I. W. W. Invasion Called Off

FOUR MEN HELD FOR VAGRANCY REQUEST MOVE

BERRY SAYS INVASION ORDERED AGAIN IF MEN SENT TO JAIL

By the United Press. PORT ARTHUR, July 20.—The "invasion" of this town by the I. W. W. has been called off at the request of the four men who are awaiting trial here on charges of vagrancy, according to Sidney Terry, 20, who is one of the four that have been arrested on the vagrancy charge. Terry claims to be an organizer of the I. W. W. from New Orleans.

"I consider the general strike of the International Marine Transportation Workers of far more importance than concentration of our forces here," Terry said. The walk-out of the Transport workers is to be ordered in protest of the sentence of twenty-seven members at Los Angeles last week, and also protesting the court injunction making it a punishment by imprisonment for members in the organization.

If the four men are fined the cases will be appealed according to J. E. Rose, attorney for the imprisoned men. "We will never pay fines," said Terry. "We have violated no laws, and don't intend to pay any."

According to a statement by Terry, the "invasion" will be requested again if he and his companions are sent to jail.

The defense attorneys in an attempt to prove that testimony not given to the jury in legal form had some bearing upon the verdict in the Tom Ross case questioned all of the jurors who were used in the first trial, they having been

LUBBOCK KLANSMEN VISIT LOCAL CHURCH REVIVAL LEAVING NOTE AND TWENTY DOLLAR DONATION

Immediately following the opening ceremonies of the revival meeting at the Cumberland Presbyterian church, on 10th street, last night, twelve robed and hooded klansmen, said to be members of the Lubbock order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, made their appearance before the congregation in the open air tabernacle adjoining the church building, six coming in from the east and six from the west, and quietly made their way to the pulpit where they presented the pastor in charge with a sealed envelope.

The pastor was instructed by the leader to open the letter, which he did, and found therein $20, and a note which was requested read to the congregation. After a short prayer, the mysterious robed men departed as quietly as they had entered.

The note which was left by them follows, bearing the official seal of the Lubbock Klan, No. 199: Ladies and Gentlemen:—The Klansmen's prayer is: "God Give Us Men." This is our daily need and it is the desire of every true Klansman to be a man, a real, true, God fearing American, one hundred per cent for right. We believe in law and order. We believe in the religion of Jesus Christ. We stand for freedom of speech, freedom of press, the public school and the untrammeled rights of free born white Americans. And we believe that every true man or woman who will be true to the best interests of our country, when once they can learn and know of the intentions of this order will come out boldly and stand the onslaughts of its enemies and help us in our fight to prove America for Christ.

We are today facing many perils that would overthrow our government and unless we can arouse men and women to see the great need of united efforts against our enemies our nation is doomed. And the blood of our fathers will be upon us. For we all know that they fought, bled and died that we should have this glorious heritage of liberty and we will fall far short of worthy subjects if we fail to rally around the standards of those who are today striving by might and mean to win. And when we say win we mean to win for God, for home and native land.

America is the cradle of liberty and it can be made the proving ground of the religion of Jesus Christ. But we must keep up the fight. We must be true to every trust. And We Must Win!

Baptists At Stockholm Claim Persecutions In Europe; Expect To Ask U. S. Congress To Take Immediate Steps

By the United Press.
STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 20.—At the third Baptist international congress which meets here tomorrow, Baptist leaders are expected to charge that adherents of that faith are undergoing vigorous persecution in certain European countries today, and to ask the U. S. congress to take steps to alleviate the situation.

At the annual meeting of the Southern Baptist Convention of the United States held in Kansas City two months ago, the Foreign Mission Board of that body was authorized to approach the state department at Washington with a view to negotiations looking toward the elimination of persecution in Roumania. It was said that persecutions in Roumania had been so persistent and so severe in recent years that Baptists throughout the world were gravely concerned.

Dr. J. H. Rushbrooke, of London, representative of the Baptists of the world in a diplomatic capacity, is expected to make the report leading up to the discussion of conditions in Roumania. Dr. Rushbrooke has spent the last two years seeking to negotiate full religious liberty for Baptists and other people in those countries where it does not exist. He has, at the same time acted as supervisor of the general relief work in Eastern and Central Europe and co-operated in the shaping of mission policies.

Americans will play a prominent part during the sessions. At the opening meeting, when the governor of Stockholm will welcome the delegates on behalf of the city, one of the replies will be delivered by Dr. George W. Truett, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Dallas, Texas. Dr. Truett will also deliver what is known as the convention sermon.

On the Sunday following the opening of the Congress many Americans will speak in Stockholm churches and other meeting places. Among them are: Dr. T. A. Fowler, of Brooklyn; Rev. Lacey K. Williams, of Chicago; Rev. Frank Peterson, of Minneapolis; Rev. John Friberg, of San Francisco and Rev. O. Hedeen, of Chicago. A group of American negro singers will sing sacred melodies in the leading Stockholm park at an open-air meeting in the afternoon, at which time addresses will be delivered by the Rev. J. A. Booker of Arkansas and David Paddlety, a Kiowa Indian. This meeting will be in the nature of a pageant. On Sunday evening Dr. David J. Evans, of Kansas City, and M. E. Aubrey of Kansas City, will address a gathering devoted to the interests of the various world-wide Baptist young people's organizations.

Frank Burkhalter, of Nashville, Tenn., will be in charge of the American section.

County News Items

Posey
 We are having some sure enough summer weather now, hot and dry. Have had some local showers but we are needing a good general rain. Cotton is still growing nicely but the early feed is burning up.

Last week the northern part of our district received a heavy rain also quite a bit of hail that injured the young cotton considerably. The following report damage from hail: William Gentry, J. M. Morrison, Mr. Lambert, Doss Smith, E. F. Taylor, S. A. Johnson and sons, E. A. Gentry and Mr. Leavelle.

O. R. Patterson and family, Jack Lakey and family left this week for the Llano River to spend some time camping and fishing. H. B. Reed and family, Frank Chrane and family of Brownwood were visiting at D. L. Conners and C. Z. Fines' last week. Mr. Chrane was so well pleased with the country that he is wanting to move here in the near future.

R. J. Yarborough and family, who have been visiting in Eastland and Brown county have returned to their home at Lubbock. They spent a night at the Fine home on their return trip and seemed glad to get back to the Plains where the breezes blow and no mosquitos to fight.

Mrs. W. E. Bennett has been entertaining her brothers, who have all been at the home of their mother, Mrs. S. T. Cantrell of Slaton, and also visited their sister Mrs. Bennett of our community.

There was Clyde Cantrell and wife of Washington, D. C., Lawson Cantrell and wife, of Dallas, Texas, Raleigh Cantrell of Desdemona, Texas, Romie Cantrell from Wyoming and three brothers of Slaton.

Miss Blanche Stewart has returned home, after a month's visit in Central Texas.

Mrs. Leavelle's father and mother of Portales, N. M., are visiting her. Neal Eubanks' parents are visiting him this week.

Quite a number of friends spent the day at Mr. Thornton's last Sunday, where they partook of a beautiful feast prepared in honor of his birthday. His mother is a visitor at their home now.

S. A. Johnson's brother and family of Wilbarger county are visiting relatives in this community.

Mrs. J. M. Morrison received a message late week stating that her brother and sister were very sick. She left immediately for Electra, to be with them. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Shaffer of the Canyon community.

W. E. Bennett has recently purchased a piano for his family. He saved more than the purchase price by selling his cotton through the Cotton Association last year, so he feels like he can "blow" himself.

We are proud of the work Mr. Bennett is doing in the Farm Bureau. He won second prize last week in getting new members, and he is after new scalps this week.

Mr. Editor, we farmers thank you very much for your outspoken endorsement of our association, and the publicity you are giving it, through the paper. We have very little confidence in the man who pretends to believe in it, and then gets around and advises farmers to keep out of it, as some are doing. Whoop up our poultry association.

LOCATING BOARD WILL VISIT CANYON COLLEGE

Special to the Avalanche
CANYON, Texas, July 19.—A letter has been received by President

A group of Canyon boosters will meet the members of the locating committee at Tulla and bring them to Canyon where they will visit the Teachers College and be shown the town.

East Texas Cotton Men May Locate in Lubbock This Year

J. A. Ross and J. B. Acton, of Paris, Texas, and H. E. Blocker, of Honey Grove, Texas, arrived in Lubbock Thursday with the view of locating here and entering into the cotton business.

These gentlemen, as guests of the Kiwanis Club Thursday, expressed themselves favorably impressed with the Plains country, however but for the fact that they have known A. W. McKee, of the Stevens McKee Bacon wholesale grocery company for a number of years, and know that his word is worth par in most any kind of sentence, we would have a hard time convincing them that there will be a cotton crop here this year, as they don't understand how cotton stalks of eight to fourteen inches in height can produce enough of the fleecy staple to make a showing. However being reassured that small stalks and lots of cotton is characteristic of the plant in West Texas by their friend McKee, they are more optimistic than ever, and we are of the opinion that we will soon have the opportunity of recognizing them as citizens of Lubbock, and will be more than glad to welcome them as such.

Pioneer Postmaster of Floyd County Visited Relatives There

Special to The Avalanche.
FLOYDADA, July 20.—One of the first postmasters in Floyd county visited in Floydada this week. He was J. E. Wimberly of Hagerman, New Mexico, and he visited Mrs. Fannie Montague and W. B. Wilson of Floydada. Mr. Wimberly was postmaster at Curley thirty-two years ago which is one of the oldest offices on the Plains. He attended the first picnic ever held in Floydada which was in 1892. He also cast his first vote here in the historic campaign of 1896. He has been away from the Plains for eighteen years.

Mr. Wimberly praised the Plains country not only as a good place to do well financially, but as a good country in which to live. "The progress of this section, its development, in the past eighteen years I have been away is evidence to me that this is the coming country. Eighteen years is a very short time in the history of a country. Doubtless the people who have lived here all the time do not realize how great have been the changes during that period. But this great improvement and development in such a short time is proof to me that I was right years ago, when I said that this was destined to be a great country," said Mr. Wimberly.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM FOR THE KIWANIS CLUB

Due to the fact that the entertainment committees in the past have neglected the educational feature of Kiwanis, Vice-President S. C. Wilson suggested Thursday that one program be set aside this month for the "education of the members in Kiwanis."

This suggestion is the result of Mr. Wilson's realization of the facts contained in the convention address that "Kiwanians are Kiwanisly illiterate in too many instances" and of course he is interested in keeping the local members above par in Kiwanis membership.

Herbert Stubbs, secretary, has been handling the members some "hot numbers" in the weekly letters as a result of which the average attendance has been greatly increased.

PHILADELPHIA KEEPS FAITH WITH WM. PENN'S INDIANS

By the United Press.
PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—In the heart of Philadelphia's business district a small plot of ground given by William Penn to the Delaware Indians has been kept inviolate for more than two centuries. Onas, as William Penn was known to the Indians, gave the ground to the Delawares of Lenni Lenapes as a common council ground, so they could camp on their own land when coming to meet him in council. Penn promised the land would always be reserved to their use and his promise has been faithfully kept. The Indians have vanished, but should they ever return again William Penn's council grounds awaits them.

There is no deed for the land so far as known that guarantees the title to the Indians. Yet, the place has been kept sacred by the white men. The little spot is in the rear of the Ritz Carlton Hotel, Broad and Walnut streets. Silence broods over the council grounds. It is kept scrupulously clean, no mercantile houses use it for shipping. It is awaiting the return of the red skin.

Chairman of the State Highway Commission Says Highway Funds Not Affected By Amendment

R. M. Hubbard, chairman of the State Highway Commission, speaking for the entire Commission, stated today that the failure to publish in time the proposed Constitutional Amendment, would in no way affect the funds of the State Highway Department for the next three years and that it would not interfere with the present program of highway construction or maintenance, and that all unexpired Federal appropriations including those for 1924 and 1925 would not be endangered. Mr. Hubbard stated emphatically that the Highway Commission would carry out its plans, and the "will of the Legislature in maintaining all state highways and to further carry on the construction as rapidly as possible. "We will continue in the future, as we have in the past, to co-operate with the various counties of the State in the construction of a State system of highways," continued Mr. Hubbard. Mr. Hubbard authorized the following statement: "There is no need for undue alarm at this time on account of our failure to secure the proposed amendment of the constitution, for fear we will lose Federal Aid. The main idea the proponents of the Amendment had in mind was to comply with the provisions of the Federal Aid Act as early as possible, in order that Texas might continue to receive the hearty support and co-operation of the Federal Government, and in order that we would have ample time to make the necessary adjustments in our statutes. The amended Federal Aid Act gives us until November 9, 1923, to comply with the provisions of the Act, requiring the State to provide State Funds for the construction and maintenance of Federal Aid roads, such funds to be under the direct control of the State, provided however, that we carry out the provisions of this Act as nearly as our existing constitution and laws will permit.

Maintenance. The recent Legislature directed the State Highway Department to take over the State highways, and provide funds therefor. It is the intention of the State Highway Commission to carry out these directions to the fullest extent. We are making our plans to take over the main trunk of all roads in the State Highway System, January 1, 1924, and unless something of a more far-reaching effect than the failure of the Constitutional Amendment takes place, we will carry out these plans.

Will Continue Present Policy. The State Highway Commission will continue to co-operate with the various counties of the State in the construction of the State highways. We will continue to aid in the future as we have in the past, but on a larger scale, due to the fact that the 28th Legislature provided additional funds for this purpose. These increased funds will be used to good advantage by increasing the allotments to those progressive counties that have provided county funds for the purpose of constructing more durable roads. This will be a distinct advantage to these counties. A connected state system is only delayed. In this connection we would like to state that the Legislature is submitting the proposed amendment, and the Texas Highway Association, and the Texas Highway Commission in advocating it, did not have the remotest idea of proposing at this time an increase in the tax burden of our State. The advocates of this Amendment take sharp issue with those who scattered promiscuously about the air. "The situation has become so complex that banking institutions plaster their walls with signs written in almost every known language. An announcement in a store window looks like the instructions in all languages one finds in the back of one's American passport. And to accompany this mixture of tongues Lausanne decorates itself with the flags of all the nations interested in the peace conference there. The rising sun of Japan flaps in the wind alongside the tri-color of France and the flags of other lands involved. "It's some job," declared the hotel porter at the biggest hotel. "Every Turk, Greek and what not thinks I can talk his lingo. I only know five or six tongues—but that's not a starter. Fortunately most of them speak French or English—and that let's me in."

SOME FARMERS TO PROTEST AT WATER PROJECT
Specialists for the Avalanche. BRONTE, Texas, July 20. The board of water engineers have called a meeting for July 25 at which time the protest of land owners at Miles and other towns in the territory served by the Colorado Valley irrigation association will be heard. It is known that some farmers object to their lands being included in a belt in which an irrigation bond election is to be called. However, proponents of the move for irrigation declare that hundreds of thousands of acres held by farmers desirous of enjoying benefits of irrigation from unpounded flood waters of the big lake, to be formed here will be included within the boundaries wherein an election is to be called shortly to determine whether or not plans three years in the future shall be turned into a dream.

Prosperity Makes A Second Call on Old Iron Mountain

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mo., July 20. Iron Mountain is "beating back" again to prosperity. Thirty-three years ago one of the greatest industries at that time in southeast Missouri closed down. Piece by piece the factories were dismantled, one by one the thousands of people who had been employed left this place, and after a few years the large buildings that had been constructed for the industry, for homes and for store buildings, stood only as grim monuments of the once prosperous days at Iron Mountain. Few of the old structures remain. This industry was the Iron Mountain Mining Company, one of the biggest iron mines in the middle west along in the '80s. Fifty years ago St. Louis was one of the greatest iron centers in the country because of old Iron Mountain. Andrew Carnegie's first furnaces in Pennsylvania are said to have used Iron Mountain ore, and other large industries using iron ore established factories as near as possible to Iron Mountain, Mo.

Since the closing of the Iron Mountain mines in 1890, they have passed thru a number of hands, each purchaser making a gamble and generally losing heavily. Millions of dollars have changed hands thru the Iron Mountain ventures, and most of the owners were either unable financially to promote the mine, or did not consider it worthy of the additional expenses necessary in starting the business again.

This Gamble Won. However, about four months ago Leonard Busby, an attorney of Chicago, purchased the mine. The old Iron Mountain Company sold the mine in 1922 for $100,000, thinking the iron deposits exhausted. Busby, when he purchased the mine, did not consider the mine worth anything, but was looking to the 15,000 acres of stock land. Since that time mining engineers have thoroughly investigated the mine and found that it contains untold wealth. Busby and his copartners, have spent nearly a million dollars in rebuilding the old factories, installing necessary machinery and providing other necessary equipment. Shafts have been dug, the construction of a tripple and installing machinery has been finished. Today the company headed by Busby is putting out 1,000 tons of ore a day with the promise that at least 3,000 tons a day will be produced within a few months. The deposits at Iron Mountain are said to be sufficient to produce 1,000 tons of ore a day for fifty years, although this is merely an estimate.

The St. Louis Coke and Coal Company has contracted for the entire output. With the reopening of this mine, the town of Iron Mountain is gradually growing back. Hundreds of people are moving here and securing employment in the old iron mine, where their fathers and grandfathers once worked. "New homes are being put up over night. The old mine has been replaced by a standard underground railroad, and a steel tripple shaft 329 feet high has been erected. The massive stone dam on Indian creek which furnished water for the concern—years ago, is still doing duty.

WOMEN DEMAND EQUALITY.

A constitutional amendment providing for the absolute equality of women with men before the law was endorsed by the annual conference of the National Woman's Party in its second session in New York yesterday. The wording of the amendment which the conference approved is: "Men and women shall have equal rights throughout the United States and every place subject to its jurisdiction." Introduction of amendment in Congress will be secured by the party next winter through some sympathetic member. The amendment was submitted to the party convention by Miss Alice Paul, of New Jersey, vice-president. In laying the proposed amendment before the convention Miss Paul declared that in her opinion, "the only way in which complete equality can be gained for all women within a reasonable time is by federal amendment, just as the right to vote was gained for women throughout the country in that way." She detailed many cases of discrimination between men and women before the law which the amendment is designed to eliminate. Miss Paul suggested that the amendment be called the Lucretia Mott amendment, in recognition of the fact that it put in one sentence the demand for complete equality voiced by Lucretia Mott and her co-workers, who convened the first equal rights meeting here in 1848. The conference, in addition to voting for support of a national amendment, endorsed an aggressive campaign for equal rights measures in the various states. At an evening session of the convention, the first equal rights meeting held in New York, July 18, 1848, will be celebrated by a pageant depicting the early session of the pioneers of the feminist movement. Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer, New York, one of the founders of the party, will preside and be the principal speaker. Mrs. Havemeyer is expected to emphasize the historical significance of the action taken today in voting to support a constitutional amendment. "The Woman's Party is working for nothing more than the complete fulfillment of the demand for equality made here in 1848. In three-quarters of a century complete equality has been won only in the vote. Discriminations continue to exist in education, in industry, in the professions, in political office, in marriage, in personal freedom, in control of property, in guardianship of children, in making contracts, in the church and in the double moral standard.

HEALING BY RADIO.

Having thought of about all the uses to which radio might be put, most of us will be surprised to learn that the aid of the wireless has been enlisted in the healing art. The human practitioner back of the radio, one Willis Vernon Cole of New York is really something more than a healer. His business is to set anything right with a sick or suffering or worried mortal, whether the trouble be a carbuncle on the neck or a lost vanity case. Cole has simplified the procedure for his patients by devising a code. This has been put into book form, and those in need of his relieving assistance may find the word that fits their case and shoot it into Cole by radio. He does the rest. Some of his patients, according to report in a New York paper, have radioed for treatment from mid-ocean and have been given it promptly from the service station. Just how efficacious this treatment has been in every case is not recorded, but certain of his patients are said to have responded to it. "Something is to be said for the versatility of the radio, and even more for that of Healer Cole. He has gone Cole one better. In the event his method should prove its superiority over any other now in use, Cole should be big enough not to copyright it. It would revolutionize the healing business.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING STRONGLY ADVOCATED.

The Progressive Farmer says: President Harding has long been known as an advocate of co-operative marketing of farm crops, but in his recent speech at Idaho Falls, Idaho, he carried the idea further than he has heretofore done. He congratulated the farmers of the West on their enterprise and initiative in starting co-operative marketing of numerous farm crops and sticking to their organizations until they brought the profit and prosperity such organizations have achieved. Now, he declared, we should go further and encourage the co-operative organizations of consumers so as to reduce the excessive middlemen cost at that end of the line. "We realize that the real producers, under our elaborate and costly system of distribution, is not permitted a fair share of his product for his own use and enjoyment. We have become convinced that somehow our system of distribution has grown too indirect, too unrelated to the interests of real producers and legitimate consumer. We must find methods to take up as much as possible the slack in the long line between producer and consumer; to give the producer a better share in that which he furnishes to the community, and to enable the consumer to meet his requirements at reasonable costs. There is need to have working and practical co-operative associations of producers in the country and at the same time to have equally effective co-operation among the consuming communities of the cities and towns; and, finally, to link these two sets of co-operators together in a co-ordination for mutual advantage to both. I believe it is possible, and altogether desirable, that systems of credit and finance should be developed under public auspices to encourage both these kinds of co-operation and to draw them together into a harmonious working scheme of widespread distribution at the lowest possible expense.

President Harding is to be congratulated on his courage and enterprise in putting this program before the American people. If he has something practicable to propose in the way of encouraging cheaper distribution of farm products to consumers, both farmers and townspeople should applaud his efforts.

RIGHT TO CONTRACT UPHELD.

Kansas is the land of political experiments and it has taken three years to find the weak spot in the famous Industrial Court law of that state.

As a result of a supreme Court decision it seems not even Kansas can tell the employer how to run his industry, fix the wages he is to pay his employees, or make the latter take what a benevolent and intelligent state thinks they should take.

It seems that the paradise of industrial peace can only be reached through the straight way and the narrow gate of constitutionality.

In the opinion of ex-Governor Allen, the Supreme Court decision "only denies the right to fix minimum wage in contemplation of an emergency. The power of the industrial Court to act is left intact. The Industrial Court still has power to fix wages in business of transportation, and production of fuel. It still has power to restrict strikes in essential industries. It has all other powers it had before, with regard to general operation of the court."

Chief Justice Taft in his decision says the law "curtails the right of the employer on the one hand, and of the employe on the other, to contract about their affairs. This is part of the liberty of the individual protected by the guarantee of the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment."

The decision is extremely valuable in defining limitations of a state's power to control private business, and is a warning to those who seek by law and regulation a remedy for all things that they cannot go much further in their indiscriminate regulation of business.

The big thing about the Court's decision is in drawing the line on state legislatures declaring that his business or that business affects the public interest and is therefore subject to state regulation. The question, "What is public interest" must be determined by the Courts and cannot be declared by the legislature.

WHY MEN FAIL.

There is a cause for everything! Nothing ever "just happens." If a man is promoted to a better job there is a cause. If a man loses his job there is also a cause.

There are many causes that lead to failure. Here is a list of the most common causes:

- Finding fault with the other fellow, but never seeing your own.
- Doing as little as possible and trying to get as much as possible for it.
- Spending too much time showing up the other fellow's weak points and too little time correcting your own.
- Slandering those we do not like.
- Procrastination—putting off until tomorrow something that we should have done day before yesterday.
- Deceit—talking friendly to the other fellow's face and stabbing him in the back as soon as he turns around.
- False belief that we're smart enough to reap a harvest of pay before sowing a crop of honest service.
- Disloyalty to those who have trusted us.
- Egotism—the belief that we know it all and no one can teach us anything.
- Last, but not least, lack of the necessary training and education to enable us to stand at the head in our line of work.
- Look this list over and check yourself up by it. If none of these cause for failure apply to you, then you are to be congratulated, because you are a success!—Hill's Magazine.

THIRTEENTH FRIDAY THIRTEENTH.

Over at Denton, this state, there occurred an incident that possibly to some people will seem an unfortunate affair, and with some folks will no doubt be looked upon with a good deal of superstition. On that date and on Friday, the thirteenth child was born to a couple. The child is a boy, and is said to be a big husky fellow, and promises to make the finest specimen of humanity of the entire family.

A firebug is a terrible thing to have in a town, but no worse than a man who throws lighted matches into rubbish.

When a reckless motor speeder gets laid up in the hospital, the roads of Lubbock are safer for a time anyway.

About the only way some people can show superior intellect is in pointing out the errors made by the people who are working for home town progress.

The Road to Better Living on the Farm

By F. W. KAZMEIER

From an agricultural standpoint the little country of Denmark, a mere speck on the map of the world, is held up as the most prosperous and independent on earth. A close scrutiny reveals that cows and chickens are the basis of Denmark's prosperity.

Dig into the history of Denmark and you will find that it has been only in the last two generations that the people have found the road to prosperity.

Denmark butter was formerly called "Forty-Rod" due to the strong odor, and it was shipped to various parts of the world to be used for manufacturing purposes commanding the insignificant price of 12 cents a pound. Today, Denmark butter is of the very best quality and commands the highest market price. Furthermore, Denmark produces pounds of good butter, where she formerly produced ounces of inferior butter.

The prosperity of Danish poultryry is also comparatively recent. A few years ago Danish eggs could be bought for a cent. It is reported that one shipment of 1,000,000 eggs brought $8,000 or less than ten cents a dozen. Last year Denmark exported 621,000,000 eggs and received 70¢ per piece for them. This exportation was over and above the demands for home use and for domestic markets. Denmark has more than 18,000,000 hens which are said to produce from 200 to 250 eggs each annually.

The cow and chicken prosperity of Denmark is reflected in the country's excellent school system, nice farm houses, progressive cities, towering church spires and happy citizenship.

And what is the secret of Denmark's new rise to fame and wealth in the production of butter and eggs? It is that the people learn where they want to go and fall and travel in the right direction. They learned the importance of good stock to begin with; proper method of handling, proper methods of feeding, proper methods of marketing.

The Dane looks upon his cow or chicken in the same manner that the automobile maker in this country does on his industrial plant. The cow or chicken is a factory looked to for certain production goods of certain quality, and in a quantity that allows a safe margin of profit.

The automobile manufacturer realizes that his plant must have certain materials in the way of iron and steel and wood and aluminum and glass and leather and so forth. The Danish poultryman knows that his hens must have the right kind of raw materials from which to turn out the finished products. This analogy might be carried on indefinitely, but let's get down to cases.

Denmark hasn't a thing in the world to aid her milk and egg industries that we haven't right here in the Southwest. We have the climate, the sunshine, the fresh air, the water, and the markets. Whether we go in for production for our own family tables, for the nearby or better costs no more than a 100-egg hen.

14. Do not buy cheap eggs, baby chicks or mature stock. They may be so cheap that it will be a waste of money to give them good food and care. Always buy the best you can get for the foundation breeding stock. Start where the other fellow left off.

15. Early hatched pullets are better fall and winter layers than hens.

16. For forced egg production make the hen eat twice as much mash as scratch grain. A good egg mash is essential for heavy egg production.

17. When the chick is young, see that it is properly fed, using a good starting feed.

18. A hen of small breed, like the Leghorn, consumes about seventy pounds of feed in a year. The medium and heavy-weight breeds consume about eighty or ninety pounds a year.

19. Be sure to provide your fowls with a good, dry, well ventilated roosting place, and a good clean place to nest.

20. Breeding stock should not be forced for abnormal or heavy production. They should consume about equal parts of mash and scratch grain, the scratch grain to be fed in deep, loose, dry litter. Keep the hens working all the time.

21. You needn't feel that getting started is a big or expensive task. Your back yard and a few birds of good quality are all you need.

22. If you hatch your chicks, or buy chicks as a beginning, when the chicks are eight or ten weeks old, separate the sexes. Most of the cockerels should go into the fattening pen for ten or fifteen days, and then be sold as broilers. They will bring from 50 to 75¢ each.

23. Provide your fowls with good shade. Natural shade is preferable, but artificial shade serves very satisfactory. Fruit trees and shade trees of the various kinds are the best.

When the hen lays the hen pays. When you start, be sure that you get the best possible stock. It is better to start with four or five hens and one rooster of the right stock than twenty or more of inferior birds. With the right start you will see results from the beginning and be encouraged to build up.

With a small beginning you will soon realize what an important item the hen is in reducing the cost of living, just with the eggs and chickens you have served on your table. Later on, when you have a surplus to market, you will see what a fine money producer the hen is; you'll see that the money realized from poultry is just as good as money from cotton—and a lot less trouble to produce. Your poultry crop is surer and it gives you money every week in the year, when you need it.

Keep poultry and it will keep you. A good yard of chickens will feed you, clothe you, house you, and educate your children, besides enabling you to enjoy the better things of life as you go along.

Just consider the one-man plants. They seem to be most successful on farm and suburban home

Frank Exposition of Truth is the Only Safeguard to Human Welfare and Liberty

Justice Needs a New Dress

We are prone to criticize the metropolitan press for its sensationalism, which in the light of our peaceful lives and environment seems strange and is abhorrent to us. Perhaps we are so far removed from the spectacular in life that we have come to regard actual news records as colorful imaginative writing. We should, however, be thankful for the imagination shown in some of the metropolitan comments on the news of the cities, for it may serve to arouse the people to a deeper sense of old-fashioned American justice.

Commenting on the trivial sentence given to two New Yorkers who stole $6,000,000 from their gullible customers, Arthur Brisbane sets down the following motto: "If you want to steal in the United States be a wholesaler; this is no place for a retail thief."

Some persons may regard this as rabid literature. Actually, however, it seeks to drive home the fact that the sooner Dame Justice puts on togs more in keeping with the times, the less reason will there be to worry about the spreading of unrest. Nothing can be more helpful to the nation than sharply calling to public attention any indication that there is one law for the rich and another for the poor.

The public mind is rapidly reaching the boiling point. With political leaders responsible for the appointing and electing of our judges, and the exhibition of justice we experience as a result, no wonder party lines are breaking down.

Who Pays the War Piper?

Just as the majority of rich men escaped great sacrifice during the war, so are they now escaping paying the cost of war. Government moves in a mysterious way its wonders to perform.

Take the case of honest John Smith, who has spent $100,000 in building his business. John gives work to 50 men. He pays his village and county taxes and perhaps a personal property tax. On his business property he pays a school tax though he has no children. He pays his share for county road improvements and maintenance, but he is too busy to use the roads. Also he pays a state and corporation tax. Then he turns around and pays an income tax on any profit he makes and a surtax if he makes much profit. He had a hard time keeping his business alive while he was away at the front.

Tom Jones, who kept the home fires burning during the war, is rowing in quite a different boat. His children go to school. He drives his motor car along the county roads. He enjoys the fire and police protection that John helps pay for, and he benefits by all local improvements. Tom invested $100,000, too. But Tom was wise in his generation. He put his money into tax exempt securities.

Tom, being successful, with quite a bank roll, often is heard criticizing John because John does not spend another $100,000 to enlarge his business, and the Washington wiseacres, our national experts on taxation, wonder why it is that all the John Smiths don't expand, and why all the Tom Joneses decline to go into business, and also why lots of the rich men have no money to lend for business expansion.

Punchettes

PARLOR BOLSHEVIKS

We are perfectly willing to denounce in unmeasured terms the man who manufactures the bomb, who occupies the soap box and who breathes out his anathemas against the government. We don't seem to understand that those characters are the effects of a cause and of a condition.

The colleges that teach collectivism, socialism, syndicalism, which are all synonymous terms, are the producers of the bomb maker and the red mouth, soap box agitator.

Respectable people who open their parlors to the agents of Russia are the creators of the bolshevism that is moving in the highest circles. There are many rich, fashionable women in the different cities of the country who throw open the doors of their palatial homes for drawing-room meetings at which there are addresses given by deceiving agents. Such women encourage lawlessness for attacks on this government. They are enemies of the government, and their parlors are the halls of conspiracy, against righteousness and representative government. The parlor bolshevik is another name for Satan.

Some of the rich who have come into their possessions and whose intellectual ability and moral stamina and constitutional morality have not advanced with the same degree with which their riches have increased are the easy prey of the enemies of the government who enter their parlors to teach the infamous doctrines that are today menacing the whole of our land.

Awake, awake, idle rich who encourage the parlor bolshevik in his attack on our government! No man, no woman has a constitutional right to open his or her home to one who speaks against the principles of our great representative republican form of government.

Such men and women are traitors to our system of government.

The Day of Huge Guaranteed Purses In Fight Game Over

NEW YORK, July 20.—Fight promoters are beginning to talk more sense and less money every day. The day of $300,000 purses passed with the fiasco out in Shelby, Montana—remembered by some as the scene of some bout or other between one Jack Dempsey and Mr. Thomas Gibbons.

He hastens to add, however, in the next breath, that "around New York" there may be some dare-devil promoter who will try to offer somebody that much, but he expresses doubt as to whether it will ever be paid.

The 90,000 crowd at the Dempsey-Carpenter affair, which stirred up more interest in this country than any previous sporting event, will also remain the peak in attendance for some time to come, Richard believes.

The Shelby affair seemed to a waken everyone in the fight game to the fact that fighters were getting too much money.

Dempsey is the only one who pulled out of the fight with enough money to wad a shotgun. Everyone else lost. Jack got $220,000, and the consensus of opinion is that was plenty.

Richard showed his genius for promotion when he got Firpo and Willard into the ring for a percentage of the gate. He is not talking six figures to anyone, nowadays, without knowing what he is talking about.

The $220,000 Dempsey received would keep an ordinary man in luxury for a lifetime.

There have been arranged what the fighters call "benefit bouts" all over the country, for one charitable cause or another. The only thing that charity gets out of these fights, is what is left over after the fighters get their purses.

Of course, no one is going to say that a fighter should not make a living. Bricklayers are making $12 a day, and they may be worth it. Some fighters are getting purses in six figures and they may be worth it—probably not.

But somebody or another, Eugene Cright, the featherweight champion of the world, who never cashed any of these big purses, is finding time enough to go to France and fight for the disabled soldiers, and he is not taking a centime.

There should be more of the spirit displayed by Cright and Tommy Gibbons. The man who stood 15 rounds with Dempsey didn't get a cent of the purse. He knew a week ahead of time that he wouldn't. Jack Kearns already had $200,000 and he threatened to leave the state if he wasn't given the remaining $100,000 that had been promised him by a bunch of bankrupt promoters. Just how much the sentiment of the populace of Montana had to do with Kearns' decision to let Dempsey fight, is perhaps irrelevant, but no one heard Gibbons threaten to back out.

Gibbons wanted a chance at the heavyweight title and he was willing to fight for nothing to get it.

It is also worthy of note that Georges Carpentier, dethroned idol of France, demanded pay to fight at the same show for disabled veterans that Cright is entering for nothing.

In every bad lot you can always find one or two good peaches.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Plans for the construction of a concrete spillway to replace the present dirt and rock one at Lake Terrell, the municipal reservoir, have been accepted. It was announced following a meeting of city commissioners here.

The new spillway which will be constructed at an estimated cost of $10,000, will be 70 feet wide, 500 feet long and 15 feet high.

Decision to build the concrete structure followed a narrow escape from heavy damage and no water supply for the city recently when seven and a half inches of rain fell in 48 hours causing flood waters to wash away part of the dam and spillway.

FORNEY, Texas, July 20.—Old king cotton may take the lead in quantity output in the Lone Star State but for quality, hay, the paragon of horse feed, still holds sway, according to Mayor C. L. Duke.

The mayor has a 500 acre meadow in which he recently started a crew to work. The hay is of excellent quality for which Forney is noted all over the State.

Several years ago this section boasted of many thousands of acres in this product but as the price of cotton advanced the hay crop has gradually been nosed out.

BATH, England.—Trained carp are a feature at the local baths. They come to the surface at the keeper's call, permit themselves to be lifted from the water, and at dinner-time answer a bell which their leader—fifteen years old—rings by pulling a spring.

114-YEAR-OLD NEGRESS AT PALESTINE CLAIMED OLDEST IN STATE

PALESTINE, July 20.—Probably the oldest person in the state is "Aunt" Priscilla Anderson, negress of this city, who according to records was born 104 years ago.

The aged negress was born in Alabama in 1809 and came to this State long before it was a member of the Union. She came here with the colony of people which first settled Fort-Houston and can remember the building of the first log cabin.

She can talk for hours about the pioneer days, and though her eyesight and hearing have become somewhat impaired as the years passed by, her mind is still active.

THIRD POLITICAL PARTY NOT IMPOSSIBLE

CHICAGO, July 20.—Frank A. Vanderlip, former head of the National City Bank here, declared today that a third political party next year was entirely possible, if the right man is selected to head the party. He asserted that although the people are "undeniably restless" the business situation throughout the country is wholesome.

He blamed the restlessness of the people on the lack of practical leadership at Washington, and predicted that economical conditions will work out so that the farmer will get his share of the country's prosperity.

When Shall We Teach Betty To Pick Up Her Playthings

By ORA A. CLEMENT.

Betty's mother had just gotten the little four-year-old settled down for her afternoon nap.

"And now I will not much more than get this room put to rights before she wakes up again," she laughingly remarked to her college friend, now a primary teacher, who was spending a few days with her.

"Why not leave the playthings where they are and let Betty pick them up when she wakes?" the friend asked.

"Some times I do, but she always wants to make play of it and it really takes more time to keep her at it than it does to do it myself."

Her visitor said nothing for a few minutes and when she spoke again it was without reference to Betty.

"What did you do, with those cunning chicks you took out of the incubator this morning?" she asked.

"Oh, I divided them—up among three or four hens who were simply wild to be mothering something. Now the little ones are cuddled up snug and warm under real feathers, and they are, by rights and inheritance, poor, machine-hatched little orphans."

"Why did you put them with the hens so soon? Would it not have been safer to have cared for them yourself until they were a week or so old, and strong enough to run with the older chickens?"

Betty's mother laughed. "That shows that you do not know chickens. I tried that plan the first year I used an incubator and I learned something. It is only for a few days that a foster mother can be introduced to incubator chicks. If they are put with her during the first few days of their lives they will adopt her and follow her obediently till half-grown, like chickens hatched under a hen, but after a week alone they seem to get used to being orphans and they will not follow a hen no matter how much she coaxes and clucks and scolds. Isn't it odd?"

She had the playthings all in order and settled herself with her mending in her lap.

"Instinct," said the teacher. "Nature puts an urge into the little chick that makes it seek a mother at the time it needs her most. And if you are to be successful as a poultry woman you must work with Nature—you can't oppose her."

She drew a thread thoughtfully and then went on: "It is odd, and it is still more interesting to watch the same thing in children. Did you ever think what a powerful urge there must be in the little child to keep him trying to walk in spite of the discouraging falls he gets?"

"All through Betty's childhood and youth she will be led by instincts and desires through which Nature strives to produce and develop perfect womanhood. And in handling children, as in poultry raising, it saves us much pain and trouble if we work with Nature."

"Just now Betty is passing through what students of child life call the 'imitative age.' She imitates everything she sees you do."

The mother smiled knowingly. "She loved the baby's little make-believe things."

"Yes, but if you work with Nature now you will save yourself and Betty a great deal of grief in the years to come."

"You are thinking of the playthings on the floor," exclaimed the hostess.

"Yes. While Betty wants to do just as you do, train her in habits of orderliness and cleanliness. The imitative age will not last long. After that, about the time she goes to school, there will come a period when your little girl will be lawless, careless and selfish, inclined to put her will and her judgment against yours in everything. If she has become orderly and neat from habit before that time comes it will be a great comfort to you and of inestimable value to her while she is going through the trying 'Big Injun' age. If she has not, you will have to make up your mind to pick up after her for many years to come, for there will never be another time during her childhood and youth when it will be easy to teach Betty the lessons of order."

"Thanks for your little lecture, Grace," said Betty's mother as she rolled two little stockings into a ball. "I had never thought of it that way before—I shall begin at once to train Betty to 'follow.'"

LESSON FOR JULY 22

JOHN THE APOSTLE

LESSON TEXT—Luke 9:49-54; John 18:25-27; 1 John 4:7, 8.
GOLDEN TEXT—"God is love, and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him."—1 John 4:16.
REFERENCE MATERIAL—Mark 2:14-20; John 18:21-25; Acts 4:13-20; Rev. 1:9.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Disciple Whom Jesus Loved.
JUNIOR TOPIC—John, the Beloved Disciple.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—John, the Bosom Friend of Jesus.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—A Character Study of John.

I. His Intolerance of Irregular Service (Luke 9:40, 50).
John was conscientious in his intolerance of this disciple. There seems to have been no question but what the man was really casting out devils, even though he did not possess the same credentials as the twelve apostles. There seems to have been no question as to the reality of the truth which this disciple taught or the work he did. The same spirit has been manifested all through the Christian centuries. Whoever witnesses truly of Christ and does His work has God's recognition. Christ rebuked John's intolerance and declared that "he that is not against us is for us." May we everywhere show the same consideration to those who are doing the Lord's work even though they are not members of our particular church.

II. John's Righteous Indignation (Luke 9:51-56).
1. Jesus' Face Set Toward Jerusalem (vv. 51-53). He knew what was before Him: He knew the awful fate awaiting Him at Jerusalem. Even though the dark shadow of the cross hung across his path He resolutely nerved Himself for the ordeal. The cross was no accident. The supreme purpose of His coming was to save the world through His sacrificial death. This was in the plan of God from all eternity. The cross is the grand center of the Christian religion. Everyone who follows Jesus must take up his cross.

2. The Inhospitalable Samaritans (v. 58). The Lord was to pass through that city on His way to Jerusalem. When the people discerned that His face was set for Jerusalem they refused hospitality to Him. This insult to the Lord so aroused the anger of John and James that they desired to call down fire from heaven to destroy the Samaritans. It was John's love for his Lord that prompted this suggestion. Christ rebuked him and corrected his spirit, but he knew that it proceeded from a heart of love. Love will brook no insult to its object. Mistaken love has done much harm in the church. The pages of history are red with the blood of heretics, to the everlasting shame of the persecutors. Persecution is not the way to deal with those who differ with us. The spirit is not only wrong, but it is futile, for the blood of the martyrs has always become the seed of the church. May Christ's rebuke to John take from our hearts the spirit of intolerance and revenge. Jesus came not to destroy men, but to save them.

III. John's Care of Christ's Mother (John 19:25-27).
1. Jesus Saw His Mother (v. 26). Perhaps His physical suffering had so dimmed His vision that He had not seen her before. But even His death agonies did not cause Him to forget her. While engaged in the redemption of the world, He displayed His tender human interest in this beautiful act. The cross is the center from which love flows.

2. John Took Mary to His Own Home (v. 27). The same John who wished to call down fire upon the inhospitable Samaritans now was engaged in the tenderest act of human affection. He was caring for the mother of his Lord. The reason Jesus entrusted her to John was that He knew his real heart of love. He knew that John's experience was such that he could enter into full sympathy with her in her great sorrow.

IV. Test of Divine Birth (1 John 4:7, 8).
John's experiences in life were such that now near the close of his life he declared that the supreme test of fellowship in the divine life is love. Love is the bond of perfection—the cord that binds all virtues into one harmonious bundle. All the fruits of the Christian life spring out of this root: God is love. All that is good and beautiful in our lives is but the very life of God flowing through us.

So With All Men.
All men think all mortal—but themselves.—Young.
Religion is Necessary.
Genius, without religion, is only a lamp on the outer gate of a palace; it may serve to cast a gleam of light on those that are without, while the inhabitant is in darkness.—H. More.
Fortune of Complaint.
The usual fortune of complaint is to excite contempt more than pity.—Johnson.
Must Count on Christ.
All history is incomprehensible without Christ.—Renan.

A Few Notes from Loop (Gaines County)
Oh, for the land where everything is "gaines!" Well this is it—Gaines county.
For some time I've planned to write the "Avalanche," but just now got up courage enough to write.
Yes, we had plenty of wind and sand both in the spring; but we've also had plenty rain, and crops are looking fine. Many were hauled out and had to plant their cotton all over. But they have good stands now and it all worked out.

The table around which was grouped the defense attorneys.
Mrs. Good and her husband talked in whispers throughout the proceedings. He showed very plainly the strain which he has gone through since the occurrence at Seminole in April, and was unable to display any cheerfulness. His children, who were in the courtroom throughout the proceedings, seem to have realized what their father is facing, and were in every respect as cheerful as he.
Tom Ross, whose cheerfulness throughout the trial was never lacking, set unmoved throughout the beginning of the trial, but toward the last entered into a conversation with a defense attorney, during which he laughed with the jollity of a free man.
The two men will be given over to the sheriff of Taylor county in the near future to appear in District court there at their trials.

MEXICAN SUPERSTITION CAUSES CHARGE FILED AGAINST WOMAN
By the United Press
SAN ANTONIO, July 20.—Superstition that throwing salt into a person's house will cause some terrible catastrophe to befall them brought about a charge against pretty eighteen-year-old Sara Castillano, of threatening another woman. The complaint was filed against the young woman by a rival beauty of "Little Mexico."

The trouble started during the Cinco de Mayo celebrations when Sara's cavalier danced often and too well with the rival.
The mix came when Sara threw a handful of salt thru the front door of her rival's home.
The salt superstition is of Aztec origin, but is believed by many present day Mexicans.

Regardless of the amount of resources a bank has, its strength depends mostly upon the ability to protect its depositors. Most people know that banks, like other businesses, are operated for profit, and though it is the duty of a bank to first protect its owners—stockholders, it could not profit without giving its customers a strong, helpful and friendly service.
