8-HOUR DAY FIGHT OPENS

STILL CAPTURED NEAR SLATON BY COUNTY OFFICER

OFFENDER CLAIMED JUST MAKING LITTLE STUFF FOR OWN HOME USE

Sheriff Bud Johnston, accompanied by County Attorney Owen McWhorter and Ranger Ed Russell, of Matador, were called to Slaton Wednesday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Tom Abel. Deputy Abel made a raid on a farm home near Slaton at eight o'clock Wednesday morning and had taken into his custody the occupant of the farm, Harmon Bachman, who he arrested while in the act of making whiskey.

According to the officer Bachman's still was located in a tent which was adjoining the house, and was in operation at the time the arrest was made. The officer captured the alleged bootlegger, the still and ten one-half gallon jars of corn whiskey, and one quart jar of whiskey, all of which were brought to Lubbock by Sheriff Johnston and the members of his party.

The alleged bootlegger was lodged in jail awaiting action of the grand jury and the court. The only statement he made to the officers was that he was making a little whiskey for his own use. The still is one of the most complete that has been captured in this territory, however it was not as large as its capacity is estimated at ten gallons. The brass worm was fastened in a five gallon galvanize tank which, when full of water, served as a cooler to condense the steam from the copper cooker into liquid.

The plumbing about the still appeared to have been done by an experienced copper worker.

HOODED MEN ENTER HOME OF HOUSTON MAN BUT REMAIN SILENT

HOUSTON, July 25.—No reason is known tonight for hooded men mysteriously entering the house, and stalking through the halls in the early hours of the morning, only to leave without doing more than frighten the family of J. Palmer said that the men entered the house about 1:30 a. m. last night, and although he challenged them several times they said nothing, and continued to "prowl around."

This has proven to be a most interesting manner of presenting health truths. No charge is made for these shows and City Health officers have found them to be of great service. By holding these shows in the open air it is possible to reach the general public at the same time. This is of great advantage as it is necessary for everyone to co-operate if better health conditions are to be had in Texas.

PRIZE OFFERED BY FAIR MANAGEMENT FOR BEST NAME FOR CATALOGUE CONTAINING HISTORY

For the first time in the history of the Fair, the Premium List and Catalogue of The Panhandle South Plains Fair is carrying a write-up of each of the counties exhibiting and a general write-up of the entire South Plains and Lubbock County. It is more than a catalogue. It is more than an announcement book. It is not a brief. It is not a prospectus. It is not a history of the section. It is not even a cook book or a horse-doctor book.

In fact at a meeting Wednesday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce office, of President Moore, Manager Briggs and Secretary Keen they were unable to decide just what it was or was to call it. It contains, in addition to the regular premium list, the rules, regulations, and program of the fair, a write-up of from two to four or five pages of each county exhibiting this year, a general write-up of the South Plains section as a whole, a lot of pictures, statistics and other material on the section. So what are we going to call it?

Already requests are being received from distant points—one from Olney, Oklahoma today, for a copy of the book and it is not even named yet. According to Secretary Keen, the one who sends in a name for the catalogue, the names being passed on and the most appropriate one selected, by a special committee, will be given free a season ticket to the Fair, entitling them to entrance to the grounds at

Dept. Of Commerce Seeks To Acquaint All Users Of Radio

By the United Press.
WASHINGTON, July 25.—The Department of Commerce, with a whole section devoted to radio, has started a "Get-Acquainted" campaign designed to bring the radio fan into closer co-operation with the experts here and in all parts of the country who are keeping close watch on all new developments.

The Department desires this co-operation so that the radio enthusiast may know from whom he can get advice, as well as for protection against bogus representatives such as spring up in every new project.

Department officials receive letters every day asking for information, or telling of difficulties, or expalning some new improvement. The radio office in the Commerce Building is becoming a clearing house. Officials want it to become even more so, as this exchange of ideas is the way to progress.

SKY FLIVVER IS BORN IN ENGLAND

By the United Press.
LONDON, July 25.—Flying machines for the price of a cheap automobile will be available soon, according to Sir Sefton Brancker, Director of Civil Aviation.

The English Air Ministry has built one model of the flivver flyer at its works. Because of its delicate appearance and swift flight it has been officially named the "Wren."

Unless it proves to be too good, models of the machine will become available to the public.

The Air Ministry however, retains the right to restrict the use of the new plane to war purposes; if it seems desirable.

The "Wren" travels at a speed of 63 miles an hour and will fly for nearly two hours on a gallon of gas. It is officially described as a motor propelled glider.

Nice thing about summer is it is warm enough to wash out the tub after you bathe.

A Newspaper's TWO Sources of Revenue

Subscriptions and Advertising Are the Only Sources of Revenue a Newspaper Has and Often the Subscriptions Do Not Pay for the Cost of White Paper

Advertising today, especially in newspapers, is the greatest business getter there is. This is acknowledged by men who know. People read advertisements in newspapers. They have been educated to do so. Every merchant in our town ought to advertise. You remember the story about John Wanamaker? The first day he was in business his receipts were $24.64. He kept the 64 cents and spent the $24 the next day in advertising. We all can't duplicate this feat, but according to the best statistics available three per cent of the gross sales should be put aside for advertising.

Possibly you will say, "I don't need to advertise. I've been in this town thirty years and everybody knows me."

Probably they do, but did you ever stop to think of the sales you lose because your fellow competitor advertises? He may advertise the same goods you have in your stock, but the people don't know you have them. The other fellow gets the sale because he advertises. And, then, how much more business you would do if you did advertise?

We know of one merchant who advertised a lot of goods at 19 cents a yard. They cost him 27 cents. He took a clean loss, but while the sale was going on he could buy new goods at 12 cents. He put them in with the other goods and the result was that he cleaned his shelves of the old goods and he broke even on the deal. Advertising and good buying liquidated his stock without a loss.

We can't all be John Wanamakers, but we all can advertise in proportion to our business. Results will be sure if you advertise honestly and give service. A newspaper can bring people to your store, but it can't make people buy your goods. Your clerks must do that, and it depends on the service you give as to how successful your business will be.

What is done in the big cities can be done right here in this town if you will show the pep, give the service and advertise. Make business good. You can do it through this newspaper.

Sidelights On the President's Alaskan Journey

ABOARD U. S. S. HENDERSON EN ROUTE ALASKA WITH PRESIDENT HARDING (by mail to United Press). Relaxed and resting aboard ship from the rigors of two strenuous weeks of transcontinental travel the official members of President Harding's party discussed their impressions of the trip and told of things which, to them, were significant about it.

President Harding regards the journey from Washington to Tacoma as the pleasantest speaking tour he ever made. Chattering with members of the party, he said that if it had not been for the automobile accident at Denver, in which Senator Curtis was killed and one other member of the party hurt, it would have been perfect.

To the president, the most significant thing about the trip was the new car of the administration which he says is working up. He was deeply impressed with the manner in which his speech was disseminated via telephone wire and radio and that he relaxed deeply in the presence of Americans but that he was not so relaxed in the presence of the British. He said that the trip was a most gratifying one and that he was glad to be able to report a new approach to the ideal of the Republic.

Found People Cheerful.—The president was impressed also with the cheerful appearance of the people everywhere he went. He found an air of confidence and cheer with people busy and fairly contented. The nation, he believes, is on the track back to normalcy, and this, to him, was a gratifying revelation. He got many evidences of the sturdy Americanisms of the country, and this pleased him, for he believes that there is little danger that the people will be led away after leads in government or economic.

Secretary Work of the Interior Department said he was impressed by the public interest in the president's discussion of "government" problems. No matter how dry the subject under discussion, the audience always stayed to hear all Mr. Harding had to say, and showed that they were following him with earnest attention, Work said.

"There is undoubtedly a tendency in the country, on the part of individual citizens to take a greater interest in government," said Work. "This is a hopeful sign, and means better government. The people are eager to get the president's report on the state of affairs. They are thinking about it, and the standard of citizenship therefore is going up."

Wallace and the Farmers.—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace liked the attitude of the farming communities. He said the farmers showed the president that, despite their troubles, there are a few, if any, quitters among them, and that they are willing to go the limit in doing their part, with government help, to keep agriculture going strong in the United States.

"The class of our farmers was clearly shown to us on this trip," said Wallace. "We found them everywhere going ahead hopefully, confidently, and without grumbling. I found a strong belief everywhere that the government will do right by the farmer. But I found also that the farmer is out there doing his part and not worrying much about whether the government is going to do its part or not."

THE RISING TIDE OF DEBT.

The rising tide of public debt shows no sign of abatement. President Harding, in one of his western speeches, asserted that the National Government is making appreciable progress in reducing its obligations, but took occasion to sound a note of warning over the extent to which states and municipalities are plunging future generations of tax payers into debt.

The Daily Bond Buyer of New York publishes a compilation of the bond issues which have been floated by states and cities during the past decade. The analysis shows 1922 as the peak year, but 1923 is only a little behind in the total of the obligations which it had loaded upon future energy and industry.

During June, 1923, bond issues totaling $160,070,166 were floated by states and municipalities. During the six months ending June 30, securities of this type amounted to $600,198,478. In 1922, June's bond total was $169,944,241, while the first six months of that year established the alarming record of $734,403,276 in municipal and state bond issues.

During the past ten years, the lowest total of state and municipal issues was in 1918, when the first six months' sales amounted to $134,133,084. That was the year in which the Federal Government was floating the greatest portion of the great loans, which is deemed necessary for war purposes. The influence of the national government during that year was set against great municipal and state outlay funds. Once the Federal hand was removed, however, states and municipalities ran wild in their efforts to spend vast sums in public projects. Contracts were let at the times of peak costs. The fall of basic prices at the time of the financial deflation does not seem to have influenced public officials, who contracted the habit of excessive public spending. The result is the mounting debt.

The bond problem is a national problem. A profligate city or state is not alone injured through the growth of interest and sinking fund charges. The rising taxes in the most extravagant municipality must be paid in increased prices, whose effect will be felt in ever-widening circles, until the whole country pays the bill.

PRESIDENT'S TOUR CONSTRUED AS POLITICAL.

The consensus of political opinion is that President Harding's speeches on his Western trip have assured him a renomination, and further that they have to a large extent outlined the next Republican platform. This opinion necessarily carries with the implication that the President's trip was a political speech-making tour and his speeches bids for votes.

If this consensus of opinion is sound, the President is placed in the very position he said he would not be placed in. It will be recalled that he declared before starting on his trip that if the journey was to be construed as a political tour he would rather stay at home and play with Laddie Boy. He declared that he was going to talk to the American people as the President of the whole people, and doubtless he meant it at the time. But when his speeches were written it will be recalled that they were submitted to a number of the practical politicians of his party, who are said to have approved them. It was stated at the time that the speeches were to be used in the Minnesota senatorial campaign, but it seems they were not used for that purpose, and the President gave Minnesota a wide berth on his tour while his chief economic policy—the profiteering tariff—was being repudiated there.

There are some who will regret that President Harding's trip turned out to be a political one. Probably the President himself will regret it later, but he seems to have an unhappy facility of getting himself into positions in conflict with and contradictory to his utterances, and for all anyone knows, contrary to his intentions.

There has been little reaction to his speeches either in the press or spoken comment, and what there has been was largely confined to pointing out his ineptitude in adjusting his subjects to localities. But all are agreed in the belief that the chief result of the trip will be President Harding's renomination, to which there are no Democratic objections.

TEXAS PEOPLE PROTEST AGAINST HIGH TAXES

All over Texas the people are awaking to the increase in tax burden that is being added to every year. A result of this is agitation in a number of cities and political subdivisions for economy in public expenditures and efficiency in public service.

The increase in taxes so far as the state and its political subdivisions is concerned is largely due to added expenditures for public improvements and added costs of government by increased accounts of the state and its subdivisions. The cost of the national government increased as a result of the war and conditions incident to the war until the Federal tax bill is not likely to be less than three billion dollars a year for a long time, says the Texas Public Service Information Bureau.

A material inducement for the states and municipalities to increase their tax burden was found in the exemption from federal income taxes of the securities of such political subdivisions. These securities offered a haven for big investors thus making the market for such securities good and inducing issues that would not otherwise have been floated.

Between 1913 and 1921 expenditures by the states increased 163 per cent. Taxes in 227 cities increased 76 per cent. Indebtedness of the states increased 139 per cent, and the indebtedness of the cities showed a growth of 49 per cent.

Business and industry have to carry an unduly large share of the tax burdens. In securing capital they suffer from the competition of tax-free bonds, and then they have to pay heavy taxes to meet the interest on such bonds.

Taxes paid by a producer add to the cost of production and this must come out of the price at which articles or service are sold, thus indirectly adding to the tax burden of the average citizen whose taxes are higher also in proportion as a result of state and municipal extravagance.

FARMERS GET LESS, CONSUMERS PAY MORE FOR FARM PRODUCTS.

Reports from the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor for the month from May 15 to June 15 were in the tenor of all those for the last year—the cost of living in the cities is rising. According to the digest of the Bureau's latest report published by the New York Herald, a Republican newspaper, "the cost of living is gradually increasing in some localities, while in others it is hardly perceptible."

In Washington, the seat of the national Government and official residence of President Harding, the increase for the month was 3 per cent. In eighteen of the twenty-three cities covered by the report there was a rise of from about one-half of 1 per cent to 3 per cent.

While the residents of the cities and towns were paying more for their food and clothing the prices paid to producers of grain, milk, eggs, meats, and vegetables were lower than they were in the same month of last year—a fact shown by the Department of Agriculture.

PAYS TO TELL THE PEOPLE.

There is a taxicab company in Chicago whose name stands as a synonym for good service. It gives good service. But it has found that it is necessary in addition to giving good service to tell the people about it. Therefore that company buys a lot of newspaper space every month for that purpose.

"If it pays a taxicab company to advertise why not a public utility," asks F. L. Marshall, manager of a gas company in Augusta, Ga.

That this view is shared by the large gas companies of Texas is seen in the extensive newspaper advertising that is carried on by them, they are telling their customers and the people who use natural gas all about the gas business and the situation as it is.

One of the handicaps in the operation of a public utility is the lack of information on the part of the people served by that utility. The fairness of the people of Texas toward their public utilities has been often proved. But the people want information as to the utility business in order to be fair understandingly.

AMBITION.

Few people but at some time,
Have felt ambition's surge.
And yet there are not many,
Who have listened to its urge.
Down deep within their hearts they feel,
They'll heed its call some day;
But put it off from time to time,
Until it fades away.
Like many goodly things in life,
To which we pay no heed,
Until it is late, and then,
We really learn their need.
Ambition is the motive power,
By which great things are done;
It spurs us on and counsels us,
That victory can be won.
Then ever nurse it tenderly,
And heed this admonition:
All hope is gone, you're poor indeed,
When you lose your ambition.—Cenaro.

W. D. Hornaday, director of publicity and member of the instruction staff of the department of journalism of the University of Texas, has obtained a year's leave of absence from that institution. He left Saturday for the Orient, where he will spend several months as correspondent for a syndicate of leading American newspapers. His stay in the Far East will be about equally divided between Japan and China, he stated. Mr. Hornaday will be joined in San Francisco by Wallace Davis of Sonora, Texas, who will accompany him on the trip. Mr. Davis is a student of journalism of the University and plans to do considerable newspaper writing while in the Orient.

West Texas C. Of C. Officials Are Elated Over New Rates

STAMFORD, July 25.—The officials of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce felt exalted over the victory won at Washington in the long contest for the reduction of grain rates through West Texas and the Southeastern States. In 1920 the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and the Texas Grain Dealers Association arranged a fund of $5,000 for the purpose of conducting a contest to equalize the freight rates as between West Texas points and Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and Dakota points to points in Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, and South Carolina.

Ed. P. Byars, Traffic Manager of the Fort Worth Freight Bureau, was selected to handle the contest. The victory won will result in a largely increased business in the sale of grain, sorghum and other grain products between West Texas and the Southeast. President Spencer of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce wrote a special letter of congratulation to E. Byars.

PANIC SWEEPS GERMANY WHEN MARK DECLINES

MARK NOW SELLING AT SIX HUNDRED THOUSAND TO DOLLAR

BERLIN, July 25.—Panicstruck Germany today when the ill-fated mark crashed in an unexpected swoop to the dollar and other foreign currencies. The mark fell from 250 to 100 marks to the dollar, and the price of gold rose from 100 to 250 marks to the dollar. The mark's fall was the result of a sudden change in the attitude of the United States government toward Germany. The United States government had previously announced that it would not recognize the German government until it had repudiated the Versailles treaty. The German government had previously announced that it would not repudiate the Versailles treaty until it had received recognition from the United States government. The sudden change in the attitude of the United States government has caused a panic in Germany, and the mark has fallen to a level that is considered to be a disaster for the German people.

ands of bank messengers into the lines which reached for many blocks. No bank could draw from the Reichbank the sums desired, but all were put on rations, and each was allotted proportionate to his holdings. The crowds seeking money brought wash baskets, trunks, hand carts, and baby carriages to take away the sums allotted them. Big business houses sent trucks to cart away enough for their payrolls.

Clerks in the Reichbank worked feverishly, trundling the money to the windows in wheelbarrows in an effort to satisfy the demands of their customers. Thieves would not tamper with the currency, as a truck load would be necessary for a week's good living.

G. O. P. PLAN TO ORGANIZE SENATE

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The Republicans expect to organize the Senate by ratifying the desire of the Progressives for a greater representation on important committees, such as foreign relations, finance, appropriations, and Interstate Commerce.

The Republicans will have fifty-two seats, the Democrats forty-two, and the Farmer-Laborites two. Included in the Republican margin are about ten Senators commonly classed as Progressives, but if they refuse to join the Republicans and form a coalition with the Democrats, they would be able to shape legislation favorable to them the coming session.

FAKE FILMS REPORTED SHOWN IN GERMANY

BERLIN, July 25.—German movie producers are warning that fake films are being shown in Germany to make a fortune in marks. These are possibly no other imitations of his picture here, so it is assumed that some German film magnate plans to pass some fake actor off on the public as the real Roscoe. Substitutes of American actors is very common in films here.

Cotton Crop Estimated In Excess Of Eleyen Million Bales

DALLAS, July 25.—Estimates of the cotton production and acreage of five cotton producing States in the Southwest were announced after a survey Monday by the Southwest Regional Advisory Board cotton committee. The board estimates that 6,392,990 bales of cotton will be produced in the States of Arizona, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas.

The estimates for the United States this year is 11,412,000 bales, according to figures made public in the same survey. During 1922 the United States raised 9,729,048 bales. Texas raised in the same year 5,162,722 bales.

PROHIBITION INCREASES CONSUMPTION OF MILK

The consumption of milk in the United States increased from 1917 (wets) to 1922 (dry) in about the proportion of 81 to 102. The exact figures are 84,612,000,000 lbs. in 1917 and 102,502,000,000 lbs. in 1922.

The increase is probably due in large part to the greater use of milk by children in families where it was not formerly afforded. There has also been an increase in the use of milk at soda fountains and other public places. Butter-milk has proven exceptionally popular for such consumption.

BARTLETT RECEIVES FIRST BALE TUESDAY

BARTLETT, Bell County, Texas, July 25.—Bartlett received its first bale of cotton of this season's crop Tuesday. It was raised by W. D. Hooks, six miles east of Bartlett, and sold to local buyers at 25c.

Advertising plus a quality product made a success of Wrigley's chewing gum, known the world over. Mr. Wrigley has some ideas about advertising, and here are a few excerpts which no doubt will prove interesting to our newspaper friends:

If a hundred persons buy what you have to sell, advertise and a hundred more will buy.

If you advertise and get no appreciable results, don't say advertising is the trouble lies in what you are trying to sell or how you are advertising. The fault is with your business. Advertising properly done will always sell anything worth the price asked for.

Advertising is the life blood of any business. When you slow down advertising, your business slows down. When you stop advertising, your business stops.

As soon as people know you have something to sell which they want, they'll buy it from you. How long are you going to wait before you tell them? No business gets maximum returns without advertising.

Once you are in the business, advertising is a necessary investment. It gets what you always need—more business. There's no quicker or more reliable way to grow than to advertise.

You might as well draw a heavy line around the immediate neighborhood of your store and say, "Inside of that circle I'll do all my business," as to refuse to advertise when you have something which people will buy.

"My first advertising contract was for $300. Last year I spent $3,500,000 in advertising 'Wrigley's.' Now I spent $10,000 a day."

HUBBERS POUND STEADILY ON SLICK MORGAN AND TAKE THIRD GAME FOR BIG END OF SERIES

AMARILLO, July 25.—Dick Morgan had the Gassers helpless today, giving up only two hits, which came, one each in the first and second innings, while his team mates jumped on his brother for eleven safeties, and the Hubbers made way with the third game of the series, giving them two out of the three games played.

Dempsey-Firpo Sign Agreement For Bout Soon. HUBBERS TO RETURN HOME FRIDAY FOLLOWING TRIP IN WHICH THEY WENT FROM CELLAR TO 2ND. PLACE

Following a twelve-day road trip on which they have made a jump from the cellar position to a strong contender for first place, the Hubbers return home on Friday from Amarillo, and will open here on this day for twelve games, four games each with Clovis, Roswell and Amarillo, respectively.

After being in a slump since the opening of the second half, the Hubbers left home on the 15th very much in the cellar position, being several games behind. They took three out of four at Clovis, which put them in the lead of the Gassers, then repeated the operation at Roswell for three out of four, which put them with the Giants for second place, and by lowering the Gassers on Tuesday while Clovis watched the Roswell Giants they went well into second place.

Q. Did Jess Willard quit in his fight with Firpo? A. Many thought Willard did quit and others were of the opinion that he couldn't get up off his knees. There was some opinion that he knew he was gone and that he did not want to submit himself to any necessary punishment. Officially Willard was knocked out by a punch, unofficially it is all a matter of opinion.

Q. From the showing he made in the early season, did the amputation of a finger last winter throw William T. Tilden off his game? A. Apparently it did not. Tilden lost a match or two, but he has done that before in his career.

of an invincible superman, and it was only logical to figure that if a light heavyweight like Gibbons could keep Dempsey away for fifteen rounds that some heavier man, with a little class, could give the champion a great battle.

Tommy Gibbons was the biggest factor in bringing the heavyweight division back as the leader in the biggest season that boxing has known in a decade. It was Gibbons who exploded the popular belief that Dempsey was too good for any of his rivals and that the best of the contenders for the title would be little better than a set up for the champion.

Perhaps Dempsey did not extend himself against Gibbons. No one knows but Dempsey, but few who saw the fight in Shelby on the Fourth had many doubts that the champion was doing his best and would have a real chance to win.

Dempsey's poor showing against Bill Brennan the last time they met, when Brennan went twelve rounds with the champion, made the Carpentier fight possible, because the public figured that the champion had slipped and that the Frenchman would have a real chance to win.

When Gibbons went through fifteen rounds with Dempsey without being knocked off his feet, Dempsey lost all his claim to the title.

Months, the whole situation was turned over, several "toos" were removed, and now Dempsey has in the makings enough work to keep him busy for a year and bring him another fortune.

District Judge Clark M. Mullican Says People Of Brownfield Willing To Serve Their Government By Doing Jury Service

District Judge Clark M. Mullican, possibly one of the most widely known jurists of the Southwest, declared Wednesday morning that the people of West Texas have a keen understanding of the need of their taking an active part in the law enforcement of the land, and are possibly more thoroughly awake to the demands that are placed upon them by the courts than any citizens to be found anywhere.

These statements were made immediately after he reached Lubbock, after having presided over the district court at Brownfield the first three days of this week.

Of the twelve men who were summoned to appear in court for grand jury service there on Monday morning, twelve were present, while of the thirty-five summoned to appear for petit jury service one hundred percent roll call answer was heard. "This is evidence enough that the people of the 72nd Judicial District are going to help the court in every way possible. I believe the people of this district may be depended upon to answer every call for service, and will prove loyal to the government in every respect," the judge declared.

Judge Mullican has had a great deal of experience in court work, having been enlisted into court-martial service while overseas during the war as well as while in the states training, and having practiced law for a number of years, the judge is familiar with the circumstances that appear about the average courtroom. He is encouraged over the fact that the general tendency to "shirk" jury service that was heretofore a menace to the courts has been swept aside and now come the citizens of the 72nd Judicial District with a tendency to look upon such service with a degree of satisfaction in having a part in it.

"While we may speak generally of the people of the 72nd Judicial District and their noticeable loyalty to our government, I cannot forget the favorable impression that was to be received by all present at Brownfield Monday morning when the men who had been summoned for jury service answered to the roll call one hundred percent," Judge Mullican said while discussing the activities of the court, and we could readily understand that he has a warm place in his heart for the loyal citizens of the Brownfield territory.

Russia Is Moving Slowly And Carefully Results Are Assured

MOSCOW. (By mail to the United Press).—"Russia will probably reach her pre-war standard of agricultural production in 1927. At all events, it will not be later than 1928."

"Americanization of Russia is our slogan. While with regard to industry this would mean concentration on the greatest scale, we, on the contrary, have separated it into three different groups—the heavy iron industry, the light metal industry, and the byproducts. Each group is now being concentrated and reorganized completely for itself. For this purpose many works are being closed and others opened. Or, when this separate concentration is functioning fully, we will do it in the most modern and practical way.

"The light metal industry is at present producing twenty million pounds per year (a pound is equal to 26.112 American pounds) and is working at a profit. We expect to bring the annual output up to one hundred thousand pounds by the year 1927.

"The heavy industry still demands heavy subsidies. The largest part of both the first and second industries are being used for the transportation system, both rail and water.

The Coal Situation.

"With regard to our coal situation, which has been desperate, I am able to state that this is improving gradually. We closed down many shafts in the Don basin and are now operating 250 shafts only. Out of these 250 shafts, however, we will be able to extract just as much coal as formerly with the total number of shafts, namely, about quantity of tillers and sown acreage, the quality will, at the same time, be on a much higher level than before.

"In all of our measures we choose or you might say, are forced by circumstances to choose the medium or middle way. We do not go too fast or too slow. Thus, while we are paying great attention to the introduction of tractors, we will not neglect to increase our stock of horses, now 7,000,000 head short, and other livestock.

"Our transportation system still operates under a considerable loss and requires subsidies. But we have reduced our railroad staff from 1,600,000 to 700,000 men, and the deficit has been reduced proportionately. Our railroad rolling stock is slightly one-third that maintained in pre-war times. However, this is in excess of our needs as the amount of transportable goods is even less than one-third compared with pre-war days. Under these conditions, we have decided to increase our railroad rolling stock only in the proportion the output of agricultural and other products increase.

Rural Interests Biggest.

"Owing to the fact that our rural population amounts to 108,000,000 against 26,000,000 city-folk, we must naturally turn our first and greatest attention to the development of the agriculture. Other industry comes second.

"Americanization of Russia is our slogan. While with regard to industry this would mean concentration on the greatest scale, we, on the contrary, have separated it into three different groups—the heavy iron industry, the light metal industry, and the byproducts. Each group is now being concentrated and reorganized completely for itself. For this purpose many works are being closed and others opened. Out of these 250 shafts, however, we will be able to extract just as much coal as formerly with the total number of shafts, namely, about one billion pounds per year. At present the output is over a half billion and the reorganization is not yet completed.

"While formerly soft coal was chiefly produced, we have turned to the extraction of anthracite. The advantage is two-fold: first, the better quality of coal, and, second, the lower costs, because the anthracite is found much nearer the surface.

"You ask me about my child, the electrification plan? The originally foreseen period of 15 years will be in the year 1927, instead of 1921, as formerly figured. But all these measures are being taken in such a way that it will be easy to adapt everything later to the electrification system without any great losses. In other words, the works are being concentrated in those regions where the big electrical centers will be erected later.

For Foreign Capital.

"What branches are we prepared to give to the foreign capital? There is practically none which we could not give, with the exception of existing railway lines. We are, however, willing to give concessions for the erection of new railway lines, so, for instance, the very important line from Siberia to Turkestan. We are able to give great agricultural concessions, for instance, more than six million acres in the Volga region, which has never been exploited. There are, furthermore, oil wells, tobacco plantations, forests, platinum, gold and many other branches.

"On the other hand, there are many branches which we prefer to give to suitable mixed companies, of which there are already quite a number in Russia, for instance, the exploitation and export of furs."

Six Thousand Acre Fig Orchard Is To Be Planted In Texas

HOUSTON, July 25. The large fig orchard in the world will be located within thirty-five miles of Houston when plans of the Texas Orchard Company of Houston are carried out. The company has just purchased six thousand acres of the best land in the world for the purpose of growing figs.

When the land is all planted, the trees will be ready for fruit and the company, Glenn, president of the company, Glenn also said that a fig processing and packing factory would be built.

Some 1,500,000 fig cuttings were set out on the Turnbow ranch last year. About 750,000 young trees from this setting will be ready for transplanting this year. It is believed that the 750,000 trees will set out 4,887 acres, Glenn estimated. The trees will be set 16 1/2 feet apart each way, or 160 trees to an acre.

More Suicides Are Committed In Cal.; Some Reasons Given

By the United Press.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 25. Figures published by a New York insurance publication showing California leading the states of the Union in the ratio of suicides to population caused Dr. Gustav F. Boehme, consulting neurologist for the Los Angeles police department, to declare that sex, stressed by climatic conditions, is responsible.

Contrary to the popular opinion, Dr. Boehme believes suicide is not a pathological question, but a social one. He believes the greatest underlying motive for suicides can be traced to sex. Like Freud, Dr. Boehme believes the beginning and the end of the mental complex of suicides is sex.

The insurance company's statistics show that San Diego leads the world with suicides with a ratio of 47.8 per hundred thousand population; Sacramento with 37.9; San Francisco is third with 30.4 and Los Angeles occupies fourth place with 30.3.

Every time the clock makes its twenty-four hour circuit, someone dies here thru suicide.

"The majority of suicides are not concerned with the material," says Dr. Boehme. "It is a thing that had no appeal to me true under mentality tests, those with suicidal tendencies have the taste of the fine water melons with many marked defects. But again, that can be found in abundance in many of the attempted suicides that section," Mr. Taylor said.

compare favorably with so-called normal persons.

"Suicidal and criminal tendencies may both be laid to the same cause and effect, I believe. Moral weakness has reached a point where it verges on insanity. Today is an age of increasing mental defectiveness.

"The slogan of today is 'the easiest way.' Thus, it is no wonder so many people kill themselves when they seek a solution of the problems of life other than front duty, truth and work. When they find mistakes have been made their moral fibre, already weakened, will not stand the strain of attempts to retrace false pathways.

"California is a sensual climate to begin with. Gland formation in the human body are a great more active in California than in more changing climates. Again, thousands of people flock here, most of them with little, to others to forget domestic troubles back East, and these reasons probably account for the high suicide rate here."

WALTER E. TAYLOR IS AT HOME FROM THE OIL FIELDS

Walter E. Taylor, pioneer architect of Lubbock, is at home after having spent several days in the Oil Fields about Eastland and Breckenridge visiting relatives and friends.

He declares that the plains country is looking mighty good as compared with that section, insofar as crops are concerned. "About the only thing that had any appeal to me true under mentality tests, those with suicidal tendencies have the taste of the fine water melons with many marked defects. But again, that can be found in abundance in many of the attempted suicides that section," Mr. Taylor said.

$1500 Yearling

Joseph Isaksen, farm boy of Springfield, Minn., cashed in on the baby Hereford calf he fed and exhibited at St. Paul winning the Grand Championship in competition over 210 other "baby beves." His year-steer weighed 1221 pounds. Totalling all prizes and weight of beef his steer brought him $1500.

An instrument which automatically and accurately records the passage of any vessel over a given body of water, night or day, to observers who may be located on shore, has been invented by an Austrian. It consists of a small searchlight sending a ray no longer than a pencil across the space to be controlled, and a receiving apparatus at the other end containing a light-sensitive selenium cell. A passing vessel interrupts the rays of a searchlight, the selenium cell closes a relay which starts a bell alarm, or operates a recording device. It will prove an aid in catching smugglers.

Plump Cheeks and Bright Smiles Mark Russian Children Saved by American Relief Administration

Children in Russia have learned to smile again. Among the youngsters who are still being fed by American relief are not infrequently girls with as rosy cheeks and as happy smiles as these three young Muscovites whose tin dishes, wooden spoons, fresh rolls baked from white American flour show plainly that they have just come from an American Relief Administration kitchen. The photograph below reveals another phase of American relief in Russia. The famine this winter is not comparable to that of a year ago. The American Relief Administration, of which Herbert Hoover

Tech College To Be Made One Of Best Schools In Country

DALLAS, July 25.—Wherever in West Texas the Technological College may be located by the board named for that duty, and whose members now are touring the western part of the State, the institution will be made one of the greatest schools of technology in the United States, comparable to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Georgia Tech and other colleges of this sort, George W. Carpenter of Dallas, a member of the board of directors of the Texas Technological School (said Monday, in discussing its location and educational objectives.

"While the purpose is to locate the school in West Texas, it will be even more than a West Texas or even a Texas school," Mr. Carpenter said. "It will afford technological advantage to the young men of Texas, of course, but its field will not be limited by the confines of the State. It will serve Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and other States of the South and Southwest, and eventually will, we confidently believe, draw students from the North, East and West.

"There are many reasons why this will be possible and practicable. In a West Texas location the school will have a particular favorable climatic situation and the boys from the New England States or from any other part of the United States will find in the atmosphere of the plains health and vigor as well as opportunity to there acquire qualifications as engineers and technicians. Texas is the greatest State in the Union, with an unusual diversification of interests and of opportunities. Within this State alone will be found place for the services of the trained men who graduate from Texas Technological College. We are developing the oil industry, with its requirement of technically trained men and expect to see the time come when New England will send its youth to Texas for first-hand instruction in oil and oil well techniques.

Water Power Study

comparable with others of the great American schools of this type." Mr. Carpenter said that it was not expected to have the school completed before September of 1925, since many details, including that of location, are yet to be worked out, but with $1,000,000 available for buildings and equipment it is expected to provide facilities for an adequate institution at the outset, with pre-conceived plans for its gradual expansion as conditions may warrant.

Recommended For President.
"While no consideration has as yet been given by the directors to the choice of a president for the new school, a number of Texas educators have been recommended for the position of president of the Texas Technological College. Among these are: N. R. Crozier, assistant superintendent of schools, Dallas; B. B. Cobb, superintendent of schools, Waco; F. E. Giesecke, dean of engineering, University of Texas, Austin; J. Thomas Davis, dean of Tarleton College, Stephenville, Texas; J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of schools, Wichita Falls and former president of Oklahoma A. & M. College; R. L. Marquis, president Southwest Texas Normal College, Alpine; Clarence Odsley, Fort Worth; C. D. Judd of the College of Industrial Arts, Denton; J. A. Hill, president of the West Texas Normal, Canyon City; S. H. Whitley, president of East Texas Normal College, Commerce; and F. E. Taylor, dean of the University of Texas, Austin.

that he really tried to knock Gibbons out.

As a result of that bank wrecking Shelby affair, Dempsey has two big fights in prospect with Luis Firpo, the South American giant, and Harry Wills, the big colored stevedore. Another match with Gibbons would also be an attractive card.

Dempsey, no doubt, will choose to take the South American first. Not because he fears Wills more, but the longer he allows the impression to prevail that he is dodging the colored fighter the greater will become the interest in the match when it is made.

Before Firpo fought and knocked out Jess Willard, smart ring men expressed the opinion that the younger Dempsey got the South American out of the ring by beating his challenger. It was figured that time would increase the chances of the Argentine giant and lessen the effectiveness of the champion. Since the Willard fight, however, it is generally believed that Firpo is as good as he will ever be. The South American has the mental equipment to learn the temperaments to carry out his lessons in the ring.

He is a right-hand fighter, a charger and a mauler, and it seems sure that he will never be anything else. Perhaps he is too old to learn how to box and to change his style.

Wills, just the same, will become no better as time passes, and if Dempsey really has any fear of the stevedore, he is smart in putting the fight as far as possible on the calendar. While there is no real reason to believe it, the opinion is spreading that Wills has slipped way back in the last few months.

Regardless of the many complicated angles, it would be worth while to see Dempsey in fights with Firpo and it would be a treat to advantages.

WOMAN FIRST ENTRANT IN ST. LOUIS AIR RACE

By the United Press.
ST. LOUIS, July 25.—Officials of the St. Louis Air Board, in sweet disposition the summer cold charge of the International Air wins.

Races of 1923, to be held at St. Louis Field, October 1, 2, and 3, have announced receipt of the first of more than 250 entries expected in the eight events. It was from Mrs. Bertha Dale Horchem, of Ransom, Kansas, who, in a trial at St. Louis Field, July 5, reached an altitude of 16,300 feet, being the highest flight any woman has ever made.

Mrs. Horchem will compete in the "On to St. Louis Race," for which the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce is offering a valuable trophy in addition to the cash prize of $7,000.

In this race, which is open to civilians only, planes will be flown from all sections of the country to St. Louis, points, being awarded on the speed, the distance, and the number of passengers carried, as well as the horsepower of the engines.

Last year, in the similar "On to Detroit Race" more than 100 pilots from all over the United States competed in this specific race. The winner of this race was Walter H. Beach of Wichita, Kansas, who took first prize in a Laird "Swallow." It is a coincidence that Mrs. Horchem flies this same type of airplane.

Ask More Federal Cash For Education In Home Economics

By the United Press.
WASHINGTON, July 25.—More federal funds for home economics education in American public schools will be demanded of the next Congress by organizations representing 9,000,000 women. Harry L. Fidler, vice chairman of the Federal Board of Vocational Education stated to the United Press.

schools has increased from 523 to 1,263. The number of home economics teachers has increased from 1,087 to 3,777. Last year the total expenditure for home economics from combined federal, state and local funds aggregated $2,000,000.

The home economics schools have already so far outstripped the federal appropriation, Fidler said, that last year the states found it necessary to appropriate nearly eight dollars for every federal dollar received for such education. Under the Federal Act, the states are obliged to expend only one dollar to every Federal dollar received.

Fidler estimates that the present home economics schools are equipped to give training to only one woman out of every 200,000. An increase in the federal appropriation would enable the states to reach a vast field of girls and women who are now debarred from school.

Regardless of the amount of resources a bank has, its strength depends mostly upon the ability to protect its depositors.
