be known.

Clovis Wants Sing Meet

Clovis, N. M., would entertain the next meeting of the Plateau Singing convention, to be held in June, 1932, according to announcement made by its president, John F. Taylor.

Lubbock, Lovington, Amarillo and Tucuman are also making bids for the next meet. Decision will be given at the meeting of directors to be held in Clovis, December 18.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

In the multitude of competitors there is safety.—Prov. 11:14.

It is always safe to learn even from our enemies, seldom safe to instruct even our friends.—Colton.

WHERE'S BUSINESS

For sometime back it has been conceded among business men generally that there has not been much business—some have enjoyed very little, and they are becoming somewhat bothered about it. For years their "stockings hung by the fire-side," and were filled regularly and liberally to their entire satisfaction, but recently Santa Claus apparently has forgotten them. Orders don't come in as they used to—business has been getting awful bum.

Where has it gone? Clearly it has gone somewhere. It still is, but it isn't here. Then just why has it gone somewhere else? "There's a reason" as the Grape Nut dietist would say.

Business has gone after the business man who has gone after the business. The day has passed when a man may rent a building, fill it full of merchandise and then sit down and wait for the customers to fill his store and buy his goods. Business nowadays has to be gone after—the buying public must be told, and repeatedly so, about what one has to sell, its beauty, value, price, etc.

Nobody is going to hand any business man anything on a silver platter these days. The buying public is no longer satisfied with Pollyanna platitudes and baseless bunk. They want facts—and they will trade where they can get them. Business men who will go after business intelligently and earnestly will reap the rewards. The waiters and the waiters are on the way out. No doubt about that.

There is no accounting for tastes. Some women enjoy bridge parties while others prefer funerals.

GET READY FOR FAIRS

With one of the best small grain crops on the South Plains this summer that has been produced in several years, fair exhibitors over this section are now busy getting samples for exhibit bundles for the various sectional fairs this fall.

Bailey county should be no exception and right now is the time to begin making selection of exhibits of various kinds. We know of no county anywhere in this area that has better crop prospects, and we would certainly be making a big mistake to not take advantage of this great opportunity in displaying to the visitors to these fairs some of our superior products.

Sample of wheat and oats and some other products should be obtained now, and arrangements for others should also be made. If the proper steps in this direction are now taken, there is no reason at all why Bailey county should not walk off with prizes everywhere these products are exhibited.

Marriage is sure to teach one thing: that it is a darned sight easier to follow a woman than to lead her.

ABOUT EATING

Food experts assert that too many of us are not eating well balanced meals. In recent years they have discovered that leafy green vegetables are of vital importance in the human diet, but it is difficult to make the average man or woman believe it. Vegetables such as cabbage, kale, string beans, celery, lettuce, spinach, beet greens and turnip greens are called "the protective foods." They contain the vitamins that are essential to growth and that protect against numerous diseases. They also help to maintain bodily resistance against tuberculosis. You probably cannot find anyone in Muleshoe willing to dispute the state-

Refund Is Made To Users Of Gas When Off The Highway

With more than $500,000 in gasoline refund claim now due farmers in Texas, State Comptroller Geo. H. Shepard, is using every possible means at his disposal to make the procedure in preventing delay in making out a claim properly and receiving the amount due.

The refunding of the gasoline tax to farmers under certain provisions intended primarily to benefit the farmers of Texas. It applies to individuals who purchase gasoline for operating or propelling any stationary gas engine or tractor used for agricultural purposes, for any other purpose other than use in a motor vehicle operated or intended to be operated upon any public highway.

Whatever gasoline has been paid directly or indirectly, the person who pays this tax on gas used, other than for the exception mentioned, is entitled to a refund of the amount of the tax paid.

Before the individual can secure the refund that is due him according to provisions of this law, he must do certain things. First he must receive from the person from whom he makes his purchase a duplicate invoice of exemption known as form 7065-B. This must be received at the time purchase is made and not afterward. Then, within six months within the date of purchase, a claim for the tax paid on gasoline may be made and this claim must be made on a form known as 7065-C which is furnished upon request from the state comptroller. This request must be made by purchaser direct. Remember that dealers are not supplied with this form. They supply the purchaser only with Form 7065-B which is the duplicate of the invoice of exemption.

Each individual is also required to support his claim for refund by affidavit on a prescribed form which is also supplied by the state comptroller of Austin, Texas. This claim and affidavit must be supported by all duplicate invoices of exemption and $1 filing fee, all of which must be sent to the state comptroller.

When they are approved, treasury warrants are issued and mailed directly to the claimant. No claims will be approved by the state comptroller unless it is supported by duplicate of exemption and the $1 filing fee.

BUS COMPETITION HITS RAILROADS

Bankers Association President Asks if Unfair Aid is Given Motorized Transport—For Rail Mergers.

NEW YORK.—Fair treatment for the railroads in respect to highway motor competition was called for by Rome C. Stephenson, President American Bankers Association, in a recent address here. He also strongly endorsed "sound economic railway consolidation" and praised President Hoover for his initiative in this respect. "I am very strongly of the opinion that one of the measures which would help materially to put back business where it ought to be is the Eastern four-system plan of railroad consolidation as announced recently following negotiations instituted by President Hoover," said Mr. Stephenson. "Its adoption by the Interstate Commerce Commission would tend to stabilize the transportation industry, facilitate operation and exert a favorable influence on business in general. "It is a fact well known to business leaders that our railroads are now facing a crisis. Not only do they need protective laws to meet competition from other highways and waterways by other carriers, but they need unification such as the proposed four-system plan provides. The President has acted wisely in assuming a leadership in this respect and his move deserves the support of every clear-thinking citizen. "Mr. Stephenson declared that the railroads have served this country "so superlatively well that we are prone in our public affairs to overlook our dependence upon them and our obligations to them. The past, present and future progress of the United States is inseparably bound up with their welfare. In neglecting just consideration for them we are even more neglectful of the public's best economic interests.

A Question of Public Interest "We are confronted with the question as to how much more the public economic interest will stand an invasion of the waters of the railroads by forces and difficulties not of their own creating and not within the scope of their own unaided powers," said Mr. Stephenson. "I refer especially to new competitors that are undermining the position of the railroads, not only with the aid of natural economic forces but also through the aid of government policies which, positively or negatively, tend to give these competitors undue advantages over the railroads. "It goes without saying that the railroads have no right, nor claim any, so far as I have been able to discern, to complain at legitimate competition by using, or by failing to use, the taxing powers of government to enable competitive methods of transportation to do things they could not otherwise do as unaided private enterprises, particularly when such action impairs the invested rights held in good faith by great masses of our people in established enterprises that are serving the public well. "Mr. Stephenson said it was not his purpose to argue against such competitive transportation as the highway passenger motorbus and motor truck as such, when conducted under proper conditions and in keeping with public welfare and benefit. He declared, however, there is need for serious consideration whether such competition is being developed under conditions that are unfair to the railroads, because either the outright or obscure aid of government policy is the deciding economic factor in that competition.

Would Investigate Bus Traffic Railroad rights of way, he declared, represent tremendous capital investments, on which the railroads have also heavy current costs to meet. "They pay every day a million dollars in taxes and most of this is on their rights of way," he said. "Also they spend daily over two million dollars additional for the proper maintenance of way." He asserted that the motorbuses have not had to pay for their rights of way in any sense that the railroads paid for theirs. "They have simply taken possession of public highways built by public funds, both state and national," he continued, "and they have extensively made these highways vastly less comfortable, less safe and less serviceable for private motorists and others who are contributing chiefly to their creation and maintenance." Mr. Stephenson declared that all these matters should be thoroughly inquired into by competent public bodies, both state and national, with a view of determining the equities and basic public economic interests involved, "particularly in respect to their effects upon the nation's railroads. "I venture to say," he added, "that such inquiries would show whether it is to the public interest to let things remain as they are, whether the situation calls for a new basis of motorbus and truck taxes to satisfy the equities of the case or whether it would call for such drastic action as the exclusion of this traffic from our public general highways, and the requirement that, even as the railroads, it provide as a part of its own private capital investment its own rights of way and for its own maintenance of way out of operating income."

NEW RED CROSS POSTAGE STAMPS ARE RECEIVED HERE: LOCAL POSTMASTER KEEPS UP WITH ALL SPECIAL ISSUES

Muleshoe post office last week received its first consignment of Red Cross postage stamps. They are of the two cent denomination and issued in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the American Red Cross society. The stamp is printed in two colors, black and red, and is the same size of the regular issue. A significant feature of the stamp is that of a Red Cross nurse kneeling before the globe with outstretched hands, reproduced from the 1930 poster entitled "The Greatest Mother." The insignia of the order is reproduced in pronounced size and is the only image on the stamp carried in red ink. Other Special Issues Because of the prominent part the Red Cross society has taken in the present financial stringency, this new stamp is meeting with much approval, many people also buying them as souvenirs. It has been the custom of the Postal Department to issue, from time to time, special stamps in recognition of certain prominent events. Some of these recent issues are as follows: "The Spirit of St. Louis" 10 cent stamp, issued following Lindberg's crossing of the ocean. "International Civil Aeronautics Conference" 2 cent stamp, issued in 1928. "Ohio River Canalization" 2 cent stamp, and the "Valley of Fallen Timbers" 2 cent stamp, issued in 1929. "General Pulaski" 2 cent stamp, issued in the spring of 1931. All these special issues have been on sale at the local post office.

RECENT BRIDE HONORED

One of the feature events in Muleshoe social circles of recent date was the surprise miscellaneous bridal shower tendered Mrs. A. E. Lewis last Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Beulah Motheral, with Mesdames E. R. Hart, Julian Lenau and Miss Ellen Abbott as joint hostesses. The group of thirty ladies present arrived at 4:00 o'clock and remained until six, enjoying a profusion of games and contests. Nearing the six o'clock hour two large baskets full of lovely gifts were brought in and presented to the charming honoree, after which refreshments of cake and punch were served. Ever wonder why the water runs so much colder in the shower-bath than it does in the drinking water faucet?

AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE WAS VOTED JULY 2ND BUT WE CELEBRATE THE 4TH

July 2, has been neglected as an anniversary date of importance by the American people, yet it is one of the most significant dates of our history. For it was on July 2, and not on July 4, 1776, that American independence was really voted by the Continental Congress then in session.

The United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission calls the attention of the Nation to this fact and suggests that, when the people throughout the land celebrate Independence Day in 1932, during the Celebration of the Two Hundredth Anniversary of the Birth of George Washington, July 2 as well as July 4, be recognized in the merry-making and thanksgiving which the anniversary of that great document brings forth.

The story of how independence was voted is here briefly told. Before 1775, independence was not thought of by most of the American leaders or by the American public at large. The colonists were interested in righting the wrongs inflicted by the British but not in breaking away completely from the mother country.

Several attempts at conciliation were made, all without result. But many of the Colonists were still anxious to close the breach rather than widen it. As late as January, 1776, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Maryland instructed their members in Congress to vote against independence.

As the months went on, led by the more radical colonial statesmen, the demand for independence began to crystallize. Soon it became the goal. Complete independence from England was to be the reward for American sacrifices!

January 1776 brought to Congress news of the burning of Norfolk, Virginia, by the order of Lord Dunmore. About that time Thomas Paine's "Common Sense" stirred the Colonists to fever pitch. Also, reports reached Philadelphia in May that England was hiring Hessians to coerce the Colonies. There was also the stigma of being proclaimed "rebels" and treated as such. All these events and conditions had their effect in arousing public opinion to the point of demanding independence.

George Washington, at the head of the Continental forces, was urging the Colonists to declare independence. He thought that the time for parleying and compromises was past. Complete severance and independence from the mother country, he thought, would help bring the struggle to a successful end.

Towns Hopeful of Full Decision On T. P. & N. Later

While Examiner Weed has recommended that the Texas Pacific & Northern Railway Co. be given permission to build its proposed line from Big Spring to Brownfield, and another line from Lubbock Junction to Lubbock, it is generally considered that such recommendation does not absolutely settle the matter. That company's application to build a line of over 300 miles from Big Spring to Vega.

That it is conceded that the Interstate Commerce Commission will probably follow the recommendation of its examiner in the matter, yet even that is no reason to believe that the company will even build this much of the proposed line, since it has been rumored that the branches to Lubbock and Amarillo were largely proposed to secure the influence of those two towns in behalf of the longer proposed line.

Refusal of permit to build the entire 333 miles was based on an alleged reason of truck transportation, and desire of the Commission to determine to what extent the trucks might interfere in railroad transportation in the longer area, before granting the full request of the company. It is reported that in December another decision may be made by the Commission relative to the entire route.

Littletield and Leveland, important towns on the longer proposed route, are in hopes that a later decision may be more favorable to their interests.

Community Building

Township Play Centers New Recreational Idea

That part of the Michigan Township tributary to Port Huron has developed a new recreational idea. The people are organizing what they call "Township Playdays." Maybe the rest of Michigan will be interested to see what comes of it.

The township is the oldest, the simplest and most democratic political unit, but it seldom has served the purposes of a social group. The school district with its centrally located schoolhouse was more convenient.

But good roads and transportation are contracting big areas and little ones, and people more widely separated are coming to regard themselves as belonging to one neighborhood. Obviously if the Township fails in getting together by townships for their "playdays," the very size of the gatherings will lend an atmosphere of success to the undertakings.

It is proposed to provide games and sports for all the people, young and old, big and little, men and women. And there are to be professional sport directors to teach the backward how to play and to inspire all with that spirit of co-operation which will enable them to play together.

There may be no end to this thing that has opened at a glance. It is a capital idea to play with.—Detroit News.

Disadvantage to Have Trees Too Near House

The proper placement of trees in regard to the house is a problem all by itself. No doubt there is something extremely cozy-looking in a house tucked immediately against a tree, but the overhanging branches tend to cut down the chimney draft, offer more fire hazard, in case of lightning, and in other ways prove a detriment.

Trees placed at least 20 feet from a house offer better background values and throw even better shade. Their picturesque or "honey" effect is the one thing desired above all; to secure this, trees in front of a house ought to be to one side, rather than directly in front, in order to frame the house. Thus two trees, one to either side, offer the maximum effect, in the frontal approach.

Large trees to the rear give background effect to be secured in no other way. Even here the center of lawns are best left clear, and the trees kept to the sides, unless they are at the extreme back limits of the lawn, where they preferably may be in the center.

Making House a Home

The house is the center of the little portion of the earth's surface we call home. To it lead the drives and paths; around it lie the lawns and gardens that mean so much to the hours of our recreation and delight. To make the surroundings a picture of harmony is to make the house truly a home. Does your front entrance, a most prominent picture, have that air of both welcome and dignity so much desired? Are those paths and drives bordered with evergreen hedges as well as your rose and perennial gardens? If so, you are fortunate indeed, but remember, no place should be considered complete until the patriarch of the evergreen tribe, the specimen box, is planted.—Exchange.

Little Town's Advantage

Contrasted with the clamor and commotion of the big cities, life along any "Main street" is better for anyone than living in the city. The chances in social life make amusement available to the "small town" resident. No one wants a steady diet of one thing, and the small community offers a variety that the "big city" cannot give.

Homes and Credit

There are two kinds of credit. One is constructive, the purchase that outlives the debt; the other is destructive, the purchase that is used before the debt is paid. Credit is becoming more and more a question of character rather than collateral. Permanency of the family, the fact that they own their own home, is one of the principal standards by which credit is measured.

Improvement Always Possible

Rational planning is good, even for the city or town that is not in process of marked development. Much can be done with existing conditions by way of improving traffic facilities, establishing order, eliminating unsightliness, providing beauty and adopting desirable regulation of signs, billboards, building and remodeling.

Marble for Outdoor Use

The desirability of marble for the garden does not end with its distinctive beauty. . . for its unusual weathering quality, its ability to withstand extreme changes of temperature and its imperviousness to moisture make marble the most practical of materials for outdoor ornamentation.

Money Well Invested

Money spent in home modernization has a definite social value. This aspect must never be overlooked when considering this most important subject.

HAS FINE PLUM CROP

H. M. Thompson, living 1 1/2 miles east of West Camp school house, brought into Muleshoe Monday afternoon a limb cut from one of his three-year old plum trees on which were counted 85 about one-half matured plums, the limb measuring a little over 12 inches in length. He states there are numerous other limbs on the trees that are even more thickly set with fruit.

All the trees of his orchard are so heavily set with fruit this year, both plums and cherries, that frames have had to be built about them to protect the limbs from breaking off by the weight.

Other farmers of this section report excellent crop prospects from their plums, cherries and grapes.

resolutions. The first of these declared the United Colonies, and Independent States, one of the most momentous resolutions ever introduced in Congress.

Lee's resolution was tabled for the time being but Congress created a committee with Thomas Jefferson at its head, to draw up a declaration of independence. Lee's resolution for independence was brought up in Congress for debate on July 1.

On the next day, July 2, 1776, the vote was taken and it showed twelve states in favor of independence, New York not voting.

It was, therefore, on July 2, 1776 that independence was really declared. Thomas Jefferson's declaration of independence was then taken up, and after several changes were made, the Declaration of Independence as we know it was adopted by Congress on July 4, 1776.

The suggestion of the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission that July 2, as well as July 4, be celebrated as a good one. Let the nation prepare to have a three-day celebration next year instead of the usual one-day event. It will be particularly appropriate during the year when the man who made the Declaration of Independence a reality is being honored on the Two Hundredth Anniversary of his Birth.

COTTON UP $2.00 BALE

The most active and exciting trade news of the week is the advance of cotton from 135 to 139 points, or nearly $7.00 per bale, as reported the first of the week.

Monday the market was characterized by active trade buying, short covering, and considerable speculative interest developed.

The rise this week makes a recent total of about $10.00 per bale.

Through a Woman's Eyes

A BOY KING'S VIEWS

THE return of Carol to the throne of Rumania made public one fact. That is that little Prince Michael, then king, did not want to be king.

Almost the first words the little king said to his father when they were reunited were these: "Thank goodness you are back and will be king. I have been terribly tired of wearing long trousers and a stiff hat and going to places where I did not want to go at all."

That's what a real king thinks of being king! So much for pomp and circumstance, in the opinion of a nine-year-old boy. So much for the scepter and gold braid, which many grown ups think with awe! So much for "show," for the power and authority over other men who grownups prize so highly!

No sooner had his father related him of the throne than Michael said to his English tutor: "Now then, I am not king any more, can't I go out and play with the other kids?"

And the question is, what price glory? In the eyes of a child, freedom to be himself were far more important than the glory of sitting on a throne and wearing a crown.

And who shall say that the unworldly eye of a child does not sometimes see more clearly and with a better sense of values? (© 1929, E. P. Syndicate.)

HIKE IN PRICE OF CIGARETTES BRINGS TEMPORARY DECLINE IN SALES; SOME CITIZENS BOYCOTTING CERTAIN MAKES

That there has been a slight falling off in sales of certain brands of cigarettes due to the increased price per package that went into effect last week, is the statement of local dealers. A few of this type of smokers have taken the occasion to swear off, others have decided to "roll their own," while still others have become possessors of some kind of "jimmy pipe."

But it is generally conceded by dealers that the various decisions, resolutions, aspersions and defamatory remarks directed at manufacturers and state officials are of only a temporary kind, and that within a few weeks at the longest, practically all smokers will be back with their favorite brands again, tho' it is intimated that the little paper rolled smokers may not be so freely passed around to mocking friends on the streets as in the days of yore.

However, there are a few citizens in Muleshoe of pronounced independence and individuality who have reacted back on their constitutional prerogative as free-born American citizens and declared they will never knuckle to the powers that be in price fixing of the weed with which Sir Walter Raleigh raised heck in English social circles.

Gum-shoe report indicates that County Judge J. E. Adams officially and unofficially heads the ranks of the indignant indulgers of the rolled weed who have taken oath to forever forsake its delightful odors and to henceforth never again be lulled and soothed by its narcotic influence. Sheriff Howard Sterling has been noticed carrying an extra holster in which periodically reposes a brand new pipe of large calibor to offset the weight of the new 44 Colt which is a regular part of his daily accoutrement. Even the editor of this great Sunday School periodical pleads guilty to the photograph of a Durham ball hanging from a tag on his portside shirt.

Any physician will tell you that "Perfect Purification of the System is Nature's Foundation of Perfect Health." Why not rid yourself of chronic ailments that are undermining your vitality? Purify your entire system by taking a thorough course of Calotabs—once or twice a week for several weeks—and see how Nature rewards you with health. Calotabs purify the blood by activating the liver, kidneys, stomach and bowels. Trial package, 10 cts. Family package, 35 cts. All dealers. (Adv.)

Dr. H. W. Duke declares he has just "swore off," and there are plenty of others who apparently have fallen out with the "gentleman's cigarette," don't give a darn whether they are kind or coarse to the throat or if there is a whole carload of coughs in them. They have put the seal of their lips tight upon the whole caboodle and in the future they shall become nuxvomica and labeled as unnecessary impediments to their daily routine, whether those be moments of labor or siesta.

It all came about when three of the popular brands of cigarettes were advanced in price here last week from 15 to 20 cents per package. Some of the surrounding towns advanced to only 18 cents per package, and will make another advance August 1, when the state tax of three cents becomes effective, but it is understood here that the present advance of five cents per package will remain effective when the state revenue is attached.

Some years ago Emerson the great philosopher and literatist said something about a horse riding a man. It was to the effect that so long as a man rode a horse that was alright, but when the horse began to ride the man, then something was wrong. What he meant was that so long as a man controls a habit he is still a man, but when any habit gets to the point of controlling a man, just that much of his individual manhood has been lost.

Sparrows In Glory Fattening On Wheat

Birds are particularly common in a prairie country except where there are clumps of trees dotted here and there. But at this time of the year many of the tree groups are deserted and most of the bird population may be found out on the highways.

Sparrows and doves form the principal group of highway flyers now days, tho' there are a few stragglers of other kinds. Food has been scarce with birds for a long time, but now that wheat harvest has started it is plentiful.

Most hauling trucks have more or less leakage in their truck beds from which the yellow grains sit silently out, and anywhere up and down the roads, around the elevators and on the streets large groups of birds may be seen in their hey-day filling their cadaverous ingulvies with the nutritious grains.

POULTRY FACTS

DIVERS CULLINGS IMPROVES FLOCK

A Regular System May Be Used to Secure Layers.

Cull the poultry flock a little at a time, along, through the season as the legs stop laying and have a better paying and less expensive flock. This is the advice of W. E. Armstrong, poultry worker at the North Carolina state college. He says the plan is better than sending the entire flock at one time during late summer or fall and forgetting about it until next season.

"By culling at intervals of two or three weeks after spring egg production ceases to drop, much feed is saved," says Mr. Armstrong. "This system is simple and does not require an expert. When out of laying, the hen shows a narrow measurement between the pelvic bones and between these bones and the breast bone. The vent is small and yellow and the abdomen is hard. This is enough to look for in this plan, except that the unusually fat birds may be culled at any time."

Another advantage in culling as the hens quit laying is in the better price received for the culs. Prices for poultry are lowest in late summer and fall. By selling the cul birds as they go out of laying a better price and market is secured, says Mr. Armstrong.

Late in the summer or early fall, the regular culling system may be used to select next year's layers and breeders. Early molting hens are always the poorest layers.

Quit culling, he advises, when the flock is down to the number wanted for the next season. Do not confuse culling with selecting the breeding birds for next season. The pullets develop quickly and the quick-growing, energetic cockerels will always make the best breeding stock if the performance of their parent birds is known.

Feed Milk to Increase Size of Pullet Eggs

One of the problems connected with worms in poultry is building up health and vigor and condition after the worms have been removed by the proper drug. Prof. J. J. Halpin, of the University of Wisconsin, makes a recommendation in regard to the use of cod liver oil that appears sound and worth trying to the extent of making 2 or 3 per cent of the mash cod liver oil. Professor Halpin says: "Some of our correspondents have had trouble with worms in their flocks; after they fed cod liver oil, they found the trouble from worms practically disappeared. I wouldn't recommend cod liver oil as a treatment for worms, but I think cod liver oil will undoubtedly prove of benefit in any flock where resistance is lowered, due to cold, worms, or anything of the sort. Naturally, the more practical thing to do is to give a good worm remedy, and then use cod liver oil to help build up the flock."

Water Is Big Source of Infection to Poultry

The quality of the water for poultry should be determined by cleanliness and freedom from possible infection. Cleanliness can be taken care of by rinsing the container daily, or more often, if necessary. The water can be kept much cleaner, if it is elevated from the floor to a point where litter cannot be scratched into it.

Quality of water as a source of infection can be taken care of by giving water from a well or the water supply which is used in the house. It is dangerous to dip water from streams or stagnant pools. One can never tell where such water comes from and what diseases it carries. A bird may have died of some contagious disease and have dropped into this stream or stagnant pool causing an infection which when carried to the poultry house may mean disaster to the flock.

Early Fall Layers

Some people have objected to the early layers in the fall, as they will often molt in the early part of the winter and thereby slacken up in egg production. On the other hand, when such birds do go into the molt, they will again start laying in the early part of the year and the eggs will be especially suitable for hatching purposes, as the birds will be better matured. In fact, many hatcheries prefer eggs from this age of pullets for hatching purposes.

Important Task

Probably the most important job for the poultrymen at this season of the year is that of getting the young pullets into winter quarters. Providing warm, dry, draft-free houses with sanitary equipment is one part of the problem. Culling out the late hatched, poorly developed pullets is another reasonable job. The removal of the undeveloped pullets will give the thrifty birds more room in the house, save feed, and tend to prevent disease epidemics.

City Has Turning Blocks To Enforce Main Street Traffic

The establishing of low turning blocks last week at intersections on Main street, and the marking of curbs to indicate correct parking in Muleshoe, is a distinct forward step for which many commendatory remarks are directed toward the City Commission.

Heretofore, traffic laws have been little observed in Muleshoe, according to one of the officials, and it is now desired that full observation be given them here as in other towns. Night Police Pat Bartley had his hands full last Saturday directing people in autos between the little white markers where they are supposed to park on a 45 degree angle.

For a while it is stated by City Clerk Al Isaac, the Commission is going to be somewhat lenient with auto parkers, they having no desire to inconvenience anyone, but a little later on when the custom has been well established, violators may find themselves facing a fine for failure to observe traffic regulations.

OFFICIALS GO 'FISHIN' FULL DETAILS NEXT ISSUE

Political boncombe will have to take a back seat in a few days, according to reports emanating from the Bailey County court house this week, for in a few days fish stories and experiences, both long and short, thrilling, dramatic and ultra-exciting will be filling the atmosphere around Muleshoe.

It is all occasioned by the fact that County Judge J. E. Adams, Deputy Sheriff Jim Cook, County Commissioner D. W. Danielson and Justice of the Peace J. F. Vaughan, left Wednesday of this week on a piscatorial vacation trip into the mountains of New Mexico.

Each person of the party is an old time devotee of the Isaac Walton sport, a reputed member in good standing of the Amman club, and an ichthyological expert of considerable renown with the rod and reel.

Upon their return, at least one entire page of the Journal will be available for reporting the interesting narratives of these gentlemen, with the exception of about one column inch in the southeast corner of the page, which will enumerate the number of fish actually caught.

Why is it that those who like us the best say the meaneast things to us?

Advice is given more freely than it is received.

Santa Fe Plans New Pick-Up Service To Start About Aug. 15

Tariffs for the proposed store-door delivery which the Santa Fe and a score of other southwestern railroads will inaugurate some time in August, are in the hands of the printers and Commerce commission for approval by July 1. J. A. Gilles, division superintendent of the Santa Fe, said in a recent interview.

It will take 44 days from the time the tariffs are filed with the commission before they can become operative, Mr. Gilles said. "The I. C. C. has 30 days after the tariffs are filed in which to approve them. It will take about 15 days then for the plans to be put into effect."

August 15 is the earliest date that it is believed service can be started on this division.

The Slaton division, including the old Orient lines in Texas, has 73 stations and competitive points at which store-door delivery will be used, the railroad official said. The division extends from Farswell and Canyon on the north to the southern ends of the old Orient at San Angelo, Sonora and Presidio and north to the Red River, south of Altus.

MAN ARRESTED FOR TAKING GROCERIES AT LITTLEFIELD

Ed Roberts and another man are in jail at Littlefield on default of $1,000 bond, charged with robbery, after a complaint was signed by a member of a grocery firm at that place, Saturday, according to reports of authorities.

According to reports, Roberts, accompanied by the other man, walked into the store and had them put up about $20 in groceries, telling the proprietor that his family was hungry and that he had to have something for them, and that as soon as he could obtain a job he would pay for them.

He was arrested by the sheriff's department and lodged in jail. Preliminary trial was held for the two men Monday and their bonds set to await the action of the grand jury.

Officers were placed in the other grocery stores during Saturday afternoon for fear of a repetition of the act by others. We understand that Commissioner Ellis Foust had been keeping the family up the major portion of this year.

Charity organizations of Littlefield are taking care of the Robert's family. There are nine children in the family, and the wife is an expectant mother. The family formerly resided on the Pennington farm near Amherst, going to Littlefield about the first of the year.—Amherst Argus.
