HARDING ATTACKED FOR SPEECH

SECRETARY WEEKS TAKES ISSUE WITH PRESIDENT ON STATEMENT GOVERNING USE FEDERAL TAXES

Attacks President's Statement That Eighty-Five Per Cent Of Taxes Used To Pay Costs Of War

By the United Press. WASHINGTON, July 14.—A delicate and apparently strained question in the Harding Cabinet came to light tonight when it was learned authoritatively that Secretary Weeks had taken a direct issue with the President in connection with a speech delivered by him at Salt Lake recently when he made the statement that eighty-five per cent of the taxes now being collected by the Federal Government, were being used for the payment of the costs of the war.

Secretary Weeks is said to have regarded the statement as a repudiation by the Chief Executive of his stand with War Department on this question. The Secretary is reported to have telegraphed President Harding, pointing out that the statement of the President was not borne out by the figures in the budget.

The Army and Naval Journal has bitterly attacked the President for his speeches, saying that he "made a contribution to pacifist propaganda, and repudiated the Secretary of War."

CHILDRESS WILL HAVE RACES AT FAIR THIS FALL

Special to the Avalanche. CHILDRESS, July 13.—Horse racing and motor speed bursts will be features at the Childress State Fair this year, according to Jerry Debeport, secretary. Word has been received from two or three racing men that they are preparing to ship several strings of racers to the fair early in August.

AUSTIN ENTERS FIGHT ON BLUE LAW QUESTION

PROPOSERS THREATENED WITH SUIT FOR VIOLATION OF ANTI-TRUST

By the United Press. AUSTIN, July 14.—Business men of this city who have entered a combine to make Austin a "Blue Sunday" received a shock today when they were informed that they enter such a pact might result in the filing of suits against them for violation of the anti-trust laws.

Following a conference with the Attorney General, several restaurant owners and others who had previously stated that they would close, announced that they would open tomorrow.

day question opened last Friday when an effort was made to induce all drug stores and cafes to close, and nearly all had agreed to the movement until informed of the ruling of the Attorney General.

The movement has been termed in this city as the "village squabble."

MORE THAN A HUNDRED WITNESSES IN PAYNE CASE

Special to the Avalanche. CANYON, July 14.—One hundred witnesses have been summoned to appear in district court in Canyon August 13th to testify in the case of the State of Texas vs. D. L. Payne, charged with the killing of J. S. Swears and Maude Rippey in Crosbyton a few months ago.

There are two counts against Payne, one each in the charge of killing each of the two men. The case was transferred to Randall county from Crosby county when the indictments were returned by the grand jury in that county.

STATEWIDE CONFERENCE OF EDUCATION AT WACO

AUSTIN, July 14.—Plans for a statewide conference on education, to be held at Waco during the third week in August, were completed at a meeting tonight of President S. C. Welson of the State Teachers' Association, with state superintendent of education, S. M. N. Marrs, and representatives of the University of Texas and the A. and M. College.

The state survey of Texas' educational institutions, authorized by the legislature this year, will be started at the Waco meeting, it was announced, the meeting having been postponed from the original date which was set for this week.

ARRESTS BE MADE SOON IN LANGE MURDER CASE

By the United Press. HOUSTON, July 14.—The evidence is being gathered rapidly in the Lange murder case at Comerville, and it is thought that it will lead to the arrest in the very near future of the ones responsible for the slaying, Acting Governor T. W. Davidson announced on his arrival here today.

In discussing the Bonerville speech which he delivered yesterday before a large picnic crowd at Somerville, the executive said that such a campaign as he outlined there meant that each individual case of lawlessness in the entire state would be sifted to the bottom and the guilty persons brought to justice.

BOOK CO. NOT TO FILE NEW HEARING APPLICATION

RECENT ACTION OF COURT CONSIDERED FAVORABLE BY ATTORNEYS

By the United Press. AUSTIN, July 14.—The attorneys for the American Book Co. will not file a motion for a re-hearing in the application of the company for a mandamus writ which was denied recently by the Supreme court.

The time for the filing of the motion for the application for the hearing expires next Sunday night. The question of passing upon the contracts of the textbook commission by the State Board of Education also expires at the same time.

Attorneys here take the action as meaning that the book company considers the action of the Supreme Court as favorable.

YOUTHS SEEK INJUNCTION AGAINST INCREASE IN CITY DOG TAX

By the United Press. KANSAS CITY, July 14.—Nine-teen youngsters, all owners of dogs, have sought an injunction against the city officials of Kansas City, Kansas, to prevent the enforcement of the increase in the municipal dog tax. In their petition, the youths charge that the new ordinance is "unjust and unfair."

A parade of the dogs and youthful masters will be held next week, in an effort to enlist popular sentiment against the measure, it was announced.

SIXTY DIE AS RESULT OF HEAT IN HOLLAND

By the United Press. AMSTERDAM, July 14.—Sixty persons have died in the country of Holland the week just passed as a result of the extreme heat, the temperatures throughout Europe having been at an average of 92 degrees.

Reports coming from London say that they are suffering the hottest weather which has been experienced there in the past twelve years, with the temperature standing at '95. Paris also is suffering in the awful heat, several deaths being reported from several sections of France.

TRAVELING MEN OF LUBBOCK TERRITORY MEET AND DECIDE TO GIVE BANQUET TO C. OF C. SAT. AUG. 4TH.

The traveling men who live in Lubbock and work Lubbock territory met on the court house lawn last night at 8:30 and discussed plans for a banquet to be given to the Chamber of Commerce of Lubbock.

W. E. Lyle was unanimously elected chairman of the committees and the following committees were appointed: committee on eats H. B. Davis Jr. and O. E. Dillard; committee on location, H. A. The following resolutions were adopted: "We the traveling salesmen of Lubbock and Lubbock territory do here and now resolve to give a banquet to the Senior Chamber of Commerce of Lubbock on the evening of August 4th, 1923, the same being the first Saturday in August. Time and place to be decided upon by committees duly nominated and elected. We the traveling men of Lubbock and Lubbock territory stage this banquet for the Senior Chamber of Commerce to show our appreciation for what the Chamber of Commerce has done for the traveling men who live in Lubbock and make Lubbock territory."

Every traveling man living in Lubbock or making Lubbock territory regardless of whether you are a city salesman or make the entire state are requested to sign the roster. You will find one at the

BANKER SUED FOR SLANDER FOLLOWING DIVORCE COURT CLIMAX

By the United Press. CHICAGO, July 14.—W. E. D. Stokes, a wealthy New York banker, has been sued for fifty thousand dollars damage, by Harold C. Billing, Jr., a real estate dealer, who alleges that he was slandered during the process of the Stokes divorce suit.

Attorneys declared that Billing was named correspondent in the case with twenty-two other men, including Stokes' own son, Mrs. Stokes produced witnesses in the case refuting the charge that a nurse had seen Billing kiss Mrs. Stokes and the court held that the testimony was not conclusive.

POSTOFFICE MOVED AFTER TWENTY-FOUR YEARS SIT

RICHLAND SPRINGS, July 10.—During the past week the postoffice building which has occupied the same plot of ground for the last 24 years was moved to another site to make way a lot for a new oil filling station proposed for erection by Arhelger and Mays of San Saba.

DEMOCRATS OPPOSE SMITH ELECTION

By the United Press. CHICAGO, July 14.—The powerful Democratic leaders of the Midwest West apparently have declined to participate in the conference at French Lick, Indiana, which is designed to obtain the nomination of Governor Al Smith of New York, as the nominee of the Democratic party for president in the 1924 election.

Charles Murphy Tamany, leader of the conference in French Lick is endeavoring to line up Tom Laggart the Indiana boss, for Al Smith. However, Western Democrats are opposed to the wet candidate, and the conference which is to open soon may be cancelled.

CONCLUSION IN LANGE CASE REACHED

By the United Press. AUSTIN, July 14.—Information which might lead to definite developments in connection with the case of Ott Lange at Somerville, in the hands of Acting Governor Davidson, it was learned today.

The Executive gave out this information this afternoon, and stated that he had formed a definite conclusion in the matter, but declined to make public his version of the situation.

COLORADO GARAGE AND 11 CARS BURNED SAT.

COLORADO, Texas, July 13.—The building owned and occupied by Degarmo & Sons, on East Second street, as a garage and accessory supply store, together with the stock and eleven automobiles was completely destroyed by fire at an early hour this morning.

The building and accessory stock were valued at $11,000 and the automobiles at $5,000. The loss is partly covered by insurance. Origin of the fire is unknown. It is believed to have started from a short in one of the stored cars.

The entire building was a mass of flames before the fire department arrived. The firemen fought for an hour in keeping the fire confined to the Degarmo building. The one story frame building immediately across the alley was threatened. Nothing was saved from the burned building.

Clean-Up Campaign Committee Of The Kiwanis Club Pleased With The Results Obtained By The Members Work Friday

Claud B. Hurlbut, committee chairman for the Kiwanis Club in the Clean-up Campaign, which was observed Friday afternoon, with a few exceptions, announced Saturday morning that the members assigned blocks to be cleaned in the campaign had responded loyally, and that though some of the blocks have not as yet been cleaned, the owners have been notified what is expected of them and will doubtless assist in the clean-up campaign.

Lubbock people are to be congratulated upon the splendid civic organizations that are here, and we are proud of the good work that is being done by the Kiwanians.

The clean-up campaign committee has been very energetic, and deserves no little credit for the good work that was done by the Kiwanians. Of course the members of that club didn't have to be coaxed into the work—fact of the business is they were glad for the opportunity to join in the good work, but the little organization that was put into motion thru the committee was effective, and made every effort count for the most.

Lubbock just naturally can't keep from being a good town.

GUS LEE, THE NEGRO COOK COMING TO REUNION

Special to the Avalanche.

CANYON, July 14.—Gus Lee, the negro cook, will attend the T-Anchor reunion to be held at the old headquarters north of Canyon on August 23rd.

Gus was cook on the ranch in the early 80's and was a great favorite among the boys who worked there in those days.

He attended the reunion at Hereford last year, and presided over the dinner that was served from the chuck wagon in true cow puncher style. The old cow hands declared that not since the days of the T-Anchor ranch had they tasted such eats as were served last year by Gus Lee, assisted by John Turner.

Mr. Turner had some of the old cooling utensils that he had used on the T-Anchor ranch in the early 80's and these will again be brought into use at the reunion next month.

A Great Big River to Cross

Dispute Over Languages Threatens Split In Belgium

NEW YORK, July 14 (United Press).—Disruption of Belgium, like the disruption of Austro-Hungary threatened by a violent outbreak of language hostility between the Walloon and Flemish populations. The split is so grave that Belgium is becoming a dual kingdom, divided by language-loyalty to France by one-half of the population and language-loyalty to the Teutonic races by the other half.

The break in Ireland between the southern and northern countries is being used by many Belgians as an argument for splitting Belgium into two areas, each professing loyalty to a single monarch, but otherwise independent. The Flemish population of Belgium speak a language closely akin to Dutch. The Walloons speak French. French also is the language of all Belgian intellectuals, while Flemish is a provincial tongue, and is not in common use among the Flemish intellectuals themselves.

The sharp division of culture and agriculture between the partisans of the Flemish and the Walloon languages has increased the tension. The Flemish population declare an effort is being made to subordinate them as inferiors, to the self-patronizing Walloons.

Another grave complication is the fact that during the war, while the Germans occupied Belgium, they encouraged the Flemish people by every possible means. In return, German propaganda among the Flemish soldiers at the front was successful in many instances, though carefully concealed by the allies at the time. To the charge of disloyalty made against some of the Flemish pro-Germans, the answer is returned that the Walloons didn't do their military duty and left the Flemish troops to do most of the fighting.

There is just enough truth in this charge to make it hurt, for the Walloon area of Belgium was first overrun by the Germans, preventing the retreat of large numbers of the Walloon area of Belgium was first people to get away.

The Flemish language partisans are now demanding that the curriculum of Ghent University be made Flemish. They declare that large numbers of Flemish people do not understand French and are kept from a higher education by the fact that all of the Belgian universities teach only in French. Ghent is the center of the Flemish area and it is declared that one-half of the Belgian population is entitled to control at least one of Belgium's four higher institutions of learning.

The Walloons assert it would be fatal to scholarship to make Flemish the language of a great university. Flemish isn't of value to research or intellectual development. Another language is absolutely necessary for greater educational growth.

The Walloons assert it would be fatal to scholarship to make Flemish the language of a great university. Flemish isn't of value to research or intellectual development. Another language is absolutely necessary for greater educational growth.

The Flemish are answering that purity complex represents the super-Whites are suffering. They declare they will not accept an inferior position for themselves or their culture. So strongly do they feel slight put upon them by the intellectuals that the Ghent university questions threatens to become the gravest domestic question since Belgium became independent in 1831.

Wood Building for U. of T. Chemistry Is to Be Built Soon

DALLAS, July 14.—To relieve in some measure the congestion which has followed the phenomenal growth in attendance at Southern Methodist University, work will begin within the month on a temporary wooden building to house the department of chemistry. During the last year more than 2,000 students were registered at S. M. U., and if the rate of growth averaged since the establishment of the school eight years ago is maintained, the University authorities anticipate an addition of 200 or 300 next year.

Dr. Charles C. Seckman, president of the University, in announcing the appropriation of $7,000 by the executive committee for building a temporary structure, emphasized that its erection will in no way interfere with the plans for the Hyer Hall of Science.

"This step should," he said, "make plain how genuine our need for the help of those friends who could enable us to realize our ambition for a permanent building adequate to care for that group in our swiftly growing student body who are pursuing the study of the sciences. It is too bad that we are not able to proceed with the permanent building, but we had to provide for the immediate necessity. We hope we may be able to build Hyer Hall within the next two years at least. Within that time the capacity for the temporary structure will be surpassed."

The chemistry shack will correspond in size to the one now housing the Business Administration and Journalism courses. It will be 50 by 100 feet and will be located either north or west of the Business shack. Dr. E. O. Heuse, head of the chemistry department, has drawn up the plans providing for three laboratories, two class rooms, a store room and office in the new building.

Dr. Heuse was forced to turn away 30 students last year, his facilities enabling him to care for only the pre-medical, Home Economie and chemistry major students. The appropriation of $7,000 includes $2,500 for new equipment, and Dr. Heuse estimates that he will be able to accommodate 200. Moving the chemistry department from the Dallas Hall where it now occupies four rooms, will release enough space to increase by 20 more classes the total class room capacity of the University. Even with this addition, there will remain in the fall schedule 20 classes unprovided with proper space, according to those in charge.

Baptists Announce Strong Program for Assembly on July 24

A strong program has been provided this year for the Panhandle Baptist Assembly, which meets at the assembly grounds in Ceta Canyon, southwest of Canyon, July 24 to August 1.

Dr. John L. Hill of Nashville will speak throughout the assembly and teach a class. Dr. W. T. Rouse of Abilene will preach each evening the first week. Rev. Jeff Davis of Abilene will be the evangelistic preacher, and also teach a fine book "Training in the Baptist Spirit." Dr. J. M. Price of the Southwestern Seminary will lecture each morning on the Vacation Bible School and preach on Sunday. Our State Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. Secretaries, Phillips and Gardner, will give addresses and teach classes respectively on "Building a Standard Sunday School" and "B. Y. P. U. subjects." President J. D. Sandefer will give two addresses. Four classes in the Sunday School Study Course will be taught, and five in the B. Y. P. U., and two or three in the W. M. U. For detailed information ask your pastor to let you see the program book. Prof. J. J. McCasland is recreation leader and with the help of a social committee will see to it that the campers have tennis and ball games and all kinds of good times together. The afternoons of each day except Sunday are given over to recreational and social fellowship. Miss Alline Ballard will entertain the children each morning in the story hour and with the hand work used in vacation schools. Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Blankenship, gospel singers, will lead the singing and have a big chorus, using all the talent present in special songs. Sunday will be a great day for worship, with a full program. Price, Hall and Davis will preach. Let's come and camp all the time. Pray for the assembly that many souls may be saved and many surrendered for service. E. D. MORGAN, Program Committee.

SWEETWATER MAN TAKES MANAGEMENT OF LINDSEY

Henry Rogers, manager of the R. & R. Enterprises in Sweetwater since August, 1920, leaves for Lubbock Thursday evening. Mr. Rogers will take charge of the R. & R. Lindsey Theater there, and will make his home in that city. Prior to Mr. Rogers' affiliation with the R. & R. Enterprises, he was with the Orient Railroad, coming to Sweetwater in 1905.

He is a member of the Masonic Lodge and Royal Arch Chapter. He leaves many friends in Sweetwater.

E. H. Rowley, member of the firm, R. & R. Enterprises, will arrive in Sweetwater Saturday to take charge of the local theaters. —Sweetwater Reporter.

PROSPECTS ARE GOOD SAYS MONROE FARMER

Chas Vaughn, one of the progressive Lubbock county farmers whose home is near Monroe, was here Saturday looking after business.

Mr. Vaughn is well pleased with prospects, and is looking forward to a bumper harvest this fall. "I don't know whether we could base predictions upon the conditions of the crop last year or not with any degree of success, but if conditions now as compared with this time last year have anything to do with the final acreage production, we might look forward to a big cotton crop," Mr. Vaughn said.

Many are taking advantage of the warm weather to watch those who leave their shades up.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING A BUSINESS POLICY

Aaron Sapiro in Southern Farmer

The average money income of the million or more cotton farmers of the South for the five years ending in 1920 was about $320 a year. The average income of the tobacco farmer was less than $400 a year, of which about $240 came from tobacco and the rest from truck raised up on the average farm. How would you like to support a family of five upon that?

And that is not the question that you are to be chiefly interested in here. How do you expect to sell goods in a strictly agricultural section of the United States where the average income is as small as that? And the Southern farmer, while he is the poorest of the lot, is not the only poor farmers in America. All the farmers, except those that have been lifted out of the slough by correct co-operative marketing already, are comparatively poor.

There are wealthy farmers, but in practically every instance it will be found that they have made their money, not from farming, but in some other field of business, or over a long period of years, not because of any increased prosperity in the farming industry, but because of the industrial transportation development of nearby communities.

On the whole, as I have said before, the average standard of living for the farmer is 20 years behind the times. If you want to know the greatest benefit of co-operative marketing to you, the consumer of farm products, then stop long enough to reverse the attitude of regarding yourself strictly as a consumer. You are also a producer, and the farmer to you is your consumer—nearly 50 per cent of your consumers in these United States.

Farmers' One Hope.

Co-operative marketing, which, as I have shown, takes nothing from your own welfare, is the only thing that can improve the material prosperity of the farmer and make him a worth-while consumer for your goods.

Here is another thing to be considered. The principal export commodities of this country are agricultural commodities. This is especially true of the great staples. Cotton is far and away the leading export product of the United States. This means that the increase in the producer's return, which he will receive thru co-operative marketing, does not come solely from this country, but from the ends of the earth. And since the only thing that the farmer can do with his money is to spend it, that increase in return is poured out over the whole United States, which includes you, in a golden flood. Surely, this is simple enough a proposition to require no further explanation or demonstration.

There are other important matters to be considered, however, in this regard. It is not only that co-operative marketing tends to increase the price return on exported agricultural commodities but it tends to increase the export volume of commodities and particularly those commodities which are less frequently sold for export today. The improved processing and other merchandising methods that are the necessary accompaniment of co-operative marketing appeal to the foreign consumer as well as the consumer at home. Some of your modern co-operatives do extensive foreign advertising and are steadily building up a large foreign market.

for themselves. They succeed in doing this often even where there is an extensive and cheaper foreign supply, thru the superiority of the product which they put out. As I have pointed out before the present agricultural prosperity of Denmark is due to the ability which the Danish co-operatives have given the Danish farmers to compete with his product in the markets of the outside world.

Farming in Dixie.

And again, you, as a manufacturer, as a merchant, as a worker in one field or another, if you are a progressive citizen and a sincere contributor to civilization and progress, are interested not only in the money return to you at the moment, from the field of work that you live and are engaged in, but are interested in the development of new opportunities for the extension of your own lines of endeavor. The agricultural prosperity of an agricultural section does not mean merely the development of its agriculture but the development of all kinds of commerce within that realm. And there are sections of this country today depending chiefly upon agriculture, and now in abject poverty for that reason, which are capable of development into the garden spots of this earth.

The South, practically crushed by the Civil War, has never really risen from that blow. Those of the North and West do not and can not appreciate this until they have spent the time among the rural districts of the South that it has been my privilege to spend within the past three years. Your far-famed "Dixie" possesses the greatest agricultural possibilities on this earth, and is in addition blessed with practically every other natural resource known to man. Its development into the greatest market of this country awaits only the full development of its agriculture thru successful co-operative marketing.

The Georgia cracker sometimes reveals a sardonic sense of humor. One of them approached by a stranger with whom he designed to carry on a laconic conversation while guiding the footsteps of his only mule thru his cotton patch, was asked: "Tell me, Bill, what do you raise in these parts?"

"Wall," he declared, "just about three crops."

"What are they?"

"Cotton, niggers and hell." Your American farmer is never by nature a "hell-raiser." Down in his heart he is fundamentally the most docile and least radical being on earth. He listens to radicalism, he is comparatively radical in American politics today, and he carries a grouch and a slight tendency to go off after wild leadership, only because heretofore constructive leadership has offered him nothing substantial, and the radical always presents to the untutored mind the more glowing vision of hope, coupled with the larger element of entertainment.

The city man is prone to complain of wild theories regarding money, strange and political nostrums, suspicion and unreason of attitude, and unwillingness to lend himself to constructive remedies, on the part of the farmer in some sections of this country. As a matter of fact, the farmer is less radical and less unapproachable now, considering the state of poverty that he is in, than any other class of American citizenship. This co-operative marketing movement, sound in aim and conservative in method, as well as difficult for the ignorant mind to understand, has, in the very extent of its strides, proved the fact that all that is needed to make the American farmer fit to be the leading citizen, as he should be, of a fundamentally agricultural country such as this, is education, and education can only come after, not before, the prosperity necessary to purchase it.

Salvation of the Farmer.

Many big business leaders, many big statesmen, but not enough realize that in its tendency to destroy the need for radicalism, alone, this co-operative marketing movement among farmers is the real salvation of this country.

It is the real and solid solution of many grave problems, the present congestion of some of our industrial centers, our imagination and our Americanization problems, among them.

We are told that America would welcome a larger percentage than it receives of the Nordic type of immigrant that used to go straight to our farms. We are told that it would welcome other types of immigrants provided that immigration did not as it is alleged to do today, concentrate itself in more or less foreign communities in our great cities, and would be itself to the American farms.

You can accomplish both these things. You can solve our immigration problem if you will once again make the American farm a field for successful endeavor and not merely a lonely gate to ruin.

No man wants to immigrate himself into an industry the fruits of which are a standard of living 20 years behind those of his fellows. No man, who has once tasted good wages, city hours, city pleasures, wants to take himself back to the grueling rural life, when the rural life does not offer a living wage. That is where your congested industrial centers come from. That is why, for the first time in our history, our rural population had become less than our urban population. That is why tenantry is increasing so rapidly upon the American farm, and what is left of our rural population is being pounded down into a class of serfs comparable to that of feudal times.

All World Needs the Farmer.

Goldsmith said it once and for all in his lines that cannot be quoted too often: "A bold peasantry, their country's pride, when once destroyed can never be supplied." I have heard a paraphrase, however, that is also worth thought. It runs: "A bold peasantry, their country's pride, when once aroused will never be defied."

The destruction of the American farmer will not come, because it can not come. The whole world needs him for its food and clothing.

But unless he is to be destroyed something has got to be done, and done immediately, to bring him material prosperity.

Shall it be some wild upheaval that he leads blindly, but in the night of his misery and his wrath? Or shall it be this safe, sane, road to prosperity, destroying nothing, benefitting everybody, of co-operative marketing?

Is it any wonder that my own heart and soul, and that of thousands of other far-seeing American citizens today is wrapped up in the attainment of this goal—safe, sound, powerful—the only great economic advance of our times?

GAS USERS ARE MORE NUMEROUS THAN EVER

DALLAS, Texas, July 14.—Texas gas company officials have just received the call to the fifth annual convention and exhibition of the American Gas Association to be held in Atlantic City, October 15 to 19.

Many interesting exhibits will be on display on the Steel Pier, among them one under the supervision of the newly formed Industrial Gas Section of the association. These will include domestic appliances, water heaters, lighting fixtures, etc. There will also be a model gas kitchen with appliances in actual operation.

The importance of the convention increases each year owing to the expansion of the gas industry. There are approximately 45,000,000 persons in the United States now using gas and the industry is adding new customers at the rate of 350,000 a year. There are now 966 gas utilities in operation in this country and the industry is carrying on a tremendous building program that will call for hundreds of millions of dollars of new capital during the year.

Russian Homes For Children Show Marked Improvement As Americans Raise Standard's

The American Relief Administration is leaving Russia, but it is leaving behind food enough to care for its several million of rescued children for the hungry months between the time of its departure and the harvesting of the great grain crops that are sure to yield Russia food enough to feed its entire population and probably leave a surplus for export.

Incidentally the American Relief Administration is leaving the children's homes, maintained in every Russian city for the waifs and orphans, in a far better condition than it found them. There are sheets and blankets on the beds, supplied by the A. R. A., there are medicines in the medicine closets, and there is soap. It is wonderful what a difference a few tons of soap will make in a children's home, even a Russian children's home, particularly if an inspector drops in occasionally to report on whether or not the soap is being effectively used.

from material contributed by the American Baptists through the A. R. A. In addition to its feeding, the A. R. A. has supplied this particular home with 900 blankets, 650 sheets, 800 pillow cases, 500 children's gowns, 900 yards of muslin, 880 towels, 600 pounds of redliner oil, 2,644 pounds of soap, 1,000 pounds of calcium chlorinate, to say nothing of other disinfectants, first-aid equipment, bandages and medicines. And this is only one of some 15,000 institutions, including hospitals, patients and inmates.

The Baptist revival is going forward in a great way, under the direction of Evangelist P. F. Evans and his helpers. His singer, Brother Joe Conzeneri is one of the greatest evangelistic singers in the South, and his pianist Miss Brooks is equally as great. They are all experts in their line of work. You should not miss this wonderful opportunity of hearing the best music and the greatest messages from God, that you have ever listened to. Come one and all. Let's have the greatest outpouring of the Holy Spirit in a revival, that Lubbock has ever seen. Christians pray and work as you never have before, that God will stir the entire community in this revival. Never, in the history of our nation, was there a time when Christian people needed to awake to their duty, and to righteous living as now. The destiny of our great nation, and of lost souls is in our hands. Return unto me and I will return unto you saith the Lord. That call is still echoing and resounding around the world. Come over into Macedonia and help us. We are drifting away from God as a nation. Oh, that this warning could reach to the uttermost parts of the earth, in tones of thunder. Come to the meeting.

We Want to Talk to Every Prospect Who Plans to Pay More Than $500 for a Car

We want to tell you something about the Studebaker Light-Six Touring Car. Want you to examine it—and to drive it.

Stop in and let us prove what a vast difference there is between the Light-Six and other cars at about the same price—or between the Light-Six and cars of other makes costing several hundred dollars more.

To be able to buy a Six, practically free from vibration, for less than $1,000 is an opportunity not duplicated anywhere in the world. Elimination of vibration adds immeasurably to the life of the motor. It is one of the reasons for the universal high resale value of the Light-Six.

The Touring Car body is all-steel—even to its framework. Seat cushions of genuine leather—are ten inches deep and are placed at the most restful angle.

The one-piece windshield is handsome and practical because it gives unobstructed view of the road ahead and is rain-proof. The quick-action cowd ventilator and the parking lights are but indications of the quality and completeness of the appointments.

No other make of car ever built, by anyone, at any price, represents so great a dollar-for-dollar value as the Light-Six Touring Car. The savings resulting from large volume, complete manufacture and the fact that Studebaker's overhead is shared by three distinct models make possible its low price and high value.

The Light-Six upholds Studebaker's 71-year reputation for honest value.

WILSON'S VIEW OF PAGE

Walter Hines Page, American Ambassador to Great Britain during the World War, has been given a place among the illustrious dead of the ages in Westminster Abbey. On July 3, in the presence of the highest dignitaries of England and the high commissioners of all the great overseas British dominions, a marble tablet commemorating his friendship and sympathy in Great Britain's hour of need was unveiled with impressive ceremony. Though it may be said unreservedly that the tribute was deserved, there were special reasons for the unprecedented honor apart from Mr. Page's great abilities and devotion to the cause of the Allies. Some idea of the nature of these reasons may be gathered from the following statement made by Burton J. Hendrick on page 23, Vol. 11, of his "Life and Letters of Walter H. Page."

"Just why Mr. Wilson did not recall his Ambassador is a question that has puzzled Page's friends. He would sometimes refer to him as 'more British than the British,' as one who had been taken completely captive by British blandishments, but he never came to the point of dismissing him."

"Mr. Page did not become 'more British than the British,' but he became more British than perhaps it was possible for any other American to become during the war years prior to the entry of the United States into the struggle. His letters continually reveal a devotion to British interests as well as to the need of unity of purpose on the part of the two great English-speaking nations. At the same time they reveal a lack of understanding of the American situation and the difficulties confronting President Wilson as he faced not only the politicians influenced by German-American or pro-German constituents, but even the reluctance of the majority of native Americans to be drawn into the war—a reluctance displayed by Theodore Roosevelt in the early stages when he wrote in the Outlook that there was no reason why we should 'jump into the gulf ourselves.' Mr. Page's impatience and his eagerness for his country to get into the war are revealed in his letters innumerable times, although, strange to say, he disclaims any such eagerness on the part of representative Englishmen, asserting that they were merely concerned for America's honor, which required that Germany should be sternly held to her obligations. 'Thank God, we're in,' he exclaimed, when Germany's repudiation of all solemn promises finally forced this country into the war. Meanwhile he was troubled, not by the Wilson administration's difficulties due largely to domestic politics, which he appeared to know nothing about, but by British criticism, his sensitiveness to which seemed to amount to an obsession.

Mr. Page was a man of high purpose and generous impulse, but there were times when he displayed the characteristics of a sort of human chameleon, too readily absorbing the intellectual atmosphere or color of his new surroundings. Even the most intelligent and broad-minded Southerners observed this tendency when he went from North Carolina (where he was born and educated) to New England and became a figure of distinction in the literary life of Boston. A similar exhibition was perhaps even more marked after a year or two of residence in England in troublous times. And so President Wilson, in the midst of his enormous difficulties, deluged with Page letters of suggestion and protest, finally felt moved to remark—exaggerating in his weariness of the grapple with crowding problems—that his Ambassador to the Court of St. James was "more British than the British."

OUR DAILY TASK

On this the Sabbath of the week, we might turn our thoughts from the daily routine of work and think of those things that are for the betterment of our spiritual being. The people of Lubbock are a busy set, in fact we do not know of a place anywhere, that the people are as busy as they are in Lubbock, but we might cease our labors for one day in the week at least and center our thoughts on other things. The Texas Christian advocate recently said that every Christian's every day duty is to be engaged as was the Master—"In going about and doing good." Under such a condition the Christian life can never mean a condition of indolence or idleness. On the contrary it demands the most intense activity and requires the most sustained effort of which we are capable. It expresses itself in such terms as "I have fought a good fight," "I have kept the faith," "I have finished the course," and relates itself to human progress by adhering steadfastly to those principles which bring the largest liberty and the highest freedom. The daily task calls for heroes; it develops heroes. To do real good; to live worthily; to sound the positive note; to know whom we have believed; is no undertaking for one who is merely of the "goody-goody" type. To do the right thing under difficult circumstances calls for heroism, consecration and the exercise of good sound sense. At times, as history records, the pathway of the daily task has ended at the hangman's gibbet or at the martyr's stake.

St. Francis, fo Assisi, in an era of pride of class and made strife for luxury, dared to go to the poor as his little brother; to attend the sick whom no man cared for, and to kiss the lepers on the mouth because they were God's children. Wesley proclaimed holiness to the sodden masses of England. Moses laid down those simple precepts of justice which underlie existing law to this day. And in this very hour no company of people is doing more to keep business sound, politics clean, society decent and justice undefiled, than those who are faithfully trying to fulfill their simple Christian duty of doing good. Genuine goodness, real purity and piety, commands its meet of appreciation and respect. Life takes on richness and fulness in such an atmosphere. The healing of the nations is made possible as the finest talents and richest endowments are invested for the interests of the kingdom of God and the widening reign of Christ in the hearts of men.

ARE WE GOING TO CLEAN-UP LUBBOCK?

It really doesn't look much like it. The progress made Friday was reasonably good, but the amount of ground cleaned up during that day is but a drop in the sea as compared with the number of lots and blocks that are needing cleaning. There are blocks right in this town one could easily get lost in, if they are bigger than they really appear when it comes to co-operating in matters of town beautifying, and town building.

It is the very least thing that a citizen of the town can do to co-operate, especially in a matter of a great importance as the cleaning up of Lubbock is now. Every man or woman who owns a lot in Lubbock should see to it that that lot is cleaned off of weeds, and trash, and that it is put in first class condition. There will be enough rubbish left by the non-resident property owner here without any of the people who live in Lubbock to fall down on the proposition, as it looks like some of them are going to. We hope we are wrong, and that the campaign will continue to gain momentum till every property owner in Lubbock will have done his dead level best to make Lubbock a clean town.

We know of business men, bankers, lawyers, doctors and men of most every known occupation who have lots in Lubbock that have not touched the weeds on them, and some of this property is located on the most prominent corners and streets in the city.

This is not as it should be, and we hope that before the next issue of the Avalanche is in the hands of the readers that all of the property owners of Lubbock, who live here will have their property cleared off.

FORD'S CONTINUING LEAD.

Straw votes a year ahead of national conventions can not be accepted as a dependable forecast, but they may be regarded as interesting indications of how at least a part of the wind is now blowing. The New Republic appeals to a "liberal" element and 80 per cent of its 1000 tabulated voters favor a third party. The others run 263 to McAdoo, 138 to Borah, 136 to La Follette, 122 to Ford and 46 to Harding. Collier's Weekly presumably appeals to the general public, and its 219,734 ballots counted up to recent date were distributed as follows: Ford, 73,724; Harding, 45,596; McAdoo, 17,332; Cox, 14,447; Hiram Johnson, 14,344; Governor Smith, 12,684; Hughes, 12,438. Among the smaller, La Follette is 3,000 behind Hoover but 2,500 ahead of Borah.

Harding leads Ford only in two States, New York and Connecticut, and even in La Follette's home State of Wisconsin Ford ranks first. Ford stands far and away first, Harding second, and McAdoo third—the last named, by the way, being easily first in the Literary Digest's poll of 2000 Democratic national leaders. Collier's poll is virtually a contest between Ford and Harding, with the latter badly beaten. The astonishing fact in connection with the contest of these two is that, while Harding's political views—or their indefiniteness and changeableness—are known, Ford's political views are not known. It is not even known whether he entertains any, and there is opinion that he looks upon political views as he says he looks upon history—as "bunk." Apparently the 73,724 who flooded their ballots upon Collier's do not care a rap about Ford's views or lack of them; they merely want Ford, the man—thus contributing toward one of the most surprising developments in the history of American politics.

TREASURE IN THE LUSITANIA.

We are apt to think of the Lusitania living in her ocean grave as containing only tragic reminders of Germany's atrocity in the form of the bones of such of the victims as were slain outright or were drowned within the ill-fated Cunard liner's walls. But it seems that the Lusitania was actually a treasure ship and that there was great loss when she went down apart from the enormous loss of life deliberately brought about by the German U-boat. It is stated that she carried $5,000,000 in gold and $1,000,000 more in valuables in her strong box—enough to rank her with many a treasure ship that has inspired effort to recover sunken riches. It is surprising, therefore, that eight years should have passed before any such effort was undertaken.

Only now, for the first time, do we read of the departure from Dover, England, of a salvage steamer to undertake the recovery of the Lusitania's gold. It may be that depressed after-war conditions in England have been concerned in the delay, but it is likely that another serious difficulty was the reluctance of divers to venture in among the watery graves of so many murdered innocents. Moreover, the task is apt to be a difficult one, even with the aid of all the appliances of modern invention, testing the power of these as well as the skill and endurance of the divers. Whether successful or not, the progress of so notable an undertaking will excite wide interest, inevitably fixing the world's attention once more upon a deed of savagery unparalleled in the history of modern times.

Shallowater Girl Won Lubbock Co. Clothing Contest Here Saturday; Home Demonstration Agent Is Busy

The winning dress in the Lubbock County Girl's Club Clothing Contest cost exactly $2.10 and was a marvelous piece of work, according to the judge of the contest, Miss Viny Wilkins of Spur. The contest was won by Marie Kincaide in a practical school dress of tan suiting with a darker brown binding as trimmings and an intimated, monogram on the pocket.

The dress was one of the simplest yet most attractive entered and all of the binding, the hems and other fine work was done by hand. It won Miss Kincaide—who by the way is from Shallowater and the second first place winner from that community that is going to get to the Short Course at College Station as a result of their work over an open field of more than 180 club girls in Lubbock County. Miss Goldie Potts from the Canyon community won second place. Miss Potts is also a poultry fancier and was among the winners in the recent poultry contest.

Becton school lead the contest in the number of girls entered the contest. County Federation Of Women's Clubs Pays Expenses. The County Federation is sending the winner in the clothing contest to the State Contest at College Station next week. The Aeff Club Community is feeding the Rotary Club their regular weekly luncheon Wednesday in order to raise the money to send Curtis Grimes a club member from their community who won first place in the recent poultry contest.

Miss Ina Bowles of Shallowater also won a first place in the poultry contest and is going to College Station for the state contest. Each of these winners are not only after the state first place but will be back and strong contenders for first places at the South Plains Fair. Some of the second and third place club members in the recent contests are already working for a place on the fair contest when free trip to the Dallas Fair will be given as premiums to the winners in the different club departments.

Home Demonstration Work Of Great Benefit

Should there happen to be a single man or woman in Lubbock County who is so narrow and prejudiced as to think that Home Demonstration and County Agent work is a waste of time and money they should take pains to attend one of these county contests and see the work that the boys and girls of the county are doing under the direction of the Home Demonstration and County Agents.

In this dressmaking contest the girls had to make a complete school dress together with all of the under clothes that go with a school dress. They had to cut the dress out, sew every stitch in it and wear it in the contest. The dresses shown would have been a credit to the experienced dress maker. The hair work and machine work showed precision and care that has required some careful training and when a dozen or fifteen girls line up in a row, each one of them wearing a complete outfit that they have made for themselves and at an average cost of less than $3.00 per dress—Home Demonstration work has justified itself for ten times what it has cost.

We predict that these winners will make a showing at College Station and that some of the good losers—for they are all taught that a good loser is the biggest part of being a winner in the long run—will make the winner get up and hustle at the Fair if they hope to hold their first places.

Get acquainted with the Home Demonstration Agent for Lubbock County, Miss Mabel Marsh—you may have to stop her on the street as she is rushing thru town from one community to another for she is in demand every day of the week by some community club or group of farm women. She has Saturday as a regular office day in Lubbock and Thursday as office day in Sloan—but it would be a hard problem to more than meet her on these regular days—for Saturday a typical day—there were more than 50 women in her office during the afternoon and everyone talking about something different.

Librarians Report Shows Much Interest Being Taken

If there ever was a doubt in your mind as to whether a Public Library was needed in Lubbock or not you can soon get straight in the matter by reading the June report of the librarian, Mrs. J. J. Smelser. For the month of June 1534 books were taken out of the library—or an average of more than 50 books per day, including Sundays. During the same time a total of 1578 people came to the library to look up some reference in some book, to read a while or to make use of the other facilities of the office—making a total of more than 100 books per day in use for the month.

The total expense of conducting the library, aside from the nominal salary that is paid to the librarian, was exactly $24.75 or less than one cent each for each book used during the month. There are, in Lubbock, 341 paid members who are entitled to take books from the library and 52 members outside of Lubbock. It only costs 50c to become a member of the library association and with more than 7,500 people living in Lubbock the library membership should run over 5,000.

A Few Books Were Donated During The Month

While the number of books donated during the month, seems like a lot of books—still in view of the use that is being made of the library the number is pitifully short of what should be the average for Lubbock. There are in Lubbock more than 10,000 volumes of standard literature that might as well be in the library—or burned up—as far as any use is being made of it in the homes where they are found. Why not dig out another box of books and leave them at the library? They might be worn out but that is better than having them rot out.

The library is one of the coolest, cleanest, most convenient places in Lubbock. It is open from 9 in the morning until 9 o'clock at night. It is for any person in Lubbock County. The County Commissioners in allowing the association to open in the courthouse did a real service to Lubbock County, as is shown by the increasing number of people from the rural communities and other town in the county who are making use of the library.

The entire proposition is run without any profit. Every nickel that can be collected is put right into good books—or paying the very reasonable salary that is paid for the efficient librarian that is not only on the job during office hours but who is ready and anxious to help any visitors select the proper books.

AUSTIN, July 14.—Restaurant operators of Austin have agreed to close their places of business all day Sunday, following action of drug stores and soda fountain owners, it was announced today, as a result of prosecutions for Sunday law violators. Virtually every public eating place will be closed Saturday midnight until Monday morning under the agreement it was stated.

PUBLIC OPINION

LUBBOCK PIONEERS

All the railroads now running into Lubbock were put here by good loyal boosting of the people of Lubbock, and the reward was the upbuilding of a city.

There never was better at together boosting than that which was done by the people of Lubbock in getting the first railroad.

The bonus the people had to promise was indeed large, and was paid, and the wide strip for the road's right of way running through the village was donated by the people. The mass meetings of the people was the power that led to victory. The village population was small, property cheap, and but little wealth. The same concerted action brought the other railroad now running into Lubbock, but the burden upon the people was far less than that of the first road. I don't believe there was ever a heavier burden borne by any people than that which was borne by the people of the village of Lubbock in getting the first railroad.

The bonus that had to be paid, and right of way donation to get the first road was only half of the battle. There were other routes and locations, with more people and wealth than the village of Lubbock, fighting hard for the road. But the village of Lubbock stood firm, lined up behind her fort, the people's mass meetings. Some of those old fighters are still here.

GEO. L. BEATTY, Lubbock, Texas.

P. S.—I forgot there was another fort that helped while the battle was on, the village location, built by the laws of nature.

SENATOR CAPPER HOST TO MANY CHILDREN

By the United Press. TOPEKA, Kansas, July 14.—United States Senator Arthur Capper was host today to thousands of children on the occasion of his fifty-eighth birthday.

Senator Capper leased all the concessions of the Amusement Park here and turned them over to the youngsters, and it is estimated that more than ten thousand children flocked to the park and kept the concessionaires busy the entire day serving the "treats and good wishes" of the veteran Senator.

COTTON OUTLOOK IN HOWARD SAID TO BE SPLENDID

BIG SPRING, Tex., July 14.—Cotton has made good progress during the past two weeks, rain over the entire county the past few days having been of great benefit. With cotton knees high and the fields in good condition with no signs of any pests indications point to a bumper crop.

With an increase of 20,000 acres over last year and with cotton further advanced, prospects are exceedingly good.

When you slap a man on the back and he kicks you in the eye you can see he is sunburned.

GENERAL BLOW-UP LOSES LAST GAME OF GASSER SERIES FOR SWENSON BY 11 TO 2 COUNT

Following a wild spree which was taken by the Hubbers in the second inning of yesterday afternoon's affair, which was started largely by the wide throw of Skipper Allen to third, spotting the visitors to three runs, Swenson eased up on the mound, and was pounded hard to every corner of the lot for sixteen hits, and a total of eleven runs, giving the Gassers the last home game of the Hubbers for this series and series ever.

Swenson was going good in the first two innings, and seemingly had everything with him but weakened following the second, which opened with Pirmore being hit for a base. He advanced on Farley's sacrifice and Burleson was walked. Young then struck out and Morgan singled, filling the bases. Allen then muffed a pitched ball, which rolled away from him, scoring Pirmore, and on a heave to third threw wild, and Burleson and Morgan scored.

In the fifth the visitors jumped on Swenson hard, hitting around the order, and off six hits, two of which were doubles, scored as many runs. Morgan, for the visitors went well all the way and was never in danger, the first count of the locals coming in the seventh when Swenson, who had been walked, and advanced by Shepard's walk, and Sloan's single, scored on Brown's sacrifice fly to deep center. In the eighth, they scored another on three successive singles, followed by a walk.

The Hubbers leave this morning for a twelve day road trip, going to Clovis, Roswell and Amarillo, respectively, for four games each.

S. M. U. Football Team Adds Prestige To School Colors. DALLAS, July 14 - Replacing Vanderbilt University on one of the classic dates of the Southwestern Conference football season, Southern Methodist University will play Texas University at the State Fair here on Dallas Day, October 18, 1924.

find as much prestige attached to the red and blue as now accompanies the colors of much older schools. In 1920, when the last game between S. M. U. and State U. was played, football at Armstrong field was in its swaddling clothes. Last season the Mustangs' defeat of A. & M. and the ponderous scores piled up against Louisiana State, Denton Normal, and Oklahoma A. & M. acted as a sort of removal of legal disabilities from the eight year old child, and entitled it to man's estate in the pigskin world.

In the S. M. U. schedule this fall, the star early date, October 16, will be filled by the Missouri School of Mines, playing at Fair Park. Three games precede, one with Denton Normal, September 29, one with Henderson Brown, October 13, and one with Austin College, October 10.

Following the School of Mines game comes the mid-season feature game with Texas A. & M. October 26 at College Station. Football fans anticipate a bitter struggle when the Aggies are at home to their erstwhile conquerors. Two games in Dallas, one with T. C. U. November 3, one with the U. of Arkansas, November 10, and one abroad with Oklahoma A. & M. at Stillwater, November 17, will be the Mustang's preparation for the grand finale. RALLY BY ROSWELL WINS LAST OVER CUBS 6-5

CLOVIS, N. M., July 14 - The Roswell Giants defeated the Cubs here today by a score of 6 to 5. McBride secured four hits including a double out of five chances, and West hit four singles in his five trips to the bat. The Giants started their work in the third when three singles and two errors by the Cubs gave them three runs. In the seventh Routh tied the score five and five, when he hit the ball over the fence with Tucker and Shaw ahead, but the Giants came back by scoring in the 8th and again in the 9th.

FRANK FRISCH ATTAINS TO TWO HUNDRED MARK THIS SEASON. By the United Press. NEW YORK, July 14 - Frankie Frisch is well on his way to making 200 safe hits this season. He was the first player in the big leagues to make 100 hits. His great feat is to beat the ball down to first. He would probably be able to steal a few bushels of bases every year because of his tremendous speed, if it were not for the fact that he can't slide. Frisch still dives head-first for the bag on a close play, the way he used to up at Fordham University a few years ago, before he went to the Giants. He is studying the hook, however, and if he masters it he may develop into the best man in the majors on the bases.

NEW YORK, July 14 - Twenty-three American athletes next Saturday will swarm into the Queens Club, London, and show the best track and field stars of Oxford and Cambridge how good the United States is.

The American team, composed of 13 Yale and 10 Harvard track stars, is the best that the United States ever sent for the combination clash. The only weak spots in the team are the two-mile run and the running high jump, but the Oxford-Cambridge team is not any better off in these two events, and that makes matters even.

Two former American athletes are starting with the Oxford-Cambridge gang. Billy Stevenson, former Princeton quarter-miler and national champion at that distance in 1921, will compete in both the furlong and the quarter. Tevis Huhn, entrant in the hurdles, is an old Princeton man, too, and the British are enthusiastic over his form. Abramson, the English sprinter, is one of the best developed there in recent years, the London sport writers say. In the recent Oxford-Cambridge dual meet he defeated Stevenson in the 440-yard run, after winning the 100-yard and the broad jump.

United States Track and Field Stars Are To Meet the English

Special arrangements are being made in the construction work to care for the comfort of the scores of athletes gathered from all over the world.

American professional and amateurs got an opportunity to use those corrugated clubs in the American open championships which have been running this week at Inwood.

From London has come the word that regret is being expressed over the dissatisfaction of the American entrants with the treatment they received at Troon in the British open. They are even talking of a new rule which would enable all the American stars to qualify, without going thru the qualifying round.

Gene Sarazen and Jim Barnes, two of the best American professionals.

The scene of the Olympic games of 1924 will be finished soon at Colombes, France. The seating capacity of the stands will be 70,000, the French Olympic Committee announces.

Arrangement Made By Texas Utilities Officials And County Commissioners Provides Abundance Of Water For Lake

Another splendid achievement, that will mean a great deal to Lubbock has just been wrought thru the co-operation of officials of the Texas Utilities Company and the members of the Lubbock County Commissioners Court.

The arrangement has been made whereby one or two hundred gallons of water per minute which is used at the Texas Utilities Plant to cool the ice making machinery and the gigantic oil burning engines is to be turned into the Lubbock County Lake which is near the Fair Park, and which is the only natural swimming pool adjacent to the city.

The water that is used at the plant comes from deep wells and is heated only to about ninety-six degrees before it leaves the plant, and is not defected one bit for use in the lake.

It is hard to estimate at this time just how much good the huge stream of water pouring into the lake at all times will do, as there is at this time an ample supply of water in the lake, however, but for some means of keeping the lake filled, it would become dry this summer, and therefore would be of no use whatsoever.

Officials of the South Plains Fair Association are coming in on the proposition, as they expect to use the ditches which will be dug for the pipeline leading from the Texas Utilities plant to the lake for pipe which will take water to the fairgrounds from the end of the city main which reaches to the Farmers Gin on East Broadway.

The County Tourist Park Building, it has been hinted, will also come in for a portion of the benefits derived from the arrangement, as the shower bathes which will be installed therein will be connected with the pipeline leading to the lake, utilizing to a very good advantage the water which will be at a very good temperature for this purpose.

Lubbock and Lubbock county people are awake to the need of the county, and know that it is strictly up to them to provide some of the conveniences here that can be found elsewhere.

RESIGNATION OF PROF. LEIGH SOWERS RECEIVED

AUSTIN, Texas, July, 14.—Official announcement has been made of the resignation of Dr. William Leigh Sowers, adjunct professor of English in the University of Texas. Dr. Sowers came to the University in 1914 just after receiving his Doctor's degree from Harvard. For the last nine years he has been a member of the English faculty, having spent one year traveling and studying abroad on a Harvard fellowship. He is at present doing summer work in Cambridge and giving considerable time to a book

T. G. Shaw Is Now Owner Of The Panhandle Cigar Comp'y

Announcement has been made of the purchase of the Panhandle Cigar Company by T. G. Shaw.

The Panhandle Cigar Company was established in 1919, and Mr. Shaw has been actively connected with it since that time, having been the founder of the business.

Having operated at first in a frame building of small dimensions, and later occupying a commodious brick building on Avenue I the business attracted much attention.

Mr. Shaw takes the business over at a very opportune time, having a large crew of salesmen on the road at this time, and all of them are evidently on the job as evidenced by the many orders that are being taken care of in the office in Lubbock.

The cigar business is not at all new to Mr. Shaw, as, prior to coming to Lubbock in 1919 he had charge of a cigar business at Brenham, having been active in the distribution of cigars for the past thirteen years.

HAULS HOGS TO MARKET AT NIGHT DURING HOT WEATHER

Special to the Avalanche

HEREFORD, July 13.—Fred Galle, Castro county farmer, has won the sobriquet of "Early Bird" of this section by reason of his thriftness and method of marketing his big hogs. Recently Galle had four loads of hogs to market here. Instead of transporting the portly porkers thru the hot sun, causing them intense physical depression and loss in weight, Galle did his hauling at night, bringing the first load to Hereford at 11 p. m. Immediately he returned to his farm in Castro county and got another load, reaching here at 10 a. m. the following day. In this way Galle marketed his hogs with no loss, save sleep, which he says he can readily make up.

Cigarette had the passionate, selfish, jealous nature that a woman nurtured in the lap of fate might be expected to have. Ben Ali, who pressed the services of his "friendly" Arabs upon the French when desert tribes rose in wild revolt, called her a "child of the desert" which has its meaning in the parlance of Algerian barracks. Reared by the roughest experiences, Cigarette was no dainty daughter of respectability.

Victor, the man of mystery, regarded her with complete indifference. That was as it should be. Who was he? No one knew, but obviously he was a "gentleman." Who was she? Everyone knew, and it wasn't complimentary. Victor shook dice to decide whether he should side with the French or the Arabs. France won.

Then the tangle of fate begun, with Ben Ali, cold, crafty, smiling, pushing his atrocious scheme against the French without suspicion, with Cigarette watching, waiting, fearing for Victor and for the French, and with Victor, cynical, careless, unaware that Cigarette's undesired love made him the target for Ben Ali's murderous hatred. Cold blooded desert warfare, hot blooded love and the tepid influence of civilization, were the elements that wrought a miracle of love in the lives of Cigarette and the unknown man from "outside", though this miracle brought tragedy in its wake. #### Pola Negri Adopts New Method of Doing Hair

Pola Negri has changed her coiffure. Fans who have followed the career of the famous Polish actress since her initial European triumphs will remember that she has always effected the same general style of hair dressing, wearing her hair dressed snugly around her head and very often securing it with a bandeau.

But in "The Cheat" her second American picture, she wears her hair dressed high on her head for the first time in many years. She portrays the character of a young Spanish-American girl in this story and the variation in coiffures is not only in keeping with the character but a most becoming change.

"The Cheat" as it is being made with Pola Negri in the starring role, differs in locale and setting from the picture of the same name produced nearly a decade ago, but the powerful story which Hector Firm-bull wrote at that time serves as the basis of the present photoplay by Ouida Bergere which George Fitzmaurice, producer of "Bella Donna" and many other notable Paramount Pictures, is directing.

Jack Holt and Charles deRoche play the principal masculine roles in this rendition of "The Cheat." One of the important changes in the modern production of this story has been the transformation of the Japanese of the early rendition into an East Indian in the present production, played by deRoche, the French actor who recently arrived in America.

Cowboy's Lariats become Useful in Film Making

The movie cowboy is changing from a picturesque to a useful feature to the motion picture industry. His lariat, having long hung in disuse from the horn of his saddle, suddenly sprung into genuine utility recently in the filming of "Salomy Jane" for Paramount at Boulder Creek in northern California.

In the scene showing the pursuit of Red Pete by the Vigilantes, one of the riders accidentally fell from his horse into the turbulent river. As he rose to the surface, a rope suddenly tightened about his shoulders and he was dragged out of the water by a lariat thrown by one of the cowpuncher riders.

The cowboys of the company were later pressed into the use of rope treeclips in preparation for the hoisting into place of electric arbor lights, the construction of temporary bridges across narrow canyons and to solve a host of other tricky problems connected with location work.

"Salomy Jane" is a screen drama of early days in California. It has just been produced by George Mel-ford. The featured players are Jacqueline Logan, George Fawcett and Maurice Flynn.

Film Players Suffer More than Pioneers

After making many pictures of life in the rugged and primitive west, I am becoming convinced that motion picture companies suffer much more hardships than the people they imitate.

According to the stories of these old timers themselves, they suffered for the lust of gold and the spirit of adventure. Motion picture people climb mountains, sleep in the open, and undergo a multitude of inconveniences so that the American public can be entertained. They suffer uncomplainingly, always hoping that the finished picture may be an epic of the season.

In the making of my present picture "The Last Man", which has been adapted for the screen from Zane Grey's famous story, I feel sure that we outdid the Primitive Arizona cattlemen in the strenuousness of our lives.

All luggage had to be brought into location by pack horses over thirty miles of steep rock-strewn trails. By this route, too, came all messages from the outside world. For two whole weeks, we climbed each morning, from our camp to location 2500 feet above. In places, this trail was so steep that the horses had to be practically dragged up by their haters. We brought timber forty-two miles over rough roads for the construction of cabins used in the picture.

In making the sequence showing the cliff dynamited to close the entrance to a secret canyon, a man had to climb to the precipitous face of "The Rim." I am sure pioneers never faced a more nerve-racking experience than the photographers who filmed the result of that explosion from positions hundreds of feet below.

We had to get a picture which the American public would enjoy. The scenes must be made to look real and thrilling and yet no lives could be endangered. Fearful undertakings must be attempted and their fearfulness must register on the screen.

I have just read the story of a track across the plains by our forefathers. I don't want to belittle their courage, but as our cavalcade trotted through the mountain defiles of Arizona back towards civilization after the completion of the picture, I wondered whether these imitators of the old heroes of the west should not be immortalized.

Richard Dix had hunted down a wildcat which had been harassing the camp for two weeks, Lois Wilson had saved herself from two bad falls down the face of the cliff by good horsemanship. Noah Beery, Robert Edeson, Frank Campeau and others of the cast, had performed daring rides for the sake of making the picture realistic.

DALLAS' NEWEST STREET WAS RECENTLY A R. R.

DALLAS, July 14.—Paving is under way on Pacific Avenue here. Before the paving was begun there was a lot of other work. Pacific Avenue used to be chiefly the right of way of the Texas & Pacific Railroad through this city. Negotiations led to removal of the railroad tracks. Then the street was dug up for gas mains, water mains, electric power and light conduits, telegraph and telephone conduits, and sewers. Now it is being completed into a fine thoroughfare that will add another business street to the constantly growing business district.

Being the newest business street in the city it is to be, in civic aspects, the best. More than a million dollars has been expended or is being expended to make Pacific Avenue what a modern city business street should be. Of this sum the largest share, aside from that invested by the city for sewers, is that invested by the Dallas Power and Light Company in placing its wires under ground and eliminating poles. The Dallas Gas Company has placed a double system of mains and curb outlets under this street at a heavy cost. Ornamental lighting standards and connections have added to the investment in this modern street. Underground conduits for communication wires and cables have eliminated more poles.

The Western Union Telegraph Company used to follow this railroad out of the city with a growing network of wires as the city grew. These have all gone underground as far as the improvements of Pacific Avenue have gone, and the company will continue placing its wires underground until by the end of this year there will be no overhead wires in the city limits on this big part of the system.

Paving by the city of 5,000 lineal feet will complete the improvements.

This street is fifty feet wide for vehicles with no street car tracks. The sidewalks are 15 feet wide on each side.

An eighty-foot railroad right of way through the business heart of the city will soon be a business boulevard with the most modern utility service, paving and lighting. The business men of Dallas consider its cost more than a million to be a trifle compared with its value to the city.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR ELECTRIC DEMONSTRATION

It was announced at the Nislar Hardware Company store Saturday morning that every arrangement has been made for the demonstration of the Hot-Point Electric Range there Monday by Miss Veda C. Craig, an expert economist.

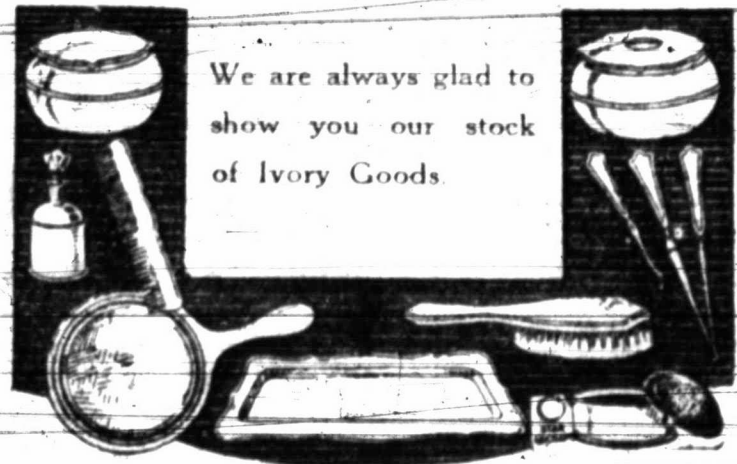

The demonstration will be given Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in the afternoons as announced in the Nislar Hardware Company's ad in this paper, and the management of the store declares the company is fortunate to have Miss Craig come to Lubbock for the demonstration, which will be helpful to all who attend.

PUBLIC OPINION

A HOME ILLUSTRATION OF WAR

As an illustration of war, let's bring it right down to Lubbock and our home people. Suppose a faction east of Lubbock and another west of Lubbock, should become rivals and competitors and the competition and rivalry between them should become so great as to grow into bitter strife, enmity and even strong hatred of each other and they begin to denounce, defame and threaten each other. Then they begin to fear each other and to prepare to defend themselves against treachery, brutal force, or hostile attacks that each now fears from the other.

things, and to do good and help humanity is what God requires and expects of us, and for which He has supplied us with such great abundance of blessings, and if we fail to do this and to appreciate these common blessings intended for all, we certainly have missed our calling and usefulness. Yet none of these are factors in the assembling and training, but it is absolutely destructive of these. Then we may ask in wonder, amazement and all seriousness: "What is all this for? In a nut-shell" it is absolutely and for no other purpose than to kill, maim and destroy. Yes, all this big preparation—all this great expense, and all of this immense waste is for no other purpose than to kill, maim and destroy each other and the property of each other.

At last—the factions (or armies) being now well prepared for the awful work of death and destruction, move toward each other and meet at Lubbock in battle array. The bugle sounds and the battle begins with all the intensity of hate, murder, cruelty and destruction—real war force in all its fury and insanity. The battle rages—men charge into the very jaws of death—brother meets brother—former friend meets former friend—fathers meet fathers and make widows of each others wives; or orphans of each others children; or maim and cripple each other for life. The battle rages and men and beasts are torn to pieces and scattered over the plain battlefield. Bullets and shell plow their way thru flesh, bone and brain—bombs explode with terrible effect—steel meets steel and bayonets are thrust thru each other. Guns are used for clubs and many go down to rise no more, with a crushed brain that was intent on getting his frenzied foe first, but falls and leaves him for another. Mixed with the dire of battle are the shrieks and moans of maimed and dying men and beasts. Lubbock is torn to shreds and left a mass of wreckage—houses are burned or blown to pieces and the city left in ruins. But why dwell longer on this picture of horrible insanity and "barbarous inhumanity"? The picture is too dark—too horrible—too inhuman and unchristian—too shameful and disgusting. And yet, this little picture is just a little glimpse of the awful reality.

And when it's all over and both factions almost destroyed and one side at last conquered by the brutal force of the other—then what good has been accomplished? Who has been benefited? The profiteer and grafter has amassed more dirty and bloody dollars—that's all. Lives are lost, homes broken up, men maimed, diseased and crippled for life, and property destroyed at an awful cost, and those able to return to their homes and work, are left with an enormous debt and bondage, under which they and their descendants must toll for many long years. And another dark chapter is added to the barbarous, inhuman history of warfare. This little picture is just a glimpse of the awful reality of warfare, brought to our own homes, for our inspection. War is absolutely the war of force, barbarism and cruelty, and the opposite of reason, justice,

Lubbock County Farm Bureau Membership Campaign Is Successful; Another Week Intensive Work Before It Closes

"A little more this week than last and more last week than the first week," is the way Fred Boerner, of the Lubbock County Farm Bureau Cotton Association summed up the campaign that is under way in this county for more members for the bureau.

"Starting with 131 members who shipped more than 1,000 bales of cotton to the association this past year at an estimated profit of $30,000 over what they would have received at street prices the association is closing the third week of the month's campaign with 352 members. The first week netted 61 new members, the second week 77 and the third set a new record of 90 members for the week."

"We close the campaign next week and from present indications will go over the 100 mark. The farmers of Lubbock county are talking the Farm Bureau Cotton Marketing Plan among themselves and with the bankers and their other business friends. Every banker in Lubbock county is for the farm bureau as is practically every other business man who has investigated the plan of marketing around which the bureau is built. Then too the results obtained from our last year's crop is talking a language that every farmer in Lubbock county can understand."

Interesting Figures on Cotton Shipments

Theory sounds good and beautiful language casts many spells but old hard dollars and cents speak a language all its own. For example L. C. Boyd consigned 17 bales of cotton to the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association and received a net profit of $495.00 over what it would have brought at street prices, according to a statement made by him Saturday afternoon. His 17 bales gained an average of ten pounds each and sold for an average of 25.8 cents per pound. His cotton graded middling strict middling and good middling.

M. D. Ramsey, who was visiting in Lubbock Saturday and who is president of the Texas Farm Bureau Grain Sorghum Association, is a farmer from Floydada who shipped his cotton thru the farm bureau both years since its organization. Last year in addition to shipping his own cotton he bought 8 bales of cotton on the streets of Floydada at the prevailing street prices, overbidding the regular street buyers, paying a total of $833 for the 8 bales. This he consigned to the farm bureau pool and received a total of $1,349 for the same 8 bales or a profit of $466—more than $50 per bale over the street price he paid for the cotton.

That is just a little better than 50 per cent interest on his money for less than a six month period of time.

W. E. Bennett consigned 16 bales to the Association and netted him $473 on the 16 bales. They gained 176 pounds in weight and saved an average of 3 pounds a bale in samples—and this alone would have netted him a handsome profit. Fred Boerner shipped three bales to the Association. These he checked against street prices upon the days they were shipped and figures that he average $33.25 cents profit per bale from the shipment.

$75 To Be Advanced on Cotton This Year

Last year $60 was advanced on each bale shipped and the balance paid when the final sales were made. This year an advance of $75 per bale will be made when shipped. The Farm Bureau is not a holding organization. It is strictly a marketing organization that operates upon the principle that grouped, pooled, graded cotton in large lots—as gathered by the individual buyers thru their street representatives, will sell better than small lots dumped on the streets of the different towns and ed the Bureau—ask any farmer who is a member what he thinks about it. Then ask your banker what he thinks about the plan. Then find out what the leading bankers and financiers think about the plan. Then do not be foolish enough to kid yourself into believing that you are smarter than all of them put together. Hunt up some of the bureau men and get on the dotted line. It will be the most valuable two drops of ink you ever used.

WOMAN'S CLOTHES

Post, recorded the opinion of American women that New York clothes were better made, better cut; and better finished than English dresses and, moreover, could be bought in all sizes, ready-made.

English dress-makers, and heads of London's great department stores, concede that American shops are better stocked with "out-sizes," large and small, to fit any form. But when they concede that point, the agreement ends and the fight is on.

Some of the dress-makers say harsh things. Listen, Miss Main street, to Wallace Reville, proprietor of Reville, Ltd., which makes gowns for that part of British titled aristocracy which is still able to buy them.

"Ready-made clothes may do for American women, who all look alike," said Reville, but English and French women are more individual, I never dress two women alike. Again, the physique of American woman is different from our women. The Americans are more or less alike. If you walk behind a dozen of them you cannot tell which is which. English women and French women do not copy each other. American women do. The Americans follow, they do not create. They are very good adapters. Why do they come here to buy models and get ideas?"

It is interesting, in passing, to note that the controversy has also revealed the unanimous opinion that the American woman spends from two to three times as much on her clothes as her European sister. What a pity, Europe sighs, that she spends it all only that she may look like somebody else.

SPORTS

tionals, made the trip to England and then failed even to qualify for the tournament.

It is possible that the system may be revised for next year out of courtesy to the Americans.

Well, it looks like another private worlds series will be staged with in haughty confines of New York City. It's great for the subway fans who can ride to every game in the series on a nickel carfare, but it isn't doing anything to help the game of baseball in the United States.

The hack-driver in Omaha, whose representative judgment is highly respected in every newspaper office, will not die of heart failure or swallow his cigar watching the scoreboard if the Giants and Yankees win again.

The western magnates are promising to do something about it, but apparently everyone is helpless before the smooth machines built up on the dollars accumulated from record crowds both at the polo grounds and the Yankee Stadium. New York is so biased and shortsighted that it doesn't realize there is anything out there beyond the palisades but great open spaces. No metropolitan sport writer believes, or will say, that the game is in jeopardy because New York is monopolizing all the pennants.

But it won't be long now, New York cannot continue to stage its own private world series many more years—if baseball is to continue as the national game—and there is belief among some of the boys that when the tide turns it will stay turned for a considerable length of time.

The quicker it turns and the longer it stays turned, the better it will be for the game.

FORMER BOXING RIVALS NOW TO BE BEST OF PALS

By the United Press.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Luis Firpo and Jack MacAuliffe 11, who fought so ferociously against each other at the Polo Grounds milk fund exhibition, now are buddies. They have been training together down at Allenhurst, N. J., sleep at the same place, eat at the same table, box together at exhibitions and yet neither of them can understand a word the other says.

Firpo's rugged intelligence has not yet been able to master the English language, and MacAuliffe knows not one word of Spanish.

But they have breeched the chasm which might have separated them when Firpo pounded MacAuliffe to a pulp.

TRANSFER OF SCHOOL FUNDS NOT TO BE ASKED TILL SEPT. 1

AUSTIN, Texas, July 14.—State Superintendent Marrs authorized the announcement Thursday that he will not demand the transfer of $2,000,000 to the available school fund Sept. 1, when the new appropriations become available, but will wait until late in the winter, when present funds are exhausted and the money is actually needed.

He did say that the board will find it necessary to use some of the $1,500,000 for the rural schools, commencing in November and December. The first amount, he said, would be about $250,000, and after that it would grow with the peak in January.

The last Legislature authorized $2,000,000 each year to supplement the available school fund and $1,500,000 each year to aid the rural schools.

Estimate Of Large Deficit Revives Talk Of Special Session

AUSTIN, Texas, July 14.—Friday State Treasurer Terrell said the deficit in the general fund will be larger on Sept. 1 than any estimate yet made.

He says it will be over $4,000,000 and probably go to $4,500,000 when all of this fiscal year's business is cleaned up. The highest estimate made of the deficiency, which occurred during the Legislature, was $3,300,000 on Sept. 1. Mr. Terrell thinks it will be sure to go $4,000,000 above that figure.

All of this has revived the talk of another special session next year to provide revenue to meet the deficiency. It is said in capital circles that with the figures in hand Gov. Neff may call a special session before he vacates office. He has said "he did not want to leave the heritage of a deficiency to his successor nor does he want State warrants hawked about."

Keep clean in summer. If flies washed their feet they wouldn't get swatted so much.

Isn't it strange how you buy a phonograph record and in a few days the other side is the best?

People going on vacations to forget things shouldn't forget how poison ivy looks.
