

ACTUAL CONSTRUCTION ON BAPTIST CHURCH BUILDING WILL BE STARTED THIS MORNING BY THE CONTRACTOR

With practically all necessary materials now on the ground, actual construction work on the Baptist church on Main street will begin this morning, and as the builders are known throughout the Plains country for the rapidity with which they complete their jobs it will be but a few months until the complete structure will be turned over to the congregation.

The people of the Baptist church have been energetic in raising the necessary funds, and are to be congratulated for taking hold of the work of building the church with the courage they have shown.

Lubbock churches are distinctively Lubbock products. Though there has been a great many days elapsed since the "dougouts" were completed and the separate congregations had planned to build the churches to completion shortly after the builders had finished the first contracts, there is still that enthusiasm that marked their going from the frame structures, and a few more years will see still more completions made.

Rev. Bowen, pastor of the church has been one of the ring leaders in everything of a progressive nature for Lubbock, and his efforts are to be appreciated by the entire population of Lubbock.

Energetic pastors, church buildings second to none in the State and still more building programs being mapped out, compose the church situation in Lubbock at this time.

On Cor. 10th Street and Avenue O. Thru-out this week special prayer services are being conducted at the church at 8:45 each evening. Good Crowds are attending with a splendid interest.

On last evening immediately after the prayer service Tony Q. Dyess, the choir director of the church together with some of Lubbock's best singers spent about one hour in Song Practice, and those present enjoyed some soul inspiring gospel songs.

An Open Air Tabernacle will be used for the night services of the Revival effort during the next two or three weeks beginning Sunday at 11 a. m.

FOUND GUILTY

A number of real men from Lubbock and immediate vicinity were found guilty of actually practicing Friendship, and by their actions expressing sympathy on July 3rd, as they got together and went out to the farm of Mr. G. N. Judd early in the morning and with hoes in proper shape declared war upon the weeds and grass that had accumulated in and among his crop on account of his being hindered therefrom by the serious illness of his little son, Buell, who is in the West Texas Hospital having under gone two operations, and is yet in a serious condition. These Manly Men by their efforts left the crop in such shape as that our unfortunate Friend will have a chance to raise a good crop in case we get rain that is badly needed now.

MANY NATIONS REPRESENTED AT HENLEY, ENG.

By the United Press.
HENLEY-ON-THAMES, Eng. July 4.—Henley royal regatta, England's greatest aquatic festival of the summer season, opened here today with customary brilliance, society folk easily outnumbering the purely sporting fraternity. Aristocratic house-boats lined the river banks, while all the desirable-riverside residences had their fashionable parties. The display of feminine fashions at Henley rivals that at Ascot race meeting.

Apart from the society aspect, Henley attracts the finest oarsmen in the world, and this year's contests had a fine international flavor. For the grand challenge cup, the leading prize for eight-oared boats, there was only one foreign entry, the Christiania Rowing Club of Norway, but for the diamond sculls, virtually the world's amateur championship for single-sculls—there were entries from the United States, Canada, Norway, France and Switzerland.

The American entries were W. M. Hoover of Duluth, who gained an easy victory in the event last year, and Russell E. Goodwin of the Union Boat Club, Boston, Mass. Canada was represented by Hilton A. Bellis of the St. John Boat Club, New Brunswick, Switzerland, by Dr. Dudoiph Bosshard of Zurich; Norway by Henry Lungmann of Christiania, and France by J. P. Stook of the Societe Nautique de la Marne.

The regatta lasts four days, the various events being rowed off in heats daily and the finals being held Saturday.

REPTILES ARE POPULAR IN FIGHTING CIRCLES

KINGSTON, N. C., July 4.—With no state commission or statutes to interfere, and without managers to haggle over terms, "promoters" here are arranging for a series of summer bouts between reptiles caught in this section.

"Arenas" made from screen wire are being set up on the sandy banks of Neuse River, near here. "Snake busters" are combing the swampy places for husky snakes. Cut rates of a quarter a seat have been promised by "promoters." Fans have promised their support.

At Newbern recently the feature attraction of a fair was a battle between a huge rattler and a king snake. Scores attended a recent bout here between a water rattler and a rat. Both lost. The rodent inflicted a fatal bite upon the snake and then died.

Hamilton Wright of W. T. C. of C. Visited Eastern New Mexico

Hamilton Wright, publicity manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, has just completed a tour of Eastern New Mexico in interest of the organization, as that section had been eager to come in for a greater portion of publicity through the Chamber of Commerce due to the fact that there is a large membership there.

Mr. Wright passed through Lubbock enroute to his home at Stamford, and while here made the Avalanche office a very pleasant call.

He stated that farmers of Eastern New Mexico have every reason to be optimistic as crop conditions are especially promising, and livestock is doing well.

Mr. Wright visited Bluit, Portales, Elida, Roswell, Carlsbad and other towns in New Mexico, and is well pleased with the progressiveness of those people.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce bids fair to become a still greater factor for the development of West Texas, and with such men as Mr. Wright engaged in the work assigned the organization, its influence will count for much in bringing new industries, new people and better transportation facilities to this country.

Europe Will Gather Huge Sums From American Tourists

PARIS, July 3 (United News).—Europe, after doing a Rip Van Winkle all spring, has awakened to find that it has a gold mine and that name is America.

According to statistics 300,000 Americans will visit the continent during the present tourist season scattering $150,000,000 behind them.

French commercial experts believe that practically every tourist who comes to Europe will visit France. Those who have watched the tourist come and go for years conclude that each spends on the average of $500 during the visit.

France, those in touch with the situation declare, reaps about one-third the amount spent. Thus Americans will leave $50,000,000 here before the season is over. And, of course, the most of this sum will be spent in Paris.

Parisian merchants each year keep in close touch with the number of ships leaving New York for Europe and, judging from the sailing list, are able to estimate early in the season the number of persons who will patronize them during the course of the year.

Newspapers are now carrying headlines rejoicing in the fact that Americans will drop $50,000,000 in France this year.

If the rate of the anticipated expenditure of Americans this year keeps up for a period of sixty years those from the United States would leave enough money here for France to pay off the debt of approximately $3,090,000,000 she owes America.

SAFE LODGED IN JAIL AFTER FAILURE TO OPEN

PARIS, July 3 (United News).—A Paris safe specialist is mourning the loss of a trip he almost took to the sunny hills of Gascony.

A little Gascon village was preparing to meet its June municipal payroll when the town clerk discovered that his safe could not possibly be opened. After the village locksmith and other local experts had been called unsuccessfully, the Paris firm of safe makers was appealed to.

Just as the expert was about to entrain, however, a letter of cancellation arrived. The town clerk had solved the problem by loading the safe onto a truck, moving it to the local jail, and getting an expert

FRANCE'S FRIENDLINESS TO AMERICA SHOWN IN MANY CELEBRATIONS OF FOURTH OF JULY IN OFFICIAL CIRCLES

By the United Press.

PARIS, July 4.—Franco-American friendship, born a century ago, renewed in the world war and continued since then, despite annoying divergences of opinion regarding world problems, was toasted today in the wines of France in half a dozen official and semi-official celebrations of the Fourth.

It received official consecration in the inauguration in the Place des Etats Unis (United States Square) of the monument erected by French subscriptions to the memory of the gallant American volunteers who faced death on the battlefields of France before the United States entered the war.

Forty to fifty thousand visitors from over the ocean, here to enjoy what they still call "Gay Paree," might have believed themselves in any old Main street of America today, except for the fact that they could see on the terrace of a cafe on the said Main street and drink real liquor while at the same time watching the stately banner float from government buildings, hotels and private homes.

National holidays of other countries come and go in Paris like French feast days, without exciting more than passing interest, but America's "Fourth" always awakens a responsive chord in the French heart.

Ambassador Herrick delivered an address at the unveiling of the statue to American volunteers. The bronze figure, surmounting the memorial, which is the work of the sculptor Jean Boucher and was shown in the recent salon, represents an American soldier calling to his compatriots to come over the sea to join him. The sculptor modeled the face from photographs of Alan Seeger, the young poet-soldier of the Foreign Legion, who gave his life "at midnight in a flaming town," on July 4, 1918, at Belleau-en-Santerre. The committee in charge of the collections of subscriptions included President Millerand, Premier Poincare, Marshals Joffre, Foch and Petain and dozens of their political and military notables.

Several hundred representatives of the American business world will attend the annual banquet of the American Chamber of Commerce in the Hotel d'Orsay. Then, the official festivities having been concluded, the "day we celebrate" will be changed into the nights and early morn of Montmartre.

American Fleet Is Anchored And Idle In Hog Island Basin

By the United Press.

HOG ISLAND, Pa., July 3.—In the great wet basin here 102 vessels, once America's war-time merchant fleet, lie at anchor or are tied to docks.

The fleet is for sale, with no buyers because of the waning in American ocean commerce. Meanwhile the ships are slowly rusting to death. Smoke-stacks are streaked with rust and the paint is fading fast.

Little work would be required, however, to make the fleet thrab with life. Perfect engines lie in the holds of the ships. A little paint, fuel in the bunkers, and a general "touching up" is all that is needed to put the vessels into sea-going shape.

In the midst of the American fleet lie three German vessels, the Von Steuben, that was once owned by Crown Prince Wilhelm; the Nansmond and the Mercury. These three were seized by the government during the war.

The best of attention is given to the idle fleet. A force of 250 men take care of the ships and five vessels are used as "mother ships."

Kansas City Board Speedway Scene Of Races July Fourth

By the United Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 4.—Fourteen of the world's fastest cars, piloted by championship drivers, lined the board speedway here today for the annual 250-mile championship race.

The board oval was pronounced in record shape after several trial circuits by several veteran drivers. The track was smoothed out and made lightning fast, as well as safe for record racing, following several preliminary tests.

Tommy Milton with his H. C. S. Special, which he drove to victory at the Indianapolis speedway Memorial Day, skirted the oval yesterday averaging well below 40 seconds each round. He predicts that he will make better speed today than he did on the brick circuit at Indianapolis.

Jimmy Murphy, in his Durant Special, after speeding around the board oval, in his last trial circuit, pronounced the track in better condition than a year ago, and predicted a faster time would be made by the winner than was set at Indianapolis.

Earl Cooper, with a Durant Special, and Leon Duray, driving a Duray Special, were on the scene early, warming up for the big class with his Elliott Special.

Speedway officials estimated that at least 50,000 spectators would be in the grandstands at the startoff this afternoon.

Purses for the winners will total $25,000.

HUBBERS COP FIRST HALF PENANT HONORS

SANDERS TOO MUCH FOR CUBS ALLOWING ONLY THREE HITS IN FIRST GAME FOR 3 TO 0 WIN

Hitting Of Shepard Starts Counting For Locals In Opening Session—Costly Errors Dot Contest

Following the spectacular comeback of the Hubbers on their last road trip when they downed the league leading Amarillo Gasers for six out of seven games, by virtue of which they took the lead in the race for the honors in the first half of the season, finished in the last contest of the semi-seasonal chase 3 to 0, making it two straight from the Cubs.

Sanders had the visitors at his mercy all the way, giving up only three safeties in the initial matinee bill, and at no time of the affair was in any danger. Double plays on the part of his team mates twice sent the visiting base runners scurrying to their doghouse, and made short work of the contest. The eighth inning was the only session in which it looked as though the visitors would save themselves a shutout. Opening the frame, Routh, singled, but was doubled at second when Rattiffe drove what would have been a hit over short, but was fielded by Jackson who chopped Routh at second. Clary then doubled to centerfield, and on the attempt to make the plate, Rattiffe was thrown out Brown to Shepard to Allen.

The Hubbers started counting in the first session when after Jackson had filed out to center, Shepard drove one through the box which rolled through a wicket by Tucker in center, and to the fence, on which Shepard scored.

Again in the third Shepard started a rally when he drove one through to the left field fence for three bases, and scored on Sloan's bunt. Sloan being safe when Rattiffe dropped the ball, and took third on an overthrow of first from catcher, Shaw. Brown then drove a long one to center for a sacrifice, scoring Sloan.

Rattiffe pitched excellent ball, allowing only six safeties, but they came at times when hits meant runs, and coupled with errors on the part of his team mates, were costly.

The second affair was a hectic exhibition, with File having a little the best of the pitching honors, holding the Hubbers to four bingles. Sanders went all the way for both contests, and although giving up only six hits in the second, long hits for extra bases and errors on the part of his team mates counted against him, giving the Cubs the opening game of the second half 6 to 4.

When You Visit Other Towns Let The People Know Where You Are From, Carry A Lubbock Badge

Many folks from Lubbock are going to spend the day at some of the surrounding South Plains towns and take part in their various celebrations, barbecues and other entertainments. If you are one of these come by the Chamber of Commerce office before you leave town and get a Lubbock ribbon to wear. Let us have Lubbock officially represented with a large delegation at each of these celebrations.

Then when you get there—hunt up the officials of the day—meet them, tell them that you are from Lubbock and that a bunch of Lubbock folks are visiting with them and that we want them to start now planning to come to the South Plains Fair this fall. Make the day one to be remembered for good will, fellowship and neighborly visiting. This section is big enough for all of the towns we have here already and then for about twice this many more. Let's be sociable.

runs into money in a hurry. In order that everybody may have a banner and at the same time that the organization will not go absolutely broke before the summer is over a deposit of 25 cents will be asked on each banner given out which will be refunded when the banner is returned.

We have 500 of these banners and have ordered 250 more—but at the present rate they will last but little more than a month. So let's co-operate to carry the message of Lubbock, "The Hub of the Plains" from one end of America to the other—and without breaking anybody while we do it. Get your banner and come for your banner before you leave Lubbock for a trip of anything more than 250 miles.

Battling Siki Is An Annoyance Is Not Popular

By the United Press.

PARIS, July 4.—Battling Siki, who came out of the jungle to make pugilistic history, is proving a white elephant to Paris. The capital would like to rid itself of the Senegalese but doesn't know how to proceed.

The chief complaint against Siki is that he plays too rough. He has, perhaps left as much destruction in his wake as several squads of Germans had they been turned loose in Paris during the war.

One of the pugilists favorite stunts is to walk into a cafe, and after having had many drinks of liquor, throwing the fixtures into the street. And if the proprietor doesn't like it, out he goes, too. Of course Siki settles later but it rather annoys the cafe keepers and the patrons. There is always a certain tension during the night and early morning among the patrons and proprietors of the "big cafes" along the boulevards. The fear that the "wild man from Senegal" may enter overshadows all.

Then again, there is much displeasure here because of the company that the conqueror of George Carpentier keeps. He has such gentle playmates as lion cubs, black snakes and others of his home-town folks from the jungle.

One can never tell when Siki will come, strolling along the boulevards with a long snake twined about him. Sometimes the snake will pass the time of the day to passersby by hissing at them and at others will snap at them gently, meaning no harm. Siki was recently arrested for parading this part of his zoo.

A lion cub, however, seems to be his favorite. Siki was taking his pet out for a stroll recently when it became so playfully that it broke the arm of a workman, who was on his way to earn an honest living. Then Siki begged the man's pardon, and said "Come on, nice lion," and off they scampered.

Paris hopes that Siki will not bring out the remainder of the jungle but is not very optimistic about it.

When the Senegalese enters the Siki has changed a time-honored custom of the ring. Before he came to Paris, French fighters kissed each other before and after

The real reason for buying Columbias —they last longer

The largest laboratory, devoted to dry cell research, experiments continuously to make them "last longer." Columbia Hot Shot or Columbia Ignitors are "right" for your needs. That's why people have the habit of asking for Columbias.

Columbia Dry Batteries for all purposes are sold by hardware and general stores, electrical and auto supply shops, garages and implement dealers.

Avoid Petty Jealousies and Catty Comments

In your relations with any other town on the South Plains—or in West Texas—remember that they are just the same sort of folks as our own town is made of. They are good sports, wide awake Westerners, and most of them really wish down inside of them that they lived in Lubbock—but don't hurt their feelings by calling attention to their misfortune in not being able to do so yet. If things unpleasant arise—as they always will regardless of the town when thousands of folks are thrown together—remember that we have a few folks even here who might be just as bad. Keep your head and remember that Lubbock's standing with all of her neighbors depends largely upon the attitude you take toward that town and the folks of that town.

In short you are more than just an individual visiting a fair, a celebration or a barbecue. You are an official representative from Lubbock paying an official call upon the town you are in, and so act and speak and treat the folks you meet as you would want to be treated if they were visiting in our town. These affairs offer exceptional opportunities for the development of closer inter-city co-operation and understanding. Let's build up a Plains spirit between all of the Plains towns that will be the marvel of the southwest and develop our entire section of the state in a way that has never been approached before. Whatever we do, wherever we go—let's be human and friendly.

Lubbock Banners for Your Cars

The Lubbock banners for the back of automobiles are in such demand that unless some provision is made for their return the cost is going to run into a figure that is prohibitive. More than 25 were called for Tuesday and the average day is running from five to fifteen. This

DES MOINES MAY ENTERTAIN THIRTY THOUSAND DELEGATES TO CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONVENTION JULY 4 TO 9

WANTS REFORMS IN CHURCH SINGING
By United Press.
DES MOINES, Ia., July 4.—Some church refrains may find themselves persons non grata, if Prof. H. Augustine Smith of Boston University succeeds in his crusade at the International Christian Endeavor convention beginning here today.

By the United Press.
DES MOINES, Ia., July 4.—With 15,000 visitors expected and provisions made for housing 30,000 if the need should arise, Des Moines today saw the opening of one of the greatest religious events of the year—the 29th international Christian Endeavor convention, which will last through July 9.

Law enforcement, world peace, religious education, and evangelistic subjects are scheduled to be discussed by a group of such famous public men as William Jennings Bryan, William G. McAdoe, James J. Davis, secretary of labor, Sherwood Eddy, Gipsy Smith, President Francis E. Clark of the Christian Endeavor International organization, and Sir Lionel Fletcher, special missionary of the New Life Campaign.

Secretary Davis will speak on "Christian Endeavor and the Home" Thursday afternoon, July 5. President Clark and Sir Lionel Fletcher are scheduled to give their addresses Thursday night. McAdoe and Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, will speak Friday afternoon. Wheeler is talking on "Christian Endeavor and Law Enforcement" and the former secretary of treasury discussing "Christian Endeavor and American Citizenship."

Dr. Ira Landrith and Dr. John Timothy Stone, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church of Chicago, are the speakers for Friday night. Saturday afternoon Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, will speak on "Christian Endeavor and World Peace." Hugh S. McGill, general secretary of the International Sunday School Council of Religious Education, will also give an address.

Accompanied by bands and guards State delegations, in costume, and representatives of foreign countries, in native dress will march in a spectacular parade Saturday night. One of the features of the convention will be a Temple of Fine Arts, housed in a leading downtown church. It will be in charge of Prof. H. Augustine-Smith of Boston University, who will have on display during the session 500 famous prints.

Guides will conduct visitors thru the art galleries. Prof. Smith has been in Des Moines to direct rehearsals for a pageant of 500 participants and a chorus of 500 which will take part in the fine arts program.

At the opening session today representatives from the Kentucky State Reformatory Society of Christian Endeavor, will present President Clark, the founder of the organization, with a convention gavel. Simultaneous State and sectional conventions and rallies will precede the closing session on Monday night. Fifteen platforms have been built

In the downtown streets to accommodate the huge street meetings which will be features of the convention program.

ENGLAND HAS NO CLOSING LAW BUT SALOONS ARE CLOSED EARLY

By the United Press.
LONDON, July 4.—The vanguard of the summer army of American tourists is already here. And its thirsty members are already discovering that England, while laughing at prohibition, has something so much like it that the Yankee prefers to some extent the American kind.

The name of the dread peril is the Early Closing Law. It came into being in war-time under D. O. R. A., the famous and widely hated Defense of the Balm Act. It is a law by which saloons, or "pubs" as they are known here, have to shut their doors at specified hours. In some parts of London you cannot get a drink after 10:30 p. m. All saloons are closed.

But the town is divided into sections, and in some of these drinks can be had up to 11 p. m. So evicted from a 10:30 p. m. pub, all the American has to do is to walk to an 11 o'clock p. m. zone and drink for another half hour. After that however, all is gloom. There just isn't "a drink to be had."

At 10:59 the party is warning up on Scotch and Soda. The bar girl smiles gaily. All is joy. The clock ticks a couple, and lo—the bar girl is putting the oil cloth cover over the beer pump, and turning out the lights. Once in the sad and foggy street, the American discovers that, superficially at least, all London goes to bed early. By 11:15 darkness has descended on the erstwhile gay piccadilly. Fog veils the statue of Cupid in the central fountain. Few wayfarers are in sight. London bobbies are busily rolling up the sidewalks, and putting them away for the night.

Dazed, broken, shattered, the Yankee reels back to his hotel, ascends to his room, writes and demands liquid nutriment. "Sorry Sir," says the waiter, "but we don't serve drinks, no, not even in rooms, sir, after 11 o'clock. It's the law sir, don't you know?"

Tips are of no avail. Hootch just can't be had. But if the waiter is a kindly and sympathetic soul he will whisper words of advice, and the stranger will start out in search of a night club.

These famous "London Night Clubs" are also an outgrowth of the war, and war-time prohibition. The law is strict, you see about selling liquor after 11 o'clock. But the law does not say anything about private clubs giving away free drinks to their members.

Therefore you see out some club pay $2 membership due, dance and drink. But if you don't tip the waiter just about the price of what each drink would have cost, and a little more, you become disliked. There is a wide-spread belief that the English are a cold, silent, unemotional race. A visit to the gay night clubs soon dispels this. The theory about their being cautious and a conservative crew disappears before a trip to one of the gambling casinos that lie in the aristocratic by-streets of Belgravia behind Buckingham Palace.

High stakes, fast play and hard drinking mark these carnivals. But the American tourist must investigate a bit before he gets acquainted with the inside life of the town. If he limits his visits to the range of Strand Hotels where most Americans stop in London he will decide that most Englishmen go to bed at 9 o'clock and that a few merry revellers manage to prop their eyes open until 11. Which is far from true.
