LUBBOCK, LUBBOCK COUNTY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, JULY 21, 1921

Governor Commands Appropriations Be Held To Minimum

Five Constitutional Amendments to Be Voted on Saturday and People Should Go to the Polls and Vote

Amendments to be voted on next Saturday are:

Amendment of Article 17, Section 58, of the Constitution, abolishing the Board of Prison Commissioners.

Amendment to Sections 5 and 21 and 22 and 23 of Article 1, of the Constitution, providing for compensation of executive officers.

Amendment of Section 51, Article 3, of the Constitution, authorizing the Legislature to grant aid to Confederate soldiers, sailors and their widows, who have been residents of this State since January, 1910.

Amendment to Section 24, of Article 3, of the Constitution, relating to mileage and per diem of members of the Legislature of the State of Texas.

Amendment to Section 2, Article 6 of the Constitution, providing that only native born or naturalized citizens of the United States shall be qualified electors in this State and providing that either the husband or wife may pay the poll tax of the other and receive the receipt therefor and permitting the Legislature to authorize absentee voting.

Anyone qualified to cast a ballot at the general elections may vote on the proposed amendments to the Constitution of Texas, Saturday.

The election will be governed by the Terrell election law. The regular polling places and judges will be used and the boxes will be opened from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. Five amendments will be submitted for adoption or rejection by the electorate.

Despite the importance of the proposed changes in the State's basic law, very little interest has been manifested so far in the election. Defeat usually meets any attempt to tamper with the Constitution of Texas, but the proponents of the present amendments are hopeful that most, if not all of them, will pass.

Little if any increase in expenditures will result if the amendment reducing the mileage compensation of State legislators and allowing an increase in their per diem is adopted. Under the present provision the members of the Legislature are allowed 20 cents a mile both ways, for each session. Their per diem is fixed at $5 per day for sixty days, and $2 for each day thereafter.

The change proposed would reduce the mileage allowance to 10 cents and would permit an increase in the per diem to $10 a day for 120 days and $5 a day thereafter.

This schedule would have a strong tendency to remove the necessity for extra sessions and this, with the saving in mileage, practically would balance the increased per diem. It also would result in greater efficiency on the part of the Legislature.

As it now is, it is almost impossible for the Legislature to finish its regular business within a sixty day session. On account of the small per diem after the sixty days, members are adverse to remaining in Austin any longer than is necessary because it is expensive.

Extra sessions are not the most desirable things in the world. Many objections can be brought against them. For one thing, they are more or less under the direct control of the Governor. No measure can be considered unless submitted by him. If he wanted to he could set at naught the will of the entire state in favor of any particular measure by refusing to submit it and both the public and the Legislature would be powerless to do anything. The amendment permitting an increase in Confederate pensions would raise the State tax for this purpose from 5 cents, the present rate, to 7 cents on the $100 valuation. Their allowance now is so pitifully small and their ranks becoming so depleted that the increase really would amount to very little, in the aggregate. And it will only be a few years until the necessity for it has ceased forever.

The salary amendment would permit the Governor's pay to be raised to an amount not exceeding $8,000; the attorney general's not to exceed $7,500, the comptroller's, treasurer's, land commissioner's and secretary of State's not to exceed $5,000. The existing pay of these officers is: Governor, $4,000, attorney general, $4,000, treasurer, comptroller and land commissioner $2,500, and secretary of State $2,000. An act of the Legislature would be necessary, following adoption, before any increase was put into effect.

The measure permitting only native-born and naturalized foreign-born citizens to vote would affect a number of Texans. At present any foreign-born resident who has declared his intention of becoming a citizen may cast a ballot in this state. The amendment also provides for authorization, by the Legislature, of absentee voting in general elections as now permitted in the primaries and for the payment of poll taxes by either husband or wife for the other and authority to receive the receipt therefor.

The inadequate pay of our State officials has long been a reproach. Texas stands far down on the list in this respect. Any county and city officials receive more than the Governor and attorney general while the pay of the secretary of State ranks about with that of a bookkeeper. If allowed, the increases will make no appreciable difference in the State expenses.

There has been a demand for the change in voting requirements for some time. Residence in this country for a period long enough to make the foreigner conversant with our institutions and customs at least should be a prerequisite to suffrage. It would do away with the menace of any foreign element attempting to control the situation in any section where it happened to be numerically strong. And any man, resident in this country long enough to acquire naturalization and who has thought no more of his adopted country than to fail to do so certainly is not entitled to a vote.

The prison control amendment would abolish the present board of prison commissioners and permit the introduction of a new system.

Some Last Day Resolutions, Farmers' Convention

The following resolutions were passed on the last morning of the Convention and could not be secured for last week's publication:

Resolution Thanking the People of Lubbock

Resolved, by the Farmers Educational and Co-operative Union of Texas, in Convention assembled at Lubbock, Texas, July 14, 1921, that we express our sincere thanks to the Mayor, Chamber of Commerce, the Citizens of Lubbock and the Members of the Lubbock County Farmers' Union for the hospitable manner in which our Convention has been received and entertained.

We further desire to especially thank the Rev. J. T. Griswold, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Lubbock, for the use of his church in which to hold our Convention.

D. E. LYDAY, President.

A. L. BAKER, Secretary.

Report of Crop Conditions Committee

Hon. D. E. Lyday, President of the Farmers' Union Convention:

We, your committee beg to report on crop conditions in Texas as follows: Cotton, 69 per cent; corn, 80 per cent; wheat, 40 per cent; oats, 36 per cent; peanuts, 37.6 per cent; maize, 59 per cent; sorghum and hay, 79 per cent, and sweet potatoes, 74 per cent.

This report is not to be construed to indicate the yield of cotton crop due to the ravages of insect, which so alarmingly prevail at this time.

Our observations are, and reports show that the reduction of the cotton acreage in this State is 34 per cent.

W. D. LEWIS, Chairman.
J. H. LEHMAN, Secretary.
On Pink Boll Worm Situation.

Whereas, The pink boll worm is a serious menace to the cotton crop of Texas, therefore,

Be it resolved, That we urge the Texas Legislature to enact such legislation as will in its judgment protect the crop from this pest.

Regarding Co-operative Marketing

Whereas, The Farmers' Union through its Wichita Valley District, has organized a Co-operative Marketing Agency under the new law, to handle the cotton, wheat, maize and other crops of our membership in the Western section of the State, and

Whereas, The plans of said Marketing Agency will soon be completed and the organization will soon be in operation, therefore,

Be it Resolved, That we heartily endorse the organization of this marketing corporation, under the guidance and direction of the Farmers' Union, and we urge our membership in the Wichita Valley District to attend the meeting of the District Union to be held at Lubbock August 11th, and assist in completing the organization. In order that the great wheat, cotton and other crops of the Western section of Texas shall not be unprotected another season, as they have in the past.

GROUPED EXHIBITS AT FAIR TO GIVE PLAINS ADVANTAGE

An effort to have the exhibits of the Plains counties grouped at the Texas State Fair is being made by Col. R. P. Smyth and M. D. Hender. It is their suggestion that Swisher, Briscoe, Floyd, Hale, Lubbock and Crosby counties prepare their exhibits and place them in one section of the agricultural hall at the fair. It is thought that a massed display will give more publicity to the section as a whole than could possibly be gained by isolated exhibits. This would in no manner affect the individual competition between the counties.—Plainview Herald.

V. E. Drake, of Childress County, passed through Lubbock Wednesday enroute to the White Mountains, in New Mexico, where he will spend a month hunting and fishing.

R. K. Wilson, of Waynoka, Okla., passed through the city of Lubbock Saturday of last week enroute to Roswell, New Mexico, where he will spend a month visiting with relatives.

NEW KELLY AUTOMATIC PRESS IS INSTALLED IN THE AVALANCHE. JOB DEPARTMENT THIS WEEK

The new Kelly Automatic Press is being installed this week, by Mr. Jas. E. Lievsay, of Barnhart Brothers and Spindler, of Dallas. This press is one of the latest models of the Kelly factory, and is one of the most marvelous machines ever put out. Its speed is far in excess of any job press that has ever been built, and with its automatic feeder, produces work more accurately than human hands can feed it, and the class of printing is equal to the very best. The Avalanche job department is the best equipped plant in this section of the Plains, and can handle any kind of printing. If the Lubbock people send out of town for their printing they do so because they prefer to give the out-of-town printer the work, rather than the local printer, and would rather build up Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, Kansas City, or some other city rather than contribute to the support of Lubbock. We do not believe that the Lubbock merchants will do that and we therefore spent about four thousand dollars to install this machine in order to take care of a wider range of printing, and keep the quality to the highest standard.

The Avalanche proposes to keep in the forefront in the printing field in Lubbock, and when better printing is done, and faster printing is turned out the Avalanche does it first.

Mr. Lievsay, who installed the machine is certainly on to his job, and he has put this complicated piece of machinery in operation in a short time, and shows his ability as a machinist. He has been with his present employers a number of years and was here four years ago to install the big newspaper press in the Avalanche office. He is congenial and capable, and it is a pleasure to have him with us for a few days. He will remain for a short time longer familiarizing the boys in the job department with the working of the new press.

We will be pleased to have the people of Lubbock come in any time and look through our plant. Few people know what the Avalanche has in the way of equipment. Call and see us. We will be glad to have you any time.

FORDSON TRACTOR PROVES SELF AT DEMONSTRATION TUESDAY

About twenty years ago, when automobiles began running over the country, you could hear almost any day and almost any man, saying that "it will be a long time before bugs will be done away with," and that "cars would never be a success because of the expense."

The automobile kept coming just the same and now it is a necessity. Almost every farmer is the owner of an automobile or contemplating purchasing one in the near future. They have come to stay. The same conditions that met the automobile are meeting the tractor. Only a few years ago was the tractor put on the market and yet we can still hear farmers and even business men claim that the farm will not support a tractor. In the first place, from the observation of the first tractors put on the market, we find that they were hardly a success. Few people knew that Henry Ford had been building on tractors for years and years and that the first tractor he offered on the market was his twenty-first model. The first few tractors that came out was entirely too large and expensive. Ford built a large steam tractor, we are informed, when he first started out, but it, like other large and heavy tractors, was found impractical for farming.

Henry Ford, we are told by his factory representatives, purchased a nine thousand acre farm near Dearborn and on this farm he has spent something like two million dollars experimenting with tractors and it was not until he had perfected the present tractor—Fordson—that he was satisfied. Then the public was offered this tractor.

Mr. Phillips, representing the Fordson factory at the tractor demonstration here last Tuesday, tells us that the main objective now to make the tractor take possession of the farms, lies only in the hands of the purchasers who will use care in the purchasing of machinery to be attached to the tractor. He says that for years the tractor companies made the tractors and sold them to the farmers who tried to use all makes of implements upon them. Now, there are large plow manufacturers who are experimenting and specializing on implements exactly suited for the use of the Fordson.

"You can't overload a tractor and get profitable results," said a representative of the Tri-State Motor Company of El Paso, who was in attendance at the tractor demonstration Tuesday.

"You have got to give the tractor the same consideration as you would a team of mules or horses when it comes to loading them. The tractor has come to stay. It will do the work better than it can be done with animals. It will do the work cheaper, judging from Government statistics than it can be done with the animals."

Practically all kinds of farming, especially that of preparation of the ground for planting was demonstrated Tuesday morning. Many interested farmers were in attendance and they showed their interest by taking advantage of the unusual opportunity afforded by getting first hand information about tractors. Feed grinders were demonstrated, showing the stationary features of the belt power on the Fordson. At noon there was served a fine lunch, consisting of barbecued meats, pickles, beans and butter. Following the dinner, Mr. J. H. Jennings, County Agent, gave a bunch of statistical information which has recently been gathered by the government.

Ten acres of ground per day is the claim made for the Fordson. Three disc plows were pulled easily over heavy-weeded land, also two disc harrows were pulled easily by the Fordson. Economical operation seems to be the most popular thing about this tractor, however another feature is that of Universal service. The same service that is maintained throughout the world for the Ford car is the same with the Fordson tractor.

We are sure that as an educational feature, the farmers who attended this demonstration were thankful for the efforts of the Lubbock Auto Company, agents for the Fordson, who held, and had experts in attendance, at the Tuesday demonstration.

GRAND JURY ADJOURNED UNTIL AUGUST 15TH

Grand Jury, which reconvened on Monday of this week, adjourned on the same day until August 15th, turning in some few bills. It was also stated by District Judge Spencer that there would be no cases of any importance coming up before that time.

R. K. Wilson, of Waynoka, Okla., passed through the city of Lubbock Saturday of last week enroute to Roswell, New Mexico, where he will spend a month visiting with relatives.

SAYS HE WILL NOT APPROVE BILL IF ADDITIONAL TAX IS REQUIRED

HE IS DETERMINED TO PROTECT TEXAS TAXPAYERS AGAINST HIGHER TAXES ON PROPERTY, BUT TURNS LEGISLATURE LOOSE TO PASS REVENUE-TAX RAISING MEASURES AFFECTING ANY SOURCE OF INCOME OTHER THAN PRODUCING INDUSTRIES.

Austin, July 18.—Lecturing the Legislature on the largeness of its appropriations during the regular session, Governor Pat M. Neff, in his message to the special session which met here this morning, urged retrenchment in public expenditures and the slashing of appropriations to an irreducible minimum.

Outstanding features of his message that he practically commands the Legislature to hold down appropriations to the strictest minimum and his broad statement that he would not approve "any bill that comes to my desk that has for its purpose the placing of additional taxes on real property, enterprise or institutions such as real-estate, farm land or city property, nor any tax burdened industry now producing in part the wealth of the country."

Lets Down Other Bars. He lets down the bars to the Legislature for any revenue-raising measures, affecting any source of income other than the above, saying:

"In order that you may provide free schools, and in order that you may provide the revenue for every dollar you appropriate, there is hereby submitted to you, for your legislative action, the entire field of revenue-getting by means of taxation."

On the source of this new revenue, the Governor makes the suggestion that "if, in the sound, collective judgment of the Legislature, additional revenues are to be had for worthy purposes, especially rural education, it should be raised by taxation on pleasures and luxuries and non-essentials of life, most of which now are practically free from State taxation."

Economy is Theme. Of course, the Governor submitted the general appropriation bills, with the demand that only the minimum amount of money be appropriated. He speaks at considerable length on the necessity for economy and of reducing the number of State offices.

He also submitted requests for repeal of the suspended sentence law, passage of the amendment strengthening the State prohibition law, passage of an "effective law for the removal of officers who wilfully and corruptly refuse to perform their official duties in enforcement of the law" and redistricting of the State into senatorial and representative districts.

On the matter of redistricting, the Governor points out that the Constitution of Texas provides that the Legislature shall, after each United States decennial census, apportion the State into senatorial and representative districts of contiguous territory, according to population.

Should Have Been Done. Notwithstanding the Constitution of the State and the platform of the Democratic party demand that this redistricting be done, it has been neglected by the Legislature," he added.

"It is a duty which the Legislature should not omit. The State long ago should have been redistricted. The wrong should now be righted. Not to redistrict would be a thrust at the very foundation stone of representative government. In redistricting the State, it should be done with a vision that looks above and beyond personal political fortunes."

In one or two places the Governor mildly sermonizes the Legislature upon its having appropriated too much money and plainly shows that he has been displeased with former action of that body. Near the conclusion of the message, however, he inserted a paragraph which absolves him from any effort at executive interference in legislative matters.

Defines Their Duties. "The thoughts herein set forth are presented to you on their merit for your wise counsel and legislative judgment," he said. "Their enactment into laws should not be further urged from the executive office. The Constitution clearly defines the duties of Governor and Legislature. Neither is charged for a responsibility for the other."

Painting a dark picture of financial depression and gloom, Governor Neff, in an oratorical vein, gives a final atmospheric touch to the picture by declaring that:

"We have no market for our cotton, no market for our stock, no market for our farm productions, no banks from which we can borrow money and no money with which to pay our taxes. Farmers, stockmen, merchants, bankers, all our people alike, are hanging on the ragged edge of the financial world."

At Turning Point. He declares that "things are abnormal" and that the world is "at a turning point in civilization." These thoughts prompt his declaration that these "times challenge each of us to seek and follow, by the grace of Him who rules eventually in the legislative halls of man, the light of right."

His plea for economy is summed up by him in the axiom: "A rich people and a poor State is better than a poor people and a rich State." In the paragraph he captions, "No Low Note Should Be Sounded by Anfone," Governor Neff gives it strictly to be understood that he does not believe in retrenchment and retrogression as a fixed policy.

No Low Notes. "There is nothing in this message," he declares, "that is intended as sounding a low note in regard to the development of Texas and all its institutions. When times become normal, big things should be done. Our entire school system, from the red schoolhouse to the university, should be given new life; the marketing of farm products and the entire agricultural field should be worked over so that better returns can be had for the money spent; the conservation of our natural resources, which too long have been neglected, needs attention; permanent and enduring highways should be built; child life and the cause of labor are in need of some protecting law; in short, many shackles should be stricken from the limbs of Texas and it should be permitted to march with steady and stately tread along the shining pathway of power and progress where it rightly belongs, not only as the biggest, but also as the best State in the sisterhood of the American Union."

Reveals Future Policy. The above indicates a future policy of the Governor, intended to pave the way for a second-term campaign. In its entirety, the message is more largely for consumption by the people rather than by the Legislature. The fact is that the Appropriations Committee of the House and Senate have completed the appropriation bills and they represent a minimum in appropriation.

The Governor declared that the State government is top heavy and that there are too many departments and too many employees. He stated that, within the next few days, he would deliver a special message to the Legislature dealing with this phase of State affairs.

Three Bills To Repeal Revenue Tax. Be Offered.

Austin, July 18.—Despite public statements of Chairman Satterwhite of the House Appropriations Committee that no legislation for raising of taxes will be necessary at the special session of the Legislature, J. M. Melson of Hopkins County, will introduce three revenue producing measures, it was stated today. Bills introduced by Melson are looked upon as being at least quasi-official, as he is as close to the Governor as any one in the Legislature.

A severance tax, an inheritance tax and a tax on amusements are the three cordial tax measures which Melson will submit. The severance tax is new in Texas and is a tax on products, after severance from their source. Timber is taxed after it is cut, as is coal and gas taxed after they have been severed. The proposed tax is 2 per cent, levied on the value of the product immediately after severance. The bill will expressly exempt oil. All minerals produced in Texas come under the terms of the tax.

To Tax Amusements. It is understood that the bill taxing amusements will provide a tax of 1 per cent on gross receipts of moving picture shows, vaudeville and other theaters.

Melson's bill on taxation of inheritances contemplates a tax of 25 on the first $5,000 inherited and a greater tax on larger inheritances.

Melson, with Representative John H. Veatch of Johnson County, fostered various consolidation measures in the regular session and it is expected that they will renew their fight for the passage of these measures at the special session. Among the most important of these are abolition of the Department of Warehousing and Marketing and its consolidation with the Department of Agriculture.

LYNN COUNTY NEWS PURCHASES CYLINDER PRESS

The Lynn County News, under the management of R. B. Haynes, has purchased a cylinder press, and is having it installed this week. The News is striving to give the people of Tahoka the very best newspaper and is succeeding nicely in its efforts. The people of Tahoka should patronize the News liberally as it is certainly doing good work for that city and the development of the country surrounding Tahoka. With the addition of this press which is one of the best makes, the News office will be well equipped for printing their paper, and we are sure that the improvement will be appreciated by the people of Tahoka.

MACHINE TO EXTERMINATE BOLL WEEVIL INVENTED

Austin, Texas, July 18.—Experiments are now being made by the State Department of Agriculture to test a machine for the extermination of boll weevil invented by Carl Blanks, a former student of the University of Texas, now residing at Austin. Mr. Blanks says that the invention has been in use for several years on his plantation near Lockhart, and has proved entirely successful. In the event that the State Department of Agriculture makes a favorable report on the machine, the state department will purchase one for its own use and for demonstration to farmers over the state.

The new machine consists of a small gasoline engine, a generator, and the necessary electrical apparatus for conducting the current from the generator to the cotton stalk and the ground. The outfit is carried on the regular cotton cultivator and is constructed so as to be operated while plowing. The generator provides an electrical current of several volts which is conducted through a series of "feelers" to the soil and cotton stalk. This current is said to kill all eggs, larva and pupa of the weevil not only saving the actual crop in process of growing, but also in time destroying the species.

Several rows of cotton were treated in this manner in the recent experiment, and the result in yield per acre will be compared with the untreated crop at the end of the season. If previous experiments of the inventor are verified, the part of the crop treated by the "exterminator" should be decidedly greater than the part neglected. The plant for manufacturing the machine is now located in Austin, and experiments are being continued by Mr. Blanks to improve and perfect the present machine. The shop for assembling the machines is at present very small, but will probably be enlarged as the demand for the products increases.

HOCKLEY COUNTY SOON TO HAVE A COURTHOUSE

According to reports coming from Elwood, the county seat of Hockley county, work will begin very soon on the new courthouse. The county has been organized for some time, but has not until very recently made arrangements for a courthouse, other than using temporarily a residence, which was used for keeping the records of Hockley and Cochran counties in.

The new building, we understand,
will be a two-story frame building,
and will be large enough to accommodate the county officials and court purposes for several years.

It is expected that Elwood will have a postoffice soon, but at the present time the people of Hockley get their mail at Ropesville, some at Meadow, some at Lubbock and some at Littlefield.

CHILD TRAINING AT HOME

By Olive Roberts, The University of Montana.

The Pilgrim Character

"Next to the fugitives whom Moses led out of Egypt, the little ship-load of outcasts who landed at Plymouth are destined to influence the future of the world."—James Russell Lowell.

When an American of today reads that volume which was written three hundred years ago, William Bradford's History of Plymouth, he is apt to wonder how he would conduct himself if he were placed in a situation similar to that of the Pilgrims when they decided that they must leave Holland. But he knows very well that neither his own early training nor that which he is giving his children is conducive to the development of the most distinguishing characteristic of the Pilgrims—absolute consecration to an ideal.

Persecution, imprisonment and their own desire and determination to secure religious freedom had taken the Pilgrims to Holland in 1607. There they had been safer and happier than in England, for at that time Holland was more advanced intellectually than any other country of Europe and under the house of Orange, religious freedom was granted alike to Protestant, Catholic and Jew. But though the Pilgrims admired the Hollanders and enjoyed their "faire and bewtiful cities, flowing with all sorts of wealth and riches," they regretted that their own children were destined to lose the traditions and language of England if they remained in a foreign land. After long and prayerful consideration, the forefathers decided that their love of God, their dream of civil government based on Republican equality and the preservation to posterity of their own customs and ideals were dearer to them than peace and safety in Holland; in 1620 therefore, they undertook a second and a greater exile.

How many of us, for the love of God and loyalty to an ideal, would have the courage to part forever from the comforts of civilization, leave many of those who were dearest to us, take a dangerous and seldom tried ocean voyage, and make a home in the wilderness—in short, voluntarily go into exile?

When they arrived in America, they had no friends to welcome them, nor ins to entertain or refresh their weather-beaten bodies, no houses or much less towns to repair to, to seek for succor." Five months after landing, the Mayflower returned to England, leaving on the American shores only forty-nine of the one hundred and one passengers who had landed, the others having died from exposure to the hardships of life in the wilderness.

The Pilgrims did all of these things and did them cheerfully, bravely, uncomplainingly. It did not occur to them that they were martyrs, because their matchless faith in the goodness of God to those who did His will caused them to believe that all things would work together for their good.

In mentioning the indifference of the Pilgrims to material comfort and prosperity and their decision to cross the ocean and settle in the wilderness, Bradford writes, "But they knew they were pilgrims, and looked not much on those things, but lifted their eyes to ye heavens, their dearest cuntry, and quieted their spirits; for they had other work in hand, and another kind of war to wage and maintaine."

We are apt to think of the Pilgrims as a severe, stern people, strictly virtuous yet lacking in the gentle qualities of the Christian character, but let us recall a well known instance which proves that forbearance, patience and tenderness were their strongest characteristics.

In November, 1621, only a year after the Pilgrims had landed, a ship bearing thirty-five new colonists arrived. Not one of them had tools, food or clothing other than for his immediate needs. Yet the forefathers shared with them as brothers, and as a result there was not a time during the next two years when they were not in need of food and clothing.

The Pilgrims showed what their standards of character were when they chose their Elder, Mr. William Brewster. He was a Christian gentleman who had gladly sacrificed social position, suffered imprisonment and gone into voluntary exile for "ye Kingdom of God and Religion's sake."

Bradford's description of his lifelong friend is most satisfying. "In teaching he was very stirring and moving the affections; also very plain and distinct in what he taught, by which means he became the more profitable to his hearers." Of Brewster's sympathy and kindness, Bradford writes, "He was tender-hearted and compassionate of such as were in misery, but especially of such as had been of good estate and rank and were fallen into want and poverty, either for goodness or religion's sake." "But," adds Bradford, "none did more offend and displease him than such as would haughtily and proudly lift up themselves, being risen from nothing, and having little else in them but a few fine clothes or a little riches more than others."

Surely we can tell our children of no nobler heroes than the Pilgrims whose character is best described by those words of James, "First pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality and without hypocrisy."

For those who would know more of these courageous people, we recommend William Bradford's History of Plymouth, published by the Mass. Historical Society, Boston, Mass.

BACK BAD TODAY?

Backache is usually kidney-ache and makes you dull, nervous and tired. Use Doan's Kidney Pills for weak kidneys—the remedy recommended by your friends and neighbors. Ask your neighbor.

L. J. Akers, farmer, Plainview, Tex., says: "Some years ago my back was all out of whack and caused me a lot of trouble. My back was weak, sore and lame and ached most all the time. When I stooped over sharp pains would catch me in the small of my back so I could hardly straighten up. In fact, my back bothered me all the time and mornings when I first got up it was so sore and lame I could hardly get around. My kidneys were weak and irregular in action and bothered me a great deal. A neighbor advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I used one box of this medicine and they relieved the pain in my back and fixed my kidneys up in good shape. I use Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally to keep my kidneys in good condition." 60c at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Chamber of Commerce Items

Just the other day a rooster found an ostrich egg outside the barnyard fence. Rolling it into the middle of the lot, he announced with loud acclaim:

"See what the hens are doing in other communities. Let's do something like this around here."—Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce Bulletin.

And after all, that is not such a bad idea in working on a town. Anybody can hang around and watch the average town continue to be an average town with maybe a new tailor shop, a racket store or skating rink every year or so—but to put over a real town—it takes undivided effort.

"Towns do not happen—they are built," and you can't build them with your nose tucked between your toes. It takes vision and ideal for the future and considerable practical dreaming to really put over a successful enterprise of any kind. That is more true of cities than of private enterprises. And it takes every little thing in the world to make a complete, rounded out city.

This is not paid advertising—don't even get a rake off on it—but the swimming pool north of town is more than a place for the owners to make profit on their investment. Is there any way in the world to estimate the joy and happiness and satisfaction that little hole of water has given the folks of this city and section already—and the year is not nearly gone. And yet some long-face howlers didn't think it would pay, that there was no such need for such a place and all that.

Years ago there was a knocker on the front door. Later it required a pull at the door bell to attract attention. Today you push an electric button and the door opens.

The knocker is out of date. A pull is passed. The only way you can get the door of opportunity open today is to push.—Dalton's Digest.

In every town there are a few old fashioned houses that still have a knocker hanging outside. And in every city there are a few old fashioned knockers hanging around.

Some day the old house will be ed on agriculture. And Still We Kick. B. C. Forbes, than whom there is no clearer-visioned optimist in the country, enumerates some things in the current number of his magazine which are worth recalling at this time, and which some people seem to be forgetting. He points out how well off the Americans are, and what he says is so decidedly to the point that we reprint the greater part of it here. He says:

"The vast majority of families in this land have enough food, enough clothing, enough shelter. Ordinarily, there is work for all who are willing to work. The opportunities for advancement are more numerous here than anywhere else in the world. Most poor people become well-to-do or wealthy in America than in any other country. Good schools for our children cover the land.

"We have an abundance of churches, hospitals, physicians, nurses, medicine. Our climate is healthful. Scourges, such as plague the Orient and other parts of the world, rarely, if ever, visit us in virulent form. Newspapers, books and periodicals are available in most homes where every household, and no country is more plentifully supplied with libraries. Every town and almost every hamlet now has its place or places of amusement, its athletic field or fields and other facilities for recreation. We have unmatched railroad facilities; we have almost as many automobiles as the rest of the world combined; and we are spending unprecedented millions in building good roads.

"We have better facilities than any other people for talking with our friends nearby or at a distance—America has more telephones than the rest of the world put together. Postal facilities for both letters and parcels cover the whole continent. We have more electric lights than any other land. In most homes where decency and industry abide you find the means of enjoying the finest music ever produced. Our homes are furnished with more labor-saving devices than the homes of any other countries. Our sewerage systems and our water supply almost everywhere are conducive to sanitation and sound health. The number of baths in America is a perpetual source of amusement to foreigners. Famine is unknown within our shores. Seven-day-a-week toil is the exception, and the average working day is short beyond the dream of our forefathers.

"The clothing worn by the working class in this country, generally speaking, is equal to the 'Sunday best' of workers in other lands. We enjoy religious and political freedom unexcelled under any other government, and the poorest have more to eat today than the most powerful monarch on the face of the earth.

"Our natural resources have been little more than scratched. New inventions are welcomed with open arms and open purses. The demand for brains is insatiable, and the rewards paid here are without parallel elsewhere. We have excellent saving banks, innumerable commercial banks and a currency system that functions so well that it is the envy of other nations.

"Our mighty strength as a nation renders us virtually immune from attack by any foreign foe, yet we have no vast standing conscript army but only a handful of professional soldiers. Although our taxation burden, thanks to the heroic part we played in the World War, is today regarded as heavy, we are infinitely better off than any other nation which took a foremost part in the war.

"But why go on? Yet, because the unhealthy boom brought by the war has ceased, and business temporarily is cloudy, we whine and kick as if we were objects for the deepest pity!

"What a fine bunch of sissies we are to whine in the face of such a situation. Suppose we have a little hard sledding ahead. What do we expect, anyhow? As it is we are much better off than the rest of the world that it ought not to make us feel uncomfortable. And if we keep a stiff upper lip and only half try we shall be better off still."

IN MEMORY OF MRS. W. S. WEBB, RECENTLY DECEASED

It was with sadness that we read of the death of Mrs. W. S. Webb. I was personally acquainted with Mrs. Webb from childhood, and always had a deep regard for her. To know her was to love her. As a member of the Baptist Church she was always in her place and always taking a hand in every good work. I know we will all miss her, but above all will her companion, children, brothers and loved ones, whom she was always a comfort to. She leaves two daughters and two sons, a loving companion and three brothers, of which we would tell them all not to weep for her, know she is happy and just think what a happy reunion, when we all reach Heaven's portals on high; what a happy reunion when we go by and by.

Mrs. Webb, (nee) Enfield Garner, was raised in the beautiful little town of Ozark, and was from one of the best families there, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Garner, who have gone on before her. She always had a smile and kind word for everyone; she was at one time my Sunday School teacher and we all loved to see her each Sunday morning and felt sad when she was absent, which was very seldom. "You may break, you may shatter the rose if you will, but the scent of the rose will linger there still." So it is with Mrs. Webb's Christian character—she has left a light to beacon us on.

Dear loved ones, there'll be no sad farewells; there'll be no tear-dimmed eyes; where all is peace and joy and love, the soul never dies—where your dear one has gone.

Written by one who loved her—Mrs. Lewis Moon, (nee) Susie Britt.

Mrs. Geo. L. Beatty, who has been visiting with relatives in Arkansas for the past two months, has returned home.

C. E. Hunt and family, and L. E. Hunt and wife, made a trip to Canyon and Amarillo the latter part of last week, and were gone several days.

R. Q. Pierce and family, arrived here Wednesday to make their future home. Mr. Pierce has been residing in Fort Worth for some time.

Mrs. J. H. Reiger, who is in a local sanitarium, and recently has undergone a very serious operation, is reported as getting along nicely.

Miss Thelma Trimble, of this city, returned home Wednesday from Portales, where she has been visiting with relatives.

J. K. Milwee, of Lynn County, was in Lubbock the latter part of last week, visiting and looking after business matters.

Dickinson Sells Building Occupied by Sanitarium

W. K. Dickinson, Sr., recently closed a deal with John Painter, one time citizen of Mineral Wells, Texas, who has been here about one year, whereby Mr. Painter became owner of the building in which the West Texas Hospital is located. Mr. Dickinson has owned this property only for a few months we are informed, purchasing it from Mrs. Chapman, who traded other property in Lubbock for the building.

Mr. Painter is contemplating opening up a rooming house in the building as soon as it is vacated by the West Texas Hospital, and that will be just as soon as their modern four-story brick is finished. Work is starting now on the fourth story of this building and men working on the job think that it will be along about the first of the coming year before the building is ready for occupancy.

Mr. Painter is an old acquaintance of Mr. J. A. Jordan of this city, and also acquainted with many people who at one time lived in Mineral Wells. Lubbock people are glad to see him locate here and we are sure that everyone wishes him well in his business.

Herman Spaulding, of the Cadillac Garage, left Monday of this week for the T Bar Ranch, where he will spend a month's vacation. Herman's brother, M. H. Spaulding, is the owner of the ranch.

J. C. Seuddy, of Brownfield, was in Lubbock Wednesday of this week visiting with friends and acquaintances, and looking after business matters.

Horace Mullin, of Winter, Texas, was in Lubbock last Saturday looking over the country with the intentions of locating here.

J. C. Dean returned the first of this week from a visit to San Antonio, where he attended the State meeting of the Florists' Convention.

THE LUBBOCK AVALANCHE

PREMIUM LIST IS ANNOUNCED BY DIRECTORS OF THE PANHANDLE SOUTH PLAINS FAIR AT LUBBOCK

The Board of Directors of the Fair Association held a special call meeting Monday of this week and went into a number of details for the coming fair. All plans are being made for at least a fifty per cent increase in attendance, a similar increase in the amount of premiums paid, free attractions staged and building space occupied.

Arrangements are being made to rent three large tents to supplement the present buildings and care for the demands of the exhibitors. Last year every building was overcrowded and many exhibitors were unable to secure space for their displays. This year provision will be made for every display.

The main building used last year for both Industrial and Agriculture displays will be reversed exclusively for Industrial displays this year. It will be floored and made into a real exhibition hall. The Machinery building used last year will become the Agricultural hall this year. A large tent will house the Poultry exhibit. The Woman's building will be floored and brought into better shape this year. Also another large tent will house the Implement and Machinery displays.

The Livestock department will be more than doubled this year with a larger premium awards, more entries, and better organization.

A bunch of free entertainers are being provided for the three days, stunt flying, wing walking, looping, parachute drops and other attractions will be offered. Fire works display each night will be a special feature of the program.

Further details will be announced from week to week as they are worked out.

The following is the first installment of the premium list. Cut it out and pin it on the wall and keep for future reference. The official catalogues will be out about the first of August.

Study over this closely and if you find there is anything left out that is grown in Lubbock County, please drop a letter to the Secretary of the Fair Association calling attention to it. It is a hard job to think of everything that is grown in this section and your assistance will be greatly appreciated in this matter. This is your Fair and it cannot be a real success unless you take a part of the responsibilities that go with putting it over in good shape. Let's go with the Biggest Fair in Texas.

General Rules.
1. All exhibits of the Agricultural Department must be grown, made or manufactured by the owner.
2. Where there is a conflict between general and special rules, the special rules will govern.

3. After arrangements of exhibits same will be under control of the director and no person will be allowed to remove them until after the exhibition is closed. Then they will be delivered upon the presentation of duplicate entry cards.

4. Each exhibitor will be requested to furnish all sacks, boxes and cases necessary for the proper exhibition of every article entered, which will be arranged as to be protected from damage.

5. Exhibitors, by referring to the different classes in the department, can ascertain the number of specimens and amount required to constitute an entry, and in case an exhibitor can not accompany his exhibit in person, it may be sent to the Secretary freight or express charges prepaid, who will receive it, enter it and place it in proper location.

6. All entries made in any department will be subject to the rules and regulations printed in the catalogue.

7. Entries in all departments will close Thursday, September 29, at 9 a. m.

8. Separate articles entered as part of displays, may be entered to compete for separate premiums in their respective classes; provided that all such articles must be regularly entered and tagged separately before 9 a. m., September 29, 1921.

9. Provided further: All such articles shall be removed from the display, exhibit of which they may be apart, and assembled with all entries of their class to be judged. No article awarded a premium unless shown with all articles of its class for comparison by the judges.

10. No cash premium shall be paid in any class or department unless they are two or more entries in that class. Ribbons will in every case be awarded upon basis of merit. Any community in West Texas can compete for this prize except the City of Lubbock, which is barred from competition.

Any article that is a part of a community exhibit may be also entered by the grower in the individual class to which it is eligible.

Community exhibits will be judged on Dallas Fair basis.

No display can compete in this class that has less than 12 different varieties of farm and garden products.

In offering this prize the management hopes to encourage diversification in farming and closer cooperation among neighbors.

One community can have only one entry.

First prize, $100.00; second, $50.00; third, $25.00; fourth, $10.00.

Long-Bell
THE MARK OF QUALITY LUMBER

Poultry House Plan---No. 30

Here is a simple, inexpensive poultry house, well lighted and properly ventilated.

It is 14 feet wide and may be built in any length that is a multiple of 14 feet, so as to accommodate a large or small flock. There is a door in one end of the house, the roosts are along the rear wall, and have nests and drop-boards underneath.

Build it on a well-drained spot, facing South. Raise the floor 10 inches above grade.

A good poultry house is dry, free from drafts, but well ventilated. It isn't the cold that injures poultry so much as the dampness and drafts.

Plenty of Sunshine in the Poultry house, means eggs in winter. Sunshine is a better tonic than Red Pepper and keeps the hens laying. Notice the large windows in Plan No. 30. Be sure to call and examine all our poultry plans before you build—estimates of cost cheerfully furnished.

History of Bass' Capture.
(The Sun, July 25, 1878.)
Not long before sundown on last Friday evening (July 18, 1878) the news of the fight with the Bass party at Round Rock reached this place, and in a short time Deputy Sheriff Tucker and Constable Lane mounted their horses and started for Round Rock, arriving at that place soon after dark. They at once sought out Major Jones, informed him who they were, and of their desire to aid in the capture of Bass and his companions, and of their familiarity of the country. After consultation as to the best course to pursue, Tucker with one ranger, was sent by Major Jones to the Cluck Spring some three miles above Round Rock where he found Lieut. Runnels encamped with a squad of eight or ten rangers. Lane was detained in Round Rock until one or two o'clock and then sent out with the detective Murphy to the same place where all remained until daylight.

After getting breakfast the rangers under Sergeant Nevils saddled up and made ready for the pursuit, Lieut. Runnels being unwell and going on to Round Rock. The Lieutenant, however, before leaving, having learned who Tucker was, asked him to lead the rangers under Sergt. Nevils where he thought it was most likely they would find Bass and his companions or get on their trail. Constable Lane with a portion of the squad went down to Bass' camp which was but a short distance from Round Rock, while Tucker with the remainder of the squad struck the Georgetown railroad about the place where Bass and Jackson struck the timber the evening before. Mr. Tucker found the trail at the mouth of the lane, and was following it on foot into the woods and he had gone about 100 yards, when Sergeant Nevils, who was in halting distance, called him, he immediately answered the call and they proceeded about one hundred yards farther when they came upon a man under a tree with his left hand raised in token of surrender. The party had passed in sight of the man before but supposing him to be one of the railroad hands, of whom there were a number in the vicinity, had given him no special attention. When the squad came up upon him, Tucker asked who he was and was immediately answered, "I am Sam Bass, the man that had been wanted so long." Bass then asked, "Where are you going to take me?" Tucker answered, "To town, I reckon," meaning Round Rock. Bass said, "I have seen you twice before. I am not afraid of you or the rangers, but I don't want to be mobbed." Tucker assured him he would not be mobbed. At this time Lane came in sight with a part of the squad, and Tucker, not thinking it advisable for Bass to see Murphy who was with Lane, went out and met them and directed Murphy to keep out of sight, which he did. After awhile, however, Murphy came rear enough to Bass without being seen by him to identify him thoroughly. Upon inquiry they learned from Bass that his wounds had compelled him to stop his flight on the preceding evening about seven hundred yards from where he then was; that after dismounting from his horse he asked his companion Jackson, to unsaddle and stake him and throw his saddle in a thicket, and then to take care of himself as he could be of no further service to him; that he had walked during the night to where he then was; that during the morning he had walked to Mr. Sherman's house (about two hundred yards off) in order to get water for which he was suffering, but that the family were frightened at his bloody appearance and ran off; that he had returned and tried to call to his assistance—some railroad hands—but they paid no attention to him; that he had finally attracted the attention of an old man who brought him a cup of water and left him. Sergeant Nevils asked Bass what brought him down here and he answered "money," and went on to say, "we thought we had a soft thing but it turned out rather serious." The party intended to rob a bank in Round Rock on Saturday. When asked how many men he had, he answered, "Four—three who meant business and one drag." Major Jones was sent for and came with a hack and a doctor and after examining Bass, privately took him to Round Rock.

COMPETITIVE BIDS FOR CONCRETE WORK WANTED

The Commissioners' Court of Lubbock County, Texas, proposes to let a contract for about one hundred and four cubic yards of concrete to be furnished and properly placed in the construction of a dam across the center channel of the Yellow House Canyon on the County Park grounds near the City of Lubbock, and hereby gives notice that competitive bids for the letting of such contract will be received and considered by said court on the twenty-third day of July, A. D. 1921, at ten o'clock A. M., on the said day, in the office of the County Judge of the said County, the said contract to be let to the lowest satisfactory bidder who shall submit a bid for such contract to furnish and properly place said concrete in said dam and comply with the terms and conditions upon which said contract will be let. Each bidder for the said contract is hereby referred to the County Judge of said County for the quantity of cement, sand and gravel, to be used in the formation of such concrete, and also for the plans and specifications of such construction. Each bidder is required to deposit with his bid a certified check drawn upon one of the local banks for fifty per cent of the amount of his bid, payable to Lubbock County, to be held by said court as security for the faithful performance of his contract, in case his bid is accepted and he enters into contract to furnish said concrete and properly place the same as there-in stipulated. The check of each bidder whose bid is rejected will be immediately returned to him. The Court reserves the right to reject all bids.

"Where the Price is Right"

Panhandle Plains Country Is Most Prosperous

No section of Texas is as prosperous at the present as the Panhandle, visitors from other parts of the State declare. Citizens of this section who have recently traveled other parts of the State, say there is more money and better prospects for good business in this section than any of the places they have been. The legitimacy of such a claim is easily realized when one reflects that the Panhandle is producing this year the greatest grain crop in its history. It is estimated that the yield will be more than 20,000,000 bushels, and this means that at least at many dollars will be turned over, for wheat is now $1.07, and grain men are expecting it to go higher.

Not only is the wheat crop a source of enormous wealth, but row crops are said to look better than ever before in the history of this county at this season of the year. Unusually equent rains have failed to materially harm the wheat and have aided row crops and cattle ranges.

Harvest of wheat is more than two-thirds completed. Prices of grain are better and conditions seem to be all of promise.

Cattle sales are picking up and stockmen expect business to be better by fall. The price of cattle is all so low as to make every sale as good as with range conditions good and a better feeling among the live stock men the outlook is improving.

T. G. Hudson sold a beef hide the other day and got 26 cents for it, just a half cent a pound. The hide weighed 40 pounds. He stepped in a store and bought a saddle string for which he paid 35 cents. There is certainly a great big profit along the line somewhere between the grower and consumer, but we don't know who is to blame for it, but one thing we do know is that such methods of robbing people should be stopped. The trouble is evidently between the manufacturer and wholesaler as most of the retailers will tell you their profits are no greater than they were before the war, but still everything you buy is above prewar prices. We can't figure it out, but there is something "rotten in Denmark."

THE RALLS COUNTRY IS PAVING A VERY PROMISING FUTURE— MANY NEW PEOPLE ARE COMING

Keep your eyes steadfastly on the Southplains, and especially on that fertile section known as the Ralls territory. Development and progress in the past has been so astounding but nothing to be compared to what may be expected in the future.

Never before in the history of our country have such splendid crops been promised, and now that conditions are rapidly becoming normal, our section may be expected to take a step forward that will place it very near the top round on the ladder. Many new people are now coming in and inquiries for land are becoming numerous. Such being the case we may expect to see land values take another advance in the next few months that will place our soil on a footing with prices now prevailing in the old states, and in the eastern portion of Texas, hence those expecting to secure farm homes here are urged to do so as quickly as possible if they desire to secure advantage of prevailing prices.

If you are not acquainted with our country, we extend you a special invitation to come and look it over the next time you are prospecting, and we feel sure you will seek no further for a desirable home in the West.

70 Cars of Wheat Have Left Ralls.
Up to Monday 70 carloads of wheat had been shipped from Ralls. We think it safe to say that more than one hundred cars will have been shipped before the end of the week. The great bulk of wheat produced here is yet to be marketed, and before it is all in the capacity of our three large elevators will be required to house it, notwithstanding the rapid manner in which it is being shipped.

We are informed that our buyers will pay $1 up to the 15th of July, but will make no guarantee of any price after that time.

A survey of our county, and reports from other counties, indicate that the 1921 wheat crop will surpass any that has been produced in many years, and as a consequence we expect to see the price decline materially before the first of August.

Farmers are urged to get their wheat on the market as early as possible.

Contract Let For Addition to School.
The contract for building the addition to our school building was let this week to Mr. Brown, a contractor of Floydada.

Mr. Brown arrived in town Thursday and work will be commenced at once and vigorously pushed until the building is completed.

In making this addition about $34,000 will be expended for building and equipment, and will result in providing our school house with 12 additional class rooms. This should give us ample room for many years to come, and will open the way for affiliation with the State University, something we have long needed, and for lack of which our school heretofore failed to measure up to the high standard desired by our people.

When Ralls High School opens this fall it will occupy a position second to no institution of learning of the kind in this section of the State, and doubtless many new families will move here for the sole purpose of giving advantage of our excellent school to their children.

Friendship and Duty

The most important duty this bank has is to give complete protection to its customers. The Guaranty Fund of which this bank is a member is just one contributory factor for the protection of depositors of this bank. The most important protection service available from this bank is the experience and knowledge the officials have of the conditions surrounding each and every depositor.

Friendship to our customers is secondary to duty. We win their friendship only by doing our duty toward them. We want to protect them by helping them with their problems and advising with them.

COUNT YOUR BLESSINGS

A noted writer in one of the magazines pens the following lines this week, that contains many truths: "Would you be willing to go back to the standards of living that prevailed in 1821?"

"Next time you step into the corner store take a look around. Of all the articles on the shelves how many were on your shopping list 15 years ago?"

"It was advertising that first proclaimed the usefulness of these things, that created an immediate and universal demand for them, that established a world-wide distribution which made them readily accessible to us all."

"Use this service most advantageously—read the advertising every day and more carefully than you have ever done before."

Though as many farmers did not attend the State Convention last week as it was expected, still we are of the opinion that it was one of the greatest meetings that this section ever had.

We know that the State Fire Marshal has been visiting a number of towns in this section of the state recently, and he has been giving some of them a rather severe criticism for the conditions that exist, and threatens to raise the rates or cancel insurance policies if the trouble is not speedily corrected.

It was a wise decision of the farmers of the South Plains when they cut their cotton acreage down for this year, but we believe we see a danger signal out yonder in the 1922 future, which reads that too much wheat will prove fatal, just the same as too much cotton or too much anything else.

Col. R. P. Smyth, of Plainview suggests that the South Plains counties that expect to have an exhibit at the State Fair this year, group their exhibits and occupy at least the same section of the exhibition hall.

Editor Carlock of the Paducah Post has his hat in the ring for the next diamond to be given at the Khiva Shrine Temple ceremony which will be held in the very near future.

We have not heard much of a noise like collecting any of the back taxes for the Lubbock Independent School District. That nine or ten thousand dollars would help out considerably toward financing the school.

HARD TO IMAGINE

Big Spring folks, or the majority of them at least, had rather boost for some other town than their own home town, or so it seems. They are always ready to boost the accomplishment of any gink just so he's not a resident of our city.

It is hard for the Avalanche to imagine how it would feel to live in a town where the people are afflicted with such an awful disease as the above must be. For the lack of a better name we would call it "Jealousitis" and from the description of the malady it must be very serious, and dangerous and the people who are afflicted with it certainly should have close attention.

A REWARD The Avalanche will give a reward of five-years subscription to any one who will cut all the weeds and burn them on Block 150.

The boys department of the Rotary Club is starting a campaign throughout the United States to insist that the boys who finish the grammar schools, and are to enter high school next term return to school this fall and complete their course.

Whether or not the report be true that there was drunkenness in the camp, during the recent Sheriff's convention at Amarillo, remains to be proven. The hosts of the convention emphatically deny it, notwithstanding the reports to the contrary.

It has been a long time custom to spend thousands of dollars of the people's money to have paintings made of the Governors and hang them in the halls of the capitol. We think it time to call a halt on this piece of extravagance.

The guns of the Legislature are turned on Governor Neff. His recent speech making tour has resulted in making many of the representatives angry at him, and they are asking that he prove some of the charges brought by him of graft, etc. in the capitol.

If the Health Officer is going to declare weeds a nuisance we suggest that they begin on the city block. The city has no funds with which to have the weeds cut on individual property, but we know that they can certainly afford to keep their own property looking respectable.

The Directors of the Panhandle South Plains Fair have given out a partial list of the premiums to be offered at the fair this fall. Read the list carefully, familiarize yourself with it, and talk it among your friends and neighbors.

The County Commissioners are going to make some more improvements on the Fair park. We are getting ready for the three days fair, are you?

THE LAWS WILL STAND Bro. Shaw in the Higgins News deplores the fact that the anti-bootlegging laws seem inefficient in coping with the whiskey traffic, and that in our courts people who are notoriously guilty are dismissed from prosecution on account of some legal loophole.

It isn't so much the trouble with the law, Bro. Shaw, as it is with the law trifiers. And by that term we mean all classes of people—criminals, lawyers, and judges—who seem to be in sympathy with the so-called personal liberty idea which would let a man handle all the liquor he wants to and be responsible to his conscience only.

What we need is a little old-fashioned justice from England once in a while. English courts do not recognize the American's adoption of "technicalities" in defeating the punishment of a law violator. The failure to dot an "i" or to cross a "t" is not considered in English courts.

The officers are sometimes responsible under our system because they don't know how to prepare a case and make it proof against irregularities. After a little experience they will know how to prosecute Mr. Bootlegger to a successful conviction and the apparent ease with which the offenders "beat the law" will be ancient history.

Then there are the judges. If a judge shows too much of an inclination to favor the defendant in a whiskey case, his position will be filled at the next election by a man more in sympathy with cleanliness and morality.

We note from the newspaper reports that Williamson county people have developed enough pep, and have screwed up enough nerve, and have sufficient crop prospects to enable them to have a county fair this year.

Two thousand acres of sweet potatoes will insure a potato curing plant here. Why not plant 'em next year. They produce good. Why not raise potatoes as well as some other crop, when you can handle them, and the curing plant route will land them safely with a good market.

Much more interest is being shown in this country each year in the breeding and raising of registered hogs, cattle, horses, mules, chickens, sheep, etc., as well as in the planting of pure seed in the fields.

There is probably more building going on in Lubbock than any other South Plains town, but still this active building program is not taking care of the housing needs of the city.

The legislature will investigate the Ku Klux activities. Right and proper that they should. We are of the opinion that this is going entirely too far.

The Legislature and the Governor have started in on the special session crosswise with each other, and the public will likely have to pay for a stormy session, and for the accomplishment of little.

Begin to tell the people about the fair. Take our word for it. It is going to be bigger and better than ever.

Lubbock is still building.

Annual Report of D. E. Lyday, President State Farmers Union, Nineteenth An- nual Convention July 12, 13, 14, 1921

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"I am proud to-day to render to this splendid audience a report of the efforts for aiding the Farmers of Texas, of which I know to be in at least some of its attributes, the greatest farmers organization ever established in Texas.

"I am particularly pleased to make this report in the Queen City of this golden Empire of the West, where the level prairies stretch away into infinite space, promising in its full development a wealth of agricultural products greater than the famous valley of the Nile.

"The Farmers' Union was organized in 1902, to aid the farmers in buying their supplies and in selling their products and to discourage the credit and mortgage system. The infant organization, and the co-operative marketing system which it advocated, struck straight at the heart of the evils which are destroying American agriculture.

"Of course an organization pledged to teach the farmers how to handle their own affairs, was not popular with those whose wealth was made by handling the farmers products and whose profits correspondingly increased with the poverty and helplessness of the producer.

"And so a great struggle began between the farmers organized into the Farmers' Union on one side and the selfish interests on the other.

"The continued efforts of the Farmers' Union to secure better prices for farm products and to eliminate waste and excessive charges and limit the overhead expense of middlemen, have, during these years, brought the organization into conflict with practically every organized interest handling agricultural products.

"It is said that Marshal Ney, the grand old hero of France, as he was led away to die, proudly exclaimed: 'I have fought a hundred battles for France and not one against her.' So my friends the battle scarred organization assembled here to-day looks back over its record of conflict, of victory and defeat and proudly proclaims, 'We have fought a hundred battles for the farmers of Texas, and not one against them.'

"When I first joined this organization some ten years ago, the papers were busy announcing the death of the Farmers' Union, but now after nineteen years have passed, I wish to call your attention to the fact that no Farmer Farm organization has ever lived to be 19 years of age. The Farmers' Union has outlived them all and is hale and hearty yet, at least she is a very lively corpse.

"The organization is growing and increasing in popularity and usefulness, since our preceding convention we have initiated in round numbers approximately 4000 new members, nearly 3000 new members have come into this great Wichita Valley District Union, which is the largest of our five sub-divisions.

"At the beginning of our convention month last year, August 1, 1920, we had cash in our treasury $4,281.14; This year, July 1, 1921, we have $12,203.47, or an increase in our cash balance of $7,922.33. The Texas State Farmers' Union in former years, was often short of finances and her executive committees were forced to borrow money, sometimes in considerable amounts, but I am proud to say that during the three terms I have served, as president of our state organization, no official or member has ever been called on to borrow money, not a penny has been contributed by any other than the membership, and there has always been a substantial cash balance in the treasury.

"There is to-day a greater balance on hand, than at any time since I have been a member of the organization.

"In its effort to establish a great co-operative marketing system the Farmers' Union has carefully studied the two great problems of production and distribution of farm products, on which the nation depends for subsistence.

"The problem of production having been largely solved by the intelligence and industry of our farmers, public attention has been centered on those of our system of distribution, which a very casual analysis soon resolves into its component factors of preparation for market, preservation, storage and warehousing, financing and transportation.

"The student seeking a real knowledge of these problems, must investigate the intricate details of trade practice and commercial customs, both foreign and domestic. All of which subjects are included in the comprehensive term—'A co-operative marketing system.'

"In seeking to know why the American farmer does not prosper equally with others, it was found that out of every dollar paid by consumers for agricultural products, the American farmer gets less than 46 cents, the remainder being absorbed in distribution. It was further found that in some foreign countries having co-operative marketing systems, the farmers received 85 per cent to 90 per cent of each dollar paid by consumers.

"In the effort to better these agricultural conditions, the President of the United States in 1912 appointed a commission of one hundred men, to go abroad and study economic conditions. This investigation was particularly directed to rural credit problems, co-operative Land Bank Legislation, for the purpose of enabling our farmers to become land owners, and to co-operative system of marketing farm products, which had saved the agricultural interests of Europe from disaster. Six members of this commission were from Texas and two of them were appointed at the special request of the State Farmers' Union. They spent six months in Europe, and came in contact with authorities on rural credit and co-operative marketing. They had the benefit of the experience and observations of David Lubin, of Sir Horace Plunkett, and others engaged in co-operative marketing work, and the Federal Land Loan Bank, which is a most piece of constructive, co-operative legislation, was established as the result of their investigations. Immediately on their return, the Texas delegation reported their investigations and conclusions, to the Texas State Farmers' Union, then in session at San Antonio.

"Markets and Warehouse Departments established at instance of Farmers' Union. At the instance and request of the Farmers' Union and with its endorsement and support, these delegates drafted a bill establishing a co-operative system of marketing for farm products and succeeded in getting the second called session of the Thirty-third Legislature to enact it into law. This legislation is commonly known as the Markets and Warehouse Law. It provided for the regulation of gins in preparing out cotton for the market, for the building and operating a grant system of co-operative bonded warehouses for its storage and preservation, for the issuance of warehouse receipts giving accurate weights and grades, setting out the condition of the cotton as well as insurance and existing liens, if any. These receipts were provided to enable bankers to finance the warehouses, cotton and they constitute a liquid bankable asset, conforming to all rules and requirements of modern banking and commercial practice.

"In order to safeguard this marketing system, the Department of Markets and Warehouses was created and the entire system and the supervision and control of all the details of its operation, were lodged in the hands of the Commissioner of Markets and Warehouses. There are at present in this system, nearly 250 agricultural warehouses, though owing to defective legislation, not all of them are as closely affiliated with the system as they should be. These co-operative agricultural warehouses handle a volume of business amounting to over $100,000,000 annually.

"Three years ago the administration of the Markets and Warehouse Department was extended by law to include the supervision of the great commercial warehouse and storage present in this system, nearly 250 agricultural warehouses, though owing to defective legislation, not all of them are as closely affiliated with the system as they should be. These co-operative agricultural warehouses handle a volume of business amounting to over $100,000,000 annually.

These co-operative agricultural warehouses handle a volume of business amounting to over $100,000,000 annually.

"Under the law establishing this great market system, it is the duty of the Department to establish agencies for the sale of Farm Products, but no appropriations were allowed for marketing during the first five years of the Department's existence. Two years ago the State Legislature at the request and with the support of Governor Hobby, appropriated $15,000 for marketing purposes for the two years ending August 31st, 1921.

"Since that time we have marketed directly through the Markets and Warehouse Department, approximately $8,000,000 worth of farm products, on which the farmer received at a conservative estimate an increased price of 25 per cent, or $2,000,000.00 more than under the old system of dumping farm products on the market to be peddled or auctioned off, frequently to scalpers and speculators, who were not dealers in any legitimate sense.

"Farmers' Union has built in Texas one of the greatest co-operative marketing systems in America. Recently the Department of Markets and Warehouses has been given the administration of the Weights and Measure Law. This Act is one of vital importance to consumers and merchants and affects the transactions of every citizen. This character of work is so extensive and intricate that in many states it is administered by a separate department of the state government, established for that purpose.

"Under the law establishing this payment of Markets and Warehouses becomes the head of one of the greatest marketing systems, with all its branches and subdivisions, which has been established in any state. It has under its supervision and control: 4,200 gins, 1,400 public weighers and 300 warehouses, every gasoline pump and every scale weight or measure of any kind, from the giant railroad track scale to that of the apothecary and of the jeweler, some of which will weight a human hair. Every package of butter, every loaf of bread and every commodity sold in packages by merchants in Texas, are packed according to standard weights fixed by the Department.

"In co-operation with the Texas Farm Bureau Federation the Farmers' Union asked the Legislature to enact a commodity marketing law, through which producers may organize and control the sale of their commodities. This is an important step in the right direction, and the Wichita Valley District Union at once took out a charter, this being the first charter issued in Texas under the new co-operative law, but it is not in any sense a complete and perfected marketing system, and no such complete and perfected system can be established until adequate warehouses, uniformly distributed over the cotton producing areas is provided. I am convinced we will never have adequate warehouse facilities as long as we depend on voluntary associations of local farmers to build them. Such a system of warehouses can only be built by taxation, that is, by taxing the product to be stored.

"Some persons have argued that such a system of warehouses should be provided by bond issues, or by taxing all property. There are only about 147 real cotton producing counties in Texas, while there are over 100 that produce no cotton, or practically none. I am sure such counties would be unwilling to support bonds or general taxes to build

HOGS HIGHER, FED CATTLE STRONGER; OTHERS LOWER

Kansas City Stock Yards, July 18, 1921.—Hog prices advanced today, making the highest mark since early this year. Today's advance was 15 to 25 cents. Top $10.50, bulk $10.00 to $10.40. Cattle prices were uneven, only a few heads of fed cattle on sale which sold 15 to 25 cents higher than last week, common killing kinds sold lower. Yearlings sold up to $9.40. Stockers and feeders ruled strong to 25 cents higher. Sheep were steady.

Today's Receipts.
Receipts today were 13,000 cattle, 7,000 hogs and 4,500 sheep, compared with 8,669 cattle, 8,662 hogs and 8,869 sheep a week ago and 14,429 cattle, 6,907 hogs and 7,231 sheep a year ago.

Beef Cattle.
Receipts today, while not large, were more than were expected after the mean close last week, but less than a year ago. Very few fed cattle were on sale, which looks like the prophecy that fed cattle will be in demand is coming true. The market on fed cattle was stronger and 10 to 15 cents higher than last week. Grass fat and plain killing kinds predominated and sold weak to unevenly lower. Cows and heifers were about steady. Calves and bulls stronger.

Stockers and Feeders.
Demand for stockers and feeders was steady to 25 cents higher. Quite a number of eastern buyers were present, making inquiry and some purchases.

Hogs.
Hog prices advanced again 15 to 25 cents, making a top of $10.50 and all classes sold readily. Hog weights, including 260 pounds, sold up to $10.30, and medium and lights to $10.50. Pigs were higher, selling up to $10.00.

Sheep and Lambs.
Prices for sheep were steady with light receipts and no good fed lambs. Native lambs sold for $9.50 and Arizonas for $10.00. Fed Texas wethers $5.10 and the best ewes at $4.50.

Horses and Mules.
Horse and mule receipts were light and sold at steady prices.

ELKS LOSE TWO GAMES TO BIG SPRING

The Elk ball club played two games with Big Spring this week and were defeated in both games. However, our club was due to win Sunday as they played a "no-error" game, while the opponents came out with more than a half dozen. Sanders pitched the game, which lasted twelve innings, but in the twelfth Big Spring got in two hits with two men down and broke the tie.

In the last game Lubbock hit well but were off in catching and throwing, making some eight or ten errors, and the opponents three. Big Spring tried their old stand by pitcher Preacher True, but took him out in the fourth inning. Mueller pitched for Lubbock.

Peach Growers in East Texas Have Slow Fruit Market

The peach growers of the East are having a poor market for their products this year according to statements given out by people who are in a position to know. The prices established in the eastern and northern markets will not justify the gathering, packing and shipping of the peaches, hence there will be many carloads of fine fruits allowed to go to waste in the orchards. It is stated that the crop in East Texas this season is one of the best that was ever known, but the prices the crop is bringing is playing havoc with the raisers of the fruit. It is stated that after the price of gathering, loading and transporting the fruit to the market place is paid there is nothing left for the producer, and sometimes less than that—some going in "the hole" on their shipments.

ITEMS FROM THE POSEY COMMUNITY LAST WEEK

Several of our progressive farmers accepted the opportunity of attending the State Convention of the Farmers' Union at Lubbock this week. Among those going were J. L. Benton, Homer Kelley and Mr. Fine. Am sure there would have been several more had it not been for the rush of field work.

Every farmer that we hear talk, complains of the number of weeds in the cotton. Each one is confident that the seed blew from his neighbor's field, for he did not let the weeds seed in his crop last year.

The Farm Bureau of Slaton, have invited the Posey people to visit them Thursday night. They want to work together in order to get a warehouse at Slaton. Mr. Lokey is to address the body and tell of his personal experiences in selling cotton through a bonded warehouse. Am sure this will be interesting, and those interested, and all should be—should attend.

J. L. Benton, Homer Kelley, W. E. Bennett, S. A. Johnson and family, were at C. Z. Fine's Monday night. The trustees closed a trade with Mrs. Fine, employing her as principal of the school for another year. They have not secured the other teacher yet. We are planning for an eight months' term of school.

The pie supper Saturday night was well attended. The pies sold readily, bringing something over eleven dollars. Miss Annie Johnson's pie brought the highest price selling for $2.05. Sam Gentry was the purchaser.

There was a good crowd at Sunday School last Sunday, being over one hundred present. We have been handicapped for the past two Sundays on account of lack of books, but the literature has come now and all can be supplied next Sunday, so come out.

Tommy Johnson and wife, S. A. Johnson and his niece Mrs. Clopton, who is spending the summer here, all went to Seagraves Saturday to see about some land that Mrs. Clopton has bought down there. Mr. Johnson is very enthusiastic over the future of that country.

Mrs. Bennett's mother, Mrs. Cantrell, and brother and family, of Slaton, visited her Sunday.

Mr. Dave Brown and family, of Fisher County, have been visiting Mr. Brown's sister, Mrs. W. A. Gumm.

Miss Mildred Johnson spent Sunday afternoon with Miss Bessie Dean. Brother Morrison will preach here next Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Gentry were visiting relatives in Slaton Saturday night and Sunday.

J. L. Benton has traded for a Ford car. He is now prepared to "rattle" right along.

Homer Kelley and family, were callers at the Eubanks home Sunday, to see the little twin girls. They report them doing well.

Aubrey Parker, Tom and Clyde Crane, of Brownwood, are hoing for Mr. Fine this week. They had been to Plainview hunting work, but found more hands than jobs.

O. R. Patterson spent Saturday at Lubbock, having his car batteries charged.

After Sunday School Sunday, a crowd of the young people went to Mr. Benton's and played tennis.

Miss Olga Maker, who has been visiting her sister at Post City for the past two months, has returned home. Miss Lena Klattenhoff was visiting Miss Mable Winegar Sunday.

A. Stapleton and wife, of Ralls, spent Friday of last week visiting and shopping in Lubbock.

The poets write of love and home and other simple lays,
Of people far across the foam and ancient times and ways.
But somehow modern things are missed and things as they are,
So I am here to write about a classy motor car.

There's only one that interests me and so much more,
For smarter folks will want none but the Overland Model Four.
Some dealer of another car will tell me all along,
"Now why talk of the Model Four, I'm sure you are quite wrong."

But in this world, if we be old, or in the days of youth,
No matter, good or bad, or how me always like the truth.
So to that dealer who contends my statements are not true
I give an explanation, as I give, one now to you.

In the first place, in the old U. S. six thousand dealers sell
This little car, the Model Four, the one they like so well.
And after it is sold to you, the service that is due,
For your especial benefit, repairs it all for you.

Most cars that you folks buy today are owned by several firms,
Assembled propositions, these are facts you do not learn.
But the Model Four is modeled, as likewise each well made part,
By the Willys-Overland Company and there only gets a start.

Let us study just a little of the engine it contains
A strong, three-bearing motor, helps to win the car its fame.
And the wonderful transmission with the engine is combined,
Is another star of favor, and the first one of its kind.

No pumps for oil and water and the mechanism good,
Is inclosed for your convenience in a wear well cast-iron hood.
As to tires they are not heavy, they're the well known much used Fisk.
Being small and priced quite nicely, cause the owner little risk.

In fact the combination is the thing you're looking for,
Has the comforts as to riding of a real expensive car.
As to gas, you get more mileage and more miles on tires as well,
And the baked enamel finish, makes you little Four "swell."

Now the bearings, there's the Timken, for it's known throughout the land,
As the universal bearing and will please most any man.
Then the springs, they're light and mighty and when're you hit a rock
You just seem to slide around 'em for you never get the shock.

They are patented by Willys and the newest thing that's out Should primarily be remembered of the things I write about.
As to feats, we have to offer hurdling six feet in the air,
Many times it's been accomplished, can you beat it anywhere?

In the test, on springs, in hurdles on many famous grounds
The blow at one time tested over forty thousand pounds.
So I've told you and I'm certain that you have begun to know
The wonders of this Model, little, mighty, full of "go."

It's a roarin' snorting beauty, it's a wonder on the street,
It's a car for any lady, it's a car that can't be beat.
Fraught with pep, with speed and purpose, riding comfort, everything.

Makes us wonder if it really is almost a human thing.

So sing on your earnest praise and proclaim to earth and stars
That all other makes are dandy when it comes to motor cars,
But if you desire real service—service proven o'er and o'er,
I can tell you what you're seeking, it's an Overland, Model Four.

HEALTH SUGGESTIONS FROM STATE HEALTH OFFICE WORTHY OF SERIOUS CONSIDERATION

Few people who "get mad" live to be old. Anger and worry are the two great shorteners of life. The people who live to be old are usually those to whom nature has given at least one sharp warning—a warning which they have needed. The greater proportion of people are born healthy, and their ways of living make them sick. We all have our playthings. Happy are they who are contented with those they can obtain; those hours are spent in the wisest manner that can easiest shade the ills of life, and are the least productive of ill consequence.—Lady Montague.

A baby in the home may mean shorter nights and longer days for its dad and mother, less money in the bank and less gadding around in society for a time. But a baby in the home also means love ties strengthened, home made happier, the past forgotten and the future worth living for. Good habits are always a legal tender for good health. Moderate muscular exercise in the open air to the extent of slight fatigue, or until there is a perceptible perspiration is a greater preventive of disease than the whole apothecary shop. Wherever community nursing is undertaken by a competent nurse with a reasonable amount of public support, the work grows rapidly and the community readily recognizes the value of the service. It is prophesied by the more farseeing public health authorities that, in another ten years, no town, city or county, endowed with reasonable vision, will attempt to conduct its public health and philanthropic affairs without nursing service.

When I get to be ninety, I hope that I will have many of my colleagues about me that I shall be accepted as a matter of course.

If I can read well and have weak lungs; if I can write well and have kidney trouble; if I can figure well and have anemia—how much are the three R's worth to me?

We know that malaria is carried on by a special species of mosquito and we know that if we eliminate the mosquito the spread of the disease will automatically stop.

Responsibility for accident and disease is no longer considered merely a personal problem, it is a community problem as well. Just as we insist that every American shall have the benefits of public education, so should we insist upon the inherent right of every American to the possession of a body free from the handicap of preventable disease.

The public health is the foundation on which reposes the happiness of the people and the power of the country. The care of the public health is the first duty of the statesman.—Lord Beaconsfield.

If there is no filth, there will be no flies.

A large proportion of the diseases from which mankind suffers today are preventable. The time will come when such diseases as malaria and tuberculosis will belong only to the ancient history of medicine. All work, no matter how trivial or valueless it may seem, if it has been done with honesty of purpose, has its place in the great victory over pain and pestilence. Were it possible to ask those who have fought in this cause and have died for it, "Was it worth while?" they too, would say that they rejoiced that they had not lived in vain, but had been allowed a little share in the work of alleviating the suffering of humanity.

The State Board of Health, Austin, Texas, welcomes inquiries or letters from citizens interested in the promotion of community health.

Dark, dirty and poorly ventilated rooms are consumption factories. Shun them.

Contagion is mainly spread by contact of the infected person with a well person. Sometimes just plain derelict carelessness is responsible for the contact.

Juggle with your rheumatism and jeopardize your life.

Publicity and education are now universally conceded to be of prime importance in promotion of every phase of public health work.

Improper illumination is a frequent cause of eye strain, accidents and ill health.

Your worst enemy—spreader of disease and death—the common fly. Swat him.

An enlightened community will not permit teacher and child to remain in an unhealthful environment and have the process labeled "Education."

Under no circumstances should the tubercular mother be permitted to nurse her child. This is necessary for the health of the mother as well as for the protection of the infant.

All children from homes in which there is or has been tuberculosis should be carefully and repeatedly examined by a competent physician for the early detection of the disease.

Vaccination is less annoying than a pock-marked face and less expensive than a third-class funeral.

If you tire easily and are "all played out," don't dope yourself with so-called "tonics" and stimulants. See your doctor and insist upon having a thorough examination. Weariness is usually the first sign of tuberculosis.

The prevailing popularity of motion pictures and their value in health education have prompted the State Health Officer to provide several high-class reels on health subjects. They are furnished to health officers, societies, and schools without charge on application. On account of the strong demand, however, it is advisable to make requests well in advance if the pictures are wanted for any particular date.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS FROM THE RALLS BANNER

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Pass were called to Lubbock Tuesday on account of the serious illness of a niece, who is in a sanitarium in that city.

A serious fire was barely averted at the home of D. H. Benton Saturday. An effort was being made to exterminate the mites around the chicken house with fire, and in some way the building became ignited. Little damage was done, owing to quick and effective work.

The weather has continued favorable for wheat harvesting during the week, and farmers are making rapid strides toward getting the crop gathered. The yield is holding up in every instance to a much higher point than was indicated at the beginning of harvest, much to the gratification of not only the farmers but to all our citizens, for we are all interested, directly or indirectly in the wheat crop. Much of the wheat to be harvested has been contracted, and if it can be placed on the market by the 15th inst., a fair price will be realized.

Ten wagon loads of wheat are passing by the office as we are writing this item. Truly the golden grain is coming to our town from all points of the compass. It is well known that our buyers always pay the top of the market for everything and they are endeavoring to go a little above the market on wheat.

The big crops promised in this country are going to be a means of attracting many sharp fellows here who are looking for easy money, and have many get-rich-quick schemes to offer as a means of separating the people from their hard-earned money. If we have any spare cash, put it in the banks, invest it in Ralls town property or buy needed conveniences for the home. Past experience should teach the people to beware of the grafter—many of them have found Ralls a rich field in the past.

C. H. GROLLMAN LOSES $3430.70 OIL LAW SUIT

In District Court last week, the case in which C. W. Alexander and Jas. P. Posey were suing C. H. Grollman for commission on fifty acres of oil royalty which amounted to $3430.70, the case was decided in favor of Alexander and Posey. According to the court, the real estate agents, Alexander and Posey, were buying the royalty for Grollman, and had gone into an agreement that the purchaser would pay as much as $575 per acre for the royalty, and if the agent could purchase it any cheaper, they were allowed to keep the difference. The royalty was purchased for $500 an acre, and the misunderstanding came up. Mr. Grollman will appeal the case.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE—AND BACK YOUR ADVERTISEMENT

LEGISLATURE IS REQUESTED TO GIVE ALL ITS TIME TO MATTERS FOR WHICH SESSION WAS CALLED

Austin, July 18.—Governor Neff, in his message to the special session of the Thirty-Seventh Legislature, which convened here today, recommended that the law makers give their particular attention to the five matters for which the session was specifically called.

The Governor reiterated in strong terms to the two bodies of the State Legislature his reasons for demanding action on administration measures.

The law makers, most of whom arrived during the past twenty-four hours, evidenced a desire to hurry the business through.

With the exception of two or three investigations which may be launched, the business of the session will probably be confined to matters recommended in Governor Neff's address.

The formal opening of both branches of the Legislature occupied but a short time and the Governor's message was sent the law makers.

Lieutenant Governor Davidson delivered the opening address to the Senate shortly after it convened.

"This is no time for extravagance. It is time to economize. It is no time to raise the present ad valorem tax limit of 35 cents," Speaker Thomas declared in his opening address to the house. The Speaker beseathed the law makers to lay all prejudice aside. Applause frequently interrupted him.

When the House convened there were 117 members present. Twenty-five were absent. All the Senators with the exception of Carlock of Tarrant County answered the Senate roll call. Three new Senators were sworn in. They are: J. Hart Willis, of Dallas; W. E. Doyle of Freestone and Joe Burkett of Eastland.

Following the formal opening of the Senate that body went into caucus of the selection of employees.

New members sworn into the House today were: E. G. Lesturg, Bexar County, and Sam D. W. Low, Washington; B. L. Russell of Callahan County, elected to fill the vacancy in the House. The latter was elected to fill the vacancy in the House created by the resignation of Joe Burkett, Eastland, who was elected to the Senate, and was not present when the House convened.

Senator W. D. Suitor of Wood County was elected chairman of the Senatorial caucus, the position which was held for so long by the late Senator J. C. McNeal of Dallas.

Senator Edgar Witt of McLennan was elected secretary.

Both the house and senate decided to keep the same staff of employees as served during the regular session.

The House recessed at noon until 3 p. m. Up to that time thirteen bills had been introduced. Bill No. 1, introduced by Orris, of Medina, provides for the amendment of the Deaf Prohibition bill as recommended by the governor.

Nelson introduced a bill for the entire repeal of the suspended sentence law.

The "officers removal bill" has not yet been introduced.

A bill providing for $20,000 to pay the mileage and per diem of the special session was introduced in the Senate.

Resolutions were also introduced in the Senate for the appointment of a joint committee to probe charges of padding of scholastic reports. The resolution was referred to the committee on education.

Times Abnormal.

After declaring that "the times are abnormal" and that "the world is at a turning point in civilization," the Governor stated that the people were the state and that the legislators who represent the "folks back home" must mobilize their best thoughts and render the highest service possible.

In his introduction he points out that Texas citizens were essential followers of the plow but that all lines of business were hanging on the "ragged edge of the financial world and that economy in private and public life was essential.

"In a state government, democratically administered," he said, "there are two matters of the highest importance to the people. One is the proper collection and distribution of the tax money and the other is the strict and impartial enforcement of the law. If a government of these two fundamental stones be properly placed, it can easily build thereon a sure structure of government that can weather any storm."

Urges Consideration.

The Governor urged that the legislators give their most careful consideration to the following subjects: "To make appropriations—within the available revenue, for the support and maintenance of the State Government and State Institutions." The governor in discussing this point declared that economy must be effected and rigid scrutiny of all appropriation bills be made.

He stated that the Government was top-heavy, that departments overlapped each other. "We have too many departments and too many employees," Neff declared.

"Within the next few days a special message will be sent to the Legislature dealing with this phase of the State government," he said.

"To provide additional revenue and make appropriations out of the same for the better support of the public free schools of the State."

Quoting statistics, the chief executive showed how the ad-valorem tax rate had steadily increased. He declared that overburdened industry should not feel renewed tax levies. He urged the Legislature to keep appropriations down and to find means for providing additional revenue. To enact legislation providing for the repeal of the suspended sentence law. The governor pointed out in detail his objections to this law and reiterated his desire that it be repealed.

To provide an effective law for the removal of officers who wilfully and corruptly refuse to perform their official duties in the enforcement of the law.

Arguments presented in the Governor's speeches during the past few weeks were combined in the message urging the law. He placed particular stress on the necessity of rigidly enforcing the prohibition law. He declared that there were two reasons why the law was disregarded in some communities.

"One is unwilling officers, the other is the defects of the law itself," Neff emphasized.

The Legislature can and should, by appropriate legislation, remove both of these stumbling by the pathway of the law, he said.

To redistrict the State into Senatorial and Representative districts as provided by the constitution and as recommended in the party platform.

Why Baggy Clothes are Expensive

Baggy clothes wear out more rapidly than those which are kept cleaned and pressed.

The explanation is simple. The constant stretching of the fabric thins it and weakens it at the baggy spot—the cloth reaches a point where it can't stand the strain.

And that means a new suit—which costs money.

The suits you send to the cleaner regularly do not bag. He keeps them pressed, the fibres close-knitted and strong. He keeps them clean—there are no tiny particles of grit to cut the threads and ruin the fabric.

The price of one new suit will dry-clean forty old ones.

Shall we get after those baggy spots for you? Telephone.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarhal deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, it is no longer open, and the sound of the perfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

HAVE FINE CROPS IN ROBERTSON SECTION

The writer accepted a kind invitation from T. T. Easter last Friday afternoon late to take a drive out to the Robertson community. That community is one of the best farming sections in the state for row crops and have the finest crops we have seen anywhere this year. In many fields cotton is over knee high and grain crops, such as corn, maize, etc., are in excellent shape and will make a good yield. Some of the crops, however, that are not so advanced were taken considerably by weeds which sprung up after the late spring rains; but the majority of the farmers are on the top and taken as a whole, they have exceptionally clean crops. Gardens are fine and large there, too, and the ladies of that community have canned hundreds of gallons of stuff this summer for next fall and winter use.—Lorenzo Enterprise.

RUNT ANIMALS ARE LOSSES TO THEIR OWNERS AND SHOULD NOT BE PERMITTED IN THE HERD

The question, "Why is a runt?" has been answered by hundreds of livestock raisers who have filled in and returned questionnaire reports sent out by the United States Department of Agriculture. These reports—nearly a thousand of them—show that inferior breeding, poor feeding, and parasites are the three principal causes of undersized and underdeveloped animals. In fact, about 75 per cent of runtiness is traceable to these factors. All of these factors are under control of breeders or stock raisers who by controlling them can in a large degree eliminate runts, which, according to reports, constitute 7 per cent of all farm animals.

The information gained from the reports is of much interest and value to live-stock owners. Department specialists consider it dependable, for the replies have been received from a large proportion of farms on the accredited herd list (having cattle free from tuberculosis), and most of the remainder are from farms whose owners are cooperating with the Department of Agriculture and State agricultural colleges in the "Better Sires—Better Stock" campaign. Those who answered the questionnaire are, therefore, interested in the control of disease and the improvement in quality of domestic animals, and, in general, are progressive live-stock owners.

In addition to the three principal causes of runtiness previously mentioned, the report shows that there are numerous other contributing causes. A summary of the opinions from 783 live-stock owners show that the principal causes of runtiness are: inferior breeding, 31.6 per cent; inadequate or unsuitable feed, 30.4 per cent; parasites and insect pests, 15.1 per cent; inadequate housing and care, 12.4 per cent; contagious diseases, 4.9 per cent; exposure, 2.9 per cent; Accident 1.0 per cent; other causes 1.7 per cent. It appears that the breeding of well-selected purebred stock produces very few undersized animals, but that with scrubs—especially when inbred—the percentage of runtiness is high.

The report shows that runtiness is most prevalent among hogs, the average per cent reported being 10.1. This, moreover, includes a number of farms which reported no runts at all. One farmer who is breeding good, purebred hogs and feeding them a variety and plenty of feed, states: "We have not had a runt pig in two years, although the litters sometimes contain from 9 to 11 pigs each."

The results of the inquiry indicate that the size of an animal of good breeding at birth has but little relation to the mature weight where proper feed, care, and management are provided. This is shown in a number of cases of successful hog raisers who report that lack of uniformity in fairly large litters has been overcome by proper feeding. A cattle breeder in Montana reports that proper feeding and care of a runt animal resulted in developing it to such a finish that it took first prize in its class at the State fair.

It appears from a summary of 929 report that a comparatively small number of animals are born runt, and that most stunting of growth begins a short time before weaning, or soon afterwards. More than 50 per cent of the runt live stock appears during infancy or before weaning according to reports, while 35 per cent shortly after weaning, and only 4.4 per cent at birth.

In reply to a question on the practicability of raising runts to market size 74 per cent of the replies indicate that it is not profitable, 14 per cent answered either yes, or yes with qualifications. Comments show that a well-bred animal, even though undersized, will develop into just as good an animal when it is given an equal chance. "With inherited runtiness due to inferior breeding," one stockman declared, "it does not pay. Other cases due to lack of proper feed may be raised with profit."

Several dairymen have explained that they have had calves that were small at birth which with good care and feed were made good cows. Another breeder declares "being born small generally has little influence on the size of an animal at maturity, but to develop into a high-class animal it must have good breeding back of it, and to do this best we must use purebred sires that are good individuals with strong constitutions."

Replies indicated practically unanimity in considering runt live stock a serious drain on the industry and a loss to the owner. Though some estimated that the breeding of runts were more than 25 per cent greater if runts were eliminated, the common estimate was between 5 and 10 per cent.

Of 511 replies as to the practicability of reducing runts among farm animals 89 per cent were affirmative and without qualifications. Ten per cent regarded reduction possible, but not always profitable. The remaining 1 per cent were negative replies. In this connection a number of live stock owners frankly expressed their inability to cope with the runt problem. The experiences given by many stockmen who are working at the problem of reducing and even practically eliminating it—Southwest Plainsman.

BAILEY COUNTY IS NOW BEGINNING DEVELOPMENT

W. C. Elmore, of Bailey County, was in the city Friday of last week transacting business. He reports conditions favorable in that section, except that the farmers are pretty badly in the weeds with their crops this year on account of the late spring rains. As to the wheat crop, Mr. Elmore says the early spring was too dry, and the yield was considerably cut, but there is being harvested considerable wheat even under those conditions.

Mr. Elmore says a number of farmers have purchased land in that section and are preparing to make improvements on it and will become permanent settlers in that section this fall, which will mean a greater development for the Bailey County section.

Bailey County is one of the best counties on the Plains, and will some day be one of the most productive. The county was only recently organized, but the breaking up of the big ranches will enable farmers to secure the land for homes, and will bring about a more rapid development. The land is rich, the water is shallow, and an abundance of it, and irrigation can be carried on if needs be, successfully.

PALAGRA VICTIMS ARE TO BE GIVEN DIVERSIFIED FOODS

Diversified foods must be supplied immediately to sufferers of the South to prevent many thousands of fatalities among pellagra victims, the United States Public Health Service warned. Between 5,000 and 10,000 of the estimated pellagra sufferers have little chance to survive, according to reports to the health service.

"Actual relief must be extended in the one-crop states," Dr. Joseph Goldberger, one of the health men said.

"I states like Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama and parts of Texas, where cotton is the only crop, the need for diversification foods is imperative."

Pellagra is caused by faulty diet. Due to the failure to market the cotton crop, scores of thousands of tenant farmers and their families in the one crop states lack the money to purchase staples and they have been living on a diet of salt pork, corn meal and molasses. "This," Dr. Goldberger said, "is a starvation diet and unless balanced by other foods, causes pellagra and eventually death."

In the states where more diversified crops are raised the danger from pellagra is less than in the one crop states.

PADUCAH EDITOR GETS IN RACE TO WIN SHRINE RING

E. A. Carlock, editor and publisher of the Paducah Post at Paducah, Collet County, is an avowed candidate for the diamond ring to be given by Khya Shrine Temple at the next ceremonial session. The date of the ceremonial has not been set, but the Cottle County Journalist is getting his friends lined up and is busy writing his platform.

The main plank in Mr. Carlock's statement of principles will be unqualified endorsement of saxophone jazz. No question is settled until it is settled right, Carlock and his friends aver, and he is going to use his influence to have the jazz problem settled according to the "doctrines of the fathers." BLTYHE POSTOFFICE TO BE CHANGED TO SEAGRAVES

Reports come from Washington that the postoffice of Blythe, Texas, will soon be discontinued and changed to Seagraves. These two places are really one and the same. Blythe is the name of the postoffice, established many years ago in the north part of Gaines County, about eighteen miles north of Seminole. When the Santa Fe built their road from Lubbock to that point, instead of calling the place Blythe they used the name Seagraves, and the railroad station is now known as Seagraves and the postoffice is Blythe, which is indeed awkward to the public, and confusing to newcomers or people wanting to go to that point. The postal authorities have agreed to make the change according to reports which will be done as soon as all the red tape can be wound up that Uncle Sam has connected with every proposition that goes through his hands.

Lady Reader Takes a Shot at the Avalanche Editor But Missed the Mark Several Hundred Miles

"In last week's Avalanche under the heading 'Local and National Comment,' the sentiment was expressed that the ugliest thing in the world is a woman in overalls, or a man in a robe—I believe Christ wore a robe so it must have been alright. "As for the woman in overalls—I wondered if this sentiment appealed to Mr. Dow or was his own. Anyway, I'd like to wager a good Stetson hat that if any man who holds this opinion will put on a dress and the necessary undergarments that accompany it—do the work a woman usually does when she puts on overalls, cut weeds, burn trash, mow the lawn, plant or plow the garden and irrigate everything on the place—I speak from experience—then wash and iron the clothes thusly soiled say for a week, changing often enough to look decently clean—you can tell the world he will never again think a woman in overalls quite so ugly!

Why? oh, why do men, the majority of them do, though some are intelligent enough to be ashamed of it—hate to see a woman wear comfortable (by his own standard) clothes? Would a man wear a dress? I'll say he wouldn't! He's darn glad he's a man and doesn't have to "Didn't God create us equal? Or didn't he? At any rate he clothed us alike, eh! what!

Even after the advent of the serpent did Eve's fig leaf dress (?) have any more leaves than Adam's?

For a hundred years men have hoofed and derided woman for her foolish and extravagant customs of dress, asking with upraised hands why she couldn't see how idiotic she was.

"Lo! She becomes a convert. Decides to wear the style of clothes (his own) he advertises as the most sensible and economical, when what does he do but point with horror at the ugliness of 'a woman in overalls.' "Oh, inconsistency! Thou are a propriate than some of the afternoon gowns, even if the overalls are not pretty.

The author of the above article did not have the nerve to write her own name to the article, but slipped in as a reader of the Avalanche, and undertook to bless us out for criticizing her mode of dress. We do not object to the style of dress half so much as we do to the display of slang that she spits out. It appears to us that the women are losing a great lot of their former modesty in their language as well as the men. We are a single standard believer, and believe that a woman has a right to wear if a man has, but we do not believe that either has a right to do so, but it just simply sounds a little worse to hear a woman spitting out cuss words, and people use entirely too much slang, both male and female. Oh, for the return of the pure simple language of our mothers.

Mission Band Social.
The girls and boys of the Mission Band, with a few invited guests, enjoyed a pleasant little outing on the Canyon Sunday afternoon. About 4 o'clock they assembled at the First Christian Church with well-filled lunch baskets and by the kindness of Miss Katie Bell Young, Mr. and Mrs. Squires and Mrs. J. O. Jones, who were waiting with their cars, they were driven to the Crosbyton railroad bridge. Immediately after the arrival they assembled on the grass in the shade, and with James Julien as leader they had a very interesting lesson, the topic of which was "Our Southern Highlanders." After scripture reading, then songs and prayer, the leader told of the isolated mountain people and their great need of Missionary effort. Talks and papers by members followed telling of the three mountain Mission Schools in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky and Tennessee, the result of the efforts of the Christian Woman's Board of Missions; a special song by Maurice Mulligan and James Julien, then the benediction closed the little service. Then dinner was spread and a sumptuous feast it was and needless to say was heartily enjoyed by all present. After romping and coasting on the hills to their hearts content, the youngsters returned home about 7 o'clock, all declaring they had a jolly good time.

WILLARD BATTERIES

See Us Now About Your Battery

Suppose some queer trick of fate made you the owner of this service station and the customer.

And I came in some day red hot because my battery had gone wrong.

And I had missed my train—

And I lost out on an important engagement—

And disappointed a good customer—

And stood to lose a lot of money—

You bet your life I'd be good and sore, but I'm mighty sure I couldn't ask for any more courtesy and consideration and square dealing and SERVICE than we are giving right now day after day.

The time to have us look at your battery is before anything happens.

Indigestion

Many persons, otherwise vigorous and healthy, are bothered occasionally with indigestion. The effects of a disordered stomach on the system are dangerous, and prompt treatment of indigestion is important. "The only medicine I have needed has been something to aid digestion and clean the liver," writes Mr. Fred Ashby, a McKinney, Texas, farmer. "My medicine is

Children From the Playground Have Swim Tuesday

The children who are taking advantage of the Lubbock free Playground were taken to the Tumble N Swimming Pool Tuesday of last week and enjoyed their first swim, supervised by the playground instructor. The water was fresh and fifty-three youngsters had the time of their life swimming and paddling in the water. The following Thursday morning a bunch of forty-five were taken to the Fulton Pool south of town where another well enjoyed party was conducted. Saturday morning the boys ranging from ten to fourteen years, went to the Fulton Pool for a morning swim. They left town at six in the morning and hiked to the pool and had a swim before breakfast.

Tuesday of this week the girls from ten to sixteen went to the Tumble N Pool, also taking a before breakfast swim. After the swim breakfast was cooked and served under the grove in the park. Tuesday evening of last week the children ranging in age from two to twelve were given a picnic on the playgrounds. Each child brought their lunch and lemonade was served by the committee. Eighty-six attended the picnic, which lasted from four to six.

Fordson TRACTOR

F. O. B. Detroit

"Yes I've more Time for Myself Since I Got a Fordson"

The Fordson Tractor is taking much of the drudgery out of farm life; it is solving the labor problem; it is reducing the cost of preparing land by almost one half of what it was with horses; and it is saving one third to one half of the farmer's time; and making farm life more attractive.

The Fordson will run your threshing machine—and at the most opportune time for you. It will operate the milking machines, saw your wood, fill your silo, pump the water, and take care of every kind of belt work—

And don't forget—it will plow six to eight acres in a ten hour day, handling two plows with ease.

Thus the Fordson is the ideal year-round tractor. It will pay for its fall and winter keep in many ways.

There's a big story to tell you about the Fordson—and a true one—come in and get the facts. Or, if you prefer, telephone or drop us a card and we will bring them to you.

NOTICE TO KILL PRAIRIE DOGS

Everybody ought to exterminate the prairie dogs on his own land because the law requires it and especially because it is necessary for the protection of himself and his neighbors.

The Commissioners' Court has expected the people to comply with this law without being forced. But many complaints have been filed recently and the Court is ready to enforce the law. Therefore, we beg and demand that every citizen of this county who has any dogs on his land kill them all now. This is the last warning. If this is not done we will proceed according to law.

This legal procedure is unpleasant both to the Court and citizens; besides it is expensive to the land owner.

The Court will purchase the poison at wholesale price and distribute it to the people at cost if they desire it. Get serious about this now and give us your names if you want us to secure the poison at wholesale.

By order of the Commissioners' Court.

P. F. BROWN,
County Judge of Lubbock County.

No Worms in a Healthy Child

All children troubled with Worms have an unhealthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. GROVE'S PASTELLESS CHILD TONIC given regularly for two or three weeks will enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a General Strengthening Tonic to the whole system. Nature will then throw off or disperse the worms, and the child will be in perfect health. Pleasant to take. 50c per bottle.

INTERESTING HISTORY OF MOTHER OF OUR TOWNSMAN, COLBY THOMAS

The following article appeared in the Dallas News several days ago, and will be interesting to the many friends of our townsman, Colby Thomas. Mr. Thomas has been a live wire in the development of this city, and was active indeed in promoting enterprises that were for the development of the country and up-building of Lubbock, till his health forced him to retire from active work, but his influence is still a great help in the advancement of the city, and the interesting career of his mother will be read with interest by Avalanche readers, and for that reason we have taken the liberty to reproduce the article:

Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Thomas, widow of James Thomas, pioneer merchant and business man of Dallas, celebrated the ninety-third anniversary of her birth at her home, McKinney avenue and Pearl street, on June 21. Mrs. Thomas came to Texas from Tennessee in 1851, settling near Plano, and coming to Dallas in December, 1869, has continuously resided here ever since, occupying the same homestead.

Mrs. Thomas, whose maiden name was Elizabeth Jane Routh, was born near Knoxville, Tennessee, June 21, 1828, being the youngest of ten children. Her grandfather was killed by Indians in Tennessee. Her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Mashman, was a cousin of George M. Dallas, for whom the city of Dallas was named. She was married to Mr. Thomas in 1850, and the following year she came to Texas with her brother, Jacob Routh, and her mother, settling at Plano. The next year Mr. Thomas came to Texas to take her back to Tennessee, but he was so well pleased with the country that he concluded to locate in this state.

Mr. Thomas purchased land near Richardson and lived on it until 1869, when he came to Dallas and engaged in the mercantile business with J. M. Patterson as his partner. For a homestead he bought forty acres lying north of Pearl street, bounded on the west by McKinney avenue and on the south by the branch, and built his home on the southeast corner of McKinney avenue and Pearl street. The tract was afterwards subdivided into town lots and was designated the Thomas addition. Mrs. Thomas donated the lands for the streets. The principal street, Thomas avenue, was named for Mr. Thomas, the chief cross street was named for Mrs. Thomas' family, Routh street (pronounced Row), and Colby street for her son, Colby.

A Public-Spirited Citizen.

For several years Mr. Thomas was a member of the leading general mercantile firms in the city, and he took an active interest in and gave financial support to all public enterprises, notably to the Trinity River bridge, in which he was a large stockholder. He died in 1875.

Mrs. Thomas is of English descent on her mother's side. Her family settled in Tennessee when that state was a wilderness roamed by Indians. She still has a vivid recollection of the scenes of her childhood. The house in which she was born and which she visited a few years ago, is still standing. She still keeps a little chair which was presented to her when she was a small child. The incidents of the wagon journey from Tennessee to Texas, occupying six weeks, are fresh in her memory. She knew personally, practically all the early settlers in Dallas and Dallas County.

Of the party who came to Texas with Mrs. Thomas, she and Mrs. Emma Miller, of Renner, Dallas county, are the only survivors. For a number of years Mrs. Thomas and her daughter, Miss Mollie, have been the only occupants of the old homestead, and the friends of the family have called regularly on the recurrence of the anniversary of Mrs. Thomas, birthday to congratulate her. No invitations are sent out, but it is known that friends will call, for they call every day.

Oldest Baptist in City.

Mrs. Thomas enjoyed excellent health up to two years ago, when an attack of influenza seriously impaired her strength physically, although her mind is as vigorous as it ever was. She is the oldest member of the Baptist church in the city and she still takes a lively interest in all church work, contributing liberally to every good cause. Her sons, Oliver and Colby Thomas, were the founders of the real estate firm of Thomas Bros. and they built the Thomas building. Oliver died several years ago. Colby resides at Lubbock. Colby and Miss Mollie Thomas are the only surviving children. Mrs. Thomas has lived to a greater age than any member of her family so far as she knows, although her grand-mother was in her ninety-first year when she died.

Mrs. Thomas was born during the administration of John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the United States; twenty-five years after the purchase of Louisiana; thirteen years after the first boat propelled by steam made its way up the Mississippi and Ohio Rivers from New Orleans to Pittsburg, thereby demonstrating that steamboats could run upstream as well as down, and one year after the first train of cars was drawn over a railroad by a locomotive in the United States, the test being made on a narrow-gauge road between Charleston and Columbia, South Carolina.

At that time, which was before gold had been dreamed of in California, all that part of the United States west of the Mississippi River, as well as much of that east, was as complete a wilderness as it had been in the time of the mound builders, and the Indians roamed as far east as the frontier of Indiana. The last census before her birth, taken in 1820, gave the population of the United States at 9,600,000.

Industries Were Undeveloped. The industries of the people were still carried on as they had been in the Middle Ages. The scythe and the cradle and even the reaper-hook were the tools for harvesting grain and hay. The farmers threshed their grain by trampling it with horses or beating it with the flail and water and wind were the sources of power for running grist and saw mills. Every family had spinning wheels, and loom and the flax, cotton and wool were spun and woven at home. Each community had its tanyard and the boots and shoes were laboriously made by hand. Each family and each settlement were a rounded world within itself as far as sustenance was concerned. At night the houses were lighted with tallow candles, for even kerosene was unknown as an illuminant. Men hunted Indians with flint lock rifles and the expert backwoods marksmen could not conceive of anything more perfect in the way of a firearm.

A man who should have spoken seriously of the possibility of modern farm machinery would have been regarded as mentally unbalanced, and if he had, in addition, said something about electricity and its applications in telegraphy, the telephone, lighting and motive power, and wandered to the automobile, airplane and lotype and the movies, jury of his best friends and neighbors would probably out of hand have adjudged him insane.

Few individuals in any age of the world have witnessed more changes in the conditions and life of the people than Mrs. Thomas.—Dallas News.

PEOPLE MUST NOT JAY-WALK, OR PAY FINE

The city has recently erected signs on every corner in the business section of town instructing people not to jay-walk. If this law is not obeyed, a fine of five dollars will be the penalty. This is no doubt a good move the city has taken, as on many occasions we have noticed women with several small children crossing the street in dangerous places and cutting the corners in various ways, to make it very inconvenient for car drivers, and not only does it cause inconvenience to the car drivers but it is very dangerous to cross a street in a way that you must watch four ways for traffic. We feel sure the people of Lubbock will stand by this law and obey it in every respect, for its purpose is for the safety of people, and not merely to show authority, as some may remark.

Noted Evangelist and Party to be in Lubbock Soon

Evangelist Ben M. Edwards, of Kansas City, general evangelist of the Christian church, will begin a revival at the First Christian church (South Side) Wednesday evening. The first three days of the meeting services will be held in the church building, awaiting the arrival of the big tent which they have secured for this purpose. As soon as the tent arrives and is erected the services will be moved to it, which will be located on Broadway at the corner of Avenue K. This will be conveniently located for all to attend services, and the public is most cordially invited to attend.

Mr. Edwards is one of the strongest evangelists in the South and his sermons are sure to interest you.

He is assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Pollock who have charge of the singing. Mr. Pollock being choir leader and soloist while Mrs. Pollock does her part at the piano.

Pastor Julien is expecting a great revival, and urges that the church folks of the city co-operate in the work, and make it a great revival, not only for the Christian church, but for the churches in general. The singers are urged to attend and assist in making the choir a power in the meeting.

CAR OWNED BY SLATON PEOPLE TURNED TURTLE

A Buick roadster was completely turned over on the Lubbock-Slaton road three miles out of this city Wednesday morning. None of the three occupants were injured, except slightly bruised. The ground was slick, and the car skidded from one side of the road to the other for considerable distance before finally turning completely over righting itself and with little damage other than breaking one fore wheel off, which was in all probability the cause of the wreck.
