JOHNSON ELECTION VITAL TO MINN. CONGRESS

MAKES LaFOLLETTE BIGGEST POWER AND STRENGTHENS HARDING REBELLION

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The election of Magnus Johnson, the Farmer-Labor candidate to a seat in the Minnesota Senate will make LaFollette the biggest power in the next Congress, and will strengthen the rebellion against the Harding administration on the eve of the presidential election. This importance was placed on the victory of Johnson and the Farm Bloc in the Senate and House.

Johnson will favor the enactment of the following legislation: The repeal of the Esch-Cummins Railroad law; a complete revision of the Federal Reserve System; the payment of a soldier's compensation, to be met by the excess profits tax; and the restriction of court injunctions in labor disputes.

Has Built a Political Empire
WASHINGTON, July 17.—Beat down by the Republican party during the war until he stood alone against the whole world, LaFollette, the individualist and Progressive, has now built for himself a virtual political empire in Washington where he will hold the balance of power between the opposing camps.

Indicates Growth of Progressive Forces

MADISON, Wis., July 17.—The election of Magnus Johnson as a Senator from Minnesota, is an indication of the growing power of the progressive forces all over the country. Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Progressive Farm Bloc leader in Congress, declared in commenting upon the special Minnesota election. The outcome of this election is the voice of the common people of the country who constitute ninety per cent of the population, and who are determined to free themselves from the monopoly of power over their lives. LaFollette said.

MOVEMENT IS LAUNCHED AGAINST FASCISTI IN THIS COUNTRY

NEW YORK, July 17.—Claiming the Fascist organization in America numbers almost thirty-five thousand persons, the anti-Fascist alliance of North America Tuesday launched a movement against the spread of the organization here. The society announced that it was organized by the Italian Chamber of Labor, and has been endorsed by American unions, including the New York Council of the American Federation of Labor. The Fascist movement in America represent the greatest menace to organized labor, it was set out in the report of the anti-Fascist alliance.

PHILIPPINE CABINET RESIGNS EN MASSE

MANILA, Philippine Islands, July 17.—The resignation of the Philippine Cabinet because of the alleged interference in civic matters by Governor General Leonard Wood, has precipitated the greatest political upheaval throughout the country since the occupation of the Islands by America. In accepting the resignations, General Wood said that he considered the action of the Cabinet a challenge to the authority of the Governor General. The action may be followed by a declaration of martial law in the Islands.

Arkansas: Wednesday partly cloudy, probably local thundershowers.

CAMPAIGN STARTED WOULD FORCE FRENCH TO SEND AGENTS

PARIS, July 17.—A campaign has been started here to force the French Government to dispatch agents to the United States, and other foreign countries of the world, to circulate pro-French propaganda, and explain the foreign policies of the nation, and the unfavorable criticism of the United States and Great Britain in connection with the French occupation of the Ruhr. It has been suggested here that Senator Lucien Herbert be delegated to head the movement, and that the agents be put out at the earliest possible moment.

MULE KICK PROVES FATAL TO HOUSTON CHURCH DEACON

HOUSTON, July 17.—As a result of his having been kicked in the side by a mule, Bob Emmons, 49, a deacon in the Baptist church here, died ten minutes later without having regained consciousness.

TRANSFER OF OIL FRAUD CASES DISCUSSED

DALLAS, July 17.—Plans for the transfer of the oil fraud cases which have been filed in the state of New York against residents of Texas, to the Federal Court in the northern division of Texas, are now under discussion by officials of Texas, New York and Washington. It is believed that considerable money will be saved by the transfer of the cases, in which several Dallas men are involved.

Postal inspectors here are busy gathering data in connection with the cases for submission to the Grand Jury.

"THE OLD WEST LIVES AGAIN" IN CELEBRATION

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17, (United News)—"The old West lives again." At this season of the year every county seat—or more likely every "city" in any country possessing more than two families and three cows—holds its historical pageant. And everyone is greeted on the opening and at the closing with "The old west lives again."

The new west got off on a badly shod hoof last year when Sacramento celebrated the "Day of '49," and made all the male inhabitants, including college boys, grow whiskers—the longer the from the better.

Sonoma, in the valley of the moon, has just celebrated the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the mission there, and the poor overworked inhabitants, erstwhile civilized native docters and sons, had to dull up like old Spanish Dona senoritas.

Some escaped more easily, having to wear only the crinolines and kickers of 100 years ago. The whole town for the time being was transposed into a 100-year-old spectacle. Even the store fronts were changed into the style of olden affairs.

Sonoma was brilliant. It got vast publicity—and some 100,000 visitors. That means other towns will have similar spectacles.

In fact the Monterey county historical pageant at Salinas, the county seat, on July 19 and 20 is next. Monterey county claims it has more history than any other county in the state, and Los Angeles and San Francisco counties combined. So the old west is going to live again down yonder.

Up in Michigan, Oregon, the president of the United States has just lived again in the old west, which was resurrected, stage coach and all, for his benefit, July 3. That will give added impetus to the old west boom.

The Coyenne Frontier Days always revive some wild west and that'll be coming up soon.

Down at Prescott, Arizona, every June the best inhabitants dull up their "Way Out West" show, a travesty, burlesque and gorgeous extravaganza of "the old west lives again."

They have real humor in their performance and beauty as well. The Smoki snake dance being without rival anywhere.

Put African King in Jail.

SAN PEDRO, Cal. (United Press.)—James Alfonso, 24, self-assorted king of Motawumbasco, East Africa, decided many months ago to board a boat for America on a pleasure jaunt. The king is in jail and the hands that should hold the scepter of Motawumbasco are clutching steel bars. King James is a vagrant according to the callous local police. Meanwhile a bevy of weeping queens are waiting on the palmed shores of Motawumbasco for their detained ruler.

ARREST MADE IN LANGE MURDER MYSTERY CASE

REPORTED THAT RELATIVE OF LANGE UNDER ARREST FOR MURDER

AUSTIN, July 17.—Following the personal investigation which was given the case by Acting Governor Davidson, an arrest has been made in connection with the Otto Lange murder case at Somerville, according to reports received here this afternoon.

The report said that Burleson County officials made the arrest following the investigation, but the name of the man was withheld by the authorities. It is reported that a relative of Lange was placed under arrest, but the report is unconfirmed, and no further information could be gained in connection with the affair up to a late hour this evening.

ABOLISHMENT OF TWELVE-HOUR DAY IMPOSSIBLE WITH LABOR SHORT

NEW YORK, July 17.—The abolishment of the twelve-hour day in the steel industry within six weeks time is an impossibility, according to a financial news agency here. There must be a greater surplus of labor before the full change can be effected, and sixty thousand men will be required to make the full shift.

LAWYER CHARGED WITH BOOZE POSSESSION

FORT WORTH, July 17.—Norman Pruett, of Oklahoma, widely known throughout the Southwest as a criminal lawyer, entered a plea of not guilty today when he was arraigned before United States Commissioner Parker on a charge of possessing liquor. He was released on a five thousand dollar bond.

Pruett was arrested last night while he was in his automobile in front of a hotel here, the police alleging that liquor was in the car.

RETAIL GASOLINE SELLING AT THIRTEEN CENTS IN DALLAS—LOWEST

DALLAS, July 17.—With retail gasoline selling at thirteen cents at some filling stations here, and fifteen cents at others, the lowest prices known to local motorists for many years are now in effect. Three reductions in the retail price have taken effect the past week, same being attributed to a fight between local competitive companies. The retail price in Fort Worth is nineteen cents, while in other cities throughout the state, the price ranges from nineteen to twenty-one cents.

McADOO OFFERS FARM RELIEF MEASURE

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Cheaper and more efficient transportation to widen the markets for agricultural products, is the remedy offered by William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, and who has been prominently mentioned as a possible Presidential candidate, to relieve the present agricultural stress reflected again today by a further drop in the wheat market.

The present condition of the American farmer is reflected in the failure of all the Republican measures, prominent among which is the Forney-McCumber Tariff, cutting down the price of the farmer's products, and increasing the price of all the other things he needs, Mr. McAdoo said.

MEXICO CITY, Mex. (By mail to the United Press.)—The National Railway Lines of Mexico will grant liberal rates as an inducement for Rotarians to hold their international convention in this city next year. Toronto and Mexico City are after the convention.

SPECIAL SESSION FOR FARM LEGISLATION DEMANDED BY IOWA SENATOR

NEW YORK, July 17.—A demand that President Harding immediately call an extra session of Congress to pass measures for the relief of the farmers, was voiced today by Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, who has just returned from a visit to Soviet Russia. The Senator declared that the Government should buy and sell the products of the farm, thus a fair price could be insured to the producer.

BAPTISTS OF RALLS ARE NOW IN REVIVAL MEETING

RALLS, July 17.—A revival meeting was begun at the First Baptist church here last Sunday, which is being conducted by Rev. W. H. Sims, an evangelist and Rev. J. M. Harder, pastor. The song services are conducted by W. C. Ashford, who is a gospel singer, of Rochester, Texas.

ALLIED TREATY BE SIGNED TUESDAY

LAUSSANE, July 17.—The Lausanne Treaty which will end the war between the Allies and Turkey will be signed at a plenary session next Tuesday final agreements having been reached today by the representatives.

Turkish and British representatives have reached an agreement in their discussion governing the British warships in the Dardanelles, and their rights under the Straits convention.

Russian delegates will probably be present to sign the Straits Convention which the Russians participated in.

PROMINENT WEST TEXAS MINISTER DIES SUNDAY

COLORADO, Texas, July 17.—The Rev. D. R. Harrison, 60, pastor of the First Christian Church of Colorado, died suddenly near Columbia, Tenn., Sunday afternoon, while on a vacation to his former home, according to advices received here. Rev. Mr. Harrison came to Colorado four years ago from Lampasas, where he was pastor of the Christian church.

He was for five years secretary of the Brady Chamber of Commerce, and was among the most widely known ministers in West Texas. He was president of the West Texas Christian Encampment at Mertzon for several years and was not re-elected last year at his own request. He was on the directorate of the denominational schools and colleges of the Christian church of Texas.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed tonight but he will be buried in Colorado sometime Wednesday. Rev. Mr. Harrison was prominent in Masonic circles. He was an active member of the Colorado chamber of commerce and honorary member of the Colorado Lions Club. He came to Texas from Memphis, Tenn., twenty years ago.

IRISH TO UNITE IN EFFORT FOR THEIR FREEDOM

NEW POLICY BE BASED ON POLITICAL RATHER THAN MILITARY

PARIS, July 17.—Breaking a silence of several months, Edmond De Valera, in a statement smuggled here by airplane, declared that the Irish Free State was doomed, and that Ireland soon would be striving in a united effort for her independence. The statement also declared that DeValera was in Dublin gathering the disbanded and scattered elements of the Sinn Fein faction, from which he expects to formulate a new organization. It is indicated that the new policy will be based on political lines rather than military, and it is also understood that the new faction will deny the right of any foreign country to rule in Ireland, and will refuse to recognize or co-operate with any power who presumes to take the right of foreign rule.

CLAIMED THAT HE HAS DELIVERED DEMOCRATIC PARTY INTO HANDS OF THE SOCIALISTS AND RADICALS

Whitehurst Says Special Session Will Be Called And Governor Impeached As Was Done In Texas.

WICHITA, Kansas, July 17.—Governor Walton, of Oklahoma, has delivered the Democratic Party in the state of Oklahoma into the hands of the Socialists and radical element, according to the assertions of some of the Oklahomans who have been in attendance at the wheat conference here.

The Attorney-General charged in the injunction that the International Harvester Company was still a combination in restraint of interstate trade and commerce, and in the distribution of harvesting machinery. He further charges that the Company is monopolizing the line of commerce handled by them, and accuses violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law. J. A. Whitehurst, President of the State Board of Agriculture, said that the Legislature would call itself into a special session with the object of impeaching the Governor, as was done in Texas in the case of Governor Ferguson several years ago.

"The people of a state have to get pretty mad before they will do anything of that kind, but folks are pretty mad, even now in Oklahoma," he said.

MAGEE CHARGES POLITICAL RING

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., July 17.—Carl C. Magee, editor and publisher of Magee's Independent, of this city, who was recently given ninety days on each of four counts in which he was charged with contempt of court and libel, and whose times and prison sentences have been absolved by Governor Hinkle of this state, declared today that a "political ring" of his opponents has been planned to keep a constant contempt charge pending against him in the courts.

Magee's friends forecast that an attempt will be made by the court to confine him in jail should he be convicted on a new charge of contempt.

U. S. WORLD WAR VETERAN SELLS CARDS IN GENOA

GENOA, Italy (By mail to United Press.)—"Picture postcard, mister! Views of Christopher Columbus' birthplace and the seat of the famous Genoa conference! Only one lire each."

A strangely American appeal. This offer from a squatty little Italian stops every American traveler who has occasion to stop over in the Genoa railroad station.

A silver badge—also strangely familiar—catches one's eye. It is an American service button—silver to denote "wounded in action."

"Are you an American?" the tourist naturally asks the young man.

"I'm an Italian but I lived in the States a long time."

"I see you were wounded in action. Were you with the American army? How is it you are here selling postcards?"

"Yes, I was with the A. E. F., and got plugged. I didn't like the idea of going back to the states where a guy can't get even a drink of beer and where a gas-lunged veteran may get a job and where he mayn't. I just got myself discharged over on this side and I manage to make a living off of folks like you from back over there. But honest to goodness, I'm getting tired of telling this tale to every second customer I have. I oughta charge extra for the information."

Just about then another tourist from the States spies the silver button and poor Tony, that's what he says his name is—repeats his story for the twentieth time. The other peddlers around the station avow Tony is making a wad of money and intends returning to his job as waiter in New York just as soon as he gets enough laid away to carry him over.

WEST TEXAS TEACHERS COLLEGE HAVE BIBLE CREDITS

CANYON, July 17.—President J. A. Hill, of the West Texas State Teachers' College has announced that there will be offered, for credit in the college this fall, three courses in Bible. Mr. B. A. Stafford, head of the Latin Department, and known over the State of Texas as a Latin scholar will give a course in Hebrew Literature. Mr. J. S. Humphreys, also of the Latin Department will offer a course in Sunday School work. Mr. Gordon Lang, of the department of Economics and Sociology will offer a comprehensive course in the Life of Christ. President Hill stated that it was his conviction that no teachers college could do its full duty unless it fitted teachers to take their places in community and church life. Bible courses will help the teacher do this.

MOTION FILED FOR NEW HEARING IN STOVALL COTTON CASE

AUSTIN, July 17.—A motion for a re-hearing in the case of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association versus J. C. Stovall, of Ellis county, was filed in supreme court today. The case involves certain contracts of the Co-operative Marketing Association, which the Supreme Court recently held were enforceable.

SIX PARDONS ISSUED BY GOV. DAVIDSON

AUSTIN, July 17.—Acting Governor Davidson has issued a list of pardons granted by him since he has been in office in the absence of Governor Neff, who is with the Trade Excursion of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Six names were included on the list, but it was stated that there would in all probability be several more before Davidson relinquished his duties as Governor at seven o'clock tonight when Governor Neff crosses the border of the State.

Neff Assumes Duties Tuesday.

AUSTIN, July 17.—Governor Neff will assume the duties as Chief Executive of the State at 7 o'clock tonight, according to messages reaching his office from New Orleans this afternoon. The Governor has been away for seventeen days on a junketing trip to Cuba and the Panama Canal Zone as a guest of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce on their Trade Excursion.

One of the last official acts of Acting Governor Davidson, who has been in the chair of the Governor during his absence, was a review of the 71st Infantry Brigade, of the Texas National Guard, who are stationed at Camp Mabry.

Remodeling Of Old High School Building Will Be Completed By August 15th; Grounds Have Been Given Much Attention

Contractor L. D. Harrison, of Plainview, who has a large force of men at work on the remodeling job at the old Lubbock High School, announced Tuesday at noon that he expects to put just as many men on the job as can work conveniently in order that it might be rushed to completion.

It is his opinion that the job can be completed by the 15th of August.

Though the school board is handicapped in not having sufficient funds to have the work done that is necessary, the contractor is making every dime count, and will have the building looking mighty good before it is finished, and with Supt. M. M. Dupre's long experience in school building arrangements coming in on the deal it may naturally be expected that the building will be so arranged that the pupils and instructors who make use of it may work at the very best advantage. With the plumbing work that has been done about this building making it possible for the laws to be properly cared for, which will tend greatly to the appearance of the premises.

When the call for Lubbock people to aid Lubbock in her efforts to secure the Texas Technological College was made, Supt. Dupre, together with a number of other willing workers, registered their efforts about the school buildings and as a result the grounds thereabouts are at this time so well cared for that they are in keeping with the balance of Lubbock, where campaigners have wielded hoe and rake energetically.

Viewing Lubbock from an educational standpoint and understanding the splendid foundation which has been built here for a great educational system, we just can't see how they could even think of putting it any where else.

strategy, the prime movers in this scheme for a Sahara railroad are looking chiefly to its productivity as a means of replenishing the ranks of the army. It will have commercial advantages, too, but they are secondary.

IDENTIFIED BY A SMILE

By the United Press. LOS ANGELES, July 17.—The memory of a smile carried forty-two years, reunited Victor Johnson and his sister, Agda Johnson, who separated in Stockholm, Sweden. Johnson ran away smiling. He went to Mexico—and became prosperous. He registered at a local hotel and as the clerk handed him his key, he smiled. Mrs. Agda Merrill of Keatfield, Calif., nee Agda Johnson, nearly fainted when she saw Johnson's smile. Both are smiling today.

Eighty Three Cars Sold This Year By Local Buick Agency

John H. Moore, of the Lubbock Buick Company, is very much encouraged over the reports recent Buick purchasers have made to him concerning the performance of their cars, and he calls attention to an ad appearing in this issue containing a letter from Jas. E. Watson, well known Lubbock county man, who is now touring Colorado, and has three other states to make before returning to his home at Lubbock.

J. F. Hankins, of Gorman, who was here for a short visit with his brother, J. H. Hankins, of Lubbock, bought a Buick Sedan of Mr. Moore before leaving for his home, and Raymond Johnson, Santa Fe engineer, whose home is at Slaton, drove a Buick four from the Lubbock Buick Company's salesroom just before sundown Monday.

This being eighty-two cars that Mr. Moore has sold since the first of January this year, as compared with forty cars sold through 1922. Of the eighty-two cars sold fifty-two were six cylinders, and thirty were fours.

F. L. Hargis, salesman who has been employed by Mr. Moore for the past six months, is making his way to the top as an automobile salesman, and is taking a great deal of interest in his work.

The Buick advertising adage "When better cars are made, Buick will make them" has been a mainstay with the local Buick salesmen, according to Mr. Moore.

I. F. Holland, tax collector of Lubbock county, was the eighty-third Buick purchaser for this year in Lubbock, having selected a six touring which was delivered to him Tuesday morning.

NO DECREASE IN FURNITURE PRICES IN SIGHT

By the United Press. CHICAGO, July 17.—Furniture of the Tudor, Queen Ann and Louis XVI periods will continue to hold popular favor for American bedrooms, while that of the Italian and Grecian periods will be used for living rooms, according to the Chicago Furniture Manufacturer's Association, holding its summer show here.

The new year will bring out no changes in American furniture; no outstanding features are evident, as at most exhibitions in the past. Creation of "freak" furniture is also on the decline. The only contribution along this line is a "King Tut" table, made of mahogany and with Egyptian lines and legs representing old Egyptian vases.

No decrease from the present price of furniture is in sight. The cost of plated glass and other materials caused an increase in some lines as high as 25 per cent last spring, and there is likelihood of return to the old level within the next year, officials of the show said.

Chicago is now the leading furniture market in the world, value of the annual output totalling $50,000,000.

France Will Build a Great Military Railroad Across the Sahara Desert; Is Her Troops Mobilization Scheme

By the United Press.

PARIS, July 17.—Construction of a great military railroad across the Sahara, something like the Arizona Desert, only about ten times as wide, is now being studied by experts of the French war office and a project calling for the expenditure of several hundred million dollars will shortly be laid before the Chamber of Deputies.

The importance of the railroad, apart from its commercial advantages, lies in the fact that south of the Sahara is the French Congo, inhabited by many millions of dusky sons of the jungle, from which the colonial contingent of the French army is for the most part recruited. At present it takes about two months to bring the annual recruits to France for training. With the projected line the time would be reduced to about a week.

After long discussions the consensus of military opinion seems to have decided in favor of a line running straight down from Colomb Bechar, in Algeria, to the bend of the River Niger, east of Timbuctoo. This decision was arrived at in order to avoid the disadvantage of a railroad running to the west to Spanish territory on the close coast of Africa, or one bordering Italian territory in Tripoli. France wants a railroad all to herself, running entirely thru French owned or controlled territory.

Airplanes, and Caterpillars. Surveys made by Gen. Estienne and more recently by engineers who accompanied the "Caterpillar" automobile expedition across the desert will be utilized. Gen. Estienne is about to undertake another expedition in the district of Kanado, in the Hoggar region, where coal mines have just been discovered, to see whether it would be worth while to have the line pass thru that part of the Sahara. He will utilize airplanes as well as "caterpillar" cars in his investigations.

A direct line across the Sahara would be about two thousand miles long. In case certain regions which give fair promise of commercial advantages are taken in the road would be five hundred miles or so longer.

The River Niger would be crossed at Tosaye, 150 miles east of Timbuctoo, and the southern terminus of the road is to be at Wagadugu, the center of a fertile region inhabited by seven million people. It is hoped to develop these black men into valuable assets in commercial undertakings as well as man power in case of a new war.

Just as Bismarck and the military leaders of the German empire forced the engineers engaged on railroad schemes to subordinate business to

Work On K. Carter School In North Part Of Lubbock Will Begin Monday Morning According To Supt. Dupre

M. M. Dupre, superintendent of Lubbock City schools, announced Tuesday that work on the K. Carter school in the north part of Lubbock will begin Monday morning, according to present plans.

The bond sale that was made to the State of Texas has been completed, however, the money has not been turned over to the Lubbock Independent School District as yet, but it is expected that definite action to this end will be taken by the officials this week, and upon this action depends the beginning of the actual construction work.

Lubbock school are to be better in every respect for the 1923-24 term than during the past term, and people of this city have occasion for genuine satisfaction in the knowledge that their boys and girls are to enjoy greater educational opportunities than the average.

It is indeed great to observe the developments that have been made in Lubbock's school system during the past few years, and too much credit cannot be given the men in active charge, namely the members of the board of directors, the county and city superintendents, and the voters in general who have aided these officials with their undivided support of everything designed to better the schools in any way.

President Harding Is Ambitious to Be An Active Farmer

ON TOUR WITH PRESIDENT HARDING (By mail to the United Press). President Harding has revealed his ambition. Speaking in one of his intimate rear-platform talks in Idaho to a group of farmers, Mr. Harding said: "I want to own a farm. I've got one now, too. Some day I want to go there and put a sign on the fence that will say: 'This farm belongs to W. G. H. Anybody that doesn't agree with me can drive right on and jump in the river!'"

Mountain trout, caught by Idaho sportsmen, were presented to the presidential party at Pocatello and Idaho Falls. Were they good? The answer was unanimous.

Just after Mr. Harding's train entered Idaho it stopped at Cache Junction. An Indian who had heard that the Great White Chief was aboard, applied for free passage on the train to Salt Lake City. "I told that it was going in the opposite direction," he then announced he wanted to go to Pocatello. He was turned over to Secretary of Interior Work, who gave him 50 cents and put him on the train following the President's.

Mrs. Harding has been presented with enough flowers to date to keep a hospital supplied for a month. Her one regret is that she cannot send these blooms to soldier hospitals before they wither in the heat of the train. Whenever possible she has sent the flowers to such hospitals.

President Harding has been just as much "on the job" while on his official train as though he were in Washington. A telephone in his car has kept him in constant touch with the White House. Whenever his train stops in a town for more than half an hour, the telephone is "plugged in" and in two minutes he can be talking to the White House.

Similar telephones have been provided for the press association correspondents. Members of the press accompanying Mr. Harding have called their homes in Washington, getting the connections within two minutes of putting in the call. This two-minute record was made from Salt Lake City, and the newspaper man who put in the call could hear his wife in their Washington home.

as plainly as though he had been sitting in the room talking to her.

America's children, as seen in the west, proved an inspiring spectacle to the president, Mrs. Harding and others in their party. The western country is chock full of boys and girls, and they are all healthy. Somehow, they look like Americans, too. The president said the other day the sight of these children was the greatest reassurance he had received of the security of America's future.

DISTRICT COURT

With practically all of the testimony taken in the case of T. E. Amos and wife vs. the Slaton Power and Light Company, it is probable that the case will be completed today.

In view of the fact that Judge Mullican was disqualified because of having been identified with the plaintiff's attorney, Senator W. H. Beldsoe prior to being appointed judge of the 72nd Judicial District Court, it was agreed that Attorney Geo. R. Bean, act as judge in this case, and his manner of conducting the case was appreciated by all.

T. E. Amos and wife are asking twenty-five thousand dollars damages for the death of their son, T. E. Jr., who was almost five years of age at the time of his death, alleged to have been caused by an electric current from a live wire that was attached to the Slaton Power and Light Company power plant.

The plaintiffs are represented by Attorney Bledsoe & Pharr, of Lubbock, and Attorneys Baldwin and Koons, represent the defendant.

AT THE CHURCHES

Cumberland Presbyterian Revival Effort Blessing Lives and Saving Souls.

A splendid congregation present for the Monday night service and the evening services of the evening, Rev. Bell brought a very earnest message to the waiting audience from the text: "My Son Give Me Thine Heart." And in conclusion of the message he made an appeal for the hearts of men, women, boys and girls in the church and out of it to give their hearts to God.

A great number expressed their desire to give their heart to God, and a number came to the mourner's bench seeking to give away themselves into the eternal care of a loving heavenly Father. Conviction was written very plainly upon the countenance of many who were not moved to any visible expression, but a young husband and a young lady gave their hearts to God and in the "Old Fashioned Way" confessed Jesus as their Savior and Friend.

The Tuesday morning service was consumed in a personal investigation of the Church and its membership. The text of the hour was: "Show Me Thy Ways, O Lord; Teach Me Thy Paths." And the purpose was for the realization upon the part of the Church of the direct and definite leadership of the Holy Spirit. The church had a great service, and it is trusted that her membership went forth with the one determination like Ruth of old and that was to follow God and the leadership of His Holy Spirit.

Great things are expected during the services of this week, and many precious souls led to a saving knowledge of a Crucified Christ.

Your prayers, presence, and influence is earnestly coveted and solicited in all the services at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church on Tenth Street. Big out-of-doors auditorium for the night services.

Church of Christ.

Elder L. M. Corney, of Weatherford, will preach for the Church of Christ Wednesday night.

Brother Corney comes to us well recommended both as a man and as a preacher of the gospel, and is visiting Lubbock with a view of locating here.

The Modern Method Of Shearing Sheep Practical On Plains

HEREFORD, July 17.—Presence of a large number of strange Mexicans on the streets Friday caused some comment and inquiry developed the fact that the visitors formed a party of sheep shears belonging to the Lambert-Walker outfit which has been operating near Duoro, twenty miles this side of Vaughn, N. M. for the past twenty days. The Mexicans were in charge of Frank Lambert of Hereford and his partner, C. E. Walker of Montell, Uvalde county, Texas. They are traveling in a big truck with a trailer and the party numbering twenty-three in all, left Friday afternoon on the road to Uvalde and vicinity. Mr. Lambert said he would handle the bunch down as far as Lubbock and Mr. Walker would finish the journey to his home at Montell. Most of the Mexicans live in that vicinity.

The Lambert-Walker concern has just completed a record shearing run at their New Mexico camp where they handled 52,400 ahead of sheep that averaged nine pounds of wool to the animal. The partners have a sheep camp near Vaughn completely equipped with power shears for handling large flocks. They have a $6,000 investment in this camp. They have been doing a commercial shearing business with marked success and the season has just ended.

The camp has been a busy scene for the past twenty days. The Mexicans are all experienced hands at their work. They will average about 150 sheep each per day although one man went as high as 197. Thirty-seven men were employed at the camp, an average of 2500 sheep being handled daily, the record day's run being 2885. They are a happy-go-lucky, noisy bunch.

and full of good nature. Mr. Lambert stated that the camp was a magnet for the boys about Vaughn and they always had company for the daily frijole dinners for which the camp was famous. The partners fed the bunch well, the check bill for the twenty days amounting to $795. An interesting incident in this connection from a local standpoint is the fact that they purchased these supplies from Adolph Baer, general merchant of Vaughn, who is a brother of Gaston Baer of Hereford. Both Messrs. Lambert and Walker were high in their praise of the treatment received at the hands of Mr. Baer.

SPECIAL SUMMER SCHOOL THIS YEAR AT BAYLOR

Special to the Avalanche. BELTON, July 17.—A special five-week summer term held after the regular twelve-week summer term will be conducted by Baylor College for Women this summer for the first time. The special session will open August 10 and close September 14. Baylor College is one of the few colleges in the Southwest to give resident work throughout the entire year.

The course offered will likely be confined to freshman and Sophomore work, according to Dean E. G. Townsend. The demand for a course will determine whether it will be offered. Instructors will be regular members of the faculty who will be employed to teach during the special term.

A college student may take one and a half majors of work. If she has made an average of "B" the two terms previous to this, she will be permitted to take two majors. Academy students may take one unit.

The enrollment for the regular summer session has reached 801, the largest in the history of the College and one of the largest of any school in Texas.

The enrollment for the session of 1922-23 was 1,820, making Baylor College the third largest College for women in the United States.

JAZZ BAND IN JAIL AT DALLAS A GOOD ONE

By the United Press. FORT WORTH, July 16.—A jazz band has been formed among the prisoners incarcerated on the fifth floor of the county jail here.

Led by Jailer McDougall with his violin, the prisoners' band is declared by their leader to be one of the best in the State.

There are several professional musicians in the five piece orchestra and while they play a great number of their selections their favorite is "Jailhouse Blues." They know this piece musically and actually, according to McDougall.

"When Better Cars are Built Buick Will Build Them"

If this was the headlines of a Buick advertisement only and was never substantiated by so many Buick owners, its soundness could not be so thoroughly realized, but just listen to what Jas. E. Watson, well known Lubbock man says about his Buick Six touring car which was bought of this company last week:

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 12, 1923.

John H. Moore, Lubbock Buick Company, Lubbock, Texas.

Friend Moore:

We averaged twenty-six miles per gallon of gas, and up hill nearly all the way.

When better autos are made, Buick will make them.

JAS. E. WATSON.

The above was written on a post card which we have at our office, and is further proof of the superiority of the Buick.

If you are thinking of buying an automobile, think about the Buick.

Visit our sales room and see the many beautiful models.

OUR TRIP TO THE PLAINS.

Last Wednesday morning just as the Frisco passenger rolled into Menard, Ernest Ware and the editor mounted a two-and-a-half ton Republic truck and rolled out, bound for that country where the rattlesnake made his last stand, and died of thirst—with Lamesa as our destination. The trip was uneventful except for the fact that it was our first trip to the shadeless west.

Throughout the trip the grasshopper was a familiar object and met us on almost every foot of the way. In the San Angelo country they had done their worst damage, destroying every field of cotton where they had not been fenced out. At intervals along the way the signs of their work could be seen but in most places they were under control.

Except for a few miles out of Menard, the roads to the Dawson county line are excellent. Dawson county has failed to keep abreast with the good-road movement and the shifting sands have made her roads a nightmare to the tourists who pass that way.

As stated above, this was our first trip to the plains and upon climbing the caprock and looking out upon the broad expanse, we stood aghast. The scene that met our enraptured gaze was inspiring—a jersey calf, a jumbo grasshopper and an unbroken country, extending from the rendezvous of the walrus eaters on the north to the land of hot tamales on the south, stood before us. A solitary beargrass stalk nodded us a welcome while in the azure vaults of heaven there lazily soared a giant chicken hawk and his plaintive cry led us to suppose that he, too, was an unfortunate exile, banished from some favored land. Scattered throughout the land stood the abiding places of the settler, ranging from an unpainted one-room lean-to or a dug-out to a modern bungalow, while here and there stood the decaying runs of a deserted shack, whose former occupants had doubtless grown weary of the struggle, gave up the fight, gone back home and pleaded guilty to the offense with which they were charged, asked the mercy of the court and took the consequences.

The plains country is being rapidly transformed from a stock country to a land of farms. The cattle barons who formerly controlled vast empires are rapidly giving away to the gambler—the man who is willing to wager a life of labor that he can force nature to give up her secrets, overcome her immutable laws and transform that country from an arid region to one of sufficient humidity to grow bountiful crops.

If, in the future, the scientist is able to beat back the barrier placed about that country by nature and can, by pressing a button, cause the showers to descend, then will that country become one of the great agricultural centers of the world. In other words, if that country could be supplied with sufficient water it would be a paradise but it is believed by some that hell would be a very good place if it had a good supply of water.—The Menard Messenger.

Just like a lot of other fellows, the Menard man wants to render a verdict before the evidence is all in. He visited the Plains! He came as far as Lamesa—he saw a great portion of the Plains, now, didn't he? He hardly got on the Plains, and was only a few miles from the "breaks" when he arrived at his destination. Yet he goes back home and in a sweeping verdict condemns the whole Plains country, and makes an ass of himself by showing his dense ignorance of the real merits of the country. His memory is very good, however, because he is still retaining the description of the Staked Plains as given in the old geography of some forty years ago, as being a great desert waste of country. He met a jersey heifer and a jumbo grasshopper! These two creatures probably recognized the distinguished pencil pusher from Menard, as their species are inhabitants of the Menard country, and especially have the grasshoppers been operating in that country very industriously during the past few months, and make frequent raids on that section from year to year.

Lamesa is in the southern part of the South Plains, just in the edge of the Plains section, and while it is a mighty fine section of country, and crops do exceedingly well there, and Lamesa is a rapid growing city, at the same time the Menard editor did not begin to see the Plains, and he does not even know what they look like, and he does not know what grows on the plains because we are confident he is not well read, nor has he been about much or he would know more about what he thought he was talking about.

We presume he was not at the State Fair last year and saw the agricultural exhibits there, nor did he read that ninety percent of the agricultural exhibits came from this section of the country, and that all of the main prizes, cash premiums, etc., were copied by the Plains countries. Don't remember anything about that, do you, Mr. Menardite? And you have not read from the pen of disinterested persons who have been broad enough to come out into this country, and write about what they have really seen, telling in unbiased language the true conditions as they found them in this section of the country.

In the territory the Menardite passed through is one of the still big ranch holdings of the South Plains, and few people have had an opportunity to try out the real merits of the soil in that section of the country, and is yet held mainly by the rancher, and may be for several years to come. So far as his statement regarding the farm homes, we challenge him to come to the Plains proper—around Lubbock and anywhere north of Lamesa—and if he doesn't find a better grade of farm home and better kept up premises than any other section of the state, number considered, we will publicly correct the statement. The Menardite has not seen the Plains. He does not know anything about the real Plains, yet he slips back into his office and writes authoritatively (?) regarding this great country—"Where the rattlesnake made his last stand and staved to death for water." We doubt if there ever were as many rattlesnakes in this country as you can now find in the Menard country, and, as to water, there is more pure water on the plains than the Menardite ever saw or heard of, as in all probability the San Saba river is about the biggest stream he ever saw, and it seldom ever gets on a "rise."

He says that when the barriers are removed from the Plains country that it may become one of the great agricultural centers of the world. We do not know just what he means but we do know years that the Plains country has grown a better crop than any other section of the state; that the so-called farming sections of Texas have been eaten out by boll weevils, boll worms, grasshoppers, or washed away till they have not produced interest on the money invested, while the Plains country has never failed to make a crop.

Wait till the evidence is all in, Mr. Menardite, before you render a verdict, and be sure you get up on the Plains next time before you try to describe this wonderful country.

We have the water and plenty of it. And if this country is hell, we have that advantage over some places that we have heard of not far from Menard. We have plenty of water, thank you.

ABOUT THAT AUDITORIUM.

Since it has been decided by those in authority that it is best to "make out" with the auditorium that we have till some future date, we urge that there be some improvements made in the affair that we have. It should be floored, and made comfortable, both in summer and winter so that it can be used, and put in charge of some person, who will know who is going to use it, so that there will be no conflicting dates, and so that it can be properly cared for. It should not be made the hanging-out place for boys and nigger shooters, and it should be kept closed and keep people out of it except when it is being used, make those who use it responsible for any damage done, and for the upkeep of the building during the time they use it.

We have been told that in days gone by it was a congregating place for folks, who use it for anything, but legitimate purpose, and was a rendezvous for gamblers and other questionable characters.

Let's make the present arrangements more likable by making it more comfortable and practical so that it will be of real benefit and not stand there unused except by birds and bats, and bad men and women, and worse boys and girls. If we are going to recognize it at all, let's take enough interest in it to keep it in repair, and have it so it can be available for use at any time.

NEW RULING ON STATE AID GOOD ONE.

A new ruling has been handed out by the State Department of Education regarding State Aid to Rural Schools. The requirements being that each school receiving State Aid must have not less than a nine-months term of school, and that the district shall have not less than 75c tax rate. This is no doubt a good ruling, as in some of the more densely settled sections of the State where the school district are about as large as a camp blanket the county superintendents have been in the habit of assessing a very low tax rate and fixing a very short scholastic term, then appealing to the state for aid a longer term. Evidently the new ruling is based on the theory that a district with a seventy-five cent rate and a nine months term is able to paddle its own canoe and should not ask for-aid from the State.

Day by day the weed cutting campaign continues, and day by day activities are noticed in different parts of the city, new sectors are being attacked, and there is death and destruction in the wake of the hoe in the hands of industrious weed cutters. The old town is beginning to show some sign of getting a real cleaning up, and we are really more hopeful now than ever before that the campaign is going to cover more territory than was first expected. Still, there is something less than 2500 acres of weeds to cut, and we don't have long to cut them. There should be five hundred hoes going every hour-of-the-day until the town is clear of weeds.

Little Avalanches.

The 12-hour day is considered an awful thing for everyone but mother.

Necessity is the mother of invention, as the boy says when he is too sick to work in the potato patch.

Claimed that women are going to rule the world, and as they have been governing the men for some time, this seems altogether likely.

The Spendthrift of Opportunity

By PHEBE K. WARNER

Some folks waste their money, trained to do a thing well. Now while others waste their time. Some waste this because we wasted our money—food—others—waste—opportunities—or because we never had an opportunity to learn how to do so very much?

Right here is something for the average school trustee to think about. The time is here. The children are here. The work is here to be done. More children drop out of school because the school does not fit their needs than for any other reason. Then whose business, whose opportunity is it to provide the kind of education the world is demanding today? It is the school trustee's opportunity to make the schools of today fit the needs of today. How many of them are doing it? Not many. Most of them are still clinging to the old fashioned system of education that has been driving boys out of school for the past quarter of a century and refuse to change the system because it is more trouble and possibly a little more expense.

Perhaps in no other one thing have we all neglected and wasted our opportunities so wretchedly as in education. This will not apply to the men who were boys forty and fifty years ago. Many of them had no chance to go to school but how about today with free schools every where and 90 per cent of our children out and gone from school forever before they even reach the free high school? We believe our greatest waste of opportunities as a nation is in education. The government provides some kind of education for all the children but only a small per cent are getting it.

Another awful waste of opportunity throughout our nation is health. How people do squander their physical assets. And when health is swept away it carries every other opportunity with it. Why do we go on neglecting our teeth, our eyes, our ears, our feet, our back, our heart and stomach when we have the opportunity every day to have something for them? And oh, how we suffer and suffer, over our wasted opportunities for our children after it is too late.

Then there are business opportunities and domestic opportunities and civic and national opportunities that come to us not only individually but collectively. Who is to blame when the town or community, the country or State lets an opportunity pass by unheeded. How many of us are guilty of not doing our civic duty when the occasion presented itself? And what was the result when enough of us failed to go to the polls and cast our judgment into the ballot box for the good of some common cause?

Some of these days the people of Texas are going to have a chance to vote on a highway amendment that is intended to give the State a better system of public highways. And this amendment will mean several millions of Federal funds for the purpose of building a highway system through the State. How many of us will be ready to vote intelligently on that amendment when it comes up? How many of us will go to the trouble to go to the voting place that day and register our wishes for better roads and $30,000,000 Federal aid for our State? Or will we say, "Oh, my vote won't amount to anything. One vote either way won't make much difference." Let a few hundred thousand voters act on this plan and the measure would be lost. Lost by its indifferent friends who threw away their opportunity to do a good thing for their State when they had a chance.

The election for this amendment has been put off and will not take place July 23 as first planned, but it will not be long until the election will be called for again. Let's get ready in the meantime and be prepared to vote intelligently when the time comes. Whatever else we waste, let's not be spendthrifts of our opportunities for some day we may have to give an account of how we used our opportunities the same as how we used our time and money.

RADIO HAS PROMINENT PLACE IN VACATIONS

WASHINGTON, July 17. (United News).—Radio has its place now in the vacation world.

A radio receiving set has become a recognized part of the camp gear and vacationist's kit. Radio experts of the Department of Commerce are receiving reports of many novel and pleasurable uses to which the radio set is being put in vacationland.

The home radio is abandoned to a degree in the summer, they say, but the disappearance of the home radio enthusiasm of winter is being offset by its widespread popularity in camps and summer resorts in the hot months.

The entrance of the radio into this new field is ascribed to the present convenience and practicability of radio receiving sets, through developments in simplicity which have occurred mostly during the last year.

There are tales of fishermen turning in their portable receiving sets when the fish refuse to bite, and weariness of the interminable silence of wood and stream comes on. The fisherman may even tune into a scientific lecture on fishing and find out why he is not catching anything.

The canoe, the automobile, the motor boat and even motorcycles are equipped this summer with radio receiving sets. A trip along the Potomac above the capital, dotted now with hundreds of camps belonging to government clerks who live along the river during the sweeter summer months, will reveal numbers of such portable sets.

And those mothers who are unable to take their babies away from the city for the summer are being helped in keeping the fretful little fellows quiet by the aid of radio. Radio receiving sets can now be attached to baby carriages. The first experiment was tried in Cincinnati, and the novel scheme is expected to be followed elsewhere.

The Real Man Will Not Wantonly Walk On a Worm nor Crouch Before an Emperor.

What Advertising Means to You

Every now and then we like to talk to our merchants about advertising and we like to do it in this way because the subject is of equal interest to the public. Frankly the interest of the public, the interest of the merchant and the interest of the local newspaper publisher are inseparably linked.

The public always is best served by buying advertised goods. Goods that are advertised are goods that are more extensively manufactured and consequently cheaper because of increased production. Moreover advertising today is a guarantee of merit. No one need be afraid either of the honesty of the price or the quality of advertised goods. Competition compels honesty even if there should be a wish to avoid it.

There is another benefit, too, in local newspaper advertising. When advertising is thoughtfully employed it means the building of trade for our local merchants and this reacts in increase in real estate values generally. A prosperous business section means added population and increased conveniences. The whole scheme of advertising, merchandising and buying is one of co-operation to mutual advantage.

The merchant always wins favorable reaction when he talks frankly in his advertising to the people and shows them he is dealing honestly with them and making a normal profit.

The man who weeb with weeb consistently in his advertising shows he holds the public interest at heart is the man who wins. Many merchants lose the substance of public confidence in grasping for the shadow of immediate sales.

Why We Boost the Schools

Newspaper readers, particularly those who have no children, often wonder why newspaper editors take such a keen interest in the building of new schools and the encouragement of education. Sometimes, when the cost of school extension seems particularly heavy, efforts are made to have it appear as if the local editor were unmindful of the public interest in forever boosting for new avenues of learning. But let us lift the professional curtain so that you may see there is usually helpful thought behind the writing of an editorial.

The growth of population places succeeding generations at a disadvantage. Original stores of natural wealth are being depleted. They must be constantly replenished.

Carefree folks say that by the time exhaustion is in sight we will have taken care of the situation some other way; that when a new fuel is found, coal and mining won't be necessary. And there exactly is the point. The great need of the hour is for invention, for scientific research, for discovery, for ingenuity, for the development of all those characteristics that can find root only in the trained and educated mind.

Unless we invent and discover new methods of production and distribution in excess of our consumption and destruction, life will soon become unbearable and prices will rise to a point where human existence will be a burden.

That is why we always boost the schools, even when they are hard to pay for.

LIBERALS' PROGRAM

The highest ecclesiastical courts of the respective denominations have just closed their annual sessions. If we are to believe the reports as printed in the papers, the Liberals went into these respective ecclesiastical courts for the purpose of forcing their heretical, rational and destructive views upon the church. Their program injected the fight into the church. Around the infallibility of the Bible and the virgin birth of Christ the great battle is being waged because the Liberals made the attack upon the authority of God's Word.

The program of Liberalism in the church, in politics and in the world is to destroy the seat of authority, the bar of accountability, the judgment hall. They want license, not liberty.

The orthodox, practical, sincere, honest, consecrated Christians of all denominations were progressing in their evangelistic work without malice, hatred, or antagonism toward anyone except Satan. The Liberals made their attack upon the Bible, vicious Christianity, the deity of Christ and His virgin birth because they wanted to force the fight until they got possession of the property of the church. For the last twenty-five years the Liberals have been planning and scheming to get the property of the churches in their possession.

Let them be assured now that the orthodox forces of the churches who believe in the deity of Christ, His virgin birth and His supernatural resurrection and the infallibility of God's word will never leave the church, and the Liberals shall never get possession of the property of the church. Their motives are understood, their program is comprehended, their number is written before the eye of every intelligent, orthodox Christian in the world. They shall fall. They shall never pass. They shall never get possession of the property nor the seat of power or authority.

Beware of the motive behind liberalism in church or state.

Reformers Crying for Eradication of the "Betting Evil"

NEW YORK, July 17.—The cry is being set up by reformers for eradication of the "betting evil." The "betting evil" is the gambling being done at racetracks throughout the country. In this age of civilization, no such condition should be tolerated, they say. Maryland and Kentucky have recognized the betting evil and wed government regulations. Betting is done openly and the state gets a substantial tax. In neither of these states is there any income levied on the salaries of workers. But there is in New York.

The politicians of New York and some other states have sidestepped the issue. At tracks in and around New York there is in practice what is known as "oral betting." The state law prohibits any betting whatever, but it has been so long since a bookmaker was arrested for violating that law that nobody seems to recall it.

Recently, out in Chicago, police raided the Hawthorne track at the opening of the racing season there and "pinched" a dozen alleged gamblers.

Nobody in New York or Chicago believes that anyone is going to pay up to $5 entrance fee, merely to watch a few ponies run around the track.

As long as there is horse racing there will be betting. The authorities of New York state, just as in some other states, know that "oral betting" is being openly conducted at the tracks every afternoon.

The politicians of New York are afraid to remedy the condition of crookedness caused by failure to recognize betting and install pari-mutuel machines as they have in Maryland and Kentucky.

"They tell the reformers: 'See, we have a law prohibiting betting; we have wiped out the betting evil.' But they know that betting is going on and they could arrest hundreds every afternoon if they wished. But they would incite the race fans to vote against them.

Hence, they permit the great farce to go on—playing both ends against the middle.

If the reformers want to correct the "betting evil" they will have the backing of every racing fan in the United States, except the bookmakers, who are getting rich off the present condition.

If the pari-mutuel machines were installed in New York tracks and the betting taken out of the hands of irresponsible bookmakers, the workers of New York state would not have to pay an income tax on their salaries.

If the reformers have an honest desire to correct the betting on horse racing they can force the matter to an issue and make the politicians either abolish horse racing or conduct it properly.

England is growing as extravagant over soccer as the United States is over baseball.

Recent editions of London papers contain an announcement of the purchase of Duncan Walker, the St. Mirren center forward, by the Notts Forest Club for $12,000.

This is the largest purchase price on record.

Since George Sisler was kept out of the race this season, the fans have been talking about who is going to prove the most valuable player in the major leagues.

There is a man up at the Polo Grounds who should receive serious consideration for the honor. He is the most consistent scorer in either league; he has made more hits and his fielding and base running approximate the best.

He is Frankie Frisch, the Giant star.

PARIS, July 17.—Americans must check the "color line" at the three-mile limit.

Tourists from the United States have caused a furore in Paris—where the color line does not exist—because they resent the presence of French colonial negroes in cafes, restaurants, hotels, trains and sight-seeing busses.

So serious is the situation regarded by the colored portion of the French citizens that Deputy Diagne representing the Senegalese home province of Battling Siki, has protested to Premier Poincare asking the government to take some action to show the Americans "their place."

Diagne, in a letter to Poincare refers specifically to the row caused by Americans when they found that several Senegalese had booked passage on the same sight-seeing bus which was to convey them to the battle fields.

After vehement protests, the management of the tour converted the bus into a "Jim Crow" car, allowing the Americans to ride in front and French negroes, several of whom are officers in the French army, to ride in the rear.

"Too many Americans," stated Diagne, "are running loose in our boulevards trying to enforce their savage customs on the French gentlemen of color.

It is necessary that the police intervene to make the Americans, who are here as the guests of France, respect the rights of every citizen.

The Americans who took part in the buss demonstration declared that they fought for France during the war. So did our colored citizens. Having fought with France is no reason why Americans would second baseman that ever played baseball.

And McGraw has seen Eddie Collins, Nap Lajoie and Johnny Evers court around the second corner.

Geo. W. Pickle, contractor, who has charge of the construction of the Avalanche Publishing Company building which is under construction on Avenue I, across the street from the post office, received a cartload of material Tuesday, and was enabled to keep all of the brick masons on the job through Tuesday, and has enough material on hand now to keep them busy all of today, and as there is another car of material in transit at this time, no delays are expected for a few days.

The outside wall is being built at this time, and a few hours more work will place the brick above the window casings, which will make it possible for the carpenters to go ahead with their work.

Mr. Pickle is exerting every effort to complete the building in the least time possible, and has made splendid progress this far.

Needless to say all members of the Avalanche force are looking forward to the completion of the building.

Mail Flier Plans 24-Hour Flight From Coast to Coast All Alone in Plane He Has Engineered and Built

By the United Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—A solo transcontinental airplane flight, without a stop between Crissy Field, New York is what Cal K. Vance, United States air mail pilot between San Francisco and Reno, Nev., plans to perform this summer.

In his proposed flight, Vance will use a plane built entirely by himself during the past year, based on plans selected from all known data on airplane construction, driven by a motor he purchased with his own funds. Every bit of wood, metal and wire which has gone into the plane's construction has been purchased by Vance from his own pocket.

Vance describes his proposed flight with the air of a young father going over the points of a newly delivered son. "I don't know where I got the idea, but it came to me about a year ago," he said, "that I'd like to hang up one record while I'm young and healthy. Ever since I was a kid in school I've wanted to be a first-class aviator. I suppose I have been flying-crazy."

To Cross in 24 Hours

"Transcontinental flying is the big thing now. Owing to the differences in time between the east and west coasts, the carrying of mail and other matter which cannot be sent by wire, is delayed in transmission even with the relay system we use in the air mail. I thought it would be a good stunt if somebody could fix up a plane which would cross the country in one day of 24 hours. Then I got to thinking maybe I could pull it off. The name is the thing in a cross-country flight. Sufficient gas to run the motor for the distance to be traversed, a strong motor that will do its stuff, and an airplane so built as to curves as to help the motor as much as possible and afford the necessary speed are necessities. It's simple enough, but there's co-ordination needed that can be found now only in the large planes such as the T-2. The real problem of successful and speedy and economical flying, particularly transcontinental flying, lies in the development of the small plane."

So, in a shop on Greenwich street, Vance began the building of his plane. After pouring over a mass of data, Vance learned the Teuton construction for wing curves, designed his fuselage so that he could get in a gasoline tank of the necessary capacity, made arrangements for his motors and started to work. It was early in the spring before he and a few volunteer mechanics, who helped in their spare time, could complete the plane itself. The first flight proved successful, but two Salmson motors he had bought at a high figure developed ailments and it was found that grease smeared over the parts within the motor had hardened during their period of non-use and had to be cleaned out.

This was done with both motors and both were tested in the plane and found to work only fairly well. It is this motor trouble that has delayed a flight which probably will not be held until August.

Carries 350 gallons. The plane is a peculiar-looking bird, but is a revelation in maneuvering in the air. Its wings are thick, the upper being of one piece, the lower of three pieces with the center rigidly anchored to the fuselage. The fuselage itself has a prolate nose, keeping a long oval stream-line shape to its very tail. The big gasoline tank to hold 350 gallons, will be placed in the forward part of the fuselage behind the motor and forward of the driver's seat.

The 9-cylinder Salmson motor develops 250-horsepower and a speed of 122 miles an hour when the plane is fully loaded, increasing its appetite for mileage as the load grows lighter with the consumption of gasoline. The motor is water-cooled, the radiator, which sets between the spoke-like cylinders and the propeller, holding fifteen gallons of water.

Although clumsy as it appears on the ground, in the air Vance's plane is almost swallow-like in its movements and, according to the builder and pilot, handles with remarkable ease. Thorough tests, which have been given it have all proven successful, Vance claims.

Vance places a value of $12,000 on the plane which weighs 4,200 pounds gross, fully loaded, with the pilot in his place.

Was in World War

Vance himself has had an interesting air career. He enlisted in the flying corps shortly before the United States entered the World War, and trained at several fields in the Central West. From Chinoook Field, Ill., he was sent overseas, where it was discovered that he possessed the unusual faculty of being able to fly any make of plane with little or no instruction. He was made an instructor at Tours aiding the American aviators in mastering the temperamental peculiarities of French planes. He held the rank of first lieutenant.

Thus, he lost a chance to do any fighting or observation work, but after armistice he piloted one of the photographic planes that mapped the entire front for arm. war college records.

Upon returning to the United States and receiving his discharge, Vance went into commercial flying and from that into the air mail service. He has flown over every leg of the mail route west of Cleveland. He is only 26 years old and unmarried.

Only two near-accidents have occurred to Vance in his six years of flying. Once when he was attempting to hop-off at Elko Springs Nevada, with Eddie Rickenbacher as a passenger, the plane slipped and was wrecked, but both he and Rickenbacher escaped without injury. On another occasion Vance was battling a 90-mile gale high over the Sierra range in Nevada when he ran out of gasoline. He guided several hundred feet into the valley, landing his plane on a frozen lake, coated thickly with snow. The spot was only a few rods from a transcontinental line flag station at Soda Springs, so he transferred his mail to the limited and carried it into Reno.

Witchcraft Appears In Strange Tale of An Indian's Murder

By the United Press.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., July 17.—From the mountain fastness of Pushmataha county, where the trail of progress is slow comes a story to the Indian agency recently, rivaling the legends of the state's aborigines.

David Houston, 90-year-old full-blooded Choctaw Indian, was killed because those of his blood believed he was guilty of witchcraft, according to weight of evidence.

Houston, a recluse, was owner of 320 acres of land. Johnnie Hobson, 20, full-blood, was apparently suffering from rheumatism. His joints stiffened and red splotches appeared on his feet.

Johnnie had been shot by a "witch ball," the medicine men declared, pointing to the red spots on either foot. "In three days time" they warned, "the witch will send a bird or an animal. The bird or animal will report back to the witch the condition of the boy. Kill that bird or animal."

For three days the Indians watched. Upon the third day a bird alighted upon the roof of the Hobson home. The bullets missed their mark and the bird escaped. It was reported to have flown toward Houston's home.

The next night Houston, hearing a noise, stepped to the door to investigate and fell dead under a hail of buckshot.

Five persons were arrested, but later released because of insufficient evidence.

Agency officials are authority for the statement that Hobson began a speedy recovery immediately following Houston's death.

El Paso Recognized As Health Resort Is Free of Contagions

By the United Press.

EL PASO, July 16.—This is the most healthful city in the country and is freer from disease than any other, according to a recent report of the city health department.

Not one person in a thousand has a contagious disease of any kind, the report shows.

No diphtheria, smallpox, mumps, chickenpox and many other contagious diseases have been reported. There were only seven cases of measles, five of typhoid fever and four of scarlet fever, the report stated.

Out of the entire population of 90,000 there were only 81 cases of contagious diseases.

21 Hundred Sales in One Day!

There Is Something in Martin Baking Company's Record of Sales last Saturday that Business Men Should think About

Martin Baking Company's achievement of last Saturday when twenty-one hundred sales was made is NOT attributable to the use of printers' ink. It is not because of quality products for sale. It is not, alone, because of the KIND OF SERVICE given. We are going to give you the reason which we believe would be profitable in any business.

Martin Baking Company set a precedent in the business annals of West Texas When it Combined All the Usual Forces That make for Success With An Incentive for Every Employee Added.

The man who wrote this advertisement has been living in Lubbock many years. He has yet to hear one complaint about the quality of the products sold by Martin Baking Company. Never has he heard anyone complain of the service. The prices asked for Martin Baking Company's products have always been considered fair.

Then, the first of January, this year, at the very height of the success of Martin Baking Company, an unique policy wherein all loyal employees profited thru sales, was adopted.

There Is No Doubt, Whatever, In the Minds of the Management but that the profit-sharing Policy Created an atmosphere of Personal interest in Every Transaction That Attracts Human Nature to a Degree No Other Policy Could.

Martin Baking Company knows that printers' ink will not make people like the things they eat. It's got to be inside, or in the language of our baseball fans "in there." That is why we never think about making a product that isn't good.

MERE LUCK STARTED ALLAN DWAN'S CAREER

Allan Dwan's entrance into motion pictures is a good example of the element of luck that has attended the start of many of the successful figures in picture production today. It also proves the old rule that when opportunity knocks one should be ready to take advantage of it.

Back in 1908 Dwan was an electrical engineer just fresh from Notre Dame University. He was in charge of the installation of Cooper-Hewitt lights at the old Essanay studio in Chicago and one day Tom Ricketts, a director, came up to him and said:

"You're just the type I am looking for. Are you an actor?"

Dwan said yes just to see what would happen, and when Ricketts asked him where he had worked he was in a quandary. Then his ability to think quickly, which has been a great asset to him in directing pictures, brought him the chance to appear before the camera. The night before Dwan had been seen "Paid in Full" at one of the theatres so he told Ricketts that he had played "Joe Brooks" in that play.

Before he knew it Ricketts had him in a dressing room putting make-up on and he played in several scenes with J. Warren Kerrigan. That was the beginning of Dwan's motion picture career. He dug down in his trunk and uncovered some stories he had written in his school days and sold them for twenty-five dollars each. This brought him the chance to be scenario editor of the old American Film Company in California. From that time to this Dwan's rise has been steady. He is now producing Paramount pictures at the company's Long Island studio.

Mr. Dwan has become one of the best known directors in America. He produced "Robin Hood", "The Glimpses of the Moon", for Paramount. He has just finished another big picture for Paramount "Lawful Larceny", with Hope Hampton, Nita Naldi, Conrad Nagel, Lew Cody and others in featured roles.

Deaf Smith To Have New Rural High School Soon

HEREFORD, July 17.—Common School District No. Five in the western portion of Deaf Smith county is to have a new rural high school in the near future, to be located on a six-acre plot of ground donated for the purpose by Judge F. Slaton out of the northeast corner of section 51, Block K. A. The site is 440 feet wide north and south and 600 feet east and west. Judge Slaton threw in a good well and windmill located on the tract, reserving the right to use the water for the next two years. The site was donated with the understanding that the deed would hold good as long as the tract is used for high school purposes.

This gift and the decision to establish the school was announced following a meeting of the County Board of Education in the office of the secretary of the Board, Judge W. M. Megert, July 6. Those present at the meeting were Homer Wilkinson, chairman, Joe P. Slaton, J. K. Gray, J. H. Daniels, J. H. Pitman and Judge Megert.

The new high school is located about eight miles from Hereford on the Harrison Boulevard, two miles west of the O. G. Hill ranch and one and a half miles west of the big mounts lake that has just overflowed the highway. It is not known what steps the residents of the district will take to secure a new school. It is rumored that the Tirma Blanco building will be moved and added to for the purpose. The district has a "floating" tax rate for school purposes of $1.00, although only fifty cents of this amount is assessed, and it is presumed they will petition the commissioners court to set a rate that will take care of the necessary improvements contemplated.

CRITICS CALL "DRIVEN" HIT OF THE DECADE

Accorded unstinted praise by cinema critics noted for their failure to enthuse greatly over most feature productions, "Driven" has just justified to the fullest measure the faith that Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Pictures Corporation had in it when he broke a precedent of six years' standing and purchased a production made outside of Universal City.

It is an epic of life in the Blue Ridge Mountains, a cross-section of a phase of American life that one knows exists, but scarcely can imagine. It is a story of a mother who forgets everything, even family and tribal loyalty, and sells out her husband and three sons to insure happiness for the one real human being in the brood—a timid, shy lad, who longs for the better things of life, and who, by some freak of fate, was born into this strange family.

"Driven" opens an engagement of two days at the Lindsey Theatre on Thursday. Manager Rogers is confident that it will meet with the same success here as it has in other cities where it has been shown.

INJUNCTION TO DISSOLVE HARVESTER CO. FILED

WOULD MAKE THREE DISTINCT COMPANIES IN DISSOLUTION

By the United Press.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The dissolution of the International Harvester Company into three separate, distinct and independent corporations, was asked in a petition filed in Federal Court at St. Paul, Minnesota today by Attorney General Daugherty.

The Department of Justice announced that the action was taken in accordance with the recommendations of the Federal Trade Commission in a report to the Senate in May 1920.

SAYS BLONDE IN UNITED STATES FACES EXTINCTION

CHICAGO, July 17.—The blonde, with the "large, baby-blue eyes," is going the way of the American buffalo, Dr. Harry C. Paul, optometrist, declared today.

Soon she will be a rarity in the United States, if she does not wear glasses that screen out the destructive ultra-violet and infrared rays of sunlight, he said.

"It's because of the intense light in this attitude. Pigment protects the retina by screening out destructive light rays, and the blonde, with not enough pigment for our intense light, suffers accordingly."

The blonde, Dr. Paul pointed out, comes from northern Europe, where the light is much softer than in this country. The brunette hailed originally from the southern climes, and in the United States she has a distinct advantage over her fair-haired sister.

"The only thing that the blue-eyed baby-doll can do is wear glasses," Dr. Paul continued. "She can wear smoked glasses or a special glass invented by Sir William Crookes, inventor of the X-ray. But can you imagine a blue-eyed flapper trying to practice her wiles through smoked glasses?"

Scientists recommend a daily half dozen to aid blondes. They are:

Roll your eyes.
Look up from your work frequently.
Give your eyes plenty of fresh air.
Look at green grass, flowers and the blue sky.
Sit up straight.
Bathe the eyes in cold water when tired.

Strong Friendly Helpful

Regardless of the amount of resources a bank has, its strength depends mostly upon the ability to protect its depositors. Most people know that banks, like other businesses, are operated for profit, and though it is the duty of a bank to first protect its owners—stockholders, it could not profit without giving its customers a strong, helpful and friendly service.
