

Chas. W. Ferguson Will Address The Young People Of Lubbock Sunday Afternoon At Four O'Clock At The Methodist Church

An open forum exclusively for the young people of Lubbock between the ages of 17 to 35 will be held next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the First Methodist church on Broadway. "The Challenge of Despair" will be the subject of a brief address by Rev. Charles W. Ferguson, acting pastor; after this opportunity will be given for the candid expression of opinion on the theme of the hour or on any other problems or questions which concern the young life of the city. These meetings may become a regular feature of the church work, it is announced and speakers both of this city and from other towns may be secured to address them.

The meeting is a part of an effort that will be made to bring the youth of the city into a realization of its own power and formation of some plan for life's activity. Though the meeting Sunday is to be essentially religious, the frankest expressions of opinion will be encouraged and effort will be made to find in what ways the church may help the younger people of the community. Members of all the churches and those who are not members of any church are invited to be present.

"We Salute, but Do Not Speak" is the subject for the sermon Sunday morning and "The Basis of Hope" will be discussed Sunday evening. The crowds have been excellent for summer weather and a sincere welcome awaits those who worship with us.

Old Time Picnic And Barbecue To Be Staged In Tahoka By Legionnaires On Friday, July 27th; All Are Invited To Attend

Editor Bob Haynes and wife, of the Lynn County News have announced that an old time picnic and barbecue will be held in Tahoka, Friday, July 27.

When Bob spreads a headline all over the left side of the front page of his worthy sheet, one might as well take it for granted that the news item contained therein is worth reading and sure enough we believe Bob is telling us something interesting when he used a large portion of his sheet depicting the many features of the entertainment, and urging everybody to attend.

Not being satisfied with what he said in the article, the alert editor in a personal letter to the Avalanche editor stressed the fact that the "world is invited" to be in Tahoka on the 27th.

The writer has had occasion to know how Tahoka people treat their visitors, and take pleasure in passing the good word on to our readers.

Besides offering a good time, Bob let it out that the speed cops will be sent fishing on that day, and that the twenty blocks of paving which has just been completed, will be at the disposal of the visitors, and everything from ox-carts to locomotives will be permitted thereon.

The big celebration will be staged under the auspices of the American Legion Post of Tahoka, and this feature will tend to liven interest in local vets.

As further evidence that Tahoka people offer entertainment features that are worth going to enjoy, we print the program as it appeared in the Lynn County News, as follows:

MID-OCEAN DREAM

By the United Press
NEW YORK, July 19.—John Barleycorn is to have a kingdom of his own, according to announcement made in New York papers.

The top of Iceland or Labrador or some other land where the population is rather thin is to be sawed off and towed out into the Atlantic and anchored near the vessel lane. It is to be supported by gas buoys. To furnish the gas for the buoys and for heating the island, gas mains are to be run under the sea from either Mt. Etna or Vesuvius where the supply of both gas and heat are overwhelming.

Just how the physical details are arranged are not made public. But there is a mere detail and no one in New York questions the ability of the mechanical genius of North America enough to be seriously worried over such small problems.

As for the selection of the exact land to be decapitated, Iceland is in favor at present. It is pointed out that the British would rather cling to Labrador, as their publishers are interested in the forests. Then, too, Iceland has more glaciers than Labrador. These can be tapped for ice-water and also for crocked ice, both expected to be in great demand on the new island.

The new kingdom is expected to be the final refuge for the thirsty world. When anchored it is to be furnished with everything the most polished drunkard or mere beginner might desire. It will have its own hospitals, D. T. refuges, etc., to say nothing of miles upon miles of glittering mirrors, brass rails and myriads of bartenders, with diamond headlights and spotless white coats.

While it is expected that the population turnover of the new kingdom will be rapid, it is pointed out that the presence of the ocean on all sides of the island will make disposal of victims very easy—about the only kind thing the promoters care to say about that chemical combination of oxygen and hydrogen.

Wall street financiers believe the greatest difficulty in financing the project will come from the fact that the men who put in the $2,000,000 to start the kingdom on its way will have to be moved by purely altruistic motives, as they cannot hope to live to enjoy the fruits of their labor and must build for their offspring. Some doubt is expressed by men accustomed to handling big projects whether even the most sincere drinkers will care to invest so heavily in a thirst-prevention device for the coming generation.

No public announcement is expected for some time as to how the decapitation of the land selected and its safe transportation into the ocean is to be managed. It is admitted these things involve serious problems. It is hoped that further search of the latest pharos to be despoiled will give mechanical details of the construction of the pyramids which will assist.

F. H. STANTON AGAIN IN BUSINESS IN LUBBOCK

After having spent several months out of the confectionery business following his sale of the Chocolate Shop to W. W. Stafford in the early spring, F. H. Stanton just couldn't stand the idea of staying out of business any longer, and has purchased splendid equipment for the confectionery business, a part of which is temporarily located in the Lubbock Cotton Exchange Building, in the same room with the Hart Brothers Meat Market.

Having purchased all necessary equipment for an up-to-date confectionery Mr. Stanton will be temporarily located in this building, and has made arrangements for space in a more spacious building which he will enter at a later date.

BAPTIST CLOSE MEETING AT EAST WARD SCHOOL

Rev. Derr, Baptist minister, who has charge of three churches in Hale and Lubbock county, has just closed a ten days protracted meeting at East Ward School. There is no church organization there but they had a very satisfactory meeting, and much good was accomplished.

HAMPSTEAD BENTLEY HERE WITH LYRIC THEATRE

Mr. Hampstead Bentley, "Southlands Sweetest Tenor", late of the Al. G. Fields Minstrels, who is filling a week's engagement at the Lyric Theatre, is proving one of the cleverest entertainers in songs that has ever appeared here.

That Bentley is an artist, is evidenced by the applause that greets a song programme that ranges from selections from light opera to the "Jazziest of Jazz", and his ability to sell his wares to his audience, show all the ear marks of "Big Time." He and his very capable pianist are making a tour of the state and appearing in the better class exclusive picture theatres, offering a singing act that one rarely hears in the movies.

TEXAS PROGRESS NOTES

Waco—Telephone men from cities in Central Texas held a meeting here July 18. This is the first of the group meetings of the Texas Independent Telephone Association for this year. The object of these meetings is to develop plans for improving the telephone service.

Abilene—Almost 10,000 visitors registered at the electrical home built by the West Texas Utilities Company and sponsored by that company and the Abilene Reporter. The number of visitors is equal to about three fourths of the number of customers of the company in West Texas.

Stamford—The Stamford water system which has been operated by oil engines is arranging to install electrically driven pumps with energy from the West Texas Utilities Company plant. A new electric pump will give Haskell water users a supply up to 500 gallons a minute.

Roby—A new freight and passenger station for the Roby & Northwestern Railroad is being constructed by the West Texas Utilities Company which has acquired the line and will make it an electric railroad.

Lockhart—Extensive improvements have been made to the plant of the Citizens Light & Water Company here to keep up with the growth of the city. Ed A. Masur has been elected president of the company.

Baldwin—Construction of the electric transmission line from the local electric light plant to the machine shops of the Ft. Worth & Denver Railway is under way and the shops will be operated with electric power.

Coriscana—Increased express business of the Texas Interurban Railway here have made additional express depot facilities necessary and construction is to begin at once.

Dallas—Improvements of the street railway tracks in Highland Park are now under way as extensions and betterments in various parts of the city.

Galveston—D. A. Hegarty, manager of the Brush Electric Company here, discussed tax-exempt securities and their bad effect on industrial expansion before the Doherty Men's Fraternity here. He referred to capital invested in these securities as being "pensioned."

Balmage—Installation of a light and power plant is under way at Bronte. C. C. Holder is building the plant.

Bryan—Negotiations are under way for resuming service on the Bryan-College Station electric interurban line. The road was ordered dismantled some time ago but the need for service is such that plans have been made to restore it.

Hersford—Extensive new equipment and cable lines are being installed in the local telephone plant and the entire system will soon be completed into a modern plant.

Coriscana—Electrification of many of the oil field power operations here is under way, a transmission line of the Texas Power & Light Company being extended to the fields.

All Classes Of People Will Attend Short Course At A. & M.

COLLEGE STATION, July 19.—The fourteenth annual Farmers' Short Course which will be held at the A. & M. College of Texas July 23 to 28 will be attended by an unusually large number of club boys and girls representing different counties of the State, farm men and women, business and professional men whose interests are connected with the rural people, and agriculturalists of various kinds, according to information now in the hands of Director T. O. Walton of the Extension Service of the College, who is in charge of the Short Course.

In addition to the valuable work given the club boys and girls opportunity will be offered to the hundreds of farm men and women who will be in attendance to study particular phases of agriculture, livestock and poultry production, and others interested will be attracted by the programs of lectures and demonstrations by specialists, by conventions and meetings of different associations.

In connection with the regular course for the farmers will be conducted the convention of the Texas Honey Producers' Association, the Agricultural Writers' Conference, the Thirty-Seventh Annual Convention of the Texas State Horticultural Society, the convention of the Texas Cotton Seed Breeders' Association and the Extension Workers' Conference.

Each county may send a livestock judging team of three boys, a grain judging team of three boys, one girl to enter the Texas Club Girls' State Clothing Contest, a team of two boys or girls or both to enter the poultry judging contests. Two girls for the canning contest, one girl for the bread-making contest. There will be button-hole contests for the women and girls and a baking contest for women, which will follow the week of instruction, and for which there will be no limitation as to entries. Many valuable prizes will be awarded as a result of the contests for the club boys and girls, among which will be silver cups, money prizes, canning, cooking and sewing outfits.

New Theory To Explain Creation Of The Earth Evolved

WASHINGTON, July 19.—A theory that the earth and other planets were formed from fragments rent from the sun by the powerful tidal attraction of passing stars, long ago, is advanced by J. H. Jeans, F.R.S. in the annual report of the Smithsonian Institute.

Casting about for a theory which harmonizes difficulties of the nebular hypothesis, Jeans and his school of thought have evolved the tidal hypothesis.

According to his theory of the origin of the solar system, what probably happened at the moment of the "cataclysm," Jeans says, is that the attraction caused the sun-mass to eject two arms or jets of matter, one towards the attracting star and the other in exactly the opposite direction.

Due to the instability of the distribution of density in one of the masses, condensations formed in it and ultimately it broke into separate detached masses. The surviving jet formed our sun; the fragments of the burst jet are now our planets.

From the mathematical investigation on which this hypothesis is based, it appears, according to Jeans' article, that the jets thrown out would have been gaseous, but would have rapidly cooled in the process of ejection to liquid or even solid states.

"It can be shown that the planets which would be formed out of the middle portion of such a jet ought to be much more massive than those formed near the ends, and this may possibly provide an explanation of the comparatively great masses of Jupiter and Saturn," Jeans states.

"We imagine that the planets at first described orbits under the combined gravitational action of the sun and the passing star, but as the star receded they were left revolving as at present, around the sun. During their earlier motion they may themselves have been broken up by the tidal action of one or both of the big masses present, and such a process may explain the origin of the satellites of the planets."

HOW MUCH CAN A PAIR OF HORSES PULL?

How much can a pair of horses or mules pull? A scientific test, conducted under controlled conditions, for the express purpose of determining animal draft power, will be held at the Iowa State Fair. This contest is sponsored by the horse department of the Iowa State Fair and the Horse Association of America, Union Stock Yards, Chicago.

The specially constructed test wagon—an Iowa State College invention—is so equipped that thru the action of gears and a hydraulic pump driven from the wheels, it furnishes absolutely uniform load resistance whether going down hill, on the level, or up hill. With this wagon, it is possible to put on any predetermined load and have it constant throughout the test.

The contest will determine who owns the best pulling team. Farmers, lumbermen, coal men and ice dealers—anybody who owns a heavy draft team may enter it. Cash prizes to the amount of $600 will be distributed. There are to be three classes—one for farm teams under 3,000 pounds; one for farm teams weighing 3,000 pounds and up and one for teams, other than farm, weighing 3,000 pounds and up. First prize in each class will be $100, second, $50, third $30, fourth, $20. A silver trophy will be awarded to the team which pulls the largest load.

Whipping or scolding will cause immediate disqualification of an entry. All entries will be given critical veterinary examination before and during the test and representatives of the Humane Associations will be among the officials so that no charge of abuse can possibly arise.

No exact research on the pulling power of horses and mules was ever done, for it has been impossible, prior to the invention of this test wagon, to place a load on a team and have an even pull from start to finish. A horse power has been the standard of power for centuries. It is the amount of energy required to pull a 150 pound weight out of a well 220 feet deep in one minute. It has been the general practice of farmers to require horses to exert a tractive pull equal to one-tenth of their own weight. For a 1,500 pound horse this represents a continuous expenditure of one horsepower of energy, but horses are often required to pull more than one-tenth of their live weight, and can do so.

This reserve power in horses and mules—what makes them so valuable to farmers and city users. Farm implements or city carts may require, ordinarily, only two horsepower in operation, and the team moves along with ease; but in a stiff piece of soil, may triple or quadruple the pull required on farm implements, while a piece of bad paving, or none at all, will do the same for the city team. This reserve power possessed by horses and mules comes into play and they calmly settle into their collars and exert three, four, five or six horsepower each for a brief period of time, with the result that the work goes on, with no delays, no digging out, no hunting for boards or block and tackle to finish extra power. The power is there in the collars when needed. Exactly how many reserve "horse-power units" teams possess will be shown by this contest. Write A. R. Corey, Secretary Iowa State Fair, Des Moines, Iowa, for details.

WAYNE DINSMORE, Secretary Horse Association of America.

A BILLION DOLLAR SWINDLE RING DISCOVERED.

Something really big has been unearthed around New York. It is not a huge brick building nor a battle ship, but a billion dollar swindle deal. It is claimed that this ring has been operating in that city for several years and detectives and special officers have been working on the proposition almost that long, and are just now getting to a point where they are ready to announce that they are certain of running in the offenders. It is claimed that the many big failures of recent years have played to the hands of this ring.

It was estimated that the bucket shop failures of the last few years have involved $100,000,000 in losses to the innocent traders in Wall Street securities.

For the second time within a week the state authorities have applied the new Martin law against a stock promotion enterprise. This law provides for injunctions to stop the sale of stocks believed to be fraudulent. It is the latest development in dealing with "blue sky" promoters.

It is charged that $750,000 worth of stock has been sold in the various companies without the production of a single picture, and instead of being able to operate, the motion picture concern is $25,000 in debt. The state claims in its petition that Johnson pocketed $475,000 of the $750,000 paid into the concern and that the remaining $275,000 went for salaries, office rent, furniture and commissions to selling agents.

The total amount of money lost in these stock promotion concerns which never get beyond the organizing point can not be estimated even at this time. That it has reached into the hundreds of millions there is no doubt. The surface has only been scratched as yet. The state authorities have many concerns on the "suspected" list, and as rapidly as the necessary evidence can be obtained they, too, will be stopped from the further sale of worthless stock. The authorities are sorry they can not reach all the suspected houses at once and use the Martin law for the protection of those who are continuing to fall victims to the wiles of the sleek stock salesman, but it is necessary to proceed with caution lest some legitimate concern be damaged.

The various stock exchanges in the city are co-operating with the authorities to the fullest extent. The Consolidated Exchange is particularly active. It is making a sweeping investigation, and in addition to expelling a member firm and throwing it into bankruptcy within the last few days, it has also stopped ticket service to suspected brokerage offices.

Women have been largely the victims of the spurious stock selling corporations in which the entire capital invested has been wiped out by the expenses of promotion and the "commissions" taken by the organizers. Many women also have been caught in the bucket shop crashes, but the supposedly stronger and wiser sex has fallen just as hard or even harder in many instances.

A phase of the wholesale swindling which is giving the financial district as much concern as the attack upon the integrity of the legitimate broker is the tremendous loss to industry in this country during the last three years by the bucket shop failures. The money turned into these brokerage houses was in many cases intended for permanent investment in legitimate and high class stocks and bonds. Of course it never went into these securities, but was gobbled up by the members of the firm and used either in their own speculation or to maintain the automobiles, the multiple living establishments and the chorus girl sweethearts of the fleeing and sometimes fleeing gamblers.

BERGDOLL MAY RETURN AND TAKE HIS MEDICINE.

A possibility that Grover-Cleveland Bergdoll may voluntarily return to the United States and serve a prison sentence for evading the draft is held by some officials as a result of recent conferences with the Bergdoll attorneys.

Hope of such a development is based upon a supposition that at least some of the Bergdoll property taken over by the Government during the war might be returned should the fugitive give himself up. The restoration law passed at the last session of Congress contains a clause said to have been inserted to cover the Bergdoll case in particular, specifying that none of the property held by the alien property custodian shall be turned back to its former owner so long as he is under sentence for violation of the draft law. When Mrs. Emma Bergdoll recently applied for a passport to visit her son in Europe, her lawyers are said to have indicated that she would use her influence to have him serve out his five-year sentence and make restoration of at least a part of his estate a legal possibility. In all, the alien property office holds property valued at about $1,300,000 belonging to Grover Bergdoll.

FIRE PREVENTION.

The National Fire Protection Association at its annual convention in Chicago recommends ways to reduce fire losses which appeal to the common sense of all of us.

On the question of damages for loss resulting to innocent persons from preventable fires it endorses a more general legal recognition of the common law principle of personal liability for damage resulting from fires due to carelessness or neglect and the enactment of laws or ordinances fixing the cost of extinguishing preventable fires, upon citizens disregarding fire prevention orders.

This is strictly in accord with the law which allows damages to an injured party resulting from another's carelessness in operating an automobile, elevator, railroad train, street car, amusement park, mechanical equipment, etc. Then why not some redress against the person who is careless with fire?

The association also urged municipalities to adopt the standard building code in order that fire resistive construction may be encouraged.

Also that states adopt building and fire protection requirements for public and private hospitals, schools, asylums and the like, and that an official investigation into the causes of all fires be required.

Perhaps the wisest recommendation of all is that pleading for the education of the children and the public generally in careful habits regarding the use of fire.

CALIFORNIA TIGHTENS ON I. W. W. ACTIVITIES.

California's war against the I. W. W. and its activities passed to a new stage a day or two ago, when an injunction was issued asking for the prohibition of virtually all activities of that organization in the State of California. The injunction included all its affiliated bodies, and there is a movement on foot to make this injunction permanent, which motion will be heard on the 25th of this month.

Under the terms of the writ membership in the I. W. W. or affiliated bodies will be construed as contempt of court, punishable by six months imprisonment without the necessity of a jury trial. The injunction will be valid in every county in the State and any superior court will have jurisdiction.

The action was brought in the name of the State by District Attorney J. J. Henderson of Sacramento County with the consent of Attorney General U. S. Webb, after the criminal courts had become clogged with a multiplicity of I. W. W. prosecutions under the criminal syndicalism law.

By means of the injunction District Attorney Henderson hopes to have the I. W. W. declared an unlawful organization.

ONE EFFECT OF TAX-EXEMPTS.

Investments in tax-exempt securities have resulted in a reduction of more than $4,000,000,000 in the total net incomes reported for last year.

In 1916, 206 persons were reported in the million-dollar-income class, and last year this had shrunk to only 21 persons as a result of billion dollars or more of tax-exempt securities being issued every year and gobbled up by the investors.

With an estimated $30,000,000,000 of tax-exempts absorbed by investors, taxpayers with $3,000 incomes or less pay 46 per cent of federal income tax.

Between the excess profits tax and reducing incomes by investing in tax-exempt securities, we are not making the rich poorer but the poor, are made poorer, for more and more the burden of the federal income tax is falling upon those with small incomes.

GOVERNOR NEFF BACK ON THE JOB.

Lieut. Gov. T. Davidson, whose terms as Acting Governor of Texas expired at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening, is preparing to leave for his home at Marshall Wednesday evening, having remained over to dispose of an accumulation of mail that he was unable to dispose of before that time.

Davidson expressed satisfaction on his experiences as chief executive of Texas, especially on the result of his campaign against lawlessness. He said he felt certain Governor Neff would continue the program as Neff is not one to condone lawlessness.

TURKS MAY SIGN PEACE TREATY.

The unexpected sometimes happen, and it may be that it is going to happen soon. The Turkish Government has authorized Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation at the Lausanne Near East conference, to sign the peace treaty. Authorization followed receipt of approval by Ismet of the agreements reported with the allied representatives. The questions of concessions of foreign companies and the withdrawal of warships from the straits were settled in a manner not dangerous to the national interests and without prejudice to the economic independence of Turkey, the delegation chief informed the Government.

Little Avalanches

President Harding is said to be out taking the nation's pulse and he should also examine its feet and see if they are not getting cold.

Some people who are too proud to beg are not too proud to take a job and draw pay for about twice as much they do.

The president got introduced as "William C. Harding" at one place on his trip, but as long as they do not present him as Bill Harding, he will not probably kick.

A TALK ON HEALTH

By DR. LOUIS L. DOBLIN

Thirty is the magical age in the health development of the ordinary person's life. At thirty he is supposed more nearly to approach the normal. Under thirty he may weigh a number of pounds above the average called for in the height, weight and age tables, but after thirty the longest life span prevails among those whose weights are uniformly below the average.

These are facts compiled by Dr. Louis L. Dublin, of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company for the New York State Department of Health. They are timely in that they come at a stage in the nation's health history when health organizations are awakening the country's citizens to take annual account of their health. The National Health Council asks everybody to have himself or herself weighed regularly on his or her birthday, and in addition to undergo a general health examination. The American Child Health Association, of which Herbert Hoover is president, has given over its whole support to the movement, and in particular as it applies to children.

Dr. Dublin's remarks further are as follows:

"After thirty people who weigh less than the average have a better chance for long life. The records of the insurance companies show very clearly that what people weigh has a very important bearing on their health and on the length of their life. It has been popularly supposed that it is dangerous to be slight or underweight and that it is an advantage to be heavy. As a matter of fact, this is true only for young people. After thirty, it is a decided advantage to be slight and a serious handicap to gain materially in weight, provided, of course, that the light weight is not the result of a sudden loss in weight which may be the result of organic disease.

"Everybody is familiar with the weight tables used by the insurance companies. They are posted everywhere on public scales. They show the average weights of people according to their height. These tables are useful but must not be taken literally as a guide to what one should weigh. Young persons may well weigh a number of pounds above the average called for by the tables. In excess of ten pounds is associated with the most favorable conditions among people between twenty and twenty-five years old. At forty, it is best for people to weigh about the average shown by the tables. After thirty, the longest life span prevails among those whose weights are uniformly below the average. The amount below the average should increase as people grow older, and at fifty, persons seem to be at their best when they weigh as much as the average. Persons who weigh twenty per cent more than the average have a mortality rate one third greater than the average and those who weigh forty per cent more are likely to die about twice as fast as the average.

"A little thought will show why this is so. The weight of the body throws much work on the various vital organs and especially on the heart and kidneys. This is especially true as we grow older and our heart and kidneys begin to weaken. Every added pound of weight means more work in moving about. What makes matters worse is that, as we grow older, we become more indulgent. We like more food, especially meats and starchy foods and, at the same time, we are less inclined to exercise and burn up the excess of food we have partaken. This results in storing up much fat around the tissues and in requiring the organs of elimination to get rid of additional waste products. All of this has a tendency to put more and more of a strain upon the vital organs and to hasten their breakdown.

"The public should realize these simple facts and accommodate their habits of diet and exercise to them. In America, we eat too much and too well. Strangers who come here for the first time are amazed at the amount of food we consume.

"The oriental cooie and the European peasant do an enormous amount of physical work on a meagre diet. No one advocates a return to primitive conditions or to lower standards of living, but it would be well for us to keep in mind a little more than we do the exact requirements of the adult body. We should recognize that when we have grown up, we need only about 2,500 calories a day. This is equivalent to two very light meals and one hearty meal a day. Let me illustrate with a menu for an entire day for an active adult which will contain the required 2,500 calories. For breakfast, he may have a small average serving of cooked fruit or an apple or an orange, a serving of cereal, a slice of bread or one muffin or roll with butter, a cup of coffee with sugar and cream. This will contain about 600 calories. The luncheon may consist of a salad, bread and butter, a choice of coffee, tea or cocoa with sugar and cream and a dessert. This will account for 650 calories. The important meal of the day, or dinner, may consist of a soup, an average serving of meat, potato, two green vegetables, bread and butter and a dessert. If average portions are served, a total of about 1,200 calories will be included. This would make the total for the day approximately 2,500 calories.

"If the more people checked their diet to the reasonable limits of their body requirements, there would be a great improvement in the general health of the nation. Fewer people at forty would complain of weak hearts and show signs of impaired kidneys. There is no longer any doubt in the minds of skilled physicians that a restriction in diet and the encouragement of exercise will help adults to avoid breakdown and improve their ability to do a good day's work. There are altogether too many persons who ought to be in their prime who are suffering from discomfort and even from lingering illness which has been brought about by their neglect of personal hygiene. It is first word in personal hygiene is to observe moderation and to keep the weight of the body down."

PREPARING TO START WORK ON K. CARTER SCHOOL.

Contractor J. B. Maxey, of Plainview, arrived in Lubbock Thursday and immediately busied himself making preparations to start construction work on the K. Carter school building.

Mr. Maxey is well known to a number of Lubbock people who are pleased to know that he is to be here for some time.

RICHARD LLOYD JONES SAYS

Exercise Your Imagination

A good many men before Watt observed the steam-laden kettle vibrate on the fire. But it took a man with Watt's imagination to recognize that in that kettle was a power which might be harnessed into service.

Others saw the steam engine working, but it took the imagination of a Fulton to believe that paddle propelled by this power could drive a boat ahead and not merely splash the wash. The bromides of Spain laughed at Columbus who had imagination enough to believe that the world was round.

Since man was, he had observed lightning with only wondering awe or fear, until Ben Franklin let his imagination fly with a kite in the storm and the possibilities of electricity were introduced to the world. The telegraph and the telephone that day started on their journey to us.

Scheele observed the change of color on skins exposed to the sun. His imagination brought to us the sun-tracing scheme of duplicating drawings. To this Daguerre lent his imagination, and photography came. McCormick was laughed at because he imagined that a horse might operate a sickle that could do the work of several men with scythes.

An accident on the Boston and Maine Railroad, costing many lives, called the attention of a man by the name of Westinghouse to the inadequacy of hand-power brakes. He put his imagination to work on the power of compressed air. "Foolish," said the wise ones who always know it all, "such a soft cushion can never stop a train." But his air brake made high speed travel safe.

The man who would build a palace of stone must first build with thought. Imagination is the ability to build in the mind. It is the architect, the printer, the driver and electric crane of the future. It foresees, plans, carves, builds. No man can be great who does not use his imagination. But wisdom must always go with imagination.

Exercise the imagination. It will some day bring Mars, Venus and Saturn to us and make this little Earth "the front yard of the universe." He who neglects his imagination allows the key to success to rust.

Poem by Uncle John

I like to be modest, regardless of status—
I never was vain of my rap.
I don't like to brag on productions of mine,
no matter how potent their pep.
And so, I'm discrete when I happen to write the news of a social affair—an I keep my identity clean out of sight, by signing it "One Who Was There."
I'm often invited to furnish the muse, when festive occasions demand. . . . I can sifters dig up some selections to use, that shn't titter with mirth, but to see 'em in print, and it makes all the frequenters glad, as they read in the paper the perpetrator but that "Dainty refreshments was had."
I like to record it, when Cupid's success brings on the convulsions attack—and I don't overlook that the bride wore a dress, and the groom "the conventional black."
I'll say it's a wonder—the language we got, to mighty high curdle the blood—when we write of a victim which some body shot, that "He fell with a sickening thud!"

Etiquette

What & When to do it

By A. Leda

Any questions on etiquette will be gladly answered in this column if addressed to A. Leda, care of this newspaper.

Dear Aleda—What is the best way to announce an engagement? (2) Who does it, the bride's family or the groom's? (3) Who pays for the engraving, etc? Miss A. L., California.

Answer—The usual way of announcing an engagement is through the papers. Using this method: First select your paper and then send the notice to the society editor. An example is: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Black announce the engagement of their daughter Jane, to Mr. John Cox, of Denver, Col. No date has been set for the wedding. It will probably take place in November. (2) The bride's family. (3) The same.

Owing to a sudden death in our family, we must postpone our daughter's wedding. Will you please tell me what is the quickest and best way to go about this. The wedding was to be this September. Mrs. R. M., Wisconsin.

Answer—Have some printed cards made. A good stationer should get them out in 24 hours. Have them word something like this and so on: I one to each person that received a invitation: Owing to the sudden death of Mr. Raymond Brown's father, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Brown beg to request the invitation issued for their daughter's wedding reception.

HELPFUL HEALTH HINTS

Prickly Heat.—A good talcum powder frequently applied does much to eliminate this annoying skin disease. When a case of prickly heat is severe the skin should be bathed with a mixture of one part alcohol to three of water, afterwards dusting with talcum powder.

Fruit Before Breakfast.—An orange eaten half an hour before breakfast is a splendid aid to the digestive system.

Hiccoughs.—Taking small regular swallows of water from a glass without taking a breath will usually stop hiccoughs. If this fails try giving the patient a teaspoonful of granulated sugar and vinegar.

England Ready To Move To Checkmate France; Editor Of Outlook Says The French Are Ruining Englands Prospects

(Copyright, 1923, by the United Press. By arrangement with "The Outlook," London.)
LONDON, (By mail to the United Press.)—It is no wish of mine to raise hopes that may be later dashed, but there is reason to believe that Mr. Baldwin intends shortly to do something.
This is a sensational prediction indeed. There were few who thought towards the end of 1916, that Mr. Wilson (the President of the U. S.) would ever do anything. He had delayed so long, had put off with so much, that these seemed no reason why he should not swallow more sunken liners, when he gulped down the Lusitania.
America did nothing when the Lusitania went down, neither did England when the French invaded the Ruhr and torpedoed her commerce. Mr. Baldwin is heir to the policy of "tranquillity," but it would be unfair to blame Mr. Bonar Law too much for the humiliating subservience of this country to the wreckers of France during the years since the Armistice.

Cruiqui To Fight For Disabled Soldiers Without Pay

By the United Press.
NEW YORK, July 19.—Eugene Cruiqui is a real champion.
The little featherweight war hero is going to return to Paris August 2 to matter what the outcome of his bout with Johnny Dundee, scheduled for the Polo Grounds July 26. He is going back to appear "For Nothing" against the best featherweight in France. The funds derived from admissions to the bout will be used to aid disabled war veterans.
It is quite a novel experience for a prizefighter to do anything for nothing. Jess Willard, Luis Firpo, Jack McAuliffe and Floyd Johnson recently staged a benefit for the Milk Fund of New York, and the cash they received would support a million babies for a month.
Jack Dempsey only got $220,000 for boxing fifteen rounds with Tommy Gibbons in what his manager Jack Kearns, called a good workout for Dempsey. He was to have received $300,000 for the show, and it was only at the last minute that he showed himself "a good sport" and decided to take a chance on his last $100,000.
If Kearns is a "good sport" what kind of a sport would you call Cruiqui, who in this advanced day of financial frenzy, is going back to fight "For Nothing" for the disabled soldiers of France?

Blames Lloyd George

Mr. Lloyd George, that late convert, who now fulminates so strongly against his former Gallic accomplices, must bear his share of the responsibility for the do-nothing tactics of Great Britain, in face of a situation that deprives our people of their livelihood and menaces the whole of the Old World with ruin.
But at long last the patience of America did wear thin, and at long last so has England's. Mr. Baldwin took office in the confident belief that the application of sound business common sense to the reparations problem must bring about a speedy agreement.
He regarded the pacification of Europe, the settlement of debts, and the withdrawal of invading armies as the paramount interest of this country, and therefore as the keynote of his policy. The German Reparations offer, there can be no harm in disclosing, was inspired from London.
This first triumph, Mr. Baldwin hoped would be succeeded by and by an Inter-Allied Conference in which the German reply would be accepted as a basis for negotiation, and this Conference, in turn, by an informal congress at Brussels or elsewhere, with the Germans present, definitely to liquidate the war.
His hopes were rudely blasted by a brutal negative from Paris. Cautiously the government caused to be dispatched on June 13 the famous questionnaire in which France was most politely requested to explain her views and her plans.
The questions were definite and categorical. M. Poincare could not answer them, however, without exposing the hypocrisy of the French claim that the Republic is in the Ruhr to exact Reparations and not for more sinister motives, less easily avowed.
The Belgian Cabinet crisis immediately chafed over the delay, but could not gainsay the French plea that a consultation with Belgium was necessary before an answer could be returned. So eleven days passed.
Suspicious Confirmed.
When it was felt that it was impossible to wait any longer, England still did not press for an official reply, but Lord Crewe asked

The University of Washington crew seems likely to maintain its championship standard for the next year at least.

The east will have a hard pull to develop anything better than the next Washington crew, which will have six men left over from this year and a big, husky freshman crew to pick from.
Out of the boat which beat the Navy, Columbia, Syracuse, Pennsylvania and Cornell in the variety race of the recent Poughkeepsie regatta, there will be only three men lost.
Tidmarsh, the bow oar; Dunn, who rowed No. 3 and Captain Shaw at No. 6, are the only ones to leave. Remaining there are Dow Wallings, the star stroke, who is only a sophomore; Luft, France, Spahn, Dutton, and Grant, Coxswain, who has been elected captain.
The crew of 1923 was the first western crew ever to win the big eastern regatta, but with this formidable material the crew of 1924 should prove still stronger.
It is even doubtful whether some of the regular variety will be able to hold their places against the competition of those in the freshman boat, all of whom approximate the build of Jess Willard and the strength of modern Goliaths.

New York has lost none of its interest in amateur sports.

In 1900 school and playground centers 70,000 persons attended athletic carnivals one day recently.
One of the Yale entrants in the Intercollegiate golf tourney at Siwaony County Club pulled a funny "hole in one."
As the foursomes were teeing off from the home tee, he hit the ball with a Babe Ruth swing and it was still slicing and rising as it disappeared in the morning mists. The caddy spent half an hour looking for the ball and then gave it up as lost.
When the foursome got around to the eighth hole on the return journey along the parallel course, the ball was found in that cup.
Shooting for the first hole the golfing Babe Ruth, had made the eighth hole in one, but it didn't do him much good.
A new race track is to be constructed at Long Beach, Long Island near New York, according to the word that is going around. The new course is expected to be completed in time for the opening in July, 1924.
It will be conducted on the same "oral betting" style prescribed by New York law, charging $2.85 admission, like the others, because it cannot make any money, openly, off the betting.

TWO-MINUTE TOURS (By United Press)

A bronze tablet in memory of sixteen officers and men of the United States army, who died of starvation and exposure in the Arctic in 1884, is now on the way to Cape Sabine, Ellesmere Land, where it will be placed at the scene of one of the most tragic disasters in the history of American Arctic exploration, the rescue camp of the Greely expedition. Set in the rocks at latitude 78 deg. 45 min. north, more than 800 miles above the Arctic Circle, this will be one of United States with other nations 1881-1884.

The tablet is being erected by the National Geographic Society and will be placed during the present summer by Donald MacMillan, Arctic explorer and lieutenant of Peary on the voyage which resulted in the discovery of the North Pole.
we shall be compelled to deal direct with our late enemy.
A plan has been discussed in high quarters under which the United States would be asked to arbitrate between Germany and Great Britain to determine the total amount of Reparations which Germany should pay this country in settlement of all claims. The American administration will probably refuse such an office. But there is no reason why Germany and ourselves cannot appoint an impartial commission of experts, presided over by an American chairman, and this procedure, we believe, is likely to be agreed upon before the year is out.

port workers division of the I. W. W. here was requested of State officials about 10 days ago by John Shuskie, New York, secretary of the transport workers' organization. His request followed reports that John Holland, an organizer for the transport workers, and one or two other members of the I. W. W. had been mistreated by a mob.
Holland was arrested in June and detained on the ground that he was a member of the Industrial Workers of the World, it was said. When efforts were made to get his picture and fingerprints for identification, he is alleged to have resisted and received some punishment at the hands of the officers. Application for a writ of Habeas Corpus was made in a court at Beaumont and his release ordered.
Alleged mistreatment of Holland by the police at Port Arthur, Texas, which was the beginning of the agitation resulting in the reported I. W. W. order for members to flock to that city, cannot now be taken up again officially by the grand jury before the first Monday in August as the body recessed on June 29, until that date.

of government, there was hardly a mother in Europe who could not spare affectionate sympathy for "the boy king" of Spain.

Took Over Kingship At 16.
He formally took over kingly authority on his sixteenth birthday, although naturally his mother continued to be his chief advisor for several years. As soon as he found his feet, however, Alfonso proved his desire to rule as a constitutional monarch and this policy he pursued. Bare as the situation was at his birth, it was probably even worse when he took over the reins of government. Spain was seething with unrest and practically bankrupt, and was still smarting from the wounds incurred in the Spanish-American war, and the humiliating loss of her colonies.

Alfonso set himself to work to pull things together and despite many backs he accomplished wonders. The eternal differences between Castilian, Catalonian, Biscayan and Andalusian, the squabbles of the big nobles and the political parties, rendered any cut-and-dried plan of government almost unworkable, but Alfonso stuck to his guns, and carried the personal regard of his subjects, whatever their political or racial views.

In a country where passions flame forth suddenly and extremists are prone to the use of bomb, revolver and knife, Alfonso early proved his personal courage. History will probably write Alfonso XIII down as one of the bravest of his race.

It is no reproach to the vast majority of sane, law-abiding and loyal Spaniards to say that there was practically always a knife or bomb waiting for Alfonso. But he never allowed the knowledge of this danger to interfere with his plans or what he considered his duty. As a king he had to consider dynastic consequences and could not take risks that a civilian adventurer might have done, but he proved himself a real adventurer, regardless of life and limb, when he thought any good state purpose could be served.

Barcelona, long a hotbed of discontent and sedition in continual revolt against Madrid, and home of periodical outrages and assassinations, did not admit him. He made several visits to this turbulent city, each time much against the advice and wishes of his ministers. However, Alfonso contended that a king must not seem afraid of even the most seditious of his subjects and his courage was justified for no hand was raised against him. His visit to Barcelona in 1922 was a great personal triumph for never had the city shown such enthusiasm and loyalty to the House of Bourbon.

Attempts on His Life
Several attempts were made on his life at different times most of them without ill result and duly hushed up, but the most outrageous was the attack made on his wedding day. He married, on May 31, 1906, Princess Victoria ("Ena") of Battenberg, granddaughter of Queen Victoria of England, and while the newly married couple were driving from the Cathedral at Madrid to the Palace, a bomb was thrown by an anarchist, and actually hit the carriage, killing horses and wounding soldiers in the escort. Alfonso displayed characteristic courage and threw himself in front of his frightened bride to protect her from flying fragments.

The outrage caused worldwide horror. Incidentally the attack only served to increase the affection and loyalty of the vast majority of his subjects.

Military reserves in the eternal Moroccan campaigns, the squabbles among the grandees, and Church quarrels with Liberal administration, made a never-ending round of troubles for the luckless monarch, but he always displayed a cheery optimism. As the premier Catholic monarch, "His Most Christian Majesty" frequently found state religion and internal politics embroiling him with the Vatican, but Alfonso steered a middle course, and he never subordinated Spanish national honor and interests to the Church. During the great war, Alfonso maintained a strict neutrality.

Man of Many Titles
Alfonso had more titles than most monarchs, his full style being "King of Spain, Castile, Leo, Aragon, the Two Sicilies, Jerusalem, Navarre, Granada, Toledo, Valencia, Galicia, Majorca, Minorca, Seville, Cordoba, Cerdena, Corcega, Murcia, Jaen, Algarve, Algeria, Gibraltar, Canary Isles, the east and west Indies, India and the Oceanic continent, Archduke of Austria, Duke of Burgundy, Brabant and Milan, Count of Hapsburg, Flanders, the Tyrol and Barcelona, Seigneur of Siseay and Molina" and several more. Many of the domains have long passed from the rule of the Bourbons.

King Alfonso and Queen Victoria had six children, four boys and two girls, the eldest of whom, the Infant Alfonso Prince of the Asturias, born May 10, 1907, is heir to the throne. Unhappily all of them are understood to suffer from some physical disability, doubtless due partly to hereditary ailments and the unfortunate circumstances of Alfonso's birth, as well as the shock to their mother's system on her wedding day. Afflictions of the nose, ears and vocal chords are the main trouble.

Alfonso was an enthusiastic sportsman, a fearless rider and brilliant polo player.

MARGERY WILSON BECOMES SNAKE CHARMER TO PLEASE LITTLE GIRL

Snakes now cause excitement almost anywhere, but particularly when they are released among the members of a moving picture company as they are acting before the camera. So there was good reason for the riot during the filming of "Mountain Dew," the Enterprise drama of the Kentucky hills, starring Jack Richardson and Margery Wilson, which will be shown at the Lyric Theatre Friday and Saturday.

Various scenes of Kentucky homes are shown, and among the quaint features of the mountain habitations, appears a rain-barrel, a fat, tight-hooped rain-barrel solid and weather-beaten. A trough feeds it water from the roof.

Margery Wilson was born in Kentucky, and lived her youth in comparatively small towns. She knows the purpose and resources of the family rain barrel. Also she knows to what prankish uses it can be put.

One day, during a lull in her work before the camera, she stood peering down into the barrel when a child approached and looked into the barrel too.

The child asked questions and Miss Wilson recalled a saying of her youth, and told the child: "If you put horse-hairs into the rain barrel and leave them for a day or two, they will turn into snakes."

The child was fascinated at the prospect. She told other members of the company, and an unwilling mule lost several hairs from its tail for experimental material. The company left the location over Sunday and Monday, returning the third day.

ALFONSO OF SPAIN—AN OBIT

(United Press)
Alfonso XIII was probably the only monarch in history who was actually born a king. He was born May 17, 1886, almost exactly six months after the death of his father, Alfonso XII.

Never did helpless babe come to a more uneasy throne, for Spain torn by factional strife, had hardly recovered from the turmoil which followed the abdication of Queen Isabella in 1808 and the Carlist wars. Isabella designed her son Alfonso XII as her successor, but there was a republic, another king and several dictatorships, before he was actually proclaimed king in 1874. The Franco-German war of 1870 was due largely to Germany's attempt to place a Hohenzollern on the Spanish throne.

The anxieties of Alfonso's widowed mother before his birth, naturally did not tend to the production of a healthy child and the baby king was by no means physically strong at birth. He suffered throughout his life from physical disabilities chiefly nose and ear troubles, but in the manner in which he triumphed over all such handicaps earned for Alfonso XIII the admiration of not only Spain but the whole world. Alfonso was essentially a real, live human man who had to contend from birth with centuries of family faults, wrong-doing and ill-luck. The Bourbons profligacy, intrasigence, indolence, sometimes cowardice, and misfortune had been notorious for ages, and poor little Alfonso Leon Ferdinand Marie Isidore Pascal Antoine—to give him his full name—could not escape the hereditary curse.

During his minority, his mother Queen Christina, ruled as regent, but baby Alfonso was educated from the cradle to the great position coming to him. The stringent etiquette of the Spanish Court proved a cheerless background for the upbringing of a delicate child, yet Alfonso managed to cultivate, somehow, a sunny nature, reproof of which spread through Europe, with the result that long before he took over the reins
